The Andhra State came into being on Oct 1 1953

It was formed by an Act of Parliament called the Andhra State Act 1953 which received the President's assent on Sept 14

It was formed from the above mentioned Districts of Madras State and the Alur Adoni and Ravadrug Taluks of Bellary District in that State

The Alur and Adoni Taluks were included into Kurnool District and the Taluk of Raya drug into Anantapur District

The decision to form an Andhra State was announced by the Government of India on Dec 19 1952

Mr Justice K N Wanchoo (Chief Justice of Rajasthan) was appointed to report on the financial and other implications of the new State

This report was presented on Feb 7 1953 and the Government of India announced their decision on the Wanchoo Report on March 25 1953

The decision was that the new State was to be formed from the eleven undisputed Telugu Districts and the three Talukas of Adoni, Alur and Ravadrug of Bellary District

Six out of the remaining Taluks of Bellary were to be included in Mysore State as they were mainly Kannada speaking The exception was the Bellary Taluka

About Bellary District, Mr Justice Wanchoo had reported that it should be included in Andhra territory till such time as a Karnatak State consisting preponderately of Kannada speaking people was formed

Alternatively the three Telugu speaking Talukas of Alur Adoni and Ravadrug should be allotted to the new State and the remaining seven Talukas should be formed into a separate Bellary District also to be included in the new State with necessary safeguards for the preservation of Kannada language and culture

The Government of India however made a different decision as outlined above about the Bellary District And to decide the future of Bellary Taluka they wanted a special report

So on Apr 21 1953 the Government appointed Mr Justice I S Misra Chief Justice of the Hyderabad High Court to enquire and report He started working on Apr 27, and presented his report on May 19 He recommended that the Bellary Taluka should be merged into Mysore since a majority of the people were Kannada speaking

The Government of India accepted the recommendation

So eventually, three Talukas in Bellary District were included in Andhra and the rest of the seven Talukas were included in Mysore and were formed into a separate District, Bellary in Mysore State

The figures about Bellary Taluka quoted by Mr Justice Misra were as follows

Total population 171 226, Kannada speaking 89 925 (52 52 per cent), Telugu speaking 43 317 (25 29 per cent), Others 37,984 (22 19 per cent)

GEOGRAPHY

The shape of Andhra is rather curious A long neck with protruding belly would be an apt description It has a chain of mountains, the Eastern Ghats, running over its entire length on the eastern and northern borders

There are huge forest areas in Srikakulam Vishakapatnam and Godavari and Kurnool Districts

The landscape is varied and rich It ranges from the smiling ever green plains of the Godavari and Krishna deltas the rocky drought stricken plateau of Rayalaseema the undulating uplands of Northern Circars to the flat sandy downs in Nellore and Guntur

The climate is warm and humid or hot and humid according to the season

The average annual rainfall is highest in the north varying between 45 inches and 50 inches It gradually decreases to the south and south west down to about 20 inches

Two thirds of the rain is from the south west monsoon

The rainfall is erratic both in time and quantity The smaller the rainfall the more erratic it is

Srikakulam Vishakapatnam parts of Godavari and Nellore suffer from periodic floods and droughts while the others are more liable to suffer from droughts

There are no mountains of the type of the Sahyadri range but there are hills and table lands scattered throughout the State Some of the hills are high and are covered with useful forest some carry scrub jungle while many are quite bare

The soils of Andhra consist of the alluvi of the deltas and littoral tracts red, black and brown soils

The agricultural value depends on the textures but there is not much information about productivity The interesting point is that while the top soil is being washed away year after year the remaining soil at the bottom continues to produce in the same measure as before

There are two major rivers the Godavari and the Krishna three medium rivers with a large number of tributaries and twenty nine minor and small rivers It is estimated that together they carry annually 150 million acre ft of water into the Bay of Bengal

The Godavari flows for 225 miles through the State before it falls into the Bay of Bengal Its main tributaries are the Manjira the Pranhita the Indravati and the Sabari The river drains about 121 500 sq miles and carries as much as two million cusecs in very high floods

The Krishna drains 97,000 sq miles and its flood discharge is about a million cubic feet per second The total dependable flow is about 39 4 million acre feet The main tributaries are Tungabhadra Yerla, Warna and Dudhganga

The medium rivers are the Pennar, the Nagavalli, the Vamsadhara

The total food production is estimated to be about 3 14 million tons, giving a surplus of about a quarter million tons

The State will be able to export between 200 000 and 300,000 tons per annum, mostly in rice and a little of millets

The area of the State is classified as under (the figures which are for 1950 51 are in thousand acres)

MINERALS AND INDUSTRIES

There has been no detailed geological investigation But it is believed that the State is rich in mineral deposits

The deposits are of manganese, mica, barytes limestone, gypsum, iron, copper The coal is of poor quality

The more important minerals are manganese in Vishakapatnam and mica in Nellore

There are three zones of mineral concentration Cuddapah for asbestos barytes limestone and steatite Nellore for mica, felspar, garnet, glass sands, kyanite Eastern Ghats for graphite, clays, mica, limestone

The estimated output of some of the individual minerals are as follows

Manganese 100 000 tons, Mica 15 000 to 20,000 cwt, Ochre 4 000 tons, Chromite 5,000 tons Barytes 20,000 to 28,000 tons

The more important industries are rice milling, oil milling, jaggery, sugar, textiles, cement

There are nine sugar factories with an installed capacity of about half a lakh of tons of sugar per annum, and two cement factories with an annual productive capacity of 175,000 tons

The number of working spindles is about 26 000

IRRIGATION, POWER

The figures given below are in acres

Total area irrigated 4 61 mln Area irrigated by Government canals 2 71 mln By private canals 46,000, By tanks 1 21 mln By wells 459 000 By other sources 164 000

Total irrigated area under cereals 4 49 mln, Under pulses 22 000 Under other food crops 52,000 Total under all food crops 4 68 mln

Irrigated area under rice 3 98 mln Under jawar 39 000, Under bajra 101 000, Under maize 1 000, Under ragi 332 000 Under wheat 4 000 Under other cereals 29 000, Under gram 1 000 Under thor 2 000, Under other pulses 19 000 Under sugarcane 114 000, Under cotton 1,000, Under other non food crops 325,000

The chief irrigation works now in operation are the Godavari Anicut system, the Krishna Anicut system, the Pennar Canals system, Kurnool Cuddapah Canal the tanks connected with the Pennar and its tributaries, Pennar Kumudavathi project

The Godavari Anicut is located at Dowlaishwaram in Godavari and irrigates an area of from 5 to 9 lakh acres in the two Districts The Anicut is in four sections connected by islands and the aggregate length of the four sections is about three and a half miles The catchment of the river is 115 000 sq miles and the maximum flood discharge is over 2 million cubic ft per second

Three main canals take off to irrigate eastern, western and central deltas respectively The total draw off is 11,500 cubic ft per second and they irrigate an area of about 900 000 acres in the first crop season, and 500,000 in the second

The Godavari system fetches annually an irrigation revenue of Rs 58 lakhs and a navigation revenue of 2¼ lakhs

The Krishna Anicut is located at Vijayawada in Krishna District, and irrigates an area of about 1,000,000 acres

The maximum flood discharge is estimated at 1 19 million cubic ft per second

The Anicut is 6 furlongs long and is provided with 6' falling shutters

The main canals are also navigable And with the Godavari canal system one can travel a long distance by boat

The Krishna Anicut system brings a little over Rs 60 lakhs annually by way of revenue to the Government

Another source of irrigation is the Kurnool-Cuddapah Canal which takes off from the Sunkesula Anicut in the Tungabhadra River The Canal is 190 miles long and traverses the Kurnool and Cuddapah Districts The carrying capacity of the Canal at the head is 2 000 cubic feet per second and the irrigable area 120,000 acres, though the irrigated area is 85 000 acres It yields a revenue of only 4 lakhs annually

The Pennar Kumudavathi project near Hindupur irrigates about 9 000 acres

Among the projects under construction the Tungabhadra is the biggest The total area expected to be brought under cultivation is about 300 000 acres in Kurnool and Bellary Districts, part of which will be in Mysore

Under construction is also the Upper Pennar project intended to bring about 6,000 acres under cultivation

The two super projects of Krishna Pennar and Ramapadasagar are very much in the future and when completed will irrigate nearly a million acres

Projects awaiting consideration are Bhairavanitippa on the Hagari river in Anantapur District Mid Pennar project, Gandikottah project, Somasila Dam

No hydro electric power has so far been developed in Andhra State

The thermal power installed is about 33 125 kW and the annual consumption about 87 million units

It is estimated however that the river basins of Andhra are capable of giving more than half a million kW of firm hydro electric power

Notes on projects some under construction and some under investigation are given below

The Machkund hydro electric project is located on the Machkund, a tributary of the Godavari near the Duduma falls on the borders of Orissa Its ultimate capacity is 102 000 kW and is now in an advanced stage of construction The first stage comprises three generating units of 17 000 kW each and the Jalaput storage reservoir (25 400 million cubic ft) is expected to commence operation early in 1955

Power will be made available in the districts of Srikakulam, Vishakapatnam West Godavari, East Godavari, Krishna and Guntur

The cost of the scheme is estimated at between Rs 13 and 15 crores

The Tungabhadra scheme which is also under construction comprises two power stations, one at Hospet (which is almost completed) and the second on the main irrigation canal 15 miles away

About 27 000 kW of power will be available initially and 63 000 kW ultimately of which about 32,000 kW will be firm power

The power will be distributed from about 22 sub stations in the four districts of Bellary, Anantapur, Kurnool and Cuddapah

The power house sites are in that part of Bellary which is now in Mysore

Andhra and Mysore will share power in the ratio of 70 30

The total cost of the scheme is between Rs 7 and 8 crores

The Ramapadasagar project investigated but not sanctioned may afford electric power 150,000 kW

Krishna Pennar project with reservoirs at Siddheswaram, Nandikonda, Pulichentla, is estimated to give power of the order of 100, MW

The present demands of Andhra State are about 20,400 kW About 251 towns and villages—less than 2 per cent—have electric supply The per capita consumption is about 4 units In 1958 when the Machkund and Tungabhadra projects have been in operation for two to three years the per capita consumption would go upto 15 units

The following tables show particulars about irrigation and power projects under the Five-Year Plan

FINANCES

To give an indication of the finances of the State Justice Wanchoo quoted the actuals for 1951 52

Justice Wanchoo discusses the question of bridging the gap between revenue and expenditure

He rejects the following suggestions as being problematical or of only long term interest revenue from new electricity schemes, more income from the abolition of zamindari, more revenue from development of forests and revenue, retrenchment in service establishments, diversion of Sales and Motor Taxes from Madras City, tightening up of Sales Tax administration, increase of water cess in the Krishna and Godavari Districts

He opined that the deficit can be decreased from Rs 5 crores to about Rs 2 5 crores as more revenue may accrue from the following factors Andhra State is likely to get more from the Centre from income tax receipts and Central excise receipts (Rs one crore) Rationing and Civil Supplies Department may be abolished (Rs 33 lakhs saving), licences on export of food (Rs one crore), single Chamber legislature (a few lakhs saving), dispersal of the armed police now located chiefly in the Andhra Districts

Mr Justice Wanchoo s final recommendation was for the abolition of prohibition which would result in extra revenue to the tune of about Rs 560 lakhs Andhra State would then have enough funds to finance the Tungabhadra and Machkund and other Five Year Plan projects

In the division of assets and liabilities two broad principles were observed The location of property, and where the property was movable a division between Madras, Andhra and Mysore in the ratio of 62½ 36 1½

In case of disagreement the President would be the final judge

Madras and Mysore are to make available certain facilities to Andhra in respect of the following institutions for a certain period as may be agreed upon

LAND TENURE SYSTEM

There are two classes of land tenure system in the State—the permanently settled estates and the temporarily settled estates

Permanently settled estates These are found in Goalpara District and Karimganj Sub division of the Cachar District The land is held by zamindars having intermediaries under them The actual tillers of the land are the tenants who hold land either directly under the zamindars or intermediaries The tenants also pay a fixed amount of rent

Temporary settlement system Also known as the Ryotwari system Prevails in the other plain districts of the State These lands can be divided into La Khiraj, Nisf Hiraj and Khiraj

Initially all these lands were absolutely free from revenue Subsequently lands except those granted for maintenance of temples were assessed only to half revenue The lands assessed to full revenue were called khiraj lands

The peculiarity of this system is that generally the cultivators hold lands directly under the Government unlike the lands in permanently settled estates

The Khiraj lands are again divided into two categories periodic and annual The periodic landowner has a heritable and transferable right whereas the annual landowner has a right of occupation only and has no right of transfer or subletting Subject to the payment of the land revenue the owners of annual lands have a right of renewal of the lease from year to year

Jhumming Cultivation Prevails in the hill districts of Assam Here a particular group of people jointly occupy a particular area They have no individual right over the land In lieu of land revenue they pay a sort of tax known as House tax, Hoe tax or Dao tax which generally varies from Rs 2 to Rs 3 per family

MINES

The only minerals in Assam worked on a commercial scale are coal, limestone and petroleum oil Petroleum output 6 00 00,000 gallons coal output , 25 000 tons , and limestone output 9 86 000 tons The most extensive coal measures hitherto worked are in the Naga Hills and the Lakhimpur district Important deposits also exist in the Garo Hills Limestone is quarried in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills Petroleum is worked only in Lakhimpur and Cachar, and refined only in Lakhimpur

Accounts of the occurrence of petroleum in Assam have been published in the memoirs of the Geological Survey of India The petroleum localities in this State are confined to a curved belt of country along the basins of the Brahmaputra and the Surma This belt is traceable over a distance of some 800 miles from N E Assam through Cachar and Chittagong to the Arakan coast, where it has a S S E trend

Silk is manufactured in the Assam valley, also cotton weaving prevails as a cottage industry, women playing a predominant part In this valley there are no caste weavers In the Surma Valley weavers carry on a brisk manufacture on a commercial scale These handloom products find a ready market on account of the great scarcity of mill made goods

Tea is of course the main industry but there is a large petroleum mining concern and also some coal mines There is a big match manufacturing concern at Dhubri Boat-building, brass and metal and earthenwares, and limestone burning, cane and bamboo work, furniture making, sola hat, smithy, brick making, mustard oil pressing, rice and saw mills are other industries but agriculture employs about 80 per cent of the population Assam carries on a considerable trade with the adjoining hill tribes and countries

Much of the trade of Assam is carried by river The extensive system of river communications makes the State less dependent upon roads than other parts of India but there has been much advance in recent years in road communication A fleet of steamers maintained by the India General Navigation Company and the Rivers Steam Navigation Company plies on the rivers in both Valleys There is a day service of passenger boats between Tezpur and Neamati

The open mileage of railway has also shown a steady improvement and several branch lines to the railway system in Assam have been added in recent years including the new Railway joining Assam directly with the rest of India A branch of the line runs from Badarpur to Silchar at the eastern end of the Surma Valley and another runs west down the Assam Valley from Lumding to Pandu

The first direct link by air between Calcutta and Gauhati was established on December 14, 1947 This air service was originally on a non-scheduled basis but very soon it became a daily service which has since been extended to Dibrugarh

The Assam Government have undertaken an experiment in transport organization with the nationalisation of motor transport on a 75-mile long road connecting Gauhati and Nowgong

Post-war road improvement programme envisages an expenditure of Rs 5 crores over a period of 5 years It covers not only construction of new roads but also includes improvement of existing roads to a better standard The scheme also embraces a large bridging programme

The road programme has its special significance in that it is being designed with a view to making Assam self-sufficient in the matter of having its export and import to and from other parts of the Indian Republic transported quickly without having to pass through the Pakistan Dominion At the same time communications within the State have also been improved by provision of necessary feeder roads from and to the arterial road system of the State with a view to securing good market for the surplus produce of certain localities

Text books, reading charts, kerosene expenses, lamps, etc. are supplied by the Department. The centres are run mostly by Primary school teachers. The classes are held daily and the enrolment varies from 20 to 30.

Literacy courses are held thrice a year—each term of 3 months duration generally, i.e. 3 terms in a year. At the end of each term a literacy test is held and successful candidates are declared as passed. Almost all the Social Education centres are run with two sections in each, namely the Pre-literacy section and the Post-literacy section.

GEOGRAPHY

Bihar lies between 20 30′ and 27°30′ N latitude and between 82°31′ and 88°26 E longitude and includes the former States of Seraikella and Kharsawan It is bounded on the north by Nepal and the Darjeeling District of West Bengal, on the east by West Bengal and East Pakistan, on the south by the State of Orissa, and on the west by Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh

The area of the territories which constitute the Governorship of Bihar is 70,330 square miles The State comprises the plateau land of Chota Nagpur and the valley of the Ganges from the spot where it issues from the territories of the Governor of Uttar Pradesh till it enters West Bengal near Rajmahal Following the main geographical lines, there are four Civil Divisions with headquarters at Patna, Muzaffarpur, Bhagalpur and Ranchi The headquarters of Government are at Patna The new capital which lies between the Military Cantonment of Dinapore and the old civil station of Bankipore is known as ' Patna," the old town being called Patna City '

Bihar is more thickly populated than Germany Hindus form an overwhelming majority of the population Though Muslims form about one tenth of the total population they constitute more than one fifth of urban population of the State Animists account for about 6 per cent These are inhabitants of the Chota Nagpur plateau and the Santal Parganas, the latter district being a continuation of the plateau in a north easterly direction

Although there is a great deal of mineral wealth in Chota Nagpur and important industries are developing in connection with it, still for the bulk of the population of the State agriculture continues to be the basic occupation Over 80 per cent of the population depends wholly on agriculture, while only 7 8 depends on industries

The soil throughout the whole of that portion of the Indo Gangetic plain lying within the State boundaries is extremely fertile particularly in North Bihar, in parts of which the density of the population is more than 900 people to the square mile The State occupies a transitional position between Ganges delta with its damp climate so suitable for the paddy crop and the States to the north and west where large irrigation schemes have had to be provided to enable the soil to produce its bounty As in the delta of the Ganges rice is by far the most important crop as it occupies normally an area of approximately 12 million acres or over 50 per cent of the net cropped area of the State As canal irrigation is available only in the Sone Valley and to a moderate extent in Champaran District, the importance of the south west monsoon to the State of Bihar can not be overestimated

In addition to the rice crop however other grain crops are grown on a tolerably large scale Of the monsoon cereals maize wheat and barley are extensively grown The cultivation of oilseeds like castor, mustard and linseed forms a large and important part of the agriculture of Bihar

After Uttar Pradesh, Bihar is the most important white sugar area in India, some 23 per cent of the total production of white sugar in the country being turned out in Bihar factories

Jute is also an important crop and is confined almost entirely to the Purnea District on the West Bengal border

Tobacco is a crop of increasing importance in the State and one which is likely to expand in importance

LAND TENURE

The land tenure system in Bihar is governed by the following Tenancy Acts The Bihar Tenancy Act 1885 The Chotanagpur Tenancy Act 1908 and the Santal Parganas Tenancy (Supplementary Provision) Act 1949

There are three types of proprietors of lands 1) The Zamindars having proprietory right in by far the largest area in the State 2) Proprietors with whom a very small area is settled periodically for a term of years and 3) the Government holding an equally small area as landlord

The raiyats are classified as raiyats at fixed rents or rates and occupancy raiyats A very small area is held by non occupancy raiyats who have no permanent and heritable interest in their holdings There is also a small number of under raiyats having occupancy rights holding lands both under raiyats at fixed rents and under occupancy raiyats

A small area of land is cultivated by private Zamindars themselves

The Government of Bihar enacted the Bihar Land Reforms Act, 1950 which provides for the liquidation of Zamindari system in the state

The Bihar Land Reforms Act, 1950 was put into force with effect from 25th September 1950, and to start with, all estates and tenures with gross annual income exceeding Rs 50,000 have been notified under section 3(1) of the Act It was further decided to acquire all the Zamindaris in the districts of Gaya Monghyr, Hazaribagh and Darbhanga The smaller Zamindaris in these districts are in the process of requisition

* From the report of the Planning Commission

The entire State barring a limited portion which is Khasmahal, is covered by the Zamindari and will be released in consequence of the abolition of Zamindari

The Government has laid down a sliding scale for the assessment of compensation Where the net income does not exceed Rs 500, the compensation payable is twenty times the net income, and where the net income computed exceeds Rs 1,00,000 it is payable at three times the amount

The assessment of compensation for mines and minerals has either to be fixed by agreement or by a tribunal appointed for the purpose

As for funds to finance compensation, the proposal for Zamindari abolition in Bihar has been drawn up as a self liquidating scheme So all the compensation money will be realised from the beneficiaries The gross rental in the State is estimated at about Rs 16 crores per annum which is likely to increase at the rate of Rs 5 lakhs per year as a result of reclamation of waste lands, their development and of the development of forests

The amount of compensation will be paid in cash or in bonds or partly in cash and partly in bonds The bonds will be either negotiable or non negotiable and non transferable and will be payable in forty equal instalments and carry interest at two and a half per cent per annum with effect from the date of issue

The State embraces a wide diversity of soil, climate and people In the State there are the rich plains of Gujarat, watered by the Narmada and the Tapti, whose fertility is so marked that it has long been known as the Garden of India South of Bombay City the State is divided into two sections by the Western Ghats, a range of hills running parallel to the coast Beyond the Ghats are the Deccan Districts, south of these come the Karnatak districts On the sea side of the Ghats is the Konkan, a rice growing tract, intercepted by creeks which make communication difficult

The rainfall of the State is derived chiefly from the south west monsoon between June and October The amount of rainfall varies widely in different areas from 20" to about 250"

The population varies as markedly as soil and climate The people of Gujarat although softened by prosperity, are among the keenest trading races in the world The Deccan peasant has been seasoned by adversity, the saying goes that the Deccan expects a famine one year in every three and gets it The population of the Deccan is much more homogeneous than that of Gujarat, thirty per cent being Mahrattas The Karnatak is the land of the Lingayets a Hindu reforming sect of the twelfth century and in the Konkan there is a large proportion of Christians Three main languages are spoken Gujarati, Marathi and Kannada with Hindi a rough lingua franca Hindi in the Devanagari script is recognized by the Government as one of the regional languages of the State

The principal occupation is agriculture, which supports sixty-four per cent of the population In Gujarat the soils are of two classes, the black cotton soil, which yields the famous Broach cottons, the finest in India, and alluvial, which under careful cultivation in Ahmedabad and Kaira, makes splendid garden land The dominant soil characteristic of the Deccan is black soil, which produces cotton, wheat, gram and millet, and in certain tracts rich crops of sugar-cane The Konkan is a rice land, where the crop is grown under the abundant rains of the submontane regions, and in the south the Dharwar cotton vies with Broach as the best in India There are no great perennial rivers suitable for irrigation, and the harvest is largely dependent upon the seasonal rainfall supplemented by well irrigation A chain of irrigation works, consisting of canals fed from great reservoirs in the region of untailing rainfall in the Ghats, is gradually nearing completion, and this will ultimately make the Deccan immune to serious drought

More than any other part of India Bombay State is scourged by famine The evils have not been unmixed, for tribulation has made the people more self-reliant, and the rise in the values of all produce, synchronising with a certain development of industry, has induced a considerable rise in the standard of living The land is held on what is known as the ryotwari tenure, that is to say, each cultivator holds his land direct from the Government under a moderate assessment, and as long as he pays this assessment he cannot be dispossessed

Before the inauguration of Greater Bombay, the City had a yearly revenue of Rs 6 crores, but now it is nearly 8 crores From the B E S T Undertaking which is now run by the Municipality, Greater Bombay receives a revenue of over Rs 7 crores.

What was left of the old Bombay Suburban District, after the merger of a part of it with Bombay City, has now been absorbed by Thana District Strictly speaking, Bombay now has no suburbs, though for all practical purposes the populated areas beyond Greater Bombay's northern boundary may well be regarded as its 'new suburbs'' These include, Goregaon, Malad, Kandivlee, Borivli, the villages of Manori, Gorai, and Uttan in Dharavi Island, Dahisar and Bhayandar, on the fringe of Bassein Creek, served by the Western Railway, and Mulund and Thana served by the Central Railway

THE BOMBAY CORPORATION

The municipal government of Greater Bombay vests in the Municipal Corporation, composed of 124 representatives elected on adult franchise

The Corporation has four statutory committees, the Standing Committee, the Improvements Committee, the Education Committee and the Bombay Electric Supply and Transport Committee

The executive power in regard to administration vests in the Municipal Commissioner The administration of the B E S T Undertaking, however, vests in the General Manager

The Corporation is required to meet at least once a month In actual practice it meets twice a week and oftener if necessary Meetings of the Corporation are presided over by the Mayor who also convenes the meetings The Mayor s term of office is one year and he is elected at the first meeting in April

The Standing Committee consists of 16 members, all of whom are elected by the Corporation Half the members retire at the end of each year The Chairman is elected by the members of the Committee at the first meeting every year The main functions of the Committee are to sanction contracts, to scrutinize the budget and establishment schedule, frame service regulations, sanction investment of funds, prescribe the form of keeping accounts and conduct their scrutiny The Committee meets once every week usually on Wednesdays

The Improvements Committee consists of 16 Councillors all of whom are elected by the Corporation The Chairman is elected for a term of one year, while half the Councillors retire at the end of each year The Committee is charged with all improvement and development schemes, slum clearance, poorer classes accommodation, purchase and sale of land which does not exceed Rs 50,000 The Committee usually meets once a fortnight on Tuesdays

The Bombay Electric Supply and Transport Committee consists of nine members one of whom is the Chairman of the Standing Committee (ex Officio), while the remaining members are appointed by the Corporation from among persons who (may or may not be members of the Corporation) have experience of administration, transport or electric supply, or of engineering, industrial, commercial, financial or labour matters The Chairman is appointed by the members for a period of one year, while half the members retire every second year The Committee usually meets every Friday , and the Chairman and members are paid a fee for attending the meetings The Committee exercises a general control over the electric supply and transport undertakings of the Corporation

The Education Committee consists of 16 members of whom 12 are Councillors and 4 non Councillors The Chairman of the Committee is elected, for a period of one year, while half the members retire at the end of each year The Committee usually meets on the first Friday of every month The main function of the Committee is to administer the Primary Education Act or any other law for the time being in force

Besides the Statutory Committees mentioned above there are four Special Committees appointed by the Corporation These are 1 the Works Committee, 2 the Medical Relief and Public Health Committee, 3 Markets and Gardens Committee, and 4 Law, Revenue and General Purposes Committee Each Committee consists of 24 Councillors appointed by the Corporation after each general election There are a Chairman and a Deputy Chairman for each Committee who are elected by the members and who hold office for one year All questions that are due to go before the Corporation must first be considered by the appropriate Special Committee which then makes its recommendations to the Corporation

Then there are a number of ad hoc Consultative Committees to which the Corporation can refer any matter for consideration and report The Committees so appointed at present are 1 Grants-in-aid to various institutions in the City, 2 Greater Bombay, 3 Government orders in the matter of construction of new buildings, 4 Preparation of a thorough Municipal Electoral Roll, 5 Provision of an adequate number of play-grounds, gardens, etc in each ward, 6 the Parulekar Report on Primary Education, 7 Co ordination of Physical Culture Institutions in the City

The four most important executives of the Corporation are the Municipal Commissioner, the General Manager of the Undertaking, the Municipal Secretary and the Municipal Chief Auditor

The Municipal Commissioner is at the head of the Executive He is usually a senior member of the Indian Civil Service and is appointed by the Government for a renewable period of three years He can be removed by the Corporation by a five-eighths vote If however Government desire to revert him to their service the consent of the Corporation is necessary He attends meetings of the Corporation and Committees but does not vote He is assisted by two Deputy Municipal Commissioners and one Assistant Commissioner, in addition, of course, to heads of departments

The General Manager of the Undertaking is in the same position to the Electric Supply and Transport Undertaking as the Municipal Commissioner is to the Corporation as a whole He is appointed by the Corporation subject to the approval of the Provincial Government for a renewable period of not more than five years at a time He can be removed by the votes of not less than half the number of the Councillors He attends the meetings of the B E S T Committee and takes part in the discussions but does not vote

The Municipal Secretary is in charge of all the secretarial work pertaining to the Corporation and its Committees He is independent of the Commissioner and is directly under the Standing Committee.

DADAR SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND

Main Road, Dadar Bombay 14

The School was established in 1900 by the late Miss Anna Millard It was opened during famine times admitting blind of all age It gradually developed into an educational institution Its management has, since April 1, 1948, been with the Blind Relief Association of Bombay

The School is the only school for blind girls and infants of pre-School age It is a residential boarding school fully secular in character and charitable in conduct It aims at making the children self supporting and self respecting citizens and helps them take, as contributive members, their rightful place in society

General education is given up to Marathi Fifth Standard in all subjects In special cases however it is extended through the high school Extra curricular activities, such as, scouting and girl guiding excursions socials, musicals and dramatics, etc are a part of education Domestic science in practice is a special feature for girls as gardening and kindred work is for boys

Physical education plays an important part in the education of blind children who are normally slow in movements and sedentary in habits

Social education is no less important in building character and personality It has for objective elimination of certain inherent mannerisms in the Blind, which the sighted hardly overlook

Vocational education comprises work on cane, sisal and other fibres bead and other materials, knitting and sewing and occupational therapy This consists for the present of making rugs, tea cosies, string bags, paper work, etc

Music, both vocal and instrumental is by far the most wage-earning vocation for the Indian blind, and the school does its duty conscientiously in this regard It can boast of an orchestral party, composed mostly of little girls

Under the co-ordination scheme, sponsored by the Government through the State Council on Blindness, it is fast emerging as an exclusive institution for girls with co education only up to Kindergarten Standard Another scheme now under consideration is to open a section for a Sunshine Home Nursery School

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY, BOMBAY

83, Lady Hardinge Road, Mahim, Bombay 16

A quarter century has passed since the inauguration of Children's Aid Society Bombay Founded on the 1st May 1927 the Society became the pioneer in child welfare work under the Bombay Children Act of 1924

Until 1938, its activities were mainly restricted to managing a Remand Home and a junior certified school on the premises of what once was a jail and at present this institution is a major service centre for all handicapped children coming to it for help

The Society in September 1939 launched an experiment which aimed to give expression to new trends in Corrections when it constructed at Chembur a major certified school on a cottage home plan This plan aimed at providing the juveniles with conditions conducive to the development of their physical and mental well being The agency had in mind particularly the case of a juvenile from the predominantly rural area The next two years saw the birth of a specialised institution for the care and treatment of the mentally deficient children the only one certified school of its kind in India

In July 1941 the management of a reformatory institution viz the David Sassoon Industrial School whose origin dated back to the year 1843 came to be handed over to the Society

Starting in 1927 with a budget of not more than Rs 40 000 to take physical care of about 125 children the Society today spends about a million rupees on the maintenance training and rehabilitation of about 3 500 children and provides them with services and positive satisfactions of life The agency thus helps 30 per cent of the total number of children being taken care of in the Bombay State
