Beowulf (Z.) 87 Se ellengæst sele in bystrum bad a 1225 Juliana 11 As his brunie wes i besitenrisse a 1300 Cursor M 17811 (Gött) Pe folk in dedeli mirknes stad 1382 Wyclif Isa ix 2 Pou wes in the lijt of the Lord our God 1553 Wilson Rhet (1580) 100 Stopping in the dark 1605 Shaks Mach i i 2 When shall we three meet againe? In thunder, Lightning or in Raine? 1648 Bp Hall Breath Devout Soul xxix 46 An inheritance in light In light incomprehensible, in light inaccessible 1697 Dryden Virg Georg iii 135 His thick Mane dances in the Wind Ibid Aen 471 Where basking in the Sun shine they may lye 1855 Macaulay Hist Eng xxi IV 393 Privateers and smugglers who put to sea in all weathers 1887 Spectator 23 Aug 1148 Planting his pastern in the ruin

* MSS , A has wlbnnne one monbe] seuentene bousend & mo Ymatred 1388 Wyclif Ecod xxxi 17 In sixe daies God made heuene and erthe c 1400 Maundev (Roxb) xxxiii 148 Men may saile it in seuen days. 1526 Tindale 1 Cor xv 52 We shall all be chunged in a moment and in the twnckynge of an eye 1611 Bible Transl Pref 11 The worke hath not been hudled vp in 72 dayes 1708 Eng Theophrast 165 Presumption leads people to infidelity in a trice 1885 Manch Exam 5 May 5/6 From the Gatling Gun a trail of 1,000 bullets can be discharged in a single minute Mod The voyage to America can now be done in less than 7 days By working hard he could make one in a week

20 Of a limit of time before or at the expiration of, within the space of c 1300 Trent Science (1841) 238 Ther nis non That ever eft-t held leng, ac deyeth in a stounde 13 Sowpe Sag (W) 115 In time of seuen yere He sal be wise withowten were 1513 More Rich III (1641) 210 He dyed in three moneth-1700 tr Dupin's Eccl Hist 16/A. II xiii xviii 261 In Prosecu of time they might be corrupted 1898 Johnson Left to Dr Taylor 8 July, I came back from Oxford in ten days 1843 Blackw Mag LIV 305, I rallied in a day or two 1884 Fam Times Sept 1 2/1/2 Anything put into the defendants well was certain in time to affect the supply

21 Formerly (and still sometimes) used, where at, on, during, for are now in use, or where the preposition is omitted

At is now ordinarily used with a point of time, e g at this time, at the moment, at day break, at sunset, on in stating the date of an event, e g on the first of May, on Monday next, on a summer morning, during with a course or continuance of a period, for which for is also used, esp in negative statements, e g he has stayed for a week, I have not seen him for a long time For all these re-ocurs in earlier or dialectal use

a = At

c 1175 Lamb Hom 121 Þas þinne ure drihten boleede in þosse timan a 1225 St Marher 2 Wes in þe like time kuneude þet eadi meiden 13 A Alis 403 In the dawenyng He made efte his charmyng c 1440 Gesta Rom xci 413 Addit MS I He made this Eyre to sitte with hym in mete tyme 1525 Lo Berners Froiss II cxix [cxv] 340 They departed in the brekynge of the dayre 1604 Shaks Oth II iii 94 The Duke in Counsell? In this time of the night? a 1725 Burnet Own Time (1823) I 315 But he got his offices to be published in a time when [etc] 1807 Crabbe Parish II 456 No Sunday shower Kept him at home in that important hour 1873 Hampeton Intell Life's II 205 When an architect in the present day has to restore some venerable church

b = On [The OE example has the accusative] a 900 O E Chron an 626 Her Eanfled wæs gefulwad on þone halgan æfen Penteosten c 1175 Lamb Hom 81 Þet me sculde in þe ehtahe dei þet knaue child embsmfden 1297 R Glouc (Rolls) 8868 In a bores-dai it was c 1400 Maundev (1839) Prol 4, I passed the see in the Yeer of Seynt Machelle 1426 in Sortees Mist (1888) 7 In be Vygil of be Assumpcion of our Lady 1597 Shaks, 2 Hen IV, I 93 Looke you that our Armes ioyn in a hot cause 1806-7 J Beresford Miseries Hum Life (1826) x 1, In a chilling evening after you have carefully stirred a very thick fire

c = During

1713 Swift Corr Wks 1841 II 492 In all the time I have been conversant in business, I never before observed [etc] 1748 Anson's Voy II xii 209 Captain Mitchel, in the whole time of his cruise, had only taken two prizes. Ibid viii 220 The succeeding four months in which we continued at sea

d = For (In negative sentences)

1470-85 Malory Arthur x xxxvi, He made them to swere to were none harneis in a twelue monethe and a day 1525 Lo Berners Froiss II xliv [xlix] (1812) 121 If they dranke moche they coulde not helpe themselfe in two dayes after 1601 Holland Pliny (1634) II 379 Wash it not off in three dayes 1669 Penys Diary (1879) VI 1 To Westminster Hall, where I have not been in some months 1768 Black stone Comm I iv 228 It had not been practiced in some hundreds of years 1793 Smeaton Edystone L § 283 They had not come back in some days. 1889 E Saltus Positivism i arch xiv 153 He was hungry as he had not been in months

e Where no preposition is now expressed

1388 Wyclif Luke i 75 In holynesse and rightfulnesse before him in alle ours dayes 1523 Lo Berners Froiss I cxxxv 332 In the same euenynge the two marshals commanded every man to drawe to their logynges, and in the next mornyng to be redy at sownynge of the trumpettes 1603 Shaks Meas for M II iv 9 Why should we put blame it on him before his entring? 1726 Swift Let to a Lord 1, This engine set out in four hours after my landing

IV Pregnant uses sometimes due to ellipsis

22 With reflexive pronouns In himself, in itself, etc in his or its own person, essence, or nature, apart from any connexion with or relation to others, absolutely

c 1200 Ormin 3041 Jesu Crist Iss soþ Godd inn himm selfenn 1340 Ayenb 220 Þe sacrement þet is ymad be þe hand of þe kueude munistre ne is nagt lesse worþ ine him zelue 1532 Lindale Exp 1 John (1537) 7 The scripture abydeth pure in herselfe 1568 Artif Handtoun 166b/178 Suppose Artificial beautifying of the face be not in it self absolutely unlawful 1843 Mill Logic I iii § 7 Of things absolutely or in themselves 1849 Rubbin Cor Lamps vii § 5 189 Neither originality, therefore, nor change are ever to be sought in themselves 1870 Freeman Norm Conq (ed 2) I App 729 The story may be true in itself

23 In spiritual or mystical union with c 1315 Shoreham 9 Ydemyd we bethe In Adam and me Eve 1382 Wyclif 1 Cor xv 22 As in Adam alle men dyen, so and in Crist alle men schulen be quykenyd — Rev xiv 13 Blessed the deede men, that dien in the Lord 1548-9 (Mar) Bk Comm Prayer, Communion (Coll nd fin), At our woorkes begonne, continued, and ended in thee 1745 A Butler Lives of Saints (1836) I 23 It was their desire that he might follow his vocation in God

24 In the person or eyse of

c 1380 Wyclif Sel Wks III 341 Þe fend moved þe synne of Adam to encrese in hus Chirche in þis preest 1479-85 Malory Arthur IX xxv, Fy for shame that euer suche falle treason shulde be wrought or vsed in a quene and a kynges syster 1580 Spenser F Q (Let to Raleigh), Sir Guyon in whome I sette forth Temperaunce 1603 Shaks Meas for M II iii That in the Captaines but a cholericke word, Which in the Souldier is flat blasphemie 1653 H More Antid Ath III xiii (1712) 111 Which also happend in a Maid of his 1797 Gloss Anglic Nov s v Ass fortride, good against fits in women 1712 Addison Spect No 331 P 7 It was a bold Thought in our Author, to ascribe the first Use of Artillery to the Rebel Angels 1821 Clare Vill Minstr I 20 Dread no thief in me! 1854 J Scoffern in Orr's Circ Sc, Chem 102 This instrument was found in the metropolitan Museum of Naples 1868 American Norm Camp II x 470 How great a captain England possessed in her future King 1878 Morley Crit Misc Ser I Carlyle 201 Those who found in the rules and dis-sipline and aims of that system an acceptable expression for their own disinterested social aspirations

25 Belonging to, as an internal quality, attribute, faculty, or capacity, inherent in, hence, within the ability, capacity, thought, etc of a 1225 Ancr R 166 Þer ze schulen beon ine þe grunge auh reste and pes is in me 1377 Langl P Pl B xix 78 Al þe witte þat worlde is inne Ac þre leuyes 1388 Wyclif Tobit i 4 In hym was hȝ of 1400 Maundev (Roxb) xxxiv 160 And I, in þat in me es, imaked þam parceneres of þam þat in heuen 1535 Coverdale Ezek xl 29 There is no musicke in the Nightingale c 1600 G Harvey in Shaks C Praise to Shake-speare's Lucrece, and his tragedy of Hamlet have it in them to please the wiser sort 1605 Shaks Lear III iv 127 Is not in these Lo Grudge my pleasures a 1621 Beaum & Fl Maid's Trag III 1, It is in me to punish thee 1698 Wanley Wonders II 816 Magia A covetous Magician and one that had nothing of worth in him 1737 Bracken Farriery Impr (1757) II 139 As to the Notion I think there is not much in it 1775 Sheridan Duenna Duet I, You did not mean any rudeness, did you, Humphrey? Oh No, in deed, sirree, his wor hip knows it is not in me 1855 Tennyson Maud II iv 4 Is there a devil so foul as is not in human nature Ibid 332 An enquiry which I shall never be weary of pursuing as far as in me lies 1881 Raymond II Apr 190 Anyone who has it in him to do heroic deeds

26 In the hands of, in the control or power of, legally vested in

c 1460 Towneley Myst xvii 92 In me stands clyfe and dede 1a 1500 Cm Myst (1841) 311 Alle the poer lyth now in me a 1532 Lo Berners Huon lxxxi 250 You know well it is in me to make you duke of Aquytayne 1611 Holy State Fame xcii (1892) 61 The election shall be in the Master and Fellowes of Emmanuel Colledge a 1626 Bacon Max & Uses Com Law (1636) 51 Where the Statute giueth such title, are in the crowne, and not in him that first entreth 1708 New Voy round II 484/1 The Living is a Rectory, the Advowson of which is in the Bishop of London 1818 Wheatley Hist Indust Arts (1857) 30 The government of Greece is in the king 1884 Lo Coleridge in Law Times Rep 1 45/2 The manuals, therefore, are in the trustees

27 Partaking, sharing, associated, or actually engaged in To be in it, to be one of those actually engaged as partners, competitors, etc , to be in the running, to be a serious competitor, to count for something

1598 Clifland Let to Daniel in Pope's Wks (Globe) 159 None, it is plain was so little in their friend ships, or so much in that of those whom they had most abused 1792 Hist in Ann Reg 13 Neither the Count de Artois nor Mr de Calonne were in the secret 1812 J H Vaux Flash Dict s v, To let another partake of any benefit or acquisition you have acquired by robbery or otherwise, is called putting him in it a family man who is accidentally witness to a robbery, &c effected by one or more others, will say to the latter, Mind I m in it 1888 Lady 25 Oct 398/1 I thought I really was in it at last, and knew what she meant 1888 Longm Mag July 256 I, those 'in it' every sound conveys a meaning 1889 Spectator 4 Sept, 'Flying Hulster' and 'Eclipse' would not be 'in it' with our modern cracks

28 Of representative character or capacity, as in Name of, in Right of see the sbs

29 Employed for (a) in the name of, (b) in the charge of a 1734 North Lives (1826) III 203 'Ay, s' God, is it, said the lord 1832 Fr A Kemble Let in Rec Girlhood II viii 229, I am to come out in Bianca, in Mulmani's Fatio

V Of motion or direction See also 16

30 Expressing motion or direction from without to a point within, or transition from one thing to another into, a In this was the proper sense of in with the accusative see above The sense of 'into' is still retained after some verbs, as put, cast, split, part, where the sense implies motion, and in some idiomatic phrases which are no longer analysed

†a Illustrations of earlier usage, now obs or dial

c 825 Lvfl Prattler v 8 Ic þing, dryhten, in hus fæt 971 Blickl Hom 121 Þa he in þone heofon locodan after him a 1000 Hymns vi 27 (Gr) Ne læd þu us in costunge c 1175 Lamb Hom 3 Godd is beore sariest þet is on sunne eou Ibid 45 Muneung of þam hali gast þe he sende in his apostles c 1280 Bestiary 230 Do we be godd in be hale a 1300 E E Psalter xxix 12 [xxx 13] Þou turned mi weping In blisse c 1386 Chaucer Knt's T 71 And broghte hire hoom with hym in his contree. c 1470 Henry Wallace I 147 His fadyr Malcom in the Lennox fled c 1500 Melusine 369 Soone after [she] tourned herself in the figure of a serpent and so vanyshed away 1509 Barp Wills (Camden) 111 Yff ony off my children happyn to cumme in poueete 1535 Coverdale 2 Esdras iii 4 And hast brethed in hum the breth of life 1570 Tragedie 127 in Satir Poems Reform x, Turnut day in nycht and nycht in day 1596 Dalrymple tr Leslie's Hist Scot I 8 Dompes and wynes now growne in fine bownes 1680 in 12th Rep Hist MSS Comm App vii 394 My daughter was brought to bed of another boy 1697 Dryden Virg Georg iii 645 (The snake) retires And in some secret Cranny slowly slides 1705 Stokes Death & Dr Horn bk xiv, Deal much his kung-hood in a spleachum!

b Illustrations of current usage after the verbs cast, fall, lay, put, throw, thrust, etc , divide, split, break, etc

a 900 O E Chron an 709 Was todælded in tuu bisceoprices west Seaxna land 971 Blickl Hom 191 Hu he in þe stowe asetton þe Uttacunas hatte 1154 O E Chron an 1137 P 9, & dide alle in prisun, til hi ufen up hire castles a 1200 Ivin Conl Hom 21 And wes his bulle in hune leid in burdeles, ar he nolde sepulcre c 1330 R Brunne Chron Wace (Rolls) 3618 Ibs barel of gold þey leid alsoon 1390 Gower Conf I 106 Fulfulde he hereuth up so highe Hys chippes fallen in his eye c 1400 Maundev (Roxb) xxxiv 153 Þe prestes hewer þe body all in smale peces c 1460 Towneley Myst xxvi 413 My cast þart will I throw 1491 Act 7 Hen VII c 22 Preamble, The said John caste the seid writing in the fire 1500 Shaks Mids N iii 108 Hoard headed frosts fall in the fresh lap of the crimson Rose 1591 1 Hen VI, iv 52 They supposed I could supme in pieces Posts of adamant 1607 Dryden Hyg Georg iii 366 He in the Mistletoe plunges The hoary Head 1836 Thorpe Anglo Sax and Engl Grammar (1857) III 346 In he put on the shelf, or cast in the lumber room 1868 N & Q 4th S II 108 Fullfilde he hereuth up so highe The measure of putting a kicker in harness 1876 Morley Univ Scrib xi (1877) 142 Has difficult school which splits them, as it were, in two halves

c See also in the face of I vii sb 4

†31 The sense of motion or direction formerly gave rise to various modifications [Cf I in with across] Obs

i a = Upon, on

c 1225 Leg Kath 102 Ha spende al þet oðer in neod fulle & in nakede c 1305 St Lucy 7 in E E P 101 In fi ricunes heo hadde spend moche del of hire gode c 1430 Hymns Virg 98 Þan was þis Innocent wrie-ed in hire pleid 1490 Caxton Eneydos xi 36 Ye serue tyme, perpetred and commysed in the persone of sychee 1535 Stewart Cron Scot II 528 To put hands in the crowall kmg 1557 North Guevara's Dial Lv 127 b/2 To caste their eyes onelye in that that is presente

†b = Against, towards

a 1300 E E Psalter xxxiii (Fair) 8 In þi name for how in us risand a 1340 Hamiole Psalter xi 1 Foogifynge til hym þat sytnes in vs c 1380 Wyclif Wks (1880) 108 To oure deitouris & vs to men þat han synned in us

†c = Over

c 1450 Lydg Min Poems (Perc) Soch 16 Hut noon enmyse have in hym powere

†d = Into, to

1523 Lo Berners Froiss I xxxvi 50 Sir Water of Manny dyd set fyre in the strete nyghe unto the castell Ibid clxxxix 237 Fyre of them selfe had set the fyre in the towne 1535 Coverdale 2 Esdras iii 7 Thou appo ntedest death in him, and in his generacions

VI. Constructional uses

32 Expressing the relation which the action of a verb has to some indirect object forming with the latter an adverbial adjunct to the verb, and often entering with it into an indirect passive e g to be believed in, to be dealt in, to be engaged in See the verbs individually)

a To believe, trust, hope, in, and the like In OE, believe took on with the accus , = into unto, towards (cf I credere in Deum)

c 825 Lvfl Prattler n 11 Eadge alle þa þe getreowaþ in hine [= confident in eum] a 1000 Juliana 434 in Vetter Pk Þu in eche gode hinne getreowdes c 1200 Ivin Conl Hom 19 He be luueth in god 13 A Alis 7348 Alisaunder him gan affye In his owne chiualrie c 1400 Maundev (1839) xv 166 In these things, the[n] ben many folk, that beleeven 1553 Q Mary in Strype Eccl Mem (1721-11) App 1 3 For the special trust and affiance we have in you 1753 Chesterfield Lett (1774) IV 6, I hope in God she will give you the will of doing him

b To partake, share, consist, engage, join, deal in, to consist in, to succeed, fail, increase in, to delight, exult, glory, joy, rejoice, triumph in, etc

a 1225 Ancr R 38 Sif me delen in his pinen a 1300 E E Psalter iv 3 Al sal fayre men and gode delite 1375 Barbour Bruce iv 718 Than men, that will study In the craft of astrology c 1585 R Brunner Auto Curtesy 68, I put Like in another mans offring 1593 Q Mary in Strype Eccl Mem (1721-11) App 1 3 For the special trust and affiance we have in you 1753 Chesterfield Lett (1774) IV 6, I hope in God she will give you the will of doing him

b To partake, share, consort, engage, join, deal in, to consist in, to succeed, fail, increase in, to delight, exult, glory, joy, rejoice, triumph in, etc

a 1225 Ancr R 38 Sif me delen in his pinen a 1300 E E Psalter iv 3 Al sal fayre men and gode delite 1375 Barbour Bruce iv 718 Than men, that will study In the craft of astrology c 1585 R Brunner Auto Curtesy 68, I put Like in another mans offring 1593 Q Mary in Strype Eccl Mem (1721-11) App 1 3 For the special trust and affiance we have in you 1753 Chesterfield Lett (1774) IV 6, I hope in God she will give you the will of doing him

c With trans vb To instruct a person in, to convict, condemn, mulct in, to baffle, disappoint, insult in, to spend (money, time, etc) in To hold in (honour, etc) see Holden v 22 f a 1300 Cursor M 26110 In despit so[hildes me 1382 Wyclif 2 Chron xxxvi 3 The kmg of Egipt condemnede the lond in an hundrith talentis of syluer 1490 Caxton Eneydos vii 33 To haue some prynce for tenstructe hym in doctrynes and good maners 1588 Shakr L L L II 39 Spending your wit in the praise of mine a 1715 Burnet Own Time (1823) II 207 The crown had been limited in the power of raising money 1838 Thirlwall Greece iii II 24 The Athenians, who had been repeatedly baffled in their attempts 1893 W P Courtney in Academy 13 May 413/1 The money expended in the improvement of the site 33 Expressing the relation of an adjective (often ppl.) to some sphere or department to which its qualification is limited in and its object forming an adverbial adjunct of the adjective, e.g. accomplished, adroit, at home, complete, diligent, exact, eloquent great, learned, skilled, strong, weak in, attacked, grieved, hurt, marked, wounded in, etc.

c900 tr. Bæda's Hist. IV. xxiii/3 (1890) 339 Was heofenlic in worulde ȝebyldum Ibid. 334 In regollices life bre swiðe ȝeornful. a1225 Leg. Kath. 525 In alle wittes of worldliche wisdome wisest o worlde. 1382 Wyclif Acts viii. 22 Moyses was myȝty in his wordis and werkis. 1477 Earl Rivers (Caxton) Dictes 76 Right conuyng in bookes and a good fisicion. 1526 Tindale Matt. v. 3 Blessed are the poore in sprete. 1557 North Guevara's Dial. Pr. (1582) 174 b. Pyrrus was not only hardy valiant in armes, liberall in benefices, patient in aduersities. 1605 Shaks. Mach. iv. ii. 66 Though in your state of Honor I am perfect. 1665 Boyle Occas. Refl. (1848) 294 I do admire and thank him that is infinite in Beauty, and in goodness. 1721 Addison Spect. No. 81 P 1 If Rockinda is unfortunate in her Mole. Nigranilla is as unhappy in a Pimple. 1833 I. Taylor Ignat. I. 2 Ignorant in the chief article of the case. 1845 M. Pattison Ess. (1889) I. 2 Rich in works of the historical kind. 1884 Law Times Rep. LXVII. 4 A railway company was held liable in damages. 1895 Bookman Oct. 2 2 Tom-INN was wanting in all the elements of true greatness.

34 Expressing the relation of a substantive, esp. one that involves an attribute) to a certain sphere.

c1200 Orm 5483 Pu fierste ȝife us witt & skill Inn hoȝht inn like ȝingess. 1382 Wyclif Num. i. 17 God ȝaue to these children science and discipline in ech boke. 1513 Douglas Eneis I. Prol. 36 Name is nor was ne sal stall euir sic enuie in poetre. 1571 Campion Heal. Iref. xi. (1632) 31 Your Lay-brians highly honoured him for his cunning in all languages. 1699 Burnet Hist. Ref. II. xxv. (1700) 266 In all this Diversity there is no real difference. 1749 Fielding Jos. Andrews I. xi. He was himself a very competent judge in most kinds of literature. a1770 Jortin Serm. (1771) I. 46 Those who have skill in style invent impolites. 1830 I. Taylor Elements 63 Alacrity in the performance of things. 1849 Macaulay Hist. Eng. I. 111 The Houses would have made no formal change in the constitution. 1850 C. Brontë Jane Eyre II. 56 Young beginners in business. 1884 W. C. Smith Kildrostan 48 Let nothing shake your trust in her.

35 Expressing the relation of number or quantity to the dimension or amount in question. e.g. length, breadth, depth, or the like.

c1175 Lay. 21905 Hit his vnste in brede fif and twenti fote. 1382 Wyclif 1 Kings vi. 2 The hows, hadde seuen cubitis in length and twenti in brede. 1538 Act 4 Hen. VIII c. 1 § 1 The said Countie is thre score and ten myle in lenght. 1548 Udall, etc. Erasm. Par. Mark i. (1552) 120 Fewe in number. 1628 Peachey Dym. Anat. Assert. Introd. § 12 A black line of an inch in length. 1875 Jowett Plato (ed. 2) II. 306 The virtues, which are also four in number. 1884 W. Sharp D. G. Rossetti ii. 30 A man six feet two inches in height.

36 With a substantive (or adj.), forming an adverbial phrase. e.g. in charity, in duty, in honour, in right, in common, in general, in especial, in fact, in all, probability, in truth, in faith, in conclusion, in fine, in haste, in any case, in every way, in all the world. See the obs., also IN DEED.

a1300 Cursor M. 11402 Þai fild vp cupp ban in hast. c1386 Chaucer Pard. Prol. 1.6 But herkeneth holdynges in conclusioun Youre likyng is that I schal telle a tale. 1513 More Rich. III, in Grafton Chron. I. 781 In faith man I was never so sory. 1647 N. Bacon Disc. Govt. Eng. ii. 8 In Charity, therefore, the English Church in those dayes must be of meam repute for outward pomp. 1667 Primatt City & C. Build. 2 Consider whyt casualties it may in probability be subject unto. 1721 St Germain's Doctor & Stud. 309 If a man buy a horse of him that is right had no property to him. 1802 Mar. Fly. Emorite Mour. (1828) I. xii. 100 Debts, which he could not, in honour, delay to discharge. 1837 Smiles Chaucer (1876) 11 Every one is bound in duty, to aim at reaching the highest standard of character. 1881 Mrs. Walford Dick Netherby xiv. 166 Not a shilling in the world.

37 In many prepositional phrases, as in Case of, in Face of, in Favour of, in Front of, in Honour of, in Lieu of, in Presence of, in Respect of, in Spite of, Instead of, in Regard of, to, in Respect of, to, in Order to, in Proportion to, in Relation to, in Common with, in Company with, in Comparison with, etc. See these words.

VII. Phrases.

38 In so far in such measure or degree (as), to such extent (that) 1506 Dalrymple tr. Leslies Hist. Scot. v. 269 Britanne was in seven Regimentis, denydet be the Saxonis. Insafyr, that a certane and sure ordour of kingis could not weil be collected. 1836 H. Taylor Statesman xxxi. 232 A man's manners have much real and intrinsic significancy, in so far forth as they are the result of his individual nature and taste. 1896 Act 59 & 60 Vict. c. 39 § 1 (3) In so far as they are temporary in their duration.

39 In that in the fact that, in its being the case that, in presence, view, or consequence of the fact that, seeing that, as, because.

c1440 Gesta Rom. II. xxi. 309 (Add. MS.) The child is not able to serue god, in that he is imparfite. 1523 Lo. Berners Froiss. I. clix. 186 The kyng of Nauerr excused hym-selfe honorably, in that he departed out of the realme of France. 1535 Coverdale Josh. xxii. 31 We knowe, that ye Lordes amonge vs, in that ye haue not trespored against the Lorde. 1598 Shaks. 2 Hen. IV, iii. 1. 257 Let him dye, in that he is a Foole. c1680 Beveridge Serm. (1729) II. 302 In that they think they get good by such hearing, they are really the worse for it. 1730 Dobson Fielding I. 18 He is the more likely, in that Arne the musician was Fielding's contemporary at Eton.

40 See also Inasmuch, Inhowsoever, etc.

In (in), adv. and a. Forms: 1–2n, 4 inn, 3–5 inne, 4 ynne, 5no, 4–5 yn. [Common Teut., OE. inn = OFris., OS., OHG. in (MHG. in, în, Ger. ein), Goth. inn- (in composition with vbs.), ON. inn (Sw. in, Da. ind). The distinction between adv. and prep. is clearly marked in mod. Ger. ein beside in, in Scandinavian inn, in, ind beside i, i, and in English dialects which use in for the adv. for the prep. OE. inn was employed only with verbs expressing motion, the corresponding form to denote rest within a place being inne (see Inne), but during the ME. period the loss of the final vowel made the two words identical in form, in some texts it is doubtful whether the e of inne, ynne is of etymological significance or not.]

A. adv. I Of motion or direction. [Of inn, in.]

1 Expressing motion from a point without to certain limits of a place within these, so as to penetrate or pass into a certain space, esp. into a house or other building (see also under Come, Go, Pass, Put, etc.) frequently followed by preps. indicating the direction, extent, etc. of the movement, as in at, by, from, through, to, under, etc., also in-a door's (see A Prop.).

Beowulf (Z.) 3090 Þa me ȝerymed wæs ... niht inn under scofenum. c825 Vesp. Psalter (Sweet) cxl. 4 Da he eft inn his hand þær eastryhte, ohþe see se on ȝon ðæt land. c1000 Ags. Ps. Matt. viii. 23 Gangende inn [c 1 in] þurh þæt nearwe ȝeat. a1225 Leg. Kath. 1307 Þeos eadie mei ȝeode inn. a1300 Cursor M. 11402 He cum to hure hous. c1400 Rom. Rose. 7004 My pleis and myn hous make I Thee men may renne open ynowh. 1596 Nashe Terrors Night 49 The groome went straight way in and to his Lord Declar'd the message. 1673 Ray Journ. Low Co. 24 An Ostler in (to Bredal we passed for) 1 penny. Ibid. Fet Grance 61 In came my nephew. 1728 Coll. Jack (1840) 311, I was called in again. 1814 Mrs. West Alicia de Lacy III. 115 We shall be never in the country, we can come in the winter. 1894 In Barne Could Kitty Alone II. 101 Put the cob in, and be to the cutter.

b In Ob. (poetry and prose) and in ME. poetry an often precedes the verb with which it is construed. Obs.

c1000 Ælfric Hom. II. 570 Se Sun hunde be his hand eft inn scæwe. — Lives of Saints I. 62 Þa he inn and swiȝcum wæs, wolde he in cuman. Judges Camp. Mart. xxvi. 4 Wæs eadi þæt ze in ne gan on costunge. c1200 Trin. Coll. Hom. 91 Þohne þe procession ut cumð of ierusalem and eft heim in cumeð. c1205 Lay. 19 Þa com Brutus inn þa ðeoden. 13 Coer de L. 3305 I hey leten hem in come. Ibid. 6446 A stout Sarezyn gan in stonde. 1370 Rolf Caylle 56 Let hym in come ȝe ȝif the liste. a1400 Sir Perc. 1538 The ladye pontere Lete the knyghtis in fare. c1440 Promptor. 1110 Je rede kenyght anone in rode.

c After auxiliary verbs, as may, must, shall, etc., or absolutely with imperative force, with omission of 'go', 'enter', 'get', or the like (cf. IN 6).

Now chiefly poet. or rhet.

971 Blickl. Hom. 127 Duru þæt mannes heafod, ȝe þa soldras, ȝeseoð in standan. a1225 Ancr. R. 74 Ah ȝe moten in þeos wel, þer ase ueord mei in ouerai. 13 Coer de L. 3842 The Sarezynes myght neyther in ne oute. 1340 Ayenb. 232 Þet by ne mowe in. 1590 Shaks. Com. Err. v. i. 37 This is some Priorie, in or we are spoyl'd. 1595 — John I. 171 In at the window, or else o're the hatch. 1607 Sanderson Serm. (1632) 1. 20 Unto God kept from the Lord Jesus, and he must in, and he must in deep. 1668 Davenant Man's the Master II. 1, Sure, this is Isabella's chamber the door is open! I'll in, and take my leave of her. 1821 Byron Sardan. II. 1 Let's in. 1857 Trollope Barchester I. v. 62, I see that there are three trains in and three out every day.

d Imperatively = 'take in'. Also in with.

1708 Motteux Rabelais iv. xviii (1737) 76 He cry'd, in with your Top-sails. 1857 Vere Marine Mag. (1858) V. 1 In, gib and main course.

2 Phrase Day in, day out as each day comes in or begins, and goes out or closes, continually. So with week, year, etc.

1859 Jane G. Austin Hillsdale Church 91, Week in, week out, from morn till night. 1884 Miss Wilkins in Harper's Mag. July 203/2 Sitting and sewing as she did day in and day out.

3 Expressing motion in the direction of some central point, hence, position attained by (or as by) coming, bending, or pressing in, in proximity, within reach of or near to some point or limit specified or implied, into or in close quarters.

1700 Dryden No. 378/4 Goes a little in with his Muscles. 1709–10 Tatler (J.) They [Pincers] are in with you, if you offer to fall back without keeping your guard. 1812 Sporting Mag. XXXIX. 24 Crib always was in and fighting with Mepp. 1872 Black Adv. Phaeton (1878) 232 The swans were sailing close in by the reeds. 1888 R. Haggard Maiwa's Revenge iv. About five yards in, it [the path] took a turn. 1898 To Day 5 Nov. 4/2 When you have a man fighting in', there is no possible time to use anything but your hands.

4 Into the bargain, in addition (to the legal amount), over and above, besides, as in to get, give, throw in see the verbs.

1634 Massinger Very Woman III. 1, He will not yield above a peck of oysters. If I can get a quart of wine in too, you are gone, Sir. 1718 Free-thinker No. 28 P 1 To these (exquisite Faces) he threw me in Three Hundred Pounds. 1858–9 Dickens Lit. Boy 116 (Hoppe) And so you have the fight in great. 1864 Throw in (see Inbread 2.) 1886 (see Give 59 f).

II Of position.

5 Within a certain space, esp. inside a house or other enclosed place, inside the usual place of abode, shelter, or safety.

In early ME. use chiefly northern, the southern word being inne.

a1300 Cursor M. 14737 Ne wald he neuer o þaim blin, Till all war vte þat þer was in. c1475 Rauf Coilyear 94 Vndo the dure belyue I dare, am thro in? 1719 De Foe Crusoe I. 1, Our ship rid forecastle in. 1793 Smeaton Edystone L. § 387 To come home with her cargo in. 1805 Cottingwood & Oct. in Nicolas Dispt. (1846) VII. 8 note, I think at 5 or at 4, the Boats will be better in. Mod. Is Mr. A in? He is not in at present. Do you know when I shall find him in?

b On the inside, within. From in, from the inside.

a1300 Cursor M. 5615 An ewcen kyst soo did be wroght, Dol pik it sure, wit oute and in [Göttingen withuten and inne, Trin. without & ynne]. 1608 Shaks. Tr. & Cr. iii. 111. 97 Man, how dearely ever parted, How much in hauing, or without, or in, cannot make boast to haue that which he hath. c1610 H. Stuart Leaman's Catech. 24 Some in vse out through the quarter bloud. 1873 Tristram Moab iii. 43 A sheepskin coat with the woolly side in.

6 In various special senses.

In some of these the adverbial use may have arisen from the prep. by ellipse of a substantive, in others the verb is or takes the place of the implying motion. Hence in 19 is used in almost any sense arising from verbal combinations, and only the more common ones are illustrated here.

a. In prison, in confinement.

1597 Shaks. 2 Hen IV, v. 2 Thy Dol is in base Durance and contagious prison. Dol is in. 1877 Fors Clavigera Letter xcvii. 247 It is the etiquette among prisoners never to ask a man what he is in for. The badge upon his left arm gives his sentence.

†b Engaged, involved, entangled (in action, etc.); an imbroglio. Obs.

1598 Shaks. 1 Hen. IV, iii. 1. 203 I would not care a pin, if the other three were in. 1602 Marston Ant. & Mel. iv. Wks. 1856 I. 49, I shall here in done when I am in. To harder for me end, than to begin. 1630 Lady Brilliana Harley in Camd. Soc. Misc. (1853) III. 115 We shall be never in the country, we can come in the winter. 1894 In Barne Could Kitty Alone II. 101 Put the cob in, and be to the cutter.

c Of a player or a side in a game. In possession of the field, etc., having the turn or right to play. Cf. Innings.

1770 J. Love Cricket 32 The two last Champions even now are in. 1874 J. D. Heath Crowned Pilgrim 60 Instruction to the player who is in. 1884 Lillywhite's Cricket Annual 55 He scored 33 out of 15 made while he was in.

c In legal possession of (an estate).

1628 Coke Digest Laws II. 311 Whereof the heir taketh any thing which might have vested in the ancestor, the heir should be in by descent.

f Of a ship's sails. Taken in, furled.

1769 Falconer Dict. Marine (1780), In, the state of any of a ship's sails, when they are furled or stowed.

g Of fire or light. Burning, lighted. Chiefly with certain verbs, e.g. to keep in, to blow in, the reverse of to blow out.

1662 Sir S. Turk. Acts Fire Howses v. 1 in Hazl. Dodsley XV. 289 (Pedro) lets the candle fall. Diego takes up the candle; Here's a brave fellow, has broke the candle! Pedro blowl in again (Flora blows the candle in). 1711 Addison Spect. No. 92 P 7 They observe the law which orders the Fire to be always kept in. 1793 Smeaton Edystone L. § 247 This evening's tide we worked with links, and it began to blow so freah that we had much ado to keep them in. 1883 Pall Mall Gaz. 3/1 One has to think seriously before blowing in a furnace when the power will be increased sufficiently enough to leave him a profit. 1893 Argosy Jan. 23 We sat round the fire, which we kept in more for the sake of cheer fulness than warmth.

h Of a train, coach, steamer, mail, etc. Come in, arrived.

1870 Miss Bridgman R. Lynne I. xv. 249 The 7.30 train would be in.

i In the market, in season, in fashion.

1687 [see In and Out 1 b]. 1851 Mayhew Lond. Labour I. 85 During July cherries are in as well as raspberries. 1891 Daily News 6/6 Savoys are in.

III Contextual uses.

7 With verbs, besides the senses 1–5, above, in has many contextual and idiomatic uses, e.g. expressing irruption, as in break, burst, strike in, penetration, as in burn, cut, force, rub in, enclosing, surrounding, or covering, as in build, cover, fence, hem, roof, wall in, according, yielding, as in come, fall, give in. See the verbs.

IV Phrases, etc

8 In for. [C f 6 b]

a †(a) Involved or engaged in some business or occupation for a specified time (b) Involved in some coming event, etc, from which no escape is possible, finally committed or destined to do or suffer something

1599 Broughton's Lett xii 26 Herein you are in for all day, it is your element 1658-9 Burton's Diary (1828) IV 37 We are in for a month at this rate of speaking 1773 GOLDSM Stoops to Conq iv, I was in for a life of blunders 1835 Fraser's Mag XI 21 We are in for a speech 1889 Reform Y Bk 285 We are in for a pretty severe storm

b esp in phrase in for it Committed to a course of action, also, certain to meet with punishment or something unpleasant

1698 FARQUHAR Love and a Bottle III 1, I've thrown my cast, and am fairly in for't But am I I'm impudent dog 1730 BURT Lett V Scotl (1818) I 98 As I am in for't I must now go on reel 1741 RICHARDSON Pamela II 99 I am in for it now, over Head and Ears, I doubt, and can't help loving him 1855 KINGSLEY Plays & Purit 145 Raleigh finds himself in for it, and takes the island out of hand in the most masterly fashion 1864 SALA in Daily Tel 26 Feb, When the representative receives a lady's card He knows that he is in for it he has to exhibit the lions of the Capitol

c In the competition or race for some prize or thing to be gained Cf go in for GO V 82 e

1890 SORBIÈRE Observer in Baltimore 180 xiii (1899) 182 Though not myself in for any share of the profits Mod Several good men are in for the librarianship Here is for Mosher ition at Oxford

d In for a penny, in for a pound see PENNY

9 In with a In agreement with, on friendly terms with To keep in with see KEEP v a 1677 MANTON in Spurgeon Treas Dav IV 64 A godly wise man is careful to keep in with God 1681 BUNYAN Holy War (Cassell) 181 They knew that against him they had been in with Diabolus 1698 BURTHOGGE in 15th Rep Hist MSS Comm App iii 21 He was a haughty proud man, in with King Charles the Second 1714 SWIFT Pres St Aff Wks 1778 VI 107 For those who preceded wholly to be in with the principles upon which her Majesty and her new servants proceeded a 1875 W ARNOT Anchor of Soul (1876) 72 When I am no longer in with my destroyer, I have the Omnipotent on my side

b Naut Close in to, near (the land)

1708 Lond Gaz No 4422/3 It proving close and dirty Weather, we could not venture in with Land 1748 Anson's Voy II xiii 275 We kept plying on and off the whole night, intending to keep well in with the land 1800 SIR M HUNTER Trnl (1894) 159 We sailed close in with the island

c At close quarters with, even with rare—1

1748 RICHARDSON Pamela III 335, I can't say, but you are in with me now An, by my Soul you have nabbed me cleverly

d To come in with (see COME 59 h), to fall in with (see FALL IV 90)

10 See IN AND IN, IN AND OUT

V Combinations

11 Participles and vbl sbs, nouns of action, and agent nouns, from verbs qualified by in, are formed by prefixing in-, when used as adjs or sbs The number of these is practically unlimited See In-pref 1 a With pres pple, as in-abiding, that abides in, so in-curling, in-flying, etc Also INBURNING, INBURSTING INCOMING, etc, etc

1889 J SMITH Fellowship i (1891) 26 The indwelling and inworking Christ 1894 G T GRIFFITH Asgrotes 60 Lake the wave note of the in-curling seas in the Mediterranean 1848 Outing (U S) XXIV 467 We lay in the bottom of the boat and waited for the in flying game

b With pa pple, as in burnt, that is burnt in, so in built, in-moulded, in-set, etc Also INBLOWN, INBOWED, INGROWN, INPOURED, etc

17 Christmas Ba ing in Skinner Mix Poet (1809) 127 (Jam) In came the merit Domine Just rifton fra his dinner 1824 H ST Ambrose's Ecstasy II § 7 An Indian slave, who wanders about with the inburnt stamps of his savage masters 1898 R A VAUGHAN Mystics (1860) I 237 A mass of true self abandonment must be in built from the creature in built with Christ 1890 Western Gaz 21 Apr 8/1 Coffins made of heavy plate glass, the sides and top being strengthened by an in moulded network of wire

c With vbl sbs, as in-abiding, an abiding in, so in flashing, etc Also INBEAMING, INBRINGING, etc, etc

1892 W ANDERSON Regener (1872) 205 That there be a continuance of that inflashing of the truth into the soul 1889 J SMITH Fellowship (1891) 126 You enjoy the inabiding of the mind of God

d With noun of action, as INBURST, INCAST, INCOME, INFOUR, etc, q v

e With agent-noun, as INBRINGER, INCOMER, etc, q v

12 With abs Usually opposed to out (Cf IN a, which differs from this only in being written detached)

a That is, lives, lies, or remains in, or within (some understood place), internal usually opposed to a person or thing which is out or external, as in-brother, a resident brother of a fraternity or guild, in-burgess, a burgess resident in the burgh, in case, a case of an in-patient, in-company, a company employed at home or at headquarters, in-patient, a patient who remains in a hospital while under medical treatment, as distinguished from an out patient who comes daily, or from time to time, to be attended to, in-resident, a pensioner resident in a charitable institution

1644 Ms Acc St Johns Hosp, Canterb, Received when he was admitted an inbrother 1479 Durh Ac Rolls (Surtees Soc Publ) I 78 Of all debts, outburgesses and inburgesses and indwellars havand chymer or house, a penny 1741 in Gross Coll Merch (1890) II 200 The Foreign Burgesses and the Inn Burgesses Those admitted by the Council or by the Mayor are called Inn Burgesses by Copy of Court Roll 1892 Daily News 21 July 5/4 A curious fight has contributed a further conquest of inin cases to the local hospitals 1793 SMEATON Eddystone I § 161 The out company not to return home till the in company have come out 1760 MACAULAY Hist Eng (1858) I 298 Thinking that if he was admitted an in patient of the hospital, he should be more likely to obtain relief 1893 St George's Hosp Rep IX 691 Four of these were also out-patients of the hospital 1894 Daily News 12 Sept 5/3 It would be very unfair to take the Hospital away from the in-patients

b That is in office or power, as in party (cf quot 1817 in IN a)

a 1860 WHARTON Comm Pol Ph (1874) 172 An out party will generally have more zeal among its member, than in its rivals

c Inside a person, inside the body, internal, as in-evidence, internal evidence, +in-muscle, an internal muscle, in-parts, internal parts of the body (Cf quot 1899 in a) Also INWIT

a 1611 COTGR Diable à ventre The region About the bladder, underneath the inmus cles and the bone a 1699 Lond Chron Hen (1856) 208 His hand shall rip her breast, And search her inparts within Ibid 209 Search the inward parts Dryden Juv xiii 84 The in evidence which is so much poken of as no ingredient of the nature of truth

d In a position within (with reference to the centre, or point of reference), as IN FIELD, INLAND, IN PARISH, IN SHORE e In various other compounds, which see in their places

13 Parasynthetic derivatives from sbs forming adjs, as in backed having the back bent inwards See IN-KNEED, IN-TOED

1833 New Monthly Mag XXXVIII 15 The in backed dyke, Who, had face upward, hews the black stone down

14 With verbs see IN- prefix 1

15 With adverbs and prepositions as IN ABOUT, IN BY, IN DOWN

In, a [IN adv used attrib, or as positive of INNER, INMOST] That is in, that lies, remains, lives, is situated, or is used in or within, internal (In most cases it is more usual to hyphen in to the sb see IN adv 12)

1590 CHAPMAN Hum dour Myrrh Plays 287 I see all their in parts then lit to some presents my dear cunde Fa dawes 1615 CHAPMAN Odyss v 305 Up he rose: put on His in and outward vest 1681 W KIRKMAN Phanaret (ed 1693) 134 You must be by in and home proofs 1693 Acad Instruct 5 Which this but to say we may have one sort of Power to Govern the out Flock and another to guide the in 1707 Comm Journ XVI 489/2 The in party proposed to pass a law [etc] The in party said that such a law was unnecessary 1828 Hist Virginia II 22 I suppose that the out party of the regiment would be disposed to call the in part of the regiment to account 1836 Sporting Mag (1836) IV 364 I would, in the volumes with one drawer turns on the outside and another on the in 1876 MRS WHITNEY Gayworthys v 78 The cast side and the in of things

In, sb [IN adv]

1 pl a In politics The party which is in office (see IN adv 6 c), such in phrase the ins and outs

1764 CHURCHILL Lett (1792) IV exclaims not, I believe, that the ins and the outs are the same thing pitched upon the one and the other 1774 H SWINBURNE in Cath Hereford Corr (1841) I 16 What an epoch for ministers both ins and out! 1823 H SEWARD Shrewsbury Peerage 8 Both the ins and outs 1882 STUBBS Const Hist III 448 The following the ins do the outs denounce, and then the moment the outs come in they denounce in their turn the abuses of the ins, and are abused in their turn, not because they are wrong, but because they are in

b In games The side whose turn it is to play (see IN adv 6 d)

1864 J F CAMPBELL Pop Tales II Highlands IV 37 note, The circle within which the 'ins' stand at the game of rounders 1882 Daily News 4 Sept 2/8 In cricketing language a ball in the rigging or in the air furnishes the fortune of the ins

2 Ins and outs a Windings or turnings in and out, devious or tortuous turns to and fro in travel, a course of action, etc, sinuous manœuvres

a 1670 HACKET Abp Williams I (1692) 152 I follow then Whimsies and their In and Outs at the Consulto when the Prince was among them 1829 MACAULAY Hist in Lardner Cabinet Cyclopædia I 1 The Author has not taken the trouble to learn the ins and outs of the close-hearted manager 1878 R H HUTTON Scott II 27 Keen appreciation of the ins and outs of legal method 1889 BOLDREWOOD Robbery

under Arms xxxii He knew the ins and out of the affair better than any of us

In (in), v Also 5–9 inn, 6–7 inne [The Old inman 'gynman, appear to attach themselves in part directly to the adv inn, IN, partly to be more immediately associated with the derivative, INN sb In mod use we distinguish IN v from INN v in accordance with their sense but the formal distinction fails in the inflected forms inned, inning, and, in ME, even in the present forms inn en inn est, inn eth, inne, in some uses, also it is possible that both notions were present Cf OHG innon, from the adv inna]

1 trans To give or put in (obs), to take in, include, inclose, esp to take in, inclose or reclaim (waste or unprofitable land) Now dial

a 1225 Ancr 130 He hefd geinned hit ær geotend wæ 1287 Inc ssa Hyden Rolls VI 17 Muredus inned Lindum first and Colswulfus died he the same kingdom 1509 Mem Dunferm in Wks 278 The landes inned by dykis vowes in the Isle of Inch 1543 Acts 35 Hen VIII c 9 Wappinge Marshe beyng longe tyme surrounded and over flowen wt water was recovered and inned by the wide Cornelys Wch dyd 1550 Pat 4 Edw VI pt iii Kennet Parochial Antiq (1695) 113 West, and unprofitable Ground Inned Reclaimed and Improved 1640 SOMNER Antiq Canterb 290 Applecore meadows were inned in 1852 Hamilton Inscr Brit 48 Any part of the shores shall be inned, gained, or reclaimed from the water 1875 PARISH Sussex Glossary Inned that piece of land from the common

2 To gather (grain, hay, or other produce) into the barn stack yard, etc, to harvest or house

c 1297 HOVEDEN Cor Abbatum (1596) 440 To bind the Harvest sheaves as we use may Were our seed Inned well we might not plow 1496 Dives & Pauper VII cle W xxiii 87 a Thou shalt gyle and saue all the corne that thou hast 1525 LD BERNERS Froiss II xxii 95 Then he prayed till they had inned all their corne and vynrage 1601 HOLLAND Pliny II 14 They make account to haue it inned (that is) downe, and to inne it 1605 MONTGOMERY Poems (1821) 42 Notwithstanding all we mid and hair 1676 T CRAIG in Hubbard Narrative (1865) II 198 note, To bind the Harvest sheaves of our Borders that our English Corn may be inned in 1743 Lond & Country Brew II 11 Till the Barley is inned we shall be very busy in the Malt-House 1881 Blackw Mag VIII 448 October either tops or mows the stuff 1847 Lects Mark XIV 84 The harvest had inned the corn and threshed it

b To harvest (a field) Now dial

1646 in Picton Liverpool Munic Rec (1884) I 248 From the time of cutting till the towne field be inned

3 To get in, gather in collect (Partly transf from 2)

1615 I S Jehovah's Just in Mr Sparke's Crumbs III 63, The same [manner] is usually used amongst vs in the time of other charges 1855 FLEETWOOD Life Wesley II 8 In the profits of two former years which the knight inned at his own cost 1700 H L Phi Cant Exp Anat the Int I indeed, mind or showed of my sort of Mirth inthem

+4 To take in mentally comprehend rare—1

1603 FLORIO Montaigne III xiii (1632) 610 He hath assuredly understood and inned the very imagination and the true conceit of the Author

+5 intr To go in to enter, in 17th c to make a beginning to begin Obs

[The Old and more widely current reading it has app no historical connexion with the 17th c use

6 [Perh = Icel (h)inna sb 1 (Gothic WS arinon) He [Lucy] rid [with] swithe later on maide ... he wente & wan in he mouth & in[h]ede on dum inn & [Cot on MS: rinde] he wexede sibban in mare inh & swuthe lihe on dum mouthe] 1633 P FLETCHER Purple Isl v 8 The sun the golden Bull outran And with the Twins made haste to inne and pitch 1639 J CLARKE Parœmiol 23 We must diversely, but end alike

†In (in) I The Latin preposition in (with the ablative case, in), (with accusative) into, enter into a number of phrases, chiefly of legal, logical philosophical, or ecclesiastical origin now or formerly current in English of which the chief are given below

In early use the in seems occasionally to have been taken as the English preposition and is thus found printed in roman type, while the rest of the phrase is in italics

1 in ea parte (Cf IN EADEM PARTE 12), holding directly from the crown

[1275 in Act Hundred (1812) 108 Iurati dicunt quod comitas London tenetur una tpite de domino Rege] a 1558 STAN TO Rolls x 176 Ye shall hold your Lands ... in ea parte Lindes whether they be holden of the king in capite or not 1593 SMITH De Rep Ang III 10 Men shall hold of mes in Capite 1767 BLACKSTONE Comm II 61 All tenures bene, thus derived from the king, those that hold immediately under him were called his tenants in capite or in chief

2 in exte nso, at full length

1826 Congress Debates II 11 1767 It might not suit the views of the Government, to give in extenso, the true reasons given to our Ministers 1855 THACKERAY Newcomes II xx 196 The evening papers gave Rowland's address in extenso Mod The speech will be published in extenso

3 in extre mis, in the last agonies at the very point of death

a 1530 R PACE Jest Will Summers in Hist Coll Ser III I 109 Mr Dean of Paules hath [been continually with] him daily in extremis and is not yet dede 1646 EVELYN Diary (1857) I 131 An Irish Friar confessing him and other ceremonies used in extremis 1764 G WILLIAMS in J H Jesse G Selwyn & Contemp (1843) I 321 The Master of the Rolls tumbled out of his chair last Sunday at church, and is, they say, in extremis 1840 Barham Ingol. Leg., Lady Kolosia, His lady was in extremis

4 in forma pau peris, in the form or guise of a poor person (excepted from liability to pay the costs of an action see Palpher 16), hence, in a humble or abject manner

1592 Greene Quip Upst Courtier E 3 b, The poore man that pleads in forma pauperis 1605 Stvvetnam Ifu Courtes in Law Bvd to let Chauncellor, He is compell'd, in forma pauperis, To Plead 1641 Spiritual Courts in Hard Mis. (Stall.) IV 470 Many of them were in forma pauperis 1721 Sittin in Nisi Prius 78 Who have been oppressed so many Years, that we can spare no other way, but in forma pauperis 1883 Harrison's Law Pract. (ed. 3) 490/2 A person admitted to sue in forma pauperis is not entitled to costs from the opposite party, unless by order of the Court or a judge

5 in infini tum, to infinity, without end (C Ad infinitum)

1564 Grindal Two Serm I hap Jer Iunand in kem (1843) 4 And so in infinitum until all years and days be clean past and expired 1574 Hvll Arte of Arte f 1 in 146 Each of these parts is divisible into other corporeal parts lesser and lesser in infinitum 1790 Reid Let to T Gregory Wks 1846 86/1 Diminish the time, in infinitum, and the effect of a centripetal force is diminished in infinitum

6 in li mine, on the threshold, at the very outset

1804 Edin Rev July 297 One objection, in limine, we feel ourselves called upon to make 1809 S Leathes Testim Panther Prosh Writ 7 The supposition of super natural teaching, which is in limine rejected by the critics

7 in lo oo, in place of, esp in loco pare ntis, in the place or position of a parent

1710 Wm Humphrey Liver Impr (1869) III 434 George Jeffrey was then duly elected a Representative in loco Mark Hunkin 1785 Lo Thurlow in W Brown Chancery Cases (1820) I 426 A provision made directly, or as a portion by a parent or person loco parentis 1848 Congress Debates IV 1 1335, I now stand to them, in loco parentis, in the place of a father 1854 Thackeray Virginians I xvii 157, I towards him in loco parentis, because he was as a child to me

8 in me dias re s, into the midst of affairs into the middle of a narrative

1796 Haw Mons Bas Rom 33 But he 1 upon it elsewhere And plunge at once into the subject 1819 Pvblic Pub Trans I vi 1883 Bl Yolandi I xiii 253 For good or ill, she determined to plunge in medias res

9 in memo riam, to the memory of, in memory of Common as the commencement of an epitaph or commemorative inscription Hence, after the title of Tennyson's poem, used as sb = A memorial poem or writing

1850 Tennyson (title) In Memoriam A H H Obit mdcccxxxiii 1893 Daily Nevs 6 1 The in memoriam of a bereavement, a brevity of a sorrowful parent's love

10 in nu bibus, in the clouds, not yet settled or decided, also, incapable of being carried out

1583 Babington Commandm To Genti Glamorg in Both the fee and freehold of the Church is in suspense and in nubibus 1684 S J Cumberland in Cert & Times Jas I (1848) II 506 the French match is still in nubibus, and few or none know yet what to judge of it 1727-38 Pope tr Colbert Cases in Lords Conf (1960) 260 It is wild Occasion great Delay, should the Plaintiff be put to take out a new Writ, whilst the Business is thus in Nubibus 1848 Thackeray Van f Van I Bah', said the other, the concert is a concert in nubibus

11 in pa rtibus (infide lium), in the regions of infidels, in countries inhabited by unbelievers In R C Ch describing a titular bishop in an un civilized or a heretical country see Bishop 1 b

1687 in Ellis Orig Lett Ser III IV 314 The King having recommended Father Philip Ellis, Dr Gifford, and Dr Smith, to be Bishops in partibus 1787 Buckroad Italy (1840) II xiv 73 He is become Archbishop in partibus 1885 Catholic Dict (ed 3) 88/2 Bishops in partibus can attend general councils

12 in perpe tuum, in perpetuity, to all time, for ever

1642 tr Perkins Prof Bk in § 230 If I sells or leases my mes bee devised by Will unto a man and his Assignes, In perpetuum 1807 Edin Rev July 382 We ought not to annex, in perpetuum, to the office of cabinet minister one or two hundred more of those boroughs

13 in pontifica libus, in pontificals, in the proper vestments of a pope, cardinal, archbishop, etc

1494 Fabyan Chron vii 607 The deane and the chanons of Paules with whom also in pontificalibus came the arche by shop of Canterbury 1577-87 Holinshed Chron III 894/2 The cardinall . . sat in pontifica libus vnder his cloth of estate 1679 Luttrell Brief Rel (1857) I 29 At night were seuerall bonefires, and guilt plenty very great one at Temple Barr, where was a pope burnt in pontificalibus 1708 H Wale tr Ammian in Lett 1857 I 30 Ian, He offered to proclaim the Pretender at Charing Cross in pontifi cibus

b Also in his, their, etc pontificalibus see Pontificalibus

14 in pro pria perso na, 'in proper person', in his her etc own person

1654 Gayton Pleas Notes III vii 113 He knight Errant, it he stealie in propria persona, is Uncleindicted for ever 1762-3 Smollett Sir L Greaves xxi (1793) II 86 Believing he was the devil in propria persona 1817 Byron Let to Moore 28 Jan in Moore Lett etc (1830) II 72 Marianna S ., in propria persona . . without a single word seizes her self sister in law by the hair 1828 Layton Feltham III xiii 260 As they have never beheld me before it would very little matter if I went in propria persona

15 in si tu, in its (original) place, in position

1817 Edin Rev Mar 180 Granite and clay slate are those rocks I allude which appear in situ 1844 J Atkinson in Proc Berw Nat Club VI 133 134 We shall find it in situ close by 1894 Nature (N Y) 31 May 405/1 What actually remains in situ is the walls of the foundations

16 in sta tu quo (ante, prius, or nunc), in the same state (as formerly or now)

1602 W Watson Decacordon 174 The seculars are but in statu quo prius, and remain in the same thraldome they are in at this present 1645 Howell Lett (1650) II xlvii 60 In statu quo nunc I am grown useless and good for nothing 1689 Vere tr Hist 1 Gov Eng (1850) IV 223 Matters will never be made in statu quo here 1688 J Tramall in Hatton Corr (Camden) II 98 Things were put in such ques only M Chamock was left out 1717 Lady M W Montage Let to Lady Hervey 17 June, However, my time is still in statu quo 1817 Byron Let to Murray 2 Apr in Moore Lett (1830) II 54 Of course I find the box remitted in statu quo

17 in terro rem, as a warning, in order to terrify or deter others

1681 J Sprat in Cri & Times Jas I (1848) I 213 Most men believe that only it was done in terrorem 1771 Smollett Humph Cl 14 Dr Lewis, 2 June, This place pethaps is too far from being accounted a punishment in terrorem, that it will probably make his fortune 1845 M Pattison Lit (1889) I 18 Exhibited in terrorem to the less ably adlib 1799 Washington Lett Writ 1893 XIV 153 If the augmented force was not intended as an in terrorem measure only, the augmentation is incompatible

18 in to to, as a whole, absolutely, completely, without exception

(a 1639 Wotton Surv. Educ. in Relig (1654) 293 Always Except Prodigious Forms, and meer mutual Impotencies, which are unmanageable in toto (etcetera.) 1798 Washington Lett Writ 1893 XIV 1 5 It was impossible to comply with their request in full, or in toto 1828 Layton Feltham III xi Strorse in Law Rep 7 App Cas 576 But for the indorsement the right of stoppage in transitu would have been well exercised

20 in va cuo, in a vacuum or empty space

1660 Hooke Diary (1856) I 364 Various experiments in vacuo 1726 Cheyne Phil Prin Relig 1 Supposing a body moving, in vacuo 1818 Sir H Davy Chem Philos 138 A wire of platina may be preserved in a state of intense ignition in vacuo

21 In many other phrases e g in abstra cto, in the Abstract (a 5), in arti culo mo rtis, in the article of death (cf Article 2 b), at the point, or in the instant of death, in ba nco, on the bench (see Banco 1 a), in ca mera, in the judge's private room, not in open court (see Camera 1 b), in ca thedra, in the chair of office, in the seat of authority see Cathedra 2, in commi ndam see Commendam 1, in concre to, in the Concrete (a 5), in deli cto, in favour in affection, in depo sito, in deposit (see Deposit sb 2 and Depositum), in de tinue, in doubt, in uncertainty, in drade ramo, in a subtlety, in equili brio, in a see the sb, in ca thedra, in the highest heavens), in the highest degree, in fi eri see Fieri, in flagra nte delicto, in the very act of committing an offence (cf Delict b), in fo lio see Folio 5, in fo ro conscie ntiæ, in the court of conscience (cf Forum 2 b), in fu rno, in a furnace, in ge neral, in general, in the gross, in general, in ma dio, in the middle, in an unsettled state, in pla no, on a plane surface, in po sse, in potentiality, in the condition of being possible see Posse, in pote ntia, in potentiality, in pu nctis see Imprimis, in primci pio, in the beginning the first words of Genesis and St John's Gospel see Principle, in pu ris natura libus, in 'pure naturals' (cf Natural sb), in a purely natural condition, hence stark naked', in re, in reality see Re, in re rum natu ra, in nature, in the physical world, in se cula seculo rum, to the ages of ages, to all eternity, for ever and ever, in spe cie, in specific form, in the precise or identical form see Species, in te nebris, in darkness, in a state of ignorance, or doubt, in te rminis, in express terms, expressly 1596 Estate Eng Fugitives 25 Staff Visitation of sicke men in arti culo mortis 1858 J Benjamin Sales (1884) 409 The only case alluded to hance that has been found on this point 1861 Burton Anat Mel II iii 1 (1676) 177/2 Their cats which they have in delicia 1615 J Chamberlain in Cri & Times Jas I (1848) I 369 The place of Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports hath remained in the lord chamberlains hands as in deposito 1749 Fielding Tom Jones IX xi As his Intention was truly upright, he ought to be excused 'in foro conscientiæ 1605 B Jonson Volpone II v Wks (Reldg) 183 2 When these practitioners come to the last decoction, blow, blow, puff, puff, and all flies 'in fumo 1674 Caxton Christ II i Reading, Of the chesse borde 'in genere how it is made 1609 Holland Amm Marcell Annot xiv xiv, I leave it 'in medio 1884 Law Times LXXVIII 133/2 To keep the property in medio until the rights of the parties were ascertained 1668 Eaylin Chaloger (1676) 98 Solid bodies may seem swelling, and to be embossed 'in plano by art 1810 B Jonson Alch II iii, The egg is a chicken 'in potentia e 1386 Chaucer Prol 254 So pleasant was his 'in principio e 1370 Pride & Lowl (1841) 7 Sure thou were not in prin cipio 1633 Sanderson Serm II 14 Compare thy self and him 'in pura naturalibus, and thou shalt find no differ ence 1584 R Scot Perf Arch xiii v 292 Not as we have said, 'in rerum natura we would not believe it to be 'in rerum natura 1686 J Dunton Lett fr New Eng (1867) 21 Stuff'd with Wonders of my own Invention and such as never were in rerum natura 1593 Peele Edw I Wks (Rldg.) 382/2 To follow my fortune 'in secula seculorum 1668 Dryden Sr Martin I v, But, how she lost it, and how it came upon your finger, I am yet 'in tenebris 1646 Hammond Wks 1674) I 254 It is said of Christ in Scripture 'in tenebris that he was the day spring to give light to them which sat in darkness 1808 Scott Life Dryden in Dryden's Wks I 98 A contradiction in terminis

II. The Latin prep = Latin in, as in the phrases in festo, in petto, for which see the sb

In, obs f Inn, var Hin pron Obs, him

In-, pref[1], the prep and adv In, in combination with verbs, verbal derivatives, and other words In original compound verbs, unaccented in passed in WS into on (cf In prep, General Sense) e g Goth inlukjhan, OHG inluhten, to enlighten, illuminate, Goth inludan, OHG intgudan to set on fire, Goth inwandjan, OHG inwendan to turn, change In such of these verbs as survived in ME, on- was normally reduced to a- But, in late OE, numerous new verbs in in- appeared as glosses or literal renderings of Latin verbs in in-, e g inhibbian = L inflare, inspirare to blow in, inhtgan = L inspirare to sing in, inhdan = I introducere to lead in The formation of these in similar circumstances continued in ME to the close of the 14th c, when numerous examples occur in Wyclif Among the ME examples are inclepe, L invocare to call in, indelve, I infodere to dig in, injelle, L infundere to pour in, inlege, L inflammare to inflame, inwlappen, L involvere to enwrap, inwlive, L inscribere to inscribe Few or none of these verbs have survived into mod English In OE the adv inn, in, was also freely used in collocation with verbs of motion or change of state The position of the adv was with the finite tenses, variable, in the infinitive it generally stood before the vb, and in derived verbal sbs and adjs always so In this position the adv came at length to be written in combination with the vb, e g income n, incoming, income sb, inkvelle n, indwelling, indweller, etc In the infinitive and other verbal forms in- remained movable, and is now regularly placed after the verb, as in come in, go in, call in, lead in, etc, but the derived sbs and adjs which in OE were formed of in- was invariable, have become regular compounds with stress on in-, thus incoming, income, incomer (beside come in), indwelling, indweller (beside dwell in), inlet, insight, intake, etc See In adv II (Cf the parallel case of German verbs with movable prefixes, as eingehen, einwachsen, eingegangen, gehe ein, er ging ein, er ist eingegangen, einwachsend, eingehen, eingehet, etc) There are also various other formations, OL, ME, or modern, in which this prefix occurs, usually with the sense in, within, internal, e g OE inghyd, inghan internal thought, intent, inland demesne land, ME inwit conscience, mod inborn, inside, inward, etc In a few instances prepositional phrases with in- have given rise to attributive combinations, as in college residents, in door occupations

As to the blending of this prefix and In- pref[2] in later use, see at the end of the latter

In-, pref[2], repr L in- adv and prep, used in combination with verbs or their derivatives, less commonly with other parts of speech, with the senses into in, within, on, upon, towards, against', sometimes expressing onward motion or continuance, sometimes intensive, sometimes transitive, and in other cases with little appreciable force

For m history In earlier L, in was generally retained unchanged before all consonants, but in later times it was assimilated to the following consonant, becoming il- before l, im before a labial, ir- before r These changes are retained in Eng e g illade, im-bue, im mit, im pel ir rotate see I-[1], Im I, Ir- In OF, in inherited words, in-, im, became en-, em, but learned words derived or formed from L, esp in later times, regularly retained in-, im- The French words were adopted in Eng in their current form, but from the 14th c onward, there was a growing tendency in words in which the L derivation was evident, to change en-, em- back to L in , im , as in the words of learned origin This was even extended to some words which were not obviously, or not at all of L. origin, including some of those in which en-, em- was, as a living formative, prefixed to radicals of Ob. or other origin (See IN- 1) Conversely, some words directly from L were formed with the French en-, em- Hence, a large number of words occur in the 15th and 16th c with both forms of the prefix, and some have retained both forms to the present day, either with no distinction of sense, as in enclose, inclose, enquare, inquire, or with differentiation of use, as entire, intire The general tendency (though with numerous exceptions) has been to establish in-, im-, in that which, on grounds of etymology or analogy, appears to be the preferable form, obsolete words have been dealt with on the same principles, and cross-references have been given to the form under which each word is treated.

Since IN- 1 and IN- 2 are identical in form, and to a great extent in sense, they come in later use to be felt as one and the same prefix, and it is this resulting prefix which appears in many words of later formation, formed upon native substantives or adjectives, in which in , im , has affinities at once with the prefix en , em-, from French, and with UL. in

In-, pref 1, the I at in , cognate with Gr a-, an-, Com Teut un , prefixed to adjs and their derivatives, rarely to other words, to express negation or privation, as felix happy, infelix unhappy, utilis useful, inutilis useless tocins hurtful, innocins unhurtful, innocent, doctus learned, indoctus unlearned In earlier Latin, in- was used before all consonants, but in later times was restricted to the same assimilations as IN- 2, as in il litteratus illiterate, im-manuus unmeasured, immense ir regularis without rule, irregular, and was besides reduced to i- before gn, as in i gnarus ignorant, i gnoscere not to take cognizance of, to overlook, forgive In a few OE. words, L. in- become en- as in IN- 2; e g inimicus, OF enemi enemy, invidia, OF envie envy, but most French words containing this prefix are of learned formation, and retain L in- (il-, im , ir-) as is the case also in Eng with words derived either through French, or from L direct In Eng in (il , im , ir) is a living negative suffix for words of Latin or Romance origin, freely used even when no corresponding formation appears in Latin, in this use it interchanges to some extent with the OE negative un-, which is used in native or thoroughly naturalized words, e g unanimous unadvised, un , un ceremonious, un , un certain, unun communicative, un-, un-devout, un-, un-distinguishable In such cases the practice in the 16th and 17th c was to prefix the form with un , e g inavoidable, inarguable, inavailable, but the modern tendency is to restrict in to words obviously answering to Latin types, and to prefer un in other cases, as in unavoiding, unexistant, undevout

In-, pref 4, of Lat origin, prefixed to OE and ME adjs, with intensive force In origin akin to IN- pref 1, with the sense 'inly', 'intimately', 'thoroughly', and hence 'exceedingly', 'very' Examples OE indryhten most noble, indfæd very wise, inhold thoroughly loyal, ME inred deep red (On this prefix in the cognate langs , see Heyne 'Das intensive IN', in Germania, new ser III 61)

-in, suffix 1 Chem A modification of the chemical suffix -INE 3, introduced into systematic nomenclature by Hofmann in 1866, used systematically in Watts' Dict Chem in 1866, and subsequently adopted by the Chemical Society, for the names of neutral substances, such as glycerides, glucosides, butter principles, colouring matters, and proteids, which are thus distinguished from names of alkaloids and basic substances in INE Examples, albumin, casein, fibrin, globulin, mucin, myosin, pepsin , cerebrin, chitin, chondrin, gelatin, lecithin , acetin, alizarin, alolin, asbutin, cevotin, cucumin, dextrin, hæmatin, indigotin, inulin, rutin, palmitin purpurin, salicin, ulmin, vanillin Some of these were formerly spelt with -ine, and in that spelling had passed into popular use before the rectification of the nomenclature, esp de strine, gelatine, margarine, which are still commonly so spelt in non-scientific use

1881 Chemical Society, Instructions to Abstractors ¶ 16 Basic substances should invariably be indicated by names ending in -in, as aniline, instead of -ine, the termination -in being restricted to certain neutral compounds, as glycerides, glucosides, butter principles, and proteids, such as palmitin, stearin, albumin

-in, suffix 2, an obs variant of INE 1 in adjs , as feminin, genuin, etc , also an occasional variant of -INE 4 —1 ina, as in ruin

-ina, suffix 1, a Latin feminine suffix found in regina queen, extended in It or Sp, and thence in Eng use, to form feminine titles, as czar-ina (for Russ tsaritsa), and female Christian names, as Alexandr ina, Angel-ina, Christ ina Clement ina, Georg ina, Thomas-ina, Wilhelm ina, etc (Cf INE 4) It occurs also as a formative of some other words, as in concertina, seraphina, etc , names of musical instruments

-ina, suffix 2, in words which are the neuter pl of L adjs in -inus, and in mod L words formed after them, used (in agreement with animalia animals, understood) to form names of groups of animals related to some typical genus, as Bombycina (genus Bombyx), etc

† Inabilitate, ppl a Obs rare—1 [f med L inabilitatus, pple of inabilitare to declare unfit, f inabilis unfit, unable, etc] Declared unfit or unable, disqualified

1577 Hellowes Gueuara's Chron 259 They were in abilitate of the power to commaund or to ayourne

† Inabilite, v Obs rare—1 [ad med L inabilitare (see prec), or a Fr inhabiliter (Oresme, 14th c) cf INHABILITY] trans To declare ineligible (for an office), to disqualify

1432–50 tr Higden (Rolls) VIII 448 Takynge their bene ficis, and inabilitige [some copies very beneficie afters arde

Inability (ināb lĭti) Also 6–7 inhab- [f IN- 3 + ABILITY cf It inabilità, F inhabileté] The condition of being unable, want of ability, physical, mental, or moral, lack of power, capacity, or means

1 Goodly Instead I Envoye, I haue besought my Ladies Sapience Of thy behalfe, to accept in game Hime inabilite 1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1531) 110 Knowynge our owne frayltye & inabylyte to walke or stande by vs selfe vnworthy 1651 tr Life Father Sarpi (1676) 23 The temperament and complexion have a great part in the habilites or inhabilites of men 1658 Phillips Inhability The cause of that dimness and decay, or other inhability in the solid parts 1754 Edwards Freed Will I iv 25 The word Inability has respect to some stated Defect 1843 Carlyle Past & Pr I 1 Instead of noble thrift and plenty, there is idle luxury alternating with mean scarcity and inability

† In adv Bodily inability Obs

1640 in Grant Burgh Sch Scott II xii (1876) 368 In regaurd of his old age and inhabilitie of bodie. a 1834 Lamb Let to Southey in Talfourd Lett (1837) I 202 No good field for dwelling on sickness, and inabilities, and old age

c Const for (to) something, to do, of doing something

1844 Disney Pract Pub Worship 6 Their own inability to set great a Worke 1866 R. Cobb Justice Vind 4 He tells you of childrens inability of judging 1676 South Serm (1697) I 497 Their Inability for, and frequent contrariety to the bringing about such designs 1691 Ibid (1698) III 41 That Infinitely Greater Inability to present Him with any Thing, which they were not first Beholden to Him for 1728 Steele Spect No 417 ¶ 3 Good Nature is only an Inability of observing what is faulty 1805 N Nicholls Let in Corr w Evans (1843) 49 A want of love or general society, indeed an inability to it 1867 Dickens Let to Miss Hogarth 21 Jan (1880) II 272 My distressing inability to sleep at night

† Inable, -ment, obs forms of ENABLE, MENT

Inabridged, -ment = UNABRIDGED, -MENT 1828 Webster Amer Dict Inabridged, that cannot be abridged or reduced

1617 Collins Def Bp Lly Ep Ded 3 Their authoritie is inabrogable

Inabstinence [IN- 3] Want of abstinence, failure to abstain

1667 Milton P L xi 476 What miserie th inabstinence of Eve Shill bring on men 1863 W Lancaster Practicista 77 Man, Ape of all change, whose fierce inabstinence Gulps all allowed

† Inabstracted, ppl a Obs rare [IN- 1] Not abstracted

16 Hookers Eccl Pol VIII i § 5 Names betokening accidents unabstracted [= ir abstracted], do betoken not only those accidents, but also together with them the subjects whereunto they cleave

† Inabusively, adv Obs rare [IN 3] Not abusively, properly

a 1677 Ln North Light in Way Paradise (1682) 91 (T) That infinite wisdom which readeth in the Deity, and which makes power to consist inabusively only there, even its proper sphere

† Inacce ntuated, a rare [IN 4] Accentuated, emphasized

1706 M Davies Athen Brit II 304 The Jacobit Mobs Shrieking and Bawling, one on top of the other with inaccentuated Clamours and Barbarous Hues

Inaccentua tion [IN- 3] Unaccented condition Also fig

1867 C J Smith Syn & Antonyms v Accent, Smooth now Inaccentuation Equidolence 1882 I C Baber in A Cong Sec Suppl Papers I 187 Its every step and movement there was a decision and easiness widely different from the sluggish inaccentuation of the Chinese physique

Inacce ptable, a rare [IN 3] Not acceptable, unacceptable

1878 Lucy Fog 18th C II viii 445 The French made propositions of peace, but they appeared utterly inacceptable

† Inacce sse, a Obs rare [ad L inaccessus unapproached, unapproachable, f in- (IN- 3) + accessus, pa pple of accedere to approach] Unapproachable, inaccessible

1555 Ann Parker in Ellis Ser II xxv 266 My God was rocke as inacesse frume stres e] My trust and confidence

Inaccessibility (ināksĕsibĭlĭti) [f next + ITY Cf F inaccessibilité] (17th c in Hatz-Darm) The quality or condition of being inaccessible, unapproachableness Also fig

1665 Manley Costues Lowe Warres 317 The inaccessibility of the Marshes plighted from their Towne 1798 Pennant Introduction II 73 The partial inaccessibility bestowed on them by nature 1833 Lamp Cycl I 283 The Jungfrau owes its name to its supposed inaccessibility 1843 Mill Logic III xxi § 4 An error emitted for the inaccessibility to observation 1864 Spectator 1401 Should we prove our reliance on his inaccessibility to error?

b (with pl) An inaccessible place

1862 Carlyle Frederick III ix 183–III 154 Going from Stollhofen up into the inaccessibilities

Inaccessible (ināksĕsibl), a [sb] Also 6–7 errors -able [a F inaccessible (14th c in Hatz-Darm), ad late L. inaccessibilis, f in- (IN- 3) + accessibilis ACCESSIBLE]

1 That cannot be reached entered, or got to, that cannot be sealed or punctrated

1555 Eden Decades 55 The south parties inaccessible by reason of great heate 1603 Knolles Hist Turks (1621) 281 The desperat danger in climbing the inaccessible mount in 1616 Shaks Temp I ii 37 Uninhabitable and almost inaccessible 1728 Lady M W Montagu Lett Aug 1716 Onely the harbour [is] inaccessible three or six months in the year 1846 Grote Greece I xxiv (1862) II 431 Its inaccessible and defensible character 1879 H 265 The savage hero was not inaccessible to pity 1896 Manch Guardian 19 Always inaccessible to any suitor

† 3 (tr or from or) 'Not to be touched, resistless, invincible' Obs

c 1611 Chapman Iliad I 550 Curb your tongue in time, lest all the touls Too few be and too weak to help the puissant inaccessive, When my inaccessible hands shall fall in thee

B sb That which is inaccessible rare

1812 Keatinge Lithia Lidonnian Local, Victorial, and Military, for Inaccessibles

Inacce ssibleness. [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being inaccessible Inaccessibility

1612–15 Br Hall Contempt , O T xii viii Them that trusted to the inaccessibleness of the place 1627 H Burton Baiting of Popes Bull Epis Ded 3 Whose case but one the more desperate though the inaccessibleness of interces sion 1796 Scots Mag Sept 568 Though their inaccessibleness are crimes in a servant of the public 1844 J Mirehouse Serm 11 The inaccessibleness of every thought but that we are in a wonderful

Inacce ssibly, adv [f as prec + LY 2] In an inaccessible manner or degree, unapproachably

1708 Brit Apollo No 82 2/1 God is Inaccessibly Glorious a 1785 Gower Athanasia xxi Poems (1810) 132 Proud ships unmoor'd are safely moor'd, Inaccessibly chamber'd held the queen Sequester'd, incessually immur'd 1826 Sheffield Hotspur 93 O stern! Whose source is inaccessibly profound

† Inacce ssional, a Obs rare [IN- 3] Unapproachable

1654–66 Lo Orrery Parthen 97 A Lady, who possest the several Beauties of shape, stature, complexion, and features in so inaccessional a degree Ibid 117 To raise your insolence to an inaccessional height

† Inaccidentate, v Obs [f IN- 2 + ACCIDENT sb (sense 6) + -ATE 3] trans To unite with the 'accidents' (in reference to transubstantiation)

1579 Fulke Heskins' Parl 257 He (Christ) is neither impanted nor inunnated nor inaccidentated

† Inaccie mmodate, a Obs rare [f IN- 3 + ACCOMMODATE ppl a] Not suited, unsuited

1657 Tomlinson Renou's Disp 697 Some things he dis allowed of as inaccommodate

Inaccordance [IN- 3] = next

1822–34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) I 61 Another cause of irregularity is an inaccordance of time, or manner

Inacco rdancy. [IN 3] The quality of being inaccordant, want of agreement or harmony 1822–34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) I 293 The contractile power of the one follows instead of keeping pace with the contractile power of the other ; evinces some other mode of inaccordancy Ibid IV 102 An incongruity, an inaccordancy, or want of adaptation in the constituent principles

Inacco rdant, a [IN 1] Not accordant, not in agreement or harmony, inharmonious
Hence Inacco rdantly adv
1822–34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) II 401 [They] belong to the same genus in botany however much and in what they appear to the eye of an ordinary spectator Ibid III 327 Violent motions sometimes separately and sometimes spasmodically, but inaccordantly as to the number of throbs in a given time Ibid IV 373 An organ, whose common function is so inaccordant with such a production 1851 Beddoes Poems Mem 19 This unbeautiful, scentless of partial but inaccordant beauty is among the surest tests of the true artistic mind

Inaccou ntable, a rare ? Obs [IN-3] Not to be reasonably accounted for, unaccountable 1684 J Beaut Th Earth 16 In so unique thing as yours are to be understood only and those of his fellow patriarchs in other would be an inaccountable fiction

Inaccuracy (inæ kiúrăsi [I next sce ACY, and cf accuracy] The quality or condition of being inaccurate, want of accuracy, exactness, or precision, with an and pl An instance of this, an inaccurate statement 1757 Sumner in Ellis Orig Lett Ser II IV 400 An inaccuracy with regard to one of the great privileges of the House had been suffered to slip 1772 Junius Lett lxxiii 343 An appearance of inaccuracy in the use of terms 1884 L Wright Eng Grammar (ed 3) I 249 Some examples of inaccuracy, in the use of the verb with its nominative case 1883 A Roberts Q Anne xi 218 The historical inaccuracies which the book contains

Inaccurate (inæ kiúrĕt), a [f IN-3 + ACCURATE] Not accurate, inexact, incorrect, erroneous 1738 Warburton Dem Legat II vi Wks 1811 II 301 Men going into Antiquity under the impression of modern ideas must needs form very inaccurate judgments of what they find 1775 S Hazlewell Answer App to Pref (1800) 5 n 6, I stand in shame in many instances, the effect of my thyme as coming next after that by Caxton 1875 Jowett Plato III 620 Inaccurate modes of express ion
Hence Ina ccurateness, inaccuracy
1873 Worsley Iamblich Myst Assyr II 664 Hence the numerous inaccuratenesses

Ina ccurately, adv [IN 3] In an inaccurate manner, not accurately, incorrectly 1665 J Evelyn in Regnd Corr Sir Mem (1840) II 38 These appearances, which I had not inaccurately calculated 1794 Nicholson Lavoisier II 316 Phenomena inaccurately observed very often, and drawn very fanciful conclusions 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) III 442 Quoting or alluding to Homer inaccurately

Inacquaintance (inăkwē ntăns) [IN-3] The being unacquainted, want of acquaintance 1607 Markham Cavel III (1617) 67 The very magnum that otherewhile will make him tyre euen in his best strength 1779–84 Johnson Lives Poets IV 290 Jod) An magnum knot with the principle of gravitation 1879 Geo Eliot Theo Such 56 He took his inacquaintance with doctrines for a creative ob solution

Inacquie scent, a [IN-1] Not acquiescent 1818 Scott Hrt Mid xxx, In the same duly inquiescent tone of voice and manner

So † Inacquie scency, want of acquiescence 1647 Sedgwick Anglers Rel 1 (1658) 6 From an inquiescency and dissatisfaction with the success of the present

Inact (inæ kt) pl [I IN-3 + ACT 7] †1 trans To bring into activity, to actuate 1647 H More Philosoph Poems 318 note, The Mundane spirit inacted by Psyche 1660 — Myst Godl III 14 He is inacted by the envy Devil in the Kingdome of Christ 1668 Glanvill Lux Orient xiv 145 The soul was united with the most subtile and ethereal matter that it could inact

2 intr To act in or within one 1830 Powers Mag I 513 The principle is the all in all, presides all, inacts in all

Inact, v ², obs form of Enact

Inaction (inæ kshən) [f IN-3 + ACTION th of inactive (1690 in Hatz-Darm)] Absence of action or activity, inertness, supineness 1709 Steele in Hugh & Gard 63 In Winter, the Trees are in a state of Inaction 1796 Burke Let to Hd Auckland Wks 1842 II 393 That your lordship should meet your friends with some settled plan either of action or inaction 1861 Stanley Past Ch I (1869) 35 In regard to missions the inaction of the Church is well known 1868 [see Inactivity b] 1874 Green Short Hist viii § 2 190 The revelation of a danger at home shook him out of his contemptuous inaction
Hence Ina ctionist, one who advocates inaction, a member of a party of inaction 1892 Temple Bar Mag May 50 It is his schemes for the reconstruction of society that most rouse the gall of the great inactionist who fumes at interference

Inactive (inæ ktiv), a [f IN-3 + ACTIVE cf F inactif (1771 in Hatz-Darm)] Not active, characterized by absence of action or activity, not disposed to act, inert, indolent, sluggish, passive, quiescent 1725 Pope Odyss View Epic Poem § 3 Led away by the seeming Charms of an idle and inactive life 1789 W Belsham Dom Mod (1790) 85 The inactive are continually consuming of pains of the stomach 1818 Cruise Digest (ed 2) III 231 The title to a barony, which has descended upon, and is vested in coheirs, remains in them in an inactive and dormant state 1837 Whewell Hist Indust Sc (1857) I 159 This Alexandrian period, so inactive and barren 1838 Thirlwall Greece xxxi III 207 The Spartans were not entirely inactive this summer 1866 Oblong Anim Chem 155 A conventer of inactive or free, into active or combined oxygen 1883 Manch Exam 13 Dec 4/2 The money market to day was very inactive
No Ina ctiveness, inactivity
1698 C Hatton in Coll Curr (Camden) I 164 Complaining to ye King of ye wickedness of ye King's bench, by reason of ye inactiveness of ye Ch Justice

Inactively, adv [IN-3 + -LY 2] In an inactive manner, inertly, sluggishly 1730–6 in Bailey (folio) 1755 in Johnson [J quotes Locke Of Use § 1, 5, 'whether he inactively loiters it away', but in all edd examined the word is 'inactively'] 1837 Hallam Hist Lit III ii § 6 His pope was not inactively occupied in the great cause of subduing the Protestant heresy 1896 Bancroft Hist U S xiii V 22 The Continental Congress waited inactively for his appeals.

Inactivity (inæktĭ vĭti) [IN-3 + Cf F inactie (1790 in Hatz-Darm)] The quality or condition of being inactive, want of activity, inertness, sluggishness, passiveness, quiescence 1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep I v 18 By a temperamentall inactivity we are unready to put in execution the suggestions of the motives of reason 1723 Pope Let xxxvi (1735) I 326 Pope Benton died at Fishamstreet, of Indolence and Inactivity 1738 Swift To Dr King Virtue consists of action, our lives, its inactivity at best 1830 Bailey & Tarleton Mech iii 13 The term inactivity implying the absence of all force
b Phrase Masterly inactivity
1852 Disraeli Lord Gallio i (1857) 44 The Commons, fruitful to their system, remained in a wise and masterly inactivity, which tacitly reproached the ardent assumptions of the Nobles 1874 Calhoun Will & Work (1874) V 141 If the Government should be taught that the highest wisdom of a state is wise and masterly inactivity, an invaluable blessing will be conferred 1898 — Sp Oregon Quest ibid IV 286, I venture to say a wise and masterly inactivity, in the spite of the attempt to cast ridicule upon the expression 1900 Lecky Map Life Ess I 31 [in Hatz-Darm] Daily Tel Supp 7/2 The much sneered at policy of masterly inaction

Ina ctor, obs form of Inactor

1614 Raleigh Hist World iii xv § 1 Chosen Governours of the State, and inactors of Solons Lawe

Inactuate (inæ ktiuĕt, v. anch [f IN-2 + ACTUATE] trans To make active, put in action, stir into activity 1651 H More Second Lash in Enthus Tri (1656) 179 How magnificent a state is the soul of man in, when the life of God is inactuating her 1653 — Antid Atheism (1655) through Heaven and Earth 1654 H More in R Ward Life More (1710) 92 Those (Souls) do very highly and vigorously inactuate the latter which fits to their Use for their Vehicles 1662 Glanvill Lux Orient xiv 160 The plastick in them is too highly awakened, to inactuate only an animal body [1881 Swinburne Y Inglesant (1883) I xvii 320]
Hence Inactua tion, a bringing into activity, the condition of activity 1662 Glanvill Lux Orient xiv 158 That they should be inconsistent in the supremest exercise and inactuation, is to me no probable Ibid xiv 145 They (the creatures) were then constituted the actuation and exercise of their noblest and most perfect powers

Inadaptability (inădæptăbĭ liti) [IN-3] Want of adaptability, incapacity for adaptation 1850 Tait's Mag XVII 161 The inevitability of the soul
1881 Macm Mag XLIV 117 An inadaptability to their social environments

Inadaptable, a rare [IN-1] That cannot be adapted, incapable of adaptation
In mod Dicts

Inadaptation (inădæptā shən) [IN 3] Want of adaptation, the condition of not being adapted
1850 Tait's Mag XVII 161 The inevitability of the soul
1881 Macm Mag XLIV 117 An inadaptability to their social environments

Inadaptable, a rare [IN-1] That cannot be adapted, incapable of adaptation
In mod Dicts

Inadaptation (inădæptā shən) [IN 3] Want of adaptation, the condition of not being adapted
1850 Hunt & Clarke Eng Dict

Inadaptive, a [IN-3] Not adaptive 1886 Athenæum 9 Oct 471/1 Among extinct ungulates there are two types of foot structure—one adaptive, such as is seen to-day, and one inadaptive

Inadept, a rare. [IN 1] Not adept 1875 H S Cunningham Chron Bustopha (1877) 167 Is this the race which proclaims itself inadept at amusements, and which has to take its very pleasures sadly

Inadequacy (inæ dĭkwăsi) [f next, after adequacy] The condition or quality of being inadequate, insufficiency 1787 Bonnycastle Astron xi 224 The inadequacy of his natural powers 1818 Scott Rob Roy xxvii, My own inadequacy to sustain the task of a dis embler 1834 Pringle Afr Sk iii 270 The inadequacy of the income for the support of a family 1879 Lecky Europ Morals I 2 Inadequacy to some unforeseen position

Inadequate (inæ dĭkwĕt), a [IN-1] Not adequate, not equal to requirement, insufficient 1693 Boyle Reconcilableness Reason & Relig i, We can have but inadequate conceptions of them 1690 Locke Hum Und II xxxi (1695) 207 Inadequate Ideas are such, which are but a partial and incomplete representation of those Archetypes to which they are referred 1792 Anacd Lit Pitt II xxii 49 There had been a bargain, but the terms were inadequate 1824 Neo Smith Wks (1867) II 132 It is astonishing what unworthy and inadequate notions men are apt to form of the Christian faith 1880 C R Markham Peerage Bards xiii 114 He would then have received some, though probably very inadequate, remuneration
b Const to, and with infin
1751 Johnson Rambler No 126 ¶ 6 We must conclude ourselves safe when we see no danger, or none inadequate to our powers of opposition 1788 Gibbon Decl & F xl (1869) II 476 His revenues were found inadequate to his expences 1874 Green Short Hist VI § 5 318 The ordinary resource of the Crown were inadequate to meet the expenses of war

Ina dequately, adv [f prec + -LY 2] In an inadequate manner or degree, insufficiently 1692 Boyle (J), Those powers they may either exactly fill, or but inadequately 1758 Butler Analog II v 284 Rt 1 244 Signs often can be no more than inadequately expressive of the things signified 1843 Penny Cyc XIV 129/1 Fuel He was very inadequately provided with supplies

Ina dequateness. [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being inadequate, inadequacy 1681 Trapp Meth Grace 161 This comes to pass from the inadequateness of the creature to the nobler and more excellent soul of man 1796 Hist in Ann Reg 66 The inadequateness of the successes obtained 1873 M Arnold Lit & Dogma (1876) 60 This inadequateness of our speech

Inadequation (inædĭkwē shən) arch [IN 3] Want of equivalence or exact correspondence 1630 J Craven Serm (16.1) 29 Man cannot [know the secrets] of another's heart, nor those of his own but with inadequation to the truth 1676 Marvell Mr Smirke 31 The difference arising only from the Inadequation of Languages 1830 De Quincey Rhetoric Wks VIII 109 The continual inadequation (to use a logical term) of Greek to modern terms

Ina dequative, a [f IN-3 + ADEQUATIVE] Nothaving exact equivalence, not of equal extension or comprehension Hence Ina dequatively adv
1862 F Hall Hindu Philos 332 note 120 A characterization of Akâśa will serve to show how inadequatively it is represented by either

Inadherent (inădhĭ·rĕnt), a [IN-3] Not adherent, not attached 1859 in Mayne Expos Lex 1886 in Spec Lex Fr

Inadhesion (inădhī ʒən) [IN-1] The fact of not adhesion 1796 Kirwan Elem Min ed 2 I 198 Its colour, inadhesion to the tongue and fingers Ibid 199

Inadhesive (inădhī sĭv), a [IN-3] Not adhesive, without the property of sticking 1811 Pinkerton Petral II 474 Composed only of lapilli, pumice, and other substances of an inadhesive quality 1832 Babbage Econ Manuf xi (ed 3) 279 Two pieces of ink immutually inadhesive 1879 J Young Steam Art 22 Giving by the help of water a certain consistency to the inadhesive sand

Inadmissibi lity. [f next + ITY cf F in admissibilité (1835 in Hatz-Darm)] The quality or fact of being inadmissible 1802–12 Bentham Ration Judic Evid (1827) IV 417 Whether through inadmissibility or through insufficiency [of the evidence] 1881 Fonblanque Lect Paint iv 128 440 The admissability and inadmissibility of Allegory in poems of supposed reality 1881 Westcott & Hort Introd N T 299 The proved inadmissability of the third supposition

Inadmissible (inădmi sĭbl), a [IN-3 Cf F inadmissible (1475 in Hatz-Darm)] Not admissible, not to be admitted, entertained, or allowed 1776 Burney Hist Mus I 116 Who contemn whatever theory suggests as impossible or inadmissible in practice 1786 I Jefferson Writ (1859) I 557 To leave her in possession of our posts, seems inadmissible 1850 Macaulay Hist Eng xxiii V 136 It was inadmissible that upon himself was altogether inadmissible 1866 Allbutt Syst Med I 402 Tea, coffee, and alcohol are inadmissible † Inadmissible, a Obs rare—[ad L inadmissibilis f in- (IN-3) + admissibilis ADMISSIBLE] Not to be flattered.
1623 in Cockeram 1656 in Blount Glossogr
† Inadu literate, a Obs rare—[f IN- + ADULTERATE ppl a] Unadulterated 1648 Herrick Hesper, Cruel Maid 10 marg Induct that inadulterate same Streame to the spring from whence it came

† Inadva ntage. Obs rare—[IN-3] Disadvantage
1689 Def Liberty against Tyrants 55 They which dye in that War seem to have this inadvantage

Inadventurous (inădve ntūrəs), a [IN-1] Not adventurous, unenterprising Hence Inadve ntu rousness
1853 C Bronte Villette viii, Inadventurous, unstirred by impulses of practical ambition 1867 C J Smith Syn & Antonyms v Adventurous, Enterprising, Inadventurous Ibid s.v Audacity, Diffidence, Inadventurousness

Inadvertence (inădvē tĕns [ad Schol I inadvertentia sic next and -ENCE cf OF inavertance (Oresme, 14th c.), inadvertance] The fact or habit of being inadvertent, want of advertence, failure to observe or pay attention, inattention, also = Inadvertency 1568 in Row Hist Kirk (Wodrow Soc) 36 He who slayes any upon suddentie and inadvertence 1669 Clarendon Ess in Tracts (1727) 100 Inconstance, inadvertence, not thinking at all, not considering anything, which is degrading ourselves by renouncing the faculties of a reasonable soul 1786 Burke W Hastings Wks 1842 II 184 The said letter was, through inadvertence, laid before the board 1872 J G Mcbride Comm Law v 18 The offences are invariably acts of inadvertence 1875 Poste Gaius I Introd (ed 2) 14 Inadvertence to the consequences of commission may be called heedlessness
b with an and pl An instance of this, an act or fault of inattention, an oversight

1725 WATTS Improv. Mind II. iii. § 3 Such an Inadvertence or Mistake will expose you to great Error in Judgment 1876 MISS BRADDON Dead Men's Shoes I. i. 6 Marriage is one of those inadvertences which can hardly go for nothing even in the easiest life 1878 MORLEY Diderot I. xv. 257 The mind broods over some pressing inadvertence or fancied neglect till it assumes gigantic dimensions

Inadvertency (ĭnădvē·ătănsĭ) [ad. Schol. inadvertentia, f. IN- (IN- 3) + advertentia ADVERTENCY.] The quality or character of being inadvertent, heedlessness, also = INADVERTENCE.

1598 Q. ELIZ. in Ld. Campbell Chancellors (1857) II. xlvi. 302 If any person shall of the Empyrour through a foolish rashness or inadvertency, it is to be disposed 1647 CLARENDON Contempt. Pr. in Tracts (1727) 260 If through inadvertency or unskilfulness they have not taken notice 1735 JOHNSON Dict. Pref. ad fin., Sudden fits of inadvertency will surprize vigilance 1858 THIRLWALL Greece VI. II. 48 Defects which might creep in through error and inadvertency

b with an and pl. = prec. b

1665 CLARENDON Hist. Reb. II. § 4 It was a fatal inadvertency that these Canons were never seen by the Assembly 1748 RICHARDSON Clarissa (1811) IV. xxxv. 220 Forgive my inadvertencies! 1866 Q. Mauive Comm. Exod. VII. 6 Grave inadvertencies into which they are betrayed

Inadvertent (ĭnădvē·ătĕnt), a. [f. IN- 1 + ADVERTENT.]

1. Of persons, their dispositions, etc. Not properly attentive or observant, inattentive, negligent, heedless. In quot. 1653, Not having the faculty of observation

1653 H. MORE Antid. Ath. III. v. § 3 53 The effects of an inadvertent form Λογος ἐνδιαθετος of materiated or incorporated art or semenal reason 1681-6 J. SCOTT Chr. Life (1747) III. viii. 89 If we are not wilfully dead and inadvertent to it 1694 KETTLEWELL Comp. Penitent 174 Whose unconstant temper is supine and inadvertent 1718 Freethinker No. 21 P 5 A Volume is thrown away upon the Inadvertent 1863 J. C. MURPHY Comm. Gen. i. 3 Inadvertent critics object to God being described as speaking, or performing any other act that is proper only to the human frame

2. Of actions, etc. Characterized by want of attention or taking care, hence, unintentional

1724 SWIFT Ad. to a Grand Jury Wks. 1765 III. 81 If such a writer should in one or two places happen to let fall an inadvertent expression 1784 COWPER Task VI. 564 An inadvertent step may crush the snail, that crawls at evening in the public path 1870 TOWELL Study Wind. 2 Another secret charm of this book is inadvertent humor

Hence Inadvertently, adv. Hailey vol. II, 1727

Inadvertently, adv. [f. prec. + -LY 2.] In an inadvertent manner, without due attention or thought, inattentively, heedlessly, carelessly, hence, unintentionally

1678 CUDWORTH Intell. Syst. I. v. 747 They inadvertently give their assent to those Words as a Wrong one 1796 BURKE Whig. & R. IV. xvii. If, after descending a flight of stairs, we attempt inadvertently to take another step in the manner of the former ones, the shock is extremely rude and disagreeable 1803 WELLINGTON Let. to Col. Collins in Gurw. Desp. (1837) II. 140, I cannot approve of the expression inadvertently used in Colonel Collins's letter 1866 I. MACDONALD Ann. Q. Aquaforte VI. (1878) 214, I have already inadvertently broken my promise

†Inadvertting, a. Obs. rare, [f. IN- 1 + advertent, pres. pple of ADVERT v.] Inadvertent Hence †Inadvertingly adv., inadvertently

1658 Liturgy Oran. viii. § 26 315 The virtue God has put there can never be drawn out by drowsy inadvertting readers. 1715 M. DAVIS Hebon Bird I. Vy 10 b, Dr. Mills inadvertingly gives some handle to the Arians.

†Inadvertisement. Obs. rare. [f. IN- 1 + ADVERTISEMENT 1.] Want of attention or observation, inadvertence

1682 SIR J. BROWNE Char. Mor. iii. § 10 Forget not how contusedly into any thing innovates the passion from it's how constant objects loose their hints, and steal an mad inadvertisement upon us

†Inadvertist. Obs. rare. [f. IN- 1 + advertist from ADVERTISE v. 1-3.] One who habitually fails to take notice, an inadvertent person

1679 HARRY Key Script. 20 The inedulity of sleepy Inadvertists that mind nothing

Inadvisable (ĭnădvē·zăbĭl), a. rare [IN- 1] Not advisable, unadvisable

1870 Daily News 21 Feb., That it was inadvisable at the present time to add the Valuation 1896 Allbutt's Syst. Med. I. 402 Sugar is inadvisable

Hence Inadvisabl ity, unadvisableness

1864 R. A. ARNOLD Cotton Famn 429 The unadvisability of issuing the rate of bills at any higher 1882 T. A. GOTTON, Inc. Verst. VII. (ed. 19) 153 He saw the inadvisability of mingling with the crowd

Inadvisedly (ĭnădvē·zĕdlĭ), adv. rare [IN- 1] Unadvisedly. So Inadvi sedness

1652 HOWELL Giraffe's Acc. Naples II. 103 The Duke of Guise was much taxed of inadvisedness to leave the City 1881 KATTENELLE Chr. Obed. (1715) 561 They, who so severe ever sin wilfully at all are wont most frequently through indebite and inadvisedness to miscarry 1894 Athenæum 17 Nov. 671/1 She has entered upon the task somewhat inadvisedly

-ine, suf.[1], in words which are the fem. pl. of L. adjs. in -inus, and in mod. L. words formed on this pattern, used (in agreement with bestiæ beasts, understood) to form names of sub-families of animals, as Canina (L. caninus canine), Felina (L. felinus feline)

Inaccu-: see INACCU-

Inæsthetic (ĭnĭsθe·tĭk), a. [IN- 1] Not æsthetic, void of æsthetic perception or taste

1846 LORD Gather fr. Spain 18 The Oriental inæsthetic unconsciousness for things 1877 MAY LAFFAN How Miss Forward III. iii. 101 We are all utterly ignorant and inæsthetic

†Ina fiable, a. Obs [IN- 1] Not affiable Hence †Inaffabi lity, want of affability 1612 ELOIAN, Inaffability, discontent, inaffabilitie 1656 BLOUNT Glossogr., Inaffable, not affable, disourteous 1665 S. CLARKE Disc. Coming 17 He is mistiked for his inaffability.

Inaffecta tion. rare—[IN- 1] Freedom from affectation, unaffectedness

1658 PHILLIPS, Inaffectation, carelessness, freeness from vain glory

†Inaffe cted, ppl. a. Obs. rare. [IN- 2 = UNAFFECTED.] Hence †Inaffe ctedly adv., †Inaffe ctedness, the quality of being unaffected or not touched in the feelings

1617 MINSHEU Ductor, Inaffected, vt unaffected 1623 COCKERAM, Inaffectedly, done carelesly 1648 Petit Exercise 128 Our apprehension of your inaffectedness with the e our publike miseries

†Inaffe ction Obs. rare.—[IN- 1 + AFFECTION 1.] Want of power to affect or move 1736 GILL Expos. Spir. iv. 5, In the first Delivery of Poetical Numbers, parts nearly where the Sentiments are pathetick, it is verie credible upon how minute an Article of Sound depends their greatest Beauty or Inaffection

†Inaffe ctionate, a. Obs. rare. In 6 ineffect. [f. IN- 3 + AFFECTIONATE a. 2.] Unbiased, unprejudiced

1558 KENNEDY Compend. Tractive 94, I appele the consciens of the indifferent & godly reders diligentlie to consulder [etc.] 1563 Answering Counterpoll 3 Anno 2nde (Jam.) As the inefficionat reader may clerly perceue

Inage, var. INAGE Obs.

Inaggre ssive, a. rare [IN- 3] Not aggressive, unaggressive

1876 W. B. HAWKS Syrian Homes xiv. 345 The strong individuality and the unaggressive nature of the early cults Inagre ssive, a. Obs. rare—[IN- 1] Not agressive, or accordant to

1657 TOMLINSON Renou's Disp. 49 That is most averse from and unagreeable to our nature

†Inai dable, a. rare—[IN- 3] That cannot be aided or assisted, helpless

1601 SHAKS. All's Well II. i. 122 The congreeted Collelie have concluded, That labouring Art can never ransome nature from her inaidable estate

I-nailed, ppl. a. pple of NAIL v.

†Inai·red, ppl. a. Obs. rare—[? f. IN- 1 (or ? IN- 3) + AIR sb. + -ED.] Suspended in the air (or ? deprived of vital air)

1666 WARNER Ub. Fug. ix. 266 Natures Mynion (Mankind) Eye, Ayre, Water, and now in ayred Earth, (for, longing, Looks trailes speare had vented vitall breath)

Inais ceity rare [IN- 1] Want of alacrity

1713 W. COLE Diary of Ang. Antiquary (1856) 108 Often are accidental from insensibility, lazy from inalacrity 1855 Chamb. Journ. IV. 219 Owing to my unhappy inalacrity in dismounting

Inalbu minate, a. rare [IN- 1] Not furnished with albumen, exalbuminous 1886 Syd. Soc. Lex., Inalbuminate, applied to a plant embryo that is destitute of albumen, as in the Palm.

In ienabi lity. [f. next + -ITY.] = Inalienability (1722 in HATT.-DARN.) The quality of being inalienable, incapability of alienation

1775 DE TOLME Eng. Const. II. x. (1784) 105 This inalienability of the executive power 1855 MERIVALE Rom. Emp. VII. (1866) IX. 10 This property, instead of standing secure in its theoretic inalienability, was in constant fluctuation 1885 Law Times Rep. LIII. 703/1 The present generation has seen a momentous change in the theory of inalienability

Inalienable (ĭnē·lĭənăb'l) a. [f. IN- 1 + ALIENABLE.] = inalienable (1708 in HATT.-DARN.) Not alienable, that cannot be alienated or transferred from its present ownership or relation 1645 HOWELL Lett. I. xiv. 16 Their youth shall be t always with their lust, and lose shall be satisfied without one whole piece of land in them 1777 Phil. Trans. Hist. Amer. (1810) II. VI. 48 Inalienable pieces, states of royalty 1892-12 COURTNEY Poems (1893) 130 The right of the individual to retain those natural independencies is absolutely inalienable 1884 Law Rep. 27 Ch. Div. 163 This portion has been opposed on the ground of the inalienable character of alimony

Hence Ina lienably adv., Ina lienableness

1727 BAILEY vol. II, Inalienableness, incapableness of being alienated, or transferred to another by Law 1769 ROBERTSON Chas. V. I. 170 (Scager) Some of the highest offices in the empire have been annexed to them inalienably 1868 STANLEY Westm. Abb. x. 488 The ceremony of the coronation has been inalienably attached to the Abbey 1885 Law Times Rep. LIII. 728/1 A married woman takes an interest under a settlement, vested in her inalienably

Inalime ntal, a. rare [IN- 3] Not alimental, not affording nourishment

1826 BACON Sylva § 649 The Making of Things Inalimental, to become Alimental, may be an Experiment of great Profit, for Making new Victuall 1658 in BLOUNT Glossogr. 1755 in JOHNSON 1886 Syd. Soc. Lex., Inalimental, not capable of affording nourishment

Inalterable (ĭnō·ltərăb'l), a. [IN- 1] Not alterable, not subject to alteration or change, unchangable, immutable, unalterable

1545 R. CROWLEY Aduyse Scripture 213 The imputable and inalterable thynges to be the fyrste elementes 1555 BONNER Necess. Doctr. 69 For the Godhed is inalterable and impassible 1653 GATAKER Comm. Heb. xi. 2 The sentence it the Iust iudgement will be inalterable 1876 LOWELL Among my Books Ser. II. Dryden 221 He was to make much better, by opening to them the sources of an inalterable well-being. 1879 G. MEREDITH Egoist I. xxvii. 317

Hence Inalterabl ity, much ungrokkableness, Inalterably adv., immutably

1631 GOUGE God's Arrows III. § 36. 344 All wise, inalterably resolved utterly to destroy Amalek 1714 DUNHAM Intro. Theol. (1716) 25 note, Contrary to the received Opinion then, of the Heavens immutability 1856 W. A. MUTCH Elem. Chem. § 564 Iv. m. its lightness and matter ability in the air alternately has been applied to the preparation of standard weights 1878 W. T. HUNTER in Academy 15 Oct. 365/1 Hopelessly and inalterably poor

Inam, variant of INAME Obs.

Inambi tious, a. rare [IN- 1] Not ambitious

1729 I. COOKE Tale. Tropic etc. 90 Contented he enjoys what Nature yields, And inambitious plows his native fields

† Ina mbulate, v. Obs. rare—[f. ppl. stem of L. inambulare, f. IN- 2 + ambulare to walk] See quot. Hence † Inambula tion

1656 BLOUNT Glossogr., Inambulate, to walk up and down in a place. 1658 PHILLIPS, Inambulation, a walking from place to place

I-named, Ms. pa. pple. of NAME v.

Inamel·l, enamll, obs. forms of INAMEL

† Ina miable, a. Obs. rare—[IN- 1] Not amiable, unamiable Hence † Ina miableness

1623 COCKERAM, Inamiable, unpleasant, not to be loued 1727 BAILEY vol. II, Inamiableness 1818 in TODD, whence in mod. DICTS.

† Ina micable, a. Obs. rare—[IN- 3] Not amicable, unfriendly, hostile

1683 TRYON Way to Health 257 In this season, which is inimicable to the pious Spirits of all mankind

Inamissible (ĭnămi·sĭbl), a. Now rare [IN- 1 + LL. amissibilis (1617 in HATT.-DARN.)] Not liable to be lost

1649 JER. TAYLOR Gt. Exemp. III. xv. 8 As this is irremediable and irrecoverable, so is the other inamissible 1661 GRANVILLE Lux Orient VIII. (1682) 68 Had we been so but in an inamissible happiness 1727 EPHRAIM Sixth Check Wks. 1743 III. 87 How can you suffer, that the life of Faith is inamissible? 1829 I. TAYLOR Enthus. II. 1867) 14 The Scriptures declare that virtue will be inamissible in heaven 1886 STUART A. MOORE Hist. Church of Engl. I. § 123 287 With man it is a moral cognizant of itself in an amissible identity, with itself

Hence Inamissibi lity, Inami ssibleness, the quality of being inamissible

1727 BAILEY vol. II, Inamissibleness, unpableness of being lost 1742 in Bonnell's Introd. Prof. Ch. (1829) I. 257 The dogma called inamissibility of grace 1861 W. CUNNINGHAM Hist. Theol. (1864) II. xxi. 89 The perseverance of the Saints. Romish divines usually call the maxim a falsity of practice or righteousness

Inamitie, var. of INEMITIE Obs., enmity

Inamor, obs. f. INAMOUR: see also INAMOUR

Inamorata (ĭnămorā·tă) Also 9 en- [? It. in n'amorata mistress, sweetheart, fem. pa. pple. of inn'amorare see INAMORATE v.] A female lover

mistress, sweetheart

1651 SIR RICHARD Jonsaken Lydia 11, The faire Inamorata who from farre Had spy'd the Ship which her hearts treasure bore 1727 SHEALE Art. Triumph I. 18 Let's Lucia On finding herself abandoned by her new admirer in favour of another inamorata 1841 [see ENAMORATA, 1a] 1844 DISRAELI Coningsby VIII. viii. Percy is often in love . . and never likes us to be long without some new inamorata

Ina morate, a and sb See also ENAMORATE [ad. It. in n'amorato see below.] a. adj. Enamoured, in love + b sb. One in love a lover

1602 MARSTON Antonio's Rev. I. v. Wks. 1856 I. 70 Love I not now like *in*amorate? 1605 CHAPMAN Mons. D'Olive I. i. 14 His bed-staff was found for course shaded wattle, for inamorate fire 1627 MAY Agrippina III. 1 Let me over head and ears in amore as of the all accomplished Iddi. Hence † Ina morately adv., lovingly, fondly

1599 NASHE Terrors Night 5 It is so inamorately protected and patronized

† Ina morate, v. Obs. rare See also ENAMORATE [ad. It. inamorare, now innamorar, to enamour, to fall in love' (Florio), f. in- IN- 2 + amore love.] trans. To inspire with love, to enamour Hence † Inamora tion, enamourment

1624 HEYWOOD Gunaik. I. 30 A certain Nation, which I pass'd to Medea to inamorate her 1652 in BLOUNT Glossogr. 1656 in BLOUNT Glossogr. 1755 in JOHNSON 1886 Syd. Soc. Lex., Inalimental, not capable of affording nourishment

Inamorato (ĭnămorā·tō) Also 8–9 en- [= It. inamorato, now innamorato lover, masc. pa. pple. of inn'amorare see INAMORATA.] A lover

1592 GREENE Upst Courtier Diij, He asketh whether hee will bee his peak out short and shape, amiable like an Inamorato 1621 BURTON Anat. Mel. II. iii. IV. (1651) 262 Such Inamorators as read nothing but play books. 1712 HUGHES Spect. No. 525 P 5 All our Pretenders to Rhyme are professed Inamorato's 1756–1822 [see ENAMORATO] 1831

T I Person's Cent. hal. Candle xxi (1887) 168 A mingled expression of mistrust, of kindness, and of keen resolution, which the fig. quite inamorato found irresistible

†Inamore tta Obs A corruption of INAMORATA, perh confused with amoretto, amoretta

1709 Miss Manley Secr. Mem (1736) II 66 There are others that lavish vast Sums upon their Inamoretta's 1767 Woman of Fashion I 232 You remember an Inamoretta of mine.—Peggy Williamson Ibid I 12.

† Inamour, -ed, obs forms of INAMOUR &c ED

1591 Sylvester Du Bartas I iv 738 His Star king, all inamoured on thee, Full of desire, shines down thus upon thee. 1652 Benlowes Theoph Ix xcvi The high heroes Did love in snorting, Passions rise 1665 Boyle Occas Reff (1848) 74 As desired were it for me, to fancy Piety ours, because our Discourses can possibly mum no other of it 1709 I Cooke Tales, Propos etc 4 In the flowry Vale in amour'd stray Inamo vable, a rare [IN-1 Cf F inamovible (1818 e m Hatz-Darm)] Not liable to be removed Hence Inamovabi lity [cf F inamovibilité] the quality of not being removable.

1849 Mill Pol (1865) II 473 Declaring that the inamovability of judges was inconsistent with republican principles 1851 Sir T Palgrave Norm & Eng II 173 This rendered him (Hugh le Grand) the inamovable Protector of the monarchy

Inanagenne sis erron inanage nesis [mod f Gr ἐν, ἀ- + ἀναγέννησις ANAGENESIS, regeneration] (See quot)

1855 Mayne Expos Lex Inanagenesis muscular regeneration or the reproduction of muscular fibre 1886 Syd Soc Lex Inanagenesis

Inanaphysis (inăna·fisis) [mod f Gr ἐν, ἀνα- + φυσάω growing again] = prec A term for the renewed growth or increase of muscular fibre

1855 in Mayne Expos Lex 1886 in Syd Soc Lex

In and in, in-and-in, adv and sb [In adv]

A adv Further and further in, continually inmost, right in; phrase to breed in and in, to breed always within a limited stock, see BREED v III, 3c; to marry in and in, to marry with near relatives, in successive generations

1633 B Jonson Tale Tub IV ii, A weaver he was his battle Went in and in still We [misprint] do by things in and in, in our work 1764 Connoisseur I 4 Some Sharpers he says he has the term so bred them in and in the breed would degenerate 1794 Sporting Mag IV 115 This practice is well known, under the term of breeding in and in 1848 Macaulay Mis. Writings (1860) I 266 Their minds, if we may so express ourselves, bred in and in 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) III 163 The marrying in and in of the same family tends constantly to weakness or idiocy

B attrib (in quasi-adj use)

1831 J F Denison in Hearn Ac XIV 344 Every inmate and such sort of in and in communication with each other 1874 Tubbs Orig & Mut Ins v 75 Avoiding in and in breeding 1881 Spectator Darwin's Formation 1/1 The practice of close in and in breeding has produced extraordinary results 1891 Pall Mall G 8 July 1 Sometimes it leads to 'in and in' marriages, and the royal families deteriorate or die of extinction 1892 Daily News 19 Jan 2/6 The charter was, in fact nothing more nor less than an in and in system between colleges, which would have the main control of the faculties and the studies and the examinations

b sb †1 The name given to a throw made with four dice, when the check fell all alike or as two doublets Obs

1633 Shirley Gamester III iv, Venice up in the reeding dice That last in and in was out my way ten pieces. 1668 Davies Ivor Cal II 1 Wks 1881 III 230 This highest doublet wins, except you throw in and in, which is called raffle 1668 Davenant Man's the Master I i The devil's in the dice if you throw twice in and in, with an ace light

†b A gambling game, played by three persons with four dice, the player who threw in and in (see above) took all the stake Obs

A full description of this game is given in Cotton's Compleat Gamester (1680) 117

1630 B Jonson New Inn III ii, He is a merchant still, adventurer, At in and in 1671 Shadwell Humorist III, I saw you mvegle a third man at Six penny In and In 1674 Cotton Compl Gamester (1680) 113 I have seen three persons sit down at twelve pennys In and In [etc.]

2 A space which opens up and ever discloses something further in 1890 I H Shearme Philos y Theol IV 69 A boundless in and in of subjective mysteries

In and out, in-and-out, adv (Cf also ins and outs, IN sb 2)

1 Alternately in and out now in, now out a Of motion

In 1240 Artours & Merlin etc. Il How 247 De wiche he lokede hewen his leode in and out 1503 Hawes Example Virt IX viii, I was in a house keeping in and out a 1641 Sucklng Ballad on Wedding, Her feet beneath her petticoat Like little mice stole in and out 1703 Dunton Ley Hunt 19 Like Rope serveth to hale the Boat in and out 1897 Hall Caine Christian vi, Little knowing curls that went in and out on her temples

b Of position, condition, season, etc

a 1635 Naunton Fragm Reg (Arb) 35 Their affections had been more permanent, and not so in and out as they were, like an Instrument ill tuned 1687 R L [Citizen] Anne Dss 22 In not with sermons, as his with Mackrel, to be In, and Out 1711 Addison Spect No 2, ¶ 7 The Fire has seen the Glass house Fires in and out above an Hundred times 1855 Dickens Dorrit I xxiii, He was much in and out

+2 Inside out Obs

a 1533 Lo Berners Huon lv 187 When he had well pissed him [a horse] and turned him in and out 1548 Udall etc Erasm Par Luke 138 a, Soodainly turned in and out clene vpon a syde Ibid 154 b, Of the course of things men vsonly turned in and out

3 Both in and out, inside and outside

1895 How to get Married 113 A widow knows him [a man] in and out

4 adverb (quasi-adj) in various senses, spec in and out bolts (see quot 1850), in and out class those prupers who are now in and now out of the workhouse in-and out cottage, a cottage of irregular plan, in-and-out running, alternate winning and losing of races (so in and out football)

1650 I Hall Epic II xxii 182 What Ordinances to shut their In and out Office, have those succeeding and Monetary Presidents? 1824 Miss Mitford Village Ser I (1880) 20 Ah! the in and out cottage! the dear, dear home 1850 Audum Argus (Weale) 126 In and out, applied to those bolts in the knees, sides &c which run through the plate, the single sides, or affair-bolts, and therefore called 'In and out bolts' 1888 Times 26 June 13/1 Have you heard of what is called in sailors' running? Ibid 30 June 6/2 In July 1/2 Children of habitual tramps and of the 'in and out' classes

Hence In and outishness, outism, outness nonce wds irregularity of form or outline

1824 Miss Mitford Village Ser I (1866) 8 A cottage all angles and of a charming in and outness 1833 I Hook Widow & Marriages viii, The in and outishness of the Quakers 1836 Curtis's Botany III 112 Her figure was full of those in and outisms which constitute in my mind true symmetry

Inane (inē·n), a and sb [ad L inan-is empty, useless, vain]

A adj 1 Empty, void

1660 Gunnett Lucr Orient IX (1682) 72 To have confined his compositores to work only in one little spot of an infinite space 1667 Milton P L II 440 Wild Abyss, wide, Dilating into vastness Infinites 1850 Carlyle Latter-d Pamph iii (1872) 79 To live like inane phantasms and to have them like us a paltry contribution to the grand mountain

2 Of persons their actions, etc Void or destitute of sense, silly, senseless, empty-headed

1819 Shelley Cenci III i 77 Some inane and vacant souls 1853 Lowell Fable for Critics 1 vii We listen to the truest bubble 1852 Mrs Jameson Lyre Madonna (1857) 18 We have merely in our pretences 1885 Manch Exam 21 Nov 5/3 Even the book seems very inane, tiresome, and purpo eless all in

3 Comb, as inane-headed adj

1806 M Davies Dorwth Tour (ed 2) 54 An inane vessel in an

B sb 1 That which is inane, void, or empty, void or empty space, vacuity, the 'formless void' of infinite space

1697 Dryden Virg Georg III 71 An infinite number of small imperceptible Bodies that floated up and down in an infinite Inane 1699 Locke Hum Und II viii 8 to The space void of matter, that makes extension, is commonly called Inane 1700 S Parker Nat Philos 124 Atoms dispersed and dancing in the great Inane 1837 Carlyle Fr Rev III viii, Into this inane it has flitted and fleeting, swiftly into the Inane 1868 Tennyson Tiresias 495 I saw the flaming atom-streams And torrents of her myriad universe, Running, down, the ribbed ice, manic

2 An empty-headed, inane thugent person

1710 Pope Let to Cromwell 17 May), Being all alike Inanes we muster to one mother's Arbitrations, and dully assist each other in doing nothing at all

Hence Ina nely adv, emptily, senselessly

1883 Harper's Mag May 894/1 What sport sounds more inanely foolish than cocoanut throwing? 1895 Pall Mall Mag VII 510 'Can't you push on a bit?' I said, somewhat inanely

†In-ane, in an e, inane, adv S and north dial Obs [Northern form of ANON, q v] In one accord, in one and the same state, without cessation or interruption, continuously, straightway

c 1320 Sir Tristr 27, And euer he dede as he sleuje And held his hert in Pat wise c 1450 Holland Howlat 47 Neu-it thou nocht to nest I-wche nane Ibid 861 And consider nd the cross conclude in me That thai wald Vnto beseke 1513 Douglas Æneis VI Prol 89 The detest dirk wayis ryn in-ane As me the Furs all, thair end in-ane Ibid xii 206 On sik wyss is he spithelmyt and cowhard That ane man may hys hors bryng out-ouane

† Ina ngulate, a rare [IN-1] (See quot)

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep II v 180 Inangular postures upon the back, the belly and the feet

Inangular, a [IN-2] Situated in an angle

a 1855 Rankin Canada & Crimea xiv (1802) 258 Every embrasure is distinctly marked by its inangular dark patch of shadow

Ina nguloid, a rare [IN-1] (See quot)

1855 Mayne Expos Lex, Inangulatus, having no angles inangulate 1886 in Syd Soc Lex

Ina nguloquent, a Obs rare—0 [f L inanis INANE + loquent-em, pres pple of loqui to speak] Full of empty or idle talk So † Inani loquous a, also † Inani loquence, † Inaniloquium too

1656 Blount Glossogr, Inaniloquent, that speaketh vainly or babbler 1658 Phillips, Inaniloquium, an idle or vain speaking 1721 Bailey, Inaniloquous, vain Talking or Babling 1727 Bailey vol II, Inaniloquence, vain Talk foolish Babbling

† Inanimadve rsion. Obs [IN-1] = next (In quot, An instance of this.)

1676 Marvell Mr Smirke 15 A whole Cargo of Conjectures which will, upon search, be all found the Animadverters proper goods and Trade, his own Inconsequences and Inanimadversions

† Inanimadve rtence. Obs [IN-1] Inadvertence, inattention

a 1656 Bramhall Replic 34 Not by chance or inanimad vertence, but upon premeditation Ibid 37 Their inanimadvertence might make the separation lesse Justifiable

† Inanimadve rtency Obs [IN-1] = In advertency, inattentiveness 1650 H Bromhall Consort Health 158 Neglect or inanimadvertency 1658 W Burton Itin Anton 42 Therein he doth but discover his own inanimadvertency 1679 Hamey Key Script 10 In the Inanimadvertency of Ages could not comprehend these things.

† Ina nimal, a Obs rare—0 [IN-1] = next 1623 Cockram, Inanimall, hee which is dead

Inanimate (ina·nimēt), a (sb) [ad late L inanimatus lifeless, f in (IN-3) + animatus ANIMATE Cf F inanimé]

1 Not animated or alive, destitute of life, lifeless, spec not endowed with animal life, as in inanimate nature, that part of nature which is without sensation, i e all outside the animal world

1565 Jas Dowr I 4 M (1864) III 286 Shall we see Sacrifice and God's service done to an inanimate Creature, and be mum? 1643 J Spencer in Fst Chyrurg xvi 65 Inanimate creatures as Trees, and the like 1784 Cowper Task I 197 Nature inanimate employs sweet sounds, But animated Nature sweeter still 1828 Scott F M Perth II, The beauties of inanimate nature 1866 Fraser's Magazine Lect IV 152 At His bidding life returns to inanimate corpses 1880 Muirhead Gaius, Digest 62 He who did damage to any inanimate property was liable in its highest value

2 Without the activity or motion of life (lit and fig), spiritless, inactive, dull

1704 Pope Windsor Forest 308 From her nods when Vermin colonis fall, And leave inanimate the naked wall 1862 Helps Ivan, Oxford Daily Life (1873) 162 Organization should not be an inanimate, but a living, growing thing 1871 R Ellis Catullus xxxiv 4 If from whose inanimate peradventure he wake him 1884 Pall Instance to His arms grasped the girl's inanimate form 1893 Daily News 19 June 4/7 The stock exchange tickers were quite inanimate

B sb An inanimate thing, that which is inanimate

1652 Gaule Magastrom 167 The very inanimates, whom words can in no wise affect or move 1741 W Bancroft in Collect Nat & Civil I 120 Inanimates have their proper Stations assigned 1836 Kingsley Lett (1878) I 36 My enjoyments are drawn from the beautiful inanimate in all its forms

† Ina nimate, v ¹ Obs [f ppl stem of late L inanimare to animate, encourage, f in- IN-2 + animatus to ANIMATE (So pr. pple inanimat, affect L inanimitat-is)]

1 trans To animate infuse life into Also fig

1610 Donne Pseudo-Mart vi 172 God inanimates every man with one soule 1647 R Stapylton Juvenal 65 Stealing fire from the suns coach-wheeles, wherewith he inanimated his man of clay 1679 M Reuden Further Discov Bees 59 Which matter so inanimated is called by some Sun-shrack, by others Bee bread

2 To animate, encourage, quicken

1600 St Acts Eas VI (1844) 248 I dare not to continew in prosequenting the said action, quhairby vthers may be drawin espyall to be inanimat to the lyk attempts 1604 I Wright Passions v 157 To inanimate their soul doors to battell a 1632 Donne Serm xxvii 11 (1640) 5 In the shadow of death, the Lord of life should quicken and inanimate their hearts 1670 G H Heat Cardmonis III 1 est Locusate, and inanimate their Judges to an expedition Hence † Ina nimated ppl a, endowed with life 1689 Def Liberty asst Tyrants 67 Magistrates are but an inanimated and speaking Law

† Ina nimate, ² Obs rare [f Inanimate a] trans To deprive of life

1847 in Maitzner's Portrait 3 It wounds not, it maimates not

† Ina nimated, a Obs [f IN-1 + ANIMATED ppl a] Not endowed with or having life

1 = INANIMATE a 1

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep III xxi 159 Principles, which are common also unto inanimated constitutions 1651 Hobbes Leviath iv xlvi 340 God that raised inanimated dust and clay into a living Creature 1777 Robertson Hist Imer (1812) II vii 286 Every representation of inanimated nature, is extremely rude, and awkward 1846 Blackw Mag XX 676 With such religious spirit we embue all the ongoings of animated and even inanimated life

2 = INANIMATE a 2

1733 Smollett Ct Fathom (1784) 183/2 Her faded lips, her pale cheek, and her inanimated features 1788 Clara Reeve Exiles II 47, I behaved like a poor, inanimated, lifeless creature.

Ina nimately, adv [f Inanimate a + -ly 2] Lifelessly, without animation

1876 † Hardy Lthelbe ta II xiii 199 'It makes no difference', said Mountclere, inanimately 1881 Standard 8 Nov /4 Having been rendered inanimately faint from his wounds

In animateness. [f as prec + -ness] = Inanimation, lessness, want of animation, life, or vivacity

1654 W Mountay Devout Ess II ii 8 Inanimateness of the motion have been accounted less perfect, by reason of the deadness and inanimateness of the subject mov'd? 1847 Hare Vict Faith 34 The inanimateness of a bare intellectual belief

†Inanimating, ppl a Obs rare [f IN-[1] + ANIMATING ppl a] Not animating, not quickening 1735 Wint No 6 4 Being only inanimating or dead know ledge

†Inanima tion. Obs [Noun of action from IN ANIMATE v.[1]] Infusion of life, spirit, or vitality
1634 DONNE Biathanatos (1644) 175 He doth preserve it from that ordinary corruption of evill (for he is said to have done our B Lady from originall sinne in her in animation,) some of those wits of ours 1645 — Serm (1), Wks III 397 Of food doth given our soul a new in animation by this fire of tribulation 1647 B HALL Christ Mystical (R) This habitual joy among the inanimation of Christ Jesus and breathing within us

Inanimation[2] (inanimēi·ʃən) [IN-[3] + ANIMATION sb] Inanimate condition, absence of life or liveliness
1784 New Spectator No 9 8/2 If the lineaments of Mrs Bannister's inanimation 1816 BUCHANAN Asiat Res XI 284 VIII 1 The growth of the mind is retarded to an inordinate degree, by the state of inanimation in which it is kept 1827 SHELLEY in Howden Life II 168 Jove who evening I sink into a state of lethargy and inanimation 1858 Times 19 Nov 7/1 After such a long duration of inanimation she became perfectly conscious

†Inanite, v Obs rare [f I mănīt- ppl stem of mănīre to make empty or void, f manis INANE] trans To empty
1598 RALEGH Hist World prol sect 11 460 He was so manifested as never creature was — Orat Pass (1650) 33 Panis

Inant iate, v [A back formation from inantiation, meiely formed in French by Chossat, from inanition Littre points out that the proper French form would be anantiation In English Dictionaries from Dunglison, but not in Eng use] trans To affect with inanition, to exhaust for want of nourishment So Inantia tion [see above], Chossat's term for the gradual passage of the animal body into a state the end of which is inanition (Syd Soc Lex 1886)
1857 DUNGLISON Med Lex 491 Inantiation, The act of being exhausted for want of nourishment One's flesh wasted is said to be inanimated (Hence in Ogilvie and in Dunglison)

Inanition, (inănĭ·ʃən) [ad I mănītion-em, n of action I mănīre see INANITE, f manis (4th c in Hatz-Darm)] The action or process of emptying, the condition of being empty; spec the exhausted condition resulting from want or insufficiency of nourishment Also fig
c 1400 tr Lanfranc's Cirurg 100 Of be whiche drawynge bat lem q causes comynly be toun e repleccioun of be senewe opere of be corde be opere is ansioun 1543 TRAHERON Vega's Anatomy II 111 17/1 Inanition and repletion 1615 CROOKE Body of Man 469 In the Dogge appetite there is no Inanition or emptinesse of the parts, but an exquisite sense of vacuity 1732 ARBUTHNOT Rules of Diet 98 Fevers proceed from too great Fulne s in the beginning and too great Inanition in the latter end of the Disease 1856 I HOUSE Hist Eng II 292 Anarchy is usually absolved and perishes of inanition 1866 A FLINT Princ Med 168 536 Inanition is a pathological condition existing into all di eases which interfere with the ingestion or the assimilation of aliment 1875 FLINT Physiol 111 1 Hunger and thirst are inanitions of the body

Inanity (ină·nĭti) [ad I mănītās emptiness, n of quality f mănīs INANE (4th c in Hatz-Darm)]
1 The quality or condition of being inane, empty, or void, emptiness 1607 Schol Disc sacr Antichr 1 m 128 How ill God is pleased with that which is more through inanity of the mind, malice and of profit which ought to be in it 1632 R H Transcum Whole Creatures sect § 3 208 What shall fill the Inanity and Vacuity of the heart of man? 1649 I DAMEL Unmerk, How It, CCCXXX, Where pruning leaves lye by, till the inanity of the branches call out, lest the whole Dye 1794 ANDERSON Inquiry Bodies (1807) 29 The elements of tubes Collapse and shrunk with long inanity

2 fig a Want of substance or solidity, the quality of being void of interest, inability to satisfy desire, unsatisfactoriness, vanity, hollowness 1603 FLORIO Montaigne (1634) 625 Their inanity will sufficiently be felt, and doth sufficiently produce it selfe 1684 Contempl St Mary II (1699) 135 O the inanity and emptiness of temporal Goods! 1751 JOHNSON Rambler No 133 ¶ 4 Such helpless destitution, such disdain of inanity All is gloomy privation or impotent desire 1845 DISRAELI Sybil Entomol III AXIX 55 He has placed the inanity of such high sounding terms in their true rame 1877 FARRAR Days of Youth XXIII 279 The inanity of its own cherished hopes

b Mental vacuity, lack of ideas or sense, frivolity, senselessness, silliness 1733 [? SWIFT] Helter St (R) Inanity will ever be the same 1756 WARTON Ess Pope I 111 201 The Rambler calls his [Waller's] works Pages of Inanity 1803 Ann Rev I 409 This same topic, is treated with similar inanity for thirteen pages more 1878 LECKY Eng in 18th C II 159 The pretentious and verbose inanity of his theological writings

c Vacuity of existence, want of active interest, idleness, inaction 1782 W F MARTIN Geog Mag I 7 17 They consider any further exertions unnecessary and resign wash to the enjoyment of their favourite inanity 1797 GODWIN Enquirer II 165 A state of inanity and torpor 1818 SCOTT Hrt Mid I A fine gentleman, bred up in the thorough idleness and inanity of pursuit, which is absolutely necessary to the character in perfection 1837 MISS SPENCER Lyra Hib (1876) 92 Do not let us consider any occupation so vulgar as indolence and inanity

3 With an and pl An instance of vacuity or frivolity, an inane remark or practice 1661 GUNNET Lent Duty 11 (T) To make good his resemblance to that Communitorius Inanity 1807 Sir SMITH Physiog's Lett Wks 1849 II 166/2 The embroidered inanities and the south Sea effusions of Mr Canning 1838 DICKENS Nich Nick xxxiii, If this young lord does whisper his dreadful inanities in your ears 1863 HOLLAND Life Josiah Gilbert 1 The Asiatic and manifold fashion

Inantherate (inæ·nthĕrĕit) a Bot [IN-[3] + ANTHER + -ATE[2]] (See quot) 1866 Treas Bot 630 Inantherate bearing no anther upon it, as male blossoms or staminate

Inantheri ferous, a Bot [IN-[1] + -FEROUS] = prec 1855 MAYNE Expos Lex, Inantheriferous, applied to a filament of a stamen which bears no anther 1866 in Syd Soc Lex

†Inan ntidotal, a Obs rare[-1] [IN-[1] Not antidotal, of no value as an antidote 1639 DANIEL Fedtr Lancast 11 I like the Cordiall To pre cool Sores, In antidotall Prescription as like it

†Ina·nulate, v Obs rare[-1] [f It manel lato 'to frounce or crisp, or curle haires' Florio (1598), rendshioned after] anulare (see ATE[3]) intr To curl, form ringlets 1598 FLORIO Hypotrossimata 1 They trees of hair clasping and matulating by their cures

Ina pathy, rare[-1] [IN-[1]] The absence or opposite of apathy, feeling, sensibility 1846 Ann Reg (Chron) 83 Worcester Hereford and Rhos Inaperture, a Bot rare [f I inapert-us unopen + -URE] (See quot) 1866 Treas Bot 630 Inapertous, not opened, although its lobes to open

Inapes, sb of ANAPES Obs
1552 Inv Ch Goods, Staffs in Ann Lichfield (1863) IV 52 One vestement of fustian inapes

Inapo state, a Obs rare[-1] [IN-[1]] Not apostate, not traitorous, loyally disposed 1648 HERRICK Hesper, To his brother Nicholas, The man that will but try his cares As no apostate, to the thing he hates, Shall by Upstrut (he) his leaving quickly come to see The truth of travails lesse in brakes than tree

+Inappara tion Obs rare[-1] [ad I inapparition-em, f IN-[1] + apparatio APPARATION] Want of provision (Cockeram 1623
+Inappa rent, a Obs [IN-[1]] Not apparent or manifest, invisible 1626 DONNE Serm LXXX 824 Free, a body more disputable and inapparant 1655 STANLEY Hist Philos (1701) 574 1694 NORRIS Reflex Objects (1711) 1 Then the inapparent Writing done, with the first liquor appears black 1753 N TORRIANO Comp Note Theorst 23 Absent or inapparent bodies, which does not appear outwardly

†Inappa lable, a Obs rare [IN-[1] + IMPALEABLE] 1651 HOBBES Serv Leviath 14 All litigious crimes they have no impale dable power to punish 1840 F E COOPER Pathfinder II The appetite of the, do original American for venison being seemingly inapparable a 1848 F MANSFIELD Serv & Amusing 1 (1854) 10 Inappeasable longings of the soul 1851 DIXON Howard xxxiv (1857) 321 These disorders were a source of inappeasable grief to Penn

Inappellable (inăpe·lăbl), a [f IN-[1] + appellare to APPEAL + -BLE] That cannot be appealed against, from which there is no appeal 1842 COLLINS Life Jacob (1848) 1 A supreme and inappellable tribunal 1855 TWISS Edith Last Hist xii 8 9 11 The absolute undivided and inappellable power of the dictator 1880 Ch Monthly Illus Lond Number 1 300 Inappellable law of fashion

Hence Inappellabi lity
a 1834 COLERIDGE Lit Rem III 5 The inappellability of the Council

Inappendi culate, a Zool and Bot [IN-[1]] Not appendiculate, having no appendicles or minute appendages as the branchiæ of certain molluscs or the anthers of certain plants 1855 DANA Zooph Text, Inappendiculate, applied by H Cesson to the branchiæ of the pericline of the System thereof appendiculate 1880 Gray Struct Bot (ed 6) 216/1 1886 in Syd Soc Lex

Inappe rtinence, a rare [IN-[1]] Not appertinent, impertinent 1814 COTTERILL in J Cottle Early Recoll (1837) II 4 Which was rarely commended by all to be deemed trifling or unapplicable

Inappetence (inæ·pĭtens) [f IN-[1] + APPETENCE cf F inappétence (16th c in Hatz-Darm)] Lack of appetence, want of appetite, des re or longing a 1692 BOYLE Lect Custom Swearing 106 [He] takes a look, walk to the physicians lodging to beg some remedy for his inappetence. 1733 CHEYNE Eng Malady II 111 § (1734) 188 Inappetence and Weakness of Digestion 1890 Lond Chr Chair V 67/2 Irresistible impulse alternating with total inappetence 1887 MISS TYRRELL In Extremes xxv (ed II) xiv 228 His inappetence for spending money on himself

Inappetency (inæ·pĭtĕnsi) [f IN-[1] + APPETENCY cf -ENCE] = prec.
1612 COTGR., Inapetis inpetencie 1647 LILLY Chr Introd Wks 280 There's inappetency of the Ventricle 1733 CHEYNE Eng Malady II § 3 Loathing and Inappetency always attends all Disorders 1884 J HARDY in Indt pendent 7 Feb, Her virtues lay in no resistant force of character, but in a natural inappetency for evil things

Inappetent (inæ·pĭtĕnt), a [IN-[1]] Not appetent, without appetite or desire 1796 COLERIDGE Lett (1895) 126 I cordially inappetent of food 1803 Monthly Mag XVI 1 Inappetent, restless and uneasy for want of exercise 1886 MISS DESPARD Baron under the Hill II 42 She awakened very lowly, and with an inappetent listlessness

Inappetible (inæ·pĭtĭbl) a [IN-[1]] Not appetible that awakens no appetite or desire 1874 M COSTELLO South Pacific xiv 197 The place which in the view of an object is appetible or inappetible has in all feeling

Inapplicability (inæ·plĭkăbĭlĭti) [f next see -ITY cf applicability] The quality of being inapplicable, incapability of being fitly applied Also with an and pl An instance of the 1673 H More Apol Introd Enthus xxxvi (1712) The inapplicability is so evidly discoverable 1792 BURKE Let to No H Lamerish Wks VI 324 The inapplicability of your own old principles to the circumstances that are likely to influence your conduct against those principles 1880 HUNT Indt after No 18 These superior names of men I have given rise to some curious inapplicabilities, as William Smith and David Hume, two infidel philosophers 1884 W J Courthope Addison 120 Assuming the old idea without losing, did, to perceive that its applicability to the existing nature of things

Inapplicable (inæ·plĭkăbl) a [IN-[1] + applicable (see A[7])] Not applicable, incapable of being applied to some case, unsuitable to the purpose 1656 Burtons Diary (1828) I 271 The late king, cited statutes, but you declared them inapplicable in the case of the commission of array 1790 SIR W JONES Discourses to Literatis Asiat, I est European critick should consider a few of the images as inapplicable to Indian manners 1839 JAMES Louis XIV IV 282 Fashion that makes reasoning is inapplicable 1881 Nature Lect Ireland in Nature No 618 409 Doppler's method was pretty fully inapplicable, because the amount of effect on the colour would be utterly insensible

Ina pplicableness rare = [-NESS]
1 1720 S BRITTAN Osbon, Inapplicableness, the unaptleness of being applied to +2 INAPPLICATION (cf APPLICABLE a 1)
1727 BAILEY vol II Inapplicableness, Incredible ness [or Incredibleness] want of Application
Ina pplicably, adv [f IN-[1] prec + -LY[2]] In a way not capable of application unsuitably 1864 in WEBSTER 1884 Lib Rom Cath Feb 2/2 1 But see which has been perhaps inapplicably, termed the wicker

Ina pplicate, a bot [ad mod I inapplicat-us IN-[1] + applicatus APPLICATE] 1845 MAYNE Exp Lex, Inapplicate used by H Cesson to the bracteoles of the Synanthere when they are not applied across the chrysanthum imperfect 1886 in Syd Soc Lex

Inapplication (inæplĭkē·ʃən) [IN-[1] + application 1718 in Dict Trade]
1 Want of application, the fact or habit of not applying oneself to one's duties 1721 BAILEY Inapplication, heedlessness 1755 JOHNSON Inapplication, indolence, negligence 1797 [J WATSON] Mem Capt H 1840 II 111 9 The Prince cannot excuse such inapplication on the foot of idleness 1800 W TAYLOR in Robberds Mem I 1 Inapplication wears away, and stupose, the dangers of a mind like Hazlitt's
2 The condition of not applying or having no application to the case, inapplicability 1784 J BARNARD in Ch Lit Journ II (1838) 146 These rules appear to me to be very inconclusive and much out of their place when thus applied to prescribed forms Besides their utter inapplication, they are multiplied little short of infinity
Inapposite (inæ·pŏzĭt) a [IN-[1]] Not apposite, not to the point, out of place, impertinent 1661 K W Conf Christ Imp Infant Sects (1850) 54 Another sort fill up their discourses with the cold compliment of impertinent and inapposite Scriptures 1670 W SIMPSON Bishop Exp 130 He supposed my Answer to be inapposite, only to that point alone 1688 Answ Bishop Lincoln's Ans (Lod), I rather telling her how finally inapposite her application was 1838-9 HALLAM Hist Lit iv xxii § 29 IV 214 A most inapposite to our purpose 1862 HALL Hindu Tales 1868 So in one respect, that illustration is inapposite.
Hence Ina positely adv, in an inapposite manner, unsuitably, impertinently
1620 55 JONES Stom Hens (1725) 6 It may not inapositely be observed 1823 BENTHAM Not Paul 69 Under this name, so inapositely represented as it is by the English word decision 1884 Law Times LXXVII 317 An Act of Parliament inapositely described as the Act 52 and 53 Vict cap 63

Inappreciable (inăpre·ʃĭăbl) Also 9 unable [f IN-[1] + APPRECIABLE cf F inappréciable (14th c in Hatz-Darm)] Not appreciable
+1 That cannot be sufficiently appreciated, valued, or esteemed, invaluable priceless Obs
1787 J DENNISON Hist (1790) II 153 His knowledge and integrity render his value inappreciable 1827 SCOTT Napoleon I m 86 A barrier of inappreciable value 1868 MILMAN St Paul's xvii 446 Gratitude for his inappreciable services
2 Too inconsiderable to be estimated or valued, imperc ptible, of no consequence 1802 SMELLIE in Phil Trans XCIII 14 I acquire a inappreciable quantity of virtue of lime 1862 F Hall Hindu Tales Syst 69 An atom is inappreciable by any of the senses 1878 Huxley Physiogr 16 The rise from the river to their summits would be almost inappreciable in a diagram

3 Not capable of being appreciated, beyond the appreciation of some person, etc

1855 Miss Conse Introit Mor 36 Their libraries of wisdom, their galleries of beauty inappreciable to beast and bird

Hence Inappre ciably adv, without, beyond, or beneath appreciation, imperceptibly

1860 Patmore Faithful for Ever in Sat Rev 10 Nov 580 One atheist, who comes thereby And inappreciably sips Pie deep with disappointed lips 1893 J Hall in Nation (N Y) LVI 274/1 Inappreciably as the fruit imports my contention Mod The difference is inappreciably minute

Inappreciation (ĭnăprīʃĭē·ʃən) [In-1] Want of appreciation, failure to appreciate or estimate duly

1854 in Webster 1869 J Martineau Ess II 190 This strange inappreciation of the relative position 1881 Mrs C Praed Policy & Pet I 263 I abstained by this appointment and inappreciation

Inappreciative inapri ʃĭătĭv), a [In-3] Not appreciative, wanting in appreciation Hence

Inappre ciatively adv , Inappre ciativeness.

1868 Holme Lee R Coffrey xxxi 166 Colonel Coffrey's inappreciativeness of her talents 1881 Irish Sp July 8/1 The religious papers have expressed themselves, not inappreciatively, but with a certain subtonality of grief 1897 Educat Rev XIII 80 Which makes even the dullest and most inappreciative peasant remove his hat

+Inapprehe nding, ppl a Obs rare [In-1] That does not apprehend, inapprehensive

1654 Gauf Magastromia 81 It is not for the inapprehending part to have an ordaining power over the speculative whole

Inapprehensible (inæprĭhe nsĭbl) a [In-1 + Late L inapprehensibilis, prob the direct source] Not apprehensible, that cannot be apprehended or grasped by the senses or intellect

a 1641 Br Montagu Acts & Mon (1642) 235 1642 Milton Apol Smect Introd, Wks (1851) 233 Those celestial songs to others inapprehensible 1841 Emerson Addr, Mod Nature Wks (Bohn II) 231 Your end should be one incomprehensible to the senses 1872 Contemp Rev XX 671 Sublimated into inapprehensible imagines

Inapprehension (inæprĭhe nʃən) [In-1] 1 Want of apprehension, failure to apprehend or grasp mentally

1744 Warburton Wks (1811) XI 362 An utter inapprehension of the very drift and purpose of it a 1808 Hunter Serm Wks 1811 VI xxi 306 It is not envy, but inapprehension, which sets them on work 1842 Pusey Preface Tracts Wks 1864 I 27 The moral inapprehension by which the intellect suffers to pass unnoticed those considerations which are too obtrusively and too palpably self-evident

2 Absence of apprehension of danger rare

1865 Pall Mall G 2 Oct 5 He took advantage of their inapprehension and defenceless condition to gratify the worst passions

Inapprehensive (inæprĭhe nsĭv), a [In-1] Not apprehensive, without apprehension & that does not grasp mentally, or perceive by sense, b that does not apprehend danger

1651 3 Jer Taylor Gt Exemp I v 63 [Thes] remain stupid and inapprehensive 1666 Sterling Serm (1684) 1 6 When were they ever more secure and inapprehensive of their danger than at this time? 1732 Arbuthnot Symp (1737) III 138 In respect of divine truth they may be altogether inapprehensive and stupid 1867 Blindness Mor Uses Dark 18 59 The more inward parts of the body incomparatively inapprehensive

Hence Inapprehe nsiveness

1652 Sharrock Prim De 18 (1660) 17 Not out of a Stoical Apathy, or inapprehensiveness, but out of a Christian humanity 1836 New Monthly Mag XLVIII 456 In pure inapprehensiveness of the juste milieu

Inapproachable (inăprō·tʃăbl), a [In-1] That cannot be approached, inaccessible, unapproachable

1818 in Webster 1856 Ruskin Mod Paint IV v App 1 Many subjects may be dealt with by this kind of art which are inapproachable by any other 1858 Hodgson Tracy (1889) II 158 The Forum and the vast arcades of the Basilica of Constantine were almost inapproachable from filth 1860 Pusey Min Proph 427 His unapproachable light is darkness to eyes which would gaze on it

Hence Inapproa chably adv , Inapproach abl ity, inapproachableness

1864 Webster, Inapproachably 1871 tr Lange's Comm Jeremiah 196 Defiant in its inapproachability

Inappropriable (inăprō·prĭăbl), a rare [In-3] Not capable of being appropriated

1851 S Jean Metapert II iii (1870) 201 Unreachable, inappropriable, anagogical

Hence Inappro priableness

1856 R F Wilson in Mem and Lit (1891) II 206 The 'inappropriableness' of Church property to Church purposes different from those which the letter of the Founder's intentions prescribed

Inappropriate (inăprō·prĭĕt), a [In-1] Not appropriate, unsuitable to the particular case, unfitting, improper

1804 Ann Rev II 19/2 A rambling inappropriate retrospect of Indian history 1848 Dickens Dombey II, [He] invaded the grave silence with the singularly inappropriate air of 'A Cobbler there was' 1883 H Drummond Nat Law in Spir Wd Pref (ed 2) 13 Inappropriate Hybridism is checked by the Law of Sterility

Inappro priately, adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an inappropriate manner, unfittingly

1847 in Craig 1867 Trevisan Accum Comp I App 599 Verses not inappropriately chosen for the epilogue of his work 1870-4 Coghlan Lect in Anderson Treasures Inner Sol IV xxxvii 314 This innovation was not inappropriately followed by the suspension of the Sabbath school and preaching services

Inappro priateness. [f as prec + -ness] Inappropriate quality, unfitness, unsuitableness

1847 in Craig 1856 Olmsted Slave States 134 The very levity and inappropriateness with which it is applied, shows a want of a right appreciation of it 1876 Mozley Univ Sermons I 8 The inappropriateness of the punishment constitutes its injustice

Inapt (inæpt), a [f In-3 + Apt Cf Inept] 1 Not adapted to the purpose or occasion, unsuitable, inappropriate, inapposite

1744 Harris Three Treat III i (1765) 142 Others are in apt incongruous, and disagreeable 1818 Cobbett Prot Reg XXXII 449 If the occasion rendered this happy and befitted 1889 Law Times LXXVIII 244/1 The words being altogether inapt to express more than one devolution of property

2 Not apt, wanting in aptitude or skill, unskilful awkward

1860 Sat Rev IX 600/2 Uncouth and inapt to charm the ruder heart 1867 D G Mitchell Rural Stud 246 How ever inapt a man may be at horticultural pursuits 1895 Current Hist (Buffalo) V 800 The well meant but hopelessly inapt attempt of the powers

Inaptitude (inæptĭtūd) [In-1] Want of aptitude

1 Unfitness, unsuitableness, inappropriateness

1688 Cudworth Immut Mor (1731) 149 Such as are Causes, Effect Quality, Inequality, Aptitude, Inaptitude, Symmetry, Assymetry 1790 Burke Fr Rev Wks V 98 A moral and almost physical inaptitude of the man to the function 1868 M Arnold Ess Crit V (1875) 194 Our excessive neglect of the idea and our consequent inaptitude for it

2 Unreadiness, unskilfulness, unhandiness

1620 B Blount How Subsist 103 Inaptitude to the former (honourable exercises) shewes a man to be of a poore and ignoble spirit 1735-46 Seeker Lenten Lect No 8 This inaptitude is sometimes to true left-handedness 1881 Rolleston Anim Life 8 There was much inaptitude in the English people 1884 Ill Lond News 5 Sept 246 Rugs of fish and tough meat lead people fully to believe that national cookery is another name for old inaptitude

Ina ptly, adv [f Inapt + -ly 2] In an inapt manner, unfitly, inappropriately

a 1834 Coleridge cited by Worcester 1859 C Barker Lect Ferns 4 These observations may not inaptly be compared to the then military organization of the country 1885 Law Times LXXVIII 217/2 An auction is not inaptly called 'a mart of promises'

Ina ptness. [f as prec + -ness] The quality of being inapt, inaptitude

1795-1814 Wordsw Excursion III 70 The poor worm in order to shun inaptitude through aptness to perceive General distress in his particular lot 1841 Myers Catth Ph II § 49 189 Some sentence to which it may attach itself with more obvious aptness 1844 W H Mill Serm Lenpt Christ 68 That luxury which produces of itself inaptness for spiritual objects

Inaptness (inæptnĕs) = prec

Ina ptness. [f as prec + -ness] The quality of being inapt, inaptitude

1795-1814 Wordsw Excursion III 70 The poor worm in order to shun inaptitude through aptness to perceive General distress in his particular lot 1841 Myers Catth Ph II § 49 189 Some sentence to which it may attach itself with more obvious aptness 1844 W H Mill Serm Lenpt Christ 68 That luxury which produces of itself inaptness for spiritual objects

Inaquate (inē·kwĕt), ppl a Obs [ad L inaquat-us pa pple of inaquare to turn into water, f in- (In-2) + aqua water] Converted or transformed into water Hence +Inaqua tion, conversion into water

1550 Crammer Defens 331b, Ther followeth no Imputation that of mo waters than the holy ghost is Inaquate, that is to say made water, being sacramentally joyned to the water in baptisme 1551 Turner Herbal, Treatise 1765, I be shuld to the seconde person is almost so soundely handled, alludynge from inpuration to Inquination, although it was neuer sayde in Scripture, this water is the holy ghoost

Inarable (inæ·răbl), a [In-1] Not arable, incapable of being ploughed

1656 Blount Glossogr, Inarable, not arable, that cannot be plowed [Hence in Ludyn Johnson, ed 1] 1843 Cobbett Rural Rides (1885) I 201 Not a team in sight: one inarable Remain (1878) I 166 A place [was] all in dumples and wrinkles grassy but inarable

+Inarate, v Obs rare [f ppl stem of I inarare to plough on, also to till, cultivate] To till ground (Cockeram, 1623)

Inarch (inā·rtʃ), v [Also 8-9 enarch [f In-2 + Arch v] trans To graft by connecting a growing branch without separating it from its parent stock, to graft by approach see Approach vb 10

1669 (see the Inarching) 1675 Evelyn Kal Hort 76 (July) Graffs by Approach, Inarch, or Ingeniare 1845 Florist & Jrnl 37 The remedy consists in grafting or inarching the Chinese varieties on some more durable and luxuriant growing kind

Hence Ina rched ppl a, grafted by approach

1741 Compl Fam Piece II iii 390 Cut the inarched Orange Stocks from the bearing Trees 1858 Bailey Pomology 188 Inarched Elms

Ina rch, v 2 rare [f In-1 + Arch v] trans To arch in, encompass like an arch Hence Inarching ppl a

1880 F W H Myers Renewal of Youth 203 When all the embracing earth, the marching blue, seemed the soul's cage no wings might batter through 1893 W W Peyton Memorial Jesus ix 281 The Divine Presence whom Christ calls His Father, who marched the Spirit of Jesus and infolded Him

Inarching (inā·rtʃĭŋ), vbl sb [f Inarch v] 1 The action or process of grafting by approach

1669 Parkinson Paradisus, Ord Orchard iv 543 Inarching is another manner of grafting in the stocke 1727 Bradley Fam Dict s v Grafting, Grafting by Enarching 1865 Alcock Capt Jrnal I 225 The Japanese understand, and sometimes practise, the inarching of plants 1898 Bailey Pruning Bk 389 The union [of trees and branches] takes place more rapidly if the bark is removed from the conjoined surfaces and the exposed parts of the wounds covered with wax This is a species of marching

2 attrib = Anaplasty rare

1848 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep III iii 127 We might abate the Art of Tabicotius, and the new marching of noses

1650 Bulwer Anthropomet 78

† Inarchitecto nical, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [In-1] Not architectonic

1665 J Webb Stone Heng (1725) 113 Absurdly architectonical Expressions

+Inarcious, a Obs rare [? f In-3 + Art + -ious cf ingracious] Not technically or professionally skilled (See Art sb 4)

1547 Boorde Introit Health Pref 2 This saide archane science to the whiche none inarcious persons can nor shal attayne to the knowledge Ibid 4 I advertise all inarcious physitions to beware

+Ina rdent, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [In-1] Not ardent or burning

1730 Hist Dunc XXXVI 389 The upper yellow liquor is separated from the inardent sulphureous

+Ina rgentate, v Obs rare$^{-0}$ [f ppl stem of I inargentare to overlay with silver, f in- (In-2) + argentum silver] To gild or cover with silver' (Cockeram, 1623) Hence † Inargenta tion

1658 in Phillips 1721 in Bailey

Ina rguable, a rare [In-1] Not arguable a 1875 Helps in Cal Words (1884) Mar 206 Love incomprehensible, indefinable, inarguable about

+Ina rk, v Obs rare [f In-1 or 2 + Ark sb] trans To put or enclose in an ark

1595 Markham Sir R Grenville (Arb) 59 Greater, and better than is shee, Who in the world can be inarkt? 1600 Judicious 1646 W Bridge Serm (1647) 17 Get your souls inarked in all these promises

Inarm (inā·m), v Also 9 enarm [f In-1 or 2 + Arm sb] trans To embrace, brasser en embrace] trans To clasp within or as within the arms, to embrace, to throw the arms round Hence Ina rmed, Ina rming ppl adjs

1612 Sylves Histor Bruyas v Poly olb xiii 223 Warwickshire you might call Middle Engle for equality of distance from the marming Ocean 1793 M Hunter Hall (1833) II 271/2 He [Christ] inarmed them [children] he took them into his embraces 1839 Bailey Festus xix (1852) 276 As the twin tidal wave inarms the world 1892 Ellis Catullus lxiv 28 Thee could Thetis marm, most beauteous Ocean daughter 1895 Browning Fratich Afol 11 Fire should have flung a passion of embrace that ere resplendently married 1896 — Tergemeste 126 Gallant and lady Inarming each the other 1881 F W H Myers Wordsworth 43 Nature's marming melancholy sea

Inarm, obs form of Enarm, to arm

1558 Lyndesay Monarche 2130 Are man of wer, Inarmit well with sword and spere

Inarti culable, a rare [f In-3 + articulable, f L articulā-re to Articulate + -ble] That cannot be articulated or pronounced articulately

1801 W Taylor in Monthly Mag XII 99 To unite in one termination b, d, g, v, or z, with p, t, k, f, or s, is inarticulable

Inarticulate (inaɹti·kiŭlĕt), a [ad L inarticulāt-us, f in- (In-3) + articulātus Articulate (f in articulā-re)] Not articulate the opposite of Articulate

1 Not jointed or hinged, esp in Zool and Bot Not having articulation, not composed of segments united by joints

1667 Tomkis Four f Beasts (1658) 449 The whole body inarticulate, and not well compounded for the outward sight 1610 Guillim Heraldry iii xiii (1611) 124 Such beasts as have their feet Solid or Undivided or inarticulate, that is to say without toes 1650 Bulwer Anthropomet xxi 230 The Feet of women, which being naturally short and round, and also inarticulate 1778 De Coetlogon Coachd 242 A hinge is inarticulate when not set with any visible joints or teeth 1846 Dana Zoophl (1848) 619 Gorgonidæ forming an inarticulate solid stony axis 1851 Richardson Geol viii 229 Body inarticulate, soft and pulpy

b Of or belonging to the division Inarticulata of Brachiopods, with non articulate valves, now called Ecardines In mod Dicts

c Disjoined, unconnected, dislocated

1852 G W Curtis Howadji in Syria (1876) 26 (Funk) Heliopolis is a mass of sand mounds now, and a few in articulate stone relics

2 Of sound or voice Not of the nature of articulate speech, not consisting of distinct parts having each a definite meaning, not uttered or emitted with expressive or intelligible modulations, without distinction of syllables as a long musical note, a groan, or the sounds produced by some animals Also, not clearly articulated, indistinctly pronounced

1603 Holland Plutarch's Mor 643 A kinde of voice, not altogether inarticulate and insignificant 1620 G. Fletcher Christ's Vict. to Rdr., The inarticulate sounds of musique 1668 Stillingfl. Orig. Sacr. I. iii. § 1 Had they not learned the inarticulate voice of the gates 1670 Dryden Tyrannic Love Pref., Solemn Musick, which is inarticulate Poesie 1790 Beattie Moral Sc. I. i. § 4 Inarticulate sounds may be divided into musical sound and noise 1828 Webster, Power of Sound xiii, To banded instruments of wind and chords Unite Your inarticulate notes with the voice of words' 1856 Sir B. Brodie Psychol. Inq. I. ii. 50 In the attempt to do so he produced sounds which were wholly inarticulate

b Unable to speak articulately or distinctly, not using articulate speech, dumb

1754 H. Walpole I sit to Mann 28 Mar., The poor Earl, who is inarticulate with the palsy 1850 Carlyle Latter-d. Pamphl. ii (1872) 41 The heavy miseries pressing on the great dumb inarticulate class 1855 Thackeray, Newcomes v. [she] was found in the morning, inarticulate, but still alive 1870 Morris Earthly Par. II. 289 Then in articulate with rage and grief Phineus turned on him

c Istimf. Having no distinct meaning

1855 Brimley Ess., Poetry & Art 191 Inarticulate gibberish 1899 Westm. Gaz. 7 Feb., The beautiful comprehensiveness of these articulate Articles.

†Inarticulate, v. Obs. rare [f. In- + Articulate v.] trans. To joint in joint together

1713 Derham Phys. Theol. iv. iii. Note 19 (1727) 174 In Man, and Quadrupeds, they are four, curiously inarticulated with one another

Inarticulated, ppl. a. [In-1.] Not articulated

1 Zool and Bot. Unjointed. = Inarticulate 2 a.

1830 Lindley Nat. Syst. Bot. 280 Arborescent stems with rigid inarticulated leaves, called fronds 1861 Hulme tr. Moquin-Tandon II. ii. 60 Lamina associated the Polypore Compound Animals with Inarticulated Animals Ibid. II. vi. 292 A sucker inclosed in an inarticulated sheath 1879 Huxley Anat. Inv. Anim. viii. 466 In the inarticulated Brachiopoda, our knowledge of the nervous system is very imperfect

2 Of sound or voice Not uttered articularly, = Inarticulate a. 2

1584 Galt Rethelan II. iv. 169 She listened to the inarticulated menaces of his inflamed spirit 1886 Pall Mall G. 22 Apr. 13/2 Cries of 'Out with the Premier, and give us a railroad,' alternated with the fierce, inarticulated yells.

Inarticulately, adv. [f. Inarticulate a. + -ly 2.] In an inarticulate manner, without words or syllables, without distinct articulation or expression, with indistinct utterance, indistinctly a 1660 Hammond Serm. God of Bethel Wks. 1683 IV. 497 the Divine admonitions and holy laws whisper'd inarticulately in our hearts 1800 in T. Brown's Lect. on Quint. (1809) IV. 66, I muttered somewhat, as I suppose mutter lately, toward an answer 1800 Mrs. Hervey Mourtray Fam. I. 224 Emma inarticulately attempted to express her regret at this unfortunate circumstance 1884 Shelley in Contemp. Rev. Oct. 501 They have but inarticulately striven to communicate it to others

Inarticulateness, [f. as prec. + -ness.] The quality or condition of being inarticulate or of not using articulate speech, lack of clear articulation, indistinctness of utterance

1731 Bailey, Inarticulateness, the being not articulate, indistinct, confused 1841 Spectator 14 Mar. 276/1 Not in the least discouraged by the hurried and inarticulateness evinced

†Inarticulation[1]. Obs. [f. In-2 + Articulation v.] The jointing of one thing into another, = Enarthrosis 1578 Banister Hist. Man I. 24 Certaine cauities of the three neither most nobles, seruyng also to other inarticulation 1616 Surfl. & Markh. Country Farm. 472 For the better perfecting of this inarticulation, there are two edges or hummes, that so they may the better ioyne together 1634 T. Johnson Parey's Chirurg. xi. xiii (1678) 265 Enarthrosis or Inarticulation is a kind of Dearticulation, in which a deep cavity receives a knob and knob, in all

Inarticulation[2]. rare [In-1 + Articulate a.] Absence of distinct articulation, inarticulate utterance

1765 Franklin Lett. Wks. 1887 III. 397, I might have mentioned inarticulation among the defects in common speech that are assumed as beauties in modern singing c 1773 Chesterf. (J.), The oracles meaned to be obscure, but then it was by the ambiguity of the expression and not by the inarticulation of the words

Inarticulial (inɑːtik'jūlăl), a [ad. I. inarticularis (Quintilian), f. in- (In-3) + articulus Articular] (used to render Gr. ἄναρθρος) Cf. F. inarticulaire (16th c.) Not articulial

1 Not resulting from art or artifice, not produced by constructive skill, natural Now rare

1646 Stanley Hist. Philos. VI. (1701) 290/1 There are two kinds of Fire, one artificial, requisite to the use of life, which converteth nutriment into it self: the other inarticulal (so Cicero renders ἀτεχνικὸν) by which all things grow, and are preserved 1660 Jer. Taylor Worthy Communic. Introd. It is nothing but a shining cloud cast into a contignent and inarticulial shape 1672 Grew Philos. Heal. Plants § 8 When needful to add the preparations of Art to that of Nature, how to enlarge those of Art, and Recthie those which are indeed Inarticulial

2 Not in accordance with the principles of art, constructed without art or skill, rude, clumsy; inartistic.

1613 Cawdrey Table Alph (ed. 3), Inartificiall, without art or skill. 1660 Jer. Taylor Dict. Dubit. I. iv. (R.), For these and many other concurrent causes, the proceeding is inartificial and casual, and fit to lead the ignorant, but not the learned 1672 R. D. Neill Lex. Carol (1886) 332 We are at continual charge to repair unskilfull and inartificial buildings 1748 Anson's Voy. III. x. 412 The Chinese adhere to the rude and inartificial method of representing words by arbitrary marks 1818 Jas. Mill Brit. India II. iii. 257 Their warlike instruments are rude, noisy and inartificial 1830 Herschel Stud. Nat. Phil. § 326 Nothing could be more inartificial and unnatural than its classification 1882 Farrar Early Chr. II. 153 In the style of Papias, so inartificial and inexact, it cannot be regarded as other than a Christian treatise.

†3 Of an argument Not according to the art of Logic, not deduced by logical methods from accepted premisses, but derived from authority or testimony Obs.

1588 Fraunce Lawyer's Log. I. ii. 10 Ramus divideth an argument into artificiall and inartificiall 1639 Fuller Holy St. III. xxii (1647) 157 His Logick used an inartificiall argument drawn from the authority of his place a 1665 J. Goodwin Filled with the Spirit (1867) 149 There being two kinds of arguments or reasons whereby positions or theses are used to be proved artificial and inartificial; by artificial, the meaning is those that are levied and wrought out by the light and strength of the understanding from certain principles by the rules of the reasoning art; consent of judgment amongst men about a matter 1678 Cudworth Intell. Syst. Pref. 38 The Scripture Light is not to be believed, by Reason of Illumination, but upon Inartificial Arguments, or Testimonies only 1725 Watts Logick III. ii. § 8 An artificial Argument is taken from the Nature and Circumstances of the Thing. . . An inartificial Argument is the Testimony of another

4 Not assumed or put on; artless, unaffected, natural (Of personal qualities, actions, etc.; hence of persons)

1564-5 Bullein Let to Let Comforty Feb. This excuse, which proceeds from the honest and inartificel gratitude of God 1779 Mad. D'Arblay Diary Jan., Is not that pretty pale face, very young and inartificial 1780 Bisset Hum. Reform Wks. III. 249 Any inartificial expression of the peoples wishes 1871 S. C. Hall Bk. Memories 183 His (Hogg's) vanity was so inartificial as to be absolutely amusing

5 Without complexity or artifice, not elaborately designed or worked out; plain, simple, straight forward

1823 J. F. Cooper Pioneers xi. (1865) 46 The long room was but an extremely plain and inartificial temple 1838 Hist. Europe (Lardn.) xxv. 371 Wellington had an inartificial notion, according to the ancient inartificial form of tragedy, is finely told 1893 H. Walker 3 Cent. Sport Lit. I. 173 The thought is . . . inartificially, inartificial and, to a large extent, common property

Hence Inartificiality, inartificial character

1847 I. Taylor Nat. Hymns, &c. II. vi. 81 The defects in want of character and probability and inartificiality of ordonnance

Inartificially (inɑːtifi'ʃăli), adv. [f. prec. + -ly 2.] In an inartificial manner, without art or technical skill, clumsily unskilfully, inartistically, unmechanically

1623 Cockeram II., Illaborately done, Inmanually, Inartificially 1647 Jer. Taylor Life Prophi II. 44 He did it so inartificially that Anna thought he did not discharge the person 1774 White in Phil. Trans. LXV. 27, Her inside next, consisting of fine guts sew and feathers, was very inartificially put together 1824 Lawrence Lect. I. 3 Three small dishes dressed very inartificially 1831 Scott Wondrous Tale The incidents were mutually really huddled together 1884 Fortnightly Rev. 1 Feb. 254/1 The word 'their' would have been used inartificially, because used in reference to a legacy of personal estate simply

b In an artless or unaffected manner, simply, artlessly

1825 New Monthly Mag. XVI. 350 The air was sweetly and inartificially sung

Inartistic (inɑːtis'tik), a. [In-1.] Not artistic, not in accordance with the principles of art

1859 Geo. Eliot Adam Bede 55 Inartistic figures crowding the front of the picture without adequate effect 1872 Jowett Plato (ed. 2) III. 191 This book is a very dull and inartistic performance

b Having no appreciation for or love of art, unskilled in art

1875 Stubbs Const. Hist. II. (1887) 134 An inartistic nature and a dull or commonplace mind

Inartistical, a. [In-1.] Not artistical, = prec. Hence Inartistically, adv.

a 1849 Poe Misc. Literature Wks. 1864 III. 296 The rhythm lapses in the most inartistical manner — Tom, Jillon & Willis etc. ibid. 348 The pres dence of the fully [speaking aside] detracts as much from the acting merit of our drama generally, as any other inartisticality 1859 Sat. Rev. 31 Dec. 790/1 Minute and inartistical touches

Inartistically, adv. [f. prec. + -ly 2.] In an inartistic manner, without conformity to the rules of art, without technical skill

1864 'Shirley' Nugæ Crit. viii. 348 The rude inscriptions on the tombs of these early christians inartistically scraped upon the stone 1875 Jowett Plato (ed. 2) IV. 5 The externals of the scene, which are briefly and inartistically described, soon disappear 1886 Lane Times Sept. II. 8 2/2 This last paragraph is rather inartistically drawn

Inasmuch (inæzmʌtʃ'), adv. [orig. three words in as much (in northern ME. in als mikel), subsequently sometimes written as two words, in asmuch, and now (esp. since 17th c.) as one]

I In phrase Inasmuch as

1 In so far as, to such a degree as, in proportion as, according as a 1300 Cursor M. 19596 Sua sagit all prestes mar and less, In als mikel als in þaim es 1380 Wyclif Serm. Sel. Wks. II. 296 Þe pepul loues in no maner ben litil worþ but inasmyche as þei ben grounded of goddis lawe or of reson 1526 Tindale Matt. xxv. 40 In as moche as [Authorized Vers. Inasmuch as], Wyclif as long as] ye have done it vnto won of the leest of these my brethren ye have done it to me 1577 Lett. to Parkhurst in (1604) 124 In as much as his mind is bent unto righteousness, he putteth away naughtiness 1722 Lingard MSS. in publ. Hist. Wks. Comm. App. v. 112 We are bound, inasmuch as we live in our power, to make satisfaction 1858-97 Sir W. Hamilton Metaph. ii (1859) 32 God is only God inasmuch as he is the Moral Governor of a Moral World

2 In that, in view of the fact that, seeing that, considering that, on the ground or for the reason that, since, because

c 1386 Chaucer Anel. & Arc. 61 Lat hem to yow, quod he, yblowen trespas In asmuche I moche yow 1400 Lanfranc's Cirurgia 3 Wyche as long as] ye have done it vnto won of the leest of these my brethren ye have done it to me 1577 Lett. to Parkhurst in (1604) 124 In as much as his mind is bent unto righteousness, he putteth away naughtiness 1722 Lingard MSS. in publ. Hist. Wks. Comm. App. v. 112 We are bound, inasmuch as we live in our power, to make satisfaction 1858-97 Sir W. Hamilton Metaph. ii (1859) 32 God is only God inasmuch as he is the Moral Governor of a Moral World

2 In that, in view of the fact that, seeing that, considering that, on the ground or for the reason that, since, because

c 1386 Chaucer Anel. & Arc. 61 Lat hem to yow, quod he, yblowen trespas In asmuche I moche yow 1400 Lanfranc's Cirurgia 3 Inasmuch as þou hast not cause to pleade against God in as much as the conscience of his owne desertes will stop his mouth 1571 Wyrley Serm. I. 8 Inasmuch as he hath desired first our soules 1818 Cruse Digest (ed. 2) IV. 476 The words in the indenture of assignment are these, inasmuch as there are as any indenture of mortgage 1870 Dickens Edwin D. I. 10 I am unable to reply that I am much the better for seeing you. Pussy, inasmuch as I see nothing of you

II †3 Without as. In an equal or like degree, likewise Obs.

1727 Swift Conversation I. Cornl Wks. 1778 VII. 218, I think it must follow, that wit, and inasmuch the richest beyond all peradventure was the richest

†Inasperate, v. Obs. rare [f. In-2 + asperare to make rough or fierce, after exasperate of ital. inaspesare (Florio) f. inaspro (Cotgr. which may have served as model).] To provoke to cruelty or bitterness; = Exasperate

1599 Sandys Europæ Spec. (1632) 242 Their doubt of further insperating the Turke in his Cruelty. a 1639 Wotton in Reliq. (1685) 508 To sweeten the humours of that Family, not to hinde inasperated by the death of Sir Walter

Inassimilable, a. rare [In-3 + so in mod. F.] Not assimilable, not capable of assimilation 1886 in Syd. Soc. Lex.

Inassimilation, sb. rare. [In-3.] Non-assimilation, failure to assimilate (food)

1885 Hum. a Natural VI. 541 It is one of the frequent occurrences in inassimilation that the organism is not uniformly well nourished

Inassuageable (inæswē'dʒăbl), a. [f. In-3 + assuageable, f. Assuage.] That cannot be assuaged or allayed

1887 G. Cissing Thyrza II. viii. 135 To bear the torture of an inassuageable desire

†Inassurance Obs. rare [In-1.] Want of assurance, uncertainty

1614 Jackson Creed III. Pref. 2 v., Their inassurance of the eternall 1653 Earl of Leven in Clarke's Papers II. 201 From any unkindness or inassurance I have of his friendship

Inate, obs. form of Innate

Inatta ckable, a. rare [In-3.] Not attackable, that cannot be attacked, unassailable

1830 Fraser's Mag. III. 231 The most precious, the most unattackable part of the existing system

Inattention (inătɛ·nʃən) [In-1 + perh. a inattention (1701 in Hatz.-Darm.).] Want of attention, failure to attend, take heed, or fix the mind attentively upon any matter; want of observant care or notice; heedlessness, negligence 1710 Tatler No. 187 ¶ 6 The universal Indolence and Inattention among us to Things that concern the Publick 1759 Robertson Hist. Scotl. I. vii. 318 The fault was not owing to the inattention of our princes 1793 Burgess Cadolus etc. 272 He was totally misled by some written note in conducting a common operation 1830-40 W. Irving Wolfert's R. (1855) 61 I recollected her inattention to my discourse of the preceding morning.

b Want of courteous personal attention c 1792 Hayley Let to Cowper (in Sotheby's Catal. July 1887), Pamper'd by a little blunt gloomy inattention from our great Friend 1794 S. Williams Vermont 185 From the heedless countenance, and inattention of the Indian to the female Inattentive (inătɛ·ntiv), a. [In-1 + of attentif 1762 in Dict. Acad.] Not attentive, not having or applying the mind steadily, not heedful or observant, negligent 1741 Watts Improv. Mind I. xx. § 6 If we indulge the frequent rise and roving of passions we shall thereby procure an inadvertent habit of mind 1777 Sheridan Sch. Scand. II. iii. She will find I have not been inattentive to her interest while living 1784 Cowper Task VI. 140 All in sight of inattentive man 1838 Lytton Alice I. 13 Or else Levlyn was peculiarly inattentive

b Not rendering personal attentions, neglectful

1778 Burke Corr. IV. 350, I hope you will not think me inattentive to you

Inattentively (inătɛ·ntivli), adv. [f. prec. + -ly 2.] In an inattentive manner, without paying attention or giving due heed, negligently

1748 Butler Serm Wks 1874 II 308 A kind of pre judice, to which perhaps most of us may inattentively be liable 1779–81 Johnson P. Pope Wks IV 41 Behaviour, inattentively deficient in respect 1850 Hallam Hist Lit II iii v § 12 note, Cornard, and all the rest, must have read her very inattentively

Inattentiveness (ināte ntivnés) [f as prec + -NESS] The quality or condition of being inattentive, want of attentiveness

1754 Richardson Grandison (1781) VI lvi 369 That in attentiveness to his own figure and appearance, which demonstrate the truly fine gentleman 1789 Phillis New Philos I v (1830) 286 [The second inconvenience of a liturgy is] that the perpetual repetition of the same form of words produces wearisome and inattentiveness in the congregation 1884 Parker Ipsut Life III 12 It bears tones that have not uttered themselves to inattentiveness

†Inaudacity Obs rare, [f I inaudax not daring, timorous + -ITY audacity] Lack of boldness or resolution, timidity

1594 Constabl Diana III x, Such puny thoughts whose inaudacity Is cross but loose conceite

Inaudibility (inɔ̄dibĭlĭti) [f next + -ITY] The quality or condition of being inaudible, incapability of being heard

1822 I van Flin Ser I Old & New Schoolm, A whisper to users you by its provoking inaudibility 1869 Tyndall Sound iii (1875) 272 The steamer was immediately turned and urged back to our last position of inaudibility 1870 Daily News 17 Feb, The female witnesses were, with one exception, indistinct almost to inaudibility

Inaudible (inɔ̄ dĭb'l, a [ad I inaudibil-is + in (IN-3) + audibilis AUDIBLE cf It inaudibile (Florio, 1598)] Not audible, not capable of being heard, imperceptible to the ear

1601 Shaks Tw N I i 41 Ih' inaudible, and noise, leave foot of time 1606 Bacon Sp in § 122 As the Bullmouth so swift, that it is Inaudible, so the same Swiftness of Motion maketh it Inaudible 1770 C Smart Hymn St Cecilia 2, Ye that inform the tuneful spheres, Inaudible to mortal ears 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) I 129 An echo in the room which renders his words inaudible

Inaudibly (inɔ̄ dĭbli), adv [I prec + -LY 2] In an inaudible manner, so as not to be heard

1798 Wordsw P Bell iii b, He sees down his hoofs in audibly 1820 Shelley Summer Even 24 Its awful hush is felt inaudibly

†Inaudi te, a Obs rare—1 [a F inaudite (Rabelais), ad L inaudit-us unheard, f in- (IN- 3)] Unheard of

1708 Motteux Rabelais (1737) V 229 Your placid Life, here inaudite before, Repleteth the Town of Lugdun

Inaugur (inɔ̄ gə̄r), v Now rare Also -ure [a F inaugurer v (14th c in Littré), or ad L inaugurare to INAUGURATE]

†1 trans = INAUGURATE v 1; also fig Obs a 1555 Latimer (Webster 1864), Inaugured and created king 1566 Painter Pal Pleas I 32 [He] is worthy to be inaugured with a laurel crown of folie 1621 Sheph Hist Christ iv xxii § 41 1142 Shan, then chosen, proclaimed, and inaugured O Neile, by an old shoo cast ouer his head, seuered vpon his Father's inheritance 1631 Heywood Londons Ius How 273 To inaugure you in your Protestant seate 1644 H Leslie Serm Ideas Judah 21 Howsoever the King be sometimes chosen by Tribes, and always inaugured by them 1706 Hearne Collect 2 Feb (O H S) I 176 I then y shall beat s, he inaugur d in Spain

2 = INAUGURATE v 2

1890 Annie Thomas' On the Children II x 166 The opportunity of inaugurating the half days of cessation from commercial care and care was welcomed gladly

Inaugural (inɔ̄ gə̄rāl), a (sb) [a F inaugural (17th c in Hatz Darm), f inaugurer to INAUGURATE, after L augurālis] Of or pertaining to inauguration, forming part of the ceremony of inauguration or of the formal commencement of any course or career

1608 in Somers Tracts II 332 Instances of auspicious inaugural Medals 1708 Hearne Collect 12 May (O H S) II 108 Mr Thwaites Greek Professor made his Inaugural Speech 1802 J Jackson Chron Hist (1820) II 8 The satisfaction you express with the first inaugural address 1841 Arnold Life in Stanley Life (1844) II v 300 My Inaugural Lecture has so kindly received that it gives me great hopes of being able to do something 1897 [see Inauguration 4] 1898 A W W Dale Life of R W Dale vii 269 The inaugural meeting was attended by men of all parties

B as sb An inaugural speech or address 1 2

1800 Bartlett Hist Amer v v, 'Have you read the President's inaugural?' 1871 S N Randolph Dom Life J Jefferson 269 He went in to deliver his inaugural 1884 Century Mag XXVIII 514 A few days before one of his inaugurals

†Inaugurate, ppl a Obs Also 6 -at [ad L inaugurāt-us, pa pple of inaugurāre see next] Inaugurated, ceremoniously or formally installed into office see next, 1 Const as pa pple

1600 Holland Livy XXXII xxxvi 654 Dolabella was inaugurat or installed king of the sacrifices 1644 Hammond Serm Christs Return Wks 1683 IV 529 The new state, to which Christ was inaugurate at his resurrection 1681 W Robertson Phraseol Gen (1693) 533 That the consuls might be made and inaugurate

Inaugurate (inɔ̄ gūrēt), v [f I inaugurāt-, ppl stem of inaugurāre to take omens from the flight of birds, to consecrate or install after taking such omens or auguries, f in- (IN- 2) + augurāre to take auguries see AUGUR sb and v]

1 trans To admit or induct (a person) to an office or dignity by a formal ceremony; to consecrate, install, invest Also with compliment

1606 Warner Alb Eng xiv lxxxii (1612) 344 More to their proper Elements inaugurated none, Than shee to hers by passed, he to his possessed Throne 1612 Drayton Poly-olb xvii 260 The seat on which her Kings inaugurated were 1637–50 Row Hist Kirk (Wodrow Soc) 201 They loved to be doctorated ere they were inaugurated bishops 1708 Ockley Saracens (1848) 387 Yezid was inaugurated Caliph on the new moon of the month Rejeb 1796 Morse Amer Geog I Kentucky Aug, I have made my public appearance, and am solemnly inaugurated into the numerous class 1825 Macaulay Lit, Milton (1851) I 22 When Cromwell was inaugurated in Westminster Hall

†2 To invest (a thing) with a sacred or supposed sacred character, etc Obs

1638 F Junius Paint Ancients 136 The inaugurated Statues being set up by skilfull enchanters in the temple, or else set curiously digged in the ground were thought to appease the Gods, and to protect the Country Ibid 137 The inaugurated statues, which now adays are called Images

3 To make auspicious or of good augury, to confer solemnity or sanctity upon, to sanctify, consecrate rare

a 1639 Wotton Life Dr Buckhm in Relig (1651) 79 Those beginnings of years were very propitious unto him, as if Kings did chuse rem arkable days to inaugurate their Reigns that they may appear auspicious in all of the world 1787 Will 1847 R W Hamilton Duty Sabbath (1848) 7 And now succeeds the Sabbath which inaugurates all these accomplishments, as it perfects, illustrates, and glorifies the wondrous Hebdomade

4. To begin with good omens' (J), to begin (a course of action, period of time etc, esp of an important character) with some formal ceremony or notable act, to commence, enter upon, to introduce, usher in, to initiate (Sometimes merely grandiose for 'begin'))

1755 Johnson, To Inaugurate, to begin with good omens, to begin 1851 Galenga Italy I 22 The revolution was to be inaugurated without a single shed of violence to any Italian a 1861 Mrs Brownng Sabbath Morn at Sea v, And sky and heaven made mighty room To inaugurate the vesper 1865 J Vincent Land & Book 1 Of the world certainly have inaugurated a new era on the East Coast of Africa 1876 Grant Bardy Sch Scott II v 159 The daily work of the school was inaugurated and generally concluded with the ceremony of engaging publicly in prayer

5 To initiate the public use of, introduce into public use by a formal opening ceremony (a statue, fountain, building, etc)

1838 Arnold Hist Rome I xiii 237 The augurs were to attend in order to inaugurate the ground where the soldiers were to meet] 1852 Dickens Ford (1874) II 282 On the 18th of June, Russell superintended the inauguration of Wellington w s inaugurated, as it is now the fashion to call such proceedings 1881 Nat Rev 29 June 630 Then, why in everything Inaugurated ? It is silly enough to talk about the 'inauguration' of a new statue, but we have quite so got beyond that

¶ Erroneously explained in early Dicts

1604 R Cawdrey Table Alph, Inaugurate, to aske counsell of soothsayers 1656 Blount Glossogr, Inaugurate to ask counsel of the Augures what shall follow, to dedicate to soothsaying

Inauguration (inɔ̄gūrē'ɪ ən) [ad I inauguration-em consecration or instalment under good auspices or omens, n of action from inaugurāre cf F inauguration (sacon), 14th c in Hatz-Darm] The action of inaugurating, (a) induction, institution, or ushering in, with auspicious ceremonies

1 Formal or ceremonial induction to an office or dignity, consecration investiture, installation

1509 in H Campbell Love Lett Mary Q Scots App (1824) 59 Our Sonne, the coronation and inauguration in his kingdom was rayfyet and found gude 1575–85 Abp Sandys Serm (Parker Soc) 50 Eusebius was appointed to occupy with a sermon the inauguration of Constantius the emperor 1627 in Cal & Times Chas I (1848) I 214 Dr Bargrave's sermon at the King's Anniversary Inauguration 1628 Prynne Sov Power Parl & Kingdoms 141 Either solemn inauguration of him into his kingly office 1769 A Hamilton Hist (1886) VII 44 The day of the inauguration of the President which completed the organization of the Constitution 1822 J Flint Lett Amer 121 The inauguration of the professors of the university of Edinburgh occasioned a splendid scene 1851 Illustr Lond News 11 (1874) 123 I have always dated from these conversations my own real inauguration as an original and independent thinker

2. The formal or definite commencement or introduction of a course of action, an important era or period of time, etc

1656 Brooke Hist Eng I 292 To the one it was the first inauguration to the office the inauguration of the millennium 1872 Yeats Growth Comm 219 It was the inauguration of privateering

3 The formal introduction of something into public use with appropriate ceremonies, as the opening of a building or park, the unveiling of a statue, fountain, etc

1861 [see Inaugurate v 5] 1865 Pall Mall G 31 Aug 10/1 Another ludicrous perversion of a word of Latin origin is the popular use of the word 'inauguration' as applied to the uncovering of a statue or a monument

4 attrib usually in sense 1 = INAUGURAL

1688 Wood Life & Lib (O H S) III 179 King's in auguration may kept very solemnly at Oxford 1741 Middleton Cicero I vi 425 Cicero was invited to the inauguration feast 1772 Foote Nabob III Wks 1799 II 314 An inauguration speech is required 1897 Daily News 5 Mar 8/3 The inauguration exercises took place to-day Mr McKinley delivered his inaugural address in the open air in front of the Capitol ¶ Erroneously explained of INAUGURATE v 1658 Phillips, Inauguration, an asking counsel of Augures or Soothsayers.

INAUSPICIOUS.

Inaugurative (inɔ̄ gūrĕtĭv), a rare [f as INAUGURATE v + -IVE] Having the function of inaugurating, inaugural

1853 Miss Sheppard Ch Anchester I 312 The mother sickness that is the very trebly-strong of humility to many a born in his inaugurative exile 1885 Illustr Lond News 28 Mar 292 She gave an inaugurative dinner

Inaugurator (inɔ̄ gūrĕ'tə) [agent-noun from L inaugurāre to INAUGURATE] One who inaugurates, an introducer, initiator

a 1834 Coleridge cited by Worcester 1851 J Martineau Stud Chr (1858) 289 They have assumed that its agents and inaugurators must have been fully cognizant of its whole scope and contents 1861 Hughes Tom Brown at Oxf I (1889) 4 The inaugurators of these changes had passed away 1877 Symonds Renais Italy, Fine Arts 9 The inaugurator of the humanistic impulse of the fifteenth century

†Inau guratory, sb Obs [f L inaugurāt- (see INAUGURATE v) + -ORY cf laboratory, observatory] A place for the ceremony of inauguration

1665 J Webb Stone Bin (1725) 120 His whole Palestian hath been to make our Antiquity designed for an Inauguratory of Princes Ibid 174 Homage was paid not in a stony Inauguratory, but on an Hill

Inaugurator y (inɔ̄ gūrătări), a [f as prec + -ORY] Pertaining to inauguration, = INAUGURAL

1775 Johnson Journ West Isl, St Andrews, An inauguratory speech by the present chancellor 1779–81 — L P, Dryden Wks III 300 Inauguratory gratulations 1865 Gentl Mag I 129 His whole bidentan hath been to make our Antiquity designed for an Inauguratory of Princes Ibid 174 Homage was paid not in a stony Inauguratory, but on an Hill

Inaugury (inɔ̄ gūrĭ), sb rare [f as prec + -ORY] Pertaining to inauguration, = INAUGURAL

1775 Johnson Journ West Isl, St Andrews, An inauguratory speech by the present chancellor 1779–81 — L P, Dryden Wks III 300 Inauguratory gratulations 1865 Gentl Mag I 129 His whole bidentan hath been to make our Antiquity designed for an Inauguratory of Princes Ibid 174 Homage was paid not in a stony Inauguratory, but on an Hill

Inaugurer (inɔ̄ gūrĕr) [f INAUGUR + -ER] One who inaugurates a person to an office

1636 W Scot Ipol Navy (1846) 40 Commission was given to try the Chapter and the Inaugurers 1895 J Sage The Astute Wks 1844 I 261 The ordainers and inaugurers of the said Archbishop

†Inaugurge, v Obs rare—0 [f IN- 2 + AUGURIZE] trans To inaugurate

1611 Cotgr, Inaugurer, inaugurized, consecrated, dedicated

Inaunter, var ENAUNTER, in case (that) Obs

1551 R Robinson tr More's Utopia 1 (Arb) 57 That therefore the Skottes muste be readie at all occasions, in aunters the Englishmen shoulde scarre neuer so lytle 1589 Puttenham Eng Poesie III xxiii (Arb) 134 For your foote amphibrachus ye haue these wordes and many like to these resolued, delightfull, reprouall, loathfull, scornfull

Inaurate (inɔ̄ rĕt), a and sb [ad L inaurāt-us gilded, pa pple of inaurāre, f in- (IN- 2) + aurāre to gild] a Gilded, covered with gold b Entom Applied to parts having a metallic lustre

1820 Kirby & Sp Entomol IV 284 Inaurate when strict or other impressed parts have a metallic lustre 1855 Mayne Expos Lex, Inauratus applied to pills which it was formerly usual to gild in order to prevent their taste being perceived in swallowing

†Inau·rate, v Obs rare, [f ppl stem of L inaurāre to gild see prec] trans To gild

1623 Cockeram 11, To Gild with golde, inaurate

Hence †Inaurated ppl a Obs = INAURATE a , †Inaura tion, gilding

1623 Cockeram, Inaurated, gilted, or couered with gold 1706 Phillips, Inauration (among Apothecaries), a gilding or couering of Pills, etc with Leaf Gold 1727 Abbuthnot Coins (J), The Romans had the art of gilding but some sort of their inauration, or gilding, must have been much dearer than ours

Inau·reole, v nonce wd [f IN- 2 + AUREOLE sb] trans To surround with or as with an aureole

1897 F Thompson New Poems 5 [1 ight] Did inaureole All her lovely body round

†Inau spicate, a Obs [ad L inauspicāt-us at which no auspices were taken, f in- (IN- 1) + auspicātus consecrated by auguries, started with good auspices see AUSPICATE] Ill-omened, inauspicious

1632 Vicars tr Vergil's Æneid v [Leaf I 634] (N) With me coms burn these ships inauspicate, For I Cassandra's ghost in sleep saw late 1646 Buck Rich III 43 Though it bore an inauspicate face, it proved of a friendly event 1668 R Steele Husbandm Calling vii (1672) 170 The raven is an unclean creature an inauspicate creature

No †Inau spicated ppl a Obs rare—0

1623 Cockeram 11, Valuckily done, inauspicated

Inauspicious (inɔ̄spĭ'shəs), a [f IN- 3 + AUSPICIOUS] Not auspicious, not of good omen, of unfavourable presage, foreboding evil, ill-omened, unlucky, unfortunate

1592 Shaks Rom & Jul v iii 111 O here Will I shake the yoke of inauspicious starres From this world wearied flesh a 1635 Naunton Fragm Reg (Arb) 19 It was an unthrifty and inauspicious war 1658 Cowley Love's Riddle v i, On that Trees Top an inauspicious Crow Foretold some ill to happen. 1722 Shaftesb Charac (1737) II i § 1 p 98, I began this unauspicious Work, which my ill Stars and you have assign'd me. 1781 Gibbon Decl & F xxiv (1869) I 605 The appearances of the victims threatened the most inauspicious events 1808 D Israeli Chas I, II ii

55 Many inauspicious rumours were bruited among the people 1856 KANE Arct Expl II App ii 310 A tardy and inauspicious season

Inauspiciously, adv [f prec + -LY 2] In an inauspicious manner, with presage of evil

1684 tr Lexiphanes's Im Acts (1710) 219 Unless he know how to Govern his own House and Family (he) is very inauspiciously prefer'd 1797 BURKE Regic Peace III Wks VIII 263 What had been so inauspiciously begun and so feebly carried on 1854 Fredk Merc 24 Oct. 4/4 (The Session) has commenced not inauspiciously

Inauspiciousness [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being inauspicious, unluckiness

1652 GAULE Magastrom 130 The propitiousness of the fortunate, and inauspiciousness of the unfortunate, stars a 1693 URQUHART Rabelais III xxxiii 277 The assurall or inspiciousness of the Holy Days 1727 in BAILEY vol II HEARNE in Todd and mod Dicts

Inauthentic (inɔ̃pe·ntik), a rare. [IN-3] Not authentic. Hence Inauthenti city, inauthentic character.

1860 MRS BROWNING Lett May (1897) II 384 The serious intention, hid in those mummy wrappings, is not inauthentic 1883 Q Rev July 164 Their precariousness and inauthenticity 1883 H M KENNEDY in Fen Brooks L F Lat 389 Evidence of the inauthenticity of Asser's Life of Alfred

Inauthentical (inɔ̃pe·ntikĕl), a [IN-3] Not authoritative, having no authority Hence

Inautho ritativeness

1859 GAUDEN Learn Ch 53 Ignorance and impudence, inability and inauthoritativeness, should which shall be greatest Ibid 281 As if all we had done had been irregular, confused, inauthoritative 1774 J JEFFERSON Indictment App. Wks 1859 I 131 An act of Parliament had been passed against which act the Americans had protested, as inauthoritative 1839 New Monthly Mag LVI 93 The only attempt at a connected life ... among mines, and inauthoritative 1888 Nature 8 Mar 442/2 For reaching interests will not excuse inauthoritativeness [in statements]

† Inavailable, a Obs [IN-1] Of no avail, unavailing

1650 HUBBERT Pill Formality 204 All the means in the world are unavailable 1682 FLAVEL Meth. Grace I 8 Without this [personal] application of Christ to us by the Spirit] all is unavailable and ineffectual to our salvation

Inave rtible, a rare [IN-3] Not avertible, that cannot be averted

1884 GOSSE Tr Shaks to Pope, A javelin, ponderous, inavertible lethal

† Inavoi dable, a Obs [IN-1] That cannot be avoided, unavoidable, inevitable. Hence

† Inavoi dableness, † Inavoi dably adv

1640 BP REYNOLDS Passions xxvi 274 By reason of the Neerenesse and Inavoydablenesse of the Evill 1670-98 I ASSELIN Fey Italy II 109 These waters afford immuner able and Inavoidable wetting 1674 R GOODWIN Key to Ab Physic 122 Had she not been strong enough for both the Disease and the Remedy, Death had inavoidably followed

† Inawe, enawe (inɔ̃, enɔ̃), v Obs rare [f IN-2 (EN-) + AWE 16] trans To put in awe or fear, to awe, overawe

1642 SIR W BRERETON Let to Cromwell in Cath & Phil Mus Comm Rep I 45 It would seem they [the Commissioners of Array] intend to enawe or expel our best ministers. 1645 — Let to Lenthall ibid 317 Unless it be so that Sir Francis Gamull and Sir Richard Grosvenor are enslave and inawe them hereunto 1645-8 Ibid 336 M my of the citizens [of Chester] remain still so enthralled and enawed as that they dare not oppose nor resist

I-nayled, ME pa pple of NAIL v.

† Ina sure, v Obs var enassure see EN- 2

1611 FLORIO, Inassicurare, to inaure, to inlaw

† Inbalme, -baul, obs ff EMBALM v

1611 FLORIO, Imbalsamare, to inbalme

In banco see BANCO sb

Inbardge, variant of IMBARGE v

† Inbark, obs form of EMBARK v

1821 SYLVESTER Lacrymæ Lacrym 176 Wee Humbled Mourners may be Heavnly Marki, In Mercies Vessell to be All inlarkt

Inbarn, variant of IMBARN v

† Inbassat, -et, Inbassitour, obs forms of EMBASSADE, OF EMBASSIATE, AMBASSADOR

c 1450 St Cuthbert (Surtees) 7913 Pe kyng made hym an Inbassatour 1468 Paston Lett No 458 II 110 The Erles of Warrewyk, of Essex and other go in to Scotland of in bassat

‖ Inbat, var EMBAT (Turkish), northerly wind

1775 R CHANDLER Trav Asia M (1824) I 70 The apartments are in the upper story open to the sea and the refreshing inbat

Inbatail, -batell, -battel, obs ff EMBATTLE v

Inbathe, obs form of EMBATHE

† Inbay, obs form of EMBAY v a 1608 SIR F VERE Comm (1657) 36 The ordinary and ready way to the town lay on that side low and inbayd to the foot of the hilly downs

Inbealch see INBELCH v

I-n-bea ming, vbl sb [f IN adv 11 c + BEAMING vbl sb] A beaming or shining in, illumination, irradiation

1866 J CHANDLER Van Helmont's Orust 290 Indeed, that is proper to the soul, by a singular radiation or in beaming

1863-70 SOUTH Serm (1717) IV 393 Boastings of new Lights, Inbeamings, and Inspirations

I-nbea-ring, ppl a Sc [f IN adv 11 a + bearing, pres pple of BEAR v (branch III) Intrusive, officious, meddlesome a 1800 Sir P Spens xv in Child Ballads VI 80n (1888) 2 Then out it speaks an auld skipper, An inbearing dog was hee 1808-80 JAMIESON, Inbearing, officious, prone to embrace every opportunity of ingratiating one's self, especially by intermeddling in the affairs of others.

† Inbeat, v Obs [f IN-1 + BEAT v] trans To beat in, drive in by beating

c 1400 Lanfranc's Cirurg 81 ar 183 Then with a lorre inbeet, but lytte but ofte, And playne but nought 1610 HOLLAND Camden's Brit I 319 The sandes and beach which the sea doth inbeate into the haven

In-be ing, inbeing (inbī·in) [f IN adv 11 c + BEING vbl sb]

1 The fact of being in, existence in something else, inherence, indwelling, immanence

1617 DANIEL On the Church 81 Were it not extreme folly because of this manner of entrance, to deny the inbeing of the aforesaid men in the house? 1654 WARNER Undertakers 107 'Tis such an union and in being in Christ 1778 J WESLEY Serm 88 Believing (sometimes) to such a reception of them as gives them a real substance and an being in the Soul 1834 J BROWN Lett Scripture 70 Must not he be in us? who is in us, if I may use the expression, a mutual inbeing in God?

2 Inward or essential nature, that which a thing is in itself

1656 H MORE Enchiridion 9 God living I was for the inbeing of the National Church which he was then in station. 1869 ROBSON Q of Ire § 135 Men get to know not only their name, but their inbeing—to know themselves what is in them, and what may be got out of them

+3 An indwelling being applied to the 'persons' of the Trinity Obs

1589 [MARTINIUS Ph Mercurye v (1617) 53] In the same most single essence are three Persons or Inbeings 1643 STERLING Ar Kellig 111 This cannot be done, but by one of the three Inbeings, which is the word they use to expresse the Trinity by

† Inbe lch, v Obs rare [f IN-1 + BELCH v] trans To belch or vomit in, to cast in

1610 HOLLAND Camden's Brit I 321 The Ocean is now so farre excluded by reason of sandy residence inbealched with the tides

I-nbe nding, vbl sb [f IN adv 11 c + BENDING vbl sb] A bending or curving inwards 1881 MIVART Cat 221 For the lining of the lungs is but, as it were, a very deep and complex inbending, and infolding of the body with its vascular coat.

I-nbo nding, ppl a [f IN adv 11 a + BENDING ppl a] That bends or curves inwards

1622 DRAYTON Poly olb XXV 7 To dwade How Holland from the High which on their Enserne side I'th' bending Ocean backe doth to Nereida's Lande

I-nbe nt, ppl a [f IN adv 11 b + BENT ppl a] Bent or curved inwards, turned or directed inwards a 1586 SIDNEY Astr & Stella xxxv, So darke that inbent eyes Can scarce discerne the shape of mine owne paine

1623 LISLE Ethelwolf O & V Text Died, Hunting thus with inbent horn beguine, See how this hulked world unto their lures 1625 — Du Bartas's Vo 151 It is corn save and cover, which is as much as to say inbent and out bent 1889 Geol Jrnl XLV 1 152, I can distinguish no regular relations on the inbent surfaces of the radials between the spines

In-be tween [subst or attrib use of phr in between (IN adv + BETWEEN prep or adv) & quasi-sb (a) An interval, (b) A person who inter venes in a family Placed between

1815 JANE AUSTEN Emma I ix, Busy talking and listening, and forming all these schemes in the inbetween 1815 Edinb Rev XXV 1 Fallen in love with Lady Naglefort, because she was in between 1898 Westm Gaz 22 Sept 3/2 White or pale coloured silk, with an an between layer of chiffon

† Inbil l, v Obs [f IN-2 + BILL sb] cf also BILL v] trans To enter in a 'bill or list

1615 Paston Lett No 301 II 13 John Jeney enformed me ye ar inbylled to be made knyght at this Coronation

In-bla ming, vbl sb Obs See BLAMING vbl sb

Inblement, obs form of EMBLEMENT

† Inblind, var of EMBLIND v Obs trans, to produce blindness in, to blind

1515 BARCLAY Eglogs iv (1570) C vj b Such nasty mists inblinded so our brayne, That of our favour the muses have dind yne

† Inblow, v Obs [Of inblowan, f IN-1 + BLOW v, tr L inflare, insufflare See also INBLOW] trans To blow or breathe into a to inflate, puff up, b. to inspire (also in bad sense)

Hence † Inblown ppl a

c 975 Rushw Gosp John xx 22 In blew on hine & cwæð him on foaþ Some halgan gast 1042 Charter in Land Charters (Earle) 242 Xll aenra þonne sy uppahofen & inblawen on þa ofer hyda þære xeatbredan deoflas lare 1382 WYCLIF 2 Cor iv 6 Oon ayens another he inblowith with pride 1611 FLORIO, Inbolato (e balmingse) inblowne[e]glosa wip pride] charite eidoth 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I iii § 29 134 Bewitched enthusiasts acted by a dark, narrow, and captivated principle of life, and (to use their own language) 'in blown by it 1678 H MORE Postscr Glanvill's Sadducismus (1681) 48 Whether the inspired Scripture, or these inblown Buffoons, puffed up with nothing but ignorance are to be believed

† Inblue, v Obs rare—0 [IN-2] trans To colour blue

1611 FLORIO, Inazzurrare, to inmure, to inblew

Inboard (inbōadd), adv, prep, and adj Naut [Properly a phrase, IN prep + BOARD sb V cf on board, etc For form and sense cf inland]

A adv Within the sides of a ship or vessel also, towards the centre of the vessel Also transf 1851 KANE Grinnell Exp xx (1856) 83 It passes inboard through a block 1863 Sat R 437 It every instance collision the eager pedestrian on paddle boxes and other elevated situations, points were in danger of being knocked off Luckily there was never spot in regard to full inboard 1894 Times 27 May 11 The left of the Tower bridge floor hangs the water north The shaft can pivot on which the bridge is replaced 1911 inboard, and beyond this the short arm of the lie of extends 1911 KITTIE N CLARKE Broken Seals, Up well up the flake of her and rode all hull

B prep Inside, within a vessel of ABOVE B BOARD sb 14b

1864 ATKINSON Yachtsman's Pocket-bk 11 Fish them inboard the fractious vessel

C adj Situated within or towards the centre of the vessel, interior, in quot 1898 said of a vessel that has washed inboard

c 1850 Rudim Navig (Weale) 241 Inboard, within the ship, is the inboard works &c 1876 C H HASTINGS Forty Days in the New bulkheads and inboard works 1898 Lloyd's Reg, Sept 427 This inboard was gauged early

† Inbo dy, obs var of EMBODY v

1596 DRAYTON Fed II 47 Whilst here my South inbodyed did abide 1611 FLORIO, Incorporare, to incorporate to inbodie

† Inbo ld, var of IMBOLD v Obs, to embolden

a 1520 BARCLAY Jugurth (Pynson, ed 1528 What he had assembled and with his words the souls he inboldened

† Inbo lt, v Obs Also imbolt [f IN-1 + BOLT v] trans To bolt in, fasten in with bolts

1632 LITHGOW Trav X 461 To disburden me of my mules which being very hard inbolted [1820 imbolted] he could not Rem verso the Wedges for a long time

Inbond (i nbŏnd), a Building [f IN 1 + BOND sb 13 a] Said of a brick or stone laid with its length across a wall (also called a header), also of a wall built wholly or mainly of bricks or stones thus placed Opp to outbond

1842-78 GWILT Archit Gloss, Inbond Stone, a bond stone laid in the joint of an aperture 1864 WEBSTER Inbond stone, a stone laid lengthwise across a wall, a header

† I nborgh, inborow Obs rare In borh, i nborgh, inborow, i nborow = TIN BOROW [OE inborh, borges, f IN 1 + borh security, BORROW sb]

1 a (In Ol) Security, bail b One who gives or offers security for another, a surety

c 1000 Dial Pauncteras 8 in Schmid Gesetze 388 Ponne estmon in borh 1100 Laws Edw Confr 8 § 1 Ne þolað we þæt hi þolie betogen sy Þonne mon us þe þe to-sæcð on his aðfæt on borh 1175 Lamb Hom 71 Here godfadres ben here borges to-pes gode ure cherichs dure, and inborges ate funstone

2 In phr inborowes and outborowes (in 14th c. inborrow and inborrowe, outborrow and out), applied in 13th c to the Earl of Dunbar who became surety to the kings of England and Scotland respectively for persons permitted to pass out of the one realm into the other

1210-12 Bk Bail Pleas II 127 (Rolls) 562 Comes Patricius fil Dunbar, tenet[ur] nomine de Benefic[io] ... de inborowes et utborowe inter Reges Angliæ et Scotiæ 1278-9 Year-Bk Soc Northumb 7 Edw I in Cal Doc rel Scott (1881) II 44 [The jury present that Earl Patrick ... has property in Northumberland by being] in borwe et ut borwe et merk et mere [between the kingdoms] 1610 HOLLAND tr Camden's Brit 815 In King Henrie the third his time, the Barons of Patrick Earle of Dunbar who also as we read was Inborow and Outborow between England and Scotland, that is to say, if I should take it not here by Civill and observe in this part the more se and egresse of those that trauailed too and fro betweene both Realmes

† Inborn i nbŏrn ppl a [f IN adv + BORN ppl a]

† 1 Of a person Born in a place or country, native, aboriginal Obs

a 1000 In Lorica native Sweotol 1609 HOLLAND Amm Marc 228 The bulls was possible for us to take, but the Inborn inhabitants that know the ways secret 1610 — tr Camden's Brit 818 In King Henrie the third his time, the Barons of Patrick Earle of Dunbar who also as we read was Inborow and Outborow between England and Scotland, that is to say, if I should take it not here by Civill and observe in this part the more se and egresse of those that trauailed too and fro betweene both Realmes

2 Of a quality, etc Born in a person, existing in him from birth, implanted by nature, innate 1513 DOUGLAS Æneis I Prol 97 (Comment) Innatis i inshukit to say as inborn, or that quhilk cumis til ony person throw þat forbeirs 1599 I. MOLLE Nil nocentes 42 Whose inborne skil our wits art of witte controuls a 1625 HEYLIN Serm Nativ 9 in Meriol manners bind in born virtue does 1725 POPE Odyss XIV 48, He whose in born worth his acts commend 1871 PALGRAVE Lyr Poems 12 With some inborn sense Of country 1874 GREEN Intern Hist Phys I vi 193 1897 Lancet 19 An intellectual instinct inborn in Man

b Of an attribute or condition In or into which one was born, inherited, hereditary rare

1816 BYRON Ch Har iv lxxxi Bowed to the inborn tyranny of years

c transf Of a person That was born such, or is such by nature, = BORN B 11 b rare

1818 BYRON Ch Har iv xcii, Bequeathing their hereditary rage To the new race of inborn slaves 1878 LOWELL

South Cal. 1764 4 The Arab is in reserve in which it can hardly be said of any European nation, an inborn gentle man 1895 Illustr. Lond. News 24 May 3/1 Every in born artist has a natural method, like the song birds of the air

† In-bo rrow, v. Obs. [f. IN-1 + BORROW v.] trans. To redeem from pawn

1541 Aberdeen Reg. V. 17 To requir Cristene Malsoun to inbarrow hir kirtill quhilk sche hes lyand in wed Ibid. And requyre him to inborrow & inquyte ane ring of gold quhilk he laid in wed

Inborrow, sb see INBORGH

† Inbo·som, obs var of IMBOSOM v.

1610 Holland Camden's Brit. II. 3 A country much mangled with many inlets and armes of the Sea inbosoming it selfe with manifold commodities 1612 Sibbes Bruised Reed (1630) 121 A wounded inbosoming many lougbes and inlets upon the East and West

† Inbound, a [f. IN adv. + BOUND *ppl. a.*1 cf. outbound] Bound inward or homeward

1894 Outing (U. S.) XXIV. 473/1 Inbound vessels told of passing these, whilst American schooners

† Inbou nd, v. Obs. [f. IN-1 + BOUND *v.*1 trans. To inclose as a boundary, to bound (See also INBOUND)

1600 Fairfax Bulk. Virtue xx. On the greene bank which that faire streame inbound, Flowers and odours sweetly smild, and smeld 1627 Sibbes England's Lamentation 4 Upon the Port Kent doth inbound it (Surrey) 1649 Bluet True Interest Engl. (1653) 47 Your Marsh Lands lye under the Level of the Sea, and were it not inbounded by the Banks, would all return to the Sea again

† Inbou nd, v. Obs. [f. IN-1 + BOW *v.*1 In Wycliffite rendering I insurvare, inclinare.]

1 trans. To bend into a curved or arched form, to incurve, arch Cf. BOW *v.*2, EMBOW *v.*1 2

1382 Wyclif Isa. lxx. 8 The pilers of them inbowid [I incurvate, 1388 bowid] was to them 1466 Mann. & Household Exp. (Roxb.) 406 Pund. fore inbowenge of dyverse werke 1500 Mem. Kirkon (Surtees) III. 202 Kirkhipho Turret inbowyng tymber per iij dies. 1552-1695 [see IN-BOWED below]

2 To bow or bend (towards), to incline

1382 Wyclif Ps. lxxvi. 11 Here, dopter, and see, and in bowe [I in-clina] thin eere. Ibid. cxvi. 2 For he inbowide his ere to me, and in my dayis I shal inwardly clepe

Hence † Inbow ed ppl. a. [f. I MBOWED], bent into an arch, curved, arched † Inbow ing vbl. sb., arch ture, arching, curved work 1452 in Willis & Clark Cambridge (1886) I. 28 ij of the Bemys of the inbowed with loninggys Ibid. iij singulers. Principalls in wekyng in inbowyng and in Scantlyn according to the Principalls 1465 Inbowenge [see 1] 1552 Huloet Beame of a rouffe, not beynges inbowed or fretted 1598 in Willis & Clark Cambridge (1886) II. 484 The halle rouffe of oake inbowed 1625 Hoby Curt., Institutes (Arb.) 551 For Inbowed Windowes [atim tant prommunces sive arcuatus], I hold them of good Vse.

† Inbowed, in-bowed, a Obs. [f. IN adv. + bowed, pa. ppple of BOW v.] Bowed or bent inwards or concavely

a 1526 Skelton Arodia (1623) 92 He met her full With inbow'd bosom well for her prepar'd a 1586 Cleon. Pan. sharde Ps. cxxxv. iv. Falling neither reapers hand Nor the binders inbowd lapp 1658 A. Fox Wint. v. Surg. ii. vi. 68 Neither must the inbowed scull be opposed with Cal's plasters Ibid. xxxvi. 180 Here is a very small difference between a fracture and an in bowed bone.

So † Inbowing ppl. a., bending inwards or concavely

1603 Owen Pembrokesh. (1892) 2 Diuerse other inbowne inge places where the sea occupieth a great Inlett

† Inbo x, obs var of EMBOX v., to enclose in a box

1596 Essex I. & M. 361/2 Thinking, to finde refuge at the presence of the transubstantiated God of the sultar there caried and inboxed

† Inbraw n, v. Obs. [f. IN-2 + BRAWN sb. or v. Cf. encrust.] trans. To cover or encase as with a hard skin (cf. BRAWN v.)

1576 Fleming Panopl. Epist. 178, I should shew my self inbrawned with foolishnes, when I see others unarmed, yet I mus suffe to be so precious as to abstaine

In-bread (inbred), sb. [f. IN adv. + BREAD] Bread 'thrown in', the extra loaf or loaves allowed by a baker in each dozen Cf. baker's dozen, s.v. BAKER 6

1630 Barry Wills (Camden) 177 Bowre and twenty loaves of the said bread, wth the inbread allowed by the baker for those twoe dozens of bread. a 1665 J. Goodwin Filled w. the Spirit (1867) 377 As the which is to the inbread in loaves into the dozen there is nothing properly paid or given for it but only for the dozen 1864 Hollen Slang Dict., Bakers doz. in this consists of thirteen or fourteen, the surplus number, called the inbread, being thrown in for fear of incurring the penalty for short weight

† Inbread (inbre d), v. Obs. Also en- [f. IN-1 + a BREAD] trans. To embody in bread = IMPANE, q.v.

1547 Bale Lett. to Hamm. Anon. Askews 24 At the wyll of the preists to be inpaned or inbreaded 1548 Gresp Pr. Masse in H. G. Dugdale Life App. 1 (1829) By the impaning or enbreding thereof [i. e. of Christ's body]

Inbreak (i nbrēk), rare [f. IN adv. + BREAK *sb.*1 after outbreak] A breaking in, irruption, invasion, forcible incursion

1837 Carlyle Fr. Rev. I. VII. x. Deshuttes and Varigny, in essence at the first inbreak, have been beheaded in the Marble Court 1853 Kane Grinnell Exp. xli. (1856) 378 The first inbreak upon our desolate circle of ice and water that we had experienced in ninety nine days 1879 A. B. Davidson in Expositor 255 The inbreak of Phœnician idolatry

So † Inbreaking vbl. sb., a breaking in, ppl. a., that breaks in 1652 J. Rawson Brief Limit and Tree Grace 6 The out breakings of corruption, the in breakings of Satan 1882 H. Scott Holland Logic & Life (1885) 207 Waiting for the inbreaking of God's tremendous Majesty 1891 Mollie Sapp Camb. Rev. 9 Jan./1 The solemn gloom of judgment without the inbreaking sunshine of pardon

Inbreathe (inbrī·ð), v. [f. IN-1 + BREATHE v. after I inspirare. Cf. IMBREATHE, IMBREATHE.]

1 trans. To breathe (something) in lit. and fig.

1388 Wyclif Exodus ii. 12 Wisdom to his sonnis inbreithide (1530 in-breathid) the 1526 J. Udall Apol. Answ. Communyc. Priests 19 A mother cause is contagiousness which the unlearned communing are powerfull and inbreathen upon those whom it doth entertain 1654 Gataker Disc. Apol. 72 They cannot inbreath into us such knowledge that shall quiet and allay our hearts a 1763 Byrom Enjoyment (R.), That inward, holy thing, inbreathed there 1873 Symonds Renl. Italy II. 297 So true and delicate a spirit is inbreathed into the old forms

2 To inspire (person)

1851 Carlyle Life Sterling III. 1883 Presbyt. Mission. 221 A soul saved and inbreathed by Jesus Christ 1895 S. Murray Holiest of All 49 All prove to us how they were more inbred by the Spirit of Christ

3 To draw in as breath, to inhale, inspire

1886 Ellis North Probl. Pain in Fine Mounds (ed. 10) 22 It left herself inbreathing power from on high

Inbreathed (inbrēðd), ppl. a. [f. IN adv. + BREATHED.] Breathed in, inspired

c 1630 Milton At a Solemn Music 4 Well your divine sounds, and mussed power employ, Dead things with inbreathed sense able to pierce 1891 Sir P. Palgrave Norm. & Eng. I. 200 The advantages which the inbreathed spirit receives 1873 Symonds Grk. Poets x. 321 Brilliant with the colour and fancy of the North

Inbreather (inbrī·ðəɹ) [f. as INBREATHE + -ER1.] One who inbreathes, an inspirer

1873 Symonds Grk. Poets iii. 84 Everywhere and ever of 'inbreathers' and 'fosterers' 1880 G. Barker Way to City 280 The very image of the Maker, the Inbreather

Inbreathing (inbrī·ðiŋ), vbl. sb. [f. as prec. + -ING1.] The action of the vb INBREATHE, breathing in, inspiration

1388 Wyclif Isa. xlii. 16 For the inbrethinge of the spirit of his woudies 1657 H. Pinnell Philos. Reformed 60 Man hath an Intellectual and immortal Soul, or Spirit of life, by the inbreathing of God 1658 R. Baron Pyrol. Quadrat. (1842) 163 'There is, saith he, 'some lovely and some desirable thing in man, which is called the in breathing of God' 1659 Gataker Disc. Apol. 72 New England's Life (1885) 128 Men has withdrawn from him that essential inbreathing of God

Inbred (i nbred), ppl. a. (sb.) Also ? 8 imbred [f. IN adv. + BRED.]

1 Bred, engendered, or produced within, innate, native, inherent by nature a 1592 H. Smith Wks. (1867) II. 481 O unbred hart ! O unkind hart ! full, not feeling, never well 1612 Woodall Surg. Mate Wks. (1653) 260 Not onely the Scots, but also all other creatures cannot subsist without a naturall and inbred fortresse. The Downfall of your Inbred Pride 2 Your inbred Curiosity, and love of Papers mortall learning 1738 Wesley Ps. cxxxvii. viii. The Deity is exiled from his throne. The Downfall of your inbred Pride 1849 Grote Greece II. iii. (1862) V. 237 He exhorted them to show their inbred superiority as Dorians a 1857 Parkman Jesuits II. iv. (R.), To be wise, that is to search the truth is a disposition inbred in every man 1872 J. Webster Metallurgy iv. 67 This inbred fault is sufficient a 1875 Bushnell Nat. & Supernat. (1876) I. 125 Out of the inbred love that all men have for their native country

† 2 Bred in a place, native, in quot. 1625 as sb. A native Obs. rare.

1625 Lane Du Bartas, Arc. 100 The old Britton, the naturall Inbred of the country was constrained to for sake it 1638 T. Jones Faunt of Facinets Ded. 3 In the translation I rather the native Beauty of one in bred

3 (Properly in bred Bred in-and in 1898 Stevenson Across the Plains 185 More cyed, short lived, inbred fellahmen

Inbred (inbre·d), v. Also imbread [f. IN-1 + BRED v.]

1 trans. To breed, engender, or produce within 1599 Sandys Europ. Spec. (1632) 81 These Treaties endeavour to imbred that bercenesse and obstinacie in their subiects 1601 Holland Camden's Brit. II. 30 In bred and cherish in great people the seeds of vertu, and publick civility 1647 Bacon Disc. Govt. Eng. I. xvii. (1739) 14 Yet they could not Hereby the more troubled this Land was imbred by Pelagius 1847 Croly Life & Duty 49 Perplexing, these that sleep, and in their folly Im breeding double and sceptic melancholy 1879 M. D. Conway Demonol. II. ix. xxiv. 293 The Church not wishing to imbreed in the popular mind a sceptical habit

† 2 To breed, bring up, or train in a course of action Obs. rare

1610 Holland Camden's Brit. II. 39 Inbread and nuzeled in warlick exercises or robberies rather

In-breeding (i nbrī·diŋ), vbl. sb. [f. IN adv. + BREEDING vbl. sb.] Breeding from animals of the same parentage or closely related; breeding in-and-in c 1842 E. J. Lance Cottage Farmer, An in breeding soon breaks up the inattentive keeper of domestic animals. 1881 J. P. Sheldon Dairy Farming, 2/2 In breeding, that is, the breeding for a time amongst near relations—generally results mischievously on the systems and on the fertility of the stock 1882 Standard 23 Aug. 2/1 Over preserving and in breeding are deteriorating the herds.

† Inbri dle, var. of EMBRIDLE v. Obs.

1611 Florio, Imbridare, to inbridle, to vnsaffle

† Inbri er, var. of IMBRIER v. Obs.

1611 Florio, Infrascare, to intangle, to inbrier, to inbush

† Inbri ng, i n-bri ng, v. Obs. Chiefly Sc. Also 4-7 imbring I'a t and pple inbrought, for Forms see BRING [OE inbringan. f. IN 1 + BRING, transl. L. offerre, etc. See also EMBRING.]

trans. To bring in (lit. and fig.), to introduce, to adduce, to induce, cause to come, in Sc. Law, to bring in by legal authority, to produce in court, to confiscate (the goods of a condemned criminal)

c 1000 Ags. Gosp. Mark ii. 4 Pa hi ne mihton hine in bringan for þære menio 1175 Lamb. Hom. 105 Þitta kenstan þam quen lau imbroht ka wing of Sin 1375 Barbour Bruce iii. 268 I thaugt tham confortyt the kyng, And, to comfort tham, gan inbryng Auld storys 1400 in Secreta Secret., Gov. Englis (E. E. T. S.) 81 Som tyme bis Reuhards is venomous, and inbryngis deth to hem þat takys hit vnder manere 1563 Winzet Flyt. (1890) II. 21 Quhowmekle calamitie is inbrocht be the inductioun of a new doctrine 1574 Inv. & Wardrobe (1815) 200 To seche sek and inbring all our soverane lordis lowellis to his hienes use 1609 Skene Reg. Maj., Stat. Robt III 27 He Justitiar or his deputis, sould cause his Clerk bring in all the cartulis of his Justice aire And gif the saidis cartulis are not inbrocht that sall be imputed to them 1619 Sir J. Scudle Sacrifice Handf. App. 17 Paul proueth both to inbring and other nations after conuersion the per formance of things by them then represented 1752 J. Louthian Form of Process (ed. 2) 55 Ordain all his moveable Goods and Gear to be inbrought to his Majesty's Use. Ibid. 127 Ye denounce them our Rebels, and put them to our Horn, escheat, and in bring all their moveable Goods and Gear to our Use 1818 Scott Old Mort. xxvii. His moveable goods and gear escheat and in brought to his Majesty's use

Inbringer (i nbriŋəɹ) Now rare or Obs. [f. IN adv. + BRINGER.] One who brings in, an introducer

1557 75 Diurnal Occurr. (Bannatyne Club) 176 The in bringaris of this said Inglismen, strangers of this realme, wer James vile and infame, lobbe ane Scot of Mar. 1623 J. Scott Projector to Rdr., I take not what they bring in so much, as I doe the In bringers. a 1670 Stalding French Clerk I. (1792) I. 267 An evil patron and special inbringer of that innovations within the church

† Inbru ngen, vbl. sb. Now rare or Obs. [f. INBRING + -ING1, or f. IN adv. + BRINGING vbl. sb.] The action of bringing in, importation, introduction, bringing in under legal warrant

1387 Trevisa Higden (Rolls) I. 29 An in bryngynge to gretter knowleche in oþer bookes þat followep 1470 Sir Tristrem III. 1978 The inbrungyng in be Realme a 1670 Stalding French Clerk II. (1792) I. 292 For inbringing of men to his regiment. 1693 Lond. Gaz. No. 2936/3 Another Proclamation for the better In bringing of Her Majesties Navie 1829 Scott Rob Roy Introd., The Earl of Argyle's service in the inbringing of MacGregor, with a great many of the leading men of the clan, so boldly executed to death for their offences, is thankfully acknowledged

† Inbro thel, v. Obs. rare [Cf. INBROTHELLED.] trans. To place in a brothel

1611 Florio, Inbordellare, to inbrothell

† Inbro ther, v. Obs. rare [f. IN-1 + BROTHER.] trans. To admit as a brother

1611 Florio, Infratellare, to inbrother

† Inbro therer, obs. form of EMBROTHERER

1577 Fleetwood in Ellis Orig. Lett. Ser. III. 56 On[e] Hayward, an inbrotherer, 'a servaunt of my Lo Wentworthes

1610 Cantesh Marriage Licences to July (MS.), With mus Graues Clunians Cant. Inbrotherer

Inbrow ded, var. of EMBROWDED, embroidered

c 1440 Promp. Parv. 261/1 Inbrowdyd (v.r. inbrowded), intextus Inbrowdyd cloth Pynaun inbrowded, frigia

Inbuche, obs form of AMBUSH

Inburll, var. of EMBELL v. Obs

1438-50 tr. Higden (Rolls) VIII. 432 Messangers were sende from kynge Edwarde unto the pope for this accorde to be inburlled

Inburning (i nbə·niŋ), ppl. a. [f. IN adv. + BURNING ppl. a.] Burning within or internally

1596 Spenser Q. Fv. VII. 17 Her inburning wrath she will abate Inburst (inbɹɛst, pb rare [f. IN adv. + BURST sb., cf. outburst] A bursting in, irruption.

1837 Carlyle Fr. Rev. I. VII. ix. Like the infinite inburst of water, or say rather, of inflammable, self igniting fluid 1858 Mayor Hildan's Lect. I. 124 If there was no inburst of the essential Scottish spirit into English literature 1870 G. Macdonald Wife Camb. II. xx. 291, I could see nothing for some time for the mighty inburst of a lovely light

Inbu rst, v. rare [f. IN adv. + BURST v.] intr. To burst in, to come in with suddenness and violence So I nbursting vbl. sb. and ppl. a.

c 1540 Pilgr. P. 220 in Hymns Antiquit. (1865) App. i. 85 Her workes lay in prysons fast, till the inbursting of glory in brast a 1876 H. Bushnell in Butler's Bible Work (1885) II. 326 Like the inbursting of an cloudless day on all the righteous dead 1882 Mach. Mag. XLVI. 125 Sorely pressed by the inbursting Goths in the province of Mœsia a 1533 Ld. Berners Huon lx. 95 Ye knyghtes that were inbushyd in the wode. 1611 Florio, Infrascare, to in tangle, to imbrier, to inbush.

† Inbush, obs variant of AMBUSH v. also to cover with bushes, involve, entangle.

In-by(e (i nbi), adv. Sc. and north dial. [f. IN adv. + BY adv.] In an inward direction, closer or further on towards the centre or interior of a house, farm, mine, etc

1768 Ross Helenore. 66 (Jam.) That gate she hadis, and as she went [= wore] unby She does a fass among the trees espy 1825-80 JAMIESON To gin unby, to go from the door towards the fire 1851 GREENWELL Coal trade Terms Northumb & Durh 31 Inbye, in the workings, or away from the shaft 1899 Westm Gaz 16 Aug 6/3 The passage is rather low, and we had to ride 'unby' [in a coal mine]

b attrib as inbye fields (on a farm), inbye servant, worker, etc.

† Inc, prov Obs. Forms 1–3 inc, 2 synce, xinc, hinc, 3 sunc, (Orm synnc), unk, hunke (OE. inc = OS ink, Goth. igqis, ON yčr), dat and acc dual of the second pers pron THOU. The acc had in early OE the fuller form incit, which has no parallel in the other Teut languages In late OE altered (after the nom dual git and the plur ge, eow) to ginc, gunc, corrupted subseq to unk, hunk]

a You two, both of you b To you two

c 1000 Sax Leech Matt. IX 29 Sy inc æftyr incrun gele sfan Ibid Mark 1 17 Ic do inc [Hatton gunc] þæt xij hiob sawla onfonde. c 1175 Lamb Hom 93 Hwi tweoð hinc, swa þet ge dursten fondien godes c 1200 OWEIN 4493 Wiþy unnclennesswe fule lust, To filenn swa sunnc þuhc. a 1225 St Marher 21 Þe halt gast, þat gilt of unc is bleo a 1250 Halt Meid 11 Ne bree þu nan tal seil þat scalled inc to gederes a 1250 Owl & Night 1733 Unk [= Hunkel] schal tiche harm and schonde c 1250 Gen & Ex 2830 Ic wil red Gode beien bringen read and sped ‖ Inca (i ŋkă). Also 6–8 Inga, 7 Ingua, Ynca [Peruvian inca 'lord, king, emperor', also, more widely, 'man of the blood royal', the king being distinguished as Capa Inca, i.e. 'sole lord' (Garcilasso de Vega, Comment Reales (1609) I xxiv)

(The form inga was according to Garcilasso (himself of the race of Incas), a Spanish corruption !)

1 The title of the emperor or king of Peru before its conquest by the Spaniards, also, one of the royal race of Peru, descended from Manco Capac and Mama Ocollo

1526 OVIEDO Hist Gen y Nat de las Indias XLVI viii (1855). Solo al superior señor le llaman Inga] 1594 HAKLUYT Epist v (1597) 575 Ihs. Pountnez Peru yet vnder the Gouernement of their naturall King, which then was called Inga 1604 E. GRIMSTONE tr D Acosta's Hist W Ind iv xiii 300 The Ingua's King of Peru 1645 HOWELL Lett (1650) II Introd Poem 2 Which made the Indian Inca think they were Spirits who in white sheets the aer did tear 1668 H. STUBBE Iter Dev 111 Inca (1731) to Those of Peru frequently sacrifice their Children for the success of the affairs of their Ingas 1777 ROBERTSON Hist Amer (1778) III 3 The ancient title of the Incas or Lords of Peru 1840 Penny Cycl XVIII 105/1 In 1780 the Peruvians took up arms against the Spaniards, under Tupac Amaro, an Inca 1847 PRESCOTT Peru (1850) II 143 The brows of the young Inca were encircled with the imperial borla by the hands of his conqueror

2 attrib & Inca Cockatoo, an adaptation of the German name, Inka Kakadu (cf Reichenow, Vogelbilder aus fernen Zonen 1878–83), of the Pink or Leadbetter's Cockatoo of Australia b Inca dog, a South American species or sub-species of dog. Canis inca of Tschudi c Inca tern, a species of tern (Nonnia inca), called also Bearded Tern

Originally described in 1826 by Lesson (Voyage de la Coquille, Zoologie, 731) as 'Sterne des Incas' Sterna inca, placed by Bodd (Tabl 1844, p 189) in a new genus Nonnia, overlooking which Jardine in 1850 proposed to name it Inca mystacalis

1887 MACFARLANE in Ibis 204 There were numbers of the beautiful slate black Inca Tern (Nonnia inca) with its curling white moustaches and cherry red bill and feet

† Inca binate, v Obs [f IN-1 or 2 + CABIN + -ATE 3 cf F encabaner] trans To enclose as in a cabin or cabins; to confine, restrict 1672 Mist & Hearst Disciple Mil Observ Parv. Port 11 177 This power was incabinated within the breast of Limpicums Kings and Generals.

† Inca'g, v Obs rare—0 [f IN-1 or 2 + CAGE v 1] trans To put into a cag or small cask

1611 COTGR., Encaquer, imagged, put into a cag

† Inca go, etc, obs var of ENCAGE, etc

a 1586 SIDNEY Arcadia IV Wks 1726 II 250 Fitly incaged for death a 1586 CLERK PEMBROKE Pr xvii in My soule incaged lyes with lions brood Incalculability (inkæ lkiläbi liti) [f next see -ITY] The quality of being incalculable.

1873 B STEWART Conserv Energy vi § 218 Such machines are eminently characterized by their incalculability 1892 Standard 21 June 5/4 Mr Gladstone's incalculability is a danger

Incalculable (inkæ lkiläbl), a [f IN-3 + CALCULABLE So in F (1789 in Hatz.-Darm.)]

1 That cannot be calculated a That cannot be reckoned up, of an amount or number greater than can be computed, beyond calculation

1795 BURKE Scarcity Wks VII 398 They may even in one year of such false policy, do mischiefs incalculable 1813 W H IRELAND Scribblemania 253 The incalculable benefits derivable from education 1845 LYTTON Zanoni 28 They say his wealth is incalculable

b That cannot be reckoned or determined beforehand, incapable of being estimated or forecast

1796 BURKE Regic. Peace I Wks VIII 83 Passing, with a rapid, eccentrick, incalculable course, from the wildest anarchy to the sternest despotism 1846 HAWTHORNE Mosses I v 70 Throwing himself into an incalculable position

2 Of a person or his disposition That cannot be reckoned upon, such that his movements cannot be estimated or forecast

1876 GEO ELIOT Dan Der V xxxvii, Anxiety about the incalculable son 1879 — Theo Such VI 123 An uncertain incalculable temper

Inca lculableness. [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being incalculable

1864 in WEBSTER 1879 GEO ELIOT Theo Such VI 126 Ground for be ming with his diurnal incalculableness 1897 Daily News 19 Feb 5/2 It entirely falsifies the predictions made on the incalculableness of the female vote

Inca lculably, adv [f as prec + -LY 2] In an incalculable manner, to an incalculable extent, beyond calculation, more than can be computed

1806 MAUREL Life of Vaguel 1 (Jod.) The sum total unlawfully and demanded 1837 H. MARTINEAU Soc Amer II 162 The population is advancing incalculably faster in Illinois than in Missouri

† Inca lendared, pa pple Obs In 7 ered [f IN-2 + CALENDAR n or v + -ED 1] Entered in the calendar of saints, canonized

1623 DRAYTON Poly-olb XVIII 78 These floure haue been for Saints preferd, And with their leader still doe him maken deare

Incalescence (inkăle sĕns) Now rare or Obs [f I incalescĕre see INCALESCENT and -ENCE] The action or process of becoming hot or warm, rise of temperature, heating

1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep V xxiii 270 Making no mention thereof, Servius commendeth that in, a sober incalescence and regulated restriction from wine 1669 BOYLE Contin New Exp (1682) 154 The Incalescence of solid bodies by the affusion of liquid ones 1749 FAVINGTON Urbius Method & Paprats (1754) I 58 No sooner do the Inebriation and Incalescence go off, but a Sinking of the Humors, a Coldness and Dullness take Place 1761 Dyer's Carolina 16 The greatest Incalescences of the Air, which I have known take place in Twenty four Hours were 19 Degrees in the Spring, 24 in the Summer

† Incale scency. Obs [f as prec see -ENCY] = prec

1658 J. ROWLAND Tadoxa 180 Though it produce an incalescency in the Spirits 1691 RAY Creation II (1692) 58–9 This Inunction is useful, indeed necessary For pre serving the Animal Spirits from too much Incalescency

Incalescent (inkăle sĕnt, a Now rare [ad L incalescent-em, pres pple of incalescĕre to become warm or hot, f in- (IN-2) + calescĕre to grow warm] Becoming hot or warm, increasing in warmth lit and fig

1681 [T. FLATMAN] Cheshire Cheese 11 213 There are many learned Chymists that looke upon incalescent Mercuries, as Chymical non entia 1706 PHILLIPS, Incalescent Mer cury, a Name given by Mr Boyle to Mercury or Quick silver which being mingled with a due Proportion of Leaf Gold, or small Filings, would amalgamate, or turn to a Paste, and grow hot with the Cold 1836 G MARTINEAU Blanch Carter I xv 212 [His] bubbling, generations would ascend as incalescent adjectives to the popular ideas of the sublime

In-calf, (inkā f), a Also 6 encalf [attrib use of phrase in calf see IN prep 10 b] Of a cow That is in calf, pregnant So Inca lving a.

Inca lver, a cow in calf

1598 FLORIO Worlde (1843) 90 To carrye of the sonnes of Ewe Haddocke one encalf qwye. 1613 SIR R BOYLE Diary in Camden Miscellany (1880) I 9, I delivered him 30 incalf cowes and oxen 1856 Farmer's Mag Nov 417 It is their common practice to purchase incalving cows 1886 Leeds Mercury 22 Feb 6 4 Not so many milch cows and incalvers 1890 Bradford (Yorks) Observer 19 Dec 6/6 Keeping incalf cows on the pastures in the bleak days and chilly nights of October and November

† Incal ll, v Obs [f IN-1 + CALL v, after L incantare to call in, INVOKE.]

1 Trans To call in, to call upon, invoke a 1340 HAMPOLE Psalter xiii 9 God þan incald noght þat was to Here vs in day þat we inkall be c 1400 (Pol Poems 95) Enchaunte ys callid fendes to ken hum pingys, or to telle hem pingys be for 1563 WINZET Four Scor Thre Quest Ixxii Wks 1888 I 124 Of we may mak the sanctis to pray for vs 1637–90 ROB. Hist Mirac (Wodrow Soc.) 329 After recalling of the Lord's name.

b To pray for, invoke, 'call down' (on a person) rare

1563 WINZET Four Scor Thre Quest lxii Wks 1888 I 113 The Prophet inculis the wrayth of God on thame

2 intr & To call on or upon — 1 b To pray for, that a 1570 Knox Hist Ref Wks 1846 I 162 That Sanctis should not be honored nor incalled upone 1588 A KING tr Canisius Catech 208 b, Promised to al thame quha vn feignedlie sal incal on the 1589 R BRUCE Serm (Wodrow Soc.) 69 He man bow down and earnestly incall for the Spirit 1591 Ibid 202 The prophet inculled that the Sun should be brought back 1665 R BLAIR Autobiog vi (1848) 85 After recalling upon the name of the Lord.

Hence † Inca ller, one who invokes, a supplicant

1589 R BRUCE Serm (Wodrow Soc) 149 Ye man be dili gent incallers for mercie

Incalling, vbl sb [See the senses.]

† 1 (f INCALL + -ING 1] Invocation, supplication

1554 KNOX Prayer Sel Writ (1845) 44 The incallings of such as pray without Jesus Christ are vain

2 [f IN adv + CALLING vbl sb] The action of calling in, invitation

1669 R. FERGUSON Impell Script (1851) 18 This truth anent the incalling of the Gentiles

† Inca lm, obs var of encalm (see EN-1 2), to be calm

1582 N THORNTON tr Castanheda's Conq E Ind VII 17 b, The Easterlys after hee was incalmed Ibid xxiv 62 b, Fright great ships were incalmed

Incalver, Incalving see INCALF

† Incameration (inkæmerē·ʃən) Obs [a F incamération = It incamerazione, n of action from F incamérer, It incamerare, f IN- IN- + It camera chamber, the papal treasury see CAMERA 2] Annexation to the papal domain

1659 Hist Interdicts II 11 161 He opposed the validity of the Bull for the incameration of Castro 1727 41 CHAMBERS Cycl, In amentation, in the apostolic chancery the union of some land, right, or revenue to the domain of the pope

Incamp, -ment see INCAMP, -MENT

Incan (i ŋkan), a [f INCA + AN] Pertaining to the Incas of Peru

1884 Scient Am Mod VI 216 We have no accurate knowledge of the Incan history earlier than the century before the invasion of the Spaniards

† Incan ncred, ppl a Obs [an encanknred see ENCANKER under ENCA-] Cankered, converted into an ulcer or gangrene

1566 SHUTE Candlem Turk Wars 68 There appeared in the ranues of hys backe an incancred appostume, which dyd eate hys flesshe

Incandent (inkæ ndent), a rare [f IN-2 + L candent-em CANDENT, after L incandescĕre.] Shining white

1854 DOBELL Balder XIII 210 Some great acropolis, Above the wondering eyes of ancient men Sent out her roofs round the incandent hill

Incandesce (inkænde·s), v [ad L incandescĕre, to become warm, glow, inflame, f in- (IN-2) + candescĕre to become white]

1 intr To be or become incandescent, to glow with heat Chiefly in pres pple Incande scing = INCANDESCENT

1874 Pop Sci Monthly Jan, The heat of the incandescing body 1880 Nature 2 Patent No 2909 My electric lamp consists essentially of an incandescing conductor of high resistance hermetically sealed in a glass vacuum chamber 1888 Nature XXXVII 357 To heat the incandescing body to an extremely high temperature

2 trans To render incandescent, cause to glow 1883 SIR W THOMSON in Nature XXVIII 278 The activity of the sun's radiation is sixty seven times greater than that of a Swan lamp per equal area, when incandesced to 240 candles per horse power

Incandescence (inkande sĕns [f INCANDESCENT see -ENCE, so in F (1798 in Dict Acad.)]

1 The fact or condition of glowing with heat the emission of light by a body heated to a high temperature, the state of being incandescent

1794 J. HUTTON Philos Light etc. 44 A body heated far below the intensity necessary for incandescence. 1837 BREWSTER Magnet 53 Incandescence does not give to bodies the power of coercing the magnetic influence. 1860 IVES Light 111 31 Meteorites are brought to incandescence by friction against the earth's atmosphere 1881 SPOTTIS WOODE in Nature No 623 547 The Swan, the Maxim, the Lane Fox, and the Edison lamps, in which the light is due to the incandescence of a fine thread of carbon

b transf Glowing or intense heat rare

1849 H. H. BANCROFT Pioneer Days 195 It was delightful to me after the incandescence from which I had come

c transf. Matter in a state of incandescence or glow

1853 KANE Grinnell Exp xxvii (1856) 230 We had hydrolia a mass of incandescence 230 1861 Illustr Lond News 23 The descending lava presented a head of incandescence 200 rods in width

2 fig The state of becoming or being 'inflamed' with anger or other strong feeling, ardency, fervour

1656 BLOUNT Glossogr, Incandescence, a being or waxing very angry, or greatly inflamed 1888-3 W M TAYLOR in Sch of Empire Refin Answ II 105 Not with the earnest zeal of rant or roaring, but with that of fervid incandescence 1898 Daily News 13 17 Nov 5 3 In ally prone to velocity and to sudden states of incandescence

So Incande scency (rare), the quality or state of being incandescent

1882 Brooke's Elect Illum I 153 A platinum wire 18 B W G and 15 feet long was raised to vivid incandescency

Incandescent (inkande sĕnt), a [ad L incandescent-em, pres pple of incandescĕre to INCANDESCE. so in F. (1798 in Dict Acad.)]

1 Emitting light on account of being at a high temperature, glowing with heat

1794 J HUTTON Philos Light etc. 172 The incandescent heat would soon be carried away from the mass of coals, however great 1822 IMISON Sci & Art II 27 If the heated body is not luminous or incandescent, as hot water, for in stance 1869 TYNDALL Notes Lect Light 43 The spectrum of incandescent sodium vapour consists of a brilliant band on the confines of the orange and yellow 1878 PAGE Adv Text-bk Geol 1 35 The hypothesis of an originally incan descent globe

b gen Glowing, brightly shining, brilliantly luminous

1867 J. HOGG Microsc. I. II. 234 If any incandescent object be placed in a suitable position 1871 B. TAYLOR Faust (1875) I. XXI. 181 Here gush the sparkles incandescent Like a tattered showers of golden sand. 1872 C. KING Mountain Nurse V. 228 Through forest vistas, the incandescent snow greeted us.

c transf. Intensely hot rare.

1859 SALA Tw. round Clock (1861) 8 These are the shops to make your incandescent coppers hiss.

d. techn. Applied to that form of electric light produced by the incandescence of a filament or strip of carbon in the glow lamp as distinguished from the arc light see ARC 5. Hence extended to various forms of gas and other lamps in which an appliance of a similar nature is used to increase the brightness of the flame.

1848 Times 2 Nov. 3/6 The Electric light is not a flame, but is an incandescent light 1881 SIR W. THOMSON in Nature No. 619 444 A Lane cell charged and employed to excite incandescent vacuum lamps 1894 Daily News 27 Nov. 3/4 The use of the incandescent lamps with shades is rapidly increasing. The leading features of the system are the incandescence of some or a mantle of filament, by which a soft, white, steady, and smokeless light is given 1899 Incandescent gas lamps were introduced two years ago to light the streets of Oxford.

2 fig. Becoming or being warm or intense in feeling expression etc., ardent, fiery, 'flaming up'.

1850 I. TAYLOR Logic in Theol. 340 Holy Scripture become resplendent or, as one might say, incandescent, through out and taking effect upon all minds 1882 FARRAR Early Chr. II. 23 As he dwells on the poet his words seem to grow incandescent with the writer's vehemence 1894 Westm. Gaz. 27 Dec. 2/3 The incandescent passions of the Anti Semites

Hence Incande scantly adv., also fig. 'hotly'

1803 Edin. Rev. II. 284 More incandescently wrought headed than any body else

+Incane scence. Obs. rare — ° [f. as next + -ENCE.] (See quot.)

1656 BLOUNT Glossogr. Incanescens, a waxing hoary or white headed. 1658 in PHILLIPS.

Incanescent (inkăne·sĕnt, a. rare [f. I incandescent em, prec. pple of incandescĕre to become white, f. IN- 2 + candescĕre to become white, candēre to be white] = INCANDESCENT.

1866 Treas. Bot., Incanescent Being a hoary or grey aspect, because of the presence of hairs upon the surface.

+Incano nical, a. Obs. rare [IN- 1] Not canonical, uncanonical

1587 C. DAVE Answ. to H. Barlow 105 Blackall, in canonicall proceedings 1648 HERRICK Hesper., To his Lordship's Nephew Their large narrations, mean meall Incanonicall.

+Incanopy, v. Obs. [f. INCANOPE + -Y.] trans. To inclose in or as a canopy.

1607 WALKINGTON Opt. Glass (1664) 8 Incanopied and intrenched in this darksome misty cloud of Ignorance.

Incanous (inkē·nəs) Bot. [f. L. incanus hoary + -OUS.] Hoary with white pubescence

1864 WEBSTER cites A. Gray.

+Incan nt, v. Obs [ad L. incantā re to chant, make incantation, charm, enchant, bewitch, f. IN- (1) + cantāre to sing, chant.] = trans. To use incantation or enchantment = trans. To enchant, charm Hence Incan nting vbl. sb. and ppl. a.

1546 BALE Image Iv. Vanities (1550) 35 All ways and diuelysh sciences exorcysing, inuanting, & conjuring 1658 BROME Late Late Beggars 38 If they have leave to incanting amongst them then formerly 1665 SIR T. HERBERT Trav. (1677) 166 With incanting voices, poesy, mirth, and wine, passing the sport commonly to admiration.

+Incantate, v. Obs rare — ° [ppl. stem of L. incantāre. see prec.] = prec.

1623 COCKERAM II. to Charme, Incantate.

Incantation (inkæntē·ʃən) [ad L. incantation (13th c. in Godef. Compl.), ad L. incantātion-em, n. of action from incantāre see INCANT.]

1 The use of a formula of words spoken or chanted to produce a magical effect, the utterance of a spell or charm, more widely, the use of magical ceremonies or arts, magic, sorcery, enchantment

1390 GOWER Conf. III. 45 With ingromaunce he wolde reuele I to make his incantacion 1597 ANDREW Jewman's Disc. Bruit Beasts D3 It is good drinke for them that hath eaten or hath in his body any enchantacion 1616 CHAPMAN Homer's Hymne to Hermes 71 Thy vertue Gainst Great all cunning incantation, I to serue as for a Lance, Or Amulet 1757 BURKE Heraclius to Phocas II. 1 (R.) Medicine was always joined with magick, no remedy was administered without many strenuous ceremony and incantation 1866 BOURNE St. Hunter (1865) 315 I feel the demons of old summoned by incantation

b with pl. An instance of this, concr. a magical formula chanted or spoken, or (more widely) any act or ceremony performed, to produce a magical effect, a spell, charm

1418–20 TRIVET Chron. Troy I. II (MS. Digby 230) If 31/1 Oethes le King wt ful greet laboure Made kepe it by incan tacions 1532 MORE Lett. Frith K. ij b, To stoppe every good maines eares from suche vngracyous incantacions as thys manne reasons be. 1600 WARNER Alb. Eng. XI. LXVII. (1612) 286 Loues Incantations so did he with Maluie such defie 1672 SIR T. BROWNE Lett. Friend § 6 Amulets, Spells, Nigils, and Incantations, practised in other Diseases 1774 PENNANT Tour Scotl. in 1772, 15 The old women, when they undertake a cure, mumble certain rhythmical incantations. 1854 H. READ Lect. Eng. Lit. VI. (1878) 195 The magic of the dark incantations of Shakspeare's witchcraft

Incantator (inkæntē·tə) rare. [a L. incantātor, agent noun from incantāre see INCANT.] One who uses incantation, an enchanter

1447 BOKENHAM Seyntys (Roxb.) 85 Julyan noon to the incantatour Thy craft he sey[de is not worth a flykke 1656 BLOUNT Glossogr., Incantator a charmer or enchanter 1885 A. STEWART Iron Nose in Wodenslee I. 8 We have to beg the incantator not to direct the rats to the Lochaber shore

Incantatory (inkæntātĕri), a. rare [f. as prec. + -ORY.] Using, or of the nature of, incantation

1646 SIR T. HERBERT Travel (ed. 3) 111. 12 Fortune tellers, Jugglers, Conjurers, and the like incantatory impostors 1847 in CRAIG. 1875 in Amulets, charms, and all incantatory imposture 1888 Harper's Mag. Aug. 433/2 It is wild, barbaric, incantatory. It is a monotonous musical conjuration

+Incan ter. Obs. rare. [f. INCANT v. + -ER 1.] = INCANTATOR

1829 Examiner 500/1 The flapping of fire at wings from a big mitre demon hovering over the incanters.

Incanton (inkæ·ntŏn), v. [f. IN- 2 + CANTON sb.] trans. To make into or admit as a canton 1705 ADDISON Italy Switzerland 517 When the Cantons of Bern and Zurich proposed, at a general Diet, the Incanton of Glaris into the Number of the Cantons, the Roman Catholick Party proposed at the same time the Incanton of Constance, to a Counterpoise.

Incapability (inkēpăbi·liti). [f. next + -ITY.] The quality or condition of being incapable, incapacity, inability, incompetence see the adj.

1632 SHERWOOD, Incapabilitie, or incapableness a 1645 SYDENHAM (J.) You have nothing to urge but a kind of incapability in yourself to write 1665 BOYLE Occas. Refl. (1848) 371 An absolute Incapability of Love 1793 HOLCROFT tr. Lavater's Physiogn. xiv. 228 There are capabilities and incapabilities, in the countenance 1808 MISS EDGEWORTH Tales I. 61 The difficulty of governing Ireland has entirely in our own incapability of understanding.

Incapable (inkē·păbl), a. (sb.) [ad med.L. incapabilis, f. IN- (3) + capabilis CAPABLE (1 incapable is known from 1517 (Hatz.-Darm.), capable in Eng. from c 1500.]

1 Not capable, the opposite of capable

1 Unable to take in to receive, contain, hold, or keep Const of, this

c 1600 SHAKS. Sonn. CXIII. Incapable of more, repleat with you, My most true minde thus maketh mine eye untrue 1628 BISHOP HALL Medit. & Vows (1629) 1. 1. 1. Many there are, in themselfe, they sent out colonies into Ireland. 1663 Boyle Contin. 109 The Mobility of their Spirits, and the Visibility of their Bodies, make them incapable of a secret 1842 I. HUNT Nile (1864) 2 This island would be incapable of his own wealth

†2 Unable to receive or take calmly, put up with, or endure, impatient or intolerant of. Obs.

1643 SIR J. BROWNE Relig. Med. Pref., Men of my condition may be excusable if affronts as hopeless of their resentments make me incapable 1661 Spect. No. 448 P. 4 Your Temper is Wanton, and incapable of the least Pain

2 Unable or unfit to receive so as to be affected or influenced by, not open to or susceptible of, unable to 'take in' so as to realize, insensible to Const of, to, or ab.

1601 R. JOHNSON Kingd. & Commw. (1603) 64 Pluto deemed the Cyrenians incapable of discipline, by reason of their long prosperitie 1608 SHAKS. Ham. IV. VII. 10 One incapable of her own distresse 1644 QUARLES Iuuenilia 5 b (1851) I Lord, wherein am I more incapable, Of thy Creation, then Babel's proud lungs? 1683 TOM W. Dunton to Bohun's Ant. Perfect. (R.), Except age,—Incapable of pleasures youth abuse. In others blames what age, dotes before. 1850 HAWTHORNE Scarlet Nat. Hist. II. If he refuse this, he is incapable of science

3 Of such a nature, or in such a condition, as not to allow or admit of, not admitting or susceptible of Const of, also formerly with to

I speaketh to that cannot [with an infinitive passive, e.g. incapable of manumanut, or incapable of being manumitted, that cannot be measured

1601 HOLLAND Pliny No. 401 P. 3 His Person might make him believe himself not incapable to be beloved 1748 Anson's Voy. II. VII. 210 The pearl oyster was incapable of being raised 1871 H. SPENCER Princ. Biol. I. 491 An avoidable loss of heat which is incapable of accurate measurement 1872 YEATS Techn. Hist. Comm. 430 Per manent, and incapable of being lost

4 Not having the capacity, power, or fitness for a specified function, action, etc., unable Const of, also formerly with inf.

With verbal nouns, or infinitives, equivalent to 'that cannot with an infinitive active, e.g. incapable of inspiration, or incapable of aspiring = 'that cannot aspire'.

1620 SHAKS. Temp. II. III. 17 Of temporal royalties He thinks me now incapable 1667 MILTON Comus 448 I am not your Father growne incapable Of reasonable affayres? 1674 tr. Scheffer's Hist. Lapland 34 Their understanding incapable of discerning between true and false 1781 GIBBON Decl. & F. XXIX. III. 224 A claim, which they were incapable of supporting, either by reason, or by arms 1783 Hist. Miss Ballenden I. 179, I was almost incapable to utter a syllable 1839 HALLAM Hist. Lit. I. II. § 95 In capable, in the infancy of criticism, to discern authentic from spurious writings 1842 MRS. CARLYLE Lett. I. 149, I am still incapable of much exertion 1895 Bookman Oct. 22/2 Louis (XIV.) was also quite incapable of appreciating genius in others.

b In a good sense: Not having the depravity, effrontery, or moral weakness for a specified act, etc.

1735 YOUNG Centaur II. Wks. 1757 IV. 136 The world was incapable of so great a guilt 1828 SCOTT J. M. Perth XVIII. My foes have laid things to my charge whereof I am incapable, even in thought 1870 BRYANT Iliad I. v. 147 The valiant Diomede replied, Incapable of fear

c absol. Destitute of, or deficient in, ordinary capacity or natural ability, incompetent, without natural qualification

In phr. drunk and incapable (in police reports), i.e. so drunk as to be incapable of taking care of himself

1594 SHAKS. Rich. III, III. iii. 18 Incapable, and shallow Innocents, You cannot guesse who caus'd your Fathers death 1682 COCKERAM, Incapable, which cannot conceiue, a foole 1849 MACAULAY Hist. I. 89, VI. II. 238 That the finances might not be ruined by incapable and inexperienced Papists 1883 C. J. WILLS Mod. Persia 130 In a few days he was found drunk and incapable in the street

5 Not having some external, esp. legal, qualification, not legally qualified or entitled, disqualified. Const of, also formerly with inf.

1651 HOBBES Leviath. II. XIX. 100 They are incapable of Election of any new Monarch 1712 ARBUTHNOT Speci. No. 295 P. 8 The Jews are in most, if not all, Places incapable of either Lands or Offices 1729 Acct. the Conviction of Fact., John Wilkes Esq. was read as incapable of being elected a Member to serve in this present Parliament 1818 HALLAM Mid. Ages (1872) I. 190 Incapable of property, and destitute of redress 1855 MACAULAY Hist. V. III. 518 In the every person who should presume to take any such office should be for life incapable of holding any public employment whatever

II. †7 In passive sense = med.L. incapabilis that cannot be taken in or comprehended That cannot be received or apprehended Const to. Obs rare

1593 NASHE In Pierces Supplication I. 167 God, of himselfe, incapable to sense In's Works resteales him t'our intelligence. a 1625 BOYS in Spurgeon Treas. Dav. Ps. XIX. Introd., God is incapable to sense, yet he makes himself visible in his works.

8 ab. A thoroughly incompetent person, one without capacity or ability 1839 BENTHAM Plan Parl. Reform (1817) 25 Many opulent, and thence idle incapables crowd the list 1838 DYCE Akenside VI. 81, Savaglians and his friends were imbecilles—incapables 1861 G. SMITH Hist. Canada VII. 360 The guidance of an incapable like Radagasius.

Inca pableness. [f. prec. + -NESS.] The quality of being incapable, incapability

1632 SHERWOOD, Incapablenesse or incapableness 1642 ROGERS Naaman 4 Our incapablenesse of holy things 1650 R. GELL Amendm. Table 403 Not to be understood onely according to the dulnesse or incapablenes of the hearer 1860 EMERSON Cond. Life, Culture (1861) 95 An incapableness of being dazzled or frightened

Inca·pably, adv. [f. as prec. + -LY 2.] 8 In an incapable or incompetent manner b To such a degree as to be incapable in phr. incapably drunk see INCAPABLE 5)

1840 WORCESTER cites Westm. Rev. 1896 Daily News 19 Sept. 2/6 She was found incapably drunk in Rosehill road

+Incapa·city, v. Obs rare [f. L. incapax, incapac- + -ITY cf. capacity.] = INCAPACITATE

1683 E. HOOPER Prop. & Perdes's Mystic Div. 10 Then are you utterly incapacified as to the Concerns of these Mysteries and Sublimities

Incapacious (inkăpē·ʃəs), a. [f. L. incapax, incapac- + -OUS. (cf. It. incapace and L. CAPACIOUS.] Not capacious, the opposite of capacious

1 Not of sufficient size to take in or contain something, not having space or room b Not able to contain much, not spacious or roomy, narrow, limited. (lit and fig.)

1635 PAGITT Christianogr. App. 11 These my Letters are in capacious for men to set downe at large the reasons 1668 HOWE Bless. Righteous (1825) 4 The momentary pleasure of narrow and incapacious sense a 1725 BURNET (J.), Souls that are made little and incapacious cannot enlarge their thoughts to take in any great compass of times or things

2 Unable to comprehend or apprehend, not having mental capacity for something Const of, also formerly with to b. absol. Deficient in mental capacity or ability

1617 MIDDLETON & ROWLEY Fair Quarrel II. II, Can art be so dim sighted, learned sir? I did not think her so incapacious 1695 in Woodward Eupath. (1859) 1. 80 Incapacious of them into popular eares and capacities, incapacious of them 1697–77 FEATHAM Reproofs II. Intr. 293 Nature has doom'd him among the incapacious and silly 1852 W. HARTLEY Infant Baptism 70 [He] was incapacious to comprehend a rule or law 1856 LANDOR Pericles & Asp. Wks. 1846 II. 404 The minds of them all, however incapacious, are carried to the utmost pitch of enthusiasm

Hence Incapa ciousness, the quality of being incapacious, want of capacity

1797 in BAILEY vol. II. Hence in JOHNSON, LONDY, etc

Incapacitate (inkăpæ·sitēt), v. [f. INCAPACITY + ATE 3 cf. capacitate.]

1 trans To deprive of capacity, to render incapable, to disqualify, unfit Const for, †of (obs.), from, or inf

1661 SOUTH Serm. III. 170 There is an Universal stain and depravation upon Mans Nature, that does incapacitate him for the Fruition of God 1679 HARRIS Hard. Angl. XII. 137 They are incapacitated of digesting the almonious humours into flesh 1797 SWIFT What passed in London, Which might incapacitate her to give ready and apt answers 1830 HERSCHEL Stud. Nat. Phil. 91 A state that incapacitates us from reasoning, and almost from observation 1877 S. COX Sabbath Annals VII. (1878) 154 A reward which his evil qualities and defects incapacitated him to incisive 1882 Med. Pitman Mission I. Greece & Pal 254 My lameness does not incapacitate me for the work of the day school

2 To deprive of legal capacity, to disqualify in law

1657 Cromwell Sp 21 Apr in Carlyle, You have in capacitated public Preachers from sitting in Parliament. 1687 in Magd. Coll. & Jas II (O H S) 222 The order for incapacitating the late Fellows was read 1765 Black. stone Comm I 162 A minor was incapacitated from sitting in either house, by the law and custom of parliament 1884 Law Rep 29 Ch Div 548 If the death of one of two trustees does not incapacitate the other trustee from giving a good receipt for trust funds paid to him

Hence Incapacitated, ppa & pa Incapacitating ppl adjs

1763 Johnson Let to Reynolds 12 Apr in Boswell, If you could procure the revocation of this incapacitating Edict 1809 Eugenia de Acton Journ of Days II 73 The incapacitated situation of his servant 1812 Hunt & Isabella II 59 Many instances of daughters supporting in spacitated parents. 1859 Lord Eliot Jhon Sorkin 37 To look always from overhead at the crowd of one's fellow men must be in many ways incapacitating

Incapacitation (inkăpæsitē·ʃən) [n of action f. Incapacitate.] The action of incapacitating or fact of being incapacitated, the rendering or being rendered incapable, disqualification

a general cf prec. 1

1790 G Walker Serm II xix 82 An incapacitation for the enjoyment of heaven 1871 R Ellis Catullus xxi 8 A wily wit defeated Pays in scandalous incapacitation

b legal cf prec 2

1770 Burke Pres Discont Wks 1842 I 143 If they suffer thus power of arbitrary incapacitation to stand, they have utterly perverted every other power of the house of commons 1771 Junius Lett xv 93 note, The house of Commons exceeded their boasted precedent of the expulsion and subsequent incapacitation of Mr Walpole 1855 Milman Lat Chr iv viii (1864) II 385 A public sign of their incapacitation for secular business

attrib 1806 W Taylor in Ann Rev IV 210 Mr Belsham applauds the 43rd incapacitation act

Incapacity (inkăpæ·sĭti) [ad F. incapacité (16th c in Hatz.-Darm.) ← It. incapacità (Florio, 1598) see In-³ and Capacity]

1. Want of capacity, inability, powerlessness, in competence, natural disqualification, incapability

Also with an and pl, an instance of this

1611 Florio, Incapacita, incapacity, incapableness 1646 Sir I Browne Pseud Ep III i 109 We doe not conceive any such intolerable incapacity in the organs of divers other Quadrupedes. 1647 Clarendon Hist Reb I 141 The Lord Conway for age and incapacity, was at last removed from the Secretary's office 1718 Steele Spect No 456 P 2 The Incapacity of an Infant or Lunatick 1782 Gibbon Decl & F xxi (1869) I 580 His incapacity and ignorance were equal to his presumption 1819 Shelley Cenci II ii, The eldest son of a rich nobleman Is heir to all his incapacities 1873 Hamerton Intell Life x v (1879) 191 Cerebral fatigue leading to temporary incapacity

b Const of, for, to, inf cf Incapable

a 1655 J Goodwin I Heard the Spirit (1859) 27 An utter incapacity of receiving the Spirit 1681 Littrell Brief Rel (1857) I 131 The incapacity of the emperor to hinder it 1736 Butler Anal I xvi 100 Through incapacity of knowing better, and doing better for themselves. 1823 Lamb Elia ser II Old Margate Hoy, The im capacity of actual objects for suiting our preconceptions of them 1856 Olmsted State Slaves I 10 Feeling their own in capacity to take care of themselves

c Inability to take, receive, or deal with in some way Const of, for a 1655 Vines Lord's Supp (1677) 165 He brings a church into an incapacity of sacraments 1665 Glanvill Dy Vain Dogm 9 v 87 I fell into a violent fevrour, which long detain'd me in an incapacity for matter of such a nature 1896 Allbutt's Syst Med I 411 Digestive in capacity for starch and milky food

2. Legal disqualification, disability with an and pl, an instance of this, a disqualification or disability

1648 Art Peace 8 That all Incapacities imposed upon the Natives of this Kingdom be taken away by Act to be passed in the said Parliament 168 in Somers Tracts I 272 Persons of great Consideration and Credit laying at present under an Incapacity 1767 Blackstone Comm II 257 there is one more incapacity of taking by descent 1890 Merivale Rom Emp (1865) I iv 189 The laws inflicted upon him civil incapacity to the fullest extent

†Incapital, a Obs rare [In-³] Not capital, not punishable with death

1643 (title) Remonstrance of poore distressed Prisoners committed for debt and other incapitall offences

†Incapon, v Obs rare [f In-² + Capon v] trans To castrate

1611 Florio, Incaponito, incaponed, guelded

Incapsulate (inkæ·psiulēt), v Also en- [f In-² + L. capsula small chest or box, capsule + -ate³] trans To enclose in a capsule

1874 Jones & Siev Pathol Anat (ed 2) 150 The tumours are sometimes clearly defined and incapsulated 1876 Dunglison Dis Skin 26 A membrane encapsulating the corpuscle

Hence Incapsulating ppl a applied fig to certain languages in which modifying elements are inserted in the body of a word

1868 Max Müller Strayfic Lang 22 The inlaying or in capsulating languages are but a variety of the affixing class

Incapsulation (inkæpsiulē·ʃən) Also en- [n of action from prec] The action or process of incapsulating; enclosure in a capsule Also fig in relation to languages cf prec.

1860 Farrar Orig Lang viii 172 Every subordinate clause being inserted in the main one by a species of incapsulation 1861 R Jones Anim Kingd (ed 3) 49 The incapsulation of Plasmodia Charon presented analogous phenomena 1888 Lancet 30 June 1288/1 (Inclusion) Encapsulation means not only the surrounding of the growth by a capsule which consists of the cellular tissue which formerly occupied the site now occupied by the tumour, but also of the blood vessels

Incapsulate, v rare Also en- [f. pple stem of med L. incapsidare, f in- (In-²) + late L capsidare to Captivate cf It incattivare (Florio)] trans To take captive, bring into captivity

1611 Florio, Incattivare, to encaptivate 1683 Trion Way to Health 563 That man should so prodigiously degrade, dishonour and incapsulate me himself 1771 I. Hunt Nat Vis H. Hertingdon I 223 The radiant beams of your encapsulating splendor 1882 Ouida (Annandale), In cephalus

Incaptive see Incaitive

†Incaroer, v Obs rare [a F. incarcérer (1508 in Hatz.-Darm.), earlier encarcérer (1392 in Du Cange), ad med L. incarcerare to imprison, f in (In-²) + carcer prison, jail] = Incarcerate v

1620 J Bond Poems Flowers (1855) 23, I Incarcerd by love bonds in Incarcerate (inkā·sĕrēt), ppl a and sb (and med L incarceratus, pa pple of incarcerare see prec) Incarcerated, imprisoned, confined, shut in (formerly constr also as pa pple of next)

1530 Rot Rediv (Arb) 48 They love their goodes with out measure & their bodies be incarcerate in them 1548 Hall Chron Edward IV 208 Jane and incarcerat, kept her and there 1647 H More Song of Soul III ii x, While in this mortal body incarcerate they be. 1752 J Laurence Form of Process (ed 2) 61 The Committer shall order his liberation, or discharge his Imprisonment, if not incarcerate 1871 Contribut Popular (1883) I 85 Breathes the mephitic and incarcerate fog 1883 Sala Capt Dangerous I x 185 Many lay incarcerate years after they had satisfied the Demands of their Creditors

Incarcerate (inkā·sĕrēt), v [f ppl stem of med L incarcerāre see Incarcer and -ate³]

1 trans To shut up in prison, to put in confinement, to imprison

1580 Holland Livy I xxxvii 8 342 Traitor, I sall thy corps Incarcerate 1637-50 Row Hist Kirk (Wodrow Soc) 238 Mr Andro Melvill, by great moyen obtained leave that a servant should be incarcerated with him in the Tower 1654 in W Ross Aberdour & Inchcolme xi (1885) 309 The Session desires the Bailzie to cause apprehend and in carcerat prentice Mr Thomas Gurie 1713 Steele Trun Wand by Lover 57 We were incarcerated a whole day in the prison

2 fig To shut up as in prison, to confine

1640-4 in Rushw Hist Coll III (1692) I 216 What is it to incarcerate the Liberty of the Subject under the Iron and weighty Chains of an Arbitrary Government? 1665 in Hearne Collect Applic Pref 9 Those dense bodies easily incarcerate the infected air

Hence Incarcerated ppl a, imprisoned, spec in Path variously used of a strangulated, obstructed, or otherwise irreducible hernia and of a retained placenta, Incarcerating ppl a, that incarcerates, imprisoning

1742 Young Nt Th IV 665 From nature's continent this little isle dissells, This dark, incarcerating colony, Dolabella in 1789 Pott Chirurg Wks II 76 Every symptom which attends an incarcerated rupture Ibid 186 The operation for the incarcerated bubonocele 1820-34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) IV 62 A troublesome phimosis either of the strangulating or incarcerating kind 1823 Bentham Not and Pl 19 The sweeping and incarcerating commission he had been employed with by the rulers 1908 Lancet 16 May 878 The incarcerating creditor was compelled to allow him a daily allment 1886 Syd Soc Lex, Hernia, in carcerated, Variously explained, but may be used by some as strangulated, by others, to signify an obstructed hernia, and by others, to denote a hernia which has become irreducible in consequence of the lodging of, or fatty deposit in, the enclosed omentum or mesentery

Incarceration (inkāsĕrē·ʃən) [a F incarcération (13–14th c in Littré), ad med L incarcerātio-em imprisonment, n of action from L incarcerāre see prec] The action of incarcerating or fact of being incarcerated, imprisonment

1536 Bellenden Cron Scot (1821) I 179 Be ling sekines and malancoly, quhilk he take for his incarceration a 1649 Drume of Hawth Jas I Wks (1711) 4 He thought by gentle incarcerations to have restrained their malice 1803 Syd Smith Wks (1869) 31 Since the benevolent Howard has essentially diminished the incarceration, not only healthy but elegant 1855 Miss Corbe Introit Mor 117 The deprivation of Personal Freedom constitutes an incarcera tion of the Soul

b Path Obstinate constriction or strangulation of a hernia (see Incarcerated), retention of the placenta in parturition 1806 Cooper Surg 461 The simple obstruction of a hernia, is essentially different from incarceration, or strangulation.

Incarcerator (inkā·sĕrēt·ə) [Agent noun in L form from med L incarcerāre to Incarcerate] One who incarcerates or imprisons 1820 J Carlile Rise Glasgow 82 Fees Paid by the In carcerator to the Jailor 1869 Pall Mall G 19 Aug to The amnesty is not a greater relief to the incarcerated than to the incarcerator.

†Incardinate, a Obs Used humorously as a blunder for incarnate

1601 Shaks Twel N v 1 185 We tooke him for a Coward but hee's the verie deuill incardinate.

Incardinate (inkā·dĭnēt), v [f ppl stem of med L. incardināre to institute into an ecclesiastical benefice, f in- (In-²) + cardo, cardin-em hinge, cardinālis a chief presbyter, a Cardinal]

trans & To institute as principal priest, deacon, etc at a particular church or place (see Cardinalis and Incardinare in Du Cange), in quot 1609 explained etymologically b To institute to a cardinalship, raise to the rank of cardinal

1609 Bp W Barlow Answ Nameless Cath 7 A dignitie [that of Ordinall] denominated as being Incardinated at it & receives word that it is Mentored or erected to a Church or a Bishop to a Sea 1795 tr Dupuis Lect Hist 17th C I iii 14 He who had a right to succeed was called Incardinatus, where the whole of a Church in present was said to be Cardinatus 1862 Hook Lives Abps II 202 When he had accomplished the offices of Ordinal but before he was incardinated 1888-9 Smith & Cheetham Dict Christ Antiq I 403 Pope Pius V finally confined the title cardinal formerly applied somewhat vaguely to all priests appointed at a cathedral church to such among the clergy of the city of Rome who had been "incardinated" by the Pope himself

So Incardina tion, institution or formal incorporation

1897 Dublin Rev Oct 483 What badge, symbol of incardination in the sept

†Incare sing, ppl a Obs rare [In-¹] The opposite of caressing, treating coldly or harshly

1608 Marys Dumb Knt iii, From this reproch, this incareesing humour Hath taught my youth a new phi sophie

Incarial (inkē·rĭăl), a [f mod L type incāri-us*, or incāri-a*, f In-² (like l aquārius, contrārius, or Cārus, stellārius) + -al] Of or pertaining to the Incas of Peru

1863 Intell Observer III 229 According the Cordillera, Incarial ruins will be met with continually 1877 J Squier Peru (1878) 454 The procession of Corpus Christi in which the Incarial family, in regal native costume, take part

Incarnadined (inkā·rnădīnd), ppl a [f In-² + Carnadine sb + -ed¹] Imbued with carmine, dyed carmine or deep crimson

1865 D G Mitchell My Farm of Edgewood 210 Rosy cheeks and incarnadined arms do not belong to the heroines of her dreams

Incarn (inkā·rn), v Also 6 en- [a F incarner (1373 in Hatz.-Darm.) ad L incarnāre (4th c) to make flesh, f in- (In-²) + caro, carn- flesh]

1 trans To cover with flesh, cause flesh to grow upon or in, heal over (a wound or sore)

1400 Lanfranc's Cirurgie 122 Lete aboute be wounde a defensif of hole ameraylak and incarne þat is to see bryngе ouer flesch, & afturward consowde 1543 Traheron Vigo's Chirurg II ix 53 Than ye must mundifye the place and incarne it, and after sodde it up 1644 Bulwer Anthropom. Wks (1653) 31 This unguent doth digest and incarn wounds and ulcers 1750 Phil Trans XLVI 54 The wound was thoroughly detersed, incarned and skinned 1820-34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) II 519 Here however the hollows are not incarned or filled up with a new material

b absol To cause flesh to grow, to induce healing

1541 R Copland Guydon's Quest Surg, Thy ir on with towe, and a plyster for it dryeth, encarneth, and consumeth 1694 Wiseman Surgery (1734) 201 Another ointment that doth digest, mundify, and incarn 1758 J Ferrand's Oliver Surg (1771) Dict, Epulotica, Medicines that incarn and cicatrize

c intr To become covered with flesh, to heal

1689 Moyle Soc Chyrurg II x 57 You will know how it incarns by a reddish speck, which you will see in the end of your Tent when you take it out. 1778 Phil Trans LXVI 438 As the wound incarned, the discharge lessened daily 1820-34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) II 43 Incarning and cicatrizing easily

2 To embody in flesh, to incarnate rare

1563 [see Incarned] 1882 I Wingfield Gehenna II vii 211 Next time that you're incarned, you'll be a Byron

Hence Incarning vbl sb and ppl a

1721 Quincy tr Hodges Plague Lond 200 Incarning is gradually to be effected and the Ulcer slowly healed over 1813 J Thomson Treat Inflam 61 The several mediaments more or less humecting, digesting, detersing, incarning or desiccating, to the sundry burnt parts

Incarnadine (inkā·rnădin, -ain), a and sb arch Also 7 -in [a F incarnadin, -ine (16th c), ad It incarnadino, var of incarnatino carnation, flesh colour, deriv of incarnato Incarnate]

A adj Properly, Flesh coloured, carnation, pale red or pink, but (b) also used for various shades of crimson or blood-red (cf Carnation, in mod use sometimes = Blood stained (from Shaks Mach II ii 62 see Incarnadine v 2)

1591 Sylvester Du Bartas I v 609 Her wings and train of feathers (mixed fine) Of orient Azure and incarnadine 1649 Lovelace Lucasta To my Lady It (1864) 124 Whose white satin upper coat of skin, Cut upon velvet rich incarnadin Has yet a body (and of flesh) within 1658 Phillips, Incarnadin colour, a flesh colour, or the colour of a Damask Rose 1870 in A E Lee Hist Columbus, Ohio (1892) I 710 The color ranged from a deep crimson to a light or pale incarnadine

b 1800 Byron Mar Fal III ii 509 You'll calmly wash those hands incarnadine | a 1845 Barham Ingol Leg, Terry Tartus's Wig, His very fore head was incarnadine 1888 Watts-Dunton Athenæum 18 Aug 209/2 And Night's black wings are glowing incarnadine From Dover cliffs to Gravelines tower With sparks—with fiery flakes, a ruddy shower On breeze and brine!

B ib. Flesh-colour blush colour, also, a crimson or blood red colour (see A)

1622 Peacham Compl Gent (1661) 155 Incarnadine, or flesh colour 1735 Sport Dutch Dict sed 3/1 Hoog, roed, Carnation colour, incarnadine 1800 Byron Mar Fal II i 147 No Barbaric blood can reconcile us now Unto that horrible incarnadine 1865 Trench Gust Adolphus I 49 To take the rich incarnadine of blood

Incarnadine, v arch Also erron incarnardine [f prec] trans To dye or tinge with incarnadine (see prec), to redden

Properly, to make flesh coloured or carnation but from Shakspere onward associated with the colour of blood

1605 Shake Mach II ii 62 This my Hand will rather The multitudinous Seas incarnadine, Making the Greene, one Red | a 1659 Cleve Poems Wks (1824) 85 A fourth [shall] incarnadine Thy rose cheeke | 1791 Cowper Iliad XI 482 His blood the glebe Incarnadine. | 1851 L. Ritchie Capt Conspirator in Emancipation 144 The yellow oil flower, incarnardined with gorgeous poppies fluttered in the waving wind | 1854 Howe Evening Star The painted vessel of the West Whose prow, the sunken sun incarnadines | 1866 Covington Sword II 176 War, dreadful war, and Liber flood I see incarnadined with blood

Ib. 1879 Farrar St Paul's (1883) 38 Not the only blood of which the stains had incarnadined his conscience

Hence Incarnadined ppl a

1821 Lives of Landlords New Ser Watch Glass Hist II 170 The fierce reflection glowed on the incarnadined waters of the Clowdoe

Incarnalise, var of Incarnalize v

Incarnate (inkā·ɹnĕt), a [ad. L. incarnat-us, made flesh (common in 4th c. Christian writers), pa. pple of incarnāre: see Incarn. In sense 3 corresp. to F incarnat, -ate, It incarnato incarnate, flesh coloured]

1 Clothed or invested with flesh, embodied in flesh, in a human (or animal) bodily form a Of a person, soul, or spirit (Sometimes const as pa. pple, esp when used of Christ.)

In phr. a devil incarnate, applied hyperbolically to a person (cf Devil sb 4), the true meaning is often more or less lost sight of, and the adj becomes nearly = 'out and out', 'arrant'

1395 Purvey Remonstr (1851) 53 A sone of perdicioun, and 3 devil incarnat other in flesh a 1420 Hoccleve Dis Reg Prem. 533 Mercy Crist, to bete incarnate 1494 Fabyan Chron VII lii 344 In the season that he was Kynge our Sauyour Criste Iheaus was incarnat of that moste blessyd virgine our Lady 1534 More On the Passion Wks 1315/1 By his goinge fro the father, was nothyge ment, but his beynge incarnate in the worlde 1548–9 (Mar) Bk Com Prayer, Communion (Nicene Creed), And was incarnate by the holy Ghoste, of the Virgin Mary 1597 Hooker Eccl Pol v lii § 2 The nature of God in the onely person of the Sonne incarnate 1609 Rowlands Knaue of Clubbes 32 Incarnate deuils, such as do Assume a human shape 1612–15 Br Hall Contempl, N T iii, That blood should be incarnate and a virgin's wombe an element of His materials, and in exaltation of the creature beyond all example 1738 Wesley Ps cii 11, And slay the mortal with Deity 1820 Scott Abbot xvii, Whether there be a devil incarnate in you or no 1832 Carlyle Nort Ass I iv (1872) 21 You look on him almost with a shudder, as on some incarnate Mephistopheles 1856 Goldsmith Hell 3, Commending myself to the infinite mercies of God in the Incarnate Son as my only and sufficient hope

b Of a quality or other abstraction Embodied in human form, impersonated

(In quot a 1652 in extended sense. Put into a form adapted to human nature or comprehension, expressed 'after the manner of men')

c 1532 Du Wes Introd Fr in Palsgr 1396/2 We must her a thought or understandyge incarnate a 1654 Selden Nat Dis xi 183 Divine truth becomes many times in scripture incarnate, debasing itself to assume our rude conceptions 1839 Carlyle Chartism v (1858) 27 The quick is a Falsehood Incarnate 1874 Green Short Hist VIII ii § 64 Liberty and independence itself seemed incarnate in his [the Confessor's] name 1880 Ouida Moths III 209 In his eyes Vere was purity incarnate

c Vaguely used Enshrined

a 1533 Ld Berners Gold Bk M Aurel (1546) N iii b, The heires incarnate in mens lyttel satisfied with silver 1871 Ruskin Pleb Lect II 98 To remain incarnate in the memory of friends is something

¶ From used as = (L in quo)

1748 Richardson Clarissa (1811) V 46 (D.), I fear nothing thou devil carnate or incarnate can fairly do against a virtue so established

†2 Consisting of flesh, fleshy Obs rare

1597 A M tr Guillemeau's Fr Chirurg 13/b All in carnate or fleshey partes of the body

3 Flesh-coloured, light pink or crimson Obs exc in Bot as a rendering of L incarnātus

a 1533 Ld Berners Gold Bk M Aurel (1546) N iii b, Well coloured face, incarnate tethe, ruddye lippes. 1552 in Strype Eccl Mem (1721) II xiv 259, 4 Yards of Turkey silk incarnate 1567 Mary Stuart Let in Tamarin's M Stuart App (1859) 174 Send to me half elle of incarnat satin 1578 Lyte Dodoens I xiii 21 Butter bure putteth forth a hollow stalke of a span long, set full of small incarnate floures at the toppe 1656 Blount Glossogr s v In carnation, An Incarnate colour is a Carnation colour, a flesh color, or of the colour of our Damask Rose 1792 W Bartram Carolina 104 The flowers are of a pale incarnate colour 1859 Darwin Orig Spec ix (1861) 99 The common red and incarnate clovers (Trifolium pratense and incarnatum)

Hence Incarnately adv, in a bodily form.

1896 Mrs. Browning Aur Leigh VI 46 I reedom's self Fixed in a feudal form incarnately To suit our ways of thought and reverence

Incarnate (inkā·ɹnĕt), v Also 6 en- [f prec, or f. ppl stem of L incarnāre see Incarn]

1. trans. To render incarnate, to embody in flesh. In pass to be embodied, to assume, or appear in, a bodily (esp a human) form

1533 Tindale Supper of Lord Wks. (Parker Soc) III 245 They believed in Christ to be incarnated, and to suffer death a 1598 Crashaw Ir Ex (Parker Soc.) I 74 We see that they [fathers and prophets of the old testament] did eat his body and drink his blood, although he was not yet born nor incarnated 1598 Barckley Felic Man III (1662) 227 That old Serpent can by God's sufferance incarnate himselfe, or possesse infants Ibid II 317 An English man incarnated in a devil incarnated 1624 Donne Serm iii 16, I must not ask why God took this way to incarnate his Son 1715 De Foe Jure Divino I i (1845) 20 He incarnated, by whom all things, the divine nature into the human 1824 Marg Fuller Wom 19th C (1862) 18 The All sustaining incarnated himself to guard the destines of this world

2 transf and fig a. To put into, express or exhibit in a concrete or definite form, to realize, actualize, embody (an idea or other abstraction)

1591 Harington Orl Fur I lvii, Their shall no foolish phrases, nor fained ire Hinder me to enchant my desire 1856 Kane Arctic Expl II xxvi 210 The fierce [winds] which we can no more stop, by shrieks at their disunity, than incarnating themselves in actual blood, and misery, and horror than [etc.] 1898 Dowden Stud Lit 9 A political doctrine expecting to be incarnated in institutions 1882 Gould Myths & Dr I vii 122 The embodying qualities in carn ated in some hero meet with calumnious response

b To exhibit (in oneself) in bodily or human form; to be the living embodiment of type of, to impersonate, embody (a quality, etc)

1806 R. Cumberland Mem (T.), If quick conception, true discrimination, and the happy faculty of incarnating the idea of his poet, are properties essential in the composition of a great actor 1849 Frazer's Mag XXXIX 398 Hamlet, we may be he who incarnates best the age's artistic tendencies 1886 Symonds Renaiss It, Cath React (1898) VII x 85 His fear incarnated the Venetian system

†c To cause to exist, or represent as existing, in a particular mode of being, or as a part of some thing else. †d To entertain as an indwelling presence, to enshrine Obs

1643 Milton Divorce II iii Nay this is to incarnat sin into the companyship and pleasures of God a 1721 Ken Hymns Instr Poet Wks 1721 I 213 O may I thee incarnate in my Heart

†3 To cause flesh to grow upon or in (a wound or sore), to heal over = Incarn 1 Obs

1543 Traheron Vigo's Chirurg II ii 16 After mundification ye must incarnate the place, after this a forme 1577 Traheron Bullein's Dialog II (1888) 68 The Tabaco doth make them [wounds] cleane, and incarnate them 1616 Surfl & Markh Country Farme 223 The other Ointment is better to incarnate and consolidate the wounds 1725 Bradley Fam Dict s v. Lunatellus Balsam, It is used externally to detarge and incarnate green Wounds and Ulcers

†b absol = Incarn 1 b Obs

1553 [Gale] Antidot II 13 Thys Unguent incarnateth verye well 1686 W. Harris tr Lemery's Course Chym (ed 3) 58 Tincture is Sweet, Incident, detersive, good against Gangrene, and to incarnate

†c intr for refl = Incarn 1 c. Obs

1604–7 J. Melton Astrol Obs (1856) 13 As the adjacent parts mundified, soe it incarnated 1759 Sterne Tr Shandy II v, My uncle Toby's wound was near well the surgeon told him, was just beginning to incarnate

†4 To make fleshly or carnal, to degrade from spiritual nature, despiritualize Obs

1667 Milton P L IV 166 That I am now constrained Into a Beast, and mixt with bestial slime This essence to incarnate and imbrute a 1683 Whichcote Aphorisms, Had men (study) to incarnate their souls

†5 To enclose or insert in the flesh Obs rare

1604 J. Dymock tr Leo Hebraeus's Dialog 282 They cut off part of the garment that they may incarnate a thread or rag thereof, within the skin of the forehead of every one that is bitten by a mad dog

6 To convert (vegetable matter) into flesh

1882 Playfair in Macm Mag XLV 335 As is said in the west, it is cheaper to incarnate Indian corn [i e by feeding cattle with it] than to send that bulky grain by railway

Hence Incarnated ppl a, Incarnating vbl sb and ppl a (in various senses of the verb)

1540–60 Sternhold & H Ps, Quucunque vult, Of the incarnating of Christ our Lord, believe aright 1576 Baker Jewell of Health 148a, In every incarnating and closing togyther and healing 1597 A M tr Guillemeau's Fr Chirurg 12/1 That new incarnated flesche which, after the trepaninge, groweth therin Ibid 49 b/1 Any incarnatinge medicamentes 1672 Playfl Feuant Life v 14 He hath laid the foundation thereof so deep, in the Incarnating of his own Son 1872 Ouida Gage Matchmaking (Tauchn.) 72 Little Fay was delightful—for all the world like a bit of incarnated sunshine 1878 Bayne Pyrrh Rev vi 224 The love of romantic young men for their incarnated ideals.

Incarnation (inkaɹnē·ʃən). [a F. incarnation, in 12th c Norman F incarnacun (Phil de Thaun), ad late L. incarnātiōn-em (in Hilary, Jerome, Ambrose, etc), n of action from incarnāre: see Incarn.]

1 The action of incarnating or fact of being incarnated or 'made flesh', a becoming incarnate, investiture or embodiment in flesh, assumption of, or existence in, a bodily (esp human) form a spec. of Christ, or of God in Christ Often absol. the Incarnation (The earliest and still the prevalent sense In early use often in reference to the Christian era the date of the incarnation or birth of Christ.)

1297 R Glouc (Rolls) 197 Pe vif[se þage] was fram dauid to be transmigracion Of babiloyne and be sixte to be incarnacion, pat was vorte god was ibore 1340 Hampole Pr Conscience 6 Pe principal entent of be profetis is to declare be mysterie of Cristis incarnacoun, passioun, resurrec cioun, ascensoun, and be comyng to be general doom ?a 1400 Arthur 626 Þe yheer after be Incarnacion, vj hundred fourty & two c 1400 Maundev (Roxb) lxxxii 146 Pat trowe wele pe incarnacioun of Crist 1477 Earl Rivers (Caxton) Dictes 123 He was borne after the Incarnacion of oure lord iij c yeres 1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1531) 179 b, The preeminence of his most gracyous incarnacyon 1597 Hooker Eccl Pol v lii § 3 Taking our flesh, and by his incarnation making it his owne flesh 1653 Walton Angler 13 Angling is much more ancient then the incarnation of our Saviour 1776 Gibbon Decline & Fall I 251 We are to take notice, that Dionysius, called Exiguus, was the Author of this Æra for humbling, even after Christ, from which time they began to reckon from the Nativity or Incarnation of Christ 1862 Pusey Min Proph 128 It is said, The Word was made flesh, which is the Book of the Incarnation of our Blessed Lord, i e 'He taking on Him our Flesh'

b In general sense

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep VII i 274 The woman being formed out of the rib, was once removed from earth and fi med from that element under incarnation 1684 T. Burnet Th Earth I 301 The incarnation, as I may say, of a spiritual substance is to me a kind of standing miracle 1841 Emerson Meth Nat Wks (Bohn) II 227 The thoughts he delights to utter are the reason of his incarnation 1858 Sears Athan III iii 272 The reader will here distinguish carefully between two things—between the resurrection and the re incarnation of the dead

c fig The putting into, or assumption of, a concrete or definite form, 'embodiment' ? Obs

1615 Crooke Body of Man 274 Before the birth or incarnation as we may say of Philosophy 1848 Lytton Harold, Julius Picture, How am I to wish it, when I do but see The painter's art in thy scrography? If so, how much more shall I dote thereon, When once he gives it incarnation

2 concr a A body, person, or form in which a soul, spirit, or deity is incarnated, an incarnate or embodied form (of)

1748 Young Ve Th IX 1341 When shall my soul her incarnation quit, And bathe in Godhead as in Thee? 1836 Emerson Nature, Spirit Wks (Bohn) II 267 The world is a remoter and inferior incarnation of God 1841 Elphinstone Hist Ind I iv 163 Vishnu and Siva had their incarnations now attract almost all the religious veneration of the Hindus 1843 Penny Cycl XXVI 387/1 The other Avatars, described in the incarnations of Vishnu 1847 Hallam Intr Lit III iii 220 The Virgin was that of a fish 1899 Saxce Early Israel v 181 The line of the Pharaohs, the incarnations of the Sun God

b A person in whom some quality, attribute, principle, etc is exhibited in a bodily form, a living type or representative, embodiment, impersonation (of a quality, etc.)

1833 L. Ritchie Island Lore 126 Blue Beard, that incarnation of juvenile romance 1847 Lewes Hist Philos (1867) II 551 Great men are the incarnations of the spirit of the age 1864 Dickens Mut Fr III xiv 'You are incarnation of acuteness. 1874 Stubbs Const Hist I x 302 William Rufus a foul incarnation of selfishness in its most abhorrent form

c Loosely or by extension A thing in which some quality, etc is typically represented or exhibited, an embodiment (of)

1821 Shelley Adonais xlii, Splendours, and Glooms, and glimmering Incarnations Of hopes and fears, and twilight Phantasies 1866 G Macdonald Ann Q Neighb xiii (1878) 244 The grounds about the Hall seemed the incarnation of a summer which had taken years to ripen to perfection

†3 Conception (in the womb) Obs rare

1548–9 Thomas Ital Dict, Incarnatione, the incarnation or engendring time 1583 Iunius Hyg 83 b/1 That quality that doth predominate in the Spirit at the incarnation and birth, that very same property doth carry the upper Dominion in the body

4 The formation or growth of new flesh upon or in a wound or sore, healing up, granulation Also concr A growth of new flesh

1544 Phaer Regim Lyfe (1560) P iij, Precede with mundification and incarnation, even as in other kindes of apostumes. 1599 Phil Trans XXI 403 The external containing parts of the Neck began now to unite by Incarnation 1783 Pott Chirurg Wks II These were soon covered with an incarnation 1822–34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) II 18 From this period the process of incarnation commences.

5 Flesh-colour, carnation, a pigment or dye of this colour. Obs or arch

c 1485 E E Misc (Warton Club) 73 For an incarnacion, take sable and saffrone and rede lede, and medyle heme welle togedyre 1573 Art of Limning 8 b, If you will make incarnations for Visages, or a fleshly colour for Images. 1821 Byron Cain III i, His little cheeks, In their pure incarnation

b attrib or as adj Flesh-coloured, light pink = Incarnate a 3. Obs or arch

1562 Turner Herbal II 116 b, Damaske roses, incarnation roses, muske roses. 1652 Urquhart Tenuf Wks (1834) 242

A pair of incarnation velvet slippers 1672 Phil Trans VII 5172 The Dying of Wool of an Incarnation colour, with a kind of Moss growing in Malta

†2 The plant CARNATION Obs

1538 TURNER Libellus A iij a, Herba quam vernacula lingua hoc unus a Gelofer, aut an Incarnata cyon

Hence Incarna tionist, a believer in an incarnation

1834 MEDWIN Angler in Wales I 223 The new Incarnationists of Johanna Southcote

Incarnative (inkā·rnătiv), a and sb [a obs F incarnatif, -ve (early 16th c.), 'flesh bringing, flesh-breeding' (Cotgr.), ad med L incarnātīvus, fr incarnātive (Florio), f as INCARNATE v + -IVE]

A. adj

1 Having the quality of incarning, promoting the growth of flesh in a wound or sore

c1400 Lanfranc's Cirurg 153 Medicyns comfortatius & incarnatius [MS H incarnatyfes] Ibid 342 Regeneratiue, & incarnatiue [medicines], & alle carners nascaun oon to seu. 1541 R COPLAND Guydon's Quest Chirurg I Jb, There ben thre maners One is incarnatyue and it competeth to newe woundes, and fractures. 1563 T GALE Antidot I 18 b Medicines incarnatiue, which doe ingender fleshe 1614 T ADAMS Devil's Banquet 329 Your exulcerated sores cannot bee healed with incarnatiues salues 1694 tr Boate's Ireland 1 (1712) 312/2 Mercury is the Balsam of Nature, in which is an incarnative and regenerative Vertue

†2 Illumoniously or blunderingly used for incarnate (here = 'arrant' see INCARNATE a 1, nate)

1594 GREENE & LODGE Looking Glasse I Wks (Rtldg) 119/2 Palitry! why, you incarnative knave, what are you that you vse sik pettie treason?

B sb An incarnative medicine or application see A 1

1568 NEVYNE The Pest (1860) 43 Curatiues and incarnatiues vnto cells 1643 J STYLE Ist Apology viii 56 To Vlcers already mandified, it is best to use Incarnatives 1720 BRIGHT in Phil Trans XXXI 33 He scraped it with an Instrument for several Days, and dress'd it with Incarnatives, designing to have ingendred Flesh on it

†Inca rned, ppl a Obs [f INCARN v] = INCARNATE

1563 Mirr Mag, Jerboa bel the duke of Glocestre that incarned deyvill 1871 J H NOYES Hymns Med Man, Holy Love xiii, Plating That Godhead incarned ever trod The lye path of our pitiful Planet

Incarnifica tion rare —° = INCARNATION 1

1865 in WEBSTER

†Inca rry, v Obs [f IN- 1 + CARRY v] trans To carry or convey in, to mingle, mix

1486 Bk St Albans, Fere Wyn, Theys armes ar calde watters for y colowrs ar incarryed with to in other by the mixer of water trobulde wt wynde. 1646-7 in Swayne Sarum Churchw Acc (1896) 324 Carying and incarying the Organ Pipes 1s

†Inca rve, v Obs rare Also EN- [f IN-2 = IN- 1 3 + CARVE v] trans To carve in or upon something, to engrave

1596 EDE Certayne Ser I Drake (1881) 22 Encarving characters of memorie 1605 DANIEL Queen's Arcadia v ii, He had incarv'd a woful Elegy 1615 Hymen's Triumph (1777) 231, I found incarv'd, and fair incarv'd, these Words Thy Sylvia, Thrusis, lives, and is return'd

Incase, -ment, var of ENCASE, -MENT

†Inca sk, v Obs [f IN- 1 or 2 + CASK sb] trans To put into, or into, a cask To cover with, or as with, a casque or helmet

1621 COTGR, I infuste, inpiped, or incasked 1628 SHELTON Quix I iii xiii 256 I hen did hee incase his pate in his hat, which was so broad, as it might serue him excellently for a Quitasoll.

Incast (inkast), sb local [f vbl phrase cast in] Something 'thrown in', a quantity of some commodity given in addition to the exact measure.

1798 R DOUGLAS Agric Surv Roxb & Selkirk 357 It is still usual in several places to give a pound of incast, as it is here called, to every stone of wool, and a fleece to every pack sold 1865 MORTIMER Cornf Agricr 18 D S Incast (Road & Selkirksh) a pound in a stone of wool, and a fleece in a pack, usually given above measure

†Inca st, v Obs [f IN- 1 + CAST v] trans To cast or throw in, fig to suggest Hence †Incasting vbl sb, throwing in, suggestion

1598 TREVISA Barth De P R v xxiv (1495) 132 Somtyme hoorsnes of the throte falleth by incastynge of powdre c1440 HYLTON Scala Perf (W de W 1494) I xxix, Yf they fele ony stryvng wythin by thyncastyng of thenmye, or elles fro wythout of ony of the deuylles prophets whiche men callen sothsayers 1549 Sc Acts Jas III (1597) 8 The said poynding for mailles and annualles, in-casting and out casting of tenuentes, be deferred 1626 J LANE Cont Sper I 21 63 Th assaillantes entries, ervie where to hinder incastings stables, ropes, froes, chaines, manors, beddes, and all trasch whatsoever

†Inca stellate, en-, v Obs [f ppl stem of med L incastellāre, It incastellare to INCASTLE see IN-2, and -ATE3] trans To make into a castle, to fortify, to enclose (a well or cistern) with masonry see CASTELLATED

1538 LELAND Itin I 73 Began first to encastellate it 1598 STOW Surv viii (1603) 46 And also incastelated the same round about Ibid xxxii 505 Incastellated the same in sufficient cesterns. 1601 F GODWIN Bps of Eng 532 The Auncient manner place at Arkland he did encastellate

†Inca stellated, ppl a Obs [ad It incastellato 'hoof-bound, that is when a horses hoofe is dride vp, so that it sounds hollow' (Florio), f encastel (1606), according to Hatz.-Darm., refated to It incastare, incastrare to enchase, mortice, insert firmly] Hoof bound (as a horse)

1611 COTGR, Encastellé, incastellated, or narrow heeled (as oxthorne) Ibid, Encastelure, a being incastellated, or growing narrow heeled, a vicious, or painfull narrownesse in a horses heele 1656 BLOUNT Glossogr, Incastellated (Fr Encastellé), narrow heeled (as a horse) 1658 in PHILLIPS 1676-1704 in COLES †Inca stle, v Obs In 6-7 encastle, 6 8 incastell [ad med L incastellāre = It incastellare (Florio), Of enchasteler to furnish with a castle or castles, f IN- (IN-2) + L castellum CASTLE, cf INCASTELLATE] trans To provide with castles to fortify

1586 J HOOKER Girald Irel in Holinshed II 49/2 Meth was alredie meethe well and indifferentlie fortified and in castelled 1631 R CARU, Incastellare, to encastle, to fortifie with castles, to reduce or bring to a castle

†Inca·stled, inca stelled, ppl a Obs [ad F encastelé see INCASTELATED] Hoof bound

1706 PHILLIPS, Incastellé, narrow Heel'd, or Hoof bound, as An incastelled Horse

Incatch, sb none tsd [f vbl phr catch in] A catching or sudden drawing in (of the breath)

1894 Cassell's Family Mag XII 282/1 There followed a fierce incatch of his breath, a hollowing of his lean cheeks

Incatenate (inkē·tnēt), v [f It and med L incatenare to enchain, f IN- (IN-2) + L catēnāre, to bind with chains, catēna chain Cf F enchatner] trans To put in chains, to enchain, to fetter

1839 Blackwood's Mag XLV 689 He looks as embarrassed and incatenated, as a galley slave escaped from the bagni of Toulon

Incatenation (inkatēnē·ĭshən) [ad med L incatenātion-em, n of action f med L incatenāre see prec] Putting in or fastening with chains, harnessing, a linking or being linked together

1760 GOLDSM Cit W xviii, Still more trifingly studious in the incatenation of the words in the epilepsy of a cherry stone 1885 Q Rev Oct 362 The blank verse had no variety, no incatenation, no harmony

†Incathedrate, v Obs [f med L incathedrāre, f IN- (IN-2) + cathedra chair, bishop's seat] trans To place in a chair, to chair, esp to place in the cathedra or bishop's chair, to enthrone as a bishop

1635 PAGITT Christianogr 77 He was there incathedrated, and with great reuerence receiued and entertained 1641 SIR E DERING Ad Lctg 21 June (1642) 72 You are in your selues but fellow members of the same house with us, untill by our Election, and by common suffrage you are [in the dratte]

†Incaun sable, a Obs rare [IN- 1] Not capable of being caused, having no cause

1678 R BOHUN Hist Witch 157 This is a most abstruse and hidden Motion and in some things it seemes as it were to be incausable

†Incaun sative, a Obs rare [IN- 1] Not causing

1829 COLERIDGE Lit Rem (1836) IV 3 Merely an ante cedent or an incausative alien antecedent in time

†Incaution, sb Obs [f IN- 2 + CAUTION] = incautela incaution Incautious, unwary, heedless

1610 G FLETCHER Christ's Vict I xix, The bold Physician too incautious, By those he cures himselfe is murdered 1681 DRYDEN Spec Grace xxviii 485 The wise and strata gems it makes use of to ensnare the incautelous soul a 1734 NORTH Exam II iv § 210 (1740) 288 All Advantage of Covil at the Professions of the Judges, if any had been in cautelous, was lost

Hence †Incaun telously adv, †Incaun telous ness

1640 BP REYNOLDS Passions xv 144 Thus by incautelous nesse and Credulity a 1656 HALES Rem Serm Rom xix 1 (R) We grow such mony times by incautelously conversing with the world 1693 HAMPFIELD Rep Dr Wallis 32 If it were not written incautelously

†Incaun tely, adv Obs [f I incaut us in cautious, incaute incautiously + -LY2] Cf the obs F equivalent incautement] Incautiously, heedlessly

1510 Sheph Kal VII Gvb, Ofte tymes Incautely Not takynge hede what they swere. 1567 W MORICE Coena quasi Kowns Dr 1 118 It was incautely said so of him alone

Incautious (inkā·shəs), a [f IN- 1 + CAUTIOUS, after L incautus, etc] Want of caution, carelessness, heedlessness, unwariness 1725-40 POPE Iliad xxiii 415 Less their incaution failing, thou must be by Apoy to others, a reproach to me 1800 Med Jrnl IV 439 That disease quickly spreads, from incaution, to the houses of their more opulent neighbours 1884 HORNER Avernus (ed 2) I xii 312 The accusation arose from the incaution of one of the monks.

Incautiously (inkā·shəsli), a [f IN- 1 + CAUTIOUS, after L incautus, etc.] Not cautious, wanting in caution, careless, heedless, unwary, rash

1713 POMFRET Poet Wks (1833) 79 Some swains, I own, impose upon the fair, And lead the incautious maid into a snare 1800 Asiat Ann Reg, Proc E Ind Hse 10/2 If in an incautious moment that honourable director had written an imprudent letter 1832 LEWIS Use & Ab Pol Terms Introd 2 An incautious employment of language 1867 H MACMILLAN Bible Teach ii. 18/30 13 A single incautious step may be attended with the most fatal consequences

Incautiously (inkō·shəsli), adv [f prec + -LY2] In an incautious manner, without caution, heedlessly, unwarily rashly

1733 ARBUTHNOT On Air (J), A species of palsy invades such as incautiously expose themselves to the morning air 1741 tr D'Argens' Chinese Lett vi 52 The Sentence of Death pronounc'd over so unlawfully and bluntly 1808 W M RAMSAY Was Christ born in Bethlehem? v 115 He incautiously adopted a series of errors

Incautiousness (inkō·shəsnĕs) [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being incautious, heedlessness, rashness

1796 JANE AUSTEN Sense & Sens I xv Your eyes have been reproaching them every day for incautiousness 1865 Daily Tel 7 Nov 6/5 The old spry is due in a great measure to the incautiousness of its votaries

Incavate (inkāvēt), v rare —° [f ppl stem of I incavāre see INCAVE, and cf EXCAVATE] trans = INCAVE v 1

1727 BAILEY vol II, Incavated, made hollow 1839 WARD Incavated, made hollow, bent round 1884 Cassell's Family Dict, Incavate to make hollowed or concave

Incavate (inkāvēt), a rare —° [ad I incavātus, pa pple of incavāre see prec] Hol lowed, bent inwards

In recent Dicts

Incavation (inkāvē·shən) [n of action from I incavāre see INCAVATE] A the action of making hollow or bending inwards b A hollow or depression on a surface, a hollowed place

1799 KIRWAN Geol Ess 72 The protuberance in South America corresponding with the incavation on the African side from the river of Congo to Cape Palmas 1856 Ophthal Organ 78 His lips is not a separate part of the pipe but merely an incavation on the face

†Inca ve, v[1] Obs [ad I incavāre to hollow, f IN- (IN-2) + cavāre to hollow] trans To make hollow or concave, to bend inwards Hence Incave ppl a a 1586 SIDNEY Arcadia II (1622) 141 But how all knees now of her knees My tongue doth tell what Incave seas Whose bought incased with Ivorie white, Is the rich mine, Painter shadowing white.

Incave, encave (inkē·v en), v[2] [f IN- 2, EN- 1 + CAVE sb Cf F enaver (1235 in Godef Compl.)] trans To enclose or shut up in, or as in, a cave

1604 SHAKS Oth I v 82 Stand you a while Apart Do but encaue your selfe 1615 G SANDYS Trav 307 (D) The braided Bore and Beare Incaued rage 1709 STANHOPE Hor Sereт I 158 Their Inward secure th exulting eagle dwells 1821 MOIR in Blackw Mag X 321 The stylites element found its way into the cave-dwellers 1856 KANE Arct Expl II xxvi 264 The rocks seemed to close above our heads a protecting cliff between us and the gale We were completely encaved

Incaven, encavern (inkā·vən, en), v [f IN- 2, EN- 1 + CAVERN sb] cf It incavernare (Florio)] trans To shut up in a cavern see prec.

1611 FLORIO, Incauernare, to incaue, to encauerne, to endenne 1621 DRAYTON Poly-olb x 6 Then I'd creeps on along, and taking Thrushel throws Herself amongst the rocks, and so incavern'd goes 1838 F W FABER Sir Father Persy, Literature & Jesuits (1859) 178 Soothing the toils of the encaverned slave

†Inca vity, Obs rare [f IN- 2 + CAVITY cf L incavitas to INCAVE] The quality of being bent inwards, hollowed formation, concavity

1730 A GORDON Maffei's Amphith 135 Their Size, Sharpness, Inclivity, and Form

Incaws, var of ENCAUSE v, Obs

Incaustic, obs form of INCRUSTABLE a

Incede (insē·d), v rare [ad L incēdere to go on, f IN (IN-2) + cēdere to go, depart cf recede, proceed] intr To move on, advance, to move or march with measured or stately pace Hence

Incedingly adv, Incedingly adv (often with allusion to Virgil, Æn I 46)

1665 PLANKSTED in Rigaud Corr Sci Men (1841) II 79 The stars will appear to incede nearly under the same angle and spots of the moon 1686 GOAD Celest Bodies II 142 In his Retrocession, when direct he incedes above it 1822 Blackw Mag XI 459 The majestic inceding step of the English Muse as exemplified by Shakespeare and Milton 1853 C BRONTË Villette xxiii (1861) 248 Even in the utter most frenzy of cursing is each manual movement royally, imperially, incedingly, upborne

†Ince lebrated, a Obs [f IN- 2 + CELEBRATED, after the L equiv incelebratus] Not celebrated, having no celebrity

1558 J ELAND Itin II 79 There was a Chapelle of Thomas Becket on the Grene in Shirbarn, it stondith but incele bratid

So Incele brity, want of celebrity

1803 COLQUHOUN Ist Rem (1806) I 256 A mournful proof of the incelebrity of this great and amazing work [Barclay's Argenis] among both the public and the people 1812 EUSTACE Class Tour (1821) IV 142

†Incend (insē·nd), v Obs (exc as nonce-wd) [ad L incendĕre to set on fire, kindle f IN- (IN-2) + candĕre* to cause to glow, cf candēre to glow, shine cf IT incendere to kindle, inflame]

1 trans To kindle, set alight, set on fire In quot 1872, to burn as incense (nonce use)

1597 A M tr Guillemeau's Fr Chirurg 32 b/1 A little peece or inche of a candle, which they incende and light 1598 YONG Diana 149 Nor thou that I in flames am thus

inhaled 1844 QUARLES Div. Poems, Vanity xx 19 Thy breath ... kindle such flames 1705 C. BURNHAM Mech. Macrocosm 34 Steel incended by the stroak of a Flint 1872 J. C. MURPHY Comment. Ivry 12 Signifies merely to destroy by fire, whereas the other means to incend, or consume as incense

2 To engender (bodily heat); to heat, inflame (the body or its organs)

1533 ELYOT Cast. Helthe iii 18 (1541) 54 a, Naturall heate, by withdrawinge of moysture, is to muche incended 1574 NEWTON Health Mag. 5 Nothyng doth so muche incende and enflame naturall heate, as labours and mouyng 1621 BURTON Anat. Mel. I. iii. 1. 1 They incend it [the brain] without measure

3 To inflame, excite (the mind, passions, etc.); to incite to action

1502 ATKYNSON Tr. Imitatione III. xl. 260 Loue knoweth no measure, but it incendeth the loue oute of measure. 1531 ELYOT Gov. I. xxiii. The perfecte patterne of Iudiciu. ... to be understande of the readers. And incende them to approche to the true pratising therof 1599 MARSTON Sco. Villanie III. Sat. (1764) 181 There's a line incends his lustfull blood 1684 J. HOSKINS Conf. Doctrin. 71 Spanish fires given vp to passion incend lust

Hence Incendnation obs. rare, the kindling or ignition of blood. 1772 NICHOLS Hist. Leicestersh. II. 328 The Pyxantis offends to the sun ... incendning its blood

Incendiarism, use (ɪnsɛ́ndɪrɪz'm) [f. INCENDIARY + -ISM] The practice of an incendiary

a lit. The practice or act of maliciously setting fire to buildings or other property, the practice or commission of arson

1837 LOCKHART Scott Ixxix. 18 Mr. Every newspaper teemed with details of riot and incendiarism 1850 KINGSLEY Alt. Locke xvii, With robbery, incendiarism, virtual battles, and midnight tumult, Saddletown 1897 Times 1 Jan. 13/1 The Fulahs have proved themselves masters in incendiarism

b fig. The inflaming or exciting of passion, strife, or violence, inflammatory agitation

1674-1710 BURNET Serm. Royal Martyr 5 Among the much abused words of the late time were Incendiary and Incendiarism 1856 MERIVALE Hist. Rome (1862) VIII. 260 Not only we have had a good deal of incendiarism about the country, and some have advised sedition and conspiracy. 1859 Edinb. Rev. CX. 156 Lord John Russell will do well to destroy from raking up the embers of Whig incendiarism

So Incendiarise v. trans. nonce wd., to infect with incendiarism, to inflame, 'set on fire'

1859 Blackw. Mag. Mar. 292/2 Suspecting that we had picked up traitorous designs ... and meant to incendiarise Constantinople with the same Incendiary (ɪnsɛ́ndɪrɪ), a. and sb. Also 7 en- [ad. L. incendiārius causing conflagration, setting on fire, f. incendi-um burning, conflagration, f. incendĕre to INCEND: see -ARY.]

A adj.

1 Consisting in, relating or pertaining to, the malicious setting on fire of buildings or other property

1611 SPED Hist. Gt. Brit. IX. § 106. 626 An incendiary outrage at Norwich where the Citizens set on fire the Castle 1856 MR. MELDRUM Tr. Thalia's Vic. (ed. 17) 76 The glare of some incendiary fire

b Mil. Adapted or used for setting on fire an enemy's buildings, ships, etc.

1871 Daily News 14 Jan., Should they still be obstinate, a shower of incendiary shells of great size will be poured upon them 1892 E. BARKER Prairie Battles II. 31 The ammunition carried per gun ... is ... nine shell, 84 ... case, 8, incendiary shell, 6

2 fig. Having the character of inflaming or exciting the passions, esp. in regard to political matters, tending to stir up strife, violence, or sedition, inflammatory 1614 T. ADAMS Devil's Banquet 22 Zeale is ... hote ... no incendiary, no promoter naturall, but a super naturall heate. 1777 Bible Lore (1824) II. 145 All incendiary acts and incendiary practices. 1847 EMERSON Lect. Men, Montaigne Wks. (Bohn) I. 236 Ideas are disturbing, incendiary, fallen of young men, repudiated by the solid portion of society 1853 BRIMLEY Ess., My Novel 263 To counteract the effects of incendiary publications.

B sb.

1 A person who maliciously sets fire to a building or other property; one who wilfully or criminally causes a conflagration; one who commits arson

1606 HOLLAND Sueton. 238 Others called him with open mouth Incendium incarge Or firebrand because he burnt the citie quodfil 1672 R. WILD Poet. Tryal 26 We would make Bonfires ... but that we fear Name of Incendiaries we may hear 1709 BLACKSTONE Comm. IV. xvi. 220 For so frequently involves in the common calamity persons unknown to the incendiary, and not intended to be hurt by him 1834 LYTTON Pompeii II. i. These are the incendiaries that burnt Rome under Nero.

†b gen. A person or thing that kindles or sets on fire Obs.

1656 H. I'ANSTRANGE Chas. I (1655) 17 Instructions were issued out for the firing of them, and Sir Samuel Argall was appointed to be the incendiary 1684 T. BURNET Th. Earth II. 47 The sun and the central fire. These two great incendiaries, they say, will be fat loose upon us at the conflagration

2 fig. A person who inflames or excites the passions of men, esp. in regard to political matters; one who stirs up civil strife or violence, a mover of dissension or sedition an inflammatory agitator, a 'firebrand'

1581 GOLDE God's Arrowes III. § 93. 366 Campion, and other Semenaries and Incendiaries were sent by the Pope 1672 MARVELL Reh. Transp. I. 163 He is an hot headed Incendiary 1704 J. BLAIR in W. S. Perry Hist. Coll. Amer. Col. Ch. I. 101 Playing the Incendiary by endeavouring to make differences among friends 1775 ADAIR Amer. Ind. 160 Transforming them into dangerous political incendiaries 1797 H. WALPOLE Mem. Geo. III (1845) III. 1. 8 The Jesuits had been the incendiaries of the late insurrection 1843 H. COLERIDGE Ess. & Marg. (1851) II. 139 Native officers had been active in aggravating the irritation caused The dismissal of the incendiaries restored tranquility.

†b A thing that inflames or excites passion, strife, etc., an incentive to evil Obs.

1628 BURTON Anat. Mel. III. ii. 1. 1. (ed. 3) 548 Causes or incendiaries of this rage 1630 WADSWORTH Pilgr. VI. 58 Their intemperate drinking ... was the incendiary of some quarrels 1726 SHELVOCKE Voy. round World 286 We took a booty which might have been made valuable, if discretion and prudence might have had the management of it, for want of which it proved a troublesome incendiary.

Hence Incendiarship (nonce wd.), the office or personality of an incendiary

1860 in Dean Pilgr. Sp. 9 Feb. 13 Was there a man present duly affected, studious of the Quiet and Tranquility of his Country? Their Incendiarships hath plagued him

†Incendible, a. Obs. rare—[1], [ad. L. incendibil-is, f. incendĕre to INCEND: see -IBLE.] Capable of conflagration, burning

1657 TORRIANO, Ital. & Eng. Combustibile, Incendible, or that will soon take fire, burn, make a fire

†Incendiation, Obs. [ad. L. incendiātion-em, f. incendiāt-us, pa. pple. of incendiāre to INCENDIARY] = INCENDIARISM

Incendiously, adv. (WEBSTER, 1856)

Incendium (ɪnsɛ́ndɪəm). [L. incendium burning, conflagration, f. incendĕre to INCEND.]

1823 J. D. HUNTER Captivity N. Amer. 5 The massacre of my parents and connections, and the incendious destruction of their dwellings.

†Incendnum, Obs. Also in anglicized form incendy [L. incendium burning fire, conflagration, burning, f. incendĕre see INCEND. Cf. in same sense It. incendio.] A conflagration, a volcanic eruption

1659 D. PELL Examination of Hannibal & Scipio III. iii. To prevent an incendium it is best to quench a brand before it fire the rest 1667 Obs. Iburn Lond. in Select Exact Mon. (1743) 145 An earthquake, conflagration, storm and desolation 1671 fire 1669 Phil. Trans. IV. 967 A Chronological Account of the several Incendiums or Fires of Mount Ætna. 1750 R. BOND Tr. Voltaire's Graham Johnson 12 Quenched the fatal flames as speedily as Gulliver did the fatal Lilliputian Incendium

†Incendnation, Obs. rare. [f. INCEND v. + MENT.] The action of kindling or inflaming

1647 W. BROWNE tr. Gombert's Polexander III. v. 144 His love, being so ardent, could produce nothing but flames and incendnation

Incensation (ɪnsɛnsḗɪʃən) [n. of action f. med. L. incensāre to INCENSE.] The action of perfuming with incense, censing

1853 J. D. HUNTER Baldeschi's Ceremon. Rome 81 During the incensation of the Celebrant, he stands near the Deacon 1890 I. F. BRIDGETT Blessed Sacr. IV. 101 A priest with a thurible continues the incensation 1893 Dublin Rev. Apr. 281 The ceremony concludes, in the Byzantine rite, with the incensation of the gifts

Incense (ɪnsɛ́ns), sb. Forms 3 ansens, 4 ensense, encens, 4–5 encense, encence, 4–6 incens, encense, 4–9 ensens, 5 yncense, 5–6 incenss, 6 incence, 7 incen. [ME. incens, encens a. OF. encens (12th c.), ancens, ad. LL. incensum incense, lit 'that which is set on fire', neuter of incensus pa. pple. of incendĕre to set on fire. Altered through entence, entence to incense, after L. An aphetic ME. form was CENSE sb.]

1 An aromatic gum or other vegetable product, or a mixture of fragrant gums and spices, used for producing a sweet smell when burned

c1290 S. Leg. I. 178/22 Gold and mirre and An sens. c1340 Cursor M. 9358 (Trin.) Wel swotur hir vesti mast þan encense þat es brent. c1386 Sir Eglamour 265 Pan was þe hir pote of encense a fur dentee, And of balme hit smulled swete & spycery gret plentee. c1386 CHAUCER Nun's P. T. 253 And incense encence in to the fyr he caste. c1400 MAUNDEV. (Rawl.) xix. 87 Pat bing incense and oper things swete smellaud 1526 Pilgr. Perf. (W. de W. 1531) 198 b, Somtyme set her to the incense in her cell 1578 LYTE Dodoens II. xcvii. 280 His roote sauoreth like the Ensens, which is called in Greke Libanus 1610 HOLLAND Camden's Brit. I. 286 Like the powder of gum dragant, Insens, and damaske roses 1666 DRYDEN Ann. Mirab. ccxxvii., The East with incense, and the West with gold, Will at mid-like supplients to receive her doom 1799 Med. Jrnl. II. 451/1 For Publick Sale, a good quantity of Oil of Turpentine, Linseed, also Frankincense 1850 Tr. Gardener's & Bk. Builder I. 31 [Styrax] is used medicinally and for incense

2 The smoke or perfume of incense, esp. when burned as an oblation or in religious ceremonial

c1380 WYCLIF Serm. Sel. Wks. I. 341 Pi þe encense þer myxten putte awey þe stynke of þe stable 1390 GOWER Conf. III. 243 With encense He sacreth and doth reverence 1483 CAXTON Cato I. iv. b, To pense God wyth encence and by good werkes. 1611 BIBLE Isaiah lxvi. 3 A thanke offred of incense went vp 1661 NORTH Yoothe Serm. (1698) III. 177 Like Incense, while it ascends to Heaven it perfumes all about it. 1739 GRAY Let. to Ashton (1775) 65 We listened to this and breathed nothing but incense for two hours 1860 C. KINGSLEY Hesperus etc. 181, I too Did offer incense in that solemn place

3 transf. & fig. (In biblical language.) The smoke or odour of any burnt sacrifice b Any pleasant perfume or fragrance, as of flowers

a 1340 HAMPOLE Psalter lxv. 14 (Rolls) 158, I sall offre til þe wilp encens of wethirs [so WYCLIF 1382, 1611 incense of rammes] 1667 MILTON P. L. IX. 194 Sacred Light began to dawne In Eden on the humid Flours that breathd Their morning Incense 1712 POPE Messiah 24 With all the incense of the breathing spring 1821 SHELLEY Genevra 126 The matin winds from the expanded flowers Scatter their breathed incense

4 fig. Applied to something figured as a religious sacrifice, or as offered in the way of homage; e.g. prayer, praise, flattery, esp. when represented as grateful to the recipient

(a 1340 HAMPOLE Psalter cxl. 2 My prayere be rightid as encens in þi sight.) 1382 WYCLIF Rev. viii. 4 The smoke of the encensis of the preyers of halwis 1593 SHAKS. Lucr. 194 Offer pure incense to so pure a shrine 1614 RALEIGH Hist. World Apology (1621) 61 The sweet perfume which doth move God much No sweeter incense then the sighs of such 1738 POPE Univ. Prayer 50 To thee One Chorus let all Being raise, All Nature's Incense rise! 1746-7 HERVEY Medit. (1818) 195 Continue to add the incense of a dutiful life, to all the oblations of a grateful tongue 1834 H. REED Lect. Lord Poets (1857) II. v. 122 His incense of flattery which his satellites were forever burning beneath his nostrils 1879 FARRAR St. Paul I. 313 The king, to whom no incense was so sweet as the voice of popular applause

5 Comb., as incense-breath, cloud, -mist, -pan, -pot, -smoke, incense-bearing, burning, -loaded adjs., incense-blossom, a blossom yielding 'incense' or fragrance; incense-boat, a boat-shaped vessel used to hold incense for transfer to a censer; †incense-brass, a rendering of Gr. χαλκολίβανον in Rev. I. 15 (1611 'fine brass', R. V. 1881 'burnished brass'), but also explained as 'yellow frankincense'); incense-breathing adj., exhaling 'incense' or fragrance; incense-burner, (a) one who burns incense, (b) a vase or similar vessel on which incense is burnt; incense-cedar, the genus Thuiopsis, esp. the White Cedar (T. dolabrata) of Western North America, incense-cup a cup or small vessel for burning incense; also applied to certain small vessels found in prehistoric graves, †incense-frank = FRANKINCENSE (obs.), incense-tree, a name for various trees yielding incense, esp. of the genera Boswellia (chiefly East Indian) and Icica (chiefly South American), also applied to a species of Pittosporum, from its fragrant flowers; incense-wood, the wood of Icica heptaphylla, a South American tree, †incense-wort, 'a kind of herb' (Phillips, 1706)

1828 SHELLEY Adv. Island xix, Many a lawny mountain With incense bearing forests. 1857 — To Constantia Singing, Western isles with incense blossoms bright 1853 J. D. HUNTER Baldeschi's Ceremon. Rome 81 He presents the manubia (or incense boat) to the Master of Ceremonies 1866 R. I. LECHMERE Incense 19 The priest ... takes the incense boat, and burns incense in the thurible, censing the altar five times 1961 DAVIS Tr. Bullinger on Apoc. (1573) 12 b, The fiete of the Lord is of Copper, or like to Incense brasse burned in a fire Incensbrasse is a word compounded of Brasse and Incence 1750 GRAY Elegy v, The breezy call of incense breathing morn 1823 SOUTHEY Comm. Pl. IV. 3 An incense burner to the idols 1884 MRS. HEMANS Poems, To Evening, Incense, Cedar 1835 MRS. HEMANS Poems, To Future Madonna, And hath the crested helmet nodded over thee, midst the 'incense cloud? 1633 True Trojans III. vi. in Hist. Dodsley XII. 438 An altar we design, Where incense frank and myrrh are burnt in little censers 1844 BAKER Egyptian Lake etc. 17, The incenses loaded air. 1835 MRS. HEMANS Poems, Almeria, Reveal ing through 'incense mists ... the wreathed pagodas 1611 FLORIO, Incensorio, a censor or 'incense pan 1661 HOLYDAY Juvenal 248 There was no such matter as the bringing of their incense in queens to the altars, there being, for that purpose, an incense pan 1699 DAMPIER Voy. II. 1. 43 A little Altar, with two 'Incense pots on it 1887 BANNER in Earle P. Bible (1849) 141 Spikenard, saffron, sweet canes, Cinomon, with the rest Of 'incense trees. 1855 KINGSLEY Westw. Ho xxii (1889) 91 Shrubberies of heaths and rhododendrons, and woolly incense trees 1881 Leisure Hour Dec. 753/2 The Pittosporum or incense tree, as it is here called from the perfume which its pretty white flowers give out. 1866 Treas. Bot., 'Incense wood, Icica heptaphylla

Incense (ɪnsɛ́ns), v.[1] Forms see INCENSE sb. [a. F. encenser (Chanson Roland, 11th c.), corresp. to med. L. and It. incensāre, f. incens-um, incenso, INCENSE sb.]

1 trans. To fumigate or perfume (a person or thing) with incense, esp. in connexion with a religious ceremony; to burn or offer incense before (an image), or to ('a deity'). to cense

1303 R. BRUNNE Handl. Synne 11093 Pey ensensede þe body. c1378 Sc. Leg. Saints, Cuthbert 47 Pai anchary

wes in be tempal gan, til incense be altere 1401 Lol Poems (Rolls) II 44 Chorees children, with new sences ensencen the auters of synne 1496 Dives & Paup (W de W) II xv 471 Now clerkes encense ymages & other 1558 Hethe in Strype Ann Ref (1824) I App vi 402 Kinge Ozias did take the censer to incense the aulter 1613 Purchas Pilgrymage (1614) 144 An Idal roome, where they Incense these Deities morning and euening 1709 J Johnson Clergym Vade M II 192 They that did not with their own hands incense Idols 1805 Southey Madoc II 11 And those infernal Priests who guard him then At morning and at euening incense him, And mock him with knee reverence 1837 Lockhart Ancient Ball I 83 Nestors shall any man or woman, self-tyled noble, be 'incensed,'—foolishly fumigated with incense, in Church

fig 1579 Stagkouse Body Divin. iv 1 § 4 (1776) II 428 The prayers of the saints incensed with the merits of his sacrifice

2 transf To perfume with any pleasant odour; to suffuse with fragrance, to scent. (In quot 1503, to drive out by diffusing fragrance)

1503 Hawes Pramp Virt iv iii, Fragrant flowres full of delycacy That all yll heyres [= aire] dyde cleanse out 1707 A Hamilton New Acc. E. Ind I vii 68 Some Powder of Benjoin, Myrrh or Frankincense, which produce a thick Smoke, that incenses or perfumes the whole Room 1852 Hawthorne Blithedale Rom iv, A goodly quantity of peat, which was crumbling to white ashes, incensed the kitchen with its not ungrateful odor 1861 L. L. Noble Icebergs 203 Wild roses incensed the fresh air 1884 J Payne tr Vigilia VIII 20 She incensed herself with aloes-wood and scented herself with sweet and costly perfumes

3 fig To offer flattering homage or adulation to, to flatter t Obs

1738 Gentl Instr (ed 10) 212 (D) He now must be bought off and incensed by his Sovereign as the Devil is by the Indians, that he will do no harm 1756 In Hervey Mem Geo II, I 319 Flatterers that writ perpetually incensing his altars 1762–71 H Walpole Vertue's Anecd Paint (1786) III 206 This was not the only instance in which the poet incensed the painter

4 To burn or offer as incense (lit and fig)

1605 Bacon Adv Learn II Conc 1 The good, of any here, is due to be incensed to the honour first of the Divine Maiestie, and next of your Maestie 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 417 A Censer with Incense, which he incenseth 1872 J G Murray Lect iv 122 The whole carcass of the bullock is burned, not incensed or turned into a sweet smell on the altar, but consumed by fire in the place of ashes

5 intr To burn or offer incense

c 1386 Chaucer Sec Nun's P. 395 I hey nolde encense ne sacrifise right nought 1388 Wyclif Luke i 9 He entride in to the temple, to encense c 1449 Pecock Repr 169 To encense to God or to a Seint before an auter 1558 Pcnit Conf viii (1561) 250 Such who through frailty hnd incensed unto Idols 1870 Daily News 7 Feb, His Holiness afterwards walked round the coffin, it censing and sprinkling holy water

Incense (ɪnse·ns), p 2 Forms 5 encense, 5–6 ensense, 5–7 incence, 6–7 inense, 6– incense [a Of incenser (encenser) (15–16th c in Godef), f L incens-, ppl stem of incandere to set on fire, Incend]

†1 trans To set on fire, kindle, to consume with fire, burn Obs

1470–85 Malory Arthur xxi xi, Syr I amvelot with his vyll fellowes wente aboute the hors here syn,ynge & reelyng many an holy oryson, & frankensens vpon the corps en censed 1477 Norton Ord Alch v in Ashm (1652) 54 Incensed with Heate. 1509 Hawes Past Plas i xx, Environed about With tongues of fyre as fraght as any stares, That fyry flashes ensensed alway out 1593 G Fletcher Licia (1876) 53 For why my heart with sighs doth breath such flame, That ayre and water both incensed be 1604 Bacon Fr., Hereticks (Arb) 505 Fortune is like pretious Odours, most fragrant, when they are incensed, or crushed c 1700 Addison Milton imit out of 3rd Æneid (R), Now helches molten mists and ruddy flame Incenst, or tears up mountains by the roots.

†b To heat, make hot Obs

1621 Burton Anat Mel I ii 1 iv 12 Madnesse hath the same causes as the other [Phrensie], as Choler adust, and Blood incensed, Braines inflamed

†2 fig To inflame, excite, 'kindle' (passion or ardent feeling) Obs

1599 Marston Vo Pellanus i iii 184 Shall Curlo with bare groping touch Incense his lust? 1631 Gouge God's Arrows i § 4 7 These by their sinnes much incense Gods wrath 1667 Milton P L xi 692 Will God incense his Ire For such a petty Trespass? 1809 W Irving Knickerb vii vi (1849) 410 Perplexities which bewildered the brain and incensed the ire of honest Peter

†3 To inflame, excite, 'fire' (a person with some ardent feeling or passion) Obs exc as in b

1535 Mirym Rose of Lave 102 My saule truly with holy lufe was ensensyd 1552 Huloet Corn i ii, Some be incensed with glorie, some with ambition 1620 G Fletcher Christ's Vict i lx, And all incensed with love, With wonder and amazement, did her beauty prove 1664 Bladden E i 1 You muses all my mind incense

b spec To inflame with wrath, excite or provoke to anger, make angry, enrage, exasperate (The current sense)

1494 Fabyan Chron vi ccvii 200 For the whiche he ensensed the kynge of Fraunce agayne hym in all that he myght c 1586 Cresa Pembroke Ps lxxviii xvi, How ofte this crooked kind Incenst him in the desert every where 1596 Spenser F Q v iii 36 Much was the knight incent with his lewd word 1653 H Cogan tr Pinto's Trav xxx 119 They incensed the Inhabitants against him 1749 Fielding Tom Jones xvi ii, This so incensed her father, that he departed from her with many hard words and curses. 1858 Bright Sp India 24 June, A thing likely to incense and horrify the people of India

c fig To stir up, make violent or furious

In quot 1604 with mixture of sense 1

1604 Dekker Honest Wh Wks 1873 II 133 Winds wrastling with great fires incense the flames 1615 G Sandys Trav 2 A sea tempestuous and vnfaithfull, at an instant incensed with sudden gusts Ibid 25 A tirade wind blowing which when contrary to the streame, doth ex ceedingly incense it

†4 To incite to some action; to urge, instigate, stir up, 'set on' (inst to or to do something

In some instances perhaps associated with Insnse, v 2

1531 Elyot Gov i xiv, If nature . . will dispose them to that maner studie, they shall be therto the more incensed, and come into it the better prepared and furnished 1549 Coverdale, etc Erasm Par Pref 7 The Profession whereunto they ought rather to be encensed and allured by your honest behauiour 1600 Holland Livy xxxvii xlix (65) (Audrihal) when his men were weary and drew back . . incensed (accendit) them against, one while by force & words and intreate, another while by sharpe checks and rebukes 1639 Fuller Holy State iv xxviii (1642) 217 By which speech he incensed the English to go on with him

Incensed (ɪnsenst), *ppl a*1 [f Incense *v*1 (or sb) + -ed] Perfumed or accompanied with incense, filled with the smoke of incense

1611 Heywood Golden Age iii Wks 1874 I 153 The Delphian God, from his incensed Altar 1885 S Rosman Celt in hist v 21 The incensed rites, and choral harmonies 1866 Neale Sequences & Hymns 131 Again shall banner, cross, and cope pass thro the incensed aisle

Incensed (ɪnse·nst, poet ɪnse·nsɛd), *ppl a*2 [f Incense *v*2 + -ed1]

†1 a lit Set on fire, kindled b fig (of anger, etc) Kindled excited Obs

1612 Brathwait More Knaues Ar 137 Whose heauy wrath and iust incensed Ire, Hath sentenc'd me to euerlasting fire 1663 J Spencer Prodigies (1665) 213 The conuulsion of some, and the incensed Exhalations forth by passes and intervals from the Clouds 1694 tr Milton's Hist. State, To Per Transilvania May an 1655, Beseeching him to remove his incens'd Anger from his Subjects

2 Inflamed with wrath, made angry, enraged

1594 Shaks Rich III, iv i 52 Betweene these swelling wrong incenced Peeres 1667 Milton P L v 847 Hast it to appease Thy incensed Father, and the incensed Son, While Pardon may be found in time besought 1681–6 J Scott Chr Life (1747) III 116 He will appear against us as an incensed Judge in the Quarrel of his Father's Authority 1838 Thirlwall Greece xviii III 51 To abandon the Samians to the vengeance of their incensed sovereign

3 fig Full of an animal's dignified with fire issuing from the mouth and ears

1577–87 Holinshed Chron III 1256/2 The field charged with so many lions of the first rampants incensed gules 1882 Cussans Herr vi (ed 2) 100

Hence Incenseless (a nsenseles), a [f Incense sb + -less] Without incense

1856 G Wilson Gateways Known (1859) 86 An opportunity which our modern incenseless worship does not supply

Incensement (ɪnse·nsmɛnt) Now rare [f Incense *v*2 + -ment] The fact of being incensed, anger, exasperation

1599 Porter Angry Wom Abingd in Hazl Dodsley VII 316 Not for that your incensement Makes me make offer of it, but your health 1601 Shaks Twel N III iv 260 In the incensement that this moment is so implacable, that satisfaction can be none, but by pangs of death and sepulcher! 1614 Heywood Captives II i in Bullen O Pl IV, Rather for him Incensement to my lord than just amendment 1821 Examiner 814/2 Popular incensement seems more to be indicated 1867 Quida Idalia x 126 Such a freedom now lashed him into vehement pain and incensement

†Incense1, Obs Forms a 4 encenser, ensenser, β 5 encensour, or, 6 incensur, 7 incenser [Two types ME incenser, a Of encenser, Of encensoir —late L incensarium (Du Cange), f incensum Incense] = incensoir, and in from incandère see Incend v Cf obs F encen seur (16th c) The form incenser might be agent n from Incense *v*2] One who kindles, inflames, stirs up, or incites, an instigator

c 1385 Hampshull Downe Hen VIII (Camden) 254 The chief incenser and solicitor of the first divorce 1576 Newton Lemnies Complex 1633/7 The humours and spirits which be the incensors and stirrers forward of the minde) 1613 Yorks Plotters 8 Adiel lives and is maintained by those these lewd incensers did accuse him [Neru] to bear him 1657 Hayward Letw VI 1630) 55 Many priests were incensors of the rage

Incensory (ɪnsensŏri), [ad med L incensorium, f incensum Incense see ory] Cf Incenser 1]

†1 ?A burnt offering, or *?*an altar of burnt offering Obs rare

c 1611 Chapman Iliad xi 686 A cup of gold, crown'd with red wine, he held On th' holy incensory pour'd (ut supra) prayse (apoyvn)

2 A vessel for burning incense, a censer

1645 Evelyn Mem 17 Feb Other saints lie here, decorated with splendid ornaments, lamps, and incensories of great cost 1696 Phillips Incensory, Incensorio a Church-vessel to burn Incense in, a censing or perfuming pan 1846 C Butler Geolinz Introd 23 Chalices, patens, incensories, images were fabricated 1884 J Inglis Anglo-Sax Ch (1888) I vii 269 In some churches an incensory, or metallic vessel, was suspended from the roof

Incenser3 see Incensor

†Incense nsial, a Obs rare In 6 encencyall [f encens Incense sb prob immed a Of encensoel see at] Pertaining to or resembling incense

1493 Festivall (W de W 1515) 84 There is noo encence sauoureth soo swete and so such so encencyall an odour as doeth good prayers

Ince'nsible, a rare—1 [f L incens-, ppl stem of incendère to Incend + -ible] Capable of being incensed or excited in feeling

1614 J Adams in Spurgeon Treas Da P xxxv 17 Were God like man, subject to passions, or incensible by the suggestions of the common barrator

Incensing (ɪnse·nsɪŋ), *vbl sb*1 [f Incense *v*1 + -ing1] The action of Incense *v*1, a perfuming with, or offering of, incense, censing

1388 Wyclif Tobit i 10 Al the multitude of the puple preiede in the our of encensyng 1496 Dives & Paup (W de W) II xv 471 In euery lawe thirty fyes ayon or encen synge hath ben an hyȝh dyuyne worshyp 1559 Bp Cox in Strype Ann Ref (1709) I App xxii 51 Images in the Church of Christ have been abused with clothing, gilding, incensing, and other kinds of honour 1679 Puller Moder Ch Eng (1849) 17 As formal as any Romanist can be in his crosses and incensings. 1897 J D Chambers Div Worship 264 The elebse is incensed, of the alt r and of persons and things

Incensing (ɪnse·nsɪŋ), *vbl sb*2 [f Incense *v*2 + -ing1] The action of Incense *v*2, in flaming, 'stirring up (obs), a making angry

1494 Fabyan Chron vii 350 The commons of ȝe cyte were so ferre out of rule by ensensynge of ryotous persones 1650 B Disallowances 53 The world never saw such incensing of fortunate hatred upon a Nation

Incen'sing, pl a [f Incense *v*2 + -ing2] That incenses, inflames, or excites

1599 Marston Sco Villanie iii viii 212 To streake him sable, and with incensing touch Ad faint his force

†Incension, Obs Also 4–5 inencyon [ad L incensiōn-em, n of action from incendère to Incend Of Of incension (1488 in Godef)]

1 Burning, setting on fire, conflagration

1432–50 tr Higden (Rolls) I 29 The first Swolling of the world, from the plantacion of Adam vn to the incension of the temple of the Jewes 1626 Bacon Sylva § 43 Subtill or Windy Spirits are taken off by Incension or Fuming 1656 Blount Glossogr, Incension, a burning or inflaming

2 Bodily heating or inflammation

1597 A M tr Guillemeau's Fr Chirurg 12 2 The wounds of the belly are not subiecte vnto inflammation or incension 1745 Mortimer in Phil Trans XLIII 427 Was it not for the superabundance of aqueous Humours in Animals fatal Inflammations would frequently happen

3 The inflaming or exciting of passion or ardent feeling, incensement.

1655 Baxter Cath Theol II i 1 Wars and blood shed hath followed partly by this incension

†Incensive, a and sb Obs rare Also 7 insensive [a obs F incensif -ive, ad L type incensīv-us*, f incens-, ppl stem of incandère see Incend and -ive]

A adj 1 Of inflamed disposition, full of rage or wrath

1563 87 Fore A's Apol 1 vi (1684) I 90/2 Unto Christian piety and Religion, he was most incensive, and in the Last Churches exercised cruel persecution

2 Tending to inflame or excite passion or angry feeling

1633 J Adams Exp 2 Peter 1 Cursing, and multiplying incensive terms a 1677 Barrow Wks (1686) III x 118 To be extremely hated, and inhumanely persecuted without any fault committed, or just occasion offered, is greatly incensive of humane passion

B sb = Incentive sb

a 1618 Raleigh War D vyb, Hence we may observe that the very propagation of our kind, hath with it a strong incensiue even of those daily Wars, which afflict the earth

†Incensor, -or Obs [a L incensor, agent n from incandère see Incend v Cf obs F incenseur (16th c) The form incenser might be agent n from Incense *v*2] One who kindles, inflames, stirs up, or incites, an instigator

c 1555 Harpsfield Downe Hen VIII (Camden) 254 The chief incenser and solicitor of the first divorce 1576 Newton Lemnies Complex 1633/7 The humours and spirits which be the incensors and stirrers forward of the minde) 1613 Yorks Plotters 8 Adiel lives and is maintained by those these lewd incensers did accuse him [Neru] to bear him 1657 Hayward Letw VI 1630) 55 Many priests were incensors of the rage

Incensory (ɪnsensŏri), [ad med L incensorium, f incensum Incense see ory] Cf Incenser 1]

†1 ?A burnt offering, or *?*an altar of burnt offering Obs rare

c 1611 Chapman Iliad xi 686 A cup of gold, crown'd with red wine, he held On th' holy incensory pour'd (ut supra) prayse (apoyvn)

2 A vessel for burning incense, a censer

1645 Evelyn Mem 17 Feb Other saints lie here, decorated with splendid ornaments, lamps, and incensories of great cost 1696 Phillips Incensory, Incensorio a Church-vessel to burn Incense in, a censing or perfuming pan 1846 C Butler Geolinz Introd 23 Chalices, patens, incensories, images were fabricated 1884 J Inglis Anglo-Sax Ch (1888) I vii 269 In some churches an incensory, or metallic vessel, was suspended from the roof

Incensurable (inse·nsiūrăbl), a. rare [IN-1.] Not liable to censure; not censurable or blameable. 1846 WORCESTER cites DWIGHT

Hence Incensurably adv. rare.
1846 WORCESTER cites SHELLEY

†Incentation. Obs. rare—0. In 7 -mon [ad L. incentiōn-em, n. of action f. incendre to sing to, blow on an instrument, f. in- (IN-2) + canĕre to sing.] (See quot.)
1696 BLOUNT Glossogr., Incensum (ab incendo), melody of Instruments, or of men singing together

Incentive (inse·ntiv), a. and sb. [ad. L. incentīv-us setting the time, inciting, f. incendre see INCENTION. In sense 2, app. confounded with INCENSIVE, and other derivatives of L. incendĕre to kindle, set on fire.]

A. adj. 1 Having the quality of inciting or arousing to feeling or action, provocative, exciting.
1603 HOLLAND Plutarch's Mor. 1843 Pythia the Priestesse of Apollo, being once come downe from her three footed fatacke, upon which she receiveth that incentive spirit of furie, remaineth quiet. 1660 R. Amyraldus Treat. conc. Relig. I. VII. 103 Embellish'd with many beauties incentive of our Love. 1677 W. HUBBARD Narrative Postscr. to In stances of this nature should be Incentive unto us, to bless the Father of Lights. a 1734 NORTH Lives (1826) I. 371 The Lord Shaftesbury made an incentive speech in the House of Lords. 1864 Reader No. 95/2 The Blessing and incentive to our mental faculties. 1866 CANDLISH Ep. John iv. 104 It is a stimulus and incentive impulse.

†2 Having the property of kindling or setting on fire. Obs.
1667 MILTON P. L. VI. 519 Fart incentive reed Provide, pernicious with one touch to fire. 1708 J. PHILIPS Cyder I. (Seager). The cavern'd ground, With grain incentive (gun powder) stor'd, by sudden blaze Burst-forth.

B. sb. [L. incentivum.] Something that arouses feeling, or incites to action; an exciting cause or motive; an incitement, provocation; 'spur'.
1432-50 tr. Higden (Rolls) I. 5 The incentive of mandrake. 1612 SPEDEN Illustr. Drayton's Poly-olb VI. 97 A musicall incentive to warre. 1658 ROSE Heure Unm I. (1702) 3 Let the Precepts and Patterns of Vertues serve for Spurs and Incentives to Grace. 1665 BOYLE Occas. Reft. (1848) 9 Incentives to inflame our hearts with Charity and Zeal. 1713 STEELE Englishman No. 52. 328 The Passion is principally designed as an Incentive to the Love of our Country. 1849 MISS MULOCK Ogilvies VIII. With men of Lyndon's character opposition is often the greatest incentive to love.

Hence Incentively adv., incitingly.
1856 in WEBSTER

Incentor (inse·ntəɹ) Now rare. Also 6-our, 9 (erron.) -or. [a. L. incentor singer, setter of a tune, inciter, from incendre see INCEPTION.]

1 One who excites or stirs up (strife, etc.); one who incites to action.
1563-87 FOXE A. & M. (1596) 791/1 The cheefe Captaine and incentour of which persecution was first Diocletian. 1609 Bp W. BARLOW Serm. Nunedls Cath. 173 They tooke him to be Incentor, the Sturrer or Procurer of the same. 1656 BLOUNT Glossogr., Incentor, a make bate, or Boutefeu. 1658 PHILLIPS, Incentor, the same as Incendiary. 1718 PHILPAUX O & N Test. II. 138 The chief Incentors of this War. 1895 N. Brit. Daily Mail 30 Aug. 5 A placard, declaring that all incents is not would be executed

†2 (See quot.) Obs.
1656 BLOUNT Glossogr., Incentor, he that singeth the tune or first Singing there are three degrees, the first Accentor or the second Incentor, the third Accentor. 1678 PHILLIPS (ed. 4), Incentor, he that sings the middle part

Incentre, encentre, (in-, ense·ntəɹ), v. rare. [f. IN-4, EN-1 + CENTER. (? It. incentrare.)] trans. To centre in something, to place or fix in the centre 1611 FLORIO, Incentrare, to encentre, or goe to the mulle or centre. 1623 WILLIAMS Let to Dr. Buckingham 15 June in Hacket Life I. (1693) 138 How is your Love incentred to me only in your own Breast. 1843 E. JONES Sens. & Ir. III. Encentred in this meadow, one revolved Inquiring gaze.

Incept (inse·pt), v. [f. L. incept-, ppl. stem of incipĕre to begin (see INCEPTIVE).] A. trans To undertake, to begin, commence.
1656 TRAPP Comm. Rom. VII. 7 The word concupisce is incepti ve. 1706 PHILLIPS s.v. Verbs Inceptive, the same as Inchoative. 1795 HARRIS Hermes I. VII. 360 Inceptive or desitive propositions as the sun rises, but the fogs have not yet begun to vanish, therefore the sun is not yet risen. 1751 HARRIS Hermes I. VII. 360 Inceptive. The three first of these tenses we call the inceptive present, the inceptive past, and the inceptive future. 1824 L. MURRAY Eng. Gramm. (ed. 5) I. 118 The verb, "I am going," I am about to write. These have been called the Inceptive future, as they note the commencement of an action. 1885 Athenæum 15 Aug. 205/1 Nor has any attempt been made to give the inceptive force of the participle ἀναλύω (being brought forth) in Gen. XXXVIII. 25

b Beginning a word, initial
1892 R. J. BURTON Gen. Adv. in Spiritual Geog. Soc. XXIX 54 note, This [mwinoq] is satisfied with the truly S African inceptive m before a consonant

c Gram. Used of a locus deficient in some particular dimension. Inceptive magnitude, a Word used by Dr Wallis to express the first Principles in Geometry, which, though of no Magnitude themselves, are yet capable of producing such, thus a Point has no Magnitude it self, but is inceptive of a Line. 1727-41 CHAMBERS Cycl. s.v., So a line, though it have no breadth, is yet inceptive of breadth; that is, capable, by its motion, of producing a surface which has breadth.

B sb. 1 a Gram. An inceptive verb. b Logic An inceptive proposition

2 a J. CARTER in Ann. Nat. Hist. III. 45 Each time after inceptng a grain it went away to some distance. 1885 A. SCHARFF in Proc. R. Soc. XXXVIII. 88 The introduction of particles is one of the most characteristic phenomena exhibited by amœboid cells, which will carry such incepted matters along with them in their slow movements from place to place.

Hence Incepted, Incepting ppl. adjs.
1820 PALEY Nat. Theol. XXVII. (1819) 482 In plants the incepted organization, though formed within and through and by a preexisting organization, is not corrupted by its corruption, or destroyed by its dissolution. 1885 M. PATTISON Serm. (1889) 60 The love of truth which is as unmistakable in the true scholar as in the consummate scientific intellect. 1884 F. HALL in Nation (N. Y.) XXXIX. 338/3 An introductory guide to Sanskrit for inceptng students whose mother tongue is English. 1893 FOWLER Hist. C. C. C. (O. H. S.) 277 One of the incepting Doctors. 1895 RALEIGH Hist. Suffolk 58 The joint action of the village community, rather than the mandate of an incepting thane.

Inception (inse·pʃən) [ad. L. inceptiōn-em, n. of action from incipĕre to begin. Cf. OF. inception, -cion (15-16th c.).]

1 The action of entering upon some undertaking, process, or stage of existence, origination, beginning, commencement.
a 1583 J. PENRY Exhort. to Househ. Ord. (1590) 18 From his first inception, till the day of his death, his house stode after one vnyformitie. 1646 BACON Sylva § 116 The Inception of Putrifaction. 1677 HALE Prim. Orig. Man. I. II. 69 The very repugnancy in Nature of successive Beings to be without an inception, or eternal. 1827 JARMAN Powell's Devises II. 299 Cases in which the disuse, according to the state of events at the time of its inception, never could have had an object. 1866 GROVE Correl. Forces (ed. 5) 194 Organisms which propagate by inception. 1874 Nature IX. 489/1 Every inception of a new species is preceded by numerous slight variations. 1879 LECKY Eng. in 18th C. II. 213 Between the inception and the execution of the project. 1894 HALE Fishes 6 The inception of the Fishery.

2 In University use The action of incepting, see quots. 1888, 1895, and cf. COMMENCEMENT 2.
c 1680 WOOD Annals (ed. Gutch, 1792) I. 60 After he had feasted the Scholars at his Inception, they like clowns left him. Ibid. 66 There was no scholar, if of any account, but did show himself bountiful at his Inception. 1842 PUSEY Inaug. Lect. 11 There yet remained to be performed (before creation) the exercises of inception or commencement. 1888 MULLINGER in Encycl. Brit. XXIII. 825/1 By the ancient statutes of the University, the entrance upon, and commencement of, the functions of a duly licensed teacher, and his recognition as such by his brothers in the profession. 1895 RASHDALL Univ. Europe in Med. Age I. IV. 232 In our English Universities, conservative as they are in many things, every trace of the ceremony of Inception has an air of unreality and disguise, only the preliminary ceremonial of the License survives. Ibid. v. 452 An interval of half a year commonly elapsed between License and Inception. . . . He was then free to give his formal inaugural lecture or rather disputation in the presence of the Faculty, to receive the Magisterial biretta and the book, to receive the kiss of fellowship, and to take his seat upon the magistral Cathedra.

3 The action of taking in, as an organism a 1849 J. A. FOX (O.), The result is the immersion of the mouth and nostrils, and the inception, during effort to breathe while beneath the surface, of water into the lungs.

Inceptive (inse·ptiv), a. and sb. [a. obs. F. inceptif, -ive (16th c. in Godef.), ad. L. type inceptīv-us*, f. incept-, ppl. stem of incipĕre to begin see -IVE.]

A. adj.
1 Beginning, commencing, incipient, relating to or of the nature of a beginning, initial 1602 J. SPARROW tr. Behme's Rem. Wks., and Apol. Tych. 1 The Inceptive or beginning Worke of Nature, or an Eternall one? a 1763 BISHOP Art Ling. Poetry (R.), You see, in speaking, or by sound, or ink, The grand inceptive vocables is to think. 1823 BARLEY Child Reading (ed. 2) I. 247 The various accents of the Newfoundland dog are manifestations wonderfully like inceptive speech.

2 Gram. and Logic Expressing the beginning of action, as inceptive verb, inceptive tenses, inceptive proposition see quots.
1656 TRAPP Comm. Rom. VII. 7 The word concupisce is inceptive. 1706 PHILLIPS s.v. Verbs Inceptive, the same as Inchoative. 1795 HARRIS Hermes I. VII. 360 Inceptive or desitive propositions as the sun rises, but the fogs have not yet begun to vanish, therefore the sun is not yet risen. 1751 HARRIS Hermes I. VII. 360 Inceptive. The three first of these tenses we call the inceptive present, the inceptive past, and the inceptive future. 1824 L. MURRAY Eng. Gramm. (ed. 5) I. 118 The verb, "I am going," I am about to write. These have been called the Inceptive future, as they note the commencement of an action. 1885 Athenæum 15 Aug. 205/1 Nor has any attempt been made to give the inceptive force of the participle ἀναλύω (being brought forth) in Gen. XXXVIII. 25

b Beginning a word, initial
1892 R. J. BURTON Gen. Adv. in Spiritual Geog. Soc. XXIX 54 note, This [mwinoq] is satisfied with the truly S African inceptive m before a consonant

c Gram. Used of a locus deficient in some particular dimension. Inceptive magnitude, a Word used by Dr Wallis to express the first Principles in Geometry, which, though of no Magnitude themselves, are yet capable of producing such, thus a Point has no Magnitude it self, but is inceptive of a Line. 1727-41 CHAMBERS Cycl. s.v., So a line, though it have no breadth, is yet inceptive of breadth; that is, capable, by its motion, of producing a surface which has breadth.

B sb. 1 a Gram. An inceptive verb. b Logic An inceptive proposition

2 a J. CARTER in Ann. Nat. Hist. III. 45 Each time after inceptng a grain it went away to some distance. 1885 A. SCHARFF in Proc. R. Soc. XXXVIII. 88 The introduction of particles is one of the most characteristic phenomena exhibited by amœboid cells, which will carry such incepted matters along with them in their slow movements from place to place.

Hence Incepted, Incepting ppl. adjs.
1820 PALEY Nat. Theol. XXVII. (1819) 482 In plants the incepted organization, though formed within and through and by a preexisting organization, is not corrupted by its corruption, or destroyed by its dissolution. 1885 M. PATTISON Serm. (1889) 60 The love of truth which is as unmistakable in the true scholar as in the consummate scientific intellect. 1884 F. HALL in Nation (N. Y.) XXXIX. 338/3 An introductory guide to Sanskrit for inceptng students whose mother tongue is English. 1893 FOWLER Hist. C. C. C. (O. H. S.) 277 One of the incepting Doctors. 1895 RALEIGH Hist. Suffolk 58 The joint action of the village community, rather than the mandate of an incepting thane.

Inception (inse·pʃən) [ad. L. inceptiōn-em, n. of action from incipĕre to begin. Cf. OF. inception, -cion (15-16th c.).]

1 The action of entering upon some undertaking, process, or stage of existence, origination, beginning, commencement.
c

1628 Felt*ham Resolves* II xxxviii 89 The first hath more uncertain'd honor, but lesse safety The latter is humbly secure

[Incertain, a frequent scribal and editorial error for in certain, in truth, certainly (CERTAIN sb 7) e.g. in Paul's Gower I. 150, 248, etc.]

† Ince·rtainly, adv. Obs [f INCERTAIN a + -LY 2] = UNCERTAINLY, in various senses.

1530 Palsgr. 66 Other sixe used of their auctours incertainly, sometyme as masculynes, sometyme as femynines 1570 Hilory. To auniswere incertainly and ambiguously 1612 Brinsley Lud Lit 65 The learners shall still goe in certainly and fearefully 1714 Spectator Courts text (ed 3) 171 If the Verdict find the Matter incertainly

† Ince·rtainty. Obs [a OF incertaineté (1477 in Godef., in Cotgr 1611), f incertain, after certaineté: CERTAINTY] = UNCERTAINTY, in various senses.

1484 Caxton Curiall 6 Io ryve & mounte fro certayne to Incertayne 1579 Fulton Enchaunt 1 (1599) 28 Mens hopes full of suspicions and incertainties 1600 Shaks. Asw. cvii, Incertenties now crowne them vilues awarde 1684 B Hall Pref. to Contempl. St. Man (1690) 11, Here thou mayest see the uncertainty of Mortal Life 1792 J Jackson Hist rel (1859) III 330 There is great incertainty in the meaning of the term

Incertitude (inso·rtitiūd) [a F incertitude (14th c. in Hatz Darm.), ad L type incertitūdo*, f in- (In- 3) + certitūdo CERTITUDE]

1 Subjective uncertainty, the state or condition of not being certain or sure of something, absence of assurance or confidence, doubt, hesitation

1602 Holland Pliny xviii xxv 586 The cause of this incertitude and difficultie (as to the beginning of Spring), is partly the convexitie of the rope of heaven and partly the diverse climates observed in the globe of the earth c 1631 Donne in Select (1840) 207 The fearful man falls into labyrinths, of incertitudes, and impertinencies, and anxieties, and irresolutions 1677 Gale Crt Gentiles III 158 For Scripture and uncertitude is the punishment of such terrestrie 1756 Burke Introd Nat Soc Wks I 63 Thus we were brought back to our old incertitude 1833 Lyson Europe V § 63 (1849) I 621 The king was distracted by the most cruel incertitude

2 Objective uncertainty, uncertain or insecure condition, insecurity

1603 Holland Plutarch's Mor 875 The incertitude and instability of this life 1692 Locke Toleration 1 Wks 1727 II 241 Let us grant that in this Incertitude of things, the safest Way is to follow his Dictates 1802 Corry Mem A Berkeley 152 The incertitude of his reconciliation with Miss Vernon

3 Indistinctness of visible forms, obscurity

1883 Century Mag XXVI. 821 Visit it towards the close of day, when the gray incertitude lies on the mighty city

Incessable (inse·săb'l), rare or Obs Also 6 -ceissabill, 7 -ceassable, errou -ceasible [ad. L. incessābil-is, f in- (In- 1) + cessābilis*, f cessāre to CEASE cf F incessable (15th c. in Godef.) In 16–17th c sometimes assimilated to cease] Of unceasing character, ceaseless, incessant

1555 Raynold Byrth Mankynde IV vi (1634) 258 Incessable sweating 1560 Rolland Crt Venus II 292, I shall vphald his wrutice Incessabill 1624 Heywood Gunaik IX 443 His liver and heart is perpetually tyred on by a ravenous vulture, who still renewes his incessable torments 1627–77 Feltham Resolves II v 168 The life of man is the Incess able walk of time

Incessably (inse·săbli), adv [f prec + -LY 2] Without cessation, ceaselessly, incessantly 1398 Trevisa Barth De P. R. II viii. (MS Harl 6147 9 b/1 Also he meueb incessable [ed 1495 bly] for such a loue faileb neuer 1592 Ord Cryptan Hon (W de W 1556) v iii 383 The lamentacyons, and the complaynytes that they make in sessyly 1893 Proceed World's Congr Deaf (1894) 174 Our dead mute must be continued incessably to give assault to these prejudices

Incessancy (inse·sănsi) [f next sec -ANCY] The quality of being incessant or unceasing, unbroken continuance 1615 Chapman Odyss I 248 Whose white bones wasting he with th' incessancy Of showers pour'd down upon them 1665 R B Comm a Tales 59 By the incessancy of his Prayers, Heaven's wrath was appeased 1853 Lyson Chr Practicalness in Lett to Scattered etc. 350 The incessancy and vastness of human labour 1883 Contemp Rev Sept 457 The incessancy and minuteness of their bureaucratic study

Incessant (inse·sănt), a [prob a F incessant (implied in incessamment, 1348 in Hatz Darm.), ad late L. incessant-em (implied in incessitate), f in- (In- 3) + cessant em, pres. pple of cessāre to CEASE]

1 That does not cease, unceasing, ceaseless, continual, either in duration or repetition

1532 More Confut Tindale Wks 361/1 These menne with their incessaunt searche fynde out fals causes 1590 Shaks. Com Err I. i. 73 The incessant weepings of my wife 1606 Dryden Ann. Mirab cclxxvii, And now four days the sun had seen our woes, Four nights the moon beheld its incessant fire 1726 Swift Gulliver I. ii, An incessant noise like that of a water mill 1852 M Arnold Future vii, Cities will crowd to its edge In a blacker incessanter line. 1885 F Temple Relat Relig & Sc v 140 The pivots of all the prophetical teaching are the incessant inculcation of justice and mercy

b. transf Of persons and things in reference to their action.

1529 Skelton Reguide III iv The rude flint Yields to the incessant drop 1820 Shelley Witch Atl. I. The incessant hail with stony clash Ploughed up the waters 1863 Reinick Ch Year 16 June, A few persons have been incessant in their condemnation of the North

† 2 Unending, endless, everlasting Obs

1557 T Sparke Sick Virtue 845 in Babees Bk, Eternall blesse where incessaunt ioye continually is 1561 Daus tr Bullinger on 4 poc (1573) 26 Which doctrine surely is incessant or perpetuall to the Church of Christ 1564 Bullein Dial. against Pest (1888) 135 To thee, oh heauenlie father, be incessante honour and glorie

3 quasi adv Without intermission or pause, unceasingly

1580 Baret Alueare VII 1558 Sive, A swarme of bees beset the bows, Incessant thick with noise 1703 Rowe Ulyss I v 314 Do they not call Incessant on his tardy Vengeance? 1877 B Taylor Faust (1878) I vi 103 The world's a ball Doth rise and fall And roll incessant

Incessantly (inse·săntli), adv [f prec + -LY 2 cf F incessamment, L incessanter, both found earlier than the adj. on the type of which they are formed]

1 In an incessant manner, without cessation, unceasingly

1514 Lament Mary Magd lxxxv, Myne hert is wounded with thy charite, It brennith, it flameth incessantly 1581 Cartwright Confut Rhem 396 Those tuches pertained incessantly alle the harme & euyl that they myght 1534 More Comf. agst Trib I Wks 1161/1 When Sainct Peter was in prison, the whole churche without intermission prayed incessantly for him c 1611 Chapman Iliad XIV 349 The frosty north wind blowes a cold thicke sleete flakes incessantly, Incessantly descending 1826 Disraeli Herocles 3 They incessantly enjoy the divine felicity 1712 Budgell Spect No 404 P 6 Calias Longue runs incessantly 1871 Grimm Dict 396 Those tuches pertained incessantly alle the harme & euyl that they myght 1534 More Comf. agst Trib I Wks 1161/1 When Sainct Peter was in prison, the whole churche without intermission prayed incessantly for him c 1611 Chapman Iliad XIV 349 The frosty north wind blowes a cold thicke sleete flakes incessantly, Incessantly descending 1682 Bunyan Heresies 3 They incessantly enjoy the divine felicity 1712 Budgell Spect No 404 P 6 Calias Longue runs incessantly 1871 Grimm Dict 396 Those tuches pertained incessantly alle the harme & euyl that they myght 1534 More Comf. agst Trib I Wks 1161/1 When Sainct Peter was in prison, the whole churche without intermission prayed incessantly for him c 1611 Chapman Iliad XIV 349 The frosty north wind blowes a cold thicke sleete flakes incessantly, Incessantly descending 1682 Bunyan Heresies 3 They incessantly enjoy the divine felicity 1712 Budgell Spect No 404 P 6 Calias Longue runs incessantly 1871 Grimm Dict 396 Those tuches pertained incessantly alle the harme & euyl that they myght 1534 More Comf. agst Trib I Wks 1161/1 When Sainct Peter was in prison, the whole churche without intermission prayed incessantly for him c 1611 Chapman Iliad XIV 349 The frosty north wind blowes a cold thicke sleete flakes incessantly, Incessantly descending 1682 Bunyan Heresies 3 They incessantly enjoy the divine felicity 1712 Budgell Spect No 404 P 6 Calias Longue runs incessantly

† 2 Without pause, instantly, immediately

1478 Hampton Corr (Camden) p lxxvii, The said John making like answer, incessantly, to the said Sir William 1640 Loubelay Poems (1864) 41 My smithes then with thee incessantly grew cold 1700 Congreve Il ay of World I viii, If he knew him I fear I shall turn No Stone, and petrifie incessantly a 1807 A Addison Charge to Jury (Cent.), I shall incessantly order him to be stripped of his gown

Ince·ssantness. [f Incessant a + -NESS] The quality or condition of being incessant

1790 in Bailey vol II 1865 M Arnold Lit Crit V (1875) 193 Because of this incessantness of his barking [he] cannot get listened to 1890 Spectator 22 Nov, The men and women will need all its sobriety, the incessantness of its officers admonitions

† Ince·ssion. Obs rare [a obs F incession, pace, gait, or going (Cotgr.), ad L incessiōn em, n. of action from incēdere to go on, walk] On ward motion, progression, locomotion

1651 Biggs New Disp P 197 The slow and necessary in cession of mediocrity 1658 Sir T Browne Garel Cyrus III 56 Progression or local motion of animals. 1845 M J Higgins Ess (1875) 215 Elegant young men unsurpassable in speed, endurance, and oliness of incession [in dancing]

Incession, var Inkension, Obs, a hip bath

Incest (i·nsest) [ad L. incestus (a stem or incestum neut of incestus adj) impure, unchaste, from in- (In- 1) + castus chaste, pure Cf OF inceste (14th c. in Hatz-Darm.) In sense 2, ad L. incestus, F inceste, an incestuous person]

1 The crime of sexual intercourse or cohabitation between persons related within the degrees within which marriage is prohibited, sexual commerce of near kindred a 1225 Ancr R 204 Incest is betwhwe sibbe, vleschliche oðer gostliche a 1300 Cursor M 27992 Incest, bat es for to ly bi bat in sinnan his line bi, or if bou dan bot vn sin wit ani of bin awin kin c 1440 Jacob's Well (E. E. T. S.) 162 Neyther may he weddyd to oberes kyn, in to be fyfte degre, ne medle wyth hem, for bat ben don, it is incest 1598 Shaks. Merry W. Iv ii. 188 Fie, fie, sir John! my maid could not abide such incest and vnnaturalnesse of marriage in a king's house 1603 Sharp Mirat for M III i 139 Is not this a kinde of Incest, to take to wife Women vnder sisters shame? 1840 Macaulay Ess., Ranke (1851) II 137 Its annals are black with treason, murder, and incest 1868 Tarbar Ess II iii (1870) 209 Hideous charges of cannibalism and incest b Spiritual incest (in R C Ch) Marriage or sexual connexion between persons related by spiritual affinity, or with a person under a vow of chastity, etc (6) The holding by the same person of two benefices, one of which depends on the collation of the other a 1225 [see 1] 1532 More Confut Tindale Wks 361/1 Mayster Martine Luther himself toke out of religion spouse of Christ maketh with her openly in shamefull incest and abhominable lyuynge 1787–41 Chambers Cycl s v, Spiritual incest is understood of a beneficiary who holds two benefices, the one whereof depends on the collation of the other Such a spiritual incest renders both benefices void

† 2 A person guilty of incest Obs rare

1484 Caxton Fables of Æsop VI iv, Thow arte an incestes & lechour, For thow knowest naturelly both thy moder and thy doughter.

3 Comb

1633 Ford 'Tis Pity I. iv, When my young incest mongst comes

Incestancy. rare$^{-1}$ [irreg formation] ? = INCEST

1802 Middleton Bioll, Musica Constable III ii. 71 In constancy dwell on his rivell'd brow That weds for dirt

† Ince·stial, a Obs rare [irreg f INCEST + -AL cf bestial] = INCESTUOUS

1582 Nuce Senecas Octavia 1 15 And with incestiall love beniumm'd quite His brother Germanicks daughter Ibid., To which unlucky incestiall bryddl bird

Incestuous (inse·stiūəs), a. Also 6–7 incestuous [ad L incestuōs us, f incestus INCEST see -OUS, cf F incestueux, -euse (13th c. in Godef.)]

1 Guilty of incest

1552 Asp Hamilton Catech (1884) 10 Incestuous persons 1598 H Smith Wks (1867) II 368 Caius Caligula, that wicked and incestuous emperor 1851 C Cathwright Conf Acts, I 99 The [Romish] Church instituted those, who married together after their vowes, not only for adulterers, but also for incestuous persons. 1768 Collins Odes, Love 38 Wrapt in thy cloudy veil, th' incestuous Queen Sigh'd the sad call her son and husband heard 1855 Milman Lat Chr IV vi (1864) II 319 The sway of an incestuous fiend Martina

fig. 1591 Sylvester Du Bartas II iv. 200 Ev'n City Vipers, that (incestuous) join Vice upon vice, begetting Copy of Copy!

† b Loosely or more vaguely Obs

1632 Heywood 1st Pt Iron Age II Wks. 1874. III 193, I would not for the world Thamis should wed Helen Helen backe on teames of peace 1681 Colvil Whigs Supplic (1751) 30

2 Of the nature of or involving incest

1532 More Confut Tindale Wks 594/1 These shamefull hereticks live in open shamefull incestuous lechery and call it matrimonie 1555 Harpsfield Dr Pecocks Rich I III 1 Gamelen 28 Incestuous conjunction should not more be counted under the name of marriage 1581 Marbeck Bk of Notes 486 He openlie condemn'd the incestuous Marriage of Herode with Herodias 1845 S. Lover Barclays Virginia xix 309 The feare of the mention of such an incestuous marriage 1876 Warburton Dol to Brethrikens Postsc Wks I 182 Virtuous love not adulterous or incestuous 1838 Thirlwall Greece III 177 He had even trampled on the laws of Plato by an incestuous union with his sisters 1879 Farrer Prim Culture II 24 As the new Queen was Badwig's kinswoman the religious opinion of the day regarded his marriage as incestuous

† b fig. Applied to such crimes committed between persons nearly akin Obs

1744 Armstrong Present Health III 526 (Seager) Her legions in incestuous murder [i. e. civil wars] mix'd

† 3 Begotten of incest Obs

1598 Allen Admon (1842) 112 Incestuous bastard, be gotten and borne in sinne, of an infamous curteyn 1621 G Sandys Ovid's Met X (1632) 206 Th'incestuous infant now at perfect growth Within the tree, indeuors to get forth

Ince·stuously, adv [f prec + -LY 2] In an incestuous manner, in the way of incest

1549 Coverdale, etc Erasm Par 1 Cor XI (R), They children as borne incestuously and by whoredome 1655 Fuller Ch Hist II v § 27 An English Count who lived incestuously with his own Kinswoman 1700 Dryden (J.), Monsieur and Comedie son and daighter to Tolus loved each other incestuously

Ince stuousness. [f as prec + -NESS] In cestuous quality or character

1649 B Hall Cont Conc Antichr III (R.) The knowledge of the horrible incestuousness of this match Inch (inʃ) sb^{1} Forms 1 ynce, ince, 3 unche, 4 6 ench(e, ynche, 4 7 ynch, 4–6 inche 6 unch, 4– inch, 4– inch [OE ynce –unkja*, a I uncia twelfth part, inch cf OHG A word of early adoption, not in the other Teutonic languages]

1 A measure of length, the twelfth part of a foot. Hence, a measure of surface and of solidity (explicitly square or superficial cubic or solid inch) equal to the content respectively of a square or cube the sides of which are of this length

c 1000 Ælfric Hexameron in Anglia V 118 Se ofer ynce sceilling, æt twam tyncum, twelf ynca 1000 Laws of Ælfred c. 45 Wenad mces lang c 1000 in Sal & Sat (Kemble) 180 He [Adam] wæs vi and cx ynca lang c 1205 Lay 23970 He wunde sifeng feaxwer unchene lang 1340 Ayenb 104 An inch or more c 1380 Sir Ferumb 3302 Per ne wantep nost enches foure 1398 Trevisa Barth De P. R. xix cxxix (1495) 937 An vnche is leest and smeetest of membres 1440 Jacob's Well (E. E. T. S.) 128 Pat is v vnche thykke c 1500 Melusine xix 304 Whiche at his birth brought in bys mouthe a grete & long tothe, that was welnyghe an ench long & more 1559 W Cunningham Cosmogr Glasse 56 In measures we do go from a barly corne, to a finger bre adth from a finger breadth, to an unch, from an inch, to an hand breadth 1588 Shaks. L L L v ii 194 The Princesse bids you tell, How many inches doth fill vp one mile? 1760 Phil. Trans LI 564, 3 London inches are equal to 8 447 Paris inches and decimals 1824 R Stuart Hist Steam Engine 200 A column of water equal to ten pounds on the [square] inch 1837 Whewell Hist Inductive Sc (1857) I 163 Each inch being the thickness of six grains of barley Mod The gill contains 8 665 cubic inches. The pint contains 4 gills or 34 660 inches.

b As the unit of measurement of rainfall That quantity of water which would cover a surface to the depth of an inch, equivalent to 3630 cubic feet on an acre, or about 43 gallons on every square yard

1845 Stockeler Handbk Brit India (1854) 264 The rams set in early at the beginning of June Two inches in the twenty four hours often fall, sometimes three 1896 G J Symons Invt Rainfall 20 On the western slope of Sca Fell, between it and Wasdale Hd means fall about 90 inches 1896 Whitaker's Almanack 53 An 'Inch of Rain' means a gallon of water spread over a surface of nearly two square feet, or 3630 cubic feet = 100 tons upon an acre.

c As the unit of measurement of atmospheric or other pressure That amount of pressure which balances the weight of a column of mercury, an inch high, in the mercurial barometer

1797-41 Chambers Cycl s v Barometer, On the top of Snowdon hill Dr Halley found the mercury lower by three inches eight tenths than at the foot thereof 1835 Penny Cycl III 97 The common height of the barometer in London is stated at 29 88 inches 1873 Ratio Phys Chem 1 4 Oil, to which a few drops of bile have been added, passes readily through animal membranes under the slight pressure of 0·068 to 0·131 inches of mercury 1896 Whitaker's Almanack 602 Atmospheric pressure was least, 28·6 inches, on the 14th [Nov 1894], greatest, 30·6, on the 28th

d As a unit of measurement of the flow of water (esp in mining, where specifically called miner's inch) First amount of water that will pass in 24 hours through an opening of 1 square inch under a constant pressure of 6 inches

1858 Lardner Handbk Nat Phil, Hydrost, etc 218 The rate of discharge from the orifice is equal to the head of water, and is the hydraulic unit by which the discharge from pumps is expressed 1877 Raymond Statist Mines & Mining 40 note, One 24 hour miners inch is equivalent to 2430 cubic feet of water Ibid 95 Water at that time cost 75 cents an inch 1882 Rep to Ho Keep Prov Met Ob 646 The nearest even figure, is 17,000 gallons in twenty four hours, and, in the absence of any legal definition this may be regarded as the approximately correct equivalent of a miner's inch of water

2 transf and fig A very small measure, distance, amount, or degree, the least amount or part (of space, time, material or immaterial things), a very little, a 'bit'

a 1350 Birth of Jesus 40 in Horstmann Altengl Leg, (1875) 06 Pe tyme hem þogte longe houȝ ech vnche þurn bouȝte a sponne c 1400 Rom Rose 5501 But thou art not an inch the more 1582 Bentley Mon Matronæ III 360 Neither will I suffer my self to depart one inch, from thy holie commandments 1594 Kyd Sp Trag iv in Hazl Dodsley V 114 There is not left to him one inch of man 1700 S I tr Dickens's Dev 76 Two thousand of these Men dropt, they would not give ground an Inch 1726 G Roberts 4 Yrs Voy 30 I will drub you, you Dog, within an Inch of your Life, and that Inch too 1781 Cowper Let 4 Oct, Wks (1876) 8 I hut I may avail myself of every inch of time 1839 Dickens Nich Nick xiii, I'll flog you within an inch of your life and spare you that 1894 H Nisbet Bush Girl's Kom 156 He could not see an inch before him

b Applied to material things † (a) A small piece or fragment, (b) A person of small stature

1573 Satir Poems Reform xxix 94 I houcht the w ills wes wycht, Sit dowbell battire brak thame al in inschis. 1884 Black Jud Shakes iv, You imp, you inch, you elfin queen, you!

3 Phrases † a It an inch, at inches close at hand, (really) at any instant, in immediate readiness Obs

1547 64 Baldwin Mor Philos (Palf) 11 ii, Vpon this wicked rabble crafty conueyeance waiteth as a seruant at inches 1583 Rich Diplotus 4 Emelia (1835) 18 Attendant vpon her, and ready at an inche to prouide her of any thing 1586 J Hooker Girald Irel in Holinshed II 144/1 In such a readinesse to be at inches with them 1618 Fletcher Loyal Subj v ii, He wait ye at an inch

b By inches, inch by inch by small degrees, by little and little, very gradually, bit by bit.

1607 Shaks Cor v iv 49 All swearing They'l giue him death by inches 1692 Rowlands Caveat for Drunk (1863) 8 In, They were forced to reforme by inches 1700 Congreve Way of World iv xii No, don't kill him at once starve him gradually, inch by inch. 1719 F Ashton Authority Vind 27 To dispute the ground inch by inch 1833 Marryat P Simple xxix, Wasting away, and dying, as they say, by inches 1869 B Wilberforce 34 Prov Domin Missionaries Japan 195 All these four martyrs expired by no less, after a series of torments

c Every inch every bit, every whit, altogether, entirely, in every respect

c 1440 Ywaine & Gawin 720 in Horstm Allengl Leg (1881) 98 Pat sion was well ȝeraue euerywhe a meynche 1520 Gaytons Chron Eng III 243/1 This man was cursed every inche 1605 Shaks Lear iv vi 109, I, euery inch a King 1684 Wiseman Rich III, Life Shakspeare, A man of Arms, every inch of him 1749 Fielding Jones VI vii, I tremble every inch of me 1809–10 Coleridge Friend (1837) III 283 Lord Nelson was an admiral every inch of him 1893 Farr Symonds Painters II 136 His companion looks a soldier, every inch of him

d Inches = stature, of inches, of (considerable) height, tall Of one's inches in respect of one's height or stature

1606 Shaks Ant & Cl 1 iii 40, I would I had thy inches 1687 J Brown Saints in Uproar Wks 1730 I 73 A notable fellow of his inches, and metal to the back 1768 74 Tucker Lt Nat (1852) II 629 Beware of servants extolling the prodigious importance of master or miss beyond all others of their inches 1809 Malkin Gil Blas v i 138 Pedro was what we call a tall fellow of his inches 1885 Graphic, 28 Feb 214/2 In order to make the most of her inches she had acquired the habit of holding her head thrown back

e By inch of candle see Candle 2b 4d Give him an inch and he'll take an ell see Ell 1 b

1546 J Heywood Prov (1867) 58 When I have gaue an inche, ye tooke an ell 1640 Howell Dodona's Gr 8 For soueraignty where she gets an inch, stickes not some times to stretch it to an ell 1844 Dickens Mart Chuz (Househ ed) 311/2 Give John an inch in that way, and he will be sure to take several ells

4 attrib and Comb, as inch allotment, -diet, inch-deep, -high, long -thick, -wide adjs

1611 Shaks Wint I i 28 (Some already Ynch thick, knee deepe 1655 Moufet & Bennet Health's Improv (1746) 72 An exquisite thin Diet (called of Tobertus the Inch diet, wherein we eat by Drams, and drink by Spoonfuls) 1682 Creech tr Lucretius (1683) iv 115 Little Puddles, Two scarce Inch deep. 1742 Young Nt Th v 800 Life's little stage is a small commons, Inch high the grave above 1876 Lowell Among my Bks Ser II Spenser 189 Little gossip and much long politics. 1880 Browning Fershtah, & Baum stripe 218 Aphra that I am, How leave my inch allotment? 1899 Westm Gaz 12 May 4/2 Stings of inch wide bl ack velvet

b attrib (containing an inch in any dimension, of the length, thickness, etc of an inch, as inch board (board an inch thick), inch-line, etc , of the focal length of one inch, as inch object-glass

1646 Sir T Browne Lusus Ep vii xviii 383 A candle out of a Musket will passe through an inch board 1688 Kennett tr Erasm on Folly 93 To see through an Inch board 1856 Marryat Widow Barty (1865) 205 He asked Captain Hawkins to bring on shore some Inch line 1872 Young & Pritchard Micrscpe 179 Suppose we have an inch triple achromatic object glass 1898 Simmons Pract Indust Mech 208 Make a wood block to the thickness of an inch

c attrib with prefixed numeral (two-inch, six inch, etc.) Of the length, diameter, etc of (so many) inches 1559 In Boys Sandwich (1792) 730, xl m of 11 inche planks 1611 Shaks Wint I ii 388 Two inch wide 1699 Sea-Grammar (1703) 58 Two Inch Cables are deemed to have three blows from each man in the ship with a two inch and a half rope on his bare back 1798 Nelson Disp 3 Agam Aug in A Jennings (1960) 191, I have brought off the two thirteen inch mortars 1825 Nicholson Operat Mechanic 376 Three or four thicknesses of one and a half inch deal 1879 Daily News 2 Aug 5/1 Fourteen of the Bacchante guns are seven inch weapons.

d Special Combs inch bones sb pl, fragments of bone used as manure (distinguished from bone dust (see 3 c), inch-iron, -tape, a measuring rule or tape divided into inches, inch-pound (Dynamics), the work done in raising a pound weight vertically through an inch (cf Foot-pound), inch-worm, a name for a geometer caterpillar, also called looper or measuring worm

1846 J Baxter Libr Pract Agric (ed 4) II 353 The smaller bone dust is ground the more effective it is as a manure on the other hand large or drilled or bone dust, as they are called, remain longer in the soil undecomposed, but produce a more immediate effect on these accounts bone dust is the more valuable manure for turnips and inch bones for wheat 1848 Mayhew Lond Labour I 377 (Topper) they all sell thimbles, needles, 'inch measures', bodkins, etc 1896 Westm Gaz 9 Nov 3/1 [He] measures the force of the temptation with an 'inch rule' 1884 Lena Lysle Wife I owe xxx, [she] has gone to fetch an 'inch tape

Inch (inʃ), *sb*2 Also 5 ynche, 6 Sc insche [a Gael innis (inʃ), gent Innse (Inse) island, land by a river] A small island (Frequent in the names of small islands belonging to Scotland)

c 1425 Wyntoun Cron Prol, I 1 was made prowre Of the ynche wyth in Loch lewyne c 1470 Henry Wallace IX 1147 Thai left the Ile, that lay a litill from Aperdoun, bot inch 1596 Dalrymple tr Leslie's Hist Scot I 24 In the sey nelle ar mony Iles and Inches nocht few, as the Mai, the Basse &c 1615 Speed Scotland 5 Colme Inche 1654 Misc Aul 61 Till he disbursed, at St Colmes ynch, Ten thousand Dollars to our generall vse 1793 Statist Acc Scotl VIII 597 There are several beautiful islands which are called Inches 1805 Scott Last Minstr vi xxiii, To inch and rock the sea mews fly

b Applied locally to a meadow by a river (as the Inches of Perth), also, to a piece of rising ground in the midst of a plain 1799 J Robertson Agric Perth 476 Such parts of the Carse [of Gowrie], as are elevated above the common level of the country, are called Inches (which word signifies islands) 1863 Lyell Antiq Man iii (ed 3) 54 The Celtic name of Inch having attached to many hillocks, which rise above the general level of the alluvial plains.

Inch (inʃ), v [f Inch *sb*1]

1 intr To move, advance, or retreat, by inches or small degrees

1599 Sandys Europæ Spec (1632) 213 And if he itch and inch forward one way for an ell, hee loseth an other 1607 Dryden Annals in Kins Now Turnus doubts, and with slow paces measures back the field, And inches to the walls 1812 W Irwant Auctr F iii xli, Inching along in motion retrograde 1881 Amer Grocer 20 July, Boys who did not play fair would keep reaching over the line in order to get nearer the marbles in the ring and have a better chance to knock them out This was called 'inching', and 'fen inchings' was the warning against such unfair play 1888 Chicago Advance 29 Nov, Meanwhile, the celebrated case, possibly, will be inching along toward some final decision

2 trans To drive by inches or small degrees

1667 Dryden Maiden Queen iii 1, And so inch him and shove him out of the world 1692 — Cleomenes II iii (R), He gets too far into the soldier's grace, And inches out my master 1888 Browning Asolo & Ht III 619 Like so much cold steel inched through his breast blade 1895 Outing (U S) Oct. 109 The children inched their chairs closer and insisted there was not room for her between them.

3 To measure or compute the number of inches in 1673 Shadwell Epsom Wells I, E er a horse in your Stable, weigh him and inch him 1690 H Clogg shall Art Pract Measuring (title p), Gauging and Inching of Tuns 1718 Strype Stock Pool 171 The Fish-Pool stoop being inched according to common gauging

4 Inch out a To cke out by inches or small amounts.

1620 I V tr P du Moulin's Serm Rom 1 16, 2 He hath inched out the skin of the Lion with that of the Foxe, adding craft to cruelte 1620 Massie tr Almeras Gusman d'Alf II 263 When I saw that inch at once any further I found my selfe then in that strait, that [etc] 1652–62 Hyde tr Cuningar II (1689) 206 The Women cutting off their Hair to inch out their Tackle 1664 E Johnson Wond worke Prov 173 Corn inckt out with Chesnuts and butter Acorns 1679 Mrs Behn Feign'd Curtizan III 1, Could you not throw in a little Love and Constancy, to inch out that want of Honesty of yours? 1878 Browning Poets Croisic 127 There stands Paul erect, Inched out his uttermost

†b To deal out inch by inch, hence, by small amounts or sparingly Obs

1636 Henshaw Horæ Succ 300 God doth not requite it with a little, or inch out His blessings a 1656 Br Hall Rem Wks (1660) 263 In the inching out of the possibilities of our assurance by nice distinctions

5 To divide or graduate into inches, to mark with lines an inch apart

Inchafe, Inchain, Inchair see En-

Incha mber, v rare~° [f In-2 + Chamber] trans To lodge in or as in a chamber

1611 Florio, Imanierare, to chamber, to inchamber 1611 Cotgr, Enchambrer, inchambred, lodged as in a chamber

†Incha nge, v Obs rare [f In-1 or -2 + Change v, alter] trans To pro duce change in, to change, alter

1382 Wyclif Job xiv 20 Thou shalt inchaungen his face, and thou shalt sender hym out c Cov xv 58 Alle we schulen nyȝ passe, but not alle we schulen be inchanged †Incha ngeable, a Obs rare [In-3] Not changeable, unchangeable, immutable So Incha ngeabl ility, unchangeableness.

1583 Golding Calvin on Deut clxiv 1047 The calling of God is without repentance, and inchangeable 1654 tr Scudery's Curia Pol 116 As for the word of a King, it ought to be inchangeable 1773 Kenrick Acct Gram vi Ipsw), Almost all our English writers, possessed with this unchangeability of accent and quantity, tell us, that all accented syllables are long

Incha nt, inchantation, etc see Enchant, etc

Incharge see Encharge

†Incha ritable, a Obs [In-3] Not charitable, uncharitable Hence †Incha ritableness, uncharitableness, †Incharitably adv

1498 Act 12 Hen VII, c 6 Their incharitable and mor dinate Coueitise 1616 Sir T Shirley Sparing 24 The bawling, blasphemous incharitable Dog 1670 Penn Truth Exalted for Inspect 5 The second discovery is not less Incharitable, then the first was Proud and Impudent 1678 — Addre Prot 11 63 The Delate fill'd this Kingdom with Incharitableness and Division

†Incha rity, Obs [f In- 1 + Charity sb, piece] Want of charity, uncharitableness

1589 Warner Alb Eng II Prose Addit (1612) 340 Least mine inch vrite proue leese pardonable that his Inurite 1600 Ibid IX liii 237 Anative Incharitie 1670 Penn Case Lib Consc 36 It is high Incharity to proceed so severely upon meer Suppositions 1679 — Addre Prot II 90 Great must their Incharity and Presumption be, who [etc]

Incharm, Inchase see Encharm, Enchase v 4

†Inchaste, a Obs rare [f In- 3 + Chaste a of L. incastus] Unchaste

1599 Peele Battle of Alcazar Wks (Rtldg) 476/2 His in chaste and lustful fire

†Incha stity, Obs. [f In- 3 + Chastity. cf L incastitas] Want of chastity, unchastity

1586 Marlowe 1st Pt Tamburl v ii, All blot of foul in chastity 1613 Heywood Brazen Age iv Wks 1874 III 230 What will Diana say when shee heares of our inchastity? 1671 H M tr Erasm Colloquies A iij b, To keep them from the temptation of inchastity

Inchaunt, etc see Enchant, etc

Incheat, variant of Encheer, v

Inched (inʃt), a. Also 7 incht. [f Inch *sb*1 or v + -ed]

1 In combination, with numeral, etc. prefixed (containing so many) inches in length or other dimension (With quot 1894 cf Inch *sb*1 3 d)

1605 Shaks Lear III iv 57 To rede ona Bay trotting Horse ouer foure inch Bridges 1651–7 T Barker Art of Angling (1820) 28 The two inched hook is better 1894 Du Maurier Trilby II 173 Any young squire, well inched and well acred, and well whiskered

2 Divided into or graduated in inches

Inchoer, variant of Encheer v

Inchoer (inʃəɹ) [f Inch *sb*1 + -er 1] In combination, with numeral prefixed, applied to some thing of so many inches in length, diamcter, etc

1885 Cycl Tour Club Gaz Sept 289/1 A tricycle of ab normal growth—a 56 inches 1898 Kipling in Westm Gaz 9 Nov 9/2 Firing with six inchers, twelve pounders, and Maxims all turned loose together

†Inchoson, inche ssoun, var of Encheason a 1400–50 Alexander 343 Pe inchoson of his charme

Inchest, variant of Enchest v

†Inche·te, -er, obs var of Encheat, -er.

1483 Cath Angel 199/2 To Inchete, Ascare Ibid, An Inchetor, Ascitor, Ascarius

†Inchi·ld, v. Obs rare [f. IN- 2 + CHILD] trans. To introduce as a child, to affiliate

1611 FLORIO, Infigliolare, to inchilde

Inchmeal (i·nʃmīl), adv. sb. [f. INCH *sb.*1 + -MEAL, ME. -mele, OE. -mælum.] By inches, inch by inch; by small portions, little by little.

1598 COOPER Fisher's Duel, Scientum, pynche by pynche, pynche meale 1599 J. JONES Preserv. Bodie & Soule 1. xxxi 65 Some dyed inch meale, some were I smashed, some Starued 1683 FOXE A. & M. 1066/1 Thou shalt bee racked inchmeale a 1734 NORTH Examen II. iv § 108 (1740) 286 As Towns are taken Inch meal 1798 HOLCROFT Road to Ruin IV. ii, I would infeoff starve inchmeal, rather than he should marry her! 1813 MAR. HOPWORTH Patron (1833) II. xxvii. 187 People will stand to be cut to pieces inchmeal, rather than submit to a conqueror

b Also with by (giving the force of the lost inflexion)

1530 PALSGR. 833/1 By pynche meale, menuement, or par pouches 1549 CHALONER Erasm. on Folly L.iij b, They take upon them to measure the sonne not it were, by pynche meale 1610 STARK. Lives II. 78 All the inferiours that the Sunne suckes vp from Bogs, Fens, Lakes, or Prospect full, and make him by pynch me de a disease a 1691 EARLY Nat. Philos. (1754) 167 To lengthen our miserable lives a few hours, to die, as it were, by inch meal a 1823 Antiquary's Observ. 18 Feb. 329/1 The ground must be fought by inch meal

Inchoacy (i·nkōʃăsi) rare [f. INCHOATE + -ACY.] The state of being inchoate; incipiency

1871 R. H. HUTTON Ess., Clough (1880) II. 247 A picture of inchoacy I admit

Inchoant (i·nkōʃănt) a rare [ad. I. inchoant-em, pres. pple. of inchoare: see next.] Beginning, incipient; in an initial stage a 1876 M. COLTHUP In my Garden (1880) II. 275 The projector of an inchoate and rather incoherent periodic

Inchoate (i·nkōʃĕt), a. (sb.) [ad. L. inchoāt-us (more correctly inchoātus), pa. pple. of inchoāre (more correctly incohāre) to begin.] Just begun, incipient, in an initial or early stage, hence elementary, imperfect, undeveloped, immature

1534 WHITFORDE Dailyes Office III. (1540) 217 No prayster shoulde fyx ye whe that parte of Versus which inchoate [and] begon Apelles left of imperfyte 1581 E. CAMPION in Confer. II. (1584) II iv, It was a Church inchoate beginning, not perfect. a 1586 BP. ANDREWES (1856) I. 8 The inchoate heavenly grace, which is glory inchoate, He imparteth to His Saints. a 1721 KEN Hymns Festiv. Poet Wks 1721 I. 409 You are in happy Way to perfect Holiness Inchoate. 1766 BLACKSTONE Comm. I. iv. 436 If a boy under fourteen, or a girl under twelve years of age, marries, this marriage is only inchoate and imperfect. 1811 LEE Canterbury Tales I. 146/1 Many inchoate acts are innocent, the consummation of which is a capital offence. 1874 H. R. REYNOLDS John Baptist VII. 473 The passion I have mentioned is not as to the inchoate, imperfect, and transitional work of John. 1888 ROBSON Lives 12 Gd. Men I. ii. 181 All was so yet in an inchoate state.

b as sb. A beginning, rudiment rare

1845 R. W. HAMILTON Pop. Educ. VI. (1846) 135 The thinkery of teaching and learning the barest inchoates of knowledge

Inchoate (i·nkōʃĕt), v. [f. ppl. stem of L. inchoāre (prop. incohāre) to begin: see prec.]

1 trans. To begin, commence, initiate, take the first steps in a 1612 DONNE Biathanatos (1644) 182 This growth (Inchoated, increased, grown great, and perfected) 1647 H. MORE Song of Soul Notes 150/2 The great soul of the World does at least inchoate, and rudely delineate the fabrick of our body at first 1746-7 Act 20 Geo. II, c. 43 § 28 That royal burgh which shall in nearest to the place where such pounding was inchoated 1868 HOWORTH Gregory I. I. 1155 How he Conceives and inchoates the argument

b To cause to begin, originate, bring about

1654 WARREN Unbelievers 236 Any moral inchoating our Justification 1802 PALEY Nat. Theol. xxvii. (1809) 392 To inchoate the formation of an eye 1845 STOCQUELER Handbk. Brit. India (1854) 113 Nor will it inchoate their ruin to expend a few rupees more than an accurate calculation of comforts might allow

2 intr. To commence, make a beginning

1654 VILVAIN Epit. Ivr. 1 Wherefore I shall begin this Book inchoate 1767 A. CAMPBELL Lexiph. (1774) 7, I shall inchoate with one of its most delicious morsels of eloquence

Inchoated (i·nkōʃĕtĕd), ppl. a. [f. prec. + -ED1.] Begun, commenced, just begun, incipient, inchoate

a 1632 DONNE Serm. lxxii. 633 The torment is an inchoative hell, so is the Person, The Wicked here, an inchoated Devil 1651 C. CARTWRIGHT Cert. Relig. 1 200 This right ousnesse of ours is but inchoated and imperfect 1762 KAMES Elem. Crit. II. § 6 (1833) 80 An inchoated gratification of the prevailing passion 1846 Q. Rev. XXXIII. 298 There is a fine gradation between the inchoated conception and the completed purpose

Inchoately (i·nkōʃĕtli), adv. [f. INCHOATE + -LY2.] In an inchoate manner or degree, incipiently.

1626 SCLATER Exp. 2 Thess. (1629) 52 Such as are purged, though but inchoately, from all filthiuesse of flesh and Spirit 1658 O. WALKER, etc. Peter Heylerene 18 Here inchoately hereafter absolutely 1837 J. H. NEWMAN Tract (1837) II. 235 Confirmation seals in their fulness those sanctifying gifts which are given inchoately, in Baptism.

Inchoateness (i·nkōʃĕtnĕs) [f. as prec. + -NESS.] The state or quality of being inchoate

1845 J. H. NEWMAN Ess. Development 200 Defect or inchoateness in its doctrines. 1893 FAIRBAIRN Christ Mod. Theol. I. i. 30 It was their very differences and inchoate senses that made it necessary for her to speak

Inchoation (inkōe·ĭʃən) Also 7 inohation [ad. late L. inchoātiōn-em (prop. incohātiōn-em) (Augustine), n. of action from inchoāre (incohāre) to begin.] Beginning, commencement, origination, initial or early stage

1530 PALSGR. 403 Whan the tenses of je vas is joyned to an infynytyve, he dothe betoken inchoacion 1597 HOOKER Eccl. Pol. V. lxv. § 6 But the inchoation of those graces, the consummation whereof depended on mysteries ensuing 1652 J. WHITEFIELD Doctr. Assumn 88 The life of Grace is an inchoation of the life of glory. 1768-74 TUCKER Light of Nat. (1852) I. 225 An inchoation of virtue, or, as we may call it, the embryo or seedling not yet arrived to perfection 1885 Nat. Hist. Review I. 296 The manifest way to be, at the inchoation of the bodies, named by the Crown

†b pl. First steps, beginnings Obs

1619 FOTHERBY Atheom II. xii. § 3 (1622) 284 The praeparatives vnto it or rather indeed the inchoations of it 1660 H. MORE Myst. Godl. VIII. v. 378 Having some more weak inchoations of the life of Righteousness

†c The initial element of a word, a prefix. Obs

a 1661 FULLER Worthies, Cornwall I. (1662) 197 By Tre, Pol, and Pen, -You shall know the Cornishmen Some adde to these a fourth inchoation, viz. Car which I guess to signify a Rock Inchoative (inkō·ătiv, i·nkōĕtiv), a and sb [ad. L. inchoātīv-us (prop. inchoātīv-us), f. ppl. stem of inchoāre, incohare to begin: see INCHOATE and -IVE.]

A. adj. 1 That is in an initial or incipient stage, rudimentary, inchoate, belonging to or of the nature of a beginning or commencement, initial a 1631 [see INCHOATED] 1633 J. ADAMS Exp. 2 Peter III. 1 This purchases to either imputative Or inchoative, in lawful patience. 1668 J. WILKINS Real Char. 450 Those particular Terminations which signifie a Verb to be Inchoative Frequentative, Diminutive, are not without many exceptions 1751 HARRIS Hermes (1765) 198 These Inchoative Verbs are so peculiarly appropriated to the Beginnings of Time, that they are defective as to all Tenses which denote it in its Completion 1801 SOUTHEY Lett. (1856) I. 254 The inchoative form sometimes exists alone, sometimes is used besides the ordinary stem.

2 (Gram.) An inchoative verb, see A. 2

1530 PALSGR. 401 They knowe neyther frequentatyves, nor inchoatyves, nor no suche sortes of verbes 1618 PHILLIPS (ed. 4) Inchoatives, in Grammar an Inchoative to grow hot, or begin to be hot 1751 HARRIS Hermes I. iii. (1765) 126 The Latins have a Species of Verbs, derived from others called Inchoatives or Inceptives 1891 ROBY Lat. Gram. § 658 Inchoatives are formed directly from stems.

B. sb. (Gram.) An inchoative verb, see A. 2

1530 PALSGR. 401 They knowe neyther frequentatyves, nor inchoatyves, nor no suche sortes of verbes 1618 PHILLIPS (ed. 4) Inchoatives, in Grammar an Inchoative to grow hot, or begin to be hot 1751 HARRIS Hermes I. iii. (1765) 126 The Latins have a Species of Verbs, derived from others called Inchoatives or Inceptives 1891 ROBY Lat. Gram. § 658 Inchoatives are formed directly from stems.

Inchoatively, adv. [f. prec. + -LY2.] In an inchoative manner, in relation to the beginning or early stage, incipiently, initially

1649 J. ELLISTONE & Robinson's Exact. 91 So The humane Nature is such inchoatively as arises from the Spiration of the Word. a 1703 BURKITT On N. T., Heb. iv. 10 This is done two ways, initially, inchoatively, and imperfectly in this life, fully, finally, perfectly, and completely in the next

†Inchpin. Obs Also 6 7 -pinne, pyn [app. f. INCH sb. + PIN sb., but perh. in sense 1 a popular corruption of some other word.]

1 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

2 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

3 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

4 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

5 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

6 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

7 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

8 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

9 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

10 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

11 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

12 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

13 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

14 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

15 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

16 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

17 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

18 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

19 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

20 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

21 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

22 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

23 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

24 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

25 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

26 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

27 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

28 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

29 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

30 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

31 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

32 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

33 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

34 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

35 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

36 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

37 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

38 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

39 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

40 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

41 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

42 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

43 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

44 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

45 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

46 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

47 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

48 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

49 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

50 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

51 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

52 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

53 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

54 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

55 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

56 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

57 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

58 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

59 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

60 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

61 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

62 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

63 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

64 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

65 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets the tenderlings, and the two vnequall inch some call the Inchpinne altogether for the Prince or cheefe 1583 STANYHURST Æneis I. (Arb.) 24 Thee sōps vpbreaking they fall to the bottom of some other word.

66 A name among huntsmen for the sweetbread of a deer But by some explained as 'the lower gut', or otherwise sec quots.

1576 TURBERV. Venerie 134 Take the coule, the tong the eares, the doulcets

fl c1490 Henry Wallace x. 1001 Baith hycht and wnill beyed all till his will The bischoprykis inclynyt till his rowne 1500–20 Dunbar Poems x. 25 All clergy do to him inclyne, And bow vnto that barne benyng 1611 Bible Ps I. 1, I waited patiently for the Lord, and he inclined vnto me 1866 Standard 24 Nov. 4/6 A favonrite is generally if that planet temperament which never gives offence because it ever inclines before it a 1300 Cursor M 25516 Pou giue ws bured Wit hand ned werck, bert and will To be wit bert encline 1375 Leg Saints, Blasius 181 Iul enclyne fals goths till 538 Coverdale Acts v. 36 All they yt enclyned vnto him were scatred abrode 1548 Hall Chron., Hen VIII 150 o judge to whiche parte he should moste incline, and geve credence fl 1500–20 Dunbar Poems lxxxiv. 17 Se ze hir full sud amelie inclene to tak a cruppill, or a creatour Deformit 830 Palsgr. 500/2 I inclyne I applye my mynde to do thyng 1580 Fortune's Anthem, Lord, for thy tendes mercie take, Geve us grace to decline from sin and vnto to virtue 1646 C. Butler Sacræ Hist. Quarrels Pope Paul I. 109 Only the Great Chancellor and the Marshall Praimer inclined for the Pope 1665 Manley Grotius' ans. C. Hearne 339 The very Common People inclin'd to hearken or incline to any Thoughts of Peace 1770 Junius Lett. xxxiv. 175 Your best friends are in doubt hich way they shall incline 1872 M. Arnold Last Words Lathol & Brief Lib 99 For England to incline one way is sufficient reason for Ireland to incline another

8 To turn in mind, feeling, or action, in a given direction, to apply oneself (to), to favour, take sides, or show practical sympathy, with a person, party, or cause (Now mostly with mixture of sense 9.)

9 To have a mental leaning, bias, or favourable clination towards something; to be disposed or clined (see Inclined 3) Const to (toward, for) omething, to do something a 1340 [see Inclining ppl a 2] 1375 Barbour Bruce iv. 22 Edin Mss.) He the constellation That kyndlis maist ith thame till, For to inclyne to god or ill 1450 tr. De mitatione iii. lix. 138 Nature enclineb to creatures, to hir one theasbe 1548 Hall Chron., Hen VIII 149 Whiche vsoed hym to enclyne to fellow Abimelech for they saud, he is our brother 1573 Wallen Prof. in J. Greenwood ng Exam. (1721) 6, I rather encline to the contrary opinion 1582 De For Plagius (1754) 13, I encline d to stay nd take my Leave in that Station in which God hath ce 1771 Golden Hist Eng IV. 93 It was not, without rivate reasons that Marlborough inclined for war 1839 Hugh Nat Phil 290 The several theorys toward which hilosophers of the present day generally incline 1847 Boyer Grosce II. xlvii. IV. 168, I incline to believe fete]

b elliptically To be inclined or disposed (to do, have, etc.), to desire

1746 Eliza Heywood Fem Spect 1748 IV. 35 What ley incline, they have not the power to indoice 1777 Watson Philip II (1793) III. xx. 72 To carry them to hatever place they should incline 1795 Mackintosh Vindic. Gallic. I. 267 The unregenerated do not the good they incline, but the evil which they do incline 1834 Southey in Brewer's Life Wesley vi. 320, I did not that sistance of my state which I inclined

10 To have or take a direction or position which eans in a given direction from the vertical or horiontal, to slope, slant, bend downwards Const o, towards

1568 Grafton Chron II. 131 The Beame should stande upright enclyning to neyther partie 1673 Ray Journ ow Co. Pleas 26. The Granule or Steeple is very much enclining or seeming to encline or lean to one side, hat one would think it could not long stand upright 1726–7 Keyster's Trav (1760) II. 424 The head inclines on one side 1854 Ronalds & Richardson Chem Technol (ed 2) 81 The sole of the furnace is raised in the centre and in lines towards the sides 1857 W. Swaysland Land Surveying 23 They are found to incline more or less regularly rom the moderate angles of 0 or 8° to as much as 25 or 30°

b Distilling Said of a dial, the plane of which tands forwards from the wall against which it is placed: opposed to recline

1503 Fale Distilling 4 If the angle which the plat maketh ith the horizon be acute or sharp then it doth incline 1703 Moxon Mech Exerc 321 It is not upright, but Inclines r Reclines

11 gen To have or take a course or position urning away in the direction of some point, region, te, hence, generally, to have an oblique position r direction, so as to make angles with something be

1833 Eddy Pract New Ind (Arb.) 39 Melcha is situate more toward the West, and Calcut more enclinange towarde he south 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 410 A course lirectly East, or inclining to the South 1823 H. J. Brooke Introd Crystallogr 161 The unequal angles at which the primary planes incline to each other at the edges 1838 Lardner Arithmetic 4 If they incline from each other, hey will bulge inwards, if towards each other, they will ulge outwards

b Mil To move in a direction at angles with he front of the formation, so as to gain ground to he flank while advancing 1706–7 Instr & Reg Cavalry (1813) 19 At the order o Incline I each man makes a half face on his horse's ore feet and the whole will look to the hand to which they are to incline 1847 Infantry Man (1854) 47 The march of every body, except in the case of inclining, is made on lines perpendicular to its front 1853 Stocqueler Milit Encycl. Inclin., to gain ground to the flank, as well as to the front.

12 trans To turn or go aside in a given direction, to have a relation, refer (to)

1509 Hawes Past Pleas xxxiii (Percy Soc.) 163 My name is Falshed, I shall cause enclyne My neyghbours goods for to make them myne 1568 Grafton Chron II. 109 We intend so to proceede in this matter neither enclyning on the right hande, neyther yet on the left 1611 Bible Prov iii. 18 Her house inclineth vnto death, and her pathes vnto the dead 1615 Chapman Odyss I. 45 Inducing matter that inclined To wise Ulysses 1788 Gibbon Decl & F iii (1869) III. 272 Is rarely inclined to the side of the allies 1884 Lp. Coleridge in Law Rep 12 Q. Bench Div. 322 The weight of authority inclines upon the whole in favour of the objection

b To tend towards some quality or condition, to have some attribute in an incipient degree Const to with noun or adj, or inf

1589 Cogan Haven Health clxvii (1636) 252 Beere or ale long kept will be more inclined to heat, for wheate is hot 1599 H. Buttes Dyets drie Dinner Pluph, Tobacco . . of a tawny colour, somwhat inclining to red 1699 Lister in Phil Trans II. 1 The weather is more mutable and uncertain (tho inclining to the wet extreme) 1749 Fielding Tom Jones iii. ii, Sophia . . was a middle sized woman, but rather inclining to the little 1797 Encycl. Britan (1842) I. 28 The top of the head . . dark brown, inclining to black 1835 Marryat Jac Faithf vi, He was stout and well built, inclining to corpulency

† c To fall off, decay, wane = Decline v 10

1612 [see Inclining vbl sb 1b ppl a 1].

Incline (inklɑin, inklɑin), sb [f. the vb]

† 1 Mental tendency, disposition = Inclination 6, 7

1600 W. Watson Decacordon (1602) 140 All alike neare to God by creation, by redemption, by natures incline in essity, one and the same Iesus so gracious vnto all her Maiestie and honorable Councell to imagine our generall affliction Ibid 273 A sweete incline to mercy.

2 An inclined plane or surface, a slope, declivity (esp on a railway or tramway)

1846 Penny Cycl Suppl II. 663/2 To fear that the train would be unable to ascend an incline of 16 feet per mile. 1883 C. J. Wills Mod Persia 122 We rode under an arch way, and up a steep incline 1887 Pall Mall Gazette 16 A railway train running down an incline

b. Mining More fully incline shaft A shaft or opening into a mine having considerable inclination, and so distinguished from a (vertical) shaft and from a level

1857 Raymond Statist Mines & Mining 84 The incline shaft is down 800 feet The 600 and 700 feet levels are connected by a cross-cut which is 175 feet south of the incline 1898 Daily News 12 July 2/7 In changing over to the new central incline shaft from the old shaft

Inclined (inklɑind), ppl a Also 4–6 en- [f. Incline v + -ed1]

1 Having a direction leaning or falling away from the vertical or horizontal, sloping slanting

Inclined Plane, a material plane surface inclined at an acute angle to the horizon, constituting one of the mechanical powers

1542 R. Copland Guydons Quest Chirurg, From the neather lippe of the hert is enclyned a lyttell towards the left syde, to syue place to the lyuer 1710 J. Clarke Robault's Nat Fil (1729) I. 87 The Force and the Weight with which a Body descends in inclined Planes 1812–16 J. Smith Panorama Sc & Art I. 316 The inclined plane is any flat surface which forms an angle less than a right angle with the horizon 1823 J. Badnall Geom. Lect Drawing vii. 401 Turning the plate slowly round in a somewhat inclined direction 1833 Lyell Princ Geol III. 231 In inclined and horizontal layers of sand 1898 Marg. Sidgwick Early Chr Archit Irel 3 The ancient features of the horizontal lintel and inclined sides are preserved in this example

b gen Having a direction making an angle with something else (const to, cf Inclination 4)

1823 Barnwell Introd Geol (1851) 58 The sides of mountains which are most inclined to the horizon 1840 Lardner Geom. 35 The sides of the triangle will be inclined to MN at the same angles as those at which they are inclined to its parallel

2 Having a physical tendency (to something, or to do something) = Disposed 5

c 1384 Chaucer H Fame II. 241 Every Ryver to the see Ynclyned is to goo by kynde 1726 Leoni tr. Alberti's Archit I. 58/1 The Winds are naturally enclined to follow the Sun

3 Having a mental bent, tendency, or propensity towards a particular object, favourably disposed, in the mood or mind for something = Disposed 4.

a Following its sb Const to or for something, to do something, also with adverb or adverbial phrase, as distinctly inclined, that way inclined

1300 Gower Conf III. 179 Inclined to virtue or to vice 1483 Paston Lett III. 210 We are right inclyned and redy to counceylle 1548 Hall Chron., Hen VIII 58 The king ever enclyned to mercy, sent them apparell 1596 Dalrymple Leslie 273 Being besides sufficiently inclinded 1603 Shaks Meas for M III. ii. 130 He was not enclin'd that way 1651 Hobbes Leviath I. viii. 38 A mans spirit, enclined to Godlinesse 1703 De Foe in 1576 Rep Hist MSS Comm App iv. 61 If you find him inclined to have compassion 1756 Murphy Gray's Inn Jrnl No. 91 P. 1 Gentlemen that are inclined for Marriage 1873 Black Pr Thule viii, Ingram was now well inclined to the project 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) I. 162, I wish Protagoras either to ask or answer as he is inclined Mod I don't feel much inclined for work

b In attributive construction, usually with preceding adverb, as well-inclined

1561 T. Norton Calvin's Inst I. 21 His fatherly bountie and enclined will to do good 1629 Visc Doncaster in Eng & Germ (Camden) 201 Inducements hereunto strong enough to away inclined minds. 1720 Steele Tatler No. 207 P 1 A well inclined young Man

† 4 Having a particular disposition, character, or nature Obs rare (Cf Inclination 6 d.)

1583 Stubbes Anat Abus II (1882) 65 He that is borne vnder Cancer, shall be crabbed and angrie, because the crab fish is so inclined 1616 Surfl. & Markh Country Farme 28 He shall know how coerse moneth in the yeare will be enclined, by observing the inclination of the day of the Natiuitie, and of the Festiuall dayes following

Incliner (inklɑi nəɹ) [f as prec. + -er1] One who or that which inclines, an inclining thing

1609 W. Slater Apocryphal Secret (1620) Div b, Another kind of Apostasie, which we call partiall, a fearefull inclner to this irrecouerable condition 1690 Leybourn Curs Math 102 If the Plain pass between the Horizon and the Pole, the North Pole, and on the Inclners opposite to them, the South Pole must be elevated 1703 Moxon Mech Exerc 331 If your Plane be an East Incliner, or a West Recliner

Inclining (inklɑi nin), vbl sb Also 4–6 en- [f as prec. + -ing1] The action of the verb In cline, inclination

1. A bending forward or downward, a bowing of the head or body in salutation or worship, a slope, declivity

c 1400 Maundev (1839) xxii. 234 Pei gon before the Emperour, with outen speche of ony woord, saf only enclynynge to him 1535 in Dunbar's Poems (S. T. S.) 322 Hevin, erd, and hell maid inclynyng to Jesus Christ 1586 tr. Leslie's Hist Scot I. 30 A plane held, hauing na inclyneng or bowing

† b fig A falling off, decline Obs

1612 T. Taylor Comm Titus I. 6 (1619) 105 In the inclining of Salomons prosperitie, the first exception the Lord tooke against him was, that he loued many outlandish women

2 Tendency, propensity, bent (physical or mental)

c 1384 Chaucer H Fame II. 236 Vnto whiche place every thyng Iupward hym by kynde ys redely enclyned for to come to 1500–20 Dunbar Poems xlvi. 52 To luve eik natur gaif thame inclynyng 1577 B. Goodge Heerbarde's Husb II. 15/86 b/2 b, Here is a necessary enclining to the one parte. 1748 Richardson Clarissa (1811) III. 35 I ill tell thee my inclinings as I proceed 1895 Daily News 20 June 6/1 He had many tastes and many inclinings outside the world of politics

b Party, following (cf Incline v 8) Obs or arch

1604 Shaks Oth I. ii. 82 Hold your hands Both you of my inclining and the rest 1752 Murphy Gray's Inn Jrnl No. 10 P. 7 Mr. Plastic is a compleat Shaftesburian Philosopher, like all the Gentlemen of that inclining, he has a polite Taste for the imitative Arts 1893 McCarthy Dr. Jaterl I. 14 the flower that had come to be the badge of those of his inclining

Inclining, ppl a Also 4–6 en- [f as prec. + -ing2] Cf Enclinant] That inclines, in various senses

1 Leaning or bending from the vertical or horizontal (or other given) direction or position, bending downward or forward, sloping, slanting

Inclining dial see Incline v 10 b

1612 Drayton Poly olb IX. Notes 149 Such composed quiet, as inclining Age affects a 1680 [see 1]. Browne Let to Friend in Hereford (1736) 59 A large Pot was found, which lay in an inclining Posture 1703 Moxon Mech Exerc 311 Inclining Planes, which lean towards you 1772 Ann Reg 76 His monument is situated in a gently inclining plain 1825 J. Nicholson Operat Mechanic 518 The pendulum with draws the detent from the tooth, which now pushes off the detent, by acting on the inclining face of it 1881 N & Q 22 Jan., Passing through a romantic gorge, where the inclining ridges met

2 Having a tendency, leaning, or disposition (to some particular thing, inclined, disposed, + disposed to comply with or favour a particular person, party, or cause (obs)

a 1340 Hampole Psalter xxiv. 1 While he has any affection unreformed till any creature 1604 Shaks Oth I. iii. 346 For 'tis most easy The inclining Desdemona to subdue In any honest suit 1649 G. Daniel Trinarch., Hen II, clxxxvii, These Suggestions Maydens inclining to Mahomet. All his freinds 1688 Mrs. Behn City Heiress 37 What Wit, what Art Can save a poor inclining heart? 1771 Goldsm Hist. Eng III. 373 They supposed that he was more inclining to popery

b Of things Tending, approximating

a 1774 Goldsm Scrub & Philo (1776) II. 267 The more inclining to violet would be the colour of the body which they composed

Inclinometer (inklinɒ mɪtəɹ) [irreg f I nclinâre + -meter Declinometer.]

1. An instrument for measuring the vertical intensity of the earth's magnetic force, as shown by the inclination or dip of the magnetic needle

1842 Proc Amer Phil Soc II. 237 A new induction inclinometer by Professor Lloyd of Dublin 1895–9 Nicholson's Encyc I. 51 It consists of a dipping needle and graduated circle differing little from the accustomed form of an Inclinometer.

2 An instrument for measuring the inclination or slope of anything

1898 Tit Bits 16 July 313/3 A patent inclinometer, designed to register the exact roll or list to port or starboard of a vessel at sea or in harbour

Inclip (inklip), v arch. [f. In-1 + Clip *v.*1] trans To clasp, enclose, embrace

1606 Shaks Ant & Cl II. vii. 74 What are the Ocean pales, or skie inclippes, In thine if thou wilt hav't 1855

Parv Horn Paul Rom II 19 Circumstance as incidental, and as unlike design, as any that can be imagined 1873 Jowett Plato ted 2 III 17 The simple and apparently incidental manner in which the last remark is introduced 1876 E Mellor Proesth VII 371 There is scarcely any practice which is so corrupt as not to produce some incidental good.

b Of a charge or expense Such as is incurred (in the execution of some plan or purpose) apart from the primary disbursements 1739 Cibber Apol (1756) II 86 In the first six days of acting it, we paid all our charges and incidental expences, and shar'd each of us a hundred pounds 1772 Ann Reg 224 For defraying the expences of the civil establishment of his Majesty's colony of West Florida, and other incidental expences attending the same 1804 W Iennan Ind Revenue (ed ..) I 63 The house rent, and the incidental charges of a family 1868 Peard Water Farm x 104 These calls sufficed for the nursery, and incidental expenses.

c Incidental images, colours such as are perceived by the eye as a consequence of visual impressions no longer present

1876 Bernstein Five Senses 117 These prolonged impressions of light are called incidental images Ibid 170 The incidental colours which are formed in the eye are most interesting

2 Incidental to liable to happen to, to which a thing is liable or exposed Incidental upon following upon as an incident

1646 Conyat in J Lacy Wks (1875) 83 If I should happen to be destitute a matter very incident ill to a poore Footman Pilgrim 1665 J Mayr Opp e Help 56 Those temptations that are incidentall to a suffering state 1738 Berkeley Alciphr v § 10, I, who am no great genius have a weakness incidental to little ones 1828 Scott J M Perth vi, The hesitation incident to the use of a foreign language 1851 H Spencer Social Statics 170 Others may contend that with the rightly constituted or moral man, correct conduct to others is merely incidental upon the fulfilment of his own nature 1888 J Inglis Tent Life Tiger land 148 The dangers incident to pigsticking

3 Casually met with, encountered rare

1856 J Cumming Script Read Deuteron viii 143 The green moss and incidental flowerets break out from the rifts and rents 1871 Blackie Four Phases ii 124 The braying of an incidental ass 1876 Geo Eliot Dan Der xxxvii, A store of magical articulation with which he promised himself to frighten any incidental Christian of his own years

b Given to relating casual incidents nonce-use.

1843 Carlyle Past & Pr II iv Says the incidental Jocelin

†4. = Incident A 7 Obs rare

1813 T Busby Lucretius IV Comment xv, The angle contained by the incidental ray

B sb An incidental circumstance, event, charge, expense, etc

1707 Modest Enquiry in Sewall's Diary (1879) II 73 The accidental occasions of hiring Transport Ships, together with the other Incidentals that must necessarily accrue 1708 Pope Let to Bethel 9 Aug, Almost every body and every thing is a cause or object for humanity, even prosperity itself, and incidentals to so many weak people and incidentals attend on them 1866 Rigg in Argyll & Peter I xxvii 673 We should find in others a large bill for incidentals

Incidentally (insidĕ·ntăli), adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an incidental manner, as an incident, or a subordinate and casual circumstance

1665 Boyle Occas Reff (1848) 96 A Theame that fell but incidentally under my consideration 1736 Butler Anal II vii Wks 1874 I 254 He mentions these gifts incidentally, in the most easy manner 1825 Macaulay Hist Eng xix III 497 In the course of the debate a grave constitutional question was incidentally raised 1879 R. K. Douglas Confucianism iv 94 The supreme object of learning should be truth, and incidentally, self improvement

Incidentalness [f as prec + -ness] The quality or state of being incidental

1730–6 in Bailey (folio) 1775 in Ash Hence in Webster, etc

†Incidentary, a Obs rare [f Incident sb + -ary Cf accidentary] Casual, incidental Hence Incidentarily adv, incidentally

1650 Hacket Abp Williams II 108 b 8 He had been near fifty years from the county of Caernarvon and the town of Conway unless by incidentary visits —Cent Serm (1675) 67 They came together upon appointment, or incidentary occasions Ibid Imcarn iv, There 14 generations are reckoned up, and but 4 women incidentarily put into the catalogue

Incidented (insidĕnted), a [f Incident sb + -ed] Filled with incidents, eventful

1898 W J Locke Idols Path 274 In the course of an incidented life I have found that discretion is the better part of virtue

†Incidentless, a rare [f Incident sb + -less] Without incident, uneventful

1780 Mad D'Arblay Diary 26 Oct, My journey was incidentless, but the moment I came into Brightheimstone I was met by Mrs Thrale

†Incidently, adv Obs [f Incident a 1 + -ly 2] In an incident manner, by the way, casually, incidentally

1589 More Dyalogue 1 xxii 28 V' author therfore incydently shew eth what harm hath happed sumtyme to fall to dyuerse of those yong men 1590 Acts 13 Eliz c 4 § 9 Suche Charges as are necessarily and incidently to be spunt and provided in theyr Offyces 1640 Bp Hall Episc iii xx 201 It is but incidently in our way 1716 M Davies Athen Brit III Cent Hist 54 As for such an Author's modestly mentioning some things [etc] 1824 Westm Rev I 172 In so doing we may incidently afford some specimens of the original

Vol V

†Incidentness Obs rare—[f as prec + -ness] 1727 Bailey vol II, Incidentness, liableness

†Inci der. Obs [f Incide v 1 + -er 1] One who or that which cuts, an 'inciding' medicine

1598 Florio, Incisore, an incider or maker of an incision 1700 Blair in Phil Trans XXXI 33 Attenuaters and Inciders, as Salvia, Horminum 1749 J Short Chron Hist Air, etc I 260 The Cure consisted in repeated Emetics, cooling Incidents and Pectorals

Inci ding, vbl sb & Obs [f as prec + -ing 1] The action of Incide v 1, a cutting, incision

1696 Salmon Bate's Dispens (1713) 44/1 This Mixture has the Power of incising and attenuating 1726 R. James Introd Mouffet's Health's Improv 1 The first Part of Medication is the inciding, or cutting the Aliment with the fore Teeth

Inci ding, ppl a ? Obs [-ing 2] Cutting Loosening and removing phlegm or the like

1678 Salmon Lharm Lond VI iii 814 Inciding such a cut, attenuate and make matter or humors thin 1758 J S Ex Drams Observ Surg (1772) 86 The Stroke was made ing with regard to the first Table of the Bone 1788 Howard Suggest 1 v Hosps, A little of this powder gradually disturges and wears off the spot by its inciding quality

Incidnous insidĕnus, a rare [f L incidere Incide v 2 cf decidnous] Of a pulse Undulating

1842 Gerdy Study Med II 26 The diacrote (containing and incidnous [pulses] proposed by Solano as mere sub varieties of the rebounding or redoubling [Cf Dungison (1874) Med Lex s v redoubling, unduly pulse]

Incidnt Obs [f incindere Ab ind + encendrer = incinerare + -ment] Reduction to ashes, incineration

1609 J Davies Holy Roode (1856) 26 (D) Hee, like the glorious sunne, Vnto his first Will soon result from His incindrment

Incinerable (insinĕrăb l), a rare [f med L incinerare + -ble Inherently + -able] Capable of being burnt to ashes

1658 Sir T Browne Hydriot iii 23 Other incinerable substances were found so fresh, that they could feel no sludge from the †Inci nerate, ppl a Obs [ad med L incinerāt-us, pa ppl of incinerāre see next] = Incinerated (Const as pa pple or adj)

1472 Rites (Surtees Club) xxv in Ashm 176 a 233 Thy Lemmes shalbe incynerate sore 1598 Hulp Lang (W de W 1532) 182 b, Our first mother Eue with her husbande was incinerate and turned to dust after they dieth 1626 Bacon Sylva § 683 Fire (as Paracelsus saith) turning it first Luminous, Then Blacke and Brittle, And lastly, Broken and Incinerate

Incinerate insinĕrēt), v [f ppl stem of med L incinerare to reduce to ashes, f in (IN 2) + cinis, ciner-em ashes 'of a fire') see -ate 3]

1 trans To reduce to ashes, burn to ashes, consume by fire

1559 Lord Decades 334 The fyer whose force doth in cinerate or bringe to ashes all creatures 1626 Bacon Sylva § 87 The Heat doth Incinerate and Calcinate 1661–80 Boyle Excpt Chem I 80 It is the Fire only that Incinerates Bodies 1805 C Hatchett in Phil Trans XCV 216 Animal coal is incinerated with much more difficulty than vegetable coal or charcoal 1813 J Davy Elem Agricult 30 Mar 5/3 A Crematorium has been established, in which forty bodies had been incinerated after the manner of the Romans of old

2 intr To become reduced to ashes

1800 tr Lagrange's Chem II 190 A light sponky char coal, which easily incinerates when burnt in the open air 1825 Kirby & Sp Entomol III xxxvi 298 Feathers would hair etc when exposed to the action of fire liquefy, more or less, before they incinerate

1 Reduced to 'ashes', i e to the dust of death

1647 Farindon Serm 55 (T) That power which is requisite to raise a body now putrified and incinerated

Incineration insinĕrē·shŏn [f as incinerate + -ion (1) in Latr Dict), med L incinerātio, n of action from incinerāre to Incinerate] The action or process of incinerating or burning to ashes; reduction to ashes a 1599 Shelton P Xenophon 236 The phenyx . . Of whose incineration there ariseth by a new creation 1678 Salmon Lharm Lond VI ix 834 Incineration is the burning a matter to Ashes, either with live coals, or by the help of Nitre 1758 J S Ex Drams Observ Surg (1772) 302 Some find plants give some sea salt by incineration 1842 Parnell Chem Anal (1845) 84 Organic matters may be removed by incineration

b Applied spec esp in U S) to the cremation of the dead

1880 Nature XXI 239 The time for the completion of incineration of the bodies was about two hours 1883 Lalt Mail 6 28 Oct 3/1 In America cremation or as it is called, incineration is making rapid strides

Incinerator (insinĕrēt(ə)) [agent n in I form from Incinerate v 2] One who or that which incinerates, spec an apparatus for burning substances to ashes, a cremator

1883 Bengloss in Princeton Rev 149 The door of the incinerator is opened to receive the body 1889 Engineer 18 Jan Advts p xxvii, The Incinerator (Dr Sargeant's Patent) for destroying the refuse of Hospitals [etc]

Incipher, obs form of Encipher v

Incipience (insi·piens) [f Incident see -ence] Beginning, commencement, origination, the fact or condition of being incipient or in an early stage, with pl A beginning a first step or stage

1864 Webster, Incipience, Incipiency, beginning, commencement 1865 Carlyle Frederick (1872) XVIII 270 The dim incipiences of dawn 1868 19th Cent XIII 991 The wealth of England does not explain the increase of the college system

Incipience, obs (chion f Insipience)

Incipiency (insi·piensi) [f as prec + -ency] The quality or state of being incipient incipience

1817 J Pearson Malignancy xxxii, If this malignancy had not knocked us both down in the incipiency of our progress soon 1834 Lancet's Med Dig (in the incipiency of his business 1847 Lewis Heat Fevers 124 The infinite as being in a continual state of its incipiency 1858 Carlyle Frederick (1872) I 74 She crosses his first attempts at walking and progress of speech 1876 Parkinson Mat Med (1879) 166 Dose of quinia and morphia given at the incipiency of the attack

Incipient (insi·pient) a and sb [ad L incipient-em, pres pple of incipĕre to begin]

A adj Beginning, commencing, coming into or in an early stage of, existence, main initial stage

1666 W Simms Hydrol Chym 164 Incipient putrefaction 1764 Goldsmith Vicar Wakef xiv, The incipient state of the disorder had into the eye will remain incipient illness 1779–81 Johnson L P Addison Wks III 56 The flying, symptoms of incipient madness 1829 Hunter Manuf x, It is attested that the cure . . and mitigate the severest of most violent with incipient hurtle 1813 Sir H Davy Agric Chem (1814) 142 Weight measures of incipient and already close in the dunghill 1837 J Bevan Edw Let I iv 79, note It is evident that Greek was not then incipient at Cambridge 1869 Gladstone Juv Mund iii 57 The same intention is found in an incipient and crude state among animals

B sb + 1 A beginner, = Inceptor Obs

1589 Nashe Anat Absurd in Have I speake to shew what an obloquie these impudent incipients in Arts, are unto Art 1598 Florio, Incipiente, an incipient a beginner

2 Herb Lexic The verbal 'tense' or form with prefixed servile letters, variously called Future, Present, and Imperfect

1866 J G Murphy Comm Ecclesiast 14 It [present tense] is the only form by which to express their new incipient

Hence Inci piently adv, in an incipient manner

1856 in Webster 1893 J Pulsford Loyalty to Christ II 231 Christ is incipiently becoming the invested Righteous ness of every man who deplores his inherent sinfulness

Incipient, obs (error) form of Insident

‖ Incipit (i·nsipit) The I word incipit = [here] beginneth, used by mediæval scribes in indicating the beginning of a new treatise, poem, division, etc, in a MS or (sometimes) an English MS., hence, as sb The beginning or first words or lines of a treatise or poem in a MS Cf Explicit

[1377 Langl P Pl B Incipit liber de Petro Plowman] 1897 Dublin Rev Oct 472 The contents of each volume are fully given, for the most part with the incipit and explicit

I n-ci rcle. Geom [f I*n adv* + Circle sb] An inscribed circle

1883 W H H Hudson in Nature XXVIII 7 I beg leave to suggest the following names circumcircle, incircle, excircle, and midcircle

Incircle, incircule, obs ff Encircle v

†Inci rclet. Obs nonce-wd [f In 1 or 2 + Circlet] A little circular coil or spiral

a 1586 Sidney Ps xviii (1823) 83 No purer then the pretie cures In whose Incirclets if ye gaze, Youn eyes may tread a lovers maze

†Inci rcuit, sb Obs [f In- 2 + Circuit cf phrase 'in circuit'] transl To encircle surround

c 1650 in Johnston Nat Hist E Borol (1851) 91 The Towne was strengthened environed, and is encompassed with strong walls and Bulwarks

†Incircumcised, a Obs [f In- 3 + Circumcised, after L incircumcisus or F incirconcis] Not circumcised uncircumcised

1483 Caxton Gold Leg 61 b And daud said what is this uncircumcised Philistin doth dyen of the hoost of the god of Israhel 1554 Knox Confes Faith A vj b, Beholde, theyr eares be incircumcised they can not vnderstand

So † Incircumcised ness, uncircumcision

a 1641 Bp Montagu Acts & Mon (1642) 499 Heare this Jew Iewes and Gentiles attend it Circumcision and Incircumcision

†Inci rcumscript, a Obs [ad late L incircumscript-us (Prudentius c 400) see In- 1 and Circumscript, of obs F incirconscrit, incirconscript (Godefroy)] Not circumscribed or limited, unbounded, infinite

1677 Gale Cer Gentiles iv 248 God is without cause, without end sempiterne and eternall incircumscripte

†Incircumscri ptible, a Obs [ad med L incircumscriptibilis also F incirconscriptible, incircumscribile see In- 1 and Circumscriptible] Incapable of being circumscribed or limited

1550 Cranmer Defence 68 God is invisible, immortall incircumscriptible incomprehensible 1635 Pagitt Christianogr I iii (1636) 106 Who can make an Image of God? who is invisible, incorporall, and incircumscriptable 1652 F Bedrowes Theophil viii xvii, So there is incircumscriptible would circumscribed appear

Hence † Incircumscri ptibleness
1615 Byfield Expos Colosi 1 17 The immensity of Christ's divine nature hath incircumscriptibleness in respect of place

Incircumscription (inːsɪkəmˈskrɪpʃən) pfn. Now rare [IN 3] The condition of not being circumscribed or limited; boundlessness, infinitude 1652 Jer Taylor Serm for Epiph xxvii 351 His mercy returns to its own centre and incircumscription and infinity unless it issues forth up on us 1658 Cudworth Intellect System 2 Consider how impossible it must be to behold invisibility, derive independency, calculate eternity, circumscribe incircumscription 1861 Pusey Min Pr 440 The tenet is an attempt with the incircumscription of the Divine Nature

†Incircumspe ct, a Obs [IN 2] Not circumspect, heedlessness, imprudent 1533 in W H Turner Sel Ch Oxford 2 The most cuyn pect occupyers of the craft 1538 Starkey Pol Matt xxvii, Vitellius, inconstant, and light mannered, full of witches, after writted to we call it) in incumspect incon sideratly he took 1608 Lascelles Serp 185 (1697) 77 With their teeth they bite and wound if anyone incumspect Mayst [and] harvest folks 1651 Price Vers Dr P 170 Incircumspect credulity

Hence † Incircumspe ctly adv., † Incircumspe ctness
1542 Lyne Epistles Ep at in Hart Mss Mdlx I do Two shippes of the Turcke who he incircumspectly fell into unre hindes 1548 Gwara Scrpt 86 (1) Their incumspectiones of Hymn hindered not the Curth incumess only at this time, but also [etc.] 1563-87 Foxe (1 1 M 1570) 1561 The Christians entring into the mutation incircumspectie, were pelt d and pashed with stones

†Incircumspe ction. Obs [IN 2] Want of circum-pe ction, heedlessness, unwariness
1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep I 6 Who easily may be mistaken easily led away the incircumspection of their beliefs. 1683 Case Ecclesiastica, Unchurn 33 He did it through heedlessness and incircumspection

Incise (insəiz), v. Also 6 incyse 7 incise [a F inciser (15th c. in Godef.), for OF enciser (12th c. in Littré), f. incis, ppl stem of incidere, to cut into: see Incide v 1]

1 trans To cut into, make a cut or incision in; to cut marks or figures upon engrave with figures 1567 [see Incised below] 1620 Markham Masters 74 The flesh being cut or incised into many parts, yet is every part still fle-h 1639 Caius Among Mss (1892) 32 Found man, that cannot believe that thy we dee see & can incise The cryst'll cave when it lyes 1834 Forbes Tinnæus's Diss Chat (ed 4) 615 The other parts of the lungs were imbued with a yellow frothy serum which escaped from them when incised 1873 J Geikie Geol Sketches 316 Glacial deposits were swept out of the valleys and the hard rocks themselves deeply incised 1876 Geo Eliot Dan Der viii Iv The wood was so beautifully incised with Arabic lettering

b absol To make a cut or incision 1541 R Copland Guydon's Quest Chirurg etc. By in cysyng e cuttynge, or scarry yng. 1612 Woodall Surg Mate Wks 1653/1 1 It behoveth the Surgeon to regard of he incise deep 1617 Fletcher Mad Lover iii, Never incise To a hairs breadth without defacing

2 To produce, form, or trace by cutting, to carve engrave a tature, ture inscription, etc 1631 Carew Elegy Donne in Poems (1633) 288 Let thy Tombe this Epitaph incise 1656 Stanley Hist Phil v (1701) 182 Two Mens-Steel-thin Veins did unsan. 1851 D Wilson Prehist Ann (1863) II ix 226 Stone decorated with crosses, incised or in relief 1876 Birch Rede Lect Egypt 15 A nation incising my virtues and not vices for public consideration

Hence Incising vbl sb Incision
1567 Ann Barbe Surg 1890 315 The direction or incysyngyes of the body

†Incise (insəiz) a rare ? [ad L incisus, pa pple of incidere (see prec.) = Incised Hence Inci sely adv
1828 Webster Incisely, in the manner of incisions or notches Latin

Incised (insəizd), ppl a [† Incisive v -ed] 1 Cut into, having an incision made in it, marked by cutting 1567 Maplet Gaddemanis Ex Chirurg 218 b Incised or the through, the muscle skinne. 1743 Land & Country Brewer (ed 4) 232 The best Staple is incised lengthwise two Ounces 1809 Med Jrnl IV 80 No inflammation could be traced on the margin of the incised gums 1854 Trans Addr hornsk Naturalists Club Sketches of incised rocks at Ford and Bewick

b Bot and Zool Having marginal notches, as if cut or slashed, as a leaf or an insect's wing Also in comb = Incise- as in incised-ovate 1826 Kirby & Sp Entomol IV 95 Incised, cut into equal marginal segments 1870 Hooker & Arn Flora Californian Islands leaves rarely deeply incised Ibid 234 Ivesia shamæ leaves pinnatel cuvate incis deeply. 1880 Gray Structural Bot II § 298 The blade [of a leaf] is said to be incised, when cut by sharp and irregular incisions more or less deeply

2 Produced by cutting or incision; engraved 1807-26 S Cooke Pirst Three Sons (ed 3) 111 An incised wound, made with a clean sharp instrument can have no foreign bodies in it 1851 Ruskin Stones Ven I xxi § 23 The ornaments on the armour are simply drawn with incised lines 1879 Lubbock Addr Pol & Educ ix 173 Two stones, with incised crosses

Incisiform (insəizifɔːm), a Zool [f I incisi-us + -form] Having the form of an incisor tooth, esp of that of a rodent 1885 Imer Jrnl Sci Sec iii May 187 In the genus Dinoceras there are three incisor teeth, and a small incisiform canine on each side

Incision (insi·ʒən). Forms 5 incisyon (incsicioun), 6 incysyon, (incision, yon, 6–7 in scision, e, 7 incision, incotion, incsicion, 5–incision [a F incision (13–14th c. in Hatz Darm.), ad L incisiōn-em, n of action from incidere to cut in, Incide v 1 The 16–17th c spelling in cise arose from erroneously referring the word to L scindere, scissum to divide, tear, cut cf abscission, abscission, and scissors (cysors, cisors, F ciseaux)]

1 The action of cutting into something, esp into some part of the body in surgery 1474 Caxton Quatus 100 Instrumentes of yron and of silver for to make incisions 1547 Boorde Brev Healths Prol 4 That they [surgeons] be circumspecte in incisyons 1614 W L Philosophers Lamport 98 That put the knife to incision of the vein to Mission 1697 Dryden Virg Georg iv 411 To make a deep Incision in the Tree 1704 Phil Trans Fermont 89 Not can they be easily satisfied with an incision made but by incision 1846 J Davis Nouv Anat Chem II 422 On making incisions into the warm flesh of an animal just killed we obtain, by pressing on each side, Hydrate of Soda Dr Cyc 24 (of 30) The incision is used when the iris will retract

2 The effect of cutting into something, a division produced by cutting, a cut, gash
c 1400 Lanfranc's Cirurgie 30 Pou schalt make pe most cuttyng pe veyne is, pe more incision 1564 78 Bullein Dial agst Pest (1888) 47 Make the incision long 1609 W Bercham in Phil Trans (1902) 10 Out of the incision and cuts proceedeth the muscke by drops 1795 Anderson Instr Lect Chirurgery 1 The incision made from the top of the tumour to the surface of the tumid 1879 Stainer Music of Bible 53 An incision in the surface of the cane

b Bot and Zool A deep indentation or notch having the appearance of being produced by cutting, as in the margin of a leaf or of an insect's wing, etc 1578 Lyte Dodoens iii Pam 404 The leaues be white, with great and deepe incisions and cuttes 1875 W Houghton Sk Brit Alp 84 The incisions between some of the segments are deep black 1877 I Heath Fern II 22 The incisions reach down to the rachis, or mid rib, of the frond

†3 Act of the senses or of the mind; discernment; the vivacity or vivid humours of Incide v 1 2 Obs
1626 Bacon Sylv § 340 Abstertion is plainly a Scouring off, or Incision of the more viscous Humours And Cutting, between them and the Part

4 fig Incisiveness, keenness of action or appropriation 1880 Contemp Rev June 1 [Of the mood of the English mind] is more sanguine than that of the American mirror 1888 Pall Mall G 8 Dec 1/1 (O) The birds performed the function of public censors with sharp incision

5 In 17th c often erroneously used for Instrument, engraving 1601 R Johnson Kingd & Commun 132 These acquisitions are as it were incisions or graftings 1681 Flavel Meth Grace iv 27 Implanted or ingrafted by way of incision

6 attrib and Comb, as incision apparatus, incision knife, a knife for making surgical incisions 1611 Cotgr., Incisif, cutting, lancing, launching, opening incision making 1812 Woodhouse Surg Mate Wks 1863/2 It is very needful to have a variety of incision instruments 1866 Sharpe Incisions 1 Incision Knife Reference Sc & Art 29 The preservation of abuse against the attacks of the probe, or the incision knife. 1875 Ibid Without Appl Med II 311 During the last seven years 121 incision operations have been performed on lipids within the great cavities of the body

Hence Incisioner Obs rare, one who makes incisions, a surgeon 1608 W Clowes Strumas 13 A famous Incisioner and Incutter Chirurgian of London

Incisive (insəi·siv), a and sb Also 6 (erron) incisitive [ad med L incisiv-us, f incis- (see Incise v) + -ive cf F incisif -ive (13–14th c. in Hatz Darm.)]

1 Having the quality of incising or cutting into something, cutting, penetrating with a sharp edge 1597 A M tr Gabelhouer's Ex Chirurg 148 b Incisive, or cutting, pincer or Tongs, to cut off any plates of bone 1769 Goodall Treat Wounds I 15, Take off the points of the needles in pins with incisive pincers 1883 Harper's Mag Nov 874 The wet sand . . fed into the opening, and put olives in incisive finch

2 trans Applied to the incisor teeth Dentiincisive (see Incisor), and hence, to parts or structures connected with these, as the incisive bones = the premaxillary bones
1804 Med Jrnl XII 549 In the first the canine and incisive teeth and in the latter the incisives only perform the most essential part of mastication 1842 Brewster Anat Vade M 34 Beneath the nasal spine, and above the two superior incisor teeth is a slight depression, the incisive or myxiform fossa 1847 Austin Obs Teeth 20 The incisive teeth and the extremities of the jaws

†3 Sharp or keen in physical qualities or effects, cutting, piercing, in old Med and Phys, having the quality of 'cutting' or loosening viscid humours (see Incide v 1 2) Obs
1598 Payne Salerne's Regim P iv, Whey is incisiue or subtile 1603 Holland Plutarch's Mor 1187 Now this are by incisiue qualitie thereof, piercing in to the brasse forceth out of it a deale of rust 1694 Salmon Bate's Dispens (1713) 118/1 The Acid being alone, becomes incisive, and pricks the Nervi Gustatorii by their Points

4 fig Sharp or keen in mental qualities, producing a highly clear and impressive mental effect, penetrating, acute, trenchant a 1850 Marg Fuller At Home & Abr (1860) 239 Their talk is picturesque and what the French call incisive 1854 Emerson Lett & Soc Aims, Poet & Among Wks (Bohn) III 162 An idea steeped in verse becomes suddenly more incisive and more brilliant 1856 Mrs Browning Aur Leigh II 709 Her incisive smile 1866 G Macdonald Ann Q Neighb in 1878/30 She said this in an incisive tone 1880 Times 27 Dec 7/1 Lord Grey always writes in an incisive and pungent style

B sb

+1 Med An 'incisive' drug see A 3 Obs
1706 I Kent Alberti's Archit II 107/2 Physicians, for the cure of Fevers, order the use of the juice of squills and of incisives

2 Anat An incisor tooth 1804 [see A 2]
b Entom 'The incisive edge of the mandible of a beetle' (Cent Dict)

Incisively (insəi·sivli), adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an incisive manner or style (lit and fig)
1827 Athenæum 2 Dec 714 Equally incisively are the good people of Middlemarch brought before us 1879 Harper Cassell's Techn Educ IV 7, 2 Some of the turning tools for iron also act incisively 1894 Chicago Advance 24 May [He] holds his convictions clearly and expresses them incisively and boldly

Incisiveness (insəi·sivnĕs) [f as prec + -ness] The quality of being incisive usually in sense 4 of the adj 1865 Daily Tel 23 Oct 4/5 That incisiveness of expression that clearness of mind, for which he was famous 1896 Lanc Times C 393/1 The Doctor's reply was not wanting in incisiveness

Incisor- (insəi·sə), combining adverbial form of L incisus Incised, in botanical and zoological terms, used in the sense 'incisedly —', 'incised and —', as incisor-dentate, -denticulate, lobate, -pinnatifid, -serrate adjs.
1847 W E Steele Field Bot 94 Leaves pinnate, leaflets cordate ovate, incisor lobate 1848 Dana Zoophi 180 Lamellæ stout, broad dentate and incisor dentate 1870 Hooker Stud Flora 285 Leaves ovate cordate incisor serrate Ibid 462 Asplenium Adiantum nigrum pinnules petuled incisor-pinnatifid and serrate.

Incisor (insəi·zə, -sə) Anat and Zool [a med and med L incisor lit 'cutter', agent n from L incidĕre to cut, Incide v 1] A tooth adapted for cutting, any one of the front teeth in either jaw, having a sharp edge and a single fang situated between the canine teeth on each side, as in man and other mammals, here extended to teeth of any character having this situation 1672 Sir T Browne Lett Friend § 12 In the burnt fragments of urns which I have enquired into altho I seem to find few Incisors or Molares. 1733 Derham Phys Theol iv xi note (R), Suppose the order of the teeth inverted, the grinders set in the room of the incisors 1832 Youatt Horse v (1847) 107 The horse has six incisors or cutting teeth in the front of each jaw.

b attrib (a) Adapted for cutting, as incisor forceps, incisor tooth (= prec. sense) (b) Connected with the incisor teeth, as incisor artery, canal, foramen, fossa, gland
1837 M Donovan Domest Econ II 289 The human teeth are chiefly incisor or cutting teeth, and molar or grinding teeth 1841-71 R Jones Anim Kingd 441 § 215 Like the incisor teeth of rodent quadrupeds, they are therefore continually growing, and are thus always preserved sharp and fit for use 1879 St George's Hosp Rep IV 6 § Aided by strong cutting and incisor forceps, a partially developed upper canine tooth was forcibly extracted 1886 Syd Soc Lex, Incisor artery, a branch of the inferior dental artery It supplies the canine and incisor teeth Incisor nerve, a branch of the inferior dental nerve It supplies the canine and incisor teeth

Incisorial (insəiso·riăl), a [f as next + -al] Of or pertaining to the incisors, of the character of an incisor (In recent Dicts)

Incisory (insəi·sŏri), a [ad L type incisōri-us*, in incisorium, f as Incisor see -ory 1]
1 Having the property of cutting, incisive applied to the incisor teeth 1794 Phil Trans LXXXIV 61 The lead 105 Right afore there are foure aboue, and as many beneath which are called incisorie teeth 1861 Lovell Hist Anim & Man 302 Sixteen [teeth], of which four are incisory, two canine, and ten molar

+2 Having a form as if cut, incised Obs
a 1693 Urquhart Rabelais iii 40 To Fig tree leaves by reason of their incisory notches, were proper

Incisure (insi·ʒiŭr) [ad L incisūra a cutting into an incision, f incis-, ppl stem of incidĕre Incide v 1 see -ure] A deep indentation in an edge or surface, caused or appearing as if caused by cutting, a cut, notch, slit, cleft, = Incision 2 1597 Gerarde Herbal II ci 353 One whole and entire leafe without any incisure at all 1658 Rowland tr Moufet's Theat Ins 936 Ventricle or belly, distinguished with five or six clefts or incisures 1869 Phil Trans IV 587 In the structure of this Insect [silk worm] he takes notice of its eleven Rings or Incisures. 1774 Goldsm Nat Hist (1776) VIII 116 Crooked jaws in each of which are seen incisures, that look like teeth 1819 G Samouelle Entomol Compend. 340 Toothed like a saw, the incisures turned towards the extremities

Incitable (insaɪtəb(ə)l) a. rare [f INCITE v. + -ABLE cf. mod.F incitable.] Capable of being incited or urged to action. Hence Incitability, capability of being incited.

1800 Med. Jrnl. IV. 466 The phenomena of fever differ according to the incitability or activity of the organic parts. 1882 TIDEMAN & DUDGEON Homœopathic Med. 93 111. 297 The more an organism is excited, the less it is excitable. 1890 Nat. Sci. Incitability same as Irritability.

†Inci tament. Obs. rare—1. [adᵗ. L. incitamentum, f. incitare to INCITE.] = INCITEMENT.

1579 FULKE Heskins Parl. 9 The little incitament unto virtue that you suppose to appeare in the ballattes of Salomon.

Incitant (insɪtant), a. and sb. [ad. L. incitant-em, pres. pple. of incitare to INCITE, cf. F. incitant.]

A. adj. That incites; stimulating.

1886 Syd. Soc. Lex. Incitant, moving proximo. Incitant force, in Brown-Séquard's system, a term applied to every thing capable of acting on the living body and exciting the energy of the faculties.

B. sb. That which incites, an inciting agent.

a 1800 E. DARWIN cited in Webster 1828.

†Incitate, ppl. a. Obs. rare—1. [ad. L. incitāt-us, pa. pple. of incitāre to INCITE.] Incited instigated.

1568 C. WATSON Polyh. 92, But [they] being moved and incitate by the example of the Mamelines violated and falshed their oath.

†Incitate, v. Obs. [f. L. incitāt-, ppl. stem of incitāre to INCITE, cf. prec.] trans. To incite.

1597 M. BOWMAN in Guillemeau's Fr. Chirurg. 8/b. The excellence of this booke hath incitated me to dedicate [it] to you Mr. 1607 TOPSELL Four-f. Beasts 1658) 371 The Lamb being fastned upon the top of the pillar, doth moue it the hunger striuen by eat of the Lyon by his bleating. 1623 COCKERAM II. To Anger one, Exagitate, Irritate, Exasperate, Stimulate, Incitate.

Incitation (insɪtēɪ·ʃən) [n. f. incitation 14th c., and f. incitātion-em, n. of action f. incitāre to INCITE.]

1 The action of inciting, stirring up, incitement, stimulation, instigation.

c 1477 CAXTON Jason 89 b, Medea cam and mette with him by the incitacion and admonishment of Ioue. 1579 FENTON Guicciard (1618) 89 This accident happned by the incitation of certaine soulders. 1607 Schol. Prac. Answer Incitacion in vse 1703 Phrases scenatrix, by whose meanes and incitation Abraham had his Wife taken from him. 1710 ADDISON Tatler No. 258 P 2 Is there any Thing that tends to Incitation in Vaccinated more than in ordinary Bodies? 1842 SIR H. TAYLOR Edwin II. iii. The secular. By secret incitation hasten on his will, Will give their voices. 1881 HAVEN tr. Dowden's Puritan Literature 98 Ill. 287 Brown was sometimes right in the pathological order of the incitation is repeated and remains the same.

†2 That which incites or stimulates to action; a stimulus, incentive, incitement. Obs.

1622 STARKEY Bk. Cam. Praysworth 73 These word let us pray, are an Incitation to prayer. a 1653 GAULE Cases. Hist. viii. 143 An incitation thereof implieth a due consideration of our own condition. 1709 STEELE Tatler No. 73 ¶ 7 This passion the strong and noble Incitation to honest Attempts.

†3 Power of inciting. Obs.

1656 THAT Comm. Matt. xiii. 34 But now that I com[e] to have loved you] in matchless, and more full of incitation to fire affection. 1684 tr. Bonet's Merc. Compit. xvi. 653 Where need is of Medicines endued with a certain incitation.

+Inci tative, a. and sb. Obs. rare [f. obs. F. incitatif, -ive, ad. L. incitātīv-us*, see -ATIVE.] = INCITATIVE.

A. adj. Having the quality of inciting or stirring up, stimulative.

1490 CAXTON Eneydos vi. 90 She said to them, wepyng, the enemitye of mordre.

B. sb. An inciting or stimulating agent, medicine, etc.

1680 SHELTON Quix. IV. xxi. 193, Wallets well provided of first with Incitatives that provoked to drink two Miles off.

+Inci tatory, a. Obs. rare [f. incitāt- (see INCITATE) + -ORY.] Tending to incite, stirring, stimulative.

1650 DANIEL Pseudo Martyr 121 We will onely repeat baronius his Panegyrique and Incitatory encouragement.

Incite (insaɪt), v. Also 5 encyte 5–6 incyte [f. F. inciter 14th c., OF. also enciter; = Sp. Pg. incitar, It. incitare, ad. L. incitāre f. in- (IN-2) + citāre to set in rapid motion, rouse, stimulate, etc., frequentative of ciēre, cīt- to put in motion, stir, rouse, see CITE.]

1 trans. To urge or spur on, to stir up, animate, instigate, stimulate (to or unto some action).

1483 CAXTON Cato V.viij, For to don thy right comendacion and worshyth and incyteth us. 1490 — Eneydos Contentys 7 How Eneas encyted the patrons & maystres of his shyppes for to departe. 1500 ATKYNSON tr. De Imitatione I. xxi. 61 The firste mocions that moeueth vs to synne. 1597 HOOKER Eccl. Pol. v. xl. § 1 He incited all men vnto bountifull contribution. 1606 G. WOODCOCKE tr. Hist. Iustine 9/2, The rather to incite him vpo vnto their ayde, [he] shewed the exceeding valour of their women. 1661 BRAMHALL Just. Und. vii. 221 The Pope incited the King of Spain to make war against the Republick. 1675-80 POPE Iliad iv. 499 These Mars incites, and those Minerva fires. 1812 G. CHALMERS Dom. Econ. Gt. Brit. 423 Manufactures were incited, and pushed forward, by every sort of encouragement. 1875 JOWETT Plato (ed. 2) I. 462 Each of us was urging and inciting the other to put the question. 1880 F. WHITE Corr. Derby 24 A certainty, and an overflowing of the love in the heart, which are capable of inciting to heroic deeds.

b To urge or provoke (some action).

1697 Irander's Cat. 69, I could not finde any thing which might incite me any after this love.

Hence Inciting vbl. sb.

1611 FLORIO Inducation ... a persuasion or inciting vnto. Incitement (insaɪtmĕnt) [f. INCITE v. + -MENT.] = incitamentum, 16th c. in LITTRÉ.

1 The action of inciting or rousing to action, or urging, spurring or setting on; instigation, stimulation. † Also, the condition of being incited.

1494 CAREW Huarte's Exam. Wits (1616) 240 They live in continuall incitement. 1647 Cotterell. Du Vair Mor. Ph. (1664) 61 Chiefly by the incitement of the Cardinal. 1670 MILTON Hist. Brit. II. Wks. (1851) 64 Incited against him by the incitement of Rex his Cedric Exped. 1. 1. Dixon 1803 Med. Jrnl. X. 53 Does the instrument, I the subject to which Mr. Galvani's experiments, occasion the muscles of animals to contract with or without any part depend up in any peculiar property of living bodies? 1876 E. H. CURTIS Faith & Life 115 The method of Christianity is not excitement, but incitement.

2 That which incites or rouses to action, or in citing cause or motive; stimulus, incentive, spur.

a 1600 Lett. in Bishop's Rel. III. 67 And [the Irish] must needs instruments to their good, I turn from that part she hurtes'. 1642 MILTON Of Reform. Let us not therefore make Religion a property, which God sends us as an incitement to proceed with more honour and alacrity. 1709 STEELE Tatler No. 3 ¶ 1 A good Play must raise very proper Incitements to Virtue. 1873 JOWETT Plato III. 653 Pleasure, the greatest incitement of evil.

Inciter (insaɪtəɹ). Also 7 incitor [f. INCITE v. + -ER1.] One who or that which incites or rouses to action; an instigator.

1598 FLORIO, Impulsore, an inciter, a perswader. 1611 COTGR., Instigateur, an instigator, stirrer, inciter, vrger, egger on. 1658 ROWLAND Moufet's Theat. Ins. 1110 The law accounteth the inciter as principall though he be absent. a 1720 SHEFFIELD (D. Buckham) Wks. 1753 II. 89 The Romans publickly encouraged that humour in every body, as being a constant incitor to virtue. 1813 Hist. in Examiner 15 Feb. 97/2 Inciters to robbery. 1893 BOND Carthusians of Mt. Grace 41 He was an inciter of rebellion.

Hence Incit tress, a female inciter.

1611 COTGR., Conciteresse, a concitatrix, inciter, prouokeresse.

Inciting (insaɪtiŋ), ppl. a. [f. INCITE v. + -ING2.] That incites, stimulating, provoking. Hence Inci tingly adv.

1855 MASSON Essays I. 1, Incitans, applied to medicines which provoke or excite, in ing. 1856 WEBSTER Dictionary, Quod. Nutrient, and Incitingly. Medicines he said nutritingly. Tried them. 1884 Daily News 24 April 4/7 Mr. Gladstone has been restraining not inciting influence upon most of his colleagues.

Incitive (insaɪtiv), a. and sb. rare [f. INCITE v. + -IVE cf. INCITATIVE.]

A. adj. Having the quality of inciting, stimulative.

1888 J. W. HENDRY in New Princ. in Art Nov. 84 The style is thus instructive and incitive.

B. sb. An incentive, incitement.

1758 J. LEPPARD Vanbrugh's Cæs. A. 2 A proper Incitive to a constant Vigilance. 1881 J. F. KENNEDY Town's Medicine 194 He will never, except under a very strong incitive, expose himself to unnecessary danger.

Incito-motor (insaɪtōmōtəɹ). adj. a. rare [f. INCITE v. + MOTOR, after EXCITO-MOTOR, q.v. Cf. F. incito-moteur (Littré).] Inciting to motion or muscular action: applied to the action of the nervous centres which determine the contraction of the muscles through the intermediation of the motor nerves. Also erroneously identified with excito-motor. So Incit-to-mo tory, a.

1881 Cassell's Encycl. Dict., Incito-motor. 1886 Syd. Soc. Lex. Incitomotory, same as Excitomotory. 1893 HUXLEY Mod. Ess. 238 Incito-motor, spelled rightly in accordance with the derivation of excite, is muscular action or any meaning in the nervous centres, and exciting the muscles to contraction.

Incivic (insɪvik), a. rare—1. [f. IN-3 + CIVIC.] Having no civic spirit or virtues.

1795 W. IRVING in Monthly R. XVII. 55 We are about the first Incivic Nation, that has ever used Printz, superior to a whole of swords and hirelings.

+Inci vil, a. Obs. [f. incivil (adv.) + -AL1.] = INCIVIL.

1 Not of the rank of a free citizen.

1540 Compl. & Sum. 142 He that had neuer shone in a village not of courte in his manners, vse to put for me in mul vallaine. Ibid. 150 Hys Father vs me more vnciuyll then he that neuer shone in a village.

2 Not according to civil law.

1613 18 DANIEL Coll. Hist. Eng. (1626) 24 The Contract was made in priuate, and therefore incivil, and not to be held by the right of Nations.

3 Savage, barbarous.

1586 MARLOWE tr. Pt. Tamburl. I. 1, Tamburlaine, that sturdy Scythian thief That daily commits in civil outrages.

4 Unmannerly, rude, clownish, impolite or uncourteous to others, uncivil.

1611 SHAKS. Cymb. v. v. 292 Cym. He was a Prince. Gui. A most incivill one. The wrongs he did mee Were nothing, Prince like. 1683 D. A. Art Contenu 117 They are rather not civil than positively incivil. 1709 Reflex upon Ridicule 167 Hey Presto! Haughty, Incivil.

Hence +Inci villy adv., +Inci vilness (Bailey vol. II, 1727).

1672 Dismantle'd Ld. (1874) 5, Hee did highly misdemean himselfe by behaving himself in a more incivilly into the parlour of James Cole.

Incivility (insɪvɪlĭti) [ad. L. incivilitie (1426 in Hatz Darm.), ad. late L. incivilitat-em, f. incivilis, see prec. and -ITY.] 1 The quality or condition of being incivil or uncivil.

†1 Want of civilization, uncivilized condition, savageness, barbarism. Obs.

1584 R. SCOT Discov. Witchc. xv. xv. 162 Barbarous nations and cruell writers of both parts. 1612 BRERETON Travels 4 Feb. 20 In their incivility and many fabulous properties they [Americans] resemble the old and rude Britans. 1663 HERBERT Trav. (ed. 2) 15 The northern Indies remaining oblained in their wilcness and incivility. 1774 WARTON Hist. Eng. Poetry I. 1. 1 The Scots and Irish. I procure no tales which do not smack the coarseness of popular incivility, as it was owing to it that in the court of the writers age. 1811 Hermit in Quebec I. 1 And what I have now relate of feudal manners and incivility.

†2 Want of good manners or good breeding; ill breed behaviour. Obs.

1590 SHAKS. Com. Err. II. ii. 45 Ant. Is not your husband mad? Luce. His incivility confirms no less. 1603 HOLLAND Plutarch's Mor. 4 Cowardize & the want perfect in matters to the defence of a citie, and are meere incivilitie. 1650 FULLER Pisgah Sight I. 1. They account it the greate discourtesy in the world if for any thing fall in eating. 1673 Rules Civility 118 It is a great incivility to begin any person of Honour's health and to address it to himself.

3 Ill breed, uncivil, or uncourteous behaviour towards others; want of civility or politeness, disourteousness, rudeness.

1612 T. TAYLOR Comm. Titus 11. It would be thought too much incivilitie to stay a man from shooting his wicked arrowes. 1684 Contempt of Mourn. 2 (1691) 26 The more serene and great men stay now with God in Heaven. 1709 TATE-BRADY Version in Ellis Orig. Lett. Ser. II. IV. 321 The Russian Ambassador appears persectly satisfied with the reparation made for personal incivility, but complains of a fresh insult. 1849 MACAULAY Hist. Eng. I. 444 At Council he [Halifax] was treated by Jeffreys with marked incivility.

b An act of rudeness or ill breeding.

1652 H. COCKE Sunday's Drinkings 36 I had done an hundred incivilities to Salomon. 1709 Reflex upon Ridicule 85 Rex Anglorum offered me the like Incivility.

Incivilization (insɪvɪlaɪzēɪ·ʃən). [f. IN-3 + CIVILIZATION.] Uncivilized condition, want of civilization.

1823 J. Monthly Mag. IV. 164 His excuse is at best incivilization and ignorance. 1863 CARLYLE Fred. Gt. XIII. iv. A terrible wicket, impassible against incivilization. 1881 Century Mag. XXIII. 143 Mr. Hayes spoke in a former paper, of the incivilization of China.

+Inci vilize, v. Obs. rare—0. [f. IN-2 + CIVILIZE, cf. F. inciviliser to grow uncivil or unmannerly.] (Hatz. Darm.) = INCIVILIZED, ppl. a.

1603 FLORIO Montaigne III. xii. (1632) 512 Such hands I would gently have polished, reformed and incivilized: which the more they deserued, the lesse I would vrbanize and rude.

+Inci vilized, a. Obs. rare [IN-3] Not civilized, uncivilized.

1647 W. BROWNE tr. Combat-ville's Pol. wonders II. 247 Otes, incivilized and unworthy either to live the others to rule.

Incivism (insɪvɪzm). [ADOPTED from F. incivisme (1791 in Hatz. Darm.), f. incivique + -isme CIVISM.] The opposite of CIVISM, want of good citizenship.

a. In reference to the French Revolution: want of loyalty to the principles of the Revolution regarded as a crime against the Republic.

1794 T. GIFFORD Louis XVI 186 As the body guard which had been allotted to the king, by the constitution was partial and disaffected to it, it soon was dismissed. 1794 HELEN MARIA WILLIAMS Lett. France II. 5 So much did comprehensive for, such an act of incivism would be paint bed with the lo of Citizens and property. 1887 W. ANSCOMBE Lett. on Mar. 131 I should not like to be right led to accuse as President of a Committee of Safety, on a charge of incivism.

b In reference to other states and times.

1820 GOLDSMITH Lett. Citizen xxxi. The Lord Abbot put the question on the ground of incivism and not on the religious ground. 1865 GROTE Plato I. 201 Socrates is to be exempted from the charge of incivism. 1879 M. PATTISON Milton 188 Milton will exclude Romanists from toleration not on the statesmanlike ground of incivism but on that the Romanist's mind of all Days.

Incize, Incking, obs. forms of INCISE, INKING.

+Inclama tion. Obs. rare [ad. L. inclamātion-em, n. of action f. inclamāre to cry out to call upon, f. IN-2 + clamare to call.] A calling upon, invocation. Also, a cry, loud call.

1612-25 BP. HALL Contempl. O. T. xxxiii. Steps forth a prophet of God, and interrupts that glorious service with a loud inclamation of judgement. Ibid. The idolatrous prophets now send their threats and inclamations. 1613 CHAPMAN Iliads & Odysses Plays 183/1 The Cassandra's prophecie . . . which she for odd Troyes ruine which succeeding made her vse this sacred Inclamation.

+Incla mitate, v. Obs.—0. [f. ppl. stem of inclamitāre Plautus: frequentative of inclamāre see prec.] To call often. Cockeram, 1623.

Hence †Inclamitation in often calling upon Phillips, 1658)

Inclasp, obs form of ENCLASP v

Inclau dent, a Bot rare [IN-3] Not closing 1840 PAXTON Bot Dict., Inclaudent not closing

†Incla vate, v Obs rare-1 [f med L. in clavat-, ppl stem of inclavare (f L. in-, IN-2 + clavare to nail, f clavus nail), see -ATE 1] trans. To nail or bolt in, fix firmly 1666 J SMITH Old Age 81 These [teeth] are more finely inlaid and infixed into the jawbones by treble or quad ruple roots

Inclava tion rare [n of action f prec.] The condition of being firmly fixed in, as of a tooth in its socket 1855 MAYNE Expos. Lex., Inclavation term for the condition of a tooth in its socket, inclavation Inclave, obs form of INCLAVE sb. and v.

Incle, variant of INKLE sb. and v.

Inclear, variant of ENCLEAR v. Obs.

I n-clearing [IN- 1 c.] The cheques, bills of exchange, etc. collectively payable by a bank, and received through the Clearing-house for settlement, also attrib as in in clearing book (short in n book the entry book of these claims. Hence I n-clearer, the representative of a bank in the Clearing-house, who receives the in clearing, also called In-clerk 1827 THOMSON Int. on banking (1830) II 443 The drafts which are drawn upon the house, and which have come in from the clearing, are called the clearing in] 1872 L. SEYD Lond. Banking 48 The Banker receives [clothes of Cheques all drawn upon his Bank he must enter them to his debit, into his in or paid clearing book 1878 J. STAR Money & Mark. Banking (ed 4) 47 Messengers walking round the desks receiving [the parcels] of in clearing or as they are called in New York, the Debit Exchanges 1882 Bankers' Magaz. Handbook 1 Member II 325 The Inclearing Book of each clerk ought to agree with the portions relating to him of the Out Clearing Books of the other banks 1884 Bankers Magaz. 1 Clearing System 1 93 The in-clerks also at his post and finds so much into several charges which he enters on, as a continuation of the same work. Ibid. 1 Between half past three and four the in-clerkers with lightning like rapidity run the items in their in books and cast them up of the camp. 1884 H. H. WILLIAMS Brit. India II 382 His march was delayed by the inclemency of the weather transf. 1864 HOWITT Land, Life, etc. (1868) 93 Providence tempering the inclemency of the domestic situation, of them God mixes

b With pl. A particular instance of this 1699 GARTH Dispens. 9 Deep sunk in Down, they Avoid th' inclemencies of Morning Air 1748 Anson's Voy. II xiv 288 Not fit to struggle with the inclemencies of a cold climate. 1749 SMOLLETT Reynard xvi Whilst rest secure from all the inclemencies of stormy life. 1862 Times's Peck Times XVI (1878 806 His grave him clothing, wasted the varying inclemencies of the season

†2 Want of clemency or kindliness of disposition, pitilessness, unmercifulness Obs
1598 FLORIO, Inclemenza, rigorousnes mercilessnesse, inclemencie 1610 BP CARLETON Jurisd. 221 After his death Inclement vsed all indecently against me, setting up another King 1614 B. HALL Recall. Treat., Emperour of Ind. 162 The inclemencie of the late Pope laboring to forestall him in his just throne 1658 Phillips, In Remon., rigour, sharp ness, a being without pitty or compassion

Inclement (inkle mĕnt), a [ad I inclement-em, f. IN- 2 + clement- CLEMENT, cf. I inclement (1564 in Hatz.-Darm.)] Not clement
1 Of climate or weather Not mild or temperate to extremes, severe Usually applied to cold or stormy weather, rarely of severe heat or drought 1667 MILTON P. L. X 1065 To shun The inclement Seasons Rain Ice Hail and Snow 1701 J. PHILIPS Splendid Shilling 94 When in inclement air Pyrmont try to repel Inclement pangs fronts 1742 YOUNG Nt. Th. II 80 In this inclement clime of human life. 1760 I. WATTS Lyric Poems 157 Inclement drought the hardening soil would chain 1853 J. H. NEWMAN Hist. Sk. (1856) II 1 8 The North does but hold out to them a climate more inclement than their own transf. 1857 Good Words 11 It is not because the country to which they have been driven is ugly or inclement —it may or may not be such

†2 Not merciful or kindly, pitiless, harsh severe, cruel Obs 1627 MEDE Comment Rev Ep v 330 Pope Clement the fift, was inclement and cruell 1725 POPE Odyss. XIV 288 O thou, who ert'd, whom first inclement fate Made welcome to my hospitable gate!
transf. 1861 L. L. NOBLE Icebergs 149 We have been tossing nearly all day upon a rough, inclement ocean

Hence Incle mently adv., pitilessly, Incle mentness (Bailey vol II, 1727)

1789 JAS WHITE Earl Strongbow II 167 By adhering in clemently to her recent resolution

†Incleme ntal, a Obs rare-1 [f prec + -AL 1] = INCLEMENT 1 1709 First Apollo II No 18 3 To be lodg'd safe from Inclemental Air

†Inclen sion. Obs rare [repr L. inclinationem INCLINATION cf DECLENSION] The action of inclining 1751 Scots Magazine 1 Making, with some Confusion, an Inclension of the Head Ibid I 68 By a small Inclension of her Head

†Incle pe, v Obs [f IN-1 + CLEPE v., after L. inventare] which it is used to translate] trans To invoke call upon 1382 WYCLIF Rom X 13 Forsoth each man who euere shal inclepe the name of the Lord shal be saaf How thanne shulen thei inclepe hym, in whom thei han not bileuede

Cor I 2 Forsothe I inclepe God witnesse in to my soule 1400 Prymer in Maskell Mon Rit (1846-7) II 196 [Ps cxvi 4] God heere thou us in the dai that we shulen inclepe thee

In clerk SEE IN-CLERKING

Inclinable (inklī năbl) a Also 6-8 en- [f. inclinable, Romance f. inclinare in 14th c. inclinari, ad L. inclinare SEE INCLINE and -ABLE] 1 Having a tendency or inclination or leaning in some direction, inclined, disposed †a to something Obs (Common from early 16th to late 18th c.) 1494 FABYAN Chron. VII 244 When I sawe hartes of thies bydynge, he was more inclynable vnto peace 1525 Pilg. Perf. (W de W 1531) 27 b So meke & enclynable to the instructions and monycyons of the holy goost 1561 T. NORTON Calvin's Inst. I 76 The Jewes were inclinable to make images, because they were enclinable [of 1634 an inclinde] to superstition 1587-77 FULBECKE Acad. Arts III 30 This King [Philip II of Spain], and inclinable to many 1602 DYMMOCK Brief Rel. (1807) 162 The Algarines as very inclinable to peace with us 1706 tr. Dupin's Eccl. Hist. 18th C. I 3 In the opinion of the Calvinists, to which he had been inclinable in his younger years 1779 J. MOORE View Soc. Fr. II xxix 414 Sensibility renders the heart averse to cruelty, and inclinable to devotion

b to do something 1500 Three Kings Sons 197 [They] founde the kynge en clyned enough to entre to these mattes 1546 CRANMER Defence (1579) 418 God inclyned him thereunto, & without haste made man inclineable to full 1647 Letter Lond. Ch. Lives 1 (1840) 86 A multitude is not so inclinable to save, as to destroy 1704 Lond. Gaz. No 4060/2 such Persons as are inclinable to famish Rome 1705 Lo NEWCASTLE (1862) III 283 This country is very low spirited as to continental politics, and very inclinable to leave the Continent to go to the divil in its own way 1882 FARR Elem. Popular Economy 82 His brother was in clinable to keep him but his mistress thought otherwise

c with other constructions or absol. Obs.
1583 STUBBES Anatomy Abuses (1879) 100 It is not for that God is inclinable, or for that he is sembleth vs to be that like is mooued thereto 1600 HOOKER (J.) A probable opinion that diuine authority was the same way inclinable 1654 Select Cases Conf. 100 Too inclinable for factions 1702 J. LOCKE in Pa. Hist. Soc. Mem. IX 95 [His] mind inclinable that it should hold his hand 1737 Col. Rec. Pennsyl. IV 203 The Government of Pennsylvania has not appeared to me so inclinable for a good understanding and Harmony

2 Favourably disposed, willing to accede, assent, or submit to, propitious, favourable, amenable, inclined to favour or side with some person or party 1449 PECOCK Repr. II xxiii 269 O God make the Patroun be to us meekly inclinable CRESS HARLSTON Prompt. Pia. MED 1440 (1908) 89 In case they must not [be] inclined prompte and inclinable to their desires is they looked for 1632 H. GRIMSTON Eclipsis Patriæ 25 The Rhodians did then seeme to be more inclinable to the King 1652 WAY in J. P. ROBERTSON Ess. 78 They may have our minds easie and inclinable 1709 HEARNE Collect. (O. H. S.) II 80 He was recommended by Mr. J. Clarendon to ask some inclinable to him 1759 W. HASTINGS in Beveridge, Hist. India (1892) II 218 An argument that the tribunals inclinable, as the Fouzdars 1886 Fortn. Rev. XLVI 806 Inclinable to [of 1196 I am myself rather inclinable to them (Hittites)] as far as one can be inclinable to any non Aryan creatures.

3 Having an inclination or tendency to some physical quality, character, condition or action 1607 NORDEN Surv. Dial. 211 You see this country inclinable to wood and timber much 1616 SURFL. & MARKH. Country Farme 44 The sea is inclinable vnto it 1665 In clinable and readie to corrupt 1683 Lond. Gaz. No 1875/8 His Port inclinable to Red 1684 tr. Bonnet's Merc. Compit I 228 We are ofttimes inclinable to Hay 1789 G. KEATE Ichn. Isl. 264 Of a middling stature rather inclinable to be upright 1805 Eng. Verses 20 On Nicolas Disp. Nelson (1840) VII 118 Light airs inclinable to calm

4 Capable of being inclined or sloped 1766 Phil. Trans. LVI 2 The telescope was inclinable on all sides, so that it was easy to place it according to the motion of the sun

†Incli nableness Obs [f prec + -NESS] The quality or character of being 'inclinable', inclination, readiness willingness a 1617 HILTON Hist. (1650-20) II 436 An inclinableness of will to doe him any service a 1656 HALES Gold. Rem. (1688) 72 A general Inclinableness to Merciful Proceedings. 1718 HICKES & NELSON Two Treatises II ii 34 141 One of the main Objections was their Inclinableness to Popery 1725 COTTON Serv. Dut. 201 An Inclinableness to this Passion argues Weakness in us

†Incli nably, adv Obs rare [f as prec + -LY 2] With an inclination or disposition (in quot., to some particular opinion or belief)
a 1645 BP MOUNTAGU Acts & Mon (1642) 142 He is not resolved where but most inclinably, upon the taking in of Jerusalem by Co Pompeius.

† Inclina bo, Obs [A humorous application of I inclinabo I shall bow or incline] A bow 1640 R. BAILIE Canterb. Self-conuict 52 A number of low cringes towards these elements a low inclinabo before the brend, when they set it downe

†Incli nary, a Obs rare [f INCLINE v. + -ARY] Belonging to inclination or disposition 1668 LEITHAW Basilica II D] xxxvii 114 For worth in many men, we are more beholding to the defects of Nature, then their owne inclinary Love

†I nclinate, a Obs rare [ad I inclinat-us inclined, pa pple of inclinare to INCLINE] In clined, sloping, oblique 1577 DIGGES Pantom III ii Q3b Whether the Pyramis be direct or inclinate

† I nclinated, ppl a Obs rare [f as prec + -ED 1] = prec.
1757 PLENIS in Phil Trans L 66 The style is filform, of the length of the stamins and inclinated

Inclination (inklinē·ʃən) Also 5 en- [ad F. inclination (Oresme, 14th c.), ad L. inclinationem, n of action from inclinare to INCLINE]
I 1 The action, or an act, of inclining or bending towards something spec. a. A bending forward of the body or head in token of reverence or courtesy, a bow (In quot 1659, a bending)
Prayer of inclination, name for various prayers in the liturgies of the Eastern Church, esp that between the Lord's Prayer and the Communion also called the prayer of humble access 1483 CAXTON Gold. Leg. 445 b/1 There he maketh a depe enclynacion 1548 Pilg. Perf. (W de W 1531) 83 b, With semelyenes and kneliynges, inclinacyons, prostracyons, or other reuerence 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 300 With eight inclinations and foure prayings 1659 PEARSON Creed Art VI 8, To sit, doth not [here] signify any peculiar inclination or flexion any determinate location or position of the body. 1722 ATTERBURY Serm. No 5 I 74 To furnish them with Bows and Inclinations of all Sizes, Measures, and Proportions. 1850 Instr. Arc (Ridg.) 422 Having made him a courteous inclination of the head, he proceeded on her route 1865 DICKENS Mut. Fr. I viii, With a languid inclination of its head

b In sloping or tilting of a vessel in order to pour out the liquor from it without stirring up the sediment, decantation Obs 1641 JER. SMITH Drexill. I (1671) 9 Decantation, is the pour ing off of any liquor which hath a setting, by inclination 1694 NEWTON Lett. to Pepys in (1713) 1575 Separate the clear from the Lees by Inclination 1758 REID tr. Macquer's Chym. I 109 The separation of the liquor by inclination, and wash the precipitate with fair water

† 2 fig = DECLINATION 5, DECLINE sb 1 rare
1565 HARDING in Jewel Def Apol (1611) 370 Any other stocke, that yet in time, since the inclination of the Romish Empire

3 The fact or condition of being inclined, deviation from the normal vertical or horizontal position or direction, leaning or slanting position, slope, slant 1530 PALSGR 214/1 Inclynation, inclinement 1590 SPENSER F. Q. III xi 44 There was a pleasaunt Arber, not by art But of the trees owne inclination made 1664 POWER Exp. Philos. III 167 The Angles of Inclination and Reflexion will remain the same 1796 H. HUNTER tr. St. Pierre's Stud Nat (1799) II 124 In this inclination undergoes some varieties in certain mountain trees 1799 KIRWAN Geol. Ess. 335 A connexion between the inclination of the slip, and the elevation or depression of the strata 1864 SMILES Engineers III 175 The inclination of the gradients being towards the sea

b The amount of slope or deviation from the horizontal position 1799 J. ROBERTSON Agric. Perth 404 The drain has an inclination of one foot in 100 yards 1851 GREENWELL Coal trade. Farms Northumb & Durh. 2 An underground self acting plane should not have a less inclination than 42 inch to the yard 1878 LEA Things Old & New 2 When a river approaches the sea, the inclination of its basin usually diminishes

c Dialling The amount by which the plane of an inclining dial (see INCLINE v. 9 b) deviates from the vertical 1593 FALE Dialling 4 If the angle which the plat maketh with the horizon be greater or lesse then a right line, then the quantity of inclination is thus known 1727-41 CHAMBERS Cycl., Inclination of a Plane, in dialing, is the arch of a vertical circle, perpendicular both to the plane and the horizon, and interc epted between them

d The dip of the magnetic needle see DIP sb 4 Hence attrib in inclination-chart, -compass (= dipping-compass), equator, pole 1698 ROBERT Decam 101 For the same Needle placed in a Plain perpendicular to the Horizon, hath another Motion called the Inclination 1839 G. BIRD Nat Phil 151 The dip or inclination of the needle attrib 1870 R. M. FERGUSON Electr 44 The first inclination chart was published by Wilke 1870 R. A. PROCTOR in Eng. Mech 24 Jan 444/2 As we leave either inclination pole, the dipping needle leaves its vertical position, and gradually approaches the horizontal until, along a curve lying midway between the two poles, the needle becomes exactly horizontal. This curve is called the magnetic inclination-equator

e. An inclined surface, an incline. rare.

1841 Penny Cycl XIX 250/2 s.v. Kaolinite, If any inclination occur so steep that the ordinary power cannot ascend it by a reduction of speed Mod, On inclinations of much greater steepness

4 gen (chiefly in Geom.) The direction of a line, surface, or body, with respect to another line, surface, or body which has a different direction; the difference of direction of two lines, etc. regarded as 'leaning' or tending towards each other; usually, the amount of such difference measured by the angle which they make with each other (or would make if produced), called the angle of inclination. In Astron sometimes spec the position of the plane of a planet's orbit in relation to that of the ecliptic, measured by the angle between them

1570 Billingsley Euclid xi def iii 313 Inclination or leaning of a right line, to a plane superficies, is an equall distance 1656 tr Hobbes Elem Philos Wks 1839 I 198 An angle, which is made by two planes, is commonly called the inclination of those planes 1704 Newton Optics I 3/1 The two rays, being equally refracted, have the same inclination to one another after refraction which they had before, that is, the inclination of half a degree answering to the whole diameter 1714 Durham Astro-Theol II IV 188 The other lying in the broad path of the zodiack at an inclination of twenty three and a half degrees 1760 tr Foster's Hora Lyr (ed 3) I 368 A course of above 200 leagues in a direct line from S to W with some, though insensible, inclinations to the S 1812 Sir J. Sinclair's Observations V 538 The inclination of Mercury's orbit, to the plane of the ecliptic, is almost 7° 1880 Gwilt Phys. Geog. 13 As the alteration of the seasons depends upon the inclination of the earth's axis in its yearly orbit

b Loosely used for the deviation of a line from the perpendicular to a given plane

1854 Berwick's More Words o' Ye Needles 66 The small inclination of Jupiter's axis to the plane of its orbit, which is only about three degrees 1868 Lockyer Guillemin's Heavens (ed 3) 31 The Sun's axis of rotation is but slightly inclined to the ideal plane in which our Earth moves round the Sun If this inclination were nil [etc.]

II 5 The action of inclining, bending, or directing the mind to something ? Obs

1509 Hawes Past Pleas xxxiv (Percy Soc) 110 What the comyn wytte hath the thinge elcste, It wereth by ill due inclynacion For to have the mater to the hole effect 1529 More Dyalogue I xxiv 45 b/1 That he should lede them by secrete inspiracyon and inclynacion of their hartes to all trouth 1603 Florio tr Montaigne's Essays (ed 3) III 74 Thus presuming your Grace will yeeld favourable inclination to this my dutifull and lowly petition

6 The condition of being mentally inclined or disposed to something, or an instance of such condition, a tendency or bent of the mind, will, or desires towards a particular object, disposition, propensity, leaning a absol

1430 Lydg Min Poems (1840) 97 His body and his inclynacions, Dayly, his lyf, to ouercome wyssheth thyng 1490 Caxton How to Die 16 That he exaltte his euyll inclynacyon 1540 Barnes Wks (1573) 253/1 Thou art both in inuentions of nature, implanted of God 1607 Marlow Ed I II 524 Each his several way Pursues, as inclination or sad chance Leads him perplext 1704 S. Locan in La Hire's Sun Dial IV 158 Their seems to be a reason, why the inhabitants, in the main, much better inclinations 1767 Junius Lett xii 59 It was taken from him, much against his inclination 1869 Macaulay Hist Eng V 139 Clarendon's inclinations were very different but he was from temper, interest, and principle, an obsequious courtier 1897 Westminster Gazette Inclination does not suffice to justify silence

b Const to, for (†of, after, toward, something to do something

1398 Trevisa Barth De P. R viii 1 (1495) 295 The more inclynacyon and appetyte it hath to spyrytuall fourme and shappe 1533 More Debell Salem Wks 982/1 From the inclination toward 1913 Hale Chron. Hist II 228 A certayn naturall inclination to make warre in Fraunce 1553 Brende Q Curtius v 86 b Alexander had in him more enclination of his in them of prudence 1597 Hieronymo Virtues 5 Enough to draw off all our Inclinations after this World 1712 Steele Spect No 564 P 3, I have an Inclination to print the following Letters 1845 St Pattison Ess (1889) I 18 The Trunk warrens showed an inclination of even rising at once the sentence 1859 Mrs Carlyle Lett III 17, I haven't time nor inclination for much letter writing

c Liking, affection

1647 Cowley Mistr., Wit Dull m, If you an Inclination have for me 1711 Steele Spect No 53 P 1 Daphne, despairing of any Inclination towards her Person, has depended only on her Merit 1874 Morley Farmerdell I II 112 I love you with affection and inclination 1882 Nippon Sects New Test Wks (1884) 105 I conceived that any inclination between a man and a woman would rather delay the step

7 d General or permanent mental tendency, natural disposition, nature, character Obs

c1386 Chaucer Wife's Prol 615, I obeied in my inclinacion By vertu of my constellacion 1508 Dunbar Poems xii 34 He of naturall inclinacione Doth favourite the 1577 tr Bullinger's Decades (1590) 038 He hath given to all creatures a certaine inclination and nature, which he hath made their owne 1606 Shirley Sir 4 C III 1, 113 But his Report the feature of Octauia's her yeares, Her inclination, let him not liaue out The colour of her haire 1713 Duhamel Phys. Theol V I (1754) 270 There is the same Reason for the Variety of Genii, or Inclinations of Men

7 A tendency, disposition, or propensity to some physical condition or quality, formerly, the general character or nature (of a thing); now only as fig from 6 (with const as in b).

1593 Shakes. Rich II, III iii 138 Men iudge by the complexion of the Skie The state and inclination of the day 1616 [see Inclined A] 1653 Holcroft Procopius, Goth War I 29 The whole inclination of the War depending, on him 1704 Addison Italy 3, Though most of the thick woods are grubbed up since the promontory has been cultivated, there are still many spots of it which shew the natural inclination of the soil leans that way 1809 Il archæologia V Draper 1 June 283 When he held yarn or cloth in such a manner that it could not shrink, and then immersed it in caustic soda; subsequently washing the caustic soda out again, the yarn no longer had any inclination to shrink

8 Geol An actual or predicted position to which one is inclined c (with reference to an imaginary plane

1596 Phys. Perf (W de W 1931) 2 b, Her naturall inclynacyon is to be abode in the open skye 1734 tr Rollin's Anct (1827) II 111 219 Traffic was then predominant in this inclination 1760 tr Duhamel's Husbandry (ed 3) II 348 The usual inclination of the wind in these seas is to follow the sun from E to W, S S W and N 1796 Morse Amer Geog I 124 Buoying is a very prevalent inclination among them 1885 F. Jewett Acad Addr King's Sc 11 37 We do what is our custom, our inclination, our charter leads us

9 b A person for whom one has a liking; a favourite Also in pl in same sense) Obs

1561 Hemyng Nam 1672 9 m, This was the Character of Monsieur Bois 34, who was a great Inclination of mine 1712 Athen Oracle II 81 In all the three brothers Jack had, of late, been her inclination

III 9 Gr and Lat Gram The throwing of the accent of an enclitic upon the last syllable of the word to which it is attached accentuatio 1842 Liddell & Scott (1850) I 61 The inclination of the accent is naturally subject to the general laws of accentuation

Inclina'tional, a rare [f prec + -al] a Relating to slope or inclination to the horizon b Of or pertaining to mental inclination or disposition

1821 W Taylor in Monthly Mag III 396 As he persisted in the same inclinational stage it was deemed wise to patronize his inclinational th in his profession if exertions 1879 Isidore & Lee Nat Phil I 62 There are two freedoms, one inclinational, the other rectilinear, the first neutral, the other unstable, when they tend to rotating

Inclinatorium (inklinătōˑrĭŏm) [mod L. of med L inclinatorium a couch; see next] The inclination-compass, or dipping-needle

1849 Miss Ottè, etc tr Humboldt's Cosmos I 137, note, Hardly twenty years after Robert Norman had invented the inclinatorium

Inclinatory (inklai·nătəri), a ? Obs [f I inclinat- (ppl stem of inclināre to Incline) + -ory, as if adl L inclinātōrius*] Relating to or characterized by inclination or 'dip' see Inclination 3 d? Inclinatory needle = Dipping needle

1623 H. Rhodes Sign Bodies Pref 1 To have the Inclinatory needle truly placed in mine 1628 Sir Webster Geog Del II 10 (1635) 46 The Magneticall Inclinatory needle in every declination of the Pole is disposed to the Axell of the Earth 1789 Bewick Quadrupeds (ed 2) Wks 1774 I 143 In some men's hands it will not at all succeed, some hidden property in him that uses the following wand being, (they say,) so overpowered either by an inclinatory virtue 1779 Phil Trans LX 396 He got an inclinatory touch constructed at Basle 1844 Loudon's Mag Nat Hist VIII 592 The inclinatory and equilibrator of the magnet, and its directive and inclinatory faculties

Hence Inclinatorily adv

1796 Morse Amer Geog I 11 60 Whether they be refrigerated inclinatorily or somewhat equinoxially that is tow and the Easterne or Westerne points That no one needle, but all points alike, or nearly so, will turn the needle the lower end thereof will attract the contra or southerne point

Incline (inklai·n, rarely inˑlŏin), sb [f the vb] 1 Inclination, slope 2 a 6 enclyne, 4–8 encline, b 5, 6 inolyne, 6 incleine, 6–inclne [Ultimately from I inclinare to bend inwards or towards, I in- (In- 2) + clinare to bend The MS form, a Oil enclinet, was enclim usual before 1500, and still found after 1600, inclim, after liter I inclinar (Orosius, 14th c.), is rare before 1600, the early examples being chiefly Scottish] a Bend in the head, direction of some object or point expressed or implied hence generally constrained with to, toward, and the like

1 Transitive uses

1 To bend or bow (the head, the body, oneself) towards a person or thing, and hence forward or downward

a c 1305 Horn Childh 1539 In I E I 1187–70 Pe bodis arwe vp alone And enclyneth line to be hefte wende c 1400 Maundev (Roxb) xxv 115 His mun enclynez his hand toward pe c 1483 Caxton Cato A iv, That thou oughtest to enclyne and bowe thy knee 1631 Weever Ane Fun Mon 137 Kneeling close to the Sepulcher, enclyning his head into the same

b c 1450 Merlin (1865) 1001 Pou shalt pe alle knees Inclines pem I-schine Wo I enclynes pam to pis son 1508 Dunbar Poems xii 34 He of naturall inclinacione Doth favourite the 1577 tr Bullinger's Decades (1590) 038 He hath given to all creatures a certaine inclination and nature, which he hath made their owne 1606 Shirley Sir 4 C III 1, 113 But his Report the feature of Octauia's her yeares, Her inclination, let him not la

8 1470 Harry Wallace v. 1001 Baith hycht and wauld obeyed all till his will ‖ The hychoppys inclynyt till his crowne 1500–20 Dunbar Poems x. 28 All clergy do to him inclyne And bow vnto that horne lowyne 1612 Tuke Tr. xl. 3, I waited patiently for the Lord and he inclined vnto me 1866 Scotland 4 Nov. 4/6 A favourite ... is generally of that pliant temperament which never gives offence because it ever inclines before it

8 To turn in mind feeling, or action, in a given direction, to apply oneself to, to favour, take sides, or show practical sympathy with a person party or cause (Now mostly with mixture of sense 9)

c 1300 Cursor M. 23256 Pan gane we [= we then] ... Wit kind and werck, hert and will ... To be wit hert inclune 1375 Sc. Legends, Silvanus 161 He left his kyn ... to inclyne vnto him 1535 Coverdale Lives 2b All they y^t enjoyned vnto him were scared throde 1548 Hall Chron. Hen. VIII 1 b To iudge to whiche parte he should most incline, and geue credence 1500–20 Dunbar Tua Mariit 17 Sa fair full and fresche in hew ... That I cuppill yit ane vncouth Debonnar 1530 Palsgr. 547 I incline, I applye my mynde to the thynge 1580 Lindsay's Tacitus Hist. Lord to the tendre ... to take, that we grow ... to decline from vice and incline to virtue 1646 Buchanan Sacra Hist. Queen's Pr. Panel 109 Only the Great Chancellor and the Master Hall remained for the Pope 1665 Evelyn Contin. Corr. II. 1894 133 The very Common People would not hearken to or incline to any Thoughts of Peace 1770 Transl. Tacitus xxxvi 175 Your best friends are ready to do that which they shall incline 1879 M. Arnold St. Irish Catholic's Last Life 99 For England to incline one way as a sufficient reason for inclining to another

9 To have a mental leaning for or favourable inclination towards something to be disposed or inclined see INCLINED 3) Const to (toward for) something, to do something

c 1340 [see INCLINING ppl. a.] 1375 Barbour Bruce i. 232 Edin MS] The constellation That kyndlis mare in ws fra tham fall, For to inclyne to gud or ill 1450 to Imitatione iii. 138 Nature enclinede to ... resistance to her wille 1548 Hall Chron. Hen. VIII 149 Which caused hym to enclyne to marriage 1611 Bible Jos. xxiv. 23 Their hearts inclined to follow Aluneleeh for they were ... his brother 1703 Wotton Tr. Duty Chr. (1718) 1 Gr. Comm. (1711) 6 I rather enclyne to the contrary Opinion 1722 De Foe Hist. Plague 241 I enclined to stay, and take my Lot in the Station in which God had plac'd me 1771 Ogilvie Hist. Eng. II. 1 It was not without just reasons that Marlborough inclined ... 1830 to Burke Nat. Taste 291 The second thing, to which wicked philosophers of the present day generally incline 1847 Crabb Engl. Synon. 1 xiv 1 To incline to believe [etc.]

b elliptically To be inclined or disposed to ... do, have, etc., to desire

1746 Tuke Heywood Instr. Sp. 114 If ... What they incline, they have not the power to inforce 1777 Watson Philip II (1793) III. 237 Leaves them to whatever place they should incline 1795 Mackenzie Lett. Pitt 1 109 The unexamined do not think good they incline but the evil which they do not incline 1836 Emmett in Brit. Trial Smith 43 I had not that influence of my state which I inclined

10 To have or take a direction or position which leans in a given direction from the vertical or horizontal, to slope, slant, bend downwards Const to, towards

1568 Grafton Chron. II 123 The Frenche bould standeth vpright inclining to neither parte 1673 Ray Journ. Low C. Pref. 6 The Compiler of Steeple ... was very much enclining, or seeming to enclin or lean to one side, that one would think it could not long stand vpon it 1756–7 tr. Keysler's Trav. (1760) II 164 The head to have a commendable 1856 Ronalds & Richardson (Chem. Technol. ed. 2) I. 81 The sides of the former covered in the centre and inclining towards the sides 1857 W. Smith (title) Child's Grammar 23 They are found to incline more or less directly to the mode or the modes of the ... to which they are

b Shipbuilding Said of a rib, the plane of which leans forwards from the well, against which it is placed opposed to reclin.

1593 Fale Bulwarke 4 If the angle which the plat maketh with the horizon be acute or sharp then it doth incline 1703 Moxon Mech. Exer. 321 It is not upright but in Inclination 3 Inclines

11 gen To have or take a course or position turning away in the direction of some point, region, etc., hence generally, to have an oblique position or direction, so as to make angles with something else

1553 Eden Treat. New Ind. (Arb.) 39 Melchiors straite more toward the West and Calt at more enclining toward the south 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 431 A course directly East, or inclining to the South 1823 H. J. Brooke Intr. of Cryst. 10 The marginal angles at which the primary planes incline to each other at the edges 1838 Carlyle Mirabeau I. 1 If they incline from each other they will bulge inwards if toward each other, they will bulge outwards

b Mil. To move in a direction at angles with the front of the formation so as to gain ground to the flank while advancing

1796 Instr. & Reg. Cavalry (1813) 19 At the order to Incline ... each man inclines a little face on his horse, before fact and the whole will look to the hand to which they are to incline 1847 Infantry Man (1854) 47 The march of heavy body except in case of marching ... is to be in lines perpendicular to the front 1853 Napoleon Mil. Pensées, Italian, to gain ground to the flank, as well as to the front

12 fig. a To turn or go aside in a given direction, to have a tendency, tend (to), in quot 1615, to have relation, refer (to)

1599 Hawes Past. Pleas. xxxii (Percy Soc.) 163 My name is Falshed, I shall cause enelyne My neyghbours goods for to make them myne 1598 Grafton Chron. Hen. VIII 52 We intend so to proceade in this matter neither enclyning on the right hande, neyther yet on the left 1611 Bible Prov. iv. 15 Her house inclineth vnto death and her paths vnto the dead 1615 Chapman Odyss. 145 Inducing matter that inclined To wise and lysses 1788 Lindsay Dr. J. II. 318 Though Dr. Johnson may incline to the side of the allies 1884 Contemp. in Jan. Rev. 2 Q. Bench Div. 3 The weight of authority inclines upon the whole in favour of the defendant

b To tend towards some quality or condition, to have some attribute in an incipient degree Const to with noun or adj., or inf

1589 Cogan Haven Health (1636) 242 Beere or ale ... made of wholesome malt which doth not incline to heat or cholar not 1599 Hollyb. Dyets dry Dumps Pugh, Tobacco ... of a tawny colour, somwhat inclining to red 1611 Daniel Hist. III. 52 [He would] seem more inclined to mildnesse (than inclining to the wet extreme) 1749 Fielding Tom Jones iii Sophia ... was a middle sized woman, but rather inclining to tall 1797 Bewick Brit. Birds (1847) I. 7 The top of the head dark brown, inclining to black 1835 Marryat Jac. Faithful vi. He was stout and well built man, inclining to corpulency

c To tend to fall off, decay, wane, ⁊ Decline 2 to 1618 [see INCLINING vbl. sb.] ppl. a. 13

Incline (inklain, inklain), sb [f. the vb.]

1 Local tendency, disposition INCLINATION 6 Obs.

1600 W. Watson Decacordon (1602) 140 All like neare to God by creation by redemption, by nature inclination ... 1611 Bible Isa. xxxiii. 22 The Lord is our ... King for Maiestie and honourable Counsell to maintein our generall affection Tend. 73 A sweete incline to mercy

2 An inclined plane or surface, a slope, declivity (esp. on railways) (Cf. GRADIENT)

1846 Penny Cycl. Suppl. II. 66 / 2 So far that the train would be unable to ascend an incline of 16 feet per mile 1881 Rep. Railway Accidents 14 Down an incline of 1 in 75 1887 Fowler Demon. etc. 20 A railway train running down an incline

b Running More fully incline shaft A shaft or opening in a mine having considerable inclination or slope, distinguished from a vertical shaft and from a level

1867 Raymond Statist. Mines & Mining, 44 The incline shaft is down 800 feet ... The 600 and 700 foot levels are now reached by the incline shaft 1868 Rep. Inspectors Mines 58 Incline ... Shaft 1887 Jevons Coal Question (1906) 318 The ... central incline shaft from the old shaft

Inclined (inklai·nd) ppl. a. Also 4–6 en- [f. INCLINE v. + -ED1.]

1 Having a direction leaning or falling away from the vertical or horizontal, sloping slanting

Inclined plane, a material plane surface inclined at an acute angle to the horizon, constituting one of the mechanical powers

1541 R. Copland Guydons Quest Chirurg. ... from the neather ende to the brest inclined a lyttell towards the left side, to kepe place to the liuer 1710 J. Clarke Ichnaeus Nat. Hist. 91 By the Force and the Weight with their compact and another impress'd Inclined Plane 1818–26 J. Smith Panorama Sc. & Art I. 216 The inclined plane is any flat surface which forms an angle less than a right angle with the horizon, as the horizontal plane 1847 Pract. Planing viii. 41 Planing the plate slowly round in a somewhat inclined direction 1853 Tate Prim. Conv. 134 Now the inclined and horizontal layers of sand 1867 Mary Somerville Early Chr. Orient Intel. 1 The ancient features of the horizontal lintel and inclined sides are preserved in the doorways

b gen Having a direction making an angle with something else, (const to, of INCLINATION 3) 1823 Bagwell Introd Geol (1825) 51 The sides of mountains are ... inclined to the horizon 1850 Tate Alex. Geom. 19 The sides of the triangle will be inclined to MN at the same angles as those at which they are inclined to its parallel AB

2 Having a physical tendency to something, or to do something; = DISPOSED 2

c 1384 Chaucer H. Fame iii. 241 Every Ryver to the See Enclyned is by kynde 1726 Leoni tr. Alberti's Arch. I. 61 The Water are naturally inclined to follow the Sun

3 Having a mental leaning, or disposition towards a particular object, favourable disposed in the mood or mind for something = DISPOSED 4 a Following its sb Const to or for something, to do something, also with adverb or adverbial phrase as dishonestly inclined, that way inclined

1390 Gower Conf. III. 173 Inclined to virtue or to vice 1413 Pilgr. Lyfe Manhode 148 It was ... redy and inclined to conuenyle 1548 Hall Chron., Hen. VIII 58 The King ... was enclyned to mercy, sent them apoynte 1566 tr. Calvin on Deut. 137 Being, besides, indiscriminately inclined 1603 Shaks. Meas. for M. III. iii. 130 He was not inclined that way 1652 Hobbes Leviath. I. viii. 38 A mans spirit, enclined to foolishness 1703 De Foe Jure Divino 118 Keep Holy Mens Comm Engin 19 As if you had been inclined to have compassion 1754 Mcehey Essays Jun. Jour. No. 61 P. 1 Could men think as we inclined for Marriage 1875 Jowett Plato (ed. 2) I. 162, I wish Protagoras either to ask or answer as he is inclined Mod. I don't feel much inclined for work

b In attributive construction, usually with preceding adverb, as well inclined

1581 J. Norton Calvin's Inst. 1 His fatherly loue and enclined will to do good 1619 Vise Doncaster in Eng. & Germ (Camden) 201 Inducements herunto strong enough to sway inclined minds 1710 Steele Tatler No. 207 P. 1 A well inclined young Man

4 Having a particular disposition, character or nature Obs rare (Cf INCLINATION 6 d)

1583 Stubbes Anat. Abus. II (1882) 65 He that is borne vnder Cancer shall be crabbed and angrie, his nose be stub nish so inclined 1616 Surfl. & Markh. Country Farme 58 He shall know how euerie moneth in the yeare will be inclined, by obseruing the inclination of the day of the Natiuitie, and of the Festinall dayes following

Incliner (inklai·nəɹ) [f as prec. + -ER1] One who or that which inclines, an inclining dial

1669 W. Sclater Ephemeris (1670) Dijb, Another kind of Apostasie, which we call partiall, is to yeild in time to this prevalent condition 1690 Leybourn Arith. 370 If the Plain pass between the Horizon and the Pole, the North Pole ... and on the Incliner stops not to that, or the South Pole must be elevated 1703 Moxon Mech. Exer. 131 If your Plane be an East Incliner or a West Incliner

Inclining (inklai·nin), vbl. sb Also 4–6 en- [f as prec. + -ING1] The action of the verb IN CLINE, inclination

1 A bending forward or downward, a bowing of the head or body in salutation or worship, a slope, declivity

c 1400 Maundev. (1839) xxii 234 Pei fore ... before the Emperour, with outen speche of ony word, saf only an clynynge to him 1550 in Dunbar's Poems (S. T. S.) Heuin, erd and vnderwerld ... Sall do thy Dutifoulnis to Incliner Hist. Scot. I 30 A plane, field, hauing na inclyning or bowing

†2 fig = Inclination 1 Obs.

1612 T. Taylor Comm. Titus 1 (1619) 103 In the inclining of Solomons proposuite, the first exception the Lord tooke against him was, that he loued many outlandish women

3 Tendency, proposition, bent (physical or mental)

c 1384 Chaucer H. Fame iii. 246 Vnto whiche place euery thyng Through his kyndely enclynyng Hath desyre to come to 1500–20 Dunbar Poems xlvi. 52 To lufe, eik natur garf thame inclyning 1577 B. Googe Heresbach's Husb. iii. 156b b, There is required a more enclining to the one parte. 1748 Richardson Clarissa (1811) III. 235 I'll tell thee my inclinings as I proceed 1895 Daily News 20 June 6 He had many tastes and many inclinings outside the world of politics

b Party, following (cf INCLINE v. 8 Obs. or arch.

1604 Shaks. Oth. I. ii. 82 Hold your hands Both you of my inclining, and the rest 1752 Murphy Gray's Inn Journ. No. 1 P. 7 Mr. Plastic is a complete Shaftesburian Philosopher like all the Gentlemen of that inclining he has a polite Taste for the imitative Arts 1893 McCarthy Dictator I. 14 the flower that had come to be the badge of those of his inclining

Inclining, ppl. a. Also 4–6 en- [f as prec. + -ING2] Cf INCLINANT] That inclines, in various senses

1 Leaning or bending from the vertical or horizontal (or other given direction or position), bending downward or forward, sloping, slanting

Inclining dial see INCLINE 1 sb.

1612 Drayton Poly-olb iv. Notes 149 Such compo ed quiet, enclining, & suffers ... 1698 Fryer Acc. East &c. Found in Hydrol. (1873) 59 A large Pot was found, which lay in an inclining Posture 1703 Moxon Mech. Exerc. 321 Inclining Planes, which lean towards one 1778–Ann. Reg. 70 His mountain is situated in a gently inclining plain 1825 J. Nicholson Operat. Mechanic 218 The pendulum with chains the distent from the to ab, which pass pushes all the distent, by acting on the inclining face of it 1881 Nature 22 Jan., Passing through a romantic gorge, where the inclining ridges met

2 Having a tendency, leaning, or disposition to some particular thing, inclined, disposed, + disposed to comply with or favour a particular person, party, or cause (obs.)

a 1340 Hampole Psalter xxxiv. 1 While he has any affection unclipped of any reuerence 1604 Shaks. Oth. I. iii. 246 For this most easy The inclining Desdemona to subdue In any honest suit 1649 G. Daniel Trinarch., Hen. VI, clxxxvii, The Suggestions Malefick of the Common All his friends 1682 Mrs. Behn City Heiress 37 What Wit, what Art Can save a poor inclining heart 1771 Corbyn Hist. Eng. III. 17, They supposed that he was more inclining to popery

b Of things Tending, approximating

a 1774 Goldsm. Surv. Exp. Philos. (1776) II. 97 The more inclining to violet would be the colour of the body which they composed

Inclinometer (inklinɒ·mĭtəɹ) [irreg f. inclinare + METER] = DECLINOMETER 1

1 An instrument for measuring the vertical intensity of the earth's magnetic force, as shown by the inclination or dip of the magnetic needle

1842 Proc. Amer. Phil. Soc. II. 237 A new inductive inclinometer by Professor Lloyd of Dublin 1851–9 Ohio Sch. Rep. 91 It consists of a dipping needle and graduated circle differing little from the accustomed form of an Inclinometer

2 An instrument for measuring the inclination or slope of anything

1898 Jet Rate 16 July 313/3 A patent inclinometer, designed to register the exact roll or list to port or starboard of a vessel at sea or in harbour

Inclip (inklip), v. arch [f. IN-1 + CLIP *v.*1] trans. To clasp, enclose, embrace

1608 Shaks. Ant. & Cl. II. vii. 74 What ere the Ocean pales or skies inclippes, Is thine if thou wilt hau't 1855

SINGLETON Ingel I 277 The tiny frames of his two sons hath snake, inclipping them, infolds

Incloise, -cloiss, obs var of INCLOSE

Incloister, -cloyster, var of ENCLOISTER v

†In-clos, pple Obs = ENCLOSE, enclosed

c 1338 R BRUNNE Chron Hale (Rolls) 1020 Pe se Breitons bat were in clos & by-seged wib her fon c 1475 [see ENCLOSE]

Inclose (inklōʷz), v Also 6 incloise, cloize Variant form of ENCLOSE, being the legal and statutory form, in reference to the inclosing of common and waste lands, formerly a frequent and still an occasional variant in other senses see ENCLOSE a in general sense

1400, etc [see INCLOSE † 3] 1503 DUNBAR Thistle & Rose 126 A costly cunning Thus cunnly queme did on his head incloise 1596 DALRYMPLE Leslie's Hist Scot II 340 The Reliques of Medeme was Inclos et kepet in the selfe buist 1645 II Ast Incl Act Mar (1892) 40 The Sea upon the East side where the same is inclosed betwixt Ireland and Great Britain 1798 SIBBALD Chron Mirr 208 It is Many of them lyes stil inclose ong unpaved subjects on which they could not have admitted but when in a soft or liquid state 1839 G BIRD Nat Philos 10 The air is inclosed between I and A will ex upe through the valve I 1840 Mrs E HOPLEY Lett v Women I 21, I incluse you a lock of his dear little hair

b in specific sense.

[1558 STAMFORD Prerogatiue of Inglande 17 Hy pike hy vaste precyes as to hym thy inclosyng of pastures for our e nyt land bestes] 1633 G HERBERT Temple, Ch Porch liv, If God had laid all common, certainly Man would have been th inclosed 1712 Act 12 Anne, c 4 § 1 It shall be lawful to inclose any Part of the Wastes o Common Grounds not exceeding Sixty Acres 1744 Jacob Law Dict s v Inclosure, If the Lord of a Manor inclose Part of the Waste of Common, and doth not leave sufficient Room for the Commoners they may break down such Inclosure, or bring Writ of Assize 1756 Act 29 Geo II, c 36 (title) An Act for inclosing, by the mutual Consent of Lords and Tenants, Part of any Common 1812 16] Panopticon 5 Inclose II 594 the general advantages of inclosing land can admit of no question

Inclosed, er, -ing, var ff ENCLOSED, etc, [see INCLOSE † 3 above] 1550 HOLOET, Inclosed, in Insure 1573-80 BARET Alv 1 94 Inclosed shut in 1633 (see b above]

Inclosure (inklōʷ ʒiəɹ, -ʒəɹ) Variant form of ENCLOSURE, being the statutory form in reference to the inclosing of waste lands, commons, etc formerly also in other senses see ENCLOSURE a in general sense

1517 Domesday Inclos (1897) I 248 I mdes enclosd by hedg's ditches, or other Inclousours 1543-4 Act 35 Hen VIII, c 17 If th limitations or inclosures of any of the sde Coppies happen to be broken or pulled downe 1551 Rutic Cl Yard xxxiii 136 b, Whose in one, & whose inclosed in ouches of gold in their mid sees 1552 HULOET Inclosure railed a barton to feede fowles in Inclose 1570 CALFHILL Answ 1566 I mirfull Comin's a forlorn grassing, much for inclosures that make the waies very narrow 1776 J HANSON in Sparks Corr Amer Rev (1853) I 42 Your Journal of the 21st instant with the inclosure, was duly received

b in specific sense

1538 STARKEY Eng Int 138 Hys ys no thyng I ssury for the mayntyng of our husbandry & cyte inclosures of pasturys, wych ys a grete delex of the tyllage of thys reame 1614 BP HALL Recoll Treat 1035 Whence are our depopulations, and inclosures? 1718 Act 12 Anne, c 4 (title) An Act for making Inclosures of some Part of the Common Grounds in the West Riding 1780 BURKE Sp Econ Reform Wks III 272, I propose to have those rights of the Crown valued as in mortal rights are valued on an inclosure 1801 Act 41 Geo III, c 109 (title) An Act for consolidating in one Act certain Provisions usually inserted in Acts of Inclosure 1818 CRUISE Digest (ed 2) II 542 It shall be lawful for the commissioners in inclosure acts 1845 Act 8 & 9 Vict c 118 The Commissioners shall be styled The Inclosure Commission is for England and Wales 1873 Act 36 & 37 Vict c 70 Penalty, Lands allotted under Local Acts of inclosure, for the benefit of the poor

†Inclo surer. [f INCLOSE + -ER] One who 'squats' on an inclosure from a common or waste 1665 Acts Sessions of Man (1830) 137 And so many Cottlers or Inclosurers on some Highway Side are commonly given to pilfering and stealing, and mit ct mers of Vagabonds

†Inclo syer, obs form of INCLOSIER

a 1590 SKELTON Lett Sparrow 366 Our covetous lords With commons and common ingenders With inclosers and extenders

Incloude, -owd, obs forms of ENCLOUD

Includable, variant of INCLUDIBLE

Include (inklūd), v Also 5-6 enclude, 6 includ, 6 pa pple include [ad L includere to shut in, f in- (IN- 2) + claudere to shut] trans

To shut in, enclose, confine, embrace, comprise, contain predicated either of the agent or of the confining or containing limits or space

1 trans To shut or close in, to enclose within material limits, + to shut up, confine (obs) Now only in passive of INCLUDED ppl a c 1440 Pallad on Husb iv 338 The flouryng tre, the trunke in leed Enclude 1432-50 tr Higden (Rolls) VI 169 That he includede a wicked spirite in a pote boylynge Ibid 1 49 Marianus a Scotte and a monke, included at a cyte callede Mangous. 1500-20 Dunbar Poems lxxxv 78 Hospitall reid, the lord of all I hy closet did include. 1564 HAWARD Eutropius 110 The Romaynes which were here [in the capitol] included 1570 BILLINGSLEY Euclid 1 77 That two right lines include not a superficies 1597 DAVIES Pantom iii vii R b, The circles semidiameter that encludeth the greater Hexagonum 1588 FRAUNCE Lawyers Log I xvii 62 b, They hedge in and include the ground c 1590 GREENE Jas IV, II, ii, O, that I were included in my grave 1598 I LEVER Diary 23 July, Went to see Mr Elias Ashmole's library and curiosities He shew'd me a trade included in amber 1750 tr Lavaters Aller Stones 151 It holds air included in it, and swims by the lightness of the air 1784 COWPER Task IV 244 He includes In grains as countless as the sea-side sands, The forms with which he sprinkles all the earth 1799 DAVY in Beddoes Contrib Phys & Med Knowl 158 The globe was inverted horizontally in a vessel, so as to be included between the two glasses 1827 SHELLEY Adonais lii C A spirit allied with seraphim included in this animal frame

b fig (The limits, object, or inclusion being non material)

1550 Crowley's Poems (S T S) 13 She Soureane Sen Jour of all selestiale Quhilk all thing creat, and all thing dous includ 1567 Gude & Godlie B (S T S) 189 Of that feide he sluik se hard be syde And in his belief hes it nane mistir 1606 SHAKS Tr & Cr I iii 109 Then every thing, includes strife en Power, Lower into Will Will into Appetite 1609 DOUCE (Danty) Terence (1874) The illiterate man then enormities shal include th m 1781 CowPER Hannah The soul, thus kindled from above Includes ere-tion in the clos sod not

c To enclose (in an area)

1668 SHIPTON Orig Nucl II § 4 It was after included in its circuit 1856 STANLEY Sinai & Pal xiv 458 459 The question was, whether the wall of Herod actually ran so as just to exclude or just to include the present site

2 To contain, comprise, embrace a To contain as a member of an aggregate, or a constituent part of a whole, to embrace in a sub division or section as a sense, to comprehend

c 1430 LYDG Min Poems (1840) 118 The moralite includithe in many sundry wise, No man shuld For no prerogatif his neighbarghe to dispise 1494 FABYAN Chron I ccxlvii 220 Whiche Including the yle of Wight 1 Hen VIII, c 8 § 13 With Henries de ith, Duch Lincle ande Dispesse are the glories it includes 1659 PEARSON Creed (1839) 37 In the number of his fifty years was both the day of the wive offering and of Pentecost included 1788 LEMUEL Observ Anc Laws (R) I am not affirm whether it [Flanders] only bordered upon or included the lower parts of the vast woods of Ardenne 1797 BURKE Regic Peace Briefs (1802) I 50 It includes the Pay 133 Nutcracker, Chough, Chaffinch &c 1843 MILL Logic I § 3 The proposition, Man is mortal is ectic according, to this view of it, is that the class man is included in the class mortal 1874 GREEN Short Hist iv § 2 167 The Great Council was held to include all tenants who held directly of the Crown

b To contain as a subordinate element coordinary, or secondary feature, to comprise virtually or by inference, to involve, imply

1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1531) 178 In the vertue of fayth is wrytten, that it includeth the fayth of the herte whan fayth is perfyte it includeth them both a 1540 BARNES Works 228 (R) Our mayster Christ sheweth that in fulfilling of the two comm undements that all is taken & included 1588 FRAUNCE Lawyers Log II xvi 62 b, [A proposition] which is contrarie to all reason, and includeth in it selfe a mystery, contradiction 1589 PUTTENHAM Eng Poesie III 8 The loue of such a Lord includes all harme a 1763 SHENSTONE Ess (1765) 144 Every good poet includes a painter in his character 1819 Pantologia s v, A power of appointment which relates to the land includes a right to appoint either absolutely or with a new powers of revocation and limitation 1876 J FISKE Outlines Cosmic Phil I 64 The term God includes all other terms 1883 Encycl Brit XVIII 47 Here is a love that includes friendships is refined besides morality

3 To place in a class or category, to embrace in a general survey or description, to reckon in a calculation, mention in an enumeration, etc

1560 ROTHAM Cat Lenvoy iii 706 But I suppose that wemen are Include For to fulfill the number suspensive 1845 LORD CAMPBELL Lett Lit Men (1960) 232 I would not to include you in a letter to my Lo of Landaff 1854 SIR THOS Lawr Nat I 18 Men of feeble parts are not to be included in this number 1864 MILL Logic I § 3 The enumeration has omitted nothing which ought to have been included 1868 Pall Mall Gaz 1 1 It is necessary to include in the idea [of Labour] all feelings of a disagreeable kind connected with the employment of one's thoughts, or muscles, and, as a particular case, of one's nerves

†4 To bring to a close = CONCLUDE 8 Obs

1592 SHAKS Two Gent v 16 We will include all jarres, With Triumphes, Mirth, and rare solemnity

†5 To infer = CONCLUDE 8 Obs

1534 MORE Treat Passion Wks 1291/2 Wherof he would include that yᵉ king must nedes graunt a licence to such lewd fellows to rayle vpon the m

Include, obs var of INCLUDE

Included (inklūdĕd), ppl a [f prec + -ED¹] Shut in, enclosed, contained, comprised

1552 HULOET Included, inclusus 1562 J NORTON Cal Devices (1914) 166 Included in a Circle 1797 Encycl Brit (ed 3) I 5 The whole work not by secret included force 1667 MILTON P L IV 416 The lonely two of Mankinde, but in them The whole in cluded Race 1727-41 CHAMBERS Cycl s v Capping, After the included air has been well heated 1806 HUTTON Course Math I 275 If two Triangles have two Sides and the Included Angle in the one, equal to two Sides and the Included Angle in the other, the Triangles will be identical or equal in all respects 1874 LYELL Elem Geol xiii 176 The quartzose sand and the included shells are most [of] cohesive colour 1884 TENNYSON Becket I 1 In the included Danaë has escaped again Her tower

b Entom Said of a clypeus or nasus, situated between two projecting portions of the supraclypeus or postnasus

1826 KIRBY & SP Entom I iv 313 Jaw, mach, when the nose is included between the two sides of the Postnasus which run towards the upper lip

c Bot Said of parts esp the style or stamens) which do not protrude beyond the corolla

1847 W L SHEPARD Field bot 129 Lysimachia Stamens inflexed equilling the straight, included style 1880 GRAY Struct Bot (ed 6) 416

†Includ dent, Obs [ad L includent em, prespple of includere to INCLUDE] = INCLUDER b

1670 Combate wherein Clement III was elected Pope 16 Upon this new relation Sforza did animate Sforza and Sion de'to, assuring them that the Includents of Santa Severina were but 24

†Includer Obs [f INCLUDE v + -ER¹] One who or that which includes

1610 GUILLIM Heraldry iii xii (1611) 129 The outmost includer which is the skinne

b rfle One who votes for the admission of a candidate Cf INCLUDER b

1670 G H Hist Condemnation 28 They observ'd a great deal either in the Ballotes or Includers

Includible (inklūdĭbl) a Also able [f INCLUDE v + -IBLE] Capable of being included

1800 D G BRIGHT Fax Americanist 199 The case with much difficulty set out at all, included able in a graphic method 1894 Law Times XCVI 4 July, The existing case of spasm will appear to be fairly included in one of the foregoing cases [The citation from Penthouse in some recent decisions contains the word the or being includible]

Including (inklūdĭng) ppl a [f INCLUDE v + -ING²]

1 That includes, shuts in, encloses or comprises

1670 G H Hist Carolina iii 223 His Head of the including Faction, Ireton, offers the Head of the Excluding Party to cost him no more than the Head of one of the Excludents 1842 MANNING Serm (1848) I xiv 147 God has given him a moral sight to discern the right way to heaven and a the including firm of the same 1896 Daily Chron Apr 18 The including shafts were masked by Ionic or other columns

2 Including pres pple often governs a sb partly substantizing a person or thing included in a group pronouns (or afterwards) mentioned, = Inclusive of

Syntactically it may sometimes be viewed as agreeing, with the word for the group, as 'I met a large party including your brothers', but often it appears to agree with an indefinite pronoun one, etc, as 'I, including [=of me one, you include] servants, the party will number fourteen' In the latter construction we have a kind of active of the passive absolute clause sets mes being included, or it sets ures included'

1853 ROBIN Stones Fen II xi, All the body of English landscapists come into this city's including in set eleven sketches from nature 1864 Daily Tel 17 Dec The premises were in the occupation of several other workmen, including Mr T Tipling

Hence Includ dingly adv, inclusively

c 1449 PECOCK Repr I xi 111 He therin and therbi hidith includingli and closingli al it to be doon

Inclu se, a and sb Obs exc Hist [ad L inclusus, pa pple of includere to shut in Cf obs b inclus anchorite (14th c in Godef) whence the form ENCLUSE, q v]

A adj Shut up as an anchorite

c 1340 HAMPOLE Prose Tr 42 You sall be safe as ane anker inclise c 1440 HYLTON Scala Perf (W de W 1494) 1 xliv

B sb An anchorite

1432-50 tr Higden (Rolls) VII 81 A religious man and pilgreme whiche hade lenesse of an inclise [TREVISA of a mon reclese] that sowles of stedde men were punyched for there synnes in a place of the age to reuele 1808 KINGSLEY Hermits 330 Though these captives the inclose or anker, watched the celebration of mass, and partook of the Holy Communion 1872 H MACMILLAN True Vine 6 Those inclose, or holy men of the time, durin the middle age lived for years in a small cell built up round them beside the wall of a church 1881 E PARIS Ext Hist Holy Eucharist II 180 The Inclose or Recluse was confined within fixed and narrow limits

†Inclu se, v Obs [f INCLUSE a] trans = next prec

At first only in pa pple inclused, † ppres + ED¹]

1 trans To enclose, shut up

1432-50 tr Higden (Rolls) IV 141 This Cuthero did write so subtily, the the battelle of Ivo that he semede as inclusede withynne the schelle of a nutte 1474 CAXTON Chesse II iii 83 b, If he be taken or deed or elles inclused and shutte up al is buy shal and lost 1496 Dives & Paup (W de W) VII xiii 291 Of whom sinners so inclused is seldom heide ony of these defautes 1570 Nativ Iesus Nazaren xii 129 Sech nor Capua quhil 3ou kneth inclusse 3ow 1572 Bk Aspremont Contrac (Camden) I 91 The inclosed monkes of that Diocese 1597 MORYSON Charriet Mar 282 Within my cunfull corpis inclusit, In prescun of my breist

2 To close, shut a house, the eyes, etc In quot into for itself

1500-20 DUNBAR Poems lxxix 46 My ene for paine inclus and sleik

Inclusion (inklūʒən) [ad L inclusion em, n of action f includere see INCLUDE]

1 The action of including in various senses of the vb), the fact or condition of being included, an instance of this

1600 AMY ABBOT Exp Jonah 33 St Austen doth by a secret inclusion compare this mind of man to one who is to passe over a ditch c 1611 CHAPMAN Iliad XII 131

These Greeks. Obtaind a little time to breathe, but found no present vents. To their inclusions 1612 Speed Illustr. Drayton's Poly-olb IV. 145 In this Kingdome the name of Frenchmen hath by inclusion comprehended all kind of Aliens 1648 Sir T. Brooke Facul. Ep. VI. iii. 286 Their Helmcall observation or their inclusion in the lustre of the Sunne 1677 Hale Prim. Orig. Man 49 The inclusion and expansion of any natural mannifest particles of elementary Fire 1837 Jarman Powell's Devises (ed. 3) II. 93 The inclusion of the produce of the fund in the general residuary clause, may be considered as a mere arrangement of language 1851 Mansel Prolog. Logicæ (1860) 45 To illustrate the position of the three terms in Barbara by Euler's, we tends to confuse the mental inclusion of one notion in the sphere of another with the local inclusion of a smaller portion of a space in a larger 1884 Manch. Guardian 24 Jan. 5/1 The question involved in the inclusion of Ireland in the Bill 1892 Welton Man. Logic II. ii. 191 On the class view the relation between subject and predicate is that of inclusion in a class.

2 concr. That which is included, spec. in Min., A gaseous or liquid substance, or a small body, contained in a crystal or a mineral mass

1839 Bailey Festus (1848) 218 All the starry inclusions of all signs, Shall rise and rule and pass 1881 Nature No. 616. 163 Other sections are those on mineral inclusions on the hardness and etching of crystal faces.

Inclusionist, sb. [f. prec. + -IST.] One who upholds a principle or measure of inclusion

1893 Daily News 10 July 4 Hours are enough to transform them from exclusionists into inclusionists, from Federal Home Rulers to Colonial Home Rulers

Inclusive (inklū·siv), a. Also [pa. med. L. inclusivus, f. inclūs, ppl. stem of includĕre to INCLUDE: see -IVE. Cf. F. inclusif, -ive.]

1 Having the character or function of including, inclosing, or comprehending

1504 Sharp. Rich III, IV. 1. 59 The inclusive Verge Of Golden Metall that must round my Brow 1814 Wordsw. Excursion IV. 658 Altar and image, and the inclusive walls And roofs of temples built by human hands 1858 Hawthorne Fr. & It. Jrnls II. 23 Between the two inclusive extremes of Phalsa and Clarke Mills b Characterized by including a great deal, or everything that naturally comes within its scope, comprehensive, all embracing.

Inclusive terms, payment, etc. such as include all acceptory payments.

1601 Shaks. All's Well I. iii. 232 Notes, whose faculties inclusive were, More then they were in note 1817 Coleridge Biog. Lit. I. xii. 241 In this we must too often be contented with a more general and inclusive term 1876 J. Parker Paracl. I. xiv. 229 In His self resurrection our Lord repeated all His miracles in one inclusive act 1880 Mrs. Whitney Odd or Even? xv. 235 Not so deep or inclusive as to anticipate query

c Characterized by including, comprising, or taking in, as opposed to excluding or leaving out

1651 Baxter Inf. Bapt. (1656) 105 The word, 'To such is rather inclusive as to them then exclusive. 1665 J. Mall Office of Heads 31 Inventories of marks, some are exclusive others are inclusive 1670 G. H. Hist. Cards add. in. 118 He had not enough of the inclusive power 1818 Colins. Digest (ed. 2) 394 It is the nature of all human science and knowledge, to proceed most safely by negative and exclusive, to what is affirmative and inclusive

d. Inclusive of, including or embracing (some specified thing or matter which is hereby taken in)

1709 Brit. Apollo II. No. 19 3/1 Those Words, would be Inclusive of Perjury 1872 J. G. Murphy Comm. Lev. xx. Fraud and oppression are inclusive of most wrong done to a neighbor

†2 Characterized by being included or comprehended in something else. Obs.

1616 Bullokar, Inclusive, which containeth, or is contained 1648 Milton Tetr. con. Militia 36 What they declare to be law the King by an inclusive judgement declareth to be law also. 1738 H. Brooke Univ. Beauty II. 327 Each note inclusive melody reveals

3 quasi adv. The term or terms named being included. = INCLUSIVELY 2.

Formerly sometimes treated as med. L. inclusive: see 1515 in Pitcairn (trans. Trials I. 261 Fra be xiij day forsaid inclusive to xx day of be samyn exclusive 15 Almanack for Year 1580, sig. A 4 The term wythdrawe 5 foure parties until be 24 day of February inclusive 1602 Ful. Rede Pandectes 61 If you accompt from the first hower to the seuenth inclusive 1710 Swift Cadenus & Vanessa 148 Ill search where ev'ry virtue dwells, From courts inclusive down to cells 1838 De Morgan Ess. Probab. 77 In 200 throws, what is the chance that the number of heads shall lie between 97 and 103, both inclusive? 1873 Hamerton Intell. Life xi. v. (1875) 427 From Monday till Saturday inclusive

B sb An inclusive proposition or particle. Cf. Exclusive B. 1.

1533 More Debell. salem Wks. 943/1 This man is so cunning in his inclusiues & exclusiues, that he dyscerneth nothing betweene copulatiues and disiunctiues

Inclusively (inklū·sivli), adv. [f. prec. + -LY.]

1 In a way that includes, so as to include or be included. a By way of comprehension within material limits 1636 Heywood Horæ Succ. III. God is inclusively in no place, and yet he is in every place 1675 Brooks Gold Key Wks. 1867 V. 458 Repletively [God] is everywhere, though inclusively nowhere

b By way of comprehension of particulars in a group, or of a part in a whole.

1578 Almanack, New Calend. in Liturg. Serv. Q. Eliz. (Parker Soc.) 441 An Almanacke, inclusively comprehending, not onely howe to finde the Epact for xxxij yeres to come, but also the Golden number 1589 Hay any Work 29 Our callings are not onely inculcatiue, but also expressely in the worde 1658 Osborn A. Zisca Wks. 1673 I. 481 [It was] maintained that his Majesties Pardon lay inclusively in the Commission he gave him upon his setting out to sea 1790 Burke Fr. Rev. 88 He [man] shuts out all right to be his own governor He inclusively abandons the right of self defence 1809–10 Coleridge Friend (1865) 44 The intention of the agent wherever it can be independently or inclusively ascertained

2 With inclusion of the term or limit ment. next, one or both extremes being included. Cf. Inclusive 3.

1597 Morley Introd. Mus. 30 In reckoning your distances you understood mee exclusiuely, and I meant inclusiuely 1607 Topsell. Fours. Beasts (1658) 247 They were cele brated in 1583 anis every fifth yeare inclusively, that is, after the end of every fourth year. a 1661 Fuller Worthies I. (1662) 98 He built the Church of Newberry from the Pulpit westward to the Tower inclusively. 1701 S. Newall Diary 14 Jan. (1879) II. 31 Singing of the 90th Psalm, from the 6th to the 13th verse inclusively. 1762 H. Walpole Letters to Cole (1820) V. 274 Four small plates of kings from William I. to George I. inclusively 1805 Lond. Gazette's Reports V. 246 The word until is used indifferently either inclusively or exclusively

Inclusiveness (inklū·sivnes) [f. as prec. + -NESS.] The quality of being inclusive

1731 in Bailey vol. II. 1881 Westcott & Hort Gk. N. T. II. Introd. 134 The inconsistency and the inclusiveness of text 1885 G. H. Taylor Pebys v. Hermit Thorn. pent 295 The adequacy of the means is shown in its scope and inclusiveness

Inclus ory, a. rare [f. inclūs, ppl. stem (see Inclusive) + -ory.] Having the property of including various elements. = Includible

1775 Ysbrand Tour North Europe 360 Dedicating it to the Trinity, the Virgin, and St Bernard These inclusory dedications were common in most countries

†Incoa·ched, ppl. a. Obs. Also en- [f. In-2 + Coached + -ED1.] Conveyed in a coach or carriage

1599 R. Pitch in Hakluyt's Voy. II. 1. 264 The king goeth incloached as they do all a 1618 J. Davies Wks. (1876) 22 (D.) Tamburlaine encoacht in burnisht gold †Inco,a·ct, a. Obs. rare—0 [ad. L. incoact-us, f. in- (In-3) + coactus Coact ppl. a.] = next

1616 Bullokar, Incoact, vncontrained

†Inco,a·cted, a. Obs. rare [f. L. incoact-us (see prec.) + -ED1 2. cf. Coacted.] Uncompelled, unconstrained 1677 Hale Prim. Orig. Man 312 A light and clear Intellect, a free and incoacted Will Incoagulable (inkōa·giŭlăb'l), a. [f. In-1 + Coagulable.] That cannot be coagulated, incapable of coagulation 1667 Phil. Trans. II. 556 Certain Bodies in themselves invisible and incoagulable 1672 Boyle Exp. Germ. i. Wks. 1772 III. 611 The remaining and incoagulable part of it may have been imbibed by the ambient air 1822–34 Good's Study Med. (ed. 4) II. 648 The fluids of the body are loose and incoagulable

Incoa·lescence. rare [f. In-3 + Coalescence.] Want of coalescence, non-coalescence

1846 in Worcester (citing Walker)

Incoalescible, a. rare—1 [f. In-3 + Coalesce v. + -ible.] Not capable of coalescing

1821 Tales of Landlord New Ser. Fair Witch Glas Lhyn I. p. vii. The incoalescible learning of Coke upon Littleton

†Inco·ted, encoat ted, ppl. a. Obs. rare [f. In-1, En-1 + Coat + -ED1.] Uncoaked, raw, crude, hence, undigested or indigestible

1645 Bp. Hall Remedy Discontents xii. 61 Meales usually sawced with an healthfull hunger, wherein no incoted crudities molest Nature 1658 Rowland Moufet's Theat. Insects 92 Things incocted and untractable are cocted and made more mild

†Inco·ctible, a. Obs [f. In-3 + Coctible.] Indigestible

1684 tr. Bonet's Merc. Compit. IX. 321 The Flower remains crude, incoctible, and insuperable

†Inco·ctile, a. Obs. rare—1 [f. In-3 + Coctile.] = prec. 1684 tr. Bonet's Merc. Compit. XVIII. 606 A great Putre faction of a thick and incoctil nature

†Inco·ction[1]. Obs. [f. In-2, after concoction of Late L. incoctio a boiling in.] App. = concoction or Astrol. concoction: see Concoction 1 b

1607 Walkington Opt. Glass 64 If the first [engendered] alts our aliment is blood, phleume is the first after incoction

†Inco·ction - Obs. [In-3.] Indigestion

1651 tr. Bacon's Lifes Death 41 Touching the prolongation of Life, and Reparation by Aliments, and Retardation of the Incoction of Old Age 1684 tr. Bonet's Merc. Compit. VI. 279 Troubles and disorders about the Stomach Want of appetite, Incoction

Incoercible (inkoə·sibl), a. [f. In-1 + Coercible cf. F. incoercible (18th c. in Hatz.-Darm.).]

1 That cannot be coerced, restrained, or overpowered by force, irrepressible

1796 C. Lucas Ess. Waters III. 196 Heat when confined, causes incoercible explosions 1804 W. Taylor in Ann. Reg. II. 337 They [the American minsters] must abide by the incoercible result of popular suffrage 1896 Daily News 23 June 6/1 She called upon me while suffering from an attack of incoercible sickness

2 Incapable of being confined, volatile

1720 J. Fuller Pharm. Extemp. 199 Flatus an invisible, impalpable, and incoercible Spirit 1796 C. Lucas Ess. Waters II. 166 An acid of extreme subtility, almost incoercible 1825 Kirby Hab. & Inst. Anim. I. Introd. 41 Speaking of the imponderable incoercible fluids, and specifying heat, electricity, the magnetic fluid [etc.]

†b Incapable of being liquefied by pressure formerly said of some gases. Obs

1861 B. Silliman Elem. Physics II. § 256 It [the atmosphere] is composed of two incoercible gases, nitrogen and oxygen

Incoexistence (inkōɛgzi·stĕns) rare nonce-wd. [f. In-1 + Coexistence.] Absence of coexistence, the fact of not existing together

1690 Locke Hum. Und. II. iii. § 12 There is yet another kind of more remarkable part of ignorance which sets us more remote from a certain knowledge of the coexistence, or incoexistence (if I may so say) of different ideas in the same subject

Incoffin (inkō·fin), v. Also 6 en- [f. In-2 + Coffin cf. F. emoffiner (early 16th c. in Godef.)] 1 trans. To enclose in, or as in, a coffin

1570–6 Lambarde Perambl. Kent (1826) 128 This good father thinking to have prou ided some graue to his Church, by veneration of the dead bodies [perswaded the King to incoffin them in, and to commit them to honorable burial in Christes church at Canterbuse 1580 Holinshed Chronicles Fran. I. (1577) 141 The Cittes did bume their dead in coffined with a certein wood of Cubs incorruptable. 1670 Pilkington Comm. Luke xxiii. 111 Ye Papists they condemne the Papists for incoffining the scriptures and their worship in an unknown tongue

2 To hold or enclose like a coffin

1633 Ford Lover's Mel. v. i. That sepulchre that holds Your coffin, shall incoffin me alive

Incog (inkŏ·g), a., adv., sb [Colloquial abbreviation of Incognito, Incognita.]

A adj. = Incognito, Incognita a

1705 Double Welcome xl. He's now a Priest incog. with sword and Wig 1728 Oldisworth in Horace' Odes I. 23/1 He find a mind to be Incog. 1835 W. Irving Crayon Misc. (1849) 227, I am apt to treat him with respect from the idea that he may be a great prince incog

B adv. = Incognito adv.

1709 Steele Tatler No. 34 ¶ 5 Mr Justice Overdo met with more Enormities by walking incog 1777 Sheridan Sch. Scand. IV. iii, What! turn inquisitor, and take evidence incog.? 1844 Disraeli Young Duke II. 15 Living incog. 1862 Thackeray Philip xxiii. 230 We hear that Buonaparte went on the water incog. at Kongsberg 1880 Hood Kilmansegg, Courtship x. A Foreign Count—who came incog

C sb = Incognito, Incognita sb

a 1700 B. E. Dict. Cant. Crew, Incog, for Incognito, a Man of Character or Quality concealed or in disguise 1813 Byron Br. of Abydos II. n. note, I have seen the Capitan Pacha . . wearing it [a Turkish sailor's dress] as a kind of incog 1829 Western Gaz. 2 May 3/1 The Duke's incog was kept very strictly No visits were received, the local press was silent as the grave concerning the august visitors

†Inco gent, a. Obs. rare—1 [f. In-3 + Cognent.] Not cogent, without force

1667 Waterhouse Fire Lond. 157 But I forbear what mine Oratory is incogent in Incogitabi lity. rare—1 [f. next see -ITY.] The quality of being unthinkable, incapability of being thought

1852 Sir W. Hamilton Discuss 602 We then predicate incogitability

Incogitable (inkŏ·dʒităb'l), a. [ad. late L. incogitābil-is: see In-3 and Cogitable.] Unthinkable, inconceivable

1520 More De Quat Noviss Wks. 78/2 To my master by subtylle and incogytable meanes vnlawefull longyng to lyue 1678 Hobbes Decam. w. Bramh. Wks. (1845) 79 Annihilation of Air into Water by Condensation . . it is a thing incogitable 1805 Geoth Plato I. ii. 108 Let us grant that Fire or Entia exist, they would nevertheless (argued Gorgias) be incogitable and unknowable

†Incogitance. Obs. rare [f. as next see -ANCE.] Want of thought, = next

1632 Jackson Creed V. xxxvi. 3 Ignorance and incogitance is more pertinent to this place, and in itself more dangerous 1689 Stanley Hist. Philos. xiii. (1701) 611/1 We oppose not Reason to any affection so much as to Incogitance, Ignorance, Folly

†Incogitancy. Obs. [ad. L. incogitantia thoughtlessness, f. incōgitant-em see next.]

1 Want of thought or reflection, thoughtlessness heedlessness, negligence, inattentence

1611 Sclater Chr. Strength 1 Infirmities are, vsually, sins of incogitance 1625 Br. Montagu Diatribæ 1. 39 It was peraduenture a ship of the pen vpon incogitancy 1693 Terrell Land. Nat. 160 Through some Errour, Weakness or Incogitancy they may often deviate from the great end 1759 B. Martin Nat. Hist. Eng. I. Birds 104 An Argument of vulgar Incogitancy

2 Want of the faculty of thought

1649 Jer. Taylor Gt. Exemp. II. viii. 83 The trembling of the heart, the incogitancy of the mind represent a death bed to be but an ill station for a penitent c 1663 Reasonable Def. Seasonable Disc. 20 Were not our Author furnished with a convenient talent of incogitancy, he could not but know

Incogitant (inkŏ·dʒitănt), a. [ad. L. incōgitant-em unthinking, f. in- (In-1) + cōgitāns, pres. pple. of cōgitāre to think.] That does not think

1 Thoughtless, unthinking, characterized by want of thought, inconsiderate

1648 JACKSON Creed VI x § 1 By the incogitant use of these and the like scripture phrases 1679 J GOODMAN Penit Pardoned II 1 (1713) 238 A light incogitant young man a 1681 WHICHCOTE Disc (1703) III 194 I might have been incogitant all my days of these things, which when offered I know to be true 1732 STACKHOUSE Hist Bible (1767) VI VIII v 512 So blind and incogitant that his Empress Messalina married herself to another man 1893 F HALL in Nation (N Y) 16 Feb 123/1 If the ruling of an incogitant autocrat is to be preferred to the warrant of good usage.

2 Not having the faculty of thinking

1700 Howe Living Temple I III § 12 Wks 1724 I 45 As mind is a cogitant substance, matter is incogitant

Inco gitantly, adv [f prec + -LY 2] Unthinkingly, thoughtlessly, without consideration or reflection

1849 T HILL Olive Branch of Peace (1648) 24 If they finde they did it rashly and incogitantly a 1677 BARROW Serm (1687) I XIII 184 Men almost as often speak incogitantly, as they think silently

†Inco gitate, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [ad L incōgitāt-us, f in- (IN-[3]) + cōgitātus, pa pple of cōgitāre to think] Not thought of, unexpected, unpremeditated

1652 GAULE Magastrom 95 The nature and property of a meer contingent is to be unknown, sudden, indeterminate, incogitate

Incogitative (inkɒ dʒɪtətɪv), a rare [f IN-[3] + COGITATIVE] Unthinking, destitute of the thinking faculty

1690 LOCKE Hum Und IV x § 9 There are but two sorts of beings in the world which we will hereafter call cogitative and incogitative beings. 1706 CLARKE Nat & Rev Relig Pref (R), From my using the word mere Matter, he concludes that I imagine there is another form of Matter, which is not a mere, inert, pure, incogitative Matter 1813 BUSBY Lucretius III Comment XIV, If the seeds of heat, air, and vapour are as positively incogitative as those of the body

Hence Inco gitati vity (rare$^{-1}$), the quality of being incogitative or without the faculty of thought

1732 WOLLASTON Relig Nat IX 195 Is the same in effect as to say, that God may superadd a faculty of thinking to incogitativity

‖ Incognita (inkɒ gnɪtă), a and sb [It incognita, fem of incognito unknown]

A adj Of a female Unknown or disguised, having one's identity concealed or unavowed 1668 DRYDEN Mock Astrol III Wks 1701 I 303 Being thus incognita I shall discover if he make love to any of you. 1736 J ADY M WORTLEY Let &c to Mrs Mar 1 Aug, I walked almost all over the town yesterday, incognita, in my shippers 1884 RITA Vivienne V 95, She would go to Naples incognita.

B sb 1 An unknown or disguised woman or girl, one whose identity is not made known In 18th c used often of a sweetheart

1718 MISS. CANTLIVRE Wonder V 1 (Jod), That's the lady's name of the house where my incognita in 1748 SMOLLETT Adv Rand II (1804) 34 The whole was subscribed—Your incognita 1807 ANNA M PORTER Hungar Bro III (1833) 40 I will be responsible for me to your incognita without knowing her by sentence 1888 Miss MITFORD Village Sec III (1863) 465 Nobody knew any thing certain of the incognita, or her story 1833 Westm Rev Jan 41 The charms of that fair incognita the 'legitimate' drama

2 Unknown or unavowed character or position (of a woman)

1882 World No 399 10 The Queen will not assume her incognita until she reaches Cherbourg ‖ Inco gnita, sb 4 pl [L incognita, neut pl of incognitus unknown, cf next] Unknown things or places.

1866 GROTE Greece (1854) I 477 They [myths] explained many of the puzzling incognita of the present 1883 KANE Grinnell Exp XXXI (1856) 272 At this rate, we will in a few days be within the Baffin's Bay incognita

†Incognite (inkɒ gnɪt), a Obs [ad L incognit-us unknown, f in- (IN-[1]) + cognit us, pa pple of cognōscĕre to get to know] Unknown

1669 Lr Ilchester in Hume II 1 in Bullen O Pl IV, All which to me are Obsurde mistakes, and to my studies, Incognite Language 1677 GALE Crt Gentiles IV 448 It becomes us to receive all the works of Providence, albeit they may seem to many many times incognite and incomprehensible 1678 J JORDAN Triumphs Lond Ded, By their (merchants') Cost, Adventures, Diligence, and Vigilance, incognite Countries have been discovered

Inco gnitive, a rare$^{-1}$ [f IN-[3] + COGNITIVE] Destitute of the faculty of cognition, unable to take cognizance

1860 F HALL Hindu Philos Syst 154 God made the soul cognitive, and who shall make it incognitive?

‖ Incognito (inkɒ gnito), a, adv, sb Pl -tos (-toz) [It incognito adj, adv, unknown, disguised, ad L. incognitus see INCOGNITE 1652 H COGAN tr Scudery's Ibrahim I II 30 He went in that manner, which the Grandees of Italie do often make use of, whenas they travell, and which they call Incognito].

A adj Unknown, whose identity is concealed or unavowed, and therefore not taken as known, concealed under a disguised or assumed character

1649 EVELYN Lib & Servit IV Misc Writ (1805) 22 They make it their chiefest care to make themselves hidden and incognito 1676 ETHEREDGE Man of Mode IV ii, A Fool is very troublesome, when he Presumes he is Incognito 1732 LEDIARD Sethos II VII 70 This prince was incognito in Arabia 1884 Linnet's Trial I 1 III 72, I only came for a couple of days and I intended to have remained in cognito

b Of a thing Done or conducted under disguise

1819 J HOPE Anastasius (1820) II II 30 Asses for incognito expeditions

B adv With one's real name, title, or character undisclosed or disguised used esp in reference to royal or dignified personages who wish to conceal their identity or not to be openly recognized

1649 EVELYN Mem 12 July, Mr Arthur Slingsby, who left England incognito 1691 F ROCHE Disc Trouble Mind 384 A Christian in this World is like a King that travels incognito in a strange land 1709 PRIOR Ladle 2 The Scepticks think twas long ago Since Gods came down Incognito 1800 MRS HERVEY Mountray Fam II 10 As you wished to do good incognito I did not disclose your name 1826 HOOK Lives Alps II III 211 He had passed incognito through Canterbury

C sb 1 An unknown man, one who conceals his identity, an anonymous person

1638 BAKER tr Balzac's Lett (vol II) 228, I send you all I have of that admirable Incognito 1784 COWPER Let to Rev, I the same incognito to all except ourselves made us his almoners this year likewise 1799 L. DU BOIS Piece Fam Biogr II 81 This for the incognito 1800 MAR FOUR WORTH Heroic Epist (1826) I XIII 163 I bus young incognito

2 The condition of being unknown, anonymity, fictitious character, disguise, orig in phrase in incognito (taken as L. or It), in concealment, in an anonymous character

1665 COWLEY Verses & Ess Obscurity, I think that the pleasantest condition of life is in an incognito c 1669 LADY CHAWORTH in 12th Rep Hist MSS Comm App V 12 The Prince of Hungary being in incognito! 1882 HAZLITT Table t Ser II II (1869) 35 Never venturing out of their imposing and mysterious incognito 1874 J STEPHEN Horæ in Memoriam (1892) I 12 A few writers would have preserved their incognito so long 1886 W ALEXANDER St Augustine's Holiday 9 Proving that chance is God's incognito

Inco gnitosh ity rare [f next see -ITY] The quality of being incognizable

c 1860 Lond Rev No 32 541 His doctrine of the incognitosability of the infinite

Incognizable, -isable (inkɒ gnɪz-, -kɒ nɪz ăb'l, a [f IN-[3] + COGNIZABLE, cf F incon-naissable (†incognoscible, 16th c in Hatz Darm)] Not cognizable, incapable of being known, perceived, or recognized by the senses or intellect, incapable of recognition

1852 M ARNOLD Human Life 8 On life's incognisable sea 1869 J MARTINEAU Ess II 288 Why then describe these traits as intrinsically incognizable? 1886 Anonymous No 5 331 The old coinage of years gone by had become incognisable by stress of wear and restriction

Incognizance (inkɒ gnɪz, kɒ nɪzans) [f IN-[3] + COGNIZANCE] Want of knowledge or recognition

a 1856 SIR W HAMILTON Lect (1877) I XIII 367 Now this incognizance may be explained 1865 MRS WHITNEY Gayworthys xxiii 258 They would scarcely drift away from each other into utter incognizance and separation

Incognisant (inkɒ gnɪz-, kɒ nɪzănt), a [f IN-[3] + COGNIZANT] Not cognizant, without cognizance, knowledge, or apprehension of, unaware, unconscious of

1837 Fraser's Mag XV 760 Being utterly incognisant of their inquiries, (she) merely shook her head 1865 FERRIER Lect Metaph I 61 Man is never altogether incognisant, is never totally oblivious of himself 1878 RUSKIN Notes Turner's Drawings 88 Not incognizant of this joyful influence

Incognoscent (inkɒgnɒ sĕnt), a rare [f IN-[3] + COGNOSCENT] Unknowing, ignorant

1827 W G S Lucian's Dialog Coriolan 151, I pardon you my incognoscent incogenerum

Incognoscibility (inkɒgnɒsɪbɪ lɪtɪ) [f next see -ITY] The quality or condition of being incognoscible, unknowableness

1824 BENTHAM Bk Fallacies II 1 § 1 The incognoscibility, the obscurity, the distortion, the exasperation of the system of judicial procedure 1838 SOUTHEY Doctor Interch IV 386 If the Imperial Philosopher should censure the still incognoscible Author for still continuing in incognoscibility I should remind him of the Eleusinian Mysteries 1848 MILL Pol Econ V VII § 3 1876 533

Incognoscible (inkɒgnɒ sĭbl), a [f IN-[1] + COGNOSCIBLE] Unknowable, beyond cognizance

1692 R. TAYLOR Behmen's Theos Philos 199 To some this Question may seem so occult as if incognoscible [Incertæ incognitæ] 1838 New Monthly Mag LIII 504 The magnificence of that mind which dwelt in the regions of the incognoscible 1843 SOUTHEY Doctor (1847) VI Interch 205 Incognito I am and wish to be, and incognoscible it is in my power to remain

Incoherence (inkōhē rĕns) [f IN-[3] + COHERENCE, cf F incohérence (Littré), 1611), ‖ incoherentia (18th c in Hatz Darm)] The fact, condition, or quality of being incoherent

1 lit Want of cohesion

1672 BOYLE Hist Fluidity § 16 Wks 1772 I 388 The smallness and incoherence of the parts do make them easy to be put into motion 1849 MACAULAY Hist VII 126 The shale from its incoherence has been denuded for the most part

2 Want of connexion, incompatibility, incongruity of subjects or matters

1665 BOYLE Occas Refl Introd Pref (1848) 11 The Incoherence of the Subjects may make them look so little of kin to one another, as scarce to appear the Products of the same Pen a 1674 CLARENDON Hist Reb II § 202 Impracticable Particulars, which troubled the Parliament the less, for their incoherence, and impossibility to be reduced into practice 1824 L. MURRAY Eng Exam (ed 5) I 494 The same author says, 'There is not a single view of human nature, which is not sufficient to extinguish the seeds of pride'. Observe the incoherence of the things here joined together, making a view extinguish, and extinguish seeds

3 Want of coherence or connexion in thought or language, incongruity, inconsistency want of logical or rational consistency or congruity

1611 FLORIO, Incoherenza, incoherence 1643 MILTON Divorce II ii, The incoherence of such a doctrine, a mind, must not be thus interpreted 1664-94 SOUTH Twelve Serm II 141 A Petition fraught with Nonsense and Incoherence Confusion and Impertinence 1778 BP LOWTH Transl Isaiah Notes (ed 12) 189 This obscure incoherence is given to it by the false rendering of a Hebrew particle 1829 I TAYLOR Natural Hist IV (1867) 84 The extreme incoherence of heresy 1871 BLACKIE Four Phases 98 Never was a greater amount of incoherence crammed into a short sentence

b with an and pl An instance of this, an incoherent statement or proceeding

1658 BRAMHALL Consecr Bps VII 157 A Testimony which is clogged with so many improbabilities, and incoherencies, and contradictions 1720 ASHTON Hell Torm No 2 (Swegen) The system of his politicks, when dissembled and cleared of all those incoherences and independent matters that are woven into this motley piece 1859 I TAYLOR Logic in Theol 285 His mythic theory is a mass of incoherences

Incoherency (inkōhē rĕnsi) [f as prec see -ENCY] The quality of being incoherent, = INCOHERENCE, 2, 3

1684 BUNYAN Pilgr II 186 There is an Incoherency in their Words now, as there was before 1751 EARL ORRERY Remarks Swift (1752) 51 The incoherency of quotation is perhaps one of the most excusable faults in the collection 1822-34 Goode's Study Med (ed 4) II 4 The pulse has been a hundred and forty in a minute with incoherency or delirium from the first night 1843 BATHURST Xenophon Mem 71 To believe that the words of his silliness, and the incoherency of his speech, had been feigned to elude suspicion

b with an and pl An instance of this quality, something incoherent

1708 Lond Gaz No 4417/1 Besides the many Absurdities and Incoherencies in the Historical Part there of 1837-9 HALLAM Hist Lit III III § 120 This cannot give a notion to the incoherences of Machiavel 1866 MRS H OWNING Aur Leigh I 7 The incoherencies of change and death

Incoherent (inkōhē rĕnt), a (sb) Also 7 -herrent [f IN-[3] + COHERENT, cf incohérent (18th c in Hatz Darm).] Not coherent

1 Without physical coherence or cohesion, consisting of parts which do not stick or cling together, unconnected, disjoined, loose

1695 WOODWARD Nat Hist Earth II (1723) 123 Matter which was lax incoherent and in fact no Earth or Sand 1756 C LEAKE Lucr Waters I 40 Various earths void of humidity are but loose, light and incoherent dust 1811 PINKERTON Petral I 342 Hence immense quantities of tone and oolite, which were only heaps of incoherent blocks 1849 MURCHISON Siluria IX 72 A mass of incoherent slaty schists

b transf and fig

1708 BURKE Corr 1844 I 161 He spoke of the ministry as a strange incoherent assemblage that certainly would not stand 1849 GROTE Greece II III (1862) I 348 The incoherent mixture of facts 1884 H SIDGWICK in Pop Sc Monthly XXIX 70 A comparatively small body of officials, coherent and acting under central authority, has an immense advantage over an incoherent public which has no settled policy

2 Of abstract things (as schemes, actions etc) Consisting of or forming a group or series of incongruous parts, not connected or unified by any general principle or characteristic, inconsistent, uncoordinated

1668 DONNE Serm XII 221 Put both but his Schisme and ague in rusty and incoherent Sups, that sins that produced one another as in Davids case! 1732 BERKELEY Alciphr II § 11 An incoherent Position 1849 GROTE Greece II III (1862) I 348 The incoherent mixture of facts 1884 H SIDGWICK in Pop Sc Monthly XXIX 70 A comparatively small body of officials, coherent and acting under central authority, has an immense advantage over an incoherent public which has no settled policy

3 Of abstract things (as schemes, actions etc) Consisting of or forming a group or series of incongruous parts, not connected or unified by any general principle or characteristic, inconsistent, uncoordinated

1668 DONNE Serm XII 221 Put both but his Schisme and ague in rusty and incoherent Sups, that sins that produced one another as in Davids case! 1732 BERKELEY Alciphr II § 11 An incoherent Position 1849 GROTE Greece II III (1862) I 348 The incoherent mixture of facts 1884 H SIDGWICK in Pop Sc Monthly XXIX 70 A comparatively small body of officials, coherent and acting under central authority, has an immense advantage over an incoherent public which has no settled policy

2 Of abstract things (as schemes, actions etc) Consisting of or forming a group or series of incongruous parts, not connected or unified by any general principle or characteristic, inconsistent, uncoordinated

1668 DONNE Serm XII 221 Put both but his Schisme and ague in rusty and incoherent Sups, that sins that produced one another as in Davids case! 1732 BERKELEY Alciphr II § 11 An incoherent Position 1849 GROTE Greece II III (1862) I 348 The incoherent mixture of facts 1884 H SIDGWICK in Pop Sc Monthly XXIX 70 A comparatively small body of officials, coherent and acting under central authority, has an immense advantage over an incoherent public which has no settled policy

3 Of thought and mental phenomena, language, literary compositions, etc Without logical connexion or natural sequence of ideas, inconsistent, rambling, disjointed

1652 SANDERSON Irish Serm 467 Whose discourse should be incoherent and disjointed 1709 STEELE Tatler No 60 P 7 This incoherent Stuff was answer'd by a tender sigh 1791 MRS RADCLIFFE Rom Forest I 3 Somewhat she muttered an incoherent sentence 1839 KEIGHTLEY Hist Eng II 25 She used to utter much incoherent rhapsody

b Characterized or marked by incoherency of thought or expression

1803 JANE PORTER Thaddeus I xiii 5 His voice was hurried and incoherent 1844 I. TAYLOR Man v Mex 267 Listen to that preacher: unhistorical, incoherent, ungrammatical 1874 MAURICE Keep us in Mind Dis VII 245 Sometimes there was an attack of incoherent and furious mania

4 Incapable of coherring or cohering, naturally different, incompatible, incongruous

1643 MILTON Divorce I x, To force a mixture of minds that cannot unite and to sowe the furrow of mans matrimony with seed of two incoherent and uncombining dispositions

1704 Swift batt Bks Wks 1778 I 175 His armour was patched up of a thousand incoherent pieces 1708 W King Cookery (1807) 71 Hence mack rel seem dehashful to the eyes, though dress'd with incoherent goods & tries

B sb That which is incoherent rare

1823 J. G. Wainewright Eat & Cert (1880) 319 Percep tions of coherents in incoherents

Incoherently (inkōhi·rentli), adv [f. Incoherent + -ly 2.] In an incoherent manner 1651 Hobbes Lev Auth iii xxxvi 224 One that speaketh incoherently, to whom there are distracted 1790 J. Bicknell Mental Sc II v § 1 R I. being thus natured without reason to unsettle the mind and make men speak incoherently 1859 C. Barker Inner Princ. ii 57, I have endeavoured to place before you, I fear very incoherently and imperfectly, some account of the Trade Guilds of the Middle Ages.

Incoherentness. rare—0 [f. as prec + -ness.] Want of coherence, incoherence

1727 in Bailey vol II. Hence in Ash and mod Dicts

Incohering (inkōhi·rin), a Also 8 -hearing [f. In- 1 + Cohering.] That does not cohere = Incoherent I 1659 O. Walker Interest Oratory 13 All which variety of matter ought to be pointed and set together in the second review 1713 Derham Phys. Theol III ii 66 That they should consist of so incoherent, incohering, Earth 1867 Pect Life Faithful Cler 48 Some hard and compact, other soft and incohering.

Incohesive (inkōhi·siv), a [In- 3.] Not cohesive, without cohesion, that has not the quality of sticking together

1846 Landon Pract. Cons Wks II 67 I turned out of an Irish mound an exactly too fluid and incohesive to stand in English 1881 Nature No. 580 Experiments proving that all gases are composed of matter which is not merely incoherent, but is energetically self-repulsive

†Incohible, a. Obs—0 [ad. late L. incohibil-is, f. In (In- 1) + cohibilis Cohible.] = Incoherent

1656 Blount Glossogr., Incohible, that cannot be restrained

†Incoible, a Obs—0 [ad. late L. incohibil-is, f. In- (In- 3) + cohibilis Cohible, to go or come together.] 'Not to be mingled' (Cockeram, 1623). Hence Incoibl ity, incapability of going together or mixing

1671 R. Maynwaring Pract. Phys 81 The rejection and incobility of Some Incoi ncidence. [In- 1.] Want of coincidence or agreement

1798 Coleridge Lett (1895) 246 It were wrong indeed if an incoincidence with one of our wishes altered our respect and affection to a man 1828 in Webster

Incoincident (inkōi·nsident), a [f. In- 1 + Coincident.] Not coinciding, not necessarily existing together, not identical

1656 Featly Clavis Mystt xiv 188 The graces of the Spirit, and the virtues of the mind are incoincident 1818 Shelley Let to Godwin to Jan in Dowden Life (1887) I 422 My Father's notions of family honour are incoincident with my knowledge of public good

†Incolant, incolent. Obs rare [ad. L. incolent-em pres. pple of incolere to inhabit, for which incolare (pres. pple incolant-em) also occurs in late L.] An inhabitant

1597 Middleton Blood Hermon 101 4 The sinful incolants of his made earth 1620 W Vaughan Nat Bks xii lxxii, As how the natural Incolants the Islanders subdue their Foes 1 4 The best Incolents and of this our Land

†Incolany Obs rare—1 [f. stem of L. incola an inhabitant, incolere to inhabit + -ary 1.] An inhabitant

1652 Urquhart Tr Rabelais (1834) 245 The very Scythes and Scythians even to this day subsist and live like incolanies

†Incoled, ppl a Obs rare [app. L. inco lat-us (incorrectly explained in Du Cange as of Colex 2.] Cut into scallops or zigzag indentations

1543 Traheron tr. Vigo's Chirurg iii 93 You must sewe of clouttes in olde and cheuerned, and fyry-blump ye wounde wt the post ferforesaid in ill. unantur pesce in to ate y post e cum suprado a y cisa]

†Incoler Obs rare—1 [f. as Incolant + -er 1.] = incola inhabitant (1530 in Godef.) + -er 2.] An inhabitant

1494 Fabyan Chron vi cxlvii 133 Not as inhabytyns or incolers / payne, but that they were lesyd out of Mryce

†Incolist Obs rare—1 [f. L. incolere to inhabit + -ist.] An inhabitant 1657 Tomlinson Renou's Disp 360 Which maladyes much in le time Consumes and Sepulchrinoll Incolists.

Incolora tion rare—0 [f. In- 3 + Coloration.] 'Defect of colour' (Syd Soc Lex 1886)

1855 in Mayne Expos Lex

†Incolu mity Obs Also 6 -ite [a. Ob incolumité, ad. L. incolumitās safety, soundness, f. incolumis safe, sound: see 1.] Safety, soundness, freedom from danger

1533 Cuth. Pare tr. Pynson Com Crede 78 Not for the incolumite and preseruation of one cyte or of one nation, but for the helthe and saluation of the hol worlde 1650 H. Scott Gorgas Ecc Reform 1652 to Some things that tended to the publique Incolumity and Welfare of the City 1572 Bowle Hydrost Disc ii 5 Wks. 1772 III 617 The cause of the incolumity of the tadpole is, that the pressure of the particles of the water against one another is hindered by the principium hylarchicum

Incombent, obs form of Incumbent sb

Incomber, -bre, -brance, etc, obs var Encumber, Incumbrance, etc

†Incom·ber, var of Encumber sb, Obs, an encumbrance (on an estate), a mortgage

1618 Dekker If it be not good Wks 1873 III 358 Leon yet Rauc hee for Bonds and incombers

†Incombi ning, a Obs rare—1 [In- 3.] Not combining, incapable of uniting, incompatible

1643 Milton Divorce ii 20, Minds that can not unite two incoherent and incombining dispositions

Incombustible (inkəmbə·stibl), a and sb Also 6 -able [ad. med. L. incombustibilis, or a. F. incombustible (14th c. in Hatz. Darm.) see In- 1 and Combustible.]

A adj Incapable of being burnt or consumed by fire

1460–70 Bk Quintessence in Many philosophers (epp) few small enormes in one incombustable 1471 Ripley Compl Alch iii 10, So out of our stone precious, if thou be wisely, thou incombustable and Water thou shalt draw 1605 Timon Charact Ded 2 The 4 elements having in every of them 2 other elements, the one putrifying and combustible, the other eternal and incombustible 1646 Sir T. Browne Pseud Ep iii xiv 140 There are in the number of Mineralls, some bodies incombustible, more remark ably that which the Ancients named Asbe ton 1799 G. Smith tr. Lavoisier's Elem Chem I. 10 Incombustible 1824 Mech Comm's Light 6 An infusible and incombustible substance as chalk or magnesia

B sb Incombustible substance or matter

1807 J. Thomson Chem (ed 3) II 95 The combustibles unite with each other also with incombustibles and with metals The incombustibles do not unite with each other, nor with the metals

Hence Incombu stibleness, Incombustibility, the quality of being incombustible

1653 H. More Immort Soul 4th bk iii 10 (1712) 174 The pro digious length of his body 1 As also the Incombustible ness thereof 1692 Sir T. Robinson in Ray Creation (1969) 84 The Romans Stone is remarkable for its shining quality The Arguments for its Incombustibility 1747 Gentl Mag 535 Demonstrates its incombustibleness 1801 Barnes Hort Eng Catholic 1966 cc ... Stone is the most perfect for the forming of fire out reason, it least for its comparative incombustibility

Income (inkəm), sb 1 Also 4–7 in-com, incom in come, 6 incomme, incombe, incumb: [f. In- adv + Come v and come in, Come v 59.]

1 Coming in, entrance, arrival, advent, beginning (of a period of time, or an action) Now rare a 1300 Cursor M 111.7 At þe income of þe firth mont [c 1400 Gawain 1.1 At the incom of the first mount] Morte Arth 2171 But Kaynes at the income wes kepid in fayre. With a wode ledy knyghte of hes kythe ryche 1566 Drant Horace, Sat I vi (R) At mine income, I loued lowe, and muttred full demure 1593 Shakes Lucr 334 For pity the income of each precious thing 1612 Chap man Iliad xxii 481 I would like man make an indeed, and steep My income in the bloods, in aid of good Patroclus a 1670 Bp Rust in Glanvill Func Orient (1681) 192 Incomes of light and clouds 1850 New Monthly Mag CIX 165 The annual income of one child, always strong and thriving, sometimes twins 1898 Westm Gaz 25 Feb 5 3 Where the management do not system ically check the income of provisions supplied

b spec The coming in of divine influence into the soul, spiritual influx or communication (Common in 17th c. now Obs or rare)

1647 J. Hall Poems Prose & Paraphr 2 God hath given y u here experience of the incomes of God through Jesus Christ 1658 R. Baxter Ipol Quodres xii 368 The pure Incomes of holy life Being in upon them 1660 J. Scott Il Rs (1718) II 476 Among the Turkish and he athen saints, there are as notorious instances of these sweet in comes and mystical raptures, among our own 1691 Ray Wisdom Deit (1717) III 412 Consider what incomes of His grace God vouchsafed to You [1849 Whitte Mary Smith's Trial Prose Wks 1889 I 162 She said that no eye could see the sweet incomes and re freshings of the Lord's spirit]

2 In the sense of 'coming in' with something (e g a statement or argument), the fact of being 'brought in' or adduced Obs

1654 Jer Taylor Real Pres 23 Therefore we have the income of so many Fathers as are cited by the Canon Law to be witnesses against

†3 A place at which one comes in, an entry or entrance Obs

a 1300 Cursor M 20616 Quen þou art common to be este Of ierusalem, ate gilden yate, þar es an in com [Trin an entre] þat sua hatt

†4 A fee paid on coming in or entering, entry-money, entrance fee Obs

1549 Latimer 3rd Serm bef Edw VI (Arb) 50 Thy Tenuant whom, with newe Incomes, fynes and such lyke vnreasonable exactions, thou pilles, polles, and muser & let oppresses 1549 in W. H. Turner Select Rec Oxford (1880) 199 What Profittis and Incomes are due to the B ilifis 1579 MS Indenture, Mapleton, 3 bs, 400 marks paid for a lyve or twelue 1646 Bailey Serm John 1 16 97 There are no Incomes, no Income's to be paid at our coming in to Je us Christ 1662 J. Stayne Tract in F. Kirby Life Nevet o 23, I shall have to pay for the first year [for my chamber] besides my income, which may be about 40*s* or thereabouts 1718 Ac 12 Anne c. 4 § 4 So as no Fine Income or other Consideration be taken for the same

†4 A person who comes in or has come in, a new comer, incomer, immigrant Obs

1555 W Watreman Fardle Facions iii 35 Fewer sondrie peoples, of the which twaine were alwayes and incomines 1570 J Pyins Manip 161/45 Income, incola, advena 1804 Tarras Poems 14 (Jam.) Tats try this income, how he stands, An' tak us sib by shaken hands

†5. A thing that comes in (in addition, or by the way), something added or incidental Obs

1583 Golding Calvin on Deut xiii 76 Where as God promised the land of Chanaan this was no parte of that Countrie he gaue them this as an income or ouerplus 1587 — De Mornay ii 22 Euill is neither a nature nor a substance but an income or accident which is faine into natures and substances 1604 Warner Alb Eng xiii lxxxiii (1612) 292 But not that 3*ll*, productively from Nature firstly springs But as an Income, hyming in the substance

6 spec That which comes in as the periodical produce of one's work, business, lands, or investments (considered in reference to its amount, and commonly expressed in terms of money); annual or periodical receipts accruing to a person or corporation, revenue Formerly also in pl = Receipts, emoluments, profits, but the plural is now used only in reference to more than one person (The prevailing sense)

1601 R Johnson Kingd & Commw (1603) 196 Paying the expence of one yere with the income of another 1633 Herbert Temple, Ch Porch xxvii, Never exceed thy income 1648 H Lawrence Comm Angells 152 Hee hath beene at a great deale of paines and cost, now what are his incomes? 1652 C B Spalatius Hermolaus 16 He scraped still and never was content, but studied more his Incoms to augment 1697 Dryden Virg. Georg ii 285 No fields afford so large an Income to the Village Lord 1789 Lettuce No 43 to Having lived, what is called up to his income, that is a good deal above it 1820 Med Jrnl VIII 229 Income, in its usual acceptation, is a loose and vague term, it applies equally to gains and to moderate produce But when the Legislature had limited it to be synonimous with profits and gains, it became as clear and precise as any other word 1826 Disc Elder Parish I 76 No. I shall attack the Church—only the incomes of the bishops, perhaps, to make them eke out the incomes of the poor clergy

b fig Profit, proceeds, result, 'harvest' Also in pl (obs)

1635 Rutherford Let to W Mackmaw hf 8 July, Christ will not be in your common to have you giving out any thing for Him and not give you all incomes with advantage 1687 Dr Cartwright in Magdalen Coll & Jas II (O. H. S.) 116 I hope we are all of the same mind, of their present circumstances

c transf That which is taken in, as food (with refer nce to amount)

1856 Allbutt's Syst Med I 162 Physiologists have shewn that the minimum daily income required by a healthy man performing his average daily work and maintaining his usual body weight is five per cent of that body weight

7 attrib and Comb (in sense 6) = income-producing adj.; income bonds, bonds of a corporation or company, the interest of which is not cumulative, secured by a lien upon the net income of each several year, after paying out of interest upon prior mortgages

1889 Daily News 29 Nov 6/4 In America, Income bonds are something like preference stock in England, but carry no voting rights 1894 Sir J. Hutton in Daily News 25 July 3/3 The acquisition of income producing, undertak ings such as tramways, water supply, &c.

†Income (inkəm) sb - Sc and north dial [f. In adv + Come.] = Of the earlier An come, Income.] A morbid affection of any part of the body, as swelling, impostume, tumour, or the like 1808 in Jamieson 1820 Galt Steam Bd II ybe III xxii 191 She had got an income in the right arm, and couldna spin 1825 Brockett N C Gloss, Income, any swelling or other bodily unhealthy appearance, apparently proceeding from ex tended cause or which has formed unexpectedly Income, in the same sense, is an old word 1834 M Scott Cruise Midge (1863) 196 An Income in a tumour, and mine was a very bad one 1859 J. Brown Rab & f 1862) 13 She's got a trouble in her breast—some kind o' an income we're thinkin'

†Inco me, v Obs [OE incuman = OHG inqueman, inchomen (MHG inkomen, Ger einkommen), MDu, MLG incomen, Du inkomen, Da indkomme, Sw inkomma Not an original compound vb, but a collocation of in adv. Come v see In prep† and In adv 1 b Now replaced by come in see Come v 59.] intr To come in, to enter

c 1000 Ælfric Lev xxiii 10 And þonne ge incumen on þet land þe ic eow salle 1297 R Glouc (Rolls) 11 To kepe be emperours folc, at his wille to income & wende. Chaucer xxiii[1] 7 King of Iibysse in come sal be 13 Coer de L 3305 So þat yet ne us mne come They lates hem in come anon Herd 3951 Thou it be unmiable herd telle, That the Crystene war incomen 1456 Lydg Serm Secr 1814 236 Jan[1] the king has mad his oath of fidelitie that he should not incum in iudgment in no action, quhar he is partie himself

†Incomed, a rare. [f. Income sb 1 + -ed 2.] Provided with an income

1790 Cowper Lett 26 Jun., Johnson, I believe, is tolerably well incomed

Incomeless (inkə·mles), a [f. Income sb 1 + -less.] Without an income (Webster 1864)

1829 Archd Wrangham in Trans Friendship's Miss Mission I (1882) 194 Taking possession of a new and almost incomeless archidiaconry 1899 Daily News 6 Mar 4/2 The only city incomeless woman to whom the full pen sion of £18 was adjudged.

Incomer (inkə·mər) [f. In adv + Comer.] One who comes in in the general sense (opposed to outgoer) and with various specific applications, e g a. One who comes in or has come in from another place or country, a visitor, immigrant, or foreign resident b One who comes in where he is unwelcome or troublesome, an intruder, an invader c One who comes into a position or office relinquished by another, a successor d Sport A bird that flies towards the sportsman

1526 TINDALE Gal ii 4 Be cause of incommers brynge false brethren, which came amonge wother 1613-18 DANIEL Coll Hist Eng (1626) 32 To foster a party against so dangerous an incommer, that was like to thrust them all out of doore a 1641 BP. MOUNTAGU Acts & Mon (1642) 469 The Samaritans would not confesse themselves In comers from those trans-Euphratean nations 1665 GUNNER Counsel II 91/2 Kept Officers at the gates of the City to invite all incomers to take refreshment in his Pallace 1721 New Hamph Prov Papers (1869) III 817 The ingrosser is liable for one part and the incomer for the other half

I income-tax. [INCOME sb 16] A tax levied in some countries on incomes

In Great Britain first introduced 1803 WM TAX 10 1799, re introduced in 1842, and maintained since Assessed at a rate annually fixed by Parliament of so many pence per pound e g a sixpenny or eightpenny income tax, with exemptions or deductions for incomes below certain defined amounts

1799 H BERKE (title) Observations on the Produce of the Income Tax and its proportion to the whole Income of Great Britain 1803 PITT in Cobbett's Diaries (1809) II 118 He puts the income tax at 4,600,000*l* 1842 in WOOD Almanack (1888) clxxxiii, The only mischief was, it came too late, Of all experience 'tis the usual price, A sort of income tax laid on by fate 1848 MCCULLOCH Taxation & Funding Pref 1 The existing income tax cert only is a tax that should not be retained a moment after it can be dispensed with 1873 H SPENCER Stud Sociol (1878) 326 An increased income tax obliges you to abridge your autumn holiday

†Inco mfortable, a Obs rare [IN-3] = UNCOMFORTABLE

1574 HELOWES Gascoigne's Fruit Fr 180 Impatient men are incomfortable to serue and of conversation perilious

1655 E. TERRY Voy E Ind 242 Our family was not exempted from that more comfortable visitation

Incoming (i nkœ·mĭŋ), vbl sb [f IN adv + COMING vbl sb]

1 The action or fact of coming in, entrance, arrival (Opposed to outgoing) 1580 WESLEY Euphues 17 b The multiplying of the incomyng of it who vnderstood? 1600 Hen. Kings Cologne 51 b which as a C dayes iorney betwixt in comynge and goyng. 1683 Bury Wills (Camden) 92 Liberte of fre egresse, goyng, and in comyng at the gate be the stricte syde 1753 MORAYSTA Let to Addington 5 Aug in Lyttelt Hist Nott (1864) III 323 At the incoming of the queen's troops 1849 BOTHS Long Improv Impr (1853) 54-5 To regulate them for close shutting, and suitable opening, to the incoming of the fresh air going of the Hoods 1874 Rep on Hist Exp xvii (1743) II 72 note, The incoming of others into the Coast 1845 HOOD Epping Hunt 491 With the incoming of spring there is an outgoing from town 1868 HOOD Fun By Coalfleet xix 108 Wudlaw watched for her in comings and out goings.

†2 Place of entrance, entrance, entry = IN COME sb 1 Obs

1586 WELDE Lectur 1 5 I he incomyng of the hous, and of the porche he made large (1388 alargide the entring of the house] c 1440 Bevis (1) ed MS 5,959 If sh, Hit was right at yᵉ incoming Of gwaby land c 1550 Nat Gaw & Ames (Arb) Hirnd 35/2 In the incomynge of euery cyte stande iii crowes

†3 An entrance-fee = INCOME sb 13 Obs

1554-9 WATELHOUSE in Songs & Ball (1860) 10 Be in comings and fynes many tenantes decaye

4. Money that comes in, revenue = INCOME sb 6 (Usually in pl)

1596 DALRYMPLE tr Leslæus Hist Scot 11 22 Garnard King of Peychtis bigit a gret hous wt a kirk and gaue it Kenno, and incuming, of the quhilk 4 foldis 1822 SCOTT Monast ix, More followers than he can support by honest means, or by his own incomings 1848 MILL Pol Econ Pref Rem (1876) 4 Money a convenient shape in which to receive his incomings of all sorts 1881 Nat Aver 5 Feb 185/1 The nominal incomings are good

I'ncoming, ppl a [f IN adv + COMING ppl a] That comes in or enters in the general sense and with various specific applications, e g a Coming upon a position or office vacated by another, succeeding b Coming in from abroad, immigrant c Coming in as profit, accruing d Of a period of time About to begin, ensuing (Now rare)

1753 Stewart's Trial App 52 As to the agreement between him and the incoming tenant, when he undertook to let their bouman 1795 BURKE Th Naturity Wks 1842 II 249 The farmer should have a full incoming profit on the produce of his labour 1808 JAMIESON, The incomin nock, the next week 1826 ANNAN Edinb Mus II (ed 2) 59 To bring the in coming or out going tide 1870 Daily News 22 Sept, Pilots, for incoming vessels 1876 PARNELL & SHERIDAN Telegraphy 146 The incoming line wire at A is attached to terminal 1, and the compensating wire to terminal 4 Mod d. Plans for the incoming year

†Inco·mity Obs rare—0 [f L incom-is unpleasant, after COMITY] 'Discourtesy' (Blount Glossogr 1656)

†Incommende, v Obs [IN-2] To commit, entrust (to a person), = COMMEND v 1

1574 HELOWES Gascoigne's Fruit Fr 53 Many times did the Consul Scipio request the Numantins to incommend themselues to the clemencie of Rome Ibid 91 Writes to be good must be incommended vnto the Goddes 1590 H BARROW Brief Discov 2 The Gospell deliuered and incommended by his body Apostles and Prophets vnto vs and all posterities 1598 BARRET Theor Warres II 2 27 The Enguine to be incommended to the Enguine bearer 1621 ASSOCIATE Synod Dordt Decisal, Lett VI 1 Of recommending vs thing, and requiring it

†Incommendable, a Obs [IN-3 of OBS F incommendable (Cotgr)] Not commendable or praiseworthy, discommendable

c1510 BARCLAY Mirr Gd Manners (1570) F ij, That suche thing semed eurst honest and laudable, Nowe semeth dishonest, vile and incommendable 1657 TOMLINSON Renon's Disp 564 Epiphius, to be desclues them are incommended this in Faultes

In commendam see COMMENDAM 1

Incommensurability (inkŏmĕ·nsūrăbĭ·lĭtĭ, -jur-), n (sb) [ad med L incommensurabilitas, also in Fr (Oresme, 14th c) which may be the intermediate source] IN-3 and COMMENSURABLE]

1 Math Not commensurable, having no common measure (integral or fractional) Said of two or more quantities or magnitudes, or of one quantity or magnitude in relation to another (cons worth, +to), also sometimes absol Incommensurable with ordinary or rational quantities, as the natural numbers, the same as irrational or surd (but not usually said, like these, of roots)

1570 BILLINGSLEY Euclid x def ii 229 Incommensurable magnitudes are such, which no one common measure doth measure 1571 DIGGES Pantom III vii R j b, Hence lines for that they in some of them incommensurable, can not exactly be squared, saue only in surde numbers a 1688 COMMON Immat Mor (1731) 271 That the Diameter of a Circle is incommensurable with the Circle 1710 J CLARK Kohautius's Fluxions Pref (1726) I 53 Suppose ABCD to be a Square, it may be geometrically demonstrated, that the Side AB is incommensurable to the Diagonal AC 1837 J HAYTAM Hist Eur Lit II iii 835 The ratios of surd roots are referable to incommensurable magnitudes And the ratio of the circumference of a circle to its diameter (denoted by π) is an incommensurable quantity

b (in Math) Having no (integral) common measure except unity, prime to one another

1557 RECORDE Whetst Ad B ij, Hee haue no vse he common diuisor, then are they called incommensurable, as 18 and 25 1806 HUTTON Course Math I 53 If it happen that the common measure thus found is 1, then the numbers are said to be incommensurable, or not having any common measure

2 gen Having no common standard of measurement, not comparable in respect of magnitude or value

1660 R COKE Justice Vind 12 Whether such things, so apprehended by the Senses, be pleasant profitable or not subject to Reason, Scripture, or commensurable to these 1661 H MORE Myst Iniq Apol 539 Will not this Position prove as incommensurable to humane affairs and be liable with as great inconveniences? 1696 [HERB] Let Scotch Pol Wks 1842 II 260 Between money and such services there is no common principle of comparison they are quantities incommensurable 1849 DE QUINCEY Vat Temperance Version Wks XII 167 The two states are incommensurable on any plan of direct comparison 1881 WESTCOTT & HORT Gk N T III 21 Such probabilities are incommensurable with definite numbers of attesting documents must be treated as incommensurable

3 fig Not worthy to be measured with, not coming up to the standard of measurement of (something), utterly disproportioned to

1799-1805 S TURNER Anglo Sax (1836) I III vi 188 The forces of either were incommensurable with the number and loss of the people they wrecked 1865 HOOK Lives Abps VII 83 His first life is incommensurable with infinity 1892 STEVENSON & L OSBOURNE Wrecker 172 Sublimities which I still dismissed as incommensurable with the facts

II sb An incommensurable quantity, etc usually in pl

1741 WATTS Improv Mind I ii 3 Puzzling enquiries concerning incommensurables 1828 Lain Ker XX 94 Omitting to introduce any thing concerning the nature of incommensurables 1845 H ROGERS Ess II 1 Ingenious handicraft in cutting and contriving to perform impossibilities, to find a common measure of incommensurables

Incommensurableness, sbst [f next + -NESS] The quality of being incommensurable, incommensurability

a 1691 BOYLE Advices judging Things Wks 1772 IV 468 But [Euclid] contents himself to demonstrate the incommensurableness of the side and diagonal of a square 1833 J NEWMAN Arians II iii 1876) 164 The impropriety of the

Incommensurably (inkŏmĕ·nsūrăblĭ), adv [f as prec + -LY2] In an incommensurable manner or degree, incomparably

1652 W HARRIETT Infant Baptisme Unless we affirm that the Death of Christ be incommensurably reparative to our full in Adam 1871 BROWNING Pr Hohenst 1 27 The incommensurably beautiful

Incommensurate (inkŏmĕ·nsūrĕt, -jūr-), a [IN-3] Not commensurate

1 Not of equal or corresponding measure or degree, out of proportion, disproportionate inadequate Const with, to

1684 BOYLE Paradoxes Solid Bod iv Wks 1772 IV 780 So they be not incommensurate to its pores 1751 JOHNSON Rambler No 1-7 P 10 His improvement grows continually more incommensurate to his life 1847 GROTE Greece II xxxv IV 172 The four ancient tribes had become incommensurate with the existing condition of the Attic people 1856 FROUDE Hist Eng II 251 A hot power, unfortunately was incommensurate with their good will

†b Having parts or elements out of proportion, disproportioned Obs rare

1650 BULKLEY Anthropomet 186 The natural proportion of the body is depraved, and the Body made incommensurate

2 Not having a common standard of measurement, = INCOMMENSURABLE b a 1687 H MORE (J) The diagonal line and side of a quadrate to our apprehension are incommensurate 1694 HOLDER Nat Time (J) If the year comprehend days, it is but vainly any greater space of time may be said to comprehend it less, though the less space be incommensurate to the greater 1864 J H NEWMAN Apol 374 Difficulty and doubt are incommensurate.

Hence Incommensurately adv, Incommensurateness

1727 PARLEY tol II Incommensurate = incommensurable Quality 1825 COLERIDGE Table Talk 28/8 I 285 The utter incommensurateness and the unsatisfying qualities of the things around us 1828 WEBSTER (1841) Cheyne for Incommensurately 1845 Blackw Mag XLIV 15, The incommensurateness of Christianity, under its present developments to embrace and to form a rest for the new mental developments of society

†Incommensura·tion Obs rare [IN-3] Incommensurateness, disproportion ateness

1650 BULKER Anthropomet 230 In knowing, and judging, of Commensuration and Incommensuration of a Body

Incommensurable (inkŏmĕ·nsūrăbl), a rare [ad L incommensurabilis] see IN-3 and COMMENSURABLE] Incapable of being mixed together

1620 WOTTON in Reliq (1672) 500 Whose hairs make a commensurable ribbon [in Life &c 476 to blend materials of not altogether incommensurable subject with unmixed] 1825 SOUTHEY in Q Rev XXXIII 140 In unmeetable matter

Hence Incommiscibi lity, incapacity of being mixed together (or with something)

1646 SIR T. BROWNE Pseud Ep II v 90 By some antipathy or incommiscibility thereunto

†Incommi·xed, -mi·xt, a Obs [IN-1] Not mixed together or with something, unmingled

1658 SIR T BROWNE Hydriot 28 Which preserved their bones and ashes incommixed 1660 JEREMY TAYLOR Ductor (1701) 55 2 Those, for things which are first, and Divine and Incommixt, and always the same

†Incommixture Obs [IN-1] Freedom from mixture, unmixed condition

1657-83 EVELYN Hist Relig (1850) I 190 This monstrous mixture and simple purity of parts and principles a 1682 SIR T BROWNE Tracts (1712) 12 In what degree this incommixture the Language of that People stood which were casually discovered in the skirt of Spain

Incommodable (inkŏmō·dăbl), a rare—1 [ad late L incommodabilis, f in (IN-3) + commodabilis easily moved see -ITY] Incapability of being moved or stirred to feeling 1822 J TAYLOR Apology Liberty Friends 146 The attendants on this are indignation, and the incommodable which is called in Greek ἀοργησία, or a disposition incapable of being excited to anger.

+Incommodance, n Obs [f ppl stem of L incommodare to inconvenience, f incommod us in convenient see INCOMMODE a]

1 trans INCOMMODE v 1

1611 SPEED Hist Gt Brit IX vii § 42 As we may easily think that the French would gladly accommodate the King of England 1648 EARL WESTMORLAND Petit Advice (1879) 140 When the Scorching Noon dayes heat, Incommodates the Swain, Neat 1653 SIR T. H. Travels Nat Hist 100 Tea consumes superfluous Humours, which incommodate the Brain

2 = INCOMMODITY 2

1555 HARRISON Descr Hen VIII (Camden) 16 His definition doth nothing incommodate and hurt our cause 1634 W. LAWSON tr Balsac's Left (ed 1) 12 You Majesty may be sure is without incommodating your affaires 1688 H MORE Answ Cath Lett 115 In commodated by any dull cloudy observations

†Incommodate, ppl a Obs [ad L incommodat us, pa ppl of incommodare see prec] Incommoded inconvenienced

1628 MABBE tr Alemans Guzman d'Alf II 117 This incommodate accommodating of my wife will cost thee money 1658 BARLOW in Boyle Journal Drawers (1858) App 33/1 I am exceedingly incommodate 1669 MORTON New Voy Mem 22 Scurvy and other Diseases, which this long Voyage and their incommodate condition is brought upon them

Incommodation (inkɒmɒdēi·ʃən) Now rare or Obs [n. of action from L incommodare to IN-COMMODE.] The action of INCOMMODING, or fact of being incommoded; inconvenience

1664 H. More Myst Iniq xx 75 But to let pass these incommodations of the Body, Christianity may be made very uneasie and uncomfortable by several cackings and disturbings of the Mind 1779 Sheridan Critic ii, The assembling of crowd and incommodation at public places 1827 Blackw Mag VIII 8 Engagements were purchased at a rather dear rate in the incommodations connected with that coach

† Incommode, a (sb) Obs [a F incommode (16th c. in Godef Compl), ad L incommodus inconvenient, f in- (IN-3) + commodus convenient see COMMODE a.]

1 Inconvenient, troublesome = INCOMMODIOUS 1

1672 Mr Wesley Love in Wood Ded., To be obliging to that excess as you are is a dangerous qual ty, and may be very incommode to you 1680 tr Aquinas 75 Think of gaining the esteem of the World, and never shew your self incommode 1762 tr H Watson's Lusiad Amadi Paiot 1780 V 209 If those streets of hut were incommode in a battle, I know nothing they were adapted to Ibid 264 Vertue was incommode she loved truth

2 Unsuitable, unfitting = INCOMMODIOUS 4

1678 Gale Cer tab iii 31 It seems more incommode to say that God moves and predetermines to all other acts

B sb An inconvenience, incommodity

1748 Wolsey Def to Anderton Primer in Strype Eccl Mem 1737 II 1 22 Advoiding sundry incommodes and inconveniences that might follow thereof

Incommode (inkɒmōu·d), v [a F incommoder (1548 c. in Littré), ad L incommodāre to inconvenience see INCOMMODATE v.]

1 trans To subject to inconvenience or dis comfort, to trouble, annoy, molest, embarrass, inconvenience

1598 Florio, Incommodare, to incommode, to trouble to disease [etc.] 1629-31 Earl Stirl. Monarch 1 111 The King would find himself incommoded with all that furniture upon his back 1692 Bentley Boyle Lect iii 87 Every breath of wind would incommode us 1748 Richardson Clarissa (1811) VII 96 Not that I would incommode the Lady 1835 W Irving Tour Prairies 134 We had been, for some weeks past so much incommoded by sleeping entirely in the open air that, at first the confinement of a chamber incommoded us 1883 J Hawthorne Dust II 96 The revelation could be so unimpeached as to incommode anyone

2 To affect with inconvenience, to hinder, impede, obstruct (an action, etc.)

1708 W J Arrigon's Voy Lisbon liv 210 A wooden Shed, which very much incommodes their marching, in Procession 1778 Johnson Lett to Mrs Thrale 13 July, The hay har vest is here very much incommoded by daily showers 1802 Mod Trav VIII 57 The first thing was much incommoded when she reclined on a soft or bed

† Incommodement (-ɒmdmēnt) Obs rare [ad F incommodement 1549 in R Estienne], f incommoder see MENT] Condition of being incommoded or inconvenienced

1733 Chevne Eng Malady 315 (L.) I persisted in my ordinary course of living and business, though with severe incommodement

† Incommo deration. Obs [IN-1] The opposite of 'commoderation', mixture (of 'humours') in undue proportions

1612 Woodall Surg Mate Wks (1656) 141 An Apostume, is a tumour composed of three kinds of diseases. Intemperature Incommoderation and Solution of continuity

† Incommo diate, v Obs [irreg f INCOMMODE + -(I)ATE 3 Cf COMMODIATE.] = INCOMMODE

1650 I am Morew tr Scudéri's Man bee Guil y 171 We ought to incommodiate our selves, to serve our friends 1654 — tr Boterus's Hist Wares Ireland iv 111 440 It is not to be said how much the Artillery was incommodiated Ibid 369, 381, 384

Incommodious (inkɒmōu·diəs), a [f IN-3 + COMMODIOUS, cf F incommode, L incommodus] Not commodious, or the opposite of commodious

1 Causing inconvenience or discomfort, troublesome, annoying, disagreeable, inconvenient

1551 Robinson tr More's Utop i (Arb) 48 Beside their daily labour, their life is nothing hard or incommodious 1654 tr Sandys's Travels Pref 24 The Slaves know that the lightest chaines are always the least incommodious 1713 Derham Phys Theol iii iv 80 Hills and Vales though to a peevish weary Traveller, they may seem incommodious and troublesome, yet are a noble Work of the great Creator 1822 Sir Good's Study Med (ed 4) IV 289 It may be given in any form, though its disgusting taste points out that of pills as the least incommodious

† b Of persons or their dispositions Troublesome, difficult to get on with Obs

1565-87 Fox Acts & Mon (1596) 46 . In the time of this Commodus although he was an incommodious prince [etc.] 1783 Johnson Lett to Mrs Thrale 26 Nov, A temper very incommodious in sickness, and by no means amiable in the tenour of life

† 2 Disadvantageous, hurtful, injurious Obs

1579-80 North Plutarch (1676) 77 They cast also a certain moisture and steam, that is very hurtfull and incommodious 1655 Moufet & Bennet Health's Improv (1746) 350 Whereas Honey is hurtful to choleric Complexions, Sugar is incommodious or hurtful unto none

† 3 Unprofitable, unfit, unsuitable; unbefitting, unbecoming Const for, to, or inf Obs

1553 Eden Treat Newe Ind (Arb) 41 There are manye willermesses lacking water, and incommodious for the life of man 1628 Jackson Creed VI xx § 5 I am not ignorant what censures pass upon this author for his incommodious speeches in this argument 1714 Strele Lover No 20 (1772 I 119 It was incommodious to the Circumstances of his Family

4 Of places or the like Not convenient for shelter, travelling, etc., not affording good or sufficient accommodation, inconveniently small, narrow, etc.; uncomfortable

1615 De Monfort's Sure I Indies 7 A great bridge of boates 10m of incommodious by reason of the large nes and height of the River 1687 A. Lovell tr Thevenot's Trav I 19 The Streets of this Town are incommodious, that one is always going either up hill or down hill 1725 Pope Odyss xix 290 An incommodious port 1777 Howard Personal Acc (1780) 212 In March 1775, when the number of prisoners was 175 there were in them in this incommodious prison wives and children 46 1859 Dickens T Two Cities I 1 Jellied Bunk was small, as it, ugly, and very incommodious

Incommo diously, adv [f prec + -LY 2] In an incommodious manner or degree, inconveniently, comfortably, troublesomely

1551 R Robinson tr More's Utop II (Arb) 93 To th intent the syke shuld not lye to thronge or strayte, and therfore incommodiously, and inconvenyently 1583 Foxe Acts xxi 439 Neither was this Cyprian's fault alone, that he wrote of repentance many things incommodiously [marg inepte et male] and unwisely 1652 Gocar tr Rivet's Abrahams 115 It is certain, that I am not incommodiously inconstant 1713 Derham Phys Theol v 11 (R.) Without this erect posture his eyes would have been the most incommodiously situated of all animals 1784 Cowper Task i 69 Incommodiously pent in, And ill at ease behind

Incommo diousness. [f as prec + -NESS] The being incommodious, inconvenience, incommodity Also with pl, An inconvenience

1624 Donne Serm V cxxx 330 If Abraham had any such doubts of an Incommodiousness in so troublesome a Seal, of a Newly-known Seal so unpractised a Seal 1628 Jackson Serm II 175 God hath so tempered the things of this world that every commodity hath some incommodiousness, and every incommodiousness some convenience attending the same a 1723 Filtwood Un obsig (1765) 151 The Incommodiousness of this Place wherein he was kept may have occasioned his Death 1864 Chamb Jrnl I 257 Bearing evils altogether beyond masculine philosophy—even, it may be, incommodiousnesses that thre ten health, nay, life itself 1881 Daily News 5 Sept 5/1 The partners in the House were proud of its smallness proud of its ugli ness, and proud of its incommodiousness

Incommodity (inkɒmɒ·dĭti) [a F incommodité (1409 in Hatz Darm.), ad L incommoditās, f incommodus see INCOMMODE a and -ITY.]

1 Incommodious quality, condition, or state of things, inconvenience, disadvantage, discomfort

1432-50 tr Higden (Rolls) VI 32 The gardyn of delices, where no inconvenience is or affliccion incommodite, but the fruicion of alle manor delices 1540 Chaunt Pref 157 Bearing a Moche teene and incommodité Folweth age 1540 Elyot Image Gov (1549) 102 Not there is any other thyng primatelie diouen to our incommodites. 1596 Spenser State Irel Wks (Globe) 618/1 Declare your opinion about the Lawes of Kayning, what incomodity you have conceaved to be in them 1633 T Stafford Pac Hib II xv (1810) 385 To bee exposed to the like incommodite of cold and raine 1773 Johnson Lett to Ivs notl y Nov, I came home last night, without any incommodity, danger, or weariness

2 With pl An incommodious thing or circum stance, an inconvenience, disadvantage, a discom fort, annoyance † Formerly also in stronger sense Something hurtful, an injury, damage (cf 1)

1432-50 tr Higden (Rolls) VIII 241 In the ende of herveste were so moche wete and reyne, whereby mony incommodites fell 1450 tr De Imitatione II vii 58 It is suffre many contrary pinges & diuerse incomodites in pis wrecchid lif 1579 Fenton Guicciard 1 (1599) 16 Touching their superiority by land it was full of incommodities 1625 Bacon Ess, Usury (Arb) 547 It is good to set before vs the Incommodities, and Commodities of Vsury 1712 Lond Gaz No 4919/2 The Incommodities of the Season will soon oblige the Troops to decamp 1852 Hawthorne Blithedale Rom vi 107 As soon as my incommodities allowed me to think of such occurrences.

† Inco mmodous, a Obs rare. [f L incommod-us inconvenient (see above) + -OUS] = INCOMMODIOUS

1677 Gale Cer Gentiles iv 180 The Communitie do best understand what is most commodious or incomodous for the preservation and promotion of their Societies

† Inco mmon, var of ENCOMMON v Obs, to make common

1530 Palsgr Introd 1 Incommon, I make a commodious

Incommunicability (inkɒmiū·nikăbĭ·lĭti) [f next + -ITY.] = INCOMMUNICABLENESS

1650 Baxter Sons Temp (1681) 82 Incommunicability of Love 1660 Jer Taylor Duct Dubit II ii rule xi § 24 An act of so great simplicity and incommunicability that it hath neither brother nor sister nor daughter, nor kinsman 1855 De Quincey Let to Daughters 3 Mar in H A Page Life (1877) II xvii 100 To account for the incommunicability and to show that the accident of last night in George Square was no accident

Incommunicable (inkɒmiū·nikăbl), a [f IN-3 + COMMUNICABLE: cf F incommunicable (16th c, Calvin Inst), mod L incommunicabilis]

1 Not communicable, that cannot be communicated or made common, incapable of being imparted or shared

1577 tr Bullinger's Decades (1592) 655 Hee who doth communicate the incommunicable properties of God to creatures. 1608 Willet Hexapla in Levit 40 This name Jehovah is also incommunicable 1677 Wilkins Nat Relig 104 Those are called incommunicable attributes which are proper to God alone, and not communicated to any creature 1766 C Johnston Chrysal (1932) III 139 To wrest from the sovereign an essential part of the incommunicable power of the crown 1824 Southey Roderick xviii 65 None shared or knew His deep and incommunicable joy

b absol or as sb

a 1642 Br Montagu A & Mon (1642) 32 A Reception of Superabundant Transcendency, Christs peculiar Incommunicable, which is ultra creaturam

2 That cannot be communicated to another by speech, incapable of being told or uttered, ineffable, unspeakable, unutterable

1654 Scott Twelve Serm (1697) II 79 How freely did Christ unbosom himself to his Disciples? [not] in the extraordinary discoveries of the Gospel only, but also of those Incommunicable Revelations of the Divine Love, in referen ce to their own personal interest in it 1807 Polton Course T v Heard unutterable things, And incommunicable words saw 1864 Farrer Crit Theol 1866 130 Its true meaning is utterly incommunicable by one being to another

• 3 Not communicative, incommunicative

1568 North Gueuara's Diall Pr iv x 136 Terrible iudges, seuere, intractable, collerick, incommunicable 1831 Southey Lett (1856) IV 247 About the Essays or Colloquies I can tell nothing. Murray being uncommunicative.

4 Not in communication (with others or with each other), not having inter communication, without communication or intercourse

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep vi vii 307 For the North and Southerne pole, are the invariable termes of that Axis whereon the heavens doe move, and are therefore incommunicable and fixed points 1804 Wordsw Affliction Mar Agnes viii, Perhaps thou hast been summoned to thy sleep, Thou, thou and all thy mates, to keep An incommunicable sleep 1865 Grote Plato II xxv 366 The two worlds, though naturally disconnected and not incommunicable

Incommu nicableness. [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being incommunicable a Incapa bility of being communicated, imparted, or shared

1609 Bp Hall No Peace with Rome § 8 Wee neither can nor dare arrogate vnto our selues those things which, by an holy reseruation and incommunicableness, are proper onely vnto the Highest 1702 Bunyan Glory of Grace II The Incommunicableness of all the Attributes of God 1882 Matheson in Expositor Aug 140 The Jew emphasized the self containedness, the incommunicableness of God

† b Want of inter communication or intercourse

1643 Hexter in J. Goodwin etc Spot Narration Introd, The vnchastity of the Protestant party in general, from the aspersions of Incommunicableness within it selfe, and Incompatibleness with Magistracy

c Reticence, taciturnity, incommunicativeness

1835 Tait's Edin Mag IX 280 His incommunicableness with his children accounts for the paucity of those familiar anecdotes

Incommunicably (inkɒmiū·nikăbli), adv [f as prec + -LY 2] In an incommunicable manner, in a way that cannot be communicated, imparted, or shared

1627 Hakewill Apol (1630) IV i 46 (Annihilation) is as incommunicably the effect of a power divine and above nature, as is the worke of the Creation it selfe 1707 Norris Treat Humility vii 300 To usurp that praise and honour which is peculiarly and incommunicably due to him 1882 Farrar Early Chr II 430 Abide in the Unction It is a thing absolutely real, incommunicably dissevered from all that is false

b Without communication or intercour-e

1892 Stevenson Across the Plains 197 Each, in his own little world of air, stood incommunicably separate

† Incommunicate, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f IN-1 + COMMUNICATE ppl a] = next

1668 Howe Blest Righteous (1825) II It is not happy by an incommunicate happiness, nor glorious by an incommunicate glory

Hence † Incommu nicately adv, without communication

1864 H More Myst Iniq, Synopsis Proph 524 A singular or individual substance completely secured by itself, but not incommunicably, though incommunicately

† Incommu nicated, ppl a Obs rare [IN-3] Not communicated, uncommunicated, that is without communication

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep III xxiv 171 Although in that indistinguisht masse, all things seemed one, yet separated by the voyce of God, according to their species they came out in incommunicated forms, and irrelative semmalities 1664 H More Antid Infid II 18 Excellencies so far as we know incommunicated to any Creature

Incommu nicating, a [IN-3] Not communicating, without communication

a 1676 Hale Hist Com Law xii (1739) 256 That Confusion and Disparity that would unavoidably ensue, if the Administration was by several unincommunicating Hands. a 1682 Sir T Browne Tracts (1684) 130 Even in their Northern Nations and unincommunicating Angles, their Languages are widely differing 1876 J Martineau Ess, Addr etc (1890) IV 295 Incommunicating distances † Incommunica tion. Obs [IN-3] Absence or want of communication or imparting.

1621 Sclater Key (1629) 133 The third branch is incommunication, Invidia Canina. the dog in the manger 1648 J Doughty Church-Schismes 17 They inflicted vpon them absten sion, or (as I may say) incommunication with the Church 1653 Manton Exp James iii 14 Envy discovereth itself by incommunication men would have all things inclosed within their own line and pale

Incommunicative (inkɔmiū nikətiv), a [IN-3] Not communicative, not disposed for intercourse or conversation, uncommunicative

1670 COLLINS in Rigaud Corr Sci Men (1841) I 149 We cannot expect it from one here who is incommunicative] 1726 M DAVIES Athen Brit II 10 Rdr 15, I shall not imitate their incommunicative Taciturnisme 1816 HUNT Feast. Month's Chace III xi (1870) 210, I am naturally silent and incommunicative sort of character

Hence Incommu nicatively adv , Incommunicativeness

1816 J SCOTT Vis Paris (ed 3) 45 The officer resented conversation with more firmness than in words in France and shut himself up in almost total incommunicativeness 1866 J HORNBY Cope Cod vi (1867) 109 Silently, and for the most part incommunicatively, going about their business 1878 J I SANFORD Fatum The Kings, Chas I, 315 The overt act of a lie seemed frequently the best method of incommunicativeness

Incommutabi·lity [f next + ITY Cf mod F incommutabilité (1718 in Dict Acad)] The quality or condition of being incommutable

1674 tr Boethius 187 [1] His order, by us is called immutability, keeps all things mutable within their several ranks and conditions 1888-9 SCHAFF Lingol Relig Introd I 48 Mammodeus maintained the incommutability of the law

Incommutable (inkɔmiū tăb'l), a [ad L incommutabilis, f in (IN-1) + commutābilis COMMUTABLE cf F incommutable (1381 in Hatz.-Darm)] In sense 2 f IN-3 + COMMUTABLE]

1. Not changeable, not liable to change or alteration, unchangeable, immutable

1450 tr Boethius 187 [1] His order, by us is called immutability, keeps all things mutable within their several ranks and conditions 1888-9 SCHAFF Lingol Relig Introd I 48 Mammodeus maintained the incommutability of the law

Incommutable, (inkɔmiū tăb'l), a [ad L incommittabilis, f in (IN-1) + committābilis COMMUTABLE cf F incommutable (1381 in Hatz.-Darm) In sense 2 f IN-3 + COMMUTABLE]

1. Not changeable, not liable to change or alteration, unchangeable, immutable

1450 tr De Imitatione III 66 [It] that [is] for good in it commutable, for medle inestimable, for souerayn worship, for endeles glory, men wol not suffre be lest werynes 1483 CAXTON Gold Leg 96 b/b [It] is immutably decyte of the blessyd tryunyte is without ony chaungyng 1677 GALE Crt Gentiles IV 184 One uniforme, sempiterne, and incommutable Rule of Justice in all Times and Places 1841 NEWMAN Lect Rom I 54 The giver of a perfect and incommutable law

2 Not commutable, that cannot be commuted or exchanged, unexchangeable

1775 HARRIS Philos Arrangem Wks (1841) 331 The powers, though invisible, are incommutable, nor can those of the shipwright enable him to forge an anchor, or those of the smith enable him to construct a ship 1806 HORSLEY Serm (1811) 424 Notwithstanding the reality of those different forces, and the incommutable nature of the two things

Hence Incommu tably adv , unexchangeably

Incommu tableness

1808 WEBSTER, Incommutableness, the quality of being incommutable Incommutably, without reciprocal change 1852 W H MILL Applic Panth Prom (1860) 197 But the first element of this name Phalun differs in its initial radical letter and etymology, from Ubi, as completely and incommutably as do their respective correlatives in Arabic, Allah and Ali

†Incommutative, a Obs rare—0 [IN-1] 1656 BLOUNT Glossogr, Incommutative, not to be changed or altered

Incompact (inkɔmpa kt), a [IN-1] Not compact, loosely put together, of loose consistency

1626 BULLOKAR Incompact, slight, not close joyned 1684 I BURNET Th Earth II 55 These ruines being not onely unequal in their surface but also hollow, loose, and incompact within, as ruines use to be 1759 tr Duhamel's Husb I viii (1762) 22 The earth itself loose and incompact

b transf and fig

1809 LANDOR Wks (1846) I 399/2 The empire of the Czars being already incompact and vast 1852 SHUTE Organ 116 Their tone is too braying and incoherent (or incompact) 1869 HADDAN Apost Succ III 55 An organized Church is a more effective instrument for the transmission of truth than the incompact school of a philosophic sect

Hence Incompa ctly adv , Incompa ctness

1797 BURKE vol II, Incompactness 1826 LANDOR Wks I 71/2 My memory is apt to stagger and swerve under verses piled incompactly 1858 Hawkins' Magic Oct 640/1 His genius have a strange air of incompactness, mainly attributable to the independent character of many of their wing feathers.

Incompa cted, a rare [f IN-3 + COMPACTED ppl a] Not compacted, incompact

1682 BOYLE Script Nat v Wks 1772 I 546 The other four elements might indeed be variously and loosely blended together, but would remain incompacted

Incompa rability (inkɔmpărăbi liti) [f next + -ITY] The quality of being incomparable, incomparableness

1603 FLORIO Montaigne (1634) 568 Truth hath her lets, discommodities and incomparabilities with us 1884 tr Lotze's Metaph 456 Opposing those who address the incomparability of things psychical and material as an objection against the possibility of any interaction between them

Incompa rable (inkɔmpărăb'l), a (adv , sb) [a. F incomparable (12-13th c. in Hatz Darm), ad L incomparābilis, f in (IN-1) + comparābilis COMPARABLE]

1 With which there is no comparison, unequalled in manner, kind, or degree, matchless, peerless, transcendent

1425-50 LYDG Chron Troy I vi, And of beaute se bene incomparable c 1440 Gen Myst (Shaks. Soc.) 391 Heyl incomparabil quen Goddis holy tron! 1533 ELYOT Cast Helthe (1541) 32 b, Honye is of incomparable efficacy a 1661 FULLER Worthies (1840) II 441 She was afterwards his incomparable wife 1740 WARBURTON Pict Legat in v Wks 1811 IV 215 A new hypothesis which hath the incomparable Sir Isaac Newton for its Patron 1871 T STERRY Plague Europe IX (1874) 202 The squalor of an Italian town surrounds monuments of incomparable beauty 1877 GLADSTONE Lect 20 Apr, Incredible shame, incomparable bungling

2 Not to be compared (with or to)

1614 JACKSON Creed VI xi § 18 marg, Vnmeet all absolute obedience vnto men is incomparable with true loyalty vnto Christ. 1634 SIR T HERBERT Trav 316 Neere mountaine Taurus is now a Citie both great and famous, yet incomparable to what shee was in Mahumets time 1697 Aldrich's Virg Wed III 640 As knowledge becomes more accurate, the tables constructed in successive periods become more portable 1844 Blackw Mag LV 25 May 564 The British patent system is incomparable, from every point of view almost, with the patent systems of Germ ny and the United States

†B adv = INCOMPARABLY Obs

1482 Monk of Evesham (Arb) 101 Mekyl more, glad ihesu and that incomparable for the certen lyfdying that he bookt to haue the sight of god 1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1531) 90 b, Thou shalte be in heuen vnder god incomparable more treasure 1664 POWER Exp Philos I 6 The Gray, or Horse Fly Her eye is an incomparable piece of spectacle

C sb 1 An incomparable or matchless person or thing

1704 PRIOR Pa Hist Sp Mem IX 35, That there ever should be such a succession of incomparables 1807 T Three Germans III 19 This incomparable would be an evil to be dreaded in the city

2 A name for a North American bird, the Nonpareil or Painted Bunting (Cyanospiza or Passerina ciris), so called from its gorgeous colouring, blue, green, yellow, and scarlet

1880 Cent Dict, Cyanospiza contains the common indigo bird and the incomparable, the lazuli finch, the nonpareil, incomparable, or pape [etc.]

Incomparableness (inkɔmpărăb'lnes [f next + -NESS] The quality of being incomparable

1632 LITHGOW Trav I 11 What moving arable mess of number, may well lift our hearts with admiration 1733 FIELDING Don Quixote Pref II v, I will make them a fruitful example to all future knights-errant, of the singular incomparableness of that divine lady 1888-9 SCHAFF Lingol Relig Introd II 103 It is from this centre that the ideas of unity, incomparableness and glory issue

Incomparably (inkɔmpărăbli, adv [f AS prec + -LY2, cf F incomparablement (12-13th c., incomparablitér)] In an incomparable manner or degree in a way that does not admit of comparison, beyond comparison

c 1440 Gesta Romanorum 257 Goostly lustes & wymmynges I vecedyne in value all eerthly thynges In comparablely c 1450 Mirour Saluacioun 2263 Hire bemes omer alle bryghtenes were incomparablely 1532 ELYOT Gov I xxvii, Shootinge in the longe bowe incomparably excelleth all other exercise 1634 HEYWOOD Maidenhead in Wks 1874 IV 131 Does not the new Queene the Prince sent my Mistresse, become her most incomparably? 1666 BOYLE Orig Formes & Qual (1674) 14 The structure even of Sea-Animals is incomparably inferiour to that of a humane body 1712 ADDISON Spect No 419 P 7 Shakespear has incomparably excelled all others 1855 J WILSON in Noct Ambr (1887) 283 Incomparable bright 1871 HOUGHTON Sport Life 1870 ROGERS Hist Gleanings Ser II 115 Stratford was incomparably the abler of the two

†Incompa red, a Obs rare—1 [IN-3] Unmatched, matchless, peerless, incomparable

1590 SPENSER To Ser I Walsingham 1 That Mantuane Poetes incompared spirit

Incompass, obs var of ENCOMPASS v

†Incompa ssable, a Obs rare—1 [a obs. F incompassable incomparable (14th c. in Godef), f in (IN-1) + compassible, a parallel form to COMPATIBLE] Incapable

1630 SIR R GORDON Hist Earls Sutherland 413 (Jam) He seemed to be incompassable in the person of any subject, deeming it to the king's honor, and insupportable, grievous to the kirkes

†Incompa·ssion. Obs [f IN-1 + COMPASSION so F incompassion.] Want or absence of compassion or pity

1628 SANDERSON 12 Serm (1637) 231 There are in my pulse and natural sinnes, our incompassion to our brethren miserably vsed with Warre and Famine in other parts of the world 1650 Hall Il 550 Whilst we admire the outcrie, that of incompassion, we may not fall into the other, that of foolish pity 1675 Art Contentm v 237 [This] shall ... take off impatiments and their sufferings thro the contracting optics of ingratitude and incompassion

†Incompa ssionate, a Obs [IN-3] Not compassionate, void of compassion or pity

1621 COTTON Angleses, pitilesse, incompassionate 1623 SANDERSON 13 Serm (1637) 126 He was to wrestle with the unjust and bitter upbraidings of unreasonable and incompassionate men 1674 FLATMAN Reason 8 Better a pitiful passionate Age shall plow The delicate Amira's brow 1679 Litabl Lect 21 They will repay them with the most incompassionate usage

Hence †Incompa ssionately adv , without compassion or pity, †Incompa ssionateness, lack of compassion, pitilessness

1621 I GRANGER * Occ Encl* 94 (T Suppl) The most passionateness of other great men, which were merciless, cruel, and hard hearted 1638 FORD Lady's Trial II iii, Plead not without sense of pity So incompassionately

Incompatibility (inkɔmpætibi liti) [a F incompatibilité (15th c.) see next and ITY]

1 The quality or condition of being incompatible, incongruity, absolute inconsistency, irreconcilableness

1611 COTGR, Incompatibilité, incompatibilite, iarring, disagreement 1614 SELDEN Table Talk (1689) 230 The incompatibilities of the then-Church superstitions in the Camp, and Christianitie 1690 LOCKE Hum Und IV iii § 15 Incompatibility, or repugnancy to coexistence 1763 SHARPE Inoculation (1790) 43 Hadley Hill must ... give the world an instance more of the incompatibility of wickedness with happiness 1831 BROWSTER Optics xii § 866 73 The hypothesis which considers it as created from its incompatibility with the phenomena of the spectrum 1875 JOWETT Plato (ed 2) V 328 Divorces are readily allowed for incompatibility of temper

b with pl; An incompatible thing or quality

1671 F PASTON Spec Jurorum 106 You may as well me that I propose Incompatibilities 1759 DISRAELI Lope 80 They made him an absurd Compound of incompatibilities 1822 TAYLOR Hist Ser I Artif Comedy Pref The comedy I have said, is incongruous, a mixture of Congreve's wit with sentimental incompatibilities 1853 KANE Grinnell Exp xlvii (1856) 442 It became a grave question, how to reconcile the incompatibilities of dog and goat

†2 = INCOMPATIBILITY 3 Obs rare

1659 Parl Intel 9 May 11 England's Cure 14 We urged their incompatibility to judge of the Members.

Incompatible (inkɔmpæti bl), a (sb) [ad med L incompatibilis (said of benefices), cf incompatible (15th c. in Hatz Darm), and see IN-3 and COMPATIBLE] Not compatible

1 Of benefices etc. Incapable of being held together [med L incompatibilis.]

1563-87 FOXE Acts & Mon (1596) 1/2 Infinite dispensations as to dispense with any order with benefices incompatible 1637-50 ROB Hist Antichr (1845) 57 Instead agens plur dities & incompatibilities more in num ber then 1726 AYLIFFE Parergon 115 By the Canon Law Benefices incompatible are Dignities Personages and other Benefices, which do by some Statute or Custom of Church require a Personal Residence 1870 (1) SMITH Dict Christ Antiq Incompatibilities, means one which cannot be held with another

2 Mutually inconsistent, incapable of existing together in the same subject, contrary or opposed in character, discordant, incongruous, inconsistent

1598 DANIEL Rosamond Inp As hee is beholde in those incompatible bloud of Lancaster and Yorke 1628 I MAYNE Match 5 When the subject and thething dissenting, doth abhorr each other and are incompatible, than there is a totall opposition between them 1630 BOYD Last Battell II 86 The ideas of Matter and Thought are absolutely incompatible 1755 JOHNSON Wks (1787) II 17 Art and nature are no incompatibles 1816 J SCOTT Visit Paris (ed 3) 45 Love of liberty and loyalty are incompatible 1827 HAZLITT Round Table II 86 He felt th it to be a politician and a preacher of righteousness was to combine two vocations practically incompatible

b Const with

a 1635 NEWTON Treat on Reg (1680) 24 A prudence which was incompatible with but Sincerity. 1781 COWPER Hist Eng XVIII 68 The use of the shield is incompatible with that of the bow 1832 tr Simonde's Hist Lit xx 393 I was and order seemed incompatible with the government of priests.

†c Const to Sometimes confused with IN-COMPETENT Obs

1641 R CARPENTER (Ed Brooke) Expos 113 A trade, which yet they think not altogether incompatible to Preaching 1658 OSELL Magnalium 75 Is not the prescience of prevision of future things incompatible to the nature of a creature in heaven or earth? 1668 HOOKE Ichnogr Attempt (1705) 61 If Adam knew it was incompatible to Him to be or repent 1790 ANNA M JOHNSON Memoirs III 11 Where the unconditional liberation was incompatible to his Lord hips views

†d Const of Intolerant of Obs

1605 RALEIGH Introd Hist Engl (1693) 4 The English Nobility, incompatible of these new Concurrents, found a darkning of their dignities by the Interpostion of so much 1613-18 DANIEL Civ Wars I § 13 Where not a Gentleman bone, haughty, and incompatible of each other's precedency 1646 J BEALE Herb 18 He was now incompatible of any others precedency and propinquity

†3 Unable to agree or 'get on' together, disagreeing, at variance Obs

1597 HOOKER Eccl Pol v lxiv In Robertson Hist Scot (1759) II Appx, The earle of Argyll, the Hamiltons and he be incompatible —I do find amongest the Hamiltons, Argyll and the company two strange and sundry humours 1605 BACON Adv Learn II § 13 (1640) 51 There not a caution to be given of the doctrines of Moralities themselues leaste they in the men too precise, arrogant, incompatible? a 1659 OSBORN Quest Amurs Wks (1673) 388 Yet they have rendered themselves incompatible with any other Lenets than their own 1720 DE FOE Augur (1884) 208 The Quaker remov d, the Church and the Presbyterians were incompatible

†4 Irreconcilable Obs rare

1653 CROMWELL, Incompatible where reliable 1655 R BOLTON Comf Afft Conss xvii 127 They set themselves against godly Christians with incompatible extreamenesse and implacable spite

B sb An incompatible person or thing a 1712 KEN Psyche Poet Wks 17-21 IV 280, I am all Resignation, all Desire How can these Incompatibles consist? 1755 HARRIS Hermes Wks (1841) 183 Such pursuits in fact a blending of incompatibles, that is to say, of a defined substantive with an undefined attributive 1848 H ROGERS Ess I vi 305 This union of incompatibles. 1885 Pall Mall Gaz 9 June 1/1, He might shed his incapables and his incompatibles, and build up a new Cabinet

Incompa·tibleness. [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being incompatible, incompatibility

1648 Dispute, touching Vsurpation 124 The incompatibleness and disproportion of kneeling with the acts and demonstrations of receiving 1758 Carta Hist Eng III 615 Nothing but the incompatibleness of their two lives could have determined her to sign the warrant 1843 Coleridge Table Talk (1848) I 241 The incompatibleness of thy will and nature with Heaven and holiness and an immeditate God

Incompa·tably, adv. [f as prec. + -ly 2] In an incompatible manner, so as to be incompatible with something else a 1721 Kfn Hymnarium Poet Wks 1721 II 160 Join Country Heavn, your Business to engage, Gods Love incompatibly your choice 1755 in Johnson, and in mod Dicts

Incompe·nsable, a rare [IN 3] Not compendious, not economical, unremunerative

1833 Francis Mag VII 337 The same ruling purpose the same incompendious use—the same evasion and stooping into hell

+ Incompe·nsable, a Obs rare = [IN 1 as mod f. incompensable (Latin)] Incapable of being compensated Hence + Incompe·nsable·ness (Bailey vol II 1731)

1658 Phillips Incompensa·te, incapable of being recompensed 1721 in Bailey, and in mod Dicts

Incompetence inkp·mpitĕns [f I incompetens: see INCOMPETENT] 1 Inadequacy, insufficiency Obs

1663 Hamilton MS Comm Hierarch 200 The mockishness and incompetence of his reward

2 The fact or condition of being personally or practically incompetent, want of competence Lack of the requisite ability, power, or qualification, inapplicability a 1716 South Serm (1744) VII 302 That Incompetence arises from this That no Man can judge rightly of two things, but by comparing them together 1795 1814 Words*w Excurs* III 14 Therefore, as incompetence determine Could do them wrong 1812 W Godwin in C K Paul W Godwin (1876) II 21 I believe, I had in myself of an incompetence for the education of daughters 1874 Mrs Oliphant Makers Florence v The incompetence of the tribunes to which the work was entrusted 1876 Encyc Brit XV 47 I found on examination incompetence of the aortic and mitral valves

3 Of a logical conclusion Want of legitimacy or propriety, fallaciousness Cf INCOMPETENCY 2

1837-8 Sir W Hamilton Logic (1860) II 405 It shows at a glance the competence or incompetence of any Conclusion

Incompetency (inkp·mpitĕnsi) [f prec or INCOMPETENT + -ENCY]

1 The quality of being incompetent, inadequate ability, incapacity for what is required In-competence 2 Also, with pl, an instance of this

1612 Cotgr, Incompetence, incompetencie a 1631 Boyle Sal Tentamina Volatilia Wks 1772 I 447 The incompetency of our eyes to discern the motions of natural bodies a 1732 Attenbury Serm (1734) II (Seager) The manifold incompetency of the instruments that wrought this effect 1781 Priestley Corrupt Ch II v 80 [The] utter incompetency of the bishops 1862 H Stewart Lect Prim Ch 8 (1867) 109 It is not proved that this incompetency is the incompetency of the Confessors to grasp the Unconditioned 1877 Bayne Four Phases 100 Exposing the manifold superficialities and incompetencies of the persons with whom he conversed

2 Legal incapacity, disability, or disqualification

1650 Hobbes Human Nature Pt I Gouldsbro Wks 1840 IV 458 Having thus avoided the first exception against the incompetency of my judgment, I am but little moved with the second, which is of being tribed by the honour you have done me 1660 Trial Regic 135 Concerning the competency or incompetency of the witness, the competency against him is this, that (etc.) 1833 Mynt & Kelly Rep I 245 The affidavits positively denied the contract alleged incompetency to enter into the agreement 1895 Law Times Rep LXXIII 705 The original incompetency to deal with it continued down to when the husband died

3 Logical impropriety or illegitimacy

1837-8 Sir W Hamilton Logic (1860) I 444 The arguments by which it was attempted to evince the incompetency of this figure

Incompetent (inkp·mpitĕnt), a [a f incompetent, ad late I incompetent-ia, f IN- 3 + competent (see COMPETENT)] Not competent

+1 Insufficient, inadequate Obs

1611 Cotgr, Vn Chaplan ou chapelle rous, a small sleight, incompetent, or lesse then due portion known a mind to but nothing 1614 Raleigh Hist World I xi 208 An incompetent Cause for the Formation of a World 1789 Hamilton Hist (1866) VII 55 The situations were yet incompetent to the full display of those endowments with which nature decorates a favorite 1823 Lamb Essays of Elia Tombs in Abbey, A palace incompetent to this demand

2 Of inadequate ability or fitness, not having the requisite capacity or qualification, incapable Const to, to do something a 1638 Wanton Fragm Reg (Arb) 30 Sir Edm is known was somewhat of the Queens affinity, and but likewise no incompetent Iesuit 1847 Carlyon Early Recoll I 83 I may not be thought altogether an incompetent person, having been present as a Member of Parliament in Councils 1693 W Mather Prof Omens Holy Spirit 3 It is not for so incompetent a person to say as writes this 1800 Coleridge in C K Paul W Godwin (1876) II 13, I would gladly write any verses, but to a prologue or epilogue I am utterly incompetent 1818 Jas. Mill Brit India II v 170 The Nabob, who was totally incompetent to his own defence 1842 Tennyson Two Voices 373 Much more, if first I floated free, As naked essence, must I be Incompetent of memory 1869 Tyndall Notes Lect Light 41 A body placed in a light which it is incompetent to transmit appears black 1879 St George's Hosp Rep IX 84, the mitral valves were puckered and incompetent 1880 L. Stephen Pope v 131 He was no philosopher, and therefore an incompetent translator of the classes of philosophy

3 Not legally competent or qualified

1597 Daniel Civ Wars III (R), Subjects...judges incompetent To judge their king 1650 Hobbes Answ Dutton and a Prof Gresham's Wks 1840 IV 443 I the open to two exceptions, one of an incompetent, the other of a corrupted witness 1736 Butler Anal II iii Wks 1874 I 187 The objections of an incompetent judgment 1882 Mehrfad Cains II 107 I rather action in rem vs. incompetent

4 Logically inadmissible or illegitimate

1839 Sir W Hamilton Discuss Philos Doubt (1852) 135 Dr Whately a definition, is therefore, not only incompetent, but delusive 1837-8 — Logic VII (1866) I 320 This proposition is totally incompetent to the logician

B sb An incompetent person

1866 Alger Solit Nat & Man iii 248 The jealousy of incompetents had buried him down into obscurity and silence 1882 Syracuse (New York) Sun (1884) 3/4 A million incompetent, not fit to be a sign painter

Hence Incompetentness, incompetence, Bailey vol II 1727

Incompetently (inkp·mpitĕntli) adv [f prec + -LY 2] In an incompetent manner or degree, inadequately, insufficiently, with incompetence

1649 Jer Taylor Lib Examp Beauty § 9 He that finds fault for trifles does his talk, by striving incompetently for the reward 1828 Webster Dict s v Church Bill Wks X 240 What the Church of England is incompetently endowed

+ Incompetibi·lity. Obs [f next see -ITY] The quality or condition of being 'incompetible', incompatibility, incongruity Sometimes confused with incompatibility see the latter, sense 2

1664 Hammond in Serm Wks 1684 IV 604 The compatibility of knowledge, and incompatibility of true faith with error 1670 Jer Taylor Duct Dubit Wks X 240 The strew texts not upon the incompatibility of an excess of sin, but whether above another, either in Intension or Extension, but the incompatibility of any multitude to be infinite

+ Incompe·tible, a Obs [f IN- 3 + COMPETIBLE] Not compatible, not within one's competence or capacity, not properly applicable or suitable Sometimes confused with incompatible see the latter, 2 c

1621 Bp Montagu Diatribæ 111 415 Puffed up with incomparable and incompetible Titles of Learning 1641 Milton Reform II Wks 1851 III 60 The Pope was come to that height as to arrogate to himselfe by his Vicars in temporall matters 1650 Jer Taylor Liberty Prophesying § 8 Let him be a Lawyer, and any allegiance is incompetible to him 1655 St H More App Antid (1712) 186 Individuality is incompetible to a Spirit 1684 Burnet Th Earth II 226 Some Mountains of the New Testament were very hard to be understood some of them being incompetible to a terrestrial state, and some of them to a celestial

Hence + Incompe·tibleness = INCOMPETIBILITY Confused with incompatibleness.)

1727 Bailey vol II, Incompetibleness, the Condition of a Thing, that will not square or agree with another

Incompletable (inkpl·mpitĕbl), a rare = [IN- 3 + COMPLETABLE] That cannot be completed Hence Incompletabi·lity, Incompletableness, incapability of being completed

1829 Carlyle Misc, Novalis (1872) II 213 (R) Novalis' Men often wondered at the stubborn Incompletability of these torso-like pieces 1848 Ch Q Rev Jan 80 In the infinity of physical incompletableness of the Universe which baffles the scientific understanding 1848 Blackw Mag LXIII 86 This idea of the mysterious incompletability of existence

Incomplete (inkmpli·t), a [ad I incomplet-us, f IN- (IN- 3) + completus COMPLETE cf F incomplet, plète, in OF plets (1372 in Hatz-Darm.)] Not complete, not fully formed, made or done, not whole, entire, or thorough, wanting some, unfinished, imperfect, defective

1580 Wyclif Sel Wks III 342 Be cheysing mynd of man is fals signe, and incompleet, for to make Cristis viker 1600 Hooker (J.), In pleyneth him in mercy to account himself imperfect and unlearned without it 1646 Sir T Brown Pseud Ep II xviii 85 That they be comparatively incomplete were need not to deme 1665 Boyle Occas Reflf Dial, Which I therefore was not ashamed without it 1721 Colly Moor Fr. Gram 114 If we consider whether an action be complete or incomplete 1787 G Rose Diarists (1860) I 39 The shabbiest Society is more complete even in England 1863 P Barry Dockyard Econ 91 The Resistance was declared incomplete ten months after the contractor's agreement 1871 Pengelly Lect Phonet 79 Thou would be a child for ever Completer whilst incomplete

b In technical uses

1875 Encyc Brit III 807 Wanting one or more of the normal part (calyx, corolla, stamens or pistils) Incomplete metamorphosis (in insects, etc.) in Imperfect metamorphosis Incomplete see also 1870

1760 J Lee Introd Bot (1788) 93 Such as are incomplete Nets, Calyx or Corolla wanting, 1794 Martyn Rousseau's Bot 96 In incomplete flowers only are found on separate trees or plants 1826 Kirby & Sp Entomol IV 34 Incomplete (apodal) open areolets that terminate short of the margin 1880 Gray Manual Bot (ed 6) 590 Flowers are incomplete, in which any one or more of the four kinds of organs is wanting

+ Incomplete, v Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f prec after COMPLETE v.] trans To render incomplete, to destroy the completeness of 1656 Jeanes Pulm. Christ 26 Will Christ then suffer any thing to prevaile against his Church, which is his fulness? What were that but to mayme and incompleate him?

Incomplete ted, a [f IN- 3 + COMPLETED] Not completed, unfinished, incomplete

1836 Lytton Athens (1837) I 408 One of those rude but serviceable instruments by which a more practical and perfect action is often wrought out from the incompleted theories of greater statesmen 1889 Electrical Rev 12 Apr 415/2 The details of an incompleted research

Incompletely (inkmpli·tli), adv [f INCOMPLETE a + -LY 2] In an incomplete manner or degree, partially, imperfectly

1651 Baxter Inf Bapt 15 Those that are de jure, or incompletely Disciples 1777 Watson Philip II (1793) I IV 163 Undisciplined, incompletely armed and disheartened 1862 Latham Channel Isl III xv (ed 2) 368 It is only partially and incompletely that his request is attended to

Incompleteness (inkmpli·tnĕs) [f as prec + -NESS] The quality or state of being incomplete, want of completeness

1643 Milton Divorce Introd , Error willingly accepts what he wants, and supplies what her incompleatnesse went seeking 1664-5 Boyle Occas Considera Adv Wks 1772 II 490 I the incompleteness of the theory of cold 1845-6 French Hulsean Lect Ser I 18 A book underlying the same axiom plentcousness as every other work of God's hands 1861 Hist Grace 331 I had often occasion to feel the incompleteness of my knowledge

Incompletion (inkmpli·ʃn) [f IN- 1 + COMPLETION] Incomplete or unfinished condition, incompleteness

1604 Minature No 5 pt 1 He only effects one design that he may regret the incompletion of others 1812 W Taylor in Monthly Mag XXXIII 418 The literary history of them would appear useless from incompletion 1873 Browning Red Cott Nt Cap 11 An Artist prefaces For work complete, inferiorly proposed, To incompletion, though it aim aright

Incomplex (inkmplek·s, formerly inkmplĕks), a Pa pple late I incomplex-us, f IN- 3 + complex-us COMPLEX Cf F incomplexe (1732 in Dict Trevoux)] Not complex, not complicated or involved, simple

1658 Baxter Saving Faith vi 36 Complex Objects, which are appointed to be the means of knowing the incomplex a 1677 Barrow Serm IV Wks 1687 II 55 It is impossible how any incomplex thing can be the complete or immediate object of belief 1 Dennis Physico-Theol iii 382 The Eye is not the most simple and incomplex of any Animals Part 1789 I Taylor Elements II 49 The incomplex [theorems] are such propositions as cannot be divided into simple theorems, as the fourth proposition 1827 Whately Logic 30 Incomplex apprehension is of one object, or of several without any relation being perceived between them

+ Incomple xed, a Obs rare [f late I incomplex-us (see prec) + -ED 1] Not complex, incomplex

1628 I Stinger Logick 12 Aristotle gives his incomplexed things no name but, thereby he means, arguments Ibid 131 Arguments those single, or incomplexed termes whereof wee spake in this former part

+ Incomplexionate, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [IN- 3 + Not 'complexionate', not influenced by the mental 'complexion' or humour

1660 H More Myst Godl vi 108 To intoxicate them with the same heat and noise in their mixed Imagination, whereby that still and small voice of Incomplexionate Reason cannot be heard

Incomple xity, rare [IN- 3] Absence of complexity, simplicity

1782 V Knox Essays (1819) III clxxvi 278 Artlessness, and incomplexity of fable

+ Incomple·xly, adv Obs [f INCOMPLEX a + -LY 2] In an incomplex manner, simply

1677 Gale Crt Gentiles II 233 The Intellect understandes things complexe incomplexely, but the human Intellect understandes things most simply and incomplexe complexely

+ Incompli·able, a Obs [f IN- 3 + COMPLIABLE] Not able or ready to comply or act in concord, disagreeing, unconformable

1625 Bp Montagu Up Cæsar 1 vii 60 Man intractable, insociable, incompliable, with whom it will not authorare ad dissensiones 1629 Prynne Ch Hist 137 Which of these irreconcilable, incompliable Assertions are the ancient Doctrines of our Church 1664 H More Myst Iniq 448 You see how distorted, forced, and incompliable his Exposition is to the text

Hence + Incompli·ableness, the quality of being 'incompliable', unconformable tendency

1642 Rogers Naaman 11 Convinced of their owne incompliablenesse to the grace of God offred Ibid 130 That wofull and desperate hanging out of the soule, and incompliablenesse of the spirit

Incompliance (inkmplai·ans) Now rare [IN- 3] The fact or quality of being incompliant

+1 Want of conformity or accordance Obs

a 1655 Vines Lord's Supp (1677) 200 A straight rule dis covers a crooked line by the incompliance of it to the rule

+2 Unaccommodating disposition, want of compliasance Obs

a 1694 Tillotson Serm (1743) I iii 101 All peevishness and incompliance of humour in things lawful and indifferent 1697 Collier Ess Mor Subj I (1703) 79 A martial man, except he has been accustomed and polished by a lettered education, is apt to have a tincture of sowerness and incompliance in his behaviour 1770 Langhorne Plutarch (1879) I 293/2 A peevishness of temper or incon

pliance of manners, produce the most incurable aversion in a married life 1805 Forter Ess II v 178 Invested with a manner of sternness, reserve, and incompliance

3 Failure to comply with a claim, desire, or request, non-compliance.

1708 Dict Drunkenness 39 Will he baulk his Interest, and punish himself for so small an Incompliance? 1781 Johnson Let 4 Apr, Mr Johnson knows that Sir Joshua will excuse his incompliance with the Call 1797 H Walpole Mem Geo II (1847) III 1 91 Pitt foresaw incompliance on the Duke's part 1885 R C Dixon Hist Ch Eng xvi (1892) III 147 They wrote to complain, 18 July, adding that her incompliance in religion gave countenance to the disturbances

Incompliancy. rare [f Incompliant see -ancy, and cf compliancy] Incompliant character

1658 Osborn Jas I, Wks (1673) 519 The Incompliancy of the Episcopal Clergy and their natural propensity to dilate their power 1798 Lanson Gebir Wks 1846 II xxxiv Thou leanest on thy clum Till overwhelmed through incompliancy

Incompliant (inkǝmplai ănt), a Now rare [f In-[3] + Compliant] Not compliant

1 Not yielding or disposed to yield to the desires or requests of others, unaccommodating, unsubmissive, uncomplaint

1707 Reflex upon Ridiculing 302 There are in soot of mean pliant People that are all of a piece 1711 Addison Spect No 476 (1824) I vii 154 If they themselves held together and remained incompliant with the steps that were taking the Queen must be forced to keep them in the church 1721 Free Masons II xxiv 238 We find these incompliant prelates more this year under confinement in the Tower 1830 D Israeli Amen I, III xxiv 285 That action which will unmake the incompliant to obstinacy

2 Of things a Not in harmony, incompatible, not lending itself to some purpose b Unpliant, unyielding 1647 Sherlock Anglia Redux III v (1854) 159 The narrowness of the ways was altogether incompliant with the army's march 1663 J. Jordan Royal Well Tryed 2 Much yet, that are between Forty and fifty Wenches of fifteen With bone so large, and nerve so incompliant, When you call Desdemona enter Giant 1846 J Austin Hor II 1 267 No branch of intellectual pleasure so brittle and incompliant as never to be turned to profit.

Hence Incompli antly adv, in an unyielding or unaccommodating manner

1847 in Craig

†Incompli'catе, a Obs rare [In-[3]] Not complicated, uncomplicated, simple

1668 Good Celest Bodies II III 178 This belongs to the Chapter of Complicate Systems and our Method engages us yet to show the Infinite Wisdom of the Creator in complicate third III iv 308 We seek for the Nature of the Simple and Incomplicate Aspect 1804 Anna Seward Mem Darwin 392 This incomplicate and so easily practicable system

†Incomply'ing, a Obs rare [In-[4]] Not complying, incompliant Hence †Incomply'ingness, uncomplying character

1640 W Bridges Trne Soubjects Comfort 10 Now God is very incomplying in all his ways 1654 H L'Estrange Chas I (1655) 101 Usually they (Kings) derive their property from the protensity and incomplyingness of their people a 1732 Atterbury Serm xxii (J.) That obstinate resolution of mind, that stubborn incomplying virtue, which is requisite to preserve a man undefiled and ill unless.

†Incompo rtable, a Obs [In-[3]] Not to be borne, intolerable, insupportable

a 1734 North Exam I ii § 18 (1740) 39 It was no new Device to shove Men out of their Places, by contriving incomportable Hardships to be put upon them Ibid § 53 57 Setting up what was called the Country Party, to an incomportable Height

†Incomposed (inkǝmpōu zd), a Obs [f In-[1] + Composed] cf F incomposé (15th c, in Godef), L incompositus]

1 Not composite or compound, simple, uncompounded

1634 W Tirwhitt tr Balzac's Lett (1638) 249 A simple and incomposed substance farre from all composition and mixture 1655 Stanley Hist Philos II (1701) 62 1 He used the Ionick Dialect, plain and uncompounded 1657-83 Evelyn Hist Relig (1850) I 289 (The Soul), being an act, is incomposed, and, could she die, would be annihilated

2 Wanting in composure or orderly arrangement, disordered, distraught, disturbed, agitated, dis-composed

1608 Chapman Byrons Trag Plays 1873 II 256 When th' incomposed incursions of floods Wasted and eat the earth a 1619 Fotherby Atheom II xi § 4 (1622) 318 Such unreasonable and incomposed noyse 1667 Milton P L II 989 Him thus the Anarch old With faultring speech and visage incomposd Answerd 1727-46 Thomson Summer 491 The strong laborious ox, of honest front Which incomposed bears The smoaking furrow 1740 Somerville Hobbinol III 339 With hasty Step, and Visage incompos'd, Wildly she star'd

3 Indisposed (to), not in the proper state for Cf Compli'se v 14

1660 J S Andromana I 1 in Harl Dodsley XIV 198 That sweetness which hewtch'd men's hearts is grown So rugged so incomposed to all commerce, Men fear to hell shortly quarrel with himself

Hence †Incompo sedly adv, in a disorderly or disturbed way, without composure, †Incompo sedness, want of composure, disorderliness

1618-25 Bp Hall Contempl, O T xi vi, If she had spoken too loud and incomposedly, he might have had some just colour for this conceit 1653 H More Antid Ath I x (1660) 32 Who e limbs by force of the convulsion are moved very incomposedly and allavour'dly Ibid III xvi 142 A jumbled fecundity and incomposedness of the spirits 1712 Sir Man Prayers Wks (1838) 426 If you find in any duty incomposedness, and weariness of spirit

Incomposite (inkɒ mpŏzit), a (sb) [ad incomposit us, f in (In-[3]) + compositus Composite]

1 Not composite, not composed of parts, simple, uncompounded Also as sb Something simple or uncompounded

1677 Gale Crt Gentiles IV 253 Thus Damascene, Ortho dox Fid I i c 15 The Deitie is not a composite but an (Hen-)ad (Person-)a simple and incomposite (Essence) 1788 I Taylor Preches I 44 Such stances destitute of parts, simple, incomposite and indivisible. Ibid 135 All the rest he demonstrates incomposite

b Arith Incomposite numbes a number not composed of factors, a prime number ? Obs

1706 Phillips (ed 5) Number, Prime, Simple or Incomposite Numbers is a Number, which can only be measur'd or divided by Self, and by Unity, without leaving any Remainder 1726 Hutton in Phil Trans I XVI 479 The incomposite number 239

2 Not properly composed or put together

1879 Swinburne Study Shaks II (1880) 97 The whole structure of the play is judged by any strict rule of pure art to incomposite and incongruous, wanting in unity, consistency, and coherence of interest

Incompossibility (inkɒmpŏsĭlĭti) Now rare [f next see -ity] The quality or condition of being incompossible, total incompatibility Also, with Pl, an instance of this

1699 Jackson Creed VI xxiii § 2 Whether we respect the conformity of their natural dispositions or the incompossibility of their moral projects and engagements 1830 Randolph Aristippus (1863) 3 What should this Scotticisme be his possibilities and incompossibilities? My Cooper, Rider, Thomas and Mowbray are to be seen, myself 1742 C Owen Nat Hist Servants 96 By reason of some great Disproportion or Incompossibility, 1864 Bowen Logic viii 299 The Incompossibility, or the fact that the two Judgments cannot both be true 1877 L Caird Philos Kant v 83 The incompossibility of different things was the impossibility of different things existing together

Incompossible (inkɒmpŏ sĭbl), a Now rare [ad schol L incompossibil is, f in- (In-[3]) + med L compossibilis Compossible. Cf F incompossible (1732 in Dict Trevoux)] Not possible to gether, that cannot exist or be true together, wholly incompatible or inconsistent

1605 Trne Narr Entertainm Daybreake 4 The government of their Liderships or Presbytery (incompossible with Princes Supremacy) is the cheefest article of their religion a 1640 Jeanes Serm (1641) 18 Those whose performances and vows were incompatible, though not incompossible with haughty pride or tenacious avarice 1668 Stillingfl. Orig Sacra III i (1702) 248 Things which in nature seem wholly incompossible (in the schools speak) 1707 Brerely Glory of Grace 12, I situate the thus grand Point by an Indispensable Necessity, as Incompossible with Sin 1869 To adopt the Hamiltonian word, the two Judgments are incompossible 1877 I Caird Philos Kant Introd v 84 If there be any such existence which are incompossible — he which cannot be combined without opposition and conflict

†Incompo sure. Obs [In-[3]] The state of being incompos'd, discomposure, disorder

1644 Bulwer Chiron 23, The composure of the Hands is to be avoided 1655-87 H More Exp Intrd (1662) 177 That Body which in Dissolution, shall betake to it self the most uncouth and harsh sense they feel in their skins by the incompossure of their ruffled plumes 1706 Phillips, Incompossure, Discomposure, Confusion

†Incompo'und, a Obs rare [In-[1]] next 1735 H Brooke Univ Beauty iv 68 With vision of internal powers profound, A pure essential unit, incompound

†Incompoun nded, a Obs [In-[1] Not compounded] uncompounded

1603 Holland Plutarch's Mor 1245 The Hemitone in the Mese will be incompounded 1735 H Brooke Univ Beauty I 199 An incompounded element from they chains, Nor spirit will—nor yet material frame

†Incompoun ndness. Obs [f In-[1] + Compound + -ness] The quality or state of not being compound

1600 Abp Hutton Serm Temple 194 The single incompound nesse of that self moving soule in comparison of the flesh 1649 Bltthe Eng Improv Improv (1653) 137 The onely sign is the incompoundedness

Incomprehe nded, a rare [In-[3]] Not comprehended, beyond comprehension

1652 H C Jockns, Gl Ladies 15 Speech, that vast incomprehended incomprehensible ocean 1829 I Williams Hymns to Taris Brec 166 Thrice holy, thrice Almighty Three, Incomprehended Trinity

Incomprehe nding, ppl a rare [In-[3]] Not comprehending, wanting in comprehension or understanding Hence Incomprehe ndingly adv

1881 Mrs C Praed Policy & P I 195 Good Mrs Perris, incomprehending soul knew nothing of [etc] 1885 — Head Nat I 7 The Kanaka shook his head incomprehendingly

†Incomprehe nse, a Obs rare In 7 ence [ad L incomprehens us, f. in- (In-[3]) + comprehensus comprehended] Not comprehended or comprised within limits, boundless, unlimited 1606 Marston Sophonisba v ii, Could no scope of glory Fill thy great breast, but thou must prove immense In comprehence in vertue?

Incomprehensibility (inkɒmprēhensĭbĭlĭti) [f next see -ity cf F incompréhensibilité (Montaigne, 16th c)] The quality or state of being incomprehensible, an instance of this

1 Incapability of being comprised or circumscribed within limits, boundlessness, infinitude

1690 Hobbes Treat Human Nat xi Wks 1840 IV 60 This it is which all men conceive by the name of God, implying eternity, incomprehensibility, and omnipotency 1701 Norris Ideal World I v 302 The Divine nature, and the same real infinity and incomprehensibility that essentially belongs to it 1724 Waterland Athan Creed (1867) 100 Hooker Eccl Pol I (1839) 89 When we confess the omnipresence and incomprehensibility of God.

†b That which is incapable of limitation Obs

1610 Healey St Aug Citie of God 459 His [i e God's] wisdom . . can comprehend all incomprehensibility by his incomprehensible comprehension

2 Incapability of being grasped by the mind inconceivableness unintelligibility

1598 I Florio, Incomprehensibilità, incomprehensibleness 1604 Southe Treche Screw (1608) III 267 [The] consent and, universal sense of all Antiquity Cannot but commonly confess the an Incomprehensibility in many of the Articles of the Christian Faith 1734 Berkeley Analyst § 49 This discovery and incomprehensibility of your metaphysics 1836-7 Sir W Hamilton Metaph xxxi (1859) II 136 The incomprehensibility of the fact of consciousness

b Something inconceivable or unintelligible

1655 tr Life Father Sancy (1676) 39 Thus ariseth from some incomprehensibility that is met with 1689 Contin Hist Inds 1848 I 141 On the score of my own imperfections abilities and seeming contradictions that might be objected to it 1850 De Quincey in H Page Life (1877) II xvii 69 Such a result would have been an impossibility, and not only so but also an incomprehensibility

Incomprehensible (inkɒmprēhe nsibl), a (sb) [ad L incomprehensibil is, f in (In-[3]) + comprehensibilis Comprehensible] Cf F incompréhensible (13–14th c in Littré)]

1 That cannot be contained or circumscribed within limits, illimitable, boundless, infinite, immense (Chiefly Theol) arch (Now chiefly in allusion to the use in the Athnnasian Creed)

a 1340 Hampole Psalter cxliv 3 He is incomprehensibil, for na stede in thoght may i wirkake him, bot all bese ouer 1382 Wyclif Jer xxxii 19 Grett in counsil, and incomprehensible in thinking 1538 Starkey England II i 143 We cal to Hym who, by His incomparable grettnes and incomprehensybyl wysdome, made and rulyth al thyngys 1548-9 (Mar) Old Comm Prayer, Athan Creed, The father incomprehensible [L immensus] the sonne incomprehensible and the holy ghost incomprehensible 1596 Shaks 1 Hen IV I ii 209 The virtue of this Jest will be, the incomprehensible lies that this fat Rogue will tell to us when we meet at Supper 1596 Nashe Saffron Walden 42 He is shadum'd of the incomprehensible compulsion he thereof [i e of his book] 1667 Milton P L VIII 20 The Immortal Shapes Must needs be unlike Things utterly unparallel'd, Much more the Fathomless, incomprehensible 1772 Priestley Inst Relig (1782) II 213 The incomprehensible greatness and perfection of the divine being 1865 Worn Star 23 May, The principal word in this well-abused creed is 'immensus', translated 'incomprehensible'

2 That cannot be grasped by the understanding, beyond the reach of intellect or research, unfathomable by the mind Obs or arch exc as in b a 1340 Hampole Psalter cxliv 3 He is incomprehensibil, it is made for my sin, swa that i may neuer wyn til comfort plaisoun of the thogh, my mynde 1382 Wyclif Rom xi 33 How incomprehensible ben his domes, and his ways unsercheable 1435 Misyn Fire of Love 14 He treuly knawes god parfitly, bot hym felys incomprehensibyll & vnthyl to be knawen 1526 Tyndale Rom xi 33 How incomprehensible are his iudgements 1651 Hobbes Leviath I xii 59 Incident to none but those that converse in questions of matters incomprehensible 1758 Warburton Div Legat II App Wks 1811 II 211 A God whose essence indeed was incomprehensible, but his attributes discoverable by human reason

b In weaker or more general sense That can not be understood, inconceivable, unintelligible

1604 Cawdrey, Incomprehensible, that cannot be conceived, or understood 1658 Baker tr Balzac's Lett (ed II) 227 The carriage of Israel, is a thing incomprehensible 1719 W Wood Surv Trade 209 For so many to believe it redounds to the Good of the Kingdom is to me incomprehensible 1861 Dickens Gt Expectations xx Estella's reserve incomprehensible to me 1884 I. Davis in Contemp Rev Mar 396 He must be looked at as a prophet', or he must be looked at as incomprehensible fanatic

†3 That cannot be grasped or taken hold of (physically), incapable of being caught (quot 1607), impalpable Obs rare

1607 Topsell Fourf Beasts (1658) 115 Jupiter to avoid confusion, turned both the incomprehensible beasts into stones 1681 Burton Anat Mel I ii 1 ii, That the Duell being a slender incomprehensible spirit, can easily insinuate and wimble himself into humor bodies 1745 tr Columella's Husb x Pref, Of the incomprehensible small nest of sand a rope cannot be made

3 sb. An incomprehensible thing or being (in sense 1 or 2)

[1548-9 (Mar) Bk Com Prayer, Athan Creed, There be not three incomprehensibles, nor three uncreated but one uncreated, and one incomprehensible] 1658 Cudworth Intell Syst I iii § v 61 That notion is nothing but a bundle of incomprehensibles, unconceivables, and impossibles 1722 Ken Hymnarium Poet Wks 1721 II 18 In the Incomprehensible I rest, By humble Ignorance we know the Godhead best 1868 Dove Logic Chr Faith I § 1, The incomprehensibles are the absolute and the infinite (to which in a second by sense may be added the primary and the ultimate)

Incomprehe nsibleness. [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being incomprehensible

INCOMPREHENSIBILITY (in senses 1 and 2)

1612 Cotgr., Incompreheusibilité, Incomprehensibleness
1622 Donne Serm I 13 The Incomprehensibleness of Man's Sin 1632 Gouge God's Arrows II § 32 317 It implieth both, incomprehensibleness, immutability, and all such things 1685 Baxter Paraphr N T, 1 Cor xiii If they knew God, or any of his Works, they would know their Incomprehensibleness 1860 H Nutcombe Intellect etc 8 (1872) 67 He realizes the utter incomprehensibleness of the simplest fact, considered in itself 1879 Geo Eliot Theo Sweet I 97 They [poets] do not see examples of feminine incomprehensibleness as typical in their wives

Incomprehe nsibly, adv [f as prec + -LY 2] In an incomprehensible manner or degree, + infinitely Obs † beyond mental comprehension, inconceivably, unintelligibly

1532 Fisher Wks (E E T S) 280 Their soules shall be incomprehensibly rewarded of the xpuer of wysedome 1664 H Power Exp & Philos I 17 How incomprehensibly subtil must the Animal Spirits be, that run to and fro in Nerves included in such prodigiously little spindle shank'd bodies 1807 H Martyn in Sargent Life (1881) 223 O thou most incomprehensibly glorious Saviour! 1863 Mrs Whitney Faith Gartney xxvi 247 To be not and most strangely and incomprehensibly — to have lived

Incomprehension (inkɒmprɪ'hɛnʃən) [f IN- 3 + COMPREHENSION, after the prec words] The fact of not comprehending or grasping with the mind, want of comprehension, failure to comprehend or understand

1605 Bacon Ad Learn II v § 2 It is the remote standing us, or placing thereof that breedeth these matters and incomprehensions 1677 Gale Crt Gentiles II 205 from our ignorance and incomprehension of the least things in Nature 1833 Mrs Carus Visit I 50 Her astonishment, incomprehension of everything like ceremony 1877 Black Monar d'amour vii Sam, full-fed pure incomprehension of that glance

Incomprehensive (inkɒmprɪ'hɛnsɪv), a [IN- 3] 1 Not comprehensive.

1 Not understanding, deficient in mental grasp 1654 W Hartelyb Infant Baptism 10 To manifest charity where the object for reception of benefit is incomprehensive 1777 Sheridan Trip Scandal I ii, I thought an incomprehensive sneer covered all 1827 Blackw Mag XXI 851 Like an unskilful and incomprehensive general, who, heedless of the main breast work of the battle, pursues his wing of victory beyond limits

2 Not inclusive nor comprising all that it should or might 1774 Warton Hist Eng Poetry Ixii (1840) III 406 A most incomprehensive and inaccurate title 1851 [see plural in Incomprehensives]

II + 3 Not to be comprehended or understood, incomprehensible Obs

1656 Stanley Hist Philos IV (1701) 134/2 The first are comprehensive, the second incomprehensive, the Soul being weak in the discernment thereof by reason of motions, mutations, and many other causes 1735 H Brooke Univ Beauty iii Poems, etc, 1792 I 47 Within, while wisdom dwells regulate, Incomprehensive through his sacred seat 1791 W Taylor Examin Nathan I (1868) 14 Methinks it being as just so much the more rich incomprehensive First cause of preservation

Hence Incomprehe nsively adv , Incompre he nsiveness (in quots in sense 2)

1846 Worcester cites Percy for Incomprehensiveness
1851 I Taylor Wesley 118, 181 The incomprehensiveness of the object under which it is to act was of human nature 1878 Sir W Hamilton (Oxford) Those are received only upon trust, as incomprehensively revealed facts

+ Incomprenable, a Obs [a OF incomprenable incomprehensible, f comprendre to comprehend, understand] = INCOMPREHENSIBLE

1500 Dref Creation Man (W de W 1506) 11 xxiv 13, Hyer and incomprenable mater [orig 1 plus haut et en incomprenable matiere] Is these the whiche foloweth Hist IV xxiii 333 than cometh vnto grete and so incompren dible bitayl of dyseese, of sorowe, and of fere

Incompressibility (inkɒmpre·sɪbɪlɪtɪ) [f next see ITY] Cf F incompressibilité (1755 in Hatz Darm) The quality of being incompressible

1730–6 in Bailey (folio) 1740 Chevne Regimen 3 Water has its Incompressibility 1790 Impson Sch Art I 149 The incompressibility of water, proved by the Florentine experiment 1818 Encycl Brit Supp Lond 112 The longitudinal incompressibility of timber

Incompressible (inkɒmpre·sɪb'l), a [f IN- 3 + COMPRESSIBLE] 1 incompressible (Particle, 1690) That cannot be compressed or squeezed into smaller compass, incapable of compression

1730–6 in Bailey (folio) a 1743 Cheyne (J), Hardness is the reason why water is incompressible, which the air lodged in it is exhausted 1788 A Monro Anat 125 The imbibed fluid part is incompressible 1898 Ladoux Handb Nat Phil, Hydrost etc iii 46 Liquids in general are treated in hydrostatics as incompressible bodies 1898 H Wagner's Gen Pathol 158 The brain is quite incompressible

b fig (In quot 1824 irrepressible)

1823 W Taylor in Monthly Rep I VI 129 That higher class of writers whose popularity (in) incompressible within the scanty limits of one country 1884 Examiner 370/1 His incompressible mental independence subjected him to the rancorous calumny of those who knew him not.

Hence Incompre ssibleness (Bailey, folio, 1730) + Inco mpt, a Obs [ad L incompt-us unadorned, rough, f in- (IN- 3) + compt-us combed, dressed, neat, COMPT] Void of neatness, inelegant

Hence + Inco mptness, inelegance

1631 Sir J Doddridge Eng Lawyer 52 What horrid and incompt words hath Logicke and Philosophy endured 1658 Brownlie Treat Spectres 1 His beard incompt and squalid, and his hair disorderly hanging down 1659 H Walker Instruct Oratory 52 Metaphors, without which the discourse shews incompt and naked 1669 Boyle Contin Acount 138 Pref (1682) 7 There is no need of any further particulars to ascertain the incompliteness of the style.

Incomputable (inkɒmpɪ·tăb'l, inkɒmpɪ·ūtăb'l, a [f IN- 3 + COMPUTABLE a] That cannot be computed or reckoned, incalculable

1606 Earl Northampton in Lane 5 Perfect Relat Hitherto the two Lordes are in no Reckoning incompte unto 1630 J Lane Cont Sqr 21 (Chaucer Soc) 199 note, Innumerable summes of theire expense 1655 Ad Concurr Jove 14 An incompitable sum of money 1802 Paley Nat Theol xx (1819) 344 The variety of the seed vessels is incomputable 1847 Burnett Dr Nares viii (1892) 225 Some incomputable distance of time

+ Inconcea lable, a Obs rare [IN- 3] That cannot be concealed

1646 Sir I Browne Pseud Ep II v 139 The incomeasurable impulse of our senses 1651 Hobbes Leviath II xxvii 180 Unconditioned 1882 Nature May XIV 401 The incocuity ability of a popular revolution in Russia]

b An instance of this : something that is incocuivable

1843 Mill Logic III v § 9 (1856) I 389 The action of mind upon matter has appeared to some thinkers to be itself the grand incocuivable 1865 J S Mill Exam Hamilton (1872) I 7 The three points where Mr Spencer's theory falls foul of inconceivability 1865 Mansel Rev Lord Philos 13 He has only to assume an impalpability an incocuivability, a paradox, as nevertheless a fact

Inconceivable (inkɒnsi·văb'l, or /sɪ·/) Also + coivocable [f IN- 3 + CONCEIVABLE] Cf F inconcevable (1617 in Hatz Darm)

1 That cannot be conceived or realized in the imagination, unthinkable, unimaginable, incredible Often with exaggerative force for 'hardly credible', 'incalculable', 'extraordinary', of things which transcend common experience

1631 Bromhall Spirit Fanat (1792) 147 The inexpressible and inconceivable love of Christ 1646 H Lawrence Comm Angells 34 With an inconceivable dexterity and quickness 1708 Brit Apollo Curious Inquir 3 How inconceivable is the Goodness and his Perfections are both infinite and inconceivable 1748 Hanway Tour III ii 310 There were innocent and inconceivable sacrifices 1820 Shelley Witch Atlas Light appears to move with a velocity that is truly inconceivable 1833 J H Newman Hist Sk 1850 II i 21 One thing is inconceivable, that the Lord's should, in its existing nation, accept of modern civilization

2 spec As a philosophical term

The following distinctions in meaning, though disputed by some, are generally recognized (a) Logically, the fundamental laws of thought self-contradictory, involving a contradiction in terms. (b) Repugnant to recognized canons or established laws of nature: involving the absolution of ideas which have become inseparably linked in the human mind. (c) Involving a combination of facts which renders a proposition incredible to the ordinary mind: (d) Incapable of being represented by a mental image

1698 H More Infinid Ath III 10 What is inconceivable or contradictious, is nothing at all to us 1754 Sherlock Dis (1759) I iii 136 The Objection represents a Mystery as a Thing inconceivable and contradictious 1795 Reid Intell Powers II xiv (1803) I 305 Power without substance is inconceivable 1809 Sir W Hamilton Discuss, Values Consciousness (1852) 21 The inconditioned is incognisable and inconceivable 1865 Mill Exam Hamilton VI (1872) 86 The first meaning of Inconceivable is, that of which the mind cannot form to itself any representation: the first and most proper meaning Ibid 90 He [Hamilton] gives to the term inconceivable a very combination of facts which appears incredible 1870 in Hamilton Lect Metaph (1877) I 60 were inconceivable Ibid 93 He [Hamilton] gives to the term a third sense 'We conceive a thing only as we think it within certain limits'—meaning thereby the inconceivable in this third sense, is simply the unexplicable 1872 H Spencer Princ Psychol (ed 2) II viii 21 § 427 Let me here define what I mean by inconceivable as distinguished from incredible or unbelievable An inconceivable proposition is one of which the terms cannot by any effort be brought before consciousness in that relation which the proposition asserts between them 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) IV 271 Even these inconceivable qualities of space may be made the subject of reasoning

B as sb A thing or quality that cannot be conceived

1706 Watts Horæ Lyr I 56 Nothing's found in thee But boundless inconceivables, And vast eternity! 1856–9 Sir W Hamilton Metaph xxxviii (1859) II 373 They confound together these exclusive inconceivables into a single notion 1865 Mill Exam Hamilton 63 Inconceivables are incessantly becoming Conceivables as our experience becomes enlarged

Inconceivableness (inkɒnsi·văb'lnĕs) [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being inconceivable

1661 Glanvill Lux Orient vi 57 We need go no further for an evidence of its inconceivableness 1690 Locke Hum Und IV iii § 6 Men who because of the inconceivableness of something they find in one, throw themselves violently into the contrary hypothesis. a 1740 Abernethy in Reid's Intell Powers IV iii (1803) II 63 The measure of impossibility to us is inconceivableness, that of which we can have no idea, but that reflecting upon it, it appears to be nothing 1870 R Spencer Prime Psychol (ed 2) II i 426 The inconceivableness of its negation is that which shows a cognition to possess the highest rank

Inconceivably (inkɒnsi·văblɪ), adv [f as prec + -LY 2] In an inconceivable manner or degree Often exaggerative for 'extraordinarily', 'extremely', 'very highly'

1651 Baxter Inf Bapt 53 The Church of Christ is not in a worse condition now but inconceivably better 1711 Strype Ann No 167 P 3 The ill Consequence of these Reviews is inconceivably great 1748 Johnson Vision Theodore P 6 Amazed to find it without foundation, and placed inconceivably in emptiness and darkness 1750 Rambler No 41 P 233 Though its actual existence be inconceivably short 1866 J Martineau Ess I 19 The book is inconceivably absurd

+ Inconce ptible, a Obs rare [IN- 3] = INCONCEIVABLE

1677 Hale Prim Orig Man 86 It is inconceptible how any such man that hath stood the shock of an eternal duration should after be corrupted or altered 1690 Ibid 84 It is utterly impossible that mankind should be without a beginning, so it is utterly inconceptible that he should have any other original but this

+ Inconce ption. Obs rare [IN- 3] Want of conception or understanding

1760 Bp Hildesley in Archæologia Corr (1804) V 251 As to the Indies, they may be allowed to understand no harm in what they read but our sex, I doubt, have no pretensions to such a plea of inconception

+ Inconce rned, a Obs rare— [IN- 1] Unconcerned Hence + Inconce rnedly adv , + Inconce rnedness

1688 Rst Magistracy in Hart Misc I 7 The parting with it tamely would argue the greatest stupidity and inconcernedness 1695 J Sage Antich Wks 1844 I 239 They inconcernedly quitted their pretensions

+ Inconce rning, a Obs rare [f IN- 3 + CONCERNING pr ppl a] That does not concern one, that does not matter, unimportant

1640 Fuller Holy & Prof St II ix 86 He is carefull not to entitle violence in inhabitant and inconcerning matters to be zeal 1650 Baxter Aphorisms N 1 viii (1654) 36 His Conviction is not met by meer Argumentation, as a man is convinced of some inconcerning Consequence by dispute

+ Inconce nsment. Obs rare [f IN- 1 + CONCERNMENT] The fact of not being concerned or affected

1671 True Nonconf Pref, To contradict his asserting of Religious incon ernment in these matters

+ Inconci lable, a Obs rare Also + illable, -ciliable [f IN- 3 + CONCILIABLE] = Cf F inconciliable (1752 in Dict Trévoux) Incapable of being conciliated or reconciled, irreconcilable

1643 Milton Divorce I xiv, To kindle one another, not with the fire of love, but with inconciliable 1661 R L'Estrange State Divinity 38 Their Principles are inconcilable, save by the stronger malice that's best to the Government then to each other 1694 Father Confess 59 An Alliance among those that N ture her self has divided by an Inconcilable disagreement

+ Inconci'nn, -o, a Obs rare [f IN- 3 + CONCINNE + -O] = inconcinnous awkward, unpolished] Not adjusted or adapted, ungraceful

1660 H More Myst Godl V xii 183 To omit what is very inconcinno 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I i § 16 16 As helpeth us to suppose all the corporeal world to be made of Dissimilar and inconcinn Molecul, i e Atoms of different Magnitude and Figures

+ Inconci nnate, a Obs rare Also 6 erron ite [f IN- 3 + CONCINNATE ppl a] = Awkward, clumsy 2 Not advantageous, unsuitable

1533 Bath Prac in Fragm Cron Creyke 79 b, The very inconcinnate and unhandsome joynynge or hangynge together of the spechs and oration 1657 Lord Keeper Keeper's Diary 455 Latter Writers have rejected some [medicaments] as inconcinnate

Hence + Inconci nnately adv , inelegantly

1623 Cockeram II, Ifanourdly done, Inconcinnately, Inartificially

Inconci nnity. Obs or arch [ad L inconcinnitās inelegance, impropriety, f inconcinn-us see INCONCINN and -ITY] Want of concinnity, congruousness, or proportion, inelegance, awkwardness, impropriety, unsuitableness

1616 Bullokar, Inconcinnitie, vnpitines ill agreeing, disproportion 1630 Prynne Anti Arminn 160 This Text in respect of the inconcinnity of the phrase, and its incongruity to the Elect cannot be aptly accommodated to them a 1656 Vines Lord's Supp (1677) 396 He hath corrected all inconcinnity of the glass, and composed his dress 1664 H More Myst Iniq 357 So are there also several Incon cinnities in it and even Historical Defects 1837 Thirlwall Greek Lit 18 As other little used words are introduced, there are at least an inconcinnity in omitting these 1861 — Fr Seven Ch (ed 2) 15 There is a certain apparent inconcinnity in the abstract Basileus joined with the concrete pote

+ Inconci nnous, a Obs [f L inconcinn-us inelegant, absurd + -OUS] = Of CONCINNOUS]

1 Incongruous

1662 Use & Death Sr H Vane 50 How grossly incon

cinuous must it now appear to the common reason of all mankind that such as take upon them to be magistrates should give the rule to all other's consciences

2 Mus Inharmonious, contrary to the principles of harmony

Inconsonous discord (or interval) a discord or dissonant interval which cannot be used in harmony

1797-81 Chambers Cycl s.v. Consonance, Discords are distinguished into consonant and inconsonous intervals 1760 Stiles in Phil Trans LI 716 Without one or other of which circumstances, the composition was held incon cinnous. 1811 Rees Cycl s.v., Inconcinnous intervals are such as are a comma flatter or sharper than perfect.

†Inconolu denoy. Obs rare—1 [f next vce -ENCY.] The quality of being inconclusive; an instance of this, an inconclusive argument 1654 Hammond Answ Animadv Ignat II § 2 31 That learned Grammarian did never more passionately douknest wrongers, than in this heap of inconcludencies.

†Inconclu'dent, a. Obs [f IN-3 + CONCLUDENT] = next

1677 True Nonconf 20 Your insinuation in General and inconcludent 1687 Barron Pope's Supremn (1687) 215 The Instances alledged are inconcludent and invalid 1706 Aylife Parergon 447 An inconcludent Proof is to fix from being good Evidence, that it renders the Matter still more doubtful and uncertain

†Inconclu ding, a Obs [f IN-3 + CONCLUDING ppl. a.] That furnishes no ground for a conclusion, inconclusive

a 1644 Chillingworth Serm Pr xiv 2 § 3 Which inference of his were weak and inconcluding 1659 Pearson (1683) 72 [They] made use of very frivolous and inconcluding arguments. a 1677 Barrow Dis. Unity Church in Pope's Supremn (1687) 216 The reasons alledged are insufficient and inconcluding

†Inconclu sible, a Obs. rare [f IN-3 + CONCLUSIBLE.] Not capable of being concluded, endless

1660 S. Fisher Rustics Alarm Wks (1867) 449 That inconclusible Controversie, and Endless Prate-course, which I see J. O. and others are there engaged in

Inconclusion (inkŏnklū·zŏn) [f IN-1 + CONCLUSION Cf It inconclusione 'an uncertainitie' (Florio, 1598)] The condition of reaching no conclusion, an inconclusive result, an unwarranted conclusion

1847 Fr A. Kemble Rec Later Life (1882) III 289, I float comfortably enough over infinite abysses of inconclusion. 1886 Lutler Life as Author 380 It seems to me quite an inconclusion to give to the spirits of the dead the seemingly miraculous powers exhibited

Inconclusive (inkŏnklū·siv), a [IN-1] 1 Not conclusive in argument or evidence, that does not bring to an end (a doubt, dispute or inquiry), not decisive or convincing

1600 (implied in Inconclusiveness) 1797 A Collins Reply Clarke's Def 87 The whole of the objections to that argument still thinks it inconclusive, and proposes to show its inconclusiveness in the following papers. 1838 I. Thom Serm Ch of Bodies 169 The experiments of Dumont and Tillet are equally inconclusive 1855 Milman Lat Chr VI vi (1864) VI 108 Long and inconclusive debates took place on the legality of a Papal abdication. 1879 Froude Cæsar xi 170 When evidence is inconclusive, probability becomes argument

2 Given to inconclusion, unreasoned

1836 Sir H Taylor Statesman xvi 142 He who is timid is not necessarily inconclusive, and cannot bear with a reasonable term of suspense, will either get wrong, or get right more tardily by means of after thought and correction

2 Not conclusive in action, reaching no final result or producing no conclusive effect

1841 Edmonstone Visit Ind I 363 Even his Indian operations are so far from displaying any signs of system or combination, that their desultory and inconclusive nature would lead us to deny him a comprehensive intellect

Inconclusively, adv [f prec + -LY 2] In an inconclusive manner

1755 in Johnson 1865 Mrs C Clarke Shakt Char II 68 He reasons clearly and consistently, it may be, inconclusively

Inconclusiveness, [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being inconclusive

1690 Locke Hum Und IV xvii § 4 The weakness and inconclusiveness of a long artificial and plausible discourse 1754 Edwards Freed Will Concl (ed 2) 401 The inconclusiveness of the premises he offers 1856 Froude Hist Eng I 324 The beauty of the form was insufficient to disguise the inconclusiveness of the reasoning

Inconclusum sivitum, nonce-wd [f as prec + -UM] A theory or doctrine that conclusive evidence on metaphysical or religious questions is unattainable

a 1866 J Grote Exam Util Philos Introd (1870) 9, I have no wish to organize any school of my own, and yet have strongly denounced the writing merely to profess inconclusivism and scepticism

†Inconcoc ct, a Obs [f IN-1 + CONCOCT a] = next

1596 Barrough Meth Physick VI ix (1639) 366 If the same uncleanesse doth more abound in the yonger wood, it is more inconcoct and excrementous. 1626 Bacon Sylva § 858 While the Body to bee Consumed and Altered is too strong for the Efficient it is (all that while) Crude and Inconcoct. And the Processe is to be called Crudity and Inconcoction.

†Inconco'cted, a. Obs [IN-1] Not concocted, not fully digested or matured, raw crude, not softened by ripening, unconcocted

1605 Timme Quersit I xiii 60 By reason of his sudden and hardness inconcocted 1620 Venner Via Recta viii 190 They remaining crude and inconcocted in the body doe at length settle and produce morbificall affects 1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep VI xii 338 Divers plants containe an austere and inconcocted roughnesse, as Sloes, Medlers and Quinces 1697 Hale Persn Orig Man I 23 Better than when I was a Child, and had my organical Parts less digested and inconcocted

†Inconcoc otion. Obs [f IN-3 + CONCOCTION] The fact or condition of being unconcocted or undigested

1626 H Mason Spencer's Fast v 42 Let Fasts be moderate, lest they when the stomacke and requiring greater refection afterward, they breake out into crudity and inconcoction 1626 [see Inconcoct] 1656 Stanley Hist Philos (1701) 2561 The end of Concoction is mutation of the Essence, as when food is converted into flesh and blood Inconcoction is an Imperfection in the opposite passive qualities, proceeding from defect of heat

Inconcrete so, a Now rare [ad Lyle I incon crēā-tus 1320, f IN-3 + concrētus CONCRETE] Not concrete, abstract, immaterial

a 1626 Bp Andrewes Serm (1841) I 88 There is not a more pure, simple, inconcrete procreation than that whereby the mind of man conceiveth the world within it 1659 Shelley Hist Philos XIII (1701) 558/2 The Divine Nature which is incorporeal, and by reason of its Purity cannot be touched nor struck 1865 Reason Lost Chr Int 180 Tell me one or two of the inconcrete results of spurious evolution

†Inconcu lcate, v Obs rare [f IN-2 + CONCULCATE v.] = INCULCATE, persistently

1610 Donne Pseudo Martyr Advt to Rdr, An ordinary Instrument of his had oppugned his Lordships Book, and iterated and inconculcated those his opposites

†Inconcurrent, a Obs rare—1 [IN-1] Not concurrent, = next 1651 Hobbes Le tath II xxv 136 Retorded also by the more current judgements, and endevvours of them that drive it.

†Inconcu rring, a Obs rare—1 [IN-1] Not concurring, not acting in combination towards some end

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep I iv 16 Deriving effects not only from inconcurring causes, but things devoid of all efficience whatever

†Inconcu ss, a Obs [ad I inconcussus unshaken, f IN-2 (IN-3) + concussus, pa pple of concutĕre to dash together, shake violently] = next

1542 Bp Bon Patthe Prayer in Early H Lit (Parker Soc.) 144 Prayer is the inconcusse, unshaken, and pursent custody or watch of the faithful 1646 Boys Exch Dict, 60 An inconcusse and great resolution

†Inconcu ssed, a Obs [f as prec + -ED] Unshaken, firm, stable

1632 Sir W Mure (Rolls) I 71 Inowelv the fame of Pura dise hathe stonde as inconcussede by xj mil yeres and more. c 1650 To Tantalum iii xxxvii 100 For so he may stande inconcussed, and unmoved 1823 Cockburn, Inconcussed, stable, not to be shaken

†Inconcu ssible, a Obs Also -able [f obs F inconcussible, f IN-(IN-3) + concussible*, f L concuss-us, ppl stem of concutĕre to shake violently + -IBLE] That cannot be shaken, firmly fixed, stable

1589 Puttenham Eng Poesie II xiii (Arb) 113 As the roundell or sphere is appropriate to the heauens the triangle to fire, ayre, and the square to water and the square for his inconcussable stablenesse likened to the earth 1609 Bible (Douay) Kings 46 A pillar that is sublime, straight inconcussible 1735 M Davys Hum Reason I Pref 32 In this inconcussable Maxim in our Legal Law, the Sophistical Jesuit could say nothing at all

†Inconcussable (inkŏnkŭ·sĕbl), a Obs -able [f IN-3 + CONCUSSABLE] a, which see in reference to the prevalent erroneous spelling -able That cannot be condensed, inexpable of being made more dense or compact, spec incapable of being reduced to the liquid or solid condition

1736 Laboratory La of opus 8 The tin pure for carrying off the inconcussable fumes 1821 Sir H Davy Chem Philos 84 Steam at 100 degrees of Fahrenheit would be equally inconcussable with air at a range of temperature such as is common and below our common temperatures

1828 Webster, Inconcussable 1864 H Stebbing Brief I 5 Carbone oxide is an inconcussable gas

Hence Inconcussibi lity rare -ibility, the quality of being inconcussable

1828 Webster, Inconcussibility

†Inconditi'gn, a Obs [f IN-1 + CONDIGN] Unworthy, undeserving, undeserved

c 1450 Lydg & Burgh Secrees 1532 This holy lyst not to parte the treasurys Of his substaunce to my Childhood inconditigne

Incondite (inkŏ·ndĭt), a [ad I inconditus disordered, uncouth, f in- (IN-3) + conditus, pa pple of condĕre to put together]

1 Consisting of parts which are ill arranged, ill constructed, ill composed and esp of literary and artistic compositions

1634 Jackson Creed VI x § 2 Such incondite figures, or confused fancies as are thereon painted 1708 J Philips Cyder II (1807) 92 Now sportive youth Carol incondite rhythms with suiting notes 1794 Gibbon Journal (1814) 8 O deign, To cast a glance on this incondite strain 1832 Austin Juris (1879) II xxxi 610 An incondite collection or heap of single and insulated rules 1877 Carlyle in Mrs Carlyle I 74 Plenty of incondite stuff accordingly there was [in the lecture]

2 Unformed, crude, without delicacy of finish rude, unpolished, unrefined

1539 Taverner Gard Wysed II (1545) 22, I muste desyre you to pardon myne incondite and grosse phrase 1657 Trapp Comm Pr cxvi 1 An inarticulate incondite voice 1822-34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) I 434 Something far more noble and incondite must have preceded and paved the way for it [the alphabet] 1871 Rogers Ess I 11 Even the Negresses forgot themselves, kicked up their legs, shouted to the bystanders and were altogether incondite

3 Rendering I inconditus qualifying style, utterance, and applied to interjections representing mere natural utterances

[1549 Thos Ivs Inst Grammarian C xxxv, Interiectes est pars orationis quae sub incondita voce subito pertemptum animi affectum demonstrat An interiection is a parte of speche whyche betokeneth a sodayne passion of the mynde under an imperfect voyce] 1845 Stormonth Imper Dict (1847) I 180 These variations then depend not on the articulation, but on the intonation, that is on the elevation or depression of voice in pronouncing it, but this is not peculiar to the interjection oh! or to the incondite interjections generally, for the same may be uttered of any nouns or verbs used interjectionally

Hence Incon aditely adv, in a crude or undigested condition, in an ill constructed form

1822-34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) I 141 Its [the stomach's] fluid are poured forth too sparingly or too inconditely 1880 Hall Dove's Nest 144 As the nibs here inconditely had down admits, is warded, a tedious variety of inter pretations

†Incondi tional, a Obs rare—1 [IN-1 + CONDITIONAL] Without qualifying or limiting conditions, unconditional

1648 Sir I Browne Pseud Ep I iv 15 When from that which is but true in a qualified sense an unconditional and absolute verity is inferred

Hence †Inconditiona lity, the quality of being unconditional

1656 Lorimer Conduct to Dis xii 334 To answer the aforesaid Sophism taken from the Inconditionality and Independency of God's Will

Inconditionate (inkŏndi·shŏnĕt), a (sb.) [f IN-1 + CONDITIONATE of mod F inconditionné.] Not subject to or limited by conditions, unconditioned

1654 J P Tyran's & Protestors 28 The power of Government is arbitrary, and not inconditionate 1658 Norris Irish Dis IV 128 But if all the evils be wholly Absolute and Inconditionate (there being nothing required of us to make us punishable to us

B sb Philos An entity which is unconditioned, a form under which the Unconditioned is conceived 1829 Sir W Hamilton Discuss Philos Unconditioned (1852) 14 The Conditional is the mean between two extremes—the unconditionate 1888 Veitch Int Hamilton 430 The Unconditioned and the species or Inconditionates which it contains—the Absolute and the Infinite.

Hence Inconditionateness, the quality of being unconditioned

1693 Baxter's Pros Sc Logic 60 th title p The Inconditionateness of the Logical Subject

Inconducive (inkŏndi·siv) a rare [IN-1] Not conducive, not tending towards an end or result, unconducive

1848 Lit Gaz, NS 441 What are formed inconducive to good government 1867 J Smith Vox Ecclesiæ 85 Applicable, Inconducive, Inapplicable

Inconey see Inkony

Inco nfidence. rare [IN-1] Want of confidence, distrust

1626 W Sclater Ephes (1894) 67 There may be observed in many inconfidence of it self, timely Resolution 1811 Hone's Yearbook I 215 She looked with much inconfidence on every one

† Inco nfident, a Obs rare [IN-1] 1 Not confident, not trusting distrustful

1669 Waterhouse Apol Printing 132 Whose project is to keep us jealous and inconfident each of other

2 Unfaithful, untrue to a trust (cf Confident 6)

1603 H Crosse Vertues Common (1878) 69 In no such silent to whom money is delivered up in trust to pay on no other and doth either keep it back all, or deliver but a little

† Inconfi nable, a Obs rare [IN-1] That cannot be confined, unconfinable

1606 Dekker Wonderf Yeare (1873) 69 The raptures of that fierie and inconfinable Burning Spirit a 1641 Bp Mountagu Acts & Mon (1874) 494 Christ had transcendent, inconfinable power and authority

† Inconfi rmed, a Obs rare [IN-3] Not confirmed, not become firm or strong

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep II xiv 216 In the first septenarie does most die the infirmities that attend it are so many and the body there is less them inconfirmed

† Inconfo rm, a Ob. [IN-1 + CONFORM a] Not conformed to

1659 Gauden Tears Ch Eng III xi 250 A Way most charitable and no way inconformable to the will of God in his Word 1663 Charleton Chor Exigant 20 An inform to the Rule of the Close order

Inconformable (inkŏnfō·rmăbl) [IN-1] Not conformable, unconformable

1 Not according in form pattern position or character to

1612 Sir Edward Worthy Ans 1854 1 A Define in inconformable inuention 1 An inuention whose Prototipe cannot be conformed to any former inuention in use

1665 J Webb Stone Heng (1725) 169 In Position not much

inconformable to that in our Antiquity. 1670 Famous Conclave wherein Clement I III was elected 24 There was nothing more detestable in a man, nor inconformable to a Christian, than ingratitude. 1699 J. H Heat Condensed II 34 To evince the antiquity of their Rights, which are in many things inconformable with the Roman. 1864 Bowen Logic III 413 No strong is our assurance of the universality of the principle that when an anomalous or inconform ible instance actually arises, we seek at once for the means of eliminating it, or explaining it away.

2 Of persons. Not disposed or wont to conform, of incompliant disposition or practice esp. in Eng. Hist., Not conforming to the usages of the established Church

1633 Ames Fresh Coram II 192 This examination concerning some inconformable suffered for a time. a 1662 Heylin Laud (1668) 201 Two of the Lecturers in that Diocess they found obstinately inconformable to the Kings Directions. 1862 W. S. Pearl Hist. Ch. Eng. I xvi 502 There are scarcely any inconformable troublesome ministers noted in this report

†Inconformist. Obs. [f. In-1 + Conformist.] One who does not conform in matters religious or ecclesiastical, = Nonconformist

1633 Ames Fresh Coram II 196 The Inconformists are by him tossed as it were in a blanket. 1634 Canne Necessity Separ. 1849 198 I will here lay down few syllogisms, entirely made up between the Anabaptists and Conformists. 1658 Manton Exp. Jude xvi 5 The late bishops courts were often complained against the godly as drunkard and an adulterer found more favour than a goodly inconformist

Inconformity (ɪnkənfɔ·mɪti) [f. In-1 + Conformity.] Want of conformity

1 Want of correspondence in form or manner, want of agreement in character, dissimilarity, want of conformity to (†unto) or with a pattern

1865 Bacon Fast., Innovations (Arb.) 597 New things pass not so well. But though they be happy in their utility, yet they trouble by their Inconformity. 1661 R. I. Strange's Interest Mistaken 65 We find an Inconformity of Practice to Profession. 1665 J. Wann Stone Heng (1725) 105 The Dissimilitude or Inconformity betwixt Stone Heng and the Monuments in Denmark. 1711 Strype Parker an. 1571 (R.) Neither did he, I believe, ever endeavour for it, knowing his own inconformity. 1890 J. Martineau Seat Author Relig. v I 503 The chief difference lies in the conformity or inconformity of the seeming fact with expectations

2 Refusal or omission to conform to some rule, standard, or fashion; want of conformity with a guide or pattern

1594 Hooker Eccl. Pol. II v § 1 Jabridging Cartwright, who, however, has not the word) Utter inconformity therefore with the church of Rome in these thing, is the best and surest policie which the Church can use. 1597 — Pol. Ixxii § 11 It being better that the Church should want altogether the benefit of such mens labours than indure the mischiefe of their inconformitie to good Lawes. 1651 Hobbes Leviath. I xv 74 Conformity or Inconformity, of Manners to Reason. 1681 Maston Serm. Preach. 80 Wks. 1693 VII 346 God taketh notice of our conformity and inconformity to his will

3 spec. Want of conformity in worship, refusal to conform to the religious worship or ecclesiastical polity established or publicly recognized, = Nonconformity

1633 Laud Wks. (1853) V 320 His lordship certifies that he hath suspended a lecturer for his inconformity. 1644 Bp. Adams Let to Land on Hist Nonconf. Wks. (1861) 10 They were not any where troubled with Inconformity. 1667 J. Corbet Dis. Relig. Imp. 23 As for the Ministers of this Persuasion, some have called them Fools for their Inconformity. 1824 Southey Bk. of Church (1842) I 40 Inconformity had become well nigh general. 1861 W. S. Pilkington Hist. Ch. Eng. I xiv 510 We might almost imagine that there was scarce any disaffection, inconformity, or difference of opinion previ ient

b An instance of this, a practice not in conformity with the recognized form of religion

a 1662 Heylin Laud (1668) 144 All Calvinists are not to be counted as Puritans also, whose practices many of them abhor, and whose inconformities they detest

Inconfused (ɪnkɔnfɪ·uzd), a. [f. In-1 + Confused, after I. inconfuse.] Not confused; free from confusion or mixture of the elements or essential parts

1626 Bacon Sylva § 792 All the curious Discrimine of Articulate Sounds of the Voice of Man, or Birds, will enter at a small Cranny, Inconfused. 1650 Hibbins Gods Mercy Vindicated (1899) 413 Gods undivided, One in Persons Three, And three in Inconfused Unity. 1660 Stanley Hist. Philos. IV (1701) 165 The Diatomick manifests the imitation which is in all its parts which is inconfused and divided and disjoined

Hence Inconfusedly adv.

1852 Br. Forbes Nicene Cr. 200, The union of the two natures in Jesus Christ has taken place, neither by disorder nor by confusion but by synthesis, or personally, mutually, inconfusedly, unalterably, inherently, inseparably, in two perfect natures in one person

†Inconfus ible, a. Obs. rare [ad. L. inconfusibilis (Vulgate), f. in (In-3) + confusibilis Confusible.] = So F. inconfusible (16th c. in Godef.) Incapable of being confused

1565 Cathrle Answ. Treat. Crosse (Parker Soc.) 14 He hath confounded, by confusion most wicked that uniting and knitting together of these two natures, which are inconfusible, and in themselves distinct. 1652 Benlowes Theoph Ded. 29 The Immaculate Earth of the Humanity, Inseparable, Inconfusible, Inconvertible

†Inconfu sion. Obs. rare—1. [f. In-1 + Confusion, after L. inconfusi us.] Absence of confusion, the condition of being unconfused

1626 Bacon Sylva § 924 The Cause of the Confusion in Sounds and the Inconfusion in Species Visible, is For that the Sight worketh in Right Lines, and maketh severall Cones

†Inconfu·table, a. Obs. rare—1. [In-1] Not confutable, not to be confuted

1659 Pen. Addr. Prot. II 84 To which Malice and Slander he returned this Inconfutable Answer

Hence †Inconfu tably adv., in a way not to be confuted

1664 Jer. Taylor Dissuas. Popery I § 1 (1690) 6 The writings of the fathers were full of proper opinions and such variety of sayings, that both sides externally and inconfutably shall bring sayings for the modern respectively

Incongealable (ɪnkəndʒi·ləbl), a. Obs Also incongelable [f. In- + Congealable of F. incongelable (Cotgr. 1611).] Incapable of being congealed 1623 Cockeram, Incongelable, not to be frozen. 1665 Boyle Usef. Exper. Hist. Cold III Wks. 177. II 517 This term of swimming upon the surface of the water, and, consequently, being by the cold, protected the subjacent water from the freezing, and so from the cold

Hence Incongea lableness

1727 in Bailey vol II, also in some mod. Dicts

†Inconge·nerous, a. Obs. [In-3.] Not of the same kind, the opposite of Congenerous 1646 Sir T. Browne Pseud. Ep. II iii 69 Certaine it is, that the Loadstone will not attract steele if steele it is, is prevalent much lesse the incongenerous body of glasse being tried Incongenial (ɪnkəndʒi·nɪəl), a. [In-1.] Not congenial, uncongenial. Hence Incongenia lity.

1797 Hawkins in Phil. Trans. LXXXVII 184 The impression which these experiments at first made on my mind, was not altogether incongenial to my wish. 1847 A. Rethe Epist. 42 Aspheric of too fulness that was by no means incongenial to his tastes. 1854 Wesley, Incongeniality.

†Inco ngrue, a. Obs Also 5–6 -gru [a. F. incongru, -grue (14th c. in Hatz.-Darm.), ad. L. incongru us see Incongruous.] = Incongruous

1398 Trevisa Barth. De P. R. III ii (1495) 37 The nominatyf case is the verbe discord in person and in nombre, thenne the reason is incongrue. 1490 Caxton How to Die 10 It oughte not to sene to none incongrue ne merueillous. c 1500 Phylomena in Skelton's Wks. (1843) I p. cxxiii, Thou wrytest thynges dyffuse, Incongrue and confuse, Obfuscate and obtuse. 1587 Flet. Conq. Scot. I 3 b, Such Prince shall be ouercome, by auoyding of Vertue, for false or incongrue Latin

Hence †Inco ngruly adv. Obs. (incongruously)

1483 Caxton Cato A ij b (Unkongruely, L. ut [non] incongrue)

Incongruence (ɪnkɒ·ngrʊəns) [ad. F. incongruence (Fertullian), f. incongruent (In-congruent) see -ence.] Want of congruence, disagreement, incongruity 1620 Shelton Don Quix. Epist. Card. of Gond. 9 Wherefore there shalbe no cause of dislike through incongruence of parts. a 1691 Boyle Hist. Fluidity Wks. 1772 I 191 The humidity of a body, depends chiefly upon the congruity or incongruence of the component particles of the liquor in reference to the pores of those particular bodies that it touches. 1854 Baird's Mag. VII 228 The want of any meaning, incoherence or dish-mony. 1885 R. Potter Aesop II, Foreseeing how the incongruence of time and place, the nature of delusions was would turn my best to worst Inco ngruency. Obs [f. as prec. see -ency.] = prec.

1604 Cawdrey Table Alph. Incongruency, want of agree ment. 1681 R. Burnet Th. Earth II 166 This is the first argument against the precipital production of mount ains and the rest their incongruency or disproportion

Incongruent (ɪnkɒ·ngrʊənt), a. [ad. L. incongruent em, f. in (In-3) + congruent em Congruent.] Not congruent, disagreeing, unsuitable, incongruous 1533 Elyot Gov. I xiii, It shall not be incongruent to our matter to shewe what profite may be taken by the diligent reding of auncient poetes. 1658 Rider Lexicon (Shaks. Soc.) 21, I bought them of a penurious cordwainer and they are the most incongruent that ever I wore. 1665 Philos. Trans. I 87 Veal is more incongruent and indignant Meat to all others. 1772 Sir J. Reynolds Disc. v (1876) 365 A harsh jarring of incongruent principles. a 1864 Hartley Exp. Wks. (1870) II 168 Things most incongruent to his hereditary stomach. 1893 H. Walker Parent Stock I 118 There is the additional improbability of such incongruous mixture

Inco ngruently, adv. [f. prec + -ly2.] In an incongruent manner, incongruously 1598 J. Watson Poems 103, Oftentimes of this fashion cometh Phythius incongruently and without reason. 1632 Massinger & Field Fatal Dowry IV, What foule spoken is in the world? that to see a young, fair, handsome beauty unhandsomely matched, and incongruently accustred?

Incongruity (ɪnkɒngrʊ·ɪtɪ) [ad. med. L. incongruitas, f. in- (In-3) + congruitas Congruity (f. incongruus (1529 in Hatz.-Darm.) perh. the immediate source.] The quality, condition, or fact of being incongruous, an instance of this

1 Disagreement in character or qualities, want of accordance or harmony, discrepancy, inconsistency (Now often with some colour of sense 2.)

1612 Lo Rochester in Ellis Orig. Lett Ser. II III 229 That incongruity betwixt your Highnes age and hirs is one inconvenience which neither sydes can help. 1664 Power Exp. Philos. III 149 We have tried Oyl and Water, and no Motion at all was perceived, for the same reason of incongruity. 1672 Marvell Rehearsal I 269 Never was there such Incongruity and Nonconformity in their farniture. 1704 F. Fuller Med. Gymn. (1711) 251, I have often admir'd the Incongruity of the Circumstances of Humane Life. 1807 Rees Cyclop. s.v. Congruity, Incongruity denotes an unfitness of their surfaces for joining together. Thus quicksilver will unite with gold but will roll off from wood. 1850 Kingsley Alt. Locke xxvii, The quaint incongruity of the priestly and the lay elements in his speech

b (with pl) An instance or point of disagreement, a discrepancy, an inconsistency

a 1610 Healey Epictetus Man Ep Ded, In extenuation of so many incongruities. a 1720 Sheffield (Dk Buckhm.) Wks. (1753) II 112 We ought to believe it well and wisely done, whatever incongruities may appear in it. 1830 Herschel Stud. Nat. Phil. 43 Here we find no contradictions, no incongruities, but all is harmony. 1868 Bain Mind & Body x. xiii 216 The most commonly assigned cause of the ludicrous is incongruity, but all incongruities are not ludicrous

2. Want of accordance with what is reasonable or fitting, unsuitableness, inappropriateness, absurdity 1597 Hooker Eccl. Pol. v xxv § 5 As if they who abolish legends could not without incongruities retain scripture. 1660 H. More Myst. Godl. II ii. 218 To shew there is no incongruity nor inconvenience in it. 1696 Phillips (ed. J.) Incongruity Especially such of Epistles committed to that Civility, against Decency, and the received Customs of the World. 1751 Johnson Rambler No. 92 P 1 Without incongruity we cannot speak of universal beauty. 1875 Jowett Plato (ed. 2) IV 130 He felt no incongruity in the veteran correcting the youthful Socrates. 1877 Black Green Past. xxiv, She thought she saw from a sarcastic appreciation of the incongruity of his presence there

b (with pl) An instance of such disagreement, an inappropriate matter, an absurdity a 1646 Br. Andrews Serm. (1856) I 133 How great, gross, and foul an incongruity it is to pour out ourselves into sin when we go forth to correct sin. 1663 Gerbier Counsel 1 The incongruities committed by such Undertakers of Buildings. 1748 Smollett Rod. Random xlv, The only Expedient I know is to lay hold of some incongruity he has uttered. 1882 A. Carlyle Augustan 10 There was an incongruity in using the two phrases as synonyms

3 Want of harmony of parts or elements, want of self-consistency, incoherence. Also (with pl) something incoherent or not self-consistent a 1532 Remedy of Love 2 This werke who so shal see or rede Of any incongruite doe me not impeche. a 1653 Gauden Comm. Heb. ii. 10 In this is no great incongruity. 1729 Butler Serm. Self-deceit Wks. 1874 II 122 Hence arises that amazing incongruity, and seeming inconsistency of character, which we find in mankind. 1818 Hist. Julian book inclined for mirth, he must have smiled at the incongruity of the clerk's apparel. 1876 Mozley Univ. Serm. viii 179 The whole story is one grand incongruity, a splendid illusion

†4 Gram. Violation of the rules of concord, grammatical incorrectness, soleicism. Obs

1577–80 Baret Alv. Ug Incongruitie, Soloecismus. 1589 Puttenham Eng. Poesie III xxi (Arb.) 256 Some manner of speaches are euer indecent, namely barbarousnesse, incongruitie, ill disposition. Ibid. xxii 258 Your next intolerable vice soloecismus or incongruitie that is by missing the Grammaticall rules to be observed in cases, genders, tenses, and such like. 1612 Bacon Ess. Cunning (1625) 194, I have found my schollers to misse most in these Incongruity in their concords

Incongruous (ɪnkɒ·ngrʊəs), a. [f. L. incongru us (= in-, In-3 + congru us see Congruous) + -ous.] Not congruous, the opposite of congruous

1 Disagreeing in character or qualities, not corresponding, out of keeping, disaccordant, inconsistent, inharmonious, unsuited. Const with, to

(Often with mixture of sense 2, not being fitted upon the inappropriateness or absurdity resulting from the want of correspondence.)

1611 Cotgr., Incongrue, incongruous, vnagreeing. 1645 Milton Tetrach Wks. (1847) 184/2 All the ecclesiastical glue the liturgy or laymen can compound, is not able to solder up two such incongruous bodies as these. 1660 A true beseeming marriage. 1666 Boyle Orig Formes & Qual (1667) 5 If its shape were incongruous to that of the cavity of the lock, it would be unfit to be used as a key. 1695 Humbly Motion 53 This is a Scheme I look on as incongruous with free reason. 1727 Bullock Woman a Riddle I 80 Stupidity exceedingly incongruous with all sense and breeding. 1787 G. Whyte Selborne II 3 The cart way of the village divides two very incongruous soils. 1821 J. Adams in C. L. Davies Mem. (1891) 191 Here are two new measures of capacity altogether incongruous to the new system. 1830 Lindley Nat. Syst. Bot. 207 The number of stamens is incongruous with the lobes of the corolla. 1865 Geo. Eliot Romola xxxix, There entered a figure strangely incongruous with the current of their thoughts

2 Disagreeing or inconsistent with the circumstances or requirements of the case, or with what is reasonable or becoming, unbecoming, unsuitable, inappropriate, absurd, out of place

1623 Cockeram, Incongruous, absurd, disagreeable. 1630 Prynne Anti Arminian 173 This is no such incongruous, ridiculous nouell distinction. 1664 H. More Myst. Iniq. xvii 85 As if a man should be acquitted and yet punished for the same crime, at the same Court, then which nothing is more foolish or incongruous. 1719 De Foe Crusoe II I, I have since often observed, how incongruous and irrational the common Temper of Mankind is. 1792 Burke Let to

Sir H Langrishe Wks 1842 I 348 It would be incongruous and absurd, to have the head of the church of one faith, and the members of another 1804 J Grahame Sabbath 267 Most miserable, most incongruous wretch! Dares thou spurn thy life, the boon of God? 1876 C M Davies Unorth Lond 106 The effect was slightly incongruous.

3 Having parts or elements not agreeing with each other, involving inconsistency or disagreement, not self-consistent, incoherent

1648 I Watt Charac Lummies Ch 43 Their confused and incongruous intermixture of the different parts of prayer 1788 H Walker in Hopkinson Pr Philos 50 Surely of all human characters a fanatic philosopher is the most incongruous, and of course the most truly ludicrous 1880 L Stephen Pope V 135 The consequent alterations make the hero of the poem thoroughly incongruous in fact

†4 Gram Violating the rules of concord, grammatically incorrect Obs

1616 Bullokar, Incongruous, against rule of Grammar 1678 R Barcay Apol Quakers xv v (1701) 526 It is incongruous to say tres anni, tres ingri, that is son locuti, son traduit, speaking to One.

†5 Geom Not coinciding when superposed

1656 tr Hobbes' Elem Philos (1839) 180 Of crooked magnitudes, some are congruous, that is, are coincident when they are applied to one other, others are incongruous.

6 Theory of Numbers Of two numbers Not congruent, giving different remainders when divided by the modulus see Congruent 5

1864 Webster, Incongruous Numbers

Inco·ngruously, adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an incongruous manner, inconsistently, inappropriately, incoherently

1641 Clarendon Hist I (1577) 208 The excellency of those pious fathers have intitled that age, how incongruously soever, to be looked upon as the primitive time 1744 Berkeley Siris § 298 Nature may not improperly and incongruously be styled the life of the world 1828-34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) I 715 There was a low muttering delirium, in which the patient spoke incongruously 1849 Disraeli Tancred II vi 61 Words, sometimes incongruously grouped 1884 Law Times LXXVIII 77/2 It shows incongruously beside the more prosaic business of the law

†b Gram With violation of concord, ungrammatically Obs

1642 Howell Lett (1650) I 36 They speak of some towns called the I stones which is not true, yet will rudely speak the old Greek, but incongruously 1684 Knatchbull Annot Num 15 56 (L) Saying, that I take it incongruously, when in truth, he is acknowledged by all expositors too knowing in the Greek to commit such a solecism

†c Geom So as not to coincide Obs

1656 tr Hobbes' Elem Philos (1839) 183 If they be incongruously applied, they will, as all other crooked lines, touch one another in one point only

Inco·ngruousness. [f as prec + -ness] The quality of being incongruous, incongruity

1727 in Bailey vol II 1847-9 Todd Johnson's Dict IV (edn) There is an dream a complete incongruousness in the thoughts and images which pass through our minds 1869 Seeley Lect & Ess 1 18 It was a revolution which struck with incongruousness the very instinctive impulses of men

Inconie - see Incony

†Inconjie ctable, a Obs [f Inc- 1 + I conjecta-re to conjecture, guess (see Conject + -able)] Used to render Lat divinatrix ? unattainable by conjecture, immense' (Liddell & Scott)

1609 Holland Amm Marcell xxii 11 85 Apollo power full, Lord and Patron incontestable of the Prudences [sagax haduarius aeruscorum], unto whom the Lord of Egypt hath set up statues in this kingdome

Inconjoinable (inkjǫ·ndʒoi năb'l), a [sb) rare [f In 3 + Conjoin v + -able] That cannot be conjoined in one as an

1844 Sir W Hamilton Logic II App 328 The Principle of Inconjoinables (i e What cannot be thought as with and beside each other, cannot exist with and beside each other)

†Inconjugated, a Obs [In- 3] Not coupled or paired of Conjugation 4

1578 Banister Hist Man viii 172 Galene rehearseth besides all these a Nerue incongated, or hauing no fellow

Inconjunct (inkjǫ·ndʒpkt), a Obs [In- 1] Not in conjunction, spec in Istrol, said of two planets or their positions when they are so placed that neither affects the operation of the other, when a planet, house, or sign has no aspect or similarity with another' Wilson Dict Istrol, 1819) (cf Aspect 16 4)

1603 Sir C Heydon Jud Astrol xx 469 All the rest beeing inconiunct, and out of fumiliarite, and therefore without operation 1647 Lilly Chr Astrol xix 109 These are called signes inconjunct, or such as of a Planet be in one of them, he cannot have any aspect to another in the Signe underneath 1819 J Wilson Compl Dict Astrol 110 The incident opinion was, that a planet, being five signs distant from any mode, rator or significator, was inconjunct, and had no effect on it whatever The semivestile was likewise considered as an inconjunct position Ibid 191 Houses also are inconjunct, as the 1st with the 2d, 6th, 8th, and 12th

Inconne·ctedness, a rare [In- 3] Not connected, unconnected, disconnected Hence Inconne·ctedness,

1728 Warburton Pope's Ess Man i 43 The best system cannot but be such a one as hath no inconnected void; such a one, in which there is a perfect coherence and gradual subordination in all its parts 17 Hume Pol Writ (R), To treat a number of inconnected and quite different subjects in the same measure 1880 Victorian Rev Dec 196 In spite of the proverbial inconnectedness of the subject matter [of a Dictionary]

Inconne·xedly, adv Obs rare—1 [f In- 3 + Connexed ppl a + -ly 2 cf L inconnexus unconnected] In an unconnected way, without connexion

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep II iv 101 Ascribing, but not as cause what perhaps but usually or inconvedly succeeded

Inconnexion, -ection (inkne·kʃən rare) [In- 3 cf L inconnexus see prec] Want of connexion, unconnectedness

1660 Bp Hall How Was Charged § 3 Neither need wee any better or other proofe of the inconnexion of this vow with body-orders 1678 Phillips (ed 4), Inconnexion In Rhetorick it is the same as the figure Asyndeton 1697 Collier Instit Stoicism I (1708) 190 This strange mess of Persons, distinct Company, and Inconnexion of Affairs 1755 Johnson Hist Eng 4 These speech[es] must have been artless and unconnected, without any modes of transition or involution of clauses, which abrupt sections and inconnexion may be observed even in their best writings. 1813 J Bush Lucretius in Comment xii, The utter inconnexion of the time which passed before our beam, with that in which we live

b (with pl) An instance of this, something unconnected with what precedes or follows

1697 Collier Ess Vice Stage iii (1730) 94 Astonishing absurdity, inconsistency, inconnexions, mysteries and nonsense 1700 Dryden Fables Pref, Many inconnexions are made good

†Inconne·xive, a Obs [In- 3] Of unconnected nature or character, without connexion

1659 Stanley Hist Philos III 11 144 The Monads in the Duad are inconnexive to those of the Triad

†Inco·nquerable, a Obs rare [f In- 14 + Conquerable] Unconquerable

1660 N Ingelo Bentivoglio & Urania (1682) I 93 Allied, nay, like unconquerable in this mortal body

Inconscient (inkpnʃiənt), a rare [f In- 3 + Conscient Also in mod E (Dict Acad 1878 cf L inconscius] Unconscious

1885 Athen 5 Sept VI 486 The old doctrines suspected of the inconscient, a word of modern coinage which is the foundation of mental life 1894 T Salusbury Pre Adam Brit Ixxiv 7 Ask, Whether you believe that Creation was the work of design or of inconscient law as is equally difficult to imagine how this random collection of dissimilar materials [the chemical elements] came together

No Inconscience (inkpnʃiəns), unconsciousness

1891 A Lanch Mod Authors 96 The genuineness and inconscience of these element is motifs

†Inconscionable, a Obs [In- 1] Not having, or not regarding, conscience, unconscionable

1596 Shakesp Merch Ven IV i (folio) 81/1 See more inconsciouable are these common people, and so little fearing God 1698 Wycherley Love in Wood v i Inconscionable, false woman You cheated, impaunted, robbed, me of the five hundred pounds

Hence †Inco nscionableness, †Inco nscionably adv

1634 Stratford Let to Cooke in Lett & Dispt (1740) I 28 Most inconscionably the Landlords had laid it upon the poor and beggarly Tenants 1800 Young Agric Lincoln 67 There is intrinsic inconscion ableness in the law

Inconscious (inkpnʃəs), a Now rare [f In- 1 inconscius + -ous cf Conscious]

†1 Not privy to some deed cf Conscious 1

1611 Cotgr Hist Fr in 1851 28 Miserably slain by his people, some say deservedly, as not inconscious with them who to him'd Ossed to his ruin

2 Not conscious, unaware, unconscious

1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I iii § 34 144 Concluding, that all Matter and Substance as such, hath Life and Perception or Understanding, Natural and Inconscious, Even really to longing, but 1799 Newman's Bertha II 84 Miss We through had long entertained a penchant for him, of which he was not inconscious 1868 Browning Ring & Bk III 466 Each in turn Pattins the curly skin inconscious head Hence Inco nsciously adv rare, unconsciously

1850 Browning Sordello iv 148 He had mean cowardly contempt for Sordello, dwelt the points — Red Cott Nt-bk III 386 Chatting and chirping sunk unconsciously to silence

Inconsecutive (inkpnsɛ·kiutiv), a [In- 3] Not consecutive, characterized by want of sequence, inconsequent

1837 G S Faber Prim Doct Justif I 53 note His argument is altogether lame and inconsecutive 1853 — Rev Dr Shuttleworth 64 Mr Elliott is far too hasty and too inconsecutive to be a safe guide 1894 Times 4 Nov 11/2 They follow one another in an absolutely inconsecutive and irrelevant manner

Hence Inconsecutively adv, Inconsecutiveness.

1836 G S Faber Prim Doctr Election II 325 An inconsecutiveness of reasoning which must be detected 1845 Fraser's Magazine XXXI 64 Mr Elliott is far too hasty and too inconsecutive to be a safe guide 1894 Times 4 Nov 11/2 They follow one another in an absolutely inconsecutive and irrelevant manner

Inconsederat, obs form of Inconsiderate

Inconsequence (inkpnsikwĕns) [ad L inconsequentia (Quintil), f inconsequent-em Consequent] So F. inconséquence (17th c in Hatz-Darm.)] The fact or quality of being inconsequent, an instance of this

1 Want of logical sequence, the character of an inference that does not follow from the premisses, or of an argument involving such an inference, inconclusiveness, illogicalness

1588 Frauncs Lawiers Log I ii 7 b, Syllogismes are the true and onely rules of consequence and inconsequence 1653 Gataker Lond Annot Jer 174 Mr S himself could not but see the inconsequence of his own argument 1764 Harris Let to Dr Beattie (R) Strange! that you should not see the inconsequence of your own reasoning 1862 Sat Rev 18 Mar 298 With a little more inconsequence it behoves to establish a necessary connexion between the mere consolidation of grants and efficiency in fundamental instruction

b (with pl) An instance of this, a conclusion that does not follow from the premisses, an illogical inference or piece of reasoning

1605 Bacon Adv Learn II xxiii 8 Men are undermined by inconsequences 1656 Hobbes Ground Art v, Necess & Chance Wks 1841 V 4-5 And from will to work to doth work of an absolute necessity is another [sc inconsequence] 1828 W Scarth Dry Pleas Law 42 We cannot without express inconsequence, deny them a proposition we admit

2 Want of sequence or natural connexion of ideas, actions, or events, irrelevance, disconnexion, inconsecutiveness, an instance of this an irrelevant action or circumstance

1842 Poe Marie Roget Wks 1864 I 231 The whole of this paragraph must now appear a tissue of inconsequence and incoherence 1846 — Y M Hatch Wks 1864 II 41 The plot was a tissue of absurdities, inconsequences and incongruities 1865 Mason in Rep Imp Inst VIII 16 The utmost inconsequence of the proceedings could not be overlooked

3 As a quality of persons, their thought, or action a The practice or habit of drawing inconsequent inferences illogicalness of reasoning b The practice or habit of speaking or acting disconnectedly or without sequence

1817 Coleridge Biog Lit I 4 That fortunate inconsequence of our nature which permits the heart to rectify the errors of the understanding 1856 Miss Browning Chr Treasure 13 For what is carelessness but an expensive vice, fluctuation 'twixt effort and cause Compelled by neither? 1878 Lord Iddesleigh Life xxxiii 2 Then, again, in consequence which belongs to my self, and not unhappily since it saves us from many effects of mistake

†4 The being of no consequence or importance

1759 Compl Letter-writer (ed 6) 138 Vexation on account, and the little Inconsequence 1812 J Hunter Essays & Quotes 80 Being without arms and in an unknown country, my inconsequence, and fruitlessness by heavy on my spirits

†Inco nsequency. Obs [f as prec see -ency] = prec (in quot, in sense 1)

1641 Br Mount Treat Relig 292 Full of inconsequencie and absurdities. 1655 H More Intell Ith Apol § 21 294 To search and discover any weakness or inconsequency in any Argument done throughout the whole Treatise 1706 in Phillips

Inconsequent (inkpnsikwĕnt), a [In- 3 cf L inconsequent-em without due sequence or connexion, f in- In- 3 + consequent-em Consequent]

1 Not following as an inference or logical conclusion, falsely or erroneously inferred, illogical

1627 Hakewill Apol (3) The ground he assumes is unsound and his illation from thence deduced inconsequent 1644 Digby Nat Bodies iii (1645) 19 Inconsequent to this which body of reason a 1688 Cudworth Immut Mor (1731) 65 Not only ridiculously absurd and contradictious in themselves, but also altogether inconsequent to the same

b Not following naturally in the order of events, having no rational connexion with preceding or accompanying circumstances, irrelevant

1881 H James Portr Lady xxxvi She was checked on her progress to the door, by an inconsequent request from Isabel 1893 W. H Hudson Tales 144 Who that has noticed monkeys in captivity – their profound inconsequent gravity and insane delight in their own antics and tricks

c transf Of things That do not follow on, or carry out the purpose or design of something else

1866 Howells Venet Life 24 The narrowest crookedest, and most inconsequent little streets in the world 1868 Westm Gaz 4 Nov 3 2 Inconsequent trimmings, that have no reason d'être are well known to be the crime of the third rate dressmaker

2 Wanting in logical sequence of thought or reasoning, involving erroneous inference 1579 Fulke Heskins Parl 43 Where ouer heard a more shameless lye or a more inconsequent argument? 1665 J Spencer Prodigies (1758) 122 A most inconsequent and presumptuous reasoning. 1794 J Hutton Theory of Earth (1) I wish to show the erroneous or inconsequent way of reasoning which has prevailed in physical investigation 1877 L R Conder Basis Faith 124 Confused thought and inconsequent reasoning.

b Wanting in sequence or connexion of ideas or subjects, characterized by irrelevance, disconnected, inconsecutive

1865 Miss Mulock Woman's Kingd II ix 86 Dean talking in her smoothly flowing inconsequent way 1891 Miss Broughton Cometh up as Flow 204 The trumpeters blew long notes of inconsequent music

3 transf Of a person Characterized by inconsequence in thought, speech, or action

1794 Sullivan View Nat V 381 This to me, is the most clear, that the private Atheist is an inconsequent man and an enemy to himself 1813 Shelley Notes Q Mab Poet Wks (1830) 471 A Necessarian is inconsequent to his own principles if he indulges in hatred or contempt 1863 Trollope Rachel Ray I 250 Mrs Ray was herself so inconsequent in her mental workings so shamefy pated, if I may say so, that it did not occur to her [etc.]

4 Of no consequence, unimportant, not worth notice rare

1768 Sterne Sent Journ (1 78 I Journ Roan) Blessed at many a word the first month—which I found in one quent and perfectly innocent the second

+ B sb A conclusion that does not follow from the premisses, an illogical inference, a non sequitur. Obs

1843 Penny Soc Power Lect III 120, To which I answer that this is a mere inconsequential

Inconsequential (inkɒnsɪkwe nʃal), a [IN 1] Characterized by inconsequence, the opposite of Consequential (in senses 3–6)

1 Characterized by inconsequence of reasoning, thought, or speech, = Inconsequent 1 3

1682 W Sclater Fythes (1692) A 3a, So vitally inconsequential are all arguments pretended against the divine right of Tythes 1840 Thoreau Maine Woods (1864) 1 Carefully kept in Caroline I cannot let such gross mistakes and inconsequential reasonings pass without some notice 1710 Norris Ideal World II 227 The best and inconsequential Reasoner in his wild rambles may happen to light upon Truth 1779–81 Johnson L P, Somerville The fiction is unnatural, and the moral much sequential 1837 H Nelson Prophecies Christ (1841) I 18 not to say that such reasoning is inconsistently, is consequential or unfair

2 Of no consequence, = Inconsequent 4

1762 Miss Jeffry Letters (1770) 20 As my time is not wholly inconsequential, I should not be sorry to have an early opportunity of being heard 1791–1823 D'Israeli Curios Lit Third Series I An unimportant, which may appear inconsequential to a reader may be of some remote or latent connexion 1892 Stevenson Treasure Island xxiii An all too simple and inconsequential for gentlemen of our horse would

Hence Inconsequentially (nonce wd), inconsequential or disconnected nature

1893 National Observer 25 April 614/2 A practice that from its inconsequentialism was always pleasing

Inconsequentiality (inkɒnsɪkwenʃɪa lɪtɪ [f prec + -ITY] Inconsequential quality or character the opposite of Consequentiality

1 = Inconsequence 1, 2, 3

1832 L Hunt Sir R Esher (1860) 248 His inconsequentialities were usually of a pleasanter character 1858 R Chambers Hum Am (1876) I 137 A sense of the inconsequentiality of such reasoning at length struck me even them

2 The quality of not being consequential

1890 L Hunt Autobiog xx (1860) 41, I used to rally him (Shelley) on the apparent inconsequentiality of his manner upon those occasions

Inconsequentially, adv [f as prec + -LY 2] In an inconsequential manner, without logical sequence

1754 Warburton View Bolingbroke's Philos in Wks 1811 XII 25 He infers inconsequentially in supposing that from the inconsistency of a certain relation concerning revelation, there never was any revelation at all 1879 Faucit Thackeray iv 197 He must miss his sentences become inconsequentially

Inconsequentism, nonce-wd [Inconsequent + -ism] = Inconsequence 3

1889 Carlyle Misc, Novalis (1872) II 214 (tr Novalis) They hold their views as results of weakness, as Inconsequentism

Inconsequently, adv [f Inconsequent + -LY 2] In an inconsequent manner

1 Without logical sequence, in the way of erroneous inference, inconclusively

1626 Jackson Creed VIII xxxv § 8, I could not condemn Maldonat for speaking inconsequently either to the truth itself or to the authority of the Romish Church, wherein he lived 1681 Glanvill Anti-Fanatism 12 How acutely and inconsequently they collect that the human Soul is nowhere 1836 Sir W Hamilton Discuss, Mind Math (1852) 286 It would argue a mind incorrigibly false, to reason inconsequently on principles so obtrusive

2 Without sequence or connexion of ideas or circumstances, not as a consequence of anything; irrelevantly

1864 Lennet's Trial in II 248 'Are you not longing, to see Kirkham again?' asked Brandon rather inconsequently 1881 H James Portr Lady xiii, And Edward Rosier looked all round, inconsequently, with his single glass

Inconsequentness, rare [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being inconsequent

1727 in Bailey vol II 1856 J Young Demonol iv vii 417 Often may the inconsequentness of the reasoning be unperceived 1888 Fortn Sci Monthly XX 816 There is always some inconsequentness or incoherency in madness

+ Inconsi der, v Obs rare [f In- 3 + Consider v] = Inconsiderate 1

1597 R Percy Reth Mem 1 b, We were forced to apply our sails wholly to the Consumation and not to the Scales

Inconsiderable (inkɒnsɪdərabl), a sb [f In- + considerable (16th c in Godef), f con- (Lat) + considerable] Not considerable, not to be considered

†1 Incapable of being considered or reckoned, incalculable (Cf Considerable 6) Obs rare

1598 Florio, Innumerabile, that cannot be considered, or imagined, inconsiderable a 1632 Donne Serm (Alford) IV cvii 466 All that inexpressible inconsiderable Number made not up one Minute of this Eternity

2 Not to be considered; unworthy of consideration, beneath notice; of no consequence, unimportant; insignificant, trifling The opposite of Considerable (senses 3–8)

1637 Laud in Cabal (O H S) I 318 Nor is it altogether inconsiderable, that [etc 1658–9 Burton's Diary (1828) III 80, I never heard of the fellow He is inconsiderable. 1699 Bentley Phal 133 This Discovery of mine, if it be true is no inconsiderable one 1728 Steele Spect No 292 ¶ 11 A trifling inconsiderable Circumstance 1754 Sherlock Dis. (1759) I vi 311 This Earth was made for the Habitation of Men, wicked and inconsiderable as they are 1806 Selb Hunter in Lond etc II 39 My uncle, in whose correspondence Mr Mont gu has made no inconsiderable figure

b Hence, Of very small value, amount, or size

1648 D Jenkins Ilt 2 The place is of so inconsiderable a benefit that it is worth but 80 l per Annum 1664 Sir E Nicholas in A Papers (Camden) III 62, I know nothing of all the money he hath received, which I assure you have not been inconsiderable sums 1706 Shollett Hist Eng (1803) V 400 A fortification defended by an inconsiderable garrison 1796 Morse Amer Geog I 450 Paukatuck river is an inconsiderable stream 1812 Chalmers Dom Hom for Brit 373 The American tribes are found to be inconsiderable in numbers 1875 Scribner Encl Tract V List 9 But a few inconsiderable fragments of the New Testament still extant are older than the forty reign of Diocletian

+3 Inconsecrate, thoughtless Obs rare

1640 (implied in Inconsiderableness) a 1656 (implied in Inconsiderately) a 1691 Locke Educ 118 Questions which to a superficious and inconsiderable Inquirer would seem very trifling 1708 Lond Libertine Anat II 2 The Ground, wherein an inconsiderable Architect has placed his City, may perhaps have those defects

B sb A point or circumstance not worth considering, or of no importance chiefly in pl (Obs)

1670 W Simpson Hydrol Ess p xiv, Both not so replete with inconsiderables

Inconsiderableness. [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being inconsiderable

1 Freedom or ease in being considered, small importance or consequence, slightness of value or amount, trifling amount, insignificance

1646 Jenkyn Remora 16 The smallnes and inconsiderablenes of the pretext 1665 Pepys Diary 6 Sept, I did inform myself well in things relating to the Dutch, both of the country and the inconsiderableness of the place of Bonbaim, of which we had it 1730–6 Gordon Tacitus Amphith 24 The Inconsiderableness of that Edifice 1812 Chalmers Dom Hom for Brit 66 The cargoes could not, from their inconsiderableness, have filled a mighty void, for any length of years

+2 Thoughtlessness, want of consideration Obs

1640 B Reynolds Passions xl 240 A Depraved Under standing Deprav'd by Neglect and Inconsiderableness, not darkned by Ignorance

Inconsiderably, adv [f as prec + -LY 2] To an inconsiderable, insignificant, or trifling extent, slightly, very little

1797 [Godwin] Enq Pol Justice (ed 2) I 214 Inconsiderably, mentally, etc 1753 Gentlem in Phil Trans XLVIII 483 His number differs inconsiderably from what they, most probably, made it 1794 Sullivan View Nat II 245 Those islands being, but inconsiderably elevated above the surface of the water

+2 Thoughtlessly, carelessly, inconsiderately Obs rare

1648 J Gregory Tercet Globe in Posthuma (1650) 266 [It] was thwartly in it self, and, in the proof, inconsiderably don

+ Inconsi deracy. Obs rare [f Inconsiderate see -acy] Inconsiderateness

1748 Chesterfield Lett (1792) II cxli 2 This is the common effect of the inconsideracy of youth 1849 tr Teuffels Hist Roman Mod Lit (1873) II 348 Their fierce but habitual absence of mind, inconsideracy, forgetfulness

+ Inconsi derance. Obs rare [ad L inconsiderantia, f inconsiderant-em acting inconsiderately see -ance] Want of consideration, inconsiderateness

1599 Chapone Hum in Telly 5 2 Unlesse he had laide foile and inconsiderance to bott 1644 Chillingw Serm 8 § 4 The cause of this practical atheism was ignorance or rather imprudence, inconsiderance

+ Inconsi derancy Obs rare—° = prec 1596 Nashes Saffron Walden, Inconsiderancie, inadvertencie, incredulitie 1623 Cockeram II, Inconsiderancy 1706 Phillips, Inconsiderancy, Inconsiderateness, Unadvisedness, Rashness

Inconsiderate (inkɒnsɪdərɛt), a sb Also 5 inconsiderat [ad L inconsiderāt-us unadvised, thoughtless, inconsiderate, f in- (In- 3, + considerātus Considerate]

1 Of things, actions, etc Not properly considered, done or made without deliberation, thoughtless, unadvised, precipitate, rash (Now often regarded as tranſ from 2)

1456 Implied in Inconsiderately 1540 Coverdale, etc Erasm Para 1 Tim 7 That you geve none occasion unto their inconsiderate ignorance 1612 J Taylor Comm Matt III 4 Such inconsiderate and rash oath 1661 J Stephens Procurations 1 Unreasonable and inconsiderate speaking, 1751 Earl Orrery Remarks Swift (1752) 56 Our inclinations are so apt to hurry us into inconsiderate actions 1798 Malthus Popul (1817) III 52 We often draw very inconsiderate conclusions against the nature and government of states from the appearance of uncultivated lands in them 1832 J Taylor Spir Despot v 219 An inconsiderate application of genuine principles to particular instances,

2 Of persons, etc Not characterized by consideration; acting without deliberation, thoughtless, imprudent, indiscreet, careless

1505 Skaks John II 1 67 Rash, inconsiderate, fiery voluntaries a 1535 Naunton Fragm Reg (Arb) 33 You will never leave it untill you are knocket on the head, so that inconsiderate fellow Sidney was 1660 Milton Free Commw Wks (1847) 448/1 If there be a king, which the inconsiderate multitude are now so mad upon 1790 Pery Let to Cromwell 27 Dec, Inconsiderate authors would rather be admir'd than understood 1833 Alison Europe (1849) I 1 862 105 There is enough here to arrest the attention of the most inconsiderate 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) I 343 They are younger and more inconsiderate

+b Not thinking of, careless of, regardless of

1607 Topsell Fourfoot Beasts (1658) 343 The silly beast in considerate of all fraud cometh out and is taken 1667 Decay Chr Piety viii § 12 So wholly taken up with the contemplation and enjoyment of his own felicity, that he is utterly inconsiderate of that of his creatures 1670 G H Hist Cardinals III iii 27 The innocent Popes walk on careless and inconsiderate of what they do

3 Without consideration or regard for the circumstances, claims, feelings, etc of others

1844 The Tattler (R I S) 60 (Aunt Priscilla), She was not of an inconsiderate temper She did not allow herself to utter remarks or censure without considering how they were likely to operate on the tempers and feelings of others 1858–85 [implied in Inconsiderateness 2] Mod It was most inconsiderate to mention the matter in her hearing

+4 Not held in consideration, unconsidered, of no importance, inconsiderable, trifling Obs

1654 J Trapp Exp 1 Pet 1 18 Not by such trifles as any one of their bullocks to us, for a little inconsiderate peece of brasse 1657 North's Plutarch Add Lives (1676) 44 But an inconsiderate person, as I have observed 1660 Milton Mach Hirers 276 The difference of the thickness being so inconsiderate, is not discerned

B sb An inconsiderate or thoughtless person

1588 Shaks L L L III 179 O pardon me my stars, doth the inconsiderate take salue for lennoy, and the word lennoy for a salue? 1622 T Ward Letter's Petition of Penne (1627) 8 Without inconsiderate Actions, or Inconsiderate of honor 1748 Richardson Clarissa (1811) III 168, I was as willing as the gay inconsiderate to call another cause, as he termed it

Inconsiderately, adv [f prec + -LY 2] In an inconsiderate manner, without consideration or deliberation, thoughtlessly, unadvisedly, indiscreetly, rashly

c 1460 Fortescue Abs & Lim Mon xi (1885) 136 Yff suche giftes, and namely suche as weth haue be made inconsiderably, or doff the meryles off hem that haue them, ware refourmed Ibid xiv 143 Giftes made off the kynges lyvelod inconsiderably, as not assentid 1597 R Percy Myst Sp Dict, Desatinadamente, rashly, inconsiderately 1504 J B La Primaud Fr Acad II 307 Such passions did incite me to my consultation, but performed all things inconsiderately and at aduenture 1603 Holland Plutarch's Mor 205 He answereth not inconsiderately, but with good aduice and warrantably 1682 Sir T Herbert Travels (ed 3) 1 Some of the Natives Cope 1880 Muirhead Gaius II § 33 Our state must not be made inconsiderately

Inconsiderateness. [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being inconsiderate, thoughtlessness, want of consideration, imprudence, rashness, an instance of this

1591 Percivall Sp Dict, Desatino, rashnesse, inconsiderateness, folly 1594 J B La Primaud Fr Acad II 272 Our inconsiderateness, our blockishness and ingratitude is the cause, why wee cannot learne this lesson 1606 Bernard Tit of Rom (1630) 67 Where Inconsiderate nesse sits, there Ambicion and Foolishnesse will waite 1741 Middleton Cicero I vi 531 It shall be my care to check his inconsiderateness in this one article 1855 Ld Houghton in Life (1889) I 82 Some of those occasion sidenesses with which I am continually reproaching myself

2 Want of consideration for the claims or feelings of others.

1858 Holland Titcomb's Lett iii 190 Injustice and inconsiderateness will not go down especially when administered by a man's companion 1885 Manch Exam 6 July 4/3 Servants were often treated with painful inconsiderateness Inconsideration (inkɒnsɪdəraʃən [a. F inconsidération (16th c), or ad. late L inconsiderātiōn-em (Salvianus c 440), f in- (In- 3 + considerātiōn-em, after inconsiderāt-us inconsiderate]

1 Want of consideration, failure or refusal to consider; thoughtlessness of action; indiscretion

1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1532) 90 b, I echey, blyndnes of mynde, inconsyderacyon 1583 Greice Ep 96 I am hardie Peramb Kent (1826) 91 Tymor standing by blamed him [the king] of great inconsideration 1656 Artif Jendurion 146 They are at first, through inconsideration or unwontednesse, scandalised at them 1748 Richardson (Clarissa (1811) I 281, I had reason to impute full as much to my own inconsideration, as to his power over me 1815 Jane Austen Emma III xv, I faults of inconsideration and thoughtlessness 1847 A Bennie Disc 52 This tranquillity is the result of inconsideration

+b (with pl) An instance of this, an inconsiderate act; a failure to consider Obs

1579 Fenton Guicciard (1618) 288 All men being much amazed at so great an inconsideration 1699 Jer Taylor Gt Exemp III § 15 (R) The greatnesse of John's love, when he had mastered the first inconsiderations of his fear, made him to return

2 Absence of consideration for others, inconsiderateness.

1872 W R Greg Enigmas (1873) lv, 138 Her [Nature's] merciless inconsideration for the individual where the interests of the Race are in question 1885 Pall Mall G 22 Sept 2/2 A protraction of time which is frequently caused by the inconsideration of principals, who will drive off

'writing their letters' to the last moment 1891 Nurses' Life Nurse 63 In spite of the inconsideration shown by the lady, I felt very sorry for her

†Inconsi derative, a Obs rare—[f In-3 + Considerative] = Inconsiderate 1

1684 Def Retail Coals Comac cone Symbol Ch Rome 36 You never uttered a more inconsiderative saying

Inconsidered (inkɒnsi daɹd), a rare [In-3 after L. inconsiderdtus, F inconsidéré.] Not considered, unconsidered. = Inconsiderate 1

1630 Donne Serm (Alford) I xi 220 God will scarce hearken to sudden inconsidered irreverent Prayers 1894 Pop Sci Monthly Sept 563 Gradually by inconsidered increments the mightiest economic changes are made 1895 Westm Gaz 30 Sept 3/3 Greater harm is done to society by emotional and inconsidered charity, than by the refusal to help some cases of perhaps doubtful genuineness

†Inconsi dering, a Obs rare [In-3] Unconsidering, = Inconsiderate 2

1685 Cotton tr Montaigne I 586 One effect of its virtue, even in the most inconsidering sort of men

Inconsistence (inkɒnsi stĕns) Now rare or Obs [f Inconsistent (after consistence) see -ence Cf F inconsistance (1755 in Hatz.-Darm.]

1 Want of agreement or harmony with some thing, or between things, = Inconsistency 1

1651 Hobbes Leviath I xiii 190 There is no such In consistence of Humane Nature, with Civill Duties, as some think 1661 Maxwell Let to Mayor of Hull Wks 1736 I 27, I did not at all see what inconsistence there could be between Colonell Gilby's interest and mine 1711 Berkeley Passive Obed § 51 The inconsistence of such a state with that manner of life which human nature requires 1764 Harmer Observ x II 65 Some seeming inconsistence between this and the preceding observation

2 Want of agreement between the parts of a thing, = Inconsistency 2.

1643 Milton Divorce II viii, What may we do then to salve this seeming inconsistence? 1736 Butler Anal II vii 261 Any inconsistence in its several parts 1797 H Walpole Mem Geo II (1847) I x 319 [There was] no deviation, no inconsistence in his narrative

3 Inconsistent action or conduct, = Inconsistency 4

1713 Bentley Free think § 16d 219 These very Men are honoured in other parts of his Book, and recommended as Free thinkers What inconsistence is this, which Contradiction? 1745 Richardson Pamela I 91 Well, you may be gone from my Presence thus strange. Mighty of Inconsistence! 1765 Tourist Lett viii (1848) I 141 Such inconsistencies was, of all men, the person who should not have complained of inconsistence with regard to Mr Wilkes 1897 Westm Gaz 16 Feb 3/2 Let them ignore the consistency or the inconsistence of the occupants of the two front benches

4 With an and pl An instance of inconsistence; an inconsistency

1655 Fuller Ch Hist III vii § 18 Else these inconsistences will not be reconciled 1754 Edwards Freed Will II iv 51 Nor will it help in the least its Absurdities and Inconsistences 1870–81 Lyham Nation Fools Land (1891) V 62 English jurisprudence will be found variegated by inconsistences

Inconsistency (inkɒnsi stĕnsi). [f as prec. (after consistency) see -ency.] The quality, condition, or fact of being inconsistent

1 Want of consistency or congruity; lack of accordance or harmony (with something, or between things), incompatibility, contrariety, or opposition 1699 Bentley Phal 281 What an inconsistency is there, between the LI and LXX Copies? 1719 Addison Freeh Relig II iv, An eminent instance of the inconsistency of our Religion with Magic. 1818 Jas Mill Brit India II iv vii 260 That disappointment and disgust which their inconsistency with the matters of fact rendered a necessary consequence 1853 Bright Sp India 3 June, There is great inconsistency between the speech of the right hon Gentleman and that which he proposes should be done.

2. Want of agreement or harmony between two things or different parts of the same thing

1652 Baxter Inf Bapt 296 The inconsistency of sealing these two at once 1781 Bellamy Th Lett 28 Which two (Persons), though different, are inseparably united, which nevertheless implies not the least Inconsistency 1840 Macaulay Hist Eng x II 650 In the unity of the resolution is its inconsistency. 1875 Jowett Plato's Rep II 170 Nor is there any inconsistency in wise and good fathers having foolish and worthless sons

3 With an and pl Something that is inconsistent, a discrepancy, incongruity

1647 H More Song of Soul II App xxix, If those single lights hither aspire, This strange prodigious inconsistency Groweth still stranger 1668 Wilkins Real Char 87 Affected phrases, which being Philosophically unfolded will appear to be inconsistencies and contradictions 1733 Berkeley Hylas & Phil III Wks 1871 I 320, I know that nothing inconsistent can exist, and that the existence of Matter implies an inconsistency 1831 Taylor Saint's Rest I 6 A world of wonderous inconsistencies.

4. Of persons Want of consistency in thought or action, esp discrepancy between principles and practice, or between one action and another

1665 Glanvill Def Vain Dogm 54 If he sayes otherwise elsewhere, 'tis only an argument of the inconsistency of Aristotle 1745 Wesley Answ Ch 7, I am continually charged with inconsistency herein 1790 Ham Moss Relig Fash World (1791) 220, I dare not say this is hypocrisy, but surely it is inconsistency 1896 Hor Smith Tin Trump, (1876) 204 Inconsistency,—the only thing in which men are consistent 1874 Motley Barneveld I viii 349 James had given a new exhibition of his astounding inconsistency

b An instance of this, an inconsistent act

1730 Johnson Rambler No 14 P 1 The many inconsistencies which folly produces, or infirmity suffers in the human mind 1834 Macaulay Ess, Pitt (1851) 298 The inconsistences of which Pitt had been guilty 1860 Pall Mall Mag July 19 Such people talk edifyingly enough of the sins of Church goers—their 'inconsistencies' their worldly gossip

5 Logic (See quot.)

1864 Bowen Logic VI 169 This new sort of Opposition or Incompossibility, as it exists between two Judgments which are alike in Quality, either both Affirmatives or both Negatives, is called Inconsistency

Inconsistent (inkɒnsi stĕnt), a (sb) Also 7–8 ant [f In-3 + Consistent a, cf mod I inconsistant] Not consistent

1 Of a substance Without consistence or firmness, of incoherent nature rare arch

1677 Grew Anat Salsed Salts II § 10 If the Particles of Water were themselves Fluid or Inconsistent and Alterable 1718 I Mayn Hayne Acheat Helen (1720) I 8 So that the whole Matter is so soft and inconsistent that it can hardly bear touching with the Hands 1860 Rennie Mod Lunar Volc 119 The parts of a crystal are consistent, but of dust, inconsistent

II 2 Not consisting, not agreeing in substance, spirit, or form, not in keeping, not consonant or in accordance, at variance, discrepant, incongruous, incompatible a Said of any thing in relation to another, const with, †rarely to

1646 Sir I Browne Pseud Ep I viii 30 It cannot unite impossibilities and things inconsistent with truth 1664 Rich Island of Ice (1667) II 19 Whether there be any laws that are inconsistent to the present government 1729 Butler Serm Temporal Wks 1874 II 109 Resentment is not inconsistent with good will 1856 J Grimley Christ Atonem (1864) 58 The benevolence of God is not inconsistent with his determination to punish 1870 Emerson Addr Soph 9 The profession, At times, inconsistent with both L and O 1880 Haughton Phys Geog iii 263 note, Three combinations give results inconsistent with the others

b Said of two or more things, in relation to each other

c 1656 Brynhall Reply 5 Since they be confounderh Papall and Patriarchall Power, making things inconsistent to be one and the same thing 1657 Thomas tr Spr in Castle, And it is a painful fancy to think they are inconsistent Certainly they may consist 1704 Locke Pastle Lett (1719) 69 In the same unextended indivisible Substance have different and inconsistent and opposite Modifications at the same time? 1857 Macaulay Hist Eng vii 747 Were these two passages inconsistent? 1875 Jowett Thomson Laws Th § 124 236 Two or more inconsistent views may be formed at the same time

2 Not fitted to be compatible of being held together with a fellowship Obs

1690 Luttrell Brief Rel (1857) II 88 Dr Hern having a living, is St Anns in Westminster, the bishop declared it inconsistent with his fellowship 1691 Lond Gaz No 2716/4 The Statutes of Exeter College, would very unprofitably have made that distinction between Benchers consistent and inconsistent

3 Wanting in harmony between its different parts or elements, self-contradictory, involving inconsistency Said of a single thing, or of action including two or more courses

1652 Baxter Inf Bapt 277 For his humanity to reign actually, and to suffer it the same time, is inconsistent 1658 Bramhall Consecr Bps v 134 It had deserved more credit, then this silly, improbable, inconsistent Relation 1774 J Bicheno Signs Times 146 All which in time gave rise to a most inconsistent system of Polytheism 1856 Froude Hist Eng (1858) II iv 240 The language of the Roman law had been inconsistent with the notions of all those always uniform 1860 Abp Thomson Laws Th § 84 150 Inconsistent opposition lies between any two affirmative judgments which cannot be correct together, but may be false together

4. Of a person Not consistent in thought or action a Const with †rarely to (oneself one's principles, etc.) b absol Acting in a way at variance with one's professed principles, or with one's conduct at another time a 1709 Steyns Ann Intr (1854) I 1 viii 166 Many of these accused them to the Queen as men that were inconsistent to themselves 1799 Steele Tatler No 77 P 1 Such a Creature very inconsistent with himself 1772 Junius Lett xlvii 254 You are inconsistent with your own principles 1887 Bowen Virgil's Æneid 63 Examples 174 You are inconsistent with yourself

b 1748 Young Nt Th II 113 How unjust to nature, and inconsistent with herself, thankless, inconsistent in us! a 1863 Whately Comm pl Ch (1864) 99 A man is properly called inconsistent whose opinions or practices are at any time at variance with each other: in short, who holds at once a proposition and its contradictory 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) IV 11 Nor in speaking of God both in the masculine and neuter gender, did he [Plato] seem to himself inconsistent

B sb. (pl) Things, statements, etc which are inconsistent with each other or with something else.

1652 Gaule Magastromm 149 Necessity and contingency have always been held as contraries and inconsistents 1655 Fuller Ch Hist I ii § 4 As for other inconsistents with truth, they prove not that this whole history should be refused, but refined 1864 Bowen Logic VI 169 Two Incon sistents cannot both be true

Inconsistently inkɒnsi stĕntli), adv [f prec + -ly2] In an inconsistent manner

1665 J Spencer Vulg Prophs 109 (L) A melancholy kind of madness made him speak distractedly and inconsistently 1681 H More Exp Dan 86 Who will be sure never to interpret it inconsistently to his own corrupt Interest 1780 Waterland Eagle Seron 263 The Text of St John is very inconsistently put together with the other Construction 1831 Lamb Elia ser ii Elliston 200 Adventitious trappings, which, nevertheless, sit not at all inconsistently upon him 1881 W B Pope Higher Catech Theol 382 This plausible argument is inconsistently urged by the annihilati nist

†Inconsistent stentness. Obs rare—[f as prec + -ness] = Inconsistency

1642 H More Song of Soul II App xix And what might come to passe Impishes to contradictious inconsistent ne ss 1727 in Bailey vol II

†Inconsi stible, a Obs [f In-1 + Consistible.] That cannot consist, inconsistent

1666 R Coke Justice Vind Pref 3 I was minded to see such inconsistible and impossible things to come from Men, otherwise so learned 1734 North Exam III viii § 69 (R) Both tendencies [like the Fish and the Bird in Mahomet's, and a Boy, before the inconsistible Vulgar

Hence †Inconsi stibl ity, inconsistency

1650 R Hotton tr Nieremberg Compl Genius An inconsistibility of the things one with another

†Inconsi sting, ppl a Obs [f In-3 + Consisting] = Inconsistent

1658 W Sanderson Graphice Pref, A secret inconsisting with common capacities 1679 Penn Addr Prot 11 Of ultimately maintaining, inconsisting Things with the Faith, Peace and Prosperity of the Church 1705 S Wheatley in Wks (1866) 1 Introd 27 Lord's Supper (Ch) 167 As Clandestine, as Fraternizing is Inconsisting, as Preengaging, on what terms soever, Communion will call it

Inconsolable (inkɒnsō·lăbl), [add L inconsolabilis, f in- (In-3) + consolabilis Consolable (1 I inconsolable 1611 in Cotgr, but inconsolablement is found earlier]

In poetry formerly sometimes stressed inconsolable (quot 1590, 1734), but from 1700 usually inconsolable

Not admitting of consolation or solace, that can not be consoled, alleviated, or assuaged a Of grief, trouble, etc

1590 Spenser Muiopot 281 And hath thy death no end in overthrown, Vnlesse the worlds inconsolable woe 1687–77 Feltham Resolves II lxxi 321 Sins being the work of darkness, no wonder the inconsolable darkness before the pile ensue of the Fire and Brimstone 1746–7 Hervey Medit (1818) 180 This undivulged and inconsolable anguish of our all-gracious Master 1754 Blacklock Elegy Constantia (R) Impell'd from hence by inconsolable woe She breathes her soft, his melancholy strain 1862 Sat Rev 8 Feb 153 Inconsolable woe seemed to depress the Ministry —decent grief was stamped on the faces of the Opposition 1870 Macleod Mem Father xxiii (1872) 318 Indulging in a wild and inconsolable lament

b Of persons, Disconsolate

1677 Lady Chaworth in Lett Rel Hist Nass Comm App v 44 The Dutchesse is inconsolable, but the Duke bears it like a great man 1710 Swift Journ to Stella No 12, P 89 They were all three rooms table for his Absence 1848 C Bronte Y Eyre xxi, Was he so very fond of his brother as to be still inconsolable for his loss? 1861 Stanley Lect Jewish Ch 138, I dare say the sick man is not very inconsolable when he receives sentence of banishment absol 1799 Mrs Jan Weiss Lady Mary 20 The mortal dart of woe in the bosom of the fair inconsolable

Hence Inconso labi lity, Inconso lableness, the condition of being inconsolable, Inconso lably adv, in an inconsolable manner

1797 Bailey vol II, Inconsolable Ibid, Inconsolableness 1752 John on Rambler No 191 P 3 A letter from Mr Thip about absence and inconsolableness, and and an and irresistible passion and eternal constancy 1857 Jerrold John Appleton Wks 1864 III xviii 386 John wondered inconsolably backwards and forwards 1898 Dr Quincey's Autobiog xxiii (Pepys) I reported inconsolably goddess seemed to be eternally aground on this Goodwin Sand of inconsolability 1879 R I Smith Basil the Priest III 182 Sometimes they laugh inconsolably and sometimes lament inconsolably

Inconsolate (inkɒnsō·lĕt), a rare [f In-3 + Consolate a, cf F inconsolé (18th c.), Pg inconsolado.] Unconsoled, inconsolate Hence

Inconsolately adv Inconsolately Ibid

a 1656 Bp Hall Serm Gal iv 20 (R) Honors, titles, treasures which will at the last leave you inconsolately sorrowful 1882 Tod in Academy 9 Dec 407 The Despot of Cremorne dying inconsolate Inconsonance (inkɒ·nsănăns) [f. Inconsonant (after consonance see -ance.] Want of consonance or agreement, inharmoniousness.

1811 Rees's Cycl, Inconsonance, in Music, is of the same import nearly with dissonance, or a jarring and unpleasant sound 1837 Coleridge Biog Lit (1850) 67, I presumed that this was a no while conception in se that it involved no logical inconsonance 1849 R I Wilberforce Holy Spirit (1851) 153 To judge respecting the consonance or inconsonance of the means employed

†Inco nsonancy, Obs rare [f as prec see -ancy.] = prec

1650 A A Reply Sanderson 3 The like inconsonancy hath he to this purpose 1666 W Sinnett Hyde Park 17, I have made animadversions upon all his five ingredients shewing the inconsonancy and incoherency of them

Inconsonant (inkɒ·nsănănt), a [f In-3 + Consonant a.] Not consonant or agreeable to (†unto) not agreeing or harmonizing with

1658 Sir T Browne Hydriot 36 They carried them out of the world with their feet forward, not inconsonant unto reason 1697 Hale Primit Orig Man III iii 260 A Fiction utterly inconsonant to the whole Method of Nature 1763 Scratton Letters 1777 These words were too inconsonant to his theme to be followed by actions 1836

Lytton Athens (1837) I. 398 A tradition far from inconsonant with the manners of the time, or the heroism of the age. 1883 Century Mag. XXV. 91 The spell that wars With such inconsonant to loast or eye.

Hence Inconsonantly adv. (Webster, 1856)

†Inconspicable, a. Obs rare—1 [f. IN-1 + CONSPICABLE.] Invisible

a 1658 J. SMITH Sel. Disc. V. 1 (1821) 136 Though God hath copied forth his own perfections in this conspicable and sensible world, yet the most clear and distinct copy of himself could be imparted to none else, but to intellible and inconspicable natures.

Inconspicuous (inkəspi·kiŭəs), a. [f. late L. inconspicuus = -OUS, see IN-3 and CONSPICUOUS.]

†1 That cannot be seen, invisible. Obs

1604 Jumpheard in INCONSPICUOUSNESS. 1660 BOYLE New Exp. Phys. Mech. xxii. 153 Those fewer and inconspicuous parcels of Air. 1678 CUDWORTH Intell. Syst. I. v. § 18. 811 The Life or Soul's passing into the Invisible or Inconspicuous. 1708 Brit. Apollo No. 2. 1/1 The Reason why Inconspicuous Things are not seen, but in Conjunction with the Sun is Inconspicuous. 1751-73 JOHN LELAND Hist. (R.) Socrates in Xenophon says that the Deity is inconspicuous.

†b Not discernible to the mental eye. Obs

1648 BOYLE Seraph. Love (1660) 18 Their greatest Accomplishments compared to His Perfections are as inconspicuous as the faint Qualities of more ordinary Persons. 1713 BERKELEY Guardian No. 70 ¶ 2 The joint beauty of the whole or the distinct use of its parts were as conspicuous. 1793 T. TAYLOR Orat. Julian 122 note, The occult art by which they were fabricated was inconspicuous.

2 Not readily seen or noticed, not prominent or striking in appearance or character.

1828 WEBSTER, Inconspicuous 2 Not conspicuous. 1835 SIR J. ROSS Narr. 2nd Voy. xxii. 266 Here, as in most spacious arctic harbours. 1854 BROOKS Hours of Work II. 170 In inconspicuous scattered tufts. 1866 T. TAYLOR Health 81 A wall drawn down a street, but a sufficiently inconspicuous appearance. 1880 SAUNDERS Wm. 4 Shake speare who led an inconspicuous life.

b spec. in Bot. Of flowers, when small, green, or of pale colour 1845 LINDLEY Sch. Bot. (1858) 40 Flowers usually racemose, very often small and inconspicuous. 1865 BATES Nat. Amazon I. 70 The majority of forest trees in equatorial Brazil have small and inconspicuous flowers. 1880 R. MARKHAM Peruv. Bark 140 A pale, spreading, melastomaceous plant, with inconspicuous flowers.

Hence Inconspicuously adv. + invisibly (obs.), so as not to be readily perceived 1661 BOYLE Spring & Gravity 155 The particles of air which inconspicuously lurk within the Bladder. 1893 Christian at Work (N.Y.) 3 Apr., This Chamber has shared not inconspicuously in the history [of] both church and state.

Inconspicuousness, [f. prec. + -NESS.]

†1 The quality or state of being invisible. Obs

1644 JER. ARROTT Truth Tim. Ch. 16 This pursuits of believers, and inconspicuousness of his Church. a 1691 BOYLE Mech. Ignorance Uses Nat. Things I. Wks. 1772-III. 472 The inconspicuousness of the celestial stars.

2 The quality of not being prominent to notice.

1881 J. G. BOURINOT in North Centrib. Quart. No. 41. 15 The inconspicuousness of this tide in our actual oceans. 1884 C. ALLEN in Nature, 27 Aug. 392 Perhaps its very inconspicuousness saves it from the attentions of students of the insect's habits. 1883 H. DRUMMOND Nat. Law Spir. World (N.Y.) 3 Apr., This Chamber has shared not inconspicuously in the history [of] both church and state.

Inconspi cuousness, [f. prec. + -NESS.]

†1 The quality or state of being invisible. Obs

1644 JER. ARROTT Truth Tim. Ch. 16 This pursuits of believers, and inconspicuousness of his Church. a 1691 BOYLE Mech. Ignorance Uses Nat. Things I. Wks. 1772-III. 472 The inconspicuousness of the celestial stars.

2 The quality of not being prominent to notice.

1881 J. G. BOURINOT in North Centrib. Quart. No. 41. 15 The inconspicuousness of this tide in our actual oceans. 1884 C. ALLEN in Nature, 27 Aug. 392 Perhaps its very inconspicuousness saves it from the attentions of students of the insect's habits. 1883 H. DRUMMOND Nat. Law Spir. World (N.Y.) 3 Apr., The assumed invisibility or inconspicuousness of the old Laws.

†Inconspi ring, ppl. a. Obs. [f. IN-1 + CONSPIRING ppl. a.] Not concurring in purpose, or aim, without unity of plot or aim 1678 CUDWORTH Intell. Syst. I. IV. § 24. 411 Inherent and Incongruing like in Agreeing Drama, botch'd up of Many Imperfect Interstitions.

†Inco nstance. Obs [a. F. inconstance (13th c.), ad L. inconstantia n. of quality f. inconstant-em INCONSTANT: see -ANCE.]

1 Fickleness of conduct = INCONSTANCY 1.

a 1386 CHAUCER Sompn T. 230 What nedeth yow diverse freres seche? Youre inconstance is youre confessour. a 1450 tr. De Imitatione, III. xlvi. 18 The beginning, of all temptacions is inconstance of herte & litel trust in god. 1482 CAXTON Chas. Gt. (1870) 87 Sorrybrant, which knewe the mutabylyte of wymmen & thynconstance. 1549 Compl. Scot. Pr. 30 That terme youthed suld be vndistandin for ignorrnce and inconstance. 1560 tr. Imitatio Christi (1585) 89 Acts. II. IX. 88 The inconstance and mutabilitie of man. 1718 BURNHAM Creation 314 From fair to foul with easy inconstance rove.

2 Mutability of things. = INCONSTANCY 2.

1599 BARCLAY Argt. of Lords (1674) II. 240 It hath myghth A myghte to dyve well in suche inconstance. 1599 SPENSER Visions of Bellay xi. in Theat. Worldlings, Weare to see th inconstance of the heauens. 1603 HOLLAND Plutarch's Mor. 421 (R.) The inconstancy and inconstance of mutable fortune.

3 Inconsistency. INCONSTANCY 3.

1599 MORE Dyalogue II. iii. 103 a/2 When he changeth so often, and wyseth euer the longer, the more contrary. Put I pray you how excuseth he his inconstance? Ib. (1557) inconstancnce?

Inconstancy (inkɒ·nstănsi) [ad. L. inconstantia, see prec. and -ANCY.] Want of constancy

1 Of persons (or things personified, as Fortune): Inchleness of conduct or purpose, changeableness of character or disposition, unsteadfastness. Also, with pl., an instance of this 1526 Pilgr. Perf. (W. de W. 1531) 90 b, Inconsideration or neglygence, inconstancy or vnstablenes. 1590 SPENSER F. Q. I. ix. 1 For unto knight there is no greater shame Then lightnesse and inconstancie in love. 1601 HOLLAND Pliny II. 600 Willing after a sort to play at Fortunes game and in some measure to satisfie her inconstancie. 1663 COWLEY Cutter of Q.'s Ex., Dan. Cromwell (1668) 54 Art thou the Country which did laugh, and mock the French In constancy? 1713 SWIFT in Jour. to Eng. Let. 165 You have triumphed by the steadiness of your temper, over the inconstancy and caprice of your friends. 1740 CHEYNE Regimen 167 Unaccount able Factors, Pranks, Inconsistencies. 1804 SIR J. SINCLAIR Hermippus 49 How you excuse, and even praise, the inconstancy of a woman who throws over another man for you.

2 Of things or events. Mutability, variability, irregularity, absence of uniformity.

1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 13 The silent Moone, constant image of the worlds inconstancie, which it never seeth twice with the same face. 1645 BAXTER Self Dial. (1847) 165 It is never dry weather two or three dayes together. Which inconstancy and wetness of the weather [etc.]. 1726 LEONI Alberti's Archit. I. 102 The inconstancy of the air in what spoils every thing. 1825 M'CULLOCH Pol. Econ. III. ii. 240 The wages of labour, in different employments, vary with the constancy and inconstancy of employment. 1885 J. MARTINEAU Types Eth. Th. I. 421 The inconstancy of his [Comte's] analysis of the human capacities and instincts.

†b Variation, difference. Obs

1646 J. GREGORY Notes & Obs. (1650) 64 The Armenian Translation rendreth, 'And Pharaoh called Joseph I count This is all the inconstancy of reading I could observe

†3 Inconsistency (in statements, etc.), an instance of this. Obs

1557 [see INCONSTANCE 3] 1565 JEWEL Repl. Harding (1611) 412 He seemeth not to consider the inconstancie, and falsifying of his owne Booke. 1600 Leam. Trim. v. § 10 Let a man look into their [phisitians'] prescripts and inunstrations, and he shall finde them but inconstancies

4. = INCONSTANCY 4. Obs

1581 MARBECK Bk. of Notes 799 Some doe gather of this place, that Paule did mortifie in himself the fire of inconstancy, by long fasting. 1607 TOPSELL Four-f. Beasts (1658) 136 [The] Kitchen-Swallow is fed and drunk in powder, to quench the inconstancy of urine. 1623 COCKERAM, Inconstancie, vnchastnes.

Inconstant (inkɒ·nstant), a. (sb.) [a. F. inconstant (1372 in Hatz. Darm.), ad. L. inconstant-em, f. IN-3 + constant-em CONSTANT.] Not constant

1 Of persons, or their character, actions, etc. Not steadfast, fickle, changeable

1400 HOCCLEVE Letter Cupid 110 She ys falle and inconstant hath no feythe. 1508 DUNBAR Tua mariit wemen 260 Be constant in your gouernance, and counterfut gud maneris, thought ye be leine, inconstant, & cruell of mynd. 1590 SPENSER F. Q. I. iv. 26 Inconstant man, that loued all he saw, And lusted after all that he did loue. 1644 CAVE Primitive Christianity 11 They are inconstant in every thing but what feare constraineth them to keepe. 1775 COMBE Peel & J. x. 278 It is difficult to paint the light, the various, the unusual charms of Gallantry, in her circle. 1802 MARRYAT Jas. Diamond I. 16 Sailing some two months with inconstant winds. 1884 Temple Bar's Mag. I. 11 (1699) 12 All things on this side Heaven are inconstant and transitory. 1833 TYLER Trans. Iceland III. 44 Mineral and organic characters, although often inconstant, may enable us to establish the contemporaneous origin of form stones in distant countries. 1875 POSNETT Comp. Lit. (ed. 2) 8 The orthography of the Saxon MS. is extremely inconstant

†b Of the eyes. Unsteady, shifting. Obs

1598 HAKLUYT Voy. I. 21 They [the Iustices] be bridle and strong, their eye browes extending from their fore heads downe to their eyes, their eyes inconstant and blacke, their countenances written and terrible

†3 Inconsistent with. Obs

1599 BARCLAY Argt. of Lords 61 Episcopacy is in compatible and inconstant with the authority of a secular jurisdiction

2. An inconstant person or thing (cf. an inconstant).

1647 COWLEY Mistress xxiii Obsidian, The Inconstant. 1703 T. BROWN Lett. (Th.) The inconstant, or the ways to win him. 1903 MORTIMER Lord Algiers His night we hope's spoil in the Inconstant here. 1794 W. CURTIS Bot. Mag. No. 218 The Dianthus is not extremely in the number of the constant new such inconstants exist. 1840 MRS. F. TROLLOPE Widow Married xxxiv. I abhor from his being a gambler, or an inconstant

Inconstantly (inkɒ·nstantli), adv. [f. prec. + -LY2.] In an inconstant manner, variably, with fickleness, inconsistently

1549 COVERDALE, etc. Erasm. Lat. Gal. 7 Why art thou now become vnlike thy selfe, why doest thou inconstantly withdrawe the from diuer? 1647 COWLEY Mistr., Monopoly 11. Thy flutter still about inconstantly. a 1790 SHERIDAN (Dk. Buckhm.) Rem. (1793) II. 196 Divine power does nothing irregular, or inconstantly. 1797 WASHINGTON Rem. Hume xiv. Wks. 1812 XII. 366 A modern often thinks inconstantly a 1562 CAVENDISH Wolsey (1893) 286 The inconstantness of my mes fauour. 1575 CHURCHYARD Chippes (1817) 132 To stricke the stubborn stomacks and inconstantnesse of proud people. 1797 in BURLEY Coll. Pl.

†Inco nstantness. Obs [f. as prec. + -NESS.] Inconstancy

Inconstru able, a. rare [f. IN-3 + CONSTRUABLE.] That cannot be construed 1874 H. R. REYNOLDS John Bapt. § 2. 325 It may be pronounced inexplicable to exact thought

†Inconstru e, a. Obs rare [ad. L. insons insons unaccustomed, f. in (IN-3) + consuetus CONSUETE.] Unusual, unaccustomed

1432-50 tr. Higden (Rolls) III. 437 As for that inconsuete message Ibid. IV. 295 Suffrage to thes in singuler prerogatives, and inconsuete of the noble dignites of Rome

†Inconsu lt, a. Obs rare [ad. L. insonsult-us unconsulted, unadvised, f. in (IN-3) + consultus see CONSULT v.] Of obs. † incon sulte. Inconsiderate, unadvised, unreflecting

1656 GREVE Mysterium 116 Those brutish sensuall appetites meer animal affections, and inconsult

Inconsu itable, a. rare [IN-1.] Incapable of being consulted

1888 REV. Records of Second Search II. 39 The King Silver Books owing to damage done them by fire are in consultable until that [reign] of George I

†Inconsu lted, a. Obs rare [f. L. inconsultus (see CONSULT) + -ED.] Cf. obs. † inconsulte] = INCONSULTE

1533 BELLENDEN Livy III. (1822) 237 Ye ar like vn wyse cumpany of prudit counsaillouris and fulische

2 Unconsulted, not asked (cf. L. inconsultus senatu, etc.)

1549 in Burnet Hist. Ref. II. 98 Ne do by himself any thing not dide therein the said Emperor first inconsulted, or not consenting thereunto

Inconsumable (inkŋsiū·măbl), a. [IN-1.]

1 Incapable of being consumed by fire, etc.

1646 SIR T. BROWNE Pseud. Ep. III. xiv. 140 Named As beston whereof by Art were wrought napkins, shirts, and coats inconsumable by fire. 1774 GOLDSM. Nat. Hist. (1862) II. 41 Salamander] The idle report of its being inconsumable in fire, has caused many of these poor animals to be burnt. 1821 SHELLEY Adonais 297 Ever still Burning, yet ever inconsumable. 1875 F. J. SCUDAMORE, Day Dreams 31 An inconsumable candle, which diminished not, no matter how long it was lighted.

2 Pol. Econ. Of which it is not the object or purpose to be consumed in use 1765 PALEY Mor. Philos. II. x. (1830) 104 When the identical loan is to be returned, as a book, or a banker's chord, it is called inconsumable. 1884 J. GROUARD Coop. Commw. 128 The inconsumable things, like machinery, leather, etc.

Hence Inconsu mably adv. (Wright, 1855)

†Inconsu med, a. Obs rare—1 [f. IN-1 + consumed, pa. pple. of CONSUME v.] Unconsumed, uncorrupted

1450-90 Myrr. our Ladye 29 Inye thou, for thoughe thou be deade, yet thow abydest inconsumed

†Inconsu mmate, a. Obs rare [ad. late L. inconsummat-us see IN-3 and CONSUMMATE.] Not consummated or completed, unfinished a 1640 BP. MOUNTAGU Acts & Mon. (1642) 30 The other Iesus, son of Ioseder, left things as imperfect and inconsummate. 1698 CUDWORTH Intell. Syst. I. v. 648 Nor did the Nature of things, take beginning from inconsummate and imperfect things. 1695 J. PEARSON Baath 134 For Nature doth not derive her Origine from things diminished and inconsummate.

Hence †Inconsu mmateness (Webster, 1828).

†Inconsu mptible, a. Obs [a. obs. F. inconsumptible, -ptable, or ad. late L. inconsumptibilis, f. in- (IN-3) + consumptibilis CONSUMPTIBLE.] Incapable of being consumed

1579 FULKE Heshusius Part 50 The maister did set before his disciples the inconsumptible meate. c 1610 Lyves Wem Saints 23 It [the cross] is diuided to allmoste innumerable peces (euen of it selfe), yet still whole to those that adore it, and all this inconsumptible integrithe hath it [etc.]. 1644 DIGBY Vat. bodies vi. (1645) 64 They believe such fires to feed upon nothing, and consequently to be inconsumptible and perpetuall. 1708 MOTTEUX Rabelais v. xli. (1737) 17. They were full of burning Water inconsumptible

†Inconsu ptile, a. Obs [ad. late L. inconsutilis (Vulg., John XIX. 23), not sewed together, without seam, f. in IN-3 + consutilis CONSUTILE, f. consuere, consut- to sew together.] Disagreeing, incongruous (like "a piece of new cloth sewed on an old garment", Matt. IX. 16)

1657 GREW Anat. Plants 42 What perhaps may be consequently spoken between one particular man and another is very inconsutile to be said betwixt Adam and all Mankind

†Incontainabi·lity. Obs [f. IN-3 + CONTAINABLE + -ITY.] Incapability of being contained

1644 PYNNE & WALKER Parents Proof 65 For his bone and foot, incontainability in the Castle, in Case he had been forced to retire into it

Incontaminable (inkŋta·minăbl), a. [ad. ecc. L. incontaminabilis see IN-3 and CONTAMINABLE.] Incapable of being contaminated

1846 TRENCH Mirac. v. (1862) 221 He incontaminable Himself, feared not the contamination of a touch

Incontaminate, a. [ad. L. incontaminatus, f. in- (IN-3) + contaminatus CONTAMINATE ppl. a.] Uncontaminated, undefiled, unaffected by any corruption 1598 FISHER Penit Pr. CXXX Wks. (1876) 228 It is the very innocent and precious blode of the incontaminate lambe.

1664 H. MORE Myst. Iniq. Apol. 563 Ye that phansy your selves the onely sound and incontaminate part of our Nation. 1844 W. KAY in tr. Henry's Eccl. Hist. III. 341 nate, The essential light mixes not with other matter, but is incontaminate, incapable of being united , with any other substance.

Hence Incontaminateness (Craig, 1847)

†Incontaminated, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f as prec + -ED^1] = INCONTAMINATE

1654 COKAINE Dianea 1 55 Knowing him of an incontaminated goodnesse, he would have prevented him with chastisement

Incontemptible, a rare [IN-^{3}] Not to be despised

1742 JOHNSON Debates in Parl (1787) II 108 New argu ments equally conclusive and incontemptible

†Incontestable, a Obs rare$^{-1}$. [IN-^{3}] Not contentable , not to be satisfied , or peth. Not to be contained or bounded

1720 WESTON Suffer. Son of God II xiv 393 O Happy Spirits, whom the Vision of this Heavenly Redeemer furnishes with that Incontestable Variety of Bliss †Incontenta tion Obs rare [f IN-^{3} + CONTENTATION.] Dissatisfaction discontent.

1860 in WORCESTER, citing GOODWIN

Incontestability, rare [f next sec II CF incontestabilité.] The quality of being in contestable , an indisputable fact

1866 WRAXALL Hayes' Mediterranean I xxviii (1877) 17 Under the pressure of this incontrovertible incontestability he felt his brain cracking 1864 in WEBSTER

Incontestable (inkɒntɛ·stăbl), a (Also erroneously -ible) [a F incontestable = ^{OF} in-contestable, L incontestabilis, f in- (IN-^{3}) + contestabilis CONTESTABLE.] That cannot be contested or disputed , indisputable, unquestionable, incontrovertible

1673 LEMPLE Let to Dk Lorraine Wks 1731 II 287 Your Judgment is with me incontestable 1748 Anson's Voy I iii 31 this alone would be an incontestable proof of the service, which the Nation hath thence received 1885 SCOTT Redbraes's, Her beauty was incontestable 1885 SIR J W CRITTY in Law Rep Chance Div 992, I hold that the evidence is altogether incontestible

Hence Incontestableness

1727 BAILEY vol II, Incontestableness 1864 WEBSTER, Incontestableness 1895 Blackw Mag July 171 One instance exceeds all others in definition and incontestableness.

Incontestably (inkɒntɛ·stăbli), adv (Also error ibly) [f prec + -LY^2] Unquestionably, indisputably, indubitably a 1721 KEN Hymns Evening POET Wks 1721 I 180 Rising from Death, was an appropriate sign Of Power most incontestably Divine 1794 ADAMS Nat & Rev Philos IV xxxviii 50 The annual motion of the earth is incontestably proved by observation 1873 SIMMONS Cork Pocket 21 Purgules incontestably displays the quality of fruitfulness

†Incontested, a Obs [IN-^{3}] Not contested, uncontested , undisputed

1712 ADDISON Spect No 543 P 4, I think we may lay this down as an incontested Principle, that Chance never acts in a perpetual Uniformity and Consistence with it self 1757-8 SMOLLETT Hist Eng 1800 II 158 These assertions were supported by many incontested facts 1794 J WILLIAMS Crying Epistle 55 Her mind was incorruptible, her wisdom incontested

Incontestible, error form of INCONTESTABLE

†Incontiguous, a Obs rare [f late L incontigu-us (f in- (IN-^{3}) + contiguus CONTIGUOUS) + -OUS.] Not in contact or touching one another , unconnected

1660 BOYLE New Exp Phys Mech xxiv 193 Small Brace lets, consisting of equally little incontiguous Beads 1685 COTTON tr Montaigne I 293 the way of speaking that I love is free from affectation, irregular, incontiguous and bold, where every piece makes up an entire body

Hence †Incontiguously adv (Wright 1852)

Incontinence (inkɒ·ntinĕns) Also -ce in contynence [a F incontinence (12th c) or ad L incontinentia, n of quality f incontinent EN see IN-^{3} and CONTINENT a]

1 Want of continence or self-restraint , inability to contain or retain a With reference to the bodily appetites, esp the sexual passion Unchastity

1382 WYCLIF Cor VII 5 Ffet turne ze ajen in to the same thing lest Sathanas tempte zou for zoure incontynence c 1400 MAUNDEV (1839) xiv 161 Often tyme the gode Dyamande lesethe his vertue, be schame and for Incontynence of him that berethe it 1533 MORE Apol in Wks 866 a, I doe not allowe, but obhorre incontinence in secret also fessed persones 1634 MASSINGER Renegado IV iii, Any virgin convicted of corporal looseness and incontinence 1784 COWPER Task I 699 Such London is, by taste and wealth proclaim'd the fairest capital of all the world, By not and incontinence the worst 1873 SIMMONS Cork Pocket vi 169 Handsome youths are admonished by Pindar to beware of lawlessness and shun incontinence

b. In general sense. (Const of)

1856 Hon SMITH Jon Trump (1876) 142 He who labours under an incontinence of speech, seldom gets the better of his complaint 1880 L HUNT Autobog I v 202 His laughter would follow his tears with a happy incontinence, 1858-65 CARLYLE Fredk Gt XI iii, [They] do not waste themselves by incontinence of tongue 1881 SIR T MARTIN Horace, Odes I xviii, I transparent as crystal, that shows In its babbling incontinence all that it knows

2. Path Inability to retain a natural evacuation, esp incontinence of urine (= L incontinentia urinæ, in Pliny)

1794-4 SHELLIE Midwif I 162 The woman commonly labours under an incontinence of urine 1876 A DAVIES Health Lond (ed 2) 426 My elderly friend presented me incontinence to the lecturer

Incontinency. Obs [ad L incontinentia see prec and -ENCY.] The quality of being incontinent

1 a = INCONTINENCE 1 1494 Act 1 Hen VII, c 4 Avoutrie fornicacion incestе or eny other fleshely incontinency 1548 UDALL Erasm Luke 15 Come againe to the same thynge lest Satan tempt you for youre incontinency a 1682 SIR T BROWNE Tracts (1683) 63 I be one accused Susanna of incontinency unduly 2 Flavour or Y sort green chk 1732 NEAL Hist Purit I 415 Such as shall be convicted of any fleshly Incontinency

b = INCONTINENCE 1 b c 1715 WYATT Inquiry Queen's Last Ministrys Wks 1871 I 504 I As the evil was too reserved, so perhaps the other was too free, not from any incontinency of talk, but from the mere excess of multiplying secrets

2 Path = INCONTINENCE 2

[C 1400 1607 = INCONTINENCE 4]

1789 W BUCHAN Dom Med (1790) 631 Suppression and incontinency of urine.

Incontinent (inkɒ·ntinent, a and sb [a F incontinent (13th c) or ad L incontinent-em, f in- (IN-^{3}) + continent- CONTINENT.]

1 Not continent, wanting in self restraint chiefly with reference to sexual appetite c 1380 Wicket Poems fr Vernon MS (1870) 13 Of vn incontinent monk c 1450 St Cuthbert (Surtees) 70, 7 Pat name presume, incontinent, to save be holy sacrament 1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1531) 96 He is no vnmyndyed & vnchaste, yf his mynde is blynde 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 882 It was death for any to be found false and incontinent with PARKES Voy Abyssines (R) 1814 The mistress of Daphnis upbraiding him for his incontinent passion 1857 GLADSTONE Odium VI In St Origen treats the primary and daring conceit of life so forbidden to virginity yet thinks it may be conceded, with qualification to the infirmity of incontinent men

2 Unable to contain, retain, or keep back Usually const of

1641 MILTON Ch Govt II iii, Although I have given it the name of a liquid thing yet it is not incontinent to bound itself, by mutual friendship 1650 Trin Concurr Wks (1851) 438 Incontinent of Secrets, if any be imparted to them 1686 BUTLER Rem (1759) II 446 A Prodigal is very liberal and incontinent of his Coin and lets it fly, as Jupiter, in a Shower 1725 POPE Odyss XIX 79 Melantho renewed the strife, incontinent of spleen 1865 Sat Rev 5 Feb 167/1 Underclothing incontinent of tongue often reveal the policy of their masters

3 Unable to retain natural evacuations

1598 in WRIGHT

B as sb An unchaste person

1598 B JONSON Ev Man in Hum III v, O, old incontinent, dost thou not shame When all thy powers in chastity are spent to have a mind so hot?

Hence Inco ntinentness (Bailey vol II, 1727)

Incontinent (inkɒ·ntinent), adv (a) arch Also 5 en-, -tynent, tenent [= F incontinent (14th c = ^{OF} in-, L incontinenti, ad Late L incontinenti (sc tempore) in continuous time, without any interval The early variant incontenent corresponds to earlier OF encontenant, PROV encontenen] Straightway, forthwith, at once, immediately, with out delay, = INCONTINENTLY adv 2 [1432-50 in Higden (Rolls V 393 Where he drede incontinent that he hadde seide so]

1495 Acts Parl (1597) I 51 The partie shal be challenged incontinent of the Kinges peace he brake, + c 1440 Generydes 1251 Whan they were come, anon incontynent Genesy dede hym brought owt of the Jayle Ibid 1769 I hanne spake I was anon incontinent a 1450 Knt de la Tour (1868) 15 She was incontinent nuged vnto the dethe 1523 LD BERS Froiss I xiii 14 They entred incontynent into theyr shippes, to passe the sea 1559 MORRICE Lamyn 1 A water may be made which shall incontinent breake the stone in the bladder 1609 SKENE Reg Maj II xl 36 Heires being of fyve full age, incontinent after the decess of their predecessours they may enter to their heritage, 1611 COTGR, Incontinent 209 I hus change in continent He put in practise 1719 D'URFEY Pills (1872) III 326 Behind the Cloth the Fryr went, and was in the Well incontinent 1818 SCOTT Heart Mid XXII, The Lords will be here incontinent, and proceed instanter to trial 1880 BARHAM Ingol Leg Ser I Jackdaw Rheims, Plate thy self incontinent in yonder bath

b as adj (nonce use) Immediate 1840 BARHAM Ingol Leg Ser I, Frock Folkestone, With my one a woful dilemma, here was incontinent cure.

Incontinently, adv† [f INCONTINENT a + -LY^2] In an incontinent manner, loosely, unchastely

1558 HILSEY, Incontinently, solute 1598 BARCKLEY Felic Man (1631) 611 He is no unseemly thing to live definitely, loosely, or incontinently 1655 FULLER Ch Hist III iii § 28 Queen Isabel living incontinently with R Mortimer 1755 JOHNSON Incontinently, unchastely , without restraint of the appetites

Incontinently (inkɒ·ntinĕntli), adv† arch [f INCONTINENT adv + -LY^2] Straightway, at once, immediately , = INCONTINENT adv

1484 CAXTON Fables of Æsop I v, Incontynently as the dogges persyeued and sawe the fyre and the catte, they began to renne vpon them 1542-3 Act 34 & 35 Hen VIII, c 14 § 4 The said clerks shall incontinently with out delay certifie the said names 1633 J STAFFORD Pac Hib II x (1821) 337 Sir Charles incontinently dispatched a Horseman with Letters to the President 1761 STERNE Tr Shandy IV xxvii, The effect of which was this, that he kept incontinently up 1844 EMERSON Lect, Young American Wks (Bohn) II 297 If one of the flock [of wolves] so much as limp the rest of him up incontinently 1876 M DAVIES Unorth Lond (ed 2) 426 My elderly friend presented me incontinently to the lecturer

Incontinuity. rare [IN-^{3}] The quality or fact of being incontinuous, absence or breach of continuity

1865 Athenæum No 1962 638 Incoherencies and incontinuities

Incontinuous (inkɒntĭ·nĭuăs), a rare [IN-^{3}] Not continuous, discontinuous

1866 R H PATTERSON Last Hour 1 167 8 They become imperceptible to the ear, in the low notes by the vibrations becoming too full and in succession 1892 STEVENSON Across the Plains 240 All brought down to the same faint resolution as a last night's din on to some incontinuous images

†Incontra cted, a Obs rare [IN-^{3}] Not contracted , uncontracted

1725 BRADLEY New Curios I 3 3 3 1 This shews me the the universal remuneration both in animals and vegetables

Incontractile (inkɒntrā·ktil, -tĭl), a [IN-^{3}] Not contractile , incapable of contraction

1822 Sir W Scott's Nauld Med (ed 4) I 670 The pupil [was] dilated and incontractile 1847 Todd Cyc Anat I 648 The muscular fibre is equally loose and incontractile

Incontraction (inkɒntrā·kshŏn) [IN-^{3}] The fact of not contracting, failure to contract , non contraction

1803 Med Trnl X 76 On the Incontraction of an Artery

†Incontradi ctable, a Obs (Also -ible.) [f IN-^{3} + CONTRADICTABLE] Not known much earlier than contradictable.] That cannot be contradicted or gainsaid

1624 CAPT SMITH Virginia III 44 This incontradictable reason will shew them plainly they are too ill subject to nourish such ill conceits 1630 — Trav & Ad 13 Many incontradictable speeches, reasons

†Incontrarious adv and prep Sc Obs Also -arie, -ar [f IN prep + CONTRARIE sb, cf the fuller] phrases in the contrair of, in our contrairs, etc] a as adv = phr or adv (followed by a preposition) In opposition to, in spite of

c 1480 HENRYSON Mor Fab 19 This hound of hell, Devoured hes my Lambe in contrair to your cry 1535 STEWART Cron S of III 144 Incontrar thair of all his lords will

b as prep In opposition to, contrary to, against

1484 Sc Acts Jas III (1597) 158 Imprisonamoris made in the Court of Rome incontrarie our soueraine lordis priviledge 1513 DOUGLAS Eneis VII viii Heading, How Aleto per stadit hes Turnus to moue battell incontrar Eneas 1558 KENNEDIE Compend Tract in Wodrow Soc Misc (1844) 119 Mominably heresys incontrar our faith 1560 ROLLAND Crt Venus Prol 401 He is ane Inuerar with his Complexioun Ane Flasert to fecht with ane Fleyme

†Inco ntrary, adv Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f IN prep + CONTRARY sb An AF incontrarie is quoted by Godefroy from the Conquest of Ireland] In opposition, contrary to - pleb

1488-9 Act 4 Hen VII, c 11 Forfeiture of the double value of all the Welles bought incontrarie to this ordenance

†Incontri butive, a Obs. rare [IN-^{3}] Not contributive, that does not contribute

1667 WILLOUGHBY New Lond 170 Proprietors which now are incontributive to the Publique Charge

Incontrollable (inkɒntrō·lăbl), a. [IN-^{3} CF F incontrolable (Littré).]

1 That cannot be controlled, checked, restrained, or authoritatively regulated , uncontrollable

1599 SANDYS Europæ Spec (1605) 11 99 Their not erring and uncontrolable Creed of Rome 1603 MONTAGU Appe Cæsar v 155 Solyman, Amurath and others, challenging absolute, inrestible, incontrouleable power to set up pull downe, order, alter, and dispose the world all things in the world, at pls sure 1652 J HALL Herefor Fury (R) Israel, They breed up an untroulable Tyrants over their souls 1744 HARRIS Three Treat III iii 1765 2 2 Fated in that Order of incontrollable Events 1820 SCOTT Ivanhoe, A character by nature bold, impetuous, and incontrollable 1844 STANLEY Arnold (1845) I xv 300 An incontrollable desire to give vent to the thoughts that were struggling within him

†2 That cannot be interfered with or altered in any way, fixed unchangeable Obs

1599 DANIEL Queene II lii 128 In gold there is a certaine incontrollable and incorruptible composition 1646 SIR J BROWNE Pseud Epid VI xiii 344 Of colours in general no man hath yet beheld the true nature, or positively set down their incontrollable causes

†3 Incontrovertible, unquestionable Obs

c 1645 HOWELL Lett (1650) I 477 Writings handed over to posterity as incontrollable truths for so many ages 1646 SIR J BROWNE Pseud Ep IV xii 214 These were delivered by the Evangelist, and very no doubt an incontrollable conformity into the intention of his delivery.

Hence Incontro llably adv Unrestrain edly, without control, + b Incontrovertibly fixedly

1646 SIR J BROWNE Pseud Ep IV xii 218 Being not incontrollably determined, at what time to begin whether at conception, animation, or exclusion a 1716 SOUTH Serm VIII (R), For, as a man thinks or does in his heart, such indeed he is, for that most truly, because most incontroulably, he acts himself 1800 I JEFFERSON Writ (1859) IV 324 The abuses which would be incontrollably committed

†Incontro lled, a Obs. [IN-^{3} CF F incontrôlé (Littré)] Not controlled, unchecked, not interfered with

1650 HOWELL Lex Ira in (Arb) 24 There is no compleat and incontrouled comfort Incontrovertible (inkɒntrɒ'vɜ:tɪb'l, a [IN- 3.] That cannot be controverted, incontestable, indisputable, indubitable.

1646 Sir T. Browne Pseud. Ep. VII. xiii. 365 Lastly, the thing it selfe whereon the opinion dependeth is not in controvertible, and for my own part, I remaine satisfied therein. 1793 Benson Math. Trad. 159 When a theory is established by incontrovertible evidence, the usual mode of hostility is to dispute the author's title to discovery. 1798 Malthus Popul. (1817) II. 65 The increase of population since 1780 is incontrovertible. 1873 Black Prin. VIII. Absolute and incontrovertible truth.

Hence Incontrovertibi'lity, Incontrove'rtibleness, the quality of being incontrovertible

1775 Ash, Incontrovertibility, s. perhaps not sufficiently authorized, from incontrovertible, a. the state of being incontrovertible. 1837 Sir F. Palgrave Merch. & Friar (1844) 122 Cases of flagrant delict, required no other trial than the publicity or incontrovertibleness of the fact Incontrovertibly, adv. [f. prec. + -LY 2.] In an incontrovertible manner, without controversy, beyond dispute, undoubtedly.

1646 Sir T. Browne Pseud. Ep. VII. v. 278 For the Hebrew, it is incontrovertibly the genuine and native text to rely on. 1728 in Somers Tracts II. 184 That Great Britain is incontrovertibly more powerful than this State. 1845 Lo. Campbell Chancellors (1857) III. lxvii. 303 It was incontrovertibly very distinctly and incontrovertibly that none of the charges amounted to treason. 1886 Sidgwick Hist. Ethics iv. 245 It is not to be regarded as absolutely and incontrovertibly valid.

† Incontru'nded, a. Obs. [IN- 3.] Not bruised or pounded 1709 A. M. tr. Galenhouse's Id. Physicks 51/2 Ligate a little incontrunded Safferon in a little linnen cloth, soake it 3 dayes in a little whyte wyne.

Inconvenance (inkɒ'nvɪnəns), sb. [an Obs. inconvenance (mod. F. inconvenance), ad. late L. inconvenientia inconsistency, n. of quality f. inconvenient-em Inconvenient: see -ency. Cf. Inconvenience.] The fact or quality of being inconvenient

†1 Want of agreement, incongruity, disagreement, inconsistency with reason or rule, absurdity, with pl. An instance of this, an inconsistency, an absurdity. Obs.

c 1400 Beryn 2576 That I may bet perseyve al incon venience Dout, pro contra, and ambiguity. 1526 Pilgr. Perf. (W. de W. 1531) 194 Yet it is no inconvenyency in his holy mother & other sayntes be as pyrtuclar meanes by twene vs & god. a 1536 Tindale Doctr. Penat. (Parker Soc. 1848) 380 That Christ was made man and died also bread, which seemeth to some a great inconvenience. 1587 Golding, De Mornay I. 72 By these inconveniences they conclude, that there is no God at all. 1620 A. Cooke Pope Joan in Harl. Misc. (Malham) IV. 77 Protestant. What mean you by the inconvenience of their testimonies? Papist. Their disagreeing one with another. 1659 Gataker Jehovah iii. 2 (1670) 215 Yet can he not be the cause of himselfe, for the fore named inconveniences. 1706 tr. Dupin's Eccl. Hist. 16th C. II. v. 45 Father Layson believed there was no inconvenience in saying, That some of it [Christ's blood] staid here below

†b Unsuitableness, unfitness. Obs.

1413 Pilgr. Sowle (Caxton 1483) IV. iii. 38 Adam was nought well disposyd to etyng of this appel for inconuenyence of the season in whiche he receyued it. a 1600 Hooker (J.) They deem it the inconvenience, not the unlawfulness of popish apparel. 1684 R. Waller Nat. Lyser 74 To avoid this inconvenience of the Screws †c Moral or ethical unsuitableness, unbecoming or unseemly behaviour, impropriety, with pl., an unseemly act, an impropriety, an offence. Obs.

1460 Play Sacram. 857 Agynst god yf ye haue wrught eny Inconuenyence. 1509 Barclay Ship of Fooles (1874) I. 51 Howe youthe which is not yssyshed in his nonage, he is as it were nolt at Inconuenyence. 1547 Homilies I. Agst. Contention I. (1859) 135 They fall sometime from hot words to further inconvenience. 1560 Bible (Genev.) Numbers, Argt., That either they fall not to such inconveniences, or else return to him quickly by true repentance

†3 Harm, injury, mischief, misfortune, trouble. Obs. (passing into 4)

14.. Proverbs of good Counsel 82 In O Elio Acad (1869) 70 Yf bou be trobylyd with yncouenyens, Arme be alwey with lowed pacyens. 1509 Hawes Past. Pleas. xi. (Percy Soc.) 36 To dyssuall myschefe and inconvenyence, They made our lawes with grete diligence. 1651 Hobbes Leviath. II. xxvii. 94 They that live under the government of Democracy, attribute all the inconvenience to that forme of Commonwealth. 1653 Holcroft Procopius's Goth. Warr 90 Beneventum standing high and over against Dalmatia, shares in the inconvenience of this wind. 1695 Woodward Nat. Hist. Earth v. (1723) 264 The Inconvenience would not have stop'd there

†b With pl. A mischief, an injury, an untoward occurrence, a misfortune. Obs. (passing into 4 b)

c 1489 Caxton Sonnes of Aymon I. 33, I haue grete fere that some inconuenyence be happed vnto him. 1584 Powel Lloyd's Cambria 95 Whereof grew a great inconvenience and slaughter. 1608 Armin Nest Ninn (1842) 15 Rapine, ruine, and a thousand inconveniences, follow. 1756 Burton Anal. I. iii. Wks. 1874 I. 37 Often infamy and external inconveniences are the public consequences of vice as vice. 1798 C. Marshall Gard. II. (1813) 21 It is yet unable to bear the inconveniences of the weather

†c Technically distinguished from mischief see quot. Obs.

1822 Malthus Anc. Law-Merch. 161 It is better to suffer a mischiefe than an inconvenience, the mischiefe being attributed to one or some particular persons, and the inconvenience to the whole. Common wealth in generall. a 1709 Addison Fast & Fest Tracts (1732) 199 By a Mischief is meant, when one Man or some few men suffer by the Hand of a Law, which Law is yet useful for the Publick But an Inconvenience is to have a publick Law disobeyed or broken, or an Offence to go unpunished

4 The quality or condition of being inconvenient, want of adaptation to personal requirement or ease, trouble, discomfort, disadvantage, incommodity

1623 Walton Life of Hooker Table, In this Discourse I have not observed a method, which may be some inconvenience to the Reader. 1783 Morell Ainsworth's Fast Dict. in Ainsworth, I had forgotten this material, I could not take from him the inconvenience of old age. 1837 Dickens Pick. Papers xviii, She could have spared him without the smallest inconvenience. 1885 Daily News 21 Dec. 5/5 The long delay has shrewdly led to considerable public inconvenience

b with pl. An inconvenient circumstance, something that interferes with ease or comfort, or causes trouble, a disadvantage, a discomfort 1598 I. N. tr. Conq. W. Indies 90 In the letter being written, there was found an inconvenience, which was, they knew not how to carrye the letter secretly. 1641 Wilkins Math. Magick I. ii. 19 The chief inconvenience of this instrument is, that, in a short space it will be screwed unto its full length. 1738 Abbott's Rules of Dict 296 They have only one Inconvenience, that they create Thirst. 1818 Crusoe Diversified II. 327 This rule was originally intended to avoid the inconveniences which might arise by mounting, an unequal, when there should be no room of the freehold to do the services to the lord. 1884 Manch. Exam. 2 May 4/7 The necessity of taking out passports would be a serious inconvenience to foreign traders.

Inconvenience (inkɒ'nvɪnɪəns), v. [f. prec. sb.] trans. To cause inconvenience to, to put to inconvenience, to incommode, trouble 1598 Barckley Felic. Man's Conversation (1631) 158 It is not the variety of opinions, but our own perverse wills which hath so inconvenienced the church. 1674 tr. Scheffer's Lapland 90 That they may not be inconvenienced with the weight of these blankets. 1797 Southey Lett. (1856) I. 49, I instantly quitted the university, that my uncle might no longer be inconvenienced by me. 1876 Baker Family Indep. I. 9 The inconvenienced party had only to say [etc.]. 1876 Hardy Ethelberta (1890) 369 Be content to let her keep her position without inconveniencing her by your intrusions or complaints.

Inconveniency (inkɒ'nvɪnɪənsɪ) Now rare [ad. L. inconvenientia see prec. sb. and -ENCY.]

†1. = Inconvenience sb. 1. Obs.

1533 Smith Hist. 141 (R.) If this text should follow two inconveniencies, if the sacrament were the naturall body of Christ. 1664 Stillingfl. Orig. Sacr. I. vi. § 8 This every way inconvenient sense is pressed with inconveniencies. a 1682 Sir T. Browne Tr. to Friend in Hydriot. etc (1736) 36 Though some wondered at this Position, yet I saw no Inconveniency.

†2. = Inconvenience sb. 2. Obs.

1610 Healy tr. Jos. Contr. of God xxii. xxiii (1620) 846 Lest desire of revenge should draw us to inconvenience. 1747 Chesterf. Lett. (1792) I. cxxxii. 355, I should have avoided many follies and inconveniencies, which undirected youth run me into

†3. = Inconvenience sb. 3. Obs.

1553 Q. Mary Proclamat. Coins in Strype Eccl. Mem. (1721) III. App. v. 8 In no wyse can longer suffer the same incon veniency. 1669 Penn No Cross xiv. § 7 Insensible of the inconveniency that attends the like Follies. 1706 Mas. Cent. Hen. Basset Table's, Now you discover what inconveniency your gaming has brought upon you.

†b. = Inconvenience sb. 3 b. Obs.

a 1450 Knt. de la Tour (1868) 98 To saie no thinge in the presence of the people into his displesanne, for doute of many gret inconveniencies. 1543 Abp. Cranmer Answer to Gardiner 167 That some inconveniencie or cause of strife should chaunce. 1647 Sibbbe Anglo Archer 1. xi. (1654) 36 He might have prevented that inconveniency which fell out a 1722 Burnet Own Time (1752) 90 For fear of a worse inconveniency

†c. = Inconvenience sb. 4

1556 Hulore, Inconuenience, importunitas. a 1628 S. Gibbon's Sedulius (1652) 64 To weigh the immortall wisdom in even scales with mortall conveniency or inconveniency. 1658-9 Burton's Diary (1828) III. 81 Your question is not of convenience or inconveniency, but of right. 1776 Adam Smith Wealth of Nations I. xi. (1869) 158, I never will supply its place, though with a good deal of inconveniency. 1838 Dickens Nich. Nick. xxxviii, There's inconveniency in it, but the novelty gives it a sort of relish

†d. = Inconvenience sb. 4 b.

1640 Quarles Enchirid. III. 53 Cast one eye upon the Inconveniencies, as well as the other upon the Conveniencies of a thing. 1656 Penn. Methodist 40 Many inconveniencies may arise from the latter than from the former. 1818 Jas. Mill Brit. India II. v. 87 The lending of money to the Rajah of Mysore, had given rise to many inconveniencies.

e concr. Applied humorously to an incommodious conveyance or Conveniency 6 d (nonce use.)

1877 Lowell Lett. (1894) II. xiii. 229 This leather inconveniency will be at the door in half an hour

Inconvenient (inkɒ'nvɪnɪənt), a. and sb. [a. F. inconvenient (13th c. in Hatz.-Darm.), ad. L. inconvenient-em, f. in- (In- 8) + convenient-em agreeing, according, Convenient.]

A. adj. †1. Not agreeing or consonant, discordant, incongruous, inconsistent with reason or rule, absurd. Obs.

1398 Trevisa Barth. De P. R. VIII. xxviii (Bodl. MS.), panne it is nouzt in conuenient to seite pat two bodies bene ideere in one place 3if one of hem is sotel and formal of pat oper material and vnperfite. 1552 Huloet, Inconuenient, abhorryng, discordynge. absurdus. 1570 Levins Manip. 108/41 Inconvenient, incongruus. 1638 Pocklington Sunday Christianager III. (1636) 40 In which looke many things were found inconvenient, and contrary to the true faith. 1674 Owen Holy Spirit (1693) 57 Nothing is ascribed unto him that is unreasonable, inconvenient unto him in the Discharge of his Office

†2 Not befitting the case or circumstances, unsuitable, unmeet, inappropriate, out of place. Obs.

c 1460 Fortescue Abs. & Lim. Mon. ix. (1885) 108 That diuerse lordis of Englande haue also moch livelode off thair owne, as than shall remayne in the kynges handes for his extraordinarie charges; which were inconvenient, and wold be to the kyng right diseffell. 1552 Huloet, Inconuenient tyme, intempestas. 1600 Shaks. A. Y. L. II. vii. 73 If it appeare not inconuenient to you. 1681 Chetham Angler's Instr. xii. (1689) 307 Because the Pike is so noble a Fish it's not inconvenient if I make a more particular Discourse of him. 1840 R. D. Mc'Spedin in Mem. (1892) 449 It will make the 39 Sons songs of this world inconvenient

†b Cont. for, to. Obs.

c 1460 Lansdowne Cartular. 85 An inconuenient medicyn to hat membre. 1691 J. Goodwin Redemptt Redeemed I. 8 Which signification is no ways inconvenient for this place. 1855 Motley & Brenet Heath's Improv. (1856) 177 No Meat so wholesome as Pheasant pouts, but to strong Stomachs it is inconvenientest. 1692 Locke Educ. § 159 The reading of the whole Scripture indifferently, is very inconvenient for Children

†3 Morally or ethically unsuitable, unbecoming in manner, unseemly, improper. Obs.

1494 Fabian Chron. VII. cxcviii. 204 He wolowed in lechery, giuynge hym to all vicious and inconuenyent vse of his body. 1544 Prol. Hen. VIII 22 July in Warton Hist. Eng. Poetry IV. (1840) III. 267 Boyes do synge masse, and preache in the pulpitt, with such other vnfittinge and inconuenient vsages. a 1694 Tillotson Serm. XXII. (1742) II. 77 It is very inconvenient to say, that they who were to teach the precepts of Christ to others, did themselves break them by inspiration

4 Not conducive to ease of action or condition, unfavourable to comfort, incommodious, troublesome, embarrassing, disadvantageous, awkward (The current sense.)

1651 Hobbes Leviath. II. xxvi. 147 The people of Rome grew so numerous, as it was inconvenient to assemble them. 1706 Phillips, Inconvenient, not convenient, troublesome, cumbersome. 1777 Sheridan Trip Scotl. II. i, If it be not inconvenient to you, he'll come and wait upon you. 1852 Hawthorne Blithedale Rom. xvii. This species of nervous sympathy was yet found rather inconvenient in its practical operations. 1870 Dickens A. Dread. xviii, We have a good choice of inconvenient lodgings in the town

‡5 sb. That which is inconvenient

†1. Something discordant, an incongruity, an inconsistency, something inconsistent with reason, an absurdity. Obs

c 1374 Chaucer Boeth. V. pr. iii. 223 (Camb. MS.) And yit ther followeth a worse inconuenient of the vniuersite. pat may ben thoght no more, folonge ne moore wykke, and pat is, pat [etc.] 1387-8 T. Usk Test. Love III. iii. (Skeat) I. 74 I wene pis be pe moste inconuenient pat is bitwene Godde forwetinge, and libertie of arbitrement, wherfore, I wote well thei mote stande togider. 1449 Pecock Repr. I. xv. 81 Noon inconvenient is thoug God or deyned the seid reason

†2 Something morally unfitting, an unseemly or unbecoming act; an impropriety, an abuse

1460 Capgrave Chron. (1858) 279 After the batayl fil schamefully the Walsch women satte of mennes membris, and put hem in her mouths that were ded, and many other inconvenientes did then that tyme. 1483 Cath. Angl. 3b, The Synnes and inconueniences that comen of playeng. 1523 Fitzherb. Surv. 26 b, The whiche mesemeth is the grettest inconuenyent that is now to suffred by the lawe. 1598 Bate Flor. Lawes 61 Proudenesse is abhorre with lyke inconuenyences.

†3 A troublesome or untoward circumstance, an misfortune, a mischief, an inconvenience. Obs.

c 1400 Apol. Lollt. 89 Pat inconuenyent was not be veydid 1432-50 tr. Higden (Rolls) VIII. 469 Somme inconvenientes wolde folowe with synne schorte space, bothe to hym and to the realme. 1475 Bk. Noblesse (1860) 13 There lye ye more so gret inconvenient of aventure ne mysfortune falle at this tyme, but that it bathe be seene fallen er now. 1526 Pilgr. Perf. (1531) 57 And so by these thre inconueniences eschewe many sclaunders and inconueniences. 1610 Melvill Diary (Wodrow Soc.) 130 Eschewing any danger or inconvenient quhilk may be likelie to fall out. 1647 Rosc. Trel Nat. Hist. (1652) 65 In her mouth, she is incumbred with severall inconvenients.

†Inconvenientness. Obs. rare [f. prec. + -NESS. (Cf. franchisse 1.)] = Inconvenience 4 b

1598 Payne, Salerne's Regim B j b, Many other inconuenientnes groweth and chaunceth throughe excesse of meates and drynkes. 1600 Ibid. B ij, [This] ingendreth many inconuenientnes in the body

Inconveniently, adv. [f. Inconvenient a. + -LY 2.] In an inconvenient manner

†1 Unsuitably, inappropriately, unbecomingly, improperly; inconsistently, incongruously. Obs.

1509 Barclay Ship of Fooles Argt., This present Boke myght have been set inconuenyently and inconuenyently the Satyr. 1549 Latimer 5th Serm. bef. Edw. VI (Arb.) 147 One wyl say, peraduenture, you speake vnreuerently, and inconuenientlye, so to be agaynste the officers. 1552 Huloet, Inconuenientlye, or dishonestly, or contrary to reason. absurde. In conuenientlye, or out of due tyme. intempestiue

2 With inconvenience, trouble, or discomfort, uncomfortably, incommodiously a 1656 Br. Hall Mourners in Sion (R.), There is many an holy soul that dwels inconveniently, in a crazy, tottering, ruinous cottage. 1689 G. Havers P. della Valle's Trav. E. India 111 We stay'd under a great Tree spent this night inconveniently and supper less. 1717 Berkeley Tryal

Lon Italy 2 June, Wks 1837 IV 559 Inconveniently cold for several hours this morning 1837 DICKENS Pickw XXXV, I am afraid you'll find it inconveniently large 1876 GEO FLIOT Dan Der xii, Things may turn out inconveniently after all

†Inconve nientness. Obs rare [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being inconvenient, inconvenience in quot 1616 unsatisfactoress

1616 SURFL & MARKH Country Farme 122 If the inconvenientnesse of the place will not suffer you to cast them into squares then make them somewhat more long 1727 in Bailey vol II

Inconversable (inkŏnvē·sābl'l), a ? Obs Also coron -ible [f IN- 1 + CONVERSE v + -ABLE, cf Sp inconversable, Cnevara, 1539] and CONVERSIBLE] Not conversable, † unsociable (obs), not disposed to converse, uncommunicative

1577 HOLLYBAND Treasurie Chron 2 If he be inconversible, they abhorre him Iouga si es inconversable shorte sentell 1611 COTGR Inconsolable, unsociable, uncompatible, incomersable 1668 H More Div Dial I ii (1713) 18 It is Personversity inconversable 1706 Letter upon Ridicule 39 They are regarded as inconversable, rough bears, rude and pluntish clod 1720 DE FOE Capt Singleton xv (1840) 254 They'll from us, and will altogether inconversible

Hence Inconve rsableness (Bailey vol II, 1727)

Inconversant (inkŏnvē·sănt), a rare [IN- 1] Not conversant, not versed in or familiar with

1800-19 G SHAW Zool III 99 (J) A person inconversant in natural history 1836 SIR W HAMILTON Discuss, Situd Math (1852) 321 Though himself not inconversant with these he did not perceive of what utility they could be

Inconversibi lity. rare [f IN- 1 + CONVERSIBILITY, cf L inconversibilis, + inconversible] Incapability of being converted (into something else), incompatibility

1784 MANN in Lett Lit Men (Camden) 427 M Tytler who has been combating these many years past in favour of the inconvertibility of Words into any thing else

†Inconve rsion Obs rare [IN- 3] Un converted or unregenerate condition

1633 P HALL Hard Texts, N T 210 Since both in the time of your inconversion beene but of slight account

† Inconve rted, a Obs [IN- 1] Not converte l, not turned or changed, unconverted

1646 SIR J BROWNE Pseud Ep II vi 98 The bird not able to digest the fruit wherein she feedeth, from her inconverted mating Ibid III x 128 Whereoever they be fed upon an inconverted and possessing one part of the Compasse, whilst the wind perhaps hath passed the two and thirty

Inconvertible (inkŏnvē·rtibl), a [IN- 3 perh after F inconvertible (1546 in Hatz Darm)] or late L inconvertibilis unchanging] Not convertible, incapable of being converted

1 Incapable of being changed into anything else, † spec incapable of being assimilated, indigestible (cf CONVERTIBLE 2 b)

1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep II vi 85 It taketh leave of the permanent parts and accompanieth the inconvertible portion into the stage 1652 BULWER Anthropom Ded 2 The Immortal Lords of the Humanity, Inseparable, Inconfusible, Inconvertible

2 Incapable of being exchanged for one another, or transposed each into the place of the other, not interchangeable Usually of terms Not equivalent or synonymous

1706 PHILLIPS, Inconvertible in Phabet), that cannot be transposed, changed, or altered, ex inconvertible Terms 1864 BOWEN Logic v 113 Genu and Accident inconvertible with the subject

b Logic Of a proposition That cannot be converted see CONVERT v 4 b, CONVERSION 4)

1864 BOWEN Logic, vii 204 1875 ABP THOMSON Laws Th § 81 † 1, this judgment D is usually considered inconvertible by the ordinary method

3 Incapable of being exchanged for something else spec of paper money, that cannot be converted into specie

1833 HT MARTINEAU Berkely the banker I vi 120 In convertible bank paper would have been everywhere refused 1848 MILL Pol Econ III xiii § 2 (1876) 440 An inconvertible currency regulated by the price of bullion, would conform exactly in all its variations, to a convertible one 1866 CAIRNES Essays 185 This country held what it is to be hoped it will never see again—an inconvertible paper currency

† 4 Incapable of being turned away from one 1829 LANDOR Wks (1846) II 220/1 First, we must find the priests, for ours are inconvertible from their crumbling altars Hence Inconvertibi lity, Inconve rtibleness, Inconve rtibly adv

1797 BAILEY vol II, Inconvertibleness 1816 PENTHAM Chrestom App viii, Inconvertibility of Geometry and Algebra 1833 HT MARTINEAU Berkley the banker I vii 159 Others complained of the example of inconvertibility set by the Bank of England 1856 EMERSON Eng Traits iv 55 The fixity or inconvertibleness of races as we see them 1882 OCTAVIA, Inconvertibly

†Inconvi ctedness Obs rare [f IN- 4 CONVICTED + -NESS] The state of not being convicted or convinced So †Inconvi ction, absence of conviction

1664 H MORE Myst Inig Apol 155 It is not the humbleness of our Conviction or Inconviction that will warrant us act from becoming sinful, but the perfect Sincerity of the heart Ibid, By this last Objection it is insinuated that I make Inconvictedness of Conscience to excuse from the most heinous crimes

VOL V

Inconvi ncedly, adv [IN- 1] In an unconvinced way, without conviction

1642 ROGER Naaman 103 Sinne is not alike dwelling in all, but in some men it dwels without a law, ignorantly, inconvincedly 1658 JER TAYLOR Holy Dying (1840) 60

Inconvincible (inkŏnvi·nsibl'l, a [IN- 1] Incapable of being convinced, not open to conviction

1674 Gent Iournal XI 8 (1841) 162 None are so much unable as your self witted people 1732 BERKELEY Visitis II § 13 There is nothing so dogmatical and inconvincible as one of these fine things, when it sets up for free thinking, 1837 CARLYLE Fr Rev I v 4 In Germany we find an Unwillie, the Noblesse, and Clergy irreflegably consuming 1871 RUSKIN Fors Clav V 14 I am not inconvincible by any kind of evidence

b trs th An inconvincible person

1845 MRS S C HALL Whit Boys I 3 You are one of the inconvincibles

Hence Inconvincibl ity, Inconvi ncibly adv

1646 SIR J BROWNE Pseud Ep I vii 27 Yet is it not much less ingenuous unto knowledge obstinately and inconvincibly to adhere unto any falsity 1882 in Athenæum 1882 W M WILLIAMS Science in Short Ch 55 With all the consensus and inconvincibility of a born and bred Englishman

† Inco ny, a Obs Also inconey, in-conie, in conie, inconey, in conye [A cant word, prevalent about 1600, of unascertained origin

It appears to have aimed with money, cf CONEY Suggestions as to its connexion with that term are represented in inconeyman, or It incognito, unknown (but it is a variation of incanny, incanny incautious, etc (see CANNY), that it is connected with can = unknown, strange, etc, but none of these is free from difficulty]

? Rare, fine, delicate, pretty, 'nice.'

1598 SHAKS 1 Hen IV III i 236 Glen My sweete owne of mans flesh, my incony Iewe Ibid V i 44 Lucy Oh, with most sweete lords, most incony talk, or wit 1602 MARSTON Pas of Malleo v (1) ? Let music rumble Whilst I in thy incony lappe am hurl'd 1599 THOMAS Italian and Eng (Halli) O I haue spoil'n incony Ioth 1602 MIDDLETON Lond Mariet Cast it in, it makes you have, O, a most incony body ! 1603 B JONSON Sale Ivb v 1 O super dainty Chimon ! Vie it in coney ! Make no delay, Miles, but away, And bring the wench and money

b adverb

1602 Warner (1871) 122 Hang it yonder, & twill make mee act incony

Inco p, incoup, v Obs rare[-1] [f IN- 2 + COUP v] Trans To coop up, enclose

1598 STANYHURST Dn Æn III 66 With sudden blindness smites the Syrian Troup, The which in Dothin did him round incoup

Incordinate (inkō·ɹdinĕt), a [IN- 1] Not co ordinate So Incoo rdinated

1889 J M ROBERTSON Ess Crit Method 60 In an essay on the Genius of Mr Meredith whose faults are incordinate 1896 Illustr Lond Mag I 849 Disturbed and incoordinate contradiction of its (the heart's) wills

Incoordination (inkoōɹdinā·ʃŏn) [IN- 1, cf F incoordination (Dict Acad 1878)] Want of co ordination, esp in phys the influence to muscular action (see CO ORDINATION 4)

1876 W A HAMMOND Nerv Dis (ed 6) 296 A similar incoordination is observed in the right hand 1878 A M BENNETT Ment Phys I 171 Incoordination of the muscular extremities 1892 W R COOPER Dis Nerv Syst I 454 The incoordination is revealed by the patient's gait, which is distinctly unsteady

† Inco pious, a Obs rare—1 [IN- 1] Not copious limited, restricted in quantity

1734 Early Chron in Gentlem Mag The whole was incopious to contain an

Incorpresentable (inkŏɹpzĕntabl), a [IN- 1 + CORPRESENT v + -ABLE] Incapable of simultaneous presentation (to the senses or intellect) Hence Incorpresentabi lity

1886 J W POWELL Rept Nat Wks 24 Just as a field of sight of blue is incopresentable with one all red Ibid Certain sensations or movements are absolutely but to the simultaneous presentation of others as one to many movements We cannot see an orange as at once yellow and green, though we can feel it at once as both smooth and cold Such incopresentability exists as completely between opposite motion belonging to the same consent as the same group of movements

† Incorpsed, ppl a Obs rare—1 [f IN 2 (or ? IN- 1) + CORPSE sb + -ED] ? Covered with corpse wood

1614 RALEIGH Hist World I i 129 There was no great pleasure in passing, into fure countries after the general Deluge, when the earth lay (as it were) incorpsed for 1 or 200 yeares together

Incorage, obs form of INCOURAGE

† Incor rd, v Obs rare—0 [ad It incordare, cf INCORD] See quot 1

1611 ? FLORIO, Incordare, to incord or burst as a horse

† Incor rded, ppl a Also ? encorded [ad It incordato see INCORDING, quot 1607] Of a horse Ruptured, suffering from hernia

1607 [see INCORDING] 1611 FLORIO, Incordato, incorded as a horse c 1720 W GIBSON Farrier's Dispens xii (1731) 45 When a Horse is incorded or bursten

† Incor rdiate, v Obs—0 [ad supposed I incordiare*, inferred from incordiet, erroneous reading in Plautus Cist I i 110 for mihi cordi est] 1623 COCKERAM, Incordiate, to put into ones heart 1656 in BLOUNT Glossog

† Incor rding, vbl sb Obs [f INCORD v + -ING, 1 (cf quot 1607)] Rupture or hernia in a horse

1598 FLORIO, Incordatura, the incording or bursting of a horse 1607 TOPSELL Four-f Beasts (1658) 309 This term, Incording is borrowed of the Italian word Incordato, which in plain English is no more to say as Bursten The Italians, as I take it did call it Incordato because the gut follows the string of the stone, called in them Le cordone, or La corda, whereof Incordato seems to be derived and the verb incordare from whence we should call it rather Incringed, then Incorded for incordato the signification is one 1611 COTGR Nor is that Incording, is after any reason in the stable, For my part am very well content they wrath minding not to contend against it 1616 MARKHAM Disbrow II xliv 292 This incording or burstinesse in horses, is wit in the rim or thinne filme which holdeth the guts up in a horses body is broken, so that the guts fall downe either into the cods of the horse or into the horses flanke 1785 BRADLEY Fam Dict s v Knap ure, Rupture otherwise called Incording or Burstiness, a distemper in a horse

†Incor rnet, v Obs rare [ad F encornet COTGR] see IN- 2] (See quot)

1611 COTGR, Incornet, incornuted, put into a horne wrapped up, as spice, etc in a cornet, or cullet

†Inco rnished, ppl a Obs rare—1 [f IN- 2 + cornish CORNICE + -ED, after It incornisare to put a cornice or frame upon, f IN- (IN- 2) + cornice CORNICE] Furnished with a cornice or cornices

1645 LOTHIAN Diary in Ape The outer walls are in compleit with festoons and niches, set with statues from the first ground to the roofe

Incoronate (inkŏ·ɹŏnāt, -ĕt, [ad It incoronato or med L incoronatus (pple of incoronare to crown), cf OF incoronné COTGR, -ATE] a Wearing or having a crown crowned

1867 LOWELL Dante, Inferno iv Low was hither come a Mighty One With Sign of victory incoronate 1887 F H PEVEY Dante, Comic II 347 My Lady fair in heaven incoronate

b Ind (See quot)

1855 MAYNE Expos Brit Ento, Incoronates, Applied by H Cossus to the Cathathedrum or anthedrum of the Asian Horse when all the flowers which constitute it to emble the Turn of a coronal incoronate

So Inco ronated ppl a

1867 LOWELL Dante, Paradise XXIII 113 Mine eyes did not possess the power of following the incoronated flame

Incoronation (inkŏɹŏnā·ʃŏn) [f INCORONE + -ATION] = CROWNATION

1855 MAYNE Expos Brit Ento, Incoronation, Applied by H Cossus to the Cathathedrum or anthedrum of the Asian Horse when all the flowers which constitute it to emble the Turn of a coronal incoronate

Incorporal (inkŏɹpŏrăl), a [IN- 1] Not corporal, not material, immaterial

1551 GARDINER Explic Eucharist 109 (R) The soule of man hath his end and vse in a spirituall and incorporall body to be regned vpo the sonne of God 1581 MARBECK Bk of Notes 263 Her mans nature, which should be forth with aduanced to immortall and incorporall glorie 1608 HOLLAND Hist Ammian 1117 No lesse impossible is it to apprehend, that of bodies hauing no soule any should moue of themselues to an incorporall place, and haue no difference of situation 1646 H LAWRENCE Comm Angels 9 If you aske whether the Angells have bodies, or no, altogether incorporall

B sb An incorporeal thing or place rare—1

1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I v 821 But if it be demanded, when the soul goes out of this body whether it be carried into any Corporal Places, or to Incorporal like to Corporals late]

Hence † Inco rporally, † without matter, immaterially (Obs) † Inco rporalness = next (Bailey vol II, 1727)

† Incorporality Obs [ad late I incorporalitas see prec and -ITY Cf F incorporalité] The state or quality of being incorporeal

1601 DEACON & WALKER Spirits & Dev I 83 Whatsoever is incorporall, that same is euery where, because vbiquity is the cause of incorporality 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I v 821 Incorporality is free from all Custody or Imprisonment, as also devoid of Pain and Pleasure 1777 PRIESTLEY Matt & Spir (1782) I xv 219 Austin learned of the philosophers the incorporality of God

Incorporate, a (ɪŋkɔ·pŏrĕt) rare [ad rare L incorporāt-us not embodied (Claud Mamertus, 470), f. in (IN- 3) + corporātus CORPORATE.]

1 Without body or material substance, incorporeal, unembodied

1540 MORESINE Two Lives Introd Wood G b, The more thou transposeste thy selfe from thinges corporall unto thinges incorporate, the more godlye lyfe shalte thou leade 1598 BARCKLEY Felic Man (1631) 366 For besides the an corporate world, that is above all the rest . . there are three bodily worlds coupled together 1618 RALEIGH Lincoln Coll Cur I 79 Inheritance incorporate, or invisible 1661 G HUNT Oxygen Vapors in Phenix (1721) I 31 And where he brought into light Spirits incorporate a 1849 POE Silence, There are some qualities—some incorporate things, That have a double life

¶ 2 (Not incorporated, not existing as a corporation, as an incorporate banking association or other society' (Webster, 1864)

Hence in later Dicts, but prob an error

†B sb Something which is incorporeal Obs c 1533 DE WES Introit 1 in Palsgr 1037 In the whiche all manner shape and effigiation doth shyne clerely, so well corporates as incorporates

Incorporate (ɪnkɔ·pŏrĕt), ppl a [ad late L incorporāt-us, pa pple of incorporāre see the vb] Formerly used as pa pple = incorporated

1 United in one body, combined in one mass or substance lit and fig Now rare

a 1533 LD BERNERS Gold Bk M Aurel xv, And the vertues wel incorporate, maketh many emnous 1580 CETES PEMBROKE Tr Psalt CXXXV III, The reeking vapours rise Then high in clouds incorporate they stand 1592 SHAKS Ven & Ad 540 Her eyes like doubtful stars long staid in wet Unbrace Incorporate then they seeme, face growes to face 1604 R C D'Acosta's Hist Indies IV xii 243 Abasing turning and stirring the metall, to the end it may be well incorporate 1752 YOUNG Brothers IV 1 The friend of Rome!—that severs you for ever, the most incorporate and strongly knit 1842 BROWNING Sord Poems Bell & Daldy 183/1 The incorporate life of Father and son

b Con two, in, with + to (Cf the verb) 1587 HARRISON Hedg in Holinshed I 58 Holden wars of olde tyme incorporat Hurl MS concorporate I concorpora ai in to be lord schippe of Bretayne, so seith Geraldus 1590 SHAKS Mids N III ii 209 Incorporate, then they say. (Hume) Juniby to meue upwarde, and drawep fro pe neper partes upwarde to pe whiche he is incorporate 1502 Ord Crysten Man (W de W 1506) II xxi 138 Incorporat and unyed with holy churche 1546 Edge Perf (W de W 1531) 186 b, To be in oppoſite in hym as of the membres of his mistical body 1561 R COLLAND Treat Pestilence (1734) 8 Ointments made of y powdre of dragons blode . incorporate with wyne of ye sedge 1602 SHAKS Ful C I iii 135 It is Casca, one incorporate to our Attempts 1648 HERRICK Nobs 8 421 Drinke incorporate with Flesh, or Roots will nimbly more easily, than Meat and Drinke taken severally 1823-9 HALLAM Hist Lit (1847) I xi 1 69 Thus science is incorporate in all the books of the doctors of the church 1850 TENNYSON In Mem ii, Gazing on them, sullen tree I seem to feel from out my blood And grow incorporate into thee a 1864 J. D. BURNS Mem & Rem. (1871) 363 Some beloved object which seemed to be one and incorporate with their being selves

2 Of a company, association, etc Formally constituted as a corporation (Cf CORPORATE a 4) Also of persons United in a corporation

1480 Rolls Wells (Camden) 58 Whan so euer the colage of presets of Burye be incorporat and haue a maister, president, or other reuler [etc] 1540 Act 32 Hen VIII, c 42 All personnes of the said company nowe incorporate by this present acte 1592 WEST 1st Pt Symbol § 48 Guildes fraternities, fellowships and companies incorporate 1633 T STAFFORD Pac Hib I xv (1810) 78 Conducted to the next incorporate Towne 1671 Trial Nan concern 7 For the keeping of the Lords Covenant . injoined to the People of Israel as one body incorporat 1863 H COX Instit II iv 231 The province of the incorporated municipal governments 1877 RAYMOND Statist Mines y Mining 64 An incorporate company, having its principal place of business at the town of Gold Run

†b Of persons Associated or admitted to fellowship with others, as members of the same corporation Obs

1550 SHAKS Com Err II ii 124 Estranged from thy selfe being straunge to me That vndundable In corporate An better then thy dearie selfes better part 1605 CAMDEN Rem (1637) 73 I be Welshmen our neighbours, or rather our incorporate countrymen both by approued allegeance and law 1684 BAXTER Theol Dual 2 You make your self and all those parties incorporate Members of the Church of England

†c transf That constitutes a close connexion (Cf INCORPORATING ppl a b) Obs

1599 SHAKS Hen V, v ii 394 To make diuorce of their incorporate League 1765 BLACKSTONE Comm I 58 etc, In such an incorporate union (which is well distinguished in a very learned prelate from a foederate alliance) the two contracting states are totally annihilated and a third arises from their conjunction

II 3 Having a bodily form, embodied

1588 THEVSA Barth De P R xv (Bodl MS), Colle is fayre incorporat in deede 1450-1530 Myrr our Lady 208 The boyng worde of the hyest hathe suffered to be incorporate, takynge a body 1898 GEO ELIOT Coll Breaks P 423 Ideals never yet incorporate

Incorporate (ɪnkɔ·pŏrĕt), v Also 6 incorperate, 6–7 incorporate [f late L incorporāt-, ppl stem of incorporāre to embody, include, f. in- (IN- 2) + corporāre to form into a body, CORPORATE v.]

1 trans To combine or unite into one body or uniform substance, to mix or blend thoroughly together (a number of different things or one thing with another) a material substances

1544 PHAER Regim Lyfe (1553) F j b, Take tosted bread, and moist it in wine and incorporate it with pouder of mastyke 1660 BOYLE New Exp Phys Mech Pneum II A melted Cement, made of Pitch Rosin, and Wood ashes, well incorporated 1678 Phil Trans XII 950 Imm. for the most part as incorporated with the Stone, or as found in it 1772 Ld Gooch Corr (1790) V. 153 Stirring up the several ingredients, till they were perfectly incorporated 1848 MILL Pol Econ I XII 2 (1876) 110 Manure can only usefully be incorporated with the Soil 1879 Cassell's Techn Educ IV 73/1 Equal parts of oat, wheat, barley, and bean meals, would be the whole incorporated by stirring

b transf and fig

1598 SHAKS Rom & Jul II vi 37 You shall not stay alone, Till holy Church incorporate two in one 1643 MILTON Divorce I xi, 243 That the fit union of their soules be such as may even incorporate them to love and amity 1646 H LAWRENCE Comm Angells 185 Incorporate your selves with that which is good, mixe your self one with it 1869 J LACY Sir H Buffoon I Dram Wks (1875) 225 An Atheist and a Wit are incorporated, and like man and wife become one flesh 1885 J. NEAL Ivo Jonathan III 242 That which incorporates their being for ever and ever 1841 MYERS Cath Th III § 8 27 At what period, they were incorporated into a sacred Canon, is unknown 1877 H MILLER First Impr VI (1890) 89 When the geological vocabulary shall have become better incorporated than at present with the language of our common literature

2 To put into or include in the body or substance of something else, to put (one thing) in or into another so as to form one body or integral whole, to embody, include Const in, into, to 1398 TREVISA Barth De P R XIX xxxvi 1450) 875 Clere is ouer incorporated in that blacke maketh it more and temperat 1579 FULKE Heskins Parl 234 This breade and wine ought not to be incorporated into the bodie 1598 BARCKLEY Felic Man (1631) 542 As though they would incorporate their soule to their bodie 1603 FLORIO Montaigne III 385 Some there be who incorporate the soul head [of a swallow] within white wax, and therewith annount the forhead 1704 PALEY Evid I v (1817) 41 The religion of the Jews was not merely tied to the rites, it was incorporated into it 1843 J CLASON Serm VI 126 We eat and drink what is taken by us entire into and incorporated into our systems 1878 MORLEY Univ Serm I (1877) 5 What are the doctrines which the Roman Church will thus incorporate into her teaching?

b To take in or include as a part or parts of itself (esp of literary material), to absorb

1824 SCOTT Redgauntlet I xiii 188 The edition, incorporating all the works of the author 1861 STANLEY Hist Ch VII (1869) 271 The Koran incorporates some of the earlier Jewish, Christian, and Arabian traditions 1890 Law Times Rep LXIII 712/1 The Act of 1885 expressly incorporated sect. 28 of the Act of 1878

c To take or absorb into the body Obs rare

1653 WALTON Angler VI 139 By the wormes remaining in that box an hour . they had incorporated a kind of smel that was irresistibly attractive

3 To combine or form into a society or organization, esp to constitute as a legal corporation

c 1460 FORTESCUE Abs & Lim Mon II (1885) 111 When Nembroth made and incorporate the first realme 1534 MORE Treas Passion Wks 1368/2 Christ . . doth incorporate all christen folke and hys owne bodye to gether in one corporacyon on mystical 1540 Act 32 Hen VIII, c 42 Whiche company of Barbours be and shalbe from hensforth vsed by the name of Maisters or Governours of the misterv and commyualtie of the Barbours of London 1603 LOD VERUL Rem Conf Marriage 201 A charter to incorporate the lord Shandois, Mr Neal, and Mr Thomas Wharton in working of mines, and refining of oare, &c 1829 POLWHELE Hist Cornw IV 81 It is proposed, that the two Hearbes be incorporated into one company 1890 GROVE Gild Merch I 146 The Staplers of a town were generally incorporated as a fraternity or fraternities

b To admit (a person) as member of a company or association, to receive or adopt into a corporation or body politic (Const into, in, rarely + unto, with)

1550 PALSGR 1003/1 I incorporate a man, I make him of crafte or felyshe to be swome to it 1634 SIR T HERBERT Trav 78 Hee had incorporated himselfe unto another people 1641 Ld Protestation 2 Giving freedome to such persons as would embrace his Law [he] encorporated them into his Army 1679 WOOD Life (O H S) II 465, I heard at Weston that the Duke of Oxford, Dr Barlow, and Mr denied Oates his incorporating D D Oates sent word to the vice chancellor, that he would come and wait on him for his degree 1697 BURNET Own Time (1724) I 501 The Doctor of Divinity at Salamanca they would incorporate him 1697 Ath Oxon II 698 This year Richard Crashaw of Cambridge . . was admitted and incorporated 1707 HEARNE Collect (O H S) II 1 Yesterday was incorporated A M Mr Stevens 1728 Compl Lex 5 Va 295 The Indians given to Spaniards, and incorporated by set Law, and incorporated in the Crown 1861 STANLEY Past Ch VI (1869) 3.6 He made a point of compelling all foreigners to incorporate themselves into the Athenian nation by his decrees

4 To furnish with a body, to give bodily shape to, to embody rare

1693 BP ANDREWES Serm (ed 18) 269 The incorporating Christ . . the quickning Him in body a 1688 CUDWORTH Immut Mor (1731) 145 Certain creatures, palpable, and Corporeal Images to incorporate those abstracted Cogitations in 1831 CARLYLE Sart Res II iv, Some actual Air maiden, incorporated into tangibility and reality

II intr To incorporate itself or become incorporated

5 Of one thing To unite or combine with something else so as to form one body Const with, rarely into

1596 PLAT Jewell h., New sorts Supply 6 Salt by solution being very apt to incorporate therewith, consumeth all the putrified vapors or parts thereof 1681 PLAYFR Meth Coins xxvi 459 Grace can no more incorporate with sin, than oyle with water a 1716 SOUTH Serm (1717) IV 22 He must have mastered his Notions, till they even incorporate into his Mind 1799 G. SMITH Laboratory II 137 In three or four weeks time the bud will incorporate 1809 MALKIN Gil Blas VI i p 2 A rivulet meandering to incorporate with the waters of Guadalavar 1831 BREWSTER Nat Magic vi (1833) 130 The Water will gradually incorporate with the Syrup

3 Of one or more things To unite so as to form one body, to grow into each other; to form an intimate union (lit and fig) ? Obs

1625 BACON Ess, Unity Relig (Arb) 431 Truth and Falshood are like the Iron and Clay, in the toes of Nabucad nezars Image, they may Cleaue, but they will not Incorporate 1674 GREW Disc Nat Mixtures v Inst 2 § 4 Take good Oyl of Vitriol and drop it upon Oyl of Anise seeds, and they will forthwith incorporate together 1732 BERKELEY Alciphr III iii, They unite and incorporate into Families clubs, parties and Commonwealths, by mutual Sympathy 1797 BOWDICH, Travels Ashantee 32 Beat them with a spoon until they incorporate and become a white paste.

†b To copulate Obs rare

1622 MASSINGER & DEKKER Virg Mart III iii, Worse than the noise of a scolding oyster-wench, or two cats in corporating

Incorporated, ppl a [f prec + -ED 1]

1 United into one body, combined

1599 MINSHEU Sp Dict, Incorporado, incorporated, made into one body 1728 BICKMORE Creation 208 Now flows in one incorporated flood 1808 HEATON Course Math I 174 To obtain the incorporated or united mass

2 Constituted as a legal or formal corporation (cf INCORPORATE ppl a 2)

1677 YARRANTON Eng Improv 182 The Incorporated Companies of Weavers, Pin Makers [etc] 1776 ADAM SMITH W N I x II (1869) I 137 In many large incorporated towns no inferior workman can be found 1837 HT MARTINEAU Soc Amer III App 335 There were about 20 incorporated academies in the State [of Vermont], where 3 young men were fitted for college 1844 H SIDNEY in Centemp Rev XLVI 20 This holds of an incorporated nation as much as of an incorporated company

3 Included as part of a whole

1715 NELSON Addr Pers Qual 197 An incorporated Member of His Body 1818 JAS MILL Brit India II v iv 714 The government of India was made totally dependant upon the minister, and became in fact an incorporated part of his administration

†4 Embodied Obs rare

1644 DIGBY Mans Soul (1645) 11 An Incorporated soule can looke upon but one single definite place 1751 JOHNSON Rambler No 110 P 5 Incorporated minds will always feel some inclination towards exterior acts, and ritual observances

Hence Incorporatedness

1727 BAILEY vol II, Incorporatedness, the State or Condition of being incorporated, or the unitedness of one Thing with another

Incorporating, vbl sb [f as prec + -ING 1]

1 The action of combining into one body (in trans sense)

1579-80 NORTH Plutarch (1595) 78 This diuision was an incorporating, and an vniting of the whole together 1645 Power Parliament (1661) 30 The Lords sign not the receiving of us into the Church, and incorporating of us into Christ

b spec The process of combining the ingredients of gunpowder, so as to produce a homogeneous compound Also attrib, as incorporating mill

1865 Daily News 19 Aug, The explosion, which originated in one of the incorporating mills, was caused by a workman disobeying the rules 1883 Salt Staff G 17 Feb 9/2 The incorporating mills of the Kennall Gunpowder Company's Works, near Penryn, were blown up yesterday 1881 GREENER Gun 321 The incorporating is one of the most dangerous processes

2 The action of uniting into a society or association (in strict sense); = INCORPORATION 2

1651 HOBBES Leviath II xxii 119 The End of their Incorporating, is to make their gaine the greater 1689 in Buckinham's Dk Trayt. Repeal Statute 8 You do not then make ability to be the cause of men's incorporating in political Societies

Incorporating, ppl a [f as prec + -ING 2] That incorporates, or unites into one body

1611 COTGR, Incorporant, Incorporating, ioyning in one bodie 1645 MILTON Tetrach Wks (1847) 189/2 The most intimate and incorporating mixture of love and embracement 1746 JAMES Introd Monsiet & Bennet's Health's Improv 64 The tender and fresh Parts of Plants abound with Water, and Salts . The Mixture of which, with a moderate oily and vegetable Fluid, is owing their incorporating and dissolving Juice

b Incorporating union, a union which combines two or more states, etc. under one government, or converts separate bodies into one corporation (Orig said of the Union between England and Scotland in 1707) So also Incorporating Act

1706 LUTTRELL Brief Rel (1857) VI 105 The parliament had read 5 or 6 addresses against an incorporating union with England 1707 Pulpone 18 They had changed their Notion of an Incorporating Union into that of a federal one 1853 M. COTLER in Life, Trials & Corr (1888) II 320, I shall send you . our Incorporating Act and Constitution 1885 J JEFFERSON Autobiog Wks 1859 I 32 He distinguished between an incorporating and a federal union 1871 Pall Mall G 22 Jan, It is hopeless to expect an incorporating union of all the seven provinces [of Australia] at present

6. Of languages Combining several parts of speech (e g verb and objects, etc.,) in one word
cf. INCORPORATION 1 b

1859 MAX MULLER Sc Lang (1871) I 371 A fourth class, sometimes called polysynthetic or incorporating, including most of the American languages 1875 WHITNEY Life Lang xii 260 This common mode of structure is called the polysynthetic, or incorporating

Incorporation (inkɔ̀pɒ̀ɹē'ʃən) [ad late L. incorporātiōn-em, n of action from incorporare to INCORPORATE Cf F incorporation (15th c.)]

1 The action of incorporating two or more things, or one thing with (an, into + to) another, the process or condition of being so incorporated, union in or into one body

1398 TREVISA Barth De P R x vii (Bodl MS), Fuyre by his incorporacion and onyng to gretter and bikker parties of erjchilich matere . is inolde lynebe by a certeyne violence of kinde 1579 FULKE Heshins' Part 267 Our drinking is as it were a certeine incorporation in him 1612 T TAYLOR Comm Titus iii 5 such as haue receiued inuisible incorporation into Christs bodie 1641 FERNE in Distrill i (1651) 11 Incorporation, is a mixtion of a dry and moist body together, so as to make an uniform masse of them 1718 QUINCY Compl Disp 43 Incorporation thus term'd in Pharmacy, is employed in bringing and joining together, by the Interposition of a third Body 1765 HUTCHINSON (title) The History of the Colony of Massachusets Bay from the first settlement thereof in 1628 until its incorporation with the Colony of Plimouth 1822 G CHALMERS Dom Ecc Scot 95 The incorporation of two independent legislatures has proved equally advantageous to both countries 1861 STANLEY Jewish Ch ix (1869) 285 The gradual incorporation of Russia into the commonwealth of Western nations 1881 WESTCOTT & HORT Gr N T Introd § 12 The incorporation of various readings noted in the margin

b Philol The combination of two or more parts of speech in one word, as when the object or complement of a verb is inserted between its stem and termination so that the whole forms one word
cf. INCORPORATING ppl a c

1874 SAYCE Compar Philol 1 22 The Basques verb presents the phenomenon of incorporation to an astonishing degree

2 The action or process of forming into a community or corporation, esp the formation of a legal corporation or body politic

1466 FORTESCUE Abs & Lim. Mon. ii (1885) 112 This incorporacion, institucion, and myage of hem self into a reaume 1513-14 1st S Hen I III, c 6 The for-said Citie of London, from the tyme of their firste Incorporacion 1640-4 in Rushw Hist Coll iii (1692) 154 The Patent for the Incorporation of the Parish Clerks 1819 J MAC SHALL Const Opin (1830) 195 The charter of incorporation was granted at his instance a 1600 in Liber Gildh 302 A new incorporation with the olde company of Taylors had procured from the kinge 1605 BACON Adv Learn i vii § 6 Adrian spent his whole reign in a survey of the Roman empire granting new franchises and incorporations.

†b The document creating or legalizing a corporation, a charter Obs

3 An incorporated society or company, = COR PORATION

1530 in W H Turner Select Rec Oxford 85 To haue of them an incorporacion and to haue a Master and Wardes of there Craffe 1570-6 LAMBARDE Peramb Kent (1826) 169 At Cuntopstrete they do yet reserve a Mace and a Horne assured badges of an incorporation 1631 GOUGE God's Arrows iii § 11 206 Vniversities, Innes of Court Incorporations, Companies, and other such like Societies. 1776 ADAM SMITH W N v i (1869) II 382 The clergy of every established church constitute a great incorporation 1822 SCOTT Nigel ix, An eminent member of the Gold smiths Incorporation 1879 T Gleanings Ponger & Jive iv, Railroad companies and other incorporations

4 Embodiment, an embodied realization rare

1645 M CASAUBON Crey Temp Feats 1 That opinion of the antcientest Philosophers that the Soules of men had a substistence long before their incorporation 1647 H MORE Poems 229 The self form'd soul may work without In corporation 1866 GEO ELIOT Felix Holt xvii, He thought he saw a very troublesome, vigorous incorporation of that nonsense [enthusiasm] in Felix 1884 J RAE Contemp Socialism 233 Schmoller . offers us no other incorporation of his dogma.

Hence (non-:-ness) †Incorpora tioner, a member of an incorporation, Incorpora tionist, one who favours or supports incorporation

1594 NASHE Unfort Trav E3, At the townes end met him the burgers and dim-tuall incorporationers of Witten berg 1888 Daily News 31 Oct 5/1 The great struggle centres in striving to obtain a majority of incorporationists in the council

Incorporative (inkɔ̀pɒ̀ɹətiv), a [f INcorporate v + -ive] Characterized by or tending to incorporation

1892 LYLY Galathea II iii, We call those spirits that are the grounds of our arte, and as it were the metals more incorporative for domination 1728 M DAVIES Athen Brit II 424 The same true infinite God and truly finite Man, Temporally and Humanly Communicative and Incorporative 1844 Western Rev II 420 The incorporative union of two sovereignties under a common head

Incorporator (inkɔ̀pɒ̀ɹē'tɒɹ) [agent n in L form, from INCORPORATE]

1 One who incorporates or combines into one body or substance

1892 Blackw Mag XXV 89 These compound incorporators of sour fruit, sugar, and brandy

2. One who takes part in the formation of an incorporated company, spec. (U S) one of the persons named in an act of incorporation, one of the original members of an incorporated body or company' (Cent Dict)

1883 Harper's Mag Nov 938/2 The first incorporators were not practical railroad men 1883 American VII 174 The incorporators of the Chain of Rocks Bridge Company 1887 Pall Mall G 5 Nov 6/1 Obliged to have a majority of the incorporators United States citizens.

3 A member of one University who is incorporated in another (cf quots 1679-1707 in INCORPORATE v 3 b)

1887 J FOSTER Prospectus Alumni Oxon , I have arranged to include also in my work all honorary and nominal members of the University, as well as Incorporators.

†Inco rporature Obs rare—° [f L type incorporatīra*, f incorporāre see INCORPORATE and -URE, cf INCORPORATURE] = INCORPORATION

1570 LEVINS Manip 192/14 Incorporature, incorporatio

Incorporeal (inkɔ̀pɒ̀ɹē'ɹəl), a (sb) Also 6 -all [f I incorpore-us (Macrobius c 400) with out body + -AL, cf CORPOREAL] Not corporeal

1 Having no bodily or material structure, not composed of matter, immaterial

1532 More Confut Tindal Wks 387/2 God may make the bodyly corporall water able to worke vpon the vnbodyed incorporall soule 1577 HANMER Anc Eccl Hist (1619) 190 A Substance incorporeall, incorporeall, free from earthly Matter 1651 BAXTER Inf Bapt Apol 2 Corporeal signs cannot work or make an impression upon incorporeal souls 1713 BERKELEY Guardian No 120 I find I am not actuated by any incorporeal being or spirit 1838-9 HALLAM Hist Lit II ii § 93 104 I wo active incorporeal principles, bent upon destroying each other 1881 Nature XXIV 463 It has been argued that the soul is invisible and incorporeal

2 Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of immaterial beings

1667 MILTON P L VIII 37 The sedentarie Earth, receaves, As Tribute such a sumless journey brought Of incorporeal speed, her warmth and light 1811 W SPENCER Poems 200 Thy taste's quick glance of incorporeal sight 1859 J TAYLOR Logic in Theol 133 The incorporeal liberty of angelic existences

3 a Having no material existence in itself, but attaching as a right or profit to some actual thing, esp incorporeal hereditament (see quots)

1628 COKE On Litt 9a, Grant Concessio, is properly of things incorporeall, which an hath not, and cannot passe without Deed 1767 BLACKSTONE Comm II 21 Such as is corporeal hereditament is a right issuing out of a thing corporate (whether real, personal, or mixed), or annexed to, or exercisable within, the same 1802-11 BIN NEY Am Jud Trial (1827) II 525 note, Property called incorporeal, such as an annuity 1824 Mr Justice Coleridge (1873) 11 A house is corporeal, but the annual rent payable for its occupation is incorporeal

b In which the body is not (primarily) affected or concerned

1887 GIFFEN Pres Addr From Sc Sect Brit Assoc Numbers employed in what may be called incorporeal functions, that is, as teachers, artists, and the like

B sb (pl) Things incorporeal

1628 FELTHAM Resolves II lxix 195 Nor is it onely true in Materials and Substances, but even in Spirits and Incorporeals 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I v 776 That Incorporeals are in No Place 1793 T TAYLOR tr Plato Introd Timæus 395 The divine nature . cannot be seen through the corporeal eyes and therefore is not to be viewed with a microscopic eye 1880 MUIRHEAD Gains II § 28 It is manifest that incorporeals are the capable of transfer by delivery

Hence †Incorpo realism, the doctrine or belief that incorporeal spirit or substance exists + Incorpo realist, one who holds this view Incorporeslity, the quality of being incorporeal incorporeity = incorporeity below, rare, to maintain the theory of incorporeal existence

1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I i § 2. 21 We pass to Pythagoras . it is well known that he was a professed Incorporealist 1678 ibid 126-7 So . did all the other ancient Atomists Joyn Theology and Incorporealism with their Atomical Physiology Ibid § 31 40 The same person the theologian or incorporealist proveing souls to be a sub stance really distinct from matter 1846 GEO ELIOT tr Strauss' Life Jesus II 268 The idea that demons shunned incorporeality

Incorpo really, adv [f prec + LY 2] In incorporeal fashion, immaterially

1626 BACON Sylva § 709 It is sound alone, that doth immediately, and incorporally affect the hearing 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I iv § 15 280 There is One God incorporeally and invisibly present in all things, and penetrating them 1865 DICKENS Mut Fr III xiv Possibly the wooden countenance of Mr Silas Wegg was incorporally before him at those moments. 1886 FARRAR Hist Interpret 288 Christ had ascended incorporally to the Father

Incorporeity[1] (inkɔ̀pɒ̀ɹē'ĭtĭ) Also 7 erron -ety [f med] type incorporeitās*, f incorpore-us INCORPOREAL see -ITY, cf CORPOREITY]

1 The quality or state of being incorporeal, immateriality, with pl, an incorporeal attribute or quality

1601 DEACON & WALKER Spirits & Divels 89 An omni presence, or (if so I may speake) an incorporeity, is truely in God 1647 H MORE Song of Soul II iii Argt , The souls incorporeitie From powers rationall We prove Ibid II iii 1 iii, But still new mists he casts before our eyes, And now derides our proved incorporeities 1662 R COKE Justice Vind 12 The outward senses apprehend only the corporeity or substance of things but the understanding only the incorporeity of things so seen 1744 BERKELEY Siris § 270 Incommunicable attributes of the Deity such as infinity, immutability, individuality, incorporeity 1840-9 SIR J STEPHEN Eccl Biogr (1850) II 421 The notion that, after death, man was to pass into a state of pure incorporeity

b In legal sense SEE INCORPOREAL 3

a 1735 MADOX in Gross Gild Merch (1890) I 204 One general Figurative notion of Incorporeity hath produced many fictions

2 An incorporeal entity rare

1743 J FELIX Knowl Dev Things (1811) 394 The first stumbling block was to conceive an incorporeity, anything entirely void of matter

†Incorpore ity[2] nonce-wd [f INCORPOR-ATE v, after prec.] The quality of being incorporated

1768-74 TUCKER Lt Nat (1834) II 187 The merchants became a Bank and South Sea Company, and the six hundred fighting men a regiment, by having incorporeity and regiment ity introduced among them

†Incorpo reous, a Obs [f L incorpore-us (see INCORPOREAL, + OUS] = INCORPOREAL I

1658 RAWLEY tr Behmen's Life & Death (1662) 64 The Re-newable Soule which is Incorporeous and Divine 1683 F HOOKER Pref Tordinus's Mystic Div 113 not. There must be in the pressons some kind of spirituality, otherwise incorporeous things could never by these be made as objects of their election

†Incorpori fcated, a Obs rare—[f INCORPORIFICATE v + corporificate (see CORPORIFY q v. + -ED] Unembodied, not fixed as a specific substance

1641 FRENCH Distill v (1651) 163 The essence salt being incorporificated is farre more active then when it hath received its body by being animated & specificated salt

Incorpsed (inkɔ̀pst), a rare Also 7 en [f IN- 2 + CORPSE sb + -ED 2] Made into one body (with something), incorporated

1602 SHAKS Ham IV vii 88 (2nd Qo, 1604) He grew into his seate, And to such wondrous doing, brought his horse As had he been incorpsed and demy-natur'd With the brave Beast 1828 J WILSON in Blackw Mag XXIII 132 The dominion of the man is lost and the superb rider incorpsed with the infernal nature 1881 W G PALGRAVE in Nation Mag XIV 33 A fiery structure in a fairy land, itself incorpsed like Shakespeare's good horseman, into that on and amid which it is placed

Incorrect (inkɹe kt), a [ad L incorrect-us SEE IN 3 and CORRECT, cf also F incorrect (1421 in Hatz -Darm)]

†1 Uncorrected, not corrected or amended, unchastened Obs

1432-50 tr Higden (Rolls) III 73 So the yere stode as incorrecte from that tyme vn to the tymes of Iulius Cesar 1435 MISYN Fire of Love 56 pe vsynar awdyr pa leef[feither pey leawe] incorrect or vnamendyd 1483 Cath Angl 190/1 Incorrect, with so grete scharpnes & feruores pat spekie [etc] 1602 SHAKS Ham I v 95 To persuer In obstinate Condole ment, is a course Of impious stubbornesse It shewes a will most incorrect to Heauen

2 Of a book Uncorrected for the press, containing many scribal or typographical errors

c 1484 CAXTON Cato (1483) sig D iv, Of whyche bookes so incorrecte was one brought to me vi yere passyd 1774 WARTON Eng Poetry lvi (1840) III 29, I have a most incorrect black letter copy in my custody 1892 HUNT Autobiogr vii 136 I he plays of Shakespeare are in so incorrect publication that ever issued from the press

3 Of style, action, etc Not in conformity with a recognized standard, improper, faulty

1672 DRYDEN Def Epic Conq Granada, The Wit of the 1st Act was yet more incorrect than their Language 1735 POPE Arbuthnot Sat 45 In the piece, you think incorrect? why take it, I'm all submission, what you'd have it make it 1834 MEDWIN Angler in Wales I 200 According to the immortal Bramah, it is highly necessary to be helped a second time to soup 1883 C J WILLS Mod Persia 96 A practice that was considered incorrect

4 Of a statement, etc Not in accordance with fact, erroneous, inaccurate

1828 WEBSTER, Incorrect, 2 Not according to truth, inaccurate, as, an incorrect statement, a relation or calculation 1858 CARLYLE Frederick IV vii, This is the account, incorrect in some unessential particulars 1860 ENGLISH Glos II xxxi 371, I had reason to believe that this statement was incorrect 1881 SHORTHOUSE J Inglesant II (1883) 22 That lazy facility which always gives a meaning, though often an incorrect one

†Incorre ctedness, Obs, rare—[IN 3, cf prec] Not corrected or amended

1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep I iii 8 Being so illiterate in point of intellect, and their sense so incorrected

Hence †Incorre ctedly, adv

1681 R FLEMING Fulfill Script (1801) I App 420 From the incorrectedness of the first impression

†Incorre ction. Obs rare [IN- 1, cf F incorrection incorrect character (1512 in Hatz)]

1 The action of making incorrect

1598 FLORIO, Scorrettione, an incorrection or marring of any thing

2 The condition of being uncorrected

1649 SIR A SHIRLEY Tablet (1650) 9 It, the unbridled swing or incorrection of all nature maketh one odious

3 Incorrectness, faultiness

1788 H WALPOLE Lett, Lords Ilch 82, When after acts of parliament and incorrection, a master or two produce models [of poetry] formed by purity and taste

Incorrectly (inkɹe ktlĭ), adv [f INCORRECT a + -LY 2] In an incorrect manner, erroneously

1611 COTGR , Incorrectement, incorrectly, faultily, corruptly 1756-7 tr Keysler's Trav (1760) III 12 The latter [inscription] which has been incorrectly printed before, is as follow. 1855 Macaulay Hist Eng x. III 60 A Latin word endorsed on the back of the indictment was incorrectly spelt 1884 J Rae Contemp Socialism 247 Two important economical changes which he incorrectly ascribes to the political revolution at the end of last century

Incorrectness (inkŏre·ktnes) [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being incorrect 1672 Davdn Def Epil Conq Granada, The Incorrectness of his [Fletcher's] Language 1749 Hurd Comm Horace Ars Poet 240 51 (R) An incorrectness and want of care in the Roman writers 1881 Lang Hist Scot Introd Symp, A great deal of incorrectness and inadvertency creeps into ordinary conversation 1865 Bowen Logic iv 267 It is more difficult to weave invalid but specious ugly forms, knowing their incorrectness.

b An instance of this, a mistake, error, fault a 1771 Gray Lett I 129 (Cent) Several incorrectnesses have been altered in the printing 1774 Warton Hist Eng Poetry Diss III p lxvii, Many of these petty incorrectnesses are not, however, to be imputed to Tonson 1829 W Irving in Life & Lett (1864) II 198 I feel sensible that there must be many incorrectnesses in my writings 1838 J Hatsam Hist Lit IV iii § 18 268 Even in incorrectnesses are often but sacrifices required by good taste

Incorrespondence. rare [In-3] Want of correspondence or harmony

1667 Waterhouse Fire Lond 162 Trade being like a Snake, in motion up and down . . upon such incorrespondence or if not insolvency, must acquiesce 1820 Coleridge Let to T H Green 25 May in Lett (1895) 208 The repaired organs might from intimate in correspondence be the causes of torture and madness.

Incorrespondency rare [In-3] = prec

1817 Coleridge Biog Lit xxiii (1870) 285 The frequent incorrespondency of his diction to his metre 1845 J Martineau Church & State in Ess (1891) II 30 Who can fail to observe the healthy and mutual tendency of this incorrespondency to right and left?

†Incorrespondent, a Obs rare [In-3] Not corresponding, not in agreement or harmony

1599 Sandys Europæ Spec (1632) 139 A like or at least wise not incorrespondent Form of Governement 1667 Waterhouse Fire Lond 10 Convulsions, incorrespondent to their general designment Incorresponding, a [In-1] Not corresponding, = prec.

a 1834 Coleridge is cited by Worcester

Incorrigibility (inkŏrrigibĭlĭti) [f next + ITY, cf F incorrigibilité (1694 in Dict Acad.)] The quality of being incorrigible a of being evil beyond correction, †b of not being liable or open to correction (obs)

a 1631 Donne Serm xxxvi 336 There is an incorrigibility in which when the reprovde cannot lead the Will it must draw blood 1643 Parliament Peace of Lord 4/2 149 The absolute Soveraignty irresistablitie incorrigibility of the Kings of Judah and Israel by their whole States, Congregations [etc] 1740 Warburton Div Legat I Wks 1811 V 16 If the corrigibility of a bad soil perfectly agreed with the end of the Dispensation the incorrigibility of it was as well fitted to the mean 1881 Fam Rec I Prob Div 163 Drunkenness, crime, incorrigibility

Incorrigible (inkŏrrigĭbl), a (sb) Forms: 4 incorrigible, 5 -corigyll, -corrygible, 6 incorrigible, (6 -ibill, -yble) [f F incorrigible (1334 in Hatz Darm), or ad L incorrigibilis (S necr), f in- (IN-3) + corrigibilis CORRIGIBLE, f corrigere to correct see -IBLE] Incapable of being corrected or amended

1 Bad or depraved beyond correction or reform of persons, their habits, etc

a 1340 Hamtole Psalter cxix 5 Incorygible malice vuilde be lippes of baim 1482 Monk of Evesham (Arb) 68 Y had le wende, they had be incorrygible 1583 Babington Commandm iii (1637) 28 Then is the parties incorrigible, and past all hope of amendment in mans eyes 1655 R. Younge Agst Drunkards 6 An habituated, infatuated & incorrigible, cauterized Drunkard 1710 Steele Tatler No 231 P 2 Many ill Habits which, after we have indulg'd our selves in them, become incorrigible 1788 Deuteronomist Law I 94 I found you incorrigible to my remonstrances 1850 Arab Nts (Rtldg) 527 His father continually chastised him, yet still Aladdin remained incorrigible.

†2 Of something faulty or defective. That cannot be improved or set right Of disease Incurable.

1540-1 Privy Image Gov 5 The most miserable estate of the weale publike, and as it semed incorrigible 1668 H More Div Dial I xxxvii (1713) 83, The loss is many times irrecoverable, and the inconvenience incorrigible 1740 Warburton Div Legat V I Wks 1811 V 16 The soil of Judea was absolutely incorrigible 1824 Abernethy Surgical Obs 4 A malignant ulcer, which was incorrigible, by any medical means employed

†3 Not lenible or open to correction, so good that it cannot be improved Obs rare—1

1611 R Prake in Serton's 3rd bk Archit Ab, The Reader being well instructed may, without any further labour make a good and incorrigible peece of worke

B sb One who is incorrigible

1746 W Hornsey Food (1748) 14 The Man is an Incorrigible, all gentle Rebukes are lost upon him 1828 P Cunningham V 3 Wales (ed 3) II 279 They incorrigibles, ready to resume their thievish practices again

Incorrigibleness. [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being incorrigible.

a 1631 Donne in Select (1840) 96 There is the mark of his incorrigibleness and so of his irrecoverableness that he cannot weep 1708 Wagstaff Pros St Jacobitism 4 The not being convinc'd by them argues the utmost degree of Incorrigibleness 1860 Pusey Min Proph 195 On account of the incorrigibleness of the people, the wise and the prophets would be silent

Incorrigibly (inkŏrrigĭbli), adv [f as prec + -LY2] In an incorrigible manner, beyond the possibility of amendment, obstinately, stubbornly 1610 B Carleton Journal 290 If he persist therein incorrigibly, it is nothing inconvenient for the Church to depart from him 1748 Fielding Jo Miller's Trial No 1 P 8 The writers of those papers were so incorrigibly dull 1810 Sir Smith Wks (1807) I 180 A few boys are incorrigibly idle, and a few incorrigibly naughty 1886 Bowden Life II 278 It is more difficult to weave invalid but specious ugly forms, knowing their incorrectness.

†Incorro borated, a Obs rare [IN-3] Uncorroborated

1784 New Spectator No 17 3/1 An incorroborated charge of treason

Incorrodible (inkŏrōdĭbl), a [IN-1] Incapable of being corroded 1855 Cornwall 213 As compared with iron it is [oppel] as nonsail ably incorrodible 1897 Ker of Ker I 4 Aluminum is practically incorrodible.

Incorro sive, ✱ rare [IN-3] Not corrosive, having no tendency to corrosion 1891 Ann & Mag Nat Hist 6 ser VII 1 Both which carefully manufactured are low in price, they are incorrosive.

Incorruptibileteo, obs var Incorrupti bility

Incorrupt (inkŏrŭ·pt), a Now rare [ad L incorrupt-us, f in- (IN-3) + corruptus CORRUPT a]

1 Of organic matter Free from decomposition or putrefaction, not decayed or rotten, not infected by that which causes decay, sound

1387 Trevisa Higden (Rolls) VI 140 Was i founde he hede & bones, sinuwes and ioyntes incorrupt 1432-50 tr Higden (Rolls) I 265 Where the bodies of men neither rote neither be beeteldde, but lye with owte incorrupte 1598 Hakluyt Voy I 2 When thee had sayne with his eyes, and handled with his handa the incorrupt body of the Perssad King and Martyr, a sudden feare came upon him 1665 Manley Grotius de Jure Bell Introd 11 Destroyed all things, and of incorrupt Corrupted 1676 Hobbes Iliad xxiv 16 And dropt Ambrosia into his nose, to keep his body incorrupt and sweet

†b Incapable of corruption, incorruptible

a 1500 Barclay Ymagyth Aiv, The myndo and soule beyng incorrupt eternal, ruthful and welderful all thynges

2 Not debased or perverted, pure, sound

1550 Cranmer Defens 116 b, The first church of the Apostles was moste pure and incorrupte 1579 Lily Euphues (Arb) 60 Neither had he that liberty in this place as is incorrupt, but for the tyre and manners 1653 Milton Hirelings Wks (1851) 374 The incorrupted Council of Apostles and Elders 1670 Eachard Grounds 70 In this place as is incorrupt, but for the tyre and manners 1693 such that [etc.] 1677 Gott Intrest 19. Ancient Senators eminent for Incorruption and good Oeconomie

† 3 Of texts Freedom from erroneous alterations, purity Obs

1584 Cheltenham Answ. Prot 1 in 8 27 241 For the integrity and incorruption of Scripture, I know no rationall assurance we can have of it 1662 Stillingfl. Orig. Sacr III iv § 9 The controversie between the present Hebrew Copies and the LXX in point of integrity and incorruption

† Incorru ptive, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f. In-1 + Corruptive, cf. late L. incorruptivus (Jerome)] Incorruptible, not liable to decay

1794 Anerson Plain Transl 1 435 Round her brow To twine the wreathe of incorruptive praise

Incorru ptly, adv [f. Incorrupt a + -ly2.] In an incorrupt manner, purely, uprightly a 1581 in Strype I. Grindal (1710) App. viii 71 Whether your Bishop and his Chancellors, commissaries, and all other his officers, do minister Justice indifferently, and incorruptly to all Her Majesty's Subjects. 1611 I. Taylor Comm. Titus 1. 14 If it be purely and incorruptly preached 1641 Milton Ch. Gov't 1. i. Observation will shew us many deepe counsellors of state and judges to demean themselves incorruptly in the setl d course of affaires

Incorru·ptness. [f. as prec. + -ness.] The quality of being incorrupt, in its various senses

1605 Woodward Nat. Hist. Fuerth 11 (1723) 109 Integrity and Incorruptness of Manners 1771 Duty Sacrifi 2 The incorruptness and general use of the old British [tongue] before the coming of the Romans and Saxons 1775 Ibe Islome Eccl. Canst II vi (1784) 245 They have, in the discharge of their function, shown an incorruptness 1876 Bancroft Hist U. S. x. xviii 60 With the faults of pride, inflexibility, and dilatoriness, he also had incorruptness. 1881 Westcott & Hort Gr. N. T. II App. 46 A suspicion as to the incorruptness of the existing MSS

Incortsyn, obs. form of Incurtain v

† Inco·stive, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [? f. In-2 + Costive.] = Costive

1570 Levins Manip 153/41 These following doo rather signifie passively as Incostive, stipticus astringens

† Incou nselable, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [In 3.] Not open to counsel, unwilling to be advised

1552 Lyndesay Monarche 2558 Cyf he sit remunth ulestinat And to the holy kirk Incounsolable [e r incounsalabil]

Incounter, -traunce, -trie, obs ff Encounter, etc

In-country (ɪ·nkʌntrɪ). [f. In adv 12 + Country.] The inland country, the interior, the mainland as opposed to the outlying isles, the country within reach of the capital and centre of civilization, as distinguished from outlying districts.

1565 Mary Q. Scots Let 23 Aug. in Keith Hist Scot (1734) 334 Quire Rebellis hes reuitrate thame to the In cuntre ihe suffering quharof is na wayis to vs honourall 1596 Dalrymple tr. Leslie's Hist. Scot 1. 2 Before I begin the historie of the Inne countrey, I will first describe the quarteris and bounds of Scotland a 1639 Stottiswood Hist Ch. Scot VI 412 In the Isles and High lands were likewise great troubles . nor was the In-country more quiet

Incoup v see Incoup

† Incouple, v Obs rare$^{-0}$ [f. In-2 Couple.] trans. To couple together

1611 Florio, Incoppiare, to incouple

Incourage, -ment, etc., obs ff Encourage, etc

1550 Nicolt Lincpit 65 (T.) The others rulers, through the requeste & incouragement of the Megarines, wolde assaye to take the port of Athens

Incourelon, obs. form of Incursion.

† Incourse, Obs rare Also 5 yn- [ad. L. incursus sec. Incursus), with assimilation to concourse, recourse, or to Of. encours, incours (14th c. in Godef.)] Running in, inflow, inrush, assault, attack a 1440 Pr. rcs in Pound St Bartholomew's (E. E. T. S.) 8 Thou schalt nat drede for the nyghte drede ne for the yncourse [L. ab incursu] and myddaj devyl 1576 Banister Hist Man v 81 Nothyng resisteth the incourse thereof into the intrels 1668 Culpeper & Cole Barthol. Anat Man. 11. 306 Its Substance is exceeding thin, but very compact, lest they should leak by a strong incourse of the blood

Incourtaine, obs form of Encurtain v

Incon rteously, adv [In 3.] Uncourteously, impolitely

1859 Macaulay in Trevelyan Life II 267, I was unwilling to act incourteously towards a person who to me personally had shown the most marked civility

† Incouth, scribal var. of Uncouth, strange a 1340 Cursor M. 16541 (Laud MS.) Io bery ypne incouthe [other MSS vncuth] men that to that Cite sought

† Inco venanted, ppl a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [In-2.] Brought into covenant

1656 S. Winter Serm 23 The children of believing parents are incovenanted, therefore they are to be sealed with the initial seal of the covenant

† Inco venanting, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [In-1 see Covenant v 4.] Not covenanting, not signing the Covenant

1640 in Rushw. Hist. Coll III (1692) I 384 Act anent incovenanting Patrons

Incover, variant of Encover v

† Inco verable, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f. In-3 + coverable, f. Cover v.] Irrecoverable, irrevocable 1526 Wills & Inv. N. C. (Surtees 1835) 107, I sar Thomas foster maks my last and incoverable will and testament in maner & forme following.

Incradle, obs form of Encradle v

† Incra·fty, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [Licentious form for Uncraftily, with In-3.] Unskilful, stupid

a 1500 Barclay Ingerith A vj b, Nor he gaue not hym selfe to be corrupte with lust nor incrafty slouthe

Incrash (ɪnkra·ʃ) rare [f. In-1 + Crash.] A crashing in, a breaking in with a crash 1861 Macm. Mag. III 127 No trace of the murderous inrush of the ball which had slain him

Incrasion see Incrassation

† Increa ssant, a and sb Obs [ad. I. incressant-em, pres. pple. of incressare see next.] A adj Thickening: said of medicines supposed to thicken the 'humours' B. sb An 'incressant' medicine or preparation

1598 Sa.mon Pharm. Lond VI ii 814 Incressant, such as make thin humors thick 1820 Rees Cyc. s. v., Incrassants, or incressating medicines of the old writers, such medicines as were imagined to condense or thicken the blood and humours Incrassate (ɪnkre·sĕt), a [ad. I. incrassatus, pa. pple. of incrassare see next.]

† 1 Thickened (in consistence), condensed Obs

1608 Willet Hexapla Leviti. 114 The ure was incassate and thickened 1683 Salmon Pharmacopœia 1. Lact Vaccin. 4 That Lauth is but increasate Humor, and Humor (or Water) increasate Air, and Air increasate Fire, and Fire increasate vegetative Soul, and that increasate intellectual Spirit

2 fig Of the mind Dulled, made gross Obs

1659 Hammond On Luke xxiv 70 Their heart is increasate and grosse 1660 — Serm. Wks. 1684 IV xiv 657 Their understanding is so dim and clouded with them, being fatted and increasate with magical phantasms

Incrassate (ɪnkre·sĕt), v [f. I. incressat-, ppl. stem of incressare to thicken, f. in- (In- 2) + crassus to make thick, f. crassus Crass.]

1 trans. To thicken in consistence, to condense, inspissate 1601 Holland Pliny II 255 The nature of the seed is astringent it doth increassat and thicken humors 1658 Sir T. Brown Hydriot. 23 Liquors become hereby increassated into gellies 1709 Blair in Phil. Trans. XXVII 74 That does not hinder its Blood from being increassated by Cold and bad Diet 1804 Abernethy Surg. Lect. I 8 Increassated and clogged with vapors and diseased

b absol

1601 Holland Pliny II 194 That [gum] is of a stronger operation that doth increassat and incrassat 1718 Quincy Compl. Disp. 96 Its reckoned to cool and increassate

† c intr To grow thick, to become condensed 1733 Cheyne Eng. Malady III § 7 (1734) 21 These naturally subtile Parts increassate and grow clumsy

† 2 fig To make gross (the mind etc.), to dull, stupefy Obs

a 1660 Hammond Serm Wks. 1684 IV xiii 651 Then spirits fatted and increassated within them 1666 Sir Edmund Spir Chym Pref. (1668) 6 Men that have increassated their souls

† 3 To thicken in sound see Incrassated b

4 To thicken in form see Incrassated

Hence Incra·ssating vbl sb and ppl a

1620 Venner Via Recta viii 170 Some meat are of an attenuating and soluble faculty and some of an incressating 1624 — Mistery of Vrine 3 Incressating Vrines Ibid. 4 Incressating Vrine 1771 J. S. Divine Observ. Sung (ed 4) Diet, Pachanticus, increassating Meats ines

Incrassated (ɪnkre·sĕted), ppl a [f. prec. + -ed1.] Thickened esp. in Med and Bot = Incrassate a 3

1657 R. Lovell Hist Relig (1850) I 243 The angels also have their celestial natures . and, becoming more incrassated, were thereby penetrable by that fire prepared for the devil and his angels 1806 Curtis Bot. Instr. 350 Siliques bent backward, flat, linear with an incrassated margin 1816 Kirby & St. Entomol (1843) I 94 Its four posterior thighs are incrassated 1857 Burrows Cyclop. Botany 1 p. 218 The first consists of incrassated cells springing vertically from the frond

† b Thickened in sound used as = aspirated 1668 Wilkins Real Char. 301 The Greek Aspirate, which in the same power which is commonly ascribed to B aspirated, or rather incrassated. So the Western Jews pronounce their Letter (2) when not Dageshated 1691 Ray Ilc Terr in Words 136 The sound we give to l Consonant, which is nothing else but l aspirated or incrassated or lh

Incrassation (ɪnkresē·ʃən) [n of action f. I. incrassare see Incrassate v.]

1 The action of increassating, or condition of being increassated, thickening, condensation

1633 Hart Diet of Diseased I xiv 48 Lettice too much thickneth the blood, and breeds an incrassation in the opticke spirits. 1686 Goad Celest Bodies I iii 31 He becomes fixed by Incrassation 1786 I. Arnold Observ. Insanity II 76 Induration, incrassation and partial ossification of one or both membranes of the brain 1822–34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) II 247 This incrassation is traced chiefly in the colon

b concr. A thickened growth or formation 1822–34 Good's Study Med. (ed 4) I 302 The rectum . was . so indurated as to render it difficult to say whether the incressation should be called flesh or cartilage

† 2 Phonetic 'thickening', applied by Wilkins to aspiration Obs

1668 Wilkins Real Char 367 (T.) seems to be such an incressation of the Letter P as Vossius of (B) Its answerable to the Greek Φ Incrassative (ɪnkre·sătɪv a and sb ? Obs [f. L. incressat-, ppl. stem of incressare (Incrassate) + -ive.]

A adj Having the quality of 'incressating' or thickening the 'humours'. B sb A medicine or preparation having this property

1666 Harvey Morb. Angl. (T.) Incressatives to thicken the blood 1853 R. Hamilton Cons. Hamoptoe II 68 Its juice is very congealing, incressative, and desiccative

Incra·sion, perverted form for Incrassation (sense 1), (for the sake of the rime)

a 1618 Sylvester Tobacco battered 434 Also it frees and dries away the Blood by whose incression (e r incre ssion) The vital spirits in an unsounted fashion Are bay'd and barred of their passage due Through all the veins

† Incre, a Sc Obs [Of uncertain origin see Increly.] Earnest, fervent, eager, hearty

c 1375 Sc. Leg. Saints, Mathew 425 In kyrie lufe he had god fe Ibid Assumption 388 Pis in wyrie pane with me re wil He payt he help to vocide hyre til Ibid. Plancida 71 Playdyis with incre wil Pre it fast to cum hym til

So † Increly adv. also inkrir-, encre-, Increly, encrely (spellings fervently, eagerly, heartily

c 1375 Sc. Leg. Saints Ursula 181 And hittil encrely mar Incitly pan be-fel did Richt fastly Ibid Perpetuane 1368 He knwt god inwardly, And gret teris encrikyly Ibid., Andreas 48 Pat he for pam ynet pray[t]ane Vs inwardly 1513 Douglas Æneis VI i. 122 The King hymself than inkirly from his hart Maid this oresone † Increable, a rare = [f. In-1 + Creable.] Incapable of being created Hence Increabli ity, incapability of being or having been created

1668 H. More Div. Dial. Schol (1713) 558 The Incredability of the external World from eternity

Increasable (ɪnkre·săbl), a Also 6-7 en-, 6-9 increasable, 8 increasible [f. Increase v + -able.] Capable of being increased, susceptible of increase

1534 More Treat Passe in Introd., Wks. 1270/1 Their full and perfet, and not encreasable, felicite 1611 Speed Theatre Wales, multiplyable, increasable 1733 Lett. Horse Hosp. Hunt 17 So is this Pasture Increasible ad infinitum 1735 Law Enquiry 1. 6 Which . could not be supposed, in end of these, they would be no longer increasable 1806 W. Taylor in Ann. Rev IV 38 To grant the funds to individuals at a low quit-rent, seems the most definite perhaps 1857 Russell Poll Econ 1. 11 30 A certain quantity of art intellect is born annually not increasable by a single exam

Hence Increas ableness, capacity of being increased. Increas ably adv. = -ingly.

1579 Lyme Phisicke against Fort 1 xxiv 234, The mind in use of men increasably putteth it in practise 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst 1. iv. 766 Indefinite encreasableness of body and space seems to be mistaken for positive infinity thereof 1735 Law Enquiry 1. (R.), We find an indefinite increasableness of sums of our ideas, an impossibility of supposing any end of them

† Increa sal Obs rare [f. Increase v + -al 4.] = Increase sb in quot., Profit

1601–2 Pulman 2nd Pt Parall 36 If the executors do much meddle with the goods of the testator, the increa sal of them shall bee assets in their hands

Increase (ɪnkrī·s), v Forms 4 -ȝ, encrese, encrese(n, encressse, encresse, increse, 4-6 encress, encresse, (5 encreasse, 6 encrease, (7 pa. pple encrest), 5-9 encrease β 5 increasse, increasse, 5-6 increse, (5-6 incress, 5-6 increes, 6 increace, (6 increece, 6- increase [A. encrees encrese and encresse, encrescent) = Of. encres-s-, stem of encresstre, later encroistre = I. increscere to increase (In- 2 + crescere to grow: the latter the prefix is assimilated to that which represents Ml. open č.]

I Intransitive senses

1 To become greater in size, amount, duration, or degree, to be enlarged, extended, or intensified, to wax, grow a 13 P. Ploughm. Crede A 958 Per abbey & hyssse salde euer encres c 1380 Wyclif Serm. Sel Wks. I 19 Goostly feeste shulde encresse c 1386 Chaucer Clerk's Tale 1 The Poor that I fostered ay encreseth in his cours 1398 Trevisa Barth. De P. R. v. lxiii (Bodl. MS.) pe more pe fuire encreep and wexip 1594 Shaks. Rich III, IV iii 4 Still his power encreseth 1648 Sir W. Mure Spir Hymn 107 Without the Lord, Heaven's glorious light had been encrest [rime blest, invest, prest, rest, address] 1774 Goldsm. Nat Hist (1776) I 76 In mines the saddest news encrease from the mouth as we descend 1855 Macaulay Hist Eng VI 3 As the danger of the queen encreased

b c 1440 Promp. Parv., 161 Encrese, or wexe or waxe 1480 Chronicles Hist Vitæ 11 Here comforth shall euer increasse [rimes pesse, sesse, mesure] 1553 Udall Royster D. II iii (Arb.) 29 In case the strife increace 1567 Gude & Godlie B. (S. T. S.) 83 Quhilk ay increasis mair and mair 1662 Stillingfl. Orig. Sacr III ii § 8 As corruption increased in the world 1736 Butler Anal I. i. (1884) 23 Drowsiness increasing till it ends in sound sleep 1864 Tennyson Victim iii, His beauty still with his years increased

2 To grow in numbers, become more numerous or frequent, to multiply, esp. by propagation.

α c 1315 Shoreham 72 No store may non encresy Without fleshes lotte ; 1377 Langl. P. Pl B xi 389 And bad euery creature in his kynde encrees 1546 Pilgr. Pers. (Vk.) We de*sire* to encrease Many small graynes of corne may growe and encrease to fyll a great garner 1642 Rogers Naaman 557 Hypocrites encrease 1722 De Foe Plague (1884) 11 The Burials encreased 1758 Ferriar Illustr. Sterne 1 4 Materials have encreased on my hands β 1530 Palsgr. 590 2 It is a straunge thynge that one graynę shulde increase thirty 1590 Spenser F. Q. III vi 14 The mighty word, That bad them to increase and multiply 1667 Milton P. L. IV 748 Our Maker bids in*crease*, who bids abstain But our Destroyer, foe to God and Man? 1707-38 Gay Fables I xxxix 4 He feels no joy, his cares increase 1855 Tennyson Maud III ii, And watch her harvest ripen, her herd increase

3 To become greater in some specified quality or respect, to grow or advance in

1388 Wyclif Acts xvi 5 The churches encreseden in noumbre eche dai 1513 Bradshaw St Werburge I 1705 Daily encreasynge in worshyp and renowme 1526 Pilgr. Perf. (W. de W.) 151/1 Augmentacyon and encrease of meryte 1602 Shaks. Ham. I i 144 As if encrease of Appetite had growne By what it fed on 1751 Johnson Rambler No. 93 P 1 Opinions which the progress of his studies and the encrease of his knowledge oblige him to resign β c 1440 Promp. Parv. 139 Encres, or ingres, augmen, incio 1508 Dunbar Flyting w. Kennedie 21 Incres of sorow, sklander, and evill name 1597 Hooker Eccl. Pol. V xi § 2 As God gave increase to his Israel 1672 Play-ford Skill Mus. I vii 24 Notes of Augmentation or Increase 1700 Dryden Homer's Iliad Ep. Ded. 7 Degrees of tender love, by pleasure made Shoot up with such increase of sweetness, and sudden are decay'd 1870 J. Peacock Knif Skirt I 6 With increase of business came increase of expense

†b spec. The rising of the tide, or of the waters of a river, the advance of daylight from sunrise to noon, the waxing of the moon Obs

1555 Eden's Decades 119 They see the seas by increase and decrease to flowe and reflowe. 1600 Surflet Countrie Farme (ed. 4) 381 In the increase of the day, that is to saie, about nine or tenne a clocke in the morning 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 564 The Ind of Egypt doth not onely owe his fertilitie, but likewise also, unto the slime encrease of Nilus. 1626 Bacon Sylva § 893 Seeds will grow soonest, And Haule, and Nailes, and Hedges, and Herbs, Cut, &c with the increase, if they be Set at full, in the Increase of the Moone 1665 Boyle Occas. Refl. (1848) 55 Oysters, and other Shell fish, are observ'd to thrive at the Increase of the Moon, though her Light be unattended with Heat

2 The becoming more numerous or frequent, growth in numbers, multiplication a gen

1300 Gower Conf. III 283 (Moab and Ammon), as it is fownde, Encrese of peple 1377 Langl. P. Pl. A Prol. 124 (Add.) Deuine howe the encrease of them may encrease thy profite 1666 Stillingfl. Orig. Sacr. III iv § 13 We can have no reason to think, that none of them (in one posterity) went further off, which necessity would put them upon because of their great increase 1768 Goldsm. Good n. Man I. 1 The encrease and wonders of earthquakes 1849 Macaulay Hist. Eng. iii I 284 The increase of the people has been great in every part of the kingdom

b spec. The multiplication of a family or race of men or animals, the production of offspring, reproduction, propagation, procreation, breeding

1390 Gower Conf. III 277 In whom was gete netheles Of worldes folk the first encres 1538 Starkey England I iii 98 Few men wedde for encrese of heyre and rychesse 1605 Shaks. Lear IV vii 301 Dro vp in her the Organs of increase 1682 Devon Merc. 8 Blest with issue of a large increase 1852 Harriet Martineau Merrie 44 God made the woman for the man, And for the good and increase of the world

c The fruitful multiplication of plants or crops

1398 Trevisa Barth. De P. R. (1495) xvii 1 The Rubus of the Sun is called pongiuous because of the great encrease 1794 Williams Vermont 79 Trees and plants derive their nourishment and increase 1850 Tennyson In Mem. xlvi, The fruitful increase of an honest ease

3 Phr. On the increase (in senses 1, 2) Increasing, becoming greater or more frequent

1752 Hume Ess. & Treat. (1777) I 51 The power of the crown is always on the increase 1848 Lytton Pelham II viii I 100 Brandenburg was always rather on the increase than otherwise 1884 Times (weekly ed.) 26 Sept. 3/1 The use of the telephone is generally on the increase in most parts of the Continent

†4 spec. Growth in wealth, prosperity, honour, or influence, advancement, progress Obs

c 1385 Chaucer L. G. W. 1087 (Dido) Al the worshipe and encrese of the Soul 1513 Douglas Æneis I. Prol. 194 Quhilk is the encrese, furtherance, and prefering of oure said quaire 1513 More in Grafton Chron. (1568) II 758 To take upon him the Governaunce of this realme, to the welth and increase of the same 1698 R. Jones Paint of Ornents 112 Upon which Account honour, force, and increase 1728 Watts Ps. cxxii, The man that seeks thy peace, And wishes thine increase, A thousand blessings on him rest 1729 W. Wood Surv. Trade 57 It is manifest, we have not diminish'd in our Increase by Foreign Trade, from 1688 to this Time

II The result or product of increasing

5 The result of increasing, an increased amount, addition, increment

1382 Wyclif 2 Macc. iv 11 By alle moneths his sorewis taki*n*ge encrees ‖ augmenta c 1400 Cato's Mor. 40 in Cursor M. (Trin.) 1892, Kepe bi wit encrese 1530 Palsgr. 590/1 Encrese, incrementum 1593 Shaks. 2 Hen. VI, III ii 292 Thou wilt but adde encrease vnto my Wrath 1820 Wil. Lindsay in Gard. Instr. (1838) V 508 The increase of expense occasioned by the introduction of the Portuguese Government, and by the increase of our own army 1876 Devon Prov. Pol. Econ. 65 Working men think that, when their wages are raised, the increase comes out of the pockets of their employers

6 Off-spring, progeny, brood (of men or animals) Properly collective also pert., of an individual = Offspring, child

Increase, inkrīs, formerly inkrī·s), sb Forms. see the verb ‖ [f. prec. vb

The shifting of the stress is recent. Todd remarks 'the accent has, in modern times, been often placed on the first syllable, by way of so distinguishing the substantive from the verb': Increase appears in Walker 1791, Perry 1805. Some later dicts. have both increase and increase so in Tennyson]

I The action of increasing

1 The action, process, or fact of becoming or making greater, augmentation, growth, enlargement, extension

c 1374 Chaucer Troylus iv 1229 (1525) It nys but foly and encres of peyne c 1386 — Prol. 275 Swownynge alway thencrees of His wynnyng c 1430 Lydg. in Pol. Rel. & L. Poems 27 Is none so gret encrese Of worldly trasowre as for to lyve in peese. 1596 Pilgr. Perf. (W. de W. 1531) 4 Augmentacyon and encrease of meryte 1602 Shaks. Ham. I ii 144 As if encrease of Appetite had growne By what it fed on 1751 Johnson Rambler No. 93 P 1 Opinions which the progress of his studies and the encrease of his knowledge oblige him to resign β c 1440 Promp. Parv. 139 Encres, or incres, augmen, incio 1508 Dunbar Flyting w. Kennedie 21 Incres of sorow, sklander, and evill name 1597 Hooker Eccl. Pol. V xi § 2 As God gave increase to his Israel 1672 Playford Skill Mus. I vii 24 Notes of Augmentation or Increase 1700 Dryden Homer's Iliad Ep. Ded. 7 Degrees of tender love, by pleasure made Shoot up with such increase of sweetness, and sudden are decay'd 1870 J. Peacock Knif Skirt I 6 With increase of business came increase of expense

†b spec. The rising of the tide, or of the waters of a river, the advance of daylight from sunrise to noon, the waxing of the moon Obs

1555 Eden's Decades 119 They see the seas by increase and decrease to flowe and reflowe. 1600 Surflet Countrie Farme (ed. 4) 381 In the increase of the day, that is to saie, about nine or tenne a clocke in the morning 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 564 The Ind of Egypt doth not onely owe his fertilitie, but likewise also, unto the slime encrease of Nilus. 1626 Bacon Sylva § 893 Seeds will grow soonest, And Haule, and Nailes, and Hedges, and Herbs, Cut, &c with the increase, if they be Set at full, in the Increase of the Moone 1665 Boyle Occas. Refl. (1848) 55 Oysters, and other Shell fish, are observ'd to thrive at the Increase of the Moon, though her Light be unattended with Heat

2 The becoming more numerous or frequent, growth in numbers, multiplication a gen

1300 Gower Conf. III 283 (Moab and Ammon), as it is fownde, Encrese of peple 1377 Langl. P. Pl. A Prol. 124 (Add.) Deuine howe the encrease of them may encrease thy profite 1666 Stillingfl. Orig. Sacr. III iv § 13 We can have no reason to think, that none of them (in one posterity) went further off, which necessity would put them upon because of their great increase 1768 Goldsm. Good n. Man I. 1 The encrease and wonders of earthquakes 1849 Macaulay Hist. Eng. iii I 284 The increase of the people has been great in every part of the kingdom

b spec. The multiplication of a family or race of men or animals, the production of offspring, reproduction, propagation, procreation, breeding

1390 Gower Conf. III 277 In whom was gete netheles Of worldes folk the first encres 1538 Starkey England I iii 98 Few men wedde for encrese of heyre and rychesse 1605 Shaks. Lear IV vii 301 Dro vp in her the Organs of increase 1682 Devon Merc. 8 Blest with issue of a large increase 1852 Harriet Martineau Merrie 44 God made the woman for the man, And for the good and increase of the world

c The fruitful multiplication of plants or crops

1398 Trevisa Barth. De P. R. (1495) xvii 1 The Rubus of the Sun is called pongiuous because of the great encrease 1794 Williams Vermont 79 Trees and plants derive their nourishment and increase 1850 Tennyson In Mem. xlvi, The fruitful increase of an honest ease

3 Phr. On the increase (in senses 1, 2) Increasing, becoming greater or more frequent

1752 Hume Ess. & Treat. (1777) I 51 The power of the crown is always on the increase 1848 Lytton Pelham II viii I 100 Brandenburg was always rather on the increase than otherwise 1884 Times (weekly ed.) 26 Sept. 3/1 The use of the telephone is generally on the increase in most parts of the Continent

†4 spec. Growth in wealth, prosperity, honour, or influence, advancement, progress Obs

c 1385 Chaucer L. G. W. 1087 (Dido) Al the worshipe and encrese of the Soul 1513 Douglas Æneis I. Prol. 194 Quhilk is the encrese, furtherance, and prefering of oure said quaire 1513 More in Grafton Chron. (1568) II 758 To take upon him the Governaunce of this realme, to the welth and increase of the same 1698 R. Jones Paint of Ornents 112 Upon which Account honour, force, and increase 1728 Watts Ps. cxxii, The man that seeks thy peace, And wishes thine increase, A thousand blessings on him rest 1729 W. Wood Surv. Trade 57 It is manifest, we have not diminish'd in our Increase by Foreign Trade, from 1688 to this Time

II The result or product of increasing

5 The result of increasing, an increased amount, addition, increment

1382 Wyclif 2 Macc. iv 11 By alle moneths his sorewis taki*n*ge encrees ‖ augmenta c 1400 Cato's Mor. 40 in Cursor M. (Trin.) 1892, Kepe bi wit encrese 1530 Palsgr. 590/1 Encrese, incrementum 1593 Shaks. 2 Hen. VI, III ii 292 Thou wilt but adde encrease vnto my Wrath 1820 Wil. Lindsay in Gard. Instr. (1838) V 508 The increase of expense occasioned by the introduction of the Portuguese Government, and by the increase of our own army 1876 Devon Prov. Pol. Econ. 65 Working men think that, when their wages are raised, the increase comes out of the pockets of their employers

6 Off-spring, progeny, brood (of men or animals) Properly collective also pert., of an individual = Offspring, child

1558 Hulcet, Increase of cattell, futurum 1607 Shaks. Cor. III iii 114 My deere Wiue's Estimate, her wombes encrease 1611 Bible 1 Sam. ii 33 And all the increase of thine house shall die in the flowre of their age 1674 tr. Scheffer's Lapland 108 The two Rain deers as likewise their increase, which sometimes comes to a considerable number 1688 Dryden Brit. Redim. 208 Love's increase, who from his brain was born 1737 Addison tr. Ovid Wks. 1753 I 299 Only five Of all the vast increase were left alive

7 That which grows or is produced from the earth, vegetable produce, crops. Also formerly in pl (rare) arch.

1538 Coverdale Ps lxxvii 6 That the earth maye bringe forth hir increase 1535 — 1 Macc xiv 8 The lande gaue their frute and encrease c 1585 in Capt. Smith Virginia I (1624) 4 Beyond are many iseles full of fruits and other Naturall encreases 1600 Shaks. Sonn. xcvii, The teeming autumn, big with rich increase 1695 Woodward Nat. Hist. Earth I (1723) 60 The Earth did not then vent forth its Encrease 1710 Pepusch Dyer Fetches 8 Asbel brought as much of his encrease

b transf. That which breeds in, or is produced by, any region, as fish in the sea (of 'the harvest of the deep') rare

1559 W. Cunningham Cosmogr Glasse Ded A ij, Behold the seas with her mervelous increase 1687 Dryden Hind & P. III 1248 All the wild increase of woods and fields (= birds), And what in lochs abide, and what in rocks allow

c (Chiefly fig. from 7) The product, result, or 'fruit' of any action, a literary production (quot 1589), that which is obtained or gained, profit, interest on money

1560 Bible (Geneva) Lev. xxv 37 Thou shalt not lend him thy victailes for increase 1584 R. Scot Discov. Witchcr. xiv viii (1886) 232 They doo (love) their increase and their principall 1589 Nashe Pref. Greene's Menaphon (Arb.) 17 George Peele ... whose first encreise, the Arraignement of Paris, might plead to your opinions his pregnant dexterite of wit 1593 Marston Mich. Entert. 13 Lords of Illnis ... are hard to burn ... because a great part of its increase goes away by a kind of Glass

Increaser (inkrī·sə(r)), *sb.*1 arch. [f. Increase v + -er1] Made or become greater, augmented, multiplied, etc see the verb

1552 Huloet, Increaser, auctus 1790 Han More Relig. Fash. World (1792) 3 The increased profligacy of the common people 1846 Grabam Sc. Nursery 30 Increased by the increased speed 1884 Daily News 31 Dec. 1/5 Increased facilities for Residence, Travel and Occupation

Increaser (inkrī·sə(r)), *sb.*2 arch [f. prec. + -er1] In an increased degree, to a greater amount or extent

1823 Examiner 490/1 Increasedly entitled to public favour 1840 Lardner Ch. Europe 174 The hope of reward is more exalted than the fear of punishment and increasedly so, as our conception of the reward approximates to that of St. John

†Incre aseful, a. Obs rare. [f. Increase sb + -ful] Full of increase, productive, fruitful

1593 Shaks. Lucr. 958 To cheare the Plowm in with increaseful crops. 1599 B. Jonson Ane Pack M iij, It be commeth more rich, fertile, and increaseful

Increasement (inkrī·smĕnt) Now rare Also 4, 7 en-. [f. Increase v + -ment]

1 The action or process of increasing, growth, augmentation, multiplication = Increase sb 1, 2

1309 B. Flower Rec. Exon. Cathedrall Church (1876) 292 Neuertheles by maryage & adioynyng of other blode, it toke some encreasement 1545 Raynold Byrth Mankynde 1 The encreasement of the child in her wombe 1598 Warley Armorie, Ld Chaudos 60 Him sickness took with sharpe increasement sore 1609 R. Barnard Faithf. Shepheard D Ded 5 A mite in the great Treasurie is small in store for encreasement thereunto 1646 Trapp Comm. John xvi 22 He hides his love oft, as Joseph did, out of increasement of love 1651 tr. Don Catzmar 101 The encreasement of his cause they would give him turneth into the encreasement of his paines

2 That by which something is increased, an increment, addition, augmentation, progeny; produce. = Increase sb 5–7

1389 in Fing Gilds (1870) 79 To bryngе yе catelle wt yе encresement 1561 T. Norton Calvin's Inst iii 140 With so much greater encreasement of glorie shall it be to God by day more brightly shew it 1618 W. Smith tr. Pongasset's Vence 5 The buildings since then, ought rather to be called encreasements, as made by little and little 1878 Law Rep. 4 Com Pleas 442 Where the encroachment of a river was so gradual that it could not be perceived, the increasement was got to the owner of the river

Increaser (inkrī·sə(r)), [f. Increase v + -er1] One who or that which increases

1 One who or that which augments or makes greater, an agent that causes something to grow, a 'breeder' (of something).

1508 Paynel Salerne's Regim H, This strange wyne is special encreacer of the spirits 1572 Bossewell Armorie II 124 I vnto the riper and encreaser of truthe 1584 Capt. Smith Virginia iv 155 These creases and losses were no small increasers of his malady 1758 Burke Pond. Nat. Soc Wks 1842 I 6 Such a nurse and increaser of blessings. 1893 J. J. Modi in Barrows Parsi Relig. II 901 Ahura-Mazda, He is the creator as well as the destroyer, the increaser as well as the decreaser

2 One who advances or promotes Obs or arch

1618 Braun & Fl. Valentin. v viii, A lover, and encreaser of his people 1632 Webster Ane. Fun. Mor. 38, Honourable increasers, Rulers and preservers of all such matters which conduce to Christian piete 1892 Sir F. Palgrave Norm. & Eng. I. 258 The Epithet Encreaser of the Empire 1898 Carlyle Frederick Gt II IX I 101 A notable increaser of his House

†3 (With qualifying adj.) An animal or plant that multiplies (greatly, etc.) Obs

1605 Rea Flora 96 The Virginia spider wort is a great increaser, and thereby growes common in almost every garden 1704 Collect Voy & Trav III 46/1 The greatest Encreasers are the Guanaco's 1727 Bradley Fam Dict s.v. Hollow-root, They are great Increasers even in any Soil, but like Sandy best

†4 Lat Gram A noun that 'increases' in the genitive see Incrfarb v 5 Obs

1622 Barnes Lyrd Lat 330 Puer pueri, is a graue increaser, and therefore of the Masculine Gender

Increasible, obs form of Incrfarabl a

Increasing (inkrē·sing), vbl sb. [f Incrfase v. + -ing1]

1 The action of the verb Increase, increase, augmentation, enlargement, growth, etc

c1340 Hampole Prose Tr 25 That pei shuld oo tyme yevene hem to the werkes of actiue life in profit of her encreysynge 1382 Wyclif Eph iv 16 Of whom alle the body makith encreysynge of the body 1552 Abr Hamilton Catech (1884) 96 He promisses increasing of grace and vertew 1586 W Warde Eng Poetrie (Arb) 89 Artes haue their increasinges euen as other things, beeing naturall 1620 Sanderson Prudrne Serm (1632) 113 The encreasing of the body to the edifying of it selfe in loue 1793 Maunderl Journ Tyrone 8 A Benediction and a Virtue of encreasing 1850 John Brown Dis. our Lord (1852) I 60 Not near approaches to satisfaction but increasings of the capacity

†2 The result of this action Increase, produce 1382 Wyclif 2 Cor ix 10 He schal multiplie youre seed, and make moche the encreasyngis of fruytis of youre rightwisnesse 1483 Cath. Angl 214 An Encreysynge, incrementum 1644 Digby Mans Soule (1645) 33 Abridging them of their naturall encreasings.

Increasing, ppl a [f as prec + -ing2] That increases, growing, augmenting, enlarging, etc see the verb

1597 Shaks 2 Hen IV, I ii 205 Haue you not a decreasing leg, an increasing belly? 1697 Hale Contn Orig Man II ix 208 Fishes are infinitely more numerous or increasing than Beasts or Birds 1752 Hume Ess & Treat (1777) I 49 The increasing luxury of the nation 1849 Macaulay Hist Eng VIII 484 A peer and a haven insufficient for the increasing traffic

Increasingly, adv [f prec + -ly2] In an increasing degree, or at an increasing rate, growingly, more and more

c1380 Wyclif Sel Wks III 33 He schide encreessingli hise seruauntis 1590 Thomas Lat Dict, Inutim, in creasingly 1858 Fraser's Mag III xii 703 Finding his position increasingly uneasy 1888 Spectator 18 July 949/1 As time goes on it becomes increasingly difficult to find good investments

Increase table, a rare—0 [f In-3 + Creatable] Incapable of being created Hence

Increatability (inkrī:ētăbĭlĭti), incapability of being created

1888 Mrs Spender Kept Secret III ii 29 The indestructibility and increatability of matter

Increate (inkrī:ē·t), a [ad med L. increātus, f in- (In-3) + creātus created] Not created, uncreated said of divine beings or attributes

1422–30 Yon Chron (1724) 1 Almyghty Iesu eterne and increat. 1435 Misyn Fire Love 6 Pe warmnes of charite increate or vnwrogt. 1544 Golden Litany in Maskell Mon Rit II 245 Lorde god, thy true creature sinde troublyed trinite haue mercy on vs. 1667 Milton P L III 6 Hail, holy Light! Bright effluence of bright essence increate 1679 L. Addison First Vind Mahometism 48 The Alcoran was not the Increate word of God 1849 Howard Week Onward Monday 158 The Creator is still behind increate

Hence Increate,ness adv

1833 J H Newman Arians ii § 4 (1876) 181 In process of time, a distinction was made between ayevntos and ayevnros, (increata and ingenerata), so that the Son might be said to be ayevnros (increatus generatus)

†Increa,te ppl. a. Obs [f as prec + -ed1 2] Uncreated, = Increate a 1552 Huloet, Increated, increatus 1609 Bible (Douay) Wisd viii comm, God, the increated wisdom is infuse 1697 Bp Patrick Comm Exod xxiii 20 Not a created Angel, but an increated vis the Eternal Son of God 1701 Pelham Real Hist (1711) 254 Hermogenes was the first Christian that maintained matter to be increated and eternal 1721 R Keith tr J A Arnkiels Vollst Samlg, How shalt thou be able to dive into that which is increated?

†Increa,tion. Obs rare [f Increate a see -ation] The condition of being uncreated.

1753 Chambers Cycl Supp s.v. Alcoran, This eternity and increation of the alcoran has occasioned vehement disputes.

Increative (inkrī·ētĭv), a. [In-1] Not creative, incapable of creating.

1877 Fairbairn Studies Philos Relig 238 Nature informed with mind helps to form its lives in its life, receives that she may give ideas and images of beauty but alone she is increative 1880 — Stud Life Christ Introd (1881) 27 It was fundamentally increative, radically infertile

Incredibility (inkredĭbĭ·lĭti) [ad L. incredibilitās, f incrēdibilis Incredible, cf F incrédibilité (1690 in Furetiere)]

1 The quality or fact of being incredible; a thing that cannot be believed; an incredible notion or circumstance

1613 Purchas Pilgrimage 1 ii, 12 note, He to salve his incredibilitie, deviseth a motion both of the Earth and of the Starres 1684 H More Myst Iniq 133 The number of these euther Delusions or Incredibilities. a 1674 Clarendon Hist Reb XI § 228 The incredibility or monstrousness of it in point of proceeding 1764 Harmer Observ xv 1 79 The seeming incredibility of the account Josephus gives 1883 Froude Short Stud IV ii vi 250 The intellect rose in protest, and declared that incredibilities should not be taught any longer

2 The fact or quality of being incredulous rare

1882 Standard No 17942 5 [They] have become convinced that incredibility is no longer justifiable

Incredible (inkre·dĭbl), a. (sb) Also 6 increadible [ad L. incrēdibilis unbelievable, unbelieving, f in- (In-3) + crēdibilis Credible f. of crēdere (16th c. in Godef.)]

1 Not credible, that cannot be believed, beyond belief

1412–20 Lydg Chron Troy IV xxx, For incredible was to me howe he through his great myght The Grekes put proudely to the flyght 1530 Bibl (Coverd) Acts xxvi 8 Why shulde it be thought a thynge incredyble vnto you, that God shulde rayse againe the dead? 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 503 Pliny reports things more incredible 1736 Butler Anal I i (1884) 13 There is nothing incredible in the general nature of religion 1860 Tyndall Glac II ix 269 The assertion that a glacier moves must appear startling and incredible 1872 L Stephen Pilgrr Pursep x (1894) 228 All the small incidents of fact round which so many incredible stories have gathered

b In weakened sense Such as it is difficult to believe in the possibility of, or to realize, said esp of a quantity, quality, number, etc., of a degree beyond what one would a priori have conceived as possible, inconceivable, exceedingly great

1482 Monk of Lexham (Arb) 33 An inestymable and in credibile sweetnes of ioyfull comforte 1559 W Cunningham Cosmographical Glasse 21 Pertayne vnto a man of an incredible height 1579 Lyly Euphues (Arb) 72 Euphues was surprised with such an incredible ioye at this strange event that he had almost swouned 1619 Purchas Pilgr Hist v § 4 It is incredible, how speedily and generally the Infection spread by his preaching 1777 Burke Corr (1844) II 247 They shows the incredible mischief 1856 Kane Arct Expl II xiv 144 Off they sprang with an incredible swiftness 1856 Emerson Eng Traits, 1st Visit Wks (Bohn) II 7 The incredible sums paid in one year by the great booksellers for puffing

c Of a person rare

1808–13 Bentham Ration Jud Evid (1827) II 67 Unless you maintain that the same man is credible or incredible honest or dishonest, according as [etc.]. Ibid v 83 He was heard, yet, but upon what occasion? On the occasion on which he is deemed incredible?

†2 Unbelieving Obs rare

1557 North tr Guevara's Dial Pr 191/2 Incredible of that is told him. 1624 J Mason Vind Answ Introd A name Jesus 8 The ar relations of it are so plain that the incredi lest Cavilles of that age were inexcusable 1640 Watton Life Donne 28 Then an incredible ruler may find in the Sacred Story that Samuel did appear to Saul even after his death 1761 J Howard Visit Bibl, 2 Kings xii note, How incredible noblemen saw the plenty but did not partake of it

B as sb An incredible thing (Chiefly pl)

1610 Healey St Aug Citie of God xxii 511 (1620) 824 Those incredibles among which was not seene, was confirmed by other incredibles which were seene

Hence Incre dibleness, incredibility

1612 Florio, Incredibilità, incredibleneese 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage, 1 ii, 7 The quantities and sizes are much more after the former then after this later opinion, which doth better salue the incredibleneese thereof 1668 M Casaubon Credib Vind Myst 180 (T.) Like very strangeness, or in credibleness of the story 1706 Phillips, Incredibility or Incredibleness

Incredibly (inkre·dĭblĭ), adv [f prec + -ly2] In an incredible manner or degree, in a way or to an extent that is impossible or very difficult to believe, to an extent that one would not have believed possible, exceedingly, extremely c1300 Three Kings Sons 99 He had seen hem do in armes that day incredibly 1548 Hall Edw IV 194 Leeftis adorned it with Gould and Sylver incredibly 1656 Cowley Pindar Odes, Pyrats Pindar notes 1, Pindar was incredibly studious of Antiquity 1727 Bradley Fam Dict s.v. Nut 1 172 Unless we should suppose it to be incredibly condensed 1858 Carlyle Frederk Gt III i 40 In an incredibly short period, money was quenched

†Increditable (inkre·dĭtăbl), a Obs [In-3] Not creditable, discreditable, bringing discredit

1695 Cotton Ess Mor Subj II (1702) 136, I own its difficultly removed, and increditable into the bargain 1732 Gentl Instructed (ed 10) 145 (D) Hypocrisy and dissimulation are always increditable.

†Incre·dited, a. Obs rare [In-3] Not credited, disbelieved

1711 Lond Gaz No 4919/4 Wks 1862 II 354 [Harvel] was brought to this self incredited mischief, as impossible as at first he judged it

†Incre,dule, a. (sb) Sc Obs Also -ull [a F incrédule unbelieving, incredible (Froissart, 14th c.), ad L. incrēdulus, f in- (In-3) + crēdulus believing, easy of belief, Credulous] Incredulous b as sb. An incredulous person

1540 Compt Scot iii 27 Til extinct that false seid ande that incredull generatione 1590 A Hume Hymns (1832) 12 Incredulis hence ga hide you hie

Incredulity (inkrĭdĭ·lĭti) [Late ME, a F incrédulité, ad L incrēdulitāt-em, n of quality f incrēdulus Incredulous]

1 A disbelieving frame of mind, unreadiness or unwillingness to believe (statements, etc.), disbelief, 1430 Lyge St Margarete 249 And final cause of th mord il distresse Is thi wilful incredulite 1460 in Pol Rel & L Poems 112 Goyne thomas Indes incredulite 1553 Brooke Treat Newe Acts 28/2 The sodeyn straungenes shal not gender in thee incredulitie[printed incredulitie] 1572 Wilkins Nat Keth, 11 ii (R.) There is nothing so wild and extravagant, to which men may not expose themselves by such a kind of nice and scrupulous incredulity. 1742 Jortin Quest II 1 xiv (1864) 57 Here is my sword, which shall make incredulity itself believe 1762–71 H Walpole Vertue's Anecd Paint (1786) III 66 The altar piece in the chapel is the best piece I ever saw of his, the subject, the incredulity of St Thomas 1809 Dr Busby Dumb Orator Mr Cirquehr looked in his face with some incredulity 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) I 185 The greatness of their professions does arouse in his mind a temporary incredulity

†2 Want of religious faith, unbelief Obs

1538 More Confut Tindale Wks 733/1 Nor no sume can damne him but onely incredulitie, that is to say lacke of beliefe 1580 2 1st Bk. Church Ch Scot xxi (1876) 27 Every one that dyeth departeth either in the Feith of Christ or in incredulity 1619 Sanderson Twelve Serm (1637) 7 When the Faith of some believers is more shaken with temptations of incredulitie and distrust

†3 = Incredibility Obs

1607 Markham Cur of Ill III (1617) 3 Others tell us other tales of as much incredulity, of the Houses of Scithes, Greece, and Barbary

Incredulous (inkre·diŭlŏs) a. [f I incredul-us see In-3 and Incredible + -ous]

1 Unbelieving, not ready to believe, sceptical Formerly used of religious unbelief, but no longer applicable in that sense. Const of rarely +to

1579 Lyly Euphues (Arb) 164 Hakkon what shee (Seeming turne) say of such as altogether are incredulous 1582 N (Rheim) John iii 36 He that is incredulous to the Sonne, shal not see life 1615 Lathan Falconry (1633) 84 I am altogether incredulous of it, and know that no man in the world can maintaine it 1651 Hobbes Leviath iii xxxiii 215 It was not to the end of Miracles was not to convert incredulous men to Christ 1791 Gent Mag LXI 1075 How just in truth, is most incredulous mind 1829 Landor Pericles & Aspas I 425 2 They call it philosophical to be incredulous on holy things 1856 Kane Arct Expl II xx 849–50 V 299 They were ignorant or incredulous of the rapid change

b Of action, etc Indicating or prompted by incredulity

1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 223, I perceive by your incredulous smiles, you will scarce believe 1864 Lessy on Eve Inf 854 The woman gave A half incredulous half hysterical cry

†2 Not to be believed, = Incredible Obs

1601 Shaks Twel N III iv 88 No obstacle, no more dulous or vnsafe Circumstance 1633 Ward Sir Mar Mon 554 Miracles will be thought incredulous in this age 1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep III xvii 180 Unto some it hath seemed incredulous what Herodotus reporteth of the great Army of Xerxes 1649 Bulteel Eng Improv Impr (1653) 142 They make such vast Improvements, as to raising Corn and Grass also almost incredible 1759 Warburton Julian Wks (1811) VIII 207 The grosses on the garments must appear a very incredulous circumstance

†b As adv = Incredibly Obs

1533 Bonner Let to Hen VIII in Burnet Hist Ref (1715) III Collect Records 58 The Pope, whose sight is incredulous quick, eyed me, and that divers times

Incredulous dulousness, incredulity

1727 in Bailey vol II 1755 in Johnson

Incredulously (inkre·diŭlŏslĭ), adv [f prec + -ly2] In an incredulous manner, with incredulity

1800 Miss Hervey Mourtray Fam IV 199 She shook her head incredulously 1863 Miss Braddon Lady Audley I 9 The Englishman looked almost incredulously at his unmarried companion

†Increep, v. Obs [f In adv + Creep v see In *prep*1 1] intr To creep in So Increeper, Increeping vbl sb and ppl a see In adv 11 a, c, e.

1533 A Ale-wife Now rist grete talbour betyng Launces breche and increpyng 1540 in Pol Rel & L Poems 210 So hyth, so glorioue, be some increpyge, His sykyngis mekes bee both here 1657 Trapp Comm Gen xxxiii 19 Sept 563 The Epithets hereof (Wersel) are, fearfull, increeper, and swift, and besids these I finde not any materiall, or worthy to be reheard 1806 Edin Rev Apr 352 The most fair seeming ceremonies were not without their increeping elements of superstition

†Incremable, a Obs rare [f I type incremābilis*, 1 in- (In-3) + L. cremare to burn, consume by fire + -abl.] That cannot be burnt or consumed by fire, incombustible

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep III xiv 140 They conceive that from the skin of the Salamander, these incremable pieces are composed 1658 — Hydriot 28 Incombustible sheets made with a texture of Asbestos, incremable flax, or Salamanders wool

Incremation (inkrimē·ĭən) Now rare or Obs [f In-4 + Cremation, f I type incremare* see prec] Burning, esp of a dead body, = Cremation (which is now the usual word)

1656 J Warren Vind Anim Wks 1662 I 107, I hope you will improve that department notwithstanding your order of incremation 1849 Hackeray Pendennis II iv, 'Shall we take him to the publisher's or make an auto-da-fé of him?' 'I don't see what is the good of incremation,' Warrington said 1851 Maddox Shrines O & N World I 44 The mode of incremation which was most followed by the Greeks 1866 Huxley Prek Rem Casthn 127 Cistic tombs on structed according to the customs of incremation 1870 Echo 4 Nov, An article on Incineration as opposed to In present assembly of attention, the case made out being one of considerable strength

Increment (i·nkrĭmĕnt [ad. incrementum increase: means of growth, f. stem of increscĕre to INCREASE: see -MENT (Sole increment, 1818e.)]

1 The action or process of increasing or becoming greater, or (with pl.) a particular case or instance of this, INCREASE, augmentation, growth

c1425 Found. St. Bartholomew's (E. E. T. S.) 23 The desired health by certeyne in remedyes begon to come Agayne. c1450 Mirour Saluacioun 2479 Iosaph's soul growing or increment [v. r. encrese] to to soy 1570 Levinus Lemnius's Herbal's Touch. (1658) 194 It is to be seen into the sides of the common people that the Roots on Cruzifixi of this church, did by certain increments naturally wax and grow. 1649 Jus Populi Vindic. 8 211 144 They proved that Christ's kingdome up in earth might have its proper increment. 1650 BULWER Anthropometa 171 The increment of the Nails is very small. 1762 KAMES Elem. Crit. (1785) I. 8 Our emotions are more sensible by increment [they] than by different periods of full and remote. 1835 KIRBY Hab. & Inst. Anim. II. xxii. 218 We add daily increments to our knowledge and science. 1861 BUCKLE Hist. Civilization (1869) I. 204 Nothing proof

Incruciation. Anat [f IN-2 + CRUCIATION] A crossing of fibres, same as decussation. (Syd. Soc. Lex. 1886)

1855 MAYNE Expos. Lex., Incunatio ... the decussation or crossing of the fibres of the optic nerve ... incruciation

†Incrunent, a. Obs. rare. [ad L. incrunent-us, f. in- (IN-3) + cruentus bloody CRUENT. Cf. obs. F. incrunent (16th c.)] Bloodless; not attended with shedding of blood 1684 FISHER in F. White Expt. Esther 463 So should the Eucharist be a bloudie Sacrifice, and not incrunent as the Fathers tearme it. 1686 WATERHOUSE Arms & Arm. 229 For incrunent victories are less offensive to God and man.

†Incrune stead. [Incrune ntous error of CRUENTOUS]

1674 BOWNE Scandal Indict. 400 He, not in his own name, as many as he can find, that make any mention of Fruit, Oblation, Holy Victime, Incruental Sacrifice and Mass.

1675 BURTHOGGE Causa Dei 302 To offer his Devotions on an Incruentous Altar. 1676 EACHARD Contempt Clergy 165 Gratlands of the leaves and blossoms (of Myrtles) impaled the brows of Incruentous victors at Ovations

Incrust, etc., variants of ENCRUST, etc.

1641, etc. [see ENCRUST 1] 1665 J. DAVIS Lett. 21 Jun. in Boyle's Wks. 1772 VI. 387 A black incrusted substance, which he found in Mendip hills, bedecked very delightfully with artificial branches of the like form of Icicles, which they say is an infallible discoverer of a coal mine. a 1691 BOYLE Hist. Air (1692) 140, I tasted the incrusting spring and could not find anything incrusted within 3 yards of the rise of it. 1695 WOODWARD Nat. Hist. Earth ii. (1723) 219 Some Rivers do thus bring forth mineral Matter in great Quantity so as to cover and incrust the Stones, Sticks and other Bodyes lying therein. 1725, etc. [see ENCRUST 2]

†Incru stament. Obs. rare. [ad It. incrostamento 'a pargeting or rough casting' (Florio), f. type incrustamentum, from incrustāre to incrust.] = INCRUSTATION 2.

1538 T. ELYOT Dict. V 7 There were founde a fayre certeyne painted Incrustamentes hard by the Castel Incrustate (inkrʌ·stĕt), ppl. a. (Also incrustate) [ad L. incrustat-us, pa. ppl. of incrustāre, f. in- (IN-2) + crustare, f. crusta CRUST.] = †I. 1 Formed or hardened into a crust. Obs.

1626 BACON Sylv. § 899 The Finer Part will lose turned into Aire, and the Grosser sticke as it were baked and incrustate upon the sides of the Vessell. 1674 GREW Nat. Hist. Fruits 1. Inct. n. § 8 The top of the unresolved Salt will be incrustate, or as it were frosted over. 1731 TULL Horse Hoeing Husb. (1733) 64 If Land sown with Wheat be not Hoed, its Surface is soon Incrustate

2 Enveloped with a crust or solid superficial layer of matter (cf. CRUSTATE) Obs. exc. Bot.

1691 Phil. Trans. VI. 3025 A cherry stone round about incrustate with stony matter. 1866 Treas. Bot. 6.s.v. Incrustate ... coated with earthy matter

3 Bot. (see quot.)

1855 MAYNE Expos. Lex., Incrustatus, applied to a seed and pericarp which they adhere one to the other with so much force that they seem to form an entire body. incrustate 1866 in Treas. Bot.

4 Zool. and Bot. Having the form of a crust, as a polyzoan or a lichen, spec. Of or pertaining to the Incrustata, a division of cyclostomatous Polyzoa

Incrustate (inkrʌ·stĕt), v. Now rare. Also en-, erron. crustate [f. L. incrustāt-, ppl. stem of incrustāre: see prec.]

1 To cover with a crust or hardened coating, as of deposited or crystallized matter, rust, scum, etc. = ENCRUST 2.

1570 LEVINS Manip. 40/34 To Incrustate, incrustare. 1620 VENNER Via Recta iv. 101 Consumed and incrustated with sugar, which we call Candied Ginger. 1628 H. MORE Annot. Glanvill's Lux 142 For let its Central Fire to incrustate it self into a Stone. 1733 DANDRIDGE Phil. Ess. 64 note, Vast Stones, which are incrustated with this Spurry, Stalactic Substance. 1794 G. ADAMS Nat. & Exp. Philos. II. App. xv. 147 The copper in precipitating will incrustate the nail with pure copper. 1811 PINKERTON Petral. I. 519 Encrusting various objects, as hards nests, plants, leaves, &c.

†2 In the arts. To cover with an ornamental layer after the manner of a natural incrustation = ENCRUST 1 b. To attach as or like an incrustation.

1727-41 CHAMBERS Cycl. Incrusted or Incrustated Columns, is a column consisting of several pieces or slips of some precious marble, masticated or cemented round a mould of brick, or other material. 1764 HARMER Observ. VIII. 99 The art of incrusting building, with (if possible) Ibid. XI. 304 The figures are inserted and like the cyphers on the dial plates of watches

Hence Incrustated, Incrusting ppl. adjs.

1659 H. MORE Immort. Soul (1662) 196 They make that peculiar Vortex ... from Pole to Pole, and thread an incrustated Star. 1721 Phil. Trans. XXVII. 190 The encrustated Particles which stick to the Skin. 1758 J. Le Drans Observ. Surg. (1771) 230, I took off a Quantity of incrustated Gravel with the Curette. 1884 Pall Mall G., Extra 23 July 2/2 Encrustated papers, luminous paint, &c. 1885 J. CROLL Climate & Cosmol. xi. 187 Masses of calcareous tufa which have been formed upon the borders of incrustating springs.

Incrustation (inkrʌstē·ʃən) Also en- [ad late L. incrustātiōn-em, n. of action from incrustāre to INCRUSTATE, CF. F. incrustation (16th c.)]

1 The action of encrusting, the formation of a crust, the fact or condition of being encrusted

1656 BLOUNT Glossogr., Incrustation, a pargetting, rough casting. 1658 PHILLIPS, Incrustation, a making or become ing hard on the outside, like a crust, a rough-casting, or pargetting. 1764 HARMER Observ. VIII. 97 The incrustation of their walls with the most exquisite marbles. 1769 CROFT Dict. Incrustation, in surgery, the induration of a crust or Eschar upon any part. 1846 DANA Zoöph. (1858) 500 The hollows formed by incrustation are sometimes six inches long. 1853 KOSSUTH Memoirs II. xv. 8 24 The incrustation of brick with more precious materials. 1874 SYMONDS Sk. Italy & Greece 251 Had the whole church been finished as it was designed, it would have presented one splendid though bizarre effect of incrustation

2 An outer hard layer or crust of some fine or costly material placed over a rough or common substance, esp. a facing of marble or other precious stone on a building

1644 EVELYN Diary 7 May, A Chapell all of paper with several incrustations of marble in the inside. Ibid. 17 Nov. The walls ... are cover'd with painted incrustations of history. 1726 LEONI tr. Alberti's Archit. I. 33 2 Alabaster ... cut with a Saw into thin pieces, extremely convenient for Incrustations. 1838 G. DOWNES Lett. Cent. Countries I. 338 An incrustation, consisting of small segments of white and black marble, gives these edifices a motley appearance. 1880 C. L. NORTON Church Build. Mod. Rome 1. 1 The whole surface was to be covered with precious incrustations of mosaic or of marble.

†b fig. Of adventitious ornament. Obs.

1627 Solid Pos. agst Butcher 1 in 66 The old popish ceremonies ... as it were in Incrustation both vid wful and unseemly. 1644 J. GOODWIN Imm. Triumph To Rdr. (1646) What Incrustations, and misrepresentations of opinion, sayings, practises, actions. 1740 WARBURTON Dr. Leland in Wks. 1811 IV. 281 Every age adorned it with additional superstitions, so that at length the old foundation became quite lost in these new incrustations.

3 A crust or hard coating formed naturally on the surface of an object, esp. a calcareous or clay-like concretion or deposit

1671 J. WEBSTER Metallogr. xxxiv. 359 We shall find an Incrustation upon the out side of the moss and leaves. 1751 JOHNSON Rambler No. 169 ¶ 2 Like unpolished gems, of which none but the artist knows the intrinsick value, till their incrustations are rubbed away. 1830 SIR T. D. LAUDER Highland Rivers II. 318 Several stalactitic incrustations, formed by the evaporation of water holding calcareous matter in solution. 1878 HUXLEY Physiogr. 202 This silicious matter is deposited around the mouth of the hole as an incrustation

b fig. An accretion of habit, etc. compared to a hard crust formed over and round an object

1828 T. H. Modern Gil Blas I. 2 There are in many evil incrustations about your heart. 1833 I. TAYLOR Ultimate Ess. 215 He prolly warm heart was frozen over by the chilling incrustations of worldly. 1861 D. BUSH Mem. & Rem. (1879) 264 The pure simplicities of His Word ... keep clear of such earthly incrustations. 1869 J. MARTINEAU Ess. II. 297 Hidden under the incrustations of sense and evil habit

4 A hard dry formation on the surface of the body, a scab or eschar (cf. CRUST sb. 3)

1806 BOOTE Chirurg., Incrustation, a crustiness or thickness of the skin. 1810 Med. Jrnl. XXIV. 4 A slight incrustation was formed on the vesicle. 1872 H. WATSON Pract. Surg. 78 The incrustations which adhere to the article. 1897 Allbutt's Syst. Med. II. 795 Such as the scales of variola or ordinary small pox papule through the several stages of macule, papule, vesicle, pustule, and incrustation

†Incrustative, Obs. rare$^{-1}$ [f INCRUSTATE $v.$ + -IVE] A substance that tends to form incrustations 1765 Universal Mag. XXXVII. 325 2 Incrustatives and caustatives as myrrh, aloes.

Incrusted, Incrusting see INCRUST

†Incry stal, v. Obs. Also en- [f. IN- + CRYSTAL sb.]

1 trans. (and intr.) To turn into crystal, to CRYSTALLIZE

1619 FOTHERBY Antiptochrystallus, to encrystall, or become crystall

2 To enclose in crystal

1648 HERRICK Hesper., Hourglass, That Hour-glasse With water fill'd ... The humour it is Thou lovest to see in chrystall set. 1664 POWER Exp. Philos. I. 25 Drops artificially frozen all the said Liquor into a mass of Ice, wherein all those Animals seemed lay incrystalled

Hence Incry stalled ppl. a., crystallized a 1649 DRUMM. OF HAWTH. Poems Wks. (1711) 29 The next enchristall'd light Submits to Him its beams, And He doth trace the height Of their fair lamp

Incu shall sable, rare$^{-1}$ [IN-3] In capable of being crystallized, uncrystallizable

1807 T. THOMSON Chem. (ed. 3) II. 578 This salt is tasteless, incrystallizable by art, insoluble in water

Incuba, nonce wd., facitious fem. of INCUBUS.

1798 Ir. Jrnlsts No. 45 2 There being in nature no other Incubuses or Incubæ.

Incubate (i·nkiubĕt), v. [f. L. incubāt- (more commonly incubat see INCUBITURE), ppl. stem of incubāre to lie on, to hatch, f. in- (IN-2) + cubāre to lie: see -ATE 3.]

1 trans To sit upon (eggs) in order to hatch them, to hatch (eggs) by sitting upon them or by some equivalent process.

1721 BAILEY, To incubate, to brood or hover over, to lie or set upon as a Hen. 1732-6 Ibid. (folio), Incubated, brooded or hovered over, as by a Bird on her Eggs or Nest. 1802 A. MONRO Compar. Anat. (ed. 3) 61 They are incubated by the heat of the Sun. 1788 JENNER in Phil. Trans. LXXVIII. 229 Respecting the Cuckoo ... why it should not build a nest, incubate its eggs? 1849-52 TODD Cycl. Anat. IV. 974/1 The eggs ... had been incubated six days. 1855 OWEN Comp. Anat. Vertebr. viii. (L.'s Still fewer fishes) nidificate and incubate their own

b fig. To brood upon

1641 J. JACKSON True Evang. T. iii. 179 Gods Spirit must incubate, and brood both to make them fruitfull

2 intr. To sit upon eggs, to brood

1758 JOHNSON, To incubate, v. n. to sit upon eggs. 1788 JENNER in Phil. Trans. LXXVIII. 230 Many of the birds which incubate have stomachs analogous to those of Cuckoos. 1874 F. COUES Birds N. W. 41 The one that is incubating flutters up with loud cries of distress

b fig. To brood

1660 T. Annus Mirabil. Treat. com. Acts, 11 viii. 476 The Spirit of God gently meditated on the World: a 1847 MACLEY NAPIER in Sel. Corr. (1879) 318, I wrote the while incubating on my Bills in Edinburgh

3 a. intr. Path. Of a disease. To pass through the process of INCUBATION, q.v. b trans Biol. To place in an incubator (for developing bacteria)

1896 Allbutt's Syst. Med. I. 805 The tubes are capped, shaken and incubated for twenty four hours

Hence Incubated ppl. a., Incubating vbl. sb. and ppl. a.

1730-6 [see sense 1] 1835-6 TODD Cycl. Anat. I. 67 The vascular area of the incubated egg. 1858 Mayne's Dispens. By its own low ... The incubated ... unfolded. 1890 Daily News 21 Nov. 2/2 Dr. Koch's lymph is prepared in an incubating house within a space which is hermetically sealed and sterilized Incubation (inkiubē·ʃən [ad I. incubātiōn-em brooding, n. of action I incubāre to brood.]

1 The action of sitting on eggs in order to hatch them, the hatching of eggs by sitting, on them

Artificial incubation, hatching of eggs by artificial heat. 1646 SIR I. BROWNE Pseud. Ep. III. vii. 151 Artificial incubation after not the species so evidently appears in the eggs of Duck or Partridges hatched under a Hen. 1727 I. KEY Hydrostatics. Poet. Wks. 1721 III. 304 Her Incubations by Degrees dispence. Parts, Form, Life, Motion. Nutriment and Sense. Till they full grown, their Prisons open find. 1843 DARWIN Voy. Nat. v. (1870) 91 Each cock bird will have its fair share in the labour of incubation. 1870 ROLLESTON Anim. Life. Introd. 50 Observed in the incubation of the Hen's egg. 1881 W. N. LANE Poultry Farming 4 Artificial incubation is the open method of hatching, than the natural one

2 transf. and fig. Applied esp. to the 'brooding,' or 'moving' of the Divine Spirit over the face of the chaos at the Creation (Gen. 1 2)

1614 RALEIGH Hist. World I. (1634) 5 Whether this motion and operation were by incubation, or how else, the manner is onely known to God. 1627 HAKEWILL Apol. (1630) III. i. 247 Some assign a natural determined Cause of the first production of Mankind, namely, the due preparation of the fat and slimy Earth after whom, incubation of Waters. a 1659 GURNALL in Spurgeon Treas. Dav. Ps. cxix. 130 He who, by his incubation upon the waters of the creation, hatched that rude mass into the beautiful form we now see. 1732 TULL Horse Hoeing Husb. (1733) 25 Many of the Pores or Interstices close up during the Seed's Incubation and hatching in the Ground. 1796 BURKE Regic. Peace II. Wks. VIII. 258 The Dutch Republicks were hatched and cherished under the same incubation. 1846 LINDLEY Veg. Kingd. xix. (1857) 235 The mind became fruitful as by the incubation of the Holy Ghost. 1878 SPURGEON Sermons III. 457 The Middle Ages were the age ... of not actually of the greatest painting and poetry, yet of the incubation of both

3 Path. The process or phase through which the germs of disease pass between contagion or inoculation and the development of the first symptoms

Period of incubation, the space of time occupied by this process which varies greatly for different diseases, and in different circumstances.

1835 G. GREGORY Theo. & Pract. Med. I. vii. (ed. 4) 81 Period of incubation. The interval which elapses between exposure to miasm and the invasion of disease is liable to some variety. Ibid. II. ix. 149 Sometimes a degree of cerebral affection is present throughout the whole term of the incubation. 1876 H. Wagner's Gen. Pathol. 137 The period of incubation of cholera lasts at least one week. 1885 Daily News 30 Oct. 3/3 The period of incubation, i.e. the time from the infliction of the bite till the disease shows itself is stated to vary from 12 days to one year and upwards the average being from 40 to 75 days.

4 Gr. Antiq. The practice of sleeping in a temple or sacred place for oracular purposes

1871 TYLOR Prim. Cult. II. 111 This place was celebrated for the worship of Æsculapius in whose temple incubation, i.e. sleeping for oracular dreams, was practised. 1884 Encycl. Brit. XVII. 808

5 attrib., as incubation-period, -process

1858-65 CARTER Hindu Med. in Ind. Ant. IV. 262 The incubation process may have been for some of us! 1879 St. George's Hosp. Rep. IX. 752 In this case the incubation period was two days. 1897 Allbutt's Syst. Med. I. 539 A specific bacillus which, introduced by feeding into mice, produces illness and death after a definite incubation period

Hence Incuba tional a., of or connected with incubation

1849-52 TODD Cycl. Anat. IV. 1209/1 The cloaca serves as a kind of incubational pouch

Incubative (i·nkiubĕtiv), a [f. L. incubāt ppl. stem (see INCUBATE) + -IVE.]

1 Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of the incubation of oviparous animals.

1859 HELPS Friends in C. Ser. II. xi. 285 A beautiful thing is the incubative the pre maternal instinct

3 Path Of or pertaining to the incubation of disease, characterized by incubation

1839 G Gregory Lect. & Pract. Med. II x (ed 4) 140 The circumstance of the inflitory catarrhal fever, being viewed, or not, as constituting part of the incubative stage 1851-9 Dunglison Hum. Sci. Progr. 248 Its incubative period the time which the infectious germs which separated from their source will retain their productiveness 1869 J. Vanderpol Pract. Hygienist 31 277 The incubative period [of yellow fever] is longer than usually supposed Incubator (ɪ·nkiubēɪtəɹ) [a. I. incubātor, agent-n. f. incubāre to lie in or on.]

1 A bird which incubates or sits on eggs; a sitting bird b fig. One who sits brooding

1858 De Quincey Language Wks IX 81 The Hebrew sitting as incubator over the awful germs of the spiritual ties that connect us with the unseen worlds

2 An apparatus for hatching birds by artificial heat

1857 Cottag. Gardener 4 Aug 274 An incubator is an unspeakable nuisance It is a good hatcher but the chickens cannot be reared 1879 Jefferies Wild Life in S. C. 198 The heat of the manure he points to as an incubator (= modern 1944) 1884 Health Exhib. Catal. 192/1 A Series of Electro-Hot Incubators for the artificial hatching of eggs

b Vn apparatus for rearing children born prematurely

1896 Westm. Gaz. 1 June 4/1 One of the incubators, or fo ter mothers, by means of which the lives of little ones prematurely born into the world have been saved

3 An apparatus for the artificial development of bacteria

1896 Allbutt's Syst. Med. I 805 These [test tubes] are capped and kept at 37° in the incubators for twenty four hours.

4 fig and transf. A breeder, author, source

1864 Daily Tel. 6 Sept., His mind is only an incubator for hatching lewdness. 1884 A. Finlayson Granville Town & Hawaii 35 An incubator of international friction Incubatory (ɪ·nkiubēɪtəɹi, a. [f. I. incubat (see. Incubatis) + -ory] Of or pertaining to incubation, incubative

1877 Huxley Anat. Inv. Anim. x 722 For distinctions sake the incubatory pouch may be termed the ovisac 1879 — Hume v. 110 The incubatory instinct of a bird

†Incu be, v. Obs. [app. f. Incu- + Cube sb.] trans. To infix like a cube 1641 Milton Ch. Govt. I vi, Prelaty must be fune to inglobe or incube her selfe among the Presbyters

†Incubee. Obs. A distortion of Incubus, used as a term of reprobation (Cf Incubo.)

1614 B Jonson Barth. Fair II, Where's my pipe now? not fill'd? thou errant Incubee (Said to a servant)

†Incu biture Obs. [f. I. incubat (ppl. stem of incubāre to Incubate) + -ure, as if from L. type incubitūra*.] Brooding, = Incubation I

1653 H More Antid. Ath. II xi (1712) 79 Aldrovandus says he that Father of her [the Bird of Paradise's] Incubiture on the back of the Male 1706 Phillips, Incubation or Incubiture A Philosophical Term for brooding or sitting upon Eggs as Birds do's 1743 J. Ellis Nat. Hist. Barbad. 11 The incubiture of the Hen upon the back of the male

†Incubo Obs. rare [a. I. incubo a spirit that lies on a treasure to guard it, f. incubā-re to brood over] A covetous man, who broods over or jealously guards his wealth

1607 Walkington Opt. Glass 45 The covetous Incubus of the world 1625 Bolt Hist. Hen. VII (1638) 59 He is brood goose, or a hen that sits Incubo (for so the Latines terme him) hee keepes his nest and sits as it were brooding

Incubous (ɪ·nkiubəs), a. Bot. [f. I. incubā-re to lie on + -ous.] (See quots.)

1857 Berkeley Cryptog. Botany § 409 444 The leaves [of some Liverworts] are disposed after two different plans, according to which they have received the name succubous or incubous In the former case they are disposed in a spiral which turns from left to right, and consequently the anterior border of each inferior leaf is covered by the posterior border of that immediately above In the latter, the spiral turns from right to left and the anterior border of each inferior leaf covers the posterior border of the leaf placed immediately above it. 1880 Gray Struct. Bot. (ed 6) 416 Jungermannia, the tip of one leaf or lobe lying flat over the base of the next above it

‖ Incubus (ɪ·nkiubŭs). Also 6 Sr. incobus Pl incubi (-bəi), also 7-9 incubuses, 8 incubus's, incubusses, (9 incubus) [late L. incubus (Augustine) = el L. incubo nightmare, in the middle ages often represented as a malignant demon who lay upon men and women, f. L. incubāre to lie upon Cf F. incube, 14th c. in Hatz.-Darm.]

1 A feigned evil spirit or demon (originating in personified representations of the nightmare) supposed to descend upon persons in their sleep, and especially to seek carnal intercourse with women In the Middle Ages, their existence was recognized by the ecclesiastical and civil law c1205 Lay. 1783 Heo bed þatten ful iwis incubi demones moune mon on sweuene ofte heo swenched c 1330 R. Brunne Chron. Wace (Rolls) 8088 Pise spyrites do women schame, Incuby demones ȝe cald þer name, ffendes in bedde þat many woman han forlayn c 1386 Chaucer Wife's T. 24 Wommen may go saufly vp and doun Ther is noon oother Incubus but he And he ne wol doon hem but dishonour 1387 Trevisa Higden (Rolls) I. 419 That fend þat is yeȝed amyȝ Wommen wel ofte to hegde Incubus hatte be 1531 Starkey Com. Wks II 221 Marling also wes in the same days Into Bristane Ane incubus with subtill sorcerie 1584 R Scot Discov. Witchcr. II xi (1886) 26 This [witche] use venerie with a divell called Incubus 1624 Massinger Parl. Love II iii, I'll sooner clasp an incubus or hug A fork tongued adder 1691 Milton P. R. II i 15 Pelial, the dissolutest spirit that fell, The sensualest, and, after Asmodai, the fleshliest incubus 1801 W Taylor in Monthly Mag. XII 4 1 Angels Incubuses, Saints jostle in his song 1805 Tytler Lately Hist Man I 7 The evil monks who trouble people in their sleep, the Incubi and Succubi attrib. 1652 J Smith Sel Disc x 501 He that allows himself in uncleanness, does entertain an incubus 1674 Gard Tongues ¶ 2 120 A sort of incubus beats, the infamous progenies of the lying spirit

2 A feeling of oppression during sleep, as of some heavy weight on the chest and stomach, the nightmare

1561 Hollybush Hom Apoth 10 v, The disease called Incubus that is the Mare which is a sickenesse or fantasye oppressinge a man in his sleepe 1602 Marston Antonio's Rev. IV iv, Then death, like to a stifling incubus, lie on my bosome 1621 Burton Anat. Mel. I II iii Such as are troubled with Incubus or wicked dreames 1678 Butler, II. 1 they lie on their backs 1753 J Bond (title) Essay on the Incubus or Night-mare 1834 Lamb Hypochond 90 Night riding in the Lincolnshire fashion 1882 Bucknill & Tuke Psychol. III v 472 The dire superstition which sits like an incubus upon them

3 A person or thing that weighs upon and oppresses like a nightmare

1648-9 C Walker Hist. Indep. IV 17 I take to it there fore, ye state Incubi 1653 Milton Hireling Wks. (1851) 369 He may have speaking of such an Incumbent, I may say, such an Incubus oft times 1653 Gauden Hierasp. Lo Rife's Worldly designes are the Incubuses of Conscience 1849 J Taylor Fortnt. x. 260 The chief Incubus of England flaunting under the modest of fal e doctrines, and a secular spirit 1865 Livingstone Zambesi Prof. to The great fact that the Amazonians have put themselves of the incubus of slavery 1875 M'Leay Sunn. Sch. II xi 123 Free from the incubus of evil habits.

4 Entom. Name of a parasitic genus of hymenopterous insects

†Incuby. Sc. Obs. A perversion of incubus, or its plural incubi, = Incubus

1508 Dunbar Flyting vi 3 I, Master Andro Kennedy Gottin with sum incuby, Or with sum freir inflruatus

Incudate (ɪ·nkiudēɪt), v. Sc. Cutbert

†Incu lcate, ppl. a. Obs. [ad L. inculcāt-us, pa. pple of inculcāre see next] Inculcated, taught (Const as pa. pple or adj.)

1608 Willet Hexapl. Exod. 308 Wee had needle to haue the word of God often inculcate and beaten vpon vs 1647 N. Stetman Case of Hants 24 The duty which hath to th by law and Christs in Religion been inculcate to him 1647 H. More Song of Soul II. III. xxxvii. 87 By botched musicke in paradigms made Its senses dictate 1653 — Conject. Cabbal. (1662) 175 Long musicale Precepts in which for common Principles.

Inculcate (ɪnkʌ·lkēt, ɪnkɒ·lkēt), v. [f. I. inculcāt-, ppl stem of inculcāre to stump in with the heel, tread in, cram in, press in, impress upon (the mind), f. IN- (IN-) + calcāre to tread, f. calc-, calx heel As to the pronunciation, see Con-Lemplate.]

1 trans. To enderavour to fix one thing, into or impress (it) on the mind of another by emphatic admonition, or by persistent repetition, to urge on the mind, esp as a principle, an opinion, or a matter of belief, to teach forcibly Const upon, on, + formerly in into, unto, to

1530 Coverdale Spir. Lerle xxviii O iiv, This proverbe did the holy ghost put in the olde, that no man should take and teach with words, but also expresse and performe in dede 1559 B. Scot Sp. in Strype Ann. Ref (1824) I App. xii 28 The authoritie of the bishoppe of Rome... some inculcate against us, as a matter of great weight 1594 Hooker Lect. Pol. III xi § 11 That commandement which Christ did inculcate unto Peter 1623 T. Stafford Pac. Hib. II iii (1810) 251 Yet was not hee ashamed to inculcate into the eares of the Pope that shee was more worthy of him then Rome 1628 R. Baron Apol. Quakerism 111 Is He prevses this exhortation upon them, and inculcates it three times 1700 Prior Carmen Sec. 165 And with the same breath to him Non, Transmissive I es sons of the Kings Renown 1736 Butler Anal. II i 14. A standing Admonition, to remind them of it, and inculcate it upon them 1741 Middleton Cicero III 348 This is th motion that he inculcates everywhere of true glory 1768-74 Tucker Lt. Nat. (1834) I 210 The moralist will be, in vain attempting to inculcate this desire of happiness into himself and others as deeply as pos ible 1792 Encycl. Brit. III xxxv 261 These three words deserve to be inculcated in every mind 1792 Burke Corr. (1844) IV 3 You cannot too often inculcate to your chief friends, that this affair cannot possibly be the work of a single day 1802 Mar. Edgeworth Moral T. (1816) I xi 83 An opinion difficult to inculcate upon the minds of others 1809 Statut. I 155 The conception had inculcated itself into her mind 1866 Felton Anc. & Mod. Gr. II iii 47 All these teachers inculcate the duties of order obedience and fidelity, on the slaves 1874 Green Short Hist. viii § 2 These inculcated passive obedience to the man such as a religious obligation

†2 To tread upon, trample, press with the feet

1597 A M tr Guillemeau's Fr Chirurg 31b, The earth which with our feete we inculcate and treade one 1657 Tomlinson Renou's Disp III II v 127 A certain Cloth is often dipped and inculcated [L. inculcatur] in a fit Emplaister already made up

†Inculcatedly, adv. Obs. rare—1 [f. inculcated pa. pple + -ly2] By inculcation; by impressive repetition

Inculcating (see the vb.), vbl. sb. [f. Inculcate v. + -ing1] The action of inculcation, impressive repetition

1533 Nashe Christ's T. (1613) 50 With dismall crying, and vociferation inculcating vnto her 1614 Donne Biathanatos (1644) 35 The often iteration, and specious but sophisticate inculcatings of a Law and Nature, and Reason, and God 1643 Howell Lett. II lxix, I do use so many protestations, inculcatings, and tautologies is no good manners in moral Philosophy

Inculcation (ɪnkʌlkēɪ ʃən) [ad late L. inculcātion-em, n of action f. inculcāre to Inculcate Cf F. inculcation (16th c.)] The action of impressing on the mind by forcible admonition or frequent repetition, the emphatic or persistent teaching of something

1553 I Wilson Rhet 94 I will not trouble the reader with double inculcation, and twyse telling of one tale 1602 R Johnson Kingd & Commw (1603) 254 We observe laboreth with often inculcations to infuse this most firmely to his mind 1751 Johnson Rambler No 151 P 8 I he days that are to follow must pass in the inculcation of precepts already collected, and assertion of tenets already received 1805 Forsyth Fr. T. II 17 The constant inculcation of truth 1844 Stanley Arnold I iv 186 His works were not merely the inculcations of particular truths, but the expression of his whole mind 1866 G. Macdonald Ann. Q. Neighb. xxiii (1878) 188 Action is more powerful than speech in the inculcation of religion

†Incu lcative, a. Obs. rare [f. L. inculcāt-, ppl stem (see Inculcate v.) + -ive] Tending to inculcate, of the nature of inculcation, impressive

1626 W Lynne Hidden Manna (1636) 2 Bare teaching will not awake neither, but there must be a powerfull and operative teaching 1677 Manton Serm. Pr. xxiv 156 Wks 1872 VII 27 When you have heard the word apply it to yourselves by serious inculcative thoughts.

Inculcator (ɪnkʌlkēɪtəɹ, inkɒ·lk-) [agent n in L. form from Inculcate (Cf late L. inculcator, used by Tertullian in literal sense)] One who inculcates

1673 Boyle Consid Reconcil Reason & Relig. I viii Wks 1772 IV 183 Des Cartes himself has been the greatest example and inculcator of this suspension [of assent] 1890 Temple Bar Mag Sept 91 He was an inculcator of muscular Christianity

Incu lcatory, a. rare [f. Inculcate v. + -ory] Fitted or tending to inculcate, characterized by inculcation

1887 M Hopkins Discuss Lug Men 233 (Cent) As typical and inculcatory nothing could have been more admirable than these sacrifices. 1889 J M Robertson Ess Crit Method 69 The inculcatory method, length of habit, and much story, belike painful, preparation

†Incu lk, v. Obs [ad I. inculc-āre to Inculcate, perh immed after F. inculquer (1549 in Hatz.-Darm.)] trans = Inculcate

1598 in Burnet Hist Ref II 85 To inculk unto Him the said Points and Considerations 1537 Inst Chr Man I vii These things should be continually taught and inculked into the ears 1548 Inst Christen. people 1568 Bp Grindal Lett to Somerset in Foxe A & M (1563) 740 Yf you for your duties sake would vouchsafe sometymes to put him and inculking 1576 Newton Lemnie's complex. (1633) 384 Which sentence Saint Paul went about to inculke into the minde of the Athenians

†Incu lp, v. Obs rare—1 [ad. L. inculp-āre to Inculpate, perh after F. inculper (Cotgr 1611)] trans = Inculpate

1612 Sheldon Quæ it xi 1 108 For, if Chrysostomes impatience and head long desire slew him, why should mine honest proceeding and care be inculped therewithall?

Inculpable (ɪnkʌ·lpăb'l), a. Now rare [ad late L. inculpabilis, f. IN- (IN-) + culpābilis Culpable.] Not culpable, blameless, free from blame

1491 Caxton Vitas Patr. (W. de W. 1495) I. 184 b/1 They knewe not that any euyll were done in the worlde, he who whit synne was But they were all utterly Inculpable 1540-1 Elyot Image Gov. 18 Suche personages as neuer were infamed with any vice notable, and whose lyues be inculpable 1649 Jer Taylor Gt Exemp I v 153 Little more then sins of pure and inculpable ignorance 1730 Franklin Lett Wks 1840 II 56 If his error is invincible, or such as he could not help, he is inculpable 1858 Parker Spir Cookery (1859) 160 There are inculpable unrealities to which bodily weakness exposes us

Hence Inculpabi lity = next

1765 G Cansing Patriotism in Sch Satires (1802) 306 Piety no, Justice tricks, in their defence, Inculpability to want of sense

Incu lpableness. [f prec + -ness] Blamelessness

1548 Udall Erasm. Par. Luke xi 111 The purite conscience in the inculpableness & and innocencie of the herte 1684 Sharp Dive. conc. Conscience 29 The great thing is the Culpableness or Inculpableness, the Faultiness or Innocence of the mistake

Incu lpably, adv. [f as prec + -ly2] Blamelessly, innocently

1536 Tatimer Serm & Rem (Parker Soc) 377 Though I am not altogether so scrupulous, yet I would it were done inculpably and duly 1649 Jer Taylor Gt Exemp II viii Yet God will accept the will for the deed when the externall act is inculpably out of our powers 1685 Cruel Bondage Conscience 56 A man may very innocently and inculpably be Ignorant of it 1864 Manning Let to Pusey 14 The Church teaches that men may be inculpably out of its pale

†Incu lpate, a. Obs. rare [ad L. inculpāt-

ate, v in- (IN-3) + culpatus, pa pple of culpare to blame] Unblamed, blameless, inculpable

1622 J. JANES Jesuit's Downf 14 Leaves him vpon him to be an illuminate, an inculpate guider of soules 1647 JER. TAYLOR Lib Proph xi 192 Causes of Error in the exercise of Reason which are inculpate in themselves

Inculpate (ɪ nkʌlpeɪt), v [f med L inculpāt-, ppl stem of inculpāre, f. in- (IN-2) + culpāre to blame, cf exculpate As to the pronunciation, see CONTEMPLATE]

1 trans To bring a charge against, to accuse, to blame, find fault with

1799 S TURNER Anglo Sax I iii m 173 Gildas inculpates him for having destroyed his uncle 1833 I TAYLOR Loyal vi 185 We should be slow to inculpate motives 1846 DE QUINCEY Glance it Ac Mackintosh Wks XIII 65 The poor Indy could have had no rational motive for inculpating herself

2 To involve in a charge, to incriminate

1839-40 W IRVING Wolfert's R (1855) 257 De Mille confessed to a plot to murder the brother, and inculpated the Count in the crime 1897 MARY KINGSLEY W Africa 4-7 Attempting to exculpate himself and inculpate Dr Nassau for not having told him one was required

Hence Inculpating vbl sb and ppl adj

1837 CARLYLE Fr Rev III iii iv, Will not perhaps the inculpated Deputies consent to withdraw voluntarily? 1869 Daily Tel 8 June, Magisterial Duty was ordered forthwith to stop the further publication of the inculpated newspapers 1890 Pall Mall G 15 Mar 2/1 I think it is generally felt that the inculpating lie is more serious than the exculpating falsehood

Inculpation (ɪnkʌlpē·ʃən) [n of action f INCULPATE see -ATION Cf F inculpation (1752 in Hatz.-Darm.).] The action of inculpating, blame, censure, incrimination

1798 SIR M FODEN in Lit Auckland's Corr (1862) III 389, I should be sorry to have my career terminate in a manner that will be interpreted as an inculpation of me 1836 SIR W HAMILTON Discuss Stud Math (1852) 266 As to the inculpation of the Metaphysicians why was Locke not mentioned in place of Hume? 1850 GROTE Greece II lxv VIII 299 In this assembly the most bitter inculpations were put forth against the Athenian 1872 J HERON Hist Ess Ser I vi 149 We do not think him equally successful in his inculpation of the Confederates

b transf Blame, fault rare

1822 BYRON Werner II ii, I should rather lay the inculpation on the Hungarian

Inculpative (ɪnkʌlpătɪv), a [f L inculpāt, ppl stem (see INCULPATE) + -IVE] = next

1800 SIR SYD SMITH Lett III 65 In the inculpative part of your criticisms on mine I very much agree 1802-12 BENTHAM Anthon Errid Wks 1843 VII 17 The incidents by which the conclusiveness of an inculpative presumption may be proved

Inculpatory (ɪnkʌlpătəri), a [f as prec + -ORY] Tending to inculpate or incriminate, attributing fault or blame

1837 CARLYLE Fr Rev III iii n I from the Southern Cities come addresses of an almost inculpatory character 1844 H H WILSON Instr Indus II 493 The second of the inculpatory letters 1885 J MARTINEAU Types Eth Th II 158 A very sufficient vocabulary of inculpatory words

Incult (ɪnkʌ·lt), a Now rare Also 7 inculte [ad L incultus, f in- (IN-3) + cultus, pa pple of colere to cultivate Cf F inculte (15 16th c.)]

1 Uncultivated, untilled, in a state of natural wildness

1621 BURTON Anat Mel II iii 111 (1651) 326 Germany then, saith Tacitus, was incult and horrid, now full of magnificent cities 1796-98 I DISRAELI Curiosities 284 Her forests huge, Incult, robust, and tall 1864 SALA Diary in Amer (1865) I xii 340 There were no trees, hedgerows, gardens visible All was incult and horrid—without form and void

2 Unpolished, untrimmed, inartistic, rude

1599 A M tr Gabelhouer's Prognostic I sig Biv, I hope, and trust the most curteous Readers will accept this my most inculte and untilled labour 1611 W SCLATER Exp (1639) 114 Eyther inculte and horrid stones or vnsauorie and rude matter 1669 BATE Contin Nose Prog in Pref (1682) 9 The reading of so much and impolite a Rhapsodie 1851 MARY WOOLSTONECRAFT Hist Rev I 15 Inculte, hideous and insult 1887 SAINTSBURY Hist Elizab Lit iii 1890 So the miscellaneous writers, who incult and formless as their work was, at least maintained the literary tradition

3 Of persons, their manners, etc Wanting in culture or refinement, inelegant, rough, coarse

1621 BURTON Anat Mel To Rdr 56 Let them be rude stupid, ignorant, incult 1692 P PHILIPS Rep Nevis 1 In the more incult and fierce behaviour of our English and Saxon Ancestors 1868 SYMONDS in Life (1895) I 208 She saw his coarseness & vice He is incult, but clever 1891 C WORDSWORTH Ann Early Life II 145 His [Neander's] appearance was very incult

†Incultivate, a Obs [f IN-3 + L. cultivātus, pa pple of cultivare to CULTIVATE Cf F inculti(v)é (16th c.)] = next

1561 GRANVILE Van Daqm xii 115 As they did of old upon the Barbarism of the inculti vate Heathen Ibid xvii 163 The modern Retainers to the Singulars have spent their wit & and pains upon the most litigious parts of his Philosophy, while those, that find less play for the contending Genius, are inculti vate 1806 ANNA SEWARD Lett (1811) VI 288 Nothing but the understanding and the heart are left in cultivate

†Incultivated, a Obs [IN-3] Uncultivated, uncultured, unpolished, rude

1665 SIR T HERBERT Trav (1677) 380 (T) The soil although incultivated, so full of vigour that it procreates without seed 1688 EVANS Grotius' War & Peace 83 If there be any Land that is desart and incultivated 1694 G DANIEL Pennarch, Hen IV, CCXXII, Where Minds incultivated, feed their owne Thistles of Rage, to boast the highest growne 1716 M DAVIES Athen Brit III Crit Hist 7 More like Verbose Catechists, or even Exorcists, than well educated Scholars in their incultivated Exaltations

Incultivation. rare [IN-3.] Want of cultivation, uncultivated condition

1784 J BERRINGTON Hist Wedlard 108 (J) In that state of incultivation which nature in her luxuriant fancies loves to form

†Incul'ture. Obs rare [IN-3] Want of culture or cultivation

1659 ELLWOOD Antichrist ii 267 The Incultiure of the World would perish it into a Wilderness, should it the Advocacy of Commerce make it an universal Curse 1653 Counsel Dissolute Cat Chamarys 98 The smirkiness of Commerce, quality, poverty, and incultiure of people 1867 J C SMITH Sym & Imag, Agriculture, Incultiure

Incu'mb, v Obs rare [ad I incumb-ere see INCUMBENT a] = next

1 intr To be incumbent, to lie upon something

1569 see INCUMBING ppl a 1

2 To lie down, to RECLINE, yield

1656 S H Gold Law 24, I am too weak and brittle to deal with you, so chuse rather to Incumb, then try it out with such a Combatant

Incumb, obs form of INCUMB

†Incu mbence. Obs [f INCUMBENT see next and -ENCE] a. The fact of being incumbent, an overhanging or impending b A matter that is incumbent, a duty or obligation

1597 HALE Contempt ii 22 When the Necessity and Fear and Incumbence of Evil is removed 1681 BURNET An Argument (1684) 18 Which Duty and Incumbence, and the Consequentiality of it from the Command, we take to be plain 1700 Contin Knolles's Hist Turks III 131 The next care and incumbence of the Governours was to provide Victuals 1708 Hymn of Honor III 137 The education of his only son he held too sacred an incumbance to trust to any one but himself

Incumbency (ɪnkʌ·mbənsi) [f INCUMBENT see -ANCY]

1 The condition of lying or pressing upon something, brooding, a spiritual brooding or overshadowing Now rare or Obs

1651 Baxter's Ghost 226 The sacred Writ being written by the Holy Ghost's incumbency 1653 Waller Upon Roome 1663 Flagellum or O Crom vell (1672) 124 And the whole eggs put under the chill incumbency of other whitlow 1805 WORDSW Prelude iii 178 Felt how sweet was more awful, visitings Of the Upholder of the tranquil soul

b With an and pl That which is incumbent, an incumbent weight or mass

1659 B ELLWOOD Antichrist ii (ed 3) 45 We find them some times more frail, and not so well qualified to support these incumbencies and weights 1665 Phil Trans I 1 It becomes more together unit for strong Incumbencies of other robust Uses 1888 Cornh Mag Mar 269 The stream is choked with its compact incumbency of snow

2 The quality of being incumbent as a duty, an incumbent duty or obligation Now rare

a 1608 DONNE Let Sir H G in Lett (1651) 71 The duties of a man, of a friend, of a husband, of a father, and all the incumbencies of a family 1667 Lond Gaz No 150/4 I have thought it an Incumbency both upon my Place and Duty, to represent to Your Majesty the Sad ness, that will be given to all the Nation 1798 CARLYLE Germ Rom II (1827) VI 9 They will there recognise the doctrines which it is incumbent on them to believe, and the sources of the Incumbency 1818 WARDLAW Lect Wom Bible VII 184, I feel an incumbency to intimate you, that another copy of that letter has been either surreptitiously obtained or fabricated 1819 HORT Sermons II 114 The sacredness and duration of the Olympic games thus became numbered among the incumbencies of Elis 1868 BROWNING Ring & Bk v 863 Speaks of keeps silence, as himself sees fit, Without the least incumbency to lie

3 The position or office of an incumbent, now only Eccl or transf from this? Also, the sphere in which an incumbent exercises his functions, and the period during which the office is held a 1656 HAMMOND Inspha v 202 The Pope having instituted one man into a Bishoprick, cannot during his incumbency give the joint government of his Church to another 1697 DRYDEN Æneis xii 1 These be many things th at comprise the incumbency of the Consecrator Prelate 1721 BAILEY (ed 2) Incumbency 1 The Incumbency of a Parson 1818 CRUISE Digest (ed 2) IV 17 Every parson, vicar, or other incumbent of any ecclesiastical benefice, is enabled to exchange parsonage houses and glebe lands, with the consent of the patron and bishop, for other houses and lands 1876 GEO ELIOT Dan Der xxxv, An incumbent of this diocese

2 In general sense The holder of any office Now rare

1672 MARVELL Reh Transp I 243 They [kings] are the Incumbents of whole Kingdoms, and the Receivership of the People rests upon them 1700 ASHTON Nat Hist Tartary II 21 It is necessary besides a settle d competent Salary upon each Office, such as the incumbent may live h and comely upon a 1832 BENTHAM Offic Aptitud Wks 1843 V 349 Who is there that does not know, that the value of an office to the incumbent is directly as the emolument, and inversely as the labour? a 1852 WEBSTER Wks 1877 II 49 We protest against doctrines which tend to lead fearless men for the sake of incumbents 1884 Law Times LXXVII 1 The incumbents for the time being, of the various coronerships

3 One who leans over something rare—1

1719 Inc Thinker No 143 P 5 Indocil Incumbents over Folios

Incumbent (ɪnkʌ·mbənt), a [ad L incumbent-em, pres pple of incumbĕre to be upon, to lean upon, to apply oneself to, etc, f in (IN-2) + cumbĕre to lie Cf CUMBENT]

1 That lies, leans, rests, or presses with its weight upon something else Const on

1624 WOTTON Archit in Kelly (1852) 61 Two Incumbent Figures gracefully leaning upon the Cornish under the Cieling 1667 MILTON P L I 226 With expanded wings he steers his flight Aloft, incumbent on the dusky Air 1784 PENNANT Tours Scotland to Lord 88 His figure is engraven on an incumbent alabaster slab 1825 J NICHOLSON Operat Mech 96 The wheel with its incumbent apparatus, weighs about 20 tons 1853 LYTTON My Novel IV ix, Rising from his incumbent posture 1853 HERSCHEL Prog Lect Sc § 18 (1873) 156 It goes to add to the weight incumbent on the polar Ice 1782 CRABBE Prof Love II 288 All the nations must have pressed with incumbent weight on the confines of Germany 1862 MARIATT Rome Imp (1865) III xxvi 430 All support was withdrawn, and the immense mass of the conquerors rushed headlong over the bodies of their adversaries

b poet Of things which lean or hang over something else dusk or darkness, breaking waves, etc

1719 YOUNG Lamphir Job Wks 1757 I 207 Deaths in most chambers dusk Thou art seen And wan. To the black post of them the incumbent shade 1728 THOMSON Spring 45 Incumbent o'er the shining shore The mariner hears 1740 SHENSTONE Elk ment 209 Like some huge Rock he stands, Hoar brow'd with incumbent Locks 1810 SOUTHEY Ashtaroth I 1 The Ship shot through the incumbent night 1810 SCOTT Lady of L iv xxxi, Many a rock and random rain piled flood-wood incumbent o'er the spot

2 spec & Physics Of air, fluid, or other weight, with reference to the downward pressure exerted by it

1666 BOYLE New Exp Phys Mech ii 18 The Atmosphere an unshent up at the upper part of the same key or stopple 1794 G ADAMS Nat & Exp Philos I 43 The lower air presses the palm of the hand as much upwards as the incumbent column presses the lower part of the hand 1831 FARADAY Chemical iii 24, The elasticity of the air which surrounds us is equal to the weight of the incumbent atmosphere

b Geol Overlying and resting upon, superimposed, superincumbent as a stratum

1789 WILLIS Phil Trans LXXIX 79 The whole is in common on regular beds or layers of various thicknesses 1811 PINKERTON Petral I 360 Coal sometimes contains crystals of calc areous spar, perhaps infiltrated from incumbent limestone 1839 MURCHISON Silur Syst I xxxvi 411 The Forest Ludlow shale or mud rock is so uniformly in cumbent on the Wenlock limestone 1874 LYELL Elem of Geol 131 The shells of the Incumbent yellow sand of the Isle of Sheppey

c bot Said of an anther when it lies flat against the inner side of the filament, of cotyledons when the back of one is applied to the inside

1760 J LEE Introd Bot (1765) 161 The Anthers incumbent 1830 LINDLEY Nat Syst Bot 18 Anthers incumbent, with contiguous sides 1832 HARTIG Bot Zeit 258 Like a shield on its stalk applied to each other by their faces, and the radicle is folded on their backs, so as to be dorsal and the cotyledons are incubous 1870 ROLLESTON Anim Life 131 Compare Nasturtium, with the radicle curved over the back of one of the cotyledons incumbent

d cotton Applied to wings when at rest in horizontally upon the body, as those of most moths

1826 KIRBY & SP Entomol IV 357 In incumbent wings which when at rest cover the back of the insect 1856 B W COOKE Ins and Hot-ter's Prod I 32 Wings incumbent

e Zool Of hairs, spines, etc Lying along the surface on which they grow

f Ornith Of the hallux or hind toe of a bird Resting on the ground or other support with its whole length, its insertion being on a level with the anterior toes Cent Dict

3 Resting or falling upon a person as a duty or obligation Const on upon (also + to

1567 in Row Hist Kirk (Wodrow Soc) 13 The host of God shall doe all incumbent to them for the establishing of the true religion 1637-50 ROW Hist 324 The first thing incumbent to be done there was to have deposed and excommunicat their Lordships 1653 CROMWELL Sp 4 July in Carlyle,

That there was a duty incumbent upon us 1713 Berkeley Hylas & Phil iii Wks. 1871 I 348 It would still be incumbent on you to shew those words were not taken in the vulgar acceptation 1851 Gladstone Glean IV i 1 I have come home with a deep sense of the duty incumbent upon me 1865 Reader 14 Jan 39/1 Our author thinks that it is the incumbent duty of England to promote emigration to such a country

†b Falling as a charge or peculiary liability 1670 G H Hist Carolinals 1 123 As to debts, obligations, and incumbent charges, they speak not a word 1776 Adam Smith W N (1869) I introd 4 Defraying the expenses incumbent on the whole society

†c. Resting or vested as a right Obs

1652 Petitioning to Parliament 13 The decision of all controversies lay incumbent in the person of the King onely

†4. Weighing upon the mind or feelings Obs

1651 Hobbes Leviath iv xxxiii 155 Ambition, and Covetousnesse are Passions that are perpetually incumbent, and pressing 1712 Steele Guard. (1737) II 1 ii ¶ 3 10 Things are no less active and incumbent on the Mind, at all Seasons, and even when the real Objects themselves are absent

†5 Impending, imminent threatening Obs

1646 Br. Mayney Funer Teares Preach in Exon (1908) II 295 God's Judgments are incumbent and imminent upon Church and Kingdom 1682 J Scott Christian's Ware & Peace 82 When the danger incumbent is past, resolution is to be made, if we are able 1793 Gouv. Morris in Sparks Life & Writ (1832) II 383 The proselytes will return to their original sentiments as soon as the incumbent terror is removed

†6 Bending or applying one's energies to some work, closely occupied with something Const on (upon), over, to Obs

1548 Udall Erasm Par Luke xiii 1498 A lowe mon spirit to villy vse such as are incumbent and doe vnto bilske or vile and transitory thynges 1650 Bulwer Anthropomet 78 What she is most incumbent upon, and which she always beholds, are those things that concern her station and nullity 1668 Clarendon Vindicat Tracts (1727) 30 Every body remembers the multiplicity of business the king was incumbent to at that time 1674 Josselyn Rarit (ed 2) 111 He was losing for ever the opportunity of acquiring habits of firm and incumbent [later edd assiduous] application

†7 In occupation of a parsonage, holding the position of an incumbent Const on Obs

1604 N D 3rd Pt Three Converts Eng 193 He had by deprived from a certayne benefice, that he unjustly was incumbent upon 1655 Fuller Ch Hist III v § 68 Parishes places bounded in regard of the Profits from the people therein, payable onely to a Pastour incumbent there. 1661 — Worthies (1840) II 220 He was never incumbent on any living with cure of souls

Hence Incumbently adv rare, in an incumbent manner, after the manner of an incumbent weight

1847 J Scott Penn Review (ed 4) 229 A duty which presses most incumbently on all those who stand by the wheel that shapes the course of the state

Incumbentess, nonce-wd [f Incumbent + -ess 1] A female incumbent or occupant

1760 H Walpole Lett H Mann (1833) III 332 The present barony of Clinton, which is fallen to her by the death of the last incumbentess

Incumber, variant of Encumber

†Incumbing, ppl a Obs [f Incumb + -ing 2] Lying upon, overlying, = Incumbent a 1

1689 Sir W Muir Iron Cowcat 563 Crush'd downe with the bulk of Gods incumbing wrath

†Incumbition. Obs rare—1 [n of action, irreg f L incumbere of which the ppl stem incumbit- gave L. incubitio ion] The action of lying or pressing upon (In quot fig)

1659 Stubbe Ir Queries 11 The souls of connoisseurs themselves by long friction and incubation, have the sharpness at length to get all he virtu

Incumbrance, etc, var Incumbrance, etc

Incumbricibility see Incombricibility

Incunable (inkiū nābl) [a F incunable, ad L incunabulum* see next] A book printed in the infancy of the art Chiefly in pl = next, 2

1886 P Fitzgerald Book Lauxter 3 Concerning the incunables or cradle books 1886 Law Books a Bookman (1887) 233 Incunables I for you I sigh 1894 Month May 116 One of the early 'Incunables or 'Fifteeners

Incunabula (inkiūnæ·bŭlă), sb pl [L incunabula (neut pl) swaddling clothes, hence cradle, and fig childhood, beginning, origin, f cūnæ cradle.]

1 The earliest stages or first traces in the development of anything

1824 De Quincey Lakes Hist Eng Wks 18.40 IX 120 Here they fancy that they can detect the whole germ of the revolutionary spirit 1832 Charlemont in Ibid V 361 Here too, we behold in their incunabula the existing kingdoms of Christendom 1864 J Martineau Ess, Rev etc. (1890) II 476 The Gospel is silent respecting the incunabula of the Master's life.

2. [With sing incunabulum.] Books produced in the infancy of the art of printing, spec those printed before 1500

1861 Neale Notes Dalmatia etc. 1 9 What are Incunabula? you ask It is the name that Germans give to books printed before 1500. 1868 Sat Rev 21 Sept 304 The facsimile of a most interesting 'incunabulum' 1888 Fewer Manufact 21 Apr 1/1 'Tall' copies and 'large paper' copies, in incunabula and Elzevirs.

3. Ornith The breeding-places of a species of bird

Hence Incuna bular a, of or pertaining to early printed books

1869 Athenæum 15 June 753/1 Each paragraph decorated with an impossing and quite incunabular P

Incur (inkə·r) v Also 7 incurr(e, 7-oure, 6-7 encur(e [ad L incurrere to run (into, to, wards, against), f in- (In-2) + currĕre to run: cf Of encorre, -courre, mod F encourir]

I intr †1 To run, flow, fall, or come to or into, to fall (within a period of time, the scope of an argument, etc) Obs

1526 Inf Innocents in Froude Hist Eng III 137 note, We intende by bessech that the Lady Mary may be made legitimate, and the former statute therein annulled, for the danger if the title might incur to the crown of Scotland 1619 Upcher Lect (1688) 69 The beginning of Philharmian certainly doth incurr in annum periodi Julianae 4402 1620 A Home Brief Longevity 33 Because sum noumes incurre into adverbes, let us shoe neast their differences 1625 Bacon Ess, Envy (Arb) 513 For it commeth often into their remembrance, and incurreth likewise more into the ears of others 1632 Hy Hall Iuvenilia 87 These go yers do incur into each other, and are not possible to be severed 1677 Hale Prim Orig Man 146 Kinchrus in the first book of his Egyptian Antiquities supposeth the first 15 Dynasties to have incurred before the Flood

†b To come in so as to meet the eye, the observation, etc, to occur Obs

1626 Bacon Sylva § 48 Like Eyes are Insuable and incurre not to the Line 1681 Flavel Coner 27 Sept in Mem (1819) II 214 If any thing incurr to you of Curiosity you will greately oblige the Church of Virtuos in communicating the observations of the places you travell thro 1692 South 12 Serm (1697) I 317 According to the different Quality of Externall Objects that incurr inter into the Senses

c To devolve or accrue, to supervene

1786 T Jefferson Writ (1859) I 546 the principal, with the interest incurring here and after the war 1828 Craig Jurisprud III v 2 No disconveniency by the non presentation of the patron, within six months

†2 To run into (danger, etc), to render oneself liable to damage Obs

1598-1 Lett to Hen VIII, c 15 Other spyrituall persones haue fallen and incurred into dyuers daungers of his lawes 1533 Sir W Fitzwilliam in Ellis Orig Lett Ser II iii 28 All such people as have been of late Wood and Maundy, shulde encurre to fore in daungier of Lawes, and of High Treason 1620 Shelton Quix III xxii 82 God deliver me out of this dangerous Profession of being a Squire, into which I have this second time, incurr'd

II trans

†3 To run into, to move or press into, on, or against, to come upon, meet with Obs

1599 A Nut for Gabriel's Pill A 2 Did, Whose beaten footepath, your Maiesties persone doth so incurre 1677 Barrow Serm (1687) I xiii 9 He that is no longer affected with the Love of God incurreth Displeasure, and suffers not it self to be diverted 1680 Butler Rem (1759) I 295 Those imported from the East, Where first they were incurr'd, as hold the best

4 To run or fall into (some consequence, usually undesirable or injurious), to become through one's own action liable or subject to, to bring upon oneself

1535 Stewart Cron Scot II 699 And so this Robert in cursit grit skayth, And frustrat war than of his kinriks hyth 1579 Tusser Hopbines (Arb) 54, I should haue incurred suspition of ill will 1614 Selden Titles Hon 611 by this license is not almoste fault I encurre a mistake checke 1667 Milton P L x 63 They, not obeying, Incurr'd (what could they less) the penalty 1752 Johnson Rambler No 155 P 1 No weakness of the human mind is more frequently incurred than admiration 1795 Burke Fr Affairs Wks VI 343 All the expence is to be incurred gratis 1818 H & J Smith Rej Addr x (1873) 91 Dissenting fire-school without incurring fresse 1838 Lytton Athens II 1 Some you the greatest debt owing to one master to another 1841 Lytton Bulwer Pilgrims I 181 He incurred the displeasure of his sovereign 1867 Freeman Norm Conq III 366 A fine was incurred in ordinary cases 1885 J Martineau Types Eth Th II 48 Feelings which incur our disgust or complacency

†b Obsolete constructions Obs

1630 Rich Honest Ould Man (1844) 20 The tenths part fro God yif thou withdrawe, I thou must incurre To been accurs'ed by reason of the lawe 1726 Ambrose Serm Pol (ed 2) 80 Who attempted this without any visible warrant upon himself that oblequy and clamour, which usually attend such innovations.

†5 To cause to be incurred, to bring on or upon (some one); to entail Obs

1627 Hakewill Apol iv xii § 5 (1630) 472 The Apostle wanteth not in naming it expressely, let thereby he should incurre hatred against the Christian Professours and himself 1747 Id Advantages Christ 10 The unspeakable luminous behaviour of the firmament incurred on him the contempt of the whole corps 1784 Lauren & Augustus III 3 His sickness has necessarily incurred expences, which we are unable to bear

Hence Incurred (inkə·d) ppl a, Incurring (inkə·ĭn) vbl sb and ppl a

1599 Minsheu Sp Dict, Incurrimunte, running into, falling into, incurring 1644 Milton Judgm Bucer xi, Not death but the incurring of notorious infamy 1856 W Irving Astoria III 181 The interest of the whole, thereby pronounced unequal to the expenses incurred a 1890 J Brown Sermons (1892) 120 The recklessly incurred debt

Incurability (inkiū·răbĭlĭti) [f next see ITY, cf F incurabilité] The quality of being incurable

1630 H R Mythomystes 2 To helpe on these diseases to incurability 1664 Power Exp Philos III 187 The incurability of Cancers and Quartans 1762 Cantwell in Phil Trans LII 520 That the incurability proceeded from some other distemper complicated with the cataract 1868 Farrar Seekers Concl. (1873) 330 The supposed incurability of evil

Incurable (inkiū·răbl), a (sb) [a OF incurable (13-14th c in Hatz.-Darm.), ad L incūrabilis, f in- (In-3) + cūrābilis Curable]

1 That cannot be cured, incapable of being healed by medicine or medical skill a 1340 Hampole Psalter Cant 520 Venym of snakis is incabil 1380 Wyclif 2 Mach ix 5 But the Lord God of Israel smote hym with a wound incurable c 1386 Chaucer Monke's T 610 God him smoot With invisible wounde, ay incurable 1480 Caxton Chron. Eng cxl 183 The normal he hald Incurable 1533 More Apol xiv Wks 870/2 For healths of the whole body, cutte and cast of the incurable canard tuines therefor 1721 Nelson Addr Fest Quiet 210 We have not, for instance, a Hospital for the Incurable 1846 Ireland Miracles (1860) 210 The disease was incurable by the art and skill of man

2 transf and fig Not admitting of remedy, correction, or reformation

1377 Langl P Pl B xii 33 How pat leued men ben ladde Pough vnkonynge vsages amonges vnkynde pastures 1560 Jewel Serm bef Queen Pr Ixix 9, I hat yet before the faulte be incurable, there may be some redresse 1595 Shaks John v i 16 Present medicine must be minister'd, Or else this incurable ensues 1665 Glanvill Def Dog 88 The Transcripts were full of errour and incurable defects 1793 Burke Rev Propos Suppl Ch Plant Wks III 206 Ignorance is not so incurable as error 1855 Macaulay Hist Eng xx IV 386 His faults of temper and head were incurable 1879 Jefferies Wild Life in S Co x 203 Weeds are incurable drunkards

B sb A person suffering from an incurable disease Usually in pl

1824 Howell in Graphic Rev Naples II 230 They burnt the Monastery of Santa Maria 1828 Craig Jurisprud of the Incurables 1745 Swift Let I, If idiots and lunaticks cannot be found, much alike may be taken into the hospital 1766 Chesterf Lett (1774) IV 245 To waddle in in the fulness of his powers from the House of Commons and to go into the Hospital for Incurables, the House of Lords 1778 Lond Chronicler (ed 2) 1 1 Southcott's This hospital is said to be for incurables, i e for such as are turned out of other hospitals for any ailments that are incurable except insanity 1816 Scott Antiquary II xiv 253 To leave a country which, like a lunatic hospital, contained only fools and incurables

Incurableness (inkiū·răblnes) [f prec + -ness] The quality of being incurable

1612 Sir Hy Hall Contempt, &c P iv vi The incurableness of their disease both sent her to seek Christ, and moved Christ to her cure 1807 Med Jrnl XVII 82 Had it not been the aldurness of the complaint 1817 Bickham Plan Part Ref Introd 109 The incurableness of the disorder, and the consequently incurable corruption of the heart

Incurably (inkiū·răbli), adv [f as prec + -ly 2] In an incurable manner or condition, to an incurable degree

1589 More Suppl Soules Wks 3 4 Some other whose body is so incurable corrupted that they cannot welter and loller 1649 Br Hall Cases of Conscience (R), If any man shall fraudulently sell an horse, which he knows secretly and incurably diseased to another for sound 1763 J Brown Poetry & Mus xii 212 The French Language is void of Harmony and Variety, and incurably discordant 1847 R H Miller Royal Inspir 1 (1850) 4 Of all great diseases and misfortunes, his [the hero's] master achievement—the taking of a nation—is the greatest and most incurably calamitous 1856 Froude Hist I 288 Which only grows as they were to fighting in the best ordered times

†Incurie. Obs rare. [a F incurie (Cotgr), ad L incuria carelessness, f in- (In-3) + cūra Care] Carelessness

a 1540 in Pol Verg Eng Hist (Camden) I 301 Their sauvage bothe in places and menns names I thought good to observe that their incurie may not be a blemishe to our hy tome 1623 Cockeram, Incurie, carelessnesse

Incuriosity (inkiū·rĭŏsĭti) [f Incurious (Curiosity, F incuriosité] The quality or fact of being incurious, or without curiosity

1803 Edinb Review (1844) 605 How soft, how gentle, and how sound a pillow is ignorance and incuriosity to rest a well composed head upon 1859 H F Tozer's Illiade Dov Off 25 Lest by chance, either through ignorance or incuriosity, heterodox and unsound tenets be united 1752 Warburton Serm Wks 1811 IX 1 Such is [Pilate's] incuriosity or indifference, when Truth was offered to be laid before him as a private man. Shew him in a light much less serious 1821 Lamb Elia Ser 1 Old & New Schools, I alone should stand unterrified, from sheer incuriosity and want of observation 1857 Buckle Civiliz I vii 398 Books from the general incuriosity of the people found but few readers

†2 The quality of being objectively incurious, or not carefully composed, homeliness, inelegance

1661 Papers on Alter Prayer Bk 38 God heareth not Prayers, for the Rhetorick, and handsome Cadencies, and neatnesse of Expression, but will bear with some Incuriosity of words

†b quasi-concr An inelegant or careless trait

1651 Jer Taylor Serm for Year I xv 195 Thinking all things become a good man, even his gestures and little incuriosities

Incurious (inkiū·rĭŏs), a [ad L incūrios-us careless, unconcerned, negligent, not done with care, f in- (In-3) + cūrāsius careful, Curious, cf F incurieux. In sense 7, app f In-3 + Curious]

1 Subjectively.

1 Without care or concern a Not bestowing care, careless, negligent, heedless b Free from care or applebition, not anxious, untroubled arch (Constr of)

1570 Levins Manip 226/6 Incuriouse, incuriosus a 1619 Fotherby Atheom (1622) 270 Can we think that the Providence ... should be so supinely incurious as to slight and neglect the falling of kingdoms? 1647 Jer Taylor Lib Proph Ep Ded 15 It would be hard to say that such Physitians are incurious of their Patients. 1647 Clarendon Hist Reb VII § 321 In his Chamber and Habit, he was not now only incurious, but too negligent 1670 Mayhwaring Vade Sanat iv 4 In a threefold manner the Soul ... is incurious of the welfare of the Body 1737 I Clarke Holy Bible (1740) II Gosp VI 157 But they, incurious of those hell torments Judas felt 1862 Lyttons & Earl Tannhäuser 92 He wander'd forth, incurious of the way

2 Not desirous of obtaining knowledge, information, or news, uninquisitive, unmquiring, indifferent, devoid of curiosity

1613-18 Daniel Coll Hist Eng (1626) 2 So incurious were they of further knowledg then what concerned their trade a 1614 Donne Biathanatos 205 Papias the Disciple of Saint John, whose time cannot be thought to be incurious of Judas' History 1774 J Bryant Mythol I 155 There surely was never a nation so incurious and in different about truth 1825 J H Newman Par Sermons (1837) III xii 188, I am speaking of those of us who have learned to reflect, ... not of the incurious or illiterate. 1842 Lytton Zanoni 90 Not with the ardour of boyish love and romance, but of students. 1883 Century Mag XXV 603/1 Cecil was incurious about the lives and character of her two comrades

3 Not careful in observation, heedless, unattentive, careless.

1691 Ray Creation I (1692) 45 Exposed to the Eyes and notice of the more careless and incurious Observer 1713 Derham Phys Theol (1730) II 1 note, By an incurious view, it rather regarreth, than pleaseth the eye 1768 B Stillingfl tr Sprat Hist Royal Soc 1 259 note, Here a notion which prevails commonly that cows eat the crow foot This shews how very incurious the country people are in relation to things they are every day conversant with 1812 J J Hussey Camp agst Quebec 223 Resembles the latter, in the bark and leaf so much, that an incurious eye might be deceived 1848 R I Wilberforce Incarnation v (1850) 90 He discerns the full meaning of what had at first fallen idly on his incurious ear

†4 Not minute or careful in estimating, not precise or fastidious, not particular, uncritical, undiscriminating Obs

1645 Be Hall Komedy Pu ontents 126 The meek spirit is incurious, and ... takes his lod from God as the Camel from his Master upon his knees 1648 Hexham Groot Bat Wake, Players Base in action as in clothes, Yet with straits they will please The incurious villages 1728 Vanbr & Cib Prov Wife I 91, The greatest Blessing Heav'n can e'er sent, Is in a Spouse, Incurious and Content 1749 Jones Prov Numbers 5 Many modern Writers are so very incurious in this Point, that provided there be Harmony and I thought they seem concerned for nothing else

II Objectively

†5 Not carefully or exquisitely prepared, made, composed, or done, plain, homely, coarse

1608-21 Br Hall Medit & Vows, Low Christ § 10 Canst Thou, O blessed Saviour, be so taken with the incurious and homely features of thy faithful ones? Ibid, Sight Faith (1851) 74 No doubt, Elijah's stomach was often put to before that his incurious diet came 1615 T Adams Blin Deaf 47 It [the house] is not slutish, for it is swept, it is not incurious, for it is garnished 1691 R L Bentleian's Hranda Rom Monks 114 The Angel Tumor must have been but a Blockhead and Bungler at his Art to draw such rude and incurious Strokes 1824 Hazlitt Table Comp 535 This solid piece of not incurious sculpture

†6 Not elaborate, or abstruse, simple Obs

1664 Jer Taylor Dissuas Popery 2 They establish no doctrine, neither curious nor incurious

7 Unworthy of careful notice, not remarkable, uninteresting, deficient in interest, not curious (I sp in negative forms of expression)

1747 Gentl's Jour Antiq 71 The Manner of the Process is not incurious 1778 Hist Jour Ital 71 The inscriptions have never been published, and are not incurious 1824 Dibdin Libr Comp 589 The author of several very rare and not incurious pieces of poetry

Incuriously (inkiū·rĭəsli), adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an incurious manner, carelessly, without care, concern, or close attention

1603 Florio Montaigne III viii, These ... who so slackly and incuriously receive their good fortune 1654 H L Estrange Chas I (1655) 56 subtile surprised the Isle of Rhe, then incuriously guarded 1735 § Dottoghood Ode Parties xiv 11 In such an age public accounts [will be] rarely or incuriously inspected. 1874 Symonds St Italy & Greece (1898) I 118 You take it for a stone cross and you pass it by incuriously

Incuriousness (inkiū·rĭəsnes) [f as prec + -ness] The quality of being incurious, a Incuriosity

1620 Dr Hall Apol Brownists § 6 Marvell at this silent and sociable incuriousnesse 1649 Jer Taylor Gt Exemp III iv 83 Jesus found his apostles asleep, gently chiding their incuriousnesse 1751 Chesterf Lett (1792) III cclxvii 229 How many are there who, from laziness, inattention, and incuriousness, will not so much as ask for it 1877 F P Burton in Athenæum 3 Nov 569/1 Signor Romolo Gessi neglected, with true incuriositic incuriousness, to land at the southernmost extremity

Incurl, variant of Encurl v

†Incurnment. Obs rare [f Incur + -ment] The action of incurring

1647 M Hudson Div Right Govt II iv 90 The voluntary incurment of a more criminous guilt Ibid v 159 The incurment of the guilt of damnation

Incurrable (inkū·răb'l), a [f Incur + -able] Liable to be incurred

1822 I Hunt in Examiner 11 May 296/1 Hardships incurrable from a dispute between this country and America

Incurrage, obs form of Encourage v

Incurrence (inkū·rĕns) [f Incurrent + -ence] The action or fact of incurring a The entrance of sensations or impressions b The running into liabilities

a 1656 Br Hall Works (1837) VI 421 (D) No more than we can open our eyes at noon day without an incurrence and admission of an outward light 1859 Stanley Hist Philos xi (1701) 405/2 Cogitation is made by incurrence of Images 1871 Mahaffy in Fraser's Mag IV 24 A further expenditure found upon her incurrence 1892 Current Hist (Detroit) Dec 226/1 A barrier against the incurrence of new or altered foreign complications

Incurrent (inkū·rĕnt), a [ad L incurrent-em, pres ppl of incurrere to run in see Incur and -ent] Running in, penetrating into the interior, + flowing within (a period)

1563-87 Foxe A & M (1684) I 824/1 Seeing we have compleinded the main principall matters by him now incurrent 1851-6 Woodward Mollusca 139 Amphilasma globosa. Vessel with a long incurrent syphon, formed by the left lobes of the mantle 1882 Nat Hist Ash Johns Hopkins III 13 Running down the middle of the triangular plate is the central string of tissue, the rachis, and at its end the incurrent blood vessel

†Incurrsant, a Obs rare—1 [ad L incursant-em, pres ppl of incursare, freq of incurrere to run in] (?) Running into each other, meeting

1657 Lowthorp Anwan's Disp agst The stone Amantus, which consists of many incurrsant fibres

†Incursa tion. Obs rare [ad late L incursation-em, n of action f incursare see prec] Incursion

1659 H Moor Immort Soul III x (1662) 186 Taking away this Medium, or all the incursations and molestations of these Acrial Inhabitants

†Incursate. Obs rare [ad L incursus, f ppl stem of incurrere to Incur cf Incursus]

1 = Incursive a

1543-4 Act 35 Hen VIII c 12 The same Scottes make diuers and vndry incursates, inuasions and depopulacions in this his realme 1597 Acts Jas I (1816) IV 161 The saide landes and Ile wilbe spoyled and harried of his arss of the hiel and and brokin men 1644 R Carpenter Experience iv xi 219 Very silly or incurse of Temptation

2 In the sense of anything into another, so as to join or fall into it

1578 Banister Hist Man I 25 Through which hole, a braunch of the vny conjunction taketh direct incurse into these Meanes

Incursion (inkū·ʃən) Also 6 incurtion, incourcion, encursion [ad L incursion-em, n of action f incurrere to Incur cf F incursion (14th c in Hatz-Darm)]

1 The action of running in or of running against 1614 Cogan Haven of Health 174 As the winde it passeth and repasseth at his pleasure, vnsene, but not vnfelt, for the force and incursion thereof is not without a kinde of violence 1658 Lowthorp Acad Nat I v 304 The Demo critics and Epicures do not suppose, all humane Constitutions to be Caused by the Incursion of Corporeal Atoms upon the Body 1796 Morse Amer Geog I 60 The most inevitable incursion of new images 1885 Law Times LXXX 133/2 the cargo was damaged by the incursion of sea water through a hole in a pipe.

2 A hostile inroad or invasion, esp one of sudden and hasty character, a sudden attack

1432-50 tr Higden (Rolls) I 363 That other is expounded to the incursion of Heathes 1494 Fabyan Chron v lxxxiii 61 And the Scots should defende the lande from Incursion of all Enymyes 1555 W Watkyn Wase Familiar Epistles 8 To auoyde the inuasion of he sayes, and meane of straying, borders with commune, and substande suche encursions 1592 Howell Def (Halliwell Soc) 128 He had continuall warrs with the Germane Hun, who did sore annoye him with their yearly incursions 1671 Milton P R IV 30 Against the Scythian, whose incursions wild Have wasted Sogdiana 1727 Hist Europe (1740) I 2 Their Incursions were frequently repelled and chastised 1828 Scott Fr of Perth xxv, There had been repeated incursion of the Highlanders into the county town of Perth 1885 [Martino tr Usi e Abusi 181] One of the consequences become terrible like an incursion of wild beasts

b transf and fig

1640 Br Hall Passions Anxiety xxiii 296 It least of all suffers the Incursion of grosser Passions 1660 Jer Taylor Worthy Communic I v 30, We give too much way to the daily incursions of the smaller irregularities of our lives 1700 Dryden Pal & Arcite III 671 In the neighbouring noble she stroke, Rais'd there to break th' incursions of the flood 1794 Paley Evid II vi (1817) 154 The sudden and critical incursion of the disease 1860 Tyndall Glac I iv 34 An embankment to defend the land from the incursions of the river

†c Sins of daily incursion the small sins which make daily inroads upon a holy life Cf quot 1660 in Ob

a 1655 Vines Lord's Supp (1677) 236 Quotidian sins of daily incursion 1709 Brit Apollo II 69 2/1 Lesser Miscarriages stild by the Casuists, Sins of Daily Incursion are Inseparable to Frail Mortality 1737 Waterland Eucharist 158 Sins of daily Incursion, such as are ordinarily consistent with a prevailing Love of God, and Love of our Neighbour

†3. The action of incurring (blame or liability) 1620 Healey St Aug Citie of God xv xx (1620) 521 Who dare affirme how many they were, without incursion of rashnes?

Incu·rsionist [f Incursion + -ist, after excursionist] One who makes an incursion or inroad, an invader (Humorous)

1885 Blackw Mag July 111 To be hunted from post to post in one's own hou e by surging floods of independent incursionists 1890 Harper Lond Voice 17 Sept 374/3 These incursionists will have some of the cattle to be crucified in British pockets 1898 W P Garrison New Gulliver 43 The building contained ... along with skeletons of the monkey incursionists, others of the Yahoos

Incursive (inkē·rsĭv), a [f I incurs-, ppl stem of incurrere to run in + -ive] Given to making incursions, aggressive, invasive

1592 R D Hypnomachia 66 Shee is malignant, fo wanton, disdainefull, with most idle incursyve passions 1771 Goldsm Hist Eng IV 61 The forces he had to combat were incursive, barbarous, and shy a 1774 — Nat Hist Prince (1776) II 131 All the parts oppose their united repelling power, to meet the incursive force. 1880 Time II 159 In the good old times of feud and petty incursive warfare

Incurtain, -teyn, obs var of Encurtain v

Incurvate (inkē·rvĕt), ppl a [ad L incurvat-us, pa. ppl of incurvare to Incurve] = In curved

1649 H More Song of Soul II App xi, Their (comets) wasted beards this and no broad doth show Incurvate 17 Phil & Cry Dis 38 in Somers Tracts I 500 How does Man (a tender Infant) grow stubborn, incurvate, distorted 1776-88 [In Entick Lond] Spelm Terms 200 The trunk or stem thereon Incurvate and incarnate, bending inwards 1846 Dana Zoöph (1849) 578 Tube spreading, tumose, incurvate

Incurvate (inkē·rvĕt, in-), v [f I incurvat-, ppl stem of incurvare to Incurve App first in 19 ppl, f 18 prec + -ed]

1 trans To bring into a curved shape, to bend from a straight line or form, to curve, to crook, now, spec, to bend or curve inwards

1578 Banister Hist Man I 34 Obliquely stretching and incurvated 1623 Cockeram Eng Dict II, To bow Incurvate, Incline 1650 Bulwer Anthropometa 171 By this constant and foolish Custom the Bones may be incurvated 1714 Derham Infer Theol I iii note, A Micrometer which would incurvate the rays one way 1822 Sir Guy's Study Med ed 4 III 458 The muscles are thrown into a rigid and pain ment spasm, the incurvated, the body as in tetanus

Ac 1643 Sir T Browne Relig Med I § 42 Age doth not incurvate but incurvate our natures. 1691 T Ivery Inhuman Cruelt Dutch 64 Decorateth or incurvateth in Mind towards Good or Evil

+2 intr To take or have a curved form, to curve, to bend or look Obs

1647 Jer Taylor Gt Exemp III xv 93 The Body not very weighty, but incurvating somewhat with the Head 1697 Aubrey Lives, Peachum (1898) I 220 He was of the tallest, but a little incurvating at his shoulders.

Incurvated (inkē·rvĕtĕd) ppl a [f prec + -ed] Bent into, or having, a curved form, curved, crooked, spec curved inwards 1665 Manley Cotton Lond Warrants 20 Fortified with 16 strong incurvated Rampires 1758 H Miles Phil Trans L 1 Nor is the long incurvated Glass tube 1776 Gaffito in Phil Trans LXVI 208 The cord of the incurvated string. 1822 Sir Guy's Study Med (ed 4) I 72 In extreme debility and emaciation, with stiff incurvated limbs.

Incurvation (inkērvē·ʃən) [ad I incurvation-em, n of action from incurvare to Incurve]

1 The action or process of bringing into or assuming a curved form, curving, bending, with pl an instance of this

1608 Hieron Defence III 156 All incurvation and bowing of the body unto Images 1612-15 Br Hall Contempt, O T xv 4 That so stiffens the knees of Mortlecat that death is made to them but a kind of incurvation 1713 Derham Phys Theol v iii 26 Firmly braced with Muscles and Tendons, for easy incurvations of the Body. 1831 Brewster Nat Magic xvii 260 The incurvation or bending of a ray of light incident on such a surface

† b spec bowing in reverence or worship Obs

1607 Sclat Disc Mark Antichrist 20 Idolatrous incurvation towards the East he still continued? 1664 H Moore Myst Iniq I xi 36 Thus shall not dis, the service of Incurvation in any other Religious service, to them 1708 C Mather Magn Chr II v 3 Idolatrous Incurvations to the Sun

2 The condition of being bent, curved formation, curvature, an instance of this, a curve, or bend

1647 H More Song of Soul I App xxxv, How, in the sunrays so that be transitive Through these loose knots it cannot well approve Their beards or curled tufts utmost incurvation? 1697 Petter Philos Conjec 11 By reason of the Incurvation of the Scythian Bow, which ... was so great as to form a Half Moon 1797 Monthly Mag III ... In the incurvation of the spine 1820-3 tr Dallas's Travels I 179 Extending nearly in a straight line ... without following the incurvations 1885 Goodall Hips bot (1889) 34 The incurvation [of the leaf] lasts for only a day or two fig 1660 Fuller Mixt Contempt (1841) 118 Some will say, that the weight of heavy taxes have caused this crookedness and incurvation 1865 Blackstone Comm I ii 172 note, The incurvations of practice are then the most notorious, when compared with the rectitude of the rule

3 A curving inwards or the condition of being curved inwards

1822-34 Gairdner's Study Med (ed 4) II 58 It [whitlow] is also occasioned by an incurvation of the nails. 1866 A

FIRST Primc Mod (1880) 10 Bulbous enlargement of the ends of the finger, with incurvation of the nails, forming what are called clubbed fingers. 1873 DARWIN Descent Pl xvi 372 There was decided incurvation

Incurvature (inkē·ivătiūd) rare [f I incurvat, ppl stem of incurvare to INCURVE + -ATURE.] A curving inwards, an inward curvature or bend 1809 KENDALL Trav I in 8 Its vertical sea board is rendered much more considerable by the incurvatures of small bays and inlets. 1880 Nature 9 Aug 356/1 The greater incurvature of the wind in rear than in front of hurricanes in the Southern Indian Ocean.

Incurve (inkē·iv), v [ad I incurvare to bend in, bow, crook, curve, f. in- (IN-2) + curvāre to crook, bend, CURVE, curvus crooked, bent.]

1 trans. To bend into a curved form, to curve (= INCURVATE v. 1), in mod. use, To curve or bend (something) inwards

1610 HOLLAND Camden's Brit I 651 The Sea now retiring South-ward, and with a mighty Compasse and sundry bayes incurving the shore. 1660 I. TAYLOR Gr. Lyon xi 46 Come to the Cup of his blood, not entending, thy hand, but incurving them. 1735 SOMERVILLE Chase II 446 Von hollow Trunk. That with his hoary Head incurv'd salutes The pressing Wave. 1866 NEALE Sequences & Hymns 146 The inanimate incurving themselves round the City. 1880 in Nature XXI 357 The steel having been violently rent and incurved.

2 intr. To take or have a curved form, to curve or bend inwards 1794 GRAW Mus. Am. (I. 3) Towards its extremity the spur protrudes and afterwards incurves. 1848 COOPER Towers de l'Orgue II 20 Those fair open fields that incurve to thy beautiful hollow.

Hence Incurving vbl sb and ppl a

1865 Intell Observ No 47 130 The spiral incurving of the wind. 1880 WARREN Inhab. Planet 118 In the incurving of the shell work. 1884 Nature 4 Instead the direction of the storm centre, we must know the incurving angle of the wind's spiral.

Incurved inkē·ivd, ppl a. [f. prec. + -ED.] Taken as representing I. incurvus bent, crooked.] Bent into or having a curved form, curved, crooked, in mod use, Curved or bent inwards, having an inward curvature (Now chiefly in Zool and Bot)

1663 COCKAYNE Cleomedes, Incurved, bowed 1763 WOLFE in Phil Trans LIV 95 They have all sharp black incurved claws. 1816 W SMITH Strata Ident 32 This thick Strata contains very incurved oysters. 1826 KIRBY & SP. Entomol III xxxi 53 The head projects into a long incurved obtuse horn. 1852 DANA Crust I 52 The spinulorm teeth a little incurved. 1879 LUBBOCK Sci. Lect I 6 In the genus Pinguicula the leaves are concave, with incurved margins. 1880 Daily News 3 Nov 3/8 The incurved varieties [of chrysanthemums] from China. 1895 Ibid 4 Nov 5/1 The classes for cut flowers comprised Japanese, incurved, reflexed, anemone, and pompon anemone varieties.

Incurvetting see INCURVITED 2, quot 1697

†Incurvity. Obs [f I. incurv-us bent, crooked + -ITY: cf curvitās crookedness, CURVITY.] The quality of being incurved, inward curvature

1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep V II 235 Men best expressed their velocity by incurvity, and under some figure of a bow. 1658-9 — Hydriot (1736) 18 Whether the incurvity at the upper end of the upper bill, and small recurvity of the lower

Incus (ĭ·nkŭs) Anat and Zool [L. incūs, incūd-em anvil, f incud-ĕre see INCUSE *v.*²]

1 The middle one of the three small bones of the ear (malleus, incus, and stapes), to which the sonorous vibrations are conveyed from the malleus or 'hammer' — ANVIL 3 b

1669 HOOKE Phil Collect No 4 62 The Malleus lies slow, fixed to the Tympanum, and on the other end is joined to the Incus by a double or ungilymoid joint. 1787 HUNTER in Phil Trans LXXVII 444 The incus is attached by a small process to the tympanum and is suspended between the malleus and stapes. 1856 TODD & BOWMAN Phys Anat II 30 The incus is shaped not unlike a molar tooth

2 A part of the 'trophi' or mouth-apparatus in Rotifera, upon which the two malleï work

1877 HUXLEY Anat Inv Anim iv 188 The contraction of the muscular masses, to which the malleï are attached, causes the free ends of the latter to work backwards and forwards upon the incus. 1888 ROLLESTON & JACKSON Anim Life 643 The mouth [in Rotifera] leads into an œsophagus, followed usually directly by a muscular pharynx or mastax containing the chitinous jaw apparatus or 'trophi.' These consist of two hammer like bodies, the malleï, which work against an incus or anvil. The incus [consists] of two pieces, rami, borne upon a single piece, the fulcrum

Incuse (inkiū·z a and sb [ad I incūs-us pa pple of incūdĕre see INCUSE *v.*²] The sb use corresponds to F incuse (1692 in Hatz Darm.).]

A adj Hammered or stamped in said of a figure or impression upon a coin or the like

1818 R P KNIGHT Symbolic Lang (1876) 64 In the centre of an incuse square. 1825-7 HONE Every-day Bk II 147 The carving is incuse. 1879 LUBBOCK in 19th Cent VI 756 On the one side is an incuse square or punch mark. 1886 Athenæum 27 Mar 426/3 Mr T. Jones communicated a paper on the rare didrachm with the owl on the obverse and incuse square diagonally divided on the reverse

B sb A figure stamped in, an impression in intaglio upon a coin, etc.

1818 R P KNIGHT Symbolic Lang (1876) 64 In the coins

(= IN-) + DARE v.] trans. To inspire with daring, to incite, provoke

1599 Life More in Wordsw Eccl Biog (1853) II 139 Considering that if he should there in his owne presence, recreane any overthrowe, it would indare them to attempt the like or greater matters 1611 PEGGE Anonymiana, to indare, to encharge, to enhearte

†Indar'ken, variant of ENDARKEN v.

1628 FELTHAM Resolves I xxii 92 As if the breath which the child lost, had disclouded his indarkned heart

Indart (indāɹt), v Also 6–7 EN- †I- IN-I + DART v.] trans. To dart in

1598 SHAKS. Rom & Jul I iii 98 (and Qo) No more deape will I endart [so Inter Qos and Fos, ed Theobald (1733) indart] mine eye Then your consent gives strength to make it flie 1880 H SCOTT HOLLAND Logic & Life (1881) 261 In the light of his indarted splendour evil reveals the full horror of its deformity

†Inde, Obs Also 4 ind, 4–5 ynde [A F inde, AF ynde, ad L indum = indicum, in Italian, as subst indigo.] A blue dye obtained from India, now called INDIGO, the colour of this, or a fabric dyed with it a 1300 Cursor M 9920 Pe toiper heu neist for to find, Fra al o blau, men cals Ind [v r ynde] c 1320 Cast Love 712 Sebben abouten Jut aber hare Wede Was ynde and eke blou Lorig Si rest e ynde, e blui] 14 Sir Cleges in Ritson's Ord (1790) 434 Colour hit wyl yyue: ynde 1387–8 Acct 53 Ric. II 58 Grounded with Inde and Anise, ad loc Inde 1658 [see INDERADDIAN below]

b. attrib. or as adj Blue Inde carde of CARDE ib.

1359–60 Durham Acc Rolls (Surtees) II 384 In duobus pecijs de indekarde 1360–61 Ibid 385 Et in vj stis de indecard c 1400 MAUNDEV (Rawl) xii 95 His bride is ynde colour 1433 I NOT St Edmund Prol 49 Has other standard, feeld stable off colour ynde 14 Voc in Wr-Wülcker 588/23 Jacinctinus, ynde colour

Hence †Indeadanian (Inde Bauniau), indigo

1573 Art of Vomiting 4 Indeadanis is of it selfe maketh a darke and sad blacke 1634 PEACHAM Gentl Exerc. i xxiii 80 Take Indeadanian and grinde it with the water of Litmose, if you will have it deepe, but if light, grinde it with fine Cerusse 1658 PHILLIPS, Inde, a certain Mineral wherwith they use to paint or die of a blew colour, called also Indico . . It is of two sorts, English Inde, and Indian Bauniau

Indesar, -ment, obs variant of ENDEAVOUR

†Indebi'tate, a Obs rare—1 [ad med L indebitātāt-us see IN-2 and DEBILITATE a] Debilitated, enfeebled

1529 Will of Prymar (Somerset Ho) Indebitate of body

So †Indebi'litated a

1656 W COWPER in Phil Trans XIX 302 Of these extravagant Puns she was much eased . . but never the less continued much indebilitated

†Inde bt, ppl a Obs. rare In 6 indett, endebt [short for INDEBTED, cf DEBT ppl a] Indebted

1504 Bury Wills (Camden) 93 All my good frendes soulles that I am bown ded or indett to pray for 1642 Perkins' Prof Bk II § 180 79 If a man by his Obligation doth acknowledge himselfe to be endebt unto the Obligee

Inde bt, v Now rare [Inferred from INDEBTED, perh after F endetter (endetter) in same sense.]

1. trans To bring under monetary obligation; to involve in debt (In quots refl.)

1586 T B La Primaud Fr Acad (1589) 206 After he had indebted himselfe in seven hundred and fifteene thousand crownes 1603 HOLLAND Pliny Hist 299 One indebteth himselfe for to build a sumptuous and stately house

2 To bring under an obligation of any kind

1603 DANIEL Panegyr Wks (1717) 300 Thy Lessons hath indebted thee to none a 1639 W WHATELY Prototypes II xxiv (1640) 13 Bee they not benefits inducting us to God in many praises? 1652 PENN Spir Guide 1 Who would not indebt our selves to his Favour 1875 RUSKIN Fors Clav V lviii 285 If it borrow at all, it is at least in honour bounded to borrow from living men, and not indebt itself to its own unborn brats.

Indebted (indɛ·tĕd), ppl a Forms a 3 andettede, 4–6 endetted, (4 -id, 5 -yd), β 5 indettydd, 6 -detted, 6– indebted [ME endetted, after OF endetté, pa pple of endetter to involve in debt, f en- (IN-2) + dette DEBT sb, cf AF endeptar, -dettar, Sp endeudar, It (and med L) indebtāre In the 15–16th c the prefix was assimilated to IN-2 and the radical to DEBT sb]

1. Under obligation on account of money borrowed, owing money, in debt

a 1300 CHAUCER Can Yeom Prol 8 T 182 It is I am endetted so therby Of gold, that I haue borrowed trewely 1448 T HOBTEL in Ellis Orig Lett Ser II I 96 He being now falle to great age and poverty greatly endetted. 1494 FABYAN Chron VII 653 He . . after longe beyngen in West mynster as a seyntyary man dyed there, beynge greatly endebtyd vnto many persons 1542–3 Act 34 & 35 Hen VIII, c. 4 Any person . . endebted to anie suche offendour β 1483 Cath Angl 195/2 Indettydd 1528 Act 4 Hen VIII, c. 18 § 15 Persones so indebted . . to be utterly acquyted & discharged therof 1599–80 NORTH Plutarch (1595) 162 Hee beganne to flatter the common people, and specially those that were indebted. 1765–9 HUME Hist Eng (1806) IV lxiii. 709 Notwithstanding the supplies voted him, his treasury was still very empty and very much indebted 1885 TAIT Prop Matter v § 63 51 If he overdraws he is to that amount indebted to the bank

†b To be indebted, to owe (so much)

1601 R Johnson Kingd & Commw (1603) 17 [He] left his sonnes indebted 30 millions of crownes, and without credite amongst the merchants 1755 J SHEBBEARE Lydia (1770) II 239 Jenkin Williams lent him the money he was indebted 1784 R BAGE Barham Downs II 138, I am indebted to your Lordship an answer 1797 MARY ROBINSON Walsingham III 187 To this infamous associate I was indebted thirty pounds

2 Under obligation to another on account of some liability incurred or claim unsatisfied, liable for some omission of duty, an unfulfilled promise, etc, bound Obs or arch

a 1225 Ancr A 126 Pu ert andetted toward me swuche mid summen c 1380 WYCLIF Sel Wks III 352 Pei ben ys endetted to God, whanne pei ben endetted to opin, to helpe him alle pis goouth and bodili 1557 N T (Geneva) Luke xi 4 And forgeue vs our synnes for euen we forgeue euery man that is indebted to vs 1595 Bk Ann Nonns Nunn (1840) 202 The flock is indebted to their pastor, to honour and to reverence him as their father 1608 33 BP HALL Medit & Vows (1660) 14 When I have promised I am indebted and debts may be claimed must be paid 1667 MILTON P L III 295 He her vnto Can never seek, once dead in sins Of loue, Inclement for himself or offering meet, Indebted and undon, hath none to bring

3 Under obligation to another for favours or services received, owning gratitude, beholden

1561 T HOBY tr Castiglione's Courtyer in Dedic Wks Sir I am indebted and bounde to god 1590 GREENE Menaphon (Arb) 61 Then, sir, haue I mistooke your honestie and im lesse indebted to your courtesie 1600 WARNER Albion's Engl Comm Pref Arg, All the others haue nothing to glory in, but how Princes and States are indebted to them 1777 BURKE Amer Wks I 380 I am indebted for my information I am indebted to an ingenious and worthy friend 1847 MARRYAT Childn N Forest viii, They were indebted to him for the situation they held now in the forest

b Of things

1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 430 Paulus that renowned Venetian to whom our Relations are so much indebted 1732 POPE, Epil to Satires II 110 So much is this Action indebted to it, that it has often infinitely indelibted 1843 PRESCOTT Mexico (1850) I 54 The Aztec mythology was much indebted, as I have observed, to this priest-

Indebtedness (indɛ·tĕdnĕs) [f prec + -NESS] 1 The condition of being indebted or in debt

1808 in WEBSTER 1848 MRS Tod Lonsdale II 8 The indebtedness of the proprietors in the Edinburgh, cantons of Zurich's borders on the incredible! 1861 POOLE Lor Loch 9 It is above all things necessary to form a clear view of what is meant by international indebtedness

b. The extent to which one is indebted, the sum owed, the actual debt

1866 SALA Strip Chandelier (L), Perhaps the vast sum in payment of Master Edward's indebtedness 1869 Times 2 June, The indebtedness of Ireland is apportioned to £1,382 1889 Pall (weekly ed) 27 Dec 5 4 The indebtedness of the Municipal Corporation of Belfast is only £777,711

2 The state of being under obligation for services, etc; a debt

1647 TRAPP Exp Epistles I.p Dod Aug 2, To professe my deep indebtednesse unto You for Your many faithfull favours 1782 R BALL Song of Sion 48, I am glad to acknowledge my indebtedness to these papers 1807 MARY KINGSLEY Upton 9 The indebtedness which in all Virtuous families have to the whole race of Servants

Indebtment (indɛ·tmĕnt) rare [f as prec + -MENT, app after I endettement (endettement, Cotgr 1611)] The state of being indebted, indebtedness

1850 R HALL Babu Col (R), I eat thou a worse prison if thou wilt needs wilfully line and dye in a just indictment, when thou maiest be at once free and honest 1813 I BENTHAM Def Usury (1816) 142 Besides the same sum in a solitary cash on the spirit of war and indebtment 1818 Hall 254, I feel my portion of indictment to the reverend author 1821 R H BATTERSON Fr Hall I 247 The work of one to whom we love to be indebted and still more to proclaim our indebtment

†Inde cence. Obs rare [f INDECENT (see -ENCE) perh a I indecence (16th c)] Unbecomingness, impropriety = INDECENCY

1714 BURNET Hist Ref III Introd (R), I was indeed amazed to find a poor harmless woman so carried to an indecence of behaviour 1740 tr De Monthy's Past Concern't Manl (1742) II 93 To commit such an Indecence 1797 H WALPOLE Mem Geo III (1845) I viii 142 Seeing to Hazard the indecence of treating an infirm and much older man with such licence

Indecency (indī·sĕnsi) [ad L indecentia, n of quality f indecient-em see next and -ENCY] The quality of being indecent

1 Unseemliness, unbecomingness, unbecoming or outrageous conduct

1589 PUTTENHAM Eng Poesie III xxiii (Arb) 279 As rude and uncouth speaches carry a marueilous great indecencie, so does sometimes those that be ouermuch affected and neere to the Court 1598 Barckley Felicitie 1.6 An act not only of indecencie, but of iniustice and ingratitude against God and Nature 1708 Brig Theophrast 104 We must not be too familiar with Inferiors, by reason of indecency, in 1824 IRVING SPENCER in Ld Auckland's Corr (1861) III 261 The indecency of excluding and proscribing the English at the same time that other strangers are received 1849 MACAULAY Hist Eng iv I 453 The disgrace which the barbarity and indecency of so great a functionary brought upon the administration of justice

b With an and pl An instance of this, an unbecoming or unseemly action, trait, etc.

1839 FULLER Holy War III xi (1647) 112 These Bishops were fain to descend to many indecencies and indignities to support themselves 1650 HOSBES Answ Prof Gondolert Wks (1840) IV 454 Of the indecencies of an heroic poem the most remarkable are those that show disproportion either between the persons and their actions or between the manners of the poet and the poem 1675 TRAHERNE Chr Ethics 422 A lis contented mind . . throws a man into all the indecencies of swearing, wantonness [

†2 Uncomeliness of form Obs

1598 STANYHURST Description III 82 The unpleasing blemish of deformed nookes, As lips too great, or hollownesse of eyes Or sinking nose or such indecencies 1648 HERRICK Hesper, To Perenna, When I thy parts runne on, I can't espie in any one, the least indecencie

3 A condition which affords signal personal delicacy or the recognized standards of propriety, immodesty, a quality savouring of obscenity

1802 F WALKER Projecting Man xii Warm or frivolous the Converse be, Or seem to want of Indecency, After the subject 1779–81 JOHNSON L P, Addison Wks III 84 No greater felicity can genius attain than that of having purified intellectual pleasure, separated mirth from indecency, and writ from licentiousness 1804 J BOWLES (title) Modern Female Manners, as distinguished by an difference to Character, and Indecency of Dress 1871 DARWIN Descr Man I vi (ed 2) 119 The hatred of indecency is a modern virtue

4 With an and pl Something indecent, esp an indecent act, an offence against decency

1774 WARTON Hist Eng Poetry xxi (1840) II 132 Various freedoms and indecencies unsuitable to the sex 1790 BURKE Mod Vs Ancient Rights Prof Wks (1815) 16 yesterday, and this day by speech or written address, to the ear or to the eye of modesty my of the indecencies I allude to, or pass of lightly 1885 Pall Gazette 3 Sept 1 1/2 What is an indecency, which could not have been intended

Indecent (indī·sĕnt), a [= I indecent (14th c), or ad L indecent-em, f IN- IN-3 + decent DECENT]

1 Unbecoming, highly unsuitable or inappropriate (Obs), contrary to the fitness of things, in extremely bad taste, unseemly

1563–87 FOXE A & M (1684) III 94 It is not indecent to thy Justice 1589 PUTTENHAM Eng Poesie III xxii (Arb) 283 The Philosophers [would say] disproportionable both to his profession and calling and therefore indecent a 1674 CLARENDON Hist Reb V § 44 This so positive Declaration at that time . . did further prove it indecent not only useless but indecent 1779–81 JOHNSON Essays by him Wks IV 200 He must betray all any indecent impurity once, or unmanly dejection 1849 MACAULAY Hist Eng II 8 With indecent haste she gave him her hand 1879 FROUDE Caesar xxv 345 It is indecent to owe money to a political antagonist

†2 Uncomely indelegant in form Obs

1590 SPENSER F Q II xi 8 Of all Gods workes There is no one more fain and excellent Than is mans body Which yet is kept in solue garment, that it appeare not more foule and indecent Distempered through mirrule and passions base 1691 BRADLEY Advert Physic 77 His thighs, leggs, his feet and knees indecent 1725 J GAY Fan II Hirt Sac. Mum V 137 To correct that much would render it too indecent and ungrateful to the eye 1743 tr Hesiod's Works 190 This usually season indecent for marriage

3 Offending against the recognized standards of propriety and delicacy, highly indelicate, immodest, suggesting or tending to obscenity

1613 J CHAMBERLAIN in Court & Times (1848) I 27 If you know what indecent words have passed in the course of this suit, you would excuse me and think me modest 1656 tr Hobbes's Elem Philos 267 Their Dances were lascivious their Gestures indecent, and their Songs immodest 1752 EARL ORRERY Remarks Swift (1752) 21 The many filthy ideas, and indecent expressions. I mean indecent in point of cleanliness and delicacy that will be found throughout his works 1768 STERNE Sent Journ (1778) II 69 Passports, I have seldom known the word cannot be a the shock of the least indecent insinuation 1883 C J WILLS Mod Persia 42 The costume of the women is now, when carried to the extreme of the fashion highly indecent

Hence Inde centness, indecency (Bailey vol II, 1727)

Indecently (indī·sĕntli), adv [f prec + -LY 2] In an indecent manner, unbecomingly, indelicately, immodestly

1589 PUTTENHAM Eng Poesie III xxiii (Arb) 269 If they fall out decently, all is well if indecently, and to the eares and mynders misliking all is amisse 1600 H CLARK Precy Stuffe 11 Let these be no vn-speech, nor anything indecently done 1723 Swift's Misc (1735) III 143 Mar. When indecently I live Who is my friend? Sooth. Who loves you 1791 Election Cheats Wks 1795 II 211, I enquired into the cause of the diversification he had so indecently expressed 1849 JERROLD Land Anna 4 A scant frill as passenger kept him awake, by snoring, indecently

Indeciduate (indī·sidiŭĕt, a Zool [IN-1] Not deciduate, as a placenta, not having a decidua, belonging to the Indeciduata, or non deciduate mammals (a division comprising the Ruminantia, Edentata, and Cetacea)

1879 tr De Quatrefages Hum Spec 109 Man, apes, bats insectivora, and rodents, form a natural group to which no indeciduate mammals can be admitted

Indeciduous (indī·sidiŭŏs, a Also 7 indiciduous [IN-1]

†1 Not liable to fall off or be shed, permanently attached Obs

1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep V xiv 269 The status of the Sun was framed with eyes about the head, which were the indeciduous and undriven locks of Apollo 1656 in BLOUNT Glossogr

2 Bot Of a leaf Not falling off at a definite time of the year, not deciduous Of a tree or plant Not losing the leaves annually, evergreen 1755 Johnson, Indeciduous, used of trees that do not shed their leaves in winter 1828 Webster, Indeciduous, not falling, as the leaves of trees in autumn 1836 Lindley Penr. & Arp Wks 1846 II 388/2 There are no indeciduous plants, Aspasia the greener put love their leaves in winter, the rest in summer

†Indecimable, a Obs rare [f In 3 + L decimāri to tithe, Decimate + -able Cf med L indecimabilis not tithed] (See quot)
1642 Cook Just ii 490 What things be indecimable by the Law, and ought not to pay tithe 1670-10 Blount Law Dict [Hence in later Dicts]

Indecipherable (indəsəi fərəbl), a [In 3] Incapable of being deciphered or made out 1802 T Jefferson Writ (1830) II 491 Cypher which is the most indecipherable of any I have ever known 1823 Kirkin Stones Ven II iii § 15 So Nor are the original features of the rest of the edifice altogether indecipherable 1886 A Evans in Archæol XLIX 143 A few word were indecipherable

Hence Indeci pherabl ity, Indeci pherable-ness
1806 W Taylor in Robberds Mem II 127 The indecypherableness of the style 1894 Westm Gaz 13 Sept 8/2 Downright indecipherability [of handwriting]

Indecision (indiʃi·ʒən) [In 7 + Indetision (1611 in Cotgr), see In- 1 and Decision] Want of decision, inability to decide or to make up one's mind, a wavering between possible courses of action, hesitation a 1763 Shenstone Pen (1765) 208 The term indecision, in a man's character, implies an idea so very nearly different from that of irresolution, yet it has a tendency to produce it 1791 Boswell Johnson 17 Apr an 1778, I talked of the strange indecision of many, and instability of the common occurrences of life, which we may observe in some people 1828 D Israeli Chas I I x 290 A character of hopeless indecision is fatal to military success 1868 Freeman Norm Conq (1876) II App. 527 His indecision, his unwillingness to accept the crown 'cause delay

Indecisive (indəsəi siv), a [In- 1]
1 Not decisive, not such as to decide or settle (a question, contest, etc), inconclusive 1726 Berkeley Let to Prior 12 Nov in Fraser Life iv (1871) 137 The observations you have sent are so ingenious and indecisive as to puzzle me 1798 W Taylor in Monthly Mag V 4 An indecisive passage of Dreier onomy 1855 Macaulay Hist Eng xix IV 275 On the Upper Rhine an indecisive battle was fought 1878 Dowden Stud Lit 134 In place of truth he found only a conflict of indecisive reasonings
2 Characterized by indecision, undecided, hesitating, irresolute 1787 J Jefferson Writ (1850) II 155 An honester man cannot be found, nor a slower, nor a more indecisive one 1824 W Taylor in Monthly Rev LIII 32 Somewhat indecisive about his future place of residence 1843 Mozley Ess, Lit Strafford (1858) I 75 Perplexed and indecisive whether to go forwards or backwards
3 Uncertain, doubtful, not definite, indistinct 1816 J Scott Vis Paris (ed 9) 339 As if on purpose to render indecisive the hope of that immortality which is one of the noblest prerogatives of our being 1822–34 Good's Study Med I 341 As there is much obscurity in this disease, its medical treatment is indecisive 1874 J Hamm Law for Maid Crowd II i 15 A contrasting prospect rose ward, in the shape of indecisive and palpitating stars

Hence Indecisively adv
1848 in Webster 1868 M Pattison Serm (1885) 180 Whether Christian or deist, or wavering indecisively between the two Mod The first day's struggle had ended indecisively

Indecisiveness (indəsəi sivnĕs) [f prec + -ness] The quality of being indecisive 1793 W Roberts Lookers-on No 50 P 3 The indecisiveness of battles, the formidable encounter 1809-10 Coleridge Friend (1837) II 193 Indecisiveness of character is almost always associated with benevolence 1864 J H Newman Apol 168–9, I saw a perfect fulfilment of all I had surmised as to their vagueness and indecisiveness

†Indecla rable, a Obs rare–1 [In 3] Incapable of being declared 1610 Healey Theor Comm St Aug Citie of God 1062 Plato mentions the Father and the Sonne expressly, indeed the third he thought was indeclarable

Indeclinable (indiklai nəbl), a (sb) [f indeclinable (14th c), ad L indeclinabilis unchangeable, grammatically indeclinable see In 1 and Declinable]
†1. Incapable of declining, or being caused to decline, undeviating, unchangeable, fixed, constant 1432–50 tr Higden (Rolls) IV 25 This Fabricius is as indeclinable 1587 J Bryan 'hardere to be turned]from honeste as the sonne from his naturalle course 1623 Cockeram Indeclinable, constant 1637 R Humphrey tr St Ambrose, Pref, Stocks [untranslated] the indeclinable order of things †2. That cannot be turned aside from or shunned, unavoidable, inevitable (cf Declinable 2) Obs
1568 Phillis, Indeclinable, not to be declined, or shun'd 1660 Jer Taylor Duct Dubit 1 ii rule 7 § 9 For the avoiding of a greater evil which is otherwise indeclinable.
3. Gram Incapable of being declined grammatically, having no inflexions.
1530 Palsgr 180 For the knowledge of theyr partes indeclynable remyttyng the lernar to the seconde boke 1668 Wilkins Real Char 353 The other Particles are not capable of Inflexion and therefore may be stiled indeclinable or invariable 1748 Wesley Eng Gram ii 18 All Adjectives are indeclinable, having no variation either of Gender, Case, or Number 1877 Moulton tr Winer's N T Gram ii § 10 2 Many Hebrew proper names are treated as indeclinable in the LXX and the N T

B as sb An indeclinable word
1530 Palsgr 370 All numeralles of this sorte be indeclynables 1761 Churchill Rosciad 284 [He] stands alone in indeclinables, Conjunction, preposition, adverb, can to strump new vigour on the nervous line 1786–1805 Tooke Purley 251 All the indeclinables except the Adverb, we have already considered 1827 F Hall in Nation (N Y) IXIV 396/2 As regards the hinges of language, indeclinables

Hence Indecli nableness, the quality of being incurable or irresistible 1648 Jeanes Blind Leader iv 70 The invincibility, certainty and indeclinableness of the worke of grace upon the will

Indeclinably (indiklai nəbli), adv [f prec + -ly2] In an indeclinable manner †a Unde viatingly †b Unavoidably, irresistibly c As an indeclinable word 1624 B Mountagu Immed Address 140 The Angels did euer indeclinably Behold the face of God in glory 1655 Ady Curse II i 111 To follow indeclinably the Discipline of the Church of England 1658 Jeanes Blind Guide iv 70 You give your owne interpretation of working irresistibly and indeclinably upon the will 1677 Mason Twenty Serm VI Wks 1871 II 235 The apostle prays that it would form and set their hearts straight, that they may be more indeclinably fixed towards God 1864 Webster, Indeclinably, without variation of termination 1877 Fraser's Mag XVI 721 The forms ending in um were employed indeclinably

Indecompo nible, a rare [f In- 3 + Decomponible] = next 1809–10 Coleridge Friend (1818) III 173 The assumed indecomponibility of the elements of the Laboratory 1821 — in Blackw Mag X 240 Existence is a simple intuition, an indecomponible 1824 Mag Brit Rev II 76 An indecomposable substance, accidentally discovered

Indecomposable (indikəmpōu zəbl), a [In 1 cf F indécomposable (Voltaire, 1738)] Incapable of being decomposed or resolved into constituent elements 1810 In H Davy Chem Philos 21 A compound in soluble in water, indecomposable by acid or alkaline solutions 1860 Lardner Handy Astron 49 Words which are primitive, indecomposable, and irreducible 1880 Buckle Civiliz (1869) III v 359 Other faculties, which being original and indecomposable, resist all inductive treatment 1880 Gladstone in Nineteenth Cent VII 31 Among the many notable, indecomposable into stars

Indecorous (indəkōr rəs, -de kōrəs), a [f I indécis (see In 8 and Decorous) + -ous or ad late Indecorōsus For the pronunciation see Decorous]
†1 Unbecoming, inappropriate Obs
1660 [implied in Indecorousness] 1692 Ray Discourse World iii xii (1732) 441 It seems to me indecorous and unsuitable to the Person and Majesty of God
2 Contrary to, or wanting, decorum or propriety of behaviour, in bad taste 1682 Eng Fleet Sheriffs 46 Their Actions are infinitely more indecorous, unreasonable and silly 1790 Burke Stray Fatum Wks 1878 III 280 At his time of life it was useless and indecorous to attempt any thing by mere struggle 1844 Dickens Mart Chuz xxxiv 478 The demeanour of both sexes was strikingly indecorous—a harsher epithet would be unjust 1856 Kane Arct Expl II xxvi 80 Nothing was more expertly base or indecorous 1877 J D Chambers Div Worship 30 The indecorous habit of overlapping one part of the Office by another b Immodest, indecent rare
1829 Macaulay Ess Southey's Colloq Soc (1851) I 123 Drapery was put on indecorous statues
Hence Indecorously adv, in an indecorous manner, without decorum 1828 in Todd 1873 Burton Hist Scot VI lxvi 7 The religious squabbles which so indecorously disturbed the latter years of the reign of King James 1885 Law Rep 14 Queens Bench Div 483 The case was not taken in decorously, improperly, or without order

Indecorousness (sĕ) [f prec + -ness]
†1 Inappropriateness Obs
1660 H Dodwell Diss Sanchoniathe's Phœnician Hist (1681) 102 The indecorousness of their Allegories to their Deities
2 The quality of being indecorous, violation of propriety or decorum 1762 Sterne Let to Garrick, Crebillon has agreed to write to me an expostulatory letter on the indecorousness of Tristram Shandy 1821 Lamb Ess, Christ's Hosp 128 He never fail to dwell with censurable indecorousness on the illness of our venerable Sovereign 1842 Dickens Lett (ed 2) I 62, I have seen none of that carelessness and indecorousness on which travellers have laid so much emphasis

Indecorum (indikōr rəm) [L indecōrum, subst use of neut sing of indecōrus Indecorous, cf Decorum]
1 An indecorous or unbecoming action or proceeding, an impropriety, a violation of the rules of behaviour proper to the sex, age, or character of the actor
1575 Gascoigne Instr Eng Verse (Arb) 32 To enter muddle merie tales in a serious matter is an Indecorum 1904 J Dickenson Artibas (1878) 51 If any Decorum be omitted, or Indecorum committed, I can not otherwise excuse it 1659 Gentl Calling vi 141 [Thy will not be guilty of such an Indecorum 1709 Steele Tatler No 109 P 1 It may be thought an Indecorum that I visit a Man 1868 Carlyle Hermer in Wint Ess (1888) I 74 It was a much coarser curiosity which the dissipated man, by successive indecorums occasioned 1849 Grote Greece II iv (1862) V 52 This was a flagrant indecorum, and known violation of the order of the festival
2 The quality of being indecorous, lack of decorum, impropriety, now esp of behaviour 1664 H More Myst Iniq Apol 542 It is little detriment or Indecorum for them to make such a limited indulgence 1677 Hale Prim Orig Man 60 Upon a bare Moral account of the indecorum, unreasonableness, unseasonable ness or utter unfitness of the thing it self 1740 Jarvis Quix II xi xxii (1885) 88 A woman suffers more by public indecorum than by secret wantonness 1772 Burke Corr (1844) I 324 The charge is not for indecorum, or in discretion, but for falsehood 1823 Scott Quentin D xvi, The adroit manner in which he apologized for the acts of indecorum committed by their attendants
†b Inelegance, unhandsomeness Obs rare
1597 A M Guillemeau's Fr Chirurg 47/2 The patient might be mutilate, and without greate indecorum or deformity, should not be able to goe

Indeed (indī·d), adv phrase Forms see Deed sb [f In prep. + Deed sb (5 b and 5 c) down to 1600 commonly written as two words, as still in the stronger in very deed]
1 In actual fact, in reality, in truth, really, truly, assuredly, positively c 1330 R Brunne Chron Wace (Rolls) 7391 Put was he firste wassail in dede c 1340 Cursor M 10160 (Trin) Of him we wol oure story rede For nowper hat es in dede 1430–40 Lydg Bochas iv m MS Bodl 263 In dede, he had afforn me seen A mor woful creature, in dede 1526 Tyndale Jude xxiv 14 The lorde is risen in dede and hath apered to Simon 1610 Shaks Temp i ii 96 My sweet which hid indeede no hint 1766 Goldsm Vic W iv, When Sunday came it was indeed a day of finery 1816 J Wilson City of Plague ii 3 I hear thy voice, I know that I indeed am motherless 1878 Hutton Scott iv 37 He was, indeed, a man of iron nerve b Put, placed after a word in order to emphasize it hence, with sb = actual, real, true genuine, with adj or adv = really and truly (The adj is often preceded by very) 1575 Fleming Contn Holinshed I 6 Arethusa, granted this honour be my fact indeede 1611 Bible Isaiah xliii 8 Behold in Israelite indeed [Heb ישראל ישראלית] in whom is no guile 1638 R Jenks Vaunt of Ancients 236 Our dis course is not about ordinary workmen, but such as neither speake, of such men as are Painters indeed, that is, men of excellent wittes and great 1653 Walton Angler xi 218, I marry Sir, this is Musick indeed, this is a harmony to my heart 1748 Jarvis Quix II i 1 (1885) 14 'Marvellous indeed!' said the priest 1816 J Wilson City of Plague i 163 My days of sleep are now but few indeed 1848 H Litchfield State Trials (N S) VI 695, I should be very glad indeed to find that I had mistaken altogether the drift of that defence 1876 J T Hodgkin Life Theodoric, Amid the crowd of youths He showed a Prince indeed
2 In reality, in real nature or essence, opposed to what is merely external or apparent 1412–20 Lydg Chron Troy I v (MS Digby 230), There was done enclosed in her herte And anoþir in hir chere declared For maidens han ofte siþes spared To shewe oute þe þat deuise in dede 1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1531) 143 Rather make it seme lesse incomparable than it is in dede a 1568 Ascham Scholem Pref (Arb) 18 The Scholehouse should be in deede, as it is called by name, the house of playe and pleasure 1649 Milton Eikon Pref, I let those captive women who bewail'd the death of Patrocles in out ward show, but indeed their sun contain'd 1888 E Walker Expository Mor v, That which I see, is not indeed that which it seems to be 1876–7 L Morris Epic Hades, Marsyas 88 In the Muses' Eyes, who were indeed Women, though god like †b In an adversative clause, emphasizing the real fact or reason in opposition to that which is false Obs
1596 Drayton Legends of Piers Gaveston I 33 The scarlet dome of Perth is noght litle but simple indede and large 1610 Shaks Temp II i 14 Gon How lush and lusty the grasse looks? How greene! Ant Indeed the colour is not so tawny 1611 Bible Transl Pref 2 [He] was iudged to be no man at armes [though in deed he excelled in feates of chiualrie 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 90 Whereas that redneese ariseth indeed of the winds, which carry red Earth or Minium
3 Used in a clause which confirms and amplifies a previous statement In point of fact, as a matter of fact 1535 Joye Apol Tindale 42 And in deed I brought the same texte against him 1601 R Johnson Kingd & Commw (1603) 58 Their disposition (as indeed almost all the West of the Germans) very honest 1662 Bk Com Prayer, Pref, Of the Church of England, or indeed of the whole Catholick Church of Christ 1720 Hearne Collect III 70 There is a very large Preface, but silly, and plainly shews the Author to be a Whigg, and indeed a fool 1854 Miss Jamison Bk of Ch (1877) 117 What do we know of the whole web of child life? What, indeed, do we know of any life? 1855 Ride & Haggard N Solomon's Mines 32, I am a cautious man, indeed a timid one
4 With concessive force (usually followed by an adversative clause) = It is true, it must be admitted 1563 W Fulke Meteors (1640) 8 Indeed sometimes it may be so, but it is not so always, nor yet most commonly a 1568 Ascham Scholem 1 (Arb) 32 These 3 we will say, be fond scholemasters They be fond in deede, but sterile summary such be found sueare where 1911 Sidgwick Skel No 95 P 3 Grief and Weeping are indeed frequent Companions, but, I believe, never in their highest Excesses. 1868 Scott Jr M Perth v, She blushed deeply indeed, but there was more than maiden's shame in her face 1894 Fowler Adamnan Introd 81 Latin, not classical indeed, but good of its kind

5 In dialogue, used to emphasize the reply (affirmative or negative) to a question or remark: e g 'Yes, indeed'; 'No, indeed!'

1583 STUBBES Anat. Abus. II (1882) 89 Is not that your meaning? That is my meaning indeed 1591 SHAKS. Two Gent. II iv 9 Sil. Servant, you are sad. Val. Indeed, Madam, I seeme so 1734 CAREY Chrononhoton. in Queen Anne's 'You flatter me, my Lady. We don't indeed' 1895 JOWETT Plato (ed 2) I 79 Can you tell me? Indeed I cannot 1898 Punch 19 Dec. 298/1 'But you don't mean to tell me you're the secretary of all these companies?' 'Indeed I do, my dear fellow'

b Used in echoing the question asked by another speaker

1766 GOLDSM. Vic. W. vii, 'Who knows how this may end?' 'Aye who knows that indeed' answered I. 1826 DISRAELI Vivian Grey III xv, 'Who is this Mr Grey?' 'Who, indeed!'

6 Interrogatively = 'Is it so?' 'Really?'

1598 SHAKS. Merry W. II iv 55 Mrs P. Whose at home besides your wife? Mrs F. Why, none but mine own people Mrs P. Indeed? Mrs P. No, certainly 1604 — Oth. III iii 101 Ia. I did not thinke he had bin acquainted with her Oth. O yes, and went betweene vs very oft Ia. Indeed? Oth. Indeed? Indeed: Discern'st thou ought in that? 1710 SWIFT Lett. No 171 P 3, I go no further than, Say you so, Sir? Indeed? Heyday! 1850 TENNYSON In Memoriam xxiii, 'Thus Jaspers' 'Indeed?' said Mr Duchery

7 As an interjection, expressing (according to the intonation) irony, contempt, amazement incredulity, or the like.

1834 MEDWIN Angler in Wales I 181 This is the Angler in Wales, Indeed! exclaims the reader 1839 DICKENS Pickw. xxvi 'Ah' said Sam 'to be sure that's the question.' 'Question, indeed,' retorted Mrs Cluppins 'shed question him if she'd my spirit' 1866 RUSKIN Sesame & Lil. Ortus (ed 2) 91, I think such and such a thing might be desirable: a damask curtain or so at the window. Ah, says my employer, 'damask curtains indeed' That's all very fine 1875 JOWETT Plato (ed 2) I 219 'O, indeed' I said, 'what a wonderful thing, and what a great blessing'

Indefailable, a. Also 4 -ayl-. [f IN- 3 + DEFAIL- + -ABLE. Cf obs. F. adv. indefaillablement] = INDEFAILABLY (15th c. in Godef.) Not liable to fail

1393 BEVERLEY True St. Conf. Truth 2. All is in Conjunction, and inseparable Concatenation, and indefailable Certainty to the Elect 1702 — Reflect. on Sacr. Such a Communication of Holiness, as should be unchangeable, or indefailable

Indefa tigabi lity [f next see -ITY] The quality of being indefatigable, incapability of being wearied, unremitting diligence or perseverance.

a 1634 ISAACSON in Fuller Holy & Profane State (1642) 'Faith, His Indefatigability in Study caused me youthed 1802 MAR. EDGEWORTH Moral T. (1816) I xi 47 All the manly virtues, were inseparably connected with prudence, or indefatigability 1852 NEWTON Chaperon of Pope II 100 Every one is convinced with the indefatigability of the sun

Indefatigable (indfi tigăbl), a [a obs F. indefatigable, f. IN-16th c. in Godef.), ad L. indefatigabilis, f. IN- (IN-3) + defatigatus to wear out see DEFY] Incapable of being wearied, that cannot be tired out, unwearied, untiring, unremitting in labour or effort a Of persons or things personified 1586 (implied in INDEFATIGABLY) 1621 COTGR., Indefatigable, indefatigable, unwearable, untirable not to be tyred out. 1655 NEWTON Lex. Aegr (Arb.) 19 He was an indefatigable Reader whether by Sea or Land 1667 MILTON P. L. II 418 Upborn with indefatigable wings Over the vast abrupt 1711 ADDISON Spect. No 115 P 6 Lately lived Sir Roger de Coverley, an indefatigable Man in Business of this kind 1781 COWPER Dk. & P. xxiii. III 111 Active and indefatigable in the pursuit of revenge 1847 GROTE Greece (1862) IV 208 He was indefatigable in his attention to public business 1858 GLADSTONE Homer II iii 137 The indefatigable students of Germany

b Of qualities or actions

1621 BURTON Anat. Mel III iv 1 2 (1651) 635 An indefatigable love and hearty 1648 SIR T. BROWNE Lett. (1712) 32 A man of great eloquence, and industry indefatigable 1781 GIBBON Decl. & F. xxiii (1869) I 476 His diligence was indefatigable 1855 MILMAN Lat. Chr. VI vi (1864) IV 178 The Hermit with indefatigable restlessness went from province to province

Indefa tigableness [f prec. + -NESS] The quality of being indefatigable

1653 WATERHOUSE Apol. Harv. 231 (L.) Dost thou thus repay thy teachers for their pains (are study indefatigableness? 1755 CARTE Hist. Eng. IV 300 He praised them with the greatest perseverance and indefatigableness imaginable till he lost his life 1830 Edin. Rev. LI 505 Adams was a representative of the sturdy indefatigableness of New England

Indefa tigably, adv [f as prec + -LY 2] In an indefatigable manner, unwearedly, with unremitting perseverance

1586 W. WEBBE Eng. Poetrie (Arb.) 34 Master Arthur Golding which trauelleth as yet indefatigably, and is addicted without society, by his continuall labours to profite this nation and speede her in all kind of good learning 1682

DRYDEN Don Sebast. Epist. Was ridiculous? 185 A man indefatigably zealous in the service of the Church 1748 Anson's Voy. III v 336 We laboured indefatigably in getting in our water 1887 RUSKIN Præterita II 423 Indefatigably carrying his little daguerreotype box up every where

+ Indefatiga tion. Obs [f IN- 1 + DEFATIGATION] The condition of being unwearied

a 1645 J. GREGORY Posthumous, Notable Remains 167 The Arabian Geographers holding themselves not to be infinite either to the indefatigation or Skill of the Greek Geographers Indefeasible indfi zibl), a Forms 6 indiffeasable, 6 7 indefeisible, 7–8 feasable, -feisible, 8 feasable, -fiesable, 7– indefeasible [f IN- 1 + DEFEASIBLE, cf. F. indéfaisible] Not defeasible, not liable to be defeated, made void, or done away with, that cannot be forfeited

1548 J. SOUDESTE Epist. S. Ad. in Compl. Scot. (1687) App. iii 279 By no image one blouide is made of two, and in indefeasible right queen of bothe to one, without the destruction and abolishing of either 1600 HOLLAND Livy XXV xxii 8 § All those things are utterly void, they make him no indefeasible estate, the inheritance by blood may dispossess him 1661–98 SOUTH Serm. III 15 He, who gives a Being has an indefeasible claim and interest to the said Being, either to or by, or unto Possibly do 1670 BOYLE Gen. Hist. Air 243 A solid and indefeisible reason 1738 Hist. Europe in the Lutter. He had not proved to be something more than him to whom it will justly be proved indefeisible 1859 MILL Liberty I 19 The great writers to whom we look as the fountains of our modern life were indefeasible right 1873 SYMONDS Grk. Poets iii 41 Beauty is the true province of the Greeks, their indefeasible domain

Hence Indefeasibl itey, Indefea sibleness, the quality or character of being indefeasible

1755 Caller Herr. Lng. IV 3 The indefeasibleness of the said Succession seems to be a natural consequence of its being a lineal one 1828 WEBSTER s.v., The indefeasibility of a title 1843 MILL Logic III v § 1 There are very few (uniformities) which have any, even the semblance of, indefeasibility 1885 Law Times LXXIX 332 2 There are limits to this indefeasibility of title

Indefeasibly (indfi zibli), adv [f prec + -LY 2] In an indefeasible manner, so as to be indefeasible

1540 Act 32 Hen. VIII c. 32 § 1 By the same name to only, to have and hold, and thereupon to possess, use and enjoye, to them and to their successours, for ever all such lands and tenements 1719 De Foe Crusoe I xix, I was indefeasibly the country inheritor 1831 CARLYLE Sart. Res. III ii Venerable to me is the Laird Hind crooked, coarse, wherein lies a cunning virtue indefeasibly royal, for the sceptre of this Planet

+ Indefea table, a. Obs Also -ible [f IN- 1 + DEFEAT 2] Incapable of being defeated or undone, indefeasible, indefectible. Hence Indefeatabl ity, -ibility

(Possibly a mere 16th c. error for indefeasible, -ibly, in 1755 for next two words.)

1643 J. WARWICK Theo. & Treas. Comm. Heav. 5 Indefeatable Inheritance, and that unspotted Crown, that is in God himself. 1755 CARTE Hist. Eng. IV 3 Those [entitlements] about free will, predestination and reprobation, indefeasibility and indefeatability 1846 Dict. Sciences, Philosophy & Religion 1 These Propositions have in them selves an indefectibility irrespectable 1796 Impart. Apol. 130 There is no Promise of Indefectibility made by him to Anyone to any particular Church 1882 FARRAR Early Chr. I. 1 That [continuous] whole raged between Calumnies and Animosities on the indefectibility of grace

Indefectible (indfe ktibl), a [f IN- 1 + DEFECTIBLE, prob. after F. indéfectible (1582 in Hatz.-Darm.), or med L. indefectibilis, adv. Du Cange.] Not defectible

1 Not liable to failure, defect, or decay, and lasting, that cannot fall short, come to an end, or be done away

1659 PEARSON Creed (1839) 486 I believe this infinite and Eternal Spirit to be perfect and indefectible, before in himself 1676 MARVELL Mr. Smirke 46 When the Greek Church is excommunicate by the Roman what and where, then was the Catholick Church, that was indefectible and against which the Gates of Hell did not prevail? 1736 CHANDLER Hist. Persec. 273 The burning, and not consuming bush, signifies the indefectible splendor of the church 1842 MANNING Serm. Failure to Baptismal Grace (1848) I 76 Some beguile themselves by the dream that they have forfeited the graces of God in committing that the gifts of grace are indefectible 1887 FARRAR in Congress of Bar. May 426 The system that made it the most absolute made the saints most defectible

2 Not subject to defect, faultless

1833 J. H. NEWMAN Arians II v (1876) 231 At first Athanasius had not scrupled to admit the peculiar nature of the Son, but it soon appeared that in matter of fact He was indefectible 1852 H. ROGERS Ess. Faith (1853) 401 An indefectible wisdom on one point

Hence Indefe ctibly adv., without capability of failure

1837 J. H. NEWMAN Proph. Off. Ch. 304 The faith committed to the Church is represented as clearly proclaimed indefectibly in untainted and universally acknowledged

Indefective (indfe ktiv), a ? Obs [f IN- 1 + DEFECTIVE cf. med L. indefectivus (15th c. in Du Cange).] Not defective, free from defect faultless, flawless

a 1642 BP. MOUNTAGU Acts & Mon. (1642) 5 Charity and fervent in their life and in the world to come everlasting life 1659 PEARSON Creed (1839) 58 God is of himself infinitely glorious, because his perfections are absolute his excellencies indefective 1670 SMITH Select Discourses III 128 A Covenant promising Life upon Condition of absolute and defective obedience 1708 PRICE Serm. on Hebrews 12 Supp. (O.H.S.) III 127 Everlasting, and indefective happiness 1717 CROMWELL Gd. Mar. 183 Sweet are my daughter of God in the divine Will; sweet fair sons in indefective line

+ Indefe ctness, a. Obs rare. [f IN- 1 + DEFECTIVE + -NESS cf. obs. F. indeffectuosité (16th c. in Godef.).] = prec. Hence Indefe ctuous-ness 1589 H. MORE in Nares Par. Lett. (1688) 253 The terms Infinite and Omne may signify either the Fullness, Indefectuousness or Perfection of the thing they are pronounced of

+ Indefe ndable, -ible, a. Obs [f IN- 1 + DEFENDABLE Cf. F. indéfendable (Molière 17th c.)] Incapable of being defended, indefensible

1623 Jus Populi 444 A thereby plainly acknowledge that Religion is not indefensible except by meer subject against their Soveraign

Indefensible (indfe nsibl), a [f IN- 1 + DEFENSIBLE Cf. F. indéfensable. (Molière, 16th c.)] Not defensible, admitting of no defence

1 Incapable of being defended by force of arms

1569 STOCKER tr. Diod Sic. II xxx 87 They did forsake the indefensable situation of townes and villages 1688 BURNET Reform. I pref. 15 By an obstinate adhering to an indefensible piece of Conduct 1849 JAMES Woodman ix Their great extent rendered them indefensible against the means of assault 1884 Pall Mall Gaz. 4 Oct. 2/2 The town of itself is nearly indefensible

2 Incapable of being defended in argument maintained, or vindicated, unjustifiable, inexcusable.

1539 MORE Dyalogue I Wks. 158/1 His grounde fully in the defence of his indefensible error 1614 DONNE Biathanatos (1644) 179 Which I perceive not any kinde, to be more ignorious, or indefensible, then that is common with our Delinquents to stand mute at the Barre 1745 WESLEY Letter 6 Aug. Those Passages, I am confident, are utterly indefensible 1799 KIRWAN Geol. Ess. 65 The hypothesis was indefensible in the following 1849 COBDEN Speeches 35 It is manifestly unjust and indefensible that you should tax the people of this country for the expense of our wars in India 1871 MORLEY Rousseau II iii 34 I ask the peace of the dead in so indefensible a spirit as I seemed obstinate folly.

Hence Indefensibl itey, Indefe nsibleness, the quality or character of being indefensible, Indefe nsibly adv., in an indefensible manner, so as not to admit of defence

1650 J. MACKNESS Sacr. London Parry 218, Colonel Lindy spoke so unbecomingly concerning the indefensibleness of the place. 1776 MICKLE Concubine & Pucelle iv Note 23 Some of the terms of expression are still indefensibly indelicate 1823 BENTHAM Not Paper Currency Pref. The utter indefensibility of the design 1876 GLADSTONE Prim. Duty xxix The indefensibleness of her marriage. 1891 LORD SALISBURY Hatfield Speech 14 Indeed the evidence seems to me sufficient to show the indefensibility of any such position

+ Indefe nsive, a. Obs [f IN- 1 + DEFENSIVE (sense 1c).] Incapable of making defence, defenceless

1586 LEIGH Sea Contra. To Gentl. Inner Temp., Thus if I had to allege no other reason in the defence of the my action: yet were I not left indefensive 1598 I. HUGHES Rec. Ch. 178 Turkes and Persians both whom in all occasions were insulting over them in most indefensive and without government Hist. 137 The second sacke the indefensive village

Indeferent, obs. form of INDIFFERENT

+ Indefe nse, a. Obs [ad L. indefensus (= IN- (3) + defensus vexated, tired de, down, + fessus weary tired).] Unwearied untiring

1621 BP. MOUNTAGU Diatribe 51 The learned Oram nation Indefense for his Indefensive prayses in reading and writing sanctioned Ir inside or heart of Olive

+ Indefi ciency Obs. [f next see -ENCY] The quality or character of being indeficient or untiring and unfailing

1614 JACKSON Creed VII iii 8 = note. Their readiness to defend the indeficiencie of his faith argues they must of necessitie hold, that the Popes faith doth not faile 1666 DIGGES Answ. Faith 118 The Church of Rome hath the promises of creation through 1732 SYMONDS Hist. Test. II 111 Suppl. He left such a store of that meat and drink and indeficiency of their clothing.

+ Indeficient (indfi sjent, a. Obs [f OF indéficient 15th c. in Godef. ad L. indeficient-em f. IN- (3) + deficit-ant DEFICIENT.] Untiring, exhaustless, unceasing

1508 DUNBAR Poems viii 25 Welcum our indeficient adiutorie, I that art our Sueroun help in tribe need 1526 Pilgr. Perf. (W. de W. 1531) 98 b Their fressle and newe, indefycyent and neuer fayling 1604 I. WRIGHT Passions xi 308 Whence from proceedeth the indeficient regular beating, of the pulse. 1656 JEANES Saints Christ 229 He hath an indefinient fullnesse, an inexhaustible fountaine 1695 J. SAVE Article Wks. 1844 I 366 Their is Sermon upon Sermon — indeficient Sermoning till the Congregation within the Church is dissolved 1851 [see 90 b]

Journ 75 The Umb His people feeds from indeficient streams.

Hence +Indefi·ciently adv, unfailingly

1822 Paxton Godly Man's Ingress ii 49 I rees of the Lords planting continue their fruits indefinitely, neither doe their leaues drop off

Indefinable (indfi·nă'bl), a (sb) [f In-3 + Definable] That cannot be defined or exactly described, not susceptible of definition

1810 tr Mad Cotton's Character de l'ersonal I 194 That secret and indefinable instinct 1822 Lamb Elia Ser 1 Artful Dog, O call it not fact! but an indefinable sweetness growing up to it 1830 D'Israeli Gen Lit III 200 An obscure and indefinable line 1863 Geo Eliot Romola xxii Some thing as indefinable as the changes in the morning twilight 1867 Miss Braddon Run to Ground I i 2 Every look, every movement was instinct with that indefinable grace for which we can find no better name than good breeding

2 sb An indefinable person or thing rare

1810 tr Mad Cotton's Chev de Personal I 164 That woman is one of your indefinables

Hence Indefi·nableness, Indefi·nably adv

1847 Craig, Infinitude, 1849 Thickens Pendennis II xv, The expression in Captain Costigan's eye was indefinably humourous 1889 Harper's Mag Dec 118/1 It has a vaporous indescribable character that is indefinable

+Indefinible, a Obs rare⁻¹ [f In-3 + definibilis, definire to set bounds, bound, limit see Define v.] Incapable of being limited, illimitable

1652 Benlowes Theoph Ded 22 The Empyræan flame of the Divinity, Indefinible, Interminable, Ineffable Indefinite (indfi·nit, a (sb) Also 6 indiffynit(e, -yte, indiffinite indyfinyte, 7 indifinite, indefint [ad I indefinit-us, f In- (In-3) + definit-us Definite (cf I indigna (Montagnes, 16th c).] Undefined, unlimited, the opposite of Definite

I generally

1 Without distinct limitation of being or character, having no clearly defined or determined character, indeterminate, vague, undefined

1561 I Norton Calvin on Deut 1 xiii (1634) 46 When there is simple and indefinite mention made of God this name belongeth no lesse to the Sonne and to the Holy Ghost, than to the Father 1616 Bullokar, Indefinite, not precisely expressed, undefined 1651 Baxter Inf Bapt 76 Some generall indefinite promises 1720 Hearne Collect (1842) II 198 Your address is likewise a little indefinite, but I send this at a venture as you direct 1818 Hallam Mid Ages (1878) II viii 329 Those indefinite aspirations for the laws of Edward the Confessor were changed into a steady regard for the Great Charter 1875-6 W H Poole Compend Theol (1881) 65 The indefinite use of the term Sacrament in the early church 1883 5 Cox Expositor Ser I vi 66 A fine, though indefinite, emotion

2 Of undetermined extent, amount, or number; unlimited

1504 Nowell Unfort Joseph 46 Peace to thy Ghost, and yett me thinkes so indefinite a spirit should haue no perpetuitie or intermission of paines 1625 Bacon Fast, Essays (Arb) 256 Let these Indeed of Leuiathan be no Number Indefinite 1842 Gould Curs Thirty Years 86 Thus oxygen and hydrogen will remain unaltered for an indefinite period 1852 Robertson Serm Ser III xii 201 With respect to our moral and spiritual capacities, we remark that they are not only indefinite but absolutely infinite 1877 J R Green Hist Engl ii 69 That is indefinite which has, or may have, a limit but whose limit cannot be ascertained 1884 J Ray Catalogus Stirpium 100 Commodities that admitted of an indefinite multiplication

†b Formerly, sometimes, I extending beyond any assignable limits, boundless, infinite Obs

1564 Power Exp Philos (1572) If by the process of wit indefinite, and who can set a non ultra to her endeuours? 1745 W Thompson Sickness v (R) Indefinite and omnipresent God, Infabling eternity! shall dust, shall ashes, dare presume to sing of thee?

II specifically (in various technical uses)

3 Grammar

a Applied to various adjectives, pronominal words, and adverbs, which do not define or determine the actual person or thing, the place time or manner, to which they refer; as any, other, some, such, somewhere, anywhere, otherwise, etc. esp in indefinite article, a name for the individualizing adjective a, an (A adj 2, or its equivalents in other languages

b Applied to those tenses or inflexions of verbs which merely denote an action taking place at some time (past, present, or future), without specifying whether it is continuous or complete (thus distinguished from both imperfect and perfect), e g the Greek aorist and the English simple past, in French grammar formerly us by Pal graval to the simple past tense corresponding to these, now called past or preterite definite, in modern French, past or preterite indefinite is applied to the compound tense corresponding to that called perfect in English, e g il a parlé, he has spoken c In the Slavonic verb formerly applied to one of the branches or aspects of Sometimes applied, in German and Old English gr ammar, to that declension of the adjective which is used when it is pre-ceded by the indefinite article, possessive adjective, pronouns, etc the strong declension of the adj

1530 Palsgr Introd 32 The indefynite indicative of the thyrde conjugation endeth ever in y Ibid 84 The indif finite tens, as je parlay, I spake Ibid 382 To knowe therfore howe and whan the frenche men use their preter imparfyte tence, and whan their indiffynyte tence, whiche name I borowe of the grekes, for they have a tence whiche they call aoristus, that is to say, indefinitus, whiche moche resembleth this tence in the frenche tongue 1727 Bailey vol II, Indefinite Pronouns 1727-41 Chambers Cycl s v Article, The article a is said to be indefinite, because applied to names taken in their more general, and confused signification 1847 J Heard Gram Assis Lang v 81 141 There are four branches the indefinite, the perfect, the semefis tive, and the iterative The indefinite expresses the action indeterminately with regard to its completion, as Oith Tpoiē Th, he moved 1874 R Morris Chaucer's Prol etc (Clar Press Ser) Introd 33 Adjectives, like the modern German, have two forms Definite and Indefinite 1877 Morrison Hymers Comm N T iii 525 The indefinite pronoun τις, τι, is joined to abstract nouns 4 Logic Applied to propositions in which the subject has no mark of quantity, not distinguishing between 'some' and 'all'

1773 Reid Aristotle's Log ii § 6 Wks II 692/2 A proposition is called indefinite when there is no mark either of universality or particularity annexed to the subject Thus 'Man is of few days' is an indefinite proposition 1864 Bowen Logic v 125 The logicians formerly distinguished another Class of Judgments, the indefinite, meaning those in which the Subject, having no sign or predesignation of Quantity affixed to it, is not expressly declared to be either Universal, Singular, or Particular Thus Lawyers are vicacious animals—Learned men are to be found at Oxford 1889 Fowler Deduct Logic iii (ed 2) 79 In definite and 'indefinite' propositions, as they are called, the exact proposition in which the subject, being a common term, is not quantified, are inadmissible in Logic

5 Bot a Said of inflorescences in which the central axis grows indefinitely in length, producing a succession of lateral branches bearing flower buds or of sessile flower-buds) which open successively from the lowest upwards, also called centripetal or indeterminate. b Sometimes similarly applied to fibrovascular bundles which grow indefinitely, so that they show an increase in thickness, as in † Fucoïdeæ or Dicotyledons c Said of the stamens or other parts of the flower when numerous and not clearly multiples of the number of the petals, etc

1845 Lindley Sch Bot ii (1858) 25 Stamens indefinite, that is to say, more numerous than can be easily counted 1849 Balfour Class Bot § 727 The bundles [in exogens] from their mode of development in an indefinite manner externally have been called polycotous, and for the same reason the branches have been called indefinite Ibid § 472 The ovules are very numerous or indefinite 1876 Bentley Botany Examin 46 Called indefinite, because the axis goes on elongating after the first flowers are formed 1880 Gray Structural Bot v (ed 6) 144 The kinds of inflorescence are referrable to two types viz Indefinite and Definite, or Indeterminate and Determinate Each may be simple or compound

B sb (elliptical uses of the adj) An indefinite thing, word, statement, etc, something of indefinite nature or meaning, or which cannot be definitely specified, described, or classed

1591 Percivall Sp Dict Fa, Aduerbs commonly vsurpe an Indicatiue Mood vnto that where Interrogatiues are ioyned, but Indefinites thus ioyne vnto Subiunctiues 1625 Bacon Ess, Despatch (Arb) 248 That Negative is more pregnant of direction, then an indefinite 1865 All Year's Round 3rd Ser III 1 6 Table of the inquisitions of the people after a new classification I 'Professionals' II 'Domestics' III Commercials, IV Agriculturists V Industrial Artizans, that is, general labourers, gentlemen of means, and paupers, with a few others not open to classification

Hence +Inde finite v Obs (nonce wd) in phr to indefinite it to act or speak indefinitely

+Inde·finitism (nonce wd) indefinite character

1656 N Gold Lux 76 If we indefinite it, when we should demonstrate, and universalize it 1855 Dorchester Miss Progress Relig (1860) 102 The vague spirituality or rather indefinitism of our ideas

Indefinitely (indfi·nitli), adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an indefinite manner or degree

1 Without definition or limitation to a particular thing, case, time, etc, indeterminately, vaguely

1477 Earl Rivers (title) 1530 Palsgr Introd 32 Other thre dyuers tymes, imparfytly past, indiffynitly pa t, and more than parfytly past 1561 I Norton Calvin's Inst (1634) 70 Of this we do indefinitely speake of the name of God, we meane no lesse the Sonne and the Holy ghost than the Father 1635 J Gore Holy Course 3 A preacher delivers his message indefinitely to the whole assembly 1858 Carlyle Fredk Gt I iv, She had felt herself indefinitely unwell 1863 Mrs Carlyle Lett III 108 They pressed me to come to them and I promised indefinitely that I would

2 To an indefinite amount or extent, without specified or assignable limit or end, unlimitedly

1620 Hilton Anat Melt ii 10 'Tis a fortune which some indefinitely preferre before prosperity 1664 Power Exp Philos Pref 10 Motion also may be indefinitely swift or slow 1697 Dampier Voy I 94 The Patrick Sea from 30 to about 4 deg south latitude, and from the American shore westward indefinitely 1833 Miss Mitford in I N Temple Life III 1 6 It is so short for an alternation in indefinitely prolonged 1868 Freeman Norm Conq II App 540 It would be easy to prolong the list indefinitely

Indefiniteness (indfi·nitnes) [f as prec + -ness] The quality of being indefinite, want of definiteness, indeterminateness, vagueness

1589 Puttenham Eng Poesie III xi (Arb) 211 The Roundell or Spheare for his indefinitenesse hauing no speciall place of beginning nor end 1623 Bp Hall Bart Bargayne Wks (1648) 476 The indefinitenesse of the charge implies a generality 1797 Monthly Mag III 201 That pernicious looseness and indefiniteness of speech, which prevail so generally

1880 J White Cert Relig 34 There is now and then an Oriental indefiniteness as to method 1885 Spurgeon Treas Dav cxxxii 10 The fault of most prayers is their indefiniteness

Indefinitive (indfi·nitiv), a rare [f In-3 + Definitive] Not definitive, not characterized by definition or limitation; indeterminate, indefinite

1598 Barret Theor Warres v i 125 From the point of the first Trauerse next adioyning, is drawne an indefinitiue line 1850 J H Newman Diffic Anglic 82 A school of opinion fixed in its principles, indefinitive and progressive in their tastes

Hence Indefi·nitively adv, without definition or limitation, Indefi·nitiveness, vagueness

1621 Sanderson Lincoln Serm (1637) 59 Ordinarily in our Sermons we indefinitively condemne as evill, swearing, and gaming for money 1795 Ann Reg App Chron 92 They are all elected for two years, and may be immediately and indefinitively re elected 1849 Fox Mary Lander Wks 1864 III 587 If the author did not deliberately propose to himself a suggestive indefinitiveness of meaning

Indefinito- (indefinitō), combining form from L. indefinitus Indefinite, as in indefinite definite adj., applied by Sir W Hamilton to propositions predicated of the greater part or more than half

1847 Sir W Hamilton Lect Dr Morgan 43 Indefinito-definites, To UL, NO, UL se nonne And UL-definites, Of more, most (half plus some) Ibid 44 [Pro positions] I Definite, 2 Indefinite definite, 3 Semi definite, 4 Indefinite

Indefinitude (indfi·nitiud) [f In-3 + Definitude (or f Indefinite after definitude.)] +1 The condition of having no known or assign able limit, undefined or unlimited number or amount Obs

1697 Hale Prim Orig Man II iv 157 They arise to a strange and prodigious multitude, if not indefinitude, by their various Positions, Combinations, and Conjunctions

2 Want of definiteness or precision, indefiniteness, undefined state

1827 G Beaufler Journ Marmora Ded Until it has arrived at years of discretion an indefinitude of age both in books and men 1833 Sir W Hamilton Discuss, Log Introd Logic (1852) 146 The vacillation or indefinitude of Aristotle himself in regard to the number of the modes 1854 H Latham Native Races Australia Introd 48 There are measures of the extent to which the author who uses them eschews indefinitude

Indefinity (indfi·niti) rare [f Indefinite after infinity see -ity] +1 = prec 1 Obs

1623 Cockeram II, Endlesnes, indefinity 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst Contents (1743) 643 This potential Infinity or Indefinity of Body, seems to be mistaken for an actual Infinity of Space

2 = prec 2

a 1734 North Exam I iii § 38 (1740) 144 He can come off upon the Ambiguity or Indefinity of his Expressions 1882 Fraser's Mag XXV 487 Branch lines only to be entered upon after the ominous 'change to whose on whence indefinity the porter announces the train

Indeflectible (indflĕ·ktibl), a [f In-3 + deflectible, f Deflect v + -ible] Incapable of being deflected or turned from a straight course

1883 I W Potter Cambetta in French Cabinet 28 Proclaiming, in a single word, indeflectible fidelity 1884 Contin Rev May 569 All unite in one undeviating and indeflectible direction

+Indefle·xible, a Obs rare [In-3] = prec

a 1641 Bp Mountagu Acts & Mon (1642) 122 Indefexible subjection to Gods will +Indefle·xibly, a Obs [Arbitrary f In-3 + stem of I deflexi re to Deflower, for indeflowred or indeflorit] Not deflowered, chaste, inviolate

1500-20 Dunbar Poems lxxxv 55 Implore, adore, thow indefloue, to mak our oddis evyne

+Indefluous rishing, a Obs [f In-3 + pres pple of Deflourish] Not ceasing to flourish, unfading of Deflourish 2

1610 G Fletcher Christ's Tri i xiv, Rou'd all in lively crimson at thy cheeks, Whose beawties indefluorishing shade

Indeformable (indfō·rmăbl), a [In-1] Not deformable, incapable of being 'deformed' or put out of shape.

1880 Mincun Statics (ed 2) 133 In nature there are no such things as rigid bodies For a great many practical matters there are bodies which may be treated as if they were rigid or indeformable

Indegent, Indegest see Indigent, etc

Indehiscent (indhi·sĕnt), a Bot [In-3] Not dehiscent said of fruits that do not split open when mature, but retain the seed till they decay 1832 Lindley Introd Bot ii 170 Cells one seeded, indehiscent, dry, perfectly close at all times. 1841 Mrs Loudon 1st Bk Bot (1845) 95 Most of the kerneled fruits are indehiscent, and, if left to nature, must decay before they can liberate the seed 1871 H Macmillan True Vine 158 The fruit of the vine is indehiscent 1872 Oliver Elem Bot i vii 95 Syncarpous fruits which are dry and indehiscent, that is, which do not open but liberate the seed by decay, as the fruit of the Hazel, you may simply call nuts.

Hence Indehi·scence, the quality of being indehiscent 1847 in Craig

+Indeign, v Obs rare In 4 indeyne, 5 indain [A form intermediate between Endyon and Indign, q v]

1 intr To be indignant or angry
1380 Wyclif Gen xxiii 30 Y biseche thee, he seith, ne indeyne thow, Lord, if I speke 2 trans To disdain, despise.
1483 Caxton Cato I b Thou myghtest lese theyr lone and be indaigned of them.
†Indelay ed, a Obs [In-¹] Not delayed or put off, immediate 1523 St Papers Hen VIII, VI 118 If this overture shall not mowe take effect, Indelayed order must be geven by His Majeste for the raysing and setting furthe of an armye 1584 Q Eliz in Misc Parker Corr (Parker Soc) 290 We will that you shall duly inform us thereof, to the end we may give indelayed order for the same +Indelay edly, adv Obs [f prec + -ly²] Without delay, immediately 1535 Hen VIII Let Lord Sussex 17 Apr We wol therfore and commaund you that ye indelayedly do apprehend and take them 1563-87 Foxe & M Ref (1596) Epist 1 Hath he indelaiedlie should prepare himselfe to be gone out of the realme 1579 N Acts Ten VI, c 30 Presentlie and indelaiedlie vpon their apprehension or conuiction, he or she shall be put and holden in the stokkis 1600 Gouries Complot in Select Hart Mus (1793) 192 Verie miscontent that indelaiedlie he had not to Sanct Johnstoun
Indeleble, -ebly, obs ff Indelible, ibly
Indele ctable, a rare. [In-³ cf. obs F indelectable (Godef.)] Unpleasant, disagreeable 1748 Richardson Clarissa lxvi (1811) VIII 327 Stiffened and starched into dry and indelectable affectation 1806 Edin Rev Oct 109 His remarks upon this indelectable attendant +Indele legabi lity. Obs rare⁻¹ [f In- ³ + Delegable + -ity Cf F indélégable (Littré)] Incapability of being delegated 1595 J Sage Article etc Wks 1844 I 75 In such a delegation consistent with our master's position about the indevolibility or indelegability of such a power
Indeliable, obs form of Indelible
Indeliberate (indĭ·lĭbĕrāt), a [In- ³ cf F indélibéré (17th c)] +1 Of persons, their qualities, etc. Wanting in deliberation, inconsiderate, hasty or rash Obs a 1617 Bayne On Ephes (1658) 100 Thus may rebuke rash, indeliberate, and self-willed persons 1652 Gaule Mag astrum 32 He reproveth their indeliberate rashness a 1677 Manton Twenty Sermons vi Wks 1871 II 111 There is a will natural and indeliberate, and a will deliberate and elective 2 Of actions Done without deliberation or forethought, not carefully considered or planned beforehand Also of thoughts, words, etc Unpremeditated, spontaneous Now rare
1655 Br Brandhall Def True Liberty 37 I distinguish between free acts and voluntary acts The former are always deliberate, the latter may be indeliberate 1680 H Dodwell Free Will Address (1691) 18 Indeliberate actions are not capable of affectation a 1711 Ken Psalm Poet Wks 1721 IV 169 She felt a sudden indelicate thought, Which strange conviction in her spirit wrought 1856 Academy 12 Dec 525/2 Short, insignificant, printing, indeliberate letters
+Indeli berated, a [In- ³ + prec (sense 2)] a 1663 Brambhall (J) Actions proceeding, from blindish ments, or sweet persuasions, if they be indeliberated, as in children are not presently free actions Indeli berately, adv rare [f Indeliberate + -ly²] Without deliberation or premeditation, unintentionally, involuntarily.
1681 Kettlewell Chr Obed (1725) 340 What we have been wont to do by long practice, we do as easily, as quickly, and as indeliberately as we do those things which flow from the necessity of our very nature itself 1700 R Pearson Vanman Vindic 44 They might be forced ignorantly, or indeliberately to Worship the Pagan Idols Indeli berateness. rare [f as prec + -ness] Absence of deliberate action.
1681 Kettlewell Chr Obed (1725) 345 That indeliberate mean in sinning, which proceeds from an habit and custom of sin doth not in any wise lessen or excuse a sinful action Indelibera tion. Now rare. [See Indeliberate + -tion (So mod F indélibération (Littré).)] Want of deliberation or forethought a 1614 Donne Biathanatos (1644) 31 Any mortall sinne proceeding from indeliberation 1646 Jer Taylor Sport Reason Pref § 11 She should leave no Liturgy at all, but the worship of God be left to the managing of chance and indeliberation and a petulant fancy 1681 Kettlewell Chr Obed (1725) 361 They, who secure ever sin wilfully or ill, or very rarely, are wont most frequently through indeliberation and unwillingness to miscarry 1854 Fabr Creed of Heart II iv (1872) 44 Slightness, anxiety in deliberation are all fatal to recollection Indelibi lity. rare Also -ebility [f next see -ity] The quality of being indelible 1804 Horsley Speeches Parli (1813) 421 The indelibility of the sacred character is a principle in the Church of Rome 1891 Daily News 1 July 5/6 I think lost testament indelibility 1896 Blackw Mag May 683 This indelibility of tribal types.
Indelible (indĕ·lĭbl), a Also 6–7 indeleble. (7–9 indelible) [In 16–17th c indelible, ad L indelibilis, f in- (In- ³) + dēlibilis Delible, cf F indélébile, -ible (16th c.) The termination has been assimilated to -ible] 1 That cannot be deleted, blotted out, or effaced, ineffaceable, permanent a of a material mark, stain, etc or of the substance which makes these, as indelible ink.
1579 Fulke Heskins Parl 422 Before he hath his indelible character scraped out of his handes and fingers endes 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 850 The women paint their faces with indelible lines 1699 Bunker Antichrysomat Pref, Pricking the same with Needles, then they take Indelible tincture. 1696 Boome Glanage, Indelible 1698 Phillips, Indelible 1772-84 Cook Voy (1790) I 92 This operation, called by the natives Tattawaing leaves an indelible mark on the skin 1816 J Smith Panorama Sc & Art II 283 Indelible Ink for marking Linen, &c &c Ibid 1825 J Jefferson Jubilog Wks 1859 I 49 Nature, habit, opinion have drawn indelible lines of distinction between them
b of a stain on character or reputation, infamy, disgrace, etc 1589 More Suppl Scripts Wks 320/1 So deadly poisoned wt' sin, yt' their spottes bene indelible & their blemishes vnpurgeable 1624 Sanderson Serm (1637) 432 Branded with an indelible note of infamy 1647 Ward Simp Cobler 20 Accursed with indelible infamy 1758 C Lucas Ess Waters III 284 This would be an unpardonable, an indelible reproach 1887 Bowen Virg Scholds 198 This victory gave him and Spencer an indelible stain
c of a mark, stamp, or character impressed upon anything, spec of the spiritual character which, according to various sections of the Christian Church, is held to be impressed or conferred by some of the sacraments 1592 Mose Confut Tortius on Wks 745/1 With the indelible character and badge of baptisme receiued into his liuinesse and holy houshold 1638 Chillingw Relig Prot vi § 56 We shall then consider whether your indelible Character bee any reality 1711 G Cary Phys Phylactick 406 This Divine Power is what the School men and Church call an Indelible Character 1871 Hawkins Doctr Man II xxi 405 Man still bears in his bodily frame the indelible stamp of his lowly origin 1875 Manning Mission Holy Ghost i 21 To all eternity they will bear the mark of their regeneration, the indelible character stamped upon them at the font d of impression on the mind, also of a feeling a 1631 Donne Lett (1651) 271, I have so many and so indelible impressions of your Favour to me 1697 Aretin Nonsuch viii 268 More grateful and indelible sense of a kind, and intire Friendship 1830 D'Israeli Chas I, III 19 Charles had returned too indelible a recollection of the past 1847 Disraeli Tancred ii ii, Such an event makes an indelible impression †e of a title, right, or the like Indefeasible
c 1645 Howell Lett (1650) I iv viii 186 They shall be owning Knights of the Golden Fleece, and shall enjoy offices preposible, but they say the Lord Chancellor's title is indelible 1769 Blackstone Comm IV i 3 The indelible rights of mankind
Hence Inde libleness, the quality of being indelible, incapability of being blotted out or destroyed 1854-66 Earl Orrery Parthenissa (1676) 901 The indelibleness of the impressions of Youth [In mod Dicts]
Indelibly (indĕ·lĭblĭ), adv [f prec + -ly²] In an indelible manner, so as not to be blotted out or effaced
1611 Speed Hist Gt Brit ix § 33 The murderous Quadrilla which left her name indelibly stained with his innocent blood 1699 E Reynolds in Ehot Gosp Nature Exp A man's These premises are indelibly written in the minds of men 1750 Johnson Rambler No 154 P 11 Our crime is indelibly recorded, and the stamp of fate is fixed upon it 1858 Froude Hist Eng III xxii 454 He had left the print of his imperial genius stamped indelibly into the constitution of the country
Indelicacy (indē·lĭkăsĭ [In-³ see next and -acy] Want of delicacy, want of a nice sense of propriety, refinement, or good taste, coarseness of character, rudeness, etc 1712 Spectator No 286 P 1 Your Papers would be chargeable with something worse than Indelicacy, they would be Immoral 1726 Ayliffe Parerg 484 Left we in IV 486, I hope, you will pardon the indelicacy of the expression 1774 Goldsm Nat Hist (1776) III 127 The indelicacy of this animal further appears in our upper divisions than in its nature 1818 Jas Mill Brit Indiu (1826) I 398 The indelicacy of the Hindoo 1856 Froude Hist Eng II iii 281 That indelicacy which was the singular blemish of his character
Indelicate (indē·lĭkĕt), a [In- ³ cf F indélicat 1812 in Hatz Darm.)]
1 Wanting in, or offensive to, a sense of delicacy or propriety of conduct, manners, bordering upon what is immodest or indecent 1748 Richardson Pamela IV 42 Don't think to let me lose my beloved Wife and have an indelicate Nurse put upon me 1774 Goldsm Hist Earth (1776) I xxxv (1840) II 447 Their manners were too indelicate to be shocked at any indecency 1804 W Tennant Anst Retrosp (ed 2) I 234 Who looked about amongst each other the coarsest ribaldries, and most indelicate sarcasms 1846 Grote Greece II vi 71 A vast deal of fancy more coarse and indelicate than the Homeric
†b Used as sb Obs
1742 Richardson Pamela xxxv III 342 These gentlemen, the very best of them, are such Indelicates! Ibid IV Let me be What strange indelicates do these writers of tragedy often make of our sex!
2 Wanting in fine tact or nice regard to the feelings and tastes of others.
1800 Mrs Hervey Mourtray Fam IV 102 She felt that, under the present circumstances, it would be indelicate to attempt more 1849 Macaulay Hist Eng iv I 462 It was apprehended that such indelicate greediness might disgust the benefactor +3 Of food. Coarse Obs.
1739 Collins Compl Family Piece III 174 The cause fare he met with were but indelicate morsels to one who had formerly lived on rigouts and fricassees 1777 G Forster Voy round World II 274 Time makes these indelicate viands acceptable and delicious to their taste.
Hence Inde licately adv, without delicacy 1800 Mrs Hervey Mourtray Fam III 71 To throw her self, most indelicately, into the arms of a gamester a profligate, a man of no birth 1816 Scott Let to Byrom 5 Jan The indiscreet zeal of the friend, who has injudiciously and, as she thinks, indelicately brought into view certain stances of private attention Indelicence, variant of Indigence, Obs
+Inde lve, v Obs rare⁻¹ [f In- ³ + Delve, after L indolēscĕre] trans To dig in, to bury 1582 Wyclif Gen xxxv 4 Then gaue to hym alle alyen goddis that thei hadden and he indeluede hem vndur a thy note +Inde mn, a Obs rare⁻¹ In 6 indempne [a f indamn in 16th c also indempne], ad L indamnis, f in- (In- ³) + damnum loss, damage] Free from or clear of loss or hurt
1526 Sir R Wingfield Let to Henry VIII Cott Galba B iii ff 3 b] That the saide kynge hath bounde hymself to save thempetour indempne agayneste the kynges highnes of alle thinges +Inde mned, a Obs rare⁻⁰ [f prec + -ed¹ after L indamnā, pa pple of indamnāre to indemnify] = prec.
1554 Hethill Indempned, indamnus 1570 Levins Manip 44 b Indemned
Indemnification (indē·mnifikā·ʃən) [f In- ³ + Demnify + -fication.]
1 The action of compensating for actual loss or damage sustained, also the fact of being compensated, concr the payment made with this object 1732 Lediard Sailors Hist II 876 The only security we have left for our indemnification, is in our preparations 1765 Blackstone Comm I 114 by giving him a full indemnification and equivalent for the injury thereby sustained 1789 Bentham Princ Legisl xiii § 3 The party injured loses all hope of indemnification 1844 H H Wilson Hist India III 14 The unwillingness to pay money indemnities upon wars inseparable from the British Commissioners were induced to lower their demand
b The action of compensating for trouble, annoyance, etc, concr the recompense so rendered 1774 Warton Hist Eng Poetry (1840) III 394 The Emperors enjoyed from the popes the privilege of distributing indulgences, a valuable indemnification for their voluntary poverty 1839 De Quincey Revolt Tartars Misc Writ 19 Not likely to accept gorgeous philosophy as an indemnification for irregular performance of public duties †2 Security against loss or penalty Obs (?). demnity Obs
Inde mnifica tor. rare [f agent n in Latin form, f Indemnify] One who indemnifies 1802-12 Bentham Ration Judic Evid iii V 403 The common vouchee or indemnific tor general, in the Common Pleas Inde mnifica tory, a rare [f Indemnify see -ory] Pertaining or tending to indemnification
1875 Poste Gaius III ed 2 307 Where the actions on delict are purely indemnificatory Indemnified, -fier see under next Indemnify (indē·mnifi), *v*¹ Also 7 indempnifie, -damnifie [f L indamnis + -fy] 1 trans To preserve, protect, or keep free from, secure against (any hurt, harm, or loss), to secure against legal responsibility for past or future actions or events, to give an indemnity to 1611 Cotgr Indemniser to indamnifie 1651 Biggs New Disp 237 Save harmles and keep indempnified 1665 J Webb Stone Hedge 130 (1725) This Law, to which you of them flying remand indemnified for whatever Delict committed 1721 Ardelinois John Bull iv, Why must the rest of the Tradesmen be indemnified from this? 1769 Blackstone Comm IV xi 142 The fact indemnified the peace officers and their assistants, if they killed any of the mob in endeavouring to suppress the riot 1855 Macaulay Hist Eng xxi IV 554 An Act providing that, if Cook would make a true and full discovery, he should be indemnified for his own much heavier delinquencies 1870 Standard 12 Nov, On entering into partnership in 1860 he was indemnified against liability on previously overdrawn accounts 1884 J Kay Contemp Socialism 376 A sound system of working risk insurance must be devised, which shall indemnify them against all the accidents and reverses of life.
2 To compensate (a person, etc.) for loss suffered, expenses incurred, etc 1693 Hum Ct Pacledy iii § 7 That they who formerly possessed Employments, should be indempnified for the Loss of their Posts 1771 Robertson Hist Amer (1778) II vi 76 The plunder of the countries they invaded served to indemnify them for what had expended in fitting themselves for the service 1847 Mrs A Kerr Hist Scotia xx 377 It was left to the Sultan to indemnify his vassals for their loss 1847 Marryat Children Forest (1865) 19 To indemnify themselves for the nonpayment of their salaries by killing the deer for sale and for their own subsistence 1866 Britton Auc & Mod Gr II ii 195 They indemnified themselves by extortions from their unhappy subjects
b. To compensate for disadvantages, annoyances, hardships, etc 1707 Reflex upon Ridicule 121 You ought to indemnify others for the Uneasiness you give them 1836 Macgillivray in Humboldt's Trav xxv 376 The high price of provisions indemnifies the cultivator for the hard life 1896 Gibbon Lif xiv (1857) 171 However long and dreary may be the winter we are always indemnified by the spring 1766 BURKE Corr (1844) I 110 This is one way of indemnifying one's self for the plainness of one's habit 1863 MRS. OLIPHANT Salem Ch. iii 40 She somehow appeared to indemnify herself for her privations.

†3 To compensate, make up for Obs rare

1750 BOWER Lex Mercat (1752) 3 Two advantages in demnified this defect.

Hence Inde mnified, Inde mnifying ppl adjs. Also Inde mnifier, one who indemnifies

1765 BLACKSTONE Comm IV xi 143 There is the like indemnifying clause, in case any of the mob be killed in the endeavour to disperse them 1817-18 COBBETT Annul Reg. (1822) 341, I am doing my best to repay this country for the protection which it has given me against our indemnified tyrants 1882 In BLACKBURN in Law Rep. 7 App Cases 33 The amount which the indemnifier is bound to pay

†Inde mnify, v.[2] Obs rare. Also on [f. IN- 2 + DAMNIFY, with vowel assimilated to INDEMN-] trans. To hurt, harm

1583 STOCKER Hist Civ. Warres Jowe (1632) 63 b, He did not believe that his Minister by this occasion could any way be endamnified 1593 I. Wilson in William Longbeard L 5b, What harme the Rhodians have doone thee, that thou so much indemnifiest them?

Indemnitee (indemnitē') [irreg f INDEMNITY see -EE] The person to whom indemnity or promise of indemnity is given. So Inde mnitor, the person who undertakes to indemnify another against loss or liability

In recent American dictionaries

Indemnity[1] (indemniti) Also 5-7 indempn-, 6 indimn, 5-6 -te, 6 7 -tie [a F indemnité (1367 in Hatz-Darm, ad late L indemnitat-, -itatem, n of condition f indemnis INDEMN

The order of the senses is obs rare, an early use of sense 3, otherwise unexemplified, appears in 2 c]

1 Security or protection against contingent hurt, damage, or loss, safety spec (see quot 1834)

1467 Paston Lett No 575 II 337 I entende noon other but in a's meche as it ys to my worshipp and myne 1533 MORE Debell. Salem Wks 970/1 Vpon complaint made to the kynge and hys counsayle . . then would prouide suffycyently for thindempnyte of the wyttes in that behalfe 1548 HALL Chron., Edw IV, 216 The citizens . began maturely to consult, what parte they should folow for their most indempnite 1624 in Lirendon Hist Rebs. IV 1 (1704) The Indemnity of the Rights and Priviledges of Parliament 1688 I. LAWE Rights etcons Mans Refuge 28 Seeks unchange ableness in his peoples indempnity 1795 BURKE Regic. Peace IV Wks IV 61 They assure you that they will give you nothing in the name of indemnity or security, or for any other purpose 1836 MACCULLOCH Dict Commerce I 682 Indemnity is where one person secures another from responsibility against any particular event 1858 LD ST LEONARDS Handy Bk Prop Law xvi 148 You will, of course, be entitled to an indemnity against any demand which still binds you . for example future rent under a lease to the testator 1879 LONGMAN Addr Ld Lieut. 10 Railway Insurance ought to be a contract of indemnity

2 A legal exemption from the penalties or liabilities incurred by any course of action

1679 COTTON Depopulation 1 10 An indempnity, and oblivion of all pass'd unkindnesses 1703 DE QUERNEVILLE in Files Orig. Lett Ser II IV 218 To secure their friends there would be a General Act of Oblivion and Indemnity 1711 Hist Eng I ix 201 All his vassals who had entered into confederacy with Richard should receive an indemnity for the offence 1765 BLACKSTONE Comm IV xxxi 383 Besides this allowance, he has also an indemnity granted him of being free and discharged for ever from all debts owing by him at the time he became a bankrupt, even though no agreement shall have been obtained against him 1860 BUCKLE Civilis (1869) III iv 145 Receiving beforehand an indemnity for every excess b Act (or Bill) of Indemnity, an act of Parliament or other authority granting exemption from the penalties attaching to any unconstitutional or illegal proceeding Also fig.

Such an act used, previously to the general act of 13 & 2 Vict, c 72 § 16, to be passed annually for the relief of those who had failed to take the necessary oaths of office In Eng Hist the term is usually applied to the Acts of 1660 and 1690, exempting those who had taken arms or acted against Charles II and William III respectively, from the penal consequences of their treasonable conduct

1647 FULLER Good Th in Worse T (1841) 206 So shall I have an act of indemnity before he can enter his action against me 1648 D. JENNER Hea 29 The Army by an Act of Indemnity free themselves from all those dangers, which an Ordinance can no more do than repeale all the Lawes of the Land 1672 MARVELL Reh Transp I 194 He therefore carried the Act of Oblivion and Indempnity thorow 1793 BURKE Rem Letters Affairs Wks 1841 I 603 A valuable friend asked me what I thought of acts of general indemnity and oblivion, as a means of settling France 1827 HALLAM Const Hist (1876) III xv 112 They retained the bill of indemnity in the commons 1836 H. COLERIDGE North Worthies (1852) I I 19 The Act of Indemnity and the trial of the regicides transpired before the commencement of the correspondence

3 Compensation for loss or damage incurred; indemnification

1793 LD AUCKLAND Corr (1861) III 13 The reasonable mean of furnishing some indemnity to the Dutch by the cession of Lille and Leifenshoek 1825 BENTHAM Rationale Rew 338 When an individual is only indemnified, he is not rewarded reward begins when indemnity is complete 1849 MACAULAY Hist Eng II I 137 The Cavaliers very naturally demanded indemnity for all that they had suffered

b A sum paid by way of compensation

1872 YEATS Growth Comm 216 The vigour of Cromwell eventually compelled the Dutch to pay an indemnity of 2,000,000 guilders 1876 FAWCETT Pol Econ (ed 5) IV iv 328 Within four years, France had to pay to Germany a war indemnity of £240,000,000

†c spec (in early use) A payment made to the archdeacon in compensation for the loss to his induction money, and also to the bishop in lieu of his institution fees, when a church was impropriated to an abbey or college Obs

1540 3 Act 34 & 35 Hen VIII c 19 § 1 Diuers pensions, portcions, corodies, indemnities, stipendes, prouises and other profites 1545 Instr to Cromwell in Cott MS Cleop E v If 85 Pensions or Indemnities be then, whan a churche is Impropried to an abbay or a colleage, then the Archedeacon for euer leesithe his induction money, and in recompens of that he shall haue yerly oute of the saide benefice so Im propried x s. for a yerly pension more or leese euyn so open opus conservatur Indemnus and lyethe a lyke pension for his Indemnitie in the lewe of his Institucion

4 attrib. or indemnity bill, loan, money

1818 Ann Hist in Ann Reg 56/1 The third reading of the indemnity bill occurred on March 9th 1867 Homeward Mail 16 Nov 954/2 The indemnity money paid after the destruction of the Old Factory gardens 1870 Daily News 17 Sept 2/5 The Powers, it is believed, will guarantee the indemnity loan

Indemnity[2] Obs rare. Also 6 endemnitee [ad OF indamnpnité,[1] (1433 in Hatz-Darm), f in (IN-)[1] + L damnum loss, damage, for the vowel of INDEMNITY q.v.] Damage, hurt, injury

1556 J. HEYWOOD Spider & F xxxi 27 Which growth of hatred out of enmitees, Did I (in youth) by mutuate endeauour outre Doute haue . . I were a beaste 1569 TAVERNER Sym's Pla to Rhe We doe not read of greater Persecution, higher indignitie and Indemnity done vpon Gods People than in this our Realme

Indemnization. rare [a F indemnisation, n of action from indemniser see next] = INDEMNIFICATION

1836 Taits Mag III 651 To be indebted for the indemnization of my creditors to some other grocer's daughter 1845 Par Q Rev XXIV 281 He spent two vexatious years in the business of recalculation and indemnization, which the peace of Lunéville had left as a legacy to diplomatists

†Indemnize, v. Obs rare[—0] [a F indemniser (1808 in Hatz-Darm), f indemnité INDEMN] trans To indemnify

1611 COTGR., Indemniser, to indemnize, or indamnifie

Indemno nstrabi lity. rare [f next see 11] The quality of being indemonstrable, incapability of being demonstrated

1789 I. TAYLOR Produs Comm II 2 Principles in simplicity, indemonstrability and self evidence, should excel things posterior to principles 1847 DE QUINCEY Protest anism Wks 1862 II 148 Kant was the first person, and perhaps the last, that ever undertook formally to demonstrate the indemonstrability of God

Indemonstrable (indemonstrăb'l), a [IN-[1] of I indémontrable (Littre)] Incapable of being demonstrated or proved (Said esp of primary or axiomatic truths, principles, etc)

1570 BILLINGSLEY Euclid I 9 The first principles and grounds, which are indemonstrable. a 1629 POTTENGER Atheom I 1 § 4 (1652) 6 The first and most ancient principles, and therefore of all other the most indemonstrable 1789 REID Intell Powers (1850) II xxii 388 We find likewise some of the axioms of geometry mentioned by Aristotle as axioms, and as indemonstrable principles of mathematics 1869 Contemp Rev VI 445 Let us give up endeavouring to demonstrate the indemonstrable 1877 E. CAIRD Philos Kant I 239 Certain primary conceptions or indemonstrable material principles of truth

Hence Indemo nstrableness, incapability of being demonstrated. Indemo nstrably adv

1654 WARREN Unbelievers 195 Which indemonstrably sheweth the incontinuity of this grace 1797 BAILEY Vol II, Indemonstrableness

†Inden n, v. Obs rare Also 7 en [f IN-[2] + DEN 3][1] trans To put into a den

1598 FLORIO Montanino, to indenne, to put, enter, go, or creepe into a caue or den 1621 Hist Inducements &c. endenne 1664 FULLERTON Turtle Dove, Jerome was stoned, and Daniel was indened Amos was rent Paul by the word did end

†Indenei on. Obs rare—[1] [Erroneous form for indensation see INDENSE] A rendering dense, a thickening

1547 BOORDE Brev. Health cxviii 54 The one (face) doth come by the indenesion or thickenes of bloude

†Indeni able, a. Obs rare [IN-[1]] That cannot be denied, undeniable

1621 BP. MOUNTAGU Diatrib 87 Manie and indeniable consequences 1652 FRENCH Vorkish Man iii 38 Either in deniable testimony

†Indeni ed, a. Obs rare—[1] [IN-[3]] Not denied, undeniable

1624 BP. MOUNTAGU Gagg 17 By necessary consequence, and indenied it is but you have tied yourselfe unto ex presse Scripture

Indenize, -ation, etc see ENDENIZE, etc

1749 MARTIN New Eng Dict Indenizing Longue 17 Many words and terms in these arts have also been indenized

Indeno minable, a rare—[1] [IN-3] That cannot be named, unnameable

1647 WARD Simp Cobler 28 An indenominable Quesmalry of overturcas'd things

†Inde nsate, a. Obs rare—[1] [ad L. type indensāt-us*, pa. pple of indensā re*, see next, and cf DENSATE 2] Rendered dense, thickened

1599 H. LYNCH Anc Fact N, I he are becommuth inden sate and grosse †Inde nse, v. Obs rare—[1] [ad L type indensā re*, f in- (IN- 2) + densā re to make thick, f densus DENSE] trans To make dense or thick

1596 NASHE Comm. of Complex (1633) 118 Vnctions and Frictions indense the body, that the ayre and windes should not batter and damnifie it

Indent (indĕ nt), v.[1] Also 5-6 endent [ad F endenter (Ph du Thaun, 12th c.) 'to snip, notch, jag on the edges' (Cotgr.), L type indentā re* (med.L. and It indentare), f in- (IN- 2) + dentā re* to furnish with teeth, f dens, dent-em tooth, cf dentatus DENTATE]

I In general sense

1 trans To make a tooth-like incision or incisions in the edge or border of, to notch or jag, now, chiefly, to give a zigzag or strongly serrate outline to c 1430 Pilgr Lyf Manhode II. cxlviii. (1869) 138 She fyled myn yren and endented it c 1440 Ipomydon 2641 A harbor he callyd, And shove his bothe bybynd and before, Queyntly endentyd, oute and in 1523 FITZHERB Husb § 21 Take hede that thy mower mow clene and holde downe the hynder hand of his sith that he do not endente the grasse 1866 Treas. Bot. Mollusca 120 The lane is marked with five longitudinal ribs which indent the edges of the plate

b To form a deep recess or recesses in (a coast line, etc.) to penetrate deeply Also transf

1555 J. DEN Decades III ix 138 It is eaten and indented with two goulfes 1624 CAPT. SMITH Virginia I 5 Those armes of sea By their meandred creeks indenting of that land 1773 JOHNSON Tour to Hebr Islands 21 Sept P 17 It is an island so much indented by inlets of the sea that there is no part of it removed from the water more than six miles 1777 COOK Journ I 83 In 41 N. the coast seemed to be indented into creeks and projecting points 1851 HALIBURTON Nort Ass I iv, Each part [of the book] overlaps, and indents, and indeed runs quite through the other 1855 MACAULAY Hist Eng III 191 Lochaber, an arm of the sea which deeply indents the western coast of Scotland

c intr To recede or form a recess

1784 J. BARRY in Phil Trans in (1848) 245 The forms are singular, as well where they swell out as where they swell out 1856 GROTE Greece II App XII 667 At the spot here mentioned, the gulf indents eastward

II To indent a document, and senses thence arising

2 trans To sever the two halves of a document, drawn up in duplicate, by a toothed, zigzag, or wavy line, so that the two parts exactly tally with each other, to cut the top or edge of two or more copies of a legal document in such an exactly corresponding shape, hence, to draw up a document in two or more exactly corresponding copies.

This was done in the case of a deed, covenant, agreement, etc in which two or more parties had an interest, so that one copy was retained by each party, the genuineness of these could be subsequently proved by the coincidence of their indented margins See INDENTURE 2b 3

1385 (see INDENTED pple 4) 1423 Acts Lond Oldcastle in Arch Cantor VI 133 His Belief, which was indented and taken to the Clergy, and set up in diuers open places 1473 WARKW Chron 10 Alle this poynttement aforesaide were written, indentyde, and sealede 1526 Tyler Pol (1531) 85 All thynges that thou hast promysed to god, & be contey ned in thyne obligacion, endented betwene god & the soule 1557 Ordres Hospitalle D v b, An Inventorie shall be In dented, th' one part thereof to remaine in your custodie, and th' other in the custodie of the persons charged 1610 CALLIS Stat Sewers (1647) 232 All other Lawes and Ordinances of sewers which be but in parchment, and not Indented, or which be indented also, if not sealed, continue in force no longer then that Commission continueth by the power whereof they were made 1624 CAPT. SMITH Virginia II 129 Contracted with me by articles indented vnder our hands 1735 Col Rec Pennsylv III 601 Articles of Agreement Indented, Made, Concluded and Agreed upon at Philadelphia 1767 BLACKSTONE Comm II 295 If a deed be made by more parties than one, there ought to be regularly as many copies of it as there are parties, and each should be cut or indented formerly in some variable instar dentium, but at present in a waving line on the top or side, to tally or correspond with the other, which deed, so made, is called an indenture 1809 Kentucky Gazette Trade 103 When a deed begins This Indenture, it must actually be indented, that is, must be cut or scalloped at the top, otherwise it will be a deed poll [This is no longer so of quot 1845 in INDENTURE 2b 2]

†3 intr To enter into an engagement by indentures, hence, to make a formal or express agree ment, to covenant (with a person for a thing), to engage Also fig.

1489 W PASTON in P Lett No 908 III 351 My Lorde of Northethomberyland hathe endentyd with the kynge for the kepynge owt of the Schottys and warryynge on them 1541 Act 33 Hen VIII, c 21 § 2 he said Master of the wardes and liueries shall haue power to couenaunt and indent with euery person for his liuerie 1561 T. NORTON Calvin's Inst III 320 Many do nothing but indent with God vpon a certaine condition, and binde him to the laues of their couenanting 1620 FLY Sea Hist Hen VIII 369 At last she indents downright with the devil He is to find her some toies for a time, and to have her soul in exchange 1656 — Ch Hist IV iv § 23 Thus would I have Ecclesiasticall and civil Historians indent about the Bounds, and Limits of their Subjects 1700 J. BROME Trav. Eng. Scot III (1707) 176 The Servants do usually indent with their Masters, when they hire them 1792 STANHOPE Paraphr I 139 The Persons baptized by John, did also undertake some new conditions, and indent in some

Privileges. a 1736 North Exam III viii § 38 (1740) 612 Courage did not serve them to refuse delivering over the Goals by Indenture to North and Rich, as the Way is, nor to indent with their own Anti Sheriffs. 1756 Golden Pros St Pol Learning xi Wks (1854) II 50 I fire with indignation when I see persons wholly destitute of education and genius indent to the pass, and thus turn book makers

†b with subord cl or inf expressing purpose 1462 Paston Lett No. 453 II 104 He hathe endented with the owners of the schip what day he it schulbe redy 1480 Howard Household Bks (Roxb) 9, I, John lord Howard, endented with the King my servant Lord to do him servisse upon the see. 1585 Abp Sandys Serm xiv ¶ 26 (Parker Soc) 276 He indented not what reward he should have. 1643 S Marshall Letter 7 Suppose a free man indents with another to be his servant in some ingenious employment a 1661 Fuller Worthies (1840) III 366 [she] indented with her husband that her heritable house should assume her surname 1715 Ramsay Christ's Kirk Gr II iii, I ill this time townmond I see indent Our clashes of dirt will wear

†4 trans a To contract for, bind oneself to, or promise, by or as by making indentures, to covenant, stipulate, agree about, promise Obs a 1555 Bradford Exact Dissertac Misc Wks (Parker Soc) 318 We should take it no less than idolatry or image service, what soever thing is indented by man, saint, or angel, and not by him, concerning his worship and service 1600 Holland Livy VIII xli 279 He would not indent ought for his owne securitie 1607 Schol Dis. betw Conformitie 11 72 Esaw as Paul indented an imitation of Jewish rites, when he shaued his head at Cenchrea 1631 R H Arraignm Whole Creature x § 1 74 They indent golden Mountaines, but pay charging Mice

†b To engage (a person) as a servant, etc by or as by indentures, = Indenture v 2 Obs

1758 (see Indented ppl a 1 4) 1787 Burns Let to Moore 2 Aug., I was thinking of indenting myself, for want of money to procure my passage. 1804 J Graham Sabbath (1839) 172 To indent one's person for life, is a tremendous engagement

5 intr. To make out a written order with a duplicate or counterfoil, hence, to make a requisition on or upon a person for a thing (Orig an Anglo-Indian use) In later usage also to draw upon (a source of supply) Cf Indent sb 1 4

1849 Regular 136 Could it procure any sort of article for part of the accommodation for his stores? but at all events, he might indent freely on hers, on their arrival 1837 Macaulay in Life & Lett (1880) I 469, I have indented largely, to use our Indian official term, for the requisite books 1852 F Hall in Benares Mag VI 719 note, Shefta's work is indented upon, by the Mantawi, without stint and without acknowledgement 1859 Lang Wand India 277 Other magistrates had been indented upon as magistrates very frequently were, when ladies were nervous and [were] ailing with only an ayah) 1888 Sala in Illustr Lond News 30 Sept 343 The medical officers are unable to indent on the commissariat or onto stores for newspapers 1891 Pall Mall G 9 Mar 1 4/1 (quoting Indian paper) The salt tax has at last been indented upon for covering the deficit in our Budget

6 trans Comm To order by an indent, to order a supply of (a commodity) Cf Indent sb 1 2

1897 Westm Gaz 2 Mar 10/1 On what principle do you work in indenting books from England? 1899 Ibid 27 Feb 2/2 A short time ago Mr Kinder indented 20,000 tons of Welsh coal

II In other literal and technical senses

7 trans To make an incision in (a board, etc.), for the purpose of mortising or dovetailing, to join or joint together by this method

(Although the evidence for the sense is late, it appears very early in Indenting vbl sb 2 and Indenture sb 1 b)

1741 R Monro Anat Bones (1763) 31 Each of these bony Pieces is indented into the larger Bones 1805-27 R Jamison Cabr Mus (ed 3) 154 The ranges are indented into each other 1811 Self Instructor 135 In wainscoting, the dimensions are taken indenting the string where the plane goes 1825 J Nicholson Operative Mechanic 588 Boards can be connected together at any given angle by indenting them together 1844 H Rogers Introd Butler's Wks 65 He... put together a piece of joinery, so crossly indented and whimsically dove-tailed 1876 Gwilt Archit Gloss., Indented, toothed together, that is, with a projection fitted to a recess

b Indent in, to mortise in, joint in with art in quot fig

1639 Drume of Hawth Char Anagrams Wks (1711) 231 An anagram fitly cometh in mostly in the conclusion but so that it appeareth not indented in, but of it self naturally

8 Printing To set back (from the margin of the column of writing or type the beginning of (one or more lines), as a means of marking a new paragraph, of exhibiting verse, etc, to begin (a line or a succession of lines) with a blank space

1676 Moxon Print Lett 11 You must indent your Time four Spaces at least 1793 Boswell Johnson May an 1748 Indenting the notes into the text 1844 Johnson Typogr II vi 137 Authors should always make the beginning of a new paragraph conspicuous to the compositor, by indenting the first line of it far enough about 1884 Southward Pract Print (ed 2) 87 To set out a paragraph in this style, the compositor would be told to 'run out and indent'

†9 intr To move in a zigzag or indented line, to turn or bend from side to side in one's course, to double Obs

1565 Golding Ovid's Met VII (1593) 177 But doubling and indenting still avoids his enimies lips 1598 Shake Yew & Ad 704 Then shalt thou see the dew bedabbled wretch Turn, and return, indenting with the way 1607 Topsell Fowrf Beasts (1658) 176 It windeth or indenteth like a Serpents figure 1643 Milton Divorce II xiv, To limit and level out the direct way from vice to virtue not winding or indenting so much as to the right hand of fair pretences

†b trans To indent the way in same sense.

1622 W Parker Curtaine Dr (1876) 57 To see light dreaded drunkennesse indent the way From side to side 1823 Taylor (Water P) Water Cormor Wks (1630) III 5/1 From side to side he staggered as he went, As if he reeling did the way indent

Indent (indɛ nt), v 2 Also 4 5 (trnt and pa pple) endent(e [f In- 4 + Dent v

Although this is, at least in its radical part, etymologically distinct from Indent v 1 the two are in actual use (and perh have always been) consciously regarded not as distinct words, but only as senses or uses of the same word, the difference between them in their primary signification being much less than that between actual senses of Indent v 1 Thus blending is even more apparent in the derivatives, such as indentation, indenture, which owe their form entirely to the Romanic Indent v 1, but have senses derived from both verbs]

1 †1 trans To inlay, set, emboss, = Dent v 3 3 L L Allit P A 1011 Pe topasye twynne how pe menie endent 1440 Morte Arth 2398 His dyademe was enpurfelde with stonys, dubbide with crafft, and with drimwandis 1440 Maundev (Roxb) xxiii 106 pe greece es all of precious stones, endented with gold 1435 Jury Chapt (1837) 1 46 I have desired the commissary of supply to be prepared at Bungtoo to answer your indents for every thing that you will want 1803 Let to Sec Crew 18 Apr, Specifying in the indent the contents of the boats Ibid 1 shall countersign these indents 1872 Daily News 21 Sept, Any regimental quartermaster, through the simple medium of an indent, can in any emergency obtain a supply of provisions out of this 1892 Pall Mall G 15 Nov 3/2 Indents were made on the Medical Department for quantities which soon nearly exhausted the stores at the command

5 Comm An order for goods, esp one sent to England from abroad

1800 Asiat Ann Reg., Pros Part 27/1 From the nearly same, the governments abroad were induced to add considerably to their indents 1879 Cassell's Fam Mag 1 We enclose an indent of stationery 1883 Manch Exam 30 Nov 4/5 The sudden fall in sterling exchange has checked dealers in sending home indents to any extent 1892 Times 9 Oct 9/3 Indents come home at rather better figures owing to supplies abroad being light

Indent (indɛ nt) sb [f Indent v 2] A dint or depression in the surface of anything, made by a knock or blow, an indentation, hence, any depression, hollow, or furrow in a surface

1600 Lavrovrn Corn Math 454 b, If a Spherical Body hall here and there some irregular indents made in it 1781 Thompson in Phil Trans LXXI 234 Its surface was full of small indents 1808 Daily Inl 3 July, This shot made an indent of 4½ inches, and above this by 3 inch supports out between two and three inches 1876 Hutchinson Can Coll Man II 11 On the other [side of the coin] merely the indent formed by the punch used to drive the metal into the die 1897 Illustr Spt Med IV 356 A superficial unevenness in the shape of scattered indents or depressions.

fig 1874 Helps Soc Press VI (1875) 77 Character has deeper indents in it than are made by any of the advents from circumstances that you have adduced

Indentation (indɛntē·ʃən) [In form, n of action f Indent v 1 (see -ation), but in sense derived also from Indent v 2]

I Senses from Indent v 1

1 The action of indenting, the condition of being indented or having the edge cut into tooth-like notches or angular incisions, denticulation, toothing

1830 Penny Cycl V 249/1 The form of leaves margin, the manner of their indentation, and the nature of the leaf stalk 1858 Gurney Cant & Low Lang Sh 4 If the edge be smooth, with no indentation, and perfectly circular 1877 F Heath Fern Wd 32 The indentation assuming various shapes, often being deeply toothed

2 with an and pl A cut, notch, or angular incision in the margin of anything, a deep recess in a boat-line, or the like, a series of incisions, a zig zag moulding, etc

a 1726 Woodward (J) The margins do not terminate in a straight line, but are indented, each indentation being continued in a small ridge, to the indentation that answers it on the opposite margin 1796 Morse Amer Geog II 190 The opposite Welsh coast is broken by various bays and indentations 1806 Med Jrnl XV 69 Leaves oblong, on short leaf stalks, slightly indented with indentations 1853 Kane Grinnell Exp xxii (1856) 170 Captain Austin entered the same little indentation in which five of us were moored before a 1861 Hurlbut Bk Rev (1887) I 302 The Greek coast is full of indentations

3 Printing = Indention 2

1864 Webster, Common indentation 1884 Southward Print 86 The first line of the paragraph is shorter than the two following, there being a wide space at the beginning. This is called an indentation.

II Senses from Indent v 2

4 The action of impressing so as to form a dint or dint, the dent, hollow, or depression thus formed, any deep and decided depression in a surface

1847 James Convict II, On the summit of one of the most elevated points there was a little indentation 1862 Times 12 July, Injurious compression of a soft, moist soil, by the indentation of its wheels 1880 Bartlan Barom 115 The extent of its surface is further increased by the existence of numerous superficial folds or indentations

Indented (indɛ nted), ppl a 1 [f Indent v 1 + -ed] 1

1 Having the edge or margin deeply cut with angular incisions, deeply, strongly, or coarsely serrated along the margin

c 1440 Promp Parv 261/1 Indentyd, indentatus 1551 Turner Herbal I A vb, Acanthum is a kynde of thystel indented after the fashion of branke ursin Ibid B 3 b, One of them hath leues lyk a plum tre, and depely endentyd 1601 Holland Pliny I 309 All [beasts] that have teeth indented in like sawe, be naturally devourers of flesh 1608 Milton Lycid 94 Trent who, like some earth born giant spreds His thirty arms along the indented mead

1653 H Cogan tr Pinto's Ira xxxiv 135 Banners of white damask, deeply indented 1664 Power Exp Philos 1 14 She had two Claws which were indented, or made Saw wise on the inside 1725 Dict Cavalry Exact Instr 2 Plates of Indented along their length 1851 D Wilson Prehist Ann (1863) II vi 200 The inlets of their indented coast 1877 J Heath Farm II 22 Sometimes the leafy portion, though undivided, has its margin beautifully cut in, or indented

b Having a serrated or zigzag figure, direction, or course, as a line, wall, moulding, path etc; constructed with salient and re-entrant angles, as a battery, parapet, etc.

1600 Shaks. A 1 J IV iii 113 A green and gilded snake with indented glides, did slip away 1660 Boyle New Exp Phys Mech xxiv 151 A waxing or waning in the moon, whereby they describe an indented Line 1667 Milton P L ix 496 The Enemie, of Mankind, coucht in Serpent forme Aere Addressd his way, not with indented wave, but on his belly prone 1706 Phillips (ed Kersey) Indented Line, in Fortify'n a Line running in and out like the Teeth of a Saw often used on the bank of the Counter-scarp upon a River or Sea Coast 1720 Celia Fiennes Diary (1888) 72 There is one walke all ye length of the Garden it is indented in and out in Corners 1802–19 Sir J Smith Nautical Rendezv, redans or redant in Fortification A kind of work indented in form of the teeth of a saw It is described as a work and indented work 1834 Sir J N Macleay Field Fort (1841) 85 We must still also recommend an indented parapet to obtain more on the oblique angles of works 1853 Knowles Mistl Jour Indented Line in fortification, is a serrated line, forming several angles, so that one side defends another The faces are longer than the flanks 1875 Parker Gothic Archit 198 The other Gothic mouldings of the Norman style, are the Indented [etc]

2 Her Of an ordinary, etc Having a series of similar indentations or notches

In the Bk Sr Alban on Heraldry, what is now called embattled is represented and described as 'indented', while 'arrant' is used to describe the modern indented figure, in English, however, the description of 'indented' shows it to bear the current meaning

1 Boke Arith 253 A deefe schilde endentyd with sable With a dragone engowlyd schade 1595–8 Markey Arthurin xxxvi, His sheild was indented with whyte and black 1686 Bk Sr Alban Her D iij, Quarterni unyes a side indent for 4 colours com in to an other by the manor of teth ar indented. 1583 Tho Berners Treat (1812) I lx 81 His baner was goules, a sheffe sylver, three chesoures in the sheffe, barred endented of the first Guillim Heraldry 1 ii 88 He beareth Oules a bordure indented Argent Ibid This bordure is said to be indented, because it seemeth to be composed of a number of Teeth 1708 Bradley Fam Dict, Indented, a Term in Her dry who's the Out Line of a Bordure Ordinary, &c is in the Form of the Teeth of a Saw 1864 Boutell Her Hist & Pop xii 84 Indented, having a serrated border line

3 Of a legal document Cut zigzag or wavy at the top or edge, having counterparts severed by a zigzag line, esp in deed chirf, etc; indented (as opposed to Deed poll); = Indenture sb 2 (cf mod f chartre (scriptura, etc) endentate

1385 (May 18) Anno decimo Regis Ricardi Secundi post Conquestum Angl (1783) 1 The wytnes of the qwykes al and synder, in thir endentyt lettrys conteny, ty[ll] day of the fundacion of endenturis I hafe put my Cele 1444 E P Wills 188 Ibid Made by dede endented 1452–50 tr Higden (Rolls) VIII 432 Seales were not putte to writynges indentede that the Kynge of Ynglonde whylde have all londes of the duchery off Aquitanny 1480 Walcott Rolles 270 in Gross Gild Wynch (1890) II 249 The olde Maisters of the Gylde shall by [sic] indented delyver to the newe Masters alle the money, plate [etc] 1494 Fabyan Chron v cxxxii 126 He there in y^ presence made his testament, y^ before he had caused to be written in m sondrys skynnes endentyd, to be rad, & than sealyd wt certeyne of theyr seales, wherof y^ one he wylld to be kept in the vestory of Seynt Denys 1523 Fitzherb Surv 20 There is no maner of estates made of free lande by polle dede or dede indented 1679 Hobbes Enquirie Plato 11 They were both partners to the same Indented Articles 1706 Phillips, Deed Indented, or Indenture, a Writing cut with Dents or Notches on the top or side, which consists of two or more Parts, and wherein the express'd, That the Parties concerned have interchangeably, or severally set their Hands and Seals to every Part of it 1797 Capel Hist Eng I 581 There were three indented copies made 1765 Blackstone Comm I xi 296 Apprentices are usually bound for a term of years by deed indented, or indentures, to serve their masters, and be maintained and instructed by them 1818 Cruise Digest (ed 2) IV 10 Deeds are divided into two sorts, deeds poll, or cut an even straight line, and deeds indented 1842 see Indenture 2]

4 Bound or engaged by an indenture or formal covenant = Indentured 1

1758 Ac Mennadys & Manchesters 100 He had been an indented servant in New England 1772 Shields Thought Ch Est to Mrs Cavilion 28 Apr, What between his will fullness and his waste his trumps and his frenzy, I lead the life of an indented slave 1788 Wesley Wks (1872) VII 79 Indented servants, who are legally engaged to remain with you for a term of years 1810 Public Notices, Sydney, Australia 21 July (Morris) A Ship with female convicts, whom it is ,, the Governor's intention to distribute among the settlers, as indented servants 1864 Sala in Daily Tel 24 Sept, I hese miserable bondsmen—these indented apprentices to the great planter, Death 1882 Fiske in Harper's Mag Dec 114/2 There were a few indented white servants

5 Printing Of a line of writing or printing Set in, so as to break the line of the margin see Indent v 1 8

1840 Mrs Browning Lett R H Horne (1877) I xxi 242 I am sorry you do not print the stanzas with the indented lines.

Indented (inde·ted), ppl a 2 [f Indent v 2 + -ed 1] Impressed, struck, or dinted in, so as to make a depression or hollow in a surface

1635 Heathwaite Arcad Pr 123 With an indented pace [he] addressed himselfe with best speed he could towards Hem ista 1634 Lytton Pompeii II i, Their eyes fixed on the bloody throat of the one and the indented talons of the other

b Marked with sharp depressions on the surface, as if caused by the dint of some instrument

Hence Inde·ntedly adv, by indentation, in an indented manner

1753 Chambers Cycl Suppl, s v Camaieu, Any kind of gem, whose figures may be engraven either indentedly or relievo

Indentee (indenti·), a Her [ad F endenté, ad med L indentātus, pa pple of indentare see Indent v 2] (See quots)

1727–41 Chambers Cycl, Indented, indentée when the outline of a bordure, ordinary, etc is notched in form of the teeth of a saw 1828 Berry Encycl Heraldr I Indentée, having indents not joined to each other, but set up and down alternately like teeth, called by the French à bordure cousûe, and à dents de chien each point

Indenter (inde·ntə) [f Indent v 1 + -er 1] One who indents, covenants, or orders by indent

1580 Hanson, Fun hospeyker, a Coulthmonger, or an Indenter 1897 Manch Guard 25 Oct, Cases where goods indented for are now wanted for delivery, the indenters readily offering to pay at the contracted rate

Indentilly (inde·ntili), a Her Also illey, -elly [Corrupted from OF endentelé (= It -) + -ment, -ly Dentellated] (See quots)

1828 Berry Encycl Heraldr I, Indentilly, having long indents, somewhat resembling piles couplèd vis à vis, indentilley is the bottom These kind of indents are, in old authors upon her aldry, sometimes blasoned indented for long, owing to their resemblance to a fesse 1889 Elvin Dict Her, Indentelly, indented Perlong, with notches much deeper than usual

Indenting (inde·ntiŋ), vbl sb 1 [f Indent v 1 + -ing 1] The action of Indent v 1, or the result produced by this

1. = Indentation 1 and 2

c1386 Chaucer Pars T 343 The cost of embrowdyng, the shapyng, endentyng, brayyng, and semblable wast of cloth is in value 1440 Promp Parv 261/2 Indentynge, indentatio 1551 Turner Herbal I 9 a, In forme and in dentying of the leaues it is like vnto an oke leafe 1628 Wotton De Elem Philos 614 To carue grapes with incisions and indenting 1650 Fuller Pisgah II iv 44 They removed not [with] the Indenting Reuires and vndertings 1787 G White Selborne (1789) 12 The outline, in all its excursions and indentings, does not comprise less than thirty miles 1797 Encycl Brit (ed 3) I 437/1 Neither did we take notice of any indentings in the curve which divides the illuminated part from the dark in the disk of Venus

Ine·ntes (C) Indented ppl a 1 2)

1486 Bk St Albans, Her. C vij, A fine engravyng is moyne pougne, after the stalk of thys vine, but rather in endentyng, as truth is 1611 Guillim Heraldry I ix (1660) 28 Every of these Indentings, arising into the Field, keepeth and take away some part of them as they go

+2 Mortising, a mortise joint see Indent v 1 7, 1382 Wyclif 1 Chron xxii 3 And myche yren to endenteyngis [Vulg ad commissuras] and ioyningis Dauid made redy

3 The making of an Indenture (2) or Indent (v 1 3–5)

1488 in Naval Acc Hen VII (1896) 13 In making of Reknynges of pursers of shippes indentyng, with diuers persons & other muniments 1618 E Elton Keep vn Ho 165 By writing, sealing, and counter or indenting with them 1655 Fuller Ch Hist II iv 140 Though there be no indenting and conditional capitulating with God (who is to his Creatures as free as the Ocean) 1808 Pinnock in H & Ch Quinsey (1877) I vii 137, I must insist on your indenting, on my hand

Inde·nting (inde·ntiŋ), vbl sb 2 [f Indent v 2 + -ing 1] The action of Indent v 2, or the result produced by this

1 = Indentation 4

1580 Holyband Treat Fr Tongs, Enchaunters in its dentyng 1625 Markham Masterp III ii 18 Hyppocras ... His were not seen but for the Vales betwixt The deepe indentings arthereof mist 1693 Phil Trans XVII 655, I conclude that these Indentings are the Impressions of the Seeds which must insinuate to the Skin underneath it 1746 Babcock ibid XLIV 108 The only Part of the Flower which appears with a Hollow or Indenting, etc Tooth

+2 Inlaying or embossing, inlaid work Obs

1730 A Gordon Maffei's Amphith 171 Ornaments, Works of Metal by Indenting and Inlaying Ibid These Indentings are of a reddish kind of copper

Inde·nting, ppl a [f Indent v 2 + -ing 2] That indents or makes indentations on a surface

1831 J Holland Manuf Metal I 274 The contrivance of what are called indenting cylinders

Indention (inde·nʃən) [Irregularly formed from Indent v 2, instead of indentation, but in sense derived also from Indent v 2]

1. From Indent v 1

1 = Indentation 1 and 2

1763 Mar Mist in Gen Ass 66 i They are smooth, thick, and without indention at the edge 1814 Scott Diary I xp 16 Aug, in Lockhart, The bay is formed by a broad indention in the mainland 1825 Hebert Mequer Pandon II iii 119 A lumina of bone folded upon itself so as to form three indentions on the outer edge 1870 F R Wilson Ch Landlef 126 Each indention [is] enriched with bead ornament

2 The indenting of a line in printing or writing, the leaving of a blank space at the beginning of a line at the commencement of a new paragraph, etc, the blank space so left See Indent v 1 8

Hanging or reverse indention, the projection of the first line of a paragraph, etc, beyond the vertical line of those that follow

1884 J Johnson Typogr II 136 The mere indention of an m [is] scarcely perceptible in a long line 1888 South ward Print Punct (ed 2) 81 The whole would be a 'hanging indention', because part of the first line would hang over the succeeding ones

II 1 from Indent v 4

3 A dent or dint see Indentation 4

1839 Cheito Bird's-nesting 264 It will make a small indention in the [wood] block, and occasion a white or grey speck in the impression

+ Inde·ntments. Obs [f Indent v 1 + -ment cf indentement]

1 Indentation (of the edge of anything)

1671 Grew Anat Pl v § 4 Act is the top of the Limb adorned also, that the Indentments, by being lapp'd over the Leaves before, their Conjunction and then greater then 1713 in Connect Colon Rec (1870) V 389 There must be new cut on this larger plate, the words on the indentment at the head of each bill

2 An indenture, covenant

1597–8 Bp Hall Sat IV ii (D), The brabling neighbours on him call For counsel in some crabbed case of law, Or some indentments, or some bond to draw 1599 Nashe Lenten Stuffe (1871) 60 With this indentment and caution, that, though there be no Articles of Agreement on this day, they shall supply it with either 1611 Sheld Hist Gt Brit IV vii § 14 540 Sundry great Lords of either side were by indentment of Writing, put against the counter part

Indentor (inde·ntəɹ) Comm [f Indent v 1 6 + -or] One who indents or writes an order for goods

1883 Manch Exam 30 Nov 4/5 There have been heavy arrivals [at Bombay] on account of native indentors 1886 Daily News 24 Sept 2/3 All other circumstances remaining the same the indentor from India pays more or less gold according to the state of the exchange

Indenture (inde·ntiuɹ, -ʃiuɹ, -ʃəɹ Forms 4–6 endenture(e, -or, our, 7 -er, 5–6 indentour, 6 -er, -indenture [In form (MF endenture) a OF endenture (later -ure) indentation, furnishing with teeth 1 L type indentātūra*, f indentātus* pa pple of indentāre* = dentāre to DENTATE, and see -URE But in sense, f Indent v 2 reinforced also Indent v 2]

I Senses derived from Indent v 1

1 The action of indenting or notching a thing on the edge, an angular notch, indentation, or incision in the edge or border of anything

1603 Cotes Anat Pl 1 § 4 The sides of the Seed, have both a little Indenture 1686 Plot Staffordsh 239 Which counterbanking of the ridges make the indentures on the sides 1692 Ray Disuas Wisdom iv (1732) 158 Some serrate with small teeth others with great indentures 1723 Chambers tr Le Clerc's Treat Diabet 1 56 A little Indenture or Retreat, BC, not exceeding a Minute in depth 1763 Woodhouse in Phil Trans LIV 306 The sun's limb undulating, made it somewhat difficult to judge when the indenture, formed by the Planet's entrance, immediately ceased 1818 Scott Rob Roy xxxvi, His noble lake ,, spreads its base around the indentures and promontories of wild and fertile Fund 1865 Sowerby Pleasure & Profit, Comm 1 58 Small and teeth bite in their sharp indenture 1883 Hodder in Harper's Mag Jan 281 Those who linger along the indentures of rocky shores on summer excursions

†b Jointing by means of notches or indentations of Indenting vbl sb 2 Obs

23 E L Hist P B 333 Penne cleme hit [the ark] with clys sondy with nine & all pe endeffur dry ien daube with outen

2 A deed between two or more parties with mutual covenants, executed in two or more copies, all having their tops or edges correspondingly indented or serrated for identification and security Hence, A deed or sealed agreement or contract between two or more parties, without special reference to its form

Originally both copies were written on one piece of parchment or paper, and then cut asunder in a straight or sinuous line, so that when brought together again at any time, the two edges exactly tallied and showed that they were parts of one, and the same original document hence the expression 'pair of indentures' Occasionally a word, sentence, or figure was engrossed on the space where they were divided, as in the space between a bank cheque and its counterfoil

(The earliest sense, and app of Eng or Anglo Fr origin)

1302 Rolls of Parl I 164 § 21 But Indentura inter lupum & Coronatorum 1339 Ibid II 109/1 Sous certeines Conditions comprises en Endentures sur ce faites, et enseales 1375 Barbour Bruce I 513 The barownys thus accordyt ar, And that He myght weyl war I hour Indentur and nythis made Ibid 565 Bot the Endentur till him gaf he, That sowme schawyt the Inquist 1423 Sir J Rokeby in Lilia Orig Lett Ser I 2 As by the Indenture made betwix the forsayd noble Kyng and the forsayd Thomas Rokeby, plenly appers 1480 Caxton Chron Eng cclxxi 127 The fourme of accord was in paper endentures and they put her seales vnto that one part, and they that comen in the kynges name putt her seales to that other part of endentures. 1494 Fabyan Chron vii 441 [He] concludyd a peace atwene the Kynge & the Scottis, & caused to be delyuered vnto theym the Chartyr or Finden ture called Ragman, with many other thynges 1534 More Comf agst Trib III Wks 1228/2 You deuyse as it were indentures betweene God and you, what thing you will doe for him, and what thing you will not doe 1590 Wyclif Pl Symbol § 101 1596 Shakes 1 Hen IV III i 90 And our Indentures Tripartite are drawne Which being sealed enterchangeably Tomorrow, Cousin Percy, you and I, And my good Lord of Worcester, will set forth 1598 HAKLUYT Voy I. 169 One part of which indentures remaineth in the custodie of the English ambassadors, and the other part in the hands of the commissioners of Prussia 1628 Coke On Litt 1. 229 a, If a deed beginneth, Hec indenture, &c and an truth the Parchment or Paper is not indented, this is no indenture, because words cannot make it indented In may be an Indenture without words, but not by words without indenting 1706 [see INDENTED 3] 1767 [see INDENT v 2] 1844 WILLIAMS Real Prop (1877) 150 Deeds are divided into two kinds, Deeds poll and Indentures 1845 Act 8 & 9 Vict c. 106 § 5 A deed executed after the said first day of October 1845, purporting to be an indenture, shall have the effect of an indenture, although not actually indented

b spec. The contract by which an apprentice is bound to the master who undertakes to teach him a trade, also the contract by which a person binds himself to service in the colonies, etc

To take upon one's indentures to receive the indenture back from the master in evidence of the completion of apprenticeship or service

1563 Boys Walks (Camden) 16 He to have his indenture of his prentiship yt he walke. Indred in keping 1568-3 Ac 31 § 35 How I Did, c 28 The same indentures of apprentiseshode, shall comprehende like couenauntes. 1635 NEWTON Fragm Aca (Arb) 114 Fortune calling to mind that the time of his seruitude was expired, gaue vp his Indentures 1748 Del Pen & Jer, Testimonia 1 (1911) An apprentice who has served faithfully and diligently, ought to claim it as a debt to his indentures Ibid 21 (1841) I by They who serve faithfully may honestly claim their indentures 1822 I Penn Lett Times 98 The inhabitance of the boy expires when he is twenty-one years of age 1824 SCOTT Nigel xxxv, I have your indentures, and I think of running my country 1862 Land Rev 24 Aug. 165 By the terms of the indenture, the Cooke agrees to serve the planter for three years, receiving the same rate of wages as is paid to the unindentured labourer 1865 Cornhill Mag IX. 81, He is now out of his 'prentice-ship, entitled to take up his freedom

o An official or formal list, inventory, certificate, etc, prepared (orig in duplicate) for purposes of control, as a voucher, etc, and properly authenticated

1300 Indenture in Mod Mis 1. 1 Nos vero indenturam de nominibus equitum et peditum communicatam in manu custode de Edenburghe a. xxvij° die Nouembris anno regni Regis Edwardi octauo 1420 Pat Wells (1882) 45 Thys endenture makyth mencion of be goodes pat I 3yve to sertayn persons 1497 in Ma Ant Rev II (1896) 82 The said Returne must record with the Indentures of Shipping of the same 1570-6 B. Cox Instructions, Whether your Ministers kepe their Registers of Marryages buryalles and christenynges well and orderly, and to present the copie of them once a yere by indenture, to the Ordinarie or his officers. 1651 N. BACON Discr Govt 1 ag ii xxv (1739) 77 The names of the persons elected shall be returned by indenture between the Sheriff and the Electors 1707 CUMBERLAND Sc Coll Bot II xvi 256 Hist Ophi 12 Vacuy square whose Office is to estimate the Value of Repairs by Indenture 1846 Mc. CULLOCH Acc. Brit Empire (1854) II 319 The election of shoplers [of Rum] takes place every year. The assistants number admitted on what is termed the indenture [i.e between Kings Coll and Rum], at each election, is twenty four [Has served in 1871] 1872 STUBBS Const Hist III xix 362 The persons arrested are to be delivered to the ordinaries by indenture to be made within ten days of the arrest

d fig Contract, mutual engagement

1588 Mowntayne Early Journal (Camd Soc), We have by indenture of Jesu that they shall bake nothinge whiche seke the kyngdome of God 1589 NASHE Almond for Parrot 7 My soule being the Obligation, and Christ who made free by endenture 1595 SHAKS. John II. 1. 20 This reason kisse As seale to this indenture of my love 1624 QUARLES Div Poems, Sion (1717) 211 My heart hath first Indentures with mine eye, Not to behold a Maid a 1677 MANTON Serm Psalm CXVIII. 1872 VIII 251 as God's covenant thy mutual interchange, like indentures

†3 A gang plan, a zigzag course, a doubling

1598 I M Nemmy, mans Conf (1868) 138 He turned his Cattle from Plough to Pasture, making Indentures ill along the ditches [1668 TOWNLEY Nonpareils (1698) 74] It must not run directly forward, but winde to and fro, crooking like an Indenture 1811 COTGR., Brouillis . . to reele, stagger, or make indentures, in going 1892 MARVELL Rich Transp I. 146 He makes Indentures on each side of the way whersoever he goes 1781 W. BIDDLE Red Hunting (1788) 45 It must never be expected that the indentures of the Hare can be well covered, or her doubles struck off

II Senses derived from INDENT v 2

†4 An inlaying or embossing Obs

1664 POWER Exp Philos I. 9 Plate so indented all over with a pure Emerauld grass, and all lattticed or chequered with dimples which makes the Indentures look more precisely

5 A hollow or depression in a surface, = INDENTATION sb 4

1793 SMEATON Eddystone L § 245 Little indentures upon the surface of the courses. 1820 New Monthly Mag V 334 Furrows left by the indentures of vessels bottoms 1872 LE FANU In a Glass Darkly I. 201 He pointed to a deep indenture, as if caused by a heavy pressure

III 6 attrib and Comb (from I), as †indenture English, the language of legal deeds, indenture fashion, indenture wise adv

a 1568 ASCHAM Scholem II (Arb) 111 As if a wise man would take Hailes Cronicle, where moch good matter is quite marde with Indenture Englishe, and first chunge strange and inkhorne termes into proper and commoule vsed wordes. 1598 FLORIO, Fricare, to notch about the edges, as ferne is, or indenter wise 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrim age (1614) 542 Their Crosses or Daggers are two foote long waved Indenture fashion, and poysoned

Inde nitura, v [f INDENTURE sb, in several unconnected senses, related to both verbs INDENT] From INDENTURE sb 2 (INDENT v I)

+1 intr To enter into an indenture, to covenant Obs

1658 R. FRANCK North Mem (1821) 79 Hee is but slipt to the bottom to recruit himself and indenture with stones to oblige their protection

2 trans To bind by indentures, esp. as an apprentice or servant

1596 MARVEL Per Tamb I. 1. 3, A good Christian will not, cannot return and indenture his conscience over to be Repen ented by others 1808 W. TAYLOR in Monthly Mag XXVI 111 Men can deliberately put in skill an industry or children, to be employed or indentured by the profession 1834 HT MARTINEAU Moralit 77 The plan of indentuning servants to colonial settlers 1884 Daily News 23 Oct 4/8 Mr. Cole was indentured as a clerk or writer to Mr. Aitcheson, the late Lt Governor

II From INDENTURE sb 3

+3 intr To move in a zigzag line, to zigzag Obs

1631 BRATHWAIT Whimzies, Il ne souffit pas Indenturing, alon, in some blinde alley, hee terribly affights the passenger if hee meete any for hee cowns here and there as if hee were Mad. In some Acts Actuar 1635 HEYWOOD Hierarch 134 (T.) They took their stakes in hand and at the word men strook But by indentures, still the 2 and man stopp'd

III From INDENTURE sb 6, INDENT v 2

4 trans To make an indentation in : to indent further

1799 WAITE Autumnal Song (T.) Nay may creep on, and indenture the brow 1854 DODGE Poems 132 Inwrought plains lindentured where the furrows fell with flawes Swath and swarth

Hence Inde nturing vbl sb a 1632 T. TAYLOR Cod's Indictm (T.) an engine to draw Gallants overtaken with Wine forth to take the benefit of the Ayre, but rather indenturing, should not be so served 1898 in Notes Qu 7 Jun 3/1 The Imperial section had been given to the indenturing of the Bechuana rebels

Indentured, (inde ntitjud ppl a [f INDENTURE sb + -ED1]

1 Bound by indentures, esp as an apprentice or servant

1757 in W Thompson Ac V Labor 6 George Woods Parish Indentured Master 1806 SIGN Hints to Journ (ed 3) III 147 An attorney at Oxford, who consented to receive me as his indentured clerk 1808 W TAYLOR in Monthly Mag XXVI 112 Indentured bond slaves are shipped from Liverpool and Glasgow, for Canada, and in dependent North America, in considerable numbers 1881 Daily News 17 Mar 5/1 The employment of indentured labourers [coolies] from India

2 Indented, having the border incised

1885 Pall Mall G 17 Apr 6/1 The three towns on the densely tunbered, deeply indented Kentish shores behind

+Inde nturely, adv [f INDENTURE sb + -LY] In the way of an indenture, by making indentures

1525 W. Lily Rud 1 (1534) 20a Iam That all guilds and artificers will be put into the handis of the provest of Aberdene be autentick Inscriptore indentourly maid

Indentureship (inde ntitjŭip) rare [f IN DENTURE sb 2 b + -SHIP] The position of being indentured as an apprentice, servant, etc.

1878 Daily News 7 Jan 5/1 Suggestions as to the expediency of extending the indenturesh ip system, which in other colonies has notoriously provoked grave scandals 1882 3 M Jackson in Behalf Empl Relig Knowl 12 A few months of indentureship to a shoemaker

Indentwise, adv [f INDENT sb + WISE] After the form of an indenture with a counterpart 1758 J. Mease Gaz Nat 1. 328 The shell is then to be cut in the middle, from top to bottom, indentwise 1758 Ibid 32 Gen Hist to § 18 Which two Columns shall be joined with some Ornament between, through which the outermost Tickets may be cut off Indentwise

†Indepa rtable, a Obs [IN- 1] That cannot be parted or separated, inseparable

1 So †Indepa rted a, not parted or separated

1598 I. Mascall Govt Cattle 8 He shoulde be taught to trunte The persons in departable 1634 MILTON Masq Ludlow 165 O hide inseparable o hide unpaired 1635 Pest of Fr 243 Let them be whelped in the Den, through which the husband to cruise with bought underyard draws

+Indepe nd, v Obs nonce-wd [f IN- 1 + DEPEND after independent et also independence] intr To be independent, or to profess Independency

1649 G. DANIEL Trinarch., Rich II, xxviii, And Newer Lights, old Rights may vilepend But wee must All be tuts or independ

Independence (indīpe ndens. Also 8 anoe [f INDEPENDENT see -ENCE, or f IN- 1 + DEPENDENCE cf F indépendance 1630 in Hatz Darm.), Independencia (Florio, 1611)]

1 The condition or quality of being independent, the fact of not depending on another (with various shades of meaning see the adj.), exemption from external control or support, freedom from subjection, or from the influence of others, individual liberty of thought or action Rarely in bad sense Want of subjection to rightful authority, insubordination

Declaration of Independence see DECLARATION 6.

1640 BP. HALL Humble Remonstr (R.), Some can be content to admit of an orderly subordination of severall parishes to presbyteries, and those again to synods, others are all for a synodicall absolutenesse and independence 1750 SHENSTONE Elegy xx So The charms of independence let us sing a 1760 SMOLLETT Ode to Indep I This spirit, Independence, let me share! Lord of the lion heart and eagle eye 1776 GOLDSM. Nat 329 That independence Britons prize too high, keeps man from man and breaks the social tie 1777 tr. Mably's Pub Rights Soc North Amer (1836) 43 Resolved, That the delegates from this colony, in Continental Congress, be empowered to concur with the delegates of the other colonies in declaring independence, and in forming foreign alliances 1783 BURKE Rep Ireland 82 If so that general spirit of disobedience and independence, which has prevailed in the government of Bengal 1831 CARLYLE Sart Res III v, Independence, in all kinds, as rebellion a 1850 CALHOUN Disc (1874) IV 320 It is one great defect in the character of the public men of America, that there is that real want of independence 1856 FROUDE Hist Eng (1858) I. 10 Their national independence was respected 1873 J. FERGUSON Dict 130 He denied himself of His original Self-competitness and made independence 1875 STUBBS Const Hist III xxiii 38 The proud independence of the Percies was becoming a source of danger 1876 FREEMAN Norm Conq (1877) I. 29 The nobility and perfect independence of the various parties of princes 1882 Daily News 21 Dec 5/6 A scheme for conciliating legislative independence to purely Irish subjects to Ireland 1885 LD MACAULAY Told Long Since 233 I Sir Lancel Lake, Dishonour and independence, and the burns clothes and work in the fields a day tae earn thair scrubin an a the keep her independence, is they can

b Const on, upon, of, rarely from

1657 R3 Uzziah Christ Mag 1. 1. 2 Her independence from the body 1761 HUME Hist Eng I App ii 200 The disputed clergy pretended to a total independence on the State 1768 Blackstone's Comm I. 123 The Vast independence of the English Crown upon any foreign superior 1896 BRYCE in Century Mag, June, 230 A convention assigned as Bloemfontein as the capital of the State, the independence from the British crown of the inhabitants of the country between the Orange and Vaal rivers

2 conc A competency = INDEPENDENCE 3 d

1815 JANE AUSTEN Emma I. 13 As only moderate means can afford to marry, who are not born to an independence 1837 DICKENS Pickw xiii She possessed that most desirable of all requisites, a small independence 1849 MACAULAY Hist Eng xxiii 455 You are heir to a little independence 1874 DASENT Half a Life II 41 He was an old man who had made an independence

3 attrib and Comb

Independence Day, July 4, the day on which, in 1776, the Declaration of Independence was made : celebrated annually in the United States as a national festival

1860 BARTLETT Dict Amer, Independence Day 1875 Graphic 10 July 3/3 As the Fourth of July fell this year on a Sunday, Independence Day was observed by the Americans resident in London on Monday, the 5th inst., who dined together at the Crystal Palace 1894 Pop Sci Monthly XLIV 481 Hence independency, loving, self-governing mountaineers 1898 Daily News 7 Sept 5/3 To offer inducements to the independent to party to co-operate

Independency (indīpe ndensi). Also 7–8 anoe [f as prec + -ENCY]

1 PRIV. Now rare

1611 FLORIO Independenza independence 1645 H MARTEN Smith The Independency of England Maintained against the Scottish Invasion 1649 SIR J BOOTH Pseud Ep I. 11 The independency of their causes, and continuance in their events 1647 MAY Hist Parl I. 55 The independency of that kingdome 1650 REST Disc Faith (1682) 128 Then will God be determined in his actions from something, without himself which is to take away his independency and self-sufficiency 1737 WHISTON Josephus IV. 71 'Twere one, I say, enough for me to My Bread and Independency 1748 CHESTERF Lett (1792) II 248 To the Seven United Provinces whose independency was first allowed by Spain at the treaty of Munster 1775 Ayscough in Lam Lett (1856) 66 Suspicions entertained of designs of independency on America in regard to the Navy 1827 Quadrup (1807) 2 The wild and extensive plains where he [the horse] range without controul, in a state of entire independency 1829 I. TAYLOR Enthus II. 1. 1 Men who are well in faith demand that we deny independency to what ever is created 1884 Lab Worlds 10 Feb 8/2 Urged to maintain the independency of Zulu nationality

b Const on, upon, of, rarely from

1644 F. WHITE Repl Fisher 453 In an estate there is alienation and independence of the spirit upon the senses 1650 PENNE Intr Divin 34 The Independency of Creation, and acts in depending on any free scene faith 1654 G. ENTWISTLE Covenanters Coronge in Select Hard Cases (1793) 131 In regard of my indecency from the Crown 1668 Lett Diary (1877) V 211 In opposition to, or at least independency of, the Duke of York 1796 MORSE Amer Geog I. 468 A desirable degree of independency on British and other foreign manufactures 1814-4 MERSON Essays Sac Lit (1878) 217 Its independency of those limitations which circumscribe us on every hand

2 That system of ecclesiastical polity in which each local congregation of believers is held to be a church independent of any external authority = CONGREGATIONALISM I

The prevailing name in England in the 17th century for this form of church government but not favoured in New England (see quot 1648 and CONGTIONAL 3, and in modern use (other than historical) largely displaced by Congregationalism

1642 SIR E. DERING Sp on Relig xii 82 That new borne Bastard, Independency 1648 [CotTON & ay Congreg Ch (New Eng) 1 No is Independency a fit name of the way of our Churches For in some respects it is too strait, and in others too large 1648 C WALKER title The History of

In Independency 1694 Present Cond 9 Those they then called Puritans were divided about Church Government, some for Presbytery and others for Independency 1733 NEAL Hist Puritans II 107 His [Robinson's] peculiar sentiments of Church discipline, since known by the name of Independancy 1872 G H CURTEIS Bampton Lect iii. 41 The cradle in which Independency was nurtured was the Non Conforming Puritanism of the sixteenth century.

3 concr a. pl Independent things, things unrelated to each other

1699 BP WALTON Consid Considered 9 The whole being 'nulla indigestaque moles', a confused heap of Independencies. [A pun on sense 2]

b An independent or autonomous state. Cf DEPENDENCY 4 c]

1818 JAS. MILL Brit India II v ii 355 Of these independencies, the most important was that which included the whole of the vast province or region of Berar 1847 GROTE Greece II xxv IV 16 Many petty independencies, small towns, and villages

c A person of independent means

1866 CARLYLE Life & Writings I 325 I speeding to be flat tered like an independency as well as paid like an innkeeper

d A competency, a fortune which renders it unnecessary for the possessor to earn his living

1748 RICHARDSON Clarissa (1811) I xiii 87, I, who never desired to take advantage of the independency begun in him me 1844 W LEWANT Mem Mrs Siddons II 205 Those who love their native country with the sole view of acquiring an independency 1886 Pall Mall Gaz 1 May 1/2 The decreased bid something in the nature of an independency however modest Independent (indɪ'pɛndɛnt) a and sb Also 7–8 ant [f IN-3 + DEPENDENT cf I indépendant (c 1600 in Hatz -Darm.), It indipendente (Florio, 1598)] Not dependent.

A adj

1 Not depending upon the authority of another, not in a position of subordination or subjection, not subject to external control or rule, self-governing, autonomous, free

1611 H JACOB Declar & Plaunte Open 13 [Each congregation is] an entire and independent body politic, endued with power immediately under and from Christ 1652 HOBBES Leviath II xxix 172 It is not one independent Common wealth, but three, or more Independent Factions 1774 J BRYANT Mythol II 40 Attica was divided into independant hamlets. 1776 ADAM SMITH W N I viii (1869) I 73 An independent workman, such as a weaver or shoemaker 1886 MRS PITMAN Museum I Greece & Pal 37 In 1829 Greece was acknowledged as an independent state, having its own king and government 1881 J MARTINEAU Types Eth Th II 10 The theory of an autonomous or independent conscience

b Const of (formerly on upon from)

1651 HOBBES Govt & Soc xv § 18 258 An opinion, that there is any man endued with a Sovereignty independent from God 1680 MORDEN Geog Rect, Brit Isles (1685) 15 These Islands were first possessed by divers People, independent one upon the other 1705 ADDISON Italy 289 The Town of St Gall is a little Protestant Republick, wholly independent of the Abbot 1778 (23 June) Amherst Rec (1888) 97 Voted – That it should the Honourable Congress, for the safety of the united Colonies in America Declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, We solemnly engage with our lives and fortunes to support them in the measure 1785 I BALGUY Disc 115 It has been said that the church is independent on the state

2 (with capital I) Belonging or adhering to that form of ecclesiastical polity called INDEPENDENCY (q v, sense 2) = CONGREGATIONAL 3

Also applied to that political party in the 17th century of which the Independent churches formed the chief element

1632 acc t | 1642 I THOMAS Pl Dealing or News for Low Cty 7 The Lords and Independents govern ment, wherevof I have had some experience 1653 W DELL Legal Spir 82 Sydrach Simpson, one of the first Pastors of an Independent Congregation in England 1654 Sev Jrnls Table I (Arb) 57 Both the Independant men, and the Presbyterian man do equally exclude the Civil Power, which Parliament is supreme 1660 R COKE Power & Subj 269 The Army, commanded by Oliver Cromwell, turned out the Rump of the Long Parliament which he and the Independent party or Sectaries 1694 CLARENDON Hist Rebell VIII § 259 The Independent party (for so they were now, [1645] contented to be call'd, in opposition to the other which was styled Presbyterian) 1696 W HUMPHREY Happiness of People 3/1 Why else doe wee in New England practise the discipline of them called Independant, or Congregational Churches? 1704 SWIFT Tale of a Tub xi 194 A very famous independent minister 1766 ENTICK London IV 8 If there is an Independent meeting house 1832 Articles Declaration of the Faith Order and Discipline of the Congregational or Independent Dissenters 1872 G H CURTEIS Bampton Lect iii 40 The Independent system does not concern itself with either Ritual or Doctrine

3 Not depending on something else for its existence, validity, efficiency, operation, or some other attribute, not contingent on or conditioned by anything else a Const as in sense 1

1614 JACKSON Creed iii xxix § 6 His faith [is] no other wise independent of any externall proposall then ours is 1646 H LAWRENCE Comm Angells 73 The will is independent upon all created power, both in its operation and in its being 1659 PEARSON Creed (1682) I 51 A Being of itself and independent from any other 1690 BENTLEY Boyle Lect 69 An incorporeal substance independent matter 1709 STEELE Tatler No 34 P 2 Beauty and Merit are Things real, and independent on Taste and Opinion 1778 PRIESTLEY Inst Relig (1782) I 276 They cannot be considered as independent of one another 1790 PALEY Hor Pauli I 213 The attributes are independent of one another 1816 PLAYFAIR Nat Phil II 323 This is quite independent of the figure of the Earth and would be the same though the Earth were truly spherical 1884 S COX Expositor 1st ser I 107 An argument wholly independent of the teaching of Scripture

b simply Not depending upon the existence or action of others, or of each other, existing, acting, conducted, or obtained in a way apart from and unaffected by others, as independent action, inquiry, investigation, conclusion, results, account, record, information, evidence, also of the agent, as independent investigator, observer, witness, etc.

1790 PALEY Hor Paul I 176 No danger of confounding the production with original history, or of mistaking it for an independent authority Ibid II No IV, It is the junction of two conclusions, deduced from independent sources Ibid I No II, The records manifestly independent, that it is manifestly written without any participation of intelligence 1805 LORD NELSON Corresp Introd 57 Some of the independent entries of C counterchecque its Abingdon origin Ibid 45 Other independent signals about the same time 1873 Nature VII 104, argue the presence of such a source 1867 FREEMAN Norm Conq I vi 520 Something is proved when two independent narratives agree 1872 WHITE Theol II 779 So better investigation compared another independent discovery of oxygen gas 1879 J H MORRIS Synopsis Short Lands 10 Here four independent witnesses, none of which agree, all the facts, confirm and supplement each other Ibid 14 Have we any independent information connecting Prairies with Cornith? 1885 LADY BRASSEY Voyage I 3 In made up of separate and independent particles. Mod An independent inquiry has been instituted by the Local Board of Health The work is the result of independent research

c Often used adverbially in phr independent of (= on, from) = Independently of, apart from, without regard to, irrespective of

1650 Hudibras Ghost III vi 85 Put together in the Mind, independent from any organic Pattern in Nature 1748 Anson's Voy III iii 411 Independent of that attachment which all mankind have ever shown to the places of their birth 1860 Every Man I iii 41 Independent of that attachment which all mankind have ever shown to the places of their birth 1871 Fortn Rev 1 Nov 1/2 Independent of any comparison with other countries more worthy to be regretted 1871 GROTE Eth Fragm i (1876) 20 We pursue the one and avoid the other quite independent of regard to the feelings of others

4 Not dependent or having to rely on another for support or supplies a Const as in sense 1

1670 R COKE Disc Trade Pref, While other Countries live free and independent from one another 1683 Lands in need and help of another a 1688 N CROTON Fables Bks, Init & Spar, Who Are independent of the great, Nor Kings nor Lords of trade and state 1837 LYTTON Maltravers I xii, He was thus made independent of his father 1880 STOCKTON Rudder Grangers II (1881) 18 His father had left him so considerable a fortune that he was quite independent of his employer

b simply a) Not dependent on any one else for one's living, b) not needing to earn one's livelihood, possessing a competency

1713 SWIFT Sentiments Church of Eng 142 He hath chosen to be idle and independant in the world 1786 BURNS Ep Dr Blacklock, Gather gear by every wile That's justify'd by Honor and Law, Or else purloin't for fear of being independent 1820 MARY HOWORTH Mental Cultivation I 17 He was really independent, because he had learnt how to support himself either by the labour of his hand or of his hands 1847 C BRONTË Jane Eyre, She [a servant] has saved enough to keep her independent if she liked to leave 1893 Harlan Lee 150 Were I to be occupied by an independent elderly gentleman transf 1784 COWPER Task II 469 A dry but independent wretch, starved, And eaten with a nigh

c transf Sufficient to make one independent, constituting a competency

1790 IMISON Sch Art I 215 The prizes being out of the reach of many such as are possessed of independent fortunes 1837 DICKENS Pickw xxxix, A gentleman of considerable independent property 1885 Daily News 3 Oct 5/6 A person of independent means

5 Not depending on others for the formation of opinions or guidance of conduct, not influenced or biased by the opinions of others, thinking or acting, or disposed to think or act, for oneself (of persons, their dispositions, etc.)

1738 Hist Europe 1 Parties 5 On this Foundation all the reasonable independent Whigs and Tories unite 1771 SMOLLETT Humph Cl 26 June, I believed there was not a more independent and incorruptible member in the house 1795 BURNS Tour at Stat in, The man of independent mind, He looks and laughs at a that 1849 COBDEN Speeches 52 An independent Parliament 1850 TENNYSON In Mem lxxxv 10 plusive 1852 HAWTHORNE Blithedale Rom xix, A person capable of taking an independent stand 1861 GEO ELIOT Silas M I 10 This would have been an act of independent thought such as he had never known 1889 Daily News 28 June 5/1 Perhaps the best Iona not attributed to the late Lord Derby is his definition of an independent politician as 'a politician who cannot be depended on'

b Used in the names of various political or other parties, as Independent Republicans (U S, see II 2 b), Independent Labour Party (see I ABOUR B), also in the names of newspapers, as the Cambridge Independent Press

c Also (with same colouring of 4), Refusing to be under obligation to others, having a self-respect which declines unearned assistance

Mod The widow has a hard struggle, but is very independent, and refuses all pecuniary aid He is too Independent to accept as a favour what he cannot earn by his own exertions

6 Math Not depending upon another for its value Independent variable a quantity whose variation does not depend on that of another

1829 TODHUNTER Diff Calc I § 1 Frequently when we are considering two or more variables it is in our power to fix upon whichever we please as the independent variable 1873 B WILLIAMSON Diff Calc (ed 2) I § 2 If u, v, w, be functions of t, x is said to be the independent variable, to which any value may be assigned at pleasure, and u, v, w, are called dependent variables, as their values depend on that of x 1890 J EDWARDS Diff Calc I § 5 An Independent variable is one which may take up any arbitrary value that may be assigned to it

7 comb

1837 DICKENS Pickw xxxiii, A loud, excellent, independent spirited man 1890 BOURINOT Can Reference (1892) 143 A certain independent minded young lady friend

B sb

1 An adherent of Independency, a member or adherent of an Independent church, a Congregationalist

Also Hist a member of the Independent party in the 17th century see A 2

1644 Hotch Apologetical Narration of the Independents 1646 (29 Aug) in Hamilton Pap (Camden) 113 Cheesely says the Independents intend not to demand the King 1690 WASHINGTON Motion Holy Spir Pref, They that we call independents hold that no classes or synods have a superiority over any particular church 1710 STEELE & ADDISON Tatler No 257 Pleasantnings Muggletonians, Brownists, Independants, Mussulmen, Camisars and the like 1870 ROGERS Hist Gleanings II 74 In modern time the credit of being the first to advocate the doctrine of toleration must be shared between the Independents and Quakers 1884 STOCKTON Rudder Grangers I 236 The old historic name of Independent began to fall at the beginning of the present century to be merged in that of Congregationalist

2 A person or thing that is independent (in various senses) nonce uses

1675 OUTRAM Serm Pref 9 Roads we have divided into Independants, such as commonly accrue actually at London [etc] 1742 YOUNG Nt Th iii 332 That awful Independent on To morrow! Whose Yesterdays look backward with a Smile 1886 Daily News 4 June 5/2 There is a school of independents in domestic service, as there is in literature

b A person who acts (in politics, art, etc) independently of any organized party, also, a member of any organized party called Independent (see A 5 b)

1808 PIKE Sources Mississ III App (1810) 50 Twenty thousand auxiliaries from the United States joined to the independents of the country [Texas] 1838 BANCROFT Hist Commw II iii 379 The Independent Republicans Independents, or Mugwumps 1896 A HUTCHIN in Daily News 16 Jan 6/3 Hatter pioneers arrived at most harmonious results the Independents have still the glory of being the bold hussars of the vanguard, the Jacobins of the revolution in an which has since been accomplished throughout all Europe

c A frequent name of a newspaper, as the New York Independent (cf A 5 b)

1837 DICKENS Pickw xxii, This disgraceful and dastardly journal, the [Eatanswill] Independent 1855 HAWTHORNE Newsmen Hv, He endeavoured to be civil to the 'Newcome Independent' as well as to the 'New come Sentinel'

Hence † Independentdom sb = Obs (nonce wd), made independent, formed according to Independency + Independentish a, having a flavour of Independency

1653 R BAILIE Dissuas Ind (1655) 44 Presbyterian writer, exceedingly weakened with Independentish inguients 1659 GAUDEN Tears Ch 43 The new titles of bodyed and congregated, associated or independented and new fangled Churches

Indepe ndentism. [f INDEPENDENT + ISM] + 1 = INDEPENDENCY 2 Obs

1653 R BAILIE Dissuas Ind (1655) 44, I love not Episcopal principles, neither Independentisme 1659 GAUDEN Tears Ch 564 Anabaptisme, or Presbyterianisme, or Independentisme rudely justled Episcopacy out of the Church of England 1665 J WEBB Stone Heng Restored to Brit (1874) I 135 He marvellously refuted Independentisme 1892 AIKMAN Hist Scot IV iii 84 They opposed every approach to Independentism

2 The principles of any party called Independent

Independently (indɪ'pɛndɛntlɪ), adv [f INDEPENDENT a + -LY2] In an independent manner, without dependence on another person or thing, or on each other, apart from or without regard to the action of others

1651 J GOODWIN Redemption Redeem Red I § 10 Second causes do not perform, what they do perform, independently, and of themselves 1840 T R BIRKS Horæ Apostol Pref, My own conclusions were formed independently 1881 Athenæum 1 Oct 426/1 Mr Wills has made the same observation independently 1876 GEO ELIOT Dan Der xxiii, She can hardly earn her own poor bread independently 1886 FARRAR Early Days 403 He examined the Canon as independently as Luther had done Mod The two parts of the mechanism work independently

b With of (formerly on, upon, from) In a way independent of, without regard to, apart from

1650 PEARSON Creed (1845) 486 note Independently from this place we have proved that the Holy Spirit is a person 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I iv § 37 109 They Maintained Matter to exist Independently upon God a 1700 DRYDEN (J), Dispose lights and shadows without finishing every thing independently the one of the other 1707 S CLARKE 3rd & 4th Def (1722) 7, Paris, existing distinctly and independently from each other 1844 I MURRAY Eng Gram (ed 5) I 274 The infinitive mood is often made absolute, or used independently on the rest of the sentence 1867 TROLLOPE Chron Barset II ii 76 So that he might work at his canvas independently of his model 1884 J RAY Contemp Socialism 164 Utility can confer value independently of labour

†Indepe nding, a. Obs [f IN-3 + DEPENDING ppl a cf INDEPENDENT a] = INDEPENDENT a 1624 I WRIGHT Passions 91 For The soule being an mortall, and independing of the body 1627 HAKEWILL Apol II v (1630) 82 A Soveraigne and independing power 1630 B SPENCER Ittles' Chrysomenon, a Golden Mean wherein all Seekers may find the True Religion, inde pending on Mans Invention 1652 B HALE Inst Hostil II § 1 An independing and selfsubsisting agent 1675 OCHINO Rest, Past Knocks Trag, The Knocks are Reduced to these 6 Independing Itineraries

†Indeplo rable, a Obs rare—0 [IN-1]
1623 COCKERAM II, Not to be Lamented, Indeplorable

Indepo sable, a rare [IN-3] That cannot be deposed 1673 STILLINGFL Serm 2 Nov (L), That doctrine which makes princes indeposable by the pope

†Inde·private, a Obs [ad I indēprivātus, f in- (IN-1) + dēprivātus deprived, corrupted, DEPRIVATE] Not deprived, uncorrupted, pure 1609 J DAVIS Holy Bible (1850) 88 (D) O Let these Wounds, these Wounde indeprivate, Be holy Sanctuaries for my whole Man

+ Indeprecable, a Obs rare—0 [ad I in dēprecābil-is that cannot be averted by prayer, f in- (IN-3) + dēprecabilis DEPRECABLE]
1623 COCKERAM, Indeprecable, that will not be entreated
1656 in HOUGH Glossogr 1708 in PHILLIPS etc

†Indepreh ensible, a Obs [ad I indēprehensibilis not to be seized or caught (Quintil), f in- (IN-1) + dēprehendĕre to seize, catch, DEPREHEND see IRIE] Incapable of being mentally apprehended or detected, undiscoverable 1633 I MORTON Disbarge 174 (L) A cause perplexed and indeprehensible 1852 GASKE Magnificence 122 To presume his errour indeprehensible

Indeprivable (indĭprai·văb'l), a Now rare [f IN-1 + DEPRIVABLE]
1 Of which one cannot be deprived, incapable of being taken awry, inalienable 1744 HARRIS Philol Treat III i (1765) 121 The Sovereign Good should be durable, self derived, and (if I may use the Expression) indeprivable 1748 Rectitude of Conduct in a Good Indeprivable 1789 MRS PIOZZI Journ France I 126 The advantages of blood may surely be deemed indeprivable 1835 CORNWALL Parables II 59 So pure, so valuable, and so indeprivable
2 That cannot be deprived of something rare—0 1828 WEBSTER, Indeprivable, that cannot be deprived (Hence in later Dicts)

Hence Indeprivabl ity, the quality of being indeprivable or inalienable 1789 MRS PIOZZI Journ France I 125 James Herries tells us that virtue answers to the character of indeprivability

Inder, -ly, -more, -ward see INNER, -LY, etc

†Inderkins. Obs rare—1 Some kind of fabric, see quot 1696 J F Mesnard's Voyage to 23 Indeskins, which is a sort of Cloth of no great use in this Town only proper for Towels, it is a coarse narrow Cloth which comes from Hamborough it is made of the worst of Hemp

Indescribabl ity [f next see -ITY] In capacity of being described, also with an and pl) something that cannot be described 1824 Examiner 456/2 In ably conveying the assumed hoyden, and falling somewhat short of critical conception in the indescribabilities 1843 CARLYLE Past & Pr II ii, A fearful indescribability 1864 SALA Dutch Pict 21 Sept, I have now done my best to describe what I may term the indescribability of Transatlantic warfare

Indescribable (indĭskrai·băb'l, a (sb) [IN-3] 1 That cannot be described, that does not admit of exact description, indefinite, vague 1794 W COBBETT Bot Mag No 254 That indescribable something, called by Linnæus the Nectary 1833 HT MARTINEAU Common Pearls I 16 Various sacred indescribable articles were scattered around 1862 MRS OLIPHANT Last Mortimers I xii, His voice had an occasional indescribable note which reminded me of some other voice

2 That transcends description, too great, beautiful, etc to be adequately described 1796 MORSE Amer Geog I 613 The rapture of the spectator is really indescribable 1817 COBBETT Prot Reg XLII 466 A Funding System has never existed in any country, without producing indescribable misery 1880 HUTCHISON Phys Geog v 240 Its waters break with indescribable fury

B sb 1 pl Things of which no description can be given 1839 MARRYAT Diary Amer Ser I I 105 Pine apples, boiled hams, pies, puddings, barley sugar, and many other indescribables 1890 Boy's Own Paper 12 Feb 298/2, I had to fish out [from a bath] about twenty long named indescribables that had committed suicide during the night
2 humorous slang (euphemism) Trousers (cf inexpressibles, unmentionables) 1794 Sporting Mag III 221 That hebdomodal display of Foppery, Frivolity, and Fashion, has already begun to sport its vernal variety of indescribables 1837 DICKENS Pickw xvi, Mr Trotter gave four distinct slaps on the pocket of his mulberry indescribables

Hence Indescri bableness, the quality of being indescribable rare
1880–1 CHEYNE Isaiah (1884) I 92 His sense of their indescribableness

Indescribably (indĭskrai·băbli), adv [f prec + -LY2] In a manner incapable of being described or transcending description 1795 in Monsters Lear Mag (1886) 10 How indescribably beautiful was this evening and this walk 1875 EWELL Orient Lands II ii xxiii 65 The quantity . . would to have been indescribably great

Indescri pt, a rare [IN-3] Undescribed
1864 DOBELL Balder XXIII 162 Some ethereal colour indescript

Indescri ptive, a rare—0 [IN-3] 'Not descriptive or containing just description' (Webster, 1828)

Indesert (indĭzɜ·t), sb. Now rare. [f IN-3 + DESERT *sb*1] Absence of desert, want of merit, the fact or character of being undeserving 1646 G. DANIEL Poems Wks 1878 I 80 Let the goddss Rout give weight and pose To Indesert 1679 PENN Spirit of Truth Vind 97 This much in Answer to his Cavils, whose Emptiness might have been enough to sound out their own indesert of any 1709 STEELE Letter No 69 P 1 A Man in Power who can raise Glories out of Mire, and dis countenance successful Indesert 1801 GOLDSMITH Pers Refug iv iv (1870) 282 To relieve them without any re gard to indesert or merit on their part

b pl Demerits, faults
1612 SHELTON Quix II xiii 264 What indeserts did this wench commit? 1774 JOHNSON Spect No 256 P 1 All those who were once looked on as his Equals, are apt to think the Fame of his Merits a Reflexion on their own Indeserts

Indesignate (indē·zignēĭt), a rare [f IN-3 + DESIGNATE ppl a (see quot 1844)] Not quantified, indefinite Also absol as sb
1844 HAMILTON Reid 692 The term indefinite ought to be discarded in this relation, and replaced by indesignate 1852 Examin App ii 601 The Indesignate is thought, either precisely as whole or as part, or vaguely, as the one or the other, unknown which, but the worst always pre sumed 1865 MILL Exam Hamilton xxii (1872) 511 note, The Indesignate is often not thought in any relation of quantity at all 1866 FOWLER Deductive Logic (1869) 59 The definite and indesignate propositions in which the subject, being a common term, is not quantified

+ Inde snence. Obs rare—1 [IN-1 of DESINENCE] Want of proper ending 1593 NASHE 4 Lett Confut 68 In a verse a leake of indesinence as a leake in a ship, must needly be stopt, with what matter soeuer it be

+ Inde sinency. Obs rare—1 [f next see -ENCY] Without cessing or interruption, incessantly, continuously 1651 J GOODWIN Redemption Red iv § 19 These things are not there either quit or to come but indesinently and as present 1677 HALE Nature Man's Soul (1682) 154 That is, indesinently, or continually 1756 AMORY T Buncle (1825) I 151 Reason must confess a miraculous power in frequently and visibly put forth in our bodies

+ Indesi rable, a [IN-1] Undesirable 1846 WORCESTER cites Mouth Auth

† Indess. Obs rare [f IND+ FESS] A female (AMERICAN Indian) 1672 JOSSELYN New Voy Rarities 49 Of the Moss that grows at the roots of the white Oak the Indesses make a strong decoction 1674 Two Voyages 133 Another time two Indians and an Indess came among us from our house

Indestructibi lity. [f next see -ITY Cf F indestructibilité (1737 in Hatz-Darm)] The quality of being indestructible, incapability of being destroyed 1697 J WEBSTER Metallogr iv 78 These is therefore in Mercury itself the nearest cause or reason of indestructi bility 1829 I TAYLOR Fathers x. 261 Proof of the indestructibility and victorious power of Christianity 1862 BUCKLE Misc Wks (1872) I 16 To the magnificent doctrine of the indestructibility of matter, we are now adding one of the indestructibility of force 1883 H DRUMMOND Natl Law in Spir W (ed 2) 236 The philosophic al thesis of the immateriality or indestructibility of the human soul

Indestructible (indĭstrʌ·ktibl'), a [IN-1, see DESTRUCTIBLE] Cf F indestructible (17–18th c)] That cannot be destroyed, incapable of destruction 1614 BOYLE Excell Theol I i 27 The soul is a simple substance and yet as real a substance as matter itself, which yet the Atheists affirm to be indestructible 1708–74 J COOPER Tr Nat H XXXVIII § 9 480 The indissolubility of his [man's] perceptive part rendering it indestructible by all natural powers 1794 TO. Adams Nat & Rev Philos I App 524 [Carbon] is indestructible by any agent except fire in the open air 1816 J SCOTT Vis Paris (ed 8) 332 I he knows the most indestructible part of the human frame 1878 Nat Acc Adv Phys Sc, Force (1885) 366 Energy is indestructible—is changed from one form to another, and so on, but never altered in quantity

Hence Indestru ctibleness, the quality of being indestructible; indestructibility. Indestru ctibly adv, in an indestructible way.

1832 CARLYLE Sart Res II ii, How indestructibly the good grow and propagates itself 1844 DISRAELI Coningsby VII ii, The indestructibleness of its [the Church's] principles 1865 Sat Rev 11 Feb 180/2 How most transient blunders and follies are enshrined indestructibly in print 1870 F WHITE Life in Christ iv xxii (1878) 378 The thought of the indestructibleness of the wicked in the fires of hell

Indete ctable, a rare Also ible [IN-1] Not detectable, incapable of being detected 1853 Fraser's Mag XLVII 58 What is then an excep tion, easily checked, has now become an indetectible system 1869 F A PARKES Pract Physiol (ed 3) 78 When mixed even in large quantity with water, [the] is not indetect able by the senses

Indeterminable (indĭtɜ·minăb'l), a (sb) [ad L. indēterminābilis (Tertullian) see DETER MINABLE Cf F indéterminable (1753 in Hatz-Darm)] Not determinable
1 Incapable of being limited or bounded in respect of range, number, etc Obs rare
1486 Bk St Albans, Her A v, Ther ben iv sides con trari to gentlmen of the which v ben indeterminable and my determinable The v indeterminable ben these oon to be full of slowthe in his werris [etc] 1609 JER TAYLOR Ul Temp I Ad sect 3 § 11 His memory is as indeterminable and as illimitable, ever remembring to do so 1650 JOS DE Hum Und II xxii § 11 Cunning conselves to be as it were, in the center [of space], we do on all sides pursue those indeterminable lines of number

2 Of disputes, difficulties, etc Incapable of being decided or settled 1611 SPEED Hist Gt Brit IX xxi § 87 846 In Monarchies where Inwell succession is the rule of inheritance there sometimes fal out as great and vnreconcilable differences, as where Election designeth the Successor 1651 HOBBES Lev I xiv 82 1729 The controversies which rise among them will become immeasurable and indeterminable. 1841 MYERS Cath Th II § 3 111 Were the whole question to be determined by the old Testament alone, it would be at present for us indeterminable

3 Incapable of being definitely fixed or ascer tained 1646 SIR J BROWNE Pseud Ep VI i 273 As its [the world's] period is inscrut able, so is its nativity indetermin able 1798 W MASON Jesse Fountain's 31 Veins of rock run into the sea to an indeterminable distance 1876 WHITTIER & HALL Girl C / Introd § 13 The gain or loss is from the nature of the case indeterminable
b Nat Hist Of which the species, or place in classification, cannot be determined 1848 OWEN in Times 11 Nov, Of any large marine mamm alian or indeterminable monster they [the mu eums of Scandinavia] cannot show a stranger

B sb An indeterminable point or problem
1646 SIR J BROWNE Pseud Ep VII i 340 To condemne such indeterminables, unto him it demanded on what hand Venus was wounded the Philosopher thought it a sufficient resolution to reinquire upon what leg King Philip halted

Hence Indete rminableness, the quality of being indeterminable
In mod Dicts

Indete rminably, adv rare [In sense 1, f IN-3 + DETERMINABLE, in 2, f prec + -LY2]
†1 In an indefinite manner Cf DETERMINABLY adv
1471 FORTESCUE Ilke (1869) I 533 Our lorde sayde and finitely or indeterminably that she [woman] shulde be vnder the power and lordshipp of man
2 In an indeterminable manner
1845 WORCESTER, Indeterminably, in an indeterminable manner Dr Allen

Indete rminacy rare [f next see -ACY] The quality of being indeterminate, want of determinateness or definiteness 1649 BP RAINOLDS Serm (1874) 7 Such an indifferency and indeterminacy in the manner of working 1879 THOMSON Tait Nat Phil I ii § 337 The linear transformation ceases to be wholly determinate, but there is a degree of in determinacy which supervene is the reverse of embarrassm. 1892 Nation (N Y) 27 Oct 324/2 Vagueness is an indeter minacy in the limits of the application of an idea

Indeterminate (indĭtɜ·minĕt), a (sb) [ad L. indēterminātus (Tertullian) see DETERMINATE Cf F indéterminé (14th c, Oresme)] Not deter mined, undetermined
†1 Not definitely set down, undetermined Cf DETERMINATE pa ppl Obs
c 1391 CHAUCER Astrol II § 17 To knowe the verrey degree of my muner sterre thow he be indeterminat in thin astrolabie
2 Not fixed in extent, number, character or nature, left uncertain as to limits of extent, number, etc, of uncertain size or character, indefinite, in distinct, uncertain 1603 HOLLAND Plutarch's Mor 1334 This indeterminate and troublesome infinity 1651 HOBBES Leviath II xxvii 161 An intermination, that is to say, an arbitrary Punish ment 1662 STILLINGFL Orig Sacr III ii § 9 Numbers confidences all those as not understanding Pythagoras, who attribute to him the production of the indeterminate Hyle 1728 WOOLASTON Relig Nat vi 71 For time, as well as space is capable of indeterminate division 1774 J BRYANT Mythol I 226 Can we believe that they would choose for a characteristic what was so general and indeterminate? 1782 MARTYN Geog Mag I 728 I mpires of great extent but indeterminate limits 1805–19 R JAMESON Mar Min (ed 3) 109 The eight or nine sulfid pecies afford only accidental or indeterminate varieties 1831 R KNOX Cloquet's Anat 702 I his artery gives off twigs of indeterminate number 1885 J MARTINEAU Types Eth Th II 6 Would it be better to blur into an indeterminate mess perception, reasoning, imagination, passion?

b Of statements, thoughts, words, etc Not clear and definite, wanting in precision, vague 1774 J Bryant Mythol I 498 His account is very indefinite and obscure 1874 Jevons Prime Sc I 49 Some is an indeterminate adjective, it implies unknown qualities but gives no hint as to their nature 1878 C Hargood Symb Christ III 69 I too often the term 'Angel' has for us a cloudy and indeterminate meaning

c Math Of a quantity Not limited to a fixed value or number of values (Also absol as sb)
Of a problem Having an unlimited number of solutions

Indeterminate analysis, the branch of analysis which deals with the solution of indeterminate problems; method of x coefficients (more properly of undetermined coefficients), a method of analysis invented by Descartes, x equation, an equation in which the unknown quantities are indeter minate, x form, a form consisting of two indeterminate quantities, x series, a series whose terms proceed by the powers of an indeterminate quantity

1706 Phillips Problem Such an one as is capable of an infinite number of different solutions is called an indeterminate Problem 1798 Hutton Math Dict s v Series, Indeterminate Series is one whose terms proceed by the powers of an indeterminate quantity 1806– Course Math I 131 In the solution of that question of this sort admit of a great variety of answers These kinds of questions are called by algebraists indeterminate or un limited problems 1820 Encycl Metrop Pract Math (1870) I 97 No one of them can be indeterminate, or can admit of innumerable values otherwise y itself would be indeter minate 1868 Encycl Brit Calculus 443 We may take the successive differentials, by making those of the two indeterminates which are considered as functions of the third, vary at the same time 1841 J R Young Math Dissert iv 34 The equation becomes indeterminate, and capable of an infinite number of different values 1882 Minchin Unipl Kinemat 211 At each of these points the value of ψ is indeterminate

d Pot (a) = Indefinite 5 a, (b) of restivation see quot 1880

1842 Brande Dict Sci, Lit etc, Indeterminate, when a stem is never terminated by a flower, nor has its growth stopped by any other organic cause 1880 Gray Struct Bot iv § 134 The inflorescence is said to be Open or Indeter minate, when the parts do not come into contact in the bud so as to cover those within The most familiar case is that of the petals of Magnoliæ

3 Not fixed or established, uncertain

1626 Bacon Sylva § 698 The Insecta haue Voluntarie Motion And whereas some of the Ancients haue said, that their Motion is Indeterminate, and their Imagination not In definite, it is manifestly obserued 1838 Prescott Ferd & Is (1846) I vi 268 The place of its sittings, before indeterminate was fixed at Valladolid 1842 Poe Marie Roget Wks 1864 I 233 The period of their rising is, and necessarily must be indeterminate 1878 Geo Eliot Dan Der vi, It [harvest] lies all underground, with an indeterminate future

4 Not settled or decided, left doubtful

1656 Stanley Hist Philos v (1701) 191/2 Indeterminate is that which is in our Power, and to which part we incline it encimeth, will be true or false 1678 Marvell Def Howe Wks 1875 IV 201 So it will be too if God be to determine it, indeterminate till he hath determined it 1758 Mayhew Cong Mag II 65 In this court, where the law is silent or in determinate has a decisive voice 1872 Yeats Growth Comm 216 Meanwhile several millions sterling had been wasted by both companies in indeterminate conflicts.

5 Not determined by motives (regarded as ex ternal forces), acting freely

1836 J Gilbert Chr Atonem IV (1850) 98 His charac teristic of moral action, its indeterminate working a 1872 Grote Fifth Fragm II, In positive morality, the mandate is conceived as emanating from an indeterminate superior

Indeterminately (indɪ·təːminətli), adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an indeterminate manner

1 Without precision, indefinitely, vaguely

1593 Golding Calvin on Ps lxvii 12 To speake indeter minately, as it were of a matter vnknowen 1597 Hooker Eccl Pol v 68 This word some doth designe an vniuersall, or common terme indeterminately 1706 Antiper Pan-rgon 350 A Libel is not valid, if the Demand of Petition therein contain'd be deduced and set forth indeterminately 1835 I Taylor Spir Despot iv 166 No writer of the age of Cyprian uses the words bishop pres-byter and diocese so indeterminately or so obstructively as do the apostles

†2 Without specification or selection, indifferently Obs

1637 Heat Prism Orig Mem I iv 106 Whether we sub duct that Number of Ten out of the last Generations of Men or out of Generations a thousand years since, or inde terminately out of the whole Collection [etc] 1704 Newton Ideal World II iii 153 All knowledge must be immediate or mediate indeterminately a 1762 Law Th Relig III ii (R) The worst and most dreadful part of the sentence which denounced death absolutely and indeterminately

3 Without deciding or settling a question rare

Based on It indeterminatamente in the title of Galileo's Dialogo (1632) the English transl of 1661 renders it 'im partially and indefinitely 1841 Brewster Mart Sc v 81 (Galileo's work [in which] he discusses, indeterminately and firmly, the argu ments proposed on both sides.

Indeterminateness. [f as prec + -ness] The quality of being indeterminate, vagueness, in definiteness, want of exactness, etc

1644 Digby Mans Soul (1645) 58 To draw from indeter minateness and confusion to a clarity and determination 1816 Bentham Chrestom 249 This deficiency in respect of preciseness, is among the unavoidable results, of the in determinateness attached to the names in common use 1879 H Spencer Data Ethics ix 154 To the double inde terminateness of the end has to be added the indeterminate ness of the means

Indetermination (indɪ,təːmɪnēi·ʃən) [f Iv DETERMINATE see -ation Cf F indétermination (1568 in Hatz-Darm)] Absence or want of de termination, the fact or condition of being undetermined, unsettledness

1649 Jer Taylor Gt Exemp I § 7 107 The indetermina tion of her [the Virgin's] thoughts was a trouble great as the reason of her love 1662 — Duct Dubit IV i r § 5 In moral and spiritual things, liberty and indetermination are weakness 1749 Bolingbroke Fragm 243 His whole argu ment was contrived to keep up a kind of general indet termination in the party about the succession 1838 Blackw Mag IV 1 IV 545 While this indetermination continues, the power of choice remains inoperative 1860 Farrar Orig Lang viii 166 The earliest languages are marked by exuber rance, indetermination

b The fact of being indeterminate as a quantity, a problem or the like

1789 T Taylor Proclus' Comm II 32 Such things as are properly denominated problems, ought to avoid indeter mination, and not to be of the number of things capable of infinite variation

†c An indeterminate number or quantity Obs

a 1619 Fotherby Atheom II v § 4 (1622) 309 All wholes, all parts, all termes, and all indeterminations

Indetermined (indɪ·təːmɪnd), a. Now rare. [f Iv + Determined ppl a] Not determined, Undetermined

1 Not definitely fixed, settled, decided, or ascer tained, having no definite or clearly-marked char acter

1611 Speed Hist Gt Brit IX xi § 30 507/1 The Westerne Princes wrapt and knotted in mutuall suspitions and quarrels indetermined 1641 R Carylle (Ld Brooke) Eng Epis 1 x 56 Most of their Tenets were so much indetermined, that scarce any of them could be sure how to hold and believe 1738 G H Brooke Unrv Beauty v 15 The Eternal Height of indetermin d space! 1764 Reid Inquiry i 1 The word impression as used by Hume is for the most part a vague and indetermined expression 1864 Bowen Logic iv 66 What has no qualities attributed to it, though attributable, is said to be indetermined

†2. Not determined to a certain course of action 1628 I Spenser Logic 2 259 Mans will is a faculti e free, and indetermined vnto one 1660 tr Amyraldus' Treat conc Relig 31 Is it not then impossible to govern between contrary probabilities, and indetermin d (as they speak) not knowing on which side to proceed a 1670 Rust Disc Truth (1682) 30 We know that natures so indetermined to what is good

†3 Math = Indeterminate 2 Obs

1706 W Jones Syn Palmar Matheseos 117 Here 'tis plain, the Question is Indetermined 1740 Chevne Regimen 200 Indetermined Problems in Algebra 1743 Emerson Fluxions 2 Those Quantities that are continually changing their Value are called variable or indeterminate Quantities

Indeterminism (indɪ·təːmɪnɪz'm) [f Iv + -ism] The philo sophical theory that human action is not necessarily determined by motives, but is to some extent free

1874 W G Ward in Dublin Rev Apr, Mr Mill calls his theory 'determinism', we will call our own, therefore, by the name of 'indeterminism' 1880–3 Fr Harrison in Schaff Encycl Relig Knowl III 2525/1 According to the tenets of indeterminism, there is no way of having a free choice except through an infinite series of choices, or else through a theory that makes all choices fortuitous 1886 Sidgwick Hist Ethics v 250 In Clarke's system Inde terminism is no doubt a cardinal notion

Indeterminist. [f Iv + -ist] Determinist] One who holds the doctrine of indeterminism

1880 W L Courtney Epicurus in Hellenic (1880) 257 Epicurus was not an Indeterminist He was an opponent of Fatalism, not of Determinism a 1882 I H Green Prol Ethics II ii (1888) 93 The question commonly debated between Determinists and Indeterminists, whether there is, or is not, a possibility of unmotived willing

Indett, obs form of Indent

†Indevil, v. Obs rare Also en- [f In- 2 (En-) + Devil sb] To possess with a devil, esp in pa pple Inde vilted

1606 Parsons 3rd Pt Three Convers Eng 279 They were indevilled, superdevilled, and throwdevilled 1621 Florio, Indemoniato one that is possessed with some deuill or euill spirit 1644 Gee Foot out of Snare 52 There was one M Blewes and one M Fowell of whom either were so seemed to bee indevilled

†Indevirginate, a Obs rare [In- 3] Undeflowered Also fig Unsullied

1616 Chapman Homer's Hymn to Venus (R), Pallas, the seede of Ægis bearing Jove, Who still lues indevirginate. 1822 T G Wainewright Ess & Criti (1880) 294 Those plump shoulders, that bosom indevirginate

Indevoir, obs Sc form of Endeavour v

†Indevolvibility. Obs rare —[f. indevolvible* f In- 3 + Devolve v + -ible) + -ity] Incapability of being devolved on another

1695 [see Indefligability]

Indevor, obs form of Endeavour sb and v

†Indevote to, a Obs rare —[ad late L indevot-us, f. in- In- 3) + devōtus Devote a cf F indévot (15th c)] = Indevout

a 1742 Bentley Corr (1842) I 7 They give no good account of the other little book There are so many of the same arguments, and so indevote an age

†Indevoted, a Obs [f In- 3 + Devoted a.] Not devoted or attached, disaffected or disloyal

1647 Clarendon Hist Reb II § 102 By which husbandry all the rich families of England were exceedingly incensed, and even indevoted to the Crown. a 1674 — Surv Leviath (1676) 158 To curb and subdue that Clergy, that was inde voted to him 1759 Hist Dial Retrench Note (R), Some persons indevoted to the excellent chancellor

Indevotion (indɪvō·ʃən) [f In- 3 + Devotion cf F indévotion (1584, indévotie)] Want of devotion, indevout feeling or conduct

1596 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1531) 139 Cese not fro prayer by yᵉ reason of suche dryues or indeuocyon 1614 T Adams Devils Banquet 11 The chilling and killing cold of our Indevotion 1649 Jer Taylor Gt Exemp I Ad § 8 116 The example may entice us on a little further, then the customes of the world or some such indevotion would engage us 1756 W Dodd Fasting (ed 2) 11 Spiritual vices, such as indevotion and deadness in prayer 1866 Ch Times 17 Nov 382/1 The sloth and indevotion of the clergy

Indevo·tional, a [In- 3] Not devotional

1865 Miss Yonge Clever Woman of Family I, One deemed praise the prime object of his ministry, the other found the performance indevotional, and raved that education should be sacrificed to wrest hed mus.

Indevout (indɪvau·t), a [f In- 3 + Devout (in first quot transl L indebitus see Indevtor)] Not devout, irreverent, irreligious

c 1450 tr De Imitatione III xxxviii 108 Þou shalt be founden now deuoute,now indeuoute 1526 Atkinson (title), yndeuout] 1648 By Hall Remedy Discontents 158 Under which, a praying soule can no more miscary, then an indevout soule can enjoy safety 1770 J Baretti Journ to Genoa III 111 Nor did he here misconstrue my manners even they if she did — she would be considered as indevout 1855 Maurice Learn & Work vi 181 Brought together by what in our thoughtless, indevout language we call accidents

Hence Indevou·tly adv, Indevou·tness.

1694 Kettlewell Comp Persecuted 48 Thy pure Worship and Service had been carelessly and indevoutly attended 1842 Manning Serm Worldly Affect (1848) I 68 The in devoutness of your present prayers

Indew, obs form of Endue

Indewly, variant of Indivly

Index [1 indeks, sb IV 1 Indexes (also 7 in·dex'es) and indices (i·ndisiz) [a 1 index, in·dic em, pl indices, the forefinger, an informer, sign, inscription, f. in- (In- 2) + dic-* to point out see Indicate Cf F index (16th c)

In current use the plural is indices in senses 8, 9, and usually in other senses except 5, in which it is only indexes

1 The fore-finger so called because used in pointing Now chiefly Anat

Also, in Comp Anat, the corresponding digit of the fore limb of a quadruped, or of the wing of a bird

1398 Trevisa Barth De P R v xxix (1495) 140 The seconde fyngre hyght Index for by hym is moche shewynges made 1594 Plat Jewell Ho iii 48 The next is the index or forfinger of your right hand 1620 Shelton Quix IV iv 27 He clapt the Index of his right Hand upon his Nose and Eye brows 1644 Bulwer Chirol 82 Both the Indexes pon d, and pyramidally advanced 1758 J S Le Dran's Observ Surg (1771) 269, I thrust the Index of my Left Hand into the Cavity 1805 Sporting Mag XVII 36 Our hero longed to have his index upon the trigger 1844 Mrs Browning Lady Geraldine xxx, And the left hand's index droppeth from the lips upon the cheek 1893 Newton Birds 459 Index in Birds always the best developed of the digits of the fore limb

2 A piece of wood, metal, or the like, which serves as a pointer, esp in scientific instruments, a pointer which moves along a graduated scale (or which is itself fixed while a graduated scale moves across its extremity) so as to indicate movements or measurements

1594 Plat Jewell Ho iii 11 Let there be a sharpe index, that may point vpon a table of wood 1613 R Ridley Magn Bodies 115 So that his broad Index may be set to point out the degrees of the altitude of the pole 1667 R Townley in Phil Trans II 458 Marking above 4000 Divisions in a Foot, by the help of two Indexes 1715 Desaguliers Fires Impr 121 To know at sight in what manner the Holes are open have an Index which takes up but little room 1726 tr Gregory's Astron I 263 Having brought the Place of the Sun to the Meridian, bring the Index to twelve a Clock 1727–41 Chambers Cycl Index of a Globe, is a little style fitted on to the north pole and turning with it, pointing to certain divisions in the hour circle 1833 J Holland Manuf Metal II 1 The index attended arch passes through the loop, until the index on the edge of the loop is opposite zero 1860 Tyndall Glac I xxv 190 The magnet to arrange the index of the instrument

b The arm of a surveying instrument, an alidade

1575 Digges Pantom G iij, Laye the fine ficiucll of your index vppon the beginning of the diuision vpon Quadrant 1682 Providence Rec (1894) VI 82 9 sights for syriveors worke belonging to an Index 1723 James tr Le Blond's Gardening 81 Two Rulers or Indexes, one immoveable and the other moveable 1793 Smeaton Edystone L § 97 To the index of the Theodolite was screwed a ruler this index ruler being carried horizontally round the index would mark the degree and minute of the circle in which it is placed 1807 Hutton Course Math II 54 An index, which is a brass two-foot scale, with either a small telescope, or open sights set perpendicularly on the ends These sights and one edge of the index are in the same plane, and that is called the fiducial edge of the index

3 The hand of a clock or watch; also, the style or gnomon of a sun-dial Now rare

1594 Blundevil Exerc III ii x (1636) 590 Until the Index do iustly touch the prick of some perfect houre 1623 Featly Fisher catch'd O ij*, No man can perceiue the index in a Watch, or finger in a Dial to wagge or stirre 1677 Hale Prim Orig Man IV iv 324 If I should see a curious Watch and should observe the exact disposition of the Spring, the String, the Wheels, the Ballance, the Index 1813 T L Peacock Melincourt xxxii, There was a sun-dial in the centre of the court, the sun shone on the brazen plate, and the shadow of the index fell on the line of noon 1822 Imison Sc. & Art I 87 The showing the time is contrived by the motion of the indices or hands on the dial plate fig 1838 Swan Spec M II § 2 (1643) 31 The Sunne (who is the Index of time, by whose revolution we account for years) 1748 Young N Th IX 1324 Pointing out Life's rapid flight, With such an Index fair, as none can miss.

b slang The nose (cf Gnomon 1 c), or ? 'the face' (Farmer, cf Dial sb 6 c) 1817 Sporting Mag L 53 He put in a sharp blow on the bridge of Randall's nose, that it pinked the index of Paddy in an instant.
1828 Hist (N S) II 280 The handy work of Martin upon his opponent's index was now apparent 1848 Ivan Fourth to Tom & Jerry 48 (Farmer) Kind hearted 'tue! Bless her pretty index [Cf 4 b, quot 1616]

4 That which serves to direct or point to a particular fact or conclusion, a guiding principle 1598 Drayton Heroic Ep 103 Least when my hoping guiltie Tongue should vainly Prophesie, My Lookes might prove the Index to my Fault 1640 Lyd Let to Chas I in Ashpoles Mg 41 This is the only index to us whereby that the blessing of God is present with you 1747 Scheme Lymp Mem of War 26 His Services would be Indexes denoting his Merit 1750 Shenstone Essays 136 And readers will call their lost attention home fast by that index where true genius shines 1893 Jane Porter Thaddeus viii (1831) 76 His uniform being black, he needed no other index than his pale and mournful countenance to announce that he was chief mourner 1859 Holland Sev Y 113 The proverbs of a nation furnish the index to its spirit and the result of its civilization 1888 Bryce Amer Commw II xxxvii 52 They [amendments] are so instructive as an index to present tendencies of American democracy 1889 Nature 19 Sept., One of the first indices to the solution of the question lies in the situation of the oil bearing regions

b A sign, token, or indication of something 1607 Topsell Fourf Beasts 151 The square and flat Nose is the best signe and index thereof 1616 R C Times Whistle II 632 Man is a mutable subject, of change And that olde saying is vntrue 'the face Is index of the heart' 1877 Gale Cr Genitals II iii 103 Dodorus saith that Isis was wont to appear by night and to inspire dreams giving manifest indices of her presence 1779 J Moore View Soc Fr (1789) I xlii 363 A sensible manly countenance the true index of his character 1878 Huxley Physiogr 211 A raised beach is therefore an index of elevation of the land 1887 Stevenson Memoir J Nicholson 1 3 His son's empty guffaws struck him with pain as the indices of a weak mind

5 †a A table of contents prefixed to a book, a brief list or summary of the matters treated in it, an argument, also, a preface, prologues. Obs In an alphabetical list, placed (usually) at the end of a book, of the names, subjects, etc occurring in it, with indication of the places in which they occur
One work may have several indexes, e g an index of names of persons and places, of subjects, of words, etc For these the Latin phrases index nominum, locorum, rerum, verborum are often employed as headings [1598 Lyte Dodoens (heading), Index Latinorum nominum Ibid, Index appellationum et nomenclaturarum omnium Stirpium [etc.] Ibid, The English-Index containing the names and synnames [etc.]] 1580 Baskerville in Baret's Alv Aaaa b, Which words, though expressed in this Index are notwithstanding omitted in this Aluearie Ibid Nnnn 4 (heading), A brefe note touching the Prouerbiall Index Ibid, Such Prouerbes as we haue reduced into an Abecedarie Index or Table a 1593 Marlowe Hero & Leand II 129 As an index to a book so his mien was young Leander's look 1602 Shaks Oth II i 263 An Index and obscure prologue to the History of Lust
— Tr & Cr I iii 343 In such Indexes, although small prickes To their subsequent Volumes [etc.].
1632 Massinger & Field Fatal Dowry iv 1, The index tells us the contents of stories, and directs to the particular chapters.
1699 Bentley Phal Pref 79 No Learning no Knowledge in Books, except Indexes and Vocabularies [1750–1 Johnson Let to Richardson 3 Mar in Boswell, I wish you would add an index rerum, that when the reader recollects any incident, he may easily find it]
1828 Carlyle Frederick I L § 3 Books which want all things, even an Index 1880 Athenæum 28 Jan 123/3 The Royalist Composition Papers of which Mr Phillimore supplies a capital index nominum]
fig 1641 Hinde J Bruen xviii 57 He became a very profitable Index to the family, to call to minde what they had learned 1663 J Sharp Prodigies (1667) 71 Such hath appointed all the labors of Nature, as a kind of Indices to this great Volume of the World a 1680 Butler Rem (1759) II 188 He is but an Index of Things and Words, that can direct where they are to be spoken with, but no further

†c A register list Obs
1660 Willesford Scales Comm 209 Some men of very great Commerce and trading keep a Kalender, Register, or an Alphabetticall Index, of the names of Men, Places, Wares, a 1734 North Exam (1826) I 12 It is the master employed him to make an alphabetical index of all the verbs neuter

6 spec, (short for Index librorum prohibitorum) The list, published by authority, of books which Roman Catholics are forbidden to read, or may read only in expurgated editions
Rules for the formation of such an Index (Regulæ Indicis) were formulated by the Council of Trent, in accordance with which an Index librorum prohibitorum (Index of prohibited books) was published by authority of Pius IV in 1564, and, with an Appendix, by Clement VIII in 1596; new editions, augmented with the names of later authors and books, have been published from time to time down to the present Thus is the official 'Index' In its current form, it is a list, not only of works entirely prohibited to the faithful, but also of works not to be read, unless or until they are corrected (usque ad donec corrigantur), in the case of the latter, the portions to be deleted or altered are sometimes indicated (In first quot, short for Index expurgatorius see b.) 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 90 L Vives when he telleth tales out of Schoole, the good mans tongue is shortned, and their Index purgeth out that wherewith hee seeketh to purge their hearts 1640 Sir D Dering Sp in Parliy 4 How in 7 the Roman Index is better then are our English Licences
1676 Marvell An Smirke 10 We seem to have got an Expurgatory Press, though not an Index 1791–1823 Isaac D'Israeli Curt Lit, Licensers of Press, The simple Index is a list of condemned books which are never to be opened 1830 [see Confessional 1a]
1827 Church Misc Writ (1891) I 79 They (Montaigne's Essays) were put in the Index 1886 Farrar Hist Interpret 330 His [Erasmus's] Colloquies were burnt in Spain and put on the Index at Rome fig 1888 Spectator 7 Oct 1289 She read by stealth Shakespeare, at that time on the Index of a religiously narrow village opinion

b ‖ Index expurgatorius (Lat), Expurgatory Index, an authoritative specification of the passages to be expunged or altered in works otherwise permitted Also transf and fig
The Regula of the Council of Trent provided for the expurgation of such books, and in accordance therewith an Index Expurgatorius was printed at Antwerp, under the authority of Philip II, in 1571 (remains of which are referred to in quot. 1621), another under the authority of the Inquisitor General Quiroga at Madrid in 1584 (see quot 1625), and others with the same or similar titles in various Roman Catholic states A bull of Sixtus V (1585–90) also authorized the Cardinals chosen to deal with prohibited books to prepare 'indices expurgatorii' Such a work on a large scale was commenced at Rome 1607 (Bergamo 1608), with the title Indicis librorum expurgandorum in studio eorum gratum confectus Tomus I, in quo sequentium librorum castrensi desuetam emendantur, per F Io Mariam Brasichell, Sacri Palatii Apostol Magistrum This (which never proceeded beyond Tome I, in quo to nocturnum libri par castris desuetam) was followed by the work referred to in quot 1620 (See, on the whole subject, Rev J Mendham An account of the Indexes, both prohibitory and expurgatory, 1826, Historical Notices of the Church of Rome (1830 and 1834))
In English use, the name Index Expurgatorius has often been applied to the Index librorum prohibitorum (cf quot 1845), especially in the form 'Index'
1621 Corvat Crudities 521 The Index expurgatorius printed at Geneua and Strasbourg 1620 Bryant tr Sarpi's Counc Trent (1676) 873 In the year 1607, they printed in Rome with publick authority, a Book intituled Index Expurgatorius
1625 Usshers Answ to Jesuit 513 Their old Expurgatory Index set out by Quiroga 1697 T Browne Rem Blr, etc 23 (Stanf 1) to prevent, sir, all storms that might have issued from that quarter, I presently set me up the Index expurgatorius 1768 H Walpole Remin v 42, I acquainted him with it, why he had been put into the queen's Index Expurgatorius 1845 Edgeworth Prof Orthodoxy in Misc Ess 1885 210 Knowing well that Fraser's Magazine is eagerly read at Rome, and not excluded in the Index Expurgatorius

†7 Mach = Direct sb 2 Obs
1597 Morley Introd. Mus 20 Plt What is that which you haue set at the end of the Verse? Mis It is called an Index or Table, which is as much as what we at standeth in that place doth the first note of the next Verse stand 1809 Nuttall Dict Sci Terms 189 Index in music, a character or direction at the end of a stave to direct to the first note of the next stave

8 Printing = Hand 18 b ? Obs
1727 W Mather Young Man's Comp 38 Index is a Note like a Hand, with the Fore-finger pointing, out at something that is remarkable, thus ☞ 1897 Crabbe Library 186 Fill every former note and comment known, They mark'd the spacious margin's various stores, Meme contrives prompt for their studious care, The little index, pointing, told us where

9 Math & Alg A number or other symbol placed above and to the right of a quantity to denote a power or root — Exponent 2 a
An index denotes a power x fractional index is an irrational power, a negative index, the reciprocal of a power, as x^{-2} = unity divided by x^2
1659 Pell Idea Math (1958) 150 What their Indices, or how many degrees the Number 10 would produce is removed from the Root, as whether it be second, third, fourth, etc
1798 Hutton Course Math II 279 Algebraic Signs or Addition, Subtraction, Indexes, Coefficients 1810 Hutton Course Math I 163 So 3 is the index of the cube or 3d power, and 2 is the index of the cube root 1859 Barnes Smith Arith & Algebra (ed 6) 108 The figures 2, 3, etc., denoting the number of factors which produce the powers, are called indices

†b The integral part, or characteristic, of a logarithm Obs
1618 Phillips (ed 4) s v, In Logarithmical Arithmetick Index is that which represents the distance of the first figure of any whole number from Unity 1727–41 Chambers Cycl, Index, in arithmetic, is the same with what is otherwise called the characteristic, or exponent of a logarithm.
1795 Hutton Math Dict II 46/1 The Index is also called the Characteristic of the Logarithms, and is always an integer, either positive or negative, or else = 0
1848 J H Moore Pract Nav (ed 7) 25 Whatever index you make represent unit 1 or 10 in the sum of the indices

c Applied to the number which is characteristic of a particular member, or group of members, of a class of geometrical or algebraical concepts, as the index of a point, line, or plane, relatively to a quadric surface Discriminantal index see Discriminantal

9 In various sciences, a number or formula expressing some property, form, ratio, etc of the thing in question

a Optics Index of refraction or refractive index (of a medium), the ratio between the sines of the angles of incidence and refraction of a ray of light passing from some medium (usually air) into the given medium 1809 Hand bk Nat Philos, Optics II 4 The number 1·336, which regulates the refraction of water, is called its index, or exponent, or coefficient of refraction, and sometimes its refractive power 1871 Tyndall Fragm (1879) I xi 340 The media must possess different refractive indices

b In craniometry, A formula expressing the ratio of one diameter of other dimension of the skull to another, as alveolar or basilar, cephalic, facial gnathic, nasal, orbital, vertical index Also, generally, in Anthropometry, The ratio of two dimensions of an organ or part to each other 1866 Huxley Phys Basis Mod 83 The term cephalic index indicates the ratio of the extreme transverse to the extreme longitudinal diameter of a skull the latter measurement being taken as unity 1882 Quain Anat (ed 9) I 8 The proportion of this [the height of the skull] to the length is the index of height Ibid 84 The nasal index of Broca Ibid, The orbital index is the ratio of the vertical height of the base of the orbit to the transverse width

c Dynamics Index of friction, the coefficient of friction see Coefficient 2 b

10 attrib and Comb as index face, -maker, making, mop, plate, point rules, also index arm = sense 2 b, index constituency, a constituency in which the result of an election is considered a good indication of the state of parties in the country, index-correction a correction for index error, index-digit = sense 1 a, index-error, the constant error in the reading of a mathematical instrument, due to the zero of the index not being exactly adjusted to that of the limb, index-finger, (a) = sense 1, (b) = sense 2, index-gauge, a measuring instrument in which the distance between the measuring-points is shown by an index, index-glass, a mirror at the fixed point of the index arm in an astronomical or surveying instrument, from which the light is reflected to the horizon-glass, index hand senses 2 and 3, index-hunter, one who acquires information by consulting indexes, so index-hunting, index-knowledge, index-learning, information gained by means of indexes, mechanical index = sense 1 a, index law (Alg) see quot 1859, index machine, a machine for fancy-weaving, being a modification of the Jacquard loom, index pin a miniature indication of the denomination of a playing card, placed in the left hand corner for convenience in sorting, index-raker index hunter
1879 Nicholson Hollow Sphere 92 The 'index arm carries the index glass 1888 Lail Walt 13 Nov 4/1 Aston Manor is not only a Midland constituency, but it is emphatically an 'index constituency 1843 Sc Divin II 61 Instrum (L) The Letters offer an anomaly, in the forehand, by the stunted phalanges of the middle finger
1851–9 Airy in Mem Ast I 184 The index error of the transit must be carefully ascertained 1875 Bedford Sailor's Pocket-bk v (ed 2) 152 Taking the angles off and on the arc, adding them together, and dividing by 2, gives the single free of index error 1664 Butler Hud II iii 284 Quote Moles and Spots, on any place O' th body, by the Index face 1849 Macaulay Lancaster II 81 Its names simply pointed with his 'index finger to the individual 1875 Routledge Discov (1876) 34 The index finger and thumbnail so be very protected by a glass plate 1773 Comb Mag XIIII 390 The 'index glass being bent by the brass frame that contains it 1828 J H Moore Navig (ed 2) 152 If the parts have been direct, together with its reflected image, appear to be in one line the Index glass is truly adjusted 1794 Sullivan View Nat III 509 Those whose 'index hand field forth the virtue of the drefful wand 1812 Woodhouse Astron 511 The index hand of the sidereal clock 1731–1800 Cruden (1779) II 57 He rated him in his own mind as a mere 'index hunter 1699 Bentley Phal 81 Mr B declares more than once that he despises the mean employment of 'Index hunting 1859 Bosse Different Acquirements 373 The index law, expressed by the equation $m^n \times m^{n'} = m^{n+n'}$
1728 Pope Dunc I 279 How 'index learning turns no student pale, Yet holds the eel of science by the tail 1831 Macaulay Johnson Misc 1860 II 274, Starving pamphleteers and 'index makers.
1869 Dasent Mediæv Mysteries 526 A change of place in the 'index point on the graduated arch or 'index plate 1676 R Dixon True Lustam To Rdr 15 Not stuffing my Margin as Writers do, with Quotations of Divines, Philosophers, Lawyers Historians, etc.
1793 Index rubr [see 2 b above.]

Index (i·ndeks), v [f prec sb]
1 trans To furnish a book, etc with an index 1720 Weekly Corr (1864) II 502 Since the Letters are not indexed, I cannot point out all the places a 1852 Scott in Lockhart xvii, I there were always huge piles of materials to be arranged, sifted, and indexed 1851 Carlyle Sterling II ii (1872) 101 Sterling's Letters a large collection of which now lies before me, duly copied and indexed 1885 Lond Times LXXIX 159/1 The contents are exceedingly well indexed

b To furnish (the parts of a diagram with different symbols) to facilitate identification in the accompanying description 1894 Harper's Mag Mar 552/1 The accompanying diagram of an abstract flower the various parts being indexed
2 To enter (a word, name etc) in an index 1761 Descr S Carolina Pref, Ivory material I act or Circumstance in this Description is indexed under its proper Head 1848 Traser's Mag XXXVIII 369 In many German universities the Amber Witch was indexed as a criminal law book
3 To place on the Index see INDEX sb 6
1791–1823 D'ISRAELI Curios Lit, Ascendency of Priests, While the Catholic crossed himself at every tale, the heretic would purchase no book which had not been indexed
4 To serve as an index of, to indicate Also to index out, to point out 1788 BURNS His face with smile 4 High as they hang with creaking din To index out the Country Inn 1862 R H PATTERSON Fas Hist & Art 250 These changes indexed the general turning of the European intellect from Mind to Matter, and from Man to Nature 1885 Century Mag XXIX 683/2 A slender, bony negro man, whose iron gray wool and wrinkled face indexed his age at near seventy years.
Hence Indexing vbl sb Also Indexer, one who compiles an index 1866 WEBSTER, Indexer 1882 FURNIVALL Forewords to P. P. Wills 16 May all negro indexers have the like sweet consolement! 1887 Athenæum 21 May 667/2 The exhaustive indexing of at least a hundred selected authors 1887 Nat Acts 24 Sept 418/2 The classifier and indexer of natural objects.

Indexed (i ndekst), ppl a [f INDEX v or sb + -ED]
1 Furnished with or having an index, entered in an index 1872 Daily News 27 Apr 3/4 In addition to his indexed ledger, the warder has a large scrap book
2 Her Having a book-marker in it 1885 Burke's Peerage 310 (Cowley, Earl) Conisy, bart Arure, an ancient book, open, indexed, edged or, a chief embattled of the last Indexical (indɛ kaikăl), a [irreg f INDEX sb + -ICAL] a Arranged like an index b Relating or pertaining to an index. c Of the nature of an index or indication 1868 in WEBSTER 1866 R W SMALL Intell The Carrier's Indexical Ready Reckoner 1884 American VIII 465 Lists of indexes and indexical works. 1893 Nation (N Y) 11 May 350/1 Indexical defects are so common that the reviewer is in danger of becoming hardened to their serious ness 1897 Harper's Mag Apr 744 This is very tame be side the idiomatic Spanish in which it was said, but it is indexical
So Indexically adv, in the manner of an index, alphabetically 1798 SMITH Let to Pope 16 July, I would have the names of those scribblers printed indexically at the beginning or end of the poem

Indexless (i ndeksles), a [f INDEX sb + -LESS] Having no index 1858 CARLYLE Frede Gt IV viii II 272 The date, in these indexless Books, is blown away again 1880 Sat Rev 31 Aug 250/2 Few writers are so indexless in all editions as Hazlitt 1893 L. COUES in Auk VII 226 Key to Birds I p cxxv, There ought to be a law against indexless books
Hence Indexlessness
1888 Amer Naturalist Feb 174 Certainly no reader of the last year's volume of the Gazette can complain in Carlylean phrase, of its indexlessness!

Indexte rity, rare [f IN 3 + DEXTERITY of F indextérité (Littre), f indestertia (Florio)] Want of dexterity, awkwardness
1611 FLORIO, Indisertia, indexterity, unaptnesse 1647 M HUDSON Div Right Govt Ep Ded 9 The Husband man, whose Indexterity hath reaped this sorrie Crop 1650 G H Hist Cardenalls II iii 178 His weakness and indexterity in politick affairs. 1899 Academy 19 Aug 175/2 His indexterity of execution no less disqualifies him

† Indextrous, a Obs rare—1 [IN- 3] Void of dexterity, clumsy, awkward 1684 tr Bonet's Merc Compit IV 309, I have often observed an indextrous way of making in haste

Indeyne, variant of INDIGNE, Obs

Indi-, Chem [f L Indus, as root of indicum, indigo] A combining element used in naming substances derived from or related to indigo e g indafulvin, indisatin

India (i ndiă) [L India, a Gr Indos, f Indos the river] Indea a Pers Hend, OPers (Achæmenian) Hiñdu, Zend hendhu, Skt sindhu 'river', spec the river Indus, hence the region of the Indus, the province Sindh, gradually extended by Persians and Greeks to all the country east of the Indus OE had India from L, but the ME form from Fr was Inde, Inde, IND (cf Afric), now archaic and poetic; the early 16th c. adaptation of L was Indea, INDY (cf Italy, Germany), of which the pl INDIES is still in use. The current use of India appears to date from the 16th c, and may partly reflect Spanish, or Portuguese usage]
1 A large country or territory of southern Asia, lying east of the river Indus and south of the Himalaya mountains (in this restricted sense also called Hindustan, see HINDUSTAN), also extended to include the region further east (further or Further India), between this and China. See also EAST INDIA
c 893 K ÆLFRED Oros I i § 6 Eal sint India [Cott MS Indea] xemære Indus seo ea be westan, and seo Readie Sea be suþan On Indea londe is xlmi þeodа Ibid I ii § 1 Of þæm beorgum be man hæt Caucasus þa be norþan India sindon 1519 Interl Four Elem, This quarter is India minor And this quarter India major The lande of presser Inde 1526 LORD BERNERS (title) Decade of Voyages The Navigation and Voyages of Lewes Vertomanus to the regions of Arabia East Inde, both within and without the Ganges 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage 161(4) 452 Under the name of India, here we comprehend all that Tract between Indus on the West, into China Eastward 1663 BUTLER Hud I ii 783 He spoused in India, Of noble house, a lady gay 1783 BURKE Sp E Bill Wks IV 7 If we are not able to contrive some method of governing India well 1818 MILL Brit India (1826) V 533 The same barefaced disregard of truth, which always characterized the natives of India
† 2 Formerly applied to Tartary, West INDIES (Mostly repeating Spanish or Portuguese usage)
1553 EDEN (title) A treatyse of the newe India, with other new founde landes and Ilandes after the description of Sebastian Munster 1623 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 451 The name of India, is now applied to all farre distant Countries, not in the extreeme limits of Asia alone, but even to whole Americana, through the errour of Columbus who in the Westerne world, thought that they had met with Ophir, and the Indian Regions of the East Ibid 786 It scholled with the Cute of most devotion in all India Eight leagues from Chololla is the hill Popocatepec, or smoake hill 1760–72 H Tuan & Utter's Ivy S Amer (ed 3) II 243 An idea of the fertility of this country may be collected from the purchase of four dollars, a price vastly beneath that in any other part of India
† 3 Applied to INDIAN Obs
1593 St Papers Hen I III, VI 193 Golde brought hither from the Indias 1548 HALL Chron, Hen V III, 125 By the labor of us truly Portyngales, the trade to the Indias [was] first sought and found 1 WHITE Patrick VI 333 In every place, as in the Indias the vse of many seemeth to take away all abuse † 4 Used allusively for a source of wealth Obs
1613 J MAY Declar Eat Clothing 1 2 No kingdome what soeuer can speake so happily of this benefit [wool] it may be truly called, the English India
5. Short for India ink, paper, etc see 6
1712–13 STEELE Guardian No 10 ¶ 5 Celia, whose wrapping gown is not right India 1822 H & J SMITH Rej Addr, Poetry on Tea 11 Mingled with the Indian herb 1897 Daily News 21 Dec 4/4 Five celebrated plate, now ready for issue, signed, India remarque
6 attrib Belonging or relating to India, Indian; esp in names of kinds or other commodities imported from India, as India cloth, cotton, cracker, goods, lake, matting, muslin, satin, silk, etc, also, of or belonging to the East India Company, or to the British Indian Empire or government, as India bonds, stock, etc, (East and West) India Docks, docks in East London, formerly appropriated to vessels trading with the land West Indies, † India House, the office of the East India Company in London, India ink (see INDIAN INK), India Office, that department of the British Government which deals with Indian affairs, India proof = India paper proof see INDIA PAPER 1, India red = Indian red (see INDIAN A 4 a), † India wood, a name for log wood See also INDIA PAPER, RUBBER 1751 SMOLLETT Per Pic I I, His money, which he had laid out in Bank stock and 'India bonds' 1817 RAFFLES Java II 224 The import and export would be limited to cloths 1779 Phil Trans LXIX 413 Those paper matches which the Chinese put into those little squibs, which go by the name of India crackers 1773 GOLDSMITH Nat Hist V 1 Left me by my uncle, the India director 1837 Penny Cycl IX 45 In the East India Docks are situated the Import and the Export Warehouses 1838 DICKENS Sketches I xi 102 Sir Mulberry Hawk and his friend sit down at a desk in the India House. 1858 W SANDERSON Graphice 86 The Colour Crimson is most difficult to make therefore instead of that, use 'India Lake or Russet 1858 SIMMONDS Dict Trade, India matting, straw or reed mats, made from Papyrus cyperinus 1885 Daily News 21 Dec 4/5 Tea and 'India merchants. Ibid 22 Sept 5/1 Industrious at the 'India Office 1895 Ibid 26 Feb 6 3 'India Pale Ale is so called because it was originally made solely with a view to the climate of the East Indies 1738 J PERI Water Colours 49 'India Red is helpful for a back Ground 1769 (title) An Address to the Proprietors of 'India Stock 1809 K LEMOINE Introd Trade 57 India stock is the capital of the East India Company, and is placed under the management of a Court of Directors. 1849 THACKERAY Pendennis II viii, Three stars in India Stock to her name, begad! 1800 Asiatic Ann Reg, Hist Ind 2/1 Hence the manners em ployed by the Indian trade to come cordial in their shall 1727–41 CHAMBERS Cycl, 'India Wood is taken out of the heart of a large tree growing plentifully in the isles of Jamaica, Campeche, &c.
† Indial, a Obs rare—1 [f IN- 2 + DIAL 2] trans To record or exhibit on a dial

Indiaman (i ndiămăn) Pl -men [f INDIA + MAN, as in man of war, etc] A ship engaged in the trade with India, spec a ship of large tonnage belonging to the East India Company 1709 [see EAST INDIA] 1712 E COOKE Voy S Sea 452 The Donegal India Man gave us seven, which we all returnd 1748 Anson's Voy III vii 365 The French pretending their India men to be Men of War 1778 Inn Acq, Chron 69 On the private trade of an homeward bound India man 1844 H H WILSON Brief Indian 323 From time to time valuable Indiamen fell into their hands.
Indian (i ndiăn), a and sb. Also 5 Yndeen, 6 Indyan, 7 Indean. [f INDIA cf -AN.]
A adj 1 Belonging or relating to India, or the East Indies, or to the British Indian Empire, native to India Formerly, sometimes, more vaguely = Oriental, Asiatic c 1566 ALDAY tr Bonaventure's Treat Is with Deu, An Indian Philosopher named Diphilose 1596 SPENSER Hierth Disc § 1 Alexander the Great, after his return from his Indian expedition 1793 W ROBERTS Lookers on No 57 P 12 Of China the Emperor and other Indian monarchs is 1839 Lett fr Madras (1843) 283 That is the grand Indian sorrow — the necessity of parting with one s children 1880 Gardeners' Mar 17/1 The unrivalled collection of Indian Rhododendrons in the new house at Kew 1893 ANNA BUCKLAND Our Bird Friends 109 The Indian Budgett is brought into the English House of Commons every year and submitted to its approval
b Of Indian manufacture, material, or pattern 1673 DRYDEN Marr à la Mode III i Wks 1883 IV 304 That word shall be mine too, and my last Indian gown is for't 1715 Lond Gaz No 5367/4 Robert Sutton Gown Seller 1825 HONR Everyday Bk I 967 Flowered Indian gowns, formerly in use with schoolmistresses 1876 GEO ELIOT Dan Der XXI, An Indian shawl over her arm 2 Belonging or relating to the race of original inhabitants of America and the West Indies (Cf INDIA 2, INDIES 1) Indian house, a wigwam.
a 1628 SYLVESTER Tobacco Battered 149 That which now no Ingle wants) Indian Tobacco 1634 Relat 1 d Baltimore's Plant (1865) 17 The Indian houses are all built heere in a long halfe Oual 1650 T MORTON New Canaan (1883) 198 A small sized Choffe that eateth the Indian maize 1657 R LIGON Barbadoes (1673) 55 This Indian Maid fell in love with him, and hid him close from her Countrymen 1716 R CHURCH Hist Philip's War (1867) II 112 In ranging the Woods found several Indian houses, their fires being just out, but no Indians 1798 J ADAIR Hist Amer Ind 34 If we give an Indian whoop and raise their ambuscade 1855 LONGF Hiaw introd 86 Listen to this Indian Legend, To this Song of Hiawatha! 1888 M A GRIDLEY Springfield (Mass) 3 It was, in fact, an Indian trail centre
3. Made of Indian corn or Maize, as Indian bread (see also 4 b), Indian meal, Indian dumpling
1635 Mass Col Rec (1853) I 140 Noe person whatsoever shall from henceforth transport any Indian corne or meale out of this jurisdiccon, till the nexte harvest 1672 SIR W TALBOT in F L Hawks Hist N Carolina (1858) II 45 Who, at our setting out, laughed at my provision of Indian meal 1751 J BARTRAM Observ Trav Pennsylv, etc 60 Last of all was served a great bowl, full of Indian dumplings, of new soft corn, cut or scraped off the ear 1775 Connect Col Rec (1890) XV 16 Half a pint of rice or a pint of indian meal 1897 WILLIS Man in Lower Canada II 395 The grain [of maize] is made into flour, Indian meal
4. In names of various natural and artificial products a of India or the East Indies (sense 1), or so originally supposed Indian almond, a large tree (Terminalia Catappa), the seeds of which resemble almonds, † Indian ass, a fabulous animal like a unicorn, Indian berry = COCCULUS INDICUS, or the plant (Anamirta Cocculus) which yields this, Indian blue, a name for indigo (cf INDY blue), Indian cane, a name for the Bamboo, Indian club, a heavy club shaped somewhat like a large bottle, for use in gymnastic exercises, hence Indian-club exercise, † Indian cock, an old name for the turkey (cf cock of Ind), COCK sb 1 10, † coq d'Inde, and synonymous names in other European languages prob by some confusion, the bird being a native of North America), Indian crocus, a name for the dwarf orchids of the subgenus Platone (genus Colchicum), having large bright-coloured flowers which appear before the leaves (as in the crocus) or after the leaves have fallen, Indian eye, name for a species of punk (Dianthus plumarius), from the eye-shaped marking on the corolla, Indian fire, a composition of sulphur, realgar, and nitre, burning with a brilliant white flame, used as a signal light, Indian geranium, name for a grass of the genus Andropogon, which yields a fragrant oil used in perfumery, † Indian grass, an old name of silkworm gut used by anglers, (see also in b below), Indian heart, a plant of the genus Cardiospermum, esp C. Corindum (see heart-seed, s v HEART 20 56 b), Indian hemp see HEMP 5 (see also in b below); Indian hog, a name of the Babirussa; † Indian house, a shop for the sale of Indian goods, Indian Ivy, a climbing plant of the genus Scindapsus (N O Araceæ), Indian leaf, the aromatic leaf of a species of Cinnamomum, Indian light = BENGAL light, † Indian mouse = ICHNEUMON 1. † Indian nut, the coco-nut, Indian oak, a name for the teak-tree (Treas Bot 1866), Indian Ocean, the ocean lying to the south of Asia, extending from the east coast of Africa to the Malay Archipelago, Indian oil, in phrase to anoint with I o, to 'tip' with gold, † Indian rat = Indian mouse, Indian red, a red pigment orig obtained from the Fast Indies in the form of an earth containing oxide of iron, now prepared artificially by roasting iron sulphate (Ure Dict Arts (1874) II 890), Indian reed = REED (Treas Bot 1866) (see also in b below), Indian shot, name for the plant Canna indica (N O Marantaceæ), from its round hard black seeds, Indian walnut, a name for the Candleberry-tree (Aleurites triloba, from the form of its seeds (Treas Bot 1866)), † Indian weed = Indian grass, (see also in b below); Indian yellow, a bright yellow pigment obtained from Indian cow piss.

1887 MOLONEY Forestry W Afr 351 *Indian Almond Large tree The bark and leaves yield a black pigment, used by the Indians to dye their teeth 1594 BUNDVIL Perf Art (1636) 353 The Unicorne is found in Æthiopia, like as the *Indian Asse is found in India, who is hath like wise one only horne in his forehead 1763 GOWAN Pop Dict Arts & Sc, *Indian Berry, Cocculus Indicus 1828 WEBSTER, Indian Berry, a plant of the genus Menispermum 1578 LYTE Dodoens III lv 531 The Canes of Inde, or ye *Indian Canes is of the kind of Reedes very high, long, great, and strong 1850 Chambers Inform People II 674/1 *Indian Club Exercises, The man object is to strengthen the chest, and increase the power of the arms 1851 Harper's Mag July 177/1 A more persevering dumb-beller and *Indian clubber never was 1598 F Hayward Life & Raigne of Henrie (1634) 10 The *Indian Cock, commonly called the Turkey Cock 1884 Garden 30 Sept 304/1 *Indian Crocuses are now among the gayest occupants of Orchard houses 1573 TUSSER Husb xliii (1878) 96 *Indian eie, sowe in May, or set in slips in March 1875 Ure's Dict Arts II 890 Indian Ink* is composed of 3 parts of sulphur and 24 of nitre 1696 Lond Gaz No 3206/4 Angle Rods made of Foreign Dogwood also the best new *Indian Canes, and all other sorts of Fishing Tackle 1765 G WHITE Natural Hist xxii (1789) 63 Your account of the Indian grass was entertaining Inquiring what they supposed that part of their tackle to be made of? they replied 'of the intestines of a silkworm 1884 MILLER Plant n, Cardiospermum Corindum, Heart seed, *Indian Heart 1876 H WRIGHAM-SON Dis Mod Life 91 392 The ancient Scythians threw the seed of the *Indian hemp on the hot stones and then inhaled the narcotic vapour 1897 Allbutt's Syst Med II 900 It is stated by the *Indian Hemp Drug Commission of 1894 that 'its moderate use has no physical, mental, or moral ill effects whatever' 1776 GOLDSM Nat Hist (1776) III 190 The Baly roussa, or *Indian Hog 1783 ROWE Ulloa Peru 128 There are no *Indian Houses to drop in And fancy Stuffs are the chief Merchandize 1765 Gentl Mag XXXV 476 & 562, *Indian Leaf, Malabathrum, the leaf of a tree brought from the East Indies 1884 MILLER Plant n, Cinnamomum Malabathrum, Indian, or Malabar, Leaf 1787 Phil Trans LXXVII 214 The *Indian lights are alternately exhalated 1617 MINSHEU Ductor, *Indian Mouse 1698 PHILLIPS, Indian Mouse, a little beast called in Greek Ichneumon 1613 M RIDLEY Magn Bodies & Cuppes of Ostridge egges, *Indian Nuts, Mace wood, and Stone 1653 H MORE Antid Ath II vii (1712) 61 The famous Indian Nut Tree, which at once almost affords all the Necessaries of Life 1797-8 CHAMBERS *Cycl s v Ocean Eastern, or Indian Ocean, has its first name from its situation to the east, as its latter from India, the chief country it washes 1626 J OWEN Learning Register 13 Constrained to mount Pope Paulus Quintus in the flat with *Indian Oyle, for his good will 1647 TRAIL Comm Kam xiii 71 Whiles the Crocodile sleepeth with open mouth, the *Indian rat getteth into his stomack, and eateth thorow his entrails 1753 CHAMBERS *Cycl Supp s v Red, Indian Red, a name used by the colourmen and painters for a kind of purple ochre, brought from the Fast Indies, or the Persian coast 1884 Garden 30 Sept 289/1 The colour is a clear orange red, or rather Indian red 1766 J LAE Interod Bot App (1766) 316/1 *Indian Shot, Canna 1794 MARTYN Rousseau's Bot xi 117 The seeds are round, and very hard, whence this plant has the name of Indian shot. 1865 Gosse Land & Sea (1874) 324 The noble, real like leaves of the Indian shot throw up their scarlet spikes 1741 Compl Fam Piece II (ed 3) 33 At most Fishing Tackle Shops you may have *Indian Weed, which is best to make your lower Link of for either Trout, Bream or Carp 1866-72 WATTS Dict Chem IV 351 Purree serves for the preparation of *Indian yellow, a fine rich durable yellow colour much used both in oil and water-colour painting, and consisting mainly of euxanthate of magnesium 1894 LUDLOW & MEIR Organic Chem 414 1875 Ure's Dict Arts II 890.

b of America or the West Indies, chiefly of North America Indian apple, a name for the May-apple, Podophyllum peltatum (N O Ranunculaceæ), Indian arrow, the shrub Euonymus atropurpureus, also called burning bush, Indian balm, the purple Trillium or Birth-root (Trillium erectum or T pendulum), Indian bean, a tree, Catalpa bignonioides, N.O. Bignoniaceæ (Miller Plant-n 1884), Indian bread, + (a) a former name for the Cassava, or the bread made from it, (b) bread made of Indian corn; Indian chickweed, the Carpet-weed, Mollugo, N.O. Caryophyllaceæ (Treas Bot 1866), Indian chocolate, Geum rivale and other species, from the colour of their roots (Treas Bot), Indian chocolate-root, the CHOCOLATE-root, Indian cress, a name for the South American genus Tropæolum (now popularly called Nasturtium), from the flavour of the leaves, Indian cup, the N American Pitcher plant (Sarracenia), Indian's dream, a N American fern, Pellæa atropurpurea, + Indian drug, applied to tobacco (obs), Indian fig, the same as simple file, so called because the North American Indians usually march in this order, Indian gift (see quot), so Indian giver, one who expects a gift in return, Indian ginger, a name for Asarum canadense, from the flavour of its root (Treas Bot), Indian grass see quots, † Indian harvest, the harvest of Indian corn, Indian hemp, the common name of Apocynum cannabinum, a plant having a fibrous integument used by the North American Indians for the same purposes as hemp (see also above), Indian hen, the American bittern, Botaurus mugitans or B lentiginosus, + Indian herb, applied to tobacco (obs), Indian ladder, a ladder made of a small tree by trimming it so as to leave only a few inches of each branch as a support for the foot (Bartlett Dict Amer 1860) Indian lettuce a name for Prenanthes serpentaria (N O Centaureaceæ), Indian path, a foot-path or track through the woods, such as is made by North American Indians, † Indian pepper, old name for Capsicum, Indian physic, name for Gillenia trifoliata, a N American rosaceous plant with a medicinal root, Indian pipe, an American name for Monotropa uniflora, a leafless plant with a solitary drooping flower, of a uniform pinkish-white throughout, parasitic on the roots of trees (Treas Bot 1866), Indian plantain, common name of the genus Cacalia of compositæ plants (Treas Bot), Indian poke, the White Hellebore of N America, Veratrum viride (Webster, 1864), Indian pudding, a pudding made with Indian meal, molasses, and suet, a frequent dish in New England, also, the name as hasty-pudding (Cent Dict), Indian purge, a species of Ipomœa (? I panduvata), the Mechameck of North American Indians, Indian reed, applied to a blow-pipe such as the N American Indians use for shooting arrows, (see also in a above), Indian rice = CANADA rice (Hydropyrum esculentum), Indian root = (a) Indian physic, (b) the American spikenard, Aralia racemosa (Cent Dict), Indian shoe, (a) a moccasin, (b) an American name for the plant Cypripedium, also called Lady's Slipper, from the shape of the flower, + Indian smoke, applied to tobacco smoke, + Indian sun, old name of the sunflower (Helianthus), Indian tobacco, a name for Lobelia inflata, Indian turnip, (a) the tuberous root of Arisæma triphyllum (N O Araceæ), or the plant itself, (b) the edible tuberous root of a leguminous plant Psoralea esculenta (Bartlett Dict Amer 1860), Indian weed, (a) see quot 1687, (b) an appellation of tobacco, + Indian wheat, an old name for maize (1866 Treas Bot), Indian wild rice = Indian rice, The plant Uvularia or pendulum) is also called *Indian Balm 1753 CHAMBERS Cycl Supp Indian Bread*, see the article Cassada bread 1828 WEBSTER, Indian Bread, a plant of the genus Jatropha 1856 G DAVIS Hist Sk Stockbridge & Southb (Mass) 179 *Skilled in making rye and Indian bread 1597 GERARDE Herbal II xiv (1633) 253 *Indian cresses 1699 PARKINSON Paradisus 381 Nasturtium Indicum, by which name they are generally called in English Gardens, or in English, Indian Cresses 1883 Gd Words Nov 721/1 Dahlias, fuschias, morning glories and Indian cress 1837 P H GOSSE in Life (1877) 118 *Indian corn, a well-suffer plant, the *Indian cup or pitcher plant (Sarracenia) 1630 J TAYLOR (Water P) Bull (N), His bed is compounded of straw, Indian corne, and Pumpkin Leaves, would suffer none come neere 1791 W BARTRAM Carolina 440 Having ranged themselves in regular Indian file, the veteran in the van, and the youngest in the rear 1851 Longf Song of Hiawatha xxvi, The party moved up the pathway in single or Indian file 1841 CATLIN N Amer Ind (1842) I xxii 150 At his leaving the Indian file, or single file, one following in another's tracks. 1791 HUTCHINSON Hist Mass I 469 note, An 'Indian gift is a proverbial expression signifying a present for which an equiv dent return is expected. 1860 BARTLETT Dict Amer, Indian giver*, When an Indian gives any thing, he expects to receive an equivalent, or to have his gift returned 1765 J HUTCHINSON Hist Mass I 480 note, The natural upland grass of the country commonly called *Indian grass, is poor fodder 1884 MILLER Plant n, Grass, Indian, Sorghum nutans and Melinis carnea 1643 Mass Col Rec (1853) II 37 Two bigger Corne is to be kept there, the one halfe to the English and *Indian harvest, and the other in the spring 1676 in S G Drake Old Ind Chron (1867) 282 Our Indian Harvest is like to be very fruitfull this Grain 1884 Century (1883) 135 Matts made of their *Indian hemp 1794 S WILLIAMS Vermont 72 The Indian Hemp (apocynum) may be woven into a fine, and strong thread 1886 Treas Bot, So From the fibrous bark of Apocynum cannabinum (commonly called Indian Hemp) and Asclepias Cornuti, the Indians prepare a substitute for hemp, of which they make twine bags, fishing nets and lines. 1597 tr De Plantis Ire Parentes 1 1 447 Linage for a rewarde that many wiues be warmde with the Indiin herbe. 1791 W BARTRAM Carolina 247 Having provided ourselves with a long straggled sapling, called an *Indian ladder. Ibid 248 A very singular and elegant plant called *Indian Lettuce, made its first appearance in these valleys. 1884 MILLER Plant n, Lettuce, Indian, Prenanthes serpentaria 1809 A HENRY Trav 180 Our only road was a foot path or such as, in America, is exclusively termed an Indian path* 1578 LYTE Dodoens V lxix 634 The *Indian Pepper hath squire stalkes 1596 RALEIGH Discov Guiana (1887) 141 All place yield abundance of all sorts of gums, as Indian pepper 1788 M CUTLER in Life, etc (1888) II 285 A plant called *Indian Physic, or Indian Root, it blossoms, I believe, early in the year, for the seed was ripe in August 1823 J D HUNTER Captiv Among Amer 445 A warm infusion of the Indian physic or gillenia trifoliata 1772 J ADAMS Diary 19 June Wks 1850 II 422 Went to Hitchborn and got their *Indian pudding, and their pork and greens upon the table 1809 W IRVING Knickerb III i 180 Not even making his breakfast from a prodigious earthen dish, filled with milk and Indian pudding 1888 J Q BEILFIELD Hist Haverhill (N Hampsh) 358 The Indian pudding, was a great favorite, if we may judge from the frequency with which it made its appearance at meal time 1897 CRAYTON Virginia in Hist Trans XII 150 There is another Herb, which they call the Indian Pursy*, it bears yellow flowers round about the Joints They only make use of the Root of this Plant 1877 LANIER Poems, Hawk Live I Played 88 Bows, arrows, ammon, *Indian meale 1775 A ADAMS in J Adams Fam Lett (1876) 96 I should be glad of one receipt of *Indian root for the Rough Foot Tadpole (1868) II 472 For entertaining an Express, and some friend Indians about making *Indian Shoes 1798 in C Sheldon First Settl Hadley, Mass (1879) 58 His scout-men are destitute of Indian shoes 1626 L OWEN Learning Register 51 They spend it all most lewdly in good liquor and *Indian Stuffe 1645 in Bruton Parish Church Wks 1878 II 26 Keep the Round of good Societie In high priz'd Indian Smoke 1578 LYTE Dodoens II xxxiv 191 The *Indian Nations, or the golden Coloured Persone is a plante of such stature and tallnesse that it groweth to the length of thirtie or fourteene foote 1832 Bat Rouge Hist Rep Louisiana, *Indian Tobacco is used medicinally as a sedative, expectorant, and anti spasmodic 1866 Treas Bot 90 The Dragon root, or *Indian turnip of America, is the tuber of Arisæma atrorubens, which furnishes a kind of starch Ibid 933 Psoralea esculenta is a native of Wisconsin and other parts of North west America, where its tuberous roots, known as Indian or Prairie turnips form a great part of the food of the indigenous population 1687 J CRAYTON Virginia in Hist Trans XII 145 There is also a certain very good Wound herbe, as an Herb commonly called *Indian weed, which perhaps may be referred to the Valerians 1889 Amer Antiquarian XI 1 Nicotiana quadrivalvis tobacco 1578 LYTE Dodoens II x 264 They do now call this grayne in English Turkish Corne or Indian Wheate 1595 DRAKE Voy (Hakluyt Soc) 5 An Island called St Crusado, where they find store of hens and Indian wheate for mens victuals 1634 Acts of Privy Council Mass Prince 1 96 We haue planted since wee came as much Maize (or Indian Wheate) as will suffice much more company than we haue 1720 DE FOE Capt Singleton ix 180 163 We found some maize or Indian wheat, which the negro women planted

c For Indian arrowroot, cucumber, currant jalap, lake, millet, oak, pea, pink, reservation, sorrel, tree, wheat, etc, see the simple word. See also INDIAN CORN, FIG, INK, SUMMER, in their places as main words, Indian rubber see INDIA RUBBER

B sb

1 A member of any of the native races of India or the East Indies, an East Indian Now rare, usually replaced by Hindu or Hindoo + In early sometimes obs. (like Gr 'Ἰνδός) applied to an elephant driver or mahout cf Yule 331/2, 333/2

1495 Treatise both Pol A xxiii xiii (W de W) 804 Hyphasmes had forth pedyons in many grete numbre, namely the white elephantes and therfore called Indien Hodi* Mr Indes) hyde theyr tame female elephauntes 1578 HALL Chron Edw IV (1809) 240 The Indians, or Indyans you cary nothyng but wyne, who be in hurt to all countreys 1611 BIBLE 1 Macc xi 3 There were also upon every one (elephant) two and thirtie strong men that fought upon them, besides the Indian that ruled him 1663 BUTLER Hud I ii 887 As Indians with a female I ame Elephant we ight the male 1795 (title) The Customs of the East Indians, with those of the Jews and other ancient People 1796 S WILLIAMS Vermont 285 A copper colour denotes the complexion of the Indian of Asia 1820 SHELLEY Ivy E Indies I vii, The Indians consider it indecent

b A European, esp an Englishman, who resides or has resided in India an Anglo Indian Chiefly in Old Indian, returned Indian, and the like

1752 LUCY HEYWOOD Hist betsy Thoughtless III 254 This young Indian 1816 ELLINGHAM in Sir J E Cokbrooke Corr (1884) I 367 (V) Our best Interests lie in the idleness and obscurity of home they look back with fondness to the country where they have been useful and distinguished 1829 Lond Mag IV 360 A friendliness to be met with among old Indians Ibid 450 Bath, and Cheltenham At the latter two, so many returned Indians are in the habit of congregating 1884 Century Rev Feb 316 We all know that 'advice' is plentiful enough, even the advice of 'old Indians'

2 A member of any of the aboriginal races of America or the West Indies, an American Indian The Eskimo, in the extreme north, are usually excluded from the term, as are sometimes the Patagonians and Fuegians in the extreme south.

1583 Lyon Treat. New Ind. (Arb.) 32 They saw certayn Indians fishing by the sea bankes 1607-12 Bacon Ess., Atheism (Arb.) 334 The Indians of the West have names for there particuler Gods, though they have noe one name for God 1632 Massinger City Madam III iii, Receive these Indians lately sent him from Virginia, into your house 1668 Stillingfl. Orig. Sacr. III v. § 8 The tradition of the Deluge is among the Indians, both in New Eran et Peru, and other parts 1736 Weasley Lett. xxvii. Wks. XII. They have set up such traders, both to the Creek and Chickasaw Indians 1818 Jas. Mill Brit. India (1820) I. 397 note, The Indians of Peru 1844 Bullock's Months at Mexico 78 As we approached Puebla, we met several groups of Indians. 1888 Lowell If Standish I. 50 Now we are ready, I think, for any assault of the Indians 1899 Haggard Eyrbyggi iv. 78 No one ever heard of a short sighted Indian

b Red Indian one of the aboriginal race of North America, so called from the copper-y colour of their skin; also, collog., red man, Redskin

1831 Carlyle Sart. Res. II. vii. A red Indian, hunting by Lake Winnipic 1887 A. Lang Rlx. y Isolation 51 Japanese Australians, Red Indians, and other distant peoples

3 Short for Indian corn

1651 Rec. Dedham (Mass.) 1892) III. 187 To be paid halfe in Indian corne, the Indian when the said Daniell shall demaund 1654 Plymouth Col. Rec. (1855) III. 72 The barly at four shillings and the Indian att three shillings the bushell 1860 Bartlett Dict. Amer. 215 A mixture of the flour of wheat and maize is called wheat-and-Indian

4 The language (or one of the languages) of the aborigines of America

1714 S. Sewall Diary 6 Apr. (1879) II. 433 Mr Mayhew writes a Letter in Indian to Saul 1857 Thoreau Maine W. (1894) 283 Our Indian knew one of them and fell into conversation with him in Indian

5 Name of a constellation Indus) lying between Sagittarius and the south pole

1674 Muxon Astron. Instr. II. § 10 (ed. 3) 39 Twelve Constellations posited ab out the South Pole: 2 The Phenix, 3 The Indian, 4 The Peacock 1862 Jackson Gentleman's Heavens (ed. 3) 344 The constellation of the Indian 6 Comb., as Indian like adj. and adv.

1754 Young Brothers III. v. (1763) III. 45 Jul. Behold the Sun! Ind. Indianlike, adore! 1851 Mayne Reid Scalp Hunt II. 16 Their erect, Indian like carriage in the streets 1859 F. W. Higginson Army Life (1870) 56 An Indian like knowledge of the country

Indian corn. (Indian a 2.) The common name of Zea Mays, a North American gramineaceous plant, or of the grain produced by it, not known in this country before the discovery of America, an important cereal in the United States and in the warmer parts of the world generally, to which its cultivation has extended. Also called Maize, and in U. S. simply Corn

1605 W. Hutton Let. in Capt. Smith New Engl. Trials (Arb.) 261 Better grain cannot be then the Indian corne 1630 Winthrop Let. in New Eng. (1825) I. 379 Though we have no beef nor mutton, yet (God be praised) our Indian corn answers for all 1677 W. Hubbard Narrative (1865) II. 56 He propounded it in his Council, that all the West plantations should this last Summer be planted with Indian corn 1781 S. A. Peters Hist. Connecticut 241 Maize, or Indian corn, is planted in hillocks three feet apart 1817 Raffles Java (1830) I. 128 Indian corn is usually roasted in the ear 1856 Cottage Gardener 2 Dec. 149/1 Indian corn is bad food for poultry

Indianesor (indiăn-ĕ) pers. pron. [f. Indian + -ese, after privatee.] = Indiaman 1846 Worcester cites Jor. Q. Re.

Indianess (indiăn-ĕs) nonce wd. [f. Indian sb + -ess.] A female Indian; an Indian woman 1827 G. Darley Nepenthe 89, I might as well look for a wild Indianess, and exhibit myself as a pattern of unsophisticated nature

Indian fig. [Indian a 4.]

1 Applied to species of Opuntia or Prickly Pear

1728 Indian fig [see Fig *sb.*1 1] 1728 I. Mather W. Mon. Jesu Let to Abbe Comte 31 July, that plant we call Indian Fig is an admirable fence, when it is grown big enough to pass it 1797 Holcroft tr. Stolberg's Trav. (ed. 2) II. 136 The cactus opuntia, or Indian fig-grows among the rocks 1830 Disraeli Young Duke (1853) 54 Surrounded by aloes and Indian figs I could have fancied myself in the Antilles

2 Indian fig tree = Indian tree

1694 Blunkall Voy. v. 91 (1696) 156 The Indian fig tree groweth round about Goa, the fruits are small Figgs, and red as blood 1725 Lath Catalog (Mason), The Indian figtree next did much surprize With her strange figures and our deities 1885 G. J. Stone Chr. bef Christ 93 He perceived a sacred Indian fig, tree

† 3 = The Banana. Obs.

1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 505 The Indian Figge tree (if it may be called a tree, which is not above a mans height, and within like to a reede: it hath leaves a fadom long, and three spannes broad) much believe that Adams first transgression d with this fruit

Indian ink. Also India ink. A black pigment made in China and Japan, sold in sticks, tinctenioed to consist of lampblack made into a paste with a solution of gum and dried. More accurately called (china ink (China 2 b)

1665 Pepys Diary 5 Nov., Mr Evelyn, who showed me some excellent painting in little, in distemper, Indian ink-e water colours 1667 Ibid. 26 Apr., A young man was working in Indian inke the great picture of the King, and Queen 1768-71 H. Walpole Portic. Anec. of Paint. (1786) III. 32 His designs are in Indian ink, heightened with white 1828 Thackeray Van Bamm xxvii, A drawing of the Porter's Lodge at Queen's Crawley, done in India ink. 1889 A. Lang Blk. y Beshoron 88 It seemed to be sepia, sometimes mixed with a little Indian ink

Indianist (indiănist) [-ist] One versed in the languages, history, or customs of India 1852 F. Hall in Bourrez Mag. V. 22 Whose merits the indolence or indifference of Indianists has left uncanvassed 1859 Farrar Fam. Speech 1 (1873) 9 The problems remained unsolved because the philologists had known no Sanskrit and the Indianists had known no Chinese 1894 Nation (N. Y.) 14 June 443/2 The author [W. D. Whitney] was one of the few Oriental Indianists rather than one of the professed comparative grammarians.

Indianite (indiănait) [ite 1]

1 Min. A variety of Anorthite found in India, white it forms the matrix of corundum

1824 J. Allan Min. Nomen. 18 (Chester) 1873 Proc. Amer. Phil. Soc. XIII. 375 A white, grayish and reddish variety of anorthite, called indianite

2 Name given to a solution of caoutchouc or india-rubber (Cf. vulcanite)

1890 Eng. Mech. 11 Mar. 625/3 A solution of caoutchouc (indianite)

Indianize (indiănaiz), v. [-ize 1]

†1 intr. To act like an Indian, to play the Indian Obs.

1706 C. Mather Magn. Chr. VI. v. (1852) 400 We have shamefully Indianized in all those abominable things

2 trans. To make Indian in character, habits, or appearance. Chiefly in pa. pple

1809 Bengalee 408 Turning from my Indianised friend Mehetter Jee 1857 Household Words XV. 177 From having been completely heated through in the summer, I am now pretty well Indianized 1879 H. S. Salt's Diary II. 375 note, Com peters soon behooved us that on this occasion, more than one hundred of the whites have been 'Indianized' to each single Indian who has been civilized 1880 Standard No. 17,973 The white sympathizers have done their best to Indianise the word of them [place names given by settlers]

Indianly, adv. nonce wd. [f. Indian a + -ly 2.] In Indian fashion, like an Indian (in quot. with allusion to tobacco-smoking)

1590 Tr. Hist. Jacques Mounier 81 In English foote wanton Italianly Go Frenchly Duchly drink breath Indianly

Indian summer. [Indian a 2.]

A period of calm, dry, mild weather, with hazy atmosphere, occurring in the late autumn in the Northern United States

(The name is generally attributed to the fact that the region in which this meteorological conditions are questions were originally noticed was still occupied by the Indians, but other more specific explanations have been essayed. In its origin it appears to have belong to do with the glow ing autumnal tints of the foliage, with which it is sometimes associated. (The actual time of its occurrence and the duration of the weather upper also to vary for different regions see the quots.)

1794 D. Denny Hibit. Trent (1859) 108, Oct. 13th — Pleasant weather — Indian summer here [near Presque Isle] 1803 Hist. Brown in Tolbert's New Sou. U.S. 210 A series of fine days are expected near November, which is called the Indian summer [one sere de Beaux jours apples Petit sauvage (Indian summer] 1812 J. Belknap Sermon viii. 277-8 note, Two or three weeks of fine weather, in which the air is perfectly transparent, and the clouds, which float in a sky of the purest azure, are adorned with brilliant colors. This charming season is called Indian summer, a name which I received from the natives, who believe that it is caused by a wind, which comes annually from the south at their great and long visited God Cautantowwit, or the south western God 1817 J. Bradbury Trav. Amer. 259 About the beginning or middle of October the Indian summer commences, and is immediately known by the change which takes place in the atmosphere, as it becomes hazy, or what they term smoky 1824 Pickering Notes on Ind. Wars W. Virginia 266 The smokey time commenced and lasted for a consider able number of days. This was the Indian summer, be cause it afforded the Indians another opportunity of visiting the settlements with their destructive warfare 1837 Long Dryd. Wood Prose Wks. 1856 I. 324 There is no long and lingering autumn, composed of many coloured leaves and the glow of Indian summers. 1860 O. W. Holmes Elsie I (1891) 186 The real forest is hardly still except in the Indian summer 1875 J. Monson Serv. of Mem. Ind. 128 The soft autumnal calm, and purple tints as of an Indian summer

Fig. 1830 De Quincey Rutley Wks. VI. 180 An Indian summer crept stealthily over his closing days 1899 Austin Indian Summer Long may the Indian Summer of your days Yet linger in the land you love so well!

b attrib. and Comb.

1848 Lowell (title) An Indian Summer Reverie 1883 F. P. Cobbe Peasant's Trag. Dec. 267/1 A perpetual Indian summer haze of kindliness 1898 Bolderwood Aom Can roux Town 71 Cool nights, bracing mornings and mild Indian summer lake days.

Hence Indian-an mmerish a nonce wd.

1852 Thoreau Autumn (1894) 79 It is a warm, Indian summerish afternoon

India paper.

1 A soft absorbent paper of creamy-yellow or pale buff colour, imported from China where it is made, and used for the 'proofs' or first and finest impressions of engravings, for the proofs of copper-plate or steel engravings, it is mounted upon ordinary stout paper. The name is sometimes given loosely to other papers of Oriental manufacture, and to European or American imitations. Hence India paper proofs (also India proofs).

The kind of paper referred to in quot 1768 is uncertain cf. an earlier letter to Rev W. Mason of 7th June 1760.

1768 Gray Let. to Rev. Norton Nicholls 3 Feb., Are your India paper, your Anminster carpets, your sofas and peches mortels in great forwardness? 1786 Catal. Prints Sale by Greenwood (Coulston Sale) 93, No 116 Eight illustrious heads, by Houbraken, on India paper, prior to the reign of Queen Elizabeth Ibid 148, No. 103 The Battle of La Hogue, a most beautiful proof on India paper, by Wood lett, after West Ibid 159, No 81 A remarkable fine impression of the Small Copenal, on India paper 1827 Sotheby's Catal. Sale Prints Feb., No 640 India paper, proofs Ibid No 750 Proof Etchings on India paper 1842 Francis Diet. Arts etc. s. v. Paper, India paper comes from China, and is used as a superior article for the same purpose as plate paper 1864 Lowndes Bibl. Man. 401/2 Cervantes. Don Quixote 1818 With plates on India paper Ibid 1839/1 The engravings were originally published separately, India proofs, at £10 10*s*

2 (Oxford India paper.) A very thin tough opaque printing-paper made by the Oxford University Press in imitation of paper from the East, used chiefly for Bibles and Prayer-books

(See The Periodical 17 Dec. 1896)

1875 Spectator 28 Aug., India paper of extreme toughness 1877 Athenæum 4 Sept., Specimens of India paper of exceeding thinness and opacity 1878 Guardian 15 Sept. 1284 We have received from Mr Henry Frowde, of the Oxford University Press Warehouse, a copy of the 'smallest Bible ever produced' printed on tough India paper, of extreme thinness, and wonderfully clear for the size 1896 Periodical 17 Dec. The residents who should lead up to the manufacture of the Oxford India Paper

India-ru'bber, India rubber. Also 8-9 Indian rubber

1 The coagulated juice of certain trees and plants of South America, Africa, the East Indies, etc., which forms a highly elastic and flexible substance, used for rubbing out black lead pencil marks, and for many purposes in the arts and manufactures, also called Caoutchouc, q.v. for earlier notices In later use shortened to rubber 1778-9 Howard New Royal Lamph., Caoutchouc, in natural history a very elastic resin Very useful for erasing the strokes of black lead pencils, and is popularly called rubber, and lead-eater 1789 Hooper Med. Dict. s. v. The substance known by the names Indian rubber, Elastic gum, Cayenne resin, Cautchuc, is prepared from the juice of the Siphonia elastica 1820 Henry in Phil. Trans. XCIII. If it is attached to the copper pipe, by a tube of Indian rubber 1821 J. Smith Panorama Sci. & Art II. 204 Indian Rubber is a substance which oozes out under the form of a vegetable milk, from incisions made in the Syringe Tree of Cayenne 1837 Hallam Const. Hist. (1850) I. 78 The elastic gum, commonly called Indian rubber 1837 Dickens Pickwick xx, The unwonted lines in Mr Pickwick's cheek and upon brow, gradually melted away before the application of black lead pencil beneath the softening influence of India rubber 1838 J. Thomson Chem. Org. Bodies 694 Caoutchouc is very much used in rubbing out the marks made upon paper by a black lead pencil, and therefore in this country it is often called Indian rubber 1861 Du Chaillu Equat. Afr. x. 122 It is a pleasant sight to see a party of natives setting out to gather India rubber 1885 Tait Properties Matter v. § 99 The rapid passage of gases through unglazed pottery, sheet indiarubber, etc., shows the porosity of these bodies.

2 An overshoe made of india rubber C. S. colloq.

In later use commonly rubber

1840 Lowell Lett. (1894) I. 157 Feet pinched with India rubbers 1852 Emily Dickinson Lett. (1894) I. 141 I'll take my india rubbers in case the wind should blow

3 attrib. Belonging to or relating to india rubber, made of india rubber, as india-rubber ball, band, bottle, tube, etc., yielding india rubber, as india-rubber plant, tree, vine, devoted to the manufacture of india-rubber, as india-rubber works

1833 Long Outre Mer Prose Wks. 1882 I. 251 The pale invalid may go about with his umbrella, or his India rubber walk in the waters 1837 Dickens Pickw. xxxi, There was one young gentleman in an India rubber cloak Ibid. xxxvi, Mr Dowler took off the cloak as sluppily as an India rubber ball 1858 Cottage Gardener 14 Dec. 170/2 The shoots of a fine India rubber plant 1866 Treas. Botany Matter xi. § 224 The clinging out of an india rubber band is almost entirely due to change of form. 1887 Mounny Country W. of Ky 85 The absolute destruction of enormous tracts of india rubber forest. 1897 Allbutt's Syst. Med. II. 948 His experience was gained in the india rubber works in Paris Ibid III. 569 When the whole of the wall of the stomach is affected, it forms what is known as the india rubber bottle stomach

b transf. Resembling india-rubber, highly elastic, and flexible (also fig.)

1894 Daily News 1 Aug. 5/2 Mr Morton coming up quite fresh with his indiarubber amendment applicable to the third in the list of Tramway Bills

4 Comb., as india rubber-bodied, india rubber-like, india rubber tyred adjs

1882 Daily News 22 May 2/2 The 'India rubber bodied' style of entertainment, so vastly popularised by the Vokes' and the Girards. 1888 Pall Mall G. 22 Aug. 1 2 lo cuts rate a certain indiarubber like forbearance and a cool temper 1896 Daily News 23 May 6/3 The whole machine is wheeled to the bedside on an indiarubber tyred trolly

Hence I ndia-ru bbered ppl. a., treated with india-rubber, coated with a solution of india-rubber, I ndia-ru bbery a., resembling or having the consistence of india rubber.

1890 Abbey Feast Philogy (ed. 6) 176 An image in pig mented gelatine remains on the india rubbered paper 1892 Miss Dowie Girl in Karp iii. 28 Sheep's cheese is elastic or indiarubbery in texture 1896 Howells Impressions & Exp. 36 The rollers were of an india-rubbery elasticity and consistency.

†Indiary, a Obs rare [f. INDI-A + -ARY, after lunary, etc.] Relating to India, Indian 1646 SIR J. BROWNE Pseud Ep 1 VIII 30 He wrote the History of Persia, and many narrations of India his testimony is acceptable in his Indiary relations

Indic (i ndik), a + rare [ad. L. Indic us, a, um Ἰνδικός INDIAN.] Of or belonging to India, Indian. Hindu
1877 RAWLINSON Orig Nations VI (1883) 24 Indic civilization is supposed to have commenced about the same time with Egypt

†Indic, *a*2 Chem [f. IND IN + IC] Of indin, in Indic (formerly Indanic) acid, the hypothetical acid $C_{16}H_{11}NO_5$, of which the potassium salt is indin potassium or potassium indate [1845 Penny Cycl Suppl I 345/1 Indanic Acid is formed in combination with potash, yielding black crystals the indinate of potash is readily decomposed by water Indinic acid is probably similar in composition to isatic acid] 1859 ROSCOE & SCHORLEMMER Chem III v, When Indin ($C_{16}H_{10}N_2O_2$) is treated with concentrated alcoholic potash, it yields the potassium salt of indic acid $C_{16}H_{11}NO_5K$, which forms small black crystals, which are decomposed by water with formation of the original indin 1892 MORLEY & MUIR Dict Chem III v Indin, A solution in concentrated alcoholic potash deposits black crystals probably potassium indate $C_{16}H_{10}KNO_5$.

†Indical, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f. L. indic-em INDEX + -AL 1] Pertaining to an index or indexes a 1661 FULLER Worthies, Norfolk II (1662) 256 There is a lazy kind of learning which is onely Indical, when scholars nobble but at the tables neglecting the body of the book

Indican (i ndikăn) Chem [Named by Schunck 1855, from INDIC-UM + -AN 2 sc. ALKALOID.] The natural glucoside ($C_{26}H_{31}NO_{17}$) formed in plants which yield indigo, by the decomposition of which indigo blue is produced, it forms a light-brown syrup, of bitter taste, and slightly acid reaction; Indican of turmic an incorrect name for the potassium salt of indoxyl sulphuric acid, a normal constituent of the urine of animals Also called uroxanthin
1859 T. A. CARTER in Edin. Med Jrnl Aug 119 (title) On Indican in the Blood and Urine Ibid 121 On treating indican with the mineral acid, he (Schunck) found that it was resolved into blue indigo, 'indirubine', 'indifuscine', and a peculiar kind of sugar 1866 OLIVER Anim Chem 122 Human urine contains habitually an indigo yielding substance known as indican, which is probably a glucoside of white or hydrogenised indigo 1874 SCHORLEMMER Organ Chem 460 1878 FOSTER Phys (1884) 768 The indican obtained from urine is not a glucoside 1889 MORLEY & MUIR Dict Chem II 759/1 Indican by heating with dilute acids is resolved into indigo and indiglucin (a sugar) simultaneously are formed indirubin $C_{16}H_{10}N_2O_2$, indurtin $C_{16}H_{12}NO_3$ (dark brown resin, sol alcohol), indifurfrin (reddish yellow resin, insol alk.), indahumin $C_{16}H_8N_2O_3$ (brown powder, insol water and alcohol, sol alk.), indifuscin $C_{26}H_{20}N_2O_8$ (analogous to indihumin)
Hence Indicanin (i ndikănĭn), Chem see quot.; Indicanu ria, Path presence of indican in excess in the urine 1865–72 WATTS Dict Chem III 248 Indicanin, $C_{52}H_{33}NO_{28}$ is produced, together with indiglucin, by the action of aqueous alkalies on indican Indicanin is a yellow or brown bitter syrup, soluble in water, alcohol, and ether 1889 MORLEY & MUIR II 759/1 Indicanine 1897 Allbutt's Syst Med IV 200 We occasionally meet with indicanuria.

Indicant (i ndikănt), a and sb [ad. L. indicant-em, pres. pple of indicāre to INDICATE.]
A adj That indicates, indicative Indicant days see quot 1707
1707 Schol Disc agst Antichr I II 108 There are words meerely indicant which shew, and signes figurative which signifie 1833 Amrs Agst Curses 340 It is a naturall indicant signe of peace 1908 PHILLIPS Indicant Days (among Physicians), those Days which signifie that a Crisis or Change in a Disease, will happen on such a Day 1886 in Syd Soc Lex
B sb (Med.) That which indicates the remedy or treatment suitable (cf INDICATION 1 b) 1623 HART Arraignm Ur IV 103 Contraindication is that which primarily and principally doth direct what which was suggested by the indicant 1701 GREW Comm Sacra 66 (L.) A physician considers first the natural causes, and symptoms of the disease, as the prime indicants of what is to do.
Hence † Indicantly adv Obs, by indication 1607 Schol Disc agst Antichr I II 108 A booke teacheth indicantly, not Sacramentally

†Indicate, ppl a Obs [ad. L. indicāt-us, pa pple of indicāre see next.] Indicated 1541 R. COPLAND Galyen's Terap 2 C ij b, I neuer founde curation that was indicate and shewed of the olde viceres, nor of new

Indicate (i ndikĕt), v [ad L. indicāt-, ppl stem of indicāre to point out, show, mention, etc., f. in- (IN 2) + dicāre to make known (of INDEX)]
1. trans. To point out, point to, make known, show (more or less distinctly) In Med., To point out as a remedy or course of treatment
1651 WITTIE Primrose's Pop Err IV VIII 237 It is an Axiome of Physicians', One thing is indicated or betokened by one Whatsoever indicates any thing, doth indicate either the conservation or removall of it selfe 1661 GLANVILL Van Dogm V 42 To suppose a Watch by the blind hats of Chance to indicate the hour, day of the Month, Tides, age of the Moon, and the like were the more pardonable absurdity 1787 GOOCH Treat Wounds I 381 The patient must submit to a spare, liquid diet, have his body kept open, and lose blood occasionally, as fever, inflammation, &c shall indicate c 1790 COWPER Jackdaw II, Above the steeple shines a plate, That turns and turns, to indicate From what point blows the weather 1880 MACCORMAC Antiseptic Surg 30 In every case of strangulated hernia such an operation as this would seem to be indicated 1880 GRIFFIN Phys Geog II § 89, 57 Under ordinary circumstances the thermometer indicates 212° as the temperature at which water boils 1885 Daily News 21 Dec 3/8 The dotted lines indicate the extreme variations
2 To point to or towards the presence, existence, or reality of, to be a sign or symptom of, to betoken Also with obj clause, expressing a fact 1706 PHILLIPS To Indicate, to shew or discover, as This high Colour indicates some Inflammation 1774 BLAKE Corr (1844) I 517 The unusual mode of protesting on the address indicated a vigorous campaign 1798 FERRIAR Illustr Sharon II 109 Large noses were considered as indicating prudence 1814 SCOTT Wav XXXI, He observed symptoms, which indicated a disposition in the Highlanders to take arms 1833 I. RITCHIE Hand by Doctor 86 The masts of some vessels indicate the proximity of the river 1860 TYNDALL Glac I XXVII 197 There was no voice of joy to indicate that it was the pleasant Christmas time † b. intr To point Obs rare
1675 R. BURTHOG Ct Canon Pri 105 A Symbol not obscurely indicating unto Jesus Christ
3 Trans Of persons To point out, direct attention to; less usually in literal sense, To point to with the hand or by gesture 1808 BENTHAM Sc Jealousy 69 So, in regard to written or oral evidence, it has not the document sought but he indicates it, who is supposed to have it 1829 LYTTON Devereux II, An admirable plan but liable to some little exceptions which Sir William will allow me to indicate 1852 HAWTHORNE Blithedale Rom III, The coins you and cate would certainly be the proper one 1853 C. BRONTË Villette VIII, 'Will you go backward or forward?' she said, indicating, with her hand, the small door of the dwelling house [etc] 1886 L. CARROLL Tangled I II 9 She drew up the blind, and indicated the back garden 4 To state or express, esp to express briefly, lightly, or without detail or development, to give an indication of.
1757 HARRIS Hermes I VIII Wks (1841) 158 If we simply declare a certain something to be or not to be this constitutes that mode called the declarative or indicative 1846 GROTE Greece (1869) I 237 The opinion long ago expressed by Heyne 1870 ROLLESTON Anim Life 1 Introd 10 Cyon Mech II I 1 the waves are indicated on the plinth 1875 BAIN Senses & Int II I § 6 (1894) 84 My last argument is one that can only be indicated here; the full illustration belongs to a more advanced stage of the exposition
Hence Indicated, I. indicating ppl adjs Indicated thorse's power, the working power of a steam engine, shown by INDICATOR. 1850 Weale's Rudim Archit 1753 N. JORRIANO Ganger Sore Throat 30 A more indicating Pulse 1895 MAYNE Expos Terr, Indicating Days the same as Critical days 1875 URE Dict Arts II 862 Nominal horse power is a conventional mode of describing the dimensions of a steam engine and bears no fixed relation to indicated or effective horse power 1897 Daily The indicated power of different engines would exceed the nominal power [etc.] 1885 Pall Mall G 8 May 8/1 The demarcation of the line of frontier as well as the placing of the indicating posts, will be reserved for Commissioners, which the two Governments will furnish with powers for this purpose.

Indication (indikē ʃən) [a F. indication Paré, 16th c.), ad L. indicātiōn-em (found only in the sense of 'valuation'), n. of action from indicāre to INDICATE.]
1 The action of indicating, pointing out, or making known; that in which this is embodied, a hint, suggestion, or piece of information from which more may be inferred 1626 BACON Sylva § 479–80 But these are Idle and Ignorant Conceits, And forsake the true Indication of the Causes 1657 HAM Dom Orac Mem IV II 340 The configurations and indications of the various Phases of the Moon and divers other curious indications of Celestial Motions. 1793 HUTTON Course Math I 154 His skill consists in following the indications given by nature, tunes, and circumstances. 1866 GEO. ELIOT F Holt XI (ed 2) I 67 I believe was nothing shorter of a heavenly indication 1885 TAIT Properties Matter I I The indications of the senses are always imperfect, and often misleading
b spec in Med A suggestion or direction as to the treatment of a disease, derived from the symptoms observed (App the earliest use in Eng.) 1541 COPLAND Galyen's Terap 2 B iv b, It is euydent yt none indication is taken of the cause that hath excited and made the vlcere Ibid 2 C ij b, What is the indication curatyfe taken of olde Sores? 1651 WITTIE Primrose's Pop Err 43 The use of indications, without which no remedy can be applyed 1793 BENJAMIN Cookery 261 It is probable that the true indication of cure in typhus is to restore the oxygene 1875 H. C. WOOD Therap (1879) 19 The term or expression indication for a given remedy, long in constant use, ought to be distinctly understood, by it is meant the pointings of nature, or, in other words, the evident needs of the system
c The degree of some physical state, as pressure, temperature, etc, indicated by an instrument, as barometer, anemometer, thermometer, etc, the reading of a graduated instrument a 1734 NORTH Lives (1826) II 197 Settling the grand affair of the mercurial barometer, and its indications. 1860 TYNDALL Glac II III 245 The effect produced was very large as measured by the indications of the instrument. 1871 B. STEWART Heat (ed 2) § 82 In comparing an English and a French barometer it is therefore necessary to reduce the indications of each to 32 Fahr
2 A sign, token, or symptom, an expression by sign or token 1660 H. MORE Myst Godl V XX 175 There are other indications of the beginning of a new System of Prophecies 1728 NEWTON Apoc I No 350 P 2 Modesty is the certain Indication of a great Spirit, and Impudence the Affectation of it 1749 J. SMITH Loy Dis II 16 A Black Bird was seen which was looked on as an Indication that the Grass would soon follow 1818 CRUISE Digest (ed 2) VI 563 The will contained indications of such an intention 1860 MAURY Phys Geog Sea III § 138 Perhaps the best indication as to these cold currents, may be derived from the fields of the sea 1863 TAYLOR Introg Man 16 No traces of kraal nor any other indication that the ancient people had any fondness for the pursuits of agriculture.

Indicative (indi kătĭv, indikĕtiv), a (sb) [ad. L. indicātīv-us, (in sense 1 below), f. indicāt- see INDICATE and -IVE. The first pronunciation is that used in sense 1, the second is frequent, though not exclusive, in sense 2, in which it is recognized by Smart, 1836.]
1 Gram That points out, states, or declares applied to that mood of a verb of which the essential function is to state a relation of objective fact between the subject and predicate (as opposed to a relation merely conceived, thought of, or wished, by the speaker)
1530 PALSGR 84 The indicative mode they use when they shewe or tell a thyng to be done 1669 MILTON Accid Grammar Wks (1851) 147 The Indicative Mood speeketh or declareth in modo I praise 1705 HICKERINGILL Priest cr I (1721) 16 The original Greek Word, translated search, may as well be translated in the Indicative Mood 1806 MASON Eng Gram (ed 21) 62 note In modern English it is getting more and more common to use the Indicative Mood in cases where the subjunctive would be more correct 1892 SWEET Eng Gram I 105 The statement he comes is in the 'indicative' mood
b Of a form or sentence Having the verb in the indicative mood, assertive of objective fact a 1667 JER. TAYLOR Pov Instit Office Ministerial (R.), The instance of Isaac blessing Jacob, which in the several parts was expressed in all forms, indicative, optative, enunciative 1872 O. SHEPPARD Glos Eccl Terms s.v. Advice 8. It is a matter of controversy whether the indicative or the precative form of absolution was the earliest 2 That indicates, points out, or directs, that hints or suggests † Indicative day (see quot and cf INDICANT a) 1624 F. WHITE Reply Fisher 525 It is a Precept indicative, or signifie, what is to be done, but not how it shall be done, 1647 LILLY Chr Astrol Advt 292 It was the best Indicative day, wherein the Physician might expect how the disease then would shew it selfe 1665 J. SANDER Fr Faith II 1 The next is called Index, the indicative or demonstrative finger, because with it we point at any thing 1712 SHAFTESB. Charac (ed 3) (1732) III 371 But which we have already term'd her perfect naive or indicative Effort 1748 RICHARDSON Clarissa (1811) I xii 74 I shall pass over these whole hundred of bo puerile inquiries (tho' indicative ones I may say) 1865 W. COLLINS Armadale II V, The lawyer's indicative stuff box was in one of his hands, as he opened the door with the other b Furnishing indications of, suggestive of 1663 J. SPENCER Prodigies (1665) 315 There are no such indicative Signs of any changes in States and times as mention hath been made of 1728 Ann Age 8's These transactions seemed indicative of some such consequences as followed 1812 SIR H. DAVY Chem Philos I The earlier philosophical work of the Baron Fourcroy, as indicative of the youth of the people, is marked by power and genius, by boldness and incorrectness 1880 ELLICOTT St John In trod 8 The portraiture of the people in the fourth Gospel is no less indicative of its Jewish authorship
B absol and as sb Gram The indicative mood, an instance of this, a verb in the indicative mood 1530 PALSG 59 The first person singular of the indicative tense of the indicative a 1679 POOLE in Spurgeon Treas Dav Ps XXX, The infinitive is here thought to be put for the future tense of the indicative 1879 MAY Shorter Eng Gram N 7 III xli, The indicative denotes the actual, the conjunctive and optative that which is merely possible 1879 ROBY Lat Gram II 235 Principal clauses which contain an indicative or imperative 1892 SWEET Eng Gram I 107 The inflections of the English verb are so scanty that the distinction between indicative and subjunctive is very slight

Indicatively (sĭ·prec), adv [f prec + -LY 2] 1 Gram In the indicative mood a 1609 J. CARTWRIGHT Confut Rhem N T (1618) 647 Whether it be turned Imperatively or Indicatively, it hurteth not us 1882 WESTCOTT St John VIII 39 If we be taken imperatively in v. 38, the connexion is [etc] If it be taken indicatively, then the answer is [etc] 2 As regards indications given a 1721 GREW (J.), These images, formed in the brain are indicatively of the same species with those of sense 3 In an indicative manner, so as to point out 1896 DICKENS Rogue's Life II, I heard her say sweetly and indicatively 'my father'

Indicator (i ndikĕtəə) [a late L. indicātor, agent-noun from indicāre to INDICATE, cf F. indicateur (1690 in Hatz Darm.)]
1 One who or that which points out, or directs attention to, something 1832 CARLYLE Sart Res III V, We ourselves, restricted to the duty of Indicator, shall forbear commentary. 1855 SINGLETON Virgil I 72 Oyouth, The indicator of the crooked plough 1879 FROUDE Cæsar II 9 Birds were celestial indicators of the gods' commands.

b Anat The muscle which extends the index or forefinger, the extensor indicis.
1696 PHILLIPS Indicator, one of the Muscles extending the Fore-finger 1782 A MONRO Anat bones, Nerves &c 191 The tendons of the indicator.
c In a microscope. A pointer which indicates the position of a special object in the field of view 1837 GORING & PRITCHARD Microgr 51 It would perhaps be advisable to have the tire of the wheel made broad enough to admit of four sets of divisions over which the indicator should extend with a sharp edge 1883 J HOGG Microsc 191 Finders and Indicators
2 That which serves to indicate or give a suggestion of something, a principle, etc
1666 J SMITH Old Age (ed 2) 93 They are the true indications of strength 1760–72 H BROOKE Fool of Qual (1809) II 98 Our silence and our looks were too sure indicators of the fatal tidings 1860 TYNDALL Glac I i 5 The shells became the indicators of an action to which the mass had been subjected 1884 FROUDE Cæsar (1879) II 230 [He] [clothes] were the outward indicators of the inward and spiritual nature
b Anything used in a scientific experiment to indicate the presence of a substance or quality, change in a body, etc, esp a chemical re-agent
1842–3 GROVE Corr Phys Forces (1846) 19 The substance we use as an indicator does not undergo the same physical change as those whose dynamical relations we are examining 1860 FARADAY Forces Nat V 149 You need be in no want of indicators to discover the presence of hydrogen, etc 1869 ROSCOE Chem (1871) 25 Solids expand too little, and gases too much to be convenient indicators 3 Techn A mechanical device or recording instrument which indicates the condition of the apparatus, etc, to which it is attached, e g a An instrument which indicates the pressure of steam on the piston of a steam engine at each portion of its stroke
b In mines see quot 1867 c In a blast-furnace, a gage which indicates the proper height of a charge (Knight Dict Mech 1875) d The dial and mechanism by which message are indicated in a dial telegraph e An instrument which indicates the position at any moment of the cage in the shaft of a mine (Raymond Mining Gloss 1881)
f A contrivance in a landing library for showing what books are out or in 1839 R S ROBINSON Naut Sham Eq 153 Almost use full instrument, called an inditor, can be attached to the cylinder, which will point out the exact working state of the engine, how much of the steam is lost between the boiler and cylinder, etc 1867 Morning Star 30 Jan 1 The Investmeters in mines are sometimes furnished with an indicator, which tells the furnaceman when it reaches a certain point that he should night up the charge 1878 Electrical Discov 9 The actual power of a steam engine is ascertained by an instrument called the Indicator 1876 POOLE & SHARRATT Telegraphy 15 If the pointer in the indicator jumps the currents are either too strong, or the pointer is too lightly adjusted 1886 Trade Mercury 20 Jan 5/4 Growing him to lose sight of the indicator which would show him the position of the cages in the shaft 1890 I THINWOOD Public Libraries (1891) xix 199 Indicators There are several methods of bringing to the public, by means of the devise called the indicator, what books in a lending department are in use or on the shelves Ibid 393 [In] 1870 Mr John Elliot, Librarian of Manchester, invented, brought forward his indicator 1898 MACFARLANE Trip Mountain 208
4 Ornith A honey-guide, a bird of the genus Indicator, or family Indicatoridæ, esp the South African species, I spurmanni
First described by Sparrman (1777) who gave it the name of Cuculus indicator (Webster, Dict Birds 449)
1835 STEPHENS Ill under 3 Afr II v 189 The little honey sucker or indicator, kept fluttering before us with its cry Chirr, chirr Ibid 190 The trunk of a tree over which the indicator was hovering
5 attrib and Comb, as indicator card, the card on which an indicator diagram is traced (Webster, 1864), indicator-cylinder, the cylinder of a steam-engine indicator, indicator-diagram, a figure traced by the indicator of a steam engine, showing the pressure at different points of the stroke (Webster, 1864), indicator-muscle = INDICATOR 1 b, indicator-pointer, the pointer in a telegraph indicator, indicator-telegraph, a form of telegraph in which the letters of a message are indicated by a pointer on a dial-plate
1875 KNIGHT Dict Mech 1180/2 Near the mid length of the indicator cylinder 1875 R F MARTIN Travels Upland Mex 77 The mean pressure is most easily deduced from the theoretical indicator diagram of the half stroke 1882 QUAIN Anat ed 9 II 224 The extensor indicis or indicator muscle arises from the outer division of the posterior surface of the ulna. 1876 PREECE & SIVEWRIGHT Telegraphy 85 If the indicator pointer lags behind and drops letters, the currents sent are too weak, or the springs are too stiffly adjusted 1875 KNIGHT Dict Mech 1182/1 Cooke and Wheatstone's indicator telegraph
Indicatory (indikātəri, indikˈtəri), a [f I indic-, ppl stem of indicare to INDICATE + -ORY 2] 1 Med Serving to indicate the nature or tendency of a disease; symptomatic of INDICANT a Obs
1590 BARROUGH Meth Physick III XIII (1639) 119 If the flux be indicatory, the signes are rehearsed in another place 1603 SIR C HEYDON Jud Astrol I 19 Who will say that the Physition in his judgement by urine, by indicatorie and critical daies, by Symptomes and other arguments doeth intrude into the secret providence of God? 1624 DONNE Devot 347 (T) The Pharisees pretended, that if they had been in their fathers dayes those indicatory and judicatory, those critical dayes, they would not have been partakers of the blood of the prophets 2 Serving to indicate or point out something a 1732 NORTH Lives (1826) II 198 Sir Samuel Moreland published a device to prolong the indicatory space from three inches to an common tubes to a foot or more ... he called it stalick barometer 1824 Examiner 471/1 The overture is admirably spirited, indicatory, and impressive 1871 TAIT Phil Fog Longue (1877) 198 The la of Saxon times has none of the indicatory or pointing force which lo now has 1873 SIR C W THOMSON Depths of the Sea 394 The box which covers the coil and indicatory part of the thermometer 3 Indicative of something 1798 BUCHAN Hist Gt Brit an 1781 (R) Great preparations were made ... indicatory of an approaching siege 1821 Black Mag X 675 The writer alludes to certain physiognomical peculiarities of the writers in the Review, as indicatory of their character
Indicatrix (indikˈtriks) [mod L., fem of INDICATOR see -TRIX Cf DIRECTRIX]
1 Geom The curve in which a given surface is cut by a plane indefinitely near and parallel to the tangent-plane at any point, so called because it indicates the nature of the curvature of the surface at that point 1841 J R YOUNG Math Dissert II 43 This evanescent curve the limit of the intersections of the plane with the proposed surface, is that which Dupin calls the indicatrix 1879 THOMSON & TAIT Nat Phil I i § 130 A plane parallel to the tangent plane and very near it cuts the surface in an ellipse, hyperbola, or two parallel straight lines, in the three cases respectively This section, whose nature in forms us as to whether the curvature be synclastic, anticlastic, or cylindrical at any point was called by Dupin the indicatrix
2 Optical indicatrix name given by L Fletcher to a surface (sphere, spheroid, or ellipsoid) devised to indicate by its geometrical characters the optical characters of rays of light refracted through a crystal of any kind 1892 L. FLETCHER (title) The Optical Indicatrix and the Transmission of Light in Crystals Ibid 20 To the surface of reference the term the Indicatrix may be assigned. The indicatrix is identical in form with the ellipsoid of elasticity of various authors, the ellipsoid of polarisation of Cauchy, the ellipsoid of indices of MacCullagh, and the index ellipsoid of Lubasch
II Indicavit (indikˈvit), vb 3 sw [Substantive use of L indicāvit 'he has pointed out', 3rd sing perf ind of indicāre to INDICATE] A writ of prohibition to be issued by one ecclesiastic against another on account of tithes, amounting to at least a fourth part of the profits of an advowson, might be removed from the ecclesiastical court to the king's court, at the instance of the patron of the defendant, whose right of patronage would be prejudiced if the plaintiff was successful in the spiritual court 1285 Statute Westm c 5 Cum per breve Indicavit impedit curiæ ecclesiæ ad petendum decimas in villa parochiæ 1292 BRITTON I x § 21 La prohibicioun del Indicavit ... lere suspendre le play en Cowlene court jekes qui aunt qe discuis soit en nostre court par entre les avowor etc 1 1607 in COWEL Interpr 1644 Scot and Just (1650) 489 It appeareth by the ancient Writ of Indicavit that the right of tithes was tried in the Kings Court 1768 BLACKSTONE Comm III xvii 91 If the clerk of the patronage comes at all into dispute there the ecclesiastical court hath no cognizance, provided the tithes sued for amount to a fourth part of the clear value of the living, but may be prohibited at the instance of the patron by the king's writ of indicavit
†Indice. Obs rare [a f indice (1501 in Hatz Darm), or ad L indicium INDICIUM] An indication, sign, token 1636 B Jonson Discov, Homers Ulysses (Riddg) 744/2 Too much talking is ever the indice of a fole 1645 City Alarum 3 An infallible indice of self emptinesse of worth
Indices, plural of INDEX
Indich, variant of INDIAN, Obs
Indicia, plural of INDICIUM
Indicial (indi fəl), a [f INDICIUM + -AL, but in senses 2 and 3 used as adj to INDEX]
1 Of the nature of an indicium, indicative a 1849 Poe Fancy Wks 1864 III 386 The renown thus guaranteed is strongly indicial of his deficiency in that nobler merit 2 Of the nature or form of an index
1898 J P COLLIER (title) Shakespeare's Poems, edited with copious notes and indicial Glossary
3 Ornith Of or pertaining to the index-finger 1895 Pop Sci Monthly Apr 764 The claws on the indicial toe of young gallinules are pretty well developed †Indicible, a Obs Also 5 -ciblle, 6 dyeible [a OF indicible (1480 in Hatz-Darm) or ad med L indicibilis, f in- (IN-1) + dicibilis, f dicĕre to say see DICIBLE] Unspeakable, inexpressible 1480 CAXTON Ovid's Met XII XIX, It is grete joye and indicible gladnes to all hys enemyes 1482 Monk of Evesham (Arb) 40 Owte of that same fowle ponde bayyly brake a myste of an indycyblle stenche c1532 DU WES Introd Fr to Palsgr 1037 To consuler and beholde the indicible vertues of the whiche our Lorde hath made (you) to shine 1684 EVELYN Mrs Godolphin (1888) 151 O vnpara leld d loss ! O griefe indicible
Indiciduous, obs form of INDICIDUOUS †Indi'cion 1. Obs rare—1 [a OF indicion, variant of indiction (Godef.)] = INDICTION 3 c1532 DU WES Introd Fr to Palsgr 1079 Indicions that ben made of thre lustres, which ben fyftene yeres
I Indi cion 2. Obs rare Also -dit [irreg f I indic (see INDEX, INDICATE) + -(O)ION, TION] INDICATION, INDICIUM
1541 COPLAND Galyen's Terap 2 Bnj, The prymytyfe cause semeth nothynge to the indicion of curynge, althoughe it be tryde to the knowledge of the dysease, to them that haue knowen the nature of synowes longe tyme by vse and experience, and therof taketh curatyfe indicion 1588 R PARKE tr Mendoza's Hist China 85 And if the Judge do vnderstand by witnesse that he hath any indicions that base is and culpable Ibid 379 That is a sufficient indition [etc.]
‖ Indicium (indi ʃiəm) Pl indicia. [f indicāre sign, mark, etc, f index see INDEX, INDICATE] An indication, sign, token Chiefly in pl
1605–6 PURCHAS Pilgrimes II x 1837 Other sufficient indicia or euidence besides Ibid, This Indicium of this Malefactor 1625 HANNAH WOOLLEY Gentlem Companion 55 A ridiculous Garb is the most certain indicium of a foolish person 1776 SIR J BURROW Reports K Bench IV 2566 Now where are the Indicia or distinguishing marks of Ideas? 1815 SCOTT Guy M x, The corpse afforded no other indicia respecting the fate of Kennedy 1866 SIR G C LEWIS Astron Anc IV 1 We may perhaps rather wonder that Hipparchus should have succeeded in discovering this truth by means of the far and faint indicia which were within his reach
Indico, obs form of INDIGO
Indicolite (indi kŏlăit) Mtn [f Gr ἰνδικόν INDIGO + -LITE named by d'Andrada in 1800] An indigo-coloured variety of tourmaline
1808 T ALLAN Lect Min 38 Indicolite from Uto in Sweden 1816 CLEVELAND Min 262 Indicolite has an indigo blue color, sometimes so dark, that it appears almost black 1843 PORTLOCK Geol 213 The Indicolite, of a fine blue colour, occurs in the granite of Donegal
Indict (indaĭt), v t Forms a 4–6 endyte, 4–7 endite, 6 endight (endiot) β 4 indite, 5 indyte, (6 indyght, 6–7 indight) γ 7– indict [ME endite, n, a AF endite r to indict, charge, accuse, corresponds in form to OF enditier, ditier, dittier, answering to a late L type indictiāre*, f in- (IN-2) + dictāre to say, declare, DICTATE But the OF verb is recorded only in the senses 'make known, indicate, dictate, suggest, compose, write, instruct, inform, prompt, incite' (Godef), so that the history of the AF and MF word is not clear A corresponding med L inditiāre to indict, accuse, is cited by Du Cange from an English legal work, and seems to be merely the latinized form of the AF and ME verb, in accordance with which again the ME. endite has been altered to indite, and (since 1600) written indict, though the spoken word remains indite See also INDITE v]
I The sense of write, indite, have arisen from L in dicĕre 'to declare publicly', taken as in indicere 'to denounce' (Roman), but it comes near to a sense of L indicĕre 'to indicate', 'to give evidence against', and it appears as if these had been, in late L or Romanic, some confusion of the L verbs indicāre, indicĕre, inditiāre thus in L. Florus Ann Indicare, to shew, to indite, to utter, to denounce, and accuse, as Indicere, Inditiare, to intimate, denounce, manifest, declare, also to accuse, to approach or detect' Inditiare, to indite, al as Indicere, Inditiare, an inditer, a denouncer also an intimator]
1 a trans To bring a charge against, to accuse (a person) for (of), a crime, as (for, a culprit, esp by legal process 1278 Rolls of Parl I 42/2 Item he sent enditeer par quatre hundreder. 1292 BRITTON I v § 8 Il n i deit estre, car mes endita ne ought not to be upon the jury, because he is indicted me[] a 1303 R BRUNNE Handl Synne 1340 What shul we sey of lyys dytoure ... Put for hate a freman wyl endyte? 1377 LANGL P Pl B XI 307 Nother to blameles by bisshop ne be chapleyne, For her eyther is endited 1393 Ibid C XVI 119 Feily me bynkeb, Bote dowel endite yow, in dis indite 1480 CAXTON Chron England 'he cause why the saxons that ought it should be falsely endyted of forest or of felonye 1537 WRIOTHESLEY Chron (1875) I 62 Which too lordes were enlighted of highe treason against the kinge 1581 J BELL Haddon's Answ Osor 111 You must withall endite guiltie of the same crime, the best and most approved interpretours of latine speech 1611 BEAUMONT Cheasts Last I XXVI, Justice herself the plaintiffe to endite him
b c1440 Promp Parv 261/1 Indytyd be lawe, for trespace, indictatus 1530 PALSGR 509/2 I indyte a man by indytement 1592 WARNER Alb Eng VIII XI (1612) 194 He being then indighted Was hardly found a Felon 1593 NASHE 4 Lett Confut G Hobb should be indicted for a heere inditted for an incrocher 1632 ARMYNE Theat Chem 196 Thereof the People will the at Sessions indight 1708 Trans Cur Speech 55 Your Majesty might have indicted him, or received his Justifications γ a 1626 BACON Max & Uses Com Law (1636) 66 If he bee indicted of felony, or treason 1640–4 in RUSH Hist Coll III (1692) I 59 William Coltman did indict him at the Sessions at Newgate 1709 STEELE Tatler No 110 P 4 One of her Admirers who was indicted upon the very Head 1713 ELWOOD Autobog (1885) 285 They indicted our friends as rioters 1794 BURN Poor Laws 247 If a man be indicted for an assault 1875 JOWETT Plato (ed 2) V 325 Let any one who will, indict him on the charge of loving base gains.
2 To make (it) matter of indictment, to charge (a thing). rare
a 1670 HACKET Cent Serm (1675) 483 That their own in famy should be endited against them to after ages. 1808 SCOTT E M Perth XXV, It is indited against Simon Glover that he hath spoken irreverent discourses.

Hence Indi ctedness ppl a 1, Indi cting vbl sb c 1440 Promp Parv 130/2 Indyting, or indyte of trespas, indictacio. Ibid 130/1 Indytynge (A˚ indytinge) of trespace, indictacio 1549 More Suppl Soulse Wks 299/2 The bysshoppe of L. induo wyth a curate rage for cauſyng hym of certayne curates of extorcyon and incontinencye 1785 Cowper Newspaper Wks 1834 II 124 Rector, doctor, and attorney pause on Indicted trials and rates that still increase.

† Indi ct, , v 2 Obs Also 7 erron indight, indite [f L indict-, ppl stem of indicere to declare, proclaim, announce, appoint, f in- (In 2) + dicere to say, tell, declare, etc = cf addict-, contradict, predict] In Ob endite, indure, pa pple in 16th c indict (Godef), which may have contributed to the formation of the Eng word]

1 To decl re authoritatiʋe ly, announce, proclaim a To proclaim (a public meeting), convoke or summon (a council, assembly)

1538 Lytel Hen VIII (title p). The kynges Hyghenes owght neyther to sende nor go to the Counsill, indicted at Vincence 1565 Harding, in Jewel Def Apol (1611) 384 To summon them to the Counsel, which the Pope thought good to indict at Trent 1639 Chas I a Proclam Scot 7 We were pleased to cause indict a free generall assembly to be holden at Glasgow . . at which We Our Selfe . . came in Cvrte Ormonde (1736) III 584 Cromwell . . stays those to assist in perfecting the business of indighting a new Parliament 1692 Washington in Milton's Def Pop viii Wks 1848 I 265 The consuls used to indict a meeting, of the senate 1720 Hickeringill Corr (1841) II 435 The next Assembly is indited to May 11, 1721

b To proclaim, announce, or ordain (a religious observance, esp a solemn fast or festival), to fix or name (a day for a fast or festival)

1590 H Barrow in Confer 111 5 You solemnize nothi an I use a day on the one a fast, on the other a solemne feast 1649 Bp Hall Cases Conse iv vii (1654) 157 In some solemne fasts indicted by the Church for some publique humiliation 1662 Gunning Lent Fast 50 To bre k the Lent indicted to Believers 1702 C Mather Magn Chr vii App (1852) 651 The pastor of the church there indicted a day for prayer with fasting

c To declare or proclaim (peace or war)

c 1555 Harpsfield Pitseus Hen VIII (Camden) 186 The Pope should indicte a warre against the Christian princes 1671 Eatym Mem (1857) III 229 His Majesty's ministers being recalled from their respective ministries abroad, the war was fully indicted

¶ 2 To indicate cf Indiction 6

1653 R Sanders Physiogn i Moles, etc 31 [It] indicts to the native some kinds of strife

Hence † Indi cted ppl a 2

1685 Baxter Mrs Godolphin 171 (R Suppl) Upon indicted fast days, how extraordinary were her recesses and devotions on every Friday

Indict, obs erron form of Indite

Indictable (indai tăb'l), a [f Indict v 1 + -able]

1706 Phillips (ed. Kersey), Indictable, that may be . . indicted or prosecuted 1708 Brit Apollo No 97 1 2 We, stand Indictable of a Non compliance 1762 tr Smollett's Sent Gent V 210 The affair should not be indictable before any other person than the Mayor 1817 Comm Dig XXXII 72 These gallant Knights are, I think, fairly indictable for an attempt at fraud

2 That renders one liable to an indictment, on account of which an indictment may be raised

1721 Mod Ast X 336 the keeping of a gaming house is an offence indictable at common law as a nuisance 1768 Blackstone Comm I iv 21 169 The removal extended equally to every indictable offence 1860 Emerson Cond Life, Culture Wks (Bohn) II 164 the sufferers provide their miseries, reveal them indictable crimes that you may pity them 1872 Black Four Phases I 141 I ven though the points had been proved, there was no indictable offence

Hence Indi ctably adv so as to be indictable

1824 De Quincey Goethe Wks 1863 XII 194 If the novel be German, this is indictably indecent

+ Indi ctament, Obs rare [ad med L indictamentum an accusation, f indictare = Afr enditer to accuse] = Indictment

1583 in W H Turner Select Rc. Oxford (1880) 39 All such indictaments as shalbe against him

Indictee (indaitē') Also 6 7 enditee [f Indict v 1 + -ee] A person indicted or charged with a crime

1581 Lambarde Firen iv vii (1588) 517 To certifie an other Record of the acquittall of the Enditee 1613 Sir H Finch Law (1636) 404 No enditee can put in exceptions upon the delnerance of enditees of felonies or trespasse 1721 Wood Gorman's Doctor & Stud 116 The Judges knew of their own knowledge that the Indictee was guilty

Indicter (indai tər) Forms 5 indytar, 6 endightour, indighter, 7 enditor, indicter indictor, 7– indicter [a Afr enditour, f enditer to Indict v 1] One who indicts, a formal accuser [1292 Britton I x 8 § Ky presumpcioun de ly et de tote mes enditours, qe, etc [I presume of him and his indicters, that, etc] c 1460 Towneley Myst xx 24 All fals indytares Quest mangers and lurers Ar welcom to my sight 1533 More Apol xi Wks 908/2 Thenlightenours maye haue euidence geuen them a part, or haue heard of the matter ere they came there 1535 — Whs 987 (R) Maister More saith yet further that ypon indightmentes at sessyons the indighters vse not to shewe ye names of them that gaue them information 1620 Bacon Hen VII, 146 (R) In them [king's suite] there passeth a double jurie, the indicters, and the tryors 1655 Fuller Ch Hist IX vi § 31 By Law no man may be Accuser, and Witness, Inditer and Juror 1872 Daily News 5 Oct 5 [He] has been accused of pilfourism and occasionally prosecutor have been furnished by his indicters.

Indiction (indi kʃən [ad L indiction-em, noun of action from indicere to appoint, announce, INDICT v 2, perh immed a OF indiction, indiccion (Ph de Thaun, 12th c)]

1 The action of ordaining or announcing authoritatively and publicly, appointment, declaration, proclamation

1563–87 Foxe A & M (1596) 649/2 A prorogation is made before the terme is expired and not after for after it is rather called an new indiction or appointment 1586 First Blast Geutrs 153 A herald must be courageous to proclaime the cruell inductions of warres (by his soueraines.com in mandet 1654 H L'Estrange Chas I (1655) 161 According to the Kings indiction, the Assembly met and vote at Edenburgh a 1714 Burnet Hist Ref iii 1326 R 1 He acted that matter he now they should accept of the indiction of a General Council, but by all mutual consent 1731 Chandler tr Limborch's Hist Inquis II 210 He must take care that the Rectors of the Churches have those Letters of Indiction on Sunday 1872 W H Jervis Gallican Ch I ii 50 The bull of indiction was so worded as to admit the view that the French contended

2 The decree or proclamation of the Roman Emperors fixing the valuation on which the property tax was assessed at the beginning of each period of fifteen years, hence, the tax or subsidy paid on the basis of this assessment Also Indiction year 1586 Fleming, in Holinshed III 1360/2 Indiction is called the indiction of fifteene yeares) was payd in this manner 1626 Bp Andrewes Sern, Coming Christ his Pow (1661) 235 Besides those other ordinary the indictions for war (which we call subsidies are part of qui Cæsaris tuo 1781 Gibbon Decl & F xvii II 62 The emperor submitted to his own bond and in purple ink, the solemn edict, or indiction, which was fixed up in the principal city of each diocese, during two months previous to the first day of September 1796 Morse Amer Geog I 566 Under the word indiction was transferred to the measure of tribute which it prescribed, and to the annual term which it allowed for the payment 1834 Hear Mod Acc II 1 Hear Mod Acc II 1 Hear Mod Acc II 1 criminal is brought to trial at the instance of the Lord Advocate , the formal written charge

1773 Erskine Inst iv iv §87 The trial of proper crimes by the court of justiciary proceeds either on indictment, which method is generally observed when the accused person to be tried is in prison, or [etc.]. Ibid §89 That part of the indictment which contains the ground of the charge against the defender, and the nature and degree of the punishment that he ought to suffer, is called the libel 1862 Hall's Dict Law Scot 440/2 Where the private party is the principal prosecutor it is not in the form of an indictment that he brings his action, but in the form of criminal letters. Ibid 441/1 The indictment is prepared in a syllogistic form, in which the major proposition states the nature of the crime ; the minor proposition states the offence actually committed ; and the conclusion is, that on the panel's conviction by the jury, he ought to suffer the punishment inflicted by law on the crime.

†Indi·cular, a Obs rare [f. indiculus, -um, dim. of INDEX + -AR] Of the nature of, or containing, a list or catalogue

1716 M. Davies Athen. Brit. III Conamina Lyr. Ded. An Indicular Essay upon the Domestick Criticisms and Clerical Characters contain'd in his said Athenæ britannicæ

‖Indicum. Obs [L. Indicum (Pliny), ad Gr. Ἰνδικόν neut. of Ἰνδικός Indian] = INDIGO

1398 Trevisa Barth. De P. R. xix. xxxii (Bodl. MS.) Indicum is founde in Coues of Inde ; ypt in slyme of some clemynge to be slyme & ayre wip wonderful medlynge of kinde purpur and of blewe 1558 Warde tr. Alexis' Secr. i. 89 b Steepe the Indicum in thicke reede wyne 1712 tr. Pomet's Hist. Drugs I. 91 There is a Mess made of Anil that is only distinguish'd from the Indicum as being made out of the entire Plant

Indies (i·ndiz), sb. pl. [Plural of Indi- or INDI-, adaptation of I Indiæ]

1 A name given to India and the adjacent regions and islands, and also to those lands of the Western Hemisphere discovered by Europeans in the 15th and 16th centuries, and originally supposed to be part of the former, with the progress of geographical knowledge the two were distinguished as EAST INDIES and WEST INDIES, q.v

In mod. English use, Indies without qualification means the East Indies and West Indies in its strict use is confined to the group of islands lying to the east of Central America ; but, in translations from French, Spanish, or Portuguese, Indies often occurs in its wide sense

1555 Eden Decades 139 All that kingdome into these Indies haue greater respecte to luker and gaynes then diligently to searche the woorkes of nature Ibid 175 (heading) Of the ordinary nauygation from spayne to this West Indies 1588 J. Hickock (title) The Voyage and Trauaile of M. Cæsar Frederick into the East India, the Indies, and beyond the Indies. 1609 Ptolomeus his Hard Deliuice IV 49 Also, that Spain cannot of peace Forbear a little corn, the Indies being so neer 1662 Stillingfl. Orig. Sacr. III iii § 1 Telling men that there are Jewels of unestimable value in the Indies 1700 Toland Christ. vind. 6 Both Indys gladly will thy Handmaids be 1856 Emerson Eng. Traits viii (1858) 140 The English did not calculate the conquest of the Indies

†2 Used allusively for a region or place yielding great wealth or to which profitable voyages may be made. Obs

1598 Shaks. Merry W. I. iii. 79 They shall be my East and West Indies 1613 — Hen. VIII, I. i. 45 Our King has all the Indies in his Armes 1640 (Shirley) Capt. Underwit II. iii. in Bullen O. P. II. 333, I am sailing now to my owne Indies, And see the happie Coast, too 1700 B. E. Dict. Cant. Crew, Black-Indies, Newcastle, from whence the Coals are brought 1742 Lewis Quix II. iv. Regarding it [Spain] as their Indies, to which they are certain of making a profitable voyage

Indifeasable, obs. form of INDEFEASIBLE

Indifference[1] (indi·fĕrĕns) Also 6 aunce [f. as INDIFFERENCY, see -ANCE Cf. indifference (1629 in Hatz.-Darm.)] The quality of being indifferent

†1 The making of no difference between conflicting parties, impartiality, = INDIFFERENCY 1

1533 More Debell. Salem Wks. 1008/1 He is farre fro such indifference & equitie, as ought and must be in the iudges 1537 in W. H. Turner Select Rec. Oxford 120 I sweyng in yor wyndsoundi indifferaunces, and upon the fidelyte ye here unto us. 1640 Declar. Lords & Com. 7 Now 3 Reasonable satisfaction shall be made unto them, according to Justice and indifference 1699 Burnet 39 Art xi. (1700) 116 Thus I have set down the different Opinions in this point, with that true Indifference that I intend to observe on such occasions 1754 Fletching Conversation Wks. 1784 IX. 371 The gentlemen are to be seated with as much seeming indifference as possible, unless there be any present whose degrees claim an undoubted precedence

2 Absence of feeling for or against, hence esp. Absence of care for or about a person or thing, want of zeal, interest, concern, or attention , unconcern, apathy Const. to, towards

1659 Stanley Hist. Philos. XII (1701) 471/2 Eratosthenes relates, That he often carried to Market Birds, or Pigs to sell and managed his Household Affairs with the like indifference, in-so-much as he is reported to have washed a Sow 1721 Lady M. W. Montagu Let. to Wortley Montacu 26 Feb., Your indifference to me does not hinder me from thinking you capable of tenderness. 1749 Fielding Tom Jones I. xi, She behaved to him before company with the highest degree of indifference. 1756 Burke Sublime & B. I. ii, The human mind is often in a state neither of pain nor pleasure, which I call a state of indifference 1848 Scott I. M. Perth xi, "Perhaps never, if such be my father's pleasure , continued Conachar, with assumed indifference 1853 Ht. Martineau Charmed Sea 1. 8 Her indifference was towards her parents, and most who crossed her daily path 1867 Ghots. Greece I. xiv. (1876) IV. 56 Of the feeling towards Athens was rather indifference than hatred 1868 C. Brontë Y. Eve. xiv, A look of complete indifference to his own external appearance

3 Indetermination of the will (cf. INDIFFERENCY 2), or of a body to rest or motion, neutrality

1728 Pemberton Newton's Philos. 29 All bodies have such an indifference to rest, or motion, that if once at rest they remain so [etc.] 1768-74 Tucker Lt. Nat. (1834) I. 66 It will tear up the main foundation whereon they build their doctrine of indifference [of the will], namely, that without it there could be no demerit, and consequently no room for punishment 1831 Lardner Hydrost. viii. 124 A solid immersed in a liquid may have several distinct positions of equilibrium, instability, and indifference 1886 W. Cunningham Sr. Austin iv. 128 The indifference of the human will, its perfect ability to choose this or that

†4 The quality of being indifferent, or neither decidedly good nor evil (cf. INDIFFERENCY 6) Obs

1690-1 Tillotson Serm. (1728) I. 355 Conscience is nothing else but the Judgment of a Man's own Mind concerning the Goodness of his actions , that is, the Good or Evil, or Indifference of them

b †Passableness, mediocrity, as, indifference of quality 1. Watts Logick 1. 1864

5 Want of difference or distinction between things, = INDIFFERENCY 7

Doctrine of indifference the doctrine (of certain 19th c. philosophers) that universals are individuals considered in one respect only, which they do not differ from other individuals of the same kind

1696 Stanley Hist. Philos. IV. (1701) 149/1 He asserted Indifference, that there is no difference of things 1862 Gunning Lent Fast 194 Each one therefore is willing through these dates, to keep himself from indifference of meats. 1880 Mallock Moral & Met. Philos. I. 158 We can not work ourselves into his [Abelard's] passionate feelings against this doctrine of Indifference

6 The fact of not mattering or making no difference , unimportance , esp. in phrase a matter of an indifference , also, an instance of this , a thing or matter of no essential importance

1644 Milton Areop. (Arb.) 76 Those neighboring differences, or indifferences, what I speak of, whether in some point of doctrine or of discipline 1680 E. Hooke Pref. Portugaze Mystic Pen 71 What are as cunningly as commonly, called innocent indifferences and orders decencies. 1691 Norden Pilgrimage (1748) V. 79 The Necessity or Indifference of observing the Mosaic Rites 1816 Scott Bl. Dwarf II. 11 It would have been a circumstance of great indifference to the interests of the sportsmen 1889 Month Feat 17 July 4 2 If the possession of the Zulfikar Pass is a matter of much greater importance than a mere indifference

7 Magnetism = indifferent point of indifference the middle zone of a magnet where the attractive powers of the two ends neutralise each other ' (Syd. Soc. Lex. 1886)

†Indifference[2] Obs rare. [app. f. IN-[2] + DIFFERENCE, but perh. erroneous; see INDIFFERENT a 2] Difference

1520 Arnolde Chron. (1811) 103 The indifference of theis obligacions Ibid. 105 Theis ben the indifference of ye aquitaunces, the first is one party of payement. The 2 is of fal payement. 1589 Nashe Pref. Greene's Menaphon (Arb.) 7 The hunger of our insatiate humorists readie to swallow all the without indifference

Indi·fferencé, pple a nonce-wd. [f. INDIFFERENCE[1] + -ED[2], cf. teed, frosted] Indifferenced over, covered over with indifference, having an outward show of indifference

1748 Richardson Clarissa (1811) III. xxxi. 186, I again turned to the indifferenced over as a girl at the first long expected question, who waits for two more

Indi·fferencist nonce wd [f. as prec. + -IST] One who maintains the indifference or indeterminate nation of the will 1768 Tucker Lt. Nat. I. vi. § 25. 159 If merit or demerit extend no further than what the will can act independently, why do your indifferencists ever punish for acts done in consequence of a perverseness of the will conceded ?

Indifferency (indi·fĕrĕnsi) Also 6 indyfferency, 6-7 indeff- [ad. I indifferentia (Cellius), n. of quality from indifferent em see INDIFFERENT a[1] and -ENCY] The quality of being indifferent

1 Of a person or thing, in relation to two or more persons, things, courses, etc.

1 Absence of bias, prejudice, or favour for one side rather than another , impartiality, equity, fair ness Now rare

1534 More Comf. agst Trib III. Wks. 1226/2 Then shall they fall from indifferency, and mayntayne false maters of theyr fauoures 1548 Hall Chron., Hen. VI 197 b, Nor as he, which requireth of you favor, partialitie, or bearyng, but egall right frendly indifferencie, and trew iustice a 1551 Jewel Def. Apol. (1611) 122 Master Jewel, and with peasse of my indifference that I follow not affection, but deale vprightly 1610 Carleton Jurorad 131 How can subiection and indifference bee expected of them, that are aforehand bound by Oath to the Pope? a 1670 Hacket Cent. Serm. (1675) 11 Mark here the equity and indifferency of the Son of God both to Jew and to barbarian 1785 Paley Mor. Philos. VI. viii. (1830) 406 The advantage attending the second kind of Judicature [where the judge is determined by lot at the time of the trial, and for that turn only] is indifferency 1832 Austin Jurispr. (1873) I. iii. 137 Few of them will pursue it with this requisite 'indifferency' or impartiality

2 Neutrality of feeling , hence, Absence of active feeling or interest, unconcern, apathy ; = INDIFFERENCE 2 Const. to, towards Now rare

1625 Bp. Hall Let. in Neal Hist. Purit. (1733) II. 156 How long will you halt in this Indifferency ? 1626 Donne Serm. iv. 38 That your ere in equilibrio, in an Evenesse an Indifferency in an Equanimity whether ye die this night or no 1648 Rogers Naaman 176 Their former love of the word hath turned to indifferency 1688 Howe in H. Rogers Life ix. (1863) 253 In matters of religion Charles II was sufficiently known to be a prince of great indifferency 1715 Historus Lorv (1834) II. 54 The state of things did not bear an indifferency and neutrality 1722 De Foe Col. Jack (1840) 203, I had a perfect indifferency for the whole sex 1838 J. Taylor Spir. Despot I. 72 To rest in a profligate indifferency to religion 1836 J. Gilbert Chr. Atonem vii (1852) 195 Even the least semblance of indifferency towards the decisions of law

†3. Indetermination of the will, freedom of choice, an equal power to take either of two courses = Liberty of indifferency, freedom from necessity, freedom of the will Obs

1552 Lavender Serm. & Rem. (1845) 80 We cannot do so here in England, for our indifferency is taken away by a law a 1617 Bayne On Eph. (1658) 144 The indifferency of the inclination in exercise is bound by Gods decree 1655 J. Smith Sel. Disc. VII. ii. (1821) 316 Upon Adam's first transgression that grand liberty of indifferency equally to good or evil began first to discover itself 1690 Locke Hum. Und. II. xxi. § 71 The operative Powers remaining equally able to operate, or to forbear operating after, as before the Decree of the Will was in a State, which, if one pleases, may be call'd Indifferency 1699 Burnet 39 Art x. (1700) 117 This Indifferency to do or not to do, cannot be the true Notion of Liberty

4 Of a word Capability of being applied to different things, neutral or equivocal sense, ambiguity Now rare or Obs

1596 Hall Sat. Papers III. xii. 497 To make advantage of the indifferency of the word 1640 Fuller Holy State, Church. Conf. I. Cor. xi. 28 (1867) 77 The seeming indifferency in the English tongue is necessitated in the Greek, ἀναξίως 1702 C. Mather Magn. Chr. IV. v. (1852) II. 380 The image seems to have been accommodated unto that indifferency of signification in the terms 1881 J. C. Dulan in Penn. Sch. Jrnl. XX. 88 Because of this indifferency, the term troll has here been used in its most popular sense

†5 Of a place Neutrality in point of advantage

a Absence of advantage for either of two opposing sides Obs

1603 Knolles Hist. Turks (1621) 502 The Rhodians accounted the Turks as good as vanquished, for that they being so many in number, and in a place of such indifferency, but not yet vanquished 1642 Rogers Naaman 84 The Christians fought at great disadvantage, both for the number of men, and indifferency of the place

b Equal opportunity for all parties concerned a 1645 Habington Surv. Worc. in Procr. Worc. Hist. Soc. II. 193 An Officer of Armes was joyned in commission to consyder the safety and indifferency of theyre place of meetinge

†6 The condition of being neither good nor bad, pleasant nor unpleasant Obs.

1690 Locke Hum. Und. II. xxi. § 69 'Tis a mistake to think, that men cannot change the Disagreeableness or Indifferency that is in Actions into Pleasure and Desire 1692 — Educ. 75 I though before it were a Thing of Delight or Indifferency

II Of two or more things, in their relation to each other or to a person, etc

7 Want of difference in nature or character, substantial equality or equivalence Now rare.

1598 Grafton Chron. II. 131 For indifferency and equalitie of both [buyer and seller] was ordeyned that [etc.] 1672 Sir J. Brownle Let. Friend § 7 The more have perished by violent deaths in the day, yet in natural dissolutions both times may hold an indifferency, at least but contingent inequality 1809-10 Coleridge Friend (1865) 27 If the assertor of the indifferency of truth and falsehood in their own nature, be unwilling to justify his position 1841-4 Emerson Ess. Ser. I. x. (1876) 251 You have arrived at a fine Pyrrhonism, at an equivalence and indifferency of all actions

8 Absence of difference in respect of consequence, effect, significance, or importance, the fact of its making no difference, or of being of no consequence or importance either way

1564 Brief Exam. 71 If the indifference of these orders hange vpon the vse then we must loke wherevnto they are ordeyned 1594 Hooker Eccl. Pol. II. iv. § 4 The choice is left to our owne discretion, especially where there is some higher dutie remoue the indifferencie that such things haue in themselues 1632 Lud. Sp. Stat. Chamb. 14 June 54 The Indifferency of the wearing of the Holy Table either way 1692 Wagstaffe Vind. Calvin. xiii. 88 Ceremonies how in different soever they are in themselves, when they are once commanded, the indifferency ceases 1888 J. Morley Rousseau II. cxviii. 331, I still believe in the indifferency of customs, so long as they do not make void the Divine word

b esp. in phrase of indifferency, that is indifferent unessential, immaterial, unimportant

1560 Becon New Catech. Wks. 184a II. 300 So far is it off that these mutual vestures be now things of indifferency 1579 Fulke Refut. Rastell 781 It is a matter of meere indifferency 1590 Bulwer Anthropomet. 36 Haire long or short, thick or thin, more or lesse, is a matter of indifferency a 1673 T. Horton in Spurgeon Treas. Dav. Ps. lxxii. 6 As a place of indifferency, that is, there as well as anywhere besides. 1708 S. Hayward Serm. iv. 124 It is not a mere matter of speculation, and therefore not a point of indifferency 1863 J. Brown Horæ Subs. (ed. 3) 127 Religion was no matter of indifferency to him

†0 A matter of indifference ; a non-essential 1643 Sir T Browne Relig Med i. 5, I would not parsh upon a Ceremony, Politick points or indifferency 1668 H More Div Dial i xvi (1713) 36 If it be an Imperfection, it is to be removed If an Indifferency, it is indifferent whether you remove it or not.

Indifferent (indi fĕrĕnt), a ¹ (sb and adv) Also 5–6 -deferent, -dyfferent [a F indifferent (13th c in Littré), or ad indifferent-ens not differing, making no difference, of medium quality, of no consequence, not particular, careless, f in (IN-³) + different ens DIFFERENT]

I Of a person or thing, in relation to two or more objects, courses, etc

1 Without difference of inclination, not inclined to prefer one person or thing to another, unbiased, impartial, disinterested, neutral, fair, just, even, even-handed. Const to, unto (†for) arch a. Of persons esp indifferent judge, critic, reader 1387–8 T Usk Test Love i vii (Skeat) I 34 Indifferent folk wil say 'ye, who is trewe, who is fals, hum selfe knowegeth the thinges' 1413 Pilgr Soule (Caxton) I ii (1859) 4 Thou assignest a juge that is nought indifferent, but frend to your party. 1465 Paston Lett No 549 II 38 He schulde be indeferent for bothe partyes according to the lawe 1508 Arnolde Chron (1811) 124 And nether wyll deliuer the sayde goodis to me or to ony other in different man 1543 Udall Erasm Apoph 20 The stewarde is bounde by lawe and conscyence to be an indyfferent iudge betwene the lorde and his tenauntes a 1568 Ascham Scholem (Arb) 133 Irewly, D Medicalle was parciall to none but indifferent to all 1594 Weir Hist Symbol I 22 Two things seeme necessarie namely that the arbitrators be sufficient, and indifferent 1618 Raleigh Apol 21, I leve to all worthy and indifferent men to judge 1745 De Foe's Eng Tradesman (1841) II xxxix 121 A man who means honestly, is never afraid to refer all differences to the next unbiassed and indifferent man he meets 1814 Southey Espriella's Lett I Post Wks IV 422 He the indifferent Judge of all, regards Nations, and Rites, and dialects alike 1844 D Brougham Brit Const xvii (1860) 260 They dare not go before an impartial judge and indifferent jury

b Of a thing, action, etc ; esp indifferent justice, impartial or even-handed justice 1494 Fabyan Chron vi clxiv 157 Guyding it with all soberesse and indifferent iustyce 1570–6 Lambarde Peramb Kent (1826) p viij, I the indifferent and discreet-course ye keepe in handling and compounding such controuersies. 1618 Davies Why Ireland was Subdued (1787) 213 There is no nation that doth love equal and indifferent justice better than the Irish 1690 Child Pos. Trade (1694) 4 Their excuse, which is certainly the most equal and indifferent tax in the world 1721 St German's Doctor & Stud 312 Methinketh that the law is not very good and indifferent 1882 Farrar Early Chr II 34 It even stands as a description of St James on the indifferent page of the New Testament.

2 Not inclined to one thing or course more than to another, having no inclination or feeling for or against a thing, hence, Without interest or feeling in regard to something, unconcerned, unmoved, careless, apathetic, insensible Const to 1529 Interl Four Elem in Hazl Dodsley I 389 By my truth, I care not greatly, I am indifferent to all company, Whether it be here or there 1549 More Dyalogs i Wks 165/1 Wolde ye be then indifferent to take the one style or the other? 1590 Shaks Ham v. i 74 B Edp Doth his Maiestie thinke to it, or no? B Cand He seems indifferent 1645 Stone Say Diary (1856) 145 I hope I should stand indifferent the way they went, so they followed their General 1702 Farquhar Inconstant ii iii, Madam, you appear very indifferent to me to what you were to-day 1752 Warburton Shak (1809) 256, I am very indifferent of obligations from that quarter 1814 Scott Waverley xviii, These mighty cliffs, that have on high Time's naked brow been seen Indifferent to the sun or snow 1836 J H Newman Par Serm (1837) III iii. 41 He was indifferent, and cared for none of these things 1849 C Bronte Shirley xxi, When people are long indifferent to us, we grow indifferent to their indifference 1868 Freeman Norm Conq (1876) II x 504 Not merely indifferent or unfriendly to his cause, but avowedly and bitterly hostile

†3 Undetermined in regard to impressions, actions, etc , of neutral disposition, equally apt, disposed, or indisposed to Obs
1538 Starkey England i ii 28 The mynd of man fyrst of hys selfe ys as a clear and pure thyng apt and indyfferent to receyue al maner of pyctures and image 1548–77 Vicars Anat iv (1888) 33 Why he [the brain] is moyst, is, that it should be the more indifferenter and abler to euery thing that shoulde be gotten into him 1660 Stillingfl. Orig Sac III iii § 7 He said of such a nature as was indifferent to good or evil 1690 Locke Hum Und II xxi (1694) 141 A man is at liberty to lift up his Hand to his Head, or let it rest quiet He is perfectly indifferent to either

†4 Having a neutral relation to (two or more things), impartially pertinent or applicable Obs
1539 More Dyalogs i Wks 185/1 I here might be saide, that it nedeth not to assigne any place, wher the very churche & true christen congregacion is But with euery place is indifferent ther vnto [etc.] 1553 Ferrer Cast Helthe (1539) 36 a, The latyn worde Cereuisia, is indifferent as welle to ale as to beere 1580 Lyly Euphues (Arb) 371 To hue and to loue well is incident to few, but indifferent to all 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I iii 124 A certain infinite materia prima, which was neither air, nor water, nor fire, but indifferent to every thing

†b. Of a word Of neutral signification or application, hence, Equivocal, ambiguous, of either gender, common. Obs
a 1533 Frith Disput Purgat (1829) 167 Albeit the word of itself were indifferent in the Latin, yet it is not indifferent in the English 1584 R W Three Ladies Lond in Hazl Dodsley VI 399 You know that homo is indifferent 1622 Bacon Hen VII, 12 Chose rather a middle way and that under covert and indifferent words

†5 Not more advantageous to one person or party than to another 6 Of a place Neutral in situation, as respects position and accessibility 1532–8 Act 23 Hen VIII, c 2 Layles shoulde be edified in suche townes as shall be most indifferent for conuenience of peoples from either parte of the shire 1548 Hall Chron, Edw II 230 If your pleasure shalbe, to have the communication in any place, indifferent betwene both tharmies 1593 Jack Straw's in Hazl Dodsley V 405 If the king would anything with us, Tell him the way is indifferent to meet us 1655 Fuller Ch Hist II iii § 2 An indifferent Place, for mutual Essay, in mid way betwixt both

†b Of a contest Even, equal, undecided Obs
1611 Chapman Iliad xiii 9 He thought not any one of all the Deities, When his cause left th' indifferent field, would aid on either side 1618 Bolton Florus (1636) 6 The same beasts which carried away the first day cleere, and made the second indifferent, gave away the third past controuerse

†6 Having a neutral quality between excess and defect, not extreme, of medium quality or character Obs 1542 Fitzherb Surv (1539) 60 The mose indifferenteste mu[n]te make 1579 Lyly Euphues (Arb) 144 The mind with indifferent labour is more perfect, with much labour and study it is made fruitlesse 1614 Markham Cheap Husb II ii (1668) 96 Make not your career too long . . or too short but competent and indifferent 1699 Dampier Voy II iii 33 Where there blows a moderate and indifferent Gale between both extreams.

†b Of medium or moderate extent, size, etc , fairly, tolerable Obs or arch
1546 Yorksh Chantry Surv (Surtees) 282 Of good conuer vacion and qualities and indifferent lerenyg 1580 Lyly Euphues (Arb) 428 Of indifferent stature, but framed in his family, expecting vi[i]l things necessary, nothing superfluous 1601 R Johnson Kingd & Commun (1603) 77 If sheepe they have in some places indifferent store 1697 Dampier Voy I 96 Two little Islands, each about ¾ mile round, of an indifferent height 1707 Curious in Husb & Gard 232, I dissolved an ounce of Salt-peter compos'd of mish Mercury, of an indifferent Quantity of Sulphur, and a little less of fixt Salt

7 Not definitely possessing either of two opposite qualities, esp (in current use), Neither good nor bad, of middling quality 1532 More Confut Tindale Wks 367/1 Those thynges whiche he taketh for indifferent, that is to wit of their nature neither good nor euyl 1568 Hilney Dia. Marriage B, I left him this indifferent answere, that I was neyther his foule, nor fayre, but lovely browne 1613 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 369 The Chaldeans in the seuen Planets making two good, two bad, three indifferent Ibid Such the Earth diuersified in aspiring Hills lowly Vales, equall and indifferent Plaines. 1700 Pag Oppressed 8 We are to look upon a middle sort of things, neither good nor bad, but to be but according to our management 1821 Black Mag VIII 668 Bards and bardings, good, bad, and indifferent

b Hence, by euphemism Not particularly good, poor, inferior, rather bad (Frequently preceded by but or very) 1638 Junius Paint Ancients 66 The favourable mentions of them that praise and extoll every indifferent worke 1647 Charmdon Hist Reb xi 86 After an ill supper, he was shewed an indifferent bed 1733 Burnet Own Time (1766) I 246 The English interest was managed chiefly by two men of a very indifferent reputation 1796 Jane Austen Sense & Sens xxxvi 259 Her indifferent state of health unhappily prevented her being in town 1824 Scott St Ronan's xiv Meg . . sipped again, then tried to eat a bit of bread and butter, with very indifferent success 1878 H H Dombey Dombey 13 It is generally more advisable to pass than to play with an indifferent hand

†c In poor health, ailing, poorly Obs or dial
1753 Mrs Delany Autobiog (1861) III 244 [she] is but very indifferent, but really looks as pretty as ever 1779 Miss Weddle Let in Wilkes Corr (1805) IV 295, I saw her last night, when she was not indifferent well 1805 Forsyth of breath 1803 Nelson in Nicolas Disp (1845) V 455, I have been but very indifferent but I am much recovered 1816 Jane Austen Lett (1884) I 321 Mary is recovering, to ride to Speen Hill to-morrow to see the Mrs Hulberts, who are both very indifferent 1828 Craven Dial xx If I cannot be what I would, I'm sure I'm always indifferent, thank ye', then I conclude that she is in tolerably good health But if he tells me that 'she is very indifferent', I am assured she is very ill 1876 Whitby Gloss s v, Very indifferent, ailing.

8 In scientific use a Neutral in chemical, electrical, or magnetic quality, as indifferent point b Undifferentiated not specialized, as indifferent cell, tissue, etc
1865 Maudsley Physiol Mind 1 Indifference term applied to compound bodies which do not exercise electro-chemical reactions and which do not combine with other bodies in different 1870 Huxley Physiol xii 272 The material of the body when in this stage of growth is often spoken of as indifferent tissue 1873 J H Green Introd Lathol (ed 2) 103 These cells, which are usually known as indifferent cells, possess no limiting membrane, but consist of little masses of protoplasm which are almost in close contact with one another 1876 Sydney Soc Lex, Indifferent gases, gases which when breathed exercise no irritation or other unpleasant effect, but in the absence of oxygen are incapable of sustaining life Ibid, Indifferent point, the point of the intrapolar region of an electronised nerve which lies between the anelectrotonic and the catelectrotonic areas 1890 Nature, 11 Sept, The mode of renewal of the nails of the epidermis generally is a good example, each cell commencing its existence in an indifferent form in the deeper layers of the epidermis and gradually acquiring the adult peculiarities as it approaches the surface 1896 Allbutt's Syst Med I 760 Place the indifferent electrode in a suitable position on the patient

II Of two or more things, a thing and its contrary, etc , in relation to each other, to a person, etc , and in senses thence arising

†9 Not different in character, quality, effect, incidence, etc , equal, even identical, the same Obs
1547 Boorde Introit Knowl xxxv (1870) 290 Latyn worde is more indifferent vnto vs 1548 Hall Chron 1 Whose name and worde is indifferent 1618 Bolton Florus (1636) 6 The same beasts which carried away the first day cleere, and made the second indifferent, gave away the third past controuerse

†10 Not differing in estimation or felt importance, regarded as not mattering either way To be indifferent to, to make no difference to, to be all the same to

(The converse of sense 2 we are subjectively indifferent to things which are objectively indifferent to us.)
1513 More in Grafton Chron (1568) II 748 Friend and foe was much what indifferent unto him Where his advantage grew, he spared no manner death 1602 Shaks Twel C II iii 171 Sir Andrew, Andrew, things that we are indifferent 1688 Dryden Medal Ep Whigs In indifferent to your humble servant, whatever your party says or thinks of him 1704 A Collins Gr Orr Relig 1 9 It was indifferent to him whether you said Moses was the author of the Pentateuch, or Esdras re-established it 1743 Johnson Let to Cave Ang in Boswell, I would have it thought so wholly indifferent to me 1768 Boman of Honor I 147 In quality of brother to Lady Harriet he commands and obtains her utmost respect; but in that character she is indifferent it is not that man on earth that is more indifferent to her 1885 J Martineau Types Eth Th II 71 The sentiments of others are indifferent to human beings

b Of no consequence or matter either way , unimportant, immaterial 1612 Bible Esther xxvii 1 Many have sinned for a small matter [margin Hebr nothing indifferent] 1704 Hearne Duct Hist (1714) I 18 As the differences we speak of are not essential in points of Faith the Apostles and Fathers might fairly enough neglect these indifferent Disputes. 1788 Priestley Lect Hist in Mir 118 The real time of Christ's birth can no more affect the proper use of this system than that of any other indifferent event 1876 Gould Bar Mar Curious 91, What she herself held in tenderness and reverence had constantly seemed indifferent to Gwendolen 1885 Tyrrel Sc July 4 It is perfectly indifferent to which race the father or the mother belongs

c spec Of an observance or ceremony That may equally well be done or not done, observed or neglected, etc , non-essential 1563 Bishop Rem (Parker Soc) 19 In the use of it shall be indifferent to eat flesh or fish 1576 Abi Sandys Serm (Parker Soc) 189 Neither would they so vnchariteably have judged their brethren in things indifferent 1689 Locke Toleration 1 Wks 1727 II 244 Things in their own Nature indifferent cannot by any human Authority, be made any Part of the Worship of God 1789 Stanhope Paraphr II 127 By Indifferent are only meant such as might be either done or omitted, without any thing essential 1844 Kitto Cyc XII, this rule holds of things indifferent in themselves.

III 11 Comb, as indifferent-looking (senses 2, 7), -minded (sense 1) adjs 1620 Rider Eng Plantat Plymouth in Arber Story Prior Letters (1897) 503 I was very indifferent minded man should be able to say with father Abraham, Take thou, the right hand and I will take the left 1838 Dickens Nich Nick xxiii, If she was to turn out indifferent looking, I should be so much the more her friend 1894 H Nisbet Bush-craft Lore 70 She was struggling to be calm and indifferent looking with a great horror chilling her young heart

B sb

†1 One who is impartial or disinterested Obs
1570 Pedet e Pont (1841) 17 For of the hyndes or of the pay-sauntie I leave it to indifferentis 1602 Rider Interpret Controu (Camden) II 6 He would have some indifferent joined with them

2 One who is neutral or unconcerned, esp in religion or politics , a neutral , an apathetic person †Hence, as a quasi proper name, John Indifferent
1556 J Heywood Spider & F xxii Both the Jhesu in differentes for neuters That put most take Their strongest by, or stronger like to be 1589 R Harvey Ploughm Wks I 14 I use indifferency, call me not John Indifferent 1624 Sutcliffe Lett & Speech 4 Let the indifferent be forced to bear of that Commodity, being for all the rest John Indifferent 1633 G Herbert Temple Method v, Should Gods care To such indifferents chained be Who do not their own motions heare? 1703 Secr Policy Jansenists 110 Why then did not the pretended Indifferents side with the Clergy, the King, the Pope, the whole Church to defend the Faith? 1724 Fond Mod 614 Indifferents and Atheists are equally abhorrent to our Constitution 1850 Hackney Expound iii x The indifferents might be counted on to cry King George or King James, according as either should prevail. 1894 Westm Gaz 20 Nov 1 It is the indifferents, the shakers, the wavers, and the wobblers who decide elections

3 pl Things indifferent (see A 10), non-essentials rare
1626 Sclater Exp 2 Thess (1629) 256 Vaine janglings about indifferents 1647 Ward Simp Cobler (1843) 5 To tolerate more than indifferents, is not to deal indifferently with God 1696 F H Bradley Eth Stud Note to Pas v 191 Now, where there are no indifferents and no choice between them, rights are never wider than duties

†C adv = INDIFFERENTLY adv 5 Obs
(A corpse common c 1600 Sp)
1583 HOLLYBAND Campo de Flor 117 Me thinkes I understand indifferent well 1601 HOLLAND Livy II 497 Indifferent good workemen but nothing comparable to the other before named 1608 SHAKS. Hamm III i 1–3, I am my selfe indifferent honest 1680 MARKHAM Farew. Husb II xv (1668) 68 I say upon the Hallows some indifferent brave piece of wood 1707 CHAMBERLAYNE St. Gt. Brit I ii 21 The Air is cold, the Soil indifferent fruitful 1748 † SMITH Hist. Disc. I 20 An indifferent high Land to N but to the S it falleth away very low 1824 SCOTT St. Ronan's III, He was supposed to make an indifferent good thing of it 1826—Woodst v, You have seen me act my part indifferent well

†Indi fferent, a[2] Obs rare [app f IN-[2], but perh erroneous of INDIFFERENCE] Different 1533 DOUGLAS Eneis V xii 179 Thair spirs was nocht indifferent [L. ne multum discrepat etas] 1549 Compl Scot xiii 107 There maners and conditions ar so indefferent vn to the vntyme of scheip and x dus 1644 DIGBY Var bodies (1645) 162 This [Neptun Insulanus] is an indifferent body from all the rest that are in the Image

Indifference ntial, a and sb rare [IN-[1] + adj Characterized by indifference. b sb A thing indifferent see INDIFFERENT 10 c), a non-essential 1818 COLERIDGE in Lit Remr (1836) III 172 Driving into wilderness their Christian brethren for admitted indifferentials 1856 G. S. FABER Election (1840) 52 Some it tells us, are neither elected nor reprobated and the indifferential individuals neither may, or may not, be saved

Indiffero ntialist, a and sb rare [IN-[1] + adj Characterized by indifference. b sb A thing indifferent see INDIFFERENT 10 c), a non-essentialist 1878 BELL Geschauer's Comp Hist 109 This the cellular layer of the ectoderm, in the Hydroid Polyps, is as yet an indifferential one, or undifferentiated

Indifferntism (indi fferntiz'm) [f INDIFFERENT a + -ISM cf F indifférentisme (Littré)]
1 A spirit of indifference professed and practised 1831 CARLYLE Sart Res II iv, Often, notwithstanding was I blamed for my so-called Hardness, my Indifferentism towards men 1877 BLACK Green Past I, There we others who have educated themselves into a woeful indifferentism or cynicism 1879 HOOLEY Frontzpk Addr 25 Of a fatal cast of accent of jaded indifferentism, just touched with philosophic spleen 1890 HUTCHINSON Col Reformers (1891) 6 These people either did not know or with the absurd indifferentism of Englishmen did not care
b esp The principle that differences of religious belief are of no importance, adiaphorism, absence of zeal or interest in religious matters 1827 SIR Tet in Pusey Hist Enq (1828) I p xix It originated with men very far removed from indifferentism 1848 WISEMAN Fabiola 89 Instantly to promote Christian charity converted into indifferentism 1850 MILMAN Hist Chr III 381 The public acts of Constantine, show how the lofty eclectic indifferentism of the Emperor gave place to the progressive influence of Christianity 1843 F. D. HARE in Trial of R. Baronius 7 R. Bays (1850) I 17 He has a certain latitudinarianism (not indifferentism in his life, and affections 1856 R. A. VAUGHAN Mystics (1860) I 53 The signs of a growing toleration or indifferentism meet him on every side
2 Philosph (see quot)
1866 MANSEL in Contemp Rev I 53 Hence arises a third form of philosophy which, for want of a better name, we will call Indifferentism, in which a system in which the characteristic differences of mind and matter are supposed to disappear, being merged in something higher than both 3 Biol = ITEM originally applied to the condition of the sexual glands at the time of development, when parts of them are common to both sexes' (Syd Soc Lex 1886)
Indi fferntist. [f as prec + IST, cf F indifférentiste (Littré)] One who professes or practises indifference, neutrality, or unconcern
Also attrib & in religious matters 1697 SOUTHEY Espriella's Lett II 158 Into this party all the indifferentists from other sects naturally fall 1823 W. TAYLOR in Monthly Mag XXXVI 232 It was after the expulsion of the Moors that the Spaniards became indifferentists 1853 CONYBEARE Ess., Ch Parties (1856) 155 Arnold was no indifferentist and his followers have been no Epicureans 1874 ROSSETTI Mem Shelley II xxxiii He was in so many other people are a religious indifferentist who acquiesced in what he found established 1884 Athenæum 4 Oct 444/1 Those Japanese who pretend to my education are almost universally indifferentist agnostics
b In politics
1817 BENTHAM Parl Ref Catech Introd 169 Corruption eaters, and corruption hunters, and blind custom led men, and indifferentists 1879 M. PATTISON Milton 194 These political phases were not the acquiescence of a placeman, or indifferentist, in mutations for which he does not care 1890 G. GISSING Emmeline I 55 Madeline was an indifferentist in politics and on social questions

c generally
1866 ALGER Anal Nat & Mor iv 34, It is obvious that he was never a misanthrope or an indifferentist, but painfully concerned about his fellow men

Indifferently (indi fferntli), adv [f INDIFFERENT a + -LY[2], but in earliest use directly based on L indifferenter or F indifféremment] In an indifferent manner, with indifference
1 Without difference or distinction, equally, alike, indiscriminately
c 1374 CHAUCER Boeth v pr iii 122 (Camb MS) So but he wite equly as who seyth indifferently, but thinges nowen ben doon or elles nat yshoon 1400 Apol Lollt 30 Ilk prest of Crist was called indifferently, prest and bischop 1540 COVERDALE etc Fasson Poor Gal 12 What lette should there be, why God shoulde not indifferently compute all for like children 1600 HOLLAND Livy II xxxiii 566 He sawe how glad Menenius Agrippa, a man beloved indifferently [F partes] of the Senatours and the Commons 1709 STEELE Tatler No 57 P 2 All Mankind are indifferently liable to adverse Strokes of Fortune 1756 BURKE Subl & B. II, They frequently use the same word, to signify indifferently the mode of sufficient or alternative and those of terrour 1880 GEIKIE Phys Geog xi 265 At first we might expect to meet with lakes indifferently on any part of the earth's surface †b In a position equally convenient as to distance for all parties Obs 1655 FULLER Ch Hist v ii § 44 187 A Court is called in the Priory of Dunstable in Bedford shire, as a favourable place, indifferently situated †2 Without bias or prejudice, impartially Obs
1430-40 LYDG Bochas v xxx (1554) 141 Indifferently his demes determyning Such one is able to be deeped a Lyar 1531-2 Act 23 Hen VIII, c 5 § 5 You shall trewly and indifferently execute the auctoritie to you geuen 1548 9 (Mar) Acts Privy Council I 200 Thaye [sc. That they] maye truely and indifferently minister iustice 1617 SIR R. BOYLE Diary (1886) 165 So many marcs as shalbe valued at Will[ia]m Hamond's death shalbe chose by us both indifferently 1633 WENMAN Hist (1872) I 53, I was determined to behave indifferently to all rich or poor, friends or enemies 1844 J. TO[MKINS] Inst Brit Const xiv 2 (1852) 251 Twelve men indifferently chosen, and of a station near his own 3 With indifference or unconcern, calmly, unconcernedly, carelessly 1572-86 BOYD Zoil I 1,2 But if he shall understand that you take the matter indifferently or quietly [L æque animo] 1601 SHAKS. Twel I ii 87 Set Honor in one eye, and Death i' th' other, And I will look on both indifferently 1665 PEPYS Diary 10 Jan, I answered him (Penn) so indifferently that I think he and I shall be as a distance 1747 Cantl Mag (1748) 1 But Louis sat indifferently as a view, true to no king, to no religion true 1848 C. BRONTË Jane Eyre I, I have not considered the subject, said he indifferently, but straight to the point
†4 Without determination either way, neutrally 1609 SHAKS Cor II iii 19 If he did not care whether he had (or no) his love answered indifferently I were doing them wrong 1618 BOLTON Florus (1636) 6 Scipio Nasica (1770) I 53 Whether they be our Friends or our Enemies, or indifferently affected towards us
5 In some extent, in some degree (as intermediate between very or very much and not at all), moderately, tolerably, fairly, esp indifferently well pretty well (Cf INDIFFERENT adv) Now rare
c 1540 Tol Verse Lng Hist (Camden) I 28 That words may be indifferently perceyved by the eare 1578 BANISTER Hist Man I 19 A certayne round and long Processe, indifferently thicke 1599 SHAKS Hen V, III i 15, I am indifferent hungry 1758 JOHNSON Idler No 91 P 1 To tell a rich Man of the Indigence of a Kinsman of his 1791 BURKE Appl Writ II 294 Wks 1842 I 495 As they had before been reduced from affluence to indigence 1884 J. RAY Contemp Socialism 414 To have no shoes is a mark of extreme indigence to-day
b personified
c 1440 LYDG Story Thebes I in Chaucer's Wks (1561) 96a/1 Treason, Pouert, Indigence and Neede can creat death, by me prest 1598 SYLVESTER Du Bartas II xvii, Despite, the usual retreat of indigence and frugality 1858-60 CARLYLE Frederk Gt XI i IV 7 Under this King Indigence itself may still have something of a human aspect †3 An instance of want, a want, a need Obs
c 1416 HOCCLEVE Min Poems (1892) 62 Let pur hy worthynesse Oure indigences soffne & shade 1492 CAXTON Ryal Advr (W de W 1493) 38b/2 She endured not only grete indigences, But also many rebukes and shames
1664-94 SOUTH Twelve Serm II 114 We lay before them our Wants and Indigences, and the misery of our Condition
†Indigency (i ndidgensi) Obs [ad L indigentia see prec and -ENCY] The quality or condition of being indigent
1 Want, deficiency, need, = INDIGENCE 1 a 1619 FOUNTAINE Memoirs v 8 § 4 (1657) 178 The chiefest tye, and bond of all humane society, is neither reason, nor speech, nor indigency, but religion and piety c 1624 LUSH in Rem Recusnt Serm in Phœnix (1708) II 491 Man ceaseth to be Man, if we conceive him All sufficient, God only is so Mans Being and his Good is Indigency and Want 1714 FONTENELLE ALAND Dyal de Fontenelle's Ids & Jam Men 12 In the Infancy of the State and Indigency of Laws
2 spec Want of the means of subsistence, = INDIGENCE 2
1631 WEEVER Anc Fun Mon 255 Great want and indigency 1684 T. BURNET Th Earth I 183 Where there is indigency, there is sollicitude, and distraction, and uneasy ness and fear 1692 BENTLEY Boyle Lect 58 That the common heathens had such mean apprehensions about the indigency of their gods, it appears plainly from Aristophanes's Plutus, and the Dialogues of Lucian
3. with pl A want, a need, = INDIGENCE 3
1652 J. ROGERS Chr Sinly vii (1658) 90 Ready to supply their indigencies, to pardon their infirmities 1713 DERHAM Phys Theol v 435 All which various Methods being so nicely accommodated to the Indigencies of those helpless Vegetables. 1721 R. KEITH tr A Kempis' Vall Lillies 53 Who is there that is found like to the' poor (Jesus) as to all his Indigencies? Verily none
Indigene (i ndidgēn), a and sb Also 7-gin(e, 7-9-gen [a F indigène (Rabelais, 16th c), ad L indigena native, lit 'in born' person, f indi- (endo-) ancient deriv form of in prep + gen- stem of gignĕre, in passive 'to be born']

1785 H. BOURNE in Sprnt Pub Jrnls (1805) 390 It appears to me to be an indigenal Custom of our own 1800 Sporting Mag XX 170 The indigenal British cattle are still extant 1827 MRS. SHELLEY II 142 Bright auburn hair and eyes, that seem indigenal to, or hereditary in, the fair Venetians
B sb A native, = INDIGENE sb
1790 BLAIR in Phil Trans XXXI 35, I have not inserted any Plant but such as are undoubtedly indigenes in Britain †Indi genary, a Obs [f L indigen a native + ARY] Native, = INDIGENOUS 1651 BIGGS New Dog 288 The indigenary ferment in the stomach 1653 UPHAM Waking II vi 93 The peculiar origin of my paves and staves was indigenary of the Lem ovick regions [F imagine des régions Limousines]
†Indi genate, sb Obs [a F indigénat, ad L type indigenātus*, f indigena native see -ATE[1]] The position or status of a native
1766 tr Buchoz's Syst Geog IV 238 It was formerly customary that the person who was desirous of obtaining the right of indigenate, or that of naturalization, should previously pay a certain sum of matriculation or enrollment 1786 MORSE Amer Geog II 17 The law of indigenate, which excludes foreigners, not naturalized, from holding any employment of trust or profit †Indi genate, a Obs rare [app f L indigena + -ATE[2]] Of native origin 1775 PLANTA in Phil Trans LXVI 139 The domains granted out by them to different indigenate families
Indigence (i ndidgens) Also 5-6 indygence, 6 indigens, (7 indygens) [a F indigence (13th c in Littré), ad L indigentia, f indigēnt-em IN DIGENT see -ENCE]
†1 The fact or condition of wanting or needing (a thing), want or need of something requisite, lack, deficiency, need, requirement
c 1375 Sc Leg Saints, Jacobitane 319 Grant syne to myn Indigens be professione & silence 1413 Pilgr Sowle (Caxton) I vii, By indigence of goodes by right shulde he ben punyshed 1424 Chesters Rl (Shirley Soc) II 223 And hastyes alle shal Nouthir ete nor drynke for noun kynd sconce 1513 DOUGLAS Æneis Prol 72 Thereto perfyte, but onyindigence a 1628 PRESTON New Cont (1634) 25 Mutual indigence kinits men together, when they have need one of another 1678 CALE Cit Comitat iii 165 Working by a particular conscience suitable to the indigence of the matter it workes on 1775 HARRIS Philos Arrangem Wks (1841) 316 I very subordinate being is subject to wants, (indigence and imperfection being essential to its constitution) 2 spec Want of the means of subsistence, straitened circumstances, poverty, penury, destitution c 1386 CHAUCER Man of Lawe's T 6 Thou most for Indigence Or stele, or begge, or borwe thy dispence 1444 Pol Poems (Rolls) II 227 As unnedy persons by bolde residence Among ther parysshens, make a departysoun Of ther treasures to folk in indigence 1555 ABP PARKER Ps XXXIV 86 God seeth the just in prosperyte, He them succoureth in indigence 1603 HOLLAND Plutarch's Mor 1221 This other heere doth not abandon povertie, nor riseth out the hereditary indigence of his father and Mother 1728 SAVILE Spect No. 276 P 1 To tell a rich Man of the Indigence of a Kinsman of his 1791 BURKE Appl Writ II 294 Wks 1842 I 495 As they had before been reduced from affluence to indigence 1884 J. RAY Contemp Socialism 414 To have no shoes is a mark of extreme indigence to-day
b personified
c 1440 LYDG Story Thebes I in Chaucer's Wks (1561) 96a/1 Treason, Pouert, Indigence and Neede can creat death, by me prest 1598 SYLVESTER Du Bartas II xvii, Despite, the usual retreat of indigence and frugality 1858-60 CARLYLE Frederk Gt XI i IV 7 Under this King Indigence itself may still have something of a human aspect
†3 An instance of want, a want, a need Obs
c 1416 HOCCLEVE Min Poems (1892) 62 Let pur hy worthynesse Oure indigences soffne & shade 1492 CAXTON Ryal Advr (W de W 1493) 38b/2 She endured not only grete indigences, But also many rebukes and shames
1664-94 SOUTH Twelve Serm II 114 We lay before them our Wants and Indigences, and the misery of our Condition
†Indigency (i ndidgensi) Obs [ad L indigentia see prec and -ENCY] The quality or condition of being indigent
1 Want, deficiency, need, = INDIGENCE 1
a 1619 FOUNTAINE Memoirs v 8 § 4 (1657) 178 The chiefest tye, and bond of all humane society, is neither reason, nor speech, nor indigency, but religion and piety c 1624 LUSH in Rem Recusnt Serm in Phœnix (1708) II 491 Man ceaseth to be Man, if we conceive him All sufficient, God only is so Mans Being and his Good is Indigency and Want 1714 FONTENELLE ALAND Dyal de Fontenelle's Ids & Jam Men 12 In the Infancy of the State and Indigency of Laws
2 spec Want of the means of subsistence, = INDIGENCE 2
1631 WEEVER Anc Fun Mon 255 Great want and indigency 1684 T. BURNET Th Earth I 183 Where there is indigency, there is sollicitude, and distraction, and uneasy ness and fear 1692 BENTLEY Boyle Lect 58 That the common heathens had such mean apprehensions about the indigency of their gods, it appears plainly from Aristophanes's Plutus, and the Dialogues of Lucian
3. with pl A want, a need, = INDIGENCE 3
1652 J. ROGERS Chr Sinly vii (1658) 90 Ready to supply their indigencies, to pardon their infirmities 1713 DERHAM Phys Theol v 435 All which various Methods being so nicely accommodated to the Indigencies of those helpless Vegetables. 1721 R. KEITH tr A Kempis' Vall Lillies 53 Who is there that is found like to the' poor (Jesus) as to all his Indigencies? Verily none
Indigene (i ndidgēn), a and sb Also 7-gin(e, 7-9-gen [a F indigène (Rabelais, 16th c), ad L indigena native, lit 'in born' person, f indi- (endo-) ancient deriv form of in prep + gen- stem of gignĕre, in passive 'to be born']

†A adj. NATIVE; = INDIGENOUS. Obs
1598 HAKLUYT Voy I 491 They were Indigene, or people bred vpon that very soyle 1675 EVELYN Terra (1729) 7 All sorts of Mould, foreign or indigen 1697 — Numismata 312 The Native, and truly Indigin and generally well shap'd

B sb A native
1664 EVELYN Sylva xxiv 62 The Alisternus throves with us in England, as if it were an Indigene and Natural 1679 Ibid (ed 3) xvi 68 The Birch [is] doubtless a proper Indigene of England 1807 G CHALMERS Caledonia I 114 The Scythe were indigenes of Scandinavia 1817 COLERIDGE Orton Times (1830) III 932 One of the true indigens of this planet 1899 Daily News 13 Apr 6/3 By they differ, moreover, to a large extent, from the indigenes 1870 H SPENCER Princ Sociol (1877) I 46 The Hill tribes of India, which are remnants of indigenes planted by the flood of Aryans

†Indige nital, a. Obs rare [f L indi- (see prec.) + genit us born + -AL after L indigena, genitus] Of indigenous character 1656 BLOUNT Glossogr. Indigenitall, born in the same Town or Country, natural 1674 JEAKE Arith (1696) 80 Greek Measures of capacity may be considered, as Indigenital Or, 9 LEOTAUD

Indige nity, rare [f I indigen us (adj. (see next) + -ITY] The quality of being indigenous, indigenousness 1805 Naturalist No 241 241 Many new species, but mostly of doubtful indigenity, have their line for the first time

Indigenous (indi dʒinəs), a [f late L indigen-us born in a country, native (f indigen a a native see INDIGENE) + -OUS]
1 Born or produced naturally in a land or region, native or belonging naturally to (the soil, region, etc.). (Used primarily of aboriginal inhabitants or natural products) 1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep VII v 335 Although then bee swarmes of Negroes now living under the Spaniard, yet were they all transported from Africa and are not indigenous or proper natives of America 1697 Phil Trans XIX 497 This Creature was formerly common with us in Ireland, and an Indigenous Animal universally met with in all parts of the Kingdom 1791 NEWTE Tour Lng & Scot 188 In different Highland glens where the indigenous sheep are supposed to remain unmixed 1794 S WILLIAMS Vermont 70 A plant indigenous only to China and Tartary 1837 WHEWELL Hist Inductive Sc (1857) I 272 They had been passionately fond of their indigenous poetry 1866 F HALL in Examiner 11 Apr 228/3 Compositions which studiously reject all words of Romance or other Saxonistic or indigenous 1881 WESTCOTT & HORT Gk N T Introd § 218 Hardly any indigenous Syriac theology older than the fourth century has been preserved 1885 ELIOT HEADLAM A Solomon's Mines Introd 5 The indigenous flora and fauna of Kukuanaland

b transf and fig. Inborn, innate, native a 1864 I TAYLOR (Webster), Joy and hope are emotions indigenous to the human mind 1885 J MARTINEAU Types Eth Th II 68 The more we appreciate the what obligations means, the more shall we see in the psychologically indigenous character of its conditions

2 Of, pertaining to, or intended for the natives, native', vernacular 1844 H H WILSON First Indus II 579 Most of the Missionary establishments attempted the formation of an Indigenous school in connexion with their indigenous schools

Hence Indi genously adv., in an indigenous manner, as a native growth Indigenousness, the quality of being indigenous or native
1846 GROTE Greece II iv II 403 The Achæans belonging indigenously to the Peloponnesus 1851 G HUTH Annus Mirabilis iv 183 The cotton plant grows indigenously 1894 Forum (U S) Mar 19 Progress is slow, population increasing but slightly, and that indigenously Ibid The plant is recorded from various localities in Scotland, but its indigenousness in the north is doubted

Indigent (i ndidʒənt), a (sb) Also 5 indygent(e, 6 indigente [= indigent, ad I indigent-em, pres pple of indige re to lack, want, f indi- (IN- 2) + egē re to want]
1 Lacking in what is requisite, falling short of the proper measure or standard, wanting, deficient arch (In quot 1596, said of the thing wanted) 1426 I YOU Dk Cast Pilgr 6388 He ys so feble & indygent That he knowith hym nothe[r] mayster ne lorde 1596 SHAKS Tam Shr I xxii, What they be done with suche moderation that nothing in the doinge may be sene superfluous or indigent they be mutuelly desyr 1611 DAVENANT Love's Mist Scot I 40 Quhat ane way abundes with ws, another way inlakes with vs, and is indigent 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I iv § 34 537 The Divided Parts of the World, taken severally, are but indigent and imperfect things, 1748 GRAY Odes, Spring ii, How low, how little are the Proud, How indigent the Great! 1841 EMERSON Addr., Meth Nature Wks (Bohn) II 222 Great men do not content us There is somewhat indigent and tedious about them.

b Destitute of, void of 1490 CAXTON Eneydos I The sayd troians myserable semed indygent of force 1538 STEWART Cron Scot II 630 Indigent Off meit and clathe, quhilk wes thair lyves fude 1606 BACON Sylva § 820 Such Bodies, as have the Tangible Parts Indigent of Moisture 1663 COWLEY Ess., Greatness (1684) 194 They abound with Slaves, but are indigent of Money 1788 T TAYLOR Proclus I 115 Such things as are indigent of matter degenerate from the perfection of their essence 1805 WORDSW Prelude iii 435 Nor indigent of songs warbled from crowds In under coverts

†c In need of, requiring the aid of. Obs
1589 PUTTENHAM Lngr Poesie I xii (Arb) 44 Misconceaving his diuine nature Namely to make him ambitious of honour and indigent of mans worships 1660 WILLESFORD Scales comm Decl Aqb, Indigent of Protectors for a Convoy 1708 STRYPE Funeral II (1734) 44 How do I see the Church now in morally indigent of Protectors! 1708 J PHILIPS Cyder II 81 Oh Albion indigent Of nothing from without

2 spec Lacking the necessaries of life, in needy circumstances, characterized by poverty, poor, needy Of persons, their condition, etc.
c 1400 Rom Rose 5695 An usurer Shal never for to hesse riche bee, But evermore pore and indigent 1440 HOCCLEVE Dial Pouse 21 (MS) Ryght indigent Of Prosperite 1598 Gold Trag 431/2 To al Indygente be opend the bosom of myserycorde 1535 Suppress Monast (Camden) 104 Re feashing of poore indigent persons. 1599 SHAKS Hen V, I i 16 Indigent faint Soules, past corporall toyle 1671 J WEBSTER Metallogr 118 The Miners being but people of the most indigent sort 1711 ADDISON Spect No 177 ¶ 4 That which goes under the general Name of Charity consists in relieving the Indigent 1760 FH WALTON Fortnes Lucid Trans (1786) III 240 A man of indigent circumstances 1766 J STRICK London IV 179 An almonry or almshouse for the reception of indigent children 1844 THIRLWALL Greece VIII 191 The indigent who could only expect relief through changes in the distribution of property 1874 GREEN Short Hist VII § 5 385 Each town and parish was held responsable for the relief of its indigent and disabled poor

fig. 1665 COWLEY Ess., Solitude (1684) 92 The society I the will grow indigent, and unable to starve without them [books] a 1721 PRIOR Dial Dead Wks (1858) 304 The utmost arduors of a penitential and indigent love

†B sb An indigent person, one poor and needy Obs
1503 WYNKYN Four Sons Aym Quad Wks 1888 I 115 Kirk lands, any dedicat to feble and wark indigentis 1530 CROME Apol viii (1726) 124 The author of it was a dispersate indigent that did it for bread 1747 HERVEY Medit., Winter Piece (1818) 369 The bitter winds plead for the poor indigents

Hence Indigently adv, in an indigent or destitute manner (Webster, 1846), Indigentness, indigency (Bailey vol II, 1727)

†Indi gerable, a. Obs rare[−1] [a obs F indigérable (a 1416 in Godef.), f IN- (1) + digérer to DIGEST see -ABLE] = INDIGESTIBLE
1599 T HILL Gatekeepers Ex Physicke 56 You must take especiall heede of all manner of curte and indigerable viandes

+Indige st, a (sb) Obs Also 5 6 ydge-de [ad I indigest-us unarranged, confused, not digested, f IN- (3) + digest us, pa pple of digerĕre to DIGEST Cf F indigeste (14th c in Hatz-Darm)] Undigested, crude, immature, shapeless, confused, unarranged (Often with reference to Ovid's Quem dixere chaos, rudis indigestaque moles, Met i 7) 1398 TREVISA Earth De P A xvii 1xxiv (Addit MS 27944) If 298/1 Fruyt is first grene and indigest but by vtter heete it is rype 1509 BARCLAY Ship of Fools (1570) 1 Of the indigeste soure humour, and dissoluteth it 1538 STARKEY Englande I i 154 Correccyon of corrupt and indigest humorys ys the best remedy 1579 LYLY Euphues (Arb) 67 Was it not the persons formamed heard weaping and as it were one indigest sound, as it war of prayers, in the which is contained nothing 1582 STANYHURST Æneis I (Arb) 11 (R) Me thinkes i troubled thought is thus expired, To be a chaos rude and indigest 1803 W TAYLOR in Ann Rev I 257 The mass is at present rude and indigest in most of its parts 1806 Ibid IV 884 The lump of indigest materials industriously provided by a man of letters for this purpose of drawing, etc.

fig. Of persons Immature, of crude or hasty character 1423 JAS I Kingis Q xiv Though feibly youth of nature Indigest Vnfurnist with wittis kindis variable 1513 DOUGLAS Æneis VI viii 94 A man not indigest, but wys and old

B sb A shapeless mass
1595 SHAKS John v ii 26 You are borne To set a forme vpon that indigest, Which he hath left so shapeless and so rude

Indige st, v (trivial) [f IN- 2 + DIGEST v after INDIGESTION] trans To fail to digest 1824 Sporting Mag XIV 80 Mem, 2 Mar, Which I swallowed for supper, and indigested for I don't know how long 1882 Three to Nor exp 30, One of those people who never indigest anything, but always look, and always are, in perfect health and spirits

B intr To fail to be digested 1853 SALA Capt Dangerous II ix 209 He breakfasted very heartily at Minced Veal, which he hoped would not indigest

Indigested (indidʒe stid) a [f INDIGEST a + -ED1, or f IN- + DIGESTED ppl a] Not digested, undigested
1 Not ordered or arranged, without form or arrangement of parts, shapeless, unformed, chaotic (Often in expressions echoing Ovid's description of chaos see INDIGEST a) 1593 SHAKS 3 Hen VI, v i 152 Hence he spe of wrath, foule indigested lumpe, As crooked in thy manners, as thy shape. 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 7 A rude and in digested Chaos, or confusion of matters 1677 HALE Prim Orig Man iv ii 295 The remaining indigested parts of Nature 1692 BENTLEY Boyle Lect viii 289 A rude and in digested lump of Atoms a 1794 GIBBON Misc Wks (1814) I 42–3 The only principle that darted a ray of light into the indigested chaos. 1884 CHURCH Bacon viii 193 Half his time was spent in collecting huge masses of indigested facts. fig. 1709 MRS MANLEY Secret Mem (1736) IV 175 Boys of the same Age appear crude, indigested, devoted only to Rudeness and Play

b Not ordered in the mind, not thought out, ill-considered 1587 ABP SANDYS Serm (Parker Soc) 448 Rude and indigested platforms tending not to the reformation, but to the destruction of the church of England 1667 EVELYN Mem (1857) III 169 I send you notwithstanding these in digested thoughts, and that attempt upon Cicero, which you enjoined me 1729 IN FOR Cruise I 9, The wild and undigested Notion of raising my Fortune 1748 RICHARDSON Clarissa (1811) II xliv 328 For these ye indigested self resolvings 1867 SWINBURNE Ess & Stud (1875) 177 This is not a fair or clear judgment it is indigested and violent and deformed in expression

2 That has not undergone digestion in the stomach 1600 VENNER Via Recta viii 186 Causing the meat to passe from the stomacke indigested 1702 Aristotle's Sec Secr 58 The Stomach cannot digest the Food, but it remains an indigested Nutriment 1822–34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) I 126 Morsels of indigested fruit

fig. 1888 GEO PRIOR Sp Gipsy iii 257 Repentance is the weight Of indigested meals taken yesterday

†b Suffering from indigestion Obs
1665 P HENRY Diary (1882) 141 Preacht in the afternoon indigested

†3 Not purified or rectified by heat, crude, raw 1624 WOTTON Archit in Kelny (1672) 7 That it [the air] be not indigested for want of Sun

†4 Not brought to suppuration ' (') Obs
1676 WISEMAN Surgery (1), His wound was indigested and inflamed

Hence Indige stedness, undigested condition 1682 BARRET Life Hale (1), They looked on the Common Law as a study that could not be formed into a rational science by reason of the indigestedness of it

Indigestibility (indidʒestibi liti) [f next + -ITY cf F indigestibilité] The quality of being indigestible 1847 L J SEYMOUR Nerv Dis I 58 Experiments on the comparative digestibility or indigestibility of various articles of diet 1854 BRANDE & Cox Dict Sci II 1 Experiments on fibrine, dolphins seals, and large old thunny, which last confer very near to them in indigestibility

Indigestible (indidʒe stibl a (sb) [ad I indigestibilis, f IN- (3) + digestibilis DIGESTIBLE]
1 Incapable of being digested, or difficult to digest, not easily assimilated as food 1528 PAYNEL Salernes Regim Gb, Wheate sodde is hevy meate and indigestible 1640 TR I BOWNE Pond Up III xvii 165 To reduce that indigestible substance into such forme as may enter the cavities and lesse accessible parts of the body without corrosion 1774 GOLDSM Nat Hist (1776) VI 111 Among the aliments the cow is abandoned from us to all indigestible 1813 SIR H DAVY Agric Chem (1814) 106 Woody fibre appears to be an indigestible substance 1856 Amer Jrnl Sci XXI 71 If you give him his [meat] food in an indigestible and unpalatable form, you take away all his interest in his work fig and transf. 1603 FLORIO Montaigne I vi 163 b) 173 They present us with the state of an indigestible agonie 1665 PURCHAS Pilgrims IV 1808 Out of the indigestable malice that he had conceived against Innocent 1884 MRS BRADDON L Darcies I i 8 It is rather a pity that ones friends are reported to be indigestible 1898 LT CREIGH in Daily News 8 Nov 6/4 He had utilised his time at home by placing a number of solid and thoroughly indigestible volumes upon the library shelves

B sb An indigestible substance
1841 BRANDE Chem 1410 Hair, feathers, the shells of insects belong to the class of absolute indigestibles

Hence Indige stibleness, the quality of being indigestible, also †inability to digest. Obs
1626 DONNE Serm v 58 Our stomachs are dead in an indigestibleness, our taste dead in a lamentsse [etc.] 1727 PEPYS Will II Indigestibleness uncapableness of being digested Mod Things to be avoided on account of their indigestibleness

Indigestion (indidʒe styən) Also 7 indigestion [= F indigestion (13th c in Hatz-Darm) ad late L indigestion-em, f IN- (3) + digestion em DIGESTION]
1 Want of digestion, incapacity of or difficulty in digesting food 1450–1530 Myrr our Ladye 56 They fele some tyme a myster of payne in the stomacke for lacke of digestyon or elles for indigestyon 1495 Treat on Barth De P A viii (W de W) 193 b) a syrupe of vse of mete and in digestion a glotton is such infyrmyte superfluyte of mete 1601 HOLLAND Livy II Explan Words, Indigestion, want of concoction and digestion, by which means many crudities and raw humors are ingendred 1616 COTGR Indigestion, indigestion, want of digestion 1674 CHARLETON Nat Peculiarity (1676) 2 Which manner of diet for the indigestion Mr Hobbes himself doth make this like 1750 SMOLLETT Reprisal I Misc 82 Who, after a long fit of the direful pain Of transient indigestion 1858–65 CARLYLE Frederick XV viii 199 (1872) 87 Of the physical Majesty felt slightly indisposed '—indigestion of mushrooms or whatever it was 1880 BEALE Slight Illness 84 Indigestion is hurriedly spoken of as dyspepsia 1896 Allbutt's Syst Med I 402 Indigestion of any raceous food leads to the same [said dyspepsia]

fig. 1844 LADY GRANVILLE Lett (1894) I 306 The unfortunate city of our future plans gives me a sort of indigestion of mind which quite disturbs its tranquility 1898 Spectator 5 Sept, We have eaten so much territory in the decade that if we do not take care, we shall have indigestion 1894 Outing (U S) XXIV 186/1, I wonder the mixture didn't give him moral indigestion

b with pl A case or attack of indigestion 1708 J PURCELL Cholick (1714) 147 The Cure of the Cholick occasion'd by Crudities and Indigestions of an Acid Nature 1798 MALTHUS Popul (1878) 22 The dis orders rising from indigestions. 1845 JAMES Arabella You will give me an indigestion

2 Undigested condition, the state of not being reduced to order or brought to maturity, disorder, imperfection. Also, an instance of this condition

1656 B. HALL Oar. Medic § 38 (1831) 45 In this mans country our whitens would pass for an unpleasing indigestion of form 1870 LOWELL Study Windows 5 Leading him to dwell rather upon the indigestions of the elements than his own

3 attrib. and Comb.

1861 Illustr. Lond. News 25 May 483/1 Choosing all indigestible meeting delicacies 1877 Hunter Rev. III. 1. What with the slush and the cycle, liver pills and indigestion syrups should soon vanish from the land

Indigestive (indidʒe·stiv), a. [f. IN- 3 + DIGESTIVE cf. obs. † indicy ve (Godet).]

1 Characterized by or suffering from indigestion, tending to indigestion, dyspeptic

1632 SHERWOOD, Indigestive, indigestus. 1658 R. FRANCK North Wales (1694) 128 In shore of the foreign Fashion from your crude and Indigestive Victuals 1861 DICKENS Gt. Expect. xxv. She was a cousin, an indigestive single woman 1870 — Edwin Drood v. Disturbed from an indigestive after dinner sleep

+2 Not ready to digest or brook offences Obs. (Cf. DIGESTIVE 6.)

1650 Certain Expressions 11 So also he which indigestive humour of his, his Animosity being every day exasperated more and more by new Provocations, he the end was no longer able so to conquer his passion

† Indigete Obs. rare [ad. L. indigetes, -ites] A deified hero regarded as a patron deity of his country

1569 Compl. Stat. 10 Rich. II Amasis the second, quhilk was the last kyng vnde indigete of the aggutters mara, Indigetes var godds of egipt quhilkis had beene verteouse princes quhen thai lyuit

Indight, obs. var. of INDITE and INDITE.

† Indigit, v. Obs. rare [ad. L. indigitare = indicare to] = INDIGITATE 2.

1603 HARSNET Pop. Impost. (1718) 80 Be sure they were not cried for your owne indigiting, indighting, holy priests

† Indigitament. Obs. rare [ad. L. indigitamentum, in sense 2 indigitamenta books containing the names of the gods and prescribing their ritual, f. indigitāre to INDICATE: see -MENT.] An appellation or title by which a deity was (in local or special connexion) known and invoked: see also quot. 1675

1658 W. BURTON Itin. Antonin. 56 The indigitaments of old Deities were often inscribed to Rivers, as Belisama a name of Minerva, to the River Ribble . . is the names of Saints are usually to divers places abroad at this day 1675 BURTON Comm. Descr. Britannia Ruchlins affirmeth that Impreations, Vows, or Blessings were called Indigitaments.

Indigitate (indi·dʒitēt), v. [f. ppl. stem of L. indigitare, -itāre to call upon, invoke (a deity), to utter, proclaim, declare, of obscure origin, erroneously associated in 16th c. with L. digitus 'pertaining to the finger' and explained as 'to point out as with the finger': hence the Eng. use, in sense 2. Sense 3 is taken directly from digitus.]

† 1 trans. To call, to indicate by an appellation or name. b To proclaim, declare Obs.

1603 CHAPMAN, Invocation, to call to shew with pointing the finger 1653 H. MORE Conject. Cabbal. (1713) 77 It is not at all harsh to conceive, that they [the Kenites] may be here indigitated by the name of the Tyger Wisem. 1670 HOWARD Content Nature (1674) 160 The Scriptures did indigitate he would rise up in the third day 1680 H. MORE Apoc. Apoc. 192 Idolatry, indigitated here by Sorceries, Sorcery or Witchcraft, as that whereby it is introduced

+2 To point out with or as with the finger, to show, indicate, point to Obs.

1623 [see 1]. 1648 SIR J. BROOKE Tenet Ape 21 Juvenall and Persius were no prophets, although their lines did seem to indigitate and point at our time 1649 ROBERTS Clavis Bibl. (ed. 3) 1 Which indigitate and point with the finger, John Baptist the first Prophet of the New Testament 1706 PHILLIPS, To Indigitate, to shew, or point at, as it were, with the Finger 1718 M. DAVIS Obs. upon Bible II. Introd. 1 Part of the Apology of Tertullian or Tacitus, he indigitates the Anabaptists, Rosicrucians, Capuchins, Nonnunists, and such like gross and mean Elementary Professors

3 intr. To interlock like the fingers of the two hands, to penetrate each other in this way

1825–6 Encycl. Chirurgica I. 724 Those bundles [of fleshy fibres] indigitate with those of the diaphragm

Indigitation (indidʒe·ʃən) [n. of action from I indigitate: see -ATION.]

+1 The action of pointing out or indicating, an indication, demonstration, a declaration Obs.

1604 BURTON Chaos (1) The natural validity of this indigitation of persons 1653 H. MORE Antid. Athe. III. (1662) 59 Which things I conceive no obscure Indigitation of Providence 1658 PHILLIPS, Indicatio n., pointing, or shewing with the finger 1689 S. WILLARD in Baxter Tracts I. 189 This [teaching of us each upon the Bible] must of necessity be more than the bare Indigitation of the Person and nothing less than a Religious Application 1706 PHILLIPS, Indigitation, an indicating, or shewing, a convincing Proof, or plain Demonstration

2 Computing or conversing by the fingers

1826 SOUTHEY Pilgrimage Compostella 77 He wrote also upon indigitation, both as an art of computing, by the fingers, and of conversing by them

3 Anat. Interlocking of the fingers of two hands, hence, the mode of junction of muscle and tendon

1846 J. CALLAWAY Quain's Anatomy (1849) 3. The Serratus magnus takes its rise by nine indigitations from the eight superior ribs 1851 B. WILSON Anat. Guide 217 To show the muscles beneath without interfering with its indigitations with the serratus magnus

Indiguous (indi·gĭuəs) Chem. [f. IND(IGO + -gen (= SWEET + -IN) + -OUS.] A high yellow sweet compound of sugar, $C_6H_{10}O_{10}$, one of the constituents of indican

1865–72 WATTS Dict. Chem. III. 250 Schunck has further shown that wood contains indican, which when boiled with acids, splits up into indigo blue and indiguous

Indign (indəin), a. Now only poet. Forms 5–6 indygne, 5–7 indigne, 6 (9) ydygne, ydigne, 6–indign [? f. indign-, ad. L. indignus unworthy, f. in- (IN-3) + dignus worthy.]

1 Unworthy, undeserving. Const. of (to, or inf.) arch.

1450 Chaucer's Clerk's T. 303 (Petw.) Indigne [other MSS. undigne] and vnworth Am I to pat [honour] pat pou me bede 1485 CAXTON Gold. Leg. 417/b A cursyd book and indigne bounde that penetreat the myght of god to enuh vnthmentes 1489 — Sonnes of Aymon xi. 162, I, indygne for to speke 1 Tamburlaine ii. Dedication The right noble patronage & excellent prayseme, Moder unto henry pe seuenth I wyll yn cauton, bis most indygne humble subiecte and lyll seruytor, to put the lyght 1600 Hist. Jason & Pate (W. de W. 1495) II. 43/b/2 To haue mercy of me poore synner & indygne of thy grete mysericordy. 1558 BELLENDEN Cron. Scot. (1821) I. 91, I was worne to write vnto the King, Clerk of his Compts, thought [=though] I was indigne 1596 SPENSER Q. Fairy I. x. 30 Nor wells, nor springs indigne 1618 Polit. Demonstr. Kath. 48 25 If by new offences hee should make himselfe indigne of former mercies. 1657 W. MORICE Coronation Charles II 2 Nor will any body holy Ordinance [published] by an indigne Parliament 1678 PHILLIPS (ed. 4) Tasi Barbarous Words, Indign, unworthy 1819 W. IRVING Sketch-Book (1820) I. 292 Worthy of you to say and sung. Albeit I be to write indigne 1858 T. HARDY Wessex Poems 132 Such scope is granted not my powers indigne

2 Unworthy of or unbefitting the person or circumstances, unbecoming, fraught with shame or dishonour, disgraceful 1545 JOYE Exp. Dan. xi. 1 vnyh. It were the moste indygne and vnworthy thynge that myght possible be subiecte and vnder cruell men 1604 SHAKS. Oth. I. iii. 274 All indigne, and base adversities, make head against my Estimation 1612 T. TAYLOR Comm. Titus i. 11 Thus were an indigne thing, and a great blot in his high place 1683 P. HOOKER Eccl. Pardoners Mystic. Dev. 104 mod. When that vice is indigne [= unworthy] of us, it is most indigne and injurious) 1830 W. PHILLIPS Mt. Sinai II. 615 He freely promises no kindom meant, indign, or to our 1839 BAILEY Festus xxvi. 278 It counts it scorn to draw Comfort indign from any meaner thing

b Of punishment or suffering: Undeserved

1747 Ld. Kilmaghall Orphan 142 The villains who have inflicted such indigne tortures on a worthy youth? 1836 GLADSTONE On an Infant viii, I untion of the immortal pure, Purchased for thee By agony indign

+3 Indignant, resentful Obs. rare

1652 (see 1). Magnalia 274 Nero, indigne in the fall and loss of so necessary a friend and familiar, took occasion as soon

† Indi gn, v. Obs. [= indigne 14th c. in HALI. Dream ad. L. indignāri to regard as unworthy, to be indignant at, f. indignus unworthy of: see INDIGN a.]

1 trans. To treat with indignity

1596 LODGE Wounds Civil War V. (1594) Vyle keynge of Gottiques, that I haue so offe indygned for to auenge hys iniuryes, shalle cobue me in to captyuite

2 To be indignant at or with, to resent

1650 TRAHERON Mosaicall 242 Divine indigning this in solemn, raised up a scorpion that slew him Ibid. 282 He, indigning, to be thus dealt withall, quite deserted Chris Jesus 1657 — Solomon Temple 200 He is indigned, him my special that shall exclaim for it

Indignance. rare. [f. INDIGNANT: see -ANCE. Cf. med.L. indignantia.] The fact or condition of being indignant; indignation

1650 TRAHERON Mosaicall 242 Divine indignance in that sight forsooke 1790 A. WILSON in Pennsylvania Packet (1796) II. 3 I tried to indignance I turned round 1845 R. W. EMERSON Cyc. Prac. (ed. 3) 269 We are not scared by all this towering indignance, this Tarpeian vent

Indignancy (indi·gnănsi) rare [f. INDIGNANT: see -ANCY.] = prec. The quality or state of being indignant, indignation

1790 G. WALKER Serm. II. xx. 100 Mutual indignancy breaks an union which mutual esteem and kindness had knit 1837 H. HALLAM Constit. Hist. (1850) II. 24 A generous indignancy against whatever was base

Indignant (indi·gnănt), a. (sb.) [ad. L. indignant-em, pres. ppl. of indignāri to regard as unworthy, to be indignant at, f. indignus unworthy: see INDIGN a. and -ANT.] Affected with indignation, provoked to wrath by something regarded as unworthy, unjust, or ungrateful, moved by an emotion of anger mingled with scorn or contempt, 'inflamed at once with anger and disdain' (J.). Said of persons, their feelings, etc., also fig. of things

1590 SHAKS. 3 Hen. VI v. 33 Dull of fiers fury and indignant hate To hum he turned 1667 MILTON P. L. x. 321 Xerxes Europe with vast powerful, And scourg'd with many a stroak th indignant waves a 1735 ARBUTHNOT & POPE (J.), The lustful monster fled, pursued by the valorous and indignant Martin 1790 GOLDSM. Des. Vill. 289 His sons feel indignant spurns the cottage from the green 1782 COWPER Boadicea, When the British warrior queen, Bleeding from the Roman rods, sought, with an indignant mien, Counsel of her country's gods. 1870 DICKENS E. Drood viii, He feels indignant that Helena's brother should dispose of him so coolly 1880 C. R. MARKHAM Peruvian Bark 48 He published an indignant pamphlet on the subject of his wrongs

b Const. at, with (a person), † of (a thing)

1728–46 THOMSON Spring 435 And flies aloft, and flutters round the pool Indignant of the gaping stork 1797 MRS. RADCLIFFE Italian II. (1826) 16 Ursland at the slander which affected her name 1805 ANNA SEWARD Lett. (1811) V. 234, I was too indignant of the cruel neglect of Chatterton 1858 DICKENS Lett. (1880) II. 64 Our men are rather indignant with the Irish crowds 1858 BUCKLE Civiliz. (1873) II. viii. 553 The clergy, indignant at such proceedings, murmured and even threatened

B sb. An indignant person rare

1861 Sat. Rev. XII. 638/2 These three sets of people—the indignants themselves [etc.]

Indignantly (indi·gnăntli), adv. [LY 2.]

+1 With indignity Obs. rare—1

1602 WHITGIFT Def. in Strype Life (1718) 555 [To others he were not, especially the Maior, because he took himself so] indignantly [used by him]

2 In an indignant manner, with indignation

a 1785 H. BROOKE Fool of Quality (R.), Indignantly they fled The clanking lash, and the retorted steel 1788 GIBBON Decl. & F. xxxix (1869) II. 449 They indignantly supported the restraints of peace and discipline 1848 J. MARTINEAU Hymns I. 11 17 The little Prince indignantly flung down the square cap and trampled on it 1859 TENNYSON Vivien 401, Heard and fled indignantly 1882 S. LOWELL Tangled Tale II. 9 The Landlady indignantly protested Indignation (indigne·ʃən) Forms 4–5 indignacioun, 4–6 -cion, 5 -cyoun, indygnacion, -cyon, -cyon, indignacyon), 5–6 indignacyon, 6– indignation [ad. L. indignation-em, n. of action f. indignāri to regard as unworthy, to be indignant at: see INDIGN v., or immed. f. F. indignation (12th c. in Hatz.-Darm.).]

† 1 The action of counting or treating (a person or thing) as unworthy of regard or notice, disdain, contempt, contemptuous behaviour or treatment

c 1374 CHAUCER Troylus I. 40 (Camb. MS.), Pite me ne ayens the hates and indignacioun of the accusor Cypian c 1386 WYCLIF Wks. (1880) 204 Sif pes lyuen in pride of herte for nakednesse of blood & hunger & indignacion & disese pore men or wymmen a 1400 Pyrrhus 48 At Cyrye whan he let make pe Rounde table for men schulde sytt abone other, he hane indignacion of his broper 1440 Jacob's Well (E. E. T. S.) 76 pe seste cornere of pride is indignacion pat is, whan pou hast dysdeyn of symple folk, & list not to speke to hem 1530 PALSGR. 234/1 In dygnation disdaynyng, indignation

† b Treating with indignity Obs.

1593 BRADSHAW St Werburge 3474 Lest the cruell gentils With indignacyon fulfyll of corruption violate touche her body by indignation 1596 Hist. Jason (W. de W. 1532) 305 And some with great indignacion offred thy grace vyolli to dryuke 1655 STANLEY Hist. Philos. (1701) 1/2 The face [of the Colossus] is something disfigured by time, or indignation of the Moores, detesting images

2 Anger at what is regarded as unworthy or wrongful, wrath excited by a sense of wrong to oneself or, especially, to others, or by meanness, injustice, wickedness, or misconduct, righteous or dignified anger, the wrath of a superior

1382 WYCLIF Isa. xxvi. 20 Go, my people be hid a litil while, to the tyme that pese myn indignacioun 1470–85 MALORY Arthur I. vi. There were some of the grete lordes had indignacion that Arthur shold be kynge 1526 TINDALE Matt. xxvi. 8 When his disciples saw thys, they had indignacion sayinge what is this waste? 1601 SHAKS. Twel. N. III. iv. 269 His indignation derives itself out of a very competent injurie 1651 HOBBES Leviath. I. vi. 36 Anger for great hurt done to another, when we conceive the same to be done by injury, (so called) Indignation 1789 BOOTH New Jerusalem Wks. 1871 III. 68 Jesus was raised by injustice, and the desire of having it punished is by no means malice 1784 COWPER Task v. 442 That man should thus encroach on man's prerogative, And usurp functions that belong to God! Weigh every thought; nay more, suppress it. Passion's indignation is with God alone 1828 D. STEWART Act & Mor. Powers Wks. 1854 V. 202 When injustice offered to others awakens resentment against the transgressor the emotion excited is more properly denoted in our language by the word indignation 1858 CARLYLE Frederick Gt. IX. (1872) I. 198 His indignation knew no bounds 1865 KINGSLEY Hereward xxiii. 268 Two rode on, boiling over with righteous indignation 1866 LINTON Lamplight IV. (1875) 192 We cannot regard with any other sentiment than indignation the propagation of what is known to be false

Jig 1595 SHAKS. John II. i. 212 Ready mounted are they to spit forth Their iron indignation gainst your walles 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 827 The fresh water not able further to endure the hot indignation of that now believed Burning Zone, fled out

b Const. against, with († of, † upon) a person, at († against, † of) an action, etc

1382 WYCLIF Dan. xi. 30 He schal turne ayen, and schal haue indignacioun ayens the Testament of seynt pureste — Matt. xx. 24 And the ten herynge hadden indignacioun of the two bretheren 1520 Lorkyn's Chron. Eng. v. 48/1 The Britons had indygnacyon of Aloth, and wolde not be to hym attendaunt 1534 LYDGATE Pretor Princes 16 Persons that do envie and have indignacion at them that speake truly 1605 SHAKS. Lear I. iii. 86 To suspend your indignation against my Brother 1607 TOPSELL Four-f. Beasts (1658) 81 Venus had turned a Cat into a beautiful woman who contended with the Goddesse for beauty, in indignation whereof, she returned her to her first nature 1611 Bible Mal i 4 The people against whom the Lord hath indignation for ever 1667 Milton P. L. IX 660 With show of Zeale and Love To Man, and indignation at his wrong 1843 Lytton Last Bar IV vi, I read your generous indignation with our poor Clarence 1856 Froude Hist. Eng (1858) I iii 157 So great was the indignation 1904 Wolley

†3 The turning of the stomach against unwelcome food, etc. Obs

1598 Trevisa Barth. De P. R. xvii xxxiii (Bodl MS.), Carbonadum helpeb herfor spene. whatenes and indignacioun of be stomake 1668 Culpeper & Cole Barthol. Anat. ix 21 The Pylorus being Moderator of Digestion From the indignation whereof he fetches the cause of the Palsie, and Swimming Dizziness of the Head

4. Comb., as indignation letter, indignation-meeting, a meeting to express public indignation in reference to some proceeding

18 W. Irving Knickerb. (Bartlett), I hose indignation meetings set so foot in the tume of William the Testy, where men met together to rail at public abuses. 1856 Nat. Acad. II 391/1 Paterfamilias, who writes indignation letters from Margate to the Times 1861 Ibid. 7 Dec. 583 When I ever pool heard of the affair of the Trent, there was what the Yankees call an 'indignation meeting' 1894 Hall & Ward Marcella I 101 His constituents held indignation meetings

Indignatory, a rare [f. I indignāt-, ppl stem of indignāri to be indignant + -ory.] Expressive of indignation

a 1604 B. M. Smith Serm. (1630) 27 The question is tentatory (Will you also go away?) the answer is partly indignatory (Lord to whom shall we goe?) 1854 Curr's Marg. I 367 He may inflate the cheeks, and blow into letters from Margate to the Times 1861 Ibid. 7 Dec. 583 When I ever pool heard of the affair of the Trent, there was what the Yankees call an 'indignation meeting' 1894 Hall & Ward Marcella I 101 His constituents held indignation meetings

Indignatory, a rare [f. I indignāt-, ppl stem of indignārī + -ory.] To be indignant + -ory.] Expressive of indignation

a 1604 B. M. Smith Serm. (1630) 27 The question is tentatory (Will you also go away?) the answer is partly indignatory (Lord to whom shall we goe?) 1854 Curr's Marg. I 367 He may inflate the cheeks, and blow into letters from Margate to the Times 1861 Ibid. 7 Dec. 583 When I ever pool heard of the affair of the Trent, there was what the Yankees call an 'indignation meeting' 1894 Hall & Ward Marcella I 101 His constituents held indignation meetings

†Indi gned, ppl. a. Obs [f. indigné (L. indignātus) pa. pple., with English ending -ED¹ + -ED.] Excited to indignation, rendered indignant, offended, angry

1569 Canton Enquiries xix To the Soule of my father An chisis, the whiche appereth before me strongely indygned, and ayenste me sore moeued Ibid. xxvii 96 The see we vexed right sore ingaged & indigned 1598 Hebraeus 262 Ye ne owe to be therfore indigned ayenst vs 1598 Yong Diana 281 Indigned spirits, owne it my request Poure forth your angry mynde

†Indi gnify, v. Obs [f. L. indigne us unworthy + Fr. -ifier (Dignify.)] To treat with indignity, to dishonour, to represent as unworthy

1595 Spenser Col. Clout 583, I deeme it best to hold eternally their bounteous deeds in store, Least thereby I indignifie their due report. a 1646 Ib. Andrewes 96 Serm., Holy ghost (1660) 482 The Elders of the Jews dignified him (the Centurion, Luke vii 4) highly but he indignified himself at last 1884 Rutherford Romans I Pet i 23 Do children delight to indignify and dishonour their father's name? 1743 F. Foston Psalter (1747) 149 The very Idea is greatly indignified, even by our aiming or pretending to understand it Indignity (indi gniti) [ad. L. indignitat-em, n. of quality f. indignus unworthy, Indign, cf. F. indignité] 15–16th c. in Hatz.-Darm.

†1 The quality or condition of being unworthy, unworthiness. In pl., Unworthy qualities, undeserving traits Obs

1589 Nashe Anat. Absurd b Pp Ded 3 Let my vnschooled indignities conuert themselues to your courteous 1589 Pref. to Greene Pandosto (Arb.) 159 In steade of rewarding my paines with vnworthinesse and for penetrable, we may say perce a 1618 Sylvester Du Bartas Corona Ded., Accept my Zeale, and pardon mine Indignitie 1697 Lucy Of Gentiles II 154 To suppose that God should fetch the Human rule of his giving or not giving grace, from man's dignitie or indignitie

†2 The quality or condition of being unbecoming, dishonourable, or disgraceful; want or loss of dignity or honour; b Conduct involving shame or disgrace a disgraceful act Obs

1596 Spenser F. Q. v xi 63 For on the pelfe for which good name is sold, Or honour with indignitie debased Ibid. vi 28 To take defiaunce at vs Ladies word (Quoth he) I hold it no indignity 1603 H. Crosse Virtues Commw. (1878) 72 When he laid resign his office, went against to his olde labour without indignitie to his person, or deroga. ought from his worthinesse 1671 Milton Samson 411 Foul effeminacy held me yoked Her bond-slave: oh, indignity! oh, blot To honour and religion! 1766 Goldsm. Ir. H. xx, A mind too proud to stoop to such indignities

3 Unworthy treatment, contemptuous or insolent usage, injury accompanied with insult With an and pl. A slight offered to a person, an act intended to expose a person to contempt, an insult or affront

1584 R. Scot Discov. Witchcr. v vii (1886) 83 They think it too great an indignitie for Christ to be made subject to Sathans illusions 1600 Hakluyt Voy. III 440 Their contempts and indignities offered to our Countrey and Prince 1610 Shaks. Temp. II iii 42 I he poore Monsters my subiect, and he shall not suffer indignity 1665 Manley Grotius' Low C. Warres 177 He pretended the Indignities offer'd him by the States were the cause of his departure 1757 Smollett Appraisal II v, You dare not treat me with indignity 1873 Symonds Grk. Poets xi 316 That a human body should toss unburied, unbecovered on the waves, seemed to them the last indignity 1876 Geo. Eliot Dan. Der. II xxiii, The mere association of anything like 'indignity' with herself, roused a resentful alarm

†4. Anger excited by unworthy conduct or treatment, = Indignation 2. Obs

1596 Spenser F. Q. IV vii 36 Her noble heart with sight thereof was fild With deepe disdaine, and great indignity

1650 Fuller Pisgah IV iii 55 God (as justly he might) took this their affront in high indignity 1701 Swift Contests Athens & Rome in Wks. 1778 II 265 That great Roman received the notice with the utmost indignity 1784 Pye Barham Downs I 105 My bosom glows with indignity at the remembrance

†Indi gnly, adv. Obs [f. Indign a. + -ly 2.] In an indign manner, with indignity, undeservedly, shamefully, ignominiously To take indignly to take as an insult, be indignant at 1593 Nashe Christ's T. (1613) 176 His iust demerits in diuers sort vnto him vniust hatred 1607 Shirley Arcad. Antiche I i 49 They take nothing more indignly, then to see the least indignity offered vnto it 1608 Ib. He Hath Lost II iii, Wks. (1632) 295 A place, I grant, miserably hurdled by our adversaries, and indignly borne out of the councels 1612 J. Taylor Comm. Virtues Whence we may gather, how indignly the Lord taketh it 1659 Gauden Tears Ch. 284 Behold how I am falsified indignly and almost desperately †Indi gnous, a. Obs rare Also erron. 2 -dignious [f. indign-us unworthy + -ous.] Unworthy, ignominious

1612 Sir T. Hist. Gt. Brit. VIII § 16 553 His most indignous injury, which the Pope meant to obtrude vpon him and his Kingdome Ibid., A fatte more indignous wrong, and continuedly

Indigo (i·ndigo), sb. (a.) Forms α 6–8 indico β (6 endego), 6 indigo [Occurs from 16th c. in the two forms indico, indigo, repr. two Romanic forms, from I. indicum Pliny), a Gr. ἰνδικόν (Dioscorides), the blue Indian dye, lit. 'the Indian (substance)', sb. use of neuter of Ἰνδικός, Indicus, Indian Indico, ? from Sp. was the usual form in 16–17th c., and continued into the 18th, endego occurs in R. Eden 1555 (from the It. of Ramusio Itinerario (Venice, 1550), transl. a Portuguese list of prices at Calicut and Malabar), and indigo in the 1598 edition of Linschoten, from Dutch, app. also of Indo Portuguese origin, but this form came into general use only after the middle of the 17th c. cf. also F. indigo, 1648 in Hatz.-Darm.

The usual name in the Mediterranean countries before the Portuguese went to India, was anuil, anil, which came to us, through Sp. and Pg., and the Arabic, as Anil. But indico occurs in It. in 1390 sec. 1 de della Crusca, s.v.]

1 A substance obtained in the form of a blue powder from plants of the genus Indigofera N.O. Papilionaceæ, largely used as a dye

It is produced by the decomposition of the glucoside Indican, which exists not merely in the indigo-plant, but in wood and various other plants. Its essential constituent is indigo-blue, $C_{16}H_{10}N_2O_2$. Varieties of commercial indigo contains indigo-red, indigo-brown, and some earthy gluttonous matters (indigo-glutin)

a 1492 Hanno Voy. I 208 There goeth out of Chusi great quantity of Indico, Opium, Cotton, Silke 1616 Bullokar, Indico, a stone brought out of Calicut, whereuth dyers vse to the blew 1680 Morden Geog. Rect. Manual (1685) 398 In the Suburbs they make Indico 1686 Ind. Ga. 80 A 250 Chests of Indico of Cutnall 1703 Moxon Math. Dict. 64 Woolmen sometimes mingle Indico and Sallad oyl to cause 1755 Comm. Wks. XXV 201 Indico, or Indigo, is a dye extracted from a plant of the same name 1788 Trans. Soc. Arts IV 44 A ship freighted with indico, cochineal, and rich stuffs β 1555 Eden Decades 239 Endego to dye silke, threw and good, the Carmola, Pannia xxx (Ramusio Itinerario (1550) 318 Endego vero e buono vsi la fa: quals fanno xxx.) 1598 W. Phillips Linschoten's Itinerario I 41 Indico, Anil, Nil Anuil or Indigo by the Guzurates is called Nil, by others Nil [Linschoten's Itinerarium (1596) bis. 922 Vant Anuil oft Indigo. Inder Anil, andere Indico, Jenevert, oder in Guzurate, Gali, van andere Nil.] 1665 Phil. Transf. 25 Sept., We did agree a bag un of £3000 for silk, cinnamon, cloves, and indigo. 1690 Child Disc. Trade (1694) 172 It employs the Nation for its Consumption, with Pepper, Indigo, Calicoes, and several useful Drugs 1711 Lond. Evel. Post I 30 1732–9 Miller Gard. Dict. (ed. 3) s.v. Anil, Every body does, or should know, that Indigo is a Dye used to dye Wool, Silk, Cloaths and Stuffs like our Pastel 1738 Dr. Hill Virgil 1 Indigo may be procured from Wood: by digesting shavings of it, and evaporating the solution 1826 Henry Elem. Chem. (ed. 12) 597 Gold yields a deep blue colour in boiling to purple, and is thereby both of its taste and smell 1865–72 Watts Dict. Chem. III 250 Its introduction into Europe as a dye is generally attributed to the Jews, who during the middle ages practised the art of dyeing with indigo in the Levant. 1889 Morley & Muir Watts' Dict. Chem. III 75/2 The Egyptian mummy cloths, certainly dyed with indigo, and it has been employed in India for many thousands of years. 1889–96 G. M'Gowan Lornthorn's Organ Tuner (ed. 3) 169 In addition to indigo blue, madder gotin), commercial indigo contains indigo gelutine indigo brown, and indigo red, all of which can be extracted from it by solvents. Sugar-candy has been prepared synthetic ally by Baeyer from isatin chloride (etc.)

b pl (In commercial use) Sorts or samples of indigo (But formerly a collective pl., like oats, oats, grains, silks)

1699 Sir H. Middleton in Beveridge Hist. India (1862) II 251 Their indicoes and other goods of theirs 1824 Capt. Smith Virginia I 171 There are great abundance of Tobaccos, Sugarcanes, Indicos, Purslane 1881 Lane Edin Ser. I Imperf. Symph., Hast thee heard how indigos go at the India House? 1875 Ure's Dict. Arts II 903 The Manilla indigos present the marks of the rushes upon which they have been dried.

†o Used in extended sense for 'dye' Obs

1703 Dampier Voy. (1729) III 1 438 They make a saffron coloured Indico of the Seed, called Amatto

2 A plant from which indigo is obtained, Indigo-plant, including several species of Indigofera Among these are Common or East Indian I., Indigofera tinctoria, W Indian I. Ibid, Australian I., I. Australis, Purple flowered I. I. Anil [Indica

1600 J. Pory in Hakluyt Voy. II 208 In this province groweth great store of Indico loaue, in herbe, like vnto wilde wood 1623 Peyton Purgat. (1640) 92 Anuil or Indigo growes in Cumbaz the herb is like Rosemary 1697 R. Dixon Barbadoes 24 We found Indico planted and so well ordered, as it is sold in London at 4s. the pound 1703 Dampier Voy. (1729) III 1 438 White Indico has a white Flower, and the Roots yield a blue Juice 1813 Sir H. Davy Agric. Chem. iii (1814) 93 The indigo of commerce is principally brought from America It is procured from the Indigofera Argentea or Wild Indigo, the Indigofera disperma of Guiana's Indigo, and the Indigofera Tinctoria or French Indigo 1876 Harley Mat. Med. (ed. 6) 607 Indigo is a small shrubby plant indigenous to the tropical parts of the East and West Indies, and Africa Also, Spain

3 Pearl Poltry Y. I xi 110 Overgrown with rank grass and creeping indigo

b Also, with prefixed word, applied to other plants yielding a blue dye as Bastard Indigo, an American shrub of the genus Amorpha, Chinese or Japanese Indigo, Polygonum tinctorium Egyptian Indigo, Typhonia Apollinea Texas Jrnl 1866, False or Wild Indigo of I. (a) (the genus Baptisia Texas Jrnl 1866, (b) Bastard Indigo, Pagan Indigo, Baptisia tinctoria 1760 J. Lee Introd. Bot. (1765) 360 Baptisia and Pseudo-Linaria 1819 Pantologia Amorpha, I. tall and single There are two species, both natives of Carolina Ibid. Genista and Pseudo-Linaria 1841 Mrs. Loudon Amateur's Flower Gard (1842) 159–60 The false Indigo, Amorpha, also belongs to Leguminosæ

3 The colour yielded by indigo reckoned by Newton as one of the seven prismatic or primary colours, lying in the spectrum between blue and violet, and now often called blue violet or violet blue

1622 Peacham Compl. Gent xiii (1634) 116 For a deepe and sad Greene, as in the tuned leaves of Trees mingle Indico and Pinke 1658 W. Salmon Geographe 7 Darke shadows you may well set off with sap-green and Indico 1704 Newton Opticks 65 The Spectrum will be formed by the separated rays, that appear tinged with this series of colours, violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange, red, together with all their intermediate degrees in a continual succession perpetually varying Ibid. 93 It is scarce to be discovered and perceived by sense except perhaps in the Indigo and Violet 1831 Brewster Optics vii 57 There will be formed upon the screen an oblong image of the Sun containing seven colours, red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, and violet 1877 Holland & Bonney 27, I fancy that only blue, of the hues going blue for sense of generation, and perhaps there is indigo, and in one of the 1879 Swinburne Study Shakespeare (1908) I i 21 The jets, forests on the mountain sides are of darkest indigo

B adj. (attrib. use of A 3.) Of a deep violet-blue colour Also in comb to express blended shades, as indigo black

1856 Kane Arct. Expl. II xxiv 245 We see no deep indigo horizon 1898 H. S. Wilson Skye Incents I 18 A sky of a strongly indigo hue 1897 Mrs. Bennett Anna 450 Sometimes it is wreathed with indigo-black tornado clouds

C attrib. and Comb.

1 simple attrib. and general Comb., as indigo factory, plantation vat, indigo-planter, indigo bearing dyed, producing, yielding adjs

1887 Moloney Forestry II 158 Indigo bearing plants Ibid. 144 Indigo-yield cotton 1898 Encyc. Chem. VI 462/2 In the Indigo Districts of Bengal it is the custom for the European factors to provide the seed 1888 I. Irvine Text Life Ligaments 106 The general tendency on all indigo plantations is to keep vat and tank-field into a much more harmonious state 1849 Thackeray Pen. Pendennis xxxvi, Indigo-planter and field 1876 Harley Mat. Med. (ed. 6) 607 It appears that the indigo producing constituent is indican 1765 Cooper Ess. Dict. 464 s.v. Indigo, Mr. Hellot the celebrated French writer 1865–72 Watts Dict. Chem. III 250 Woad is now used only as an addition to the indigo-vat 1874 Somerset Pop. Chem. 408 Indigo-white is prepared by dissolving one part of powdered indigo with two parts of ferrous sulphate, three parts of slaked lime and 100 parts of water 1887 Moloney Forestry II 155 In Indigo-yielding plants our knowledge is indeed very contracted

2 Special Comb. indigo-berry a name given to (a) The fruit of Randia latifolia and R. aculeata, from which a blue dye is obtained; (b) that of the South American Rivinia tuberosa (Cent. Dict. 1890); indigo-broom, an American name of Wild or False Indigo, indigo-brown, a brown resinous substance, a mixture of indihumin and indiretin, existing in all kinds of commercial indigo indigo-carmine, indigo-disulphonate (sulphindigotate) of sodium or potassium, used for dyeing silk, and as a water colour, indigo-copper, the mineral Covellite, indigo-dyed, dyed in indigo vats, indigo-finch = Indigo-bird, indigo-gelatine, indigo-gluten, the gluttonous matter found in commercial indigo, indigo-green, a green substance obtained from indigo by adding potash to an alcoholic solution of an alkaline hyposulphindigotate (Ure's Dict. Arts 187–), indigo-mill, a name for the cistern in which indigo is triturated to a fine paste (Knight Dict. Mech. 1875), indigo-purple, purple obtained from indigo by the action of fused sodium sulphate, indigo-purpurin, indigo-red, synonyms of INDIGOTIN, indigo-snake (U. S.), the gopher-snake, Spilotes Couperi, indigo-sulphate, sulphate of indigo see quots, indigo-sulphonic (popularly -sulphuric) acids, i.e. indigo monosulphonic and indigo disulphonic acids, products of the action of sulphuric acid on indigo-blue, indigo-weed = indigo broom, indigo-yellow a substance produced by heating hyposulphindigotate of calcium with lime-water in contact with air, it is a transparent yellow mass' (Watts Dict. Chem 1865–72).

1866 Treas. Bot. 601/1 'Indigo-berry, Randia latifolia.

1838 Penny Cycl. XII 462/2 According to Berzelius the indigo of commerce consists of indigo-blue, indigo-red, 'indigo-brown, and a glutinous matter' 1855 Mayne Expos. Lex., Indigo-carmine, a term used by some chemists for the purple of indigo, a modification of sulphindigotic acid. Indigogene 1865 78 Watts Dict. Chem. III 261 Sulphindigotate of potassium occurs in commerce as paste or dry powder, known as precipitated indigo, indigo-carmine, soluble indigo or solid blue. Sulphindigotate of sodium also called indigo-carmine, resembles the potassium salt, and is used for similar purposes, but is more soluble in saline solutions. 1868 Dana Min. (ed 5) 813 Cf. cellite, 'Indigo-Copper 1875 Ure's Dict. Arts III 924 Indigo copper, the native proto-sulphide of copper 1874 Sutherland Org. Chem. 47 Ihly [pot & sod indigotin(disulphonates] are found in commerce under the name 'indigo-carmine or 'indigo extract' 1889 Morley & Muter Watts' Dict. Chem. II 757/2 By dyeing from a bath of indigo di-sulphonic acid (sulphindigotic acid), 'indigo-carmine, or 'indigo extract') 1865–78 Watts Dict. Chem. III 257 To obtain it [indigo-brown], the 'indigo gluten is first removed by treating the indigo with dilute sulphuric acid 1838 Penny Cycl. XII 462/2 This solution of indigotin has been called sulphate of indigo. According to Berzelius, it contains 'indigo-purple, sulphate of indigo, and hyposulphite of indigo 1865–78 Watts Dict. Chem. III 257 Indigo purple, probably consists of sulphindigotate or sulphindisulphonate of sodium 1868–69 Sulphophenicic or Indigo-sulphuric Acid $H_2NO\,SO_3$. Indigo purple, Phenine. Sulphophenic acid. This acid is formed when sulphuric acid is allowed to act upon indigo for a short time at 100° C. 1838 'Indigo-red [see Indigo-brown above] 1881 Watts Dict. Chem. 3rd Supp. 1086 When an aqueous solution of indo is boiled and then decomposed by acids, the 'yellow no longer indigo blue but indigo-red, and other products 1884 Rep. Inside Nat. Hist. (1888) III 369 Pilotes cenchris is known by the negroes as 'indigo gutter-snake' 1875 Ure's Dict. Arts II 966 The compounds [of indigo-sulphuric or sulphindigotic acid] are called indigo sulphates, and are like the acid, of a dark blue colour. The indigo solutions of the alkalies may be prepared by steeping, wood, previously well cleaned, into the solution in sulphuric acid 1881 Watts Dict. Chem. 3rd Supp. 1088 A peculiar modification of commercial 'indigo-sulphuric acid (commonly called in this sulphuric acid) 1889 Morley & Muir Watts' Dict. Chem. II 758/1 Indigo-sulphuric acid, $C_8H_5N\,O_5(SO_3H)_2$ Phenicine sulphuric acid. a blue powder formed by allowing to stand some time a mixture of indigo with ordinary sulphuric acid. Ibid. Indigo-di-sulphonic acid $C_{16}H_8N_2O_8(SO_3H)_2$. Sulphindigotic acid, Cæruline sulphuric acid, Indigo extract 1884 Muller Plant-n., 'Indigo-weed, Baptisia tinctoria.

† Indigo-bi rd. A well known North American bird, a species of painted finch, Cyanospiza cyanea, family Fringillidæ, the male of which has the head and upper parts of rich indigo blue. It is found on the Atlantic slope from Canada southward, and is often kept as a cage-bird

1864–5 Wood Hom. Nat. Hist. xxix (1868) 650 The Indigo Bird, or Blue Linnet of America, which derives its name from the hue of its feathers 1870 Lowell Study Windows (1886) 19 Till within a fortnight a pair of indigo-birds would keep up their lively duo for an hour together 1884 Rod Nat. Sc. Story viii, That indigo-bird in yonder tree top 1898 Atlantic Monthly Apr. 464/1 Poppies with the tints of indigo birds, wood peewees, wood thrushes, and warblers

Indigo-blue, sb and a

A. sb 1 The blue-violet colour of indigo

1712 E. Cooke Voy. to Sea 329 The Back of an Indigo Blew 1796 Kirwan Elem. Min (ed 2) I 27 [Colours] Indigo blue—the deepest, nearly black 1860 Tyndall Glac. I xxiii 196 They appeared of a decided indigo-blue 1879 Rood Chromatics viii 94 The original white colour passed rapidly through a greenish blue into a beautiful indigo-blue

2 The blue colouring matter of indigo, also called indigotin, $C_{32}H_{10}N_2O_2$, crystallizing in fine right rhombic prisms of blue colour and metallic lustre; pure indigo

1858 T. Thomson Chem. Org. Bodies 198 The sublimed sulphite becomes blue when dissolved in water, probably in consequence of a little indigo blue having been carried over 1865–78 Watts Dict. Chem. III 250 Schunck has further shown that wood contains indican which when boiled with acids splits up into indigo blue and indiglucin, without the intervention of oxygen 1875 Ure's Dict. Arts II 907 The value of indigo depends entirely on the quantity of indigo-blue which it contains

B. adj. Of the blue colour of indigo

1836 Macgill Library for Humboldt's Trav. xxii 309 The surface of the bay was of an indigo blue or violet tint 1846 G. E. Day in Simon's Anim. Chem. II 178 Urine containing an excess of this colouring matter deposits a brownish blackish, or frequently an indigo blue sediment

Indigo ferous, a. [f. Indigo + L -fer bearing, -ferous] Bearing or producing indigo

1813 E. Bancroft Philos. Perm. Colours (ed 2) I Introd 49 The blue procured from indigoferous plants, particularly the woad

Indigogen (indigōdʒĕn) Chem. [f. Indigo + -gen, taken as 'producing'.] An obsolete name for Indigo-white

1838 I. Thomson Chem. Org. Bodies 375 Indigogen dissolves in alkalies 1841 Brande Chem. 1122 The probable composition of white deoxidized indigo, or indigogen 1878 Kingzett Anim. Chem. 414 Indigo blue is derived from a colourless constituent of the urine or indigogen

Indigolite, variant of Indicolite

1854 in Webster 1856 in Craig's Dict. Names Min.

Indigometer (indigō·mĭtəɹ) [f. as prec. + -meter.] An instrument for ascertaining the strength of indigo

So Indigo metry, the art or method of determining the colouring power of indigo

1828 Webster, Indigometry 1847 Craig, Indigometry

Indigo-plant. A plant yielding indigo; spec. a plant of the genus Indigofera (of Indigo 2)

1757 H. Baker in Phil. Trans. XL 137 (title) The Effects of the Opuntia, or Prickly Pear, and of the Indigo Plant 1778 Forbes-Leith N. Guinea 270 In that part of the country, the indigo plant taxkum grows abundantly amidst the long grass 1798 Stedman Surinam II xxvii 317 I procured these curious with a drawing of the indigo plant 1870 Yeats Nat. Hist. Comm. 216 The indigo plant is known best in the West Indies.

Indigotate. Chem. [f. as next + -ate.] A salt of indigotic acid, a nitrosalicylate

1838 I. Thomson Chem. Org. Bodies 142 Buff found indigotate of baryles composed of Indigotic acid to Baryta 1

Indigotic (indigō·tik), a. [f. as Indigotin + -ic.] Of, pertaining to, or produced from indigo, indigotic acid, $C_4H_3(NO_2)O_2$, prepared by treating indigotin with oxidizing agents, = Anilic acid

1838 I. Thomson Chem. Org. Bodies 141 Indigotic acid has been given in the Chemistry of Inorganic bodies 1866 Owens Anim. Chem. 121 By boiling indigo for a long time with oxidising agents, and by treating it with acid with strong nitric acid, we obtain plentifully the same product, which has received the names of anile, indigotic, and nitro salicylic acid 1876 in Schutzenberger's Fermentat. 118 We ought to add prussic acid to the yellow indigotic liquid a sufficient quantity of a diluted solution of ammonia

Indigotin (indigōtin) Chem. [f. Indigo + -tin euphonic (cf. aquatint)] = Indigo blue 2

1838 I. Thomson Chem. Org. Bodies 140 Indigotin has been treated with dilute acids, alkalis, and alcohol the remainder is indigo blue, or indigotin, or indigo nearly in a state of purity 1874 Sutherland Org. Chem. 425 Indigotin or indigo blue, $C_{16}H_{10}N_2O_2$

b attrib. and Comb., as indigotin-disulphonic = indigo disulphonic, indigotin disulphonate = sulphindigotate see indigo carmine (Indigo C 2)

1874 Sutherland Org. Chem. 427 The filtrate from this acid contains indigotindisulphonic acid (indigo-sulphuric acid), $C_8H_5NO_4(SO_3H)_2$ —[See quot. for indigo-extract (Indigo B 1)]

Indigo-white. Chem. Reduced or deoxidized indigo, $C_{32}H_{12}N_2O_2$, also called leucindigo, a white, crystalline powder produced by subjecting commercial indigo to the action of a reducing agent, as an alkaline fluid, it is re-converted by oxidation to indigo-blue

Formerly supposed to exist ready formed in indigo-ferous plants (see quot 1850), (where the former name Indigogen), but now known to be formed from the natural glucoside, Indican, by the agency of a special bacillus.

1850 Daubeny Atom. Th. viii. (ed 2) 237 Indigo is extracted from a variety of plants, in which it exists in a colourless form, constituting what is called white indigo which becomes blue on exposure to light and air 1874 Sutherland Org. Chem. 426 Hydrosulphuric or Indigo white acts in some relations as $C_6H_5NH_2$ does to nitrobenzene to azobenzene. Indigo white is a crystalline white powder 1875 Ure's Dict. Arts II 907 When an excess of some acid is added to the yellow solution, the indigo white is precipitated in white or greyish white flocks

Indhumin (indhŭmin) Chem. [f. Indi- + L. humus soil + -in.] A product of the decomposition of indican, which occurs with indirubin in indigo from Bengal, formula $C_{14}H_7NO$

1865 78 Watts Dict. Chem. III 272 1889 [see Indican]

† Indiju dicable, a. Obs. rare [In- 1] Incapable of being decided Hence † Indiju dicably adv.

1659 Stanley Hist. Philos. xii (1701) 485/2 Whether well they say, the controversy is dijudicable or indijudicable if indijudicable, it is fit we suspend, for in things indijudicably requisite, it is not possible to assert

† Indike, v. Obs. rare—1 [a F. indiquer] = Indicate 2, 3

1541 R. Copland Calvon's Jerusalem 2 Diuyb, The which wold indyke the curiosyon † Indila·table, a. Obs. rare—0 [In- 3.] Not dilatable Hence † Indilatabi lity, incapability of being dilated or distended 1783 Pott Chirurg. Wks. II 169 Who can tell what may be the consequence of this indilatability of the skin?

† Indila·tely, adv. Sc. Obs. Also 6–7 indilatlie, inlitlie [f. In- 1 + dilate, Sc pa. pple of Dilate v.] + -ly 2.] Without delay, immediately, forthwith

1572 in Calderwood Hist. Kirk (Wodrow Soc.) III 181 We require you indilatlie, upon the receipt hereof to proceed to your election 1579 Sc. Acts Jas. VI (1814) III 138/2 The refuses or inhabilite of any persone to pay be sadis panes respective, presentlie and indilatlie

† Indi·latory, a. Obs. rare—1 [In- 3.] Not dilatory, expeditious

1654 in Cromwelliana Let to Sr Arm. in Cabala Supp 100 Since you have framed new orders you would be pleased in like manner to give them a new form of indilatory execution

Indileucin (indiliū·sin) Chem. [f. Indi- + Gr. λευκ-ος white + -in.] A substance, $C_{14}H_{28}N_2O$, obtained, in colourless glistening needles, by reduction of indirubin with zinc-dust and acetic acid

1889 Morley & Muir Watts' Dict. Chem. II 960/1

† Indi·ligence. Obs. [ad. L. indiligentia, f. in- (In- 4) + diligentia Diligence.]

1 Want of diligence or application, inconstancy or negligence in effort, indolence, sloth

1496 Sc. Acts Jas. IV (1814) II 238/2 Gif that be nott of Indiligence or sleuth þarin, but þat he purȝst be be kingis gude grace 1604 Edmonds Observ. Cæsar's Comm. 61 The same was distressed for want of corne by reason of the poverte of the Boij and the indiligence of the Heduj 1668 Phillips, Indiligence, want of diligence, sloth

2 Want of attention, heedlessness, carelessness

1656 B. Jonson Discov., De optimo scriptore Wks (Riding's quot.) Is it not as great an indignity, that an evell lent conceit and capacity by the indiligence of an idle tongue should be disgraced? 1657 [B. Jonson Sejan for Tacit. in 38 It is with much reverence and great indulgence usually trusted in this question, that [etc.]

† Indi·ligent, a. Obs. [ad. L. indiligent-em, -ens (In- 3) + diligent-em attentive, careful. cf. F. indiligent Montaigne, (16th c.)]

1 Not diligent, idle, slothful

1633 B. Hall Hard Texts, N. T. 50 So is the unfaithful and indiligent man apt to lay the fault upon his Maker 1650 Fuller Pisgah iv. 20 Ye shall believe his Majesty will neither believe the one long nor me altogether indiligent, if he do not receive this Historie so soone as otherwise he might have expected

2 Inattentive, heedless, careless

1549 Chaloner Erasm. on Folly Pijb, They are indiligent remembrancers what is written in many places of scripture concerning their duties 1657 Barne On Colosse 1–11 (1634) 119 There is such an indiligent carelessenesse that we let the wilde ingraffe the right 1658 Wilson Chr. Union 26 A will onely appear to the indiligent & offer of Faith 1738 Warburton Div. Legat I 22 The most indiligent observer

Hence † Indi ligently adv., without diligence

c 1651 Dugdale Corresp. IV 342 Not to have put pray, not preach, not fear, slackly suddenly, unadvisedly, extemporally, occasionally, indiligently 2 1656 B. Hall Arm. Wks., Synodalites (1660) 3 After I had spent some years (not altogether indiligently) under the ferule of such Masters 1775 J. Harwood Classics Pref. 11 (Jod.), I have not indiligently perused the whole † Indi·m, v. Obs. rare—1 [f. In- 2 + Dim v.] trans. To make or render dim, to dim

a 1580 Barclay Jugurth (Pynson, ed 2) 76 a, That the ayre therwith was indymed

Indime·nsible, a. rare—1 [f. In- 3 + dimensible from Dimense v.] That cannot be measured or reduced to measure

1844 W. H. Mill Serm. Templ. Christ Notes 161 Things in themselves unmixable are mingled in the Eternal with time, the Indimensible with measure

Indime nsional, a. rare—1 [In- 3.] Not dimensional, having no dimensions

1875 Lady in Gd. Words No. 1 20 One of the most singular facts presented to the human mind is the Indimensional character of space

† Indimi nishable, a. Obs. rare [In- 3.] That cannot be diminished or lessened

1541 Mirror of Reforme II 1852 To slight and brave the indiminishable Majestie of our highest Court the Law giving and Sacred Parliament 1799 Davy in T. Beddoes Contrib. Phys. & Med. Knowledge 79 A gas or gases indiminishable by nitrous oxyd Ibid. 167 note

Indin (indin) Chem. [f. Indi-, Indigo- + -in] A crystalline substance of a beautiful rose colour, isomeric with indigo-blue

1845 Penny Cycl. Suppl. I 345/2 Indin is prepared by the action of potash on sulphindigotic acid. It is isomeric with indigo-blue 1865–78 Watts Dict. Chem. III 265 Indin forms a deep rose-coloured powder, or fine microscopic needles, insoluble in water

b Comb indin-potassium ($C_{16}H_{11}N_2O_2K$), the potassium salt of indic acid, indinsulphuric acid, indinsulphate, etc. Also, as a second element in dibromindin, dichlorindin, hydrindin, nitrindin, compounds of indin with bromine, chlorine, etc

1865 78 Watts Dict. Chem. III 265 Indin potassium may be prepared by warming indin moistened with alcohol, and dissolving it in strong alcoholic potash Ibid. 267 A hot solution of indinsulphuric acid mixed with excess of a potassium salt deposits the indinsulphate on cooling in interlaced needles of a dark red colour Ibid. 268 The barium salt evaporated down with hydrochloric or sulphuric acid, is converted into indinsulphate of barium

Hence Indi zic a., obs synonym of Indic a q.v.

Inding, bc variant of Indign

† Indi·n, v. Obs. Also endip [f. In- 1 + Din v. Cf. Du. indiepen] trans. To dip in 1506 R. [Inches] Dialla, Don Degre (1877) 80 Sacred Pymplandes endip my quill Within the holy waters of your spring 1612 G. Fletcher Christ's Trf. lx. xli. Whose garment was before indipt in blood 1631 Celestina vi 77 That poyson wherewith that cruel shot of Cupid hath it's sharpe point deeply indipped

Hence +Indipping vbl sb a1564 BECON Cert Art Chr Relig in Prayers, etc (Parker Soc.) 418 Julius the pope doth utterly forbid such intinction or indipping, and commandeth that the cup should severally be taken by itself

Indirect (indire·kt), a [= F indirect (1364 in Godef Compl.) or ad. L indirectus (Quintilian), f. in- (IN- 1) + directus DIRECT.] Not direct

1 Of a way, path, or course: Not straight, crooked, devious; also of a movement. Oblique (Chiefly fig., often with suggestion of 8 b) 1474 CAXTON Cheese iv 1 [ff. 66] The quene followeth to a place indirect in the manner of a rule to the black poynt to fore the physicien (CRAIGIE ed. 1908, 81) Ad locum non directum ad modum hoc in quadrangulo a ante medium ducitur 1595 C. MIDDLETON Summing 8 Unorderly labouring in the water, they by the indirect mooving of their body as pull downe themselves 1597 SHAKS. 2 Hen. IV, I. iv 18, He euen knowes By what by pathes, and indirect crook'd ways I met this Crowne 1658 WHARTON Ephemeris 1 (1646) 6 He indirect way v the nearest 1667 MILTON P. L. XI 631 O pittie and shame, that they should turn aside to tread Paths indirect or in the midway faint! 1768 CHURCHILL Ghost 702 By ways oblique and indirect b Of actions or feelings: Not straightforward and honest, not fair and open, 'crooked', deceitful, corrupt. (Also of persons: see DIRECT a 2 b.) 1570 Acts of Edw. VI 2 Lawyers may not by any indirect and indirect Dealinges be transferred to other Uses 1604 SHAKS. Oth. I. iii 111 Did you, by indirect and forced courses Subdue, and poyson this young Maides affections? a 1653 GOUGE Comm. Heb. xiii 5 Whatsoever is by force or fraud, by stealing, lying, or any other indirect course gotten, is an effect of covetousness. 1658 PHILLIPS, Indirect, said of a thing done by ill Practice, or under hand Dealing, or by foul means, contrary to Law and Custom 1708 Lond. Gaz. No. 4403/3 One of Her Majesty's Secretaries of State received a Letter promising discovery of several indirect Practices 1727 SWIFT Poison Corrupt Wits 1735 III 1 293, I do sincerely pray Forgiveness for those indirect methods I have pursued in inventing new titles to old books, putting 'authors' names to things they never saw, &c.

c Of a succession, title, etc: Not descending or derived in a straight line.
1596 SHAKS. 2 Hen. IV, I. iii 103, His Title, the which wee finde Too indirect, for long to continue
2 Not taking the straight or nearest course to the end in view, not going straight to the point, not acting or exercised with direct force, round about 1584 R. SCOT Discov. Witchcr. iii. iv (1886) 59 All manner of waies are to be used direct and indirect 1665 BOYLE Occas. Reff. Introd. Pref (1848) 32 To condemn Figurative and Indirect ways of conveying ev'n serious and Sacred matters, is to forget How often Christ him self made use of Parables 1720 WATERLAND Eight Serm. 237 The implicite or indirect proofs I shall but briefly mention 1783 WATSON Philip II (1793) II iv 381 To agree to such an indirect form of expression, might not at all turn the pride of the Spaniards 1865 TYLOR Early Hist. Man i. 4 The place of direct records has to be supplied, in part, by indirect evidence

b Logic (See quots., and DIRECT a. 4 c.) 1727-41 CHAMBERS Cycl., Indirect Modes, of syllogisms, in logic, are the five last modes of the first figure. It is the conversion of the conclusion which renders the modes indirect 1828 WHATELY Rhet. i. ii. § 3 in Encycl. Metrop. 268 Either the Premiss of an argument, or his Conclusion may be disproved either in the Direct or in the Indirect Method: i. e. either by proving the truth of the Contradictory, or by showing that an absurd Conclusion may fairly be deduced from the Proposition in question 1860 ABP. THOMSON Laws Th. § 127 271 Showing, that something impossible or absurd follows from contradicting, our conclusion is called indirect demonstration 1864 BOWEN Logic v. 142 Indirect proofs stem were that in which the species was predicated of the genus (etc.) Mod. VII + V If we exclude the Fourth Figure altogether, considering Bramantip, Camenes, &c. as Indirect Moods of the First there are but fourteen direct Moods. 1895 [see DIRECT a. 4 c]. 1896 WILTON Elements of Logic (ed. 2) IV iv § 228 I 358 Reduction is indirect when a new syllogism is formed which establishes the validity of the original conclusion by showing the illegitimacy of its Contradictory.

c Pol. Econ. Of taxation. Not levied directly upon the person on whom it ultimately falls, but charged in some other way, esp. upon the production or importation of articles of use or consumption, the price of which is thereby augmented to the consumer, who thus pays the tax in the form of increased price. Cf. DIRECT a. 6 c.
1801 A. HAMILTON Works (1886) VII 19, That which is called the direct tax was always resisted upon by them as preferable to taxes of the indirect kind 1845 [see DIRECT a. 6 c] 1868 ROGERS Pol. Econ. xxii (1876) 287 The greater part of the taxes raised in this and in most other civilised countries are known as indirect. They consist in the levy of imposts on articles of consumption (etc.) 1884 J. RAE Contemp. Socialism 17 Customs and indirect taxation of different kinds

3 Gram. +a Indirect relation, the syntactical relation between two words which are not in full grammatical concord 1393 LANGL. P. Pl. C. xx. 344 Quab be kynde to conscience, 'knowen ich wolde What is relesion rect and in dyrect after' for englisch was it neuere'. Ibid. 364 Thus is relacion rect ryht as adiectif and substantif Accorded in alle kynges with his antecedent. Indirect bynt, ys as bo3 counted Alle kynge lowde to knowe and to folwe, With ente (exe) to eschie (to) and come to lobe numbres

b Of speech or narration. Put in a reported form, not in the speaker's own words, but with the changes of pronouns, persons, tenses, etc which conform it to the point of view of the reporter, oblique: opposed to DIRECT a. 6 b.
Vol. V

The idioms of different languages differ widely in respect to indirect construction. In English, indirect sentences are usually introduced by that or if, expressed or understood. Thus, a speaker's actual words 'I will not go unless you use force', are reported indirectly, by the person addressed, as 'he said (that) he would not go unless I used force', by a third party as 'he told X (that) he would not go unless he (X) used force'. The question 'Do you know me?' becomes, on indirect report, 'He asked me if I knew him', and he asked X if he knew him.
1866 MASON Eng. Gram. (ed. 7) 111 In such sentences the dependent clause is called an indirect question. 1866 W. J. BELL Gr. Comp. (ed. 4) § 866 II 627 Indirect interrog sentences. 1870-7 MORTON in Barnes's N. Eng. 8 § 60 9 In words spoken by others we quoted they are not, as a rule, brought into the structure of the sentence in the indirect construction 1879 RODD Nat. Gram. II 142 When statement, question, [etc.] is reported in a form which makes it dependent in construction on some such words as said, the language is said to be oblique or indirect c Indirect object = OBJECT 3.

1879 RODD Nat. Gram. II 54 The indirect object is the person or thing affected by the occurrence of an action although not directly or primarily acted on. 1881 MASON Eng. Gram. (ed. 24) 24 The Indirect Object of a verb denotes that which is indirectly affected by an action but is not the immediate object or product of it, as Give him the book, 'Make me a cot'.

d Indirect passive, a passive verb having for its subject the indirect object of the active voice: as I was told it, he was refused admittance, the mayor was given a public welcome, they were cheered (see 6 b, 2). Also, a passive voice formed on an intransitive verb construed with a preposition, the prepositional object becoming the subject of the passive verb while the preposition becomes adverbial, as they have spoken to him, he has been spoken to, many sun-dials here, she is much run after 4 Not directly aimed at or intended; not immediately resulting from an action or cause 1823 SCOTT Peveril xxxiv, He is one who will neither seek an indirect advantage by a specious road, nor take an evil path to a fair end 1848 MACAULAY Hist. Eng. I. 98 The Hist. Eng. VII 95 He could not bring himself to sacrifice his salary of eight thousand pounds a year, and the full larger emoluments of his office 1852 DISRAELI Sybil (ed. 2) III 9 Happiness is not the direct aim, but the indirect consequence of the good government

Indirect, a. rare [IN- 1] Not directed or guided 1601 CORNWALLYES Disc. Seneca (1631) 71 Have fixed their indirected steppes upon Arts unprofitable 1819 CRABBE Tales of Hall iv. 228, I prayd in heart an indirected prayer

Indirection (indire·kʃən) [f. INDIRECT, after DIRECTION.]
1 Indirect movement or action, a devious or circuitous course to some end, round about means or method. By indirection, by indirect means, indirectly 1608 SHAKS. Ham. II. i. 65 And thus doe we. By indirections finde directions out 1634 Bonds Iniquity in Harl. Misc. II. 38 By any indirection, should receive no money from your court. I doubt the issue Of my employment. 1658 Cert. of Complainants 23 Is there ways of effects of evil merit and valor, which still shew a luster on the rest, and not of indirection 1856 EMERSON Eng. Traits xiii. 213 Oxford values less its merits. Whether the course of it by indirection, educates according to the English notion of it is arrived at 1879 J. ROBERTSON Caveats to H. Howes (1884) 102 The whether is to be understood not by rule but by subtle sagacious indirection 1888 Q. Rev. Oct. 407 As always the case with good critics, Mr. Arnold works from indirection and suggestion than by sheer delivery of judgment

b In literal sense. An indirect or devious way 1858 HAWTHORNE Fr. & It. Jrnls. (1872) I 16 Through some other indirection we had found the Rue Bergère
2 Want of straightforwardness in action, an act, or practice, which is not straightforward and honest, deceit, malpractice 1598 SHAKS. John II. i. 576 The better Act of purposes mistooke Is to mistake again; though indirect Yet indirection thereby growes direct, And falshood falshood cures 1601 Pilgr. (1870) 19 Following from the hand hands of Pleasure, whose trade by my indirection 1772 Junius xlvi. No. 191 P 1 The Indirection and Artifice which is used among Men 1834 MRS. TROLLOPE Helen Ashley I. 164 I would rather die than use indirection 1857 Sat. Rev. IV. 76 He hated diplomatic inductions, or to speak bluntly, lying.

Indirectly (indire·ktli), adv. Also 6 indyrectly [f. INDIRECT a. 1, 2 + -LY 2.] In a manner or by means which are not direct 1 Not in a straight line or with a straight course, circuitously, obliquely. Now rare 1474 CAXTON Chesse II. 63] The quene [may go] on the right side before the nakyd K. or elles on the left side where the knyght is & thirdly Indirectly into the black poynt to fore the physicien [CESSOLES ed. 1906 81 Et non directus sed locum ingressus & nouum aspectum medicinal] 1593 HARVEY Pierces Supererog. Epistle. Wks. (Grosart) I. 206 Entringe their houses of the xii. synes Some indyrectly and some by diverte lynes. 1595 W. LEIGH Meteors (1640) 4 b, In places where the beames are cast indirectly and obliquely 1596 Edward III, I. i. 2 You are the lineal watchman of our peace, And John of Valois indirectly climbs 1832 BALLANTYNE Nat. Magic ii (1833) 15 All objects seen indirectly are seen indistinctly

+b By crooked methods, wrongfully, unfairly, dishonestly. Obs.
1580 HOLLYBAND Treas. Fr. Tonge, Appointer, to subborne, to appointe some body to saye or doe indirectly 1599 SHAKS. Hen. V, II. iv. 24 He hath, you then resigne Your Crowne and Kingdome indirectly held From him 1603 HOLLAND Plutarch's Mor. 937 Unto whom this imputation was laid, that by corruption he had carried away the prize, and indirectly obtained the victorie

†c Not to the point, evasively. Obs.
1596 SHAKS. 1 Hen. IV, I. iii. 180 Did I debate my wanting Chat of his Made me to answer indirectly. 1605 Vox Populi II. v. 11 To speak so indirectly I am loath, I would say the truth, but to accuse him so That is your part. 1673 DRYDEN Marr. a la Mode II. i. You answer sweetly and indirectly. What Interest can you pretend in her? 1712 ADDISON Spect. No. 505 P 1 The other is to answer him indirectly and, if possible, to turn off the Question

2 By indirect action means, connexion, agency or instrumentality; through some intervening person or thing; mediately 1477 EARL RIVERS (CAXTON) Dict. 136 The Ly Jogeth in directly amongis the dede 1586 Liger. Levit. (W. de Worde) 165 Father immediatly or mediatly, that is to say, without meane, or by some meane directly, or indirectly 1590 SWINBURNE Testaments 139 Whereof any person is not capable directly of his himselfe he is not capable thereof indirectly or by an other 1597 BACON Maxims in S. Papers (Camden) II 177 I doe much doubt whether Tom Chichly holds any correspondence directly or indirectly with Secretarie Nich 1778 Lond. Mag. XLVII. 11 (1864) II 466 The state not knowing, how to tax, directly and proportionably, the revenue of its subjects, endeavors to tax it indirectly by taxing their expence, which it is supposed, will in most cases be nearly in proportion to their revenue 1885 Law Times Reports LII. 611 It weighs except mediately through friction, has nothing to do with it

b Not in express terms, by suggestion or implication 1594 SHAKS. Rich. III, IV. iv. 225 Whose hand soever lanch'd their tender hatch, By thee is cal'd, embrac'd, and sweet direction 1623 WEBSTER Duchess in Dramatica (1653) 26 If to the Ladies they dis-prove the Sonne, It shall be slily indirectly done 1875 JOWETT Plato (ed. 2) II. 530 The question has been directly asked and indirectly answered in the Meno 1880 WESTCOTT St. John Introd. 5 What then is the evidence, which the Gospel itself bears to its authorship, first indirectly, and next directly?

3 Gram. In or by indirect or oblique oration (see INDIRECT a. 3 b).
1877 MORTON in Barnes's N. Gram. 8 § 60 When a writer has begun by quoting words indirectly, he will frequently pass very quickly into the oratio directa

Indirectness (indire·ktnĕs). [f. INDIRECT a. + -NESS.] The quality of being indirect, want of directness or straightforwardness 1628 WEBBE Prent Kemenal 18 1581 Is thy Son rayny path Unequall? Art not rather thine which hath Such indirectness? 1654 W. MOUNTAGUE Devout Ess. II. xvii. 342 The indirectness of this doctrine of Pur. store, have methinks, need a worse kind of indirectness in their expounders 1790 BURKE Hist. Parl. and L. 4 His very indirectness and subtilty is that which gives force and propriety to the example 1821 JOHN COCKBURN Mem. in 1774 140 Indirectness was entirely foreign to his manly nature

Indiretn (indiɹtin Chem [f. IND- + Ger. pyrrol (1858 + -IN.] A dark brown shining resin, $C_{32}H_{12}N_2O_2$, one of the components of indigo brown obtained by decomposition of indican 1865-72 WATTS Dict. Chem. III. 248 The indiretin which still remains in solution is separated by ammonia 1889 [see INDICAN]

Indirubin (indiɹū·bin) Chem. [f. IND- + I rubr-eted + -IN.] A substance isomeric with indigo blue, obtained by decomposition of indican crystallizing in long purple metallic shining needles. Also called indigo purpurin and indigo red 1859 [see INDICAN] 1865-72 WATTS Dict. Chem. III. 42 On exposing the nitrite to the air a purple red deposit is formed, consisting of indirubin 1881 Nature XXIV. 1 The red isomeric of indigo blue. Indirubin . . . is a very splendid red colour but has little practical value 1889 MORLEY & MUIR Watt. Dict. Chem. II. 720 When fresh indican solution is mixed with lime, and boiled, it is only indigo and indirubin that are obtained. But if the indican solution is previously boiled with dilute mineral acids, also formed

+Indisce·rned, a. Obs. rare⁻¹ [IN- 1] Not discerned, indistinct 1652 GAULE Magastrom 166 The study and search proves very difficult, indiscerned mistakes

Indiscernible (indiɹ·snibl), a. and sb. Also 7 able [f. IN- 1 + DISCERNIBLE, cf. Fr. indiscernable (1582 in Hatz. Darm.).]
A adj. 1 Incapable of being discerned by the senses or intellect, imperceptible, undiscoverable 1633 SHAKS. Ven. & Ad. 1 2 2 2 Love's fire heats water, water cools not love 1641 MILTON Reform. II. (1851) 41 Amid so many small and indiscernable drops 1640 W. CHAMBERS in Phil. Trans. XXVII. 283 The light of the sun doth make it indiscernible 1664 POWER Exp. Phil. I. 18 An Animal . . . whose whole bulk to the bare eye is quite indiscernable 1754 SHERLOCK Disc. iii. 91 If this Wisdom and Holiness, and even his Mercy, are so indiscernible in his Justice 1853 READE Christ. Prince I. 240 Rapid to discernible by male eye 1879 CHR. ROSSETTI Seek & Find 192 Be the steps at any given moment discernible or indiscernible by our vision

2 That cannot be distinguished (from something else), indistinguishable. Obs. or arch.
1646 SIR T. BROWNE Pseud. Ep. III. xxv. 156 That red and sanguineous humor affording in linnen or paper an indiscernible tincture from blood 1825 WAITMAN Arch. 3

Amer 1 (1887) 79 The mountains gradually retire till they are indiscernible from the clouds in which they are involved.

B sb 1 A thing (animal, etc.) that cannot be discerned by the senses

1783 J KIRBY Hab & Inst Anim (1852) I 169 The infusories, or as they have been also called animalculæ, microscopic animals, acrita or indiscernibles

2 Metaph A thing that cannot be distinguished from some other thing or things

Identity of indiscernibles the doctrine that things can not exist together as separate entities unless they have different attributes

1717 S CLARKE Leibnitz 5th Paper 173 The Supposition of two Indiscernibles, such as two Pieces of Matter perfectly alike, seems indeed to be possible in abstract Terms.

1837 F CAIRD Philos Examiner Introd v 8 Where there is no difference, there is no activity, and hence no substance or individuality. This is the meaning of the celebrated identity of indiscernibles.

1882 Nat Rev 14 Mar 489 Mr Grant Allen stone, whose ingenuity in detecting the non-identity of indiscernibles has been sharpened by this matter to a preternatural degree

Hence Indisce rnibleness, the quality of being indiscernible, Indisce rnibly adv, in an indiscernible manner, imperceptibly 1643 J GODWIN Antichrist Heads she indiscernibly to communicate all his false reasonings 1648 HAMMOND Serm iv Wks 1674 IV 454 I should have shewed you also the indiscernibleness in the eye of man of the difference of these distant states 1821 D QUINCEY Kantier Wks 1860 XIV 117 I the pathetic and the humorous melt indiscernibly into each other 1885 Nat Rev 30 May 717 The human mind is seldom found in such a state of indiscernibleness.

+ Indisce rning, a Obs rare [IN-3] Not discerning 1660 N INCHLO Bentevolio & Urania (1682) II 126 That so many varieties should rise out of Matter by a blind scuffle of indiscerning Principles, is an absurd Phæno.

+ Indisce rpible, a Obs [f IN-3 + DISCERPIBLE] = INDISCERPTIBLE

1659 H MORE Immort Soul (1662) III A Soul is a Spirit, and therefore of an Indivisible, that is, of an Indiscerpible, Essence 1668 GLANVILL Van Dogmat iv (1682) 35 The soul, which is Immaterial and indiscerpible 1703 KEILL Nature 224 Some Philosophers strike at the Soul's Substance indiscerpible, that it cannot be divided 1721 WOTTON Reliq Sacr ix 189 That there should be atoms whose parts are indiscerpible 1823 HALLAM Hist Lit III iii § 63 If we could know the internal structure of one primary atom, and could tell through what constant laws its component, though indiscerpible, molecules, the atoms of atoms, attract, retain, and repel each other

Hence + Indiscerpibli ity, + Indisce rpibleness, the quality of being indiscerpible, + Indisce rpibly adv, in an indiscerpible manner

1659 H MORE Immort Soul Pref (1662) 7 Endowing it with such Attributes as are essential to it, as Indiscerpibility is to the Soul of Man 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst Contents iv v 833 Something existed otherwise than Body, so as to be penetrable thereof, and indiscerpibly one with itself and self-active 1680 H MORE Annot Glanvill's Lux 222 An Indiscerpibleness that arises from thinness and thinness parts of matter 1721 BAILEY, Indiscerpibility, a being in separable

Indiscerptible (indisə·ptibl), a [f IN-3 + DISCERPTIBLE] Incapable of being divided into parts, not destructible by dissolution of parts 1736 BUTLER Analog I i 6 Wks 1874 I 21 There is no reason to think death to be the dissolution of the living being even though it should not be absolutely indiscerptible.

1750 JOHNSON Rasselas xlvii, A power impassive and indiscerptible 1848 R W HAMILTON Acct of Dominican (1853) 216 The soul has no parts to be separated in Butler's phrase, it is indiscerptible 1880 PRITCHARD in Chambers's No 530 Definite groups of indiscerptible atoms are associated, we believe, into molecules

Hence Indiscerptibi lity, Indisce rptibleness, the quality of being indiscerptible, Indisce rptibly adv

1755 JOHNSON, Indiscerptibility, incapability of dissolution 1775 ASH, Indiscerptible ness 1825 R P WARD Inmortality III ix 83 The indiscerptibility of thought is in truth, the great argument which goes to the bottom of the proof à priori 1845 DE QUINCEY in 'H A Page' Tait 1877 II xviii 128 His indiscerptibility or non-liability to violent separation

Indisciplinable (indi sɪplinăbl), a [f IN-3 + DISCIPLINABLE cf F indisciplinable (1580 in Hatz-Darm.)] Incapable of being disciplined, not amenable to discipline, intractable.

1600 ADE ARMIN Fo's Jonath 154 Their rudeness and indisciplinable barbarisme 1652 J SMITH Sel Disc iv 83 Sense which is the most indocible dole thing that may be 1676 HALE Contn Pagan Prof (Masson) Ne-seauty resides men of phlegmatic and dull natures stupid and indisciplinable 1793 W GODWIN Enq conc Polit Justice 304, 311 1814 SHELLEY Revolt Islam 1886) 27 His great though indisciplinable energies

† Indi sciplinate, a Obs rare [ad late L indisciplinātus, f in- (IN-3) + disciplinātus DISCIPLINATE cf F indiscipliné] Not disciplined, not subjected to discipline

c 1450 tr De Imitatione II iii 43 Harde & ouerthwart men indisciplinate & contrarious 1579 J PIETO tr Col tonus Serm Ded, An indisciplinate kinde of life

† Indisciplina·tion Obs rare—1 [ad late L indisciplinātion-em, f in- (IN-3) + disciplinātion-em DISCIPLINATION] Non-subjection to discipline, undisciplined conduct

c 1450 tr De Imitatione II xii 80 Lest þou engendre sclaundre in oþer þorw indisciplinacion

Indisciplina (indi sɪplinə), [f IN-3 + DISCIPLINE, or f F indiscipline (1762 in Hatz-Darm.)] Absence or lack of discipline, want of the order imposed by constituted (esp military) authority upon a body of persons amenable to it, want of the order and method acquired by training

1783 J ADAMS Wks (1854) IX 517 To venture upon a piece of indiscipline, in order to secure a tolerable peace 1790 GOUV MORRIS in Sparks Life & Writ (1832) II 175 My former letters have mentioned the indiscipline of the French armies 1812 WELLINGTON in Gurw Disp (1838) IX 604 The habits of indiscipline and insubordination are such, that even those corps . . are in bad a state 1884 Guardian 21 M 769 Indiscipline in the Church of England 1889 I HARDY Woodlanders II xvii 310 Mental indiscipline hindered her from beginning her conversation

† Indisci nable, a Obs rare [IN-3] Not disconsolate

1647 W BROWNE tr Combat'ice Polecandro II 164 [He] would not have been so indiscreet as, but onely for taking off Ishidramus discontent

Indiscoverable (indiskʌ·vərăbl), a [f IN-3 + DISCOVERABLE] Not discoverable, not to be found out, undiscoverable

1659 GLANVILL Vanity Dogmat (1661) 74 To keep, his own designs indiscoverable to his Enemy 1704 NORRIS Ideal World II iii 177 Conclusions of great importance to be indiscoverable, perhaps under a perpetual obscurity 1889 WYKS Study ben Jonson 21 The artist, the scholar is as indiscoverable as the spontaneous humourist or poet

Hence Indisco verably adv

1669 Idler hapsful 104 Gentry Eng 80 An old stout Carrick lost by its old indiscoverably growing leakages

† Indiscovered, a Obs rare—1 [IN-1] Not discovered, undiscovered

1663 Gower Pr 1 Sev Occas, Ode Drake's Chair iv, Lamb forth into an indiscovered Sea

† Indisco very Obs rare [f IN-1 Non discovery, failure to discover or find out

1660 N CARPENTER Archithephras 8 The indiscovery of such mens natures causeth their worst actions to carry the best construction 1696 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep vi xii 338 The seduced (viz. Eve), may unto reasonable speculations, require the capitall indiscovery

Indiscreet (indiskrī·t), a Forms 5 indys, 5–7 indiscrete, 6 Sc creit, (7 -creete), 6– -creet [prob a p. indiscred, -crēd (though this is cited only in Goth. in Hatz.-Darm.) + IT, Sp indiscreto, or directly ad I indiscretus, in a late or med I sense see note to DISCREET a The direct repr of the L word in its classical sense is INDISCRETE] Not discreet, without discretion

†1 Without discernment or soundjudgement Obs

1513 DOUGLAS Æneis I xiii 18 Vil to So base vyis ben forfaren with indiscrete sorowe, as was cursyd Cayn the fyrst borne child 1432–50 tr Higden (Rolls) I 319 Indiscrete men supposed hym to haue the wyttes in his gouernaile and poware c 1450 MYRC 825 I este indiscrete hys prest were Hys confes-syone for to here 1611 CHAPMAN Iliad XIII 135 Priam . . was not always pleased with indiscreet advice 1617 CORNWALLYES Ess, Praise Ann Hil (ed 2) C1b, The partiall writings of indiscreet Chronologers 1625 BOYLE Occasional Reflex v § 4 I 1 Wks 1772 IV 158 There are others, who, out of an indiscreete devotion, are so solicitous to increase the number and the wonderfulness of mysteries.

2 Injudicious or imprudent in speech or action, inconsiderate, unadvised, unwary

1588 SHAKES L L L IV ii 31 It would all become me to be coupled to a lubber. Or a fool 1596 Merchant Venice III 280 That it may bee known where to lay the blame of so indiscreete, if not malicious, a reporte 1661 BAXTER Mor Prospect 84 17 The younger, and indiscreet 1828 Passionate Sort A 1715 BURNET Own Time (1766) I 369 The indiscreetest and wildest creature that ever was in a court 1782 JARVIS Don Quix II 1xxii, By his indiscreet zeal the object would be lost 1827 RUSKIN Pol Econ Art 1 (1868) 35 You may do much harm by indiscreet praise and by indiscreet blame 1856 GEO ELIOT Dan Der III, The younger sister had been indiscreet in her marriages

3 Sc Uncivil, impolite

1721 P WALKER Life Peden 80 For Rdr (1728) 4 Others gave me very indiscreet reproaching Language calling me a vile old Apostate 1824 MISS FERRIER Inher (1880) I 224, 'I think I never saw so ill bred a man . . I can't just say that, Bell', said her mother, 'I'm sure he was not very indiscreet'

Hence Indiscreet ness, the quality of being indiscreet, indiscretion

1658 A FOX Worth Search I iii 11 Through this rashness and indiscreetness most dangerous and worst symptoms are caused 1852 DICKENS Bleak Ho liv, I misprised at the indiscreetness you commit

Indiscreetly (indiskrī·tli), adv [f. prec + -LY 2]

1 In an indiscreet manner, with or through want of discernment judgement, or prudence

c 1450 tr De Imitatione III viii 74 Somme indiscretly for goostly loue haue destroied hemself 1535 Act 27 Hen VIII, c 10 § 1 They . . doo many times dispose indiscretly and vnadvisedly their landes and inheritances 1654 MASSINGER Very Woman I i Wks (Rtldg) 368 'Twas done indiscreetly 1749 FIELDING Tom Jones XIII viii, It should be a warning to all persons (says she, looking at her daughters) how they marry indiscreetly 1808 BENTHAM Ration Rew Wks 1843 II 210 Astonished that legislators have so indiscreetly multiplied the operations which tend to weaken its (veracity's) influence

2 Sc Uncivilly, impolitely

1637–50 ROW Hist Kirk (Wodrow Soc) 312, I hope you will not use me so indiscreetlie as did one Mr David Calder wood when I was comeing out of Scotland

Indiscrete (indiskrī·t), a. Also † indiscreet [ad L indiscrēt-us unseparated, undistinguished: see IN-3 and DISCRETE, and cf the differentiated INDISCREET]

†1 Not distinctly separate or distinguishable from contiguous objects or parts Obs

1608 J UPSELL Serpents (1658) 509 The Ammodyte, indiscreet on the Land [undiscrii-tarenti], Doth hold the colour of the burning sand 1661 J OWEN Hist Amm & Min Introd, The round crustates, & the Cancri, have an indiscrete head

2 Not divided into distinct parts

1782 POWNALL Antiq 132 (I) A thousand years, in which the ter central elements were all in an indiscrete mass of confused matter 1883 SIR M MONIER WILLIAMS Religr Th & Life India 13 Next all was water, all a chaos indiscrete 1893 FAIRBAIRN Christ in Mod Theol II ii 109 The Absolute is not Substance homogeneous and indiscrete

Hence Indiscre tely adv, without separation or division

1658 Phil Trans XX 461 As for Method, there is none at all . . the Species being promiscuously and indiscretely placed as they came to Hand

Indiscretion (indiskre·ʃən) Forms 4 indiscrecyone, 5 indyscrecioun, 6 indiscretion, -oretione, 6– indiscretion [a F indiscrétion (12–13th c in Hatz-Darm.), ad late L indiscrētion-em, f in- (IN-3) + discrētion-em DISCRETION]

1 Want of discretion, the fact of being indiscreet, in early use, chiefly, want of discernment or discrimination, in later, want of judgement in speech or action, injudiciousness, unguarded, or unwary conduct; imprudence

c 1340 HAMPOLE Prose Tr 18 He sall neuer erre by fan tasye; ne by indiscrecyone c 1450 Pol Poems (Rolls) II 242 Vengeaunce and wrathe is an handy-werk, Wyth an vn stedefast spery3e of indyscrecioun 1508 ATKYNSON tr De Imitatione I viii 105 They by theyr indiscresson & euyl maners . . discomfort and hurte those they were bounde to comforte 1520 DANIEL Compl Rosamond Wks (1717) 39 Happy liv'd I, whilst Parents Eye did guide The Indiscretion of my feeble Years. 1548 HALL Chron 1 8 Our indiscretion sometimes seemes vertue, and when our deare plots do paule. 1648 in Ellis Orig Lett Ser 1 III 318 Prince Rupert was much displeased with him for his slouthfull or treason, in the rendering of Prestol, but not of Indiscretion 1697 DAMIER Dict I 128 Thus our hopes perished by the indiscretion of some few Persons 1751 JOHNSON Rambler No 167 P 5 Granting what only the indiscretion of her kindness enabled him to withhold 1825 W OTTERY Dram Biog III 43 When and where the first act of indiscretion (this is the holiday term for vice) occurred, we know not 1855 MACAULAY Hist Eng XVII IV 21 In spite of calumny for which their own indiscretion had perhaps furnished some ground

2 An indiscreet or imprudent act or step (Sometimes a euphemism for a transgression of social morality cf 1781 in 3)

1601 R JOHNSON Kingd & Commw (1603) 82 It were an equall indiscretion, to estimate a maimes worth, either by their body or apparell 1778 LADY M WORTLEY Lett to C tes [Bristol] (1887) I 238 They suffer sometimes for their indiscretions in a very severe manner 1739 GIBBER Apol (1756) I 57 A lady whose female indiscretions had occasion'd her family to abandon her . . 1752 [see INFANCY 2] 1850 MACAULAY Ess, Kanke (1854) II 146 A youth, guilty only of an indiscretion

3 Sc Incivility, want of politeness, rudeness.

1825–80 in JAMIESON

Indiscre tionary, a nonce-wd [f prec., after DISCRETIONARY] Of or pertaining to indiscretion

1841 LEVER C O Malley xxxvi 302 With a most indiscretionary power over the cellar

+ Indiscri minally, adv Obs rare—1 [f IN-3 + L discriminālis serving to divide or separate + -LY 2, with error on application] = INDISCRIMINATELY

1665 BOYLE Occas Reff IV xvii 109 She vouchsafes to dis course indiscriminally with all commers that talk to her

+ Indiscri minancy rare [f IN-3 + DISCRIMINANT see -ANCY] Undiscriminating quality

1890 Universal Rev 15 Oct 306 It strikes with sunlike indiscriminancy 'the just and the unjust

Indiscriminate (indiskri minăt), a. [f IN-3 + DISCRIMINATE]

1 Of things Not marked by discrimination or discernment, done without making distinctions, confused, promiscuous

1649 JER TAYLOR Gt Exemp II § 9 Before he gave to him an indiscriminate testimony 1758 Connoisseur No 58 P 1 The inconveniences arising from the indiscriminate power lodged in our Press-gangs 1777 PRIESTLEY Matt & Spir (1782) I 202 They lay aside this indiscriminate vengeance 1838 THIRLWALL Greece II xiv 195 Others commanded an indiscriminate slaughter without regard to age or to place 1880 STANLEY Serm (1887) I xviii 346 Partisans who are loud in indiscriminate censure and applause 1896 GREEN Stray Stud 23 The indiscriminate almsgiving which has done so much to create and encourage pauperism

2 Of persons or agents Undiscriminating, not exercising discrimination, making no distinctions.

1792 Anecd W Pitt III xiii 190 The indiscriminate hand of vengeance has lumped together innocent and guilty 1828 Sketches of Character (1813) I 200 You are too indiscriminate in your partiality for them 1840 MISS MITFORD in L'Estrange Life (1870) III vi 107 Without being one of his indiscriminate admirers, I like parts of his books.

3 quasi-adv = INDISCRIMINATELY

1597–8 HP HALL Sat v iii (T.), Could ever wise man wish, in good estate, The use of all things indiscriminate?

Hence Indiscri minateness, the quality of being indiscriminate

1879 McCarthy Own Times I ix 183 Measures to mitigate the rigour and to correct the indiscriminateness of the death punishment 1890 Spectator 13 Dec. 866/2 No word can be denuded of its true utility by fatuous indiscriminateness of application

Indiscriminated (indiskri minated), a [f IN-3 + DISCRIMINATED ppl a.] Not discriminated or distinguished from one another, indiscriminate

1669 Addr hopeful yng Gantry Fug 33 Supposing those many indictments mist Heads to have had but one common parent. a 1715 Burnet Own Time (1766) I 273 To keep themselves united, and either to set on an indiscriminated toleration, or a general prosecution, for so we love to soften the harsh word of persecution

Indiscriminately (indiskri minatli), adv [f INDISCRIMINATE + -LY2.] In an indiscriminate manner, without distinction, promiscuously, with out the exercise of discrimination

1654 Gayle Magastrom 179 Divines, Historians, and Poets thus speak of them indiscriminately 1654 Jer Taylor Real Pres I (R.), A cloud of tree, majesty, and secrecy indiscriminately must together 1774 Phenix Lond Quibl III 177 25c Not to shelter indiscriminately every offender 1774 J Bryant Mythol I p v, To distinguish the various people of whom writers have so generally and indiscriminately spoken. 1824 L Murray Engl Gram (ed 5) I 412 The stress is laid on long and short syllables indiscriminately 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) I 140 I have praised indiscriminately all their goods, without knowing what are really beneficial or hurtful

Indiscriminating (indiskri minating), a [f IN-3 + DISCRIMINATING ppl a.] Not discriminating, that does not make or recognize distinctions, undiscriminating 1754 67 Bailly (Mason), That indiscriminating floods should spare A chosen Few 1776 Bentham Fragm Govt Wks 1843 I 299 A hasty and indiscriminating condemner of what is established, may expose himself to contempt 1860 Mill Repr Govt (1865) 23/1 Too lavish and indiscriminating be nefactors.

Hence Indisori minatingly adv., in an indiscriminating manner, without discrimination

1824 New Monthly Mag. X 105 Complaints made indiscriminatingly against actors 1889 Saturday Rev 9 Feb 176/2 A comparison which has been made too indiscriminatingly of late Indiscrimination (indiskrimi nā·ʃən) [f IN-3 + DISCRIMINATION.] The fact of not discriminating or making distinctions, the condition of not being discriminated, absence of distinction, want of discrimination or discernment.

1649 Jer Taylor Gt Exampl I § 6 97 Since God had ho dered him [Herod] from the execution of so distinguishing a word he resolved to send a word of indiscrimination and confusion 1659 Hammond Orig Sacr 19 Where one indiscrimination there appears between them here in this world 1796 S Horsley Serm (1812) I 240 The like indiscrimination may prevail in higher orders 1856 Lowell Among my bks Ser II 345 As far indeed is his Fauna' from the lavish indiscrimination of Hudymon' 1894 Hatton Gaz 16 Nov 3 2 In spite of her indiscrimination and lack of sound judgment, which has alienated many

Indiscriminative (indiskri minativ) a. [f IN-3 + DISCRIMINATIVE.] Not discriminative, not characterized by, or inclined to, discrimination

1854 Tait's Mag XXI 108 Confusions of weakness arising from excessive but indiscriminative strength 1880 Swinburne Introd Collins in J H Ingram's Eng Poets III 279 That sweeping violence of indiscriminative depreciation

†Indisori minatively, adv. Obs [f IN-3 + DISCRIMINATIVE + -LY2.] Without exercise of discrimination, indiscriminately

1684 Hickes God's Decrees 316 The Almighty hath indiscriminately ascertain d future happiness to every one 1712 M Davies Athen Brit I 61 Which Drawing, Painting of their Lashes and Eyebrowns Indiscriminatively, rather than imp urally

†Indiscuss sed, a. Obs rare. [f IN-3 + DISCUSSED ppl a.] Not discussed, undiscussed

1534 Whitinton Tullyes Offices III (1540) 110 He promysed to wryte of thre maners of delyberacions, and lefte the thyrde undiscussed a 1631 Donne Serm (1640) 68 Sermons & Poems, etc (1833) 359 Upon reasons light in themselves or undiscussed in met

Indiscu nsible, a Also -able [f IN-3 + DISCUSSIBLE.] Incapable of being discussed

1893 Nation (N Y) 4 Aug 134/1 The letter must be accepted as the sole and indiscussable rule by which all Catholics must be guided on the question involved 1898 Swinburne in Review Rev 15 Nov 1/1 The noble passion and the noble pathos of its greater parts are alike indiscussable and irresistible

+Indisgra ced, a Obs rare—1 [f IN-3 + DISGRACED ppl a.] Not disgraced, undisgraced

1606 Marston Sophonisba II ii, Our troopes of horse in the indisgrac'd retreat, I not cease off, not poore

+Indish, a Obs [f IND-ISH of Lngl-ish, Scott-ish, Span-ish, etc.] = INDIAN a

1548 Turner Names of Herbs, Indishe peper, Capsicum annum c1550 Lloyd Treat Health (1585) F 1b, For the wehke and cloudines in yᵉ eyes, take & stampe indishe Peper, and put to it yᵉ ioyce of a Fenel rote 1599 Hakluyt Voy II ii 72 A great many catchpoules with rods of Indish canes dragged on the ground 1599 H Buttes Dyets drie Dinner Aa iv, And smoke Tobaccos antidot With Indish ayre, like to Cameleon, fed 1601 Holland Pliny I 235 The biggest and most monstrous creature in the Indish Ocean †Indi·sh, v Obs rare Also en- [f IN-1 or 2 + DISH sb.] trans. To put into a dish.

1621 Florio, Inpiattare, to endish dish, Inscudellare, to indish, to put into dishes

Indispe llable, a rare [f IN-3 + dispell able, from DISPEL v.] Incapable of being dispelled

1817 Bentham Ch Inq (1818) 122 note, Notes the essential and utterly indispellable obscurity of the subjects themselves

Indispensability. [f next + -ITY.] The quality or fact of being indispensable.

1 Incapability of dispensation (See INDISPENSABLE, 1, 2.)

a 1648 Lo Herbert Henry VIII (1683) 402 The indispensability of the first Marriage 1660 Jer Taylor Dis. Duct II iii rule 11 § 1 The indispensability of the natural laws, which are the main constituent parts of the evangelical

2 Incapability of being dispensed with or done without (See INDISPENSABLE 3.)

1792 Hon. Gent Lavaters Physiog VI 41 Of all earth's creatures, man alone rejoices in his indispensability 1827 Hallam Const Hist (1876) I vii 395 Preaching the divine right, as it is called in absolute indispensability of any capacity 1861 Mill Utilit v 81 Recognised indispensability becomes a moral necessity, analogous to physical

Indispensable (indispe nsibl) a (sb) [ad med L indispensabilis, f. IN-3 + dispensabilis DISPENSABLE cf F indispensable (17th c in Hatz Darm.)] Not dispensable, not to be dispensed, or dispensed with (See also, in senses 1 and 2, UNDISPENSABLE.)

+1. Not subject to ecclesiastical dispensation, that cannot be permitted, allowed, or condoned, by suspension or relaxation of a law, or canon (Cf DISPENSABLE 1.) Obs

1533 Cranmer in Ellis Orig Lett Ser II 36, I gave finall sentance therin, howe it was indispensable for the Pope to geve any such marriages 1555 Harpsfield Divorce Hen VIII (Camden) 121 There were also two doctors of divinity that thought the case was indispensable. 1558 Cartwright Confut Rhem I ii § 9 353 Whether the Popes irregularities if they should chuse to incurre any be indispensable? 1654 Br Hall Cases Conscr Addit 1 299 Nor can I entirely condemnes this marriage as incestuous and indispensable

2 Of a law, obligation, duty, etc That cannot be dispensed with, remitted set aside, disregarded, or neglected Also + indispensable with

1653 H Cogan Gospel Cabbal (1662) 168 The indispensable dictates of the divine Light 1655 Fuller Ch Hist II § 18 A Book of Canonnes penning proving Gods Law indispensable with the Pope 1678 Barrow Serm (1687) I viii 100 He hath by settled rules and indispensable promises obliged himself to requite them 1714 Burnet Hist Ref I 1 Those things are after a long time become indispensable 1732 Archbp Secker Serm I (ed 2) 19 (Seager) A great and indispensable duty 1736 Butler Anal II i 182 1874 I 170 Her obligations to obey the Gods commands are absolute and indispensable 1781 Gibbon Decl & F xxx III 14 The citizens, and subjects, had purchased an exemp tion from the indispensable duty of defending their country 1818 Jas Mill Brit India Pref 24 I lay under an indispensible obligation to be faithful

3 That cannot be dispensed with or done without, absolutely necessary or requisite Const to, for

1656 Pearl (tit), Indispensable, that is of Absolute Necessity 1709 Addison Pres State It Ar (Seager), There are few perhaps who do not think the m antanima, a wonderful body of numerous forces indispensable for the safety of our country 1793 Holcroft Lavaters Physiog XVI 82 The knowledge of anatomy is indispensable to him 1829 New W Naples Journ Labour VIII II 268 To attack Valor, it was indispensable to cancert operations with Cuesta 1831 Carlyle Sart Res (1858) 59 Thou toilest for the all; altogether indispensable, for daily bread 1845 M'Culloch Taxation Introd (1852) 69 The articles on which they are imposed are rarely, if ever, indispensable 1874 Simmons St Hyg & Grace (1898) I x 195 Physical exercises were indispensable to a young Indian soldier 1883 Prof Sir Short Stud IV v 526 Coin ages and chronology are indispensable to a man who would be a leader. 1899 Brit Weekly 14 July 292/3 There are many ways of getting on in the City, but none apparently in which a silk hat is indispensable

B sb An indispensable thing or person, one that cannot be done without

1681 H More Enth Dan Pref 77 The Indispensables of Christian Religion 1720 Mrs Manley Power of Love II 107/1 277 To buy your Highness necessary Linnen, and those Indispensables that belong to a young Women 1823 J H Wiffen Aonian Terr I 1 Those indispensables and more sum ment merely to indispensables 1895 Home Cir 17 Jan 3/1 He pys the indispensables, like engineering as a fine way to seduce them from lo ly ds to the poorly paid workers in the power stacks

†b A kind of small satchel or bag worn by women instead of a pocket (Indispensables, Littre.) See N & Q 9th ser IV 310 Obs

1800 (12 Feb) Gentlem Pocket repos. (Brick Row Bibliomer's), A number of disputes having arisen in the Beau Monde, respecting the exact situation of Ladies Indispensables (or New Invented Pockets) 1806 L Sharp Gen (1888) I 265 Rows of pretty peeresses, who sat eating s and wiches from silk indispensables [at Lord Melville's trial]

c pl (colloquial euphemism) Trousers.

1841 J Hewlett Parish Clerk I 156 Manufacture broadcloth into coats, waistcoats, and indispensables. 1842 Comic Almanack June (Farmer), He slapped his hand against his yellow leather indispensables 1884 Manch Exam 1 Nov 5/6 A pair of native cut indispensables

Indispe nsableness. [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being indispensable a incapability of dispensation or of being set aside, b inability to be done without, absolute necessity

1654 Hammond Fundamentals xii § 2 Of Indispensable nesse of Oaths 1728 Bisbee[illegible] Ans Obel § 26 He imposes adulcness of the negative precepts of the law of nature 1832 Coleridge Table Talk 7 Jan, A deep sense of the indispensable ness of a holy life 1882 Times 26 May 4 It is a tribute to the wise of his indispensableness at present to Ireland

Indispe nsably, adv [f as prec + -LY2.] In an indispensable manner +a without possibility of dispensation or remission, b without possibility of being dispensed with or done without a 1645 Howell Lett (1650) II 48 Unless penalty of a forfeiture which is to be indispensably payed 1677 Mayow Serm Pro exiv verse 142 Wks 1907 II 11 The law of God immutably and indispensably binds all men 1767 Mrs Fiske Carter Mem (1808) I 289 His declination which I thought myself indispensably engaged to make 1837-9 Hallam Hist Lit III ii § 126 Gratian determines that subjects are indispensably bound not to serve in a war which they conceive to be clearly unjust

b 1654-58 Sanderson Lectur Serm II 157 Devotion, and Affection, is indispensably required in Prayer a 1708 Boyle Wks (1744) Theol Tracts I 47 The understanding the principles of religion is indispensably necessary 1740 Watson 1745 Wesley Instr Ch (1) In order to this, nothing is indispensably required, but Repentance, or Conviction of sin 1879 Cassell's Techn Educ I 229 Robbing the soil of the sum s heat, which is so indispensably requisite

+Indispe nsible, a (sb) Obs [f IN-3 + DISPENSIBLE, q v.] = INDISPENSABLE

1662 Stillingfl Orig Sacr III ii § 5 The indispensable obligation which was in the nature of it to m obey whatever his Maker did command him 1692 Locke Educ Pref, I think it every man s indispensible duty 1708 Lond Gaz II cccxiii 2 The corruption of Parliament is become an indispensible part of the modern Institution of Government 1800 Ai [see INDISPENSABLE A b, c]

Hence +Indispe nsibleness, +Indispe nsibly adv

1649 Four ds Full Obed 44 If I be still indispensably obliged by it 1681 Prayer Meth Grace xxvi 443 In the dispensableness and necessity thereof 1710 Steele Tatler No 250 ¶ 5 A longer Letter which I am indispensably obliged to answer 1768 Boswell Corsica Introd (ed 2) Liberty is indispensibly necessary to our happiness 1860 Mill Repr Govt Wks IV 111 Slavery in the indispensible nidness of Slavery to the West India interest

+Indispe rsed, a Obs rare [f IN-3 + DISPERSED ppl a.] Not dispersed or scattered, undispersed

1647 H More Song of Soul II II xi 18, Indispers'd quick, close with self-union Ibid II III xi 18, Not mix'd, but prest to this bright Majesty 1686 Print Staffordsh 2 While the Meteor remains compact, and undispersed

+Indispe rsion. Obs rare—1 [f IN-3 + DISPERSION.] Undispersed condition

1647 H More Song of Soul II III xi 18, The soul is of such subtilty, and close indissolvedness, undispersion

+Indispe rtible, a Obs rare [ad late L indispertibilis indivisible, f IN- (IN-3) + dispertire to divide.] Indivisible

a 1641 Br Mountagu Acts & Mon 1642 p 413 Gods eternity is an indivisible, indispertible Duration Continuance, or Being all at once in act without succession

Indispose (indispō·z), v [f IN-3 + DISPOSE v, perh orig a back-formation from next.]

1 To put out of the proper condition or 'dispo sition' for some action or result, to render unfit or unready to do something, or for something', to disqualify, incapacitate

1657 S Purchas Fut Helping-Ins 113 Dust (much more ashes) will so fur their dew relused fast that it will in dispose them to fly 1672 Marvell Rehears Transp II 241 That prejudice and their ignorance of His divine commission and high calling, and indispose them for an equal judgment of things, and readier belief 1704 Swift Mech Oper Spirit § 12 149 He so indisposes the soil, that no future seed can ever take root 1710 Norris Ch Pract III 320 Rather resisting than indisposing a man to be a good Christian 1863 L Fitzgerald Lett (1889) I 291 Not to get one's Sheep indisposes one more or less for the Dog

2 To affect with bodily indisposition, put out of health, disorder (Chiefly in pa pple, see INDISPOSED, 4.)

1694 Wood Life 31 Dec (O H S) III 427, This bad winter of 1694 hath strangley indisposed my body 1714 Mortimer Husb II 392 P 1 His Small Pox affecting indisposed you for a time, never returns again 1726 G Roberts Journ Voy (1745) He was a little indisposed by a Fit that he had met with in the Night 1727 Various causes the Countess to swallow a medicine to indispose her

3 To affect with mental indisposition, disincline, render averse or unwilling Const to, or with inf, rarely towards, from

1692 Locke Educ § 21 You are now to indispose him to those Inconveniences as much as you can 1709 Tatler No 92 ¶ 3 A Scene written with so much strength of Imagination, supposed one from further sides. 1798 Malthus Popul III x (1806) II 262 note, Indisposing landlords to let long leases of farms 1817 J Scott Paris Revisited (ed 4) 399 The miseries of the revolution, succeeded by an imperial despotism, had totally indisposed the people towards any interference with politics 1829 Spectator 16 May, An annual summons would indispose everybody to employ Reserve men, and therefore destroy the force

4 To cause to be unfavourably disposed, to make unfriendly, set at variance (Now unusual.)

1748 Chesterf Lett (1792) II cvii 108 Polemical conversations certainly do indispo e, for a time, the contend ing parties towards each other 1779 F Hurley Nat Irish II 103 The declam stions of the pulpit, indisposed the minds of men towards each other and prep ugated the blind rage of party 1788 A Hamilton Federa list No 83 II 337 The experience of no dissimilar a method of trial is of itself sufficient to indispose every well regulated judgment towards it 1825 W Taylor in Monthly Rev LXX 462 The licentious passages might have indispo sed the censors of the Inquisition 1848 Ld Malmesbury Mem I t minister (1884) I 409 She has long indisposed the whole kingdom a gainst her

5 To undo a physical tendency or inclination in, to render not liable or subject (to something)

1822–34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) IV 347 A constitutional or superinduced debetude of the muscular coat of the bladder, so as to indispose it to inflammation 1830 Coleridge Table t 43 May, Inoculation has so entered into the constitution, as to indispose it to infection under the most accumulated and intense contagion

Indisposed (indispō zd) ppl a [f In- 1 + Disposed ppl a Cf 1 indisposed (14442 in Godef), undisposed (16th c), 1 In indisposable In later use taken as pa pple of prec]

†1 Not put in order not properly arranged or prepared, unorganized, hence out of order, disordered, disorganized In quots 1425 (in reference to death), Not prepared for, for which one has not made the proper dispositions or preparations = next undisposed Obs

1425 Orolog Sapient v in Anglia X 261/17 Pat I falle not in suche perel of indisposed death Hoti 364 22, I hune schulle have it out of indisposed feelde 1598 Florio, Indisposto, indisposed, vnhable, crazed, weake, without order, disordered 1661 Cowley Ess, Cromwell Wks 1710 II 65 The indisposed and long tormented Commonwealth 1691 Ray Creation II (1692) 74 Creation being not only a Production of a Thing out of Nothing, but also out of indisposed Matter Ibid 75 Whatever Agent can introduce a Form into indisposed Matter

†2 Not properly fitted untitled, unqualified Cf Indisposition 1 Obs rare

c1449 Pecock Repr III c 208 In undisposid personnes, in her vndisposicioun thei ben occasiouns of vices 1646 Sir I Browne Pseud Ep I iii (1669) 6 They are further undisposed ever to attain unto truth Ibid I v 12 There are not onely particular men, but whole nations undisposed for learning

†3 Of evil disposition or condition, evilly disposed or inclined, ill conditioned, also, of the weather, in a bad state, bad (cf Of undisposition du temps, Godef) Obs

1481 Sortes Mus 1888 44 Imposed persones onely of malice have troubled hyme 1490 Caxton Eneydos xxvii 67 In this lande wedder of winter ys ryght full of tempest and the tyme alle undisposed more than euer it was 1597 J Kent (by Jones) All carelesse dissolute, undisposed persons

4 In a disordered or feeble condition, out of health ill, unwell (Usually implying a slight degree of ill health) Mostly predicative

1508 [see 1] 1605 Shaks. Lear II iv 112 To take the indisposed and sickly fit, for the sound man 1609 Man-ningham Diit Mistan in II If I am sought for, say I am indisposed 1653 H Cogan tr Pontus Heaut xiii 175 the Captain found himself much indisposed in his health 1670 Temple Let to Ld Berkeley Wks 1731 I 217 The best rules, Diet but the other like Exercise to an indisposed Body 1728 Swift Subj No 284 P 1 Her professors sickness and acts all things with an indisposed Air 1749 Fielding Tom Jones v vii, Mr Allworthy had been for some days indisposed with a cold 1832 Landor Pericles III xx 241 Sex of her crew, who had been ill of fever, and are still indisposed

5 Not disposed or 'in the mind', disinclined, unwilling (to, or to do something)

1646 Cromwell Let to Bridget Ireton 25 Oct in Carlyle, I write not to thy husband, partly to avoid trouble partly because I am myself indisposed at this time, having some other considerations 1666 J Goodwin Filled w the Spirit (1867) 281 Hardhearted and indisposed unto acts of bounty 1812 Cradock Mem xviii, Dutiful male and indisposed to please 1885 Law Times LXXVIII 242 This learned judge might have been less indisposed to stay the execution

6 Not of friendly disposition, not favourably disposed or inclined (towards), unfriendly, unfavourable (Now somewhat rare)

1647 Clarendon Hist Rebel I § 190 The king was sufficiently indisposed towards the persons or the principles of Mr Calvin's disciples 1793 Gouv Morris in Sparks Life & Writ (1832) II 8 The people are already indisposed, and only kept under by fear of instant death 1824 Nathan Comp Sounds iii 211 (1846) 269 Lord Ellenborough was already indisposed towards him

7 Not having a physical inclination or tendency, not liable or subject

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep II i (1659) 49 Salmous spirits which do assimilate all bodies not indisposed for their impressions 1790 Wesley in Meth Magaz LXXX 312 The saturated marine solution is indisposed to crystallize

†8 Not disposed of or bestowed Obs rare

1694 Southerne Fatal Marriage i iii, When yet a Virgin, free, and indisposed Indispo'sedness. Now rare or Obs [f prec + -ness] The condition of being indisposed, indisposition.

†1 Want of arrangement, disorder Obs a 1677 Barrow Serm Wks 1716 III 58 Who can fansy how out of Confusion and Indispositeness the World could be created?

2 Want of adaptation; unfitness.

a 1688 Leighton Comm 1 Pet II 1 A child hath in it a reasonable soul, and yet by the indispositeness of the body it is so bound up that its difference from the beasts is not so apparent as afterwards

3 Disordered state of health, bodily indisposition

1654 Whitlock Zootomia 500 Dulnesse, drowsinesse, or indispositeness of head, or stomach c 1655 P Henry in Life m Mr Henry's Hist 1825) II 619 My very great in ospositeness in point of health 1683 Lemery Treat of Health 50 For this causeth a heavy indispositeness through the whole Body

4 Mental indisposition, disinclination, unwillingness.

1651 Br Hall Shaks-stum § 73 Not that we should in the midst of a sensible indispositeness of heart fall suddainly into a fashionable devotion 1656 Baxter Reformed Pastor (1860) 234 Our own darkness, dulness and indisp sedness to duty 1685 Cal Rec Pennsylv I 156 [They] declared their utter Indispositeness thereunto 2 1692 Bentley in Ellis Original Letters (1754) 182 The indispositeness of the Master that evening both to meat and sleep

Indisposition (indispō zi shŏn) [f In- 3 + Disposition cf 1 indisposition (15th c in Hittré)]

1 The fact or condition of being indisposed

†1 Want of adaptation to some purpose, or to the circumstances of the case, unfitness, unsuitableness, inaccuracy, inability Obs

1440 Manif of Ld Gloucester (Pat Roll 18 Hen VI, m 8) by inducement of my said Lords adversary, that he neither hath wisdom nor discretion to govern himself, but must be kid for defaut of natural reason 1590 Wilkes in Eliz Gov Serv I II 72 Supplying my insufficiency, my indisposition and lack of wit 1612 Brerewood Lang 3 Kelig xxv 216 By reason of the indisposition of Idiums in most places, for frequent habitation 1663 Boyle Usef Exp Nat Philos I vii 126 If we examine other plants and observe their dispositions or indisposition to yield spume or not by fermentation 1750 tr Lemardan Mem Stones 31 A bad Commixture sometimes happens from the indisposition of the Ice or cold agent, and sometimes from the unhitness of the place

†2 Want of apt arrangement or orderly placing, displacement or misplacement, disorder, chaotic condition Obs

1598 Florio, Indispositione, indisposition, vnhastines, vnreadines, weakenes, disorder 1605 Willet Hexapla Gen 153 Difficult transle may be caused by the greatnes of the infant, or the indisposition thereof in the wombe. 1677 Hale Prim Orig Mank 293 The indisposition, or rather indisposition of this Matter, dark, stupid, and unactive

3 Disordered bodily condition, ill health, illness, ailment, esp of a slight or passing character

1599 Sanford Hortand Eare 218b I had indisposition of his free set on fire with untimperate drinking of wine 1627 Lisander & Cal 1 4 Isander's indisposition proceeded from the sadnesse he conceived for the losse of his Mistresse 1677 Hale Prim Orig Mank 293 The indisposition, or rather indisposition of this Matter, dark, stupid, and unactive

3 Disordered bodily condition, ill health, illness, ailment, esp of a slight or passing character

1599 Sanford Hortand Eare 218b I had indisposition of his free set on fire with untimperate drinking of wine 1627 Lisander & Cal 1 4 Isander's indisposition proceeded from the sadnesse he conceived for the losse of his Mistresse 1677 Hale Prim Orig Mank 293 The indisposition, or rather indisposition of this Matter, dark, stupid, and unactive

4 The state of not being mentally disposed, or in the mind' to something, or to do something), disinclination, unwillingness

1594 Hooker Eccl Pol III v § 10 The indisposition of the Church of Rome to reform herself 1607 Shaks Timon II ii 139 Perchance some single vantages you took, When my indisposition put you back 1648 Phineas Vane's Daily Exam (1699) 74 A great indisposition to prayer 1705 Hearne's Collect III 31 To correct and sweeten the Tempers of Men, and to bring them off from their Indispositions 1804 Castlereagh in Owen Mem Wellesley's Disp (1877) 292 He declined the proposal evidently from indisposition to receive a British force within his dominions

5 The state of being unfavourably disposed to or towards a thing, aversion 1647 Clarendon Hist Reb I § 32 This Indisposition of the King towards the Duke was exceedingly encreased and aggravated 1780 Burke Let to I Burgh 5 Jan I had conceived that an indisposition to the interests of Ireland had never been my characteristick fault 1898 Westm Gaz 24 June 3/2 Was it from indisposition towards the Colonial Secretary?

6 Want of physical inclination or tendency, the condition of not being liable or subject

Med The two substances showed an indisposition to combine Indisputable (indi spiūtăbl), indispū tăbl), a [ad late L indisputabilis (Cassiodorus), f in- (IN- 3) + disputabilis), Dispu table]

1 That cannot be disputed, unquestionable

1555 Robinson tr More's Utopia 1 (1895) 91 [That] which with good reason I judge to be greater than all these, be the Kynges indisputable prerogative 1643 Sir I Browne Relig Med 1 § 29 Great and indisputable miracle, the cessation of Oracles 1730 Bp Berk Ans Queries Wks V 74 The Revolution was made to preserve our ancient, indisputable laws and liberties 1883 Froude Short Stud IV ii 83 One of those persons of indisputable genius who was likely to make a mark upon his time

†2 Undisputing Obs rare

1742 Richardson Pamela IV 74 'My Lady commands so or so' are sure to meet with an indisputable Obedience

Hence Indisputabi lity, Indisputableness, the character or fact of being indisputable

1737 Bailey vol II, Indisputableness, unquestionable ness, so great Certainty, as not to be argued against. 1896 Ruskin Mod Paint IV v xiv § 32 People shut their eyes to the dark indisputableness of the facts in front of them 1880 A Arnold Free I and 207 It may be stated with a considerable degree of indisputability

Indisputably (see prec), adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an indisputable way, without possibility of dispute, unquestionably

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep III xii 251 Nor is it indis putably certain what manner of death she dyed 1719 Steele Old Whig 287 The property of the house of peers will indisputably surmount that of the house of commons 1755 Young Centaur I Wks 1757 IV 127 The more it is disputed, the more indisputably will it shine 1879 Froude Cæsar xi 239 The list contained the names of none but those who were indisputably guilty

†Indispu ted, a Obs [In- 3] Not disputed, undisputed, unquestioned

1643 Sir T Browne Relig Med 1 § 15 Natura nihil agit frustra, is the only undisputed Axiome in Philosophy 1733 Swift On Poetry 303 His undisputed rights extend Through all the lane, from end to end 1804 Earl Lauderd Publ Wealth Advt 8 They are assumed as undisputed and incontrovertible

†Indisse verable, a Obs rare [f In- 3 + disseverable, f Dissever + -able] That cannot be dissevered, indivisible

a 1642 Br Montagu Acts & Mon (1642) 25 The true, actuall, indissoverable union hypostaticall of God and Man, in one Christ

Hence †Indisse verably adv, indivisibly

1686 Hill of Spence in Grosart Spenser's Wks I p xvii, All other things shall be indyssverable occupied betwixt my wyfe and my sone

†Indissi mulable, Obs [In- 3] That cannot be dissembled (Bailey vol II, 1727)

† Indissipable, a Obs [In- 3] That cannot be dissipated

1657–83 Lavlin Hist Relig (1850) I 282 The Soul is indissipable otherwise than by a total annihilation 1661 S Rust Origen's Opus in Matt (1662) I 24 The Souls of Brutes are Spirits and remain indiminishable and indissipable in their intire Substances.

Indissoluble (indisō lŭbl), a [In- 3 cf eccl L indissolubilis] Incapable of being dissociated

1855 H Silencer Prim Psychol (1872) I iv viii 476 States of consciousness once separate become indissociable

Indissolubility (indisŏl-, indisp lubi liti) [f next see -ity] The quality of being indissoluble

1 Incapability of being decomposed or disintegrated, or of being disunited, as parts or elements)

a 1704 Locke] 1 From whence steel has its firmness and the parts of a diamond its indissolubleness and indissolubility 1748 Hartley Observ Man II iv 427 The Happiness of the Good is denoted by Incorruption, Indissolubility

†2 Incapability of being dissolved in a liquid, insolubility Obs

1768–74 Tucker Lt Nat (1834) I 92 The whole complex of gold malleability, ductility, specific gravity, dissolubility in aqua regia, and indissolubility in all other menstruums 1794 Sullivan View Nat I 248 The effervescence and indissolubility of many of them in the vitriolic acid

3 Of a connexion or obligation Incapability of being dissolved, undone, or broken, perpetuity of binding force (The prevailing sense)

1677 Hale Prim Orig Man IV iii 313 Upon the breach of that Condition never utterly lost, or the indissolubility of the Union of the Composition 1748 Hartley Observ Man II iii 232 The Indissolubility of the Marriage bond 1830 Macaulay in Life & Letters (1881) I 195 The best writers of Mr Bentham's school overlook the indissolubility of these associations 1884 Contemp Rev Feb 260 Christianity setting upon monogamy the seals of sanctity and indissolubility

Indissoluble (indi sŏlubl, indisp lubl), a [ad L indissolubilis see In- 3 and Dissoluble] Not dissoluble, that cannot be dissolved

1 That cannot be dissolved into its elements or particles, incapable of being decomposed or disintegrated, that cannot be destroyed, put an end to, or abolished, indestructible

a 1568 Coverdale Hope Faithf xvi (1574) 134 Which spiritual body shall be incorruptible indissoluble and immortall) we have receaued of Christ our Lorde 1610 Holland Camden's Brit I 519 Well fenced with an indissoluble wall 1794 Sullivan View Nat I 109 Atoms, as being the first matter, must also be indissoluble in order to their being incorruptible 1822–34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) I 44 Some of the dying cells, emphatically so termed, which harden into an indissoluble pulp or mass under water

b That cannot be separated or disunited, as an element, from the whole rare

1840 Carlyle Heroes iii (1872) 94 Not a leaf rotting on the highway but is indissoluble portion of solar and stellar systems

†2 That cannot be dissolved in a liquid (see Dissolve 2b) Obs (Replaced by Insoluble)

1666 Boyle Orig Formes & Qual (1667) 41 Indissoluble in Aqua fortis 1758 Reid tr Macquer's Chym I 144 It is mild, unctuous, indissoluble in spirits of wine 1794 G Adams Nat & Exp Philos I xi 287 The clear liquor then should be carefully poured off from any indissoluble sediment that may remain

b That cannot be melted or liquefied (see Dissolve 2a), not fusible ? Obs

1751 Johnson Rambler No 174 P 4 Some bodies, indissoluble by heat, can set the furnace and crucible at defiance. 1826 Scott Letter to Lady Davy 6 Feb. In Lockhart,

That dureful chemist never put into his crucible a more indissoluble piece of stuff

3 Of something that binds, as a chain, knot, etc, or (usually) fig of a 'tie', connexion, 'bond', obligation, etc That cannot be dissolved, undone, or broken, firm, stable, perpetually binding or lasting (The prevailing sense)

1542 HEN VIII Becfar Scotis B3b In his wordes he pro-fiseth an indissoluble amitie 1548 UDALL etc Erasm Par Matt XIX (R). The indissoluble knot of the mynne and of the wyfe 1605 SHAKS Macb III i 17 A most indissoluble tye. 1609 DAN PEYTON Death iv 104 Him bonds together the Actions and Fortunes of Men by an indissoluble Connection of Causes 1777 PRIESTLEY Disc Philos Necess II 17 There are persons who admit this indissoluble chain of circumstances 1833 MRS BROWNING Prometh. Bound Wks 1850 I 139 With links Indissoluble of adamantine chains. 1879 STANLEY Manse of Mellr 3 The natural and indissoluble link between music and rhythm

4 That cannot be dissolved, as an assembly or association

1649 MILTON Eikon v, If he were so loath to bestow a Parliament once in three years, was it likely he should bestow willingly on this Parliament an indissoluble sitting?

5 That cannot be solved or explained, inexplicable, insoluble rare

1868 Pref Bigby's Ly Midst 35 An indissoluble riddle

Indissolubleness (see prec) [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being indissoluble, indissolubility

1656 W D tr Comenius' Cate Lat Unl P 71 The Faith, hardened to indissolubleness in a stone 1688 Holder Eng Nation Nat vi 209 The indissolubleness of the alcalizate salt, that is one of the two ingredients of glass 1699 BURNET 39 Art XXV (1700) 289 This doctrine of the Indissolubleness of Marriage was never received any where but in the Church of Rome 1863 GEO ELIOT Romola III xv, In her marriage she had ceased to see the mystic union which is its own guarantee of indissolubleness, had ceased even to see the oblitation of a voluntary pledge

Indissolubly (indi sŏlubli, indiz lŏlubli) adv [f as prec + -LY²] In an indissoluble manner, so as to be incapable of being dissolved, in the way of firm or perpetual connexion, inseparably

1538 LELAND Itin VII 141 The old Walles made of Britons Brikes, very large and great Hynt set together almost indissolubely with mortar 1611 COTGR, s v Pyble 1628 PRESTON Godly Man's Ingnis ii 30 It knits us indissolubly to the Lord 1667 MILTON P L VI 603 In them they move Indissolubly firm 1677 HARWOOD Disord Wife xxv 22 A previous Bass and Inclination may be so powerful that the Act of the Will may be certainly and Indissolubly connected therewith 1777 MRS RAVEN Sermons xxv, She considered herself as indissolubly bound by that promise we it had been given at the altar 1883 LEWIS Revel xxvii 11, Fair peace shall be to truth at last Wedded indissolubly fast 1870 J WILSON Sc Sk Farming Wks (Isbm) III 57 Both marriages and the number of births are indissolubly connected with abundance of food

Indissolute (indi sŏlut), a rare [IN 3 + DISSOLUTE a] = DISSOLUTE a¹ of late L indissolutus us (Boethius)] Undissolved, unbroken 1834 SIR H TAYLOR Ist Artevelde II 111 In me, Where is that indissolute chain Which to thy anchor'd mandaments etcrne The floating soul shall grapple!

+Indisso lvable, a (vb) Obs Also 7 -liable [IN- 1] Incapable of being dissolved

1 Incapable of being disintegrated, destroyed, or abolished, = INDISSOLUBLE 1

1660 R COKE Justice Vind 47 Mr Hobbs outruns the Comtable, and makes the King or Civitas indissolvable by that power that made him 1702 NORRIS Ideal Th pref II 11 55 A substance really distinct from matter, must likewise of necessity be indissolvable 1721 KEN Hymnodia Poet Wks 17.1 III 300 They of no disagreeing Parts consist Immortal, indissolvable abide, What few no parts, Unwoven can divide

2 Insoluble in a liquid, = INDISSOLUBLE 2

1676 BOYLE Exper Orig Qualities II 121, We found it to be indissolvable in aqua vitæ too 1698 NORRIS Pract Disc IV 176 Like a Medicine wrapt up in an indissolvable Cyclic 1774 Westm Mag II 325 The indissolvable earthy residuum

b Indissible, = INDISSOLUBLE 2 b

1650 SIR I BROWNE Ps ud Ep II x 116,81 62 The softer veins of Chrystal remain indissolvable in scorching, tenth times 1684 I BOWLE Hist Earth II 79 There is no terrestrial body indissolvable to fire

3 Of a tie, connexion, obligation, etc = INDISSOLUBLE 3

1631 Dent on Lam Exp I xxxi 116,81 47 That bond of Matrimony was indissolvable 1649 BP REYNOLDS Hosea VI 68 The tie is a necessary and indissolvable dependence of all second causes upon the first 1681 PEARSE Meth Grac II 77 His Dominion is not indissolvable, but may and must be broken by d th 1701 NORRIS Id al World I III 67 The union of these ideas appears so indissolvable that we find we have it not in our power to dissunite them in our thoughts. 1708 Lond Mag 429 There, indeed, friendships were happy and unions indissolvable

4 Of an assembly, etc, = INDISSOLUBLE 4

1643 Cumming Plea to divide Parth 10 This Parliament was made indissolvable without its own consent

5 Insoluble, inexplicable, = INDISSOLUBLE 5

1637 JACKSON and Serm 2 Chron VI 39-40 Wks 1844 VI 40 The unsearchable ways of God's wisdom, or his indissolvable contrivances of extraordinary success 1643 SIR I BROWNE Relig Med II § 9 There are not only diseases in curable in Physick, but cases indissolvable in Laws.

b as sb. Something insoluble or inexplicable

1661 GLANVILL Van Dogm v 53 The composition of bodies, whether it be of divisibles or indivisibles, is a question which must be rank'd with the indissolvables

Hence +Indissolvabil lity, +Indisso lvableness = INDISSOLUBILITY, +Indisso lvably adv = INDISSOLUBLY

1650 Army's Plea pres Practice 12 All that may be said with reference to the Parliament the indissolvableness of them without their own consent 1667 WATERHOUSE Fire Lond 135 They unite into an indissolvability of affection 1673 Lady's Call II v 167 Only that he may the more indissolvably unite, yea incorporate himself with us.

+Indisso lved, a Obs [IN- 3] Not dissolved, undissolved

1626 in Harleian Misc Coll (1669) I 80 While the said Peace was continuing, and the said Treaties indissolved

Indissua·dable, a rare [f IN- 3 + dissuadable, f DISSUADE v + -ABLE] That cannot be dissuaded, inexorable Hence Indissua dably adv, inexorably 1894 SIR J SIMPSON Wars of Hermiston vi (1896) 178 Fate obscure, lawless, august, moving indissuadably in the affairs of Christian men.

+Indi stance. Obs [ad med L indistantia, f indistāns (see next) cf IN 3 and DISTANCE] The quality or character of being 'indistant'. So +Indi stancy, in same sense

1624 R WHITE Repl Fisher 429 They make nothing for corporall presence by reduction of place 1656 JEANES Faith Christ 137 The Lutherans from the inseparability, and indistancy of the two natures, plead for the coextension of the manhood, with the Godhead 1659 PEARSON Creed v (1870) 421 If not by way of circumscription, or proper bodies are, yet by way of determination and indistancy

+Indi stant, a Obs [ad late or med L indistans, -stantem, pr pt of dissistare see IN- 3 and DISTANT

In 1 the adv indistanter occurs in Prisdan and Ammianus the adj indistans (with the sb indistantia in a 13th c grammar quoted in Thurot Doctrines grammat. au moyen-âge 1870 and William of Moerbeke's version of Proclus De decem dubitat (ed 8, Cousin), and Psellus transl of Plotinus (ed Oxon 1 (1) (ed 1 (1) 1 (1) 1 (1)

After the year of Probation, when this Habit is common and indistinctly given to Novices and Persons profess'd
2 Not clearly to the perception, discernment, or understanding, confusedly, obscurely, dimly 1580 HOLLYBAND Treas Fr Tongs, Confusement, confusedly indistinctly 1677 HALE Prim Orig Man I 46 The phrases Compounds those Images into some things not unlike Propositions, though confusedly and indistinctly 1704 REID Inquiry xi § 22 (R) When the object is removed beyond the farthest limit of distinct vision, it will be seen indistinctly 1806 FOSTER in Life & Corr (1846) II 78 Amidst the more indistinctly than formerly 1882 LOCKER Orley Farm xlvi 105 The black unwelcome guest, the spectre of coming evil, had ever been present to her, but she had seen it indistinctly 1865 H COX Instit Min iv 600 Their earliest constitution and functions are very indistinctly traceable.

Indistinctness. [f as prec + -NESS.] The quality or condition of being indistinct, obscurity, dimness (in reference to either sensuous or mental perception). a As a quality of the object. In capability of being clearly perceived or understood a 1727 NEALE [J.] According to the indistinctness of this picture (in the dusk) the eye of the object will appear confused 1785 REID Intell Powers vi (1843) 121 If we attend to the cause of this indistinctness, we shall find, that it is not owing to their being ideal entities, but to this, that their resemblance to them that has authority 1827 WHATELY Logic (1845) Introd 33 The ambiguity or indistinctness of terms 1880 I WHITE Lect Relig 35 There is certain indistinctness in her outlines.
b As a quality of perception or thought of INDISTINCT 3 b 1783 BLAIR Rhetoric v I 186 The obscurity which reigns so much among many metaphysical writers is, for the most part, owing to the indistinctness of their own conceptions 1783 JOHNSON Life to Hawkesworth 19 June, I felt a confusion and indistinctness in my head, which lasted I suppose, about half a minute 1837 WHEWELL Hist Inductive Sc (1857) I 185 The indistinctness of thought which is so fatal a feature in the intellect of the stationary period

Indistinguishable (indistˌ ŋgwiʃăb'l), a [IN-3] Not distinguishable, that cannot be distinguished 1 Incapable of being discriminated or recognized as different from something else, or from each other, of which the difference cannot be perceived 1658 SIR T BROWNE Gard Cyrus iii 51 The true scelts of Cypresse and Kanophorus indistinguishable by old eyes 1847 LEWES Hist Philos (1867) II 359 The simultaneousness of the two sensations renders them indistinguishable 1880 G ALLEN in Knowledge No 19 403 So after a short time they became as indistinguishable from the true Celts, as Normans and Danes in England have become indistinguishable from the rest of the community
b transf Of which the parts are not distinguishable, of indeterminate shape or structure
This is perh the meaning in the Shaks. quot., where the word is used of Hercules, with reference to his deformity 1606 SHAKS. Tr & Cr v i 33 You rumous But you whorson indistinguishable Curre 1873 BLACK Pr Thule (1874) I The sea and the air and the sky seemed to be one indistinguishable mass of whirling and hurrying vapour
2 That cannot be clearly perceived (by the senses or the mind), not discernible; imperceptible 1604 trans Observ upon King 10 The Scales of the Votes dancing indistinguishable whether they leane 1809-10 COLERIDGE Friend (1837) III 110 In the silent and indistinguishable lapse of time 1822-34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) I 527 The pulse of the arteries of a paralytic arm was quite indistinguishable 1847 J WILSON Chr North (1857) I 244 Indistinguishable from vacancy
Hence Indistinguishabi lity, Indisti nguishableness, the quality or character of being indistinguishable 1732 BAILEY vol II, Indistinguishableness unspallableness to be distinguished 1852 SYMONDS Princ Psychol (1875) II vi vi 52 The true interpretation of equality is indistinguishableness 1885 J IRVINE Relat Relig & Sc II 41 Here we mean a different thing by the word same We mean indistinguishability 1891 Monist I 488 Shading off from perfect likeness or indistinguishableness to just recognisable affinity

Indisti nguishably, adv [f prec. + -LY 2] + 1 Without distinguishing, indiscriminately 1689 Pros Pers Pastyfield 5 All who cherish Reasentments of this kind Dare not indistinguishably condemn 2 So as to be indistinguishable, so that the difference cannot be perceived 1825 COLERIDGE Aids Refl (1848) I App C 404 The likeness pass into each other so indistinguishably, that the whole order forms a very network. 1873 SYMONDS Grk Poets II 44 Empedocles lived at a time when poetry and fact were indistinguishably mingled

Indisti nguished, a Now rare [IN-3] Not distinguished, undistinguished 1605 SHAKS. Lear iv vi 278 Oh indistinguish'd space of Woman will, A plot upon her vertuous Husbands life, And the exchange my Brother 1646 tr Sir I Browne Pseud I iii xxiv 171 In that indistinguish't masse, all things seemed one 1884 Congreg Year Bk 52 The common and indistinguished life of man

+ Indisti nguishing, a Obs [IN-1] Not distinguishing, undiscriminating 1808 WEBSTER, Indistinguishing, making no difference, or undistinguishing liberalities Johnson

Indistributable (indistri bŭtăb'l), a [IN-3] That cannot be distributed see DISTRIBUTE v
1847 SIR W HAMILTON Let De Morgan 43 The rule of the Logicians, that the middle term should be once at least distributed (or indistributable) is untrue. 1879 H SPENCER Data Ethics xiii 236 Since that cannot be happiness itself which is indistributable

Indisturbable (indistɔ·băb'l), a [f. IN-3 + disturbable, f DISTURB v + -ABLE] Incapable of being disturbed 1660 H MORE Myst Godl 268 The true and indisturbable kingdome, full of all the meanly Beautifulness 1885 S COX Expos Ser I vii 85 The quiet and indisturbable depths of a soul stayed on God

Indisturbance (indistɔ·băns) Now rare [f IN-1 + DISTURBANCE] Absence of disturbance, undisturbed condition, quietness, tranquillity 1659 STANLEY Hist Philos xi (1701) 459/1 You neither perceive, through want of knowledge, the bounds of Indisturbance and Perturbation a 1677 BARROW Serm Govt Tongue in Beautie Barrow (1846) 52 Speaking ill upon presumption of secrecy, and thence of indisturbance and impunity 1770 BEATTIE Ess Truth III ii (1811) 274 We are told that the end of Scepticism, as it was taught by Pyrrho was to obtain indisturbance 1866 FERRIER Lect Philos I xv 469 Perceiving our ignorance to be inevitable, we shall live in a state of mental indisturbance.

+ Indisturbed, a Obs [IN-3] Not disturbed, undisturbed 1660 N INGELO Bentivolio & Urania (1682) II 150 Not withstanding the indisturbed temper of the Divine Nature 1686 TRAPP Sp Rhodoph. 20 Others of the same kind being wholly undisturbed

+ Indi tch, v Obs Also 6 endich, 7 indich [f IN-1 or 2 + DITCH sb]
1 trans To cast into or bury in (or as in) a ditch 1599 BP HALL Sat III ii, Were thou indicted in great sessese, Where as no passenger might curse thy dust, Nor dogs vpuhbrall rate their gnawing lust 1630 J TAYLOR (WATER P.) Life & Hg's Ow Was cast dead into the Thames drowne with a Boat and a rope downe some part of the River, and dragged to shore and indiched
2 To enclose or surround with a ditch, to entrench 1598 FLORIO, Affossare to dike, to ditch or moate about, to make trenches or dikes, to endich 1610 HOLLAND Camden's Brit I 218 The Danes raised as it is thought certaine Fortresses, wherof one is called Mumbury ring, an acre indiched

Indite (indəi·t), v Forms a 4-6 endyte, 4-9 endite, (5 enditt, e ndight, -dyt, 6-7 errón endict) β 5-6 indyte, 6 indight, -dyt (t, (-ditie), 6- indite, (6-8 erron indict) See also VDITE. [a. OF enditer, -diter, -ditter =L. type indictāre*, f. in- (IN-2) + dictare to declare, dictate, compose in words, freq of dicĕre to say The same word orig as INDICT, but retaining the French form of the radical part.]
+ 1 trans To utter, suggest, or inspire a form of words which is to be repeated or written down, = DICTATE v 1 Also absol Obs a c 1374 CHAUCER boeth 1 metr 1 (Camb MS.) Rend yinge Muses of poetes enditen to me thinges to hem writen and dictes 1386-1387 — Parson's Tale 16 The holy goost endited the reuele hymselfe by his holy mouthe to sayn Hegit 1483 CAXTON Gold Leg 269/1 As he endyted the lettre, and another monk wrote hit 1560 HOLLAND Levy xxxi ix (1609) 778 The Consull pronounced the vow according to the rule, only a some of words (as the high priest endited and spake before him) 1639 FULLER Holy War v ii (1647) 32 In this case their words are endited not from their mouth but outward lunbes 1853 J HEYWOOD Writ (1830) IV 251 English newspapers endited or endowed by the Castleraghs or the Cannings β c 1440 Promp Parv 109/2 Endytyn, or indytyn scripture and feyre speche, dicto. 1483 Cath Angl 198/1 To indyte, dictare, indictare 1586 T B La Primaud Fr Acad I 153/2 Iulius Cæsar would indight a letter to one of his secretaries. a 1633 AUSTIN Medit (1635) 160 That I may alwaies beleeve what the Spirit of Love hath indited, and the beloved Disciple hath written 1697 SHARROK Bk Com Prayer 94 The Common Prayers which were indicted or denounced by the voice of the Deacon 1717 PRIOR Carmen Sæc 18 Let Horace smiling, but her Lyric write What her happy thoughts indite 1727 W MATHER Yng Man's Comp Pref, Canonical Scripture, which is indicted by the holy Ghost
+ 2 To enjoin as a law, precept, or maxim, = DICTATE v 2 Obs
1413 Pilgr Sowle (Caxton 1483) iv vii 61 Iustyce ne may nought endyten this sentence that this shold be due 1594 CARR Doctrine Christ Hist v (1596) 88 Out of one consideration enducted to them by their schoolemaister, they will gather a hundred 1633 BP HALL Hard Texts, N T 39 God hath indicted both these things to us 1709 POPE Ess Crit 192 Hear how learn'd Greece her useful rules endites, When to repress and when indulge our flights 3 To dictate, enjoin (a person) c 1399 Pol Poems (Rolls) II 15 Noght only to my king of pes y write, Bot to these othre princes craistene alle, That eyh of hem his oghne herte endite. 1582-8 Hist Jas VI (1804) 5 Sum substitute name of her subiects to exercise in religion otherwayes than their conscience indyt thame Indi te, sb. Sc Obs In 6 en-, indite, en-, indyte [f. INDITE v] = DITE sb.

1 The action or faculty of inditing 1508 DUNBAR Gold Targe 270 Thus He before was bare, and desolate Off rhetorike, or lusty fresch endyte — Flyting w Kennedie 109 Thow hes full littill feill of indyte 1573 Satir Poems Reform xxxix 324 My dull indyte can not direct my pen
2 Style of composing, literary style, also, the thing indited, a composition, = DITE 2 1501 DOUGLAS Pal Hon, Introp 31 My barraut termis, and thy vile indite Sall not be mine 1513 — Æneis Pref 2 Laude, honor, prasangis, thankis inpvne to lothe, and thy dulce ornate fresch endite Sall nocht remuneratt 1581 LYNDESAY Monarche 6535 All gentyll Redaris herlye I. Implore For tyll excuse my rurall rude Indyte 1567 Satir Poems Reform iii 212 In poetrie I grant sum bow ne bame, Quhilk clerkis heirs the Poetis auld indyte 1570 Ibid xx 7 Desyring all, baith great and small Not for to wyte my rude indyte

Indite, obs or archaic form of INDICT

Inditement (indəi·tmĕnt) Obs or arch (Also 7 indictment.) [f INDITE v + MENT Cf OF enditement, -dictement suggestion, instigation (Wace, 12th c.)] The action of composing in prose or verse, composition 1567 DRANT Horace, Ep I xix 1 (1), No potentate of all the world hath more fayre inditements to his commendation a 1635 NAUNTON Fragm Reg (Arb) 56 His Secretaries did little for him by the way of Inditement, wherein they could seldome please him, he was so facete and choice in his phrase and stile a 1639 WOTTON Ess (1), My both high and voice in sweet inditement of thy hymns rejoyce 1805 W TAYLOR in Monthly Mag XIX 348 The Ecclesiastick was actually in the process of composition or inditement 1806 — in Ann Rev IV 501 They gave up these long undertakings, as likely to outlast the spirit, the rapture, the assiduity, which engendered

Inditer, obs. form of INDICTMENT

Inditer (indəi·tə(r)) Forms 4-5 enditour, 5-dytour, 5-9 -ditor, -ditter, -diter, (8 erron endicter. β. 5 indyter, 6 -dytor, 6-7 -dighter, 6- inditer [ME (and ?AF) enditour (1 type indictitōr em*), f endite, INDITE v + agent-suffix -our, -or, passing at length into -ER, cf DICTER] One who indites, one who composes or dictates a literary work, speech, or letter, an author, writer, composer

a 1587 Trevisa Higden (Rolls) IV 373 In his time Plautus Latinus, be grete Pompeus his enditour and faire speker, Libertus þe doctour, florischeþ at Rome (L. Cujus dictum Plautus Latinus rhetor, magnus Pompeii libertus, doctor Romæ claruit) 1390 Gower Conf III 82 He Enditeth Of old cronique and eke auctours. 1483 Cath Angl 115/1 An Enditer, dictator, indictator. a 1586 Sidney Arcadia (1622) 267 [He] presented his Letters, desiring Amphialus, that he would consider that he was onely the bearer, and not the enditer. 1845 Maltby Gloss Wks (1851) 264 In the basest and the hungriest endighter 1664-94 South Twelve Serm II 142 It is the simplicity of the Heart, and not of the Head, that is the best Enditer of our Petitions. 1719 D'Urfey Wanderers (1728) 46, I could hardly with hold my Com passion from the fair Enditer [of the Fiction]. 1813 W Taylor in Monthly Mag XXXV 215 His Memoir must have had Joseph for its main compiler, enditer, or author 1815 W H Ireland Scribblomania 47 The feeling enditer of Sympathy's tale

β 1483 Cath Angl 190/2 An Indyter of letters, dictator. 1579 Fulke Ref Rastell 734 Bookes of holy scripture, the indighters of which . . be not knowne 1617 Collins Def Hp Ely vi 249 We know the inditer, though we doubt of the penman 1754 Richardson Grandison (1781) VI xxxvi 245 You will think your self very bold to address me by Letter especially as she is a very poor inditer 1876 Bancroft Hist U S IV xxvii 518 Johns Clark, the bold inditer of patriotic state papers

Inditer, obs form of Indicter

Inditing (indoi·tiŋ), vbl sb [f Indite v + -ing 1] a The action of the verb Indite, com position b A thing indited, a literary composition, a treatise, poem, letter, etc

1340-70 Alex & Dind 34 Þerewyþe dandimus þe en diting hurde 1388 Wyclif and Prof Job, Fro the begynnyng of the volume vnto the wordis of Job, anent the Ebriys the endityng is prose 1420 tr Secreta Secret, Gov Lordsh (E E T S) 106 þe endytynge ys þe body and be writynge ys be clethynge of wordys and spekynge 1500-20 Dunbar Poems lxv 2 He has indorsit myn indytting With versis off his [awin] hand wrytyng 1553 T Wilson Rhet 173 There are three maner of stiles or indityngs 1579 G Harvey Letter-bk (Camden) 84 Affecting the comendation of an eloquent stile by overcurious and stately. enditing 1604 Armin in Nest Nonn (1842) Introd , He flookes of her owne enditing 1708 Brit Apollo No 30 3/1 For Letters and Writings, Of other s Inditing. 1749 Fielding Tom Jones xviii x, It was all his own invention, and the indictment was indeed

Indition see Indicion 2

Indi tress, rare [f Inditer + -ess] A female inditer

1822 Blackw Mag XII 655 Wes there to be a virtual non imprimatur in force against our songstresses, nuvince indtresses, tragediauesses, sonneteeresses, or other 'build resses of the lofty rhyme ?

† Inditure, Obs rare—1 [f indite, Indict v + -ure] = Indictment

1614 J Kenney in Lismore Papers Ser II (1887) I 202 Being twise indited, by twoe seuerall indittures, I was cleared of both

Indium (i·ndiŏm) Chem [f radical of ind i um Indigo + -ium, after sodium, etc , in reference to the two indigo lines which form the characteristic spectrum of the metal] A soft silver-white metal of extreme rarity, occurring in association with zinc and other metals , discovered by Reich and Richter in 1863, by means of spectrum analysis, in the zinc blende of Freiberg Symbol In 1864 Lyell Inaug Addr in Readr 27 Sept 358 A fourth metal named indium, from its indigo coloured band, was detected by Professor Richter of Freiberg in blende in a zinc ore of the Hartz 1874 tr Lommel's Light 114 The blue light of Indium undergoes a still stronger refraction than that of Thallium 1880 Nature No 630 82 He finds that indium is like some other metals in not coming under the often accepted rule that pure metals have a change of coefficient of resistance with temperature

b attrib , as Indium bromide (In Br), Indium chloride, monochloride (In Cl), dichloride (In Cl$_2$), trichloride (In Cl$_3$), Indium iodide, oxide, hydroxide , Indium salts, etc 1897 Roscoe & Schorlemmer Chem II 609 Indium Oxide In_2O_3 is a pale yellow powder Ibid 611 Indium Ammonium Alum is deposited in well defined regular octohedra.

Indivertible (indivə·rtib'l), a [f In- 1 + divertible, f Divert v + -ible] Incapable of being diverted or turned aside

1821 Lamb Elia Ser 1 Old Benchers I I , Indivertible from his way as a moving column 1874 G Macdonald Malcolm (1875) III xiii 176 The indivertible guardian of his morals

Hence Indive rtibly adv , in a way that cannot be turned aside

1853 Tait's Mag XX 267 Its recent history, its greatness —all associate it intimately and indivertibly with the German 'Fatherland' 1866 H Bushnell Serm Living Subj 186 We are all saying, the young man eagerly, the old man indivertibly, the same thing

† Indivertible, a Obs rare—1 [f In- 3 + divertible, f Divest + -ible] Of which one cannot divest oneself a 1632 Donne Serm cvi IV 433 Being under an in vincible ignorance and indivestible Scruples † Individ. Obs. Abbreviation of Individual.

1677 J Harley tr Ouvr d'Esprit (N), Why want none tasting, touching? cause of these I'th individ, this guards the species

† Indivi dable, a Obs [In- 1] Not dividable, indivisible

The exact sense in the Shaks. quotation is uncertain Schmidt says 'Not to be distinguished by a particular appellation , Aldis Wright, 'Where the unity of place is observed '

1608 Shakr Ham II II 418 (Qos 2-3, 1604-5) Scene in dentible [Qos 4-6 (1611-37) indicuable, Folios indistable] or Poem vnlimited 1628 E Dolman tr Le Prisonnier de Acad (1618) III 81 Democritus, and Diodorus affirme, that before all things, there were certen Atomes or little indivisible bodies [etc] 1645 Cotton Charles I 32 One individeable and peculiar being cannot belong to more than one, as the being of Thomas cannot be the very same being which is of Peter or John 1657 Pearl Monmouth tr Mel vert's Komulus & Larpius 149 A point which in the di sect is indivisible

† Indivi ded, a Obs [In- 3] Undivided

1563 Winjet Four Score Three Quest Wks 1888 I 84 Christe re ple thair present ignhilk are indiuidit curry Christiane vnione 1579 Fulke Heskins Parl 143 He remained whole in that his indiuided vnity with his father 1647 H More Song of Soul II II xxxi One individed Eunity 1695 Br Patrick Comm Gen xviii 2 sub A Representation of the blessed individed Trinity

Individual (indivi diuăl), a and sb Also 5 indyvydual [f med L. individuāl-is, f individu-us individable, inseparable (see Individum) + -al 1 ; individuel 1608 tr. Bodinus 1 individuel (Formæ individuales occurs in Adhelard of Bath, c 1115 (Haureau Philos Scolast I 349) , the adj individuālitter in Abelard Epist 1 II 5)]

A adj 1 One in substance or essence, forming an indivisible entity, indivisible Obs

1425 Found St Bartholomew's (E E T S) 11 To the glorie of the blessed indyuydual Trynyte 1586 Bourbury Atheom I vii 8 (1622) 50 Some make then god of Atomes, and individual moates some of dundrid numbers 1678 Pythouse Body of Divinity 31 Written in Newfoundland 56 In the name of the holy and individuall Trinitie 1641 Milton Animadv II, This untheologall Remonstrant would confound the individuall Catholick Church into severall Republicks 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I iv § 36 611 It would be liable to misinterpretation, and to be taken, in the Sabellian sense, for that which hath one and the same singular and individual essence

† 2 That cannot be separated , inseparable Obs

c 1600 Fairfax tr Tasso (1872) 6 Where ere thou go'st I still will follow thee An individuall mate 1692 Lockyear, Individuall, not to be parted, as man and wife c 1645 Howell Lett II lii, He is an individual Companion to the King 1667 Milton P L IX 486 To have thee by my side Henceforth an individual solace dear

3 Existing as a separate indivisible entity , numerically one, single b Single, as distinct from others of the same kind , particular, special Also absol in phr. + In the individual, in the particular case opposed to in the general (= General a 11 d)

1613 Jackson Creed II v § Whether things indifferent in the general or vnto many be indifferent in the in dividuall, or in that particular man 1651 Baxter Inf Bapt 25 The whole Church must be so sanctified therefore the individuall members 1690 Locke Hum Und III iii § 6 The Idea of the Individual Man would be far different 1789 Butler Serm Hum Nat in Wks 1874 I 38 If every man in his physical nature is one individual single agent 1798 Burke Il Regicide Peace Wks 1842 II 227 All powers delegated from the board to any individual servant of the company 1793 A Hamilton Hist Acc Inoculation 3 Sentiments of Accounts between the United and Individual States. 1833 I Ritchie Il and by Lover 32 The traveller takes it (the chivalry) for a town rather than to individual office 1856 Froude Hist Eng (1858) II viii 244 A determination in each individual man to go his own way 1862 Dr Argall Theist Belief 74 It is not in the power of individual words, alone, that this principle of explanation is adopted

† 0 Expressing self-identity Identical, self same, very same Obs

1632 Peyton Hattremoattis 177 To sport themselves with those individuall sinnes upon the Stage, which the pirties are consoling now in Hell ? 1641 J Jackson True Treat Christ II 39 Was this Angell the Creator and some say that Individuall Angell of the Church of Smirna, whereunto the second of those seven Asiatique Epistles are written 1652 Mag Worthester Cent Inv § 1 Seals setting down the individual place where any thing was sealed 1681-6 J Scott Chr Life (1747) III 238 I had this Remnant still continued the same individual Kingdom of Christ with the former, tho' very much re formed and improved 1701 Wallis in Hearne Collect 24 July in Lett III 213 Who I do believe will be this individual Book 1753 Smollett Ct Fathom (1784) 178/1 They were communicated to her by the nun, who was no other than the individual Wilhelmina 1804 Charlotte Smith Conversations I 132 It is more probable that the individual insect in question had been produced this Summer

4 Distinguished from others by attributes of its own , marked by a peculiar and striking character

1646 Sir T Browne Pseud Ep I v 19 A man should be something that men are not, and individuall in somewhat beside the proper notions 1894 Harper's Mag 404 He is so quaint and so individual in his views 1897 Brit Il weekly 27 May 97 In him Nonconformity has lost one of her most conspicuous and individual figures

5 Of, pertaining or peculiar to, a single person or thing, or some one member of a class , characteristic of an individual.

1605 Bacon Adv Learn I II § 4 As touching the Manners of learned men, it is a thing personall and individuall 1712 S Clarke Def Immutable reality Soul 13 The sole Reason urged why a System of Matter cannot have a Power of Think ing or an Individual Consciousness. 1777 Burke Addr to King Wks 1842 II 395 We, several of the peers of the realm, and several members of the house of commons do in our individual capacity, beg leave [etc] 1838 42 Arnold Hist Rome III 69 Our tendency is to admire individual greatness far more than national 1859 Darwin Orig Spec ii (1878) 34 The many slight differences which appear in the offspring from the same parents may be called individual differences 1859 Mill Liberty i (1864) 3/2 There is a limit to the legitimate interference of col lective opinion with individual liberty 1860 Pusey Lenten Serm Unto this Last iv (1880) 69 All effectual advancement must be by individual, not public effort

b Individual name († word), judgement (see quots)

1641 Milton Animadv xiii, It is no individuall word, but a Collective 1843 Mill Logic I II § 3 An individual or singular name is a name which is only capable of being truly affirmed, in the same sense of one thing 1864 Bowen Logic v 122 A Singular or Individual Judgment in which a Predicate is affirmed of one thing, or of a class of things taken as one whole 1871 Public Sch List Comm 2 Nouns or Names are Individual or Proper which can only be applied to single persons, places, or objects

B sb

† 1 pl Inseparable things see A 2 Obs

1647 Feltham Resolves I xix (1628) 17 Humanity and Reverence are always parallels sometimes individuals 1651 — Lusoria (1696) 14 They are here Individuals, for no De monstrance of Duty or Authority can distinguish them

2 A single object or thing, or a group of things forming a single complex idea, and regarded as a unit , a single member of a natural class, collective group, or number

1605 Timme Quersit I iv 17 We shall thoroughly discuss and ransacke euery particular individuall in his kinde 1700 Dryden Palamon & Ar III 1 Two Persons, Two Hearts, but one will ordains, The propagated species still remains 1725-80 Pope Iliad Pref, We see each circumstance of art and in dividual of nature summoned together by the force and fecundity of his imagination 1850 R C Cumming Hunters Life S Afr (ed 2) 269 note, I have not unfrequently met with herds (of giraffe) containing thirty individuals 1868 Rogers Pol Econ vi (1876) 54 It makes no difference whether the individual be a numerical unit, or an aggregate unit, as a partnership company, or corporation

b Logic and Metaph An object which is deter mined by properties peculiar to itself and cannot be subdivided into others of the same kind, spec in Logic An object included in a species, as a species is in a genus See Individuum

1628 T Spencer Logick 64 It is not possible to know untill wee come vnto individuals . vntill we attaine vnto those things which doe not admit division 1658 Phillips s v , An individual in Logick signifies that which cannot be divided into more of the same name or nature, and is by some called Singulare 1727-41 Chambers Cycl s v , The usual division in logic is made into genera, those genera into species, and those species into individuals 1833 J H Newman Arians II iv (1876) 185 Doctrine being, sal stance "that which has existence in itself, or is an object thing else to constitute it" that is, an individual 1858 Whewell Hist Sci Ideas (ed 3) II 148 (L) Our idea of an individual is that it is a whole composed of parts which are not similar to the whole, and have not an independent existence, while the whole has an independent existence and is distinct from others 1860 Abp Thomson Laws Thought § 56 An individual is that which cannot be divided without ceasing to be what it is

c Zool and Bot A single member of a species , a single specimen of an animal or plant

1859 Darwin Orig Spec ii (1873) 34 No one supposes that all the individuals of the same species are cast in the same actual mould 1880 Gray Struct Bot II § 715 Individuals are the units of the series we call a variable species Each individual is an independent organism of which the component parts are reciprocally means and ends 1885 Goodale Phys Bot (1892) 425 In scientific as well as popular language the term individual is commonly applied to each and every plant

d Biol An organism regarded as having a separate existence

Sometimes used specifically of a single member of a colony of organisms (as a leaf bud, or a polyp of a coelenterate), by others defined as 'the whole product of a single fertilized ovum', more strictly an organism detached from other organisms, composed of coherent parts, and capable of independent life.

1776 Withering Brit Plants (1796) I 159 Blossom general, regular Individuals of 2 petal, tubular 1847 Carpenter Zool § 46 In the Polypes a number of such individuals, each capable (like a leaf bud) of living by itself are arranged on one common plant like structure 1864 H Spencer Prin Biol § 74 I 207 A biological Individual is any concrete whole having a structure which enables it when placed in appropriate conditions, to continuously ad just its internal relations to external relations so as to maintain the equilibrium of its functions 1870 Nicholson Zool 25 In zoological language, an individual is defined as 'equal to the total result of a single ovum' 1888 Rol leston & Jackson Anim Life 231 The proglottides are supposed to be produced by posterior germination of the scolex, from which they are detached in many instances either singly or in groups But the facts do not appear to necessitate the view that the proglottis is an individual

3. A single human being, as opposed to Society, the Family, etc

1606 J Yates Ibis ad Cæsarem in 12 margin, The Pro phet saith not, God saw euery particular man in his bloud, or had compassion to say to euery Individuall, How shall I live 1641 J Jackson True Evang Test III 213 Peace is the very supporter of Individuals, Families, Churches, Com monwealths. 1776 Adam Smith W N (1869) I Introd 2

Among the savage nations of hunters and fishers, every individual is employed in useful labour 1868 M Pattison Academy Org v 141 We are most jealous of the rights of individuals, and careless of the common welfare 1899 J. Monro Gibson in Expositor Feb 144 It will not be as Churches but as individuals that we shall all stand before the Judgment seat of Christ

b Without any notion of contrast or relation to a class or group A human being a person (Now chiefly as a colloquial vulgarism, or as a term of disparagement)

1742 Johnson Debates (1787) II 192 Only one individual was injured by another 1744 Lockman Hist Inq III 1 5 These she bequeathed to different individuals 1781 Peters Hist Conn 74 The People of Massachusetts conceived the idea of calling an individual of their own Province. 1828 Scott F M Perth xxiv, The three individuals entered the boat with great precaution 1856 Kane Arct Expl II x 121 The individual whom I desired to meet 1888 F Hume Mad Medic i Prol, He appeared to be an exceedingly unpleasant individual

†2 Short for individual person, person, personality, self Obs

1655 Sir F Nicholas in V Papers (Camden) 305 As to what concerneth my owne poore individuall, I am armed against all events and deffy fortune to her teeth 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I v 674 They could not propugne their kind by generation, as neither indeed preserve their own individuals 1721 Nicoll Thought 1 c 15 July, A Parliament compliment made to his own individual in particular, or to his country in general 1774 Ld Lee to Burke B's Corr 1844 I 513 Even the appearance of their individuals is not ally changed since I first knew them. 1800 Godwin in C Kegan Paul W Godwin (1876) II 5 Driven back to consider of my own miserable individual

Individua lie, a nonce-word [f prec + -IC] Denoting individuals 1884 J Gilchrist Lyon Interpreter 72 It [English] has too many generic, and too few specific and individua lie terms Ibid. 129.

Individualism (indivi dʒiălĭz'm) [a f individualize (f med l individual-is Individual + -ism, -ize)] 1 Self-centred feeling or conduct as a principle; a mode of life in which the individual pursues his own ends or follows out his own ideas, free and independent individual action or thought, egoism

1835 H Reeve tr De Tocqueville a Democ in Amer II iii (1840) III 203 Individualism is a novel expression, to which a novel idea has given birth Individualism is a mature and calm feeling, which disposes each member of the community to sever himself from the mass of his fellow creatures, and to draw apart with his family and friends. 1840 Gladstone Ch Princ 98 It is too closely connected with our individualism 1856 Emerson Misc, Nature, Hours w Mystics I 351 He is not tempted by it to selfish individualism, or contemplative isolation, as long as he is true to the old Mosaic belief 1873 M Arnold Lit & Dogma (1876) 312 It is the consecration of absolute individualism

2 The social theory which advocates the free and independent action of the individual, as opposed to communistic methods of organization and state interference Opposed to Collectivism and Socialism

1884 J Rae Contemp Socialism 209 Socialism and individualism are merely two contrary general principles, ideals, or methods, which may be employed to regulate the construction of economical society 1890 Westcott in Contemp Rev Oct 528/1 Individualism regards humanity as made up of disconnected or warring atoms; Socialism regards it as an organic whole, a vital unity formed by the combination of contributory members mutually interdependent

3 Metaph The doctrine that the individual is a self determined whole, and that any larger whole is merely an aggregate of individuals, which, if they act upon each other at all do so only externally 1877 E Caird Philos Kant iv 91 Is such a more adequate philosophy to be found in the idealistic individualism of Leibnitz?

4 = Individuality 2, 3

1854 Blackw Mag LXV 66 Their ideas of God did not possess that individualism and personality which so remarkably characterised those of the Hebrews 1870 Emerson Soc & Solit viii 173 A person of commanding individualism will answer to a Rochester clock 1885 Harper's Mag Mar 530/2 The individualism which is aimed at by architects

5 An individual peculiarity, e g a manuscript reading peculiar to an individual scribe or copyist

1881 Westcott & Hort Crk N T II 232 Singular readings which are mere individuals, so to speak, originating with the scribe or one of his immediate predecessors

Individualist (indivi dʒiălĭst) [f Individual + -ist, cf F individualiste]

1 One who pursues an independent or egoistic course in thought or action

1820 Gladstone Ch Princ 131 The sentiment of the catholic is better, and its besetting danger less than those of the individualist in religion 1856 Emerson Misc, Hours w Mystics I 351 The Puritan becomes a selfish individualist just because he has forgotten this 1883 Beard Reformation vi 189 The Anabaptists were the individualists of the Reformation

2 An adherent of the social theory of Individualism See also quot 1897

1876 Bancroft Pol Econ (ed 3) II x 275 It is maintained by the individualists that if a great number of manufactories and other trading establishments were brought into connection with the Wholesale Society, the business would become far too extensive and complicated to be properly managed 1888 Pall Mall G 10 Sept 3/2 To hold the scales between Individualists and Socialists. 1891 Beatrice Potter Coop Movem Gt Brit 75 The term Individualist has been used within the Cooperative movement for the last twenty years to denote that school of Cooperators who insist that each separate manufacturing establishment shall be governed of possible owned by those who work therein, the profits being divided among the working proprietors. Opposed to Federalist 1896 Times 30 Jan 8 If the individualists are to hold their own against the encroachments of the State

3 attrib or as adj = Individualistic

1897 Morley Crit Misc Ser I 341 Owing to the supremacy in European thought of the individualist ideas which Christianity carried in with it 1888 Contemp Rev June 903 He condemns Liberalism because it is individualist 1892 Times 14 Oct 7/2 The traditions of French workmen are strongly individualist, and they have not been in a hurry to enter into combinations. Ibid 26 Nov 5/2 The cautious individualist development of colonization in Australia or North America

Individualistic (indivi dʒiălĭ stĭk), a [f prec + -ic] Of or pertaining to individualism or individualists, characterized by individualism

1874 Sir W.R. Math Ethics 269 Individualistic ideal 1879 Morley Burke 172 That reaction into which the Revolution drove many of the truest minds of the next generation, following the supposed consequences of pure individualistic principles 1893 G Allen Scallywag III 130 The opinion of others has a vast effect upon even the most individualistic natures 1897 Pall Mall Gaz Extra No Africa 150 They [Boers] were self reliant and individualistic to a degree

Individuality (indivi dʒiă liti) [f as prec + -ity cf F individualité]

1 The state or quality of being indivisible or inseparable, indivisibility, inseparability b An indivisible or inseparable entity 1645 Milton Tetrach (1851) 165 These words also inferre that they ought to be an individuality in Marriage 1833 J H Newman Arians II iii (1876) 171 As though He were so derived from the simple Unity of God as to inhere within that ineffable individuality 1864 Ibid App 61 When the eternal foes are so intermingled and interfused that to human eyes they seem to coalesce into a multitude individualities.

2 The fact or condition of existing as an individual, separate and continuous existence

1658 Sir F Browne Hydriot iii 79 But the soul subsist ing, either after clothed with fire as Philo, may receive the individuality a 1735 Arbuthnot (J.), He would tell his instructor that individuality could hardly be predicated of any one 1802 Paley Nat Theol xxvii (1819) 98 Consciousness carries identity and individuality along with it through all changes of form or of visible qualities 1876 J P Norris Realm Thought i iv 72 Individuality is essential to our idea of a person

b The action or position of the individual members of a society

1708 Brit Merc Apost II Wks VIII 253 To them the will, the wish, the want, the liberty the toil, the blood of individuals is as nothing. Individuality is left out of their scheme of government The state is all in all

3 The aggregate of properties peculiar to an individual, the sum of the attributes which distinguish an object from others of the same kind, individual character b Idiosyncrasy, strongly marked individual character

1614 Selden Titles Honor 157 Appetus and Lentulus, for the individuitie, as it were of Appius and Lentulus, or Patauini as for Liuies stile 1628 T Spencer Logick 150 A man is a living Creature, mortall, and capable of learning In this sentence man abstracted from individuality is declared 1792 Mary Wollstonecraft Rights Woman iv 151 The young man of life error, we look for whatever sense in the five expecting to see individuality of character 1866 A Lewis Princ Mod (1880) 18 The circumstances which give to the different diseases their individuality 1874 Green Short Hist viii § 10 585 The Puritan individuality is nowhere so overpowering as in Milton 1875 Jowett Plato (ed 2) V 4 In every man's writings there is something like himself and unlike others, which gives individuality

c pl Individual characteristics

1640 H More Poems 2, 6 The soul Against the law of Corporeities It doth devest them both of time and place, And of all individualities 1862 Burton Bk Hunter (1863) 16 All identically the same in edition and minor individualities 1871 R F Littledale Ess II 304 Mere individualities of taste and talent and temper

4 a An individual thing b An individual personality

1775 Johnson Lett to Mrs Thrale 26 July, Here sit poor I, with nothing but my own solitary individuality 1859 H Rars Bunyan in Hare Life (1879) II iv 245 That little fat individuality, his wife 1861 Lowell Biglow Papers 1 Introd 1862 Dana Man Geol 759 In what respects the earth is an individuality 1863 Mrs C Clarke Shaks Char 150 Jack Falstaff, that most unique and fine of individualities

5 Phrenology The faculty of knowing objects as mere substances or existences, the supposed 'organ' of this faculty

1828 G Combe Const Man 72 Individuality and Eventuality, or the powers of observing things that exist and occurrences

Individualization (indivi dʒiălaizē' ʃən) [f next + -ation] The action of individualizing, the fact or condition of being individualized in various senses of the vb, see next

1746 W Horsley Fool (1748) I 295 A Nation, or Community, is a Number of Individuals assembled under one Kind of Government, for the mutual Benefit of each other, from which in Proportion as they deviate, they fall into a Kind of Individualisation again 1817 Coleridge Biog Lit 217 In a poem, the characters of which, amid the strongest individualization, must still remain representative. 1823 Bentham Not Paul 24 Towards the individualization of the portion of space some approach is made the town being foreknown the street is particularized 1845 Stoddart in Encycl Metrop 672/1 When this process of individualization is effected by a separate word, we call that word an Article 1854 Owen Skel & Teeth in Orr's Circ Sc, Organ Nat I 301 The individualization of the teeth is eminently significative of the high grade of organization of the animals manifesting it 1878 H Spencer Princ Sociol III ix (1879) 777 The division presupposed by individualization of property cannot be carried far without appliances which savage life does not furnish

Individualize (indivi dʒiălaiz), v [f Individual + -ize.]

1 trans To render individual or give an individual character to, to characterize by distinctive marks or qualities, to mark out or distinguish from other persons or things

1637 Gillespie Eng Pop Ceremo iv ii § In morall actions, modus est rebus sic constitutis & individuum, and nothing else doth individualize a moral action 1809 W Drake Ess Antiq I 3, The peculiarities which individualize and distinguish the humour of Addison 1834 J Rhodes Il and by Scimcer Every element every class of objects recognizable by the senses, individualised into a god 1835 J H Newman Prot Notes (1837) III xi 162 The natural effect of pain and fear, is to individualize us in our own minds 1840 Merman Hist Chr III 374 The Church stood, as it were, individualised, by the union of the spiritual with temporalities, the State 1852 Mansel Prolegom Logic 13 (1860) 238 To have a valid conception of a horse I must also be able to combine these attributes in a representative image, that is, to individualize them 1863 Mrs C Clarke Shaks Char 15 The inferior agents are individualised with a minuteness of surpassing truth to nature

absol a 1834 Coleridge in Treasury Mog (1835) XII 492 Life, in the sense here meant may be defined 'tendency to individualise' 1865 Lowell Among My Books Wks 1890 V 242 The more we can individualize and personify, the more likely our sympathy

2 To point out, mention, notice, or consider, individually, to specify, particularize Also absol

1656 S H Gold Law 100 Many men, worthy of honour, which I may not individualize 1807 Ann Reg 251 With out individualizing any, it was a virtual declaration of hostility against every neutral power 1823 Examiner 658/2 We may revert to this subject, in which case we shall individualize a little more than we have done 1840 De Quincey Style II Wks 1860 XI 239 The general functions of the article definite are first, to individualize [etc] 1882 Stevenson Treas Isl I x 152 We feel that God sympathises and individualizes

3 To appropriate to the use of an individual rare

1865 Hawthorne Our Old Home (1883) I 264, I a little grudged the trouble I had given to find them picked away, so to speak, and individualized by thriving citizens

Hence Indivi dualized ppl a, rendered individual, marked by distinctive characteristics. Indivi dualizer, one that individualizes

1825 Coleridge Aids Refl (1848) I 327 The distinct and individualized agency that by the given combinations utters and bespeaks its presence a 1834 — Tit Bits (1836) II 702 Their different combinations and subordinations were in fact the individualizers of men 1854 J Scoffern in Orr's Circ Sc, Chem 49 Lithium is the least individualised alkaline metal 1880 Mayne II 298 I saw he became an individualista—or, individualiser

Individualizing (indivi dʒiălaiz ĭŋ), ppl a [f prec + -ing²] That individualizes

1830 Coleridge in Mrs. Sandford Th Poole & Friends (1888) II 321 This is not the most individualizing trait of our friend's character 1833 Lamb Elia Ser II Barrym to Jorg Pen Mod Apol, That individualising property which should keep the subject distinct in feature from every other subject 1865 Cross Plato I 138 The individualising influences arising from the body overpowered this kindred with the universal

Hence Indivi dualizingly adv, in an individualizing manner

1873 Patrick in Keil's Jeremiah I 58 People in the two opposite regions of the world are individualizingly mentioned instead of all peoples

Individually (indivi dʒiălĭ), adv [f Individual + -ly²] In an individual manner

†1 Indivisibly, inseparably, undividedly Obs

1597 Hooker Eccl Pol v lv § 2 How should that subsist solitarily by it self which hath no substance, but individually the very same where they others subsist with it? 1619 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 3 The persons which all have that one being, and every of which have all that being, which in itselfe is individually one 1647 Sanderson Serm 283 An attribute individually proper to the Godhead, and incommunicable to any created substance

2 In individual identity, one and the same person or thing Individually the same, identically the same, the self-same † Obs

1644 Gataker Transubst 48 One thing is said to be another, which cannot be individually or specifically the same 1656 tr Hobbes's Elem Philos Wks 1839 I 137 When soever the name, by which it is asked whether a thing be the same it was, is given it for the matter only, then, if the matter be the same, the thing also is individually the same, as the water, which was in the sea, is the same which is afterwards in the cloud 1728 H Walpole Lett Il Mann (1834) II 209, I have received the Eagle's head; the lid is broken off individually in the same spot with the original

b Individually different different as individuals (though they may be identical in species)

1824 L. Murray Engl Gramm (ed 3) II 257 The definite article is likewise used to distinguish between things, which are individually different, but have one generic name 1864 Bowen Logic iv 92 Two things may be said to be individually

ividually or numerically different when they do not constitute one and the same reality

3 Personally, as a single person distinct from others, in an individual capacity

1866 R. Cobb Power & Duty 54 There are many things so inherent in the Prince individually, that they are no more municable to any other 1781 W. Blane Law Hunting Pref (1788) 8 notes, Impossible for him, who is not individually free and independent, to be politically so 1840 Miss Mitford in L'Estrange Life (1870) III vii 108 To me individually it would be a great release to be quit of the trouble and expense of the garden

4 In an individual or distinctive manner, as single persons or things, singly, each by each, one by one opposed to collectively

1643 'Smectymnuus' Vind Answer xiii 129 To whom as to individuall persons such care and offices were individually intrusted 1659 Gentl Calling (1696) 9 Not only to those Exercises which belong indifferently to them whose species, but to those also for which they are individually, qualified 1778 Adam Smith W N v v i (1869) I 288 That army w is superior, in which the soldiers live each individually, the greatest skill and dexterity 1830 Marryat King's Own i Whether we act in a body or individually 1859 Hawthorne Fr & It Privit II 300 Moss plants too minute to be seen individually, but making the whole tree green 1881 Jowett Thucyd I 129 The sacrifice which they collectively made was individually repaid to them 1896 C. F. Lloyd Morgan Habit & Instinct 346 There is little or no evidence of individually acquired habits in man becoming instinctive through heredity

Indivi duate, ppl a [ad med L indivi duāt us, pa. pple of individuā re see next, but, in sense, partly representing L. individuus]

†1. Undivided, indivisible, inseparable Obs

1661 Brathwait Nat Emb, Blasphemy (1877) 34 Touching the Individuate essence of God 1630 — Eng Gentlm (1641) 34 Mildenesse is a quality so inherent, or more properly individuate to a gentleman ibid 165 A friend, being indeed a mans second selfe, or rather an individuate companion to himselfe 1751 Student II 311 (J.) O thou, the third in that eternal trine, Individuate unity divine!

2 = Individuated 1 arch

1606 Ford Honor Tri (Shake Soc.) 24 Bewty matched with the individuat adjunct, unwyld continuing 1609 B. Barnfeld Faithf Shepheard 31 If the places agree not to one individuate thing there is no contradiction betweene them 1681 Baxter Def Cath 216 How can you think that as Averrhoes thought all Souls are one, individuate only by receptive matter [etc.]

Individuate (indivi dĭuĕit), v [f med L individuāt us or obs. -ĭt individuāre to render individual, f L individu us (cf prec and -ATE 3)] To render individual

1 trans To form into an individual or distinct entity, to give individual organization or form to 1646 Sir T. Browne Relig Med II xi 174 There was a seminality and contracted Adam in the rib which by the information of a soule, was individuated into Eve 1653 H. More Antid Athe iii 66 Life being individuated into such minute numbers that it have their distinct sense and pleasure 1681 S. J. Scott Chr Life (1747) III 385 That which individuates any body, or makes it a distinct body from all other Societies, is the Charter or Law upon which it is founded 1864 D. G. Mitchell Sev Stor 9 This symbolism of language which individuates a man's private memories

2 To give an individual character to, to distinguish from others of the same species, to individualize, to single out

1614 [see Individuating below] 1641 J. Jackson True Evang I II 136 Circumstances individuate actions 1656 Ruse Origen's Opin in Phenix (1721) I 74 Such Peculiarities as individuate Peter and Paul, as to their Bodies 1732 Berkeley Alciphr VII § 5 In Peter, James, and John, you may observe in each a certain collection of Stature, Figure, Colour, and other sensible Properties by which they are known asunder, distinguished from all other Men, and if I may so say, individuated 1802 Courtier Pleas Solit 13 The heart, that loves its object to excess, is individuate 1827 Hare Guesses Ser I (1873) 111 That in which he differs and is distinguish from other men, is his individuality, and individuates or individualizes him

†3 To appropriate to an individual Obs rare

1641 Ireap Theol Theol 209 Neither [do they] individuate the same to themselves 1646 — Comm John xx 28 That is true faith indeed that individuateth God and appropriateth him to itself 1647 — Comm Col ii 20 True faith individuateth Christ, and appropriateth him to a mans self

Hence Individuated vbl sb and ppl a

1614 Sylvester Du Bartas Pref Biv, It's thought, that, in the Seed are almes potentially seuerall individuations, Qualities deriu'd from diuers of the neere Ancestors 1657 Hale Prim Orig Man iv iv 323 In the separating or individuating of these Elements 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I ii § 36 60 Peculiar notes and properties or individuating circumstances 1835 Greswell Parables V i 208 Other individuating marks of distinction

Individuated (indivi dĭuĕited), ppl a [f Individuate v or ppl a + -ED 1]

1 Rendered individual, individualized

1823 De Quincey Language Wks 1860 IX 126 The Hebrew has scarcely any individuated words 1862 H. Spencer First Prin II xiv § 107 (1875) 398 A simultaneous increase of combination among such individuated portions

†2 = Individuate ppl a 1 Obs

1698 Norris Treat Serv Duty 37 All the Perfection he longing to that Individuated Nature.

Individuation (indivi dĭuē·ʃən) [ad med L. individuātiōn-em, n. of action f individuā-re see Individuate v]

1 The action or process of individuating or rendering individual, that of distinguishing as an individual spec in Scholastic Philosophy, the process leading to individual existence, as distinct from that of the species

Principle of individuation (= med L principium individuationis) the principle through which the individual is constituted or comes into being. In Scholastic Philosophy this was variously held to be Form (by most Realists), Matter (by the Nominalists), and Matter viewed in the individual (by Albertus Magnus and Thomas Aquinas)

1668 J. Sergeant Logick 41 The matter is the principium of individuation, saith Thomas And against, the essence is restrained into one individuall thing by the matter 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I iv § 37 (1820) I 810 Many Real Natures require Time and Successions to the performance of them, the unity whereof together with the unity of the subject neces sarily concur to the individuation of them, if I remember aright my old Philosophy 1690 Jackson Creed x xii § 3 The root of individuation or distinction of one particular person from another was wholly from the matter, not from the form 1694 H. More Myst Iniq 506 Agree like to the sense of several considerable Philosophers and School men who contend that Individuation is from the Form onely, and that the Matter and Supposition is individuated from it 1704 Swift J Tub ix, Effects of so vast a difference as to be the sole point of individuation between Alexander the Great, Jack of Leyden, and Monsieur Des Carte 1713 Butler Serm Hum Nat xi Wks 1874 II 31 note, The inward frame of man considered as a system or constitution whose several parts are united, not by a physical principle of individuation, but by the respects they have to each other 1732 Berkeley Alciphr VII § 11 None but those who had Minds to be numbred, and could themselves explain the Principle of Individuation in Man, or untie the Knots and answer the Objections, which may be raised even about Human Personal Identity 1827 Coleridge Aids Refl 125 Essence, in its primary signification, means the principle of individuation, the inmost principle of the possibility of any thing as that individual thing 1856 F. Spencer Instinct Bird iii 153 (L.) Schelling defines life as the tendency to individuation 1869 Farrar Fam Speech iii 52 He never got to the individuation, or even the individualism, of words

†2 Undivided character or condition, oneness Obs

1654 H. L'Estrange Chas I (1655) 8 It cannot be denied, but unity and individuation of person in all points of sacred truths, were to be wished between married couples

3 The condition of being an individual, separate and continuous existence as a single indivisible object, individuality, personal identity

1641–[3] More Immort Soul II iii 11 xix, Fine spunne glittering silk crumpled in one Changeth not its individuation from what it was, when it was gaily spread In flutter ing winds 1655 — Myst Godl VI iv 223 It being most certain there is no stable Personality of a man but what is in his Soul, (for if the Body be Essented to this numerical Identity, it is in as much as the same individuation is, had when he was Christned) 1728 Wollaston Relig Nat v 75 We are severally conscious to our selves of the individuation of our own minds from all other 1741 Watts Logic I vi § 6 What is the principle of individuation? Or what is it that makes any one thing the same as it was yesterday?

4 An individualized condition

1648 W. Sclater, Jr. in R. Sclater's Malachi (1650) 80 Ded., It gives them all their several natures, or distinct individuations 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I iv 16 Each spirit is an individuation of Spirit substance, combined with and intermixing a corresponding individuation of Matter

5 In the sum of the processes on which the life of the individual depends

1867 H. Spencer Princ Biol § 227 II 409 Grouping under the word Individuation all processes by which individual life is completed and maintained 1871 Darwin Desc Man I viii 318 Mr Herbert Spencer has shown that with all organisms a ratio exists between what he calls individuation and genesis

b The unification of parts or forces necessary to constitute an individual or organic unity

1881 Mivart Cat 376 Such an animal is really the theatre of some unifying power which synthesizes its varied activities, dominates its forces, and is a principle of individuation 1889 — Truth 300 Without the presence of some unifying principle of individuation the different members would not be united so as to constitute an act of judgment

Indivi duative, a rare$^{-1}$ [f ppl. stem of med L. individuā re to Individuate + -ive] Tending to individuation, individualizing

1861 Hanna Dk Hamilton I 4 In the present twenty century having been an age of individuative, the nineteenth neces sarily became an age of associative development

Indivi duator. rare [agent-n in L form, from med L. individuā-re to Individuate] One who or that which individuates

1643 Digby Observ Browne's Relig Med (1659) 52 He is composed of the same Individual Matter, for it hath the same Distinguisher and Individuator, to wit, the same Forme or Soul

†Indivi duity, v Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f L. individu us (see Individuum) + -ity] trans To mark out as a separate individual, to individualize

1661 Butler Heirlooms i (1662) 46 The Statute of Additions, was made in the first of King Henry the fifth, to Individuitie (as I may say) and separate persons from those of the same name

†Indivi duism. Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f L. individu us (see Individuum) + -ism] Individuality

1825 Sporting Mag XVI 404 knowing no reason why a state of individuality should not prevail

†Indivi duity. Obs [ad med L. individuitāt-em individuality, f L. individu-us (see next), cf F. individuité (16–17th c. in Hatz.-Darm.)]

1. The quality or character of being individible

1612 Cotgr., Indi viduité, individuitie, inseperableness

1632 J. H. Humane Rights 63 The consummation and individuitie of marriage 1695 J. D. Preston Bacth iv 135 The further it departs from the middle Individuity of the Point, so much the more Space it doth fill

2 The quality of being individually owned

1695 Dalrymple (Queen's Advoc.) Wks (1759) 182 No Tenures, but a customary Hold Common, without Individuity

3 The quality that constitutes an individual, whether as distinct from other individuals, or as continuously identical with itself

1650 Fuller Pisgah II iii 122 Gods unintermitted service preserving the individuity, or oneness of the Temple with the former 1656 tr. Hobbes Elem Philos Wks 1839 I 135 Some place individuity in the unity of matter others in the unity of form; and one says it consists in the unity of the aggregate of all the accidents together

†Indivi duous, a Obs rare [f L. individu-us not divided, indivisible + -ous = Individual]

1642 H. More Song of Soul II iii 11 xxv That thing is individuous, Whatever can into it self reflect, Such is the soul as hath been prov'd by us Before 1647 Ad II iii 11 lxxxv, But I elsewhere, I think, do gainly prove That souls of brutes, by reasons nothing want Be individuous Ibid lxxxvi, But if mens souls be individuous, How can they ought from their own substance shed?

‖Individuum (indivi dĭuĕm) Pl -a, -ums [L. individuum an indivisible particle, an atom, in med L. an individual, esp. a person, f. neut. of adjust use of neut sing of individuus undivided, indivisible, inseparable, f in- (In- 3) + dividuus divisible, Dividuous, f. dividĕre to divide Treated as a Latin word in senses 1–2, but in 3 as naturalized, with pl -ums]

1 That which cannot be divided, the indivisible, an indivisible entity

1599 Marston Sco Villanis I ii 177 Almighty men, that can their maker make, And force his sacred bodie to be gnawne Dividing individuum really 1609 Dee Hieroglyph Monad v 1 H iij, Unlesse her be a Body, Deade not individuum, be her and shee thee 1626 Bulokar, Indivisibile, that which cannot bee divided 1754 Sheblock Disc (1764) I 203 the Learned make the Soul alone to be the perfect Individuum

+ b An atom Obs

1656 Blount Glossogr, Individuum, one singular thing, that which cannot be divided a body inseparable 1706 Phillips, An Individual or Individuum, in Philos a Body or Particle so small that it cannot be divided which is otherwise call'd an Atome

2. Logic A member of a species, = Individual sb 1 b

Individuum vagum something indicated as an individual, without specific identification

1555 Ridley Lord's Supper Wks (Parker Soc.) 24 And therefore he [Durand] calleth them properly individua vaga, individuum vagum, that is, a wandering proper name 1610 D. Carleton in Cott. & Times Jas. I (1848) I 174 When we ask the question, What is this object? we do not as well hold in every private bill of this kind? they answer that, 'an divided by name do no hurt to the general' 1654 Gayle Magastrom 230 In the forehe ad of the image, let be written the name of the species, or individuum which the image represents 1727 Pope Mem M. Scribleri i vii Wks. 1751 VI 231 From particular propositions nothing can be concluded, because the Individua vaga are, barren

3 An individual person or thing, = Individual sb 2 3

1591 Sylvester Du Bartas i v 843 That so each Kinde may last immortally, Though th Individuum pass succes sively 1618 M. Baret Heroinamachia i 98 In hors-es, though there be many individuums of one species, yet the expert Horseman can reforme their rebellion 1646 J. Hall Poems 123 Why would she choose her Priests to be Such Individuums as Lucifer detests? 1656 Stanley Hist Philos vi (1701) 253/2 A continual succession of many individuums of the same species 1659 Br Walton Consid Considered in Todd Wore II ii. Is not a man the same individuum when his hair is cut or his nails pared that he was before? 1745 Baker D. & Quix. II v v 206 Helpless misfortune to appear in my Eyes the most horrid Individuum of human Race

†Indivi nable, a Obs rare [In- 1] Not divinable, incapable of being divined

1603 Florio Montaigne iii 11 There are secret and indivinable parts in the objects men doe handle

†Indivi ne, a Obs rare [In- 1] Not divine, unholy

1603 [J. Davies Microcosm (1876) 57 (D) His brother Clarence He did rebuptize in a butt of wine A Turkish prouision nor most indivine

†Indivi nity. Obs rare [In- 1 cf med L indivinitē] Want of divinity, absence of divine character

1646 Sir T. Browne Pseud Ep I x 41 How openly did he [the Devil] betray his Indivinity unto Caesus who being rumed by his Amphitheatre and expostulating with him received no higher answer, then the excuse of his impotency upon the contradiction of fate

†Indivi no, a Obs rare = [ad L indivi us undivided, f in (In- 3) + divisus divided, Divide] Undivided

1677 Gale Crt Gentiles II 255 Those things, whose essen tial notion is indivise and inseparable, such are most one and simple

Indivisibilty (indivizĭbĭlĭti) [f next see -ity Cf F indivisibilité (1516 in Godef), It indivisibilità] The quality or condition of being indivisible 1647 H More Song of Soul II II. III. xix. Now shall the indivisibilitie Of the souls vertues make an argument 1666 Sterlin Ovid. Nasc. III. § 15 The solidity and indivisibility of these angled Atoms. 1779 De Lolme Eng. Const. II. xxii. 278 The solidity and indivisibility of the power of the crown 1878 Morley Condorcet 63 Conspiring against the unity and indivisibility of the Republic.

Indivisible (indivi zĭbl'), a and sb Also 4–6 with y for i, (7 q erron -able, 8 -viseable) [ad late L indivisibilis, f. in- (In- 3) + divisibilis Divisible Cf. F. indivisible (13–14th c. in Hatz.-Darm.)]

A. adj. Not divisible, incapable of being divided (actually, or in thought), incapable of being distributed among a number, + incapable of being separated or detached inseparable (obs.)

c 1380 Wyclif Serm. Sel. Wks. I. 197 Ech þing bat God comyneþ is mad of parties and vysible 1526 Pilgr. Perf. (W. de W. 1531) 150 Fayth is a supernaturall lyght, & ther for it is indivysyble. 1553 Gardiner True Obed. 43 (R.) [In] all thynges which be created, visible or did, he was alwaies together with the Holy Ghost, the indivisible worker, (one substaunce of the three persons in diuinitie.) 1638 F. Junius Paint. of Ancients 164 They carried him every where along as an individuall companion 1651 Hobbes Govt. & Soc. iv. § 1 135 Dominion (that is) supreme power is indivisible, insomuch as no man can serve two Masters 1656 St. Hobbes Rem. Philos. Wks. (1839) I. 313 Besides, equality and inequality are found out often by the division of the two quantities into parts indefinite, and those indivisible, as Cavallerius Roma contra has done in our time, and Archimedes often 1694 South Twelve Serm. III. 304 Who can resolve the Difficulties about the Composition of a continued Quantity, as whether it is Compounded of Parts Divisible or Indivisible? a 1721 Ken Hymnus Eastre Poet. Wks. 1721 I. 218 A thousand Years is but one Day in God's Indivisible Ray. 1827–9 Hallam Hist. Lit. III. iii. § 86 The consciousness of a self within, a perspicuous indivisible Ego. 1853 W. Gresley Journ. Chron. (ed. 3) 21 According to the atomic hypothesis matter is composed of certain minute indivisible particles, or atoms, and consequently cannot be divided infinitely. 1870–9 Daily News 11 Nov. In Scotland calls on the Marcullas in the name of the Republic one indivisible, to carry on the war without truce or mercy.

B. sb. That which is indivisible, an infinitely small particle or quantity.

V. Bond of indivisibles, a method of calculating areas, volumes, etc. based on the conception of indivisibles, published by Bonaventura Cavalieri in 1635 (Cf. quot. 1656 in A.)

1644 Digby Man's Soul (1645) 140 One instant or indivisible of time 1649 H. More Philos. Poems 336 If quantity consists of Indivisibles or Atoms. 1656 Hobbes 6 Lect. Wks. 1845 VII. 301 The method of indivisibles, invented by Bonaventura 1664 Power Exp. Philos. Pref. 7 The very Atoms and their reputed Indivisibles and least realities of Matter 1721 Bailey, Indivisibles, (in Geometry), are such Elements or Principles, as any Body or Figure, may be supposed to be ultimately resolved into 1837–9 Hallam Hist. Lit. III. iii. § 11 400 Galileo trod in the steps of Kepler, and became conversant with indivisibles.

Hence Indivi sibleness, indivisibility

1648 W. Mountague Devout Ess. I. ii. § 2 19 In which the mere Trinity doth reside, the Son of God in Person, the Holy Ghost or Spirit of God by the Vnion and Indivisibleness, and consequently God the Father by the individualness of his essence from their presence 1682 H. More Annot. Glanvill's Lux Orient. 227 We will conclude with Mr. Baxter's Conceit of the Indivisibleness of a Spirit

Indivisibly (indivi zĭbli), adv [f. prec + -ly 2] In an indivisible manner, inseparably, in a manner not admitting of division 1592 Hulsot, Indissibly. indissibile 1598 Barckley Felic. Man II. (1603) 611 Christian charitie which is indivisible ioyned with true religion a 1721 Ken Hymnarium Poet. Wks. 1721 II. 21 Infinite is not confin'd to Place, Indivisibly fill'd all real Space 1849 De Quincey Eng. Mail-coach II. Wks. 1890 XIII. 304 I sight does not tread upon the steps of light more indivisibly. 1882 Farrar Early Ages II. 352 The Divine became Human, and dwelt in our Humanity indivisibly.

†Indivisi sive, a. Obs rare—1 [In- 1 + divisi-sion em (Boethius) see In- 1 and Division, cf F. indivision (16th c. in Hatz.-Darm.)] Absence of division, undivided condition

1624 F. White Repl. Fisher 410 The body of Christ in heauen, is not toynted to the sacramentall body, by continuation or indivision 1654 Jer. Taylor Real Pres. 216 Bellarmine says there is a double indivision or unity of being; an intrinsecal and an extrinsecal, a formal and an essential 1875 Maine Hist. Inst. VII. 194 The land had remained in a state of indivision during several generations

†Indivi sive, a Obs rare [In- 1] Indivisible

1657 tr. Evelyn Fr. Relig. (1850) 162 Its [the Soul's] immortal and indivisive nature

†Indivi lsion. Obs rare—1 [In- 3, cf L. individuus] not torn asunder (Macrobius) Absence of separation, unsevered condition

a 1638 Mede (1672) I. xxxvi. 194 The Water ascends upward, the Aire downward, against nature, to maintain the connexion and indivision of the parts of the world

†Indivu lative, a Obs rare—0. [In- 1] Characterized by not tearing or being torn asunder Hence †Indivu latively adv., inseparably

1678 Cudworth Intell. Syst. I. iv. § 36 566 The highest of souls are so near a kin to that Highest Good of all that they do naturally and indivisively cleave to the same

†Indling, a. Sc var. of Eyndling, jealous

1600 J. Melvill Diary (Wodrow Soc.) 155 God, who was holy, angry and indling

Indo- (i ndo), combining form of Gr. Ἰνδός, L. Indus (cf. Gr. Ἰνδο-αυσθία Scythia of the Indies, Indian Scythia), employed in modern compounds, in which it qualifies another word, substantive or adjective, or denotes the combination of Indian with some other characteristic (chiefly ethnological), as Indo-Aryan, Aryan of or in India, or modified by native Indian characters, so Indo-British, -Briton, -English, -heathenish, -human, -Mohammedan, -Portuguese, Indo-Celtic, a term used by some for Indo-Germanic, and Indo-European, emphasizing the position of Celtic as the most western member of the linguistic family, Indo-Chinese, belonging to Further India, or the region between India and China, sometimes called Indo-China, Indo-Egyptian, -Greek, Egyptian or Greek influenced by Indian, Indo-Spanish, Spanish modified by Indian, Anglo-Indian, Indo-Teutonic (rare) = Indo-Germanic see also Indo-European, -Germanic 1850 H. Torrens in Jrnl. Statist. Soc. Bengal I. In the Indo-Aryan researches, we see the suggestion and first discovery with Prinsep 1881 Athenæum 9 Apr. 494/3 A new work . . on the history, language, literature, customs, dress, &c., of the early Indo-Aryans. Ibid. 23 Apr. 553/1 The longest section of the publication is the Khô, a Persian Aryan type 1832 J. Goldingham in Southey Life Inderia Bell (1844) III. 649 Some of the most respectable Indo-Britons 1862 Trevor Hist. Indo-Brit. III. 394 An Indo-Briton of the name of Campbell 1884 Indo-Celtic Jrnl. (Indo-Teutonic) I. 1886 Q. Rev. Jan. 211 The name Indo-China was an invention of that versatile and fiery spirit John Leyden 1898 Westm. Gaz. 29 June 3/2 Such an end of the Chinese problem will be regretted by few who understand the real nature of affairs in the Indo-China peninsula 1824 Prichard Nat. Hist. Man xxiii (1845) 240 Others approximate to the Indo-Chinese 1885 Athenæum 5 Dec. 718/1 Yule & Burnell Hobson Jobson Introd. 24 The 'Indo-Portuguese Patois' Ibid., The Indo-Portuguese New Testament. Times & Gaz. 8 Jan. 9/2 In Parliament [etc.] the union of the population is "Indo Spanish 1855 Milman Lat. Chr. VII. vii. VI. 527 "Indo Teutonic languages.

Indo-, Chem. Before a vowel Ind- [f Gr. Ἰνδικός, as root of indicum, Indigo] f. formative of names of various compound bodies related to indigo, or belonging to the Indole group see Indogen, Indone, Indophanin, Indoxyl, etc.

+Indoce, var of Endose v. Obs, to endorse

1500–20 Dunbar Poems xxxviii. 3 Chrystis with his blud our ransoms doys indoce Ibid. xlii. 103 Matrymony . . The band of freindschip hes indost, Betuix Hewty and the presonier

†Indocibi lity. Obs [f next + -ity] Inability to be taught, unteachableness

1607 Torsell Fourf. Beasts (1658) 21 Making a man with an Asses head to signifie impudency, shamelessness, and indocibility 1837–9 Hallam Hist. Lit. (1847) II. 386 A different fault: indocility, or difficulty of being taught +Indo cible, a Obs [ad late L. indocibilis, f. In- 3 + Docible] Incapable of being taught or instructed, unteachable Also indocible of 1555 Lupset Wks. (Arb.) 52 Be not indocible lyke lyggers and dragons. 1566 Sandcroft Lett. Jerom to Oun in docible and unteachable Humor 1768–74 Tucker Lt. Nat. (1834) II. 142 It renders him indocible of that most useful science of ignorance

Hence +Indo cibleness.

1647 Jer. Taylor Lib. Profs. ii. 25 Out of pevishness and indocibleness of disposition 1678–9 Poulden Answ. Synn. 31 The ignorance or indocibleness of some of the People.

Indocile (indōs sail, -dŏ sil), a [a F. indocile (15th c.), or ad L. indocilis, f. in- (In- 3) + docilis Docile] Unwilling or unapt to be taught, not readily submitting to instruction or guidance, intractable 1693 Florio Montaigne's Ess. (1632) 43 Men have reason to checke the indocile liberie of this member 1692 Bentley Boyle Lect. iii. (1724) 57 Ignorance and Indocility can baffle all arguments, and be proof against demonstration it self 1799 Godwin Cal. Williams 15 He had been a most inveterate resister to the pedant who held the office of his tutor 1852 Thackeray Esmond II. i. We are indocile to put up with grief, however 1884 Ruskin Pleas. Eng. 20 The Lombards were thereby indocile.

Hence Indo cileness, indocility (Bailey 1727)

Indocility (indōsi liti) [f prec + -ity, perh after F. indocilité (16th c.) or L. indocilitas] Indocile character or nature, intractableness, unruliness

1648 W. Mountague Devout Ess. I. Pref. xiv. b, For Humane Nature is well characterized in the stiffness and indocility of the Phariſees a 1656 Bp. Hall St. Paul's Combat (J.) To have left us in their miserable darkness and indocility 1785 J. Adams Wks. (1854) IX. 537 Ireland, I think, stands between us and evil. Her indocility may have changed the plans of the cabinet. 1873 Hamerton Intell. Life II. ii. (1875) 54 Many of us were remarkable for our indocility in boyhood †Indock, v. Obs non-e-ind To put in dock, to dock in quot. fig (in pa. pple.) Intently fixed, 'anchored'.

1611 Coryat's Crudities Panegyr. Verses h.j, Nimble Tom Whose mindeis on travels still indocket hates Observations by the eyes. Hath spun a deale of Crudities, which Vul-cans forge will not concoct

+Indo·ct, a Obs rare—1 [ad L. indoct-us: cf. Doct.] Untaught, not learned

1677 J. Harvey Owen's Figgy (N.), Sick stomachs much receive, not much conceot, So thou know'st much, I know, yet art indoct Indoctrinate (indŏ ktrinĕt), v. Also 7, 9 en- [f. L. type indoctrināre, indŏ-* (see Doctrinate), prob. used in med. or mod. L. cf. It. indottrinare (Florio), Fr. endoctriner, F. endoctriner (12th c. in Littré)]

1 trans To imbue with learning, to teach

1626 Jackson Creed VIII. xii. § 6 This will not indoctrinate him to know the extremities of the stone so perfectly as his meanest patient doth 1652–62 Hervin Coronger II. (1682) 128 They are altogether unlearned, even the Priests meanly indoctrinated 1677 Gent. Instruct. 144 Young Gentlemen, who are received into the College to be indoctrinated 1880 Scott Monast. xix. It shall be my part so to indoctrinate him, as to convince him what is due . . to your lord ship 1865 Livingstone Zambesi xxv. 513 No pains that ever are taken to indoctrinate the adults of the tribe

b 1 o instruct in a subject, principle, etc

1656 H. More Enthus. Triumph. xii. (1712) 48 Such a sect behind him indoctrinated in all licentious and filthy principles a 1661 Fuller Worthies (1840) II. 312 The lord treasurer Burleigh was indoctrinated by a cobbler in the true tanning of leather 1858 Sparr Athan. III. v. 291 His mind had become thoroughly indoctrinated in the tenets of his sect 1898 C. Gerike Christ xxxv. 689/2 477 He rather trained their spiritual character than indoctrinated them in systematic theology

c To imbue with a doctrine, idea, or opinion

1832 Blackw. Mag. XXXII. 438 The little town having long before been handsomely indoctrinated with philosophy and the solemn and sworn belief that every Frenchman was perfectly competent to judge of politics 1861 M. Arnold Pop. Educ. France 59 Fully indoctrinated with a sense of the magnitude of their office 1874 Carpenter Ment. Phys. II. (1879) 120 It has been the whole aim of the subject to indoctrinate the Reader with that idea [etc.]

d To bring into a knowledge of something

1841–4 Emerson Fss., Spir. Laws Wks. (Bohn) I. 280 If a teacher have any opinion which he wishes to conceal, his pupils will become as fully indoctrinated into that as into any which he publishes. 1882 Gould-Baring Yorr. Relig. 274 May He indoctrinate us into it

2 To teach, inculcate (a subject, etc.) rare

1800 J. Gwyn Extracts (1810) 209 The Adventures of St. Leon . . do not indoctrinate the understanding into any of boundless opulence and immortal youth 1868 M. Pattison Academ Org v. 308 The philosophical sciences can only be indoctrinated by a master Hence Indo ctrinated ppl. a., Indo ctrinating vbl. sb and ppl. a.

1624 Milton Apol. Smect. 1, To expresse his indoctrinat ing power in what sort him best seem'd 1644 — Areop. (1780) 183 Then will he required a specifi reinforcement of constant and sound endoctrinating to set them right and firm 1870 Anderson Missions Amer. Ch. IV. 471 Churches each with its indoctrinated native pastor

Indoctrination (indŏ ktrinē ʃən) [n of action from prec.] Instruction, formal teaching

1648 Sir I. Bruce Papers (Camd. Soc.) 25 Postulata, very necessodable unto Junior indoctrination 1668 H. More Div. Dial. IV. ix. (1713) 309 His Indoctrinations touching the Centre of the Soul in the Heart 1874 Amer. Meth. Mag. IX. 251 A science to be understood by the indoctrination of the understanding 1865 M. Pattison Serm. 123 The poutrest knows of no other education than indoctrination

Indo ctrinator. rare [agent-n. of In- 1 form from Indoctrinate see -or.] One who indoctrinates

In recent Dicts

+Indo·ctrine, v Obs Also 5–7 en- [ME endoctrine, a Ok endoctrine-r (12th c. in Littré), f. en- = L. in- + doct-ina, parallel to Fr. endoctriner, It. indottrinare, L. type indoctrinare*, the prefix at length conformed to Latin type see In- 2] trans To teach, instruct, = Indoctrinate a 1450 Ant de la Tour (1868) 112 For to norisshe orphelyns and for to endoctrine hem in vertu and science 1483 Caxton Cato A iv, To the end that everyone have all good conditions. a 1533 J. D. Bernere Gold. Bk M. Aurel. (1546) Fenjb, Olde wyse men ought to endoctrine the yonge people 1632 J. Done Hist. Septuagint 2 This Ptolomeus Philadelphus was endoctrined in the Science of good letters by Strabo

b 1599 Hawes Past. Pleas. 28 Sayeng she wolde in her goodly sycence In short space me so well indoctryne 1549 Compl. Scot. To Rdr. 14 To disput andie tyl indoctryne the maner of the veyris inde of the batellis 1604 Lee Fort out of Snare v. 29 It plaseth God . to indoctrine the innocent, to refute the insolent 1820 Scott Monast. xiv, That all to-be-unparalleled volume which indoctrines the rude in civility

Indo ctrinise, v rare [f indoctrine or indoctrinate + -ize, cf. Doctrinize] trans = Indoctrinate 1. Hence Indo ctrinise ment.

1861 Thornbury Turner (1862) I. 29 Turner . . there received both health and learning — being at once oxygenized and indoctrinized 1887 New Princeton Rev. Jan. 32 All that remains for specific indoctrination may easily be left to the Sabbath-schools and the churches.

Indo-Europe·an, a and sb [f Indo- 1 + European]

A. adj. Common to India and Europe, applied to the great family or class of cognate languages (also called Indo-Germanic and Aryan, q.v.)

spoken over the greater part of Europe and extending into Asia as far as northern India, and to the race or its divisions characterized by the use of one or other of these languages

The earliest name for this family of languages, and, both from priority of date and superior fitness of expression, having greater claims than Indo-Germanic

1814 [Dr. T. Young] in Q. Rev. X 255 (Adelung's Mi. Mendarat) Another ancient and extensive class of languages, united by a greater number of resemblances than can well be altogether accidental, may be denominated the Indo-european, comprehending the Indian, the West Asiatic, and almost all the European languages Ibid 256 Classes and Families II Indoeuropean Sanscrit, Median, Armenian, Greek, German, Celtic, Latin, Cantabrian, Sclavonic

1815 [Dr. T. D. Whitaker] Ibid. XIV 97 (Hermes Scythicus) Of the five classes which we denominated Monosyllabic, Indoeuropean, Tataric, African, and American, the first two only are to be considered as constituted according to correct philological principles 1826 Prichard Phys. Hist. Mankind v 1 495 By some the term of Indo-European, by others that of Indo-German dialects, has been applied to the whole class of idioms which are found to be thus allied The former of these terms is preferable to the latter, and indeed to any other, as being the most general 1831 — Eastern Origin Celts. Nat 29 Adelung and Murray have regarded the Celtic as a branch of the Indo-European stock 1841 Latham Eng. Lang. 1 That the Celtic languages were Indo European has lately been demonstrated by Dr. Prichard 1851 Mosses Hist. Outl. Eng. Accid (1873) 6 The Indo European family comprehends nearly all the languages of Europe, and all those Indian dialects which have sprung from the old Indian language (Sanskrit) 1877 Papillon Man. Compar. Philol. (ed 2) 12 The original home of the Indo-European or Aryan nations Ibid. 14 The former of an Indo European people. 1884 Rhys Celtic Britain 1 The great group of nations which has been variously called Aryan, Indo European, Indo Germanic, Indo Celtic, and Japhetic

b Pertaining or belonging to the Indo European family of languages or peoples, as Indo European root, philology, culture, etc

3 sb 1 A member of the Indo-European race ; an Aryan.

1871 Morris Hist Outl Eng Accid to the language of the primitive Indo-Europeans had its local varieties or dialects

2 An Indianized European rare

1825 Herbr Trnl (1828) II 343 One of these Indo Europeans is an old Colonel, of French extraction, but completely Indian in colour, dress, language, and ideas

Indogæan (indogī·ăn, -gē·ăn), a [f mod L Indogæa, f Indo- 1 + Gr γαῖα the earth + -an] Of or pertaining to Indogæa, the zoological region (also called Indian) comprising India, China, the Eastern Peninsula, and the Indo malayan archipelago, as far as Wallace's line

1865 Gill in Proc. Boston Washington II 17 We see reason for admitting nine primary divisions of the earth's inland surface characterised by major associations of animals. (3) The Indogæan Ibid 19 The Indogæan realm 1899 W. L. & P. I. Sclater Geog Mammals

Indogen (i ndŏdjĕn) Chem [f Indo 2 + -gen 1] A name for the group $C_6H_4\begin{cases}CO\\NH\end{cases}C=$ the double molecule of which (di-indogen) constitutes indigo-blue Hence Indoge nic a in f acid — Indoxylic acid Indo genide, n compound of indogen with another radical, as indogenide of benzoic aldehyde, or of pyruric acid Indigo-blue is the indogenide of pseudo-isatin, or di indogen

1886 Syd Soc. Lex. Indogen 1892 Mohlau & Muir Dict Chem III 7 Indoxyl forms condensation products, called indogenides, with bodies containing a CO group

Indo-Ge rmanist, a rare = next

1866 [see Indo-German 2] 1847 Pritchard Rep Brit Assoc 241 The Indo European, sometimes termed Indo-German, and, by late writers, Arian or Iranian languages 1880 Earle Philol Eng Tongue (ed 5) 1 Those forms are an indelible feature of all Indo Germ in tongues

Indo-Germa nic, a [f Indo-1 + Germanic, ad Gcr indogermanisch] = Indo-European a, Aryan a

('Indo Germanic' is 1 term of late introduction than 'Indo-European', and of German origin, appearing first, so far as yet traced (see Gustav Meyer in Indoger Forschungen II 145-230), in Klaproth Asia Polyglotta, 1823 With Klaproth it seems to have been a kind of abbreviation of the expression used by him in an earlier work) 'the grove, Indisch Medisch Sclavisch Germanische Volkerstelle, das vom Ganges bis an den Britannischen Inseln reicht', naming the two extreme members of the ethnological 'chain' When Celtic was shown to be a still more extreme member of the same series, 'indogermanisch' lost its appropriateness, and some scholars tried to substitute indokeltisch, 'Indo Celtic', in Fr. indo celtique, while others, as Bopp in his Vergleichende Grammatik, gave preference to the more comprehensive indoeuropäisch, the equivalents to which, Indo European, indo européen, were also favoured in Great Britain and France But the employment of 'indoger manisch' on the title page of Pott's Etymologische Forsch ungen auf dem Gebiete indogermanischen Sprachen (1833-36) popularized this term in Germany, whence under the influence of German textbooks, or of teachers trained in Germany, it has come into English use, and is now probably more used than 'Indo European')

1838 [Dr. Rosen] in Q. Trnl Educ Apr 339 (Review of Pott) The family of the Indo-Germanic languages may, according to Mr. Pott, be divided into five branches. 1839 Penny Cycl XIII 308/2 The following table taken from Pott's Etymologische Forschungen contains a list of the principal transformations of letters in some of the Indo Germanic languages 1848 Latham Eng Lang (ed 2) IV § 31 Until the Celtic was shown by Dr Prichard to have the same affinities with the Latin, Greek, Sanskrit, and Zend, as those tongues had with each other, the class in question was called Indo-Germanic, since, up to that time, the Germanic languages had formed its western limit 1866 Cornh. Mag Nov 631 The highest forms of Indo Germanic culture 1877 Papillon Man Compar Philol (ed 2) 10 The name Indo Germanic, employed by many German scholars, is hardly comprehensive enough of the European branch of the family

Hence I ndo-Ge rmanist, a student of Indo-Germanic philology

1880 Sayce in Academy 17 Aug 104/1, I hardly think that any Indo Germanist would be found at the present day to favour such an hypothesis 1896 Lloyd Ibid 7 Mar 203/1 A Phonetik for Indogermanists

+Indo gged, a Obs rare—° [f In- 4 + dog] 1611 Florio, Incatenato, indogged become currish

[Indolce, error for Indore 2]

Indolam (i ndolam) Chem [f Indo- 2 + In] A blue dye stuff, $C_{42}H_{20}N_4O_2$, related to indigo

1884 in Cassell's Encycl Dict 1890 Morley & Muir Dict Chem II 786/2

+Indolas, Obs rare In 4–5 yndoys [a Of Indost = Liegois] a The language of India b pl Indians

a 1400–50 Alexander 5009 Pe son tre Entres in with yndoys & endes in Greke Ibid 5072 Pis tuttil was of twa kynges bare name, Aquers, Of Jndas & of Symbre, kynge of Inesia Secret, Gov Lordsh 83 Afyr pe ordre and pe craft of gregeys, of yndoys, & of hem of Perse

Indole (i·ndōl), sb (Indo- + -ole, from Isatropp) indol [f Indo- 2 + -ole, from L oleum oil (Not ol, as indole has not the structure of an alcohol)] A crystallizable substance (C_8H_7N), called also Ketole, formed in large shining colourless lamine, having a peculiar but not very powerful odour, it is obtained artificially by reduction of indigo blue, and occurs in small quantities in human excrement The pl indoles is applied to alkylated derivatives of indole

Indole group, a name for the group including indole, isatin, indigo, and related compounds and derivatives

1869 Watts Dict Chem 392 Indol is a crystalline substance which forms the starting point of the indigo series 1872 Watts Dict Chem VI 733 Indol C_8H_7N may be regarded as the nucleus of the indigo group 1882 Ibid 3rd Suppl II 1089 The clear ethereal solution leaves on distillation a reddish oil with the characteristic smell of indole 1886 Syd Soc. Lex. s.v., Indol — when fused with potash forms aniline, and when in solution forms with orone indigo blue 1892 Mohlau & Muir Dict Chem, Indole.

+Indole, a Obs rare—1 [ad med L indol us, f. in- (In- 4) + dolus guile] Guileless

1549 Compl Scot xv 126 His jongest sone benemyn was indole and innocent

Indolence (i ndŏlĕns) [a F. indolence (16th c), or directly ad L indolentia freedom from pain, insensibility (Cicero), n. of quality f. in- (In- 3) + dolent-em, pres. pple. of dolēre to be pained]

+1 Insensibility or indifference to pain, want of feeling Obs

1653 Holland Plutarch's Mor 65 Chrysippe and Mild nesse, (they say it is the meane) betweene senselesse Indolence and Cruelitie 1706 [see Indolency 1] 1723 Hist. State Holland I 3 A Disease values neither Life nor Death, and undergoes capital Punishment with unparalleled Indolence

†2 Freedom from pain, a state of rest or ease, in which neither pain nor pleasure is felt Obs

1656 Stanley Hist Philos IV (1701) 135/1 Indolence, which Epicurus held, they esteem not pleasure, nor want of pleasure for Indolence is like the state of a sleeping Man 1728 Pearce tr. Cicero's De Finibus 156 D'you know, said I, what Hieronymus Rhodius has dilated for the Summum Bonum? I know, said Torquatus, he resolves it into Vitæ dolore, Mere Indolence 1723 Pearce tr. Hydra & Phil I Wks 1871 I 269, I could rather call it an unfeeling Stupidity, to be making more than a praise tion of both pain and pleasure 1751 Lady Orkney Marias Smyrl (1752) 113 That tranquility of mind, and indolence of body, which he made his chief end.

b Path Absence of pain (in a tumour of In dolent 2)

1758 J. S. Le Dran's Obs. Surg. (1771) 219 The Pain or Indolence of the Tumour indicates the Quality of the Contents

3 The disposition to avoid trouble, love of ease, laziness, slothfulness, sluggishness

1710 Steele Tatler No 132 P 1 Heavy honest Men, with whom I have passed many Hours with much Indolence 1784 Johnson Let to Langton 12 July, That voluntary debility which modern language is content to term in dolence 1818 Scott Ivan Jeff 14 Nov (1894) I 306 He is one of the many many hundreds in whom in dolence has strangled genius. 1844 H. H. Wilson Brit India I 1 Passing his days in indolence and indulgence 1878 R. W. Dale Lect Preach iii 63 Some men fail as preachers through intellectual indolence +Indolency. Obs [ad L indolentia see prec and -ency]

1 = Indolence 1

(1577 tr. Bullinger's Decades (1592) 301 The vnsauerie opinion of the Stickes, touching their Indolentia or lacke of greefe] 1622 Donne Serm xvi 159 He wept not inordinately, but he came nearer Excesse then Indolency 1662 H. More Enthus Tri 42 That affected, and not altogether unattainable power of Indolency amongst the Heathen 1706 Phillips, Indolence, or Indolency, a being insensible of Pain or Grief

2 = Indolence 2

1603 Florio Montaigne II xii (1632) 275 The sect of Philosophie, that hath most preferred sensuality, hath also placed the same but to indolencie or unfeeling of paine 1685 Baxter tr. Inks's Let Tet Federatum 6 Civil Interests I call Life, Liberty, Health, and Indolency of Body 1690 Love Hum Und II xx § 10 Despair sometime produceing unevasive Sorrow sometimes rest and indolency

3 = Indolence 3

1742 Middleton Cicero I 1 48 The indolency of his ancestors

Indolent (i ndolent), a [ad late L indolent em (Jerome 'dicamus ἀπαθητικοὺς indolentes sive indolorios'), f. in- (In- 3) + dolens grieving, Dolent Cf F indolent (16 17th c.)]

1 Path (causing no pain, painless, esp. in indolent tumours, ulcer

1663 Boyle Usef Exp Nat Philos II 1 25 Curing of cancers by the outward application of an indolent powder 1713 R. Russell in Phil Trans XXVIII 277 An Indolent Tumour in her Breast 1783 Pott Chirurg Wks II 286 As he lay on his back, it was perfectly indolent, but in any erect posture he complained of pain 1804 Abernethy Surg Obs 58 I was led to inquire further, whether the surface might not be sometimes irritable and sometimes indolent 1861 Hulme tr. Maginn London II iii 111 333 Certain Cantharidis is used to stimulate issues and indolent ulcers

+b loosely Of a pain Very slight Obs

1728 J. S. Le Dran's Obs. Surg. (1771) 155 He felt an indolent Pain on the Shoulder

2 Of persons, their disposition, action etc Averse to toil or exertion, slothful, lazy, idle

1710 Steele Tatler No 132 P 4 A good natured indolent Man 1711 Addison Spect No 5 P 1 To gratifie the Senses, and keep up an indolent Attention in the Audience. 1744 H. Walpole Lett Hist Manage II Lxix 274 I am naturally indolent and without application to any kind of business 1839 Lord Stanhope Hysterion I xi An easy and indolent disposition 1885 S. Cox Quick or Dead Sec I ix 112 [to rouse the indolent and indifferent transf 1839 Longf. Hyperion III i Through the meadow winds the river—careless indolent

+B sb An indolent person Obs

1720 Humourist 49 The Indolent remain in Suspense and Anguish 1810 Splendid Follies I 144 'Yes, yes,' I see her replied the fair indolent

Hence I ndolentness (Bailey vol II 1727)

Indolently (i ndŏlĕntli), adv [f prec + -ly] In an indolent or lazy manner a 1719 Addison (J.), While half by sound, and un disturb'd by wit, Calm and serene you indolently sit 1762 Goldsm Cit W xiv, I perceived a little shrivelled creature indolently reclined on a sofa 1871 R. Ellis Catullus lx 25 Indolently now She rests, while autumn 1885 Fortn Monthly 1 Jan 6 5 If we indolently decide to do nothing at all we shall soon see the end of our resources

†Indoles (i ndolēz) rare [f indoles, f. indu-m, within + ol-* to grow the stem found in Abolish, Adolescent, Adult) Cf Of indole, Sp indole Innate quality or character

1679 O Walker Educ ix 93 He must be treated as the Brachmans did their children, whose indoles they divided 1677 Hale Prim Orig Man II ix 300 Such is the indoles of the Humane Nature, where it is not strangely over grown with Barbarousness 1884 G. Meredith Tragic Comedians I ix 165 Every language has its own 'indoles'

Indoline (i ndolain) Chem, [f Indo- 2 + -in] A polymer of indole, $C_{16}H_{14}N_2$, formed by heating lucindigo with barium hydrate, zinc dust, and water, crystallizing in long bright yellow needles

1884 in Cassell's Encycl Dict 1890 in Morley & Muir Dict Chem II 786

Indology (indŏ·lŏdjĭ) [f Indo- 1 + -logy] The study of Indian history, literature, philosophy, etc.

1888 Trubner's Monthly List Oct 134 There is not a single branch of Indology—with perhaps the single exception of Vedic studies—which will not gain very considerably by its publication 1895 Atlantic Monthly Mar 309

So Indolo gian, a student of Indology

1892 A. Duchesne in Revue a-d Amer 2 The endeavour of Indologians to attribute the highest possible degree of civilization to the mother nation

+Indo mable, a Obs rare [ad L indomabilis, f. in- (In- 3) + domabilis tamable, f. domare to tame Cf Of indomable.] Untameable

1623 Cockeram, Indomable, not to be tamed 1656 in Blount Glossogr. 1728 Morgan Algiers I iii 47 Inhabitants, no less indomable than the very Leopards it breeds

Hence +Indo mableness (Bailey vol II, 1727)

Indomage, obs var of Endamage ?

Indomitable (indp mităbl), a [ad late L indomitabilis, f. in- (In- 3) + domitare to tame, see Domitable]

1 That cannot be tamed, untameable ? Obs

1634 Sir T. Herbert Trav 13 The inhabitants so indomitable 1653 A. Wilson Jas I, 162 Indomitable Spirits by gentle usage may be tamed and brought to obedience

b Of temper and the like passing into 2

1828 Scott F. M. Perth ix, Personal qualities of wisdom and valour, mingled with indomitable pride 1828 D. Israeli Chas I, II xi 40 The genius of Rochelau alone could at once subdue an indomitable aristocracy 1874 Green Short Hist viii § 1 347 The temper of the man remained indomitable as ever

2 Of persons, etc That cannot be overcome or subdued by labour, difficulties, or opposition, unyielding, stubbornly persistent or resolute. Usually approbative. (The ordinary use.)

1830 Carlyle Mirab. (1843) II 133 A rugged, deep rooted, indomitable strength 1856 Kane Arct. Explor. II xiv 145 The natives, as indomitable as their dogs made the entire circuit of Dallas Bay 1865 Livingstone Zambesi xxi 447 He has by indomitable energy overcome obstacles under which most persons would have sunk 1873 Smiles Huguenots Eng. v vi (1880) 200 They were alike indomitable and obstinate in their assertion of the rights of conscience

Hence Indomitabi lity, Indo mitableness, the quality of being indomitable

1851 Sir F. Palgrave Norm. & Eng. I 311 His young prince obtained singular importance through his spirit, his indomitability 1860 Pusey Min. Proph. 116 Joel exhibits the indomitableness of the locusts, how nothing checks, nothing retards them

Indomitably (indǫ mităbłi), adv [f prec + -ly 2] Resolutely, stubbornly, unyieldingly

1837 Emerson, Addr., Amer. Schol Wks (Bohn) II 189 If the single man plant himself indomitably on his instincts, and there abide, the huge world will come round to him 1856 Froude Hist. Eng. (1858) I ii 119 Both had imperious tempers, and both were indomitably obstinate

† Indo mite, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [ad L. indomitus, f in- (In-3) + domitus, pa pple of domāre to tame] Untamed, savage

1617 J. Salkeld Treat Paradise 122 (L.) No tiger so fierce no not any creature, so indomite, but that it was subject to man's dominion, while the man were subject to his Lord and Maker

† Indo mptable, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [a. F in dompt(e)able (1420 in Hatz.-Darm.), f. in- (In-3) + dompter to tame = L. domit āre] = Indomitable

1653 H. Cogan tr. Pontus Irav in 208 Emperor of the indomptable [sic] Forces of the Elephants of the Ianth

Indonaphthene (-næ fθin) Chem [f Indo-2 + Naphthene] The hydrocarbon C_9H_8, or $C_8H_4\begin{matrix}CH\\CH_2\end{matrix}>CH$, a clear colourless oil, present in coal-tar, also called indene

Indone. Chem [f Indo-2 + -one] The ketone $C_8H_4\begin{matrix}CO\\CH\end{matrix}>CH$, which may also be viewed as the anhydride of di oxy indonaphthene

Indonesian (indonī fān), a and sb [f Indo 1 + Gr νῆσος island + -ian] A adj Of or belonging to the East Indian islands, spec. pertaining to those Malay inhabitants of these islands who approximate to an Indian type B sb An inhabitant of the East Indian islands, spec a member of this branch of the Malay race 1881 Nature XXIII 249 That fair element in Malaysia which Dr Hamy proposes to group as Indonesians 1891 Athenæum 19 Oct 483 Interesting aspects of phenomena in Indonesian ethnology and folk lore 1895 Edin Rev Oct 516 The dark Indonesian race Ibid, The Malays are Indonesians.

Indoor, in-door (indōr), a (adv) [For earlier within door (Bacon), phrase taken attrib of next In early use generally hyphened]

1 Pertaining to the interior of a house or other building, situated or carried on within doors or under cover (Opposed to out door)

1721 Shaftesb (Aarac (1737) II 430 One admires musick and paintings, cabinet-curiositys, and in-door ornaments 1774 Foote Coxeters L. Wks 1799 II 158 He does more in door christenings than any three of the cloth 1823 Scott Let to Joanna Baillie 12 Sept in Lockhart, The indoor work does not please me as well 1856 Kane Arct. Explor. II xxiv 296 Gradually accustoming ourselves to indoor life and habits 1883 Q. Wills Mod. Persia 131 Part of the universal indoor life of Persian women

b Within the workhouse or poorhouse

1864 Times 24 Dec., The State, with its vast revenue of Poor rates, its capacious workhouses its indoor and out door poor 1896 Fawcett Pol. Econ (ed 5) p. xxxi (Contents) The in-door relief given in London is a charge upon the whole metropolis

2 transf In an inward position or direction

1874 J. H Collins Metal Mining 93 The water is raised in the lower or drawing lift by the up or 'in door' stroke of the engine Ibid 98 The pipe-rod which is attached to the inner or 'in door' end of the great beam

B adv = Indoors

1884 Tennyson Becket II ii, They are plagues enough in door

Indoors, in-doors (indōrz), adv [Orig two words, repr earlier within doors (see Door 5) sometimes hyphened] Within or into a house, etc , under cover (Opposed to out-of-doors)

18 L. Hunt To Dr Arnold & Cricket, In doors and out, summer and winter 1832 Ht Martineau Demerara iii 29 Would they step in doors and rest 1872 Black Adv. Phaeton ix, It is rose and sad we must go indoors. 1884 Mary Collins Prettiest Woman xii, I am sure she lives indoors too much

† b attrib = Indoor adj Obs

1709 Washington West (1893) XIV 229 There are many sorts of in-doors work, which can be executed in Hail, Rain, or Snow, as well as in sun-shine.

Indophane (indōfēn) Chem [f Indo-2 + Gr -φανης appearing] A condensation product, $C_{16}H_{10}N_2O_4$, a blue substance resembling indigo

1875 Watts' Dict Chem VII 669 Pure dry indophane is of a violet colour, and has a beautiful green metallic lustre

Indophenin (-fēnin), Chem. [f Indo-2 + Gr φαιν ειν to show, appear + -in.] A condensation product, $C_{12}H_7NOS$, formed by shaking isatin with sulphuric acid and benzene that contains thiophene, obtained as a blue powder exhibiting when rubbed a coppery lustre, or in small needles

1892 in Mobley & Muir Dict Chem III 7 1896 G M Gowan tr Beenthsen's Organ Chem (ed 3) 331 The formation of the blue colouring matter Indophenin

Indophenol (if ĭnfēnŏl) Chem [f Indo-2 + Phenol] A coal-tar colour used in dyeing, produced by the simultaneous oxidation of a phenol and a paradiamine, one of its commercial forms is naphthol blue

1892 in Mobley & Muir Dict Chem III 7

Indophile (indōfil, -fəil). [f Indo-1 + Gr φιλος lover, friend] A lover or champion of the natives and interests of India 1880 Pall Mall G. 29 Sept 10/2 Sir Patrick Kelly comes out as an Indophile of the most exalted disinterestedness.

Hence Indo philism, partiality for the natives or interests of India , Indo philist = Indophile 1897 Westm Gaz 22 Sept 2/3 [He] was held up as a type of the Indophilists whose educational theories have had a bad influence on the natives.

† Indo re, var. of Indore v, Obs , to glaze with yolk of egg, etc.

1588 Shirley Maverne Archimag Anglo Gall cxxiv (1658) 79 Take some Pottersmoulds and indore [pr indore] them over with a little melted butter 1688 R. Holme Armoury III 85/1 Indore [error for Endore] is to rub the inside of the Coffin of a Pie, with Butter very thin.

Indorsable, a Another form of Endorsable cf Indorse

1704-1809 [see Endorsable]

† Indo rsate, pa pple Sc Obs [ad med L indorsātus, pa pple of indorsāre, taken as = Sc indorsit] Indorsed

c 1470 Henryson Mor Fab xi (Sheep & Dog) iv, The fraum, as to his office well efferd, Indorsate hes the write

Indorsation (indṛsēʃ ən) [n of action from Indorse v chiefly Sc , see quot 1849] The action of indorsing, indorsement

1540 Sc. Acts Jas V (1597) c 74 That na indorsation stall haue faith & effect, bot that sic subscriuit the saids wadsetts 1695 Hloom Glossogr., Indorsation, an indorsing, or a bearing, or laying, on the back 1752 Fortifiian Scots Decisions I 598 The Indorsation, or Assignation, that every Infeftment hath of him by the said Writs, was done 1766 W Gordon Gen Counting-ho 339 The indorser remits it to the Indorsee, with an indorsation or transference of property 1816 Scott Antiq xv, Ancient Indorsation of Letters of Importance 1849 Gilbart Banking (ed 5) 80 Should we dispute the endorsement or indorsation? I believe we always use the word indorsement In Scotland, the term more generally used is indorsation 1892 Stevenson & J. Dodds Pract Acct (ed 2) 170 This hearty indorsation clinched the proposal 1894 Annual Rep Exam Papers Inst Bankers Scotl 46 What effect can be given to endorsation of a Deposit Receipt to a third party?

Indo rse, v another form of Endorse v, q v Etymologically, indorse is the fully latinized type (conformed to med L. indorsāre), while endorse is a partially latinized form of the earlier ME endoss, Ofr endosser

Indorse is the form found in legal and statutory use, and in most political economists, it is also that approved in all American dictionaries , in English use, according to Bithell (Gramm., Indorse) Indorser, etc. 1849 "as to the verb Indorse and Indorser, practice appears to be entirely controlled by the taste of the writer", but Endorse is said by business men to be now almost universal in English commercial use So with the derivatives except Indorsation (which is now almost exclusively in Scotch use)

1547-1887 [see Endorse v 1 2] 1849 Gilbart Banking (ed 5) 20 All legal writers write indorse 1866 Crump Banking 122 On indorsing a bill or note to another person, care should be taken to spell the indorsee's name correctly 1891 Law Times XC 490/1 The writ was indorsed with a claim for the removal of two of the trustees 1893 Law Times Rep. LXVIII 741/1 An endorsement of that date was indorsed upon the indenture of the 6th Oct 1887

Indorsee (indṛsī) See also Endorsee [f prec + -ee] One in whose favour a note or bill is indorsed 1732 Lex Merc & Sc I 300 The indorsee is to receive the money of the first drawer, if he can 1766 W Gordon Gen Counting-ho 340 The holder or last indorsee 1767-1809 [see Endorsee] 1849 Gilbart Banking (ed 5) 81 See also Law Rep. Peers (ed 4) II 1186 The legal title of the indorsee of a bill of lading, may be impeached on the ground of fraud 1849 Gilbart Banking (ed 5) 81 The person to whom a bill is called the indorser, the person to whom it is indorsed is called the indorsee (ref. 2, 1828, has endorsers, endorser, endorsed, endorsee) 1866 Crump Banking 122 A party endorsing a bill not negotiable is liable to his indorsee, for each indorser as it were takes the place of a new drawer 1888 Times 3 Nov 9/4 The indorsee of the bill was a fictitious person.

Indo rsement. [Another form of Endorsement see Indorse v] The action of indorsing a document , the signature or writing on the back of such document , spec that by which a bill or cheque is made payable to another person

1586-1866 [see Endorsement]

Indo rser. Also 8 -or [Another form of Endorser see Indorse v] One who indorses a bill or document

1743-1849 [see Endorser] 1766 [see Indorsation]. 1849, 1866 [see Indorsee]

Indoss (pa pple Indost) see Endoss v.

† Indo't, v, var of Endote v Obs , to endow

1520 Charters, &c Peebles (1872) 50 The said Schir Patrik sall indot gyf and infeft certane landis in honor of God

† Indotate, v Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f ppl stem of indotāre to endow (f Dotate,) trans To dower

1847 Lelly Chr Patriot clxxxv 855 The Professional Revolution having the Signe of the seventh ascending giveth hopes of Marriage (if indotated), and strong caution to be careful of insuring Marriall mirth

† Indou btable, a. Obs rare$^{-1}$ [In-3] That cannot be doubted , indubitable 1557 N. L (Geneva) Ep viv, Jesus Christ was declared by certeyn and indoubtable testimonies to be him, and nonother, yt shulde come

† Indou'bted, a Obs rare Also Sc 6 -doutit 7 -dowtit [In-3] Undoubted

1567 Paston Lett No 575 II 396 He thankyth in doubted that William Worcetre shuld not be unremembred of this 1593 Wingfi Four Sects Three Quest Wks 1888 I 66 We dar embrase the samin as the indoutit veritie 1598 J. Rachter Answ Habaster 6 The Apostles were the in doubted and authentical scribes of the Holy Ghost

Hence † Indou btedly adv (also Indou btly), undoubtedly 1563 Winget Four Scotr Three Quest Wks 1888 I 332 Sour fatheris afor 360 hee hem hasfand indoutitle the samin giftis 1608 Sc. Acts Jas VI (1816) IV 391 The Infinite commoditie and contentment, quhilk Indowtitle they sall resseave be the same

Indow -ment, obs. forms of Endow, -ment

Indoxyl (indŏksil) Chem [f Indo-2 + Oxyl] A brownish oil, C_8H_7NO, isomeric with Oxindole, formed, with evolution of carbonic acid gas, when indoxylic acid is heated above its melting point, it is converted by oxidation into indigo-blue Hence Indoxy lic a, in I acid, $C_9H_9NO_3$, a white crystalline precipitate, slightly soluble in water, and converted by air or oxidizing agents into indigo blue its salts are Indo xylates

1886 Syd Soc Lex, Indoxyl 1896 Allbutt's Syst Med I 899 Albuminous [urine] and containing indoxyl and casts. 1897 Ibid IV 987 The most important of these are the indoxyl and skatoxyl sulphates of potash

Indraft see Indraught

† Indra gon, v Obs rare Also 7 en- [f In-2 + Dragon sb , cf It indragare, indracare (Florio, 1598)] trans To endow, as with a dragon, invest with the form or character of a dragon

1611 Florio, Indracato, endragoned, become a Dragon a 1721 Ken Hymnotheo Poet Wks 1721 III 208 Lucifer now indragon'd swell'd with pride

Indrape, v Obs [f In-2 + Drape v Cf It indrappare to put into clothes, Of endraper to drape] trans To make into cloth , to weave 1622 Malynes Anc. Law Merch 56 An Epitome of all former Acts concerning the indraping of Wools 1656 Stratford Lett (1739) II 19 So long as they did not indrape their own Wools 1778 Hist Surv's Irel 344 Suffering Ireland to indrap her own wool. 1845 Parker Fas. Ld Strafford I 42 England at present indraped Irish wools.

Indraught, indraft (indrŭłt) [f In adv II d + Draught cf indrawn, etc , and draw in, Draw v 82]

1 The act of drawing in , inward attraction

1628 Sir I Brooke Ch's Mar iii § 22 Having been long tossed in the ocean of this world, he will by that time feel the in draught of heaven, into which he was first framed by the paratory 1697 Dampier Voy I 289 The Dutch call that part of this Coast, the I aud of Indraught, as if it may naturally draw ships to it 1708 J. Smith Voy & Trav Dan II 267 Being also dubious as to the Indraught of the Fall the Boats came to an Anchor 1751 Smollett Per Ad (1779) I xxiii 180 Better be sucked into the gulph of Florida, than once get into the indraught of a woman 1891 Daily News 7 Sept 6/5 The indraft of the towns is irresistible, and usually in silence, but we hear now and 'for good', the capable young men abandon country labour

2 An inward flow, stream, or current, as of water or air, esp a current setting towards the land or up an estuary, etc , a draught of air into a confined space , an influx, inrush

1504 Byrndyth Exers viii liv (1636) 744 The Sea wil flow more by one point of the Compasse in the spring tides, in every River, then it hath any indraft 1598 Hakluyt Voy I 122 Hee sayd that those foure Indraughts were drawne into an inward gulfe or whirlepoole, with so great a force, that the ships which came neere vnto therein, could by no meanes be drawn backe againe 1822 Sir R Hawkins Voy (Sea (1847) 241 In some bayes, where are great indraughts, it [the tide] higheth eight or ten foote 1719 De Foe Crusoe I iii, To avoid the Indraft of the Bay or Gulf of Mexico 1794 G Adams Nat & Exp Philos I iv 102 The larger the fire, the stronger the indraught of the air 1853 Kane Grinnell Exp vii (1856) 54 The Esquimaux, too, assert the existence of a well marked indraft 1898 Maury Phys Geog Sea v § 283 These indraughts are known as monsoons at sea , on the land, as the prevailing winds of the season

b transf and fig

1638 Sir R Cotton Abstr Rec Tower 24 To abate the mighty indraught of Forraine Manufactures 1851 Ruskin Stones Ven I App viii 360 This indraught of the Lom bard energies upon the Byzantine rest, like a wild north wind descending into a space of rarified atmosphere

† 3 A place where the water flows into the land , an inlet , an inward passage Obs

1570-6 Lambarde Peramb Kent (1826) 234 Which be tokeneth an Indraught (or Inlett) of water into the lande, out of, and beasides the maine course, of the Sea, or of a River 1665–6 Phil Trans I 284 They have also vast In draughts of some hundred Miles within Land 1677 PLOT Oxfordsh 30 The one is received by a rocky subterraneous indraught, and appears no more 1706 PHILLIPS, Indraught, a Gulph or Bay that runs in between two Lands.

†b fig 'Inlet, passage inwards' (J) Obs a 1646 BACON (J). Navigable rivers are indraughts to attain wealth.

†4 Revenue, income, 'toll or duty collected at a port' (Jam) Obs [Cf Sw indragt revenue, income, rent.]

1633 Acts Chas I (1824) V 93 Granting the port and harbour of the said burgh of Bonnaltall a free port and free haven of the indraucht thairof and pry megult of all shipes coming to the said port

Indrawal (i·ndrɒ̃ al) rare [f IN adv + DRAW v + -AL, after withdrawal] The act of drawing in. →INDRAUGHT 2

1805 BLACKMORE Lorna D viii (1889) 50 Centred (as it might be) with a bottomless withdrawal 1882 PROCTOR in Gd Words 110 The indrawal of water below the sea floor

Indrawing (i·ndrɒ̃ iŋ), vbl sb [IN adv 11 c] The action of drawing in

1398 TREVISA Barth De P R III xvii (Add MS 27944) If 23% pe lepunge of pe herde nis a temperat indrawinge of colde aier

Indrawing, ppl a [IN adv 11 a] That draws in or inward 1598 HAKLUYT Voy I 122 Purposely described all the Northerne Islands, with the indrawing seas 1886 C A YOUNG in New Princeton Rev Jan 51 The moon is on unusually moving faster and faster,—if upon an indrawing spiral which ultimately would precipitate her upon the earth 1892 TENNYSON St Telemachus, Borne along by that full stream of men, Like some old wreck on some in drawing sea.

Indrawn, ppl a [IN adv 11 b] Drawn in a as adj, or before sb (i·ndrɒ̃n)

1731 ELIZA HEYWOOD Fantomina (1786) IV 168 He stood unalistinguished in the circle with a kind of an indrawn reserve 1810 SOUTHEY Kehama IV v, She saw the start and shudder, She heard the in drawn groan 1856 MRS. BROWNING Aur Leigh VI 627 And then with indrawn steady utterance said

b as pple, or after sb (i·ndrɒ̃n)

1865 SWINBURNE Atalanta 1336 With chin aslant indrawn to a tightening throat 1878 B TAYLOR Deukalion II v 91 With sight indrawn he sat, And seemed to listen

†Indrea'd, v Obs (rare—[f IN-1 + DREAD v (Cf adread, Ob. ondrēadan)] To dread inwardly, to feel an inward or secret dread

1584 HUDSON Du Bartas' Judith 1 57 So Isaaks sonnes indreading for to feel This tyrant, who pursued them at the heel, Dissundring fled

†Indre·nch, v Obs Also 6–7 en-. [f IN-1 + DRENCH v] trans To 'drench' or drown in something; to immerse (Cf DRENCH v 2, 6) Also fig

1593 NASHE Christs T (1613) 44 My soule will endrench mee in dolour 1606 SHAKS Tr & Cr I 1 51 Reply not in how many Fadomes deepe They lye indrench'd 1609 JONES Nennii Britan (T), If in this flesh, where thou indrench d dost lie, Poore soule, thou canst reare vp thy limed wings 1741 FENNING Dict, In drench, to soak; to drown

‖Indri (i·ndri) Also indris [An erroneous application of the Malagasy exclamation indry! 'lo! behold!', or indry izy! 'there he is!', mistaken by the French naturalists Sonnerat for the name of the animal, when first seen by him c 1780 the only Malagasy name is babakoto See quot 1893] A name given to the Malagasy lemurine animal of Madagascar (Indris or Ichanotus brevicaudatus), living in trees, with soft woolly hair, very long hind legs, and very short tail

1839 Penny Cycl XIII 361/2 The Indris are inhabitants of Madagascar 1863 HUXLEY Man's Place Nat II 72 In that remarkable lemurine form, the Indri (Lichanotus), the leg is about as long as the spinal column, while the arm is not more than ⅞ of its length 1890 Cent Mag Dec 206 The avahi is still more nearly related to the indri, of which there is not a specimen in the Zoo 1893 J SHARP in Inhonanarro d Ann V 83 Their native name is Babakoto, literally 'father-child' or 'old boy'), not Indris, as said by Sonnerat, who discovered the species

†Indried, ppl a Obs [IN adv 11 b ? transl G zungetrocknet] Dried inwardly, desiccated

1527 ANDREW Brunswykes Distyll Waters Lvj, The same water is good for them that frve an indryed nature and dystroyed

Indrunk (i·ndrʊŋk), ppl a rare. [IN adv 11 b] Drunk in, imbibed

1662 J SPARROW tr Behmen's Hem Wks, 121 Apol Balth Tydskon 23 It sweeth forth that indrunk meek Spirit

†Indru nken, v Obs In 4 in-dronkenen [f IN-1 + DRUNKEN v, after I. inebriare] trans To make drunken, inebriate in quot fig

a 1300 E E Ps lxiv 11[iv 10] Brokes of it in dronkenand (Vulg rivos eius inebrians)

Indubious (indiū·biəs), a [f IN-3 + DUBIOUS, perh after L indubius not doubtful, certain]

1 Not admitting of doubt, certain, clear, indubitable Now rare

1604 T JAMES in Ussher's Lett (1686) 319 The Decretals will make the matter indubious 1733 SHERLOCK Consc tion Pref 73 To keep clear and indubious the Articles of our Faith 1808 J BARLOW Columb VIII 315 Gives each effect its own indubious cause 1840 CLOUGH Amours de Voyage (1858) 238 Am I not free to attend for the ripe and indubious instinct?

†2. Feeling no doubt, free from doubt Obs

1665 G HARVEY Advice agst Pluq 14 Hence appears the vulgar vanity, reposing an indubious confidence in a spoonful or two of those ordinary Antipestilential spirits

Hence Indu biously adv, not doubtfully, clearly, certainly

1642 SIR E DERING Sp on Relig xvi 75 Epistles that are indubiously his a 1670 HACKET Abp Williams I (1692) 38 They that were ripe and weighty in their answers were indubiously designed to some place of credit and profit

Indubitable (indiū·bităb'l, a (sb) [a F indubitable (16th c), or ad L indubitabilis see IN-1 and DUBITABLE.] That cannot be doubted; perfectly certain or evident

1625 CONWAY in Howell's Lett I iv 21, Prince Charles, his rightful and indubitable Heir 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I v 716 Whensoever any thing is thus necessarily inferred, from what is undeniable and indubitable, this is a Demonstration 1775 WATTS Logic II ii § 7 Those Propositions which contain most certain and indubitable Truths 1775 JOHNSON Am no Lyr 11 That the Americans are able to bear taxation, is indubitable 1871 BLACKIE Four Phases 111 The evidence of the most distinct and indubitable description

b absol as sb. An indubitable thing or fact

1733 WATTS Philos Ess Pref 16 A few Indubitables

Hence Indu bitableness, the quality of being without any doubt

1727 in BAILEY vol II 1849 Fraser's Mag XL 522 Receiving indubitableness, not from this world, but from the sure and certain truth of the life to come

Indubitably (indiū·bităbli), adv [f prec + -LY 2] Beyond the possibility of doubt, unquestionably, without any doubt

1624 WOTTON Archit in Reliq (1672) 34 There will in dubitably result thereupon a graceful and harmonious contentment to the Eye 1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep VII xvii 382 Whereunto neither can we indubitably assent 1761 HUME Hist (1806) III 124 Paris . . indubitably hath made and listed to go together 1873 M ARNOLD Lit & Dogma (1876) 198 The way of the Eternal was most indubitably a way of peace and joy

†Indu bitate, a Obs [ad. I. indubitāt-us, f in (IN-1) + dubitāt-us, pa pple of dubitāre to DOUBT] Undoubted, certain

1480 CAXTON Chron Engl CCXLIX (1482) 238 Lugeyne the fourth was peyplly chosen in rome by the Cardynals, and was very and indubytate pope 1496 FABYAN Chron V CXXIII 101 He shuld there shewe and proue yt he was the indubitat sone of y first Clobayre 1548 HALL Chron, Hen V 73 The very indubitate heyre general to the crowne of Fraunce 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I iv 826 Such Indubitate Records of Pagan Antiquity, as are altogether unsuspected and indubitate

Hence †Indu bitately adv undoubtedly, unquestionably, without doubt

1538 LELAND Itin I 92 Howlcet the hole Church that now standith indubitately was made sins the Conquest 1561 GUALTER Ivan Dogme XXIII 227 They are indubitately assur'd of the Truth, and comparative excellency of their receptions

†Indu bitate, v I Obs rare [f IN-2 + I dubitāt-us doubted see prec] trans To render doubtful or uncertain, to call in question

1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep I v 42 He [the Devil] would make men believe there is no such creature as him selfe and contriveth accordingly many wayes to conceale or indubitate his existence 1660 Angel-alled Treat (1716) Relig III ix 502 He might with good reason be judg'd troublesome and impertinent for indubitating a thing of so constant credit

†Indu bitate, v 2 Obs rare—[f IN-1 + L dubitāre to doubt, cf DUBITATE v] 'To doubt nothing at all' (Cockeram, 1623)

†Indubita tion Obs rare—[IN-1] 'A not doubting, a yielding for certain' (Phillips, 1658)

Indu bitatively, adv rare [IN-3] Indubitably a 1853 WORDSW Lect James VII (1869) 186 A case most clearly and indubitatively decisive of the point 1898 W J LOCKE Idols 284 But it was for his happiness Indubitatively

Induce (indiū·s), v Forms 4–8 enduce, 6 enduse β 5– induce, (6 induse, induse) [ad L indūcĕre to lead into or introduce, etc., f in- (IN-2) + dūcĕre to lead In early use the prefix was commonly assimilated to that of OF enduire (pres stb enduisse) see ENDUE The L verb developed a number of special senses, some of which are represented by obsolete uses in English]

1 trans To lead (a person), by persuasion or some influence or motive that acts upon the will, to (to (rare), into) some action, condition, belief, etc, to lead on, move, influence, prevail upon (any one) to do something a Of persons, personal action, influence, etc

a c1375 Sc Leg Saints, Kateryne 561 Al vthyr als, pat I myght induce to pat folyy Ibid, Baptista 773 De cayms bruthire with cristine wes enducyt sa pat he baptysme can haly ta 1494 FABYAN Chron V xcvii 71 We lafte nat to enduce and tourne her Lord to the faith in all that she myght 1523 LD BERNERS Froiss I cclixiii 408 He sayd, he wolde go himselfe to Angolesme to the prince, and to the lordes that be ther, trustyng to enduse them 1533 MORE Answ Poysoned Bk Wks 1048/2 To induce them the better to the beliefe of his great kindnes 1633 T STAFFORD Pac Hib II xiii (1810) 432 Willingly enduced for just respects, to disengage themselves

B c1440 Jacob's Well (P I 87) 109 I-wil perylous it is to induyn & steryn an oper to vyse. 1480 CAXTON Chron Engl CLXXXIII (1482) 169/1 He induced the noble men to swere that they sholde chese Octauianus his sone pope 1490 — Eneydos XXIV 90 She can not by no wayes induce herselfe to ayme a reste vnto her eyen by a hyll slope 1532 ELYOT Gov I v, To induce them in to a contention with their inferiour companions 1551 ROBINSON tr Vtopia's Ciceron IX (1895) 272 If he couldde not by fayre and gentle meanes induce them vnto his opinion 1607 SHAKS Cor I iii 16, I haue done as you haue done That I may haue the like 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 190 Here persuaded them for the peace of a whole yeare and at last induced them to leaue their riches and to follow him 1647 CLARENDON Hist Reb I § 3, I haue thus more willingly induced myself to this unequall task, out of the hope of contributing somewhat to that blessed end 1679 Ammant Sp 5 Zeuxis 20 That Prince who induces his Subjects into Heresie 1793 BURKE Conduct Minority Wks 1842 I 620 To induce us to this, Mr. Fox laboured hard to make it appear [etc] 1839 BAILEY Festus XVII (1852) 233 Where is the spirit which induced me here? 1864 LOWELL Fireside Trav 266 To induce settlers upon territory of such unshakable quality 1878 R W DALE Lect Preach iii 79 You will naturally try by gentle means to induce the people to make a change

b Of things, circumstances, or considerations

Also absol, without person it object expressed)

1450–80 LYDG Bochas VI i (1554) 174 The Emperor of Rome and of Chartage Were induced by sweetenes of language To haue together their conversacion 1513 MORE in Grafton Chron (1568) II 728 The thing that enduced him to be one of the specialest contrivers of all this horrible treason c 1530 Pol Rel & L Poems (1866) 31 Let necessite induce the thereto 1581 J BELL Haddon's Answ 76 Many men were wonderfully enriched by your Canons but very fewe enduced to haue any expert will to guide to feare God by knowledge of them 1607 SHAKS Cor III i 74 Where to be buried where he had been born, Was all the cause that did induce him back 1654 GATAKER Disc Apol 24 In me no doubt but that my Accusers and Adversaries in Poperie induce millions into Atheism 1662 STILLINGFL Orig Sac III ii § 3 If I have not a soul of an immortal nature, there can be no sufficient reason to induce me to it [religion] 1720 WATERLAND Eight Serm 24 Where an Argument is drawn from the natural and necessary Perfections of God, to induce us to some Duty or Practice and imitation of them 1796 H HUNTER tr W Tytler's Stud Nat (1799) II 263 These considerations induce me to be brief [etc] 1872 TAINE Hist Literat IV 27 The demands for food, clothing, fuel and shelter have induced men to labour

†c absol To lead to the belief or opinion (that), to persuade Obs rare

1655 in Hartlib Ref Commw Invt 21 And that out of kinde, either strangled, or otherwise dying, and so lying abroad, exposed to the influence of the Heavens, Bees naturally will not spring, I am induced

2 To bring in, introduce (a practice condition, state of things, custom, law, etc) Const into Obs or blended with a

1401 Pol Poems (Rolls) II 51 Sour dalhaunce induceit ire and envie 1432–50 tr Higden (Rolls) I 251 From the cite made unto dly yere followinge was moevede moo diuoces The firste man inducynge hit was callede Lamech 1485 Paston Lett No 883 III 318 The said Henry Iddet undertith also to enduce and establisse newe lawes and ordenaunces amonger the hays said Iddet 1548 HALL Chron, Hen V 65/1, He doubted not but by his onely meanes, peace should be induced 1589 PUTTENHAM Eng Poesie II xxiii (Arb) 137 By some humanitie he could it were no hard matter to induce all their auncient facts into verse with us 1630 WADSWORTH Pilgr 10 In the first that induced this Order of Nouices, and Nouiciats c 1632 BROME Love sick Court 2 If you think it meet I will induce The practise of it presently 1802 PALEY Nat Theol iv (1819) 50 Occasional irregularities may subsist in a considerable degree without inducing any doubt into the question 1836 SIR W HAMILTON Disc 1, Stud Math (1852) 269 To induce that numb rigidity into our intellectual life

†b To introduce, inset (a material thing)

1440 Pallad on Husb II 80 Into a porter of the enduce a floure Vppon his bough clene be-twene the ye to dividen

†c To introduce, bring in, persuade (a person)

1534 MORE Comf agst Trib II Wks 1196 A Jewe calleth vnto him a Phisicion that hath skil in Surgerye and induceth him to cut of the arme 1548 HALL Chron, Hen VI 65/1, My last command, which was Never to see the court till I induced you

†d To introduce or bring in as a character or speaker in a literary work Obs

1484 CAXTON Fables of Esop Pref, Esope induceth the bytes, the trees and the beestes speky ng 1534 WHITINTON Tullyes Offices III (1540) 155 Tully induceth two of Socrates sectes of dyuers opynyons 1558 KNOX First Blast (Arb) 24 In an other place he inducelh God speaking to the woman in this sorte 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 790 The rest are all delivered as the words of God, he being induced as speaker a 1704 PEPYS (J.), The poet may be seen inducing his personages in the first Iliad

†e To introduce, bring in, bring forward, by way of illustration or argument, to adduce, quote

1433 LYDG S Fremund 70 Now purposyng [to] induce a story longyng to this matter 1523 SKELTON Garl Laurel 94 Ouyde was banyssshed for his skill And many mo whome. I cowde enduse 1563–87 FOXE A & M (1684) II 44/2 Lon, it were to induce here all Prophesies that be read in Histories 1581 Satyr Poems Reformn 489 Sum auld exemples her I man induce, Io bring my purpose to more speciall 1609 WHITGIFT Def Answ (1618) 10 All which may enduse sufficient reasons to thinke him their first chefe 1646 Sir J. Berkeley Proof & Illust. xxv § 23 To expostulate their stupidity, he induceth the providence of Storkes. Now if the bird had been unknown, the illustration had been obscure.

†3 To introduce or bring (a person) into the knowledge of something, to initiate, instruct Obs
c 1477 Caxton Jason 30b The sage and wisemen shal induce and teche the rude people and harde of entendement 1483 — Gold. Leg. 130/2 He was well lerned and inducted in the sciences and werkes of the temple 1511-12 Acts 2 Hen. VIII, c. 3 § 1 Every man in haunynge men children shall provyde a howse to shalte to enduse and kepe them and bryng them uppe in shotyng

†b To introduce to a subject or study, to initiate into, to habituate or accustom to Obs 1490 Caxton Eneydos xxi. 77, I require only that he putte thus thyng in delaye for a certayn Space of tyme. Durynge the whiche I may induce my self to sorowe 1536 More. Treat Passion Wks. 1390/1 Inducing them into the communyon of the Sacramentes 1556 Withals Dict. Prol., A thinge written by me to induce children to the Latin tongue 1561 Day Christ. Letters 1st Pref. (1577) 1 The holy Ghost being sent to his Apostles, induced them into all truthe

4 To bring about bring on, produce, cause, give rise to 1493 Pride & Lowly Caxton (1483) v xiv 107 Every thyng that werketh naturelly enduceth the fourme of it selven 1432-50 tr. Higden (Rolls) I 73 That grauntede, that place scholde induce ofte-sythes the eclipse of the mone 1523 Fitzherb. Husb § 164 If thou forgyue not the wronge done into the thou enduces golden curse to fall vpon y. 1555 Eden Decades 269 The Scythian will accuse the Romane he[n] as inducenge feuers 1676 Hale Contempl I 134 There are two things that induce the loss of friends 1770 Phipps Voy. Pol. Journ. 8 This induced a necessity of coming to a positive institution 1780 Harris Philol Inq Wks. (1841) 262, I mean gentle walking without inducing fatigue 1832 Babbage Oper. xxviii 241 This phenomena are related to the shape of the mass in which the change is induced 1859 Jas. Hand-book Indian 355 Agricultural improvement would infallibly attend the increasing prosperity of the cultivating classes 1874 Carpenter Ment Phys. I § 87 (1879) 97 Such automatic states may be artificially induced

b spec To produce (an electric current or magnetic state) by induction see Induction 10 1822 [see Inducing] 1832 [see Induction 10] 1839 G. Bird Nat. Philos 266 A current reversing as were induces a secondary one in a wire parallel to it. 1856 H. M. Noad Man. Electr. I 44 The electricity of a conductor will change in the electric state of a side 1892 P. Thompson Dynamo-Electr. Mach. (ed 4) 30 To induce currents in a conductor, there must be a relative motion between conductor and magnet, of such a kind as to alter the number of lines of force embraced in the circuit

c To bring on as a state or condition Const upon 1857-8 Sears Athan xi 97 This dim and sleepy life is induced upon us that we may not know at the beginning all that we are 1863 L. V. Neale Anal. Th. & Nat 61 We induce upon the new individual the result of our observation of past individuals

†5 To lead to (something) as a conclusion or inference, to lead one to infer, to suggest, imply Obs 1481 Caxton Juste on Old Age A v (R Suppl.), Not able examples to induce the soul to be perpetuel and more lyuely and purfight 1581 Savile Tacitus, Agricola (1622) 188 The coloured countenances of the Silures seeme to induce, that the old Spaniards passed the seas and possessed those places 1601 R. Johnson Kingd & Commw (1603) 58 Which are reasons sufficient to induce, that in this guilfe he hath small means to sing out any 'Ia ie Io' in his amorous Spanisade (1686) 72 The sixth Limitation is, When by common use of Speech the words induce Matrimony 1696 Sir T. Browne Pseud Ep v x 201 That in unsavoury odour is gentilitious or nationall into the Jews, we cannot well conclude, nor will the information of reason or sense induce it

6 To infer, esp in recent use, to infer by reasoning from particular facts to general principles, to derive as an induction 1563 W. Fulke Meteors II (1633) 34 If it were lawfull to reason of this sort we might enduce them to betoken not only these few things, but all other things that chance in the world 1583 Fulke Defence xii (Parker Soc.) 4, 4 He hath already given you a sufficient reason to answer, that the apostle speaketh not of faith as generally as of knowledge 1667 Decays & Piety viii P 43 I would be hard to discern, how from different premises the same conclusion should be induced 1855 Miss Cobbe Intuit Mor 45 note, We obtain a multitude of contingent truths and from these we induce the general proposition 1888 Science Data 254 From a sufficient number of results a proposition or law is induced

†7 To draw (something) on or over, to put on or overspread as a covering or the like Const on, upon, over Obs 1567 Drant Horace, Ep xvi F viij, Beldame my maistre withe the cloudes, my sences Induce on theyre a night 1588 J. Read Compend Method 69 Dust in order which hid begun to induce flesh, and full increase beyond all me[a]sure [etc.] 1667 Milton P. L. vi 408 Now Night her course began, and over Heav'n Inducing darkness, grateful truce imposed 1708 J. Philips Cyder i (R.), There are, who, fondly studious of increase, Rich foreign mould on their ill natur'd land Induce laborious 1784 Cowper Task i 32 And o'er the seat, with plenteous wadding stuff'd, Induce a splendid cover

Induceable, obs variant of Inducible

Induced (indūˑst), ppl a [f Induce v + -ed1] Brought on, caused, or produced, by attraction, persuasion, etc (see esp. Induce v 4b), induced current, an electric current excited by Induction (sense 10)

Also, affected by induction as induced magnet
1601 Cotgr., Rein, also induced, inclined, persuaded 1652 Needham tr. Selden's Mare Cl. 21 Soon deriving the Dominion of the Republick over the Sea from Custom, won from prescription, others from an induced subjection 1812 Sir H. Davy Chem. Philos 133 The conductor, which is thus affected by induced electricity 1850 Hemp. Rel. Stand Nat. Hist. 114 The phenomena of the communication of magnetism and what is called its induced state, alone remain unaccounted for 1852 Joule Contrib. Sc. in Phil. Trans Royal Soc. (1874) 359 The ordinary plan for producing an induced current 1874 Carpenter Ment Phys I § 87 (1879) 393 The essential feature of natural and induced Reverie 1894 Nature Gas 29 Dec. 3/2 The other improvement is that of induced—instead of forced—draught

Inducement (indūˑsmĕnt) Also 7–8 en-[f as prec. + -ment]
†1 The action of inducing or moving by persuasion or influence Obs 1601 Shaks. All's Well III ii 91 A verie tainted fellow, and full of wickednesse, My sonne corrupts a well derived nature With his inducement 1648 Milton Observ. Art Peace Wks (1851) 569 And this in all likelihood by the inducement and instigation of these Representers.

2 That which induces; something attractive by which a person is led on or persuaded to action 1594 Shaks. Rich III, v iv 279 If this inducement moue her not to loue, Send her a Letter of thy Noble deeds 1598 A. Chester Whitsun Vales sig. Aa, Such inducements, leading vnto Christ 1687 Dryden Hind & P iii 625 Course diet, and a short repast were weak inducements to the taste Of one so finely bred 1746 Malmoth tr. Hervey's Lett I 121, Corellius had many inducements to be fond of life 1779 J. Hervey Nav. Hist II 129 As an inducement to those who bring them in their cash, these goldsmiths paid it the rate of fourpence a day per cent 1818 Jas. Mill Brit. India III v vi 570 Nor can the prospect of a permanent establishment be justly regarded as a feeble inducement 1867 Smiles Huguenots Eng Pref (1880) 6 The English kings held out repeated inducements to foreign workmen to come over and settle in their realm

†b More widely Any ground or reason which leads or inclines one to a belief or course of action, a moving cause, an incentive Obs.
1594 Hooker Eccl Pol II v § 7 Many inducements besides Scripture may lead me to think which if Scripture be against, they all are of no value, yet otherwise are strong and effectual to persuade 1601 R. Johnson Kingd & Commw (1603) 58 These reasons I take to be sufficient inducement to beleeue these reports 1631 T. Hale[?] Acc New Invent 11 Grounded this their sentence upon no other inducements, than the particulars of Complaint accompanying the said Report

†c Something that leads to a result, an opening for Obs
1605 Bacon Adv Learn I vii § 6 It pleased God to vouchsafe the curiosity of this emperor as an inducement to the peace of his Church in those days

†3 A preamble or introduction to a book or subject Obs
1605 Bacon Adv Learn II xxiii § 6 Formal speakers, that study more about prefaces and inducements, than upon the conclusions and chief bosses of speech 1617 Hakewill Apol (1629) II 446 An introduction and inducement to that which is now to be taught

4 Law (indūˑsmĕnt) 1891)
1792 in Addison Pennsylv Rep (1800) 37 (Porter v. Brown), The date of the bond is immaterial and the bond itself but matter of inducement 1850 W. H. Odgers Pleading, Matters of inducement are introductory statements, upon which the parties are, how connected and other surrounding circumstances, leading up to the matter in dispute, but not relating such matter

†4 A leading on to some conclusion or inference, that which leads to a conclusion Obs 1646 Sir T. Browne Pseud Ep I viii 28 Having received the probable inducements of reason, we become emancipated from testimonall engagements, and are to erect upon the surer bottome of reason Ibid, It cometh not, with it, the reasonable inducements of knowledge

Inducer (indūˑsəɹ) [f as prec. + -er1]
1 One who or that which induces, persuades, or leads on (to some act, conduct, opinion, etc) 1554 Martin Treat Vocats C iij b (T.), How can he be a meete person vnder or inducer of the people to wholsome ads, which hath himselfe been often misled? 1604 R. B. in Words to Supt Usher App. 21 Pierce thing that is the inducer to bidding is not by and by [etc.] 1719 Lyall Motive a 1716 South Serm (1744) VIII iv 85 As if he, [God] were the great impeller and inducer of men to sin 1799 St. Pat. Bird Dict Law Bks III 159 Used perhaps as a greater inducer to invoke the muse than joy

2 One who or that which introduces or brings in or on (some state or condition) here
1652 Down Voyage viii 387 And yet was this Messenger of Satan was a forerunner and some kind of inducer of that Grace which was sufficient for him 1833 Mrs. Brown Vere Percivale Tenant Wks (1850) I 160, I desired for them Number, the inducer of philosophies †Indu ces, sb pl Obs rare—1 [a Ol in ducs, sd I inducise see next] Respite, truce.

1490 Caxton Eneydos viii 34 She demanded Induces and space of three monethes, In which time she sholde doo her dylygence for to accomplysshe alle theyr wylles ‖ Induciæ (indūˑsiˌē), sb pl See Law [l. indūciæ, dŭtia truce, delay, indūcias legāles legal delay] The space of time intervening between the citation of a defendant and the day fixed for his appearance in the action or process.

1752 ‖ Louthian Form of Process (ed 2) 256 Such inducias as the Sheriff shall think proper 1881 W. Bell Dict Law Scot 443/1 The inducias of criminal letters and indictments are fifteen days 1888 Act 51 & 52 Vict c. 100 § 14 All summonses . . may proceed on seven days warning or indictment where the defender is within Scotland

†Indu ciary, a Obs rare [ad med L. inducĭarĭ-us, f inducĭæ see prec.] 'Pertaining to truce or league' (Blount Glossogr 1656)

Indu cible, a rare Also 7 -ceable [f Induce v + -ible.] 1 Capable of being brought on, brought about, or caused a 1677 Barrow Serm Wks 1686 III ix 99 Subject to all the changes inducible from the restless commotions of outward causes affecting and altering sense

†2 Capable of being inferred Obs
1643 Sir T. Browne Relig Med. 1 § 48 Many things are true in Divinity, which are neither inducible by reason, nor confirmable by sense 1648 — Pseud Ep VI vi 303 That the extream and remote parts of the earth were in this time inhabited, is also induceable from the like Testimonies

Indu cing, vbl sb [f as prec. + -ing 1] The action of the verb Induce a Persuading b Bringing about c 1375 Sc. Leg Saints, Baptista 265 Enduwing makin men to penance for bare wyne to do 1548-9 T. Homan Hist Dict. Indu-Anomalia, an enducing, perwasion or entisement 1626 Bacon Sylva § 304 The Causes for the Accelerating of Inarticulate, in generall, and the Enducing of it 1887 Sayle tr. Cellini II 83 The inducing of perfection in the things so inclined

Indu cing, ppl a [f as prec. + -ing 2] 1 That induces, persuades, or leads on 1600 Barne Arte Rom Vulgar 21 He did punishe the seducing serpent with a curse, the inducing Eua with a crosse of subiection 1640 Bastwick Lord Epis viii H iij b, The prime inducing cause, to that belief 1700 Cal. Rec. Pennsylv. II to That being the Inducing reason at first to settle the Town where it now is

†2 Introductory, preliminary Obs
1605 Bacon Adv. Learn. II Ded § 15 But the inducing part of the latter (which is the survey of learning) may be set forward.

3 Producing electric or magnetic effects by induction.
1839 Penny Cycl IX 343/1 Hence the directions of the inducing and induced currents are contrary 1870 Tyndall Lect Electr 151 Being attracted electricity is held captive by the inducing electrified body 1870 R. M. Ferguson Electr 7 If the inducing magnet be strong enough, the induced magnet can induce a bar like itself to become a magnet

Indu cive, a rare [f Induce v + -ive, cf Conducive] Tending to induce 1611 Florio, Indottivo, inducing, perswasiue 1757 Mrs Fitz Griffith Lett Henry & Frances (1767) II 287 That pleasing opinion, so fluttering to the dignity of human nature, and so inducive to its ethicks 1886 Miss Howard Heaven under Hill II xi 137 Soft murmuring sounds inducive of quiet hoping and trusting

†Indu ct, ppl a Obs rare Also 5 en- [ad L. inductus, pa pple of indūcĕre to Induce] 8 Inducted b Initiated, instructed c Introduced 1460 Capgrave Chron (Rolls) 308 Jon van loth to resone, but he the emperoure he was induct that he schuld do it 1481 Caxton Godefroye xxxi 282 In his harneys and armes wel enduct and acustomed, that it semed that hit greued ne coste hym nothyng to bere them 1545 Primer Hen VIII (Prayers), Grant that we, with all the course of my life being in holiness and purity, I may be induct at last into the ever lasting rest

Induct (indŭˑkt), v [f I induct, ppl stem of indūcĕre to Induce.] 1 trans Eccl To introduce formally into possession of a benefice or living, to install (See Induction 4.)
c 1380 Wyclif Wks (1880) 450 Enstuyng wip worshipping & many oper maneres I wis were not to charge, but rist offiss pat pis curat shulde do 1495 Fabyan Chron vii 455 That no man shuld presente or induct any suche person or persones that so by the lawe were prouyded 1531 Dial on Laws Eng II xxvi (1638) 111 If he be able, then the Bishop to admit him, institute him, & induct him 1667 Usurp Quest and Right of Patronage 1 Impropriating Parsons and Vicars to Benefices when they fall 1721 Phillaux Direct Churchwardens (ed 4) 25 Every Vicar, when he is inducted into the Church, takes possession of the Body of the Church 1846 Hawthorne Mosses II vii 123 Lately he has taken orders, and been inducted to a small country living.

b To introduce into office, to install 1548 Hall Chron., Hen VII 17 b, Then John . . was in all haste have rydden to induct the French king as their soveraigne lorde 1820 Scott Monast xix, Lay knee, my son—that we may, with our own hand . . induct thee into office 1828 Webster s.v., In the United States, certain civil officers and presidents of colleges, are inducted into office with appropriate ceremonies.

c To place or install in a seat, room, etc 1709-9 Farquhar Recruit Strut II ii, Then I, Sir, tips me the Verger with half a Crown, he pockets the Shilling, and inducts me into the best Pue in the Church 1826 Scott Woodst x, Inducting himself into the pulpit without further ceremony 1840 Dickens Barn Rudge lx, Hugh and his two friends . . were received with signal marks of approbation, and inducted into the most honourable seats.

2 To lead, conduct into (lit and fig) rare
1600 Holland Livy 1029 So soone as any one is inducted and brought in thither, she or he is delivered to the priests as a very sacrifice to be killed 1861 Cr. Life at Naples 239 She led the way to the galleries, into which she first inducted the visitor 1896 World 9 No. 106. 11, I was inducted into error last week in stating [etc.] 1881

SPENSER Virg Prosopop 155 Thus gradually inducted into the slumber of death

b. To lead in (before a court) rare

1834 LYTTON Pompeii IV vii, They say the crime is of so extraordinary a nature, that the senate itself must adjudge it, and so the lictors are to induct him formally

3 To introduce (to), to initiate (into)

1693 HOLLAND Plutarch's Mor 461 There was a sacrifice or priest named Philippus, who inducted and professed men in the ceremoniall religion of Orpheus 1833 LAMB Elia 1st Wedding, [At wedding-] I feel a sort of consuming for the season I am inducted into the mysteries of affinity 1848 J SAUNDERS Cab Pict Eng Life, Chancery 23 I the master of the inn inducts you into all its hidden mysteries 1848 THACKERAY Van Amer lii, The pleasures to which the foot man inducted him

†4 To bring in, introduce (a custom). Obs

1615 G SANDYS Trav 24 The ceremonyes in the gather ing hereof were first inducted by the Venetians Ibid 85 Who use extreme unction, as inducted by Saint James

5 school To form an induction, to infer by induction rare

1832 WHEWELL in Todhunter's Acc Whewell's Writ (1876) II 141 The conceptions which must exist in the mind in order to get by induction a law from a collection of facts, and the impossibility of inducting or even of collecting without the

6 Electr = INDUCE v 4b See INDUCTING ppl a

Indu·ctance. [f prec (sense 6) + -ANCE] Magnetic or electric tendency

1888 Science July 18 The term most commonly employed to denote the electrical inertia like effect is 'self induction', which is becoming gradually shortened to inductance

†Indu·ctative, a Obs rare—[f. inductive + -ATIVE] = INDUCT + -ATIVE] Tending to lead or be led into something

1387–8 T USK Test Love II xiii (Skeat) I 48 Naturell goodnesse of euery substaunce, is nothing els than his substaunti rill beyng who he was, good goodnesse, after comparison that he hath to his first goodnesse, so as it inductatife by meanes into the firste goodnesse

Indu·ctious (indu·kʃəs), a [f. inductive + -IOUS] = -ECOUS] Rendered electro-polar by induction

1855 H M NOAD Man Electr I 54 The originally active body is called the inductric, and that under its influence the inductional; thus, in the last figure, A is the inductric and C the inductionally

Inductile (indu·ktil, -əil), a [IN-3 + f inductile (Littre)] Not ductile, not pliable, unyielding

1756 LD HERVEY Mem Geo II, I 57 The stuff she had to work with was so stubborn and so inductile

1807 J FEARN in E H Barker Parrians (1848) I 368 The human mind becomes extremely inductile to the pressure of any new evidence 1828 WEBSTER, Inductile, not capable of being drawn into threads, as a metal 1855 H SPENCER Princ Psychol (1872) II I 135 Of bodies that present all different modes we have the Ductile and Inductile 1857 F W ROBINSON Her Love & His Life I iii IX 278 A man of honour, but inductile, unimaginative, hard

Hence inducti·lity, the quality of being inductile (so F inductilité) 1828 in WEBSTER

Indu·cting, vbl sb [f INDUCE v + -ING1]

1 Law The action of introducing into, or putting in formal possession of, a benefice

c 1380 (see INDUCT v 1) 1575–85 ABP SANDYS Serm (Parker Soc.) 244 The bestowing of benefices, the presenting, instituting, and inducting of pastors 1684 BAXTER Par Congreg 28 To aid Independents assume the power of Ordination, instituting, inducting?

2 The making of inductions or inferences

1818 JAS MILL First Fragments 1 The Powers of combination, discrimination, inferring, inducting, philosophizing in short

Indu·cting, ppl a [f as prec. + -ING2] That induces or causes induction 1830 G BIRD Nat Philos 173 Evidence that the intervening dielectric, air, has its particules of electricity arranged in a manner analogous to those of the conductor by the inducting influence of the glass tube.

Induction (indʌ·kʃən) Also 5–6 inducoyon, (6 enduction) [a F induction (14th c.) or d L. inductiōn-em, n. of action from inducĕre to INDUCE] †1. The action of inducing by persuasion, inducement. Obs.

1490 CAXTON Eneydos xii 44 The incitacyons moeued by naturell dylection, whiche commen of thy self, with out ony other induction Ibid xxx 113 There was non excepcyon ne may take a general induccyon or informacyon to our sayd tourney 1531 ELYOT Gov I xxii, The principal cause of this my little enterprise is to declare an induction or mean how children may be trayned into the waye of vertue. 1600 HOLLAND Livy 379 A strange kind of induction and institution of the souldiours, binding them to take their oath, as if they were to take orders in some holy mysteries. 1726 DR. FOX Memo Cavalier (1840) 59, I have never yet seen any service, and must have my induction some time or other 1877 BLACK Green Past xii, Society is vastly more concerned in the induction of its youthful members into those branches of culture that will fit us to teaching them to bawl harmoniously

3 That which introduces or leads on or in to something, an introduction Now rare

c 1540 Four P P in Hazl Dodsley I 355 Comparing that life for the best Induction to your endless rest 1556 J HEYWOOD Spider & F lv 12 Enter the path One depe enduction wherto Is to flee rash deedes rashlie done 1631 CHARLES CESAR'S Pompey Plea 183 III 1 Now Pompey is a good induction to the change of fortune 1646 BUCK Rich III 118 (L) An induction to those succeeding evils which ensued that inconsiderate marriage 1894 BLACK MORE Perlycross 15 An old fashioned fun This was not in the Parson's opinion a pleasing induction to the lych gate

b An introductory statement, a preface, preamble, or introduction (to a book or the like) arch

1533 MORE Answ Poysoned Bk Wks 1074/1 In the XI leafe he hath in other argument towarde whyche he maketh a longe induction 1559 J SANCLERE The Induction to Mirrour for Magistrates 1607 BEAUM & FL Woman Hater Prol, Inductions we out of date, and a prologue in a sattin suit, a cloke with lace, and velvet cloak 1645 MILTON Colast Wks (1851) 362 That which here takes for the second Argument is no argument, but an induction to those that follow 1875 A W WARD Eng Dramat Lit I Introd 11 In the form of a Prologue or by means of a separate Induction, or even by an inductive Dumbshow

†c The initial step in any undertaking Obs

1576 SIR JOHN Rich III, f. 32 Plots haue I laide, Indue tions dangerous, To set my Brother Clarence and the King In deadly hate, the one against the other 1596 — 1 Hen IV I. i. 63 These inductions are fair, the parties sure, And our induction full of prosperous hope

†d A leading on or gradual transition from one thing to another Obs

1598 F Meres Garden of Imants 281 [In a centure] the horse runneth from the one into the other as by a quiet and insensible induction

†e Mus. (See quot.) Obs

1597 MORLEY Introd Mus 92 Here they set downe certaine observations, which they termed Inductions exerte propor tion whole, is called the Induction to that which it maketh being broken is called Triplia being broken in the next number will make Nonupla, and so is tripla the Induction to nonupla

4 Fact The action of formally introducing a clergyman into possession of the church to which he has been presented and instituted, together with all rights, profits, etc pertaining to it

c 1380 WYCLIF Wks (1880) 248 For institucion and induc cion he schal yeue moche of his god but is pore meenus to low boyes and to clerkes & officials 1383 STEPHEN Acts Anat Abus II (1882) 81 At the time of their initiation, in stitution, induction and admission 1660 R COKE Power & Duty 41 The division of all parishes in right of institution and induction were all originally of the King's foundation and donation 1769 BLACKSTONE Comm I xi 307 The method of becoming a parson or rector is much the same to both there are four requisites necessary holy orders, presentation, institution, and induction 1879 GLADSTONE Church Princ 108 The canonical induction of spiritual eccle siastical and moral changes 1886 Reader 1 Apr 374/1 Abuse of tobacco is far more operative in the induction of this paralysis than alcohol 1894 Law Times XCVI 294 The time required for the induction of the anaesthetic state varies

10 Elect and Magnetism The action of induc ing or bringing about an electric or magnetic state in a body by the proximity (without actual contact) of an electrified or magnetized body

The terms induct and induction were origin ally employed apparently to avoid the use of terms involving any theory of the nature of the action involved. The term induction com munication is now held to be, as in the case of other forms of energy, the intervening ether

Electrodynamic, or Ampère, induction, the production of an electric current induced currently by the influence of another independent electric current Electromagnetic induction, the production of a state of magnetic polarity in a body, iron or round which an electric or galvanic current passes or the generation of an electric current by the action of a magnet (the latter called by Faraday, more properly, magneto-electric induction). Electrostatic induction, the production of an electrical charge upon a body by the influence of a neigh bouring body charged with statical electricity, as exemplified in Volta's electrophorus Magnetic induction, the produc tion of magnetic properties in iron or other substances when placed in a magnetic field, as when a bar of soft iron is magnetized by a neighbouring magnet Mutual induction, the reaction of two electric circuits upon each other self induction, the reaction of different parts of the same circuit upon one another

1812 SIR H DAVY Chem Philos I 2 To produce a succes sion of effects both conductors must be brought into bodies connected with the ground which gives the opposite state, in consequence of what may be called induction 1830 HER SCHEL Stud Nat Phil 129 The communication of magne tism from the earth to a magnetic body, or from one magnetic body to another, is performed by a process to which the name of induction has been given 1832 FARADAY Exper Res I 31 Ibid Trans 125 The power which electricity of ten sion possesses of causing an opposite electrical state in its vicinity has been expressed by the general term induction which as it has been received into scientific language may also with propriety be used in the same general sense to express the power which electric currents may possess of inducing any particular state upon matter in their immediate neighbourhood Ibid § 58 129, I propose to call the agency thus exerted by ordinary magnets, magnetic induction, or magnetic induction § 59 The only difference which powerfully strikes the attention as existing between volta ele tric and magneto electric induction, is the suddenness of the former, and the sensible time required by the latter 1870 TYNDALL Lect Electr 14 This forcible separation of the two fluids of a neutral conductor by the mere proximity of an electrified body, is called electric induction Bodies in this state are also said to be electrified by influence 1892 S P THOMPSON Dynamo Electr Mach (ed 4) 83 We know that every electric current possesses a property sometimes called 'electric inertia', sometimes called 'self induction', by virtue of which it tends to go on, and that it is in the current's own magnetic field that this inertia of self induction resides Ibid 102 Mutual induction between adjacent parts is of enormous importance in alternate current machines would, the whole of the logicians is called induction 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 830 Ded Pill, Others may hence learne by that most laborious though not most learned Ar guments of Induction, two lessons fitting these times. 1656 STANLEY Hist Philos V. (1701) 187/1 Induction is every me thod of reason which proceedeth either from like to like or from singulars to generals 1734 BERKELEY Analyst § 19 You must take up with Induction, and had when to Demonstration 1822–16 PLAYFAIR Nat Theol I. It is from induction that all certain and accurate knowledge of the laws of nature is de rived 1866 BUCKLE Misc Wks I 41 Logic, considered as a science, is solely concerned with induction, and the basis of induction is the law of causation 1876 FOWLER Inductive Logic (ed 3) Pref Induction , may or may not employ hypo theses, but what is essential to it is the inference from the particular to the general, from the known to the unknown

b An act or instance of induction, the result of this, a conclusion derived from induction, for merly used in the wider sense of 'inference'

c 1440 CAPGRAVE Life St Kath 1023 The hill in which he gaf the wyttyn lawe On to the Jewes, lykkyth to hyt perfectyon Of crystis gospell Paule in his bookis maketh sayche inductyon; He seyth it longeth to Jerusalem as in scrivge With alle his children here in yt longyng 1597 J COE Rhet (1899) 49 He treateth of the fourme of Silo gismes, Enthimemes and Inductions 1587 GOLDING De Mornay xxvi 396 We would haue [God] to be knowen (sayd he) by inductions Plato doth, or Syllogismes as Aristotle doth 1697 DE Insegnieres on his Logic II xi 46 In an induction it is proued that animals void of reason are long lyued, but a man, a horse an ass, &c. are long lyued 1727–41 CHAMBERS Cycl s v, The conclusion of a syllogism is an induction made from the premises 1843 H. MARTINEAU Soc in Amer IV 86 They look into the evidence of circumstance and learn to make an induction for themselves 1868 W R DUNN Life & Social Progress 311 The contrast between his wide inductions and the apparently flimsy foundation on which they are made to rest 1869 POWELL Induct Logic 1 1 [This] is an inference of that particular character which is called an Inductive Inference or an Induction

8 Math (See quot 1875

1839 Penny Cycl XII 468/1 An instance of mathematical induction occurs in every equation of differences, in every recurring series &c 1875 IOTHUNTER Algebra (ed 7) 1881 § 484 The method of mathematical induction may be thus described. We prove that if a theorem is true in any one case, whatever that case may be, it is true in another case which we name, and if in the second case, we prove by itself that the theorem is true in a certain third case, we establish in the next case, and hence in this next to that, and so on hence it must be true in every case after that in which we began

9 The action of bringing on bringing into exist ence or operation, producing, causing Chiefly Med

1660 STANLEY Hist Philos IV (1701) 46/2 The induction of sickness is the expulsion of health 1835 TAYLOR Spir Despot iii 108 The gradual induction of political eccle siastical and moral changes 1886 Reader 1 Apr 374/1 Abuse of tobacco is far more operative in the induction of this paralysis than alcohol 1894 Law Times XCVI 294 The time required for the induction of the anaesthetic state varies

10 Elect and Magnetism The action of induc ing or bringing about an electric or magnetic state in a body by the proximity (without actual contact) of an electrified or magnetized body

The terms induct and induction were origin ally employed apparently to avoid the use of terms involving any theory of the nature of the action involved. The term induction com munication is now held to be, as in the case of other forms of energy, the intervening ether

Electrodynamic, or Ampère, induction, the production of an electric current induced currently by the influence of another independent electric current Electromagnetic induction, the production of a state of magnetic polarity in a body, iron or round which an electric or galvanic current passes or the generation of an electric current by the action of a magnet (the latter called by Faraday, more properly, magneto-electric induction). Electrostatic induction, the production of an electrical charge upon a body by the influence of a neigh bouring body charged with statical electricity, as exemplified in Volta's electrophorus Magnetic induction, the produc tion of magnetic properties in iron or other substances when placed in a magnetic field, as when a bar of soft iron is magnetized by a neighbouring magnet Mutual induction, the reaction of two electric circuits upon each other self induction, the reaction of different parts of the same circuit upon one another

1812 SIR H DAVY Chem Philos I 2 To produce a succes sion of effects both conductors must be brought into bodies connected with the ground which gives the opposite state, in consequence of what may be called induction 1830 HER SCHEL Stud Nat Phil 129 The communication of magne tism from the earth to a magnetic body, or from one magnetic body to another, is performed by a process to which the name of induction has been given 1832 FARADAY Exper Res I 31 Ibid Trans 125 The power which electricity of ten sion possesses of causing an opposite electrical state in its vicinity has been expressed by the general term induction which as it has been received into scientific language may also with propriety be used in the same general sense to express the power which electric currents may possess of inducing any particular state upon matter in their immediate neighbourhood Ibid § 58 129, I propose to call the agency thus exerted by ordinary magnets, magnetic induction, or magnetic induction § 59 The only difference which powerfully strikes the attention as existing between volta ele tric and magneto electric induction, is the suddenness of the former, and the sensible time required by the latter 1870 TYNDALL Lect Electr 14 This forcible separation of the two fluids of a neutral conductor by the mere proximity of an electrified body, is called electric induction Bodies in this state are also said to be electrified by influence 1892 S P THOMPSON Dynamo Electr Mach (ed 4) 83 We know that every electric current possesses a property sometimes called 'electric inertia', sometimes called 'self induction', by virtue of which it tends to go on, and that it is in the current's own magnetic field that this inertia of self induction resides Ibid 102 Mutual induction between adjacent parts is of enormous importance in alternate current machines

11 Gramm. (See quot.)

1860 Haldeman Anal Orthogr iv 52 Induction is the influence of l uger clusses of words on smaller ones, causing uniformity and regularity in Grammutical inflections

12 (Actn (see quot.)

1892 Mowbray & Miller Inst Chem III 8/1 When H and Cl are mixed in equal volumes and exposed to sun light a measurable time elapses before chemical change begins. Bunsen and Roscoe, who examined this phenomenon regard the mixture as resisting chemical change and they used the term induction to express the gradual over coming of this resistance. The term has also been used by Wright, who noticed a similar phenomenon in the reduction of metallic oxides by CO and H.

13 attrib and Comb., as (sense 10) induction apparatus, current, machine, shock, spark, also induction-balance, an electrical apparatus so contrived that the currents induced in the secondary wires of two induction-coils balance each other, induction-bridge, a form of induction balance arranged on the principle of a Wheatstone's bridge, induction-coil, an electrical apparatus for producing electric currents by induction consisting of two separated coils of wire generally surrounding a soft iron core, the primary coil being connected with an external source of electricity, and having an arrangement for causing the electric current to vary in intensity, the effect of which is to produce a current of different character in the other or secondary coil, (sense 3) induction-pipe, the pipe through which the live steam is introduced into the cylinder of a steam engine, induction-port, the opening by which steam passes from the steam-chest into the cylinder, induction valve, the valve which controls the passage of steam into the cylinder

1855-7 H M Noad Man Electr II 728 The 'induction apparatus as at present constructed by M. Ruhmkoff is shown in Fig. 195. 1879 D. E. Hughes in Proc. R. Soc. XXIX 56 M Dove constructed an "induction balance, wherein two separate induction coils, each having its primary and secondary coils, were joined together in such a manner that the induced current in one coil was made to neutralize the induced current in the opposite coil, thus forming an induction balance, to who h he gave the name of differential inductor. Ibid. I have also used a perfect induction balance which allows us to obtain direct comparative measures of the force or distu bance produced by the introduction of any metal or conductor. 1889 Fleming Alternate Current Transformer 247 Lord Rayleigh found it more convenient to slightly alter the arrangement of the induction balance

B and I are a battery and interrupter, J is a telephone in the bridge. 1895-7 Noad Man Electr II 728 In 1851, Mr Ruhmkorff first brought the 'induction coil to a far greater degree of perfection than it had hitherto attained by paying the greatest possible attention to the insulation of the secondary wire. 1896 Preece & Sivewright Telegraphy 62 Each globe or tube ought to be tested from time to time with an induction-coil, or some other generator of electricity of high potential. 1896 Allbutt's Syst Med I 161, I shall speak of elec trostatic methods, of treatment by the battery current and of treatment by the induction coil current. 1882 Maxwell Electr & Magn II 228 The diffusion and decay of the 'induction current is a phenomenon precisely analogous to the diffusion of heat. 1875 Bence Jones Lectr. Medic. Bot 689 The induction-currents act on the sensitive parts of the leaves of Mimosa like concussion or contact. 1896 Electr Rev V 83/2 A small Wms. Sutton induction machine. 1875 Bennett & Dyer Med Bot 689 The number of 'induction shocks' appears to have no considerable influence on the action. 1876 Foster Phys II 829 46 Induction shocks, or at least galvanic currents in some form or other. 1865 Intell Observ No 36 389 When the 'induction spark is taken in air. 1870 Proctor Other Worlds xii 280 The spectrum of the induction spark. 1850 Rankine Steam Engine (1861) 481 The admission and discharge of the steam take place through openings near the ends of the cylinder called 'ports', connected with passages called 'nozzles', which are opened and closed by 'induction and eduction valves.

Indu ctional, a [f prec + -al.] Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of induction 1897 Blackw Mag XXVI 621 The leading facts upon which his inductional argument is founded.

† Indu ctious, a Obs rare—1 [f Induction + -ous.] Persuasive, seductive 1660 Foan Imeni (Shaks Soc 160 Flatterie to publique persons is not more inductious on the one side, then cnuie on the other is vigilant.

† Indu ctive, sb Obs rare [ad L. inductivum, neut sing of inductivus see next.] An inducement, incentive a 1440 Hoccleve De Reg. Prin. 453 Me thynkyth this is verray inductif Vnto vertue. 1657 W Morice Coena quasi Koinē Def xxviii 278 The same reason may become also an inductive to their expulsion from Ecclesiastick Communion. 1683 E Hooker Pref Pordage's Mystic Div 50 These reasons, grounds, persuasives, motives, or, if you please, inductives and incentives

Inductive (indu·ktiv), a [ad L. inductivus Priscian, f induct-, ppl stem of inducĕre see Induce and -ive. Cf F inductif, -ive (14th c in Godef.)]

1. Leading on (to some action etc), inducing

1607 Schol Div. agst Antichr II vi. 56 An active scandall is not only given by a purpose to draw to sinne, but also when hauing no intent a man doth that, which of it selfe is inductiue to it. 1667 Milton P L xi 519 To serve un govern d appetite a brutish vice, Inductive mainly to the sin of Eve. 1895 in Law Rep 9 App Cases 399/1 The inductive cause and primary object of granting the obligation was to secure an annuity to Jean Knox

† 2 Productive of, giving rise to Obs

1613 J. Mills in Mr tea's etc Treat Ans & Mod 1 257/1 We know and perceiue it [sin] to be the speciall and inductiue Instrument, of the vertue of life. 1677 Hale Prim Orig Man II i. 132 Probable and inductive of Credibility, though not of Science or Infallibility. 1778 Junius Lett lxxvii 343 Circumstances inductive of a doubt, whether the prisoner be guilty or innocent

3 Caused by induction, of induced nature or origin rare

1827 Colebrooke Misc Ess (1837) I 371 Its activity is not of its essence, but inductive through its organs

4. Logic Of the nature of, based upon, or characterized by the use of induction, or reasoning from particular facts to general principles

1764 Reid Inquiry vi § 24 (R) Upon this principle of our constitution all inductive reasoning, and all our reasoning from analogy is grounded. 1830 Herschel Stud. Nat Phil 104 The whole of natural philosophy consists entirely of a series of inductive generalizations. 1837 Whewell Hist Inductive Sc I Introd. 1 The inductive process. 1843 Mill Logic viii 262 In Inductive reasoning, the parts are first stated, and what is predicated of them is also predicated of the whole they constitute. 1869 Fowler (title) The Elements of Inductive Logic. 1874 Darwin in Life & Lett (1887) III 193 My mind is so fixed by the inductive method, that I cannot appreciate deductive reasoning

b Of persons Using the method of induction

1764 Reid Inquiry vi § 9 150 He planned out much work for his followers to call themselves inductive philosophers. 1842 N B Ward Closed Cases Pt iii. (1852) 68 The inductive mind of a Davy or a Faraday. 1871 Tylor Prim Cult I 3 A bare observation may have been as barren as lux inferences are crude and prejudiced, but nevertheless he has been an inductive philosopher more than forty years without knowing it

c With reference to ethics (see quots)

1861 Mill Utilit i 3 What may be termed the inductive school of Ethics, according to it, right and wrong as well as truth and falsehood are matters of observation and experience. 1869 Leeky Europ Mor I 1 3 The other (theory of morals) as the Epicurean, the inductive, the utilitarian or the selfish

5 Of the nature of, pertaining to, or due to electric or magnetic induction

1849 Mrs Somerville Connex Phys Sc (ed 8) xxvii 314 The same principle may, however, be variously modified by the various circumstances of the quantity and intensity of the electricity. 1871 Tyndall Fragm Sc (1879) I xv 410 When quantities act on each other from a sufficient distance, the inductive action practically vanishes. 1879 G Prescott Sp & Telephone 86 note. The phenomenon of inductive retardation in long ocean cables

6 Introductory

1868 Act 31 § 32 Stat c 101 Sched (B) No 1, After the inductive and introductory clauses, the deed may proceed thus [etc.] 1875 [see Induction 3 b].

Indu ctiveness, the quality of being inductive

1820 Fabyn Esqht Dissert vi vi (1845) II 34 Understanding the conjunction in its common import of inductiveness. a 1866 J Grote Exam Utilit Philos xvii (1870) 480 Such inductiveness therefore as there is in utilitarianism

Indu ctively, adv [f prec + -ly 2.]

1 By inductive reasoning a 1716 South Serm (1744) VIII vii 197 Thus I shall make appear inductively, by recounting the several ends and intents, to which it may be directed. 1820 Blackw Mag IV 487 No sufficient documents have yet been furnished, either experimentally, inductively, or analogically. 1881 Mivart Nonentities 21 Mr. Spencer has inductively set to see this question treated inductively and without ungrounded assumptions.

2 By electric induction

1870 R M Ferguson Electr 12 The two magnets act inductively on each other and so lessen the conjoint power. 1879 G Prescott Sp & Telephone 93 The current pulsations, which are inductively produced by the vibrations of the diaphragms. 1892 S P Thompson Dynamo-Elect Mach (ed 4) 310 In dark arm tures of the Willans & Law type, each of the parallel coils acted inductively on its neighbour

Inductivity (indʌktɪ·vɪtɪ) [f Inductive + -ity.] Inductive quality, power or capacity for magnetic induction

1888 Heaviside in Philos Mag Ser 5 XXVI 367 When the inductivities are equal, there is a material simplification

Inducto- (indʌ·kto), used as a combining form of Induction, in forming names of some electric apparatus or processes, as Inductometer (-p mɪtəɹ), an instrument for ascertaining the force of electrical induction Indu ctoscope, an instrument for detecting induction Indu ctoscript, a figure produced on a photographic plate by means of an electric discharge from the object, usually by an induction coil, the process of obtaining such figures

1892 Knowledge 15 Jan 11 Kenyon has I to propose for it the name of Differential Inductometer. 1892 F J Smith in Proc Physical Soc XI 353 The inductoscript is a name I venture to propose as it somewhat suggests the nature of the process. 1893 Times 11 May 6/1 The Rev F J Smith's inductoscript. By its means figures and pictures are made by placing the object to be reproduced in contact with an ordinary photographic plate placed upon a conducting sheet of metal

Inductor (indu·ktəɹ) [a L. inductor, agent n from inducĕre, Induce.]

1. One who introduces or initiates rare

1652 Brome City Wit v. Wks. 1873 I 364 Fey. Who should act and personate these? Sar I'le play the Inductor, and then we are all fitted. 1841 L. Hunt Seer II (1864) 98 Inductor of ladies and gentlemen into the shapely and salutary art of dancing

2 One who inducts a clergyman to a benefice

1726 Ayliffe Parergon 283 If Inductors received more than this on the score of such Induction they were to incur a Suspension ab officio. 1818 Cruise Digest (ed 2) III 15 After which the inductor opens the door, and puts the clerk into the church, who usually tolls the bell to make his induction public and known to the parishioners, after this the inductor endorses a certificate of the induction on the mandate, which is witnessed by the persons present

3 Any part of an electric apparatus which acts inductively on another

1872 tr Schellen's Spectr Analysis xxx 321 By connecting the binding screws on one side with the inductor 1881 Maxwell Electr & Magn I 295 The moveable conductors are called Carriers, and the fixed ones may be called Inductors. Receivers, and Regenerators attrib 1891 Times 9 Oct 3/2 In the machinery hall they show the Kingdon inductor dynamo, a most efficient and interesting machine

Inductorium (indʌktō·rĭŭm) [mod L, neut of late L inductōrius Inductory see -orium (L had inductōrium in the sense 'covering' see Induce v 7).] A name for the induction-coil as adapted for the display of the electric spark

1875 in Knight Dict Mech 1877 Rosenthal Muscles & Nerves 36 An apparatus of this kind is called a sliding inductorium. 1882 Sci American XLIV 388 This is the foundation of what is now called induction coils or inductoriums

Indu ctory, a [ad late L. inductōrius, in Augustine in sense 'leading on, misleading', f. inducĕre, induct- see -ory.] Leading in, introductory

1632 C Downing State Eccles Kinged (1634) 70 [They] are not Lawes inductory of a new, but declaratory of the ancient authority of our Prince. 1832 Fraser's Mag III 511 Having made these admissions for the sake of candour, and done that justice to the administration of Lord Grey which their inductory conduct deserves [etc.]

† Indu ctrio, a Electr Obs [irreg f Induction, after electric.] Operating by induction

1855 Noad Man Electr I 54 [see Induction 1] Ibid 722 The manner in which this machine acts will be clearly understood by reference to the general principles of volta inductric action. 1855 Mayne Expos Lex, Inductric, a term synonymous with inducing. Inductric continuction, a term for that contraction of the muscles produced without employing the electric current for its production

So Indu ctrical a = prec (Webster, 1864)

Indue, variant of Endue, q v

Indueliar, -er, obs Ss. forms of Indweller

Induement, var. of Endupement, Obs

Induire, obs Se form of Endure

† Indui tion. Obs rare [irreg f L indu-ĕre (ppl stem indŭt-).] Putting on (of a garment)

1584 R Scot Discov Witchcr xv. xxiv (1886) 321 Item, there must be consumption, and imitation of the surplis

† Indu loate, v Obs rare Also 7 indulciate [f ppl stem of L indulcāre to sweeten, f in- (IN-2) + dulcāre to sweeten, dulcis sweet] trans To sweeten Hence † Indulca tion (indulcation), sweetening

1628 Feltham Resolves II (1) xli 123 A friendly warre doth indulciate the ensuing loue. 1661 — On St Luke (1696) 132 The secret sweetness that gratifies and indulciates all his spirits. 1658 Rolle Catalogue Indulcat (title) Catalogue to make sweet. 1658 Phillips, Indulcation or Indulciation, a sweetning, a making sweet

Indulge (indʌ·ldʒ), v Also 8 endulge [ad L. indulgēre (int with dative) to be courteous or complaisant, to be kind or indulgent, to yield, give oneself up (to), indulge in, (with acc and dat) to bestow as a favour, to concede, grant, allow The verb was adopted in 17th c in several of the I senses, the way having been prepared by the earlier use of indulgence, indulgent]

I Transitive

1 To treat (a person) with such favour, kindness, or complaisance as he has no claim to, but desires or likes, to gratify by compliance, or by absence of restraint or strictness, to humour by yielding to the wishes of (The personal obj represents L. dative) Const in 1660 R Coke Power & Subj 116 King Charles had not the same Reason of State to indulge the House of Commons 1661 Markell Corr xxi Wks 1872-5 II 55 In the matter of your two companyes he is willing to indulge you. 1749 Wesley Hymns, 'Jesus, thou Sovereign Lord', Indulge us, Lord, in this request. 1852 Mrs Stowe Uncle Tom's C xxvi, The fact is, St Clare indulges every creature under that roof but his own wife.

b. refl To give free course to one's inclination or liking, to gratify oneself, take one's pleasure Const in († in first quot to cf 7)

1689 Hammond On Ps cxl 14 [They] do not indulge themselves to any deliberate sin. 1738 Butler Analog Introd, Wks 1874 I 7 There are some, who indulge themselves in vain and idle speculations. 1820 Mrs. Edgeworth Moral T (1816) I xviii 147 Pleasing anticipations in which he indulged himself. 1887 Bowen Virg Æneid II 776 Why so fain to indulge thee In this wild passion of woe?

c To favour or gratify (a person) with something given or granted.

1790 W Wrighte Grotesque Archit 9 The author hopes he may be indulged with observing, that he hath seen a fine piece of water in the park 1800 Anst Ann Reg. Irel. I. Ind Ho 146/1 Mr Henchman gave notice of a motion to indulge Mr Dundas, during his life, with the house in Downing-street

d fig

1697 Dryden Virg Georg iii 320 Indulge his Growth, and his gaunt Sides supply 1710 Steele Tatler No 175 P 1, I have allowed Tale Bearers to indulge the Intervals of my Female Patients. 1752 Young Brothers i 1, The sword by both too much indulg'd in blood

2 To grant an indulgence, privilege, or dispensation to see Indulgence II

1660 Gunning Text hast 17 In holy Lent the Lord hath indulged these two weekly dales Saturday, and Lord's day] 1673 Sir W Coventry Sp. He Commons 14 Feb in Grey's Debates 1667-94 II 30 Some are for indulging Protestant Subjects only, and some for extending it to Catholic subjects. 1828-1816 (see Indulged 2) a 1830 Mackintosh Accol of 1688, Wks. 1846 II 161 A Declaration for indulging Nonconformists in matters ecclesiastical

3 To gratify (a desire or inclination), to give free course to, give way to, yield to, give oneself up to Sometimes in weaker sense To entertain, cherish, foster

1656 Bishop Glasgow Pref 3 To indulge my own fancy, I began to compile this work 1697 Dryden Virg Georg iv 408 Saylors crown their Vessels, then indulge their Ease 1777 Watson Philip II (1839) 465 Delusive hopes which he had long fondly indulged 1781 Gibbon Decl & F xxxiii. (1869) II 252 He indulged the sternest passions of anger and revenge 1894 Green Short Hist iii § 5 140 The fall of Hubert de Burgh enabled him to indulge his preference for aliens.

4 To bestow or grant (something) as a favour, or as a matter of free grace, to allow or concede as an indulgence Const to, to, to, indirect obj Now rare

In passive, something must be indulged to = some indulgence must be shown to 1638 Junius Paint of Ancients 164 He indulged unto you, O Lyuppe, to conceive him great Ibid 337 Something must be indulged unto the wits of great Masters onely that we doe excuse small must slips in them. 1649 Clarendon Hist Reb i § 32 In this the Duke resumed the same impetuosity he had so much indulged to Himself in the debate of the journey 1 E. Chron 7 Charles I Annal 1 Hagar 81 a, Sarah indulging himself necessary Relaxations. 1690 Butler Feigned ii v 126 On Benhadads feigned submission he indulged unto him 1709 Strype Ann Ref (1824) I xviii 338 In the conclusion of the Queen's letters patents, where she indulged the Colleges that liberty. 1778 S Hallifax Anal Anim cur Lord Pref 1795) 2 A Valuable privilege is likewise indulged to Graduates in this faculty 1870 Lowell Among my Bks Ser 1 (1873) 182 In the utterance of great passions, something must be indulged to the extravagance of Nature

5 Comm To grant an indulgence on (a bill), to allow (a person) an extension of the time within which a bill is to be met Cf Indulgence 4

1766 W Gordon Gen Counting ho 341 An inland bill may be indulged before protesting 1827 Chitty Bills of Exchange (ed 7) 298 Though the giving time to an acceptor or indorser, will thus be a general discharge as to subsequent indorsers, who would be entitled to resort to the party indulged, the giving time to a subsequent indorser, will not discharge a prior indorser

II. Intransitive (with preposition)

+6 Indulge to to grant indulgence to, to give free course to, give way to, gratify (a propensity, etc = 3, rarely, a person = 1) Orig. = L. intr use with dative, but in later use coinciding in sense with indulge in (7) Also with indirect passive Obs

1646 If Lawrence Comm Angells 124 By a soft and delicate life, by indulgeing to bodily things. 1647 Clarendon Hist Reb i § 130 He indulged still too much to those importunate and insatiate appetites 1674 Gov't Tongue vi § 124 I here lies sure no obligations upon any man, to wrong himself, to indulge to another 1738-48 Warburton Dev Legat (1758 65) III 334 By indulging too much to abstract speculation 1790 G Walker Sermons II xxiii 149 Indulging to a worldly spirit at the throne of grace.

7 Indulge in (ellipt for indulge oneself in, 1 b) To give free course to one's inclination for, to gratify one's desire or appetite for, to take one's pleasure freely in (an action, course of conduct, etc, or a material luxury) In first quot. = dwell with pleasure on Also with indirect passive

1726 Shelvocke Privat Voyage 158 While my transported Soul indulges on the I hought 1763 Mrs Brooke Lady T Mondeville (1782) II 189, The tears we shed are charming, we even indulge in them a 1784 Johnson (Webster 1828), Most men are more willing to indulge in easy vices, than to practice laborious virtues. 1837 Dickens Pickw xlv, Any little amusement in which he could indulge 1842 A Combe Physiol Digestion (ed 4) 210 Bodily exercise and exposure to the open air are more indulged in 1876-1900 Thos Dan Der in xiv I 268 Some of the gentlemen strolled a little and indulged in a cigar 1885 C J Wills Mod Persia 98 Card playing is only indulged in by the less reputable of the community

Hence Indulgeable (indʊ ldʒăb'l) a, fit to be indulged, + Indulgement = Indulgence

1691 Wood Ath Oxon II 381 Giving himself the liberty of too frequent indulgements. 1791 Gentl Mag 205/1 He was qualified by law, as well as indulgeable in reason and equity, for non-residence. a 1846 Penny Mag cited in Worcester for Indulgement

Indulged (indʊ ldʒd), ppl. a [f prec + ed] 1 Gratified or favoured by compliance, humoured, etc (see the verb)

1736 Butler Anal ii vi 200 If there be a strong bias within, suppose from indulged passion, to favour the deceit 1832 Keble Serm. v. (1848) 207 Partaking in other men's sins, merely by brooding over them in fancy, with anything like indulged approbation or sympathy

2. That has received or accepted an Indulgence, in Sc Hist applied to those Presbyterian ministers, who, in the reigns of Charles II and James II, were licensed to hold services under certain conditions see Indulgence 4

1688 Sic Plea Nonconf 17 When His Majesty was moved to grant an Indulgence, the indulged were to give their Names, and their Places. 1693 Apol Church Scot 195 Mr Rate, then Minister of Dundee, an Indulg'd Presbyterian. 1816 Scott Old Mort v, My uncle is of opinion that we enjoy a reasonable freedom of conscience under the indulged clergymen

Indulgence (indʊ lʒĕns), sb [a f indulgentia (12th c in Little), or ad L indulgentia indul genus, complaisance, fondness, remission, f indulgent-em Indulgent see -ence]

I General senses

1 The action of indulging (a person), or the fact of being indulgent, gratification of another's desire or humour, favouring forbearance or relaxation of restraint Sometimes dysl ogistic Fond fancying, over-lenient treatment

1382 Wyclif Isa xxiii 9 In his love and in his indulgence he ayen boote them, and lar hem c1386 Chaucer Wife of Bath's Prol 84 God for to been a wyf he yaf me lone Of his free indulgence 1604 R Cawdrey Table Alph, Indulgence, sufferance, too gentle intreating 1610 Shaks. Temp i 32 20 As your Fates preserue well gouern'd lee, Let your indulgence set me free 1625 Fletcher, etc Fair Maid of Inn i 1, Some sons Complain of too much rigour in their mothers, I of too much indulgence 1667 Milton P L x 1086 Left to her self Where first his weak indulgence will accuse 1718 Freethinker No 152 P 11 The first Failure of every Man calls for Indulgence 1800 Ann Reg, Hist & Ind Ho 90/2 He would not trespass any longer upon the indulgence of the proprietors 1837 Hy Martineau Soc Amer II 18 Indulgence is given her in Chancery for justice 1863 H Cox Institut I ix 137 Where a member, by the indulgence of the House, is permitted to make per sonal explanations

b with an and pl An instance of this, an act of indulging, a licence, favour, or privilege granted (see also II)

1591 Shaks 1 Hen VI, i iii 35 Stand back Thou that giu'st Princes Arrogance to vs Edward the Fourth? 1611 Speed Hist Gt Brit ix (1632) 1000 One Mr Christopher Darell of Nudigate, that had a particular Indulgence for the cutting of his Woods at pleasure, though it great Iniury to master 1732 Sydney Spect No 545 P 14 To prepare the Indulgences necessary to this Lady and her Retinue, in advancing the Interests of the Roman Catholick Religion in those Kingdoms 1827 Macaulay Hist Eng x 11 599 He ordered them to be removed to a more commodious apartment and supplied with every indulgence

2 That which indulges, gratifies, or favours (see etc); the yielding to or gratification of some propensity (const of, in, formerly to), the action of indulging in some practice, luxury, etc

1638 F Junius Paint of Ancients 206 Passions in which beasts doe not delight, but are provided onely, That this indulgence doe not deceiue us. 1665 Boyle Occas Reff iv xix (1848) 283 And a full Table tempt him to Indulgence to his Appetite, prejudicial to his Health 1766 72 Junius Lett Pref 10 The indulgence of private malice. 1843 J Carson Serm v 80 Our continued indulgence in sin 1885 S Cox Expos Ser i iv 49 Excessive indulgence of natural appetite and desire

b absol The practice or habit of indulging or giving way to one's inclinations, self-gratification, self-indulgence With an and pl A particular act or habit of self-gratification, something indulged in, a luxury

1649 Sir R Dempst Entert Solit 5 (T) The looseneses and indulgences of this age bear a proportion with the religion of the times 1726 Law Chr Perfect iii 31 A Separation of our Souls from worldly Tempers, vain Indulgences, and unnecessary Cares 1732 — Serious C iv (ed 2) 52 Such that promote Idleness and Indulgence 1818 Mrs Shelley Frankenst ii (1865) 46 The time at length arrives, when grief is rather an indulgence than a necessity 1835 T Walker Original viii (1852) 188 The people spent their earnings on eating and drinking and other indulgences 1860 Pearson Contr Life, Consolations Wks (Bohn) II 419 Human nature is prone to indulgence

II Specific and technical senses (from 1 b)

3 R C Th The remission of the punishment which is still due to sin after sacramental absolution, this remission being valid in the court of conscience and before God, and being made by an application of the treasure of the Church on the part of a lawful superior' (Amort, quoted in Catholic Dict s v)

1360 Langl. P Pl A viii 136 And diuinede but Dowel Indulgence [B & C clergie, Indulgences] passeth. Kenula and Trenula and Bowbelynes trees. 1377 Ibid B xvii 253 And purchace al be pardoun of Pampilon & Rome, And indulgences ynowe c 1380 Wyclif Serm Sel Wks I 345 Many heresyes as of nonsenses and indulgencis, and cursyngis, weh fe synel worldis vse 1400 Apol Lollt 9 If it be askid wether pope selle indulgencis and merits of seyntis. 1570-6 Lambarde Peramb Kent (1826) 200 For confirmation whereof, I will make you partaker of a Popish Indulgence (or pardon, as they termed it) made under the seale of the brotherhend of this house 1667 Milton P L iii 492 Then might I see Cc & Indulgence, Dispenses, Pardons, Bulls, The sport of Winds 1737 Berkeley Four Halfp 9 Jan, An indulgence of above six thousand years was got by a visit to that church on any ordinary day 1769 Robertson Ch Scot II (1826) III 307 Among others he had recourse to a sale of Indulgences 1839 Keightley Hist Eng I 418 He might also by paying money, or by visiting some place of devotion obtain an indulgence to exempt him from the punishment due to one or more of his transgressions 1885 Catholic Dict (ed 3) 440 Ibid 444 Divisions of Indulgences. Plenary remit all or part of a portion, of the temporal punishment due to sin — 2, in indulgence of forty days, as much as would have been atoned for by forty days of canonical penance Indulgences may be temporal — 1 granted only for a time, or again perpetual or indefinite which last till revoked Personal indulgences are those granted to particular persons Local indulgences may be gained only in a particular place Real indulgences are those attached to crucifixes, medals etc

†b Formerly in sense Remission of sin Obs

1377 Langl. P Pl B xii 56 Which pat chosen ben and Indulgences vnder heuene Hire pardoun is fal pitit at her parting hennes c 1425 Found St Barth Chron (F E T S) 3 That he might obteyne plenyere parfite and plener pardoun and indulgence of his synnes he desyred vp-lyyn self to go to the cuyte of Rome c 1430 Pilgr Lyf Man hode (1869) 52 In pe tenthe pe commoun of pe scyxtes and pe indulgence of sanne le ensen ngge and penytaunce

c Loosely used for an authoritative relaxation of ecclesiastical law or obligation, properly called Dispensation (sense 8) a 1680 Butler Rem (1759) I 243 You wise and cautious Conscience Are first to take what Course to make Have plenary Indulgence to dispose At Pleasure, of the strictest Vows

4 Law and Sc Hist Applied (a) to the grant or offer to Nonconformists, in the reigns of Charles II and James II, of certain religious liberties as special favours, but not as legal rights, also (b) to the license offered during the same reigns to Presbyterian ministers in Scotland to hold services on various conditions, such as receiving collation from the bishops, recognition of the King's ecclesiastical supremacy, etc

Declaration of Indulgence, a royal proclamation offering such religious liberties (a) applied to that of Charles II in 1672 withdrawn the following year, and that of James II in 1687 and 1688, which was one of the circumstances that precipitated the Revolution In Scotland there were five Indulgences, two under Charles II in 1669 and 1672, and three under James II in 1687

a [1668] Owen (title) Indulgence and Toleration considered, in a Letter to a person of honour 1669 Humble Offering, in an Apology and Humble Plea for Indulgence and Liberty of Conscience] 1672-3 Chas. II Sp at Opening Parl 4 Feb Indulgence is a new thing to me, but that I put forth My Declaration for Indulgence to Dissenters and have hitherto found a good Effect of it Ibid 4 And in the whole Course of this Indulgence, I do not doubt but I shall in any way Prejudice the Church, but I will support its Rights, and It in its full Power 1675 Villiers (title, Buckhm) Speech 16 Nov, With a Humble motion therefore is, that you would give leave to bring in a bill of indulgence to all protestant dissenters 1687 (4 Apr) Jas II Declar Lib Conscience To let you know that all Our Loving Subjects may receive and enjoy the full Benefit and Advantage of Our Gracious Indulgence hereby intended 1688 (17 Apr) Ibid, Lest some may be ignorant of this Indulgence [that of 1687] We have made it Our principal Care to see it preserved without Distinction as we are encouraged to do daily by multitudes of Addresses 1697 Hallam Const Hist (1876) III xiv 78 [The clergy] were driven to extremity by the order of March 4 1688 to read the declaration of indulgence in their churches a 1848 Macaulay Hist Revolt of 1688, Wks. 1846 II 112 The difficulty of proposing to confine such an indulgence to one class of dissenters, and the policy of leaving the practical toleration, which it would be as much the interests of Presbyterians as of Catholics to promote 1849 Macaulay Hist Eng ii 177 He knew it would be impossible to grant liberty of worship to the professors of that [R C] religion without extending the same indulgence to Protestant dissenters

b 1681 J Baird (title) Balm from Gilead, on the differences about the indulgences stated and unpleaded in a Letter to the People of Scotland 1687 Jas II in Brethertagton Hist Ch Scotl (1840) 518 We allow and tolerate the moderate Presbyterians to meet in their private houses and there to hear all such ministers as have or come willing to accept of our Indulgence 1721 Wodrow Supplt Ch Scotl I ii 111 In June or July this year [1668] the Earl of Lauderdale got full power from the Archbishops of Glasgow who were under their Hidings, and made proposals to them anent some favour and Indulgence he hoped might be procured for them 1816 Scott Old Mort v, The Indulgence as it was called, made a great schism among the presbyterians, and those who accepted of it were severely censured by the more rigid sectaries. Ibid 7 Of all the bats with which the devil has fished for souls in these days of blood and darkness, that Black Indulgence has been the most effective' 1849 Macaulay Hist Eng ii 185 Presbyterian divines who had consented to accept from the government a half toleration, known by the name of the Indulgence

5 Comm An extension, made as a favour, of the time within which a bill of exchange or a debt is to be paid

1827 Chitty Bills of Exchange (ed 7) 292 If a holder agree to give indulgence for a certain period of time to any of the parties to a bill, this takes away his right to call upon that party for payment before the period expires 1891 Byles Bills of Exchange (ed 13) 328 No indulgence to an acceptor or other prior party will discharge an indorser, if the indorser present his consent to it

III 6 attrib and Comb

1895 Daily News 6 Oct 3/4 A native boy to whom the captain had given an indulgence passage from Tamatave 1897 Q Rev July 41 Undermining such moral ideals as the indulgence mongers had left among them

Indulgence, v [f prec sb]

†1 trans To grant or permit as an indulgence or favour = Indulge 4 Obs

1690 Nashe Unten Stuffe 2 If ... it were lawfully indulgenst me freely to advocate my owne astrology

2 R C Ch To attach an indulgence to (a particular act or object) see prec 3 a, and INDULGENCED

1866 J H Newman Let to Pusey (ed 2) 106 There is one collection of Devotions which consists of prayers of very various kinds which have been indulgenced by the Popes. 1885 Catholic Dict (ed 3) 444 Large and often plenary indulgences are attached to the recitation of short prayers and to the use of blessed crosses, medals, etc Other acts of piety—e g examination of conscience, hearing sermons, visiting the Blessed Sacrament—are also largely indulgenced 1891 J Britten Holy Fields [The Catholic Truth Society] is indulgenced by the Holy See

Indulgenced (indu ldʒênst), ppl a R C Ch [f prec sb or vb + -ED] Having an indulgence attached to it, applied to prayers, material objects, etc, the use of which is declared to convey an indulgence

1841 W Palmer Second Let to Wiseman 14 The whole paraphernalia of indulgenced rites objects, and prayers. 1854 Faber Growth in Holiness xv (1872) 287 The use of indulgenced devotions is almost an infallible test of a good Catholic 1879 Littledale Plain Remy xxv (1884) 76 Of the crowd of religious books in use in Italy, many of them indulgenced there is scarcely one which treats of the life and teaching of Christ 1888 (title) of R C leaflets, In dulgenced Prayers for Souls in Purgatory Indulgenced Prayers for the Rosary of the Holy Souls

+Indu lgencer. Obs rare [f Indulgence ? + -er] One who is authorized to grant indulgences, = Indulgentiary

1647 Trapp Comm Rev xviii 12 The Popes Indulgencers, and other officers of his Exchequer

Indulgenciaries see Indulgentiary

Indulgency (indu ldʒênsi) Now rare [ad L indulgentia see Indulgence sb and -ency]

1 The quality or practice of being indulgent, indulgent disposition or action, = Indulgence sb 1

1597 Act 1 Edw VI, c 12 § 1 Great clemency and indulgencye rather then exacte severitie and justice to be shewed 1635 Naunton Fragm Reg (Arb) 51 The first was, a wish of indulgency of the Queen (which is usuall to old age) towards this Lord 1659 Burton's Diary (1828) IV 399, We used all acts of indulgency to them 1663 Cowley Verses & Lett, Lord Treasurer V, Thrice happy He to whom the wise indulgency of Heaven, With sparing hand but just enough has given 1704 J Urry Appdl Converse Tales, etc 247 Instead of Indulgency and Kindness 1806-7 J Bernard Miseries Hum Life (1826) 1 Introd, As the crown of all its indulgency

b An indulgence, = Indulgence sb 1 b 1768-74 Tucker Lt Nat II xxiv (1834) I 505 Indulgencies granted in condescension to our infirmity 1812 Ora & Pubet I 101 Have you ever discounted her indulgencies according to the price that was paid for them

2 = Indulgence sb 2

1691 S Norris Pract Disc IV 321 You should be very sparing and indifferent in the indulgency of your Passions 1889 Stevenson Master of B 263, I warn you, my lord, against this indulgency of evil feeling

b = Indulgence sb 2 b

1688 Norris Theory Love (1694) 141 That Sort of Corporal Indulgency, which is emphatically call'd Sensuality 1748 Anson's Voy II viii 278 An amicable well frequented port abounding with the conveniencies and indulgencies of a civilized life 1827 J F Cooper Prairie I 114 Thousands broke up from the enjoyment of their hard earned indulgencies 1878 Fr A Baker Ars of Gerthood I ii 90 Meantime, the poetical studies, or rather indulgencies of home, had ceased

+3 Indulgence sb 3 Obs

1670 G H Hist Cardinals I 111 They receive Indulgencies 1708 Motteux Rabelais IV xxiv (1737) 139 Swimming with Pardons, Indulgencies, and Salvation 1789 Bishop Hist Man III 13 n 106, I rather begun to preach as many indulgencies 1537 1845 S Austin Anglo-Saxon Hist Sel III 519 The communion were warily reminded how much their masses and indulgencies had heretofore cost them

Indulgent (indu ldʒ(ə)nt), a (sb) [ad I in dulgent-em, pres pple of indulgēre to Indulge C f + indulgent (16th c in Hall -Darm)]

1 That indulges or tends to indulge, disposed to gratify by compliance or to allow desire, behaviour or to overlook faults or failings, showing or ready to show favour or leniency, disinclined to exercise strictness, severity, or restraint a quality of superiors or such as have the power to refuse compliance Often in dysl ogistic sense, Not exercising as parent or superior) due restraint, too forbearing, weakly lenient Const to +unto

1509 Fisher Fun Serm Ces Richmond Wks. (1876) 298 Oftentymes in scripture the fadirs maketh lamentable exclamacyons, agaynste almyghtye god, for that he semeth, to be more indulgent and fundfull unto the wycked persone then vnto the good lyuer 1606 Shaks Ant & Cl I iv 26 You are too indulgent 1686 Waller (J) Hereafter such in thy behalf shall be Th indulgent censure of poverty 1689 Brit Spec 12 Nature, like an indulgent Mother has furnished it [Britain] with so great abundance of all things, necessary for the Life of Man 1710 Steele Tatler No 271 ? 7 The indulgent Readers Most Obliged Most Obedient Humble Servt, Richard Steele 1732 Berkeley Alciphr III § 15 The present age is very indulgent to everything that aims at profane raillery 1839 Keightley Hist Engl II 84 The best and most indulgent of landlords 1849 Macaulay Hist Eng II 170 His favourite vices were precisely those to which the Puritans were least indulgent b fig of things.

1697 Dryden Virg Past x 94 Not tho' beneath the Thracian Clime we freeze, Or Italy's indulgent Heav'n forea,o 1762-72 Sir W Jones Poems, Arcadia (1777) 106 Kind Vanity their want of art supplies, And gives indulgent what the Muse denies 1882 Allingham Diary of Country 11, Tender in its moods Than any joy indulgent summer dealt

+2 Indulging or disposed to indulge oneself or one's own inclinations, Self-indulgent Obs

1570 (implied in Indulgently 2) 1607 Dryden Aureng 936 The feeble old, indulgent of their ease 1705 Stanhope Paraphr II 192 A Satisfaction, to which all the Pleasures of the most indulgent Epicure are as nothing

+B as sb An easy chair Obs

1825 P W Ward Tremaine II 11 His chair, which was what the upholsterers call an Indulgent (a great deal too indulgent for study)

Hence Indu lgentness (Bailey vol II, 1727)

+Indulge ntial, a Obs [f L indulgentia Indulgence + -al, C f penitential] Of or pertaining to indulgences see Indulgence sb 3 a

1674 Bryant Sand at Index x (T), You are fitted with rare indulgential privileges

+Indulge ntiary. Obs Also -encitary [f L indulgentia Indulgence + -ary] A dealer in or seller of indulgences

1577 tr Bullinger's Decades (1592) 587 What shall we say of the very Indulgentiaries, and the Pope himselfe whose hirelings they be? 1593 Calvin Def Pr Hyp 458 The Lordes moneyers, and Indulgentiaries, were not reformed, but extinguished

Indulgently (indu ldʒêntli), adv [-ly 2] 1 In an indulgent manner, with indulgence or disposition to humour, kindly, favourably, leniently, without strictness or severity

a 1611 Braum & Fl Tri Love I, My mother, father, And uncle love me most indulgently, Being the only branch of all their stocks 1748 Richardson Clarissa (1811) I 202 Being thus indulgently put into employment, [I] soon recovered myself 1884 Manch Exam 8 May 5/3 Not in the humour to listen indulgently to the invitation to lay out fifty thousand pounds on another public park

+2 With indulgence of one's own inclinations, self-indulgently. Obs

1620 T Granger Syntagma (London ed) H 118, Indulgently following the wantonnes of hys wit 1647 Hammond Power of Keys iv 122 To live indulgently in sin 1659 — On Pr Bp Anslog 34 To live in any sin indulgently

Indulger (indu ldʒə) [f Indulge v + -er1] One who indulges a One who treats (a person or thing) with indulgence see Indulge v 1

1659 A Brome On R Brome, Com 6 These issues of thy brain, sent all to Indulgers of the Comick stage Deserve applause 1693 Tailor Orbe At Ce situ Poet. Wks. (1933) 33 Muses the soft indulger of the mind, I the kind diverter of our sad thoughts 1828 F Tuckett Devon II 740 Ye infortunate indulgers of heresy, and the arch heretic

b One who indulges or gives way to (a desire, inclination, etc) see Indulge v 3

1648 W Mountagu Devout Ess II viii § 5 (R) And of the severest watchers of their nature how task hud enough, what shall be hoped of the indulgers of it? 1705 Stanhope Paraphr II 32 Indulgers of those Lusts which every baptized Believer hath solemnly renounced

c One who indulges in (some practice) see Indulge v 7

1827 Hone Every day bk II 12 Illustrated by portraits of some of the indulgers 1850 M'Cosh Div Govt (1874) 206 An indulger in fine sentiment

+Indu lgiate, v Obs rare [prec f Indulge or L indulgēre + -ate 3] trans = Indulge v

1615 G Sandys Trav 103 Now for drink, this is an indigiate his gluttony 1628 Feltham Resolves II (1) Men say Too much indulging of the flesh 1656 in Blount Glossogr

Indulging (indu ldʒiŋ), ppl a [f Indulge v + -ing 2] That indulges, indulgent, that indulges in some practice Hence Indu lgingly adv

1707 Norris Treat Humility vi 237 Every vice, humour some, or other indulgingly treated by either 1883 Salt Mall's 19 Nov 12 2 Calmly, lovingly, and indulgingly trusting to God's providence

Indu line (i ndiulən) Chem [f Indo-2 + -ul-, diphn + -ine] A general name for a series of compounds related to aniline, yielding blue black, blue, and greyish dyes, known in commerce as nigrosine, violaniline, Elberfeld blue, aniline grey, etc see quot

1882 Athenæum 30 Dec 901/3 'Induline' is a term applied to all colouring compounds formed by the action of amidoazo compounds on the hydrochlorides of aromatic amines with elimination of ammonia. 1892 in Morley & Muir Dict Chem III 82

Indult (indu lt), sb [a F indult (15-16th c), or ad L. indultum indulgence, permission, favour, privilege, subst use of neuter of indultus, pa pple of indulgēre to Indulge.]

+1 A special privilege granted by authority; a licence or permission Obs in gen sense 1535 Stewart Cron Scot III 548 Ane fre indult of euerie fait and cryme 1685 Sanderson Serm (1681) I 121 From the free and voluntary indult of temporal princes.

2 R C Ch A licence or permission granted by the Pope, whether to a corporation or to an individual, authorising something to be done which the common law of the Church does not sanction ' (atholic Dict)

1536 Bellenden Cron Scot (1821) II 327 At this time, many indults and privileges war granttt be the Pap 1635 Pagit Christianogr (1636) 259 The summes of money which the pope receiveth for Firstfruits, Palls, Indulgences, Bul- Confessionals, Indults Dispensations cannot be counted 1688 Lond Gaz No 2389/3 By vertue of an Apostolical Indult of Eligibility previously granted him 1718 in Earl Stanhope Hist Eng II p lxxxiii, The indult granted the Pretender for the nomination of Irish bishops 1858 Faber tr Life Xavier 200 He had an indult from the Holy See, authorising him to say the Office of three lessons, which is considerably shorter than that which was common to ecclesiastics. 1885 Catholic Dict (ed 3) xv A familiar instance is that of the Lenten indults, by which the Pope authorises the bishops, according to the circumstances of different countries, to dispense more or less with the rigour of the canons as to the quadragesimal fast In former times Indults chiefly related to the patronage of church dignities and benefices

3 = Indulto 2 In mod Dicts

+Indu lt, v Obs rare [f indult-, ppl. stem of L indulgēre to Indulge.] trans To grant as a privilege or favour = Indulge v 4

1812 G Buck 3rd Univ Eng xlviii in Stowe's Ann (1615) 988/2 Colledges, Athenæes, houses, and schooles, founded and endowed with lands, and reuenews by the auncient Kinges and Princes of this land and vnto them royall priuiledges indulted

[Indultif, vbl error for inductif see Inductive sb, quot c 1420.]

‖Indulto (indu ltō) [Sp and Pg indulto, exemption, privilege, licence —1 indultum Indult]

+1 = Indult sb 1, 2 Obs

1645 Treaty w Spain in C King Brit Merch (1721) III 132 Other Favours and Indulto's, which the King granted you 1753 Scots Mag Jan 10/1 In virtue of an indulto granted by the Pope 1764 Hist Europe in Ann Reg (1760) 194 That all slaves should be made free, by an indulto general 1813 Examiner 1 Mar 131 In conformity with the concordat, and by virtue of the present indulto

2 Hist A duty paid to the King of Spain or Portugal on imported goods, a licence duty

1691 Lond Gaz No 2722/1 The Galeons had not yet been permitted to unlade, because the Indulto to be paid to the King was not settled 1697 Ibid No 3278/1 An Indulto of 4 per Cent is laid upon the Silver and other Merchandizes brought home in the Fleet 1739 Chiver Hist (1746) I 291 An indulto was laid of one third out of the profits of every benefit for the proper use and behoof of the potent 1772 Ir Acts Reg 7 May 168/1 The King had had an indulto of 13 per cent on all kinds of merchandize

‖Indu ltum. [= see Indult] = Indult

1640 Somner Antiq Canterb 210 The Archbishops fore noted indultums or grants made to the Abbey Anderson

+Indu ly, adv Obs In 5 indewly. [In- 1] Unduly

1484 Caxton Curiall 11 Herof foloweth that we lese by yeuyng that whyche we fuge to our self, and that we ar denuuie indewly

+Indument. Obs [In branch I, ad I indumentum garment, clothing, f induēre to put on (I pc I is also in current scientific use see sense 2) In branch II = Endument, Endowment]

I (Indument)

1 Clothing, investiture, an article of clothing, a garment, robe, vesture

1494 Fabyan Chron vii cclxxi 243 This palle is an indument that euery archebyshop must haue and is a tythge of whyte lyke to the lenth of a stole 1503 Hawes Likes Gentrise 138 The conquered shall forfeit to the victor all his robes or indumentes of honour 1609 Hall Theophi & Kenig 2 He caused the papall indumentes to be taken away 1640 Bp Reynolds Passions xxxvi 435 Their Lives and Substance [of animals were given to man] to Aliment, Indument, Ornament or any other use fig 1589 Nashe Almond for Parrot 3 That thou sholdst adorne thy faire dealing with the indiuments of discipline 1684 Hoskin Gods Decree 178 The wedding garment must be understood of the inward sanctity and indument of the heart

b fig A material body or form, regarded as the investiture of the soul

1593 Nashe P Penilesse (Shaks Soc) 83 Spirits although in their proper essence they are incorporal, yet can they take upon them the indiuments of any living bodies whatsoe ever 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I iv § 16 365 Ancient Christian Writers concurred with Origen herein, that the Highest Created Spirits were no Naked and Absolute Minds, but Souls cloathed with some Corporeal Indument

2 Nat Hist A covering, as of hair, feathers, etc, an investment, integument, an investing membrane (Also in Lat form indumentum)

1578 Banister Hist Man VIII. 60 b The Bel Pan Mater with which inuament the brayne and Cerebellum are nearely clad 1684 Wernten, Indument (Pool), plumage, feathers, [1880 Gray Struct Bot (ed 6) 416/2 Indumentum, any hairy covering or pubescence which forms a coating]

II (Indu ment)

3 The action of investing or fact of being invested with some quality or attribute; also the quality or attribute with which something is invested, = Endurment

1597 St Papers Hen VIII, I 243 For the parhite of your mutual indumentes, both of grace and nature. 1583 Stubbes Anat Abus I (1877) 42 Without the indumentis of vertu, whereto only al reverence is due 1699 H More Immort Soul (1662) 31 It is as easy a thing for him to indue it [a creature] with what other Properties he pleases which indiuments being immediately united [etc.]

4. = ENDOWMENT

1602–3 SIR F STANHOPE Will in Wills & Clark Cam bridge (1886) II 672 The Benefactors who haue given anie yearelie perpetuitie of maintenance to that Colledg to gether with the perticuler indiuments which they haue so yearelie given ‖ Induna, (indū nā) [Zulu in duna officer of state or army under the chief, f. nominal infix in + stem duna (pl izin duna) cf i duna (pl ama duna) male, sire, lord, person of consequence having land and people under him] An officer under the king or chief of the Zulus, Matabele, and other South African tribes.

a 1875 F OATES Matabele Land (1889) 83 They call it [baobab tree] the 'induna' tree, for here the indunas from the neighbouring kraals are wont to sit and drink beer when any thing particular is on hand 1886 Pall Mall Gaz 7 Nov 6/3 Her Majesty talked some time with the indunas 1897 Rep of Rev 21 Lobengula's indunas are to have £60 a year and a horse each

Indungeon, var of ENDUNGEON v

† Induperator. Obs rare [a L induperator, old form (with prefix indu- for in-) of imperator] = IMPERATOR

1599 NASHE Lenten Stuffe 22 This monarchall fludy In duperator [the herring] 1660 TRAPP Comm Jer II 27 Thus God the great Induperator bespeaketh the Medes and Persians as his Embleme

Indupliate (indūplīkĕt), a Bot [f IN- 2 + DUPLICATE] Folded or rolled in at the edges, without overlapping said of leaves and petals in vernation or æstivation 1830 J INDLEY Nat Syst Bot 69 The æstivation of Frank landia is indupliate, according to Mr Brown 1835 — Introd Bot (1848) II 375 Indupliate, having the margins bent abruptly inwards, and the external face of these edges applied to each other without any twisting 1857 HENFREY Bot 71 Valvate buds indupliate vernation 1866 HANBURY World Pl 154 The four lobes of the corolla are valvate in bud, having the edges indupliate or folded inwards.

Indupliation (indūplikā·ʃən) [f IN- 2 + DUPLICATION, prob suggested by prec] Folding or doubling in; an example of this

1874 HOOKER Treas Botany 1 Hutchinsia § 212 389 The whole indupliation is enclosed in a transparent structureless membrane 1879 H Sumner & Annie Life 12 In every case where such organs have ceased to be superficial on the skin by its indupliation Indupliative, a Bot [f INDUPLICATE + -IVE cf DUPLICATIVE] = INDUPLICATE.

1864 in WEBSTER (citing Gray) 1866 in Treas Bot

Indurable, a[1] rare [ad med L indūrābilis, f IN- (IN-) + durābilis DURABLE] Not durable, not enduring or lasting

c 1450 tr De Imitatione III xxvii 97 Ramushe me & de lyuere from all indurable comfort of creatures 1899 Daily 28 Oct 8/2/1 Soft wood blocks are insanitary and in durable † Indurable, a[2] Obs rare[−1] [f IN- 1 + DURABLE (sense 4)] Unendurable, unbearable.

1607 TOPSELL Fourf Beasts 367 An extreme and almost indurable inflammation and burning, through all the parts of the body

Indurable, -durance, etc, obs ff ENDURABLE, ENDURANCE, etc.

† Indurand, obs Sc f ENDURING prep, during 1490 Lett Privy Council 172 (Jam) Indurand the tyme of the ward of the samyn 1540 Acts Jas V (1814) cap 82 Indurand the short tyme of this oure fraill peregrinatione

† Indurant, ppl a (ab) Obs rare [ad I indūrant-em, pres pple of indūrāre see INDURE] 1 Lasting, continuing long

1611 SPEED Hist Gt Brit IX 547 His wilde speeches some by errour alledge as cause of his indurant durance.

2 Of medicines Having the quality of hardening Also as sb An indurating medicine

1678 SALMON Pharmac Lond VI II 814 Indurant, such as coagulate, congeal or harden 1721 BAILEY, Indurants, hardening Medicines

Indurascent, a Bot rare [ad L type indūrāscent-em*, pres pple of indūrāscere* see INDURE] 1 Lasting, continuing long

1611 SPEED Hist Gt Brit IX 547 His wilde speeches some by errour alledge as cause of his indurant durance.

2 Of medicines Having the quality of hardening Also as sb An indurating medicine

1678 SALMON Pharmac Lond VI II 814 Indurant, such as coagulate, congeal or harden 1721 BAILEY, Indurants, hardening Medicines

Indurascent, a Bot rare [ad L type indūrāscent-em*, pres pple of indūrāscere* see INDURE] 1 Hardening by degrees'

1866 in Treas Bot

Indurate (indūrĕt), ppl a Now rare Also 5–6 en- [ad L indūrātus, pa pple of indūrāre to make hard, f in- (IN-2) + dūrus hard see ENDURE] Formerly stressed indura·te.]

1 Of things Made hard, hardened Now rare

1530 TINDALE Answ More Wks (Parker Soc) III 12 As the nature of those hard and indurate adamant stones is, to draw all to them 1555 EDEN Decades 273 Haddockes or hakes indurate and dryed with coales 1607 TOPSELL Four f Beasts (1658) 339 A little above the hoofs their are indurate and hardned thick skins. 1621 BURTON Anat Mel II V I VI (1651) 397 Avoid at all times indurate salt meat. 1870 HOOKER Stud Flora 315 Beta Calyx unconate, base indurate in fruit

2. Of persons, their character, feelings, etc Morally hardened, rendered callous; also, fixed in determination, stubborn, obstinate Now rare

Often of the heart, referring to the phrase indurauit est cor Pharaonis (Pharaoh's heart was hardened) in the Vulgate (Exod VII 13, 22)

c 1425 Orolog Sapient VII in Anglia X 388/24 To hem pat haue her vndirstondynge blyndet, and hir affecc̃ion in durate & hardnet 1426 LYDG De Guil Pilgr 4070 Hertys that be obstynat With synnes cole, ek indurat, And fulfyllyd with vnclennesse 1581 J BELL Haddon's Answ Osor 497 b, Whereby we are taught to eschew the company of endurate heretiques after once or twise admonition 1598 ROWLANDS Betraying of Christ 15 My heart's indurate, hardned, vn relenting 1667 Answ Brit North 14 They are as indurat as Pharaoh 1855 Fraser's Mag LI 170 Nothing but indurate cynicism can account for it

† b Physically hardened, rendered hardy or capable of enduring hardships Obs

1555 EDEN Decades 253 They are indurate to abyde coulde, hunger and laboure

† c fig Of conditions and the like Obs

1598 WARNER Albions Eng (1688) 24 b, If the greefe be so indurate and hardened that it will not be healed by the aforesaid remedies 1635 N R Camden's Hist Eliz in ann 36 256 In case the indurate passion of the spleene be

Indurate (indūrĕt), v [f I indūrat-, ppl stem of indūrāre see prec Formerly stressed indu·rate]

1 trans To make (a substance) hard, to harden 1594 PLAT Jewell-ho 1 23 Which water dipte and quenche and coole it well with such things as doo happen to bee mixed with it 1597 A M tr Guillemeau's Fr Chirurg 4/1 The same syde and the stomacke begynne to be indurated and hard 1611 FLORIO Iarnale (1791) 10 Diuers wicks not only indurate, and petrify other subiect vices [etc.] 1706 PHILLIPS s v, The Sun indurates Clay 1856 MRS BROWNING Aur Leigh II 448 The very bet of learning Death applied To indurate forms and systems 1865 MERIVALE Rom Empr Imm VIII 248 The deep alluvial soil of the Danubian Valley was indurated by frost

b To make hardy, to inure

c 1575 HOOKER Life Sir F Carew in Archæol XXVIII 148 Which course doe so much indurate the bodys to abyde all labors 1579 LODGE Fool's Eyr XX 114 They [slaves] had been indurated to want, exposure and toil 1690 Spectator No 3 I am harder and more indurated against the indifference or ridicule of the world

2. To harden (the heart, etc.), to render callous or unfeeling, to make stubborn or obstinate

1538 T STARKEY Exhort to Scotl 192 Sure like to indurate than to mollify 1584 R SCOT Discov Witches XIII XVII (1886) 257 God indeed performed the other actions, to indurate Pharaos heart 1615 BRATHWAIT Arraign Fr 218 Sharp doomes indurate natures most relenting 1801 H M WILLIAMS Sk Fr Rev I II 23 It is the curse of revolutionary calamities to indurate the heart 1891 FRANCIS Darkness & Dawn I 318 That such a spectacle should indurate still further the callosity of hardened hearts

‖ pass Induratus, -a, -um, = INDURATE hard

1606 HALON Sydrus § 706 This sheweth that Bodies doe by the Coldnesse of the Quick siluer, Indurata 1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep V 91 That plants and ligneous bodies may indurate under water, is no experiment in Conclusion. 1664 ALBERTINUS Mercy Obs 149 The disposition [of the vein] to indurate is greater 1832 LYTTON Godolphin XIII, The drops that trickle within the cavern harden, yet brighten into spars as they indurate 1898 J RICHARDSON Andrew Jack V 111 The same begins by an ulcer which indurates, the other begins by an induration which ulcerates

b Of a custom To become fixed or inveterate

1895 PUSEY Eirenicon 301 tr from Latin) And now, through custom, pride, and corruption, it has indurated, that a man is bought and sold by a blind people and by wicked unmoniacal priests. 1881 Times 10 Feb 9/6 The prescription will soon grow and begin to indurate

Indurated (indūrĕ·tĕd), ppl a [f prec]

1 Of substances. Made hard, hardened (esp Geol of clay, marl, etc.)

1677 PLOT Oxfordsh 144 The outward crust of these is sometimes only indurated chalk 1720 W WOOD Surveys Coalds II xlvii (1738) 176 They so often degenerate into those indurated and bituminous excrescences 1794 HAMILTON Aetna 2 Bart xxix 456 I have since seen within the indurated calyx 1799 KIRWAN Geol Ess 299 Two beds of indurated clay 1847–8 H MILLER First Impr in (1857) 23 Solid deposits of indurated sandstone

2 Of the heart, feelings, etc Rendered callous or stubborn

1604 T WRIGHT Passions 249 A hard indurated heart may resist the sweete calling of God 1764 GOLDSM Trav 182 Love's and friendship's finely painted dart Fall blunted from each indurated heart 1821 BYRON Don Juan XIII xcvi, Indurated hearts 1866 Nat Acts 21 Apr 466/1 It is by hitting on some fresh power within us, that habits, however indurated, are overcome 1881 ARMOUR Soc Life

† Indurately, adv Obs rare. In 6 en- [f INDURATE ppl a + -LY[2]] Stubbornly

1553 BALE Gardiner's Detestn Obed B iij, If they hearde he not endurately lacked and cast vp from discerning the truthe † Indurateness. Obs rare [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being indurate, or spiritually hardened.

1647 CH Man, Creed in Formul Faith (1856) 59 Either for their infidelitie or for their indurateness

Indurating, ppl a [f INDURATE v + -ING[2]] That hardens or makes hard

1835 tr Wolff's Bath Wat 114 So As indurating agents, alcohol, dilute chromic and nitric acids have already been mentioned 1895 WATSON Athenæum 5 Jan 17/1 them indurating effects of a selfish religiosity never withered her soul

Induration (indūrē·ʃən) Also 6 en- [f indūration (14th c), or ad med L indūrātion-em, n of action f indūrāre to INDURATE]

1 The action of hardening, the process of being hardened or becoming hard, also, hardened condition. Now chiefly in Geol and Path.

c 1386 CHAUCER Can Yeom Prol 202 Of bodies mollit cacion And also of hire induracion 1472 RIPLEY Compl Alch VI 11 in Ashm 1652) 161 It ys of soft thyngs Induracyon 1584 R SCOT Discov Witchcr XIII 1 (1886) 204 My vsuall termes of art as (for a taste) mollifications and indurations of bodies 1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep II 1 50 We vsually ascribe their induration to cold 1783 PUTT Chirurg Obs II 138 The induration, enlargement or other morbid affection of such parts 1858 Cornwall's The elvans have mostly a common mineral character, the sligh of very variable degrees of induration attrib 1898 HUTCHINSON Diabetes Surg IX 113 A new induration form of large size and exactly like a pumice Hunterian sore

b A hardened formation or mass

1809 Med Pract XXI 281 I have found on opening these subjects, remarkable indurations in the brain

c Hardened condition of body, ability to endure hardships

1827 J F COOPER Pilot I 123 His whole figure had attained an appearance of induration

2 A hardening of character or feeling, obstinacy, stubbornness, callousness, want of feeling

1493 Festivall (W de W 1515) 128 b, Askynge these fo figures of her enduryson or obstynacy 1550 BALE Image Both C D iij b, In her place shall stande up the synnagoge of Sathan, with blyndnesse and induracion 1651 C CARTWRIGHT Cert Relig 1 230 He was worthy the elect by mercy, and damnes the Reprobate by induration a 1732 ATTERBURY Mart Answ (1840) 29 The hand of God is in it, and some degree of a judicial induration 1873 Mem J Inlayson 181 To what a degree of induration and senselessness must you have brought yourself

b A hardening influence Obs

1583 STUBBES Anat Abuses II 158 b, 114 A hinderaunce to mainte in comming to the Gospel, and an induration to the papistes, blyndyng, their hartes

Indurative (indūrĕtĭv) a Also 6 en- [f I indūrāt- (see INDURATE v) + -IVE] Of hardening tendency or quality

1598 I VICARY Calm Inuas 11 Bellowes mollificative and endurative 1863 YAT Rec XV Years The hot air of ships and self-examination has also a great indurative effect 1873 J H GREEN Introd Pathol (ed 2) 255 When an endocarditis is the precursor of the indurative process 1888 Quain's Med Dict 295 Indurative changes in the solid viscera led to venous obstruction

† Indu rative, v. Obs nonce-wd [f INDURATE ppl a + -ive] trans To harden (the heart)

1598 LODGE Alba (1886) 86 Thy hart gainst me, not still indurative, But my sad thoughts in me retranquilize

† Indu re, obs form of ENDURE v = INDURATE

c 1450 Mirour Saluacion 187 Wha god thrugh hert wald in malice indure 1535 Goodly Primer in 3 Primers Hen VIII (1848) 222 Make soft our hard hearts which he indured & hardened 1598–1600 ENGLISH Faustus 1 1

Hence † Indu red (sc. indu rit) ppl a, hardened, indurate, whence † Indu ritness (sc.), hardened condition, induration 1598 KNEVET Comp Chast in Rem Antiq Soc Misc (1844) I 144 The indurit opinioun quhilk he consavis Ibid 161 Geve thow wyll manteyne, with permanitie and indurytnes, ane wicket opinoun 1565 Recounting Corragaeill & Ane Cuna Jam), His indurytnes and inobtruacie 1567 Gude & Godlie Ba (S T S) 148 Indurit ignorance hes slane thy hart, and put vs to gret pane 1598 ROLLAND Sevyne Seages Wks (Wedderb Soc) I 63 What availis it to speak to an indured heart?

† Indu ring, variant of ENDURING prep, Obs 1450–70 Godeg 1016 Godly Q 440 Na nane sa doughty of deid, indaring his dawe 1524–1650 [see ENDURING prep]

Indusial (indū·zĭăl), a Geol [f INDUSIUM + AL] Containing, or composed of, indusia or larva-cases, in industrial limestone (see quots)

1833 LYELL Princ Geol III 232 There is another remarkable form of fresh water limestone in Auvergne, called 'indusial', from the cases or indusiæ of the larvæ of Phryganeæ, great heaps of which have been encrusted with lime by the water, and formed into a rock 1851 RICHARDSON Geol (1855) 375 These indusial limestones form but a portion of the siliceous deposit

Indusiate (indū·zĭĕt), ppl a Bot [ad L indūsiāt-us see INDUSIUM and -ATE[2] 2] Furnished or covered with an indusium

1830 J INDLEY Nat Syst Bot 188 Monopetalous dicotyledons with an indusiate stamen 1875 BENTLEY & DYER tr Sachs Bot 395 A resemblance between the sporangia of Salvinia and the indusiate sorus of this family of ferns

Indusiated, ppl a rare [f as prec + -ED[1]] = INDUSIATE

1864 in WEBSTER

Indusiform (indū·zĭfōrm), a Bot Also 8 inform [f INDUSIUM + -FORM] Having the form or shape of an indusium

1857 BERKELEY Cryptog Bot § 603 The sori are produced on exserted concave indusiform margins of lobes 1866 JOHN SMITH Ferns Brit & For (1879) 82 Sori round furnished with indusiform lacinulate scales

Indusioid (indū·zĭoid), a Bot [f as prec + -OID] Resembling an indusium

1866 J SMITH Ferns Brit & For (1879) 87 Sori oblong, linear, marginal, furnished with indusioid stipitate squamæ

‖ Indusium (indū·zĭŭm) Pl -ia [L indusium a tunic, app f induere to put on see ENDUE]

1 Anat The amnion of the fœtus

1706 in PHILLIPS 1895 RAMSBOTHAM Obstetr Med 43 Besides the peritoneal coat, — indusium — they possess beneath it another,—their proper tunic

2. Bot. a The membranous shield or scale covering the sorus or fruit cluster of a fern 1807 J F SMITH Phyt Bot 248 My learned friends Willde now and Swartz have judged otherwise, calling this membrane the indusium, or covering, which seems to me altogether superfluous 1841 T MOORE Brit Ferns & Allies (1864) 12 The indusium is mostly a thin transparent membranous scale of the same general form as the sorus itself 1873 BENNETT & DYER tr Sachs' Bot 396 The whole sorus is very generally covered by an excrescence of the epidermis, the true indusium in other cases the false indusium consists of an outgrowth of the tissue of the leaf itself

b A collection of hairs united into a sort of cup, and inclosing the stigma in the Goodeniaceæ 1830 LINDLEY Nat Syst Bot 188 Campanulas have not the fringed indusium which terminates the style of Goodenia and, and surrounds their stigma.

3 Entom. The case or covering of a larva
1832 LYELL Princ Geol II 246 The Indusia, or cases of the larvæ of Phryganeæ 1865 PAGE Handbk Geol (ed 2) 256 The indusium or case of the caddis worm

Industrial (ində·striăl), a and sb [Occurs in end of 16th c, then app not till late in 18th The early instances, as well as 17th c F industrial, appear to be independent formations from L industria + -AL In the 19th c the word appears as an adaptation of mod F industriel (Dict Acad 1835). † industrie + -el = -AL 1]

A adj Pertaining to, or of the nature of, industry or productive labour, resulting from industry Of persons Engaged in or connected with an industry or industries
Industrial assession, additional value given to property by labour expended on it (see ACCRESION 7) † Industrial fruits, fruits grown or cultivated by human industry (so obs.) † Fruits industriaux, etc
1590 SWINBURNE Testaments VII § 10 (1640) 135 Of fruits, some bee Industriall, and some Naturall By Industriall, I meane suche as bee sowne in the ground by mans industry, in hope to be reaped with increase ere long Ibid 136 1776 S HALIFAX Anal Rom Civ Law (1795) 24 Industrial Accessions are 1 Specification, or producing a new form from another s materials (etc) 1830 W THOMPSON Pract Direct Estab Common p iii, The whole of the industrial operations of society [Note 1] The French 'of or belonging to industry' 1841 F VESSY Dict Eng Lang 82 Industrial, a french word, said to mean mechanical lately adopted by the English engineers 1842 Penny Cycl Feb 1 iii § 3 The industrial capacities of human beings 1860 MOTLEY Netherl (1868) I viii 489 Such of the industrial classes as could leave the place had wandered away to Holland and England

b Industrial School A school for teaching one or more branches of industry (cf school of industry, INDUSTRY 4 b), spec a school established for the compulsory attendance of neglected children, where, besides being boarded (or lodged and boarded) and being taught the ordinary elementary subjects, they are instructed in some industry or trade; a school of this kind in which the children are boarded or partially boarded but not lodged is more distinctively called a day industrial school 1853 Ibid Industrial Schools, Means for Decreasing Juvenile Crime 1857 4 & 5 Vict c 48 § 1 The Committee of Council on Education may, upon the Application of the Managers of any School in which Industrial Training is provided, and in which Children are fed as well as taught, grant a Certificate and thereupon the School shall be a Certified Industrial School 1876 Act 39 & 40 Vict c 79 § 16 A school in which industrial training, elementary education, and one or more meals a day, but not lodging, are provided to be a certified day industrial school

B sb 1 One engaged in industrial pursuits
1865 Fall Mall G 16 Aug 10/1 Commercials Agricultural turists Industrials 1867 Ibid 20 Jan 12/1 A place in which the home keeping industrial could find out all he wants to know about colonial industry 1894 Lancaster (Pa) Morn News 16 May, A band of Western Industrials received an offer of $1 per day and per mule to work on a railroad contract 1899 Q Rev Jan 10 Is him it appears a matter of course that nobles and industrials should be fighting

2. pl Shares in a joint stock industrial enterprise 1894 Daily News 21 Sept 3/6 There was no general tone to the market, which—excepting Industrials—appears for the present to have reached a state of equilibrium 1898 Westm Gaz 2 Mar 8/3 there is always plenty of money awaiting investment in sound industrials.

Hence Indu strially adv, in respect of industry, Indu strialness, the quality of being industrial a 1846 Trans Worcester Assoc 1 cited in Worcester for Industrially 1858 SIMMONDS Dict Trade 203 1 Those identified with the manufacturing pursuits or producing arts, are said to be industrially employed 1876 H SPENCER Princ Sociol (1877) I 356 Simple tribes which are exceptional in their industrialness 1879 Hist in IX 711 Decrease of militancy and increase of industrialness. 1883 American VI 37 No country which keeps a large fraction of its people under arms, can compete industrially with countries like England and America

Indu strialism. [f prec + -ISM Cf F industrialisme (Littré)] A system of things arising from or involving the existence of great industries, the organization of industrial occupations.
1831 CARLYLE Sart Res II IV, Preparing us, by indirect but sure methods, Industrialism and the Government of the Wisest 1844 MARY HOWITT Ave Nazt 201 The anarchy of civilized industrialism 1859 SEPLEY Lect & Ess I 18 Poets, too, of a golden age returned, and they hymned industrialism in exquisite language. 1880 Academy 24 Jan. 59/1 Ceremony dies away among industrial societies, and among those classes which industrialism has produced

Indu strialist. [f as prec + -IST Cf F industrialiste (Littré)]
1 One engaged in, or connected with, industrial occupations, a worker or manufacturer 1864 Times 23 May, The well-to-do industrialists, and the landowners 1869 M ARNOLD Cult & An. (1882) 235 Industrialists in search of gentility 1882 Pall Mall G 25 Aug 4/1 When once men have begun to be divided definitely into industrialists and fighters [etc]

2 attrib or adj Characterized by or engaged in industrialism 1886 Fraser's Rest XXI 197/2 What Saint-Simon desired was an industrialist state directed by modern science

Indu strialize, v [f as prec + -IZE] trans To affect with or devote to industrialism, to occupy or organize industrially Hence Indu strialized ppl a 1882 Cornh Mag Dec 736 Our modern desecrated and industrialised England 1886 Pall Mall G 8 Sept. 4/1 Professor Roswell spoke ominously of 'industrializing' the villages and making markets near the agriculturists 1888 New Princeton Rev May 328 Contempt of civilians, particularly of 'trades people', borrows from the middle age with a persistence that strikes our industrialized sense as puerile

† Indu strate, v Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f † industrier + -ATE^{1} 6 cf s'industrier 'to labour, indeavour, bestirre himselfe.' (Cotgr)] refl To use one's industry, to make diligent endeavour 1613 SHERLEY Trav Persia a It was a weakenesse in my judgement, which, notwithstanding, I ever industriated my selfe to make perfect.

Industrious (ində·strias), a [ad L (postclass) industriosus (f industria industry see -OUS), or its Fr repr industrieux (1503 in Hatz.-Darm), or it also L industrius diligent] Characterized by industry
†1 Characterized by or showing intelligent or skilful work, skilful, able, clever, ingenious (Of agents, their actions, etc.) Obs
[Cf 1538 ELYOT Dict, Industrius, He that is wytty and actyue]
1523 (implied in INDUSTRIOUSLY 1) 1532 ELYOT Gov I xxiii, They that be called Industrious, do moste craftily and deply vnderstande in all thynges what is expedient, and by what meanes and wayes they maye soneste exploite them And those thynges in whome other men trauayle, a person industrious lightly and with litle speeche, and fyndeth newe wayes and meanes to bring to effecte that he desireth 1549 Compl Scot Ep Queen 6 Be that industreus martial nocht be forzeit the toune suld vanische 1555 EDEN Decades 338 The industrious and subtyle art of partyng gold from new syluer 1598 R. Edmund Ct Warre 1 176 They gape and point At your industrious Scenes and acts of death 1601 R JOHNSON Kingd & Commw (1603) 138 Adverse ripeneth the looser, and maketh him warre and industrious 1657 W RAND tr Gassendi's Physics II 76 I that the Ancients were so industrious, that they made no vessel, which did not contain a set measure, and a certain weight 1679 G R tr Bonythan's Theat World 308 Another composed a compleat Ship so industrious that a fleet might be built over it under his Wings 1681 Hudibras Hind & P II 571 Industrious of the needle and the chart, They run full sail to their Japonian mart

2 Characterized by or showing application, endeavour, effort, painstaking, zealous, assiduous, careful Const in (†after, of, to) some matter, to do something 1552 HULOET, Industrious, perseuerant 1596 SHAKS 1 Hen IV, I 62 Here is a dearth and true industrious friend, Sir Walter Blunt, new lighted from his Horse 1598 SPENSER State Irel Wks. (Globe) 626/1 Industrious to seeke out the truth of these things. 1608 MIDDLETON Trick to catch old one II 1, I'll undo [sc] very industrious to beguile the widow and make up the match 1623 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1624) 51 More industrious in humane inventions then religious reuolutions 1644 Milton Educ Wks (1851) 470 Those people who have at any time been most industrious after wisdom 1659 HAMMOND De Fe CX 1 Some others are more industrious to evade it 1667 MILTON P L II 116 His thoughts were low, To vice industrious, but to Nobler deeds Timorous and slothful 1693 G STEPNEY in Dryden's Juvenal VIII (1697) 220 He was Industrious he esteem'd the best Mustian of his Age 1699 BENTLEY Phal Pref 11 Considering with what industrious Malice the false Story has been spread over England 1699 DAVENANT To John Dryden 53 Industrious of the common good 1725 POPE Odyss VIII 82 Before his eyes the purple vest he threw, Industrious to conceal the falling day 1741 MIDDLETON Cicero II viii 176 Very industrious in recommending it 1761 HUME Hist I Apr III ii 116 Holles was so industrious to continue his meritorious distress, that when one offered to bail him he would not yield

†3 Characterized by or showing design or purpose intentional, designed, purposed, voluntary 1609 W CARPENTER Achit I ii, It was the part of a shamelesse Cham to ben an industrious spectator of his fathers nakednesse 1634 J WRIGHT tr Camus Nature's Paradox 299 By industrious excuses purposely inuented, he had sharpen'd the desire of his Auditours. 1654 H L ESTRANGE Chas I (1655) 183 Some there are suspect this mistake to have been not inuoluntary but industrious in him 1668 H MORE Div Dial (J.), The industrious perforation of the tendons of the second joints of fingers and toes, draw the tendons of the third joints through 1692 T HALES Acc New Inuent 90 An industrious Omission of the Principal Point of Time 1697 G S FABER Eight Dissert (1845) I 265 His [Elijah's] industrious affectation of the wilderness.

4 Characterized by or showing assiduous and steady work, full of work; diligent, laborious, hard-working (The prevailing sense) 1591 SPENSER Muiopotmos 129 Who being more indus trious, gathered more store Of the fields honour than the others best. 1611 BIBLE 1 Kings xi. 28 Solomon seeing the young man that he was industrious (marg, Heb did worke) 1683 ROBINSON in Ray's Corr (1848) 132 We have been very industrious since our coming to Paris 1705 DE FOE Voy round World (1840) 263 Soil well cultivated by the poor industrious Chilians 1764 GOLDSM Trav 209 Industrious habits in each bosom reign 1820 COWPER Hermione 69 Yet man, laborious man, by slow degrees Plies all the sinews of industrious toil. 1824 J WALKER Faith Monastics 207 The most pious man ought to be the most industrious 1892 JAS. BROWN Serm 207 Industrious poverty becomes a nobler thing than idle wealth

5 = INDUSTRIAL a rare
1895 MCCULLOCH Pol Econ. Introd 45 Those who are engaged in industrious undertakings. 1845— Taxation II v (1892) 207 Such improvements in the arts as will enable industrious undertakings to be carried on with a much less expenditure of fuel

Industriously (ində·striăli), adv [f prec + -LY^{2}.] In an industrious manner †1 With intelligent or skilful work, skilfully, cleverly, ingeniously Obs
1523 SKELTON Gart Laurel 851 The noble Pamphila Hathilmentie royall founde out industriously 1697 W BROWNE tr Palæanthes 1 3 The first part was full of little Chambers, so industriously built that they seemed to be cut out of the Rocke it selfe Ibid 28 The seeling was of a sinewy Nature, made of many Vence glasses, so industriously joyned together, that [etc.]

2 With painstaking work, carefully, studiously, zealously, persistently, often in bad sense with evil perti nacity 1575-84 ABP SANDYS Serm (Parker Soc.) 212 Let us cast off all hinderances, and strive industriously unto that salvation which is set before us. 1670 CLARENDON Contempt & Tracts (1727) 608 I he rankest Conventicle Preacher industriously applied to the corruption of human nature 1709 ADDISON Tatler No 56 ℙ 3 It has been industriously given out that John Partridge is dead 1711 — Spectator I have industriously spread abroad, That I am in Partnership with Charles Lillie 1726 S SEWALL Diary 5 Oct (1882) III 105 Gov't, Lt Gov't laid their heads on the Bible, and kiss'd it very industriously 1796 MORSE Amer Geog II 437 A notion industriously propagated by the Romish clergy 1837 MOSLEY Vellore (1886) 8 Industriously shouting the cry of a church 1883 GILMORE Mongols xviii 212 In the act of disrobing, prayers are said most industriously

+3 Of set purpose, with design, intentionally, designedly. (=L de industria) Obs
1622 SMITH Wont I' 1 11 256 If industriously I play'd the Foole, it was my negligence, Not weighing well the end 1642 HOWELL Fam Lett I xxxvi, To this end I have come to have industriously, and of set purpose studied it 1674 J TURNOR Case Bankers & Creditors Cons 33 There be many things which possibly I have forgot, or some things which I have perhaps industriously omitted 1774 J BRYANT Mythol II 432 His horns are industriously so placed as to form two lunettes 1816 G S FABER Orig Pagan Idolatry III 244 The three pyramids of Egypt have been industriously built upon the first hill between Cairo and the western bank of the Nile

4 With steady application to work; diligently, assiduously, laboriously 1611 COTGR Industrieusement, industriously, diligently laboriously 1665 LOWLEY Verses & Prayers Devotions & Poems, But thou industriously hast sow'd and till'd The fair, and fruitful field 1708 W BLANK Fas Ilumi Pref (1788) 10 If he chuses to be idly busy rather than industriously so 1859 SMILES Self Help iv. 41 He worked away industriously employing a few hands

Indu striousness. [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being industrious — INDUSTRY 3 1591 SAVILE Tacitus, Hist II xc 108 Swelling his own in industriousness and temperancy 1619 SLATER Exp 2 Thess (1630) 393 The Pismire can teach the Sluggard proudence, and industriousness 1818 HAZLITT Lect Engl Poets II 269 The characteristic independence and industriousness of our nation 1881 H SPENCER in Pop Sci Monthly Nov 1 Industrialism is not to be confounded with industriousness

+Indu strous, a Obs Rare Variant of INDUSTRIOUS So +Indu strously adv
1606 G WOODCOCKE tr Hist Iustine 1 Industrially, Painefully and industrous vsuldiors 1635 HEYWOOD Hierarch IV 214 The Second to the Third is like industrous, And as degreed, tis more and more illustrous. 1720 Weekly Jrnl No 593/2 All which were industriously set on Fire

Industry (i·ndŏstri) [a. F industrie (14th c), or ad L industria diligence, † a vertue comprehendynge bothe study and diligence' (Elyot Dict. 1538)]
†1 Intelligent or clever working; skill, ingenuity, dexterity, or cleverness in doing anything 1494 FABYAN Chron. I xiii. (1533) 7 b, Sayngе that the fore sayd hose lathes were made by the industrye, or made of the industry of lutlise cruse 1532 ELYOT Gov I xxiii, Industrie hath nat ben so longe tyme vsed in the englishe tonge as Prouidence, wherfore it is the more straunge, and requireth the more playne exposition 1552 HULOET, Industrie, quicknesse of witte and experience, by the whiche a man perceyueth quickly, inuenteth freshly, and counsayleth spedily c 1586 J AUDAY tr Bonythun's Theat World C 113, With what industrie do they [ants] make theyr little holes, of the which the comming in is not straight, for feare that other beasts come not in Ibid D 8 b, The Cuckowe [has] the industrie to espie where other Birdes make their nestes, and there layth hir egges 1597 A M tr Guillemeau's Fr Chirurg 12 b/1 There is a certayne industrye in the depressione of the trepanne 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 591 [they] have no weapons, but certaine swords and are without all industry for fishing and navigation

† 2 An application of skill, cleverness, or craft, a device, contrivance, a crafty expedient Obs

c 1477 CAXTON Jason 93 b, I shal deliuere to him the industrie and teche him how he shal wynne the flees of golde 1598 EDEN Decades 84 Nature was not sollicitate to bryngе furthe suche greate fludas by this our smaule industry 1600 WHITGIFTE Ans Warre (1588) 94 The first industrie is, to make the walles crooked, and full of towringes, and of receaptes 1606 DARCIE tr Leslie's Hist Scot 111 33 Sche, as was reported, suddenlie thairefter dies, be industrie of the gouernour 1613 PURCHAS Pilgrimage (1614) 885 To make the Computation of their yeere certaine, they used this industrie 1621 BURTON Anat Mel II II II (1651) 222 All the physick we can vse, art, excellent industry, is to no purpose without calling upon God

3 Diligence or assiduity in the performance of any task, or in any effort, close and steady application to the business in hand, exertion, effort

1531 ELYOT Gov III xxiii, That slouthe and idlenesse beynge plucked from them by Industrie, they be induced unto the continuall acte 1576 GASCOIGNE Steele Gl Dedi (Arb) 54 These reasons are sufficient to proue that by industrie and diligence any perfection may be attained 1681 LUTTRELL Brief Rel (1857) I 62 It consumed but one house, laying queen bed by the great mercy of the people 1741 MIDDLETON Cicero II x 416 A story, kept up for some days with great industry 1790 Anecd W Pitt I 3 The present publication is the effect of industry, not of chance 1863 FROUDE Hist Eng VIII 91 In a few well chosen sentences she complimented the students on their industry

4 Systematic work or labour, habitual employment in some useful work, now esp in the productive arts or manufactures (This, with 5, is the prevalent sense)

1621 SHAKE. Cymb III vi 32 The sweat of industry would dry, and dye But for the end it workes too 1699 DAMPIER Voy II 141 Those who can turn their hands to any industry besides drudgery, live well enough by their industry 1704 Hum Prov Lattos 151 A man that has been bred up in the trade of begging, will never, unless compelled, fall to industry 1776 ADAM SMITH W N II iii (1869) II 338 The funds destined for the maintenance of industry are much greater in proportion than they were two or three centuries ago 1843 CARLYLE Past & Pr IV iv, The Leaders of Industry are virtually the Captains of the World 1867 FAWCETT Pol Econ II v 198 When industry is conducted by other combinations than those of employers and employed

b House of industry, a workhouse School († College) of industry, a school in which various industrial occupations are taught, an industrial school

1696 J BELLERS (title) Proposals for raising a College of Industry for all useful Trades and Husbandry 1773 R POTTER (title) Observations on the Poor Laws, on the present State of the Poor, and on Houses of Industry 1782 Phil Trans LXXII 366 In the month of June, 1777, several years after the House of Industry had been built 1789 (title) Plan of the Sunday Schools and School of Industry established in the City of Bath 1882 Mrs. PEARY Mission L. Lorrore & Pol 68 She said that she was most of all pleased with the school of industry, because it was confined to the poor

5 A particular form or branch of productive labour, a trade or manufacture

c 1566 J ALDAY tr Boaystuau's Theat World Civ b, Spinners or Spiders haue a much better grace in that industries, for there is no knots in their workings, nor wist 1611 G SANDYS tr Ovid's Met II (1626) 32 The thunderer then finding nothing there by fire decay'd, He hearth and humane industries surueid 1741 JOHNSON Debates Parl (1787) I 278 To maintain themselves by a more honest and useful industry 1844 DISRAELI Coningsby II ii, The rights and properties of our national industries 1883 Harper's Mag 8 Sept. 309/2 An industry that has lately sprung up in the United States concerned in the production of galvanised iron cornices for artificial purposes 1885 C J WILLS Mod Persia 360 They knit socks as long as daylight lasts, some widows even maintain a family by this industry

† 6 Of industry, on purpose, intentionally (after L de ex industria) Obs rare

1613 CHAPMAN Revenge Busny D'Ambois II D iij b, Romeo Brutus is reuiu'd in him, Whom hee of industry doth imitate. Ibid III b iij b, When Homer made Achilles pursuate.

He did compose it all of industrie, To let men see this [etc.] 1648 MILTON Tenure Kings 4 A dissembled piety fain'd of industry to beget new discord

Hence † ndustrying [ING1], practice of an industry nonce-wd

1865 CARLYLE Frederk Gt XVIII v (1872) VII 182 An eyesorrow, they, with their commerce, their weavings and industryings, to Austrian Empire, who cannot weave or trade

† Indute, ppl a Obs rare—1 [nd I ndūt us, pa. pple of indūte see ENDUE] Clothed, endued

c 1450 Cov Myst XXI (Shaks. Soc) 204 Clothe the in clennes, with vertu be indute

† Indu tion ? Endowment (? INDUE = ENDOW)

1580 LYLY Euphues F iv, They [bees] vse as great wit by induction, and Arte by workmanship, as euer man hath or can Indutive (ndūtiv), a. Bot [f L indūtus, ppl stem of indūere (see next + -IVE] Of seeds: Having the usual integument or covering (Syd Soc Lex 1886)

‖ Induvise (ndūvi vi), sb pl Bot [L induviæ clothes, clothing, f indūere to put on] (See quot)

1858 LINDLEY Introd Bot (1848) I 232 The withered remains of leaves which not being articulated with the stem cannot fall off but decay upon it have been called induviæ, the part so covered is said to be induviate

Hence Indu viat, a Bot [f prec + -ATE2] Clothed with INDUVIÆ (q v)

1835 [see INDUVIÆ] 1855 in MAYNE Expos Lex 1870 BENTLEY Bot 129 The stem is said to be induviate

Induvium, obs form of ENDUE, ENDOW

c 1440 Promp Parv 261/2 Indwyn, and yeve warysone, dote Ibid, Indwynge, dotacio

Indwell (ndwe l), v Pa t and pple indwelt. [f IN- 1 + DWELL, in Wyclif rendering L inhabitāre]

1 trans. To dwell in, inhabit, occupy as a dwelling, also fig To live in, occupy, or possess, as a spirit or principle may inhabit a body

1380 WYCLIF Ps XXXVI[I] 3 Hope in the Lord, and do goodnesse, and indwelle thou [Vulg inhabita] the erthe 17 Euuinlier's Rant in Hertf collect Sc Songs (1776) II 40 We awhimmought but a greygroat, I be off'ring for the house, we indwell 1839 BAILEY Festus xxiii (1848) 190 Living clouds Indwelt by warrior souls 1871 BEACH Four Phases I 94 The Intelligence which indwelleth the whole of things 1881 H WARD Reason Belief 299 The Holy Spirit which man's spirit takes and inhabits and indwells

2 intr To dwell, abide, have one's abode (in) Also fig

1380 WYCLIF Job x 22 Wher shadowe of deth, and noon order, but fulli indwellith euere durende orrour 1849 ROSSETTI Chaucer Bibl Introd II 31 Let the word of Christ indwell in you richly in all wisdome Not de, but dwelle with you 1881 Revised Version Col 3 Let the word of Christ dwell in you, yea in dwell in you 1846 TRENCH Mirac Introd (1862) 37 He is not asking for a power not indwelling in Him 1861 J G SHEPPARD Paul's Name 201 The secret principle of life indwelling in its formal type

Hence 2 ndwe lt ppl a (the pa pple is indwe lt) 1850 MCCOSH Div Govt (1862) IX 386 The Holy Ghost became a Dove, not is a symbol, but as a constantly indwelt form

Indweller, in-dweller (n dwe lar) [f IN adv 11 + DWELLER of prec In Wyclif rendering L inhabitans, inhabitator]

One who dwells or lives in a place, an inhabitant Also fig

1380 WYCLIF Ps XXXII[I] 8 Of hym forsothe first ben to vdere meuede alle Obs 1611 COTGR Trans (1650) IX 386 The indwellers of Jerusalem 1593 Introd Dvorkins Pl Play 21 in Dunbar's Poems (1893) 315 Prowest baillies, off cares, And faithfull indwellers in Edenburgh 1611 BIBLE Isaiah XXXIII 24 And the inhabitant shall not say, I am a straunger 1611 BIBLE Acts XIII 27 For they that dwell at Jerusalem, and their rulers 1879 J S BANKS Chr Doctr II iv 210 Sin in its guilt and indwelling is defilement

I ndwelling, in-dwelling, ppl a [f IN adv 11 + DWELLING ppl a] That dwells within, inhabits, occupies, or possesses Usually fig

14 Chaloner-lam Aye I in Sc Stat I, Alswele indwel lande as furth duelland 1646 P BULKELEY Gospel Cov II 329 It is the indwelling power within themselves, by which they did them [those great works] 1799 HAN MORE Fem Educ (ed 4) I 264 So religion is not an occasional act, but an indwelling principle from which indeed every act derives all its life 1880 E WHITE Cert Relig 87 An assurance of the indwelling presence of God 1885 CLODD Myths & Dr II vi 182 The patient is kept without food so as to starve out the indwelling enemy

Hence Indwe llingness, the quality of indwelling

† Indwir, obs form of ENDURE

1571 Satir Poems Reform XXVII 52 That freindschip langis eat will indwir

† Indy, Indie. Obs [ad L Indus of Italy, Sicily, Germany, Tuscany, etc The pl INDIES, q v, is still in use] = INDIA Also attrib

1598 LYTE Dodoens 1 xxiii 654 Large Pepper of Indie 1599 HAKLUYT Voy II II 81 The Indie writers make mention of sundry great cities in this Iland 1647 H MORE Philos. Poems 181 Indie, Egypt, Arabie

b Indy blue, the dye INDIGO, or its colour

1500 HAWES Past Pleas XVIII (Percy Soc.) 80 A fayre and goodly garment, Of most fyne velvet, al of Indy blewe a 1529 SKELTON Anotedge, aquayntance 17 Saphyre of sadnes, enamyled with indy blewe

Indycyble, Indyfferency, Indygen, Indygn, etc see INDICIBLE, etc

† I ne, prep Obs [An early ME formation found in southern dialects from 1175 to 1340, when still in regular use in Kentish Of uncertain formation see below] = IN prep, in its various uses

c 1175 Lamb Hom 49 Alle þeos men þeh þe [1258 Metr Hom eadmie he and ine gluttenerie and ine monnes [Hrd 71 Of þisse speke ure drihten ine þe hali godspel Ibid 75 His halie fif wunden þa he þolede for us ine þe halie rode c 1200 Trin Coll Hom 185 Ine þe lond of Ierusalem a 1225 Ancr R 20 Hweþer þe vestede me winter A me sumer Hrl 54 Þet heo let me prouen Ibid 64 Spellinge and sunne chunge luoþ ine muše luoþe, ne schile is iðen eien a 1225 Juliana 12 As þeo þet me gold hire hoþe, hefile a 1250 Owl & Night 963 Hah hit bi-tacneð ine þis lutle worlde Metr Hom greste xlix, Hef up þi fot a luttel, þat me myn necke stond c 1325 SHOREHAM 7 Godes body ine forme of bred Ibid 146 Feeldes, feeches me the dege 1340 Ayenb 7 Þe ilke þet dispendeþ þane zonder ine zenne and ine hordom and in opre zennes aye God Ibid 167 Þe salamandre þet lyueþ ine þe vere Ibid 220 Þet child þet zynneþ ine his zeynbe, he hit wyle hedde ine his elde Ibid 262 I blessed þou me wymen

b In sense 'In to'

c 1175 Lamb Hom 143 Þe helene, he entes sculen beon swaþen me eche pine c 1325 SHOREHAM 6 Þhit man ne falle ine wlnhope c 1340 Hrl 2385 Þis line todeleð ine þri Ibid 185 Þe angel þet com me eiþe þe wor to rede

 In northern dialects, and in later use me, yne appear to be only scribal variants of IN, yn, prep or adv

c 1300 Cursor M 941 (Gött) Von tre þat lijf was me [cott þat lijf es in] Ibid 9674 (Gott) Noe in bat schipp allone was me c 1400 Sowdone of Caire 760 A pot with riche wine, And a pece of bakyn flesche me

[Note In the dialects in which it occurs me is the regular word for the preposition The 12-13th c documents in which it is used have also the constructions a-, on-, vpon-, bi-, þet, i þine, etc., but these do not appear in the Ayenbite tale Im has been viewed as an extension of the prep In with an inorganic -m and as weakened or unaccented form of Inne, there are difficulties, historical or phonetic, in either view, though the latter is perhaps the less objectionable Inne and ine are found side by side in the Ayenbite tale]

-ine, suffix 1, forming adjs, repr L -inus, -ina, -inum, added to names of persons, animals, or material things and to some other words, with the sense 'of or 'pertaining to', 'of the nature of', represented in Fr by -in masc, -ine fem, in Eng now usually by -ine, formerly and still exceptionally by -in Examples are L. adulterinus adulterine, asininus asinine, aurinus auburn, caninus canine, divinus divine, femininus feminine, genuinus genuine, libertinus libertine, marinus marine, masculinus masculine, pupinus supine, in some cases with blending of a previous suffix, as clandestinus clandestine, intestinus intestine, matutinus matutine, vespertinus vespertine Also from proper names, as Alpinus Alpine, Capitolinus Capitoline, Latinus Latin (formerly Latine), Saturninus Saturnine, Tarentinus Tarentine On the pattern of these, adjs have continued to be freely formed in the Romance langs and in English, as in Tiberine, Caroline, Florentine, Sacarine, and the termination is now greatly used in Natural History, in forming adjs with or without L type As on the name of genera, as asarine, accipitrine, bovine, caprine, equine, feline, hystricine, murine, passerine In these Natural History adjs the pronunciation is (-ain) usually unstressed, but in other words it is very various, depending upon the length of time the word has been in English, the channel through which it came, and the stress and other circumstances of divine, supine (-ain), marine (-ain), feminine, genuine (-in), aquiline, bovine, leonine, alkaline (-oin), and see the history of the individual words

-ine, suffix 2, forming adjs repr L -inus, a Gr -ινος, from names of minerals, plants etc, or (in a few words) of L origin, as asbestine, crystalline Eng, the same sense and the same forms, as DU F, as adamantin as adamantine, amethystinus amethystine, crystallinus coralline, crystallinus crystalline, hyacinthinus hyacinthine pristinus pristine The etymological and historical pronunciation is (-in), e g (pri stin), (ædæma ntin), but, from the spelling -ine, and the attraction of words in INE 1, there is now a strong tendency to lengthen the i in crystalline (-oin), etc

-ine, suffix 3, forming sbs, repr L -ina, L ina, Gr -ινη, forming feminine titles, as in Gr θρωνη, L heroina, F heroine heroine With this the Gr landgrafin, markgrafin, Du landgravin, markgravin (the suffix of which is only the same as -ENE 1), have fallen together in French and in Eng, as landgravine, margravine.

-ine, suffix 4, forming sbs., repr F -ine (-ain), L -ina (-anus), in origin identical with -INE 1. In L., -ina formed feminine abstracts from verbs, as rapina rapine, ruina ruin, and from agent-nouns, as disciplina discipline, doctrina doctrine, medicina medicine, also sbs. from other sources, as fascina fascine, resina resin, urina urine. The adjs in -inus, -ina were also used subst., as in concubinus, -ina concubine, lupinus lupine, and esp in proper names, as Aulobinus Antonine, Augustinus Augustine, Constantinus Constantine, Crispinus Crispin, Justinus Justin, Agrippina, Constantina, etc The English form of those in -ina (through Fr, or on the Fr type) is -ine, occasionally in early words reduced to -in, those in -inus give F and Eng -in, but in Eng often -ine

Formations of this type were multiplied in late L and Romanic, e g famina famine, F routine, in Romanic this suffix (It, Sp -ino, -ina, F -in, -ine) is greatly used in forming names of derived substances, similative appellations, diminutives, etc Many of these have come into English, in the F form -ine (-in), which has consequently become a formative element, freely used in forming the names of derivative products, and of things supposed to be derived from, resemble, imitate, or commemorate those from which they are named, and thus in the trade names of new varieties of fabrics, cosmetics, patent medicines, and proprietary articles generally, e g denitine, ovatine, nectarine, brilliantine, grenadine, albertine, tootsine, etc Feminine personal names of Romanic origin in -ina sometimes retain that form, but often take -ine (-in or -en) after Fr, as Caroline, Catherine, Ernestine, Josephine

-ine, suffix 5, Chem, in origin an offshoot of -INE 4, as occurring in the names of some derived substances see GELATIN, INE At first used systematically in forming names of extractive principles and chemical derivatives of various kinds, also, in the English names given early in the 19th century to the four elements chlorine, fluorine, iodine, bromine (in F chlore, fluor, iode, brome) In all these, but especially in the names of extractive principles, the ending -ine was by some reduced to -in, thus cafeine or gelatin, aconitine or aconitin, chlorine or chlorin In recent systematic nomenclature the two forms have been differentiated, -ine being now used (1) in forming names of alkaloids and basic substances, as aconitine, cocaine, nicotine, strychnine, etc, which are thus distinguished from names of neutral substances, proteids, etc, in -in (see -IN 4) and (2) in Hofmann's systematic names of hydrocarbons of the form C_nH_{2n-2}, as ethine or acetylene, C_2H_2, propine or allylene, C_3H_4, etc These latter are not much used In the names of the elements, and some other substances, not belonging to any of the classes named, -ine is retained (though chlorin, fluorin, etc, appear in some American books) In popular and commercial use, the ending -ine is still current in the names of some substances for which systematic nomenclature requires -in see -IN 1

-ine has been used by some authors to form the names of minerals, but in later systematic use, esp by Dana, this is changed, in names of species into -ite, thus chalcosine, erythrine, in Dana chalcosite, erythrite

Inearth (inɔ·ɜ̄p), v [f IN- 1 + EARTH sb Cf med L interrāre, F enterrer]

1 trans To bury in the earth, to inter Chiefly poetical

1801 SOUTHEY Thalaba I xvii 20 The Ethiop Detects the ebony deep-inearth'd 1805 — Madoc in Poet Wks (1851) 320/2 Refusing rest, till I had seen in holy ground inearth'd My poor lost brother 1849 H MAYO Pop Superst (1851) 54 The body thus had been rudely inearthed after violent death 1880 Contemp Rev Mch 431 The Founder and his mate Were here inearthed

2 To render 'earthy' in earthly rare

1863 PUSEY Oxford Lenten Serm ix 12 What in us was lofty, lowered what was in the image of the heavenly, inearthed

Ineaw, var form of ENEW v, Obs

Inebriacy (inī·briăsi) rare [f INEBRIATE a see -ACY] The condition of an inebriate, the habit of drunkenness

1876 Christian Union 27 Dec (Cent) No faith in any remedy for inebriacy, except as an aid to strong purpose

Inebriant (inī·briănt), a and sb [ad I inebriant-em, pres pple of inēbriāre to INEBRIATE (15th c in Godef)] a adj That inebriates, intoxicating b sb An inebriating substance or agent, an intoxicant

1819 Pantologia s v, Inebriants .. are properly divided into native and artificial 1828 WEBSTER, Inebriant, intoxicating 1859 R F BURTON Centr Afr in Trnl Geog Soc XXIX 224 The favourite inebriant is tembo or palm toddy 1867 Allbutt's Syst Med III 415 Among the inebriants alcohol may cause an intensely red colour (of the interior of the stomach)

Inebriate (inī·briĕt) ppl a and sb [ad I inēbriāt-us, pa pple of inēbriare see next]

A ppl a Inebriated, drunken, intoxicated (lit and fig) Often const as pa pple

1497 BP ALCOCK Mons Perfect B iij, Peter as a man in ebryat in the loue of god 1548 UDALL Erasm Par Luke 5 b, We maye haue lesu to inebriate vs our vnsatiable felicite Ibid, Luke ix 58 Thus spake Peter as a man inebriate and made drounken with the sweetenesse of this vision 1742 YOUNG Nt Th III 20 Inebriate at fair For lunes fountain head And reeling through the wilderness of joy 1803 SOUTHEY Bard's Motto Poet Wks VI 48 Inebriate with the deep delight, Dim grew the Pilgrim's swimming sight 1844 SIR W NAIRN Cong Scenes II 1 (1845) 27 Inebriate, luxurious Pomos

B sb An intoxicated person, esp a person addicted to drunkenness, a habitual drunkard

1704-6 F DARWIN Zoon (1801) I 365 This vertigo also continues, when the inebriate lies in his bed, in the dark 1864 Sat Rev I 419 We learn that an 'Asylum for Inebriates has been opened at Binghampton 1898 Westm Gaz 26 Apr 5/1 When questions were over, the Home Secretary introduced his Inebriates Bill

Inebriate (inī·briĕt), v [f prec, or ppl stem of I inēbriāre to inebriate, intoxicate, f in (IN- 2) + ebriāre to intoxicate, f ebrius drunk]

1 trans To make drunk, to intoxicate Also absol

1555 EDEN Decades 299 Such stronge drinkes as are of force to inebriate 1601 HOLLAND Pliny II 154 Sweet wines do not so much inebriate and ouerturne the brain, as others 1794 RICHARDSON Sch for Scandal I 217 The luminous spirit lodged in the native balsam of pines is of a nature so mild as to warm without heating, to cheer but not inebriate 1764 COWPER Task v 40 While the quiet glass Inebriates not, but cheers 1894 Contemp Mag Mar 300 Mr Disher is tendency to inebriate himself

2 trans and fig a. To intoxicate in mind or feeling, to excite or stupefy, as with liquor

1497 BP ALCOCK Mons Perfect B iij, It inebriate them so yt they were made in a sleepyous of all worldly things 1577 NORTON and SACKVILLE Tancred (Shaks Soc) I Securitie in wealth and prosperity, which doth inebriate the myndes of men 1640 HARRINGTON Oceana in (Arb) 228 O soul whom your Creator hath inebriated with delight! 1640-1 TR I DIGBY Sp in Ho Comm 9 Feb 10 Christs discipline hath beene adulterated, the whole Church inebriated by the Prelats 1708 J BRAM Serm Rom viii 13 WKS 1887 IV 632 Curb every passion, each whereof inebriates and obfuscates no less than drink and meat 1860 PUSEY Min Proph 105 Spiritual drunkenness, inebriating the soul, as strong drink doth the body 1878 DISRAELI Sp 28 July, A sophistical rhetorician, inebriated with the exuberance of his own verbosity

b To refresh as with drink, to water, drench, moisten Obs

1609 BIBLE (DOUAY) Jer xxxv to [Rw q] Thou hast visited the earth, and hast inebriated [Vulg inebriasti] it 1624 GATAKER Transubst 72 The Chalice is our Saviours blood to cleanse and inebriate the soule 1649 ROBERTS Clavis Bibl 83 With blood I will inebriate Mine vrines

+3 intr To become intoxicated Obs rare

1626 BACON Sylva § 703 Great Quantities of Fresh when they come into the Fresh Water, do inebriate and turn vp vpon the Banks, so you may take them with your Hand [cf quot 1615 in INEBRIATED 1]

Ine briated, ppl a [f prec + ED 1]

1 Intoxicated, drunken

1615 G SANDYS Trav 29 Fish of sundry kinds meeting with the fresh, as if inebriated, turne vp their bellies, and are taken 1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep IV vii 196 A mouse inebriated in the lifting or supporting of persons inebriated 1839 H ROE Poems 174 (1874) II 148 To be drunk is vulgar, but if a man be simply 'intoxicated' or 'inebriated', it is comparatively venial

2 trans and fig = prec 2

1609 BIBLE (DOUAY) 1 Macc xvi comm, To be inebriated signifieth no more but to be refreshed with drinke com petently, or abundantly, without excesse 1647 J RAMSAY Hist Scotland 229 Vowed intolerable extasy 1849 D DEMANT Chas I, III vii 154 When that genius becomes inebriated by the liberty it receives

Ine briating, ppl a [f as prec + -ING 2] That inebriates, intoxicating lit and fig

1609 BIBLE (DOUAY) Pr xxxiii 5 Thou hast fatted my head with oyle, and my chalice inebriating how goodlie is it! 1653 HOLCROFT Procopius VII xi § 3 (1674) 656 Drinking and inebriating wine 1758 HARTLEY Observ Man II ii 106 The fermenting and inebriating Quality of vegetable Juices 1806 SIR W HAMILTON Lond Lect III 19 Flying from reflection to inebriating pleasures 1841 LANE Arab Nts I 18 Wine and all inebriating liquors are strictly forbidden

Inebriation (inībriē·ʃən) [ad I inēbriātion-em (Augustine), n of action from inēbriāre to INEBRIATE Cf OF inebriation, -acion (15th c in Godef)] The action of inebriating, or condition of being inebriated, intoxication, drunkenness.

1646 SIR T BROWNE Pseud Ep V xxi 270 Unexpected inebriation from the unknowne effects of wine 1688 — Letters 25 Some generous strong sweet wine, wherein more especially lay the power of inebriation 1791 NEWTE Tour Eng & Scot 121 It is computed to have drank, during the period of his inebriation, half a century, a quart of gin or whisky per day 1860 PUSEY Min Proph 489 Through inebriation the mind of those who drink is changed

b fig Intoxication of the mind or feelings, extravagant exhilaration, excitement, or emotion, such as to cause loss of mental or moral steadiness

1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1531) 291 This inebriacyon or heuenly dronkennesse of the spyryte 1638 BAKER tr Balzac's Lett (1654) IV 4 Such inebriations of the spirit Philosophe hath observ'd in extraordinary successes 1828 MACAULAY Ess, Hallam (1851) I 82 They did not preserve him from the intoxication of prosperity 1886 SYMONDS Renaiss It, Cath React (1898) VII ix 76 The inebriation of the Renaissance pulses through all his utterances

+Ine briative, a Obs [f L inēbriāt-, ppl stem of inēbriāre (see INEBRIATE) + -IVE Cf F inebriatif, -ive (Oresme, 14th c)] Having the quality of inebriating, intoxicating, of or pertaining to inebriation

1615 J ADAMS Blinde Devill 31 Those that drinke wines with inebriative delight 1645 BOYS Works (1629-30) 525 A man taking an inebriative potion 1658 GAULE Pract Ch (1659) 294 Potions (whether inebriative, superstitious, or stupefying)

Inebriety (inībrəi·ĕti) [f IN- 2 + EBRIETY (L ēbrietās), after INEBRIATE, etc] The state or habit of being inebriated; drunkenness, intoxication, inebriation, now chiefly applied to habitual drunkenness, esp when regarded as a disease

1801 Med Jrnl V 99 Drunkenness, or excessive inclule of habitual inebriety 1817 LADY MORGAN France I 68 (Jod) In the desperation of poverty and inebriety 1826 DISRAELI Vere Vere vi, How ludicrous is the misery and inebriety of a man who wears spectacles! 1860 DICKENS Uncommn Trav x, His mistress was sometimes overtaken by inebriety 1893 Arena Mar 452 Inebriety is a disease of the nervous system, just like epilepsy, chorea, or insanity

b fig cf INFEBRIATION b

1786 Beckford's Vathek (1868) 59 In the inebriety of youthful spirits 1899 I ZANGWILL Enthus ix 233 An habitual inebriety of the imagination

Inebrious (inī·briŏs), a rare Also 5 enebrouse [f L type inēbriōsus* or F -ieux*, -iose*, after L ebriōsus (see EBRIOUS), with prefix in- as in INEBRIATE, etc]

+1 Inebriating, intoxicating (In quot 1450 fig cf INEBRIATE v 2) Obs

c 1450 Mirour Saluacioun 1052 Yt virgine glorious Bering this vigne of wyne thus wele enebrouse 1794 T BROWN Wks (1760) IV 331 (R) And with inebrious fumes distract our brains

2 Inebriated, drunken, addicted to drunkenness 1832 Last's Mus, IV 676 Did no inebrious Pontiff stand His cupping, to ask for thee A jovial benedicte? 1862 JEAFFRESON Bk abt Doctors xxvii 320 Sailors retain a decided preference for an inebrious to a sober surgeon

Inebrium (inī·briŭm) [f stem of inebriate, etc + -IUM] The scientific study of inebriety

1886 Alien & Neurol VII 716 A permanent contribution to the subject of Inebrium

+Inebu liated, a Obs [f IN- 2 + ebulliated, EBULLIATE v] Not boiled

1599 A M tr Gabelhouer's Bk Physicke, 56/1 Vessels of inebulliated water of diuerse seasons Ibid 183 Take a good Capone, which hath banne choackede, and ouercrammed, but inebulliatede

+Ineche, v in inechid, perhaps rather, as in the MSS, two words, in eched, added in see ECHE v 2 1374 CHAUCER Troylus III 1280 (1520) (Campbell MS) And yf but I at loues reuerence Haue ony word In eched for be leste (16th c edd ineched) 1658 PHILLIPS, Ineched (old word), put in

Ineconomic (inĭkŏnp·mik), a [IN- 3] Not economic, not according to (political) economy

1892 Spectator Sept 360 The ineconomic prejudice against them on the score of their causing a diminution of employment 1897 Westm Gaz 25 Oct 5/2 A screw propeller works at very great ineconomic disadvantage when working so near the surface

Ineco nomy. [IN- 3] Want of economy, waste of power, resources, etc

1897 C D HARRIS in Lect Addr 1 Sept 1899 Review of Reviews Electrical Co Bulletin 30 Aug, the function of the Street Railway Motor is to record the exact amount of energy used per trip by each car Attention is at once directed to ineconomy in any part of the system

+Ine dge, v Obs [f IN- 1 + EDGE v] trans To edge in, get in edgeways or surreptitiously

1563-87 FOXE Acts & M (1684) I 607/2 Occupying him thus busily to indge such sentences as maintain his Errors

Inedible (inĕdi·bl), a [IN- 3] Not edible, unfit to be eaten

1822-34 Good's Study Med (ed 4) I 218 Inedible fungi mistaken for eatable mushrooms 1855 BAILEY Mystic 31 The inedible fruit of immortality

Hence Inedibi lity, the quality of being inedible

1882 A R WALLACE in Nature XXVI 87/2 Various degrees of inedibility in butterflies 1887 Athenæum 12 Mar 357/1 In tracing the inedibility through the stages it was found that no inedible imago was edible in the larval stage

+Ine'difying, a Obs [IN- 3] Not edifying 1659 H L'ESTRANGE Alliance Div Offices 181 Latin a Language very inedifying to a non intelligent people Ibid 184 Declining nice, thorny and inedifying disputes

Inedited (inĕ·dĭtĕd), a [IN- 1 Cf L inēditus not made known] Not edited a Not published, unpublished

1776 BURNEY Hist Mus (1789) I Pref 6 Manuscript information, and inedited materials from foreign countries 1837 SIR F PALGRAVE Merch & Friar Ded (1844) 11 An inedited epistle addressed to one Anselm, preserved or burned in the Bodleian 1855 LEWES Goethe I IV II 334 Her letters, still extant although inedited

b Not described in any published work 1760 SWINTON in Phil Trans LI 856 All who h singu larities will perhaps intitle the medal I am considering to the denomination of an inedited Coin 1834 J Y ACKERMAN (title) Rare and Inedited Roman Coins.

c Published without editorial alteration or suppression 1865 MAFFEI Bryand Life II 226 In this document, in edited, and written with the frankness of a soldier 1884 American VIII 217 The newspaper portrait of an author, with inedited anecdotes of him

Ineducable (ine,dūkăbl'l), a [IN-3] Not educable, incapable of being educated 1884 Pop Sci Monthly Dec 272 He is childish in intel lect, and ineducable beyond the first standard 1895 Lorum (N Y) May 330 A 'practical short cut' by which unedu cated or ineducable men are helped to the rewards of know ledge or skill

Ineducation. rare [IN-3] Want of educa tion, uneducated condition 1803 W TAYLOR in Ann Rev I 396 There is a polished public to please, to whom the blunders of ineducation, or the coarseness of underbreeding can find no excuse

Ineffability (inefăbi lĭti) [f next sce -ITY] The quality of being ineffable; unspeakableness 1608 GAULE Pract The (1629) 51 Amazed at the incom prehensibleness and ineffability of such his Birth and Being 1652 BENLOWES Theoph xxxvi As with joyes ineffability 1721 in BAILEY 1755 in JOHNSON, and in most Dicts.

Ineffable (ine,fă'bl), a & sb [a F ineffable (14th c in Hatz-Darm), ad L ineffabilis unutter able, f IN-3 + effabilis see EFFABLE]

1 That cannot be expressed or described in language, too great for words; transcending ex pression, unspeakable, unutterable, inexpressible c 1450 Hymns Salutation 9 O goddis of heigh pure immense and ineffable 1526 TINDALE 2 Cor xii 15 I brinkes be unto God for his ineffable gyfte 1559 Pioneer in Purg Parnell (1851) 109, I mercifully treat of the divine ineffable mercy 1650 BULWER Anthropomet 204 Setting forth his ineffable wisdome 1709 Tatler No 81 P 4 The Virgin smiled with an ineffable grace at their Meeting, and returned 1865 DISRAELI Lothair Gryn v vii A form of such ineffable and sparkling grace. 1832 TENNYSON in Philolog Museum I 492 A thoroughly bad citizen, as well as an ineffable fool 1872 H AINSWORTH Tower Hill I ii 'Go to, knave!' cried Henry, with a look of ineffable disgust 1887 BOWEN Virg Æneid II 3 'Tis an ineffable anguish again thou build st me renew

2 That must not be uttered, †not to be dis closed or made known (obs) 1597 A M tr Guillemeau's Fr Chirurg 47 b 1 A secreate and ineffable venome 1599 Sandys 90 1608 WILLET Hexapla Exod 39 The name of Iehouah is ineffable and not to be vttered 1744 Gray Let in Dodsley (1775) IV 277 I may be permitted to pronounce that ineffible Oc cognisumandor I cannot 1864 BROWNING Ult Legier iv, To whom turn I but to thee, the ineffable Name?

+3 That cannot be uttered or pronounced, un pronounceable Obs
1638 SIR T HERBERT Trv (ed 2) 18 Pliny confesses That their names and Towns were ineffable 1686 Water Nymphs Chace in Misc Poems (1708) III 228 The single Strokes may be taken for single ineffable Letters as are the Consonants

+4 Math That cannot be expressed in terms of rational quantities, irrational, surd Obs 1706 PHILLIPS, Ineffable Numbers, the same as Surd Numbers 1790-99 V MANUEY Syst Math Geom 137 Rational or Ffable M quantities, are those whose Propo tions may be expeert by certain Numbers Irrational or Ineffable, are the contrary

B sb (collog)
1 pl Trousers (A humorous euphemism of un spressibles, unmentionables) 1823 New Monthly Mag VIII 337 Our lower garments, or Ineffables, sat but inkwardly 1867 W COX Tr & Trials (1892) 196 Shoe-cuff, ineffables tucked up

2 One not to be mentioned or named, an anony mous journalist, etc, an 'unutterable' swell 1859 SALA Tw round Clock (1861) 51 The 'Times' has its secrets by this time. It holds them all fast now, without ing none to its confidence but the Ineffables, the printers, and the ever throbbing steam engine 1861 Illustr Lond News 15 June 549 1 Two white hatted and pea topped in effables

Ineffableness (ine,făbl'nes) [f prec + -NESS] The quality of being ineffable, unspeakableness (In quot 1883 want of the power of utterance)
1681 H MORE Exp Apoc in 75 The ineffableness and unutterableness of the admirable union 1883 MIVART in Nature XXVII 532 In some quarters In effableness is held to indicate grasp of thought, luminosity to be the cloak of profundity

Ineffably (ine,făbli), adv [f as prec + -LY2] In an ineffable manner, or to an ineffable extent or degree, inexpressibly, unspeakably, unutterably 1559 CRANMER Answ Gardiner 372 (L) So did the divinity ineffably put itselfe into the visible sacrament 1667 MILTON P L II 721 He all his Father full expreſt Ineffably into his face receiv'd 1707-8 BERKELEY Serm 2 Tim 1 10 Wks 1871 IV 601 A good so ineffably, so inconceivably great 1873 HOLLAND A Bonnie I 29 A name which was ineffably sacred to him

Ineffaceable (inefē'săbl), a [f IN-3 + EFFACE + -ABLE Cf F ineffaçable (1464 in Hatz-Darm)] That cannot be effaced, obliterated, or blotted out, indelible (lit and fig)
1804 W TAYLOR in Ann Rev II 219 The ineffaceable horrors and disgraceful excesses of the promoters and quellers of the Wexford insurrection 1807 SOUTHEY Lett (1856) II 25 The everlasting and ineffaceable infamy of bombarding Copenhagen 1858 HAWTHORNE Fr & It Jrnls I 87 The nail marks in the hands and feet of Jesus, ineffaceable, even after he had passed into bliss and glory 1870 FARRAR St Paul (1883) 52 That ineffaceable impression produced by His very aspect

Hence Ineffaceabi lity, the quality of being in effaceable, Ineffa ceably adv, in an ineffaceable manner, indelibly 1814 WORDSWORTH Excursion Poet Wks IX 99 On his fame The Fthop dye, fixed ineffaceably, for ever will abide 1832 Fraser's Mag V 510 The hideous brand of intemper ance ineffaceably imprinted on his forehead 1858 Mrs GROTE in Lady Eastlake Life vii (1880) 145 The curious fact of the ineffaceability of the Jews 1893 LOUISA TWINING Recoll 58 The ineffaceability of early impressions

Ineffective (inefe ktĭv'l), a [see also] [f IN-3 + EFFECTIBLE (or its elements)]

+1 Not capable of producing the effect, ineffec tual, ineffective Obs 1649 In HALL Court come III ii (1654) 175 Superstitious acts, done by means altogether in themselves ineffe ctable, and unwarrantable

+2 Not to be effected by ordinary or natural means, supernatural Obs
a 1656 Bp HALL Soul's Farew 7 He, in an ineffectible manner, communicates himself to blessed spirits, both angels and men, and that very vision is no less to them than beatifical

3 That cannot be effected or carried out, im practicable 1806 Monthly Mag XXII 113 91 To reduce implicitly pronunciation to orthography, or orthography to pronun ciation, is ineffectible

Hence Ineffe ctibly (-ăbly) adv, in an ineffec tible manner see sense 2 1656 WARREN Eccl Jrnls verse 25 Wks 1871 V 372 For in a Christ the wisdom of the Father, was eternally and in effectably begotten in the divine essence, so they worshipfully say, godded with wisdom, and feigned that she was begotten by Jupiter, of his own brain

Ineffective (inefe ktĭv), a (sb) [f IN-1 + EFFECTIVE.]

1 Of a thing or a name as not to produce any, or the intended, effect, insufficient, hence, without effect, ineffectual, inoperative 1561 BRGE New Testt 264 Other grievous and ineffective remedies. 1706 PHILLIPS, Ineffectu e, or Ineffectual, that has no effect, fruitless 1808 HUNTER Serm Wks III xxxv (1) How faint and partial and ineffective his best virtues 1844 H H WILSON Brief India III 81 The Burmese, after one or two ineffective discharges, fled from the approach of the storming party 1858 A W W DALE Life & It Bishop 114 Any public appeal, he felt, would be unjustifiable and ineffective

2 Of a person Not able to effect or accomplish anything, inefficient, not fit for work or service
1693 JER TAYLOR Serm for Lent I xiii 165 Vertue hates weak and ineffective minds, and tame easie prosecutions 1814 SOUTHEY Kehama xxiii Poet Wks IX 218 Weak childhood there, and ineffective age In the chambers of the rock were placed secure 1857 Hutton Corr 29 Apr 376 The community has a special duty to the old, the weak, and the ineffective

3 Wanting in artistic effect
1858 HAWTHORNE Fr & It Jrnls I 282 The architecture is very ineffective 1879 Cassell's Techn Educ VII 96 The height would render very fine work altogether in effective

B sb An ineffective person, one unfit for work or service
1856 GEORGE ELIOT in Life III 213 Leaving under guard the luggage, the prisoners and the ineffectives 1858 Isaac SMITH Carthag 397 Having restored discipline by clearing his camp of the ineffectives

Ineffectively (ine,fe ktĭvli), adv [f prec + -LY2] In an ineffective manner, without effect or result, fruitlessly 1655 JER TAYLOR Unum Noces viii § 5 479 Still it con tended, but ineffectively for the most part 1678 In Collection viii § 210 Those will be but ineffectively soldiers who ineffectively tugg at the horses tail to get it off at once when he that pull it hair by hair quickly did it 1881 Nature XXIII 289/2 Puccinia graminis acter which is so fatally pursued, and which is now so ineffectively to end

Ineffectiveness (inefe ktĭvnĕs) [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being ineffective 1805 Ind Act Oct 463 Manifesting the use of the ineffectiveness of modern sermons 1867 JAMES Nat Conv viii 276 He no more ineffectiveness of our older buildings

Ineffectual (inefe ktuăl), a [IN-3 + EFFECTUAL perh from a med L or OF correspondent] Not effectual Of efforts, attempts, or actions Without effect, unable to produce the in tended effect, unavailing, unsuccessful, fruitless
c 1425 Found St Bartholomew's (E E T S) 10 Vnef fectuelle these prayers myght not be, whoos sentence ys the Apostle, whos prayour heer is vs God 1632 GOUGE God's Arrows iii § 21 220 We observe meanes to be waiting on to be ineffectuall 1665 BOYLE Occas Reflt Ded Your Commands can Prevail where those of Others would have been ineffectual. 1704 J BROWN Satire Antients Wks 1730 I 25 All his efforts were ineffectual 1750 GRAHAM Mus Wks (1814) V 173 The title was vain, the grant in effectual 1841 J Q ADAMS in C Davies Writ Syst II (1871) 85 In England the statute books are filled with in effectual attempts of the legislature to establish uniformity 1843 BREWSTER Mart Sc v (1856) 7 When he found his reasoning ineffectual, he appe ified to direct experiment

b Of things Not producing the usual or ex pected effect, weak or tame in effect (Often in allusion to Shakspere's 'uneffectual fire', Ham I v 90) 1784 COWPER Task v 7 His [the usual] status, ray blade ineffectual down the snowy side 1856 KANE Arct Expl I xxviii 451 The phosphorescence is so dull unlike the ineffec tual fire of the glow worm 1868 MRS BROWNING Aur Leigh VII (1857) 76, I, thus confronted at my chamberdoor, A white face, shivering ineffectual lips 1876 OUIDA Bimbi Cupy 95 She smiled a little, and let the cigarette pile its ineffectual fire and die out

c Of a person That does not effect the ends for which he exists, that is a failure 1865 M ARNOLD Ess Crit (1875) 124 The passive and ineffectual Lamus of Keats's poem 1866 MRS CAREY Quaker Grandmother 140 In everything she had become ineffectual Work had lost its savour, prayer its creative atmosphere 1897 I HOOK KING Chas I 50 Pope Stephen III, the Sicilian, a weak and ineffectual man

Ineffectuality (inefe ktuă'lĭti) [f prec + -ITY] The condition or fact of being ineffectual, concr something ineffectual (quot 1838)
1670-6 H Hist Cardinals iii 206 Seeing the ineffec tuality of his words, he held his peace 1838 CARLYLE Misc (Scott) (1872) VI 32 Lope de Vega plays at best in the eyes of some few as a vague aurora borealis, and brilliant ineffectuality 1870 J HOOK Church Eng Conclt XII 641 With their ineffectuality, their sunnery, and their worldliness they brought themselves and their office into contempt

Ineffectually (inefe ktuăli), adv [f as prec + -LY2] In an ineffectual manner, without pro ducing the intended effect or result, unavailingly fruitlessly, in vain
c 1620 SIR J MELVIL Mem (1735) 390 Which being done by the said Earl ineffectually 1711 Addison Spect No 141 P 1 It had been besieged for about two months ineffec tually by the Scotis 1800 MRS HENRY Mourtray Fam I 241 Having ineffectually exerted all her eloquence to shake Emma's resolution 1880 MISS Repr Govt (1895) 132/2 Ever the Spanish Government did this, sincerely and earnestly, though ineffectually

Ineffectualness (inefe ktuălnĕs) [f as prec + -NESS] The quality or character of being in effectual, failure to produce the intended effect
1650 WATKINS Truth's Conflict 42 These phrases of Ineffectualness and Ineffectuleness are not plainly understood 1663 J GAULE Cast Lots Not Thither II xxx 256 The ineffectual ness of our vulgar medicines 1750 CARTE Hist Eng III 444 Acquainting her with his sense and design and the ineffectual ness of his own remonstrances 1880 CHANNING Jeanie I 124 It is the violence, not the ineffectualness, of the attack which makes it unpleasing

Ineffe ctuate, v Obs [f stem of ineffectu al, ineffectuous + -ATE, after effectuate of L ineffectus 'unfected'] trans To render ineffectual 1633 J ADAMS Pet 2 Letter 14 It [covetousness] in effectuates the instruments of salvation

Ineffervescence (inefervē'sĕns) rare [IN-3] The fact of not effervescing, absence of effervescence So Ineffe rvescent a (rare—0), having the quality of not effervescing, Ineffe rvescibl ity, incapability of effervescing 1794 KIRWAN Min I 239 Porcelain clay is distinguished from Marls, by colour fineness, inefferescence with acids Ibid 302 Indurated lithomarga is distinguished from marls, by its fineness and inefferescibility 1828 WEBSTER, Ineffervescent Ineffervescible 1850 MANSEL Lett (1871) 16 Substitutes inefficiency and inefficacy

+Ineffica cy, a Obs rare—0 [a F inefficace, ad L inefficāc em of IEFFICAP] = next
1570 LEVINS Manip 7 24 Ineffica cy, inefficax

Ineffica cious (inefi'kā'shŭs) a [IN-3 + EFFICACIOUS rept L inefficax, inefficāc-] Of a remedy, treatment, course of action, etc Not efficacious, without efficacy 1658 MANTON Exp Jude verse 5 Wks 1871 V 178 The devils assault is not cunning and malicious enough, but such as causeth horror and detestation 1875 Contemp Review April 473 His remedy proved inefficacious 1842 Dickens Amer Notes (1850) 135/2 The precaution is quite mechanical. 1875 POTTER Amer Monarchy II 287 It did not inevitably follow that his conduct was ineffica cious

Ineffica ciously, adv [f prec + -LY2] In effectually, unsuccessfully 1797 PALEY Nat Th Inefficaciously fruit lessly, to no Purpose. 1795 Christ in Am Aeg 80 He exerted himself however inefficaciously, in the cause of pro fane mirth and folly

Ineffica ciousness. [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being inefficacious, ineffica cy 1646 H LAWRENCE Comm Angells 67 That the swift ominousness of grace is as well discovered by this beauty, even in the Saints, as sometimes overcome 1678 Lucifer Conv viii § 3 310 To this we may probably impute that strange inefficaciousness we see of the word 1721 [see next]

Ineffica city (inefi'kăsĭti) [adl F inefficacité (16the in Hatz-Darm) cf IN- and EFFICACITY] = prec 1721 BAILEY, Inefficacity inefficaciousness want of Force or Virtue 1886 DEANE Case ag. Hume Rule 76 [He] attri butes the inefficacy of laws passed by the Imperial Par liament to their coming before Irishmen in a foreign garb

Ineffica cy (inefi'kăsi) [ad late L inefficacia f inefficax, -ācem cf IN- and EFFICACY] Want of efficacy, failure or incapacity to produce the effect proposed or desired 1612 13 Bp Hall Contempt. O. T. xix. viii, No marvell if a small mindes despise the foolishnesse of preaching the seeming inefficacy of censures. 1688 Boyle Final Causes Nat. Things ii 84 The inefficacy of the burning fiery furnace on Daniel's three companions 1752 Johnson Rambler No 89 P 3 The inefficacy of advice is usually the fault of the counsellor 1849 Lowe Arrangem. vi The unintentional allusion to the inefficacy of his prayers.

†Ineffi cience. Obs rare [f as Inefficient + -ence cf Efficience.] = next 1797 Anna Seward Lett (1811) IV 377 What does it prove but the inefficience of an inert mass, opposed to the active struggles of a party, less numerous by two-thirds?

Inefficiency (inefi·ʃensi) [f as next + -ency cf Efficiency] Want of efficiency, inability or failure to accomplish something, ineffectiveness, inefficient character

1749 Chesterf Lett (1774) II 287 Venice owes its security to its neutrality and inefficiency a 1761 Law The Bridge II (R.) Numerous facts affirm this total inutility and inefficiency of all such entities in the most absolute terms 1827 H R Hayden in Journ. Dr. Lett 474 Relapsing for a time to languid inefficiency 1878 Pusey Daniel 1806 II viii 504 The scandalous inefficiency of the Government of Lewis XV

Inefficient (inefi·ʃent), a (sb) [f In- 3 + Efficient] Not efficient, failing to produce, or in capable of producing the desired effect, ineffective Of a person Not effecting or accomplishing something, deficient in the ability or industry required for what one has to do, not fully capable

1750 Chesterf Lett (1774) II 332 He is as insipid in his pleasures, as inefficient in every thing else 1804 W Tennant Ind Ascetat II 240 Ploughs of a more awkward, and inefficient structure than those I have already described 1823 Hy Martineau Berkeley the Banker I viii 165 When the law was found inefficient the punishment was increased 1839 Kightley Hist. England II 75 He merely promoted an inefficient person 1879 H George Progr & Pov IX ii (1881) 398 Poorly paid labor, is inefficient labor

B sb An inefficient person.

1858 Times 16 Dec 7 6 ill born, ill fed, ill housed, ill clad many of them at best are poor animals, and 'inefficients' by birth or degeneration

Inefficiently, adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an inefficient manner, in a way that does not effect its purpose, ineffectively

1808 in Webster 1835 I Walker Original i (1837) 17 The art of government is the most difficult of all arts and it is the most inefficiently practised 1879 Cassell's Techn. Educ. iv 403/2 I fear that I have very feebly enforced and very inefficiently illustrated the true principles on which works of furniture should be constructed

†Ineffigiate, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [ad L ineffigiat-us, f in- (In- 2) + effigiatus fashioned see Effigiate] Unfashioned

1892 tr Cardinal Hosius I 58 The first matter was a kind of ineffigiate confused Essence, which Phylosophers call the Chaos and Hylen, or Mother of the world

†Ineffrenate, a Obs rare$^{-1}$ [ad late I ineffrenāt-us unbridled, f in- (In- 2) + effrenātus unbridled] Unbridled

1581 Stubbes Two wunderfull Examp in Shaks Soc Papers (1849) IV 82 So are the people ineffrenate, perverse in each degree

†Ine ffugible, a Obs rare$^{-0}$ [ad L ineffugibilis inevitable, f in- (In- 3) + effugibilis, f effugĕre to flee from, void] Inevitable

1656 Blount Glossogr, Ineffugible, inevitable, not to be avoided

Ineffulgent (inefu·lʤent), a rare [In- 1] Not effulgent, wanting brilliance 1824 Examiner 158/2 No ineffulgent suns.

†Inegal, a Obs [a F inégal (Oresme, 14th c) f in- (In- 3) + égal equal, Egal, after L inæqualis Inequal] Unequal

1484 Caxton Chivalry 82 Pryde is a vyce of Inequalyte or to be inegal to other and not lyke

†Ine ger, v Obs rare$^{-1}$ [f In- 2 + eger Eager corresp to Of emiger v, enegrir to render sharp, irritate, envenom] trans To make eager or keen, to excite

1657 S Purchas Pol Iduma iii 306 He is inegered with thirsty greedinesse for pardon and grace

†I-ne hleche, v Obs [OE geneálcan f neálcan, see Nehlecnb] To draw near, approach 971 Blickl Hom 109 Þa ne dorstan hie þære stowe geneálcan Ibid 243 Hi ne dorston hine geneálcan c 1175 Lamb Hom 111 Summe lauerdes inehlechеð gode þuih heore lauerdisnes.

I-neiled, Mi pa pple of Nail v

Inelaborate (inflæ·bŏrēt), a [In- 3 Cf obs F inelaboré (1605 in Godef)] Not elaborate, not having much labour expended on it, simple or slight in workmanship

1650 Bulwer Anthropomet 60 Crosse and excrementitious humours about the forepart of their Brain, which should make their faces more inelaborate and confused 1747 Warburton Shakes Cymb v v 169 (Jod) What Shakespeare meant by 'hired nature', inelaborate, hasty, and careless as to the elegance of form in respect of art 1814 Jeffrey in Mem Mopre (1853) II 16 One little piece of yours, however short and inelaborate 1864 C Clarke Rec for Season I 122 Miss Markby's style was decidedly inelaborate

Hence Inela borately adv, in a way void of elaboration

1824 Landor Imag Conv Wks 1846 I 205 In regard to Herodotus, his style I consider as the most simply and inelaborately harmonious of any author in any language

†Inela borate, v Obs rare$^{-0}$ [f In- 2 + Elaborate] = Elaborate v

1623 Cockeram, Inelaborate to doe a thing curiously

Inelaborated (inflæ·bŏrēted), a [In- 3] Not elaborated, not laboriously worked out, not thoroughly formed by natural or chemical process

1623 Cockeram Eng. Dict II, Not Curiously done, Inelaborated 1822 St Coad's Shady Med (ed 4) II 368 Their weekend and relaxed condition allowed the serous or more liquid parts of the blood to pass off in a crude and inelaborated form

Inelastic (inflæ·stik), a [f In- 3 + Elastic] 1. Not elastic, void of elasticity or springiness, whether from rigidity or plastic quality, not yielding to a strain and springing back to its normal condition on the removal of the strain

Inelastic fluids, a name for liquids, as being void of elasticity in the older sense (see Elastic A 2) cf elastic fluids v Elastic A 3

1798 Hartley Observ Vann I 87 The Excess of Softness, which renders the medullary Substance totally inelastic as to Sense 1780 Coleman in Phil Trans LXX 328 Its cavity is also half filled with a firm inelastic substance 1826 Henry Elem Chem I 245 Common inelastic fluids are capable of remaining in contact with each other for a long time without admixture 1863 Lyell Antiquity 175 The principle of conservation holds equally good with elastic and inelastic bodies

fig That does not expand and contract in accordance with circumstance or need, unyielding

1867 Spectator 29 June 71, 2 The House of Lords show not firmness and independence, but inelastic obstinacy and obstructiveness in such a vote 1877 Anstey Week of Fate p lviii, Buddhism does not seem to be inelastic or unsuitable to civilization 1894 Westm Gaz 5 June 6/1 The surgery of the bank notes in active circulation is equally unbargeable and inelastic

Inelasticate (inflæ·stikēt), v [f prec + -ate 3] trans To render inelastic

1879 Tait's Edin Mag 1 Inelasticated bands must be derived of their elasticity before they can be made subservient to textile manufacture Each thread (of caoutchouc) is inelasticated individually in the act of twisting 1880 A boy or girl pressing it between the most thumbs and fingers

Thread thus inelasticated has a specific gravity of 0 947342

Inelasticity (inflæstī·sĭti, inīlēs [In- 1] Absence of elasticity, a condition the reverse of elastic, rigidity

1828 in Webster 1881 Spectator 26 Mar 407 2 The inelasticity of highly elaborate institutions among the lower races 1883 Nature xxvii 343 No kind uniformity, no unintelligent inelasticity

Inelegance (inē·lĭgăns) [f Inelegant see Ance, and cf F inélégance (1525 in Hatz-Darm)] The fact or quality of being inelegant, want of refined grace of form or manner, clumsiness, an instance of this

1726 G Roberts 4 Years Voy Ded Aijb, Pardon the Inelegance, &c of this unpolish'd Essay 1779-81 Johnson L. P. (1787) Wks IV 284 Mason they had among them before, whether of learning or acuteness, was commonly obscured and blunted by coarseness, and inelegance of style 1827-9 Hallam Const Hist II v vi 8 28 Their intemperance, their coarseness, their inelegance, their scurrility are not compensated by any impressive eloquence

Inelegant (inē·lĭgănt) [f next see -ant] The quality of being inelegant, = Inelegance

1727 in Bailey vol II 1732 Berkeley Alciphr v § 19 Whatever futility there may be in that notions, or inelegancy in their language 1807 Spectator 29 Oct 1460 Those literary inelegancies which seem the besetting sins of lady novelists

Inelegant (inē·lĭgănt), a [a F inélégant (15–16th c in Hatz-Darm), ad L inelegant-em, f in (In- 1) + elegant-em Elegant] Not elegant

1. Wanting in grace of form or manner, ungraceful, unrefined, clumsy, coarse, unpolished

1570 Levins Manip 265/5 Inelegant, inelegans 1693 Congreve Way of World Wks 1710 I 261 Inelegant, indecent, immodest 1711 Spectator No 231 P 2 When the forms are inelegant, that is, when they are composed of unvaried lines 1768 Boswell Corsica (ed 2) 53 I be chosen of St John in this city, by no means an inelegant building 1827 Lytton Pelham VIII 21 Vincent's somewhat inelegant person

b esp of language and literary style

1509 Barclay Ship of Fooles (1874) I 7 A maner of wryttinge nat inelegant 1755 World No 106 (1823) III 8 If the dispute be about a Greek word, and he pronounces it to be inelegant 1779 & Johnson L. P. Rochester Wks III 209 His imitation of Horace on Lucilius is not inelegant 1844 L Murray Eng Gram (ed 5) I 203 Such expressions are very inelegant, and do not suit the idiom of our language

†c Not of delicate taste or flavour Obs

1707 Phillips Cyder I 49 Ample Fruit pleasing to Sight But to the Tongue inelegant and flat

d Of a medical preparation cf Elegant 5 b

1876 Bartholow Mat Med (1879) 150 The decoction, although officinal, is inelegant and faulty

2 Wanting in aesthetic refinement or delicacy a Of things

1667 Milton P. L. v 335 Order, so contriv'd as not to mix Tastes, not well joyned, inelegant 1712 Steele Spect No 321 P 4 Poor Shook has scribbled several very perplexed and inelegant Hearts and Anthmosities 1736 Bolingbroke Patriot (1749) 13 They wander about from one object to another, of vain curiosity, or inelegant pleasure. 1841 Lytton Pompeii 245 [It was] thought inelegant among the Romans to entertain less than three or more than nine 24 their banquets 1850 Macaulay Ess Ranke (1851) II 138 Letters and the fine arts undoubtedly owe much to this not inelegant sloth

b Of persons Obs

1735 Somerville Chase I 59 What remains On loving Dogs their blood, inelegant Of Taste 1756 Connoisseur No 130 P 2 I am the unfortunate wife of that inelegant (I had almost said insensible) husband 1782 V Knox Ess (1819) II cxvii 293 A common and inelegant spectator

3 (nonce-use from late L.) Not in harmony with the main body of the Law

1832 Austin Jurispr (1879) II xxx 552 This want of harmony or consistency with the general bulk of the system the Roman Lawyers denote 'inelegantia juris' Now the Canon or Civil Laws (as they obtain in England) may be singular or inelegant but they are not less portions of the general law

Hence Ine legantness, inelegancy (Bailey vol II 1727)

Inelegantly (inē·lĭgăntli), adv [f prec + -ly 2] In an inelegant manner, ungracefully, clumsily

1667 South Serm (1698) III x 477 He was not so much buried, as deposited in the Grave for a small inconsiderable space, &c So that even in this respect he may not inelegantly be said to have tasted of Death 1779-81 Johnson L. P. Milton Wks II 354 Comus is a drama in the epick style, inelegantly splendid, and tediously instructive 1860 Earl of Carlisle Lect (1866) 169 The cat and the deer cannot move or sit inelegantly 1871 Ruskin Fors Clav I iv 70 We fight inelegantly as well as expensively, with machines instead of bow and spear

Inelevable (inī·lĕvăb'l), a [In- 1] Not elevable, incapable of being elevated or raised

1806 Southey in Life & Corr IV 282 He is said to have expressed his opinion that Rome was inelevable

Ineligibility (inĕlĭʤĭlĭti) [f next see -ity] The quality or fact of being ineligible

1795 Parliamentary Remarks 88 Another item, this object, on the score of their ineligibility 1805 Pratt's Rep V 315 The supposed ineligibility of a bailiff to be elected mayor 1808 Webster, Ineligibility a State or quality of not being worthy of choice 1884 Manch Exam 7 Aug 4/5 The amendment declaring the ineligibility of all monarchical pretenders as candidates for the Presidency of the Republic

Ineligible (inĕ·lĭʤĭb'l), a [f In- 3 + Eligible cf F ineligible (1752 in Hatz Darm)]

1 Incapable of being elected, legally or officially disqualified for election to an office or position

1770 Johnson False Alarm Wks X 344 The votes given to a man ineligible [as an alien, the highest number of an eligible candidate becomes a majority 1825 J Jefferson Autobog Wks 1859 I 80 My wish was that the President should be elected for seven years, and be ineligible afterwards 1861 O'Leary Lect Mis Materials 252 He was dumb, and therefore ineligible to be made a king

b Hence, Unfit, or considered unfit, to be chosen; unworthy of choice

1828 Webster, Ineligible 2 Not worthy to be chosen or preferred 1860 Bolton Orley F. iii, As a son in law he was quite ineligible Mod Altogether ineligible as a permanent residence

†2 Of actions, etc Such as one would not choose to do, inexpedient, undesirable Obs

1779 R Howe in Sparks Corr Amer Rev (1853) II 321 He reports that storming them, at present, would be ineligible 1793 Smeaton Edystone L Contents 9 (It was) ineligible to take a greater time in the whole building

1797 J Jefferson Writ (1859) IV 155 If there be any circumstance which might render its delivery ineligible, you may return it to me

B absol with pl as sb One not eligible as a suitor or a husband

1806 Westm Gaz 11 May 2/3 Archibald Rolles, an ineligible, declares his love to Margaretta Bolton, a penniless girl 1858 Ibid 25 May 3/4 Mothers of marriageable daughters sometimes lament that eligible men as a class are so much less agreeable than the ineligibles

Ineligible See Ineligibly adv, in an ineligible manner, Ine ligibleness = Inelibility

1846 Worcester, Ineligible, Dr Allen 1872 Daily News 2 Sept, The camp of the Army Corps headquarters, in ineligibly situated if military operations are regarded 1881 Ibid 4 Mar 5/3 Unless experience of this latter place tends to show its ineligibleness for sanit ary reasons

Ineliminable (inĭlĭ·mĭnăb'l), a [In- 3] Incapable of being eliminated

1875 N Amer Rev CXX 108 The number of laborers is an ineliminable element in the problem

Ineloquence (inē·lŏkwĕns) [In- 1] Want of eloquence, the quality of being ineloquent, (in Carlyle) the reverse of eloquence or speaking out, silence

1843 Carlyle Past & Pr II xi, The Lord Abbot's eloquence is less admirable than his ineloquence, his great invaluable 'talent of silence' 1850 New Timon, Poetic Mirror 2 Dec. 6/7 We feel keenly the ineloquence of finite words to express our emotions

Ineloquent (inē·lŏkwĕnt), a [f In- 3 + Eloquent cf F ineloquent (16th c in Littré)] Not eloquent, void of eloquence

c 1530 J Cox Rhet (1899) 42 The audyence falleth, for weryines of his ineloquent langage, fast on slepe 1667 Milton P. L. viii 219 Nor are thy lips ungraceful, sire of men, Nor tongue ineloquent 1818 Southey in Q Rev XIX 52 He quotes the old man's honest and not ineloquent exhortation 1843 Carlyle Past & Pr III v, The ineloquent Brindley, Behold he has chained seas together

Hence Ine loquently adv, in an ineloquent manner, without eloquence

1898 in Webster, 1865 J Hullah Transit Period Music

119 Rameau declared, very unloquently no doubt, but very decisively, that it was the work of two hands, the one an artist, the other an utter ignoramus

Ineluctable (inɪlʌ·ktăbl), a Also 7 ible [ad L. ineluctabil-is, f. in- (In- 1) + eluctābil-is, f. eluctā-ri to struggle out Cf F ineluctable (15th c in Hatz-Darm.)] From which one can not escape by struggling, not to be escaped from

1623 COCKERAM, In luctable, not to be overcome by any paines. 1659 JACKSON Creed IV. II. xx. § 2 The rules of fate were ineirely unavoidable, insuperable, inflexible, ineluctable. 1659 PEARSON Creed 495 As if the damnation of all sinners now were ineluctible and eternall. 1765 Hist Eur. in Ann. Reg. 43 That trouble and confusion which must probably attend these ineluctable events. 1886 SWINBURNE Ambitions 220 All gusts and storms of the air that fell, Prone, ineluctable. 1888 MRS. H. WARD R. Elsmere IV. xxiv. 366 She said he were alike helpless—both struggling in the grip of some fierce outside themselves, inexorable, ineluctable

Hence Ineluctably adv., irresistibly, so that one cannot escape from its grip

1857 J. PEARCE Conf. Dissent. 62 That doth goes in upon the will not ineluctably, but infallibly

Ineludible (inɪlū·dĭbl), a Also able [In- 1] That cannot be eluded or escaped

1666 GREWILL Tract Synod. II. 18 An opinion, so very obnoxious should not be admitted but upon ineludible [1682 ineludible] demonstrations. 1787 BENTHAM Pamphlet VI. (1791) 128 Double-edged whether it would be ineludible, to give such heir-ulean and ineludible strength to the grasp of power? 1846 HAWTHORNE Mosses I. 34 The ineludible grape, in which mortality clutches the highest and purest of earthly mould. 1888 G. MACDONALD Castle Warlock VIII. 104 Making up his mind to the ineludible

Hence Ineludibly adv., in an ineludible manner. 1893 National Observer 20 May 9/1 Persisted in stubbornly unchangeably, ineludably

† Inemanabi·lity. Obs. rare—1 [f In-3 + L. ēmānābil-is, f. ēmānā-re to ENANATE] The attribute of not originating by emanation

a 1656 HALES Gold Rem (1688) 377 The properties are innascibility and nemanability these belong to the Father

Inembryonate (inɛmbrĭɔnĕt), a Biol [In- 1] Not embryonate, having no embryo

1846 WORCESTER (cites REID) 1855 MAYNE Expos. Lex., Inembryonatus, having no embryo, germ, or corculum; inembryonate

† Ineme·ndable, a Obs rare [ad L. inēmendābilis that cannot be amended or improved, (in Laws of Cnut and Hen I, in sense) that cannot be remedied by a fine', Du Cange], f. in- (In- 1) + ēmendābilis amendable, EMENDABLE] Incapable of being emended, incurable

1532 MORE Confut. Tindale Wks. 569/2 In swoyding of their seditious trouble, and for the repressyng of theyr remediable malice 1708 KERSEY (citing Limes) Such a Crime was said to be inemendable, as could not be atoned for by a Fine 1721 in BAILEY

Hence † Ineme·ndableness (Bailey, 1727)

† Inemitie, obs 8c form of ENMITY a 1579 KNOX Hist Ref (1849) I. 147 The inemitie [of 1732 inamitie] was judged mortall, and without all hope of reconciliation

Ine·mulous, a rare—1 [In- 1] Not emulous, without emulation, not envious of (fume, power, or the like)

1869 E. DARWIN Bot Gard II. (1791) 80 He treads, inemulous of fame or wealth, Profuse of toil, and prodigal of health

Inemye, obs form of ENEMY sec INIMI

† Ine narrable, a Obs. [a F. inénarrable (14th c in Hatz-Darm.), ad L inēnarrābil-is, f. in- (In- 3) + ēnarrābilis, f ēnarrā-re to narrate Cf ENARRABLE] That cannot be narrated, told, or declared, indescribable, unspeakable

c 1450 Mirour Saluacioun 4329 So greete is the payne of helle and so inenarrable 1598 FLORIO Worlde Of Wo 1 Wks (1876) 138 He is the profoundyste of thyn inenarrable wysdome Ibid 196 Whose goodnes is inenarrable and euerlastynge c 1611 CHAPMAN Iliad II. 422 The princes then, and nauie that did bring These so inenarrable troopes, and all their scyles, I sing 1616 — Homer's Hymns, Hercules (1858) 104 And who through all the sea was sent, And Earth's inenarrable continent 1628 JACKSON Worth Christmas 25 An inenarrable hardnesse is the first and chiefe quality of the Diamond 1716 M. DAVIES Athen Brit II. 424 That sacred Mystery of the Holy Trinity is ineffable and inenarrable by any Creature 1730 BAILEY (folio), Inenarrable

Hence † Inenarrableness

1727 BAILEY vol II, Inenarrableness, Unspeakableness

† Ine noe, ine·nt, obs forms of ANENT prep.

13 Cursor M. 23021 (Edin) Sunt sustin says ment þat dat es nan can godis consail sai

Ineonhyma (ine nkimă). Bot. [f GR. is, iv- fibre + ὑγχυμα infusion] Fibrocellular tissue, the cells of which resemble spiral vessels

1857 BALFOUR Bot § 81. 5 When united, they (fibrous cells) form fibro cellular tissue or Ineonhyma

Ineonergetic (inenoidge tik), a rare [In- 1] Not energetic, without energy

1806 COLERIDGE Lett., Converse, etc. (1836) I. 121 vii 47 The energetic or inenergetic state of the minds of men † Ineno dable, a Obs rare—0 [f In- 3 + L ēnōdābil-is, f ēnodā-re to ENODATE] That cannot be untied or unravelled.

1623 COCKERAM, Inenodable, not to bee vnknit 1721 BAILEY, Inenodable, not to be untied or explained

Hence Ineno dableness, †incapableness of being unloosed, untied, or explicated (Bailey vol II, 1727)

Inept (inɛ·pt), a [ad L. ineptus unmeaning, absurd, foolish, f. in- (In- 3) + aptus APT: perh. immed. f. inepte (14th c. in Hatz-Darm.)]

1 Not adapted or adaptable, not suited for (†to) a purpose, without aptitude, unsuitable, unfit arch

1603 FLORIO Montaigne I. xxxiii. 165 (1632) 126 A manner peculiar unto myself, inept to all publike Negotiations 1652 HOBBES Leviath II. xxv. 134 The differences between apt and inept Counsellors. 1692 RAY Dissol World 14 In Air would cost us but few minutes Minutes, and so be inept to maintain the fire a 1734 NORTH Examen III. iv. 637 (1740) 620 The Parliament then in being by all the pretences was found inept for the great Designs of the Faction 1810 BENTHAM Packing (1821) 268 Not to wrest power out of the hands of present possessors, but to render them somewhat less generally and flagrantly inept than at present for the exercise of it 1895 Contemp. Rev. Dec. 780 I for the lawyers of the land were singularly inept when our soldiers and sailors were at their best

b Not suited to the occasion, not adapted to circumstances, out of place, inappropriate

1659 JER. TAYLOR Gentl. Calling 1. (1839) 49 If they use in Negative Propositions, it is true, but inept 1858 [MARTINEAU] World Chr. 121 If the doctrine were true could anything be more inept than an elaborate proof of it? 1883 Law Times Rep. LXIX. 555/1 He has much need to put words which do not affect the preceding absolute gift

2 Absurd, wanting in reason or judgement silly, foolish

1604 JAS I Counterblast (Arb.) 17 As to the Proposition that because the Inames are colds, and moist therefore things should be light and dire are best for them, it is an inept consequence 1653 H. MORE Isagoge Ath. xi. 40 (1662) 34 So soft and moulded by Brandishments and excess, as to make them understanding inept and suited to the Operation 1710 Lett. Spectator No. 82 2/2 Such the look of an Inept Animal 1888 R. F. BURTON in Academy 20 Oct. 249 His poetical medille and muddle thus produces interference with local administration for party purposes

3 Law Void, of no effect

1828 Scott Hist. Moll. xxiii, Extrajudicial confession was totally inept, and void of all strength and effect from the beginning Br. Examin. xxvii, As a transaction inter minores, the engagement was inept and void in law. 1875 JEVONS Pract. Logic I. xxvii. 111 ESSEX I. and Edward III died and so the bull to the king became inept

Ineptitude (inɛ·ptitud), [ad I. ineptitudo, n of quality f. ineptus INEPT see -TUDE Cf obs F. ineptitude (15th c in Godef.)] The quality of being inept

1 Want of aptitude, inaptness, unsuitableness, unfitness to or for something, incapacity

1625 CROSBY Body of Man 507 A neptitude to leane (sheweth) a dire and a hard braine 1640 WILKINS New Planets (1684) 3 There is in it, and so likewise in the other Planets, an ineptitude to motion c 1645 HOWELL Lett. I. iv. 17 A strong conjecture of the aptnesse or ineptitude of one capacity 1710 STEELE Tatler No. 204 P 1 The Ineptitude for Society, which is frequently the Fault of us Scholars 1824 W. IRVING Bracebridge I. 228 An ineptitude to imitate phonetically the Red Indian name of the plant a process for which the French usually show an extraordinary ineptitude

2 Want of mental capacity, folly, silliness With an and pl A foolish act or remark

1656 BLOUNT Glossogr., Ineptitude, unaptness, fondness foolishness, trifling, vainness. 1658 PHILLIPS Cath Theol II. 42 Here we a multitude of Errors or Inepritudes together 1832 CARLYLE Misc. (1857) III. 55 [He] lived no day of his life without doing and saying more than one pretentious ineptitude 1897 Spectator 18 July 94/1 The attempt to justify Buckle's strictures on the ineptitude of statesmen

Ineptly (inɛ·ptli), adv [f INEPT + -LY 2] In an inept manner, unfitly, unsuitably, foolishly

1 The first example (which comes second) is from FYNES (sup.) = transcript c 1620–24) may be an unconscious error for ineptissimè 1580 in Godef.)

1593 HOOKER Pref to Sundry of the Grounds of Oct., TWYNE MSS XIII. 59 (cf. Turner Ans. Obj 4.) All common wealth that is meetly permytted to fulfunto extremetye neandes is ineptly permytted to fulfunto extremetye neandes 1611 COTGR., Ineptement, ineptly, vnaptly 1612 J. COLTE Diu. Dang. Pract. Phys. 111 54 Ineptly and injuriously may the illusion of fancy be made seruice for the innocent 1853 H. MORE Antid. Ath. I. x. (1662) 31 Though it be done never so ineptly and foolishly 1691 RAY Creation II. (1692) 72 The Crystalline Humor of the Eye which they [the Peripatetics] supposed to be the Instrument of Vision 1886 TRAILL Shaftesbury (1888) 80 A subtle note of ironical compression, as of a rat who was leaving the sinking ship, for 'a rat who has ineptly solicited the same moment for joining it

Ineptness (inɛ·ptnĕs) [f INEPT + -NESS] The quality of being inept

1 = INEPTITUDE 1

1633 W. STRUTHER True Happiness 66 An universall inaptnesse, both in soul and bodie to any good office 1661 G. RUST Origen's Opin in Phenix (1721) I. 24 An utter inaptness to all things worthy of a Man 1722 WOTTON Relig Nat IX. vii (Senger), The ineptness of matter has been well considered

2 = INEPTITUDE 2

1877 SPARROW Serm 208 173 They rebuke the multitude for the grossness and ineptness of their views 1892 Times 28 Apr. 5/2 Able, thanks to the ineptness of the prosecution, to transform the prisoner's dock into a Tribune from which he preached Anarchy

† Inequabi·lity. Obs rare—1 [f IN- 1 + EQUABILITY, q.v. + -ITY] Want of equability or uniformity

1581 J. BELL Haddon's Answ. Osor. 403 b, Upon what grew this inequalitie and partialitie of dispensation

Inequable (inɛ·kwăbl), a rare [ad L inæquabil-is unequal, f. in- (In- 3) + æquabilis EQUABLE] Uneven not uniform

1717 J. KELL Anim Œcon 173 (1804) The middle velocity either equable or inequable 1721 in BAILEY

Hence Ine quableness (Bailey, vol II, 1727)

Inequal (inī·kwăl, a [ad L. inæqualis, f. in- (In- 1) + æqualis EQUAL Cf OF inequal Oresme, 14th c.), mod F. inégal] = UNEQUAL

The earlier formation, now arch exc as in b)

Its earliest example is to be found in ine qual h as the lions formed by dividing the natural day or night into twelve equal parts, the length of which therefore varied according to the time of the year, the hours of the day being thus unequal to the hours of the night except at the equinoxes a 1386 CHAUCER Knt's T. 1413 The thridde houre in equal that Palamon bigan to Venus temple hat to goon Vp-to the nombre of thre houres after noon 1391 — Astrol II. 3 Thise houres in equals ben cleped houres of planetes 1539 TAVERNER Serm Table Sund (1887) 7 The father by a late hour not inequalle to hym selfe 1577 HARRISON England II. iv. (1877) I. 174 The Dane lay vp all the best the most inequall and intricate daie 1588 J. KING Lectures Ezek 194 So shall ye set your waies in equall waies, and not, to be synonimicall, deale out of the middle or equall motion, for seeing ye preach concerns of his inequall or true motion the same euery where [etc.] 1688 SIR C. WARREN Equation of Time Wks. 168/1 If a Seeing that Inequal days cannot be the measure of equal motions it is requisite that those Inequal days be converted into equal 1811 HEARNE Collect III. 268 Inequal Distributions were made 1741 STUKELEY Judaic Heraldry 486 Welcome all to his inequall Entertainment 1831 BREWSTER Newton (1855) IV. 82 An image which would be more or less elongated and colour ed, if the two refracting angles were more or less inequal

b Of a surface Uneven

1666 LOVETT Hist Imm & Mon 309 The ventrick then inward superficies is inequall with cauuicles 1890 Cent Dict Anat Journal 1. In uniform connection with irregular elevations and depressions said of a surface.

Hence Ine qually adv., in an unequal manner

Ine qualness, inequality (Bailey, vol II, 1727)

1661 LOVETT Hist Imm & Mon 48 The solid powder eaten or drunk doe equally affect the whole body by brute cold, hidrion, and itching 1675 R. BURTON Cat Causes Pt. 172 He doth inequally dispense it

Inequalitarian (inīkwŏlĭtē·rĭăn) rare [f INEQUALITY, after EQUALITARIAN] One who holds the opinion of the innate inequality of mankind

1878 GLADSTONE Gleanings (1897) I. 234 In practice they [the English people] are what I may call determined inequalitarians 1891 in Norman Hall's Antiseng. (1898) 276 I coined a word to express my opinion. I said I was an Inequalitarian. I believe more and more in Heredity Qualities are inherited

Inequality (inīkwŏ·lĭti) [A OF inequalité, 14th c. in LITTRÉ; mod F. inégalité, ad med L. inæqualitas, f inæqualis INEQUAL] The state or condition of being unequal, want of equality

1 Want of equality between persons or things disparity a in respect of magnitude, quantity, number, intensity or other physical quality

1532 ELYOT Gov III. 8, Justyce consisteth not onely on sederyage the inequalitie, wherby the one thynge excelleth the other unless merite be ioyned therto to equalitie

1597 MORLEY Introd Mus 27 Proportion of inequalitie is when two things of one kinde quantitie are compared together 1674 BOYLE Usefull Theol II. 177 It remains doubtful whether the differing sizes [of the fixed stars] proceed from a real inequality of bulk, or only from an inequality of distance 1776 ADAM SMITH Wealth Nations I. 111 The inequalities in the wages of all an and all trades 1843 MILL Logic III. xxiv. § 4 Inequality and equality are equally of transient be cognised by any critical inequality of thickness in the fluids 1858 HODGSON Hist. Nor. III. 94 The ever-growing inequality of fortunes had broken through this useful custom

b In respect of dignity, rank or circumstances Social disparity the fact of occupying a more or less advantageous position

1484 CAXTON Chevalry 1. 1 The vyce of Inequalyte of loue is to be meqd to other and not lyke 1583 STUBBES Anat Abus II. (1882) 101 The apostles amongest whom was no inequalitie, or preheminence 1611 SPEED Hist Gt Brit (1632) 1. 1. 18 Betwixt Othoman and her was great inequality she was on the sand but meanly born, and therefore was not to expect so great an match 1791 BOSWELL Johnson 11 Apr. an 1773, She wondered how he could reconcile his notions of inequality and subordination with wishing well to all mankind 1802 MAR. EDGEWORTH Moral Tales (1816) I. 1. 4 The inequality between the rich and the poor she took him

c In respect of excellence power, or adequacy Also, A condition of superiority or inferiority in relation to something, esp the condition of being unequal to a task, insufficiency in adequacy

1553 FOX Treat Vexe Ir. I Did Arbitrs These seemed to me no less inequality between the tytle and the booke, then if a man would profess to write of Englande, and entreated onely of Crumpington 1604 SIR H. Dyel Exerc (1698) III. 265 The Nature of the Things themselves, which are the subject matter of the Christian Religion Their surpassing Greatness and Inequality to the mind of Man 1708 Mrs Centlivre Busie Body I iv 21 Conscious of the Inequality of a Female Pen to so Masculine an Attempt 1777 Watson Philip II (1793) II xiv 233 When she considered the inequality of the dispute between him and the Flemings 1899 Crewe in Spectator Apr 548 There are no doubt stylistic inequalities in the different Psalms.

2 + a Of persons Unequal treatment of others, unfair dealing, unfairness, partiality b Of things Want of due proportion unevenness distribution With an and pl An instance of this

1538 Starkey England II ii 183 The chefe cause of all sedycyon that ys to sey, the inequalyte of dystributyon of the commyn offycys 1550 Latimer 6th Serm before Edw VI (Arb) 150 Such inequalitie is not to be suffered 1678 Lessius Hygiasticon 1 xxiii 39 What memouth God by this inequality, that he giveth to some an hundred pound unto this man five thousand pound, unto this man ten pound unto nothing at all? 1675 Jeremiah Clerk Lithos 478 If we shall not be liberal to one another, it is a strange inequality 1720 Warburton Doct Legat I viii 182 If we will narrowly examine we shall find men compl[ain]ing of inequalities in exacts, which are indeed the effects of a most equal Providence 1858 Bright Sp & Reform 29 Oct 1870 I could show you inequalities which are a great and scandalous manner in which the income tax presses upon the owners of the soil and the ever-ing sged in professions and trades chiefly, carried on in towns

3 Want of uniformity in a thing, person, or process, unevenness, irregularity, variableness a In surface or outline With an and pl An irregularity of surface or outline, a rise or fall of the ground

1607 Topsell Four Foot Beasts 1 (1658) 5 The most visible inequality of the place grieved, one part being higher then another 1645 Boate Irel Nat Hist (1652) 5 The inequality of the coast, and of the air at Bryel and Inchland 1691 Ray Creation II (1692) 169 To find out the side towards which the inequality of the ground might more easily permit it to roll its shot 1707 Gibson Camden's Britannia I 117 The distant country is broken into fits in equalities of hill and dale 1874 Symonds Sk & Studies Greece (1898) I 14 These inequalities in the surface of the cloud which we call Alps. 1878 Huxley Physiogr 135 The water soon finds out some slight inequalities of surface

b In motion, action, or condition, in duration or recurrence, in rate or proportion, in manner, quality, degree, or other respect in which a thing is liable to variation With an and pl An instance of such unevenness

1626 Bacon Sylva § 700 Inequality [of sound], not Stayed upon, but Passing, is rather in Base or Sweetness 1638 F Junius Paint of Ancients 316 Whatsoever doth not hang well together, bewrayeth it selfe by an inequalitie of colour 1657 Symmon Virg Mart II xliv 308 The inconstancy of the Pulse continuing in an evil sign 1748 Anson's Voy I viii 77 These tempests were yet rendered more mischievous to us by their unequality, and the deceitful intervals which they at some times afforded 1753 Hanway Trav (1762) II ii 176 The inequality of our climate 1797 Coleridge in Jun Contin Partly Recoll (1837) I 200 Owing merely to an inequality of temperature

4 Astron a A deviation from uniformity in the motion of a heavenly body

The older astronomers reckoned four inequalities, two common to planets and the moon, and two confined to the moon First Inequality that which is due to the eccentricity of the orbit, and the acceleration of motion at a planet's perihelion or the moon's perigee Second Inequality that which arises from the obliquity of the direction of the planet's motion to the plane or line of its orbit Parallaxis Third Inequality = Variation of the moon) Fourth Inequality that due to the more rapid motion of the moon when the earth is in perihelion, also called Annual Inequality or Annual Equation Later astronomers have discovered several others, as Evectitious Inequality (see quot 1867–76) Periodic Inequality, the comparatively short recurring orbital perturbation due to the attraction of another body, as the great inequality of Jupiter and Saturn

1690 Leybon Curs Math 758 The second Inequality of the Moon is explained by a little Circle 1726 tr Gregory's Astron I 427 By any single observation of a Planet to clear it of its Second Inequality, and find out its Distance from the Sun 1728 Pemberton Newton's Philos 228 Sir Isaac Newton has computed the very quantity of many of the moon's inequalities 1828 Encycl Metrop Theol II 277 Besides these two great inequalities, there are ten others, to which Jupiter is subject 1832 Brewster Newton (1855) I xi 262 The annual inequality of the moon depending on the position of the earth in its orbit 1833 Herschel Astron xi 347 An irregularity, which is well known to astronomers by the name of the great inequality of Jupiter and Saturn 1867–76 Haughton Astron I vii (ed 3) 80 The Variation was the first lunar inequality explained by Sir I Newton on the principle of gravitation Ibid, The Annual Inequality arises from the sensible difference in the disturbing influence exerted by the Sun on the Moon, according as the latter is in that part of its orbit nearest to or most removed from the Sun Ibid, The Secular Acceleration of the Moon's mean motion This inequality was detected by Halley in 1693 Ibid 81 If it were calculated, a few years ago, two other inequalities in the Moon's motion, due the one directly and the other indirectly, to the influence of Venus

5 Math a The relation between quantities that are unequal in value or magnitude Sign of inequality, either of the signs > (‘is greater than’) and < (‘is less than’) b An expression of this relation, consisting of two unequal quantities connected by either of these signs distinguished from equation

1675 Jodhunter Algebra (ed 7) II § 674 If the signs of all the terms of an inequality be changed the sign of inequality must be reversed

Inequation (inɪkwē·ʒn) [f L inæquāt us unequal, after [qu ation] A formula expressing inequality, = Inequality I 5 b

1842 H Spencer Trans Laybach (1872) II 16 To consider the case of inequations Ibid II iii 29 The inequation expresses a relation in which the second quantity bears a greater ratio to the first

Ine qui-, combining element, in sense ‘unequal’, ‘unequally’, not of L formation (the negative of I æquus being inæquus), but f In 3 + Equi- usually in words that are the negatives of æquo- words, as æquidistant, æquedistant, but also forming negative compounds without corresponding positive forms The following are examples of both classes

Ine quia xed, Ine quis xial a [Axp, Axial], having unequal axes Ine quoo state a [Coxstate], unequally robbed, as a shell or seed (Mayne, 1855)

Ine quili stant a, not equidistant Ine quili brity, want of equilibrium Ine quila tate, Ine quilobed a, having unequal lobes Ine quipo tential a, not equipotential, so Ine quipotential ity, inequality of potential, as at different points on the surface of a glacier

1882 Q R 300 Inequalities of motion of the component masses of rocks or scales are disposed conformably 1879 Rutley Study Rocks iv 55 When inequaxial arranged with their longer axes parallel with the lamination 1877 Dict Geological 444 These inequilobed or arched rib of stone 1788 I Taylor Elements I 78 Another species with weights, the motion of which is reckoned to be the cause of inequilibrity 1855 Mayne Expos Lex Inequilobate 1872 Nicholson Palæont 328 In the Glyptodonts the tail is inequilobed

Inequilateral (inɪkwilăt·ĕrăl, a [f In 3 + Equilatiral Cf F inéquilatéral] Having unequal sides, unequal sided

Inequilateral shell one in which a transverse line drawn through the apex of the umbo divides the valve into two unequal and unsymmetrical parts

1664 J Bargrave Pope Alex I (1867) 123 Several rude pieces of masonry they shall meet with, which there is one hexangular, inequilateral cylindrical pyramidal 1830 Brewster Edin Encycl VII 191 Shell transverse, inequilateral, bivalve 1854 Woodward Mollusca II 246 The Bivalves are all more or less inequilateral, the anterior being usually much shorter than the posterior side. 1880 Gray Struct Bot III iv 146 Inequilateral Leaves being unsymmetrical by the much greater development of one side This is illustrated in the whole genus Begonia

So † Inequilater a [cf F inéquilatère], † Inequilaterous a = prec

1614 J Bridwell Nat Geom Numbers 1 7 An inequilater parallelogr imme 1855 Mayne, Inequilaterous

In equilibrio see Equilibrium 3

Inequitable (inē·kwităbl), a [f In 3 + Equitable Cf F inéquitable] Not equitable, characterized by want of equity or fairness, unfair, unjust

1667 Decay Chr Piety 64 The way of Process men take in this case is so inequitable as to certainly procure the partiality of the sentence. 1753 Johnson Adventurer No 62 P 8 Nothing is more inequitable than that one man should suffer for the crimes of another. 1798 Telegraph I 1 (1824) II 273 A spiritual pride, making them censorious, inequitable turning everything to the worst side 1790 Burke Fr Rev Works V 242 The proportion seemed not inequitable 1879 H George Progr & Pov VI ii (1881) 306 The inequitable division of wealth

Hence Inequitably adv, in an inequitable manner, unfairly, unjustly

1842 De Quincey Cicero Wks 1857 VII 207 As a common murder in chief, Pompey was known to have been inequitably dealt with 1880 Mitchell Caesar I 256 It sometimes happens that an exception, which prima facie seems just enough, will yet bear inequitably upon the pursuer

† Ine quitable, a [ad L inæquitabilis, f in- (In- 3) + æquitabilis equitable, f æquitāre see next] That cannot be ridden through

1623 Cockeram, Inequitable, not to bee rid through Hence in Bloount, Phillips, etc

† Ine quitate, v Obs rare—1 [f ppl stem of I inæquitā-re to ride on or over, f in- (In- 2) + æquitāre to ride, f æquus, equitem horseman, f equus horse] trans To ride over or through; hence, to pervade, penetrate

1653 H Moks Conject Cabbal II § 7 The World of Life, which is every where nigh at hand, and does very throughly inequitate the whole Creature

Inequity (inɛ·kwĭti) [In- 3 (The correspL formation was iniquitāsIniquity] Want of equity or justice, the fact or quality of being unfair, unfairness, partiality 1556 J Heywood Spider & F lvii to Reader, in all things is a certain power Inequite, for wrong, no wase can make 1628 Scarlett Exchanges Pref A), To discern between the true and injustice, the equity and inequity of these Exchanges 1876 Bancroft Hist U S VI Index 614 Many of her statesmen confess its inequity and mischevious 1886 Symonds Sydney III 48 The inequity and the political impudence of freeing great nobles from burdens.

b with pl An unfair or unjust matter or action

1857 J Pulsford Quiet Hours 1 § 1 Those iniquities are in equities 1884 H Spencer in Contemp Rev July 58 Our system of Equity, introduced to make up for the short comings of Common law, or rectify its inequities

† Inequivalent, a Obs rare [In- 3] Not of equal value, unequalled in value, matchless

1568 North tr Guevara's Dial Pr (1619) 212/1 Beeing unequivalent in estate or degree to them 1610 Chester's Ire, Britaine 2 Whose boundlesse glores inequivalent Doe su reflect on Fames orientall wings

Inequivalve (inē·kwivælv), a. Conch. [f In- 3 + Valve] Having valves of unequal size

1776 Pennant Zool IV 108 Anomia, bivalve, inequivalve 1851 Richardson Geol viii 243 If one valve is larger than the other, it is said to be inequivalve 1888 Rolleston & Jackson Anim Life 125 The valves of the shell are inequivalve in the Ostreidæ, one valve being smaller than the other

So Ine quivalved, Ine quiva lvular a = prec

1826 W Smith Strata Identif 30 Six species of inequivalved Bivalves 1829–8 Todd Cyclop Anat I 709/1 When one of the valves is larger than the other, it is of course inequivalved 1828 Webster, Inequivalved shell

† Inequivocal, a Obs rare—1 [In- 3] Not equivocal, unequivocal

1779 Hist Europe in Ann Reg (1780) 146/2 A recent transaction from which the minister and he must from thence forward stand upon the most inequivocal terms

Ineradicable (inĭræ·dikăbl), a [In- 3] In capable of being eradicated or rooted out Also fig

1818 Burke Ch Hist iv cxxvi, This inveterate and inradicable habit 1821 Shelley Prometh Unb I 173 And in the earth I sowed ineradicable poisonous weeds 1840 Barham Ingol Le, Spectre of Lapis, An ineradicable bloodstain on the oaken floor 1880 Wilberforce Early Ch II 340 But prejudice fortified by custom is almost ineradicable

Hence Inera dicably adv, in an ineradicable manner

1829 Landor Imag Conv Wks 1846 II 292 A winged word hath stuck ineradicably in a million hearts 1867 Morley in Fortn Rev July 48 The lapse of a century and a half gave time for the spirit of independence to grow ineradicably into the national character

Inerasable (inĭrē·săbl), a Also -ible [In- 3] That cannot be erased, expunged, or effaced Hence Inera sably (-ibly) adv

1821 Shelley Ad Jerusalem IV Pr Wks 1888 I 260 What man of honour needs a moment's rumination to discover what nature has so inerasably implanted in his bosom—the sense of right and wrong 1876 Prophets ibid 280 Men whose names are inerasable from the records of Liberty 1885 L Saunders R Boyle ii 34 An ink perfectly inerasible

† Inergetic (inædje·tik) a Obs rare [f In 3 + (P)Nergetic] = next

1837 Crowders Horæ [E S Barrett] Rising Sun III 49 He whole administration was weak, inergetic, and unin vigorating 1852 North Briton 3 Until spirit be infused, the organism lieth inergetic

† Inerge tical, a Obs rare [f In- 3 + (En)ergetical] Without energy, inactive, sluggish

1760 Boyer Hist Aix-en xii (1692) 72 Those eminent States and Phœnix are not to be considered by us as sluggish inergetical Bodies 1706 Phillips, Inergetical Bodies or Particles, such as are inactive and sluggish

Hence † Inerge tically adv, Obs

1727 Bailey vol II, Inergetically, sluggishly, inactively

Inerm (inɜ·m), a Bot [ad L inerm is unarmed, f in- (In- 3) + arma arms, armour Cf F inerme (1798 in Hatz Darm)] Destitute of prickles or thorns, unarmed

1760 J Ellis Introd Bot III v (1765) 180 Leaves, in respect to their Margin, are Inerm, unarmed or smooth which is opposed to Spinose 1882 Syd Soc Lex Inerm without spikes, prickles, or the like, unarmed

Inermous (inɜ·mŏs), a Bot [f. as prec + -ous] = prec

1848 in Wheeler, and in recent Dicts

Inerrability (inerăbĭlĭti) [f next see ity] Freedom from liability to err, infallibility

1697 H Burton Basting Pope's Bull 84 You are perswaded of the Popes inerrability 1790 Weekly Oracle Sci (1791) I 57 A standing memorial of the inerrability and truth of this science 1890 Sporting Mag XXIV 105, I wish we could experience the inerrability of your tables 1878 Cleaburne Glean (1879) III 260 If we are to believe in the inerrability of a person, or a body of persons

Inerrable (inĕ·răbl) [ad L (post-Class) inerrābilis, f in- (In- 3) + errāre to err] Incapable of erring, not liable to err; exempt from the possibility of error, infallible, unerring

1613 Jackson Creed II xxiv § 6, Such a facile, inerrable rule as the Papists have framed for direction in points of faith 1687 Burnet Six Papers, Anon Answ Test Ch Loyalty 34 We do not pretend that we are Inerrable in this Point 1735 M Davies Athen Brit I 240 The Scripture Latter, as the inerrable standard of their Morals and Disapline 1839 J Rogers Antipopopp II ii § 12 144 No two or men on the globe compose a tribunal from whose inerrable decision we may not appeal. 1879 Baring Gould Germany II 127 Catholic Christianity rested on an inerrable Church as the teacher of truth

Hence Ine rrableness = Inerrability, Ine rrably adv, in an inerrable manner, infallibly

1620 Br Hall Hon Mar Clergy Answ Advt, The inerrableness of 3 Councels, whether particular, confirmed by the pope, or generall 1654 J Hanmond Fundamentals xii § 2 The infallibility, and inerrableness, which is assumed, and inclosed by the Romish church. 1672 Penn Spirit Truth Vind 40 To this end God gives it to his Church, that in Doctrine, I/f, and Government she may inerrably be guided 1877 Patmore Unknown I rot (1890) 1 Many speak wisely, some inerrably

Inerrancy (inĕ·rănsi) [f as Inerrant a , see -ancy] The quality or condition of being inerrant or unerring; freedom from error

1818 34 Horne Introd Crit Stud Script (ed 7) II ii

8 Absolute inerrancy is impracticable in any printed book 1864 Pusey Essays 326 The old Ultramontane doctrine of the inerrancy of the Pope, i.e. that of his preservation from error 1880 19th Cent Sept 429 The superstition which magnifies the wisdom of our ancestors into inerrancy

Inerrant (inē'rănt), a [f. L inerrānt-em, f. in- (IN-3) + errānt-em, pr. pple of errāre to err or wander.]

†1 Astron. Of a star: Fixed; not 'wandering' as a planet. Obs.

1652 Gaule Magastrom xxvi, The sunne after which the moon, and, beneath these, the rest, errant and inerrant

2 That does not err; free from error; unerring. 1837 Fraser's Mag. XV 368 The same inerrant pen winds up this ... in the emphatic terms, 'which is idolatry'. 1868 E. S. Poulden Church's Creed or Crown's Creed? 20 Whether absolutely inerrant or not in matters of faith

Inerratic (inerre·tik), a [IN-1] Not erratic or wandering; fixed (as a star), following a fixed course.

1865 Stanley Hist. Philos. 1 (1701) It's He fixed a great company of inerratick Stars 1793 I. Taylor in Sallust, etc. vii 34 The inerratic sphere comments its motion from the east 1797 Monthly Rev. III 511 The inerratic circle ... comprehends the seven spheres in which the stars are placed 1822 I. Taylor Apuleius 334 An inerratic course

†Inerring, a. Obs. rare—[IN-1] = UNERRING. So †Inerringly adv. unerringly

1645 Howell Twelve Treat. (1660) 328 They think they have an inerring spirit, and that their Imall must needs go true, howsoever the Sun goes 1758 Johnson, Inerringly [I quotes Glanvill (Scepsis Sci. xx 34), that matter should frame itself so inerringly, but in the first edition (1665, 43) the word is 'absolutely', and in the 1665 ed 'unerringly.]

Inerroneous (inerrō·nēəs), a. rare [IN-1] Not erroneous, without error or mistake 1880 R. G. White Every Day Eng. 127 There are many thoughtful, although not mercenary students of the subject.

Inert (inə·t), a [f. L inert-em unskilled, inactive, sluggish, f. in- (IN-3) + ar-t-em ART. Cf. inerte (16th c. in Hatz.-Darm.).]

1 Of matter and material things: Having no inherent power of action, motion, or resistance, in active, inanimate, having the property of INERTIA

1697 H. More Immort. Soul III. vii 104 Poore naked substance dull, slight, Inert, inactive 1710 Berkeley Princ. Hum. Knowl. § 69 Matter is said to be passive and inert, and so cannot be an agent or efficient cause 1774 Goldsm. Nat. Hist. (1776) VIII. 199 An opinion, that all nature was animated, that ... even the most inert mass of matter, was endued with life and sensation 1830 Herschel Stud. Nat. Phil. § 234 To say that matter is inert, or has inertia, is only to say that the cause is expended in producing its effect 1864 Bowen Logic vii. 211 If matter is essentially inert every change in it must be produced by mind

Ag. 1880 Hazlitt Last Dram I. 15 The inert mass of accumulated properties. 1897 Bucke Cosmic Cons. 307 Knowledge is not an inert and passive principle, which comes to us, whether we will or no

b Without active chemical, physiological, or other properties; neutral

1800 Med. Jrnl. III 432 Fumigations may be service able in rendering contagious matter inert 1850 Daubeny Atom. 74 n. (ed. 2) Sea-salt ... is inert, for instance, might possess acid properties, the other be tasteless and inert 1864 H. Spencer Biol. I. 4 Carbon is totally inert at ordinary heats 1879 Cassell's Techn. Educ. I. 111 The collodion film is inert, and plays no actual part in the production of a picture

2 Of persons, animals, and (transf.) moving things: Inactive, sluggish, slow, not inclined for or capable of action. Also of mental faculties

1774 Burke Corr. (1844) I. 479 He is of that inert and undisciplined temper, that I fear he will not prevail on himself to pursue his point with vigour 1809 W. Irving Knickerb. (1861) 151 He was in fact, neither tranquil and inert nor restless and fidgetting 1854 Mrs. Somerville Connect. Phys. Sc. xxvi (1849) 284 In some places the subterraneous fires are in the highest state of activity, in some they are inert 1849 Bright Speech 2 Apr. (1876) 177 He is rather timid as a Minister and inert as a statesman 1858 Carpenter Man. Phys. (ed. 2) 334 It contains sufficient oxygen to stimulate the nervous and muscular systems of these comparatively inert animals 1855 H. Spencer Princ. Psychol. (1872) I. 1. § 5 As we ascend from creatures that are inert to creatures that are vivacious 1859 Dickens Let. 19 Oct. (1880) II. 104 The deadest and most utterly inert little town in the British dominions

Inertia (inə·shiă), [= want of art or skill, unskilfulness, inactivity, f. inert-s, inert-em INERT] The L. term was introduced into Physics by Kepler.]

1 Physics That property of matter by virtue of which it continues in its existing state, whether of rest or of uniform motion in a straight line, unless that state is altered by an external force. Originally used as L., and also called vis inertiæ (force of inertia).

Centre of inertia, Moment of inertia, Product of inertia: see Centre, Moment, Product

[1687 Newton Principia Def. iii, Materiæ vis insita est potentia resistendi, neque differt quicquam ab inertia Massæ. 1706 Phillips (ed. Kersey) Vis insita Materæ or Vis Inertiæ, is the bare Power of Resistance only, by which every Body endeavours to continue in that State in which it is, either of Rest or Motion.]

1713 Derham Phys.-Theol. I. v. 33 The cause of the resistance of all Fluids is partly from the Friction of the parts of the Fluid, partly from the Inertia thereof 1756 Blake in Phil. Trans. LI. 2 By the principles of Mechanics, the Inertia of any bodies revolving about a Center is as the quantities of matter into the squares of the Bracchia 1803 J. Wood Princ. Mech. I. 8 Inactivity may be considered as that quality by which it resists any such change. In this sense it is usually called the force of inactivity, the inertia, or the vis inertiæ. 1859 Jephson & Tait Nat. Phil. I. § 216 The Inertia of matter is proportional to the quantity of matter in the body 1882 Mivart Lessons Elementary Anatomy 107 The force or stress of a moving particle, in any direction, is the product of its mass and its component of acceleration in that direction

fig. 1843 J. Martineau Ser. Life (1867) 206 The inertia of a massive civilization 1851 Gladstone Chron. VI. xxxii. 1 That bias in favour of trusting to the force of inertia, to the change of circumstances

b Electr. inertia, a term applied to the resistance offered by a circuit to sudden changes of current, due to self- or mutual induction, or both

Magnetic inertia, that property of a magnetic substance which prevents its being instantaneously magnetized or demagnetized 1886 Heaviside Electr. Papers II. 60 The inertia, in the electro-magnetic case, is that of the magnetic field, not of the electricity 1892 [see Electr. 10 b].

2 transf. Inactivity, disinclination to act or exert oneself, inertness, sloth, apathy

1828–56 De Quincey Confess. (1862) 222 Tranquillity that seemed the product of inertia. 1837 Carlyle Fr. Rev. I. iv. 8 By wise inertia, and wise cessation of inertia, great victory has been gained 1868 M. Patison Isaac Casaubon 148 An aimless inertness, a constitutional lassitude of soul, are not seldom seen to be the consequence of high philosophical training

Inertial (inə·shăl a [f. prec. + AL.] Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of inertia

1849 Fraser's Mag. XL. 605 A weight of mental resistance 1887 Mind Jan. 151 The subsidiary conception which he puts forward of 'the mental system, the mental soul, inertial resistance, and inertial rest'

Inertion (inə·shŏn) [irreg. f. INERT, perh. on analogy of exert, exertion.] Inert condition, inertness, inactivity, sloth

1756 P. Brown Jamaica 122 Weaknesses of the stomach and vomiting from cold or inertion 1798 Wrnn. in Owen Very Ill eclectic's Deep (1877) 5 Our inertion during the contest 1814 D'Israeli Quarrels Auth. (1867) 220 Mortified with the inertion of public curiosity 1837 Sir W. Hamilton Metaph. xiv (1870) II. 478 A natural prone ness to inertion in man 1889 Browning Asphon xxii, Languishing in inertion Not lashes motion

†Inertious, a. Obs. rare—[f. inertia + -OUS.] Inert. Hence †Inertiously adv., idly

1612 Speed Hist. Gt. Brit. xi. xiv (1632) 590 His youth inertiously consumed in lasciviousness and pleasure

†Inertitude. Obs. rare—[ad. med. L. inertitūdo, f. L. inert-em INERT] = INERTNESS 1656 Blount Glossogr., Inertitude, sloathfulness, dulness, without knowing any cause. 1828 Webster cites Todd.

Inertly (inə·tli), adv. [f. INERT + -LY 2.] In an inert or inactive manner, inactively, idly

1724 Pope Dunc. IV. 7 Yet Powers! To whom time bears not on his upper wing, Torn inertly whilst your Purse inertly strong, Then take at once the Poet and the Song 1837 Whewell Hist. Inductive Sc. II. vii. § 3 The more a heavy body recedes from the beginning, or approaches the end of violent motion, the slower and more inertly it goes 1863 Mrs. H. Wood Verner's Pride I. xii. 111 Her small white hands rested inertly upon her pink dress

Inertness (inə·tnes) [f. as prec. + -NESS.] The quality or fact of being inert, inactivity, inactive or inoperative condition or character 1665 Glanvill Sceps. Scient. (R.) So long and deep a swoon as is absolute insensibility and inertness 1710 Berkeley Princ. Hum. Knowl. § 25 The very being of an idea implies passiveness and inertness in it 1793 Burke Policy Allies Wks. VII. 195 It is not humanity, but laziness and inertness of mind 1836 J. M. Gully Magendie's Formul. (ed. 2) 10 Overcoming this inertness, by self-tasks a teaspoonful of the solution ... nothing ensues 1855 H. Spencer Princ. Psychol. (1872) I. v. 91 A greater inertness of the organism 1865 Buckle Civilis. (1869) III. v. 304 The great enemy of knowledge is not error, but inertness 1878 Huxley Physiogr. 81 Nitrogen is remarkable for its inertness.

b = INERTIA 1

1768–74 Tucker Lt. Nat. (1834) I. 305 Others ... style the perseverance of body either in motion or rest a force or power of inertness 1870 Lockyer Elem. Astron. 7 The Matter ... presents us with two general qualities—activity and inertness.

†Inerty Obs. rare—[ad. L. INERTIA or f. INERT (14th c. in Hatz.-Darm.)] = prec.

1623 Cockeram Interpr., slothfulnesse

Inerube scent, a. rare [IN-3] Unblushing, shameless

1788 W. Lond. Mag. 515 She proved so incubescent as to render absurd all those exaggerations in her favour

Inerudite (inē·rŭdoit), a [ad. L. inerudīt-us, f. in- (IN-3) + erudīt-us ERUDITE.] Not erudite, unlearned, uninstructed 1801 Lamb Ess., Curious Fragm., Verbose, inaccurate and not sufficiently abounding in authorities 1816 Bentham Chrestom. App. I. 79 Wks. 1843 VIII. 122 The primeval or meruditæ analyses — a logical analysis performed upon physical wholes 1889 Lanciani Ane. Rome 1 The simple and inerudite imagination of the Middle Ages.

Hence Ineruditely adv., in an inerudite manner

1851 Sara Coleridge Mem. & Lett. II. 421 It is a great pity that a good poem should begin so carelessly and inerudítely

†Inerudition. Obs. rare—[ad. late L. inerudītion-em (Vulgate) see IN-3 and ERUDITION, cf. F. inérudition Littré.] Want of erudition, unlearned condition 1685 Cotton tr. Montaigne I. 241, I being too conscious of my own inerudition to be able to instruct others.

Inescapable (inesk·păbl), a [IN-1] That cannot be escaped or avoided, inevitable

1792 Burns Let. to Cunningham 15 Sept., An inescapable and immortable hell expanding its leviathan jaws for the vast residue of mortals 1865 Ruskin Sesame 133 To lead us ... with their winged power and guide us, with their inescapable eyes 1872 W. R. Greg Enigmas of Life 239 The inescapable conclusion from all this ratiocination 1895 S. P. Thompson Chem. Lect. Electr. 19 The views which the inescapable logic of facts drove Maxwell to adopt absol. 1896 J. T. Allen Acuta & Cardinal 17 To let this flight from the inescapable ... that make the singing of the redbird thoughtful and plaintive?

†Inescate, v. Obs. [f. ppl. stem of L. inesc-āre to allure with bait; in IN-2 + esca food, bait] = bait 1, to allure with or as with a bait, to entice 1620 Hering Anatomyses 15 Thus they inescate and circumvent poore silly Soules 1628 Prynne Forefend Pref. A Bayte to Inescate, and Beanoor others with 1721 in Bailey.

Hence † Inescating ppl. a., enticing, alluring

1633 Prynne Sov. Pow. Parliaments (1643) II. 89 All the inescating bait inflaming, solicitations that either humane frayle or Satans politick can invent

†Inescation Obs. [ad. late L. inescātion-em, f. inescāt-us, pa. pple. of inescā-re to INESCATE.] The action of attracting with a bait, alluring, an enticement or allurement

1645 Usher Body Div. (1647) 174 Inescation and enticing of the heart with delight 1652 Hallywell Excell. Mon. Liver 129 The Deceitful Allurements and Inescations of Flesh and Blood

2 (See quots.)

1678 Phillips (ed. 4), Inescation, also a kind of trans plantation 1730–6 Bailey (fol.), Inescation (with some pretenders to Physick), a kind of transplantation used in curing some diseases. It is done by impregnating a proper medium or vehicle with some of the mumia or vital spirit of the patient, and giving it to some animal to eat. It is pretended that the animal imbibes and assimilates that mumia with it self unbibing its vicious qualities, by which means the person is restored to health

Inescatory, a. rare—[f. ppl. stem of L. inesc-āre, see INESCATE) + -ORY.] Of med. L. inescatorium allurement.] Of or pertaining to baiting, adapted to bait

1825–43 J. D. Iconnoki Angl. Antiq. I. xi. 1 Pollux mentions mouse traps, inescatory traps, and others with snares

Inescuration, error for INESCATION

†Ineschew able, a. Obs. [f. IN-2 + eschew able from I. SCHEW v.] That cannot be eschewed, unavoidable

1422–30 Lyde Chron. Troy II. xix (MS. Digby 230 If ye be Nor come so fer for to feeche agen The queene Hesyne With outen harmes now in eschewable Inesculent (inesk·ulent, a [IN-3] Not esculent, not used for food, inedible

1832 T. J. Peacock Crotchet Castle II. (1887) 29, I care not a rush (or any other squatic and inesculent vegetable) who or what sucks up either the water or the inflation

Inescutcheon (inesku·tshŏn) Her. Forms: see Escutcheon. [f. IN adv. + Escutcheon] An escutcheon of pretence, or other small escutcheon, charged on a larger escutcheon, in the centre of a bearing, an escutcheon borne in the centre and charged with the red hand of Ulster. Cf. Escutcheon 12.

1610 Guillim Heraldry iv. xii. (1611) 165 The Inescocheon is an ordinarie framed of a lozenge, representing the shape of the escocheon ... This Escocheon is sometimes termed an Escocheon of Pretence 1612 in Selden Titles Hon. (1614) 518 The Baronets ... beare in their Armes a shall and may beare either in a Canton in their Coat of Armes or in an Inescutcheon at their election, the Armes of Vlster 1614 Camden Remo 193 An Inescutcheon of Armes may haue place amongst Augmentations which is the Armes of a wife being an heire generall, inserted in the centre or middle of her Husbands Coate-Armour 1797 Encycl. Brit. (ed. 3) The Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha ... bears the Royal Arms of England, with the 'differences' as previously assigned to him in the country on an inescutcheon upon the whole surface.

Inesite (ai·nsait) Min. [Named 1887, f. Gr. ἶνες fibres + -ITE.] Hydrous silicate of manganese and calcium, found in flesh coloured fibrous masses

1889 Amer. Jrnl. Sc. Ser. III. XXXVII. 20 Inesite

†Inespecial, obs. erroneous writing of the phrase in especial especially: see Especial a. 4

1568 Grafton Chron. II. 478 None of his counsail durst once speake unto him, and inespecial the Ladie Machell his wife was in great feare to be forsaken †Inespecially, adv. Obs. [f. phr. in especial (see prec.) + -LY 2, also found as two words in especially.] In an especial manner, especially 1557 Norde tr. Guevara's Dial. Ep. 92 b, The women, and inespecially grieue ladies know not [etc.] 1563 Old Eng. Chron. (1956) 213 As to tonic hys penny into Prouince, he thought it behoued him not at the time so to do: but in especially for that he was sore afraid for Labienus. 1570 Bossewell Armorie II. 258 b, Inespecially they must be so ordered at theare funerals. 1633 Lond. Prent. Sect. 1 If I vow myself your servant, only yours, inespecially yours.

In ease see Ease 1.

+ Inessence Obs rare—° [IN-3] 1643 COCKERAM II The not Being of a thing. Inessentia, Inessence

+ In-essent, a Obs rare—¹ [f IN adv + L. essent-, essent-em, assumed pres ppl of esse to be] That is within

1648 FELTHAM Resolves II [I] INESSENT 254 When the ayre is thus moued it comes by degrees to the eare and [in] by that in-essent Ayre, carried to the Auditory nerue

Inessential (inesse nʃəl), a (sb) [IN-3]

1 Devoid of essence, unsubstantial, immaterial

1677 GALE Crt Gentiles iv 217 Of these Names [of the Deity] some are negative signifying that Supersessential Being as, inessential, without time, independent 1754 ARMSTRONG Forced Marriage 85, Can you not a ghost then? as inessential As the vain rainbow? 1813 SHELLEY Q Mab VII 71 His inessential figure cast no shade Upon the golden floor 1818 — Rev Islam I xxv When life and thought sprang forth, they burst the womb of inessential Nought

2 Not essential, not of the essence of a thing; not necessary or indispensable to the constitution or existence of any thing

1836 MACCULLOCH tr Humboldt's Trav xxiii 64 To consider man as inessential to the order of nature 1849 ROMAN SCH Lamps II § 30 Ornament is an extraneous and inessential thing. 1886 SYMONDS Renaiss It, Catholic React (1898) VII 116 Details so imaginative as to be in essential

B sb That which is inessential

1778 BENTHAM View Hard Labour bill § 43, Why 1843 IV 22 An anxious attention to the inessentials and externals of religion. 1865 Eng Jrnl Life II 265 She yields to me in what she terms inessentials

Inessentiality (inesɛnʃiæ·liti [f prec + -ITY.] The quality of being inessential

1850 J H STIRLING Gifford Lect 178 Contingency in this sense is inessentiality, adventitiousness, extrinsicality

Inessive (ine·siv), a Gram [irreg f L. inesse to be in or at (f. in- (IN-2) + esse to be) + -IVE] Denoting the place in which a thing is, locative

1886 J TAYLOR in W & Q 7th Ser I 402 The suffix stan or stan is the sign of the inessive or locative case in Basque 1896 Edin Rev Jan 84 In Finnish the student must remember the nominative, partitive, genitive, inessive and instructive

+ Ine stimabi lity. Obs rare—¹ [f next + -ITY.] The quality or fact of being inestimable

1678 CLOUDEN Infall Jesus 131 § 82 241 Do you think that you are able to determine what Length or Quantity of Time there hath been since Cities first began? there is a kind of Infinity and Inestimability in this time

Inestimable (ine stimăb'l), a (sb [a 1 inestimabilis, (14th c. in Hatz-Darm.), ad ¹ in estimabilis, ¹ in (IN-3) + æstimābilis ESTIMABLE.]

1 Incapable of being estimated, that cannot be reckoned up or computed, too great, profound, or intense to be estimated

c 1374 CHAUCER Boeth v pr iii 123 (Camb MS) The gerdon of be dyuyne grace which þat is inestymable Pat is to seyn but it is so gret þat it may nat ben ful yprey syd 1480 Mirk & Lecebam (1) 20 On suthyr syde of the fur veyde hye hylle was so grete and inestymable coolde that ys euyr of snowe and Hayle 1555 EDEN Decades 253 With great ingenuousnesse and inestimable patience these nations haue ouercome much greeter difficulties 1601 R JOHNSON Kingd & Commw 181 The number of oxen and sheepe was inestimable 1722 DE FOE Mem Cavalier (1840) 47 The wealth consumed was inestimable. 1875 JOWETT Plato (ed 2) I 84 A companion of inestimable value for young men at their age

b Too precious to be estimated, of surpassing value or excellence, priceless, invaluable

1579 R GARDINER Shifts Epist Gifte dedicated to the Pope's Holiness in emperis of diuers singular and inestimable Reliques sent into England 1594 SHAKS Rich III, I iv 27 Wedges of Gold great Anchors, heapes of Pearle, Inestimable stones, vnualued Iewels. 1635 SIR COMPTON Parables in 1000 At last th inestimable Hour was come, to lead his Conquering Prey in Triumph home 1771 JUNIUS Prospect Libels Wks 1842 II 492 His charter, the inestimable monument of English freedom 1827 LYTTON Pelham xxi, He would have been inestimable as an under taker 1879 M ARNOLD St Paul, Demon 17 Of one inestimable part of liberty, liberty of thought, the middle class has been the principal champion

+ 2 quasi-adv = INESTIMABLY Obs

1460 FORTESCUE Abs & Lam Wom xii (1885 12) Ihu þat is well all way be grete, and so inestimable gret. Ibid 1581 W STANLEY Trans Comfort II 1896 62 In wide wise men say that the Queenes highnesse I either did wanne inestimable great summes by the alteration of her coine

3 [f IN- + ESTIMABLE.] Unworthy of esteem rare

1821 Henry & Isabella II 210 None but the inestimable would offer insolence

B as sb A person of inestimable merit

1787 FIELDING Love in Several Masques I Wks 1882 VIII 2 But have I never seen this inestimable?

Hence Ine stimableness (Bailey vol II, 1727)

Inestimably (ine stimăbli), adv [f prec + -LY²] In an inestimable manner or degree

1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1532) 179b Whiche thus confoundeth yᵉ deuyll & delyteth aungell & man in estimably 1647 H MORE Song of Soul III iii vii, So Paul and John that into Patmos went, Heard and saw things in estimably excellent 1824 SCOTT Penn Lett 4 June II 206 Poor Byron's loss will be inestimably felt by the Greeks 1860 MILL Repr Govt (1865) 17 Their religion gave existence to an inestimably precious unorganized institution —the Order of Prophets

+ In-estimal, a Obs rare—¹ INESTIMABLE 1678 Jng Man's Call 318 Consider the inestimal joys prepared for them, who have triumpht over all the powers of darkness, hell, death, and damnation

+ Ine stimate, v Obs rare—¹ [f IN- + ESTIMATE ppl a] = INESTIMABLE

1614 ROWLANDS Looke Bolt 34 No mina a hap inestimate, Thou hast wrought me a freemans life, By taking hence my troubling wife

† Ine stuate, v Obs rare—° [f ppl stem of I inestuare to foam or boil in, f in- (IN-2) + æstuare to be hot, boil, f æstus heat]

1656 BLOUNT Glossogr, Inestuate, to be very hot, to boil vehemently

Ineuch, Ineugh, Inewch, obs ᵂᵉ ff INOUGH

Ineunt (i neunt, a and sb [ad I ineunt-em entering, beginning, pres ppl of inire to go in, enter, f in- (IN-2) + ire to go]

A adj Entering

1836 SIR W HAMILTON Metaph xii II 4-3 In place of two circles, in immanent and a transeunt, we may competently suppose three,—an ineunt, an immanent, and a transeunt The ineunt energy might be considered as an act of mind, directed upon objects in order to know them

B sb A point of a curve Also ineunt point

1850 CAYLEY Nth Pure Quantics § 185 Instead of the term point I employ, it will be convenient to use the term ineunt of the curve The line through two consecutive ineunts of the curve is the tangent at the ineunt

Inevadible (i nē·vădĭb'l) = inevadible EVADABLE.] = INEVASIBLE Hence Ineva dibly adv in a way not to be evaded

1842 in QUINCEY Philos Herod Ora Wks 1856 IX 201 For us, who know its truth, and how inevadibly it must have haunted for months the Egyptians

† Inevange lic, a Obs rare—° [IN-1] Not evangelical, unevangelical Hence † Inevange lically adv, unevangelically

1683 in HOOKER Lett Deceased Wives D 19 Super stitiously superfluous, immorally obstreperous and most inevangelich malevolous

Inevasible (inē·vă zĭb'l, a [IN-3] Not to be evaded, that cannot be evaded 1846 WORCESTER cite Fr tic Rev 1880 MRS WHITNEY Odd or Even xl 49 Their were absolute verities of life presented there that were tangible, inevasible.

Inevidence (ine videns Now rare [IN-1 Cf mod F inévidence. Littre.] Lack of evidence, the fact of being incident

† 1 Want of evidence or manifestation of some thing Obs

a 1654 J ROBINSON Comm Hum Chr Belg Wks 1851 I 93 It is not so much the inevidence of marks and fruits that makes them doubt 1667 FLAVEL Saint Indeed (1754) 10 The hiding of the face, the presence of corruption, and the inevidence of grace 1698 NORRIS Pract Hum (1707) IV 146 When I talk is said to be of inevident things the meaning is not of an absolute but of a Relative inevidence

+ 2 Uncertainty Obs

1658 B REYNOLDS Last Creatures Wks (1677) 6 He opposeth the life of God, to the vanity and uncertainty, the worldly, to the inevidence of Reason a 1677 BARROW Serm (1683) I xxxi 449 Charge them that they be not high minded, not trust in uncertain riches en réservoir obligeant to the inevidence, fallacy or prevalence of riches (Cf 1 Tim vi 17)

3 The condition of not being evident or clearly discernible, want of clearness, obscurity rare

1671 HALE Fount of Life xvi 63 If those things, concerning which the controversie of the Invisibleness and Cloudiness of thy Interest in Him 1681 — Meth Grace vi 129 It may come to from the inevidence of the promises 1879 COLERIDGE Eng Lit I 69 note, This is clear by the inevidence of the converse

Inevident (ine vidĕnt), a Now rare [ad late L inevident-em (Boeth.) see IN-1 and EVIDENT cf F inévident (Littre.)] Not evident, not manifest, lacking evidence, not clear or obvious, obscure

1614 JACKSON Creed III xxxii Comm iii Bk, (To va inevident being aswell the duine reuelations, as the Churches infallible assent thereto) 1623 WODROEPHEN Spec Europ (inuendentes) a 1643 W PYNDLE Bks (1655) 94 Know ledge is an assent to things evident, Beliefe an assent to things inevident 1656 B. HALL Recon Hall (1660) 149 Our Schoolmen make distinction of a certainty, evident and inevident a 1725 BP CONYBEARE Serm III (1732) 4 Vnintelligible to those things which are of them selves inevident. Mod Newspaper, Any sermons widening out and flow in the skirt, the cause whereof is beautifully inevident

Inevitability (ine vităbi liti) [f next see -ITY Cf mod F inévitabilité.] The quality of being inevitable, inevitableness Also with an and pl An instance of this

1649 JER TAYLOR Ct Rising Ad § 8 P 6 Ambition falls under the inevitability of such Accidents which either could not be foreseen or not prevented 1675 WOODHEAD, etc Paraphr Pearl 25 This inevitability of sinning 1847 MRS THOMAS Horace Sinaica (Rattw ed) 47 By the help of that effectual mind strengthener inevitability, the Bishop bore this 'contretemps' rather better than his lady expected 1871 R H HUTTON Ess (1880) II Goethe 25 He was already beginning to accommodate himself to all inevitabilities

Inevitable (ine vităb'l), a [ad L inevitābilis unavoidable, f in- (IN-3) + evitābilis EVITABLE, f evitare to avoid Cf F inévitable (1549 in R Estienne).] That cannot be avoided, not admitting of escape or evasion, unavoidable

c 1430 Life St Kath (1884) 52 My body whyche altar be inculpable lawe of nature abydeth to be resolued in to dep c 1510 BARCLAY Mirr Gd Manners (1570) D iv, What should he dreade of death? it is inuitable, The generall duetie and tribute of nature 1606 SHAKS Ant & Cl IV xiv 65 When I should see behinde me Th inuitable prose cution of disgrace and horror 1678 W ROW Contin Blair's Autobiogr x (1848) 212 There was an inevitable necessity laid upon them 1750 GRAY Elegy 35 All Await alike th' inevitable hour 1795 SOUTHEY Joan of Arc x 508 [He] then beholds the inevitable shark Close on him open mouthed 1838 THIRLWALL Greece V xl 132 A battle became inevitable 1860 TYNDALL Glac II ii 28 The conclusion seems inevitable that the mountain is sinking by its own weight

b absol The inevitable, that which is inevitable, what cannot be avoided or escaped

1850 CARLYLE Latter-d Pamph iv 56 Our one interest in such Government is, that it would be kind enough to cease and go its ways, before the inevitable arrive 1887 LOWELL Democ 16 There is no good in arguing with the inevitable

Inevitableness (ine vităbl·nĕs) [f prec + -NESS] The quality or condition of being inevitable or unavoidable

1626 DONNE Serm lxxxvii 861 Whatsoever the Prophets say of, they meane not thereby to intimate in it inevitableness upon thyselfe 1695 H DODWELL Def Ld Bps 16 There was no good in arguing with the inevitableness of their sufferings

Inevitably (ine vitabli), adv [f as prec + -LY²] In an inevitable manner, unavoidably

1447 BOKENHAM Seyntys (Roxb) 133 Allas quoth he euene as a stranger Inwardly I must dwell in here 1594 HOOKER Eccl Pol Pref II § 8 All good men were now in outtably ccttame to be trampled under foot 1667 MILTON P L VII 130 For know The day thou eat st thereof in extably thou shalt dye, From that day mortal 1862 H SIDGWICK Pract Ethics II vi 83 (1874) 106 The uniformity of law thus follows inevitably from the persistence of force

Inew, obs ᵂᵉ form of ENOW pl of enough

+ Inew, ᵛᵃʳ of INEW v Obs Hence + Inewing ppl a, driving into water

1596 HALLIWELL Rhym Nurs (1814) 47 The fine phrase of hewing a woodcock + Inewch, variant of ineuch, ENOUGH.

Inexact (inegzæ·kt) [IN-1 Cf F inexact (1701 in Hatz-Darm.)] Not exact, not strictly correct or precise, also, not strict or rigorous.

1828 WEBSTER, Inexact, not exact, not strictly correct or true 1837 WHEWELL Hist Inductive Sc (1857) I 83 This statement of the ancient writer is inexact 1875 JOWETT Thucyd 2 II 390 The estimate was certainly very inexact manner 1883 Comm Mag Apr 620 The records of an amusement on the top of a house are, from their very nature, inexact

b Of a person Characterized by inexactness of knowledge, statement, etc

1849 MACAULAY Hist Eng xii II 278 note, Burnet was far indeed from being the most inexact historian of his time 1875 WHITNEY Life Lang viii 150 Inexact thinkers

Inexactitude (inegzæ·ktitud) [IN-1 Cf F inexactitude (1701 in Hatz-Darm.)] The quality or character of being inexact, want of exactitude, accuracy, or precision, inexactness Also (with pl) an instance of this, an inaccuracy

1786 T JEFFERSON Writ (1850) II 48 Further enquiry has satisfied me of the inexactitude of this information 1865 CONYBEARE Eccles Ess VI xi 2 (1892) VI 181 The long never pardons any fault which tends to inexactitude in the Military Service 1869 J MARTINEAU Ess II 83 The author's inexactitude of thought and expression 1875 POSTE Gaium III (ed 2) 481 This must be regarded as an inexactitude of Ulpian 1881 Times 11 Apr 5/3 There may be inexactitudes of detail in this document

Inexa ctly, adv [f INEXACT + -LY²] In an inexact or inaccurate manner, not with perfect correctness

1849 MACAULAY Hist Eng xii (1858) II 421 He [William of Orange] spoke and wrote English, French, and German inelegantly, it is true, and inexactly, but fluently and intelligibly 1875 WHITNEY Life Lang 34 All through the life long process of learning one's mother tongue, one is liable to apprehend wrongly, and to reproduce inexactly

Inexactness (inegzæ·ktnĕs) [f as prec + -NESS] The quality of being inexact, want of precision, inaccuracy Also with an and pl An instance of this

1828 WEBSTER, Inexactness, incorrectness, want of precision 1841 MYERS Cath Th II § 25 9 An instance of literal inexactness in the Gospel narratives 1846 LANDOR Imag Conv Wks I 254 They do exclude us at, which some times shows inexactnesses where mensuration would be tardy and incommodious 1899 Q Rev Jan 113 To sweep it [language] away because of its inadequacy and inexactness would be to sweep away the thoughts which it has more or less inadequately preserved

Inexaltable, -rable see INEXBAT

+ Ine·xcellence. Obs rare—¹ [IN-3] Want of excellence, the opposite of excellence. So + Ine·xcellency

1590 MARLOWE and Pt Tamburl v iii, Blush, heaven, to lose the honour of thy name And let no baseness in thy haughty breast Sustain a shame of such inexcellence [or inexcellence]

Inexcitability (inekṣaităbi liti) rare [f next + -ITY] The quality of being unexcitable, constitutional calmness.

1864 in WEBSTER 1876 I. HARDY Ethelberta xxvii (1890) 201 She had set him down to be a man whose external inexcitability owed nothing to sensitiveness

Inexcitable (inɛksəi·tăbl), a rare [In sense 1 (stressed inexcitable), and L. inexcitābilis, f. IN-3 + excitabilis, in 2, f. IN-3 + EXCITABLE.]

†1 From which one cannot be roused. Obs. (Cf. Seneca Epist lxxxiii 13 somnus inexcitabilis.)

1616 CHAPMAN Homer's Il. xi, Hymn to Venus 9 Ill. What pleasure lets Humor steepe Thy lidds, in thus inexcitable sleepes? 1651 I. STANLEY Poems, Fancies 48 A long obscure inexcitable sleep

2 Not excitable, not liable to excitement

1828 in WEBSTER 1846 LAWSON Interp. Coun. Wks I 68/1 Ammonites [have grown] tame, inert, and inexcitable Inexclu·dible, a rare—1 [IN-3.] That cannot be excluded.

1828 BENTHAM Constitution App § 12 Wks 1843 VIII 109 By the derivation, and thence by the inexcludible import, of the word between

Inexclusively (inekslū·sivli), adv [IN-1.] Not exclusively; so as not to exclude others

1789 BENTHAM Prin. Legisl viii § 8 When an incident is directly intentional it may either be exclusively so or inexclusively 1820 Annl. Monthly Mag IV 32 Every theatre should possess inexclusively the right to represent the ancient dramatic authors

†Inexodo·getable, Obs. rare—1 [ad L. inexcōgitabilis incomprehensible, f. in- (IN-3) + excōgitabilis EXCOGITABLE.] Incapable of being excogitated, inconceivable, incogitable

1599 R. LINCHE Fount Anc Fict. That unspeakable wisdome and inexcogitable care 1721 in BAILEY

Inexcommunicable, a rare [IN-3.] That cannot be excommunicated

1610 DONNE Pseudo-Mart 59 So may they prodigally extend the name and priviledge of inexcommunicable Locusts to many in the other orders 1617 COLLINS Div. Bp Ely II x 331 A multitude is inexcommunicable

†Inexcu·lt, a Obs rare—0 [ad L. inexcultus, f. in- (IN-3) + excultus cultivated, polished.]

1623 COCKERAM, Inexcult, rude, not polisht

Inexcu·rsive, a rare [IN-1.] Not excursive, incapable of a wide range of flight

1837 LANDOR Pentameron Wks 1846 II 353 2 Allegory had few attractions for me: believing it to be the delight, in general, of idle, frivolous, inexcursive minds

Inexcu·sably rare [f next sec. + -IFY] = INEXCUSABLENESS

1883 R. F. LITTLEDALE in Academy 8 Dec. 368 In his eyes the worst of all the sins committed by the Leaguers in history, surpassing murder itself in criminality and inexcusability, was breaking up the Hardwallow hunt

Inexcusable (inekskū·zăbl), a [ad L. inexcūsābilis, f. in- (IN-3) + excūsābilis EXCUSABLE Cf. F. inexcusable (1474 in Hatz.-Darm.).] Not excusable, incapable of being excused or justified

a Of persons

1596 LINDALE Rom II 2 Therfore arte thou inexcusable [Vulg. inexcusabilis, WYCLIF inexcusable] o man 1548 LD. SOMERSET Epist. Scots B b b, Nothyng should be left, of our part vnofered, nodwyse of your part vnrefused wherby you might be inexcusable 1660 STILLINGFL. Orig. Sacr. III § 13 Those Philosophers who questioned the existence of a Deity were not so inexcusable therein, as our Modern Atheists 1775 BURKE Sp. Conc. Amer. Wks III 37, I should be inexcusable in coming after such a person with any detail

b Of conduct or actions

1555 EDEN Decades Pref (Arb.) 55 Howe muche I saye shall this sounde vnto owre reproche and inexcusable sloth fulnesse and negligence 1645 GOD I in Bulstr. Self-Def. Ser 1 111 313 The strange and most inexcusable delverye upp of the Castle and Port of Bristoll 1728 STEELE Spect No 484 ¶ 2 It is inexcusable in Men to come where they have no Business 1829 LYTTON Disowned xliv, He made no reply to the inexcusable affront he had received 1872 BLACKIE Four Phases I 31 It is inexcusable to condemn an honest thinker to death for simple heterodoxy with altogether inexcusable

Inexcu·sableness. [f prec. + -NESS.] The quality of being inexcusable

1618-25 BP. HALL Contempl. O. T. xv 1, If God had not meant the inexcusableness of Jehoram 1684 J. GOODWIN Old Relig (1848) 93 The inexcusableness of a total and final omission of it 1716 SOUTH Serm (1737) II vii 263 I then inexcusableness is stated upon the supposition of this very thing. That they knew God, but for all that, did not glorify him as God

Inexcusably (inekskū·zăbli), adv [f. as prec. + -LY2.] In an inexcusable or unjustifiable manner

1587 HARNAR Brief. Serm 15 b, Behold here who trem Eues, and after her Adam, did fall inexcusably 1598 GOUGE Gods Three Arrows I iii § 1 122 Who is more inexcusably guilty, for the omission of any duty, they that either haue no meanes to doe it, or they which professe to haue meanes to doe it? 1785 SARAH FIELDING Ophelia II vi, I should have thought myself inexcusably ingrateful 1875 WHITNEY Life Lang viii 139 Here is an inexcusably gross misrepresentation

Inexcuse assable, -ible, a. rare—0 [f. IN-3 + EXCUSABLE.] That cannot be shaken out or off

Hence Inexcuse asably (-ibly) adv., in an inexcusable manner, so as not to be shaken out

1826 T. L. PEACOCK Headlong Hall xi, Grasped firmly and inexcusably in the hands

¶ Inexecrable, a Obs rare In quot 1594, a misprint for inexorable, in quot 1596, 2 folios 3 and 4, and some mod. edd. have inexorable, but some would retain inexecrable in the sense, or as an intensive, of EXECRABLE

1594 CONSTABLE Diana VIII 1, Though shee protests the faithfullest severitie, an execrable beautie is inflicting 1596 SPENSER State Ireland Wks 1679 I 628/2 He thom shamed, inexecrable deuyse, And for thy life let trustie be accused

Inexecutable (inɛksɪ·kiutăbl), a [f. IN-1 + EXECUTABLE. Cf. F. inexécutable a neologism in 1746, Hatz.-Darm.] That cannot be executed

1823 New NEVIN 535 They are the creatures of circumstances—the victims of their own inexecutable system of government 1837 CARLYLE Fr. Rev. II v v The King has decided this Constitution shall execute it on the hope mainly that it will be found inexecutable 1861 M. ARNOLD Pop. Edn. France 19 But the arbitrary and violent provisions of this law made it inexecutable

Inexecution (inɛksɪkiū·shn). [IN-1 + F. exécution c1600 in Hatz.-Darm.] Lack or neglect of execution, the fact or condition of not being executed, non-execution, non-performance

1681 STATE Plots Radcliffe 16 Complaints of the Inexecution of the Law 1790 OLIVER Lectures Rome I 55 If any one of my Fellow Citizens still condemns me for the Inexecution of my Word, I willingly put [etc.] 1805 J. JEBB Speech 18 (1830) IV 35 His intervention of orders baffled that effort 1825 BENTHAM Autocn Rev 188 Block stone complains of their inexecution He did not perceive that a law which is not executed is ridiculous

Inexertion (inegzɜ·shən). [IN-1.] Want of exertion, failure to exert (oneself); or exercise of power or faculty; inaction

1794-6 F. BLAIR in Spottiswoode Misc. (1845) II 360 A temporary inexertion of the brain 1829 D. O'CONNELL in Buchanan's Hist. (1843) XI 21, I give myself six or seven weeks here of complete mental inexertion 1886 Daily News 14 Oct. 5/6 Those four or five weeks for past inexertion against bad laws in agricultural Wales

Inexha·ble, a rare—1 [IN-3.] Not exhalable, that cannot be exhaled or evaporated

1650 SIR T. BROWNE Pseud Ep III xxvii 151 A new liquor contains a greater stock of humid parts, which must be evaporated, before the heat can bring the inexhalable parts into consistence †Inexhau·rible, a Obs rare—0 [IN-1 + I exhaurire to exhaust see -IBLE.] = INEXHAUSTIBLE 1 and 2 in INEXHAURIT adj.

1658 BLOUNT Glossogr. Inexhaustible, a disability to draw out or empty Charleton 1658-78 PHILLIPS, Inexhaustible, or Inexhaurible, not to be drawn out or emptied Inexhaurible omitted in 1706.

†Inexhau·st, a Obs [ad L. inexhaustus, f. in- (IN-3) + exhaustus EXHAUST ppl. a.] = next

1612 T. TAYLOR Comm. Titus iii 4 God the inexhaust fountaine of all goodnes 1615 SIR F. HOBY Apocr. Jonah, 1 68 It must be an inexhaust treasure indeed, that can stop a Popelings mouth 1668 GODWYN Relief to the Spirit (1867) 3, 5 An inexhaust abyss of all excellency

Inexhausted (inegzɔ·stĕd), a [IN-1.] Not exhausted, unexhausted

1626 SCLATER Comm 2 Thess (1629) 91 That they stand so long inexhausted is by the word of God supporting them 1655 J. SMITH Sel. Disc. v 168 Human notions of that inexhausted light which is above. 1721 ADDISON Spect No 111 ¶ 9 Inexhausted Sources of Perfection 1846 TRENCH Mirac. xiv (1862) 271 Himself the inexhausted and inexhaustible source of all life

Hence Inexhau·stedly adv., without exhaustion

1884 J. HAMILTON Early Church II xi 43 A third Glass that pierceth further still makes new discoveries of Stars, and so forwards indefinitely and inexhaustedly for any thing we know

Inexhaustibility (inegzɔ·stibi·liti) [f. next see -ITY.] The quality of being inexhaustible, inexhaustibleness 1834 Frasers Mag. X 437 Can a poet control the exhaustibility of his own better than he does the inexhaustibility of the human fancy? 1865 CARLYLE Frederick VI xvi (1872) VI 273 A dexterity, felicity, inexhaustibility of laughing power, in the man!

Inexhaustible (inegzɔ·stibl), a Also 8–9 able [IN-3 + Cf. OF. inexhaustible (13–16th c. in Godef.).] Not exhaustible

1 Incapable of being exhausted, consumed, or spent; exhaustless

1631 DONNE in Select (1840) 65 A free pardon by the incorruptible and inexhaustible blood of Christ Jesus 1656 COWLEY Vain Pref. to Pin., Employing all her inexhaustible Riches of Wit and Eloquence 1729 BERKELEY Theophr. ii § 14 If you had an inexhaustible fund of gold and silver 1766 PENNANT Zool (1768) I Pref 4 Our inexhaustible stock of coal 1841 EMERSON Nature Addr. 11 Nature is the most inexhaustible supply 1873 HAMERTON Intell. Life viii 111, A noble loch in its inexhaustible loveliness

2 Of an expedient or device: Incapable of being exhausted or emptied of contents

An inexhaustible bottle a toy used by conjurors, and other, it consists of an opaque bottle containing within it generally three small flasks, which communicate with the external five small holes, each phial has also a small neck which passes up into the neck of the bottle, the phials are filled with different liquors any of which may at will be allowed to pour out by opening the proper hole and letting in air

1691 R. JOHNSON Xingd & Commw (1693) 40 The cone and provision of the inexhaustible garners of Apulia, Sicil, Sardinia 1696 J. HALL Horæ Vac 182 Rather free of their countenance then parsy, which as it cannot be inexhaustible, so [etc.] 1709 ADDISON Tatler No 119 ¶ 1 The present Age by the Invention of Glasses, opened a new and inexhaustible Magazine of Rarities

3 Of a person or his attributes: Incapable of being exhausted or worn out in strength or vigour

1762 GIBBON Tent 23 Sept., He has inexhaustible spirits 1842 TYTLER Zanoni 4 The inexhaustible Paisiello charmed with her performance 1848 A. B. LONGSTRETH Georgia Scenes 237 Their buoyant unconquered zeal, however, almost inexhaustible, by 1861 1879 DISRAELI Tancred III 288 Berwick is at Marlborough in inexhaustible intrigue

†Inexhaustibleness inegzɔ·stibl-nes [f. prec. + -NESS] The quality of being inexhaustible

1727 in BAILEY vol II 1827 HALL Contin. Ser I 187 176 A storm of love the purity and inexhaustibleness of which betokened its heavenly origin 1845 HOOD Pappenheim's Invln. Ann. Kings II 1 This inexhaustibleness of the enemy was particularly felt by Ludwig 1862 BEETON Bk. Household 1086/1 No one can grapple with history without feeling its inexhaustibleness

Inexhau·stibly, adv. [f. as prec. + -LY2.] In an inexhaustible manner or degree

1694 F. BRAND Pub. Parables VIII 4 Upon a inexhaustibly full 1716 SOUTH Serm X 76 Ch. Corp never to be drank off inexhaustibly full incomceably better 1838 Frasers Mag XVII 523 Iron brought here inexhaustibly Inexhaustive (inegzɔ·stiv), a [IN-1.] Not exhaustive.

1 = INEXHAUSTIBLE exhaustless.

1728-46 THOMSON Autumn 428 Ah where foul word those aromatic kobs, That inexhaustive flow continual round? 1799 SOUTHEY Madoc in Wales I. Pref. We Contemplate What inexhaustive springs of pollte wealth The vast design required 1838 Fraser's Mag XVIII 523 The sea nourishes an inexhaustive store of shells

2 That does not exhaust the subject dealt with

1865 Pall Mall Ga 14 May 11 It [a book] is admittedly desultory and mesh-suited

Hence Inexhau·stively adv. in an inexhaustive manner, inexhaustibly, in a way that does not exhaust the matter 1882 Athen. Nat Addy. 122 Occupation for the thought so inexhaustively interesting.

Inexhaustless, a [I rroneous formation, due to confusion of inexhausted (or inexhaustible, and exhaustless.] Unexhausted, exhaustless

1739 G. OGLE Caithona & Cressida 60 Her Strength of Soul A pure but in exhaustless Source of Love 1811 Lit. Secret of Cancer II 240 Possessing an inexhaustless source of entertainment within themselve 1867 BAILEY Era Heaven 8 Who shows, On spiritual and natural world alike His inexhaustle s good

Inexigible (inɛksi·jibl), a [IN-3 + So mod. l. inexigibile.] That cannot be exacted

1818 BENTHAM Ch. Lang. 200 Duties now to be [duties] of imperfect obligation—the inexigible services so often distinguished and explained

Inexist (inegzi·st, v. [f. IN-2 + EXIST v. see INEXISTENT a.] intr. To exist or have its being in something else Hence Inexi·sting ppl. a. the inexistent, inherent

1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I 1 § 31 38 Nothing can be made ἐκ μὴ ὄντος or ex non-ente, or προυπάρχοντος, from nothing, either inexistent, or preexisting. 1704 J. NORRIS Ess. III 69 How can that which is created coexist with the Ingenit God? how much less can it inexist in Him? 1768-74 TUCKER Light Nat (1834) II 189 The unlimited extent, duration, and the thought of it inexists in my understanding 1855 PUSEY Ps in Rom Penance Note S 747 The inexisting Wisdom of God the Father 1874 — Lent Serm 447 Now the Ever blessed Trinity, Each Person inexisting in the Other

Inexistence (inegzi·stĕns) [f. IN-2 + EXISTENCE. Cf. INEXISTENT and INESSE.] The fact or condition of existing in something

1635 PAGET Christianogr 134 By reason of their mutuall inexistence 1654 WHICHCOTE Aphor 170 There was an inexistence of being, of all men in Adam 1678 CUDWORTH Intell Syst I iv § 28 Of these three Hypostases or Persons Some have a Mutual Circumgression and Circuncession, Inexistence, and Permeation of one another 1684 BOYLE Nat Hist Spir 82 He may be also inabled to discover the presence or inexistence of divers other Minerals 1871 BRAMWELL Life Berkeley 4 Separate inexistence in perception is one phase of the dualism of Berkeley)

Inexi stence 2 Now rare [f. IN-1 + EXISTENCE. Cf. INEXISTENT a. and -ENCE.] In mod. P. = inexistence (INTRO.)

The fact or condition of not existing, non-existence

1623 COCKERAM I The not Being of a thing. Inexistence In whose 1648 BOYLE Seraph Love (1660) 68 Our Inexistence was a condition wherein nothing in us was capable of being a Motive of God's love 1728 WILLIAMS Revel. Nat III 48 note That way, which some Sceptics take to prove the inexistence of truth 1785 REGOMM Occ Obs II 1 He calls up the bones of former ages from a state of inexistence to adorn and advertise his poem 1830 W. PHILLIPS Summ II 442 Till Death drop stricken on his latest prey, Io inexistence starved

†Inexi stency1. Obs [f. IN-2 + EXISTENCY see INEXISTENT a. and -ENCY.] = INEXISTENCE 1 also (with pl.), something inexistent or inherent (cf. INEXISTENCE 2)

1674 BAXTER Saint et Endor 382 This Moral Capacity is grown into a true Natural Inexistency or Conjunction 1768-74 TUCKER Lit Nat (1834) I 346 The inexistencies held forms, ideas and truths, to be eternal in the Divine Mind

They were not God, nor attributes nor yet distinct substances, but inexistencies in Him which inexistency was both a substance and not a substance, and so carrying the advantages of either

†Inexistency2. Obs [f. IN-2 + EXISTENCY see INEXISTENT a. and -ENCY.] = INEXISTENCE 2

1599 Stanyhurst Hist. Ireland vii (1809) 183/2 The Dog matians take away Hippocentaures, instancing them as examples of Inexistency

Inexistent (inegzi·stent, a[1] Also 7 -ant [ad. late L inexistent-em (Boethius), f. in- (In-[2] + ex-existent-em existing, Existent.] Existing or having its being in something else, inherent 1553 Bale Gardiners Detected F iij a, Both scriptures and reasons do allow it [the supreme head of the Church], as a thing inexistent unto the name of a prince and of a king. 1678 Cudworth Intell. Syst. I. i. § 14. 15 [tr. Aristotle] Empedocles and Democritus say that Generation is not the Production of any new Entity, but only the Secretion of what was before Inexistent. 1768-74 Tucker Lt. Nat. (1834) II. 120 The ideas of pain, anger &c. &c. doubt too frequently inexistent in the minds of men.

Inexi·stent, a[2] Obs. [In[1] + Ex-istant (Littre, med. or mod. L inexistens.] Not existing, having no existence, non-existent. (In quot. 1704, said of a state in which the person is as if non-existent.)

1646 Sir T. Browne Pseud. Epid. v. xx. 264 They took a liberty to comp sund and piece together creatures of allow whole formes into mixtures inexistent. 1704 Swift Tale of a Tub Ded. (Oh sheep!) Still in thy downy Arms embrace my Friend, Nor loose him from his inexistent Trance.

Inexorability (inekso·rabi·liti). [ad. L. inexorabilitas see next and ITY.] The quality or character of being inexorable, incapability of being prevailed upon by entreaty, relentless or rigid severity

1606 Dekker Sev. Sinnes, Warning (Arb.) 41 Audacitie shifting Inexorability and Unquietnesse. 1748 Richardson Clarissa (1811) VIII. xi. 58 Violence and fierce wrath, and inexorability. 1849 Disraeli Tancred v. xi. What sublime inexorability in the law! 1874 Bishop Forgiven & Law ii. 141 The dread inexorabilities of justice

Inexorable (ine·ksŏrabl), a (b) [ad. L. inexorabilis, f. in- (In-[3]) + exorabilis that can be entreated, f. exorare, perh. after F. inexorable (15–16th c. in Hatz.-Darm.)] Incapable of being persuaded or moved by entreaty, that cannot be prevailed upon to yield to request, esp. in the way of mercy or indulgence, not to be moved from one's purpose or determination, relentless, rigidly severe. a. Of persons, their actions or attributes.

1553 Brende Q. Curtius (1570) 80 b, Nowe is Alexander inexorable hee was to such as hee hamme by force. 1598 Shaks. Rom. & Jul. v. iii. 38 More inexorable farre, then mpitie Lyons, or the roaring Sea. 1653 Manning Vade ompan iv. v. Your excuse shall prevail. We are not inexorable upon extremity. 1697 Dryden Virg. Georg. iii. 11 Death's inexorable Doom. 1709 Pope Iliad i. 19 Pastoral Ballad (1717) 231 The Spaniards are cruel, inexorable, uncharitable, voracious. 1847 Disraeli Tancred ii. Her mouth spoke inexorable sentences. 1878 Purcell Pascal ii. 12 An if the uttermost farthing alone would mitigate the everity of the inexorable demand

b. fig. Of things (chiefly personified)

1600 Holland Livy 45·8 (R.) Laws . . are things deafe and inexorable. 1621 Burton Anat. Mel. I. ii. 1 (1651) 215 incan said of the gout, she was the queen of diseases, and inexorable. 1730 Shirley (Dk. Buckhm.) Hec. (1753) I. 196 [Destiny] is inflexible and inexorable. 1858 Carlyle Frederick the G. I. i. (1872) I. 13 How entirely inexorable is the nature of facts

B sb A person who is inexorable.

1748 Richardson Clarissa (1811) V. 257 The fair inexorable is actually gone to church with Mrs. Betty. 1808 Smith Wks. (1867) I. 238 Two . . most beautiful women who acted the part of inexorables.

Inexorableness. [f. prec. + -ness] The quality of being inexorable, inexorability 1620 Donne Serm. 15 Sept. (1622) 14 An inordinate appre hension of Gods anger, and his unacc ewsiblenesse, his inexorablenesse. 1659 Gauden Hieraspistes I. 270 (1684) 421 There are many that far outgo him [the Unjust Judge] in inexorableness of temper. 1675 Buckhogge Causa Dei 84 By reason of their Imbecility, Inexorableness, and Inclemency.

Inexorably (ine·ksŏrabli), adv. [f. as prec. + -ly[2]] In an inexorable manner, so as not to be moved by entreaty, relentlessly

1610 Healey St. Aug. City of God 178 Covetous warring inexorably against his country. 1706–48 Hooke Rom. Hist. (1738) I. 92 To virtue still inexorably firm. 1781 Gibbon Decl. & Fall xxxvii. (1869) II. 399 Justice inexorably requires the death of a murderer. 1863 Cox Tales from Ramoola xxii. He saw her standing inexorably aloof from him †Inexo·rbitant, a. Obs. rare[−1] [f. In-[2] + Exorbitant, or ? merely an error for the latter.] 1599 Compl. Scot. i. 21 The inexorbitant extorsions that it Rome] committit on the vniuersal veild.

Inexpansible (inekspæ·nsibl), a [In-[1]] Not expansible, incapable of being expanded

1838 Morley Diderot I. v. 174 Because that superstition was incorporated in a strong and unexpansible social structure

Inexpansive (inekspæ·nsiv), a [In-[1]] Not expansive 1801 O. W. Huntt after Captain in Pages for Old & Left (1891) 48 General Wood still walked the corridors, inexpansive, with Fort McHenry on his shoulders.

Inexpectable (inekspæ·ktăbl), a rare[−1] [In-[3]] Not to be expected 1625 Hp. Hall Serm. Thanksgiving Mortality Wks. 1837 V. 223 What loud cries did beat on all sides at the gates of heaven! and with what inexpectable, unconceivable mercy were they answered!. 1721 in Bailey

Inexpe·ctancy. [In-[2]] Absence of expectancy, the condition of not being expectant

1643 Hakker Ans. to Jerne 31 Inexpectancy of reward in the discharge of that trust. 1888 F. P. Barnes Entangled II. vi. 153 The empty inexpectancy of a vague moment

Inexpe·ctant, a [In-[3]] Not expectant, devoid of expectation

1823 Mrs. Brunton Discipline vii. Loveless and inexpectant of love, I was as safe from spies in my heart poverty, as the beggar from thieves in his destitution of purse. 1894 J. Kent in Contemp. Rev. Lxv. 41 First appearances, before a thin cold, inexpectant audience

Inexpecta tion. [In-[2]] Absence of expectation, the fact of not expecting 1627 Feltham Resolves I. (1628) 5 Three things are there which aggravate a misery and make it euill seeme greater then indeed it is. Inexpectation, Vnaquaintance, Want of Preparation.

†Inexpe·cted, a Obs. [In-[3] + Expected, f. L. inexpectatus in same sense.] Not expected, unexpected; unlooked for 1598 Sylvester Du Bartas (1620) 432 When Pyrocles saw his friend Musidorus, with the noble Lady Pamela in that unexpected sort returned. 1608 Br. Hall Aegyptens Man xxiv. Wks. 723 Inexpected fall of wealth. 1691 Howell Venice 127 Which strange and inexpected supply bred an amazement.

Hence †Inexpe·ctedly adv., unexpectedly, †Inexpe·ctedness

1611 Br. Hall Contempt. O. T. xv. iv, How could it bee otherwise when those great spirits of hers . . finde themselves in a place inexpectedly unpriviledged? 1631 Inexpectedness of pleasing objects makes men many times the more acceptable. 1645 – Remedy Discontents 150 Comming in inexpectedly to his country House. 1652 Howell Lewis 225 The Turks, passing by the Galeasses, were inexpectedly torn by their great shot

†Inexpe·dible, a. Obs. rare[−0] [ad late L. inexpeditibilis, f. in- (In-[1]) + expeditibilis, from expedire see Expede.]

1721 Bailey, Inexpedible, cumbersome, that one cannot rid himself of Inexpedience (inekspī·diens). Now rare [See next and -ence.] = next 1608 Br. Hall Char. Virtues & V., Irresolute 170 Not for any unommodities or inexpedience. 1653 Dickson Psalms 1. Pref. to Ps. 11 (1842) I. 319, The inexpedience of keeping me in bonds. 1832 Southey in Q. Rev. XLIV. 135 An argument to prove the inexpedience of the punishment

Inexpediency (inekspī·diensi). [f. In-[2] + Expediency.] = Expedient see -ency.] The quality of being inexpedient, disadvantageousness, unadvisableness, impolicy 1641 (title) Certaine Reasons to prove the Unlawfulnesse and Inexpedience of all Diocesan Episcopacy. 1665 Sanderson Serm. (1689) 1. 20 Men ought not to call in the expediency and inexpediency of what they enjoin in their Sermons. 1785 Paley Mor. Philos. VI. v. (1837) 110 It is not the rigour, but the inexpediency of laws and acts of authority which makes them tyrannical. 1845 M'Culloch Taxation (1852) 390 The inexpediency, of attempting, to raise any considerable revenue by means of income taxes.

Inexpedient (inekspī·dient), a [f. In-[1] + Expedient.] Not expedient, not advantageous, unsuitable, not suitable in the circumstances, unprofitable, unadvisable, impolitic.

1608 Br. Hall Char. Virtues & V., Flatterer 217 If her grant exill things unexpected, or crimes errors, he hath yielded much. 1714 Burnet Hist. Ref. an. 1550 (R.) Hooper thinking, that if it was not unlawful, yet it was highly inexpedient to use those ceremonies. 1808 Hurd Serm. Wks. VII. xlviii (R.), They are indeed inexpedient, that is, unprofitable, unadvisable, from a great variety of respects. 1832 Bentham Offic. Aptit. Wks. 1843 V. 207 Nothing could be more correctly lawful . . but few things would be more manifestly inexpedient. 1873 Symes Philos. Ind. 241 I will there use some things which may be inexpedient, and yet I will them good

Hence †Inexpe·diently adv.

1856 in Webster

†Inexpe·ditate, a. Obs. rare [In-[1]] Not expeditated

1644 Coke On Litt. 11 (1632) 298 margin, A man may claim to have dogs inexpeditate and hounds within the Forest

Inexpensive (inekspæ·nsiv), a. [In-[1]] 1 Not expensive or costly, involving little expense, cheap

1827 [implied in Inexpensively] a 1846 Eclectic Rev. cited by Worcester. 1859 Low, Build. Indus. 165, I. solved upon taking a small rising village for a short period and furnishing it in a mild and inexpensive manner. 1876 W. G. Wood-cock Pract. Work Physics in Pref., The apparatus required is inexpensive.

2 Not given to expenditure, not extravagant

1859 Hawthorne Trans. & It. Scenes II. 273 This Swiss people are frugal and inexpensive in their habits.

Inexpensively, adv. [f. prec. + -ly[2], or f. In-[3] + Expensively.] In an inexpensive manner, without much expense, cheaply

1837 R. H. Fox Pract. Chem. 46 The grand secret of Chemistry, to those who would pursue it inexpensively, is the art of working on a minute scale. 1871 Tyndall Fragm. Sc. (1879) I. v. 173 Such water can be softened inexpensively

Inexpensiveness. [f. as prec. + -ness] The quality of being inexpensive, cheapness

1804 Miss Yonge Trial I. 156 Leonard treated its inexpensiveness as a personal matter. 1870 Eng. Mech. 18 Mar. 660/2 The advantage . . is its simplicity and inexpensiveness

Inexperience (inekspī·riĕns) [a F. inexpérience (1460 in Godef. Compl.), ad late L. inexperientia (Fertull.), f. in- (In-[3]) + experientia Experience.] Want of experience, the condition of not having been practically conversant with some department of study or work, or with affairs generally, the want of adequate knowledge or skill resulting from this 1598 Florio, Inesperienza, inexperience, vnskilfulnes, vnaquaintance. 1609 Daniel Civ. Wars Wks. (1717) 107 The Inexperience of his Years Made him less skill'd in what was to be done. 1693 Dryden Juvenal Ded. (1697) 51 Those Failings which are incident to Youth and Inexperience. 1769 Junius Lett. xxxv. 156 We are ready to allow for your inexperience. 1847 Lytton Pelham xlii, An Authority to which nothing but the inexperience of the young could accede

Inexperienced (inekspī·riĕnst), a [In-[3]] Not experienced, without experience, having no (or little) experience, lacking the knowledge or skill derived from experience to count on 1626 Gouge Serm. Virgin Chastity 18 Such as for want of former exercising were altogether inexperienced. 1776 96 Withering, Brit. Plants (ed. 3) I. 216 The inexperienced botanist is not likely to encounter them at the commencement of his progress. 1865 Kane Arct. Expl. I. xvi. 193 We were not inexperienced in sledging over the ice

Hence †Inexpe·riencedness Obs. rare, the state or quality of being inexperienced

1785 Bailey Erasm. Colloq. (1877) 318 (T.) The damsel has three things to plead in her excuse the authority of her parents, the persuasion of her friends, and the inexperiencedness of her age †Inexpe·rient, a. Obs. [ad late L. inexperiens (Boethius), f. in- (In-[3] + experiens Expert.)] Not having experience, = Inexperienced. 1670 G. H. Hist. Cardenas in Pref. 273 He had but two Nephews . . who were young, and inexperient in all kind of Politicks.

Inexperime·ntal, a. rare [In-[3]] Not founded on experiment

1798 Lond. Mag. in Sprat Pub. Trials (1799) II. 9, So wonderfully sagacious is crude and inexperimental theory

†Inexpe·rimenting, a. Obs. rare [In-[1] + experimenting, pres. pple of Experiment v. (Cf. F. inexpérimenté wanting experience.)] Not in the habit of making experiments, unenterprising

1746 Brit. Mag. 58 The Ignorance, or unactive inexperimenting Spirit of our Manufacturers Inexpert (inekspē·rt, a (b) [a. OF. inexpert, -e (14–16th c. in Godef.), ad. L. inexpert-us untried, unexperienced, f. in- (In-[3]) + expertus see Expert a.]

+1 Not having experience, without experience, inexperienced, unacquainted. Const. in, of. Obs.

c 1450 tr. De Imitatione III. xxi. 74 Pou bih ph newe & inexperte in be wey of god. 1526 Tindale Heb. v. 13 Every man that is feed with mylke is inexpert in the worde of righteousnes. c 1681 J. Kirk in Spurgeon Forest Dun xxx. 8 Utterly inexpert of the way into so far a country. 1697 Col. Ass. Pennsylv. I. 329 The best of us all being but inexpert in many things relating to those affairs. 1880 Lowell Bigelow P. Ser. II. 54 Himself, haply, not inexpert of evil in this particular]

2 Wanting the readiness, aptitude or dexterity derived from experience, not expert, unskilled 1597 A. M. tr. Guillemeau's Fr. Chirurg. 5/2 Although that there Chyrurgian is wholy inexpert. 1628 T. Taylor Comm. Titus 1. 6 They are not skilfull nor inexpert musicians. 1739 Melmoth Fitzosb. Lett. (1763) 378 Inexpert in the management of this sort of contests. 1808 J. Barlow Columb. VIII. 684 In counsel sage, nor inexpert in war. 1871 Carlyle in Mrs. C.'s Lett. II. 157 Workmen honest though inexpert

B sb [mod., after Expert sb] An inexpert or unskilled person, opposed to Expert sb 1879 M'Carthy Own Times II. xxi. 102 All these made on the mind of the ordinary inexpert a serious impression. 1883 American VI. 371 A test examination for experts, a competitive examination for inexperts.

Hence Inexpe·rtly, adv. in inexpert way, unskilfully, Inexpe·rtness, unskilfulness, want of expertness or dexterity derived from practice.

1744 H. Walpole Lett. H. Mann (1834) I. xcv. 328 The French pursued them outsailed them and missed them by their own inexpertness. 1822–34 Good Study Med. (ed. 4) III. 431 In attempting the recovery of those who have been hung, and particularly who have inexpertly hung them selves. 1897 Atlantic Monthly LXXIX. 126 Padding in expertly through a lake

Inexpiable (ine·kspiăbl), a [ad. L. inexpiabilis inexpiable, implacable, f. in- (In-[3]) + expiabilis Expiable. Cf. F. inexpiable (15–16th c. in Godef. Compl.)]

1 Of an offence That cannot be expiated or atoned for, of which the guilt cannot be done away

1570 Levins Manip. 4/26 Inexpiable, inexpiabilis. 1609 Holland Amm. Marcell. xxix. 3. 352 His was in him a fault inexpiable. 1655 Stanley Hist. Philos. III. (1701) 93/2 Such as have used inexpiable deceit to wrong the publick. 1728 Young Love Fame vi, Her lover must be sad to please her spleen, His mirth is an inexpiable sin. 1855 Milman Lat. Chr. XII. v. (1864) V. 54 One of the inexpiable offences of the Latin church.

2 Of a feeling, etc. That cannot be appeased by expiation, implacable, irreconcilable. (Also transf. of an action)

1598 Florio, Inespiabile, inexpiable, vnmercifull, deadlie, marble minded. 1600 Holland Livy xxxiii. xlvi. 815 They continued an endlesse and inexpiable warre with him alone still. 1671 Milton Samson 839 To raise in me inexpiable hate. 1792 Burke Corr. (1844) III. 404 Against the nobility and gentry they have waged inexpiable war 1878 Bowsmith Carthage 44 The revolt of the outraged Libyan mercenaries which is known in history by the name of the 'War without Truce or the 'Inexpiable war'

Hence Inexpiableness, the quality of being inexpiable, Inexpiably adv, in an inexpiable manner or degree, unpardonably

1796 R. Hollingworth Essex Usurp. Powers 36 The inexpiableness of his former sins. 1884 Earl Roscommon Ess. transl. Verse Poems (1780) 48 Excursions are inexpiably bad, And 'tis much safer to leave out than add. 1846 Southey Ess. (1859) I 7 His struggle so inexpiably and ineffacably disgraceful for France. 1884 Chr. World 17 July 543/3 They were inexpiably wrong in the past

Inexpiate (ine ĭkspiăt), a. [ad. late L inexpiāt-us (Augustine), f. in- (IN- 3) + expiātus, pa. ppl. of expiāre to Expiate.]

1 Not expiated or atoned for 1819 Blackw. Mag. IV 733 That mantle of inexpiate disgrace. 1876 Swinburne Erechtheus 1275 The unclean soul's inexpiate hunted head

†2 Unappeased cf. prec. 2. Obs.

1621 Chapman Iliad IX 493 To rest inexpiate were much too rude a part

Ine xpiated, a. rare [IN- 1] = prec. 1

1856 Lytton Æthnea (1871) I 457 The inexpiated sacrifice made a duty of revenge

Inexplainable (ineksplē·năbl), a. rare [IN- 3] That cannot be explained, inexplicable.

1623 Cockeram, Inexplainable, that cannot be explained. 1881 Mrs Oliphant Last Mortimers xl xiv (1892) 254 It was a dread, inexplainable suspense. 1889 Daily News 5 July 7/2 One very curious phenomenon recorded by all the diagrams is at present wholly inexplainable

†Ine xplable, Obs. Also erron inexplable [ad. L inexplēbilis, f. in- (IN- 3) + explēbilis, f. explēre to fill up: see Explete v.] That cannot be filled or satisfied, insatiable 1569 Newton Cicero's Olde Age 16 b, Which with such earnest sedulitie and inexplable gredinesse I heaped or rather snatched unto me. 1656 Stanley Hist. Philos. VII (1701) 322/2 An inexplable desire of that which we want. 1788 D. Gilson Serm. 107 That inexplicable desire after what is good and lovely

Hence †Ine xplably (erron inexpleably) [cf. late L. inexplēbiliter (Prosper)], insatiably 1614 G. Sandys Trav. 38 What were those Harpyes, but flatterers, delators, and the inexpleably covetous?

Inexplicability (ineksplikăbĭlĭti) [f. next see -ITY.] The quality of being inexplicable, incapability of being explained

1804 W. Taylor in Ann. Rev. II 513 The inexplicability of many allusions especially in Ialesus. 1824 Scott Sir Roland's Well, The inexplicability which seemed to shroud the purposes and conduct of his new ally. 1856 Isaac Taylor Chr. Faith v. II 321 The very appearance of such inexplicability is a portion of the probation

b (with an) and pl. = something inexplicable

1814 Scott Wav. xxiii, This is one of the inexplicabilities of human nature. 1865 Masson Ess. Brit. Philos. 393 He has had to assume an inexplicability, an incomprehensibility, a paradox, as not needless, if it were to be avoided.

Inexplicable (ineksplikăb'l) a. (adv) and sb. [a F. inexplicable (1486 in Godef. Compl.), ad. L. inexplicābilis that cannot be unfolded or loosened, f. in- (IN- 3) + explicābilis Explicable.]

A. adj. †1 That cannot be unfolded, untwisted, or disentangled, inextricable, very intricate or complex Obs.

1555 Eden Decades Pref. (Arb.) 49 Of the Mazes cauled Labyrinth of knottes inexplicable and dyuers suche other portentous inuentions. 1577 tr. Lanoue Hist. II 579 Before a man can come to the Labyrinth indeed which is so intricat and inexplicable. 1656 Stanley Hist. Philos. V (1701) 159/1 He was lanced in supposing the inexplicable banks of Nilus and the winding compass of their Branches. [1837 Paresos Addr., Inner Schol. Wks. (Bohn) II 175 There is never a beginning, there is never an end, to the inexplicable continuity of this web of God.]

†b as adv. = Inexplicably. Obs.

1650 Caxton Enquiries xiv 49 The contynuelle thoughte wherinne she is Inexplycable occupyed

†2 That cannot be unfolded or expressed in words, inexpressible, indescribable Obs.

1502 Ord. Crysten Men (de W. 1506) v. 363 Flagellacyons and tormentes inexplycables without ende or without releasynge. 1531 Recorde Cast. Knowl. (1556) 97 The inexplicable benefite of knowledge. 1622 Malynes Anc. Law Merch. 431 The miseries and afflictions of impression merit are inexplicable and cannot be conceived by any that haue not felt or had proofe thereof. 1691 Ray Creation I. (1704) 81 Fire a subject or Utensil of so various and inexplicable use

3 That cannot be explained, unscrutable, unintelligible, (in recent use) that cannot be accounted for, unaccountable

1546 Gardiner Declar. Joye (Quarto ed.) 84 b, You turne the matter so about, as it is inexplicable 1570 Billingsley Euclid x. ix. 239 The matter obscure and hard, and in a maner inexplicable. 1602 Shaks. Ham. III. iv. 83 Inexplicable dumbe shewes. 1699 Burnet Sp. Art. (1900) 37 If God has declared this inexplicable thing concerning himself to us we are bound to believe it. 1793 Beddoes Calculus 188 Phænomena hitherto inexplicable in the animal and veget able economy. 1808 Scott P. M. Perth vi. The woore had begun to hold the refusal of the damsel as somewhat capricious and inexplicable. 1860 Maury Phys. Geog. Sea xiii (Low) § 566 There were, in the depths of the sea, untold wonders, and inexplicable mysteries. 1879 Froude Cæsar xv. 226 Still more inexplicable was the ingratitude of the aristocracy

B. sb. 1 Something that cannot be explained (Usually in pl.)

1745 Nerdham Micros. Disc Introd. 5 We may surely reckon it among the Inexplicables. 1864 Bowen Logic ix. 294 Miscellaneous sophisms of no puzzling a character that the old logicians called them the Inexplicables

2 pl. A vulgar euphemism for 'trousers' cf. inexpressibles

1856–7 Dickens Sk. Boz III. 257 He usually wore a brown frock coat without a wrinkle, light inexplicables without a spot

Ine xplicableness [f. prec. + -NESS] The quality of being inexplicable, inexplicability 1658 Gentl. Magazine 158 Why are they so confounded at the inexplicableness of the circumstances? 1754 Edwards Freed Will III. vii. 64 Not to insist on the Abstruseness and Inexplicableness of this Distinction. 1862 H. Spencer First Prin. I. iii. § 21 The explanation of that which is explicable, does but bring out into greater clearness the inexplicableness of that which remains.

Ine xplicably, adv. [f. as prec. + -LY²] In an inexplicable manner †a Inextricably, very intricately, †b Inexpressibly, indescribably, c Inscrutably, unaccountably 1699 [Burt] Hypocrite's Wks. 1634/2 What is then case surely inexplicably, unconceivably fearefull. 1710 Berkeley Pious Hum. Knowl. § 152 The inexplicably fine machine of an animal or vegetable. 1814 Byron Lara I. xvii, In him inexplicably mix'd appear'd Much to be loved and hated, sought and fear'd. 1822 Lamb Elia Ser. I. Amateur Pic. I humbly crave his and your pardons for this digression.

Inexplicant (ine ksplikănt), a. nonce wd. [f. IN- 3 + explicant-em, pres. pple. of explicāre to Explicate.] Not explicating or explaining, giving no explanation

1845 Lamb Union of Hearts, Fired with the fruitless chase of inexplicant analogies †Inexplicate (inc ksplikăt), a. Obs. [IN- 1 cf late L. inexplicātus unexplained, inexplicitus not unfolded.] Not to be disentangled, very intricate, = Inexplicable 1.

1621 Sir H. Hut. Ct. Dext. IV. vi. § 102. 549 Hee built in intricate Labyrinth at Woodstocke and therein bestowed this his pearle of esteeme, into whose closet (for the inexplicate windings) none could approach but the King himselfe †Ine xplicate, v. Obs. rare⁻¹ [Loosely or erroneously used for Explicate v. 2 a.] trans. To disentangle.

1631 R. Cornwallis Cath. Hist. 280 Alexander doubting if he should not inexplicate it [the Gordian knot] that it might be reputed as an evidence of his bad fortune to vnloose, what he could not cut asunder.

Inexplicit (ineksplĭsit), a. [IN- 1 cf. I inexplicitus in same sense.] Not explicit, not definitely expressed or expressive, not clear in terms or statement 1802 in Rep. Rev. Nation Ind. Trade (1830) I. 110 You have yourself, though in an obscure and inexplicit way been delivering to me a proposition. 1847 J. Hare in Philosophy (1848) I. 236 The inexplicit in mystic phrase. 1886 Sat. Rev. 20 Feb. 249 The grumbles were in explicit and almost inarticulate

So Inexplicitly adv., Inexplicitness

1775 R. Chandler Trav. Greece (1825) II. 130 Two structures yet remain, either omitted or mentioned inexplicitly by Pausanias. 1865 W. Pope Last Pr. Comp. (1870) 2. Indiscriminateness, inexplicitness were faults which excluded a writer from the list of literary men. 1872–3 Leahy Child. Eng. Grammar (ed. 2) § 620 saying a great deal in brief compass, and with all the entailed consequences of inexplicitness

Inexplorable (ineksplōr·răbl), a. [IN- 1] That cannot be explored, inscrutable

1646 Buck in Rich. III, etc. (1979) 2 We saw the Kings owne inmoveable and inexplorable doome. 1802–18 Bentham Ration Jud. Evid. (1827) IV. 2 A blind inexplorable labyrinth. 1834 Wilson Dissert. Transactions Ch. viii. 171 The inexplorable infinity of his grace

Inexplosive (ineksplōu·sĭv), a. [IN- 1] Not explosive, not liable to or capable of explosion

1867 Hooker Himal. Jrnl. II. 216 Left to enjoy themselves in the mild, inexplosive fashion [of 1. 1866 inexplosive manner] which seems to satisfy Italian nature. 1884 Knowledge 11 July 28 The inexplosive materials of which dynamite is compounded Inexposable (ineksprō·zăbl'), a. rare⁻¹ [f. IN- 1 + exposable, from Expose v. + -ABLE.] Not capable of being, or liable to be, exposed 1628 T. Adams Serm. Baptist Wks. 1861 I. 83 Those whom nature or art, strength or sleight, have made inexposable to easy ruin may pass unmolested Inexpugnable (ineksp gŭăbl) rare⁻¹ [IN- 1] 'A state of not being exposed'

1828 Webster cites Med. Repos.

Inexpre ss, a. rare⁻¹ [IN- 1] Not definitely expressed, not explicit. cf Expressless 2.

1819 Morley Ess. Wks. 1877 Great work enough has been done by men whose recognition was informal and inexpress

Inexpre ssed, a. rare [IN- 3] Unexpressed

1821 T. G. Wainewright Eur. Crit. (1880) 186 For the inexpressed purpose of deforming [etc.]

Inexpressible (ineksprĕ·sĭbl), a. and sb. [IN- 3]

A. adj. That cannot be expressed in words, unutterable, unspeakable, indescribable (Often as an emotional intensive cf. ineffable.)

1695 Dunton Serm. in 92 Thou shalt feele the Joy of his third birth in thy soul most inexpressible this day. 1697 Milton P. L. VIII. 173 Pure mid-day arrayd In Light divine inexpressible By Numbers that have name. 1721 Addison Spect. No. 159 P. 8 I guess'd with inexpressible Pleasure on these happy Islands. 1808 Mar. Edgeworth Moral T. (1816) I. 224–5 It is with inexpressible concern, that I find myself called upon to be the accuser of such a man. 1860 Tyndall Glac. I. xxiii. 166 His seclusion gives it an inexpressible charm

B. sb. 1 Something inexpressible (In quot. 1846 with punning allusion to next sense.)

1652 Benlowes Theoph. II. 24 Praise best doth Inexpressibles expresse. 1846 Mrs. Gore Eng. Char. 1832-73 A pair of standard footmen seems to be the real pair of inexpressibles

2 pl. (colloq.) Breeches or trousers. (Orig. euphemistic cf. ineffables, irrepliables, unmentionables)

1790 Wolcot (P. Pindar) Rod. and for Oliver Wks. 1812 II. 154 Partner! I've heard, that breeches, pantaloons and smock Gave to thy modest mind a gracious shock, And that thy brain too lucky its desire! Christ! with them inexpressibles, so nice. 1793 Gibbon Lett. II. 111 Now Hayley is presented in Terning Park Lett. (1896) I. 196 A pair of old inexpressibles contained seven thousand Guineas deposited in sovereign current. 1809 Farmer's Mag. X. 350 A fine lady can talk about her lovers inexpressibles when she would faint to hear of his breeches. 1875 Spectator (Melbourne) 12 June 614 The above-mentioned inexpressibles for obvious reasons will be unsuited to lay legs.

Hence Inexpressibl ity, Inexpre ssibleness, the quality of being inexpressible 1797 Bentley and H. Inexpressibleness 1806-7 De Quincey Leisure Wks. 1859 XIII. 49 I do not admit the inexpressibility of pattern if grief. 1869 Stebbing Irvin. Dis. Pt. xii. 1 Our joy should be sweet out of inexpressibleness.

Inexpressibly (ineksprĕ·sĭbli), adv. [f. prec. + -LY²] In an inexpressible manner or degree, beyond expression, unutterably, unspeakably, indescribably (Often as an emotional intensive.)

a 1660 Hammond (J.) God will perfect and reward all his faithful servants in a manner and measure inexpressibly all and in. 1727 Sewell Quak. Wks. 75 P. 8 Something so inexpressibly graceful in his Words and Actions. 1797 H. Watson Mem. Gee II (1847) I. vii. 212 The King was inexpressibly alarmed. 1860 Tyndall Glac. I. xi. 77 The Red Cabos being inexpressibly soft and pure. 1875 W. Collins Q. of Hearts 21 You terrify me so inexpressibly that I will be glad to get rid of you.

Inexpression nonce wd [IN- 3] Want or absence of expression

1796 Coleridge Let to Thelwall 19 Nov. in Lett. (1895) 180 In a mere caress of a face, flat, flabby, and expressionless cherly of inexpression

Inexpressive (ineksprĕ·sĭv), a. [IN- 3 cf. I inexpressif (15th c. in Godef.)]

1 = Inexpressible arch. (In modern writers prob. in imitation of Shaks. A. J. / III. ii. 10, or Milton Lycidas 176, where inexpressive is the word.)

1632 Benlowes Theoph. xxxix. 72 On the Vnion inexpressive tryes did wait. 1744 Berkeley Siris § 174 Then the inexpressive strain Diffuses its inchant ment. 1794 Mathias Purs. Lit. (1798) 198 So mortal lyre he dares unveil The inexpressive hour in semblance frail. 1856 Mrs. Browning Aur. Leigh iv. 730 Those soft winged eyes Lured trembling bids of inexpressive joy. 1866 J. H. Newman Corresp. (1874) II. 1 Words in me are inexpressive lightness and a sense Of freedom

2 Not expressive, not expressing a meaning, feeling, character, etc., wanting in expression

1744 Akenside Pleas. Imag. III. 285 To behold in lifeless things, The inexpressive semblance of himself, Of thought and passion. 1761 Lloyd Prof. Heroism (R.) O glorious times when scenes then could strike, Expressive, inexpressive, all alike! 1792 Robertson India App. 280 Finished in a style considerably superior to the hard inexpressive manner of the Egyptians. 1834 Medwin Angler in Wales I. 239 His features are inexpressive of intellect. 1846 Mrs. Gore Eng. Char. 1832-73 That blank and inexpressive vacuity, which an able diplomatist is careful to acquire as a guard. 1860 Faber Old Fabourer x. His inexpressive eye.

Inexpre ssively, adv. [f. prec. + -LY²]

1 Inexpressibly, indescribably Obs. or arch.

1809 Sketch I. 217 The whole was inexpressively sweet. 1840 Poe Pit & Pendulum Wks. 1864 I. 319, I felt very ill, inexpressively sick and weak

2 Not expressively, without expressive power

1823 Bentham Not Paul 126 The name, so inexpressively rendered, in the English, by the word Deacons. 1893 Athenæum 27 May (661) The idea here is a good one but how inexpressively done. It is indicated!

Inexpre ssiveness. [f. as prec. + -NESS] The quality of being inexpressive, want of expressiveness

1826 Bentham Logic on Table I. Wks. 1843 VIII. 410 The inattentiveness and hence the inexpressiveness or rather the inexpressiveness of the language. 1833 Hook Parson's Daughter (1837) 160 An appearance of immobile inexpressiveness. 1881 H. James Portr. Lady iv, Pity for the poor woman's inexpressiveness, her want of regret, of disappointment came back to her †Inexprimable, a. Obs. rare [a F. inexprimable (16th c. in H. Estienne), f. in- (IN- 3) + exprimer to express] Inexpressible a 1577 Gawdon MS. Heraldry, Heralds etc. Wks. (1587) 236 A lioned bare charged with inexpressible noyses

Inexpugnable (ineksp gnăbl), a. [a F. inexpugnable (14th c. in Littré Suppl.), ad. L. inexpugnābilis, f. in- (IN- 3) + expugnābilis Expugnable.] That cannot be taken by assault or storm, incapable of being overcome, subdued, or overthrown by force, impregnable, invincible a lit of a fortress, an army, etc.

1490 Caxton Eneydos Prol. to Troye the grauste, and many other places stronge and inexpugnable haue ben be sieged sharpely & assayled 1533 More Answ. Poysoned Bk. Wks. 1063/1 How the inexpugnable walles of Jerico were ouerthrown 1540–1 Elyot Image Gov. (1556) 23 The inexpugnable armyes prepared against him 1698 Hist. Chevalier de Chevreau of Scotland 292 The Castle of Dieen seated on a craggy mountain which renders it inexpugnable 1787 Hist. Eur. in Ann. Reg. 79/2 Convinced at length that this empire was inexpugnable 1824 Gibbon Greece II lx. 249 Syracuse had not only become inexpugnable, but had assumed the aggressive

b fig. of a statement, argument, principle, device, disposition, quality, condition, etc., or of a person in reference to his principles or disposition That cannot be overthrown or overcome a 1535 More Agst. Tyndall in Wks. 662 By some of his own arguments he is (which is much more strong and proueth it playn) inexpugnable 1590 Basson in Sleeth Physick I. xv (1639) 24 An inexpugnable desire of sleeping 1666 Gunning Lent Fasts 218 By leaving the three Children also were found inexpugnable by the Babylonians. a 1734 North Exam. III. vi. § 85 The inexpugnable good Will of the Parliament at that Time was the Preservation of the King 1865 Mill Exam. Hamilton 9 His arguments seem to me very far from inexpugnable 1894 Mrs. H. Ward Marcella II. 4 A certain inexpugnable dignity surrounded him

Hence Inexpugnabi lity, Inexpu gnableness, the quality of being inexpugnable, impregnability, invincibility

Inexpu gnably adv., impregnably, invincibly 1653 H. More Conject. Cabbal. App. xvi. 270 In correspondency and Incommensurability that is inexpugnably lodged up in the perverse and unreclaimable Hyle 1727 Bailey vol. II, Inexpugnableness. 1821 Craig Poet. Decay viii. 237 Fixing those transient observations inexpugnably in your minds 1865 Carlyle Frederick Gt. xv. v. (1872) VI. 3 What silent courage, or private inexpugnability of mind, was in him 1871 Morley Crit. (1878) 140 He was succeeded by the general justice and inexpugnableness of the orthodox system 1881 Stevenson in Longman's Mag. Apr. 680 Of one thing I am inexpugnably assured

†Inexpugnate, a. Obs. rare—[ad. L. inexpugnāt-us unconquered see In- 3 and Expugnate.] Unconquered 1652 Lithgow Pass. i. 6 Then gnashing spirits that howling waile, Hells inexpugnat merits Where's all your gentry!

Inexpugnible, -geable (ineksp ngibl), a. [f. In- 3 + Expugnible, f. Expugn v.] That cannot be expunged or obliterated, indelible 1888 R. Dowling Miracle Gold III. xxxiv. 135 With an expungeable features of the dwarf sharp limned upon his smarting sight 1898 Chicago Advance 30 Feb. 282/1 The law is on the statute book of human thought, inexpungible

†Inexputable, a. Obs. rare—[ad. L. inexpiabilis incalculable, f. in- (In- 3) + exputare to reckon: see -ble.]
1653 Cockeram, Inexpiable, not to bee numbred

†Inexsa turable, inexat-, a. Obs. rare—[ad. L. inexsaturābilis inexatur-, f. in- (In- 3) + exsaturābilis, f. exsaturāre to Exsaturate.] Incapable of being satisfied, insatiable 1656 Blount Glossogr., Inexsaturable

†Inexsa turated, inexaturated, a. Obs. rare—[In- 3 + Exsaturate.] 1658 Phillips, Inexaturated, not to be filled or satisfied, of an unsatiable appetite

†Inexsu perable, a. Obs. rare [ad. L. inexsuperābilis see In- 3 and Exsuperable.] That cannot be overcome 1623 Cockeram, Unconquerable, not to bee passed ouer 1656 Blount Glossogr., Inexsuable, that cannot be passed or overcome, invincible. 1659 H. More Immort. Soul I. ii. (1662) 37 [His] inexsuperable confidence of the truth of the Conclusion

Ine xtant, a. rare [In- 3.] Not extant, no longer existing 1831 Fraser's Mag. IV. 541 The poem is supposed to have for its basis one yet older, and for some time inextant

Inexte nded, a. rare [In- 3.] Unextended, without extension 1739 Watts Proof separate State 11. If they suppose it (the soul) to be inextended, or to have no parts or quantity, I confess I can have no manner of idea of the existence or possibility of such an inextended being without consuming new or active power 1807 M. Dobrizhoffer Hist. Abipones (Wyld box) III. 1 Hurried by Boven Avernique position, viz., that they exist, but with less intensity of being would be contrary to the system of inextended points. Ibid. 23 Movement indeed, though inextended in itself, is extended in the body which moves †Inexte'nsed, a. Obs. rare—[f. med. or mod.L. inextens us (f. in- (In- 3) + extensus Extense a.) + -ed 2.] Without extension 1604 T. Wright Passions I. xxx. How can the Soule extend itselfe thorow the whole body, being a Spirit and inuisible, inextensed?

Inextensibi lity. rare [f. next see -ity. Cf. F. inextensibilité (Littré).] The quality of being inextensible 1829 Nat. Philos. I. Mechanics II. viii. 32 (U. K. S.) This power of transmitting pressure in the direction of its length, is not owing to the flexibility of the rope but to its inextensibility 1847–9 Todd Cycl. Anat. IV. 519/2 Its inextensibility admirably adapting it to mere passive resistance 1876 Encycl. Brit. IV. 448

Inextensible (inekste nsibl), a. [In- 3, cf. F. inextensible (Buffon).] Not extensible, incapable of extension, that cannot be stretched or drawn out in length 1840 Lardner Steam 207 A heavy body attached to a flexible and inextensible string 1843 J. H. Pollett (title) On the Properties of Inextensible Surfaces 1881 Ithere Journ. 3 July, 16/3 He starts with the assumption that the density of the luminiferous ether is constant (in other words that the ether is inextensible and incompressible)

Inextensions (inekste nsən) rare [In- 3.] Want of extension, unextended state 1807 J. Fearon E. H. Barker Parriana (1828) I. 632 The inextension of the mind

Inexte nsive, a. rare [In- 3.] Not extensive, small 1890 Scots Observer 25 Jan. 269/1 The public will no doubt clamour for his inextensive volume

In extenso see In Lat. prep.

Inexte rminable, a. rare [ad. I. (post-class.) interminābilis see In- 3 and Extarminable.]
†1 Having no possible end, interminable, endless. Obs. rare 1586 A. Day Eng. Secretary I. (1625) 145 Continuall, nay rather inexterminable tones unto your services 1668 H. More Div. Dial. II. Contents 11 Va. That there is an ever intangible and inexterminable Amphitude that are proper to the Deity only 2 ‘That cannot be exterminated’ a 1828 Reid cited in Webster

Inexti nct, a. rare [ad. L. inextinct-us (Ovid), cf. In- 3 and Extinct.] Unextinguished 1623 Cockeram, Inextinct Inextinguable, not to be quenched 1823 J. Wilson Trials Manag. Lunatics xxxi. He who has not extinguished such a spark of love in his breast remained inextinct 1832 Fraser's Mag. VI. 402 Much high hope and inextinct desire †Inexti nguable, a. Obs. [a. F. inextinguable (15th c.), f. In- 3 + Extinguable.] = next 1412–20 Lydg. Chron. Troy III. xxvii. (MS. Digby) If 134/1 Pat was by craffte made in extinguible For it ne myght Neiper be quenyd wyth water, tempest, ne reyn 1590 Abp. Sandys Serm. 1 Delimitation in Ixiii. 256 They breme in such with the ardoure of inextinguishable charyte 1594 Mirr. Policy 180 The inextinguishable fire of emule war 1604 J. Wright Passions vi. 305 Those inextinguishable flames of infernall furnaces 1677 Gale Crt. Gentiles IV. 142 This infinite inextinguishable Mass of Heavenly goods

Inextinguishable (inekstɪ ngwiʃəbl), a. [f. In- 3 + Extinguishable.] That cannot be extinguished (in various senses of the verb), unquenchable, indestructible, etc 1579 Tomson Calvin's Sermons Timothie 1. 1. 17 Inextinguishable laughter, an echo of the Homeric ἄσβεστος γέλως. 1601 Holland Pliny I. 599 1599 Hawes Past. Pleast. xiv (Percy Soc.) 218 In heaven is no sorrow, but continually Withouten ende to be inioyes sable 1661 Morgan Sph. Gentry I. iv. 40 And to shew his inextinguishable light and heat they used to maintain a perpetual fire in their altars. 1667 Milton P. L. VI. 292–8 Together rush'd Both Battels maine, with ruinous assault And inextinguishable rage 1791 Cowper Iliad I. 719 Heav'n assembled in laughter inextinguishable 1815 Scott Guy M. II. The efforts of the professor were totally inadequate to restrain the inextinguishable laughter of the students 1847 Southey in Q. Rev. XVI. 229 An impulse of the most inextinguishable hope was exerted in every heart 1853 Lane Edin. Ser. II. (1860) 387 What an inextinguishable love of letter that time spared not celestial visages 1861 Maine Anc. Law v. (1876) 126 Primitive law considers the family groups, as perpetual and inextinguishable

Hence Inexti nguishableness (Bailey vol. II, 1727), -ably adv.
1821 Shelley Epipsych. 82 The Moon Burns, inextinguishably beautiful 1883 Harper's Mag. Aug. 464/2 She burst out crying inextinguishably

Inexti nguished, a. [In- 3.] Not extinguished, still burning, unextinguished 1746–7 Hervey Medit. (1818) 174 Ye Stars, that beam with inextinguished brilliancy through the midnight sky 1823 J. Wilson Noctes Ambr. I. 1. 3 Inextinguished flame, that feeling, perhaps had inextinguished love below it 1865 Bates Nat. Amazon IX. (1864) 271 Having found the inextinguished fire of their last encampment

Inextirpable (inekstɜ rpəbl), a. [ad. L. inextirpabilis (Pliny), f. in- (In- 3) + extirpare to Extirpate cf. F. inextirpable (15–16th c.).] That cannot be extirpated or entirely rooted out 1623 in Cockeram 1657 J. Walker Educ. 1. 11 All these, indulged and accustomed, grow stronger, and at last inextirpable 1838 Chalmers Wks. XII. 137 An inextirpable disease

Hence Inexti rpableness (Bailey vol. II, 1727) †Inexto litble, a. Obs. rare [f. In- 3 + extollible from Extol v.] That cannot be extolled 1778 Nugent Hist. Friar Gerund II. 337 Our inextollible Peter Gerund remained alone

In extremis see In Lat. prep.

Ine xtricable itty. rare [f. next see -ity. Cf. F. inextricabilité (Littré).] The quality or state of being inextricable. Also with an and pl. An instance of this, a situation, etc. from which one cannot extricate oneself 1834 H. O'Brien Round Towers Irel. 444 Taking them, as his clue, into a labyrinth of inextricability 1847 Mrs. Wm. Shirley I. 187 Spain has emancipated herself from the inextricability of the chain 1865 Carlyle Frederick Gt. XX. x. (1872) IX. 186 He fell partly into drinking, as the solution of his inextricabilities

Inextricable (ine kstrikəb'l), a. [ad. L. inextricābilis that cannot be disentangled or disengaged, from which one cannot disengage oneself, inexplicable (f. in- (In- 3) + extricāre to Extricate), perh. immed. a F. inextricable (15th c. in Hatz. Darm.).]
1 From which one cannot extricate oneself, esp. so intricate or complicated that no means of exit can be discovered a. Of places, esp. a labyrinth or maze. Also fig.
1555 Eden Decades 260 It cometh marueylous and quagyres inextricable and dangerous both for horse and man. 1572 Rosseywell Armorie II. 49 Of the Labyrynthe, or of th' obscure and inextricable buyldinge which Minos caused Dedalus to make 1603 Knolles Hist. Turks (1638) 95 The cuts and channels winding in and out with a thousand inextricable turnings, inclosed them 1790 Waterland Eight Serm. 268 Lest we lose our selves in inextricable Mazes. 1818 Jas. Mill Brit. India II. iv. 54 A road among the woods which they would have found inextricable b Of a state or condition. That cannot be escaped or got free from 1576 Fleming Panopl. Epist. 161 [They] cast themselues into millions of dangers in manner inextricable 1626 Jackson Creed VIII. viii. § 2 The crooked by paths which lead to death, and inextricable misery 1667 Milton P. L. X. 308 God ordaind thy will By nature free, not overrul'd by fate Inextricable, or strict necessity 1718 P. Cooke Jrnl. S. Sea 241 That he should run himself into an extricable Danger by going on. 1858 Hawthorne Y. & F. Tevils I. 176 The Lacedæmonians in such a type of human beings, struggling with an inextricable trouble 2 Of a knot, coil, etc. That cannot be untwisted, disentangled, or untied. Also transf.
1610 B. Jonson Alch. v. ii, To deceive him that would break Such an inextricable tie as ours was 1798 Venerable Answer Priest. Pref. 7 Compassed about by the strongest and most inextricable bonds of iniquity 1825 Scott J. M. Introd., The knot of the accursed sophistry became more inextricable in appearance, at least to the prey whom its meshes surrounded b Of a grasp. That cannot be loosened or detached 1847 J. Wilson Chr. North (1857) I. 138 Catching an inextricable hold of every wall they can reach †3 Of a problem. Incapable of being solved 1623 Purchas Pilgrimage (1614) 147 The Scribes in cer taine niceties, and scrupulous questions, sometimes inextricable 1660 Willsford Scales Comm. 138 An exact proportion betwixt the Diameter and Circumference is inextricable to Art 1664 H. More Myst. Iniq. 215 A Problem too curious to enquire into, but not altogether inextricable
4 Intricately involved, confused, or perplexed, incapable of being cleared up or put straight 1654 Fuller Ch. Hist. v. vi. § 3 In the Story there is an inextricable Errour in point of Chronology 1657 Baxter Cath. Theol. II. i. 157 If this be Nature with you, you cast your self into inextricable difficulties in that you say, 1748 Anson's Voy. III. iv. 394 To embroil his Commodore in an inextricable squabble with the Chinese Government 1849 Macaulay Hist. Eng. II. i. 159 The ecclesiastical polity of the realm was in inextricable confusion
5 Intricate, elaborate, exquisitely wrought rare
1691 Ray Creation II. (1692) 93 What force and strength was required, there being in them such inextricable Contexture [a transl. of Pliny's phrase, inextricabilis perfectio] 1799 Hon. Mrs. Fem. Educ. (ed. 4) I. 34 A net of such exquisite art and inextricable workmanship 1851 Ruskin Stones Ven. (1874) I. 308 The inextricable richness of the fully developed Gothic jamb and arch

Hence Ine xtricableness
1624 Donne Devotions 129 There is no perplexity in thee, my God, no inextricablenesse in thee 1727 in Bailey vol. II.

Inextricably (ine kstrikəbli), adv. [f. prec. + -ly 2.] In an inextricable manner, beyond all possibility of being disentangled or extricated 1598 Drayton Rainsford to K. Henry Amour's Vaults arched and walled with brick and stone, almost inextricably wound one within another 1692 Ray Disput. World 134 The Sun may be so inextricably involved by the Ecliptic, that he may quite lose his light 1785 Pope Odyss. VIII. 342 Th' intangling snares deny (Inextricably firm) the power to fly 1830 Tait's Edinb. Mag. I. 1 The structure was now inextricably connected with religion 1887 J. S. Banks Man. Chr. Doctr. II. iii. 178 In the Roman teaching truth and error are subtly and inextricably interwoven

†Ine xtricate, a. Obs. rare—[f. In- 3 + extricat-us pa. pple. see Extricate v.] Not to be disentangled, involved, tangled, intricate 1615 Chapman Odyss. XI. 389 But the equal fate Of God withstood his stealth, inextricate Improbating Jove

Inexuperable, variant of Inexsuperable

†Ineye (inəi), v. Obs. Also ɔ eneye [f. In- 2 (En-) + Eye, after L. inoculāre.] trans. To put an eye or bud into (the bark of a tree), to inoculate, to propagate by inoculation, = Bud v. 5. c 1420 Pallad. on Husb. VIII. 53 The fifte is now teneye hit is no wronge 1708 J. Phillips Cyder II. 21 Let sage experience teach these all the Arts Of Grafting and In-eyeing †Infa bricated, a. Obs. rare—[In- 3.] Not fabricated, unwrought 1693 Cockeram, Infabricated, Vnwrought 1782 Bailey, Infabricated, not well wrought, rough 1775 Ash, Infabricated, slightly put together 1828 in Webster

†Infacilitate, v. Obs. rare—[f. In- 3 + Facilitate v.] trans. To render difficult 1649 Blythe Eng. Improv. Impr. iii. (1653) 50 The discovery of some of those hindrances or rubs that either hinder or infacilitate this work of Fen draynng

Infadation, obs. erron. form of Infeudation

†Infallable, a Obs Also 7 infillable [IN-1] Partly, at least, a fr infaillible (15th c.) Not liable to fail, unfailing, reliable, infallible

1561 Eden Arte of Navig Prol (1674) 3 Certain infaileable sygnes and tokens of the same Ibid A right infayleable principles 1631 Dennon Heart Bang 47 I justly stand in faithfull signes of the presence of Christ Ibid 116 A few infallible markes, wherby we may know whether we haue received Christ

Infair see Infare sb

Infaisable, obs form of Infeasible

†Infai thful, a Obs rare —°. [IN-3] = Unfaithful. Hence †Infai thfulness

1688 Norris Theory I 104 It oftentimes receives a Denomination from the sensuality, but never from the infaithfulness, infidelity, or the like

Infall (infōl) [f In adv 11 d + Fall sb, 2 Ger einfall, Du inval, hostile incursion]

1 An inroad, attack, incursion, or descent upon an army, town, etc, or into a country Now rare

1645 Cromwell Let 24 Apr in Carlyle, As many as the Kingdom of Northampton's Regiment came to make an infall upon me 1647 Clarendon Hist I. 68 viii ¶ 322 The garrison at Hull had many strong infalls into the country 1650 in Wodrow Hist Sufferings Ch Scot (1722) II 54 At the Infal upon Glasgow 1894 Atkinson Old & Authority The piratical, predatory raids or infalls—we can hardly dignify them by calling them invasions—from the side of the sea

2 The place where the water enters a reservoir, canal, etc Cf outfall

1865 Daily Tel 6 Sept, The puddling was not put in for about 300 feet at the infall, and about 150 feet at the out fall, the ground forming, in fact, a natural bank

3 The falling of a stream, road, etc into another, junction confluence

1895 Crockett Men of Moss Hags xiii 334 It was near the infall of the road from Loch Dee that we first got sight of those we sought

†Infalla cious, a Obs rare [IN-1] Not fallacious or deceptive

1677 Gunn Bk Subst Nature I 80 In this Experiment, two things, to render it infallacious, are to be noted

Infallen (in|fǣlən), ppl a [f In adv 11 b + Fallen] That has fallen in (cf Fall v 58 b)

1882 Baum Weekly Post 8 Apr 2/4 Due to the covering up by the infallen rock of a tin submarine cable

Infallibilism (infɔ̆ libiliz'm) [f as next + -ism] The principle of the infallibility of some person or thing, esp of the Pope

1870 Sat Rev 2 Apr 436/1 The present Archbishop of Westminster having let out infallibilism at Rome, was put over the heads of English Catholics by the Pope, against their will 1894 Bovd Carpenter Lect Preach 200, I would not have any of you climb into the seat of smug and self-satisfied infallibilism

Infallibilist (infɔ̆ libilist) Also 8ist [f L infallibil-is Infallible + -ist] One who believes in or upholds the infallibility of some person or thing, esp (in reference to the Vatican Council) that of the Pope

1870 Pall Mall G 10 Feb, The Infallibists are said to be now moving swiftly and surely towards their goal 1873 Morley Rousseau II xiv 274 The presumptuousness of all varieties of theological infallibism 1879 1876 Contr No 32 669 Hieronymus Porrius, the Infallibilist, wrote in maintaining the doctrine of the Papal infallibility 1894 Academy 25 Aug, 127/1 The position of a positive dogmatist is assumed to differ fundamentally from that of a theological or scientific infallibilist

b attrib or as adj

1875 Posey 2 Jan in Liddon Life (1897) IV xi 279 The whole extreme Ritualist party is practically infallibilist We will not retreat, because we are certainly right

Hence Infallibilistic a, of or pertaining to an infallibilist 1890 Macmillan Mar 390 Any other acknowledgment would be fatal to its infallibilistic pretensions (i e those of the Papacy).

Infallibility (infɔ̆ libiliti) [f as Infallible + -ity, repr med L infallibilitas, obs F infallibilité (Frans, de Sales a 1600, in Godef Compl)]

1 The quality or fact of being infallible or exempt from liability to err

1611 Cotgr, Infallibilité, infallibilitie, or infallibleuesse; certainetie, assurance 1611 Bible Introd Prof 8 Mich priuiledged with the priuiledge of infallibilitie 1624 Gataker Transubst 110 The Pope sitting in his Chaire, may yet erre for all his infallibility so much and so oft bragged of 1662 Stillingfl Orig Sacr II i § 2 [The evidences] will likewise prove the undoubted certainty and infallibility of those writings. 1791 Mrs Radcliffe Rom Forest xii, A striking instance of the infallibility of my judgment 1870 Sat Rev 2 Apr 441 Roman Catholics in this country acquired all their civil rights on the strength of their reiterated declaration that papal infallibility was no doctrine of their church 1875 Manning Mission H Ghost xi. 301 That which we call infallibility is nothing but this the Church cannot err from the path of revealed truth

b His Infallibility, a title given to the Pope, also, a mock title

1834 Oxf Univ Mag I 122 The day before the Pope expired, the startling announcement came forth 'His Infallibility is delirious' 1886 Pall Mall G 19 June 1/1 An ex cathedrâ utterance from his Infallibility of Midlothian

c An infallible person rare

1886 Sir F H Doyle Remin 49 Youthful infallibilitites of the normal Arnoldian type

2. The quality of being unfailing or not liable to fail, unfailing certainty

Vol. V.

a 1632 Donne in Select (1840) 188 Thy light shall grow up, from a fair hope, to a modest assurance and infallibility, that that light shall never go out 1640 Howell Dodona's Gr 67 Puffed up with such a certitude and infallibilitie of hopes and presumptions, that there were Bonefires alwaies made 1896 Kane Anti Evol I xviii 216 The promise of a gain with a saving is in the nature of its infallibility

†Infallibi bityship Obs [f prec + -ship] A mock title given to one who claims infallibility, spec to the Pope

1899 in Hone Every day Bk I 1490 The crafty devil leasing his infallibility ship in the hands 1683 F Bowes Exact Symbolizing with C & Rome 34 [If] his Infallibityship had pulled Humanity at Lyons, and Tertullian at Carthage by Johnson Clergym Vade M ii 22 His Infallibility ship owns it to be true

Infallible (infɔ̆ libl'), a (sb) Also 5–6 infal(l)yble 6 -abil able, -alable [ad med L infallibilis (in Boëtius), f in (IN-3) + fallibilis (f fallere, infallibil, (15th c in Hatz-Darm), also Infailable] Not fallible

1 Of persons, their judgements, etc Not liable to be deceived or mistaken; incapable of erring

1491 Caxton Vitas Patr (W de W 1495) I Prol 1 s/1 Blessed be god our souerayn creatour & dyrectour Infal lyble 1526 Pilgr Perf (W de W 1531) 238 Our lorde to wyt wyse infallyble promyse which is infallyble 1559 W Cunningham Cosmog Glasse, 57 Th' infallible rules of Arithmetik and cometrie 1577 Vaa Houltbeer Luther on Ps (1578) 158 b Followeth by an infallible consequence 1654 tr Sudery's Cassia I 61 73 That Maxime is infallible, that what is just, is honourable. 1748 Anson's Voy II ix 228 The height of the mountains was described as an infallible mark of the harbour 1764 Reid Inquiry § 8 104 How justly in this sheer to my confidence, till I find infallible proofs of her infidelity 1885 Pall Mall G 20 Nov 3/1 Not [it] (sc a slip) an infallible standard as a temptation to a mechanic of faith

b Not liable to fail in its action or operation

1721 Sitter Spect No 134 ¶ 2 You offer an infallible Cure of Vice and Folly, for the Price of one Penny 1728 Van Effen Dutch Bull I 22, An infallible antidote and plaister 1801 Mod Europ V 244 The one being often liable to fail while the other is in its nature almost infallible 1854 H Miller Sch & Schm II 288 Where we see her work with an infallible needle 1881 Mrs R L Good Somebody's Neighbors 64 (Cent) He mended china with an infallible cement

c That cannot fail to be, or to come, certain 1601 Shaks All's Well I. i 153 To accuse your Mothers, which in most infallible disobedience 1611 Speed Hist Gt Brit xi iv (1623) 709 A Lawe infallible to bee of the Britaine Customes 1643 Cabvel Past & Pr 1 v, One of the infallible Signes of Vnsanctified Loue

B sb One who or that which is infallible

1816 C S Faber Orig Pagan Idol III 313 What heretic shall presume to ask, between these two absolute infallibles? 1830 Galt Lawrie T I xi 140 Some prospered one kind of infallible and some another 1858 O W Holmes Aut Breakf Table (1891) 172 A point of difference between an infallible and a hostler

Hence †Infa llible v trans, to render infallibly certain, + Infa llibleness = Infallibility 1 b

1651 J Jackson Eternal Truth 4 His infallible shape bears no farther in matters de facto then meaner men 1656 S H Gold Law 1 We will first begin with Scripture Arguments the better to infallible it Ibid, We will next pursue it with right Reason which will safely infallible it

Infa llibleness. [f prec + -ness] The quality of being infallible, infallibility

1596 Nashe Have with 61 Nothing but fancie, which in them must either be vanitie, or infallibleuesse 1640 Br Hall Apol iii § 22 210 In the infallibleness of their judgement 1879 Rushin Fors Clav II 74 [His] infallible ness as proof of every other good power

Infallibilist see Infallibilist

Infallibly (infɔ̆ libli), adv [f Infallible a + -ly²] In an infallible manner

1 Without fail or liability to prove false, most certainly, indubitably

1500 Chron Calston Mem (W de W 1508) 1 vii 422 The which right dereby the holy and blessed Gryste unto us hathe conquered and promysed infallybly 1599 Sanderson Serm 264 With me ye must consent And infallibly agree Of necessyte 1632 Du Wes Introd Fr 35 Palsgr legit Infallibly, madame, the matter is to hyghe for my symple nesse 1653 Walton Angler ii 53 He will infallibly take the trout, and you will be as sure to catch him 1726 Swift Let to Ireland v, Mine eyes I should have infallibly lost, if I had not suddenly thought of an expedient. 1844 In Brougham Brit Const viii (1869) 106 The Sovereign would infallibly take part with the privileged orders

2 Without liability to err or be mistaken, unerringly

1597 Hooker Eccl Pol v lxvi § 1 That the one might infallibly teach what the other doe most assuredly bring to pass 1690 Locke Hum Und III iv (1695) 277 Though every thing said in the Text be infallibly true, yet the Reader may be very fallible in the understanding of it 1707 Hickeringill Priestcraft II 5 Pope Stands V. after words infallibly said (that [etc] 1860 Pusey Min Prophets 301 To learn that He, the Infallible Truth, will teach them infallibly 1872 H C Wood Therap (1879) 428 Bile is to be regained more infallibly by testing with the proper reagents.

†Infa llid, a Obs [f In 3 + (app) an assumed fallid* or L fallid-us*, from fallere, bearing the same analogy to fallible, that horrid does to horrible.] That does not fail or prove false, = Infallible 2

1635 Haywood Hurricha 108 Infallid testimonies of the wisedome and power of the Almighty 1639 Webster Apheta 1 In us, Upon my infallid warrant, I dare say pronounce the sentence on my side 1639 [Daniel Fiction xxxvii 87 He gives infallid rules Of Knowledge

Infalling (infɔ̆ lin), sb [IN- adv 11 c] A falling in, + an invasion (obs)

1676 W Row Contn Blair's Autobiog x (1848) 250 The young laird of Swantoun, who before the infalling was suspected to favour the enemy 1840 H Miller Test Rocks III. 121 Preparatory for the infalling of an outs ard power

†Infama tion. Obs [a F infamation (1369 acten, in Godef), and L infamation-em, a of action f infamare see Infame v.] The action of holding up to infamy, the spreading of an ill report, defamation 1533 More Apol xiv Wks. 915/2 He bryngeth in as you see, this vehement infamation of the Knyghts, neuer yet making men worse it wer so 1563-87 Foxe + & V (1684) II 1.3 2 The nature of the Church hath ever been to suffer slanderous reports and infamation by the iniquity of Adversaries 1652 Life Father Sarpi (1676) 60 Some such pestiferous Pens have infected the World with imp stures and infamations of those, whose works they were neither able to extinguish nor confute.

†Infamator. Obs rare—1 [Agent-noun in I form from L infamare see Infame v] One who defames, a slanderer

1575 in Calderwood Hist Kirk (Wodrow Soc) III 37 Suche as impugne proclamations of banes cheeffe by infame and prove not, lett them be punished as infamators

Infa matory, a rare [ad med L infamatorius, f ppl stem of L infamare see -ory] + a = Defamatory (obs) b Bringing infamy

1612 Bp Jas Montagu Diatribe 58 Those bad, those contents whereof were wholly inflamatory. 1620 Shelton Quix III i 12, I have not heard of inflamatory Verse against the Lady Angelica. 1880 Murdoch Statutes I 318 Infra, The reference to the inflamatory result of compromise of a claim et delicto is in the edict de infamia

† Infa mous, adv Obs a enfame [a Of infame, enfame —late L infamum (Isidore V xxxvii 26) = L infamia (Hatz-Darm)] + Infamy

1387-8 T Usk Test Love II vi (Skeat) I 6 Comenly the people was bold and lemge abuste suche infamous thinge 1483 Cath Angl 211/2 And consequent fulle hevy & wo infamous, f in (IN-1) + fama fame, report] = Famous

† Infa mously, adv (sb?) Obs [a F infame (1356 in Hatz-Darm), ad L infamis + -ly²] = Infamous, f in (IN-1) + fama fame, report] = Famous

1555-86 Sabie Fames Forrest xxxvi 124 That fals and ingenious soul Of his quicke wit bereaued sence, and infame 1572 Knox Hist Ref I Wks 1846 I 81 Whosoever is not produced for witnesses was admitted, how suspitious and infame that euer they were 1580 Sidney Arc iii Table 82 Infame persones are all they quha are convicted of perjure, vpon ane Assise Ibid, He is infame, quha reveles the secret of the gild. a 1711 Ken Hymns Festiv Poet Wks 1721 I 274 Long had the Goldren Name been reprobated and infame a 1734 North Examen II ii § 14 (1740) 142 A scandalous infame State Libel

B sb [absol use of adj as in Fr] An infamous person, one branded with infamy

1550 Bale Eng Votaries I Kiv, He shoulde be made an infame or be put to the gilt of the same

Infame (infē·m), v arch Also 5 6 enfame [a F infamer, ad L infāmāre to render infamous, f infāmis see prec.]

1 trans To render infamous, to brand with infamy or dishonour, to hold up to infamy, to reprobate arch

1413 Hoccleve Pitcous Compl Soul 252 Thi sone him lowsshed from heuen libuse as for enfamed, he and alle his 1477 Caxton Jason 10 Shall I neuer haue fault nay for trouthe for as moche as I shulde be enfamed 1577-87 Holinshed Chron I 66 2 Because he somewhat yet resisted the chronicles of his time, infamed by writers 1598 Barckley Felic Man (1603) 273 Quintus Hortensius is infamed by historians, because he looked in a glasse when he made him ready 1728 Van Effen Dutch Bull I 27 This inhuman Practice will infame your Government 1806 G Butler Vind Bk Com Cath CA 116 Why then do you infame Doctor Lingard for his not mentioning it? Ibid 127 If we are to be infamed let it be by the production of facts. 1897 Creighton Papacy V vi 147 He infamed good works as though they were not meritorious

†2 To spread an ill report of, to defame Obs

1483 Caxton Gold Leg 181 2 She that enfamed the sergeante of good was taken and vexed with a deuyl 1529

More Dyalogue 1 192/2 No such fayntyd wonders shulde enfame goddes very myracles a 1533 J D Banners Gold fik M Aurel (1546) Ll vij b, To the entente to couer their owne infamy, they infame all other that bee good 1604 J Wright Passions \ § 4 279 If the Iudge or Iustice of peace infame any person called before them vniustly, the iniury is almost doubled

†-fā To accuse of something infamous Obs

1532 J Lyon Gen ii vii, Infamynge hym to be a man with out charitie 1536 Rem Sedition 8 Is there any nation, that hath been more enfamed of barbarous conditions, than the Scythes? 1550 Bale Pag Votaries II Lvj b, She was afore that infamed of lyghte conuersacyon 1572 Camden Hist Eliz ii vi (1630) 89 Hee infamed the said Fryer as an abettour and fauourer of Arnolds heresie 1799 A Burns Lect Law (ed 6) III 275 Incelestuous Iudges shall not conspire any to come to purgation at the suggestion of their opprobrious, unless they be infamed by grave and good men.

Hence Infa ming vbl sb and ppl a

1538 E Harvel in Flis Orig Lett ser II 74 The infaming of our Nacion with the vehementist wordes they cowde use 1599 Jas I Basil Amore (1682) 25 The infaming and making odious of the parent is the readie way to bring the sonne in contempt 1611 Cotgr Chastiaiure, an infamous (or infaming) ballade sung by an armed troupe vnder the window

Infamed, ppl a arch [f prec vb + -ED1] Made or become infamous, branded with infamy

1480 Caxton Chron Eng ii (1520) 93/1 Here was the first that ever the chyche of Rome had an infamed pope 1536 Hist Reynard Crow xi ad (1846) 127 He wyste al the publik rentes in his infamit hust. a 1619 Fotherby Atheom ix § 4 (1622) 102 I hold true, the most infamed of the Atheists. 1663 Flagellum sive Cromwellicus 28 For Drinking and the like outrages of licentious youth, none so infam'd as this young Tarquin

†-ĕd Legally pronounced or held infamous Obs

1589 More Dyalogue iii iii 72 v/1 [That] the Iuse made by the clyche, shalde alwyte and receyue a personne infamed 1598 Hist Jacob VI (1825) 127 Alsweill for the fluttery of sicke nine infamet person of the law and mensworne apostate 1577 Northbrooke Dicing (1843) 114 Whosoeuer vseth the playing was taken and holden for infamed persons

c Her (+ P. infamé) Applied to a lion or other beast figured without a trail, = Depamed 2

1780 in Edmondson Heraldry II Gloss 1828 in Berry Encycl Heraldi I 1889 J Fairbairn Crest Her Plate 26, De famed, Defame or Infamed

†Infa mer. Obs rare Also 6 -our [f as prec. + -er1] One who brings infamy, a defamer a 1533 In Pynson Cooke's Mr Arbor (1536) (sig h), Nor Kome shulde not repute them for augmentours of the commonwelth, but infamours and robbers of clemency 1601 Chester Love's Mart. Arbor 141 That vnsaid Mouldie, Mischiefes Nourisher, Times bad infamer

Infamilia rity rare [In-1] = Unfamiliarity

1866 Irish Rev Apr 275 Whether something is to be allowed for a Norfolk man's infamiliarity with natural history

Infa mity. Sc Obs [a OF infamité infamy, l infamia Infamia a see -ity] = Infamy 3

1493 Acta Audit 195 (Jam) Vnder the pain of perjure & infamite 1543 Aberdeen Reg (Jam), Infamite & perjure

Infamize (i nfămaiz), v [f L infamis Infame a + -ize]

1 trans To render infamous, to brand with infamy, to stigmatize with, = Infame v 1

1596 Nashe Nyffron Il Add 83 Another age may behold and infamize my name when I am in heauen 1817 Coleridge Lay Sermon 81 Readers & Audiences are inclined to infamize the name of the king's brother With a black ink hell 1848 Mill Pol Econ v x § 2 (1876) 560/1 The moral sense of mankind very justly infamizes those who resist an otherwise just claim on the ground of usury

b To render infamous in law

1827 Mill in Benthams Rat Jud Evid V 746 All persons who have suffered any the most infamizing punishment 1832 Austin Jurispr (1873) I xxiii 472 Certain obligations are sanctioned by penalties which are purely infamizing by a declaration pronounced by competent authority, that the party shall be held infamous or merits infamy 1865 Mill in Fortn Rev XXVIII 18

2 To defame, = Infame v 2

1598 Sylvester Du Bartas II ii 1 Noah 577 Cham that impudently view'd His Fathers shame, and thus beg in to infamize the poor old drunken man 1851 Sc Pathfinder (1876) 74 This Cardinal did always use to infamize the Hamilton for his publish Writings with odious appellations 1817 Coleridge Chron Times I 80 III 93 Who infamizes another man was Apostate and Renegado 1831 Examiner 449/1 How is the claim to be stated without infamizing the claimant?

Hence I nfamizing vbl sb and ppl a (see sense 1 b), also I nfamizer, a defamer

1592 G Harvey Pierces Super (1593) 180 Vnlouckall usurpers of iudgement, infamizers of vice 1827–32 Infamizing (see Enslaved) 1841 Gen P Thompson Exot (1842) VI 107 Whatever baseness whatever cruelty, whatever infamizing of the national character (etc)

†Infa mmize, v [A perversion of infamize] 1588 Shake J L L v ii 684 Braggart (Armado) Dost thou infammonize me among Potentates?

Infamous (i nfămas), a Also 5 enfamouse. [A infamis, -os] corresponds to FRE OF infameux, med L infāmōsus = I infamis of L famosus, F fameux, Eng famous formerly stressed infa mous (still in Bailey 1730, but Milton has i nfamous). The L. form infamis, also infames, occurs in early use]

1 Of ill fame or repute, famed or notorious for badness of any kind, notoriously evil, wicked, or vile, held in infamy or public disgrace.

a of persons, their attributes, etc

1532 More Dobell Sadcm Wks 915/1 [This] should but make both parties more infamouse, amonge such other as would be glad and reuisce to here much euill spoken of them both 1590 Marlow Faust ii 53 I fear me is fallen into that damned art for which they two are infamous through the world 1612 Bible Took xxii 5 Those that be neere shall mocke them with nett infamous, and much vexed 1684 Contempt St Man I ix (1699) 103 Set before thy Eyes Christ Crucified upon Mount Calvary if a Man more infamous be imaginable. 1734 tr Rollin's Anc Hist xx 1 IX 7 Persons was utterly infamous for his crimes 1844 Thirlwall Greece lx VIII 11 He appears to have been more infamous for sacrilege than for bloodshed

b of things

c1380 Wyclif Serm Sel Wks I 321 No man liuith a lan ferme in derknesse, and i stynk in oon of pes two infamous [Vs Donet 321 famous] places neiper in bid place ne vndir a bushel 1398 Trevisa Barth De P. C. xix. cxxii (Add MS 27944 f 298) Pis humour is no fumes amous ne infamous 1597 Shakes Lucr 981 Pus humour is not onely infamous, for by nombre of twey ne we hep departed fro oon, and so pis nombre is acompted token of departyng 1570 Levins Pronipt Angl 282 A leese infortune or vice, but much more infamous to this countrie, was the time of the second muster here 1650 Fuller Pisgah II xii. 253 But hap was that Jericho and Jerusalem is infamous for thieving 1667 Primatt City & C Build to Salisbury Plain, and divers other places famous for curious air, and as infamous for their barrenness 1719 D'Urfey Pills Amor (1778) II vi 155 An island infamous for the most unhealthy climate in that region of America 1838 Thirlwall Greece vi 281 A part of the Cyclopian mansions in ancient times, under the name of Cœla (the Hollows)

2 Deserving of infamy, of shameful badness, vileness, or abominableness, of a character or quality deserving utter reprobation (One of the strongest adjectives of detestation) a of persons, etc.

1509 Barclay Ship fools xiv 178 Of infamous ryght infamouse churle and olde my chrunte! 1590 Spenser F Q I xii 27 False errant knight, infamous, and forsworn 1599 Nashe Jack Wilton iii 11 Captaine, said I, with Sunk of Faith, where ay th infamouest Most bold and buase, we esteemed best 1711 Addison Spect No 126 P 3 Infamous Hypocrites, that are pretenders to Extraordinary Advantage, under Colour of the Publick Good 1841 Lane Arab Nts I 108 I hou least, thou infamous woman

b of things; Hum hardly xiv 178 O infamous right

2. Law The condition of being a minor, the period of life during which a person remains under guardianship (extending, in common law, to the end of the twenty first year), minority, nonage 1658 Grimstone tr Croke's Rep, Jas I (1791) 320 Debt brought upon a lease for years ... The defendant in bar pleaded infancy at the time of the lease made. 1758 Sir C. Viner Cancelled Will 3 July, I give to the Chancellor and University of Oxford to whom I think myself in some measure obliged to make some Amends for my Indiscretions there in my Infancy. 1795 Johnson, Infancy 2 Civil infancy, extended by the English law to one and twenty years. 1796 Blackstone Comm IV 22 We will consider the case of infancy or nonage. 1796 Burke W. Hastings Whs 1842 II 215 The minuteness parts as Poona, who held and exercised the regency of that state in the infancy of the pe hwa. 1818 Cruise Digest (ed 2) III 34 It [the right of advowson] was not vested in a guardian in soc age, nor was he to count thle for any presentation made during the infancy of his ward Noel The defendant pleaded infancy the goods having been supplied before he was of age.

3 fig The earliest period in the history of any thing capable of development, the initial and rudimentary stage in any process of growth 1555 Eden Decades (Arb) 56 He wrought miracles euen in thinfancie of Gospell. 1588 P. Fletcher Purple Isl 1 xliv, Thrice happy was the worlds first infancie. 1677 Yarranton Eng. Improv 62 There will be such advantage given to the Lancn Manufactures in its Infancy. 1779 Priestley Inst Relig 1782) I 143 Our present being is but the infancy of man. 1872 Raymond Statist Mines & Mining 185 Our quartz mines are in their infancy. 1879 Jowett Plato (ed 2) IV 229 In the infancy of logic a form of thought has to be invented.

4. concr (chiefly collect) (Childhood as embodied in living examples infants collectively 1598 Shake Merry W v v 56 Skope she as sound as carelesse infants. 1608 — Per & Or II 11 105 Sothat time, that nothing can but yong infancie scorn'd, Scarce 48 Nor age nor infancy could find thee there. 1813 Shelley Q. Mab II 152 Old age and infancy Promiscuous perished. 1860 Gen P Thomson Addr III 141 When tender infancy evinces needless terror at cow, or dog, or shaggy goat

+5 In etymological sense Inability or unwillingness to speak, speechlessness, silence Obs 1541 Milton Ch Gouv It Introd, Dare not now to say or do anything better than thy forme-sith undfancy 1670 Hist Eng v Wks (1851) 200 Suddenly did the Swiss Annals deliver their meaning with more then wonted infancy.

†Infa nd, a Obs exc as nonce-wd [ad I infand-us unspeakable, abominable, (in- IN-4) + fand-us, gerundive of fāri to speak] = next 1608 Br J Kine Serm 5 Nov 18 Rome the Calumnies and common sewer of all infande wickednesse 1678 Cudworth Intell Syst I iv 884 Is not this a very infamous reason to hide and conceal that opinion as infand and detestable) 1889 Sat Rev 2 Mar 245/1 The Society has caused odours infand [cf Virgil infandos dolores] to gladstonians.

†Infa ndous, a Obs [as prec + -ous] Unspeakable, not to be spoken of, nefarious 1644 Howell Twelve Treat (1661) 135 With what infandous blasphemies have Pulpits rung c 1645 — Lett I v xii (1650) 209 This and many such Custom of Swearing reigns in England lately more than any where else 1658 Phillips, Infandous, monstrously wicked and hainous 1686 Goad Celest Butler III iii 466 Lo a new way of winning of souls Infandous Cataclysmes, Pictures, and Assurances of Noth-i-land 1798 Hearne Collect (O H S) II 93 Hang'd for most infandous Crimes

† Infang, sb Sc Obs Abbrev of Infangthief
1549 Compl Scot xiii 106 The gist famiharete that Inglis men and Scottis lies bund on bwith the bordoures in mar-chiedeis in out fang, and in fang, nik ane amang, theris 1828 Scott J. Y. Perth v, Would you have us now yield up our rights and immunities, our outfang and infang, our hand-habend and our blood suits?

| Infang, v Sc Obs [f In-1 + Fang v] trans To take in, hold in 1573 Douglas Eneis v Prol 30 Himself infangis the le wheit of the sail

+ Infa nglement. Obs rare [f In-2 + Fangle v 2 + -ment] A scheme, machination 1795 Richardson Grandison (1812) V 143 Neither you nor your niece know how to go out of the common family path, when you get a man into your toils, however superior he is to common infangiements of the unwary

+ Infangthief, Old Eng Law Obs Forms 1 2 infangenþeof, 3 infangen(e) , infangetheof, 4-6 infangthef, -e, (6 infantheef, infantkethieff), 7 infangtheefe, -theif(e), 9 Hist infangthief Also errou 6 7 infang-, 8 infangentheft [Ot. infangenþeof, f In adv + fangen, pa pple of fōn to seize (see Fang v) + þeof Thief, lit 'thief seized within'] Jurisdiction over a thief apprehended within the manor or territorial limits to which the privilege was attached, the right of the lord of a manor to try and to amerce a thief caught within its limits
According to the 13th c 'Laws of Edward the Confessor,' the criminal must be the lord's own thief, i e his own man or tenant, and, according to Bracton, must further be caught in the act, or in possession of the thing stolen, the latter provision also appears in the 16th c Scotch statements of Balfour and Skene. The Latin formula for 'infangen þeof' and difangen þeof' was 'cum furia comprehensione intus et foris' 1090 in Earle Land Charters (1888) 233 Ic cyðe eow þæt ic habbe geunnen him þæt he beo his sacu & socne wyrðe & grõbryces & hamsocne & forstealles & infangenes þeofes c 1066 Ibid 343 Ic cyðe eow ðæt ic habbe geseofon Criste and Æðelwine ablod into Rameseye saca and socna, tol and team, and infangeneðeof 12 Laws Edw Conf c 20 Quil sit socke, et sache, et tol, et theam, et infangenetheof Ibid 36 De infangenetheof Justitia cognoscentis latronis sua erit de homine suo, si captus fuerit super terram suam c 1250 Glos in Ast Ant I 13 Infangkenetheof, Latrum pena sua natione tene c 1250 Bract Note Bk II 244 Et dicitur in fangethef, latro captus in terra alicujus de hominibus suis propriis, seyatus latronis. 1292 Britton I xvi 8 1 Qe lamendement pris et en la Court le seignur del fee si il eit la franchise de Infangenthef soit mener en jugement c 1350 Higden Polychron (Rolls) II 94 Infang theef, pellendue [v r pallendue] Anglice in warda fossa, quum capere reum, Gallice, dedemy le soen attachement de latron [Harl 2261 transl Infanthef pelfynde inwarde þat is to say to take a pilty man within his bondeschipe, in I renche, dedems le soon atachemente de larun] 1535 Act 27 Hen VIII c 26 § 23 Lordes-Marches shall have within their said Lordeshippes Wayff Strauff Infanthief Outfanthief Treasoure Troves a 1600 Balfour's Practicks (1754) 30 Thair is sum Barons quha hes privilege and libertie of infang thift and outfang thift, quha thairfore hes power to sit and give dome upon all theives tane and apprehendit in manifest thift [Skene Quon Attach ch 5, upon ane man taken within their freedome vaiped with manifest thift] sic as hand hawand and back bearand, within thir barronie a 1657 Sir W Muir Hist Actualitate Wks (v I & S) 1844 I 121 Were possessed of the ancient & heiveing of Rowallane infeft cum furcet fossa, sock et sack, thole et theam, infang theif et outfang theif 1832 Austin Jurisp (ed 3) I xxiii 494 In the Scotch Regality Courts, the Lords of Lowndship had a right called the Right of Infang Theif, or summary punishment of criminals taken in open deed. 1879 Stubbs Const Hist III xii 340 Glanvill, Bracton, & Maitland's Hist Eng Law I 6 8 The criminal jurisdiction of the borough, for example, seems seldom to have stretched to any higher point than that of infangthief and infangthief to mother wards, the punishment of criminals caught in the act

Infant infănt), sb (Forms 4 6 enfaunt, enfaunt, 6 enfant, infante (7 inphant), 6- infant [ad L infant-, infans, speechless, f In- (Ps-) + fant-, pa ppl stem of fāri to speak. Aphetized Faunt]
1 A child during the earliest period of life (or still unborn), now most usually applied to a child in arms, a babe, but often extended in Law and elsewhere to a child under seven years of age (cf infant class In fant school), in early use (esp when transl L infans, or h enfant) used in the wider sense of 'child', and thus passing into the legal sense 2
1382 Wyclif Ecclus xii 5 And streytis of the cites shuln be fulfillid with multitudis of ded bodies childrun and mayden, pleyinge in the stretis of it — 2 John iv 14 I wryte to you, infauntis [gloss or yonge children], for ye han knowe the fadir 1440 Gesta Rom I xlvii 204 (Harl MS) Wothe swyfly to the house of the forster, — and takithe of him the litle Infaunt, that his wyf thith myght childe 1450 Merl 1441 in Halliwell Nurs Rh 148 Thys day ys bot a yong enfaunt, And thenke ye scolys for to haunt 1582 N Lichefield tr Castanheda I 3 They brought vnto him infants also, that were borne that day. 1596 Nashe Saffron Walden Grosart VI 39 The burthen hath sense & feeling about the sixe and thirtieth day, and from that time forward it is called an infant. 1611 Cotgr s v Vuide d'enfans 1660 Stubbe Ind Doct (1670) 10 Wotha swyfly to the house of the forster, — and takithe of him the litle Infaunt, that his wyf thith myght childe 1749 Mod Un Hist XIII 181 The Infant, which will be but a young enfant, And thinke ye scolys for to haunt 1822 J H (Rhem) Luke xviii 15 They brought unto him infants also, that he might touch them 1896 Daily Chron 10 Jan 3/1 The burthen hath sense & feeling about the sixe and thirtieth day, and from that time forward it is called an infant. Yet it is a style of custom 1600 Shake Hen V I ii 141 The Infant, Mowling, and blooding like a bastard and a boy. 1605 — Macb IV iii 216 Piedmont, The bloody Pleasures, that rolled Mother with infant down the rocks. 1710 Parnell Hermit 251 The infant wept, the mother sigh'd in vain 1816 Keats Dying of Lucretia xxxiii viii (ed 2) 169 It was held that a devise to an infant en ventre matris, was good, which began with an allowance for the life of a posthumous child 1890 Law Times Rep IV 60 An infant crying in the night An infant crying for the light And with no language but a cry

2 fig One who is a 'child', or very young beginner, in some department 1596 Dalrymple Pr Scot VI 31 Leavy infants of the wood 1608 Shake Hum I iii 39 The Canker Galls, the Infants of the Spring. 1608 Higgon Defence III 149 Reputed as but infants in morality, rather then in antiquity. 1850 Brownson Ch of Ancients (1850) 215 The questioning of old Paul seemed advisa to the Utopian infant

2 A person under (legal) age, a minor
In common law, one who has not completed his or her twenty first year, in the case of a ruler, one who has not reached the age at which he becomes constitutionally capable of exercising sovereignty 1376 Rolls of Parlt II 342/1 La Fyn ou Note se leva tun qe come l'enfant estoit deins age 1513 More in Grafton Chron (1568) II 774 I may require it for him, except the I awe geve the infant a guarden onely for his goods 1602 T Lee Heads Opt Reform 18 (1676) 17 The infantes which happen to be the kinges wardes, shal have wages, and liveries, and al other necessaries, according to their estate 1693 Owen Pembrokesh (1892-19 [He] was governed by tutours during his minority 1694 Gen Dict I 8 An infant or minor (whom we call any that is under the age of 21 years) 1842 tr Peschel Phys Bk II 683 Such an enfant who is a feoffee shall give notice, and an enfant who is Lord shall take notice 1765 Blackstone Comm I 460 The privileges and disabilities of an infant, or one under age and subject to guardianship 1786 W Thomson Philip III (1819) 249 Many the Medicis sole regent of France during the minority of her son, and infant in the ninth year of his age 1898 In St Ignarios Handy Bk Prop Law xiii 81 Although until a recent period an infant might have appointed a guardian to his children by deed or will, yet it seems that he can no longer do so by will fig 1692 Wasmouth tr Milton's Def Pop Wks 1738 I 322 The Judges were of that evil, that will do nothing justly, but according to Law, though the King by Word or Mandate, or Letters under his own s al, should comm and the contrary. How true it is that the King is above and ; our Law to be an Infant, and to possess his Rights and Dignities as a Child or a Ward of his

+ 3 A youth or noble or gentle birth Cf Infant sb 2 Child 5 Obs
1590 Spenser F Q II viii 56 To whom the Infant thus: Palyce sir, what need Good names be counted a servile bond? 1596 Ibid V viii 2 The Infant [Arthur] sparkled wisely to her tale 1600 Fairfax Tasso xii xxxix The noble Infant [Rinaldo] stood a space Confused, speechless
4 Humorously applied to various jocular applications of exceptional size strength, etc (See quots) 1832 Brighton Guide in Blew Brighton & its Coaches (1883) 187 Mr Walter Bancock's steam carriage, the 'Infant' was on the way from London to Brighton on an experimental trip 1874 Graphic 5 Dec 538/1 The heaviest gun now actually in position commonly called the Woolwich Infant weighs 35 tons 1888 Pall Mall Gaz 11 Dec 1/1 The specialty of Woolwich is its big guns, its new famous and historic 'infants' 5 attrib or adj (When appositive or attrib, often equiv [ent to an adj) infantile infantine) a appositive That is an infant i e like an infant in infant angel, God, heir, king martyr poet warrior, etc 1595 Daniel Civ Wars I xxxiv Kingdomes ever suffer this distresse, For one or more in their infant state 1596 Shake Hen IV, Pt II iv 111 Peace soon speeds those infant wounds of Civil War. 1888 Pall Mall Gaz 11 Dec 1/1 The specialty of Woolwich is its big guns, its new famous and historic 'infants' b attrib or adj (All the rights That prosperous infant should bestow Upon its infant heir 1692 Washington tr Milton's Def Pop xii (1851) 11 A poor indigent King surrounded with so many Infant Priests and Doctors. a 1704 T Brown Fraser Drunkenness Wks 1730 I 17 Cheeks like those the Painters give to infant angels. 1720 Welton Suffer. Son of God II xx 231 How wouldst not suffer those Infant Martyrs to endure so much as thy Self. 1872 J A H Murray Compl Expos of Will Introd viii Of the three contemporaneous sources of English history [viz. the] nearly a century and a half were occupied by the reigns of infant sovereigns 1874 Lubbock Origin II i The remains of the Infant Colour by Simeon and Ainsi Wood The presentation of the infant Jesus in the temple
b appositive or adj In its earliest stage, newly existing unknown, undeveloped nascent, incipient, as infant blossom civilization cod colony, commerce, community, convent, fruit, letters, navy, sorrow spring, world, etc 1593 Shake Lucr 1096 Old woes, not infant sorrows, bear them mild 1671 Milton Sams Ag II 1 1 Upon observation of a young and Infant Apple 1707 J Archbald Creation 234 Its expence upon us in Infant Cost 1728 Poor Dame 11 99 The solid Arts and infant letters boot 1779 F Hervey Nat Hist II 144 Of all the infant settlements in North America New England alone, settled, the authority of the commonwealth 1784 Cowper Task 4 Spring, hangs her infant blossoms on the trees 1796 Jane Austen Pride & Pr xliii 151 The rapid progress of commerce and the almost total extinction of an infant credit 1820 Keats Hyperion I 26 She was a Goddess of the infant world 1861 M Patmore Ess (1889) 82 The unequal contest of England's infant navy against the supremacy of the Home-in Confederacy
c attrib (or adj) (Of or belonging to an infant or infants, proper to or intended for an infant or infants, childlike, childish, infantile, as infant hands, blood, breath, class, cradle, eye gaud, state softness, weakness years, etc Also Infant school, q v 1586 C Ross Pourtraict Fr 1 xxvi 21 By this prime cradle taught 1599 Shake Much Ado I i 258 Even the Sixt, in Infant Bands crowned King 1651-3 Jer Taylor Serm for Year (1878) 284 Though it be a shame to us to need such directives and infant guides 1655 Hist Quakers 78 The murderous king who sought by his life and missing filled With infant blood the streets of Israelitem a 1721 Sir Dymock Life Post Wks 1721 I 86 You in their Infant Age, To tender them engage 1720 Welton Suffer. Son of God I xiv 190 Even thro' His Infant State, He hold Thy Mayes 1747 Hist of Europe 1 The Princess which Thou took'st upon Thee! 1792 S Rogers Pleas Hope II 32 The joys and sorrows of our infant years
7 Comb as Infant-baptism, the baptism of infants, pædobaptism, infant-quellen, infant killing, sprinkling, infant feeding adj , also infant-like adj and adv 1674 N Fairfax Bulk & Selv 51 A blind man, who had been so from his Infant-baptism 1680 Allen Peace & Unity 49 Churches Founded in Infant Baptism, are not to be held Communion with 1899 Illustr Lond News 19 Jan 72/2 The infant feeding competition represents the severest intrigues in Court circles 1611 Cotgr, Infanticide, child murtherers, "infant killing 1697 Vanbr Cov Gard Aware abilatres are to "infant like, for drowing much slone 1698 Unpworth Intell Syst I v 689 Produced not in a mature and adult but an infant like weak and tender state a 1641 Bp Mountagu Acts & Mon (1642) 86 Herod the Infant queller 1858 Sanderson Serm II Pref 7 Where are your lay presbyters, your classes, &c to be found in scripture? Where your steeple houses? Your "infant sprinklings?
Infant (infănt), sb [ad Sp , Pg infante perh through F infant (1407 in Hatz -Darm) see Infante] A prince or princess of Spain or Portugal = Infante, Infanta

1555 EDEN Decades 349 Don Lewes thinfant & brother to the kynge of Portugale 1594 PARSON Conf. Succes. II viii 181 The two duchesses daughters of the lord Edward infant of Portugal 1614 SELDEN Titles Hon. 179 The infant and heir of Spain had the title of Prince of Asturias 1632 HEYWOOD Eng. Elize (1641) 5 A match was concluded betwixt Prince Arthur and the Infant Katharine, daughter to the King of Spain. 1732 Scots Mag. Jan 13/1 The Infant Don Philip 1838 LYTTON Calderon I, The craft of the king was satisfied by the device of placing about the person of the infant one devoted to himself

†I infant, v. Obs Also 5 enfaunt [a F enfanter (13th c.) f. enfant, INFANT sb.1] trans. To bring forth (a child), to give birth to Also fig.

1483 CAXTON Gold. Leg. 128/a The place in whych the vyrgyne marye enfaunted and childed Jesu cryst. 1484 SOUTHERNE in Puttenham Eng. Poesie III xxii (Arb.) 260 An ingenious invention, infanted with pleasant trainable 1622 G. FLETCHER Christ's Vict. I lxxx, Him newely he was infanted. And yet alreadie he was sought to die. 1641 MILTON Reform II. (1851) 40 This worthy Motto, No Bishop, no King is of the same bignesse, and infanted out of the same feares. 1642 — Apol Smectym xi

¶ Infanta (infa·ntə) [Sp., Pg., fem of INFANTE.]

1. A daughter of the king and queen of Spain or Portugal, spec. the eldest daughter who is not heir to the throne

1602 Imp Consid Sec Priests (1675) 82 He might intitle the King of Spain and the Infanta his Daughter to the Crown of England 1662 Gerard Cas No 2321/2 Marriage is treating between the Prince of Tuscany and the Infanta of Portugal 1704 Ibid. No 3980/2 Some of the Infantas best Sons, and both the Infanta's his Daughters, have been ill 1832 W. IRVING Alhambra II 130 The tower of the Infantas, once the residence of the three beautiful Moorish princesses, passed to the general desolation

†2 transf and fig Applied analogously or fancifully to other young ladies Obs

1602 SPEED Hist Gt Brit IX xvii § 108 876 In the meanewhile Ladie Elizabeth the Infanta of England was in the French Court vually called Madame the Dauphin. 1616 B JONSON Devil an Ass IV 1 Wks (Rtldg) 363/1 The very infanta of the game! 1632 MASSINGER & FIELD Fatal Dowry IV i, O that I were the infanta queen of Europe! 1750 H. WALPOLE Lett to Mann 31 Jan., Lady Cath erine grew frightened, lest her infanta [her daughter] should vex herself sick. 1751 SMOLLETT Per Pic. LXXXVII, Meanwhile the infanta [a girl] herself promised to keep a stricter guard for the future

¶ See also INFANTE.

¶ Infanta·do, app. a grandiose erroneous extension of infante

1699 RUMSEY Hist Coll I 113 He had rather go home and cast himself at his Masters feet and mercy then be Duke or Infantado of Spain

Infantage. rare—1. [f. INFANT sb.1 + -AGE suffix, associated in sense with AGE sb cf barnage, menage.] = INFANCY.

1866 Cornh. Mag. XIII 437 Rude, provisional rules, only absolutely obligatory during the infantage of men ¶ Infante (infa·nte) (Also 7 erron infanta [Sp., Pg infante—L. infantem INFANT sb.1] A son of the king and queen of Spain or Portugal other than the heir to the throne (who is called Principe); spec the second son.

Sometimes erroneously applied to the heir to the throne.

