PREFACE

With its fourth permanent cumulation the International Index to Periodicals arrives at the respectable age of fifteen years. Originally it had a different name—Readers' Guide Supplement—but its character was always the same. From the beginning it has included periodicals of a scholarly nature, those devoted to special subjects and those published in other countries. The name was changed from Readers' Guide Supplement to International Index in 1920 because that name better expresses its scope.

In its beginning, in 1913, it included only 36 publications. This number was gradually increased until, in 1922, 170 were on the list. In 1923 a large number were added, bringing the total up to about 300. The large number of magazines added in 1923 were indexed for a part of one year only in the cumulation of 1920-1923; while in this volume they are included for the whole four years. This means, of course, that this volume gives a much larger indexing service than the earlier numbers and accounts for its increased size.

The list of periodicals indexed for this cumulation includes 46 periodicals in the German language, 43 French, 6 Italian, 2 Spanish, 1 Dutch, 1 Scandinavian. It may be of interest to know the range of subjects covered and their relative weight in the Index. The following table indicates roughly the number of publications in each group:

Science	62	Philosophy and ethics	13
History	43	Art and archeology	11
Philology and literature	36	Psychology	10
Political science and current events	25	Sociology	10
Education	22	Economics	6
Religion	19	Orient	6
		Law	5

besides a number of general interest.

It is practically impossible in an index of the nature of the International Index to keep within the limits of the dates on the cover. It is taken for granted that its subscribers realize that foreign periodicals often arrive several months late and that these later numbers are included in the following cumulation. Society publications, however, frequently are published from 1 to 5 years late. Wherever there has been a marked discrepancy in the dates, this has been brought out in a note in the list of periodicals.

A number of society publications are still being indexed by cooperating libraries and prepared for the Index by Mr. Merrill of the Newberry Library. An effort is being made to have them sent directly to the H. W. Wilson Company, in order to insure greater consistency in headings and form.

According to the regular schedule this cumulation would have appeared in 1928; but the added work and printing entailed by the publication of the new edition of the United States Catalog made it necessary to postpone the beginning of work on the cumulation until the fall of 1928. We regret the delay, and trust that subscribers will pardon it, considering the advantage of having a tool like the United States Catalog.

The editorial and clerical work involved in the preparation of the cumulation requires an enormous amount of time and brain energy; and it must, of course, be carried on at the same time with the preparation of the current numbers. The total number of entries in this cumulation is approximately 150,000. Each one of these has been considered in some way by several workers. In all the mass of necessary detailed work, often difficult and tiresome, the staff has worked with a thoroughness and spirit of whole-hearted service that have been invaluable. Besides those on the title-page, who have carried a great deal of responsibility, faithful and efficient service has been renderd by Miss Sophie Karavia, Miss Elsie Schonholtz, and Miss Ann Tinkel. Miss Bertha Joel, indexer for the Readers' Guide has given valuable help in the indexing when her other duties allowed her time. While the cumulation was in preparation, the current numbers have been edited by Miss Joseph and Miss Levinson.

To all these workers the editor is most grateful, and each has done her share in producing the tool that we now offer to students and research workers.

Separate Indexes to Individual Periodicals

List compiled by Margaret Roys, Columbia University Library

A short list of indexes to periodicals, compiled by Margaret Roys and Isadore G. Mudge of Columbia University Library, was published tentatively in the International Index, November, 1923, and a longer list in the annual cumulation of the International Index for 1924. Miss Mudge, in her initial statement concerning the preparation and printing of such a list says: "In spite of the constantly increasing service of the general periodical index, the index to the individual periodical remains an important reference tool in any library in which much reference work is done. It presents a different method of approach, a greater completeness of indexing for certain types of material -book reviews, for example- or the possibility of covering a greater span of years in one volume, and for certain kinds of questions has to be used in addition to the general index.

"While the index to a single volume usually forms a part of that volume, the index covering several volumes or years may be issued in various ways—as a separate volume numbered in the set, as an unnumbered volume not included in the subscription, as an entirely separate publication under different auspices, etc. To make sure that all such indexes which should be in a given library are secured promptly and brought out properly in the catalog, care in checking and collating is needed and one of the first requisites for such care is the existence of a convenient current list of such indexes."

Because these earlier lists have proved a convenient tool to librarians, the present list, including 1924 imprints previously listed and also imprints of 1925-1927 inclusive, has been compiled. It has not aimed at completeness, but is based on the accessions of a large library, supplemented by a few additional notes supplied from Library of Congress cards. It does not include government indexes except for regular periodicals like the Experiment station record.

A List of Early Serials

Indexed under subjects in the Library of the University of California, Contents-Index. Berkeley, California, 1889-90. (A limited number of this publication are still available at one dollar a copy.)

The following list of eighteen important serials indexed nowhere else for the periods covered was sent to the International Index by Mr Merrill. The indexing of the publications was done by Mr J. C. Rowell, now librarian emeritus of the University of California library. Mr Merrill quotes from Mr Rowell's letter to him, "We have a continuation of this Contents-Index in manuscript thru the year 1899 which includes entries from the last ten years of all of these serials."
