Ad Lectorem

CUM primum ad manus nostras hæ chartæ per-nerunt, dubitavi diu utrum illas prælo potius aut flammis committerem, donee memores miscricordia istius quæ Authori olim quantumvis in Sacram 5 Majestatem fædissimè delinquenti ignoverat, stultissimam fore inclementiam judicavimus perituræ ejus opcri-bus non pepercisse. Æquissimum enim plerisque semper visum est ut Principis cuiuscunque monitis & imperio parere debemus, illius etiam facta imitemur. Non autem 10 hie tibi quidvis propinamus quo funiorum mores & ingenia corrumpere, aut aliorum seditiosam & impotentem regnandi libidinem palpare satagimus. Id solùm rerum scriptarum ornatum, & Latini sermonis elegan-tiam tibi commendatam volumus: est enim forsàn dig-15 nissimus qui ab omnibus legeretur Miltonus, nisi styli sui facundiam & puritatem turpissimis moribus inqu-nasset. Cum autem ex hisce Literis possis forsàn nonnulla excerpere quæ temporis istius quo scriptæ sunt Annales illustrare: Et pervicacem Rebellium istorum malignita-20 tem detegere & explicare poteris, nos illas eo nomine in lucem edi curavimus. Videas interim post Reges exactos, quam ornate pelle. Leonind indutus sit Asinus; & dum Legationes designant perduelles, mittunt Internuncios, moliuntur bella, reliquaque Regiæ Majestatis assumunt 25 insignia, potestatem illam quam inique vindicaverant sibi debitam & ritè commissam esse arbitrantur. Habeas tibi, Lector, & his in tui commodum & malorum hominum perniciem perfruare.

The Printer to the Reader

WHEN first these papers came to our hands, I long doubted whether to commit them to the printing press or the flames, till, mindful of that mercy which long ago had pardoned the 5 author, however foully delinquent against his Sacred Majesty, we judged it were a most foolish inclemency not to spare his perishable works. For it has always seemed justest to most men to imitate also the actions of whatsoever Prince we should obey in injunction and 10 command. Not that we present you here with anything to corrupt the manners or disposition of younger men, or flatter the seditious and impotent lust of ruling in others. What alone we wish to commend to you is the embellishment of what is written and the elegance of 15 the Latin style. For Milton were perchance most worthy to be read by all had he not soiled the eloquence and purity of his style with most wretched manners. But since from these letters you may extract some illustrations of the time when they were written, and may be able to see 20 and understand the stubborn malignity of those rebels, for this reason we have seen to it that they are given light.
Meanwhile, you can see how when kings were expelled, with how beautiful a lions skin the ass was clad; and how rebels when they name embassies, send envoys, 25 wars, and assume the other prerogatives of Royal Majesty, thinly the power unjustly usurped their due, and rightly granted them. Have them, Reader, to enjoy for your own advantage and the confusion of bad men.

Written in the Name of the Parliament.

[I. From the Phillips Translation, 1694, P.I. See Masson, "Life of Milton," 1877, No- I' volume IV, p. 159.]

The Senate and People of England, to the most Noble Senate of the City of Hamborough.

FOR how long a series of past Years, and for what important Reasons the Friendship enter'd into by our Ancestors with your most Noble City has continu'd to this day, we both willingly acknowledge, together with your 5 selves; nor is it a thing displeasing to us, frequently also to call to our remembrance. But as to what we understand, by your Letters dated die 25th. of June, that some of our People deal not with that Fidelity and Probity, as they were wont to do in their Trading and Commerce among ye; we presently referr'd 10 it to the consideration of certain Persons well skill'd in those matters, to the end they might make a more strict enquiry into the Frauds of the Clothiers and other Artificers of the Woollen Manufacture. And we farther promise, to take such effectual care, as to make you sensible of our unalterable intentions, to 15 preserve sincerity and justice among our selves, as also never to neglect any good Offices of our kindness that may redound to the welfare of your Commonwealth. On the other hand, there is something likewise which we not only require, but which ut nostræ gentis mercatoribus, vestris hospitibus & sua privilegia conservare, & eorum vitam, atque fortunas, prout ea civitate dignum est, vestris opibus defendere velitis. Quod, ut prioribus literis enixe petivimus, ita nunc etiam ut vehcmentius 5 efflagitemus, faciunt quotidianis mercatorum quereta, quas ad nos deferunt; suam nimirum salutem atque rem omnem rursus apud vos in dubio esse. Quamvis enim literarum nostrarum quas pridem ad vos dedimus fructum aliquem ad tempus percepisse se fateantur, & ab injuriis nefariorum hominum

10 aliquantum respirasse, nunc tamen post adventum Cochrani illius in urbem vestram (de quo etiam prius quæsti sumus) qui mandatam jam sibi a Carolo defuncti nuper Regis filio Legationem nescio quam Prædicat, se omnibus contumeliis, minis, armis etiam Sicariorum petitis solitâ vestra defensione 15 atque tutela caruisse. Adeo ut cum unus atque alter e mercatoribus cum ipso etiam Societatis Præfecto, in navem quandam prædatoriam per insidias abducti essent, caeterique vestram fidem implorarent, a vobis tamen nullum auxilium impetrare potuerint, donec ipsi suo Marte mercatores, non 20 sine magno suorum discrimine captos in eo flumine, cujus vestra urbs domina est, ex latronum manibus eripere cogerentur. Quos cum illi bonis auspiciis domum reduxissent, & ab

Equity it self, and all the Laws of God and Man, demand of your selves, That you will not only conserve inviolable to the Merchants of our Nation their Privileges, but by your Authority and Power defend and protect dieir Lives and Estates, as it 5 becomes your City to do. Which as we most earnestly desir'd in our former Letters, so upon the repeated Complaints of our Merchants that are daily made before us, we now more earnestly sollicite and request it: they complaining, That their safety, and all that they have in the world, is again in great 10 jeopardy among ye. For although they acknowledge themselves to have reap'd some Benefit for a short time of our former Letters sent you, and to have had some respite from the Injuries of a sort of Profligate People; yet since the coming of the same Coc[hra]m to your City (of whom we complain'd 15 before) who pretends to be honour'd with a sort of Embassy from [Charles] the Son of the lately deceas'd King, they have been assaulted with all manner of ill Language, Threats and naked Swords of Ruffians and Homicides, and have wanted your accustom'd Protection and Defence; insomuch, that when 20 Two or Three of the Merchants, together with the President of the Society, were hurry'd away by surprize Aboard a certain Privateer, and that the rest implor'd your Aid, yet they could not obtain any Assistance from you, till the Merchants themselves were forc'd to embody their own strength, and res-
-5 cue from the hands of Pyrates the Persons Seiz'd on in that River, of which your City is the Mistress, not without extream hazard of their Lives. Nay, when they had fortunately brought 'em home again, and as it were by Force of Arms recovered indigna servitute veluti manu asseruissent, captos etiam piratas ipsos in custodiam dededissent, Cochranum ilium perfigam & perduellem eo audaciz processisse accipimus, ut & przdatores dimitti liberos, & mercatores tradi sibi vinctos 5 postulet. Vos autem etiam atque etiam hortamur & obtestamur, si pactiones, & foedera, & pervetustum utriusque gentis commercium, id quod petitis, inviolate servari studetis, ut nostri certum aliquod atque firmum sibi presidium in vestra fide, prudentia, autoritate collocare demum possint; Vos 10 autem uti cos his de rebus benigne audiat; tarn de Cochrano, czterisque sczleris, illius sociis, quam de iis qui nuper in Concionatorem, impune adhuc, impetum fecerunt supplicium sumere velitis, aut e finibus exire jubeatis. Neque pulsos atque exules Tarquinius amicitiae atque opibus Populi Anglicani 15 anteferendos existimetis. Si enim per vos non steterit quominus Reipub. nostrae hostes quidvis licere sibi contra nos in urbe vestra confidant, quam non tuta aut honesta amplius nostrorum ibi commoratio sit, vos cum animis vestris cogitate. Hæc vestræ prudentiæ & aequitati; Vos ipsos Divino Numini 20 commendatos volumus. Valete.

Westmonastcrio. Dat. August. 10. 1649.

'em from an Ignominious Captivity, and carry'd the Pyrates themselves into Custody; we are inform'd that Coc[hra]m was so audacious, as to demand the Release of the Pyrates, and that the Merchants might be deliver'd Prisoners into his hands. We 5 therefore again, and again, beseech and adjure ye, if it be your intention that Contracts and Leagues, and the very ancient Commerce between both Nations should be preserv'd, the thing which you desire, That our People may be able to asiure themselves of some certain and firm support and reliance upon 10 your Word, your Prudence and Authority; that you would lend 'em a favourable Audience concerning these matters; and that you would inflict deserved Punishment as well upon Coc[hrd]m, and the rest of his Accomplices in that wicked act, as upon those who lately assaulted the Preacher, hitherto un-15 punish'd, or command 'em to depart your Territories; nor that you would believe that expell'd and exil'd Tarquins are to be preferr'd before the Friendship, and the Wealth, and Power of our Republick. For if you do not carefully provide to the contrary, but that the Enemies of our Republick shall presume to 20 think lawful the committing of any Violences against us in your City, how unsafe, how ignominious the Residence of our People there will be, do you consider with your selves. These things we recommend to your Prudence and Equity, your selves to the Protection of Heaven.

25 Westminster, Aug. 10. 1649.

Senatui Hamburgensi.

PERSPECTA nobis aequanimitas vestra dubiis in rebus nostris, facit nunc ut sane prosperis, ac bene gestis, de vestra voluntate, & amico in nos animo nequaquam dubitemus. Nos quidem, confecto jam pcene bello, & profli-5 gatis ubique patrix hostibus, nihil xquius, aut ad pacem, Remque publicam stabilicndam firmitus esse duximus, quam ut illi qui vel libertatem, ductore semper Deo, per nos adepti sunt, vel vitam atque fortunas post belli civilis facinora, nostro dono atque gratia receperunt, nobis vicissim suis Magistrati-

15 sionis perscribendam curavimus, qua omnes qui aut munus aliquod in Repub. sustinerent, aut legum praesidio muniti incolumitate, otio, czterisque vitae commodis fruerentur, conceptis verbis se obstringerent. Hanc etiam per omnes Colonias & quacunque gentium nostri cives negotiandi causa agerent,

To the Senate of Hamborough.

YOUR conspicuous Favour in the doubtful condition of our Affairs, is now the reason, that after Victory and prosperous Success, we can no longer question your good will and friendly inclination towards us. As for our 5 parts, the War being almost now determin'd, and our Enemies every where vanquished, we have deem'd nothing more just, or more conducing to the firm Establishment of the Republick, then that they who by our means (the Almighty being always our Captain and Conductor) have either recover'd their 10 Liberty, or obtain'd their Lives and Fortunes, after the pernicious Ravages of a Civil War, of our free Gift and Grace, should testifie and pay in exchange to their Magistrates Allegiance and Duty in a solemn manner, if need requir'd. More especially, when so many Turbulent and Exasperated Persons, 15 more then once received into Protection, will make no end, either at home or abroad, of acting Perfidiously, and raising new Disturbances. To that purpose we took care to enjoin a certain form of an Oath, by which all who held any Office in the Commonwealth, or being fortify'd with the Protection of 20 die Law, enjoy'tl both Safety, Ease, and all other Conveniences of Life, should bind themselves to Obedience in words prescrib'd. This we also thought proper to be sent to all Colonies abroad, or where-ever else our People resided for the convenience of Trade; to the end that the Fidelity of those over whom 25 we are set, might be prov'd and known to us, as it is but reasonable and necessary. Which makes us wonder so much the more nostri scribunt, sibi mandata nostra per unum atque alterum consultissimæ, nihil ad se pertinere existimaverunt, si pere-5 grini scilicet Angli debitam suis domi magistratibus in hac nobis obliganda deterrent, Civitas non imputamus. Interea tamen summo vos opere hortamur atque etiam rogamus (non enim mercatura jam, sed Respub. ipsa agitur) ut ne quenquam

20 Dat. Jan. 4. 1649.

at what our Merchants write from your City, that they are not permitted to execute our Commands by some or other of your Order and Degree. Certainly what the most Potent United Provinces of the Low Countries, most jealous of their Power 5 and their Interests, never thought any way belonging to their inspection, namely whether the English Foreigners swore Fidelity and Allegiance to their Magistrates at home, either in these or those Words, how that should come to be so suspected and troublesome to your City, we must plainly acknowledge 10 that we do not understand. But this proceeding from the private inclinations or fears of some, whom certain Vagabond Scots, expeird their Countrey, are said to have enforc'd by Menaces, on purpose to deter our Merchants from Swearing Fidelity to us, we impute not to your City. Most earnestly 15 therefore we intreat and conjure ye (for it is not now the interest of Trade, but the honour of the Republick it self that lies at stake) not to suffer any one among ye, who can have no reason to concern himself in this Affair, to interpose his Authority, whatever it be, with that Supremacy which we chal-20 lenge over our own Subjects, not by the judgment and opinion of Foreigners, but by the Laws of our Country; for who would not take it amiss, if we should forbid your Hamburghcrs, residing here, to Swear Fidelity to you that are their Magistrates at Home? Farewel.

To the Most Serene and Potent Prince Philip the Fourth, King of Spain. The Parliament of the Commonwealth of England, Greeting.

WE send to your Majesty Anthony Ascham, a person of Integrity, Learned, and Descended of an Ancient Family, to Treat of matters very advantageous, as we hope, as well to the Spanish, as the English 5 Nation. Wherefore in freindly manner, we desire that you would be pleas'd to Grant, and Order him a Safe and Honourable Passage to your Royal City, and the same in his return from thence, readily prepar'd to repay the kindness when occasion offers. Or if your Majesty be otherwise inclin'd, that it 10 may be signify'd to him with the soonest, what your Pleasure is in this particular, and that he may be at Liberty to depart without Molestation.

To the Most Serene and Potent Prince, Philip the Fourth, King of Spain. The Parliament of the Commonwealth of England, Greeting.

WHAT is the condition of our Affairs, and by 15 what heinous Injuries provok'd and broken, at length we began to think of recovering our Liberty by force of Arms; what Constituted form of Government we now make use of, can neither be conceal'd from your Majtutà quā nunc utimur Reipublicae formā, neque Majcstatem Vestram potest latere, neque alium quemvis, qui evulgata super hac re scripta nostra zquo animo perlegerit. Nobis profecto fidem nostram, zquitatem, patientiam, testatam cunctis 5 & probatam reddere, auctoritatem etiam, honorem, & Decus nostrum adversus infames exulum & perfugarum linguas tueri, apud idoneos rerum zstimatores difficile non debet esse. Nunc quod exterarum nationum magis interest, deletis, aut depressis Patriz hostibus, Deo nempe mirifice adjuti, ad pa-10 cem & amicitiam omni imperio potiozem cum vicinis gentibus habendam, paratos nos esse palam atque ex animo profiteamur. Has ob causas spectatac solertiae & probitatis Virum Antonium Aschamum in Hispaniam ad Majestatem Vestram misimus; qui de amicitia deque solito inter utramque gentem commer-15 cio cum Majestate Vestrd agat; vel etiam ad novas pactiones, si ita visum fuerit, de integro sancientas viam muniat. Huic igitur Vestra Majestatis adeundi copiam ut faciatis, ejusque incolumitati, necnon etiam honori, quoad isto apud vos munere perfuncturus est, velitis prospicere rogamus: ut & ea quac

esty, nor any other Person who has but cast an impartial Eye upon our Writings Publish'd upon these Occasions. Neither ought we to think it a difficult thing, among fit and proper judges of things, to render our Fidelity, our Equity, and Patience, manifest to all men, and justly meriting their Approbation, as also to defend our Authority, Honour, and Grandeur, against the infamous Tongues of Exiles and Fugitives. Now then, as to what is more the concern of Foreign Nations, after having subdu'd and vanquish'd the Enemies of our Countrey through the Miraculous Assistance of Heaven, we openly and cordially profess our selves readily prepar'd to have Peace and Friendship, more desirable then all enlargement of Empire, with our Neighbour Nations. For these reasons we have sent into Spain to your Majesty, Antony Ascham, of approv'd Dexterity and Probity, to treat with your Majesty, concerning Friendship and the accustomed Commerce between both Nations; or else, if it be your Pleasure, to open a way for the Rati-fying of new Articles and Alliances. Our request therefore is, that you will grant him free Liberty of Access to your Majesty, and give such Order, that care may be taken of his Safety and his Honour, while he resides a Publick Minister with your Majesty; to the end he may freely propose what he has in charge from us, for the Benefit, as we hope of both Nations; and certifie to us with the soonest, what are your Majesty's sentiments concerning these matters.

To the Most Serene Prince, John the Fourth, King of Portugal. The Parliament of the Commonwealth of England, Greeting.

AER we had suff er'd many, and those the utmost Mischiefs of a Faithless Peace, and intestine War, Our being reduc'd to those Exigences, that if we had any regard to the safety of the Republick, there was a necessity of 5 altering for the chief est part the form of Government, is a thing which we make no question is well known to your Majesty, by what we have both publicly Written and declar'd in justification of our Proceedings. To which, as it is but reason, if credit might be rather given, then to the most malicious 10 Calumnies of Loose and Wicked men; perhaps we should find those persons more amicably inclin'd, who now abroad have the worst sentiments of our actions. For as to what we justify our selves to have justly and strenuously perform'd after the Example of our Ancestors, in pursuance of our Rights, and for 15 recovery of the native Liberty of English-men, certainly it is not the work of Human force or wit to eradicate the perverse and obstinate Opinions of People wickedly inclin'd concerning what we have done. But after all, in reference to what is common to us with all Foreign Nations, and more for the gen-

should be enlarg'd and settled in the most ample and solemn manner. And whereas our People have always driven a very great Trade, and gainful to both Nations, in your Kingdom; we shall take care, as much as in us lies, that they may not meet 5 with any Impediment to interrupt their dealings. However, we foresee that all our Industry will be in vain, if, as it is reported, the Pyrates and Revolters of our Nation shall be suffer'd to have Refuge in your Ports, and after they have taken and plunder'd the Laden Vessels of the English, shall be per-10 mitted to sell their Goods by Publick Outcries at Lisbon. To the end therefore that a more speedy remedy may be apply'd to this growing Mischief, and that we may be more clearly satisfy'd concerning the Peace which we desire, we have sent to your Majesty the most Noble Charles Vane, under the Charis acter of our Agent, with Instructions and a Commission, a plenary Testimonial of the Trust we have repos'd, and the employment we have conferr'd upon him. Him therefore we most earnestly desire your Majesty graciously to hear, to give him Credit, and to take such Order, that he may be safe in his

To the Most Serene Prince, John the Fourth, King of Portugal. The Parliament of the Commonwealth of England, Greeting.

ALMLMOST daily and most grievous complaints are brought before us, that certain of our Seamen and Officers, who revolted from us the last year, and Treacherously and Wickedly carry'd away the Ships with the Com-5 mand of which they were entrusted, and who having made their escape from the Port of Ireland, where being blockt up for almost a whole Summer together, they very narrowly avoided the punishment due to their Crimes, have now betaken themselves to the Coast of Portugal, and the mouth of 10 the River Tagus; that there they practice furious PyracY, Taking and Plundering all the English Vessels they meet with Sailing to and fro upon the account of Trade, and that all the adjoining Seas are become almost impassible by reason of their notorious and infamous Robberies. To which increasing Mis-is chief, unless a speedy Remedy be apply'd, who does not see but that there will be a final end of that vast Trade so gainful to both Nations, which our People were wont to drive with the Portugueses? Wherefore we again and again request Your Majesty, that you will command those Pyrates and Revolters

HOW heinously, and with what Detestation your Majesty resented the Villanous Murder of our Agent, Anthony Ascham, and what has hitherto been done in the Prosecution and Punishment of his Assassinatees, we have 10 been given to understand, as well by your Majesty's own Letters, as from your Ambassador Don Alphonso dc Cardenas. Nevertheless, so often as we consider the horridness of that bloody Fact, which utterly subverts the very Foundations of Correspondence and Commerce and of the Privilege of Em-15 bassadors, most sacred among all Nations, so villanously violated without severity of punishment, we cannot but with utmost importunity repeat our most urgent Suit to your Majesty, That those Parricides may with all the Speed imaginable be brought to Justice, and that you would not suffer their merited

Most Excellent Lord,

THE Council of State, so soon as their weighty Affairs would permit 'em, having carried into Parliament the four Writings, which it pleas'd your Excellency to impart to the Council upon the 19th of December last, have received in Command from the Parliament to return this Answer to the first Head of those Writings, touching the villanous Assassinate of their late Agent, Anthony Ascham.

The Parliament have so long time, so often, and so justly demanded their being brought to deserved Punishment, that 20 there needs nothing further to be said on a thing of so great importance, wherein (as Your Excellency well observ'd) his Royal Majesty's Authority it self is so deeply concern'd, that unless Justice be done upon such notorious Offenders, all the foundations of Humane Society, all the ways of preserving

10 sacred, then not to violate by any word or deed of ours, not first provok'd, the Peace, the Friendship and Commerce, now for some time settl'd between us and the greatest number of other Foreign Nations, and amongst the rest with the Portugheses.
Nor did we send the English Fleet to the Mouth of the River 15 Tagus with any other intention or design, then in pursuit of Enemies so often put to flight, and for recovery of our Vessels, which being carry'd away from their Owners by Force and Treachery, the same Rabble of Fugitives conducted to your Coasts, and even to Lisbon it self, as to the most certain Fairs this time almost all the Portugheses are abundantly convinc'd, from the Flagitious manners of those People, of their Auda-we are in hopes that we shall more easily obtain from your

Or if you are unwilling to proceed to 10 that extremity, at least that with your leave it may be lawful for us with our proper Forces to assail our own Revolters and Sea Robbers, and if it be the pleasure of Heaven, to reduce 'em into our Power. This, as we have earnestly desired in our former Letters, so now again with the greatest ardency and importu-

By this, whether equity, or act of kindness, you will not only enlarge the fame of your Justice over all well Govern'd and Civil Nations, but also in a greater measure bind both us and the People of England, who never yet had other then a good opinion of the Portugueses, to

To the Hamburgers.

MORE then once We have Written concerning the controversies of the Merchants, and some other things which more nearly concern the Dignity of our Republik, yet no Answer has been return'd. But under-5 standing that Affairs of that nature can hardly be determined by Letters onely, and that in the mean time certain Seditious Persons have been sent to your City by [Charles Stuart] Authoriæ'd with no other Commission then that of Malice and Audaciousness, who make it their business utterly to extirpate the 10 ancient Trade of our People in your City, especially of those whose fidelity to their Countrey is most conspicuous; Therefore we have commanded the worthy and most eminent Richard Bradshaw to reside as our Agent among ye; to the end he may be able more at large to Treat and Negotiate with your 15 Lordships such Matters and Affairs, as are interwoven with the Benefit and Advantages of both Republicks. Him therefore we request ye, with the soonest to admit to a favourable Audience; and that in all things that Credit may be given to him, that Honour paid him, as is usually in all Countries, and 20 among all Nations paid to those that bear his Character. Farewel.

*Most Noble, Magnificent, and Illustrious, our dearest

THAT your sedulities in the Reception of our Agent were so cordial and so egregious, we both gladly understand, and earnestly exhort ye, that you would persevere in your good Will and Affection toward us. And this 5 we do with so much the greater vehemence, as being informed that the same Exiles of ours, concerning whom we have so frequently Written, now carry themselves more insolently in your City then they were wont to do, and that they not only openly Affront, but give out threatning Language in a most 10 despiteful manner against our Resident. Therefore once more by these our Letters we would have the safety of his Person, and the honour due to his Quality, recommended to your Care. On the other side, if you inflict severe and timely Punishment upon those Fugitives and Ruffians, as well the old ones as the 15 new comers; it will be most acceptable to us, and becoming your Authority and Prudence.

To Philip the Fourth, King of Spain.

TO our infinite sorrow we are given to understand, That Antony Ascham, by us lately sent our Agent to your Majesty, and under that Character most Civilly and Publickly receiv'd by your Governours: upon his first 5 coming to your Royal City, naked of all defence and guard, was most bloodily Murther'd in a certain Inn, together with John Baptista de Ripa his Interpreter, Butchered at the same time. Wherefore we most earnestly request your Majesty, That deserved Punishment may be speedily inflicted upon those 10 Parricides already apprehended, as it is reported, and committed to Custody, who have not only presumed to wound our selves through his sides, but have also dar'd to Stabb, as it were, to the very heart, your Faith of Word and Royal Honour- So that we make no question but what we so ardently desire 15 would nevertheless be done effectually by a Prince of his own accord so Just and Pious, though no body requir'd it. As to what remains, we make it our farther suit, That the breathless Carkass may be deliver'd to his Friends and Attendants to be brought back and Enterr'd in his own Countrey, and that such 20 care may be taken for the security of those that remain alive, as is but requisite, till having obtain'd an Answer to these Letters, if it may be done, they shall return to us the Witnesses of your Piety and Justice.

To the most Excellent Lord, Anthony John Lewis de la Cerda, Dufe of Medina Cell, Governor of Andalusia. The Council of State constituted by Authority of Parliament: Greeting.

WE have receiv'd Advice from those most Accomplish'd Persons, whom we lately sent with our Fleet into Portugal in pursuit of Traytors, and for the recovery of our Vessels, that they were most civilly re-5 ceiv'd by your Excellency, as often as they happen'd to touch upon the Coast of Gallacia, which is under your Government, and assisted with all things necessary to those that perform long Voyages. This Civility of yours, as it was always most acceptable to us, so it is now more especially at this time, while 10 we are sensible of the ill will of others in some places towards us without any just cause giv'n on our side. Therefore we make it our request to your Illustrious Lordship, that you will persevere in the same good Will and Affection to us, and that you would continue your Favour and Assistance to our People, ac-15 cording to your wonted Civility, as often as our Ships put in to your Harbours: and be assur'd that there is nothing which we desire of your Lordship in the way of Kindness, which we shall not be ready to repay both to you and yours, whenever the like occasion shall be offer'd us.

To the Illustrious and Magnificent Senate of the City of Dantæick.

Magnificent and Most Noble Lords, our dearest Friends,

MANY Letters are brought us from our Merchants trading upon the Coast of Borussia, wherein they complain of a grievous Tribute impos'd upon 'em in the Grand Council of the Polandcrs, enforcing 'em to pay 5 the Tenth part of all their Goods for the Relief of the King of Scots, our Enemy. Which in regard it is plainly contrary to the Law of Nations, that Guests and Strangers should be dealt withal in such a manner; and most unjust that they should be compell'd to pay publick Stipends in a Foreign Common-10 wealth to him from whom they are, by God's Assistance, deliver'd at home; we make no question but that out of respect to that Liberty, which as we understand you your selves enjoy, you will not suffer so heavy a Burthen to be laid upon Merchants in your City, wherein they have maintained a continual 15 Amity and Commerce, to the extraordinary Advantage of the place for many years together. If therefore you think it convenient to undertake the Protection of our Merchants trading among ye, which we assuredly expect as well from your Prudence and Equity, as from the Dignity and Grandure of your 20 City; We shall take that care, that you shall be sensible from time to time, of our grateful Acceptance of your Kindness, as often as the Dantæichers shall have any dealings within our Territories, or their Ships, as frequently it happens, put into our Ports.

WE receiv'd your Letters dated from Hampton the i5th of this Month, wherein you signify, That you are sent by the King of Portugal to the Parlamcnt of the Commonwealth of England; but say not under what Character, whether of Ambassador, or Agent, or Envoy, which we would willingly understand by your Credential Letters from the King, a Copy of which you may send us with all the speed you can. We would also further know, whether you come with a Plenary Commission, to give us satisfaction for the Injuries, and to make Reparation for the Damages which your King has done this Republick, protecting our Enemy all the last Summer in his Harbours, and prohibiting the English Fleet, then ready to assail Rebels and Fugitives, which our Admiral had pursu'd so far; but never restraining the Enemy from falling upon ours. If you return us word that you have ample and full Commission to give us satisfaction concerning all these matters, and send us withal a Copy of your Recommendatory Letters, we shall then take care, that you may with all speed repair to us upon the Public[^] Faith: At what time, when we have read the King's Letters, you shall have liberty freely to declare what further Commands you have brought along with you. The Parlament of the Commonwealth of England, to the Most Serene Christiana, Queen of the Swedes, Goths, and Vandals, &c. Greeting.

Most Serene Queen,

WE have receiv'd and read your Majesty's Letters to the Parlament of England, dated from Stocl^h holm the 2.6th. of September last, and deliver'd by Peter Spering Silvercroon; and there is nothing which we 5 more vehemently and cordially desire, then that the ancient Peace, Traffick and Commerce of long continuance between the English and Swedes may prove diuturnal, and every day encrease. Nor did we question but that your Majesty's Embas-sador was come amply Instructed to make those Proposals 10 chiefly which should be most for the Interest and Honour of both Nations, and which we were no less readily prepar'd to have heard, and to have done effectually that which should have been thought most secure and beneficial on both sides.
But it pleas'd the Supreme Moderator and Governour of all 15 things, that before he had desir'd to be heard as to those Matters which he had in Charge from your Majesty to propound to the Parlament, he departed this Life (whose loss we took with that heaviness and sorrow, as became persons whom it no less behov'd to acquiesce in the Will of the Almighty) whence 20 it comes to pass that we are prevented hitherto from knowing your Majesty's pleasure, and that there is a stop at present put to this Negotiation. Wherefore we thought we could do no less ger on purpose sent with these unhappy Tydings, to signifie to your Majesty, how acceptable your Letters, how grateful your Publick Minister were to the Parlament of the Commonwealth of England; as also how earnestly we expect your Friendship, and how highly we shall value the Amity of so great a Princess; assuring your Majesty, that we have those thoughts of encreasing the Commerce between this Republick and your Majesty's Kingdom, as we ought to have of a thing of the highest importance, which for that reason will be most acceptable to the Parlament of the Commonwealth of England. And so we recommend your Majesty to the Protection of the Divine Providence.

Fourth, King of Spain, Greeting.*

THE Merchants of this Commonwealth who Trade in your Majesties Territories, make loud Complaints of extraordinary Violence and Injuries offer'd 'em, and of new Tributes impos'd upon 'em by the Governors and other officialibus vestrarum portuum & locorum ubi negotia habent, & nominatim in insulis Canariis, idque contra fcederis articulos quos commercii causa utraque natio inter se sanxit. Quas eorum querelas veras esse jurejurando confirmavere.

Quibus eorum querelis graviter a nobis perpensis,
- 10 cumque facta illorum ministrorum iniqua, aut non omnino aut secus quam res se habet ad notitiam Vestrx Majcstatis pervenisse existimemus, visum est nobis ipsas eorum querelas cum hisce litteris ad Majestatem Vestram unā mittere; nec dubitamus quin Majestas Vcstra cum ipsius justitiæ amore

And they make it out before us, That unless they can enjoy their Privileges, and that their Losses be repair'd: Lasdy, That except they may have some certain Safe-guard and Protection for themselves and their Estates against those Violences and Injuries, they can no longer Traffick in 10 those Places. Which Complaints of theirs being duly weigh'd by us, and believing the unjust proceedings of those Ministers either not at all to have reach'd your knowledge, or else to have been untruly represented to your Majesty, we deem'd it convenient to send the complaints themselves, together with these 15 our Letters to your Majesty. Nor do we question but that your Majesty, as well out of your love of Justice, as for the sake of that Commerce no less gainful to your Subjects then our People, will command your Governors to desist from those unjust Oppressions of our Merchants, and so order it that they 20 may obtain speedy Justice, and due Satisfaction for those Injuries done 'em by Don Pedro de Carillo de Guæman, and others, and that your Majesty will take care that the Merchants aforesaid may reap the fruit of those Articles; and be so far under your Protection, that both their Persons and their Es-25 tates may be secure and free from all manner of Injury and Vexation. And this they believe they shall for the greatest part obtain, if your Majesty will be pleas'd to restore 'em that Expedient, taken from 'em, of a Judge Conservator, who may

To the Most Serene Prince the Du|e of Venice, and the Most Illustrious Senate.

Most Serene Prince, Most Illustrious Senate, our dearest Friends,

CERTAIN of our Merchants, by name John Dicfyns, and Job Throcbynorton, with others, have made their Complaints unto us, That upon the 28th. of Novem-

15 Court, the Suit being there depending, they obtain'd a Decree for the delivery of the said Butts of Caveare into their Possession, they having first given security to abide by the Sentence of that Court; And that the said Court, to the end the said Suit might be brought to a conclusion, having Written Letters, ac-20 cording to custom, to the Magistrates and Judges of Venice, wherein they requested liberty to cite John Piatti to appear by his Proctor in the English Court of Admiralty, where the Suit sisteret, ubi lis ista pendet, jusque suum probaret, tamen idem Piattus, & quidam David Rutts Hollandus, dum causa hxc in nostro hie foro pndct, multum supradicto Joanni Dickons aliisque illis mercatoribus de Cavearo isthoc negodum fa-depended, and prove his Right, nevertheless that the said Piatti and one David Rutts a Hollander, while this Cause depends here in our Court, put the said John Dicfyns, and those other Merchants to a vast deal of trouble about the said Caveare, and 5 solícite the Seizure of their Goods and Estates as Forfeited for Debt: All which things, and whatever else has hitherto bin done in our foresaid Court, is more at large set forth in those Letters of Request aforementioned; which after we had view'd, we thought proper to be transmitted to the most Serene Re-10 publick of Venice, to the end they might be assistant to our Merchants in this Cause. Upon the whole therefore, it is our earnest Request to your Highness, and the Most Illustrious Senate, That not only those Letters may obtain their due force and weight, but also that the Goods and Estates of the Mer-15 chants which the foresaid Piatti and David Rutts, have endeavour'd to make lyable to Forfeiture, may be discharged; and that the said Defendants may be referr'd hither to our Court, to try what Right they have in their Claim to this Caveare. Wherein your Highness, and the Most Serene Repub-

To the Spanish Ambassador.

Most Excellent Lord,

THE Council of State, according to a Command from the Parliament, dated the 2d. of March, having taken into serious deliberation your Excellencies Paper of the 15th. of February, deliver'd to the Commissioners of this 5 Council, wherein it seem'd good to your Excellency to propose that a Reply might be given to Two certain Heads therein specify'd as previous, returns the following Answer to your Excellency.

The Parliament when they gave an Answer to those things 10 which were Propos'd by your Excellency at your first Audience, as also in those Letters which they Wrote to the most Serene King of Spain, gave real and ample demonstrations how grateful and how acceptable that Friendship and that mutual Alliance which was offer'd by his Royal Majesty, and 15 by your self in his Name, would be to 'em; and how fully they were resolv'd, as far as in them lay, to make the same returns of Friendship and Good Offices.

After that, it seem'd good to your Excellency, at your first Audience in Council upon the ipth. of December, Oldstile, to 20 propound to this Council, as a certain ground or method for an Auspicious commencement of a stricter Amity, that some of their body might be nominated, who might hear what your Excellency had to propose, and who having well weigh'd the benefit that might redound from thence, should speedily re-ferre quam primum possint, Cui vestro postulate ut satisfaceret certos ex suo numero Concilium nominavit, qui Excellentiam Vestram convenient, quod & proinde factum est eorumque loco quae proponenda expectabantur, Chartam illam supra-5 dictam congressio ea protulit, ad quam responsum hoc Concilii est.

Cum Parlamentum ea declaraverit, Vestraque Excellentia progressum cum fecerit qui supradictus est, paratos nos esse, cum Excellentia Vestra in colloquium Venire iis de rebus quas 10 Domini regis Vestri nomine proposueritis, tarn de amicitia jam pridem inita, quam de arctiore ineunda, aut si quid a nobis hujus Reipub. nomine in medium proferetur; cumque ad singula ventum erit, ita respondebimus, ut par est, naturaque rei postulabit.

When the Parlament shall have declar'd their minds, and your Excellency shall have made the Progress as above ex-ship and Good Offices to your People, and to do all things else which may conduce to the preservation and continuance of the usual Amity and Commerce between both Nations. And whereas the Dutch Men of War, even in the time of Treaty 10 offer'd by themselves, were so highly perfidious, as to fall upon our Fleet in our own Roads, (in which foul Attempt, God as a most Just Arbiter, shew'd himself Offended and Opposite to their Design) but also in the Ports of Foreigners endeavour'd to Take or Sink our Merchants Vessels; we thought it also 15 necessary to send this Declaration also of the Parliament of the Commonwealth of England', to your Highness, the Publishing of which was occasion'd by the Controversies at present arisen between this Republick and the United Provinces. By which your Highness may easily perceive how unjust and contrary to 20 all the Laws of God and of Nations those People have acted against this Republick; and how cordially the Parliament la-bour'd, for the sake of publick Tranquility, to have retain'd their pristin Friendship and Alliance.

To the Spanish Ambassador.Most Excellent Lord,

THE Council of State, upon mature deliberation of that Paper which they receiv'd from your Excellency, ^{27th May} ~~16th June~~ as also upon that which your Excellency at your Audience the ^{6th} ~~16th~~ of this Month deliver'd to the Coun-5 cil, return this Answer to both those Papers. That the Parla-ment, &c. was always very desirous of preserving the firm Friendship and good Peace settled at present between this Re-publick and his Royal Majesty of Spain, from the time that first your Excellency signify'd the tendency of his Majesty's 10 Inclinations that way, and was always ready to ratify and confirm the same to the Benefit and Advantage of both Nations.
And this, the Councel of State in the Name, and by Command of the Parliament, in their Papers oftimes made known to your Excellency; and particularly, according to your Excellency's 15 desire, made choice of Commissioners to attend and receive from your Excellency such Proposals as might conduce to the same purpose. At which meeting, instead of making such Proposals, it seem'd good to your Excellency onely to propound some general Matters, as it were previous to a future Confer-20 ence, concerning which it seem'd to the Council that the Parla-ment had in former Papers fully made known their Sentiments.
Nevertheless, for more ample and accumulative satisfaction, and to remove all scruples from your Excellency concerning those matters which they at that time propos'd, the Coun-data est paratum sc esse ostendit cum Excellentia Vcstra in Colloquium venire iis de rebus qux a parte Regiae Majestatis przdictæ in mandatis haberet tarn de pristina amicitia qu^{am} de actione futura, de iis etiam quae a nobis hujus Reipub. 5 nomine exhiberentur; cumque ad singula veniretur ea, quae par esset, resque postulare, responsa dare: ad quae visum est Excellentiz Vestrz nihilum respondere neque per duos pene menses in ea re ulterius progredi. Vestramque chartulam ^{27 May}_{6 Junn} 1652. datam Concilium ex eo tempore primam ab Excellentia 10 Vestra accepit, in eaque hoc solum proponitis, uti pacis atque foederis articuli inter Carolum Rcgcrn nuperum vestrumque Dominum⁶₁₆ Novembris 1630, pacti denuo percurrantur, utque ejus capita quzque vel amplificentur vel immutentur pro temporum & rerum alio nunc Statu, necnon regendz Reipublicz 15 forma immutata, quod cum nihil amplius esset, quam quod & nos in przdicta nostra chartula ^{31 Martii}_{10 Aprslis} summatim atque dilucide significaveramus, expectabat Concilium quosdam speciatim articulos ex eo foedere ab Excellentia Vestra propositum iri cum ea amplificatione iisque mutationibus quarum facitis 20 mentionem, cum alioqui nobis impossible sit ullum aliud responsum hac de re dare quam quod jam dedimus. Verum cum Excellentia Vestra ex charta sua novissima dilationem in nos conferre videatur, Concilium idcirco chartulam Vestram praedictam ^{27 May}_{6 Junli} datam quodque in ea propositum erat denuo 25 inspexit, seque de eo quod illic est propositum, priore ilia char-

cil in that Paper, dated ^{31 March,}_{10 April,} declar'd themselves ready to come to a Conference with your Excellency concerning those things which you had in charge from his Royal Majesty, as well in reference to the pristin Amity, as to any farther 5 Negotiation; as also touching such matters as should be exhibited by us, in the name of this Republick; and when we came to such particulars as were to the purpose, and the nature of the thing required, then to give convenient Answers. To which it seem'd good to your Excellency to make no Reply, 10 nor to proceed any farther in that Affair for almost Two Months. About that time the Council receiv'd from your Excellency your first Paper, dated ^{27 May,}_{6 June,} wherein you onely made this Proposal, That the Articles of Peace and League between the Late King Charles and your Master, dated the ⁶₁₆ of 15 Novemb. 1630. might be review'd, and that the several Heads of it might be either enlarg'd or left out according to the present condition of times and things, and the late Alteration of Government. Which being no more then what we our selves briefly and clearly signify'd in our foresaid Paper of 20 the ^{31 March,}_{10 April,} the Council expected that some particular Articles would have bin Propounded out of that League, with those Amplifications and Alterations of which you made mention; since otherwise it is impossible for us to return any other Answer concerning this matter then what we have already given.
25 And whereas your Excellency in your last Paper seems to charge us with delay, the Council therefore took a second review of your foresaid Paper of the ^{27 of May,}_{6 of June,} and of what was therein Propounded, and are still of Opinion, That they have fully satisfy'd your Excellency in that former Paper, to which they can only farther add, That so soon as your Excellency shall be pleas'd, either out of the Leagues already made, or in any other manner, to frame such conditions, as shall be accommodated to the present state of Things and Times, upon which you desire to have the foundations of Friendship laid on your side, they will immediately return you such Answers as by them shall be thought Just and Reasonable, and which shall be sufficient Testimonials that the Parliament still perseveres in the same desires of preserving an untainted and firm Amity with the King your Master, and that on their parts they will omit no honest endeavours, and worthy of themselves, to advance it to the highest perfection.

Furthermore the Council deems it to be a part of their duty, That your Excellency should be put in mind of that Paper of ours, dated Jan. 30. 1651. to which in regard your Excellency has return'd no Answer as yet, we press and expect that satisfaction be given to the Parliament, as to what is therein mention'd. As to the proving the Property of such Ships and Goods as shall be cast ashore by Shipwrack, the Council deems it neces-20 sary that an Oath be Administred in those Courts which are already, or shall hereafter be constituted, where the Claimers may be severally heard, and every Body's Right be determined and adjudg'd; which cannot be so clearly and distinctly done by Written Certificates, whence many scruples and doubts

But as to the manner of putting Perishable Goods to Sale that are cast Ashore by Shipwrack, the Council thinks it meet to propose the way of selling by Inch of Candle, as being the most probable means to procure the true value of the Goods for the best Advantage of the Proprietors. Nevertheless, if the foresaid Lords Embassadours shall propose any other method already found out which may more properly conduce to this end, the Council will be no hinderance, but that what is just may be put in practice. Neither is it to be understood, that the consideration of this matter shall put any stop to the Treaty.

As to the Punishment of those that shall violate the propounded Treaty, the Council has made that Addition which is mention'd in their Answer to the Fourteenth Article for the greater force and efficacy of that Article, and thereby to render the League it self more firm and lasting.

As to the last Clause of the Fourteenth Article, we think it not proper to give our Assent to those Leagues and Alliances, of which mention is made in the foresaid Answers, and which are only generally propounded, before it be more clearly apparent to us what they are. But when your Excellencies shall be pleas'd to explain those matters more clearly to the Council, we may be able to give a more express Answer to those Particulars. [After Oct. 1.1652.]

A Reply of the Council of State to the Answer of the foresaid Lords Embassadors, which was return'd to the Six Articles propounded by the Council aforesaid, in the Name of the Republick of England.

THE Council having view'd the Commissions of the foresaid Lords Embassadors, giving them Power to Transact with the Parlament or their Commissioners, concerning all things expedient to be Transacted in order to 5 the reviving the old Leagues or adding new ones, believ'd indeed die foresaid Lords to have bin furnish'd with that Authority as to be able to return Answers, and Negotiate all things, as well such as should be propounded by this Republick, as on the behalf of the King of Danemarlc(and Norway, and so did 10 not expect the Replies which it has pleas'd the foresaid Lords Embassadors to give to the First, Second, Third and Fifth demand of the Council ; whereby of necessity a stop will be put to diis Treaty, in regard it is but just in it self, and so resolv'd on in Council, to comprehend the whole League, and to Treat at 15 the same time as well concerning those things which regard this Republick, as those other matters which concern the King of Danemarfc(and Norway. Wherefore it is the earnest desire of the Council, That your Excellencies would be pleas'd to return an Answer to our First, Second, Third, and Fifth 20 demand.

As to the Fourth Article concerning the Customs of Gluc/^\stadt, in regard they are now abolish'd, as your Excellencies sponso meminerunt, instat Concilium uti eorum ilia antiquado etiam per hoc fœdus rata habeatur, ne forte in posterum revocentur.

Quod ad sextum articulum, qui de pyratica est, eum quidem
5 inseruit Concilium ut qui ad utriusque commoda æquæ pertineret & ad commercium in commune stabiliendum quod a pyratibus atque prædonibus perquam turbatur atque interrumpitur; cumque responsum Dominorum Legatorum de hoc articulo ad hostes tantum referatur, mendonem Piratarum 10 nullam faciat, Concilium idcirco expressius responsum ad id petit.

Cumque prædicti Domini Legati in sua replicadone ad responsum Concilii & decimum suum articulum, & ad eum Concilii responsum prætermiserint, Concilio necessarium 15 visum est prioribus suis postulads sequentem hunc articulum adungere.

Populum & incolas Reipub. Angliæ qui negoda aut commercium per ulla regna, regiones, aut ditionem Regis Dame & Norwçgia habuerint portorii, tributis, census, vechave mention'd in your Answer, the Council presses that their Abrogation may be ratifi'd by this Treaty, lest they should be reimpos'd hereafter.

As to the Sixth Article concerning PyracY, the Council inserted it, as equally appertaining to the benefit of both, and to the establishing of Trade in common, which is much disturbed by Pyrates and Sea-Robbers. And whereas the Answer of the Lords Embassadors, as to this Article, relates onely to Enemies, but makes no mention of Pyrates, the Council therefore desires
10 a more distinct Reply to it.

And whereas the foresaid Lords Embassadors in their Reply to the Answer of the Council, have pass'd over both their Tenth Article and the Answer of the Council to it, the Council have thought it necessary to add this following Article to their 15 following Demands.

That the People and Inhabitants of the Republick of England Trading into any Kingdoms, Regions, or Territories of the King of Danemark and Norway, shall not for the future pay any more Customs, Tribute, Taxes, Dudes or Stipends, or 20 in any other manner, then the People of the United Provinces, or any other Foreign Nation that pays the least, coming in or going out of Harbour; and shall enjoy the same and as equally ample Freedom, Privileges and Immunities, both coming and going, and so long as they shall reside in the Countrey, as also 25 in Fishing, Tradeing, or in any other manner, which any other People of a Foreign Nation enjoys, or may enjoy in the fore-said Kingdoms, and throughout the whole Dominions of the said King of Danemark and Norway. Which Privileges also the Subjects of the King of Danemark and Norway shall & Nortvcgia per omnes Provincias ac ditionem Reipublica Anglie pariter fruentur.

Causes of this nature, have undertaken to determin the Right in dispute. Where all Parties concerned on both sides shall be fully and freely heard, and you may be assur'd that Right shall take place. We have also sent your Excellency's request to the 5 Judges of that Court, to the end we may more certainly understand what progress they have made in their proceeding to Judgement. Of which so soon as we are rightly inform'd, we shall take care that such Orders shall be given in this matter, as shall correspond with Justice, and become the Friendship 10 that is between this Republick and your King. Nor are we less confident, that his Royal Majesty will by no means permit the Goods of the Enemies of this Commonwealth to be conceaFd and escape due Confiscation under the shelter of being own'd by his Subjects.

Most Serene and Potent King,

THE Parlament of the Commonwealth of England have received Information from their Admiral of that Fleet so lately sent to Copenhagen, your Majesty's Port, to Convoy our Merchants homeward bound, that the 5 foresaid Ships are not permitted to return along with him, as being detain'd by your Majesty's Command; and upon his producing your Royal Letters declaring your Justifications of the matter of Fact, the Parliament denies that the Reasons laid down in those Letters for the detaining of those Ships are any may be appli'd in a matter of so great moment, and so highly conducing to the prosperity of both Nations, for preventing a greater, perhaps, ensuing mischief, the Parliament have sent their Resident at Hamborough, Richard Eradshaw, Esquire,

The Parlament of the Republick of England, to the Most Serene Prince, Ferdinand the Second, Grand Dufe of Tuscany, Greeting.

A'LTHOUGH the Parlament of the Republick of England some time since redoubl'd their Commands to all the chief Captains and Masters of Ships arriving in the Ports belonging to your Highness, to carry themselves 5 peacefully and civilly, and with becoming observance and duty to a most Serene Prince, whose Friendship this Republick so earnestly endeavours to preserve, as having bin oblig'd by so many great Kindnesses; an Accident altogether unexpected has fallen out, through the Insolence, as they hear, of Captain 10 Appleton in the Port of Leghorn, who offer'd Violence to the Sentinel then doing his Duty upon the Mole, against the Faith and Duty which he owes this Republick, and in contempt of the Reverence and Honour which is justly owing to your Highness: the relation of which Action, as it was really com-15 mitted, the Parlament has understood by your Letters of the 7th. and 8th. of December, dated from Florence; as also more at large by the most Worthy Almeric Salvetti, your Resident here. And they have so sincerely laid to heart your Highness's Honour, which is the main concern of this Complaint, that 20 they have referr'd to the Council of State, to take care that Letters be sent to Captain Appleton, to come away without stop or stay by Land, in order to his giving an Account of this unwonted and extraordinary Act (a Copy of which Letters is sent herewith enclos'd) who so soon as he shall arrive, and be retur, insoliti hujus facti & extraordinarii rationem redditurus (quarum exemplum literarum his inclusum una mittitur) qui ubi advenerit & facti postulabitur, de eo id statutum iri pollicemur, quod testificari possit se vestri juris violationem 5 haud minus moleste ferre, quam si ipsum jus suum violaretur. Quinetiam de nave dicta Phcenice Liburni recuperata consultatione habita, quae res & Celsitudinem vestra nec non ab Oratore suo narratur atque urgetur, contra datam a Navarcho Appletono fidem fuisse, qua obstrictus erat ne Hollandos intra 10 conspectum portus aut laternae adoriretur, vestramque Celsitudinem ea fiducia nixam, Hollandis fide data de incolumitate promissis, debere proinde eorum satisfaction! prospicere, quibus vestra sub fide damnum datum est, Parlamentum ab Excellentia vestra petit, ut hoc sibi persuasum habeat, hanc 15 rem, quemadmodum sine suo consilio aut mandato est gesta, ita hoc etiam ab sua voluntate ac mente longissime abesse ut Celsitudo vestra ullo incommodo aut honoris imminutione ex illo facto afficiatur: quin imo se operam daturum, ut vobis satisfaciendi aliqua ratio ineatur, prout sibi quaes-

20 tione habita de re tota constiterit: quam ut plenius intelligere possit, ipsum Navarchum Appletonum ab se audiri necessarium esse judicat; qui & eadem fide obstrictus erat, & ab Excellentia vestra creditur, ejusdem violationi saltem assensisse; praesertim cum is tam brevi sit ad nos reversurus, atque illum 25 postquam Parlamentum audiverit, & cum dicto Oratore vestro rationes amplius contulerit, hac de re haud exigui sane momenti eam sententiam feret, quae & aequa erit, summaeque benevolentiae qua celsitudinem vestram prosequitur consen-accus'd of the Fact, we promise that such a course shall be taken with him, as may sufficiently testify that we no less heinously brook the violation of your Right, then the Infringement of our own Authority. Moreover, upon mature debate 5 concerning the recover'd Ship, call'd the Phoenix of Leghorn, which Affair is also related and press'd by your Highness and your Resident here, to have bin done by Captain Applcton, contrary to promise given, whereby he was oblig'd not to fall upon even the Hollanders themselves within sight of the Lan-

10 thorn; and that your Highness, trusting to that Faith, promis'd security to the Hollanders upon your word; and therefore that we ought to take care for the satisfaction of those who suffer damage under the Protection of your Promise; the Parlament begs of your Excellency to be assur'd, That this Fact, as it was 15 committed without their Advice or Command, so it is most remote from their Will and Intention that your Highness should undergo any Detriment or Diminution of your Honour by it. Rather they will make it their business, that some Expedient may be found out for your satisfaction, according to the nature 20 of the Fact upon Examination of the whole matter. Which that they may so much the more fully understand, they deem it necessary that Captain Appleton himself should be heard, who was bound by the same Faith, and is thought by your Excellency at least to have consented to the violation of it; 25 especially since he is so suddenly to return home. And so soon as the Parlament has heard him, and have more at large conferr'd with your Resident concerning this matter of no small moment, they will pronounce that Sentence that shall be Just,

5 many years have preserved it untainted, with no less Prudence and Moderation; that you should have such noble sentiments of our Liberty recover'd; that you, such sincere Worshippers of the Gospel, should be so constantly perswaded of our Love and Affection for the Orthodox Faith, is that which is most

But as to your exhorting us to Peace, with a Pious and Affectionate intent, as we are fully assur'd, certainly such an Admonition ought to be of great weight with us; as well in respect of the thing it self which you perswade, and which of all things is chiefly to be desir'd, as also 15 for the great Authority which is to be allow'd your Lordships above others in this particular, who in the midst of loud tumultuous Wars on every side, enjoy the sweets of Peace both at home and abroad, and have approv'd your selves the best example to all others of embracing and improving Peace; and 20 lastly, for that you perswade us to the very thing which we our selves of our own accords, and that more then once, consulting as well our own, as the interest of the whole Evangelical Communion, have begg'd by Embassadors, and other publick Ministers, namely, Friendship and a most strict League with the

But as for our parts, we are wholly intent upon this, by God's assist-

Most Illustrious Lord,

UPON grievous Complaints brought before us by Philip Noel, John Godal, and the Society of Merchants of Foy in England, that a certain Ship of theirs, call'd the Ann of Foy, an English Ship by them fitted 5 out, and laden with their own Goods, in her return home to the Port of Foy about Michaelmas last, was unjustly and without any cause set upon and taken by a certain Privateer of Ostend, Erasmus Bruer Commander, and the Seamen unworthily and barbarously us'd; The Council of State wrote to the Marquis of 10 Leda concerning it (a copy of which Letter we also send enclos'd to your Excellency) and expected from him, that without delay Orders would have bin given for the doing of Justice in this matter. Nevertheless after all this the foresaid Noel, together with the said Company make further heavy com-15 plaint, that altho our Letters were deliver'd to the Marquess, and that those Merchants from that time forward betook themselves to Bruges to the Court there held for Maritime Causes, and there asserted and prov'd their Right and the Verity of their Cause, yet that Justice was deni'd them; and that 20 they were so hardly dealt with, that though the Cause had bin ripe for Tryal above three Months, nevertheless they could obtain no Sentence from that Court, but that their Ship and Goods are still detained, notwithstanding the great Expences they have bin at in Prosecuting their Claim. Now your Excelsumptus fecissc. Non ignorat Amplitude Vestra & juri Gentium & commercii & amicitiae, quæ inter Anglos & Flandros est, contrarium esse, ut navis aliqua Ostendensis navem aliquam Anglicam caperet, siquidem mercibus Anglicis onusta 5 Angliam petat; quæque ab illo Præfecto in nautas Anglicos inhumaniter ac barbære commissa sunt poenam gravem mereri. Concilium itaque hanc rem Amplitudini vestrz commendat, petitque ut de ea in Flandriam scribere vclitis, eamque operam primo quoque tempore dare ut ne hoc negotium 10 diutius extrahatur sed uti ea justitia fiat, ut praedicta navis Ac bona, uni cum damnis, sumptibus & fcnore quz Angli isti propter illam injustam interceptonem sustinuerunt, Autoritate Curiz maritimæ Brugensis, aut alio modo bono iis redantur, utque curetur nequa ejusmodi interceptio deinceps 15 fiat, quin amicitia quæ nostris hominibus cum Flandris intercedit sine ulla violarione conservetur.

Obsignatum nomine & jussu Concilii Status Parlamenti autoritatc constitui.

Marchioni Ledæ.

Illustrissimc Domine,

20 GRAVES ad nos allatae sunt querelz, a Philippo No- & Joanni Godallo, & Societate mercatorum Foycnsium, de nave quadam sua, cui nomen Anna Foyensis, quæ cum esset Navis Anglica, ab illis instructa, &

lency well knows it to be contrary to the Law of Nations, of Traffick, and that Friendship which is at present settl'd between the English and Flemings, that any Ostender should take any English Vessel, if bound for England with English 5 Goods; and that whatever was Inhumanly and Barbarously done to the English Seamen by that Commander deserves a rigorous Punishment. The Council therefore recommends the whole matter to your Excellency, and makes it their request that you would Write into Flanders concerning it, and take 10 such speedy care, that this business may no longer be delay'd; but that Justice may be done in such a manner, that the fore-said Ship, together with the Damages, Costs and Interest, which the English have sustain'd and bin out of purse, by reason of that Illegal Seizure, may be restor'd and made good to 15 'em, by the Authority of the Court, or in some other way; and that care be taken that hereafter no such Violence may be committed, but that the Amity between our People and the Flemings may be preserv'd without any Infringement.

Sign'd in the Name, and by the Command of the Council of 20 [1653 ?] State, appointed by Authority of Parliament.

[42.p.107:M.43.(iv,528.)]

To the Marquiss of Leda.

GREAT Complaints are brought before us by Philip Noel, John Godal, and the Company of Foy Merchants, concerning a Ship of theirs, call'd the Ann of Foy, which being an English Vessel, by them fitted out, and ipsorum solummodo mercibus onusta, circiter festum Michaelis Archangeli ad portum suum renavigans, a nave praesidiaria quae ad Ostendam pertinebat, cujus erat Praefectus Erasmus Brucrus, de improvise capta fuit. Nuntiatum porri 5 est, Ostendenses, cum in sua potestate navis esset, nautas om-nes nimis inhumaniter tractasse, accensio fune digitis admoto, & navis magistrum undis immersisse, atque poene suffocasse, ut minimam vicram ab ipso confessionem extorquerent, de navi atque mercimoniis illis, quasi Gallorum essent. Quod ta-10 metsi Magister ille caeterique socii navis firmiter pernegabant, Ostendenses tamen, & navim & mercedes in portum suum abduxerunt. Haec in Curia Navali Anglia, inquisitione facta, testibusque adhibitis vera esse apparere, ut ex autographis testimoniorum quae cum his literis simul misimus manifesto 15 liquebit. Cum itaque illa Navis, Anna Foynensis dicta, atque mercimonia omnia peculiariter veri ac proprie ad Anglos pertineant, adeo ut nulla causa appareat cur Oslenderises vel illam vel ea vi caperent, multo minus auferrent navis Magistrum, aut societatem tam dure tractarent; cumque secundum 20 leges Nationum atque amicitiam inter Anglos Flandrosque, navim illam atque mercimonia reddi oporteat, magnopere petimus ab Excellentia vestra, ut jus suum Anglicani maturi obtineant, atque illis satisfiat qui damnum acceperunt, utque commercium, & Amicitia quae inter Anglos Flandrosque est, 25 diu atque firmiter conservetur.

laden with their own Goods, in her return home to her own Port about Michaelmas last, was taken unawares by a Freebooter of Ostend, Erasmus Brewer Commander. It is also further related, that the Ostcndcrs, when the Ship was in their 5 Power, us'd the Seamen too inhumanly, by setting lighted Match to their Fingers, and plunging the Master of the Ship in the Sea till they had almost drown'd him, on purpose to extort a false Confession from him, that the Ship and Goods belong'd to the French. Which though the Master and the rest 10 of the Ship's Crue resolutely deni'd, nevertheless the Ostcndcrs carri'd away the Ship and Goods to their own Port. These things, upon strict enquiry and examination of Witnesses have bin made manifest in the Admiralty Court in England, as will appear by the Copies of the Affidavits herewith sent your 15 Lordship. Now in regard that that same Ship, call'd the Ann of Foy, and all her lading of Merchandiæ and Goods belong truly and properly to the English, so that there is no apparent reason why the Ostenders should seiæ by force either the one or the other, much less carry away the Master of the Ship, and 20 use the Seamen so unmercifully; and whereas according to the Law of Nations, and in respect to the Friendship between the Flemings and English, that Ship and Goods ought to be restor'd, we make it our earnest request to your Excellency, that the English may have speedy Justice done, and that Satisfaction may be given for their losses, to the end the Traffick and 25 Friendship which is between the English and Flemings may be long and inviolably preserv'd. [1653 ?]

To the Spanish Ambassador.

THE Parliament of the Commonwealth of England understanding that several of the People of this City daily resort to the Houses of your Excellency and other Embassadors and Publick Ministers from Foreign Nations here residing, meerly to hear Mass, gave Order to the Council of State to let your Excellency understand, That whereas such Resort is prohibited by the Laws of the Nation, and of very evil Example in this our Republick, and extremely Scandalous, that they deem it their duty to take care 10 that no such thing be permitted henceforward, and to prohibit all such Assemblies for the future. Concerning which, 'tis our desire that your Excellency should have a fair Advertisement, to the end that henceforth your Excellency may be more careful of admitting any of the People of this Republick to hear 15 Mass in your House. And as the Parliament will diligently provide that your Excellencies Rights and Privileges shall be preserv'd inviolable, so they perswade themselves, that your Excellency, during your abode here, would by no means that the Laws of this Republick should be violated by your self or your 20 Attendants. [After Jan. 12.1652/3.]

To the Count of Oldenburgh.

Most Illustrious Lord,

BY your Letters, dated January 20.1654. I have bin given to understand, That the Noble Frederick Matthias Wolisog, and Christopher Griphiancker were sent with certain Commands from your Illustrious Lordship into England, who when they came to us, not onely in your Name Congratulated our having taken upon us the Government of the English Republick, but also desir'd that you and your Territories might be comprehended in the Peace which we are about to make with the Low Countries, and that we would 10 confirm by our present Authority the Letters of safe Conduct lately granted your Lordship by the Parliament. Therefore in the first place we return your Lordship our hearty thanks for your Friendly Congratulation, as it becomes us; and these will let you know that we have readily granted your two Requests.
15 Nor shall you find us wanting upon any opportunity, which may at any time make manifest our Affection to your Lordship. And this we are apt to believe you will understand more at large from your Agents, whose Fidelity and Diligence in negodo præclare constitit. Quod reliquum est, vobis, rebusque vestris felicitatem, atque ex voto pacem omnem exopto.

Most Illustrious Lord,

WE receiv'd your Letters, dated May 2. from Oldenburgh, most welcome upon more then were deliver'd by the hand of the most Illustrious Count Anthony, your beloved Son. Which we look upon as so much the greater Honour, as not having trusted to Report, but with our own Eyes, and by our own Observation discern'd his Vertues and Inclinations, and lastly his extraordinary Affection toward our selves. Nor is it to be question'd but he displays to his own People the same fair hopes at home, that he will approve himself the Son of a most Worthy and most excellent Father, Westmonasterio. die 4. Julii 1654.

we Congratulate this Accession of Dignity to your egregious Merits, and the most worthy guerdon of so much Vertue. And that it may be Lucky and Prosperous to your Majesty, to the Nation of the Swedes, and the true Christian Interest, which 5 is also what you chiefly wish, with joynt supplications we implore of God. And whereas your Majesty assures us, That the preserving entire the League and Alliance lately concluded between this Republick and the Kingdom of Sweden shall be so far your care, that the present Amity may not only continue 10 firm and inviolable, but if possible, every day encrease and grow to a higher perfection, to call it into question would be a piece of impiety, after the Word of so great a Prince once interpos'd, whose surpassing Fortitude has not only purchas'd your Majesty a Hereditary Kingdom in a Foreign Land, but also 15 could so far prevail, that the most August Queen, the Daughter of Gustavus, and a Heroess so matchless in all degrees of Praise and Masculine Renown, that many Ages backward have not produc'd her equal, surrender'd the most just possession of her Empire to your Majesty, neither expecting nor willing to 20 accept it. Now therefore 'tis our main desire, your Majesty should be every way assur'd, that your so singular Affection toward us, and so eminent a signification of your Mind can be no other then most dear and welcome to us, and that no Combat can offer it self to us more glorious, then such a one 25 wherein we may, if possible, prove Victorious in out-doing your Majesty's Civility by our kind Offices that never shall be wanting. Your Majesty's most Affectionate, Oliver Protector of the Commonwealth of England, Scotland, Westminster, July 4 [or 11]. 1654. and Ireland, &c.

[47.p.124:M.49-(v,165.)]

To the most Illustrious Lord, Lewis Mendez de Haro.

WHAT we have understood by your Letters, most Illustrious Lord, that there is an Ambassador already nominated and appointed by the most Serene King of Spain, on purpose to come and Congratulate 5 our having undertaken the Government of the Republick, is not onely deservedly acceptable of it self, but rendered much more wellcome and pleasing to us by your singular Affection and the speed of your Civility, as being desirous we should understand it first of all from your self. For, to be so belov'd 10 and approved by your Lordship, who by your Vertue and Prudence have obtain'd so great Authority with your Prince, as to preside, his equal in Mind, over all the most Important Affairs of that Kingdom, ought to be so much the more pleasing to us, as well understanding that the judgement of a surpassing Per-is son, cannot but be much to our Honour and Ornament. Now as to our cordial Inclinations toward the King of Spain, and ready propensity to hold Friendship with that Kingdom, and encrease it to a stricter perfection, we hope we have already satisfied the Present Ambassador, and shall more amply satisfie 20 the other, so soon as he arrives. As to what remains, Most Illus- trious Lord, we heartily wish the Dignity and Favour wherein you now flourish with your Prince, perpetual to your Lordship; and that whatever Affairs you carry on for the Publick Good, may prosperously and happily succeed.

To the Most Serene Prince Charles Gustavus Adolphus, King of the Swedes, Goths, and Vandals, 6r,

BEING so well assur'd of your Majesty's good will towards me by your last Letters, in answer to which I wrote back with the same Affection, methinks I should do no more then what our mutual Amity requires, if as I communicate my grateful Tydings to reciprocal Joy, so when contrary Accidents fall out, that I should lay open the sence and grief of my Mind to your Majesty, as my dearest Friend. For my part this is my Opinion of my self, That I am now advanced to this degree in the Commonwealth, to the end I should consult in the first place, and as much as in me lies, for the common Peace of the Protestants. Which is the reason, that of necessity it behooves me more grievously to lay to heart what we are sorry to hear concerning the bloody Conflicts and mutual Slaughters of the Bremcners and Swedes. But this I chiefly bewail, that being both our Friends, they should so despitefully Combat one against another, and with so much danger to the Interests of the Protestants; and that the Peace of Munster, which it was thought would have prov'd an Asylum and Safeguard to all the Protestants, should be the occasion of such an unfortunate War, that now the Arms of the Swedes are turn'd upon those whom but a little before, among the rest, they most stoutly defended for Religions sake; and that this should be done more especially at this time when the Papists are said to Persecute the Reformed all over Germany, and to return to their intermitted for some time Oppressions, and Oliver Protector of the Republick of England, To the most Illustrious Prince of Tarentum.

YOUR Love of Religion, apparently made known in your Letters to us deliver'd, and your excelling Piety and singular Affection to the Reformed Churches, more especially considering the Nobility and Splendor of your 5 Character, and in a Kingdom too, wherein there are so many and such abounding hopes propos'd to all of Eminent Quality that revolt from the Orthodox faith, so many Miseries to be undergone by the Resolute and constant, gave us an occasion of great joy and consolation of Mind. Nor was it less grateful

Lost Serene Prince,
LETTERS have bin sent us from Geneva, as also from the Dauphinate, and many other Places bordering upon 15 your Territories, wherein we are given to understand, That such of your Royal Highness's Subjects as profess the Reformed Religion, are Commanded by your Edict, and by your Authority, within three days after the Promulgation of your Edict, to depart their Native Seats and Habitations, upon 20 pain of capital Punishment, and Forfeiture of all their Fortunes and Estates, unless they will give security to relinquish their Religion within Twenty days, and embrace the Roman Catholick Faith. And that when they appli'd themselves to supplicis ad Celsitudinem vestram Regalem contulissent, penitens ut dictum illud revocetur, utque ipsi pristinam in gratiam recepti, concessa a Scenissimis Majoribus vestris libertati restituantur, partem tamen exercitus vestri in cos 5 impetum fecisse multos crudelissime trucidasse, alios vinculis mandasse, reliquos in deserta loca montesque nivibus coopertos expulisse, ubi familiarum aliquot centuriae, eo loci rediguntur ut sit metuendum ne frigore & fame, brevi sint misere omnes periturae. Haec cum ad nos perlata assent, haud sane 10 potuimus quin, hujus afflictissimi populi tanta calamitate audita, summo dolore ac miseratione commoveremur. Cum autem non humanitatis modo sed ejusdem religionis communionem, adeoque fraternam penitus necessitudine cum iis con-junctos nos esse fateamur, satisfieri a nobis neque nostro erga 15 Deum officio, neque fraternae charitati, neque religionis ejus-trorum calamitate ac miseria solo sensu doloris afficeremur, nisi etiam ad sublevanda eorum tot mala inopinata, quantum in nobis est situm, omnem operam nostram conferamus.

20 Itaque a vestra inprimis Celsitudine Regali majorem in mo-your Royal Highness in a most Suppliant manner, imploring a Revocation of the said Edict, and that being receiv'd into pristin favour, they might be restor'd to the Liberty granted 'em by your Predecessors, a part of your Army fell upon 'em, 5 most cruelly Slew several, put others in Chains, and compell'd the rest to Flye into Desert places and to the Mountains cover'd with snow, where some Hundreds of Families are reduc'd to such Distress, that 'tis greatly to be fear'd, they will in a short time all miserably Perish through Cold and Hunger. These 10 things, when they were related to us, we could not chuse but be touch'd with extream Grief and Compassion for the Sufferings and Calamities of this Afflicted People. Now in regard we must acknowledge our selves link'd together not only by the same tye of Humanity, but by joynt Communion of the 15 same Religion, we thought it impossible for us to satisfie our Duty to God, to Brotherly Charity, or our Profession of the same Religion, if we should onely be affected with a bare sorrow for the Misery and Calamity of our Brethren, and not contribute all our endeavours to Relieve and Succour 'em in 20 their unexpected Adversity, as much as in us lies. Therefore in a greater measure we most earnestly Beseech and Conjure your Royal Highness, that you would call back to your thoughts the moderation of your most Serene Predecessors, and the Liberty by them Granted and Confirm'd from time 25 to time to their Subjects the Vaudois. In Granting and Confirming which, as they did that, which without all question was most grateful to God, who has bin pleas'd to reserve the Jurisdiction and Power over the Conscience to himself alone, so there is no doubt but that they had a due consideration of their Subjects also, whom they found Stout and most Faithful in War, and always Obedient in Peace. And as your Royal Serenity in other things most laudably follows the footsteps of your Immortal Ancestors, so we again and again beseech your 5 Royal Highness not to swerve from the path wherein they trod in this particular; but that you would vouchsafe to Abrogate both this Edict, and whatsoever else may be Decreed to the Disturbance of your Subjects upon the account of the Reform'd Religion; that you would ratifie to 'em their conceded 10 Privileges and pristin Liberty, and command their Losses to be repair'd, and that an end be put to their Oppressions. Which if your Royal Highness shall be pleas'd to see perform'd, you will do a thing most acceptable to God, revive and comfort the miserable in dire Calamity, and most highly oblige all your 15 Neighbours that Profess the Reformed Religion, but more especially our selves, who shall be bound to look upon your Clemency and Benignity toward your Subjects as the fruit of our earnest Solicitation. Which will both engage us to a reciprocal return of all good Offices, and lay the solid founda-20 tions not only of establishing, but encreasing Alliance and Friendship between this Republick and your Dominions. Nor do we less promise this to our selves from your Justice and Moderation; to which we Beseech Almighty God to encline your Mind and Thoughts. And so we cordially Implore Just 25 Heaven to bestow upon your Highness and your People the Blessings of Peace and Truth, and prosperous Success in all your Affairs.

Oliver Protector of the Republick of England, to the most Serene Prince of Transilvania, Greeting.

Most Serene Prince,

B^Y your Letters of the i6th. of Nov. 1654. you have made us sensible of your singular good-will and affection toward us; and your Envoy, who deliver'd those Letters to us, more amply declared your desire of contracting 5 Alliance and Friendship with us. Certainly for our parts, we do not a little rejoyce at this Opportunity offer'd us to declare and make manifest our Affection to your Highness, and how great a value we justly set upon your Person. But after Fame had reported to us your egregious Merits and Labours under-10 taken in behalf of the Christian Republick, when you were pleas'd that all these things, and what you have farther in your thoughts to do in the defence and for promoting the Christian Interest, should be in Friendly manner imparted to us by Letters from your self, this afforded us a more plentiful occasion
15 of Joy and Satisfaction, to hear, that God, in those remoter Regions, had rais'd up to himself so Potent and Renowned a Minister of his Glory and Providence: And that this great Minister of Heaven so fam'd for his Courage and Success, should be desirous to associate with us in the common Defence 20 of the Protestant Religion, at this time wickedly assaiTd by Words and Deeds. Nor is it to be question'd but that God, who has infus'd into us both, though separated by such a spacious interval of many Climates, the same desires and thoughts of 5 our hands, and be not wanting to lay hold of 'em. In the mean time we cannot without an extream and penetrating sorrow forbear putting your Highness in mind how unmercifully the Duke of Savoy has Persecuted his own Subjects, Professing the Orthodox Faith, in certain Valleys at the feet of the Alps.

10 Whom he has not only constraint by a most severe Edict as many as refuse to embrace the Catholick Religion, to forsake their Native Habitations, Goods and Estates, but has fall'n upon 'em with his Army, put several most Cruelly to the Sword, others more Barbarously Tormented to Death, and J5 driven the greatest number to the Mountains, there to be consum'd with Cold and Hunger, exposing their Houses to the Fury, and their Goods to the Plunder of his Executioners. These things as they have already bin related to your Highness, so we readily assure our selves, that so much cruelty cannot but 20 be grievously displeasing to your ears, and that you will not be wanting to afford your Aid and Succour to those miserable Wretches, if there be any that survive so many Slaughters and Calamities. For our parts we have Written to the Duke of Savoy, beseeching him to remove his insenc'd Anger from his 25 Subjects; as also to the King of France, that he would vouchsafe to do the same; and lastly to the Princes of the Reformed Religion, to the end they might understand our sentiments concerning so fell and savage a piece of Cruelty. Which though first begun upon those poor and helpless People, however threatens all that Profess the same Religion, and therefore imposes upon all a greater necessity of providing for themselves in general, and consulting the common Safety; which is the

Of which your Highness may be assur'd, as also of our sincerity and affection to your Serenity, whereby we are engaged to wish all prosperous success to your Affairs, and a happy issue of all your Enterprizes and Endeavours, in assert-

Oliver Protector, to the most Serene Prince, Charles Gustavus Adolphus, King of the Swedes, Greeting.

WE make no question but that the fame of that most rigid Edict has reach'd your Dominions, whereby the Duke of Savoy has totally Ruin'd 15 his Protestant Subjects Inhabiting the Alpine Valleys, and commanded 'em to be extirminated from their Native Seats and Habitations, unless they will give security to renounce their Religion received from their Forefathers, in exchange for the Roman Catholick Superstition, and that within 20 Twenty days at farthest; so that many being kill'd, the rest Strip to their Skins and expos'd to most certain destruction, are now forc'd to wander over desert Mountains and through hycmemque perpctuam fame & frigore confecti cum conjugibus ac parvulis jam nunc aberrant, & hzc graviter tulisse Majestatem vestram nobis persuassimum est. Nam Protestantium nomen atque causam, tametsi inter se de rebus non maximis dissentiunt, communem tamen & pene unam esse, adversariorum par in omnes Protestantes odium facile demonstrat. Et Succorum Reges, suam cum Reformats conjunxisse semper causam illatis etiam in Germaniam armis ad Protctantium religionem sine discrimine tuendam nemo est qui ignoret: 10 petimus inprimis igitur, idque majorem in modum, a Majestate vestra (nisi id jam fecerit, quod & Reformatorum aliæ Respublicæ & nos fecimus) ut cum Sabaudice Duce per literas velit agere; suaque autoritate interposita & hanc tantam edicti atrocitatem ab hominibus cum innocuis turn religiosius deprecando, si fieri potest, avertere conetur: etenim haec initia tam sæva quo spectent, quid nobis omnibus minentur, admonere vestram Majestatem supervacuum esse arbitramur. Quod si is iræ suae, quam nostris omnium precibus auscultare maluerit: Nobis profecto, siquod est vinculum, siqua religionis charitas aut communio credenda atque colenda est, 20 communicato prius vestra cum Majestate, cacterisque Reformatorum primoribus consilio alia quamprimum ineunda rado erit, qua provider! mature possit, ne tanta innocentissimorum fratrum nostrorum muldtudo omni ope destituta miserrime pereat. Quod idem quin Majestati vestrsc visum jam sit atque decretum cum nullo modo dubitemus, nihil consultius, ut perpetual Winter, together with their Wives and Children, half dead with Cold and Hunger; and that your Majesty has laid it to heart with a Pious sorrow and compassionate consideration we as little doubt. For that the Protestant Name and 5 Cause, although they differ among themselves in some things of little Consequence, is nevertheless the same in general and united in one common Interest, the hatred of our Adversaries, alike insenc'd against Protestants, very easily demonstrates. Now there is no body can be ignorant, that the Kings of the 10 Swedes have always joyn'd with the Reformed, carrying their Victorious Arms into Germany in Defence of the Protestants without distinction. Therefore we make it our chief request, and that in a more especial manner to your Majesty, that you would solicit the Duke of Savoy by Letters, and by interposing 15 your intermediating Authority, endeavour to avert the horrid Cruelty of this Edict, if possible, from People no less Innocent then Religious. For we think it superfluous to admonish your Majesty, whither these rigorous beginnings tend, and what they threaten to all the Protestants in general. But if he rather 20 chuse to listen to his Anger then to our joynt Intreaties and Intercessions, if there be any Tye, any Charity or Communion of Religion to be Believ'd and Worshipped, upon Consultations duly first communicated to your Majesty and the chief of the Protestant Princes, some other course is to be speedily 25 taken, that such a numerous multitude of our Innocent Brethren may not miserably Perish for want of Succour and Assistance. Which in regard we make no question but that it is your Majesties Opinion and Determination, there can be nothing in nostra quidem fert sententia, esse poterit quam ut gratiam, auctoritatem, consilia, opes, & siquid aliud necesse est in hanc rem primo quoque tempore conferamus. Interea Majestatem vestram Deo Opt. Max. commendatam ex animo volumus.

[54.p.145:M.60.(v,189.)]

Oliver Protector, &c. to the High and Mighty Lords, the States of the United Provinces.

WE make no question but that you have already bin inform'd of the Duke of Savoy's Edict, set forth against his Subjects Inhabiting the Valleys at the feet of the Alps, Ancient Professors of the Orthodox 10 Faith; by which Edict they are commanded to abandon their Native Habitations, stript of all their fortunes, unless within Twenty days they embrace the Roman Faith; and with what Cruelty the Authority of this Edict has rag'd against a needy and harmless People; many being slain by the Soldiers, the rest 15 Plunder'd and driven from their Houses together with their Wives and Children, to combat Cold and Hunger among desert Mountains, and perpetual Snow. These things with what commotion of Mind you heard related, what a fellow-feeling of the Calamities of Brethren pierc'd your breasts, 20 we readily conjecture from the depth of our own Sorrow, which certainly is most Heavy and Afflictive. For being en-gag'd together by the same tye of Religion, no wonder we should be so deeply mov'd with the same Affections upon the dreadful and undeserved Sufferings of our Brethren. Besides, 25 that your conspicuous Piety and Charity toward the Orthodox, in re potius, quā studio & charitate erga fratres religionis causa violates atque afflictos vinci sustineam: quandoquidem Ecclesiarum salutem atque pacem incolumitati etiam propriæ libens prætulerim. Quod igitur hactenus potuimus, ad Saba- 5 dice Ducem scripsimus; suppliciter pene rogantes ut in hos homines innocentissimos & subditos & supplices suos placatiorem animum ac voluntatem suscipiat, suas sedes atque fortunas miseris reddat, pristinam etiam in religione libertatem concedat. Scripsimus præterea ad summos Protestan-

10 tium Principes & Magistrates, ad quos hæc maximi pertinere iudicavimus, ut in Sabaudia Ducem exorando suam conferre operam nobiscum una velint. Hæc eadem, & plura forsitan vos quoque fecistis. Nam exemplum hoc tam periculosum, & instaurata nuper in Reformatos tanta crudelitas si auctoribus 15 bene cedat, quantum in discrimen adducta religio sit vestram commonefacere prudentiam nihil attinet. Et is quidem si flecti nostris omnium precibus & exorari se passus erit præwhere-ever overborn and oppress'd, has bin frequently experienc'd in the most urging streights and calamities of the Churches. For my own part, unless my thoughts deceive me, there is nothing wherein I should desire more willingly to be 5 overcome, then in Good will and Charity toward Brethren of the same Religion afflicted and wrong'd in their quiet Enjoyments; as being one that would be accounted always ready to prefer the Peace and Safety of the Churches before my particular Interests. So far therefore as hitherto lay in our power, we 10 have Written to the Duke of Savoy, even almost to Supplication, beseeching him that he would admit into his breast more placid thoughts and kinder effects of his Favour toward his most Innocent Subjects and Suppliants; that he would restore the Miserable to their Habitations and Estates, and grant 'em 15 their pristin freedom in the Exercise of their Religion. Moreover we Wrote to the chiefest Princes and Magistrates of the Protestants, whom we thought most nearly concern'd in these matters, that they would lend us their Assistance to intreat and pacific the Duke of Savoy in their behalf. And we make no 20 doubt now but you have done the same, and perhaps much more. For this so dangerous a president, and lately renew'd severity of utmost Cruelty toward the Reformed, if the Authors of it meet with prosperous Success, to what apparent dangers it reduces our Religion, we need not admonish your 25 Prudence. On the other side, if the Duke shall once but permit himself to be atton'd and won by our united Applications, not only our Afflicted Brethren, but we our selves shall reap the noble and abounding Harvest and Reward of this labori-clarum nos atque uberem suscepđ hujus laboris fructum ac præmium rcportabimus. Sin ea in scntentia perstiterit, ut apud quos nostra Religio vel ab ipsis Evangelii primis Docto-ribus tradita per manus & incorrupte servata, vel multo ante 5 quam apud cæteras Gentes sinceritati pristinæ resdtuta est, eos ad summam desperationem redactos, deletes funditus ac perditos velit, paratos nos esse commune aliquod vobiscum cæterisque Reformats Fratribus ac sociis consilium capere, quo & saluti pereuntium justorum consulere commodissime que-10 amus, & is demum sendat Orthodoxorum injurias atque mise-rias tam graves non posse nos negligere. Valete.

Civitatibus Helvetiorum Evangelicis.

NON dubitamus quin ad aures vestras aliquanto cidus quam ad nostra ilia nuper calamitas perve-nerit Alfinorum hominum religionem nostram sui Principis edicto patriis sedibus emigrare jussi ni intra tridium sadsdedissent, se Romanam Religionem suscepturos, mox armis pedd & ab exercitu Duds sui occisis, etiam per-multis in exilium ejecti, nunc sine lare, sine tecto, nudi, spo-20 liari, afflicti, fame & frigore moribundi, per montes desertos ous Undertaking. But if he still persist in the same obstinate Resolutions of reducing to utmost extremity those People, among whom our Religion was either disseminated by the first Doctors of the Gospel, and preserv'd from the defilement 5 of Superstition, or else restor'd to its Pristin sincerity long before other Nations obtain'd that felicity; and determines their utter extirpation and destruction; we are ready to take such other Course and Counsels with your selves, in common with the rest of our Reformed Friends and Confederates, as may be 10 most necessary for the preservation of Just and Good men upon the brink of inevitable Ruin, and to make the Duke himself sensible, that we can no longer neglect the heavy Oppressions and Calamities of our Orthodox Brethren. Farewel.

To the Evanglick Cities of Switærland.

15 WE make no question but the late Calamity of the Piemontois, Professing our Religion, reached your Ears, before the unwelcome News of it arriv'd with us. Who being a People under the Protection and Jurisdiction of the Duke of Savoy, and by a severe Edict of 20 their Prince Commanded to depart their Native Habitations, unless within Three days they gave security to embrace the Roman Religion, soon after were assail'd by Armed Violence, that turn'd their Dwellings into Slaughter-houses, while others, without Number, were terrifi'd into Banishment, 25 where now Naked and Afflicted, without House or Home, or any Covering from the Weather, and ready to perish through atque nives cum conjugibus ac liberis miserrime vagantur. Multo est minus cur dubitemus quin hæc, ut primum vobis nundata sunt pan atque nos tantarum miseriarum sensu eoque fortasse graviore quo illorum finibus propiores esds, dolore 5 affecerint. Vestrum enim in primis Orthodoxae fidei studium egregium summamque in ea cum retinenda constantiam turn defendenda fortitudinem abunde novimus. Cum itaque religionis arctissima communione Fratres, vel potius unum corpus cum his miseris vos pariter nobiscum sitis, cujus mem-10 brum nullum affligi sine sensu, sine dolore, sine detximento atque periculo reliquorum potest, scribendum ad vos hac de re & significandum censuimus quanti nostrum omnium interesse arbitremur, ut Fratres nostros ejectos atque inopes communi ope atque auxilio, quoad fieri potest, juvemus &

15 consolemur; nee eorum tantummodo malis & miseriis removendis, verum etiam nequid serpat latius nequid periculi exemplo atque eventu vel nobis omnibus creari possit, maturè prospiciamus. Literas nos quidem ad Sabaudits Ducem scripsimus, quibus uti cum Subditis suis fidelissimis pro dementia
20 sua lenius agat, eosque jam prope perditos suis sedibus ac bonis restituat, vehementer petivimus. Et his quidem nostris, vel nostrum potius omnium conjuncds precibus, exoratum

Hunger and Cold, they miserably wander thorough desert Mountains, and depths of Snow, together with their Wives and Children. And far less reason have we to doubt, but that, so soon as they came to your knowledge, you laid these things 5 to heart, with a Compassion no less sensible of their multipli'd Miseries, then our selves; the more deeply imprinted perhaps in your minds, as being next Neighbours to the sufferers. Besides, that we have abundant proof of your singular Love and Affection for the Orthodox Faith, of your constancy in retain-10 ing it, and your Fortitude in defending it. Seeing then, by the most strict Communion of Religion, that you, together with our selves, are all Brethren alike, or rather one body with those unfortunate People, of which no member can be Afflicted without the feeling, without pain, without the detriment and 15 haæard of the rest; we thought it convenient to Write to your Lordships concerning this matter, and let you understand, how much we believe it to be the general Interest of us all, as much as in us lies, with our common Aid and Succour, to relieve our exterminated and indigent Brethren; and not only to 20 take care for removing their Miseries and Afflictions, but also to provide, that the mischief spread no farther, nor incroach upon our selves in general, encourag'd by Example and Success. We have Written Letters to the Duke of Savoy, wherein we have most earnestly besought him out of his wonted Clem-25 ency, to deal more gently and mildly with his most faithful Subjects, and to restore 'em, almost Ruin'd as they are, to their Goods and Habitations. And we are in hopes, that by these our Intreaties, or rather by the united Intercessions of us all, the iri Principem Serenissimum quodque ab eo tanto opere petivimus, facile concessurum speramus. Sin illi in mentem secus venerit, communicare vobiscum consilia parati sumus, qua potissimum ratione oppresses tot injuriis atque vexatos inno-5 centissimos homines, nobisque charissimos in Christo fratres sublevare atque erigere, & ab interim certissimo atque indignissimo conservare possimus. Quorum salutem atque incolumitatem pro vestra pietate vobis quam maxime cordi esse confido: Ego cum certe vel gravissimis meis rationibus, immo 10 incolumitati propria potiore habendam esse existimem. Valete.

most Serene Prince at length will be atton'd, and grant what we have requested with so much Importunity. But if his mind be obstinately bent to other determinations, we are ready to communicate our Consultations with yours, by what most 5 prevalent means to relieve and re-establish most Innocent men, and our most dearly beloved Brethren in Christ, tormented and overlaid with so many Wrongs and Oppressions; and preserve 'em from inevitable and undeserved Ruin. Of whose welfare and Safety, as I am assur'd, that you according to your 10 wonted Piety, are most cordially tender, so, for our own parts, we cannot but in our opinion prefer their preservation before our most important Interests, even the safeguard of our own life. Farewel. O.P.

To the Most Serene and Potent Prince, Lewis King of France,

Most Serene and Potent King,

BY your Majesty's Letters which you Wrote in answer to ours of the 25th. of May, we readily understand, that we fail'd not in our Judgement, that the inhuman Slaughter and barbarous Massacres of those men, who profess 5 the Reformed Religion in Savoy, perpetrated by some of your Regiments, were the Effects neither of your Orders nor Commands. And it afforded us a singular occasion of Joy, to hear that your Majesty had so timely signifi'd to your Collonels and Officers, whose violent precipitancy engag'd 'em in those in-10 human Butcheries without the encouragement of Lawful Allowance, how displeasing they were to your Majesty; that you had admonish'd the Duke himself to forbear such Acts of Cruelty; and that you had interpos'd with so much Fidelity and Humanity, all the high Veneration paid you in that Court, 15 your near Alliance and Authority, for restoring to their ancient Abodes those unfortunate Exiles. And it was our hopes, That that Prince would in some measure have condescended to the good Pleasure and Intercessions of your Majesty. But finding not any thing obtain'd either by your own, nor the In-20 treaties and Importunities of other Princes in the Cause of the Distressed, we deem'd it not foreign from our duty, to send this noble Person, under the Character of our extraordinary Envoy, to the Duke of Savoy, more amply and fully to lay be-qui tantac crudelitatis in ejusdem nobiscum Religionis cultores, idque ipsius Religionis odio adhibitæ, quo sensu afficiar, uberius eidem exponat. Atque hujus quidem Legationis eo feliciorem exitum speravero, si adhibere denuo & adhuc majore cum instantia suam auctoritatem atque operam Majestati Vestræ placuerit; & quemadmodum fideles fore illos inopes dictoque audientes Principi suo ipsa in se recepit, ita velit eorundem incolumitari atque saluti cavere, ne quid iis hujusmodi injuriæ & calamitatis atrocissimæ innocentibus & pacatis deinceps inferatur. Hoc cum in se justum ac vere regium sit, nee non benignitati vestræ atque clementiæ, quæ tot subditos vestros eandem illam Religionem sequentes ubique salvos & incolumes prxstat, summe consentaneum, a Majestate Vestra, ut par est, non possumus quin expectemus. Quæ hac simul opera, cum universos per sua Regna Protestantes, quorum studium erga vos summaque fides maximis in rebus perspecta jam sxpe & cognita est, arcdus sibi devinxerit, turn exteris etiam omnibus persuasum reddiderit, nihil ad hoc facinus contulisse Regis consilium, quicquid Ministri Regii atque Præfecti contulerunt. Praesertim si Majestas Vestra poenas ab iis Ducibus ac Ministros debitas repetiverit, qui au-fore him, how deeply sensible we are of such exasperated Cruelties inflicted upon the Professors of the same Religion with our selves, and all this too out of a hatred of the same Worship. And we have reason to hope a success of this Negotiation so 5 much the more prosperous, if your Majesty would vouchsafe to employ your Authority and Assistance once again with so much the more urgent importunity; and as you have undertaken for those Indigent People that they will be Faithful and Obedient to their Prince, so you would be graciously pleas'd 10 to take care of their Welfare and Safety, that no farther Oppressions of this nature, no more such dismal Calamities may be the portion of the Innocent and Peaceful. This being truly Royal and Just in it self, and highly agreeable to your B benignity and Clemency, which every where protects in soft 15 security so many of your Subjects professing the same Religion, we cannot but expect, as it behoves us, from your Majesty. Which Act of yours, as it will more closely bind to your Subjection all the Protestants throughout your spacious Dominions, whose Affection and Fidelity to your Predecessors and 20 your self in most important Distresses have bin often conspicuously made fyown; so will it fully convince all Foreign Princes, that the Advice or Intention of your Majesty were no way contributory to this prodigious Violence, whatever inflam'd your Ministers and Officers to promote it. More es 25 pecially, if your Majesty shall inflict deserved punishment upon those Captains and Ministers, who of their own Authority, and to gratifie their own Wills, adventur'd the perpetrating such dreadful Acts of Inhumanity. In the mean while, thoritatc propria, suaque pro libidine tarn immania patrare scelcra sunt ausi. Interca cum Majestas Vestra factum hoc inhumanissimum, quo dignum est odio, avcrsari sc testetur, non dubito quin miseris illis atque ærumnosis ad vos confu-5 gientibus, tudssimum in Rcigno suo receptum atque perfugium sit præbitura; nee Subditorum suorum cuiquam, ut since your Majesty has assur'd us of your justly merited aversion to these most inhuman and cruel Proceedings, we doubt not but you will afford a secure Sanctuary and Shelter within your Kingdom to all those miserable Exiles that shall flye to Oliver Protector of the Commonwealth of England, to the most Serene Prince, Frederick III. King of Denmark, Norway, &c.

WITH what a severe and unmerciful Edict Immanucl Duke of Savoy has expell'd from their Native Seats his Subjects inhabiting the Valleys of Piemont, men otherwise harmless, onely for many years
5 remarkably famous for embracing the Purity of Religion; and after a dreadful Slaughter of some numbers, how he has expos'd the rest to the hardships of those desert Mountains, Stript to their Skins, and barr'd from all relief, we believe your Majesty has long since heard, and doubt not but that your Majesty 10 is touch'd with a real commiseration of their Sufferings, as becomes so puissant a Defender and Prince of the Reformed Faith. For indeed the Institutions of Christian Religion require, that whatever Mischiefs and Miseries any part of us undergo, it should behove us all to be deeply sensible of the 15 same: Nor does any man better then your Majesty foresee, if we may be thought able to give a right conjecture of your Piety and Prudence, what dangers the success and example of this fact portend to our selves in particular, and to the whole Protestant name in general. We have written die more willingly 20 to your self, to the end we might assure your Majesty, that the same sorrow which we hope you have conceiv'd for the Calamity of our most Innocent Brethren, the same opinion, the same judgment you have of the whole matter, is plainly and sincerely our own. We have therefore sent our Letters to the Duke

5 Princes would vouchsafe to do, as we are apt to believe they have already done, there is some hope that the Anger of the most Serene Duke may be asswag'd, and that his Indignation will relent upon the Intercession and Importunities of his Neighbour Princes. Or if he persist in his Determinations, we protest our 10 selves ready, together with your Majesty, and the rest of our Confederates of the Reformed Religion, to take such speedy methods as may enable us, as far in us lies, to relieve the distresses of so many miserable Creatures, and provide for their Liberty and Safety. City of Geneva.*

WE had before made known to your Lordships our excessive Sorrow for the heavy and unheard of Calamities of the Protestants Inhabiting the 20 Valleys of Piemont, whom the Duke of Savoy Persecutes with so much Cruelty, but that we made it our business that you should at the same time understand, that we are not onely affected with the multitude of their sufferings, but are using the utmost of our endeavours to Relieve and Comfort 'em in their distresses. To that purpose we have taken care for a gathering of Alms to be made throughout this whole Republick; which upon good grounds we expect will be such, as will 5 demonstrate the affection of this Nation toward their Brethren labouring under the burthen of such horrid Inhumanities; and that as the Communion of Religion is the same between both People, so the sence of their Calamities is no less the same. In the mean time while the Collections of the Money go for-10 ward, which in regard they will require some time to accomplish, and for that the Wants and Necessities of those deplorable People will admit of no delay, we thought it requisite to remit beforehand Two thousand Pounds of the Value of England, with all possible speed to be distributed among such as 15 shall be judg'd to be most in present need of Comfort and Succour. Now in regard we are not ignorant how deeply the miseries and wrongs of those most innocent people have affected your selves, and that you will not think amiss of any Labour or Pains where you can be assisting to their Relief, we 20 made no scruple to commit the Paying and Distributing this Sum of Money to your Care; and to give ye this farther trouble, that according to your wonted Piety and Prudence, you would take care that the said Money made be distributed equally to the most Necessitous, to the end that though the Sum be small, 25 yet there may be something to Refresh and Revive the most Poor and Needy, till we can afford 'em a more plentiful Supply. And thus, not making any doubt but you will take in good part the trouble impos'd upon ye, we beseech Almighty

Most Serene Prince,

AS it has bin always a great occasion of rejoycing to us when ever any prosperous Success attended your Arms, but more especially against the Common 15 Enemy of the Christian Name; so neither are we sorry for the late Advantage gain'd by your Fleet, though as we understand, it happen'd not a little to the Detriment of our People. For certain of our Merchants, William and Daniel Williams and Edward Beale, have set forth in a Petition presented to us, that 20 a Ship of theirs, call'd the Great Prince, was lately sent by them with Goods and Merchandiæe to Constantinople, where the said Ship was detained by the Ministers of the Port, to carry Soldiers and Provisions to Greet; and that the said Ship being insulam deportandos retentam, dum in ilia classe Turcarum coacta eo navigaret quæ & classe Vendorum oppugnata in idnere & superata est, captam & Venetias abductam, ab maritimarum causarum iudicibus adjudicatam publico fuisse. Cum 5 itaque inscienribus dominis & nullo modo probantibus navis ilia Turds operam dare invitissima coacta sit, seque ex eâ pugna explicare militibus referta non potuerit, Serenitatem Vestram magnopere rogamus, ut sententiam illam maritime curiae velit nostræ amicitiae condonare, navemque illam suis 10 dominis, de Vestra Republica nullo suo facto male meritis, restituendam curare. Qua in re impetranda nobis præsertim petentibus, cum mercatores ipsos de vestra dementia bene sperare videamus nos utique de ea dubitare non debemus: qui & præclara vestra consilia remque Venetam terra marique to the most Serene Prince, Lewis King of France.

Most Serene King,

CERTAIN of our Merchants, by name, Samuel Mico, William Cocfyin, George Poyner, and several others, in a Petition to us have set forth, That in the year 1650. they Laded a Ship of theirs, call'd the Unicorn, with 5 Goods of a very considerable value; and that the said Ship being thus Laden with Silk, Oyl and other Merchandize, amounting to above Thirty four thousand of our Pounds, was taken by the Admiral and Vice-Admiral of your Majesty's Fleet in the Mediterranean Sea. Now it appears to us, that our 10 People who were then in the Ship, by reason there was at that time a Peace between the French and us, that never had bin violated in the least, were not willing to make any Defence against your Majesty's Royal Ships, and therefore over-rul'd besides by the fair Promises of the Captains Paul, and Tcrrcry, 15 who faithfully engag'd to dismiss our People, they paid their Obedience to the Maritime Laws, and produc'd their Bills of Lading. Moreover, we find that the Merchants aforesaid, sent their Agent into France to demand Restitution of the said Ship and Goods: And then it was, that after above Three years 20 slipt away, when the Suit was brought so far that Sentence of Restitution or Condemnation was to have bin given; that his Eminency Cardinal Mazarine acknowledg'd to their Factor procurator! Hugoni Morello factam mercatoribus istis injuriam agnovisse; datumque iri satisfactionem, ut primum confirmata pax inter utrumque gentem, fcedusque, quod turn agitabatur, confectum atque ratum esset, in se recepissee: immo

Hugh Morel, the wrong that had bin done the Merchants, and undertook that Satisfaction should be given, so soon as the League between the two Nations, which was then under Negotiation, should be Ratifi'd and Confirm'd. Nay, since that, his 5 Excellency M. de Bourdeaux, your Majesty's Ambassador, assur'd us in express Words, by the Command of your Majesty and your Council, That care should be taken of that Ship and Goods in a particular Exception, apart from those controversies, for the decision of which a general provision was made 10 by the League; of which promise, the Ambassador, now opportunely arriv'd here to solicit some business of his own, is a Testimony no way to be question'd. Which being true, and the Right of the Merchants in redemanding their Ship and Goods so undeniably apparent, we most earnestly request your Majesty, 15 esty, that they may meet with no delay in obtaining what is justly their due, but that your Majesty will admit the grant of this Favour, as the first fruits of our reviv'd Amity and the lately renew'd League between us. The refusal of which, as we have no reason to doubt, so we beseech Almighty God to Bless

IN what condition your Affairs are, which is not the best, we are abundantly inform'd, as well by your publick Acts transmitted to us by our Agent at Geneva, as also by your Letters from Zurick, bearing date the 2jth. of December.
5 Whereby, although we are sorry to find your Peace, and such a lasting League of Confederacy broken; nevertheless since it appears to have happen'd through no fault of yours, we are in hopes that the Iniquity and perverseness of your Adversaries are contriving new occasions for ye to make known your long-

Passage was lately intended to have bin open'd over their Slaughter'd bodies to your sides. As for our part, be assur'd, that we are no less anxious and solicitous for your Welfare and Prosperity, then if this conflagration had broken forth in our 5 Republick; or as if the Axes of the Schwits Canton had bin sharpen'd for our Necks, or that their Swords had bin drawn against our Breasts, as indeed they were against the bosoms of all the Reformed. Therefore so soon as we were inform'd of the condition of your Affairs, and the obstinate Animosities of 10 your Enemies, advising with some sincere and honest Persons, together with some Ministers of the Church most eminent for their Piety, about sending to your Assistance such Succour as the present posture of our Affairs would permit, we came to those Results, which our Envoy Pell will impart to your consideration. In the mean time we cease not to implore the Blessing of the Almighty upon all your Counsels, and the Protection of your most just Cause as well in War as in Peace.

5 to impart unto us by your Letters the most pleasing and delightful part of your Friendship, which is your joy. In regard it is a mark of singular Civility, and truly Royal, as not to live onely to a man's self, so neither to rejoyce alone, unless he be sensible that his Friends and Confederates partake of his glad-

Certainly then, we have reason to rejoyce for the Birth of a young Prince Born to such an excellent King, and sent into the world to be the Heir of his Father's Glory and Vertue; and this at such a lucky season, that we have no less cause to Congratulate the Royal Parent with the memorable Omen

To the King of Danemark.

Most Serene and Potent Prince,

10 JOHN Freeman and Philip Travess, Citiaëens of this Republick, by a Petition presented to us, in their own and the Name of several other Merchants of London, have made a complaint, That whereas about the Month of March in the year 1653. they Freightèd a certain Ship of Sunderburgh, called the Saviour, Nicolas Weinsfyngo Master, with Woollen 15 Cloth, and other Commodities to the Value of above Three thousand Pound, with Orders to the Master, That he should Sail directly up the Baltick for Dantæic, paying the usual Tribute at Elsenore, to which purpose in particular they gave him Money; nevertheless that the said Master, Perfidiously 20 and contrary to the Orders of the said Merchants, slipping by Elsenore without paying the usual Duty, thought to have proceeded in his Voyage, but that the Ship for this reason was sine magno mercatorum damno publicata atque retenta est. Quorum in gratiam jampridem ad Legatum Majestatis vestrae Londini tune temporis commorantem scripsimus; qui, ut ipsi ajunt, pollicitus est, ut primum ad Majestatem vestram red-5 diisset, daturum operam, uti ratio mercatorum haberetur. Verum cum is postea aliis in regionibus a Majestatis Vestrae negotia obiret, & ante discessum ejus & postea frustra se cum adisse ostendunt; unde procuratorem suum mittere coacti sunt, qui jus suum Hafniæ persequeretur, navemque illam ac 10 bona liberari, sibi que reddi flagitaret: verum exinde nullum se fructum percepisse, nisi ut ad damna vetera novas impensas, & Susceptum frustra laborem adjungerent: cum fisco dam-nata, & retenta hactenus sint bona, tametsi ex lege Danice, quemadmodum ipsi in libello suo demonstrant, magister qui-15 dem navis ob suum delictum est ipse puniendus, navisque, non bona, proscriptioni sunt obnoxia: eoque gravius accidisse sibi hoc malum existimant, quod, sicuti nobis perlatum est, vecdgal illud quod Elsenorac solvere debuisset est admodum exiguum. Quapropter, cum mercatores nostri nullam pro-20 scripdoni causam praeuisse videantur, confessusque ipse magister paulo ante obitum sit, suo solum delicto illatum hoc mercatoribus detrimentum esse, cumque Pater defunctus jam magistri ipse per libellum supplicem Majestad Vestrae exhi-immediately Seia'd and detain'd with all her Lading. After due consideration of which Complaints, we Wrote in favour of the Merchants to your Majesty's Ambassador residing at London, who promis'd, as they say, that as soon as he return'd 5 to your Majesty, he would take care that the Merchants should be taken into consideration. But he being sent to Negotiate your Majesty's Affairs in other Countries, the Merchants attended upon him in vain, both before and after his departure, so that they were forc'd to send their Agent to prosecute their 10 Right and Claim at Copenhagen, and demand Restitution of the Ship and Goods; but all the Benefit they reap'd by it, was onely to add more expences to their former damages, and a great deal of labour and pains thrown away; the Goods being condemn'd, to Confiscation, and still detain'd: Whereas by the 15 Law of Danemark, as they set forth in their Petition, the Master is to be Punish'd for his Offence, and the Ship is to be Condemn'd but not the Goods. And they look upon this misfortune to lye the more heavy upon 'em, in regard the Duty which is to be paid at Elsenore, as they tell us, is but very small.

20 Wherefore seeing our Merchants seem to have given no cause of Proscription, and for that the Master confess'd before his death, that this damage befel them onely through his neglect; and the Father of the Master deceas'd, by his Petition to your Majesty, as we are given to understand, by laying all the blame 25 upon his Son, has acquitted the Merchants, we could not but believe the detaining of the said Ship and Goods to be most unjust; and therefore we are confident, that so soon as your Majesty shall be rightly inform'd of the whole matter, you will

Parlament, in whom the Supreme Power was vested at that with the assistance of God, and that we might not be wanting in die Administration of the Government which we have now taken upon us, at length we brought to a happy conclusion, and as we hope, as a sacred Act, have ratified it to perpetuity.

Westmonasterio. April, 1. 1656.

Coast of Brasilc to Lisbon, was set upon by a Privateer of Flushing, call'd the Red-Lyon, Commanded by Lambert Bartclson, but upon this condition, which the Writing Sign'd by Lambert himself testifies, That the Ship and whatsoever Goods 5 belong'd to the English should be restor'd at Flushing: where when the Vessel arriv'd, the Ship indeed with what peculiarly belong'd to the Seamen was restor'd, but the English Merchants Goods were detain'd and put forthwith to Sale: For the Merchants who had received the Damage, when they had su'd 10 for their Goods in the Court of Flushing, after great Expences for Five years together, lost their Suit, by the pronouncing of a most unjust Sentence against 'em by those Judges, of which some being interested in the Privateer, were both Judges and Adversaries, and no less Criminal altogether. So that now they 15 have no other hopes but onely in your Equity and uncorrupted Faith, to which at last they fly for Succour; and which they believ'd they should find the more inclinable to do 'em Justice, if assisted by our Recommendation. And men are surely to be pardon'd, if afraid of all things in so great a struggle for their 20 Estates, they rather call to mind what they have reason to fear from your Authority and high Power, then what they have to hope well of their Cause, especially before sincere and upright Judges: Though for our parts we make no question, but that induc'd by your Religion, your Justice, your Integrity, rather 25 then by our Intreaties, you will give that Judgment which is Just and Equal and truly becoming your selves. God preserve both you and your Republick to his own Glory and the defence and Succour of his Church. Westminster, April 1.1656.

*Oliver Protector of the Commonwealth of England, &c.
To the most Serene and Potent Prince, Lewis King of France.*

Most Serene Prince,

JOH^N DETHIC Mayor of the City of London for this Year, and William Wakefield Merchant, have made their Addresses to us by way of Petition complaining, That about the middle of October 1649. they freighted a certain 5 Ship, call'd the Jonas of London, Jonas Lightfoot Master, with Goods that were to be sent to Ostend; which Vessel was taken in the mouth of the River Thames, by one White of Barring, a Pyrate Robbing upon the Seas by Vertue of a Commission from the Son of King Charles deceas'd, and carri'd to 10 Dunkirk, then under the Jurisdiction of the French. Now in regard that by your Majesty's Edict in the year 1647. renew'd in 1649. and by some other Decrees in favour of the Parlament of England, as they find it recorded, it was Enacted, That no Vessel or Goods taken from the English, in the time of that 15 War, should be carri'd into any of your Majesty's Ports to be there put to Sale, they presently sent their Factor Hugh Morel to Duntyrk, to demand Restitution of the said Ship and Goods from M. Lestrade then Governor of the Town; more especially finding them in the Place for the most part untouch'd, 20 and neither Exchang'd or Sold. To which the Governor made Answer, That the King had bestow'd that Government upon him of his free Gift for Service done the King in his Wars, and Gallic dono, ob navatam Rcipub. operam, præfecturam cam accepisse; curaturum proinde, uti ea sibi pretium operæ sit. Hoc response frustratus, post magnum cum temporis turn pecuniæ dispendium, procurator domum revertitur. Petitores, 5 quæ restat sibi spes, cam in vestra sola dementia atque justitia rpositam esse vident; ad quam per nostras literas faciliorem sibi aditum fore crediderunt: ea ne desit hominibus contra jus omne, & repetita vestra interdicta spoliatis, rogamus. Quod tamen si impetrabimus, quandoquidem hoc sane aquis- 10 simum videtur, ab insita æquitate vestra, potius quam rogatu nostro, impetratum id esse statuemus.

Most High and Mighty Lords, our dearest Friends,

THE same Persons in whose behalf we wrote to your Lordships in September the last year, Thomas and William Lower, the lawful Heirs of Nicholas Lower, deceas'd, make grievous complaints before us, that they are oppress'd either by the Favour or Wealth of their Adversaries, notwithstanding the Justice of their Cause; and when that would not suffice, although our Letters often pleaded in their behalf, they have not bin able hitherto to obtain Possession of the Inheritance left 'em by their Father's Will. From the Court of Holland, where the Suit was first Commenc'd, they were sent to your Court, and from thence hurri'd away into æealand (to which three Places they carry'd our Letters) and now they are remanded, not unwillingly, back again to your Supream Judicature; for where the Supream Power is, there they expect Supream Justice. If that hope fail 'em, eluded and frustrated, after being so long toss'd from post to pillar for the recovery of their Right, where at length to find a resting place they know not. For as for our Letters, if they find no benefit of these the Fourth time Written, they can never promise themselves any advantage for the future from slighted Papers. However, it would be most acceptable to us, if yet at length, after so many contempts, the injur'd Heirs might meet with

Oliver Protector of the Commonwealth of England, &c.
to the most Serene Prince, Lewis King of France.

Most Serene King, our most dear Friend and Confederate.

CERTAIN Merchants of London, Richard Bafcr and others, have made their complaint in a Petition to us, That a certain hir'd Ship of theirs, call'd the Endeavour, William fop Master, Laden at Tenariff with Three 20 hunder'd Pipes of rich Canary, and bound from thence for London, in her Voyage between Palma and that Island, upon the 2ist. of November in the year 1655. was taken by Four French Vessels, seeming Ships of Burthen, but fitted and navibus Gallicis, in speciem quidem onerariis, sed praedatorium in modum armatis, quibus Aegidius de la Roche Navarchus erat, primo ac vigesimo Novembris die An. Dom. 1655. occupatam fuisse, atque in Orientalem Indiam, quo is iter sibi 5 esse praedicabat, cum omni onere ac plerisque nautarum abductam; reliquis quatuordecim ad Guineam Nigritarum in littus quoddam expositis. Quod eo consilio Aegidius fecisse se dictitabat, nequis eorum ex terra tam longinqua & inhumana forte elapsus testimonio laederet. Fatebatur enim, se 10 neque mandatis instructum, ut Anglorum naves caperet, neque alias quas poterat antea cepisse, ut propterea quod inter Gallos nostramque Remp. per eos ipsos dies convenisse pacem non ignorabat: sed cum in Portugallia constitutum sibi esset commeatus accipere, & ab adversis ventis rejectus attingere ea 15 loca non potuisset, coactum se, ad supplendum quae opus sibi essent, iis uti quae in ista nave reperisset: credere se proinde, illarum navium dominos de damno satisfacturos. Damnum autem constat supra sedecim mille libras Anglicas, id quod ex juratis testibus facile apparebit, Mercatoribus nostris datum.

20 Verum si tam levibus de causis temerare acta principum religiosissima & quasi ludibrio habere negotiatoribus quibusvis ob sua commoda licuerit, concidet profecto omnis posthac foederum sanctitas, omnis Principum fides atque autoritas obsolescet, proque nihilo habebitur. Quapropter non roga-25 mus tantum, sed Majestatis Vestrae quam maximi interesse arbitramur, ut qui Regis sui fœdus, jusque jurandum sanctissimum primi omnium tam facile violare sunt ausi, quamprimum dent poenas tantæ perfidiæ atque audaciæ debitas; utque mann'd like Privateers, under the Command of Giles de la Roche their Admiral, and carri'd with all her Freight, and the greatest part of the Seamen to the East-Indies, whither he pretended to be bound (Fourteen excepted, who were put ashore 5 upon the Coast of Guiney) which the said Giles affirm'd he did with that Intent, that none of 'em might escape from so Remote and Barbarous a Countrey to do him any harm by their Testimony. For he confess'd he had neither any Commission to take the English Vessels, neither had he taken any,

10 as he might have done before, well knowing there was a firm Peace at that time between the French and our Republick: But in regard he had design'd to revittle in Portugal, from whence he was driven by contrary Winds, he was constraint to supply his necessities with what he found in that Vessel; and believ'd 15 the Owners of his Ships wofcld satisfie the Merchants for their Loss. Now the Loss of our Merchants amounts to Sixteen Thousand English Pounds, as will easily be made appear by Witnesses upon Oath. But if it shall be Lawful upon such trivial Excuses as these, for Pyrates to violate the most Religious 20 Acts of Princes, and make a sport of Merchants for their particular benefits, certainly the sanctity of Leagues must fall to the ground, all Faith and Authority of Princes will grow out of date and be traml'd under foot. Wherefore we not onely request your Majesty, but believe it mainly to concern your 25 Honour, that they who have adventur'd upon so slight a pretence to violate the League and most Sacred Oath of their Sovereign, should suffer the Punishment due to so much Perfidiousness and daring Insolence; and that in the mean time illarum intcrea navium Domini de damno, eriam ipso suorum praejudicio, mercatoribus nostris summam per injuriam illato, sadsfaciant. Dcus Majcstatem Vestram diutissimè conservct,

For we could not think it proper to conceal the subject of our Writing from the sole and onely person, whose singular Prudence Governs the most important Interests of the French Nation, and the most weighty Affairs of the Kingdom with equal Fidelity, Council and Vigilance.

15 Not without reason we complain, in short, to find that League by your self, as it were a crime to doubt, most sacredly concluded, almost the very same day contemn'd and violated by one Giles a French-man, a petty Admiral of Four Ships, and his Associates equally concern'd, as your Eminency will readily

20 find by our Letters to the King, and the Demands themselves of our Merchants: Nor is it unknown to your Excellency how much it concerns not only Inferiour Magistrates, but even etiam ipsius Regiae Majestatis intersit violatores foedcrum pri-in Orientalē Indium jam nunc appulsi, nostrorum bona

However, we cannot but conceive an extraordinary trouble of mind for these beginnings of the least dissention arisen among Brethren, which infallibly must greatly endanger the Protes-

We are not ignorant, that 15 your Lordships, out of your deep Wisdom, frequently revolve in your Minds what the posture of all Europe is, and what more especially the condition of the Protestants: That the Cantons of Switæerland adhering to the Orthodox Faith, are in daily expectation of new Troubles to be rais'd by their 20 Countrey-men embracing the Popish Ceremonies; scarcely recover'd from that War which for the sake of Religion was kindled and blown up by the Spaniards, who suppli'd their Enemies both with Commanders and Money: That the Councils of the Spaniards are still contriving to continue the slaugh-

King of Sweden, whom God, as we hope, has rais'd up to be a most stout Defender of the Orthodox Faith, is at present waging with all the Force of his Kingdom a doubtful and bloody War with the most Potent Enemies of the Reformed Religion:

5 That your own Provinces are threatened with Hostile Confederacies of the Princes your Neighbours, Headed by the Spaniards; and lastly, that we our selves are busied in a War proclaimed against the King of Spain. In this posture of Affairs, if any Contest should happen between your Lordships

10 and the King of Sweden, How miserable would be the condition of all the Reformed Churches over all Europe, expos'd to the Cruelty and Fury of unsanctifi'd Enemies? These cares not slightly seiæ us; and we hope your Sentiments to be the same; and that out of your continu'd ææl for the common Cause of

Wherein if we can any way be useful, as far as our Authority, and the Favour you bear us will sway with your Lordships, we freely offer our utmost Assistance, prepared in like manner to Which if you shall vouchsafe to do, you will disappoint your Enemies, prove the consolation of your Friends, and in the best manner provide for the welfare of your Republick. And this we beseech you to be fully convinc'd of, that we shall use our utmost care to make appear, upon all occasions, our extraordinary Affection and Good-will to the States of the United Provinces. And so we most earnestly implore the Almighty God to perpetuate his Blessings of Peace, Wealth and Liberty upon your Republick, but above all things to preserve it always flourishing in the Love of the Christian Faith, and the true Worship of his Name.

5 mention'd Ratification being mutually interchang'd on both sides in the beginning of June last, there is now a firm and settl'd Peace between both Nations. And this pacification has given us no small occasion of joy and satisfaction, as believing 10 it will prove to the common benefit of both Nations, and to the no slight detriment of our common Enemies, who as they found out a means to disturb the former League, so they have left nothing neglected to have hinder'd the renewing of this. Nor do we question in the least, that they will omit any occa-15 sion of creating new matter for scandals and jealousies between us. Which we however have constantly determin'd, as much as in us lies, to remove at a remote distance from our thoughts; rather we so earnestly desire, that this our Alliance may beget a mutual confidence greater every day than other, that we shall 20 take them for our Enemies, who shall by any artifices endeavour to molest the Friendship by this Peace established between our selves and both our People. And we readily perswade our selves, that your Majesty's thoughts and intentions are the same. And whereas it has pleas'd your Majesty, by your Let-lick, as your Majesty believes, but of great importance to the Kingdom of Portugal, we shall be ready to enter into a particular Treaty in order to those Proposals made by your Majesty, or whatever else may conduce, in the judgment of both Parties, 5 to the farther establishment and more strongly fastning of the League: wherein we shall have those due considerations of your Majesty and your Subjects, as also of our own People, that all may be satisfi'd; and it shall be in your choice, whether these things shall be Negotiated at Lisbon or at London. How- 10 ever, the League being now confirm'd, and duly Seal'd with the Seals of both Nations, to alter any part of it, would be the same thing as to annul the whole; which we are certainly assur'd your Majesty by no means desires to do. To the most Serene Prince, John King of Portugal.

Most Serene King,

WE have receiv'd the unwelcome News of a wicked and inhuman Attempt to have Murder'd our Agent Philip Mcdows, residing with your Majesty, and by us sent upon the blessed Errand of Peace; 5 the hainousness of which was such, that his Preservation is onely to be attributed to the Protection of Heaven. And we are given to understand by your Letters dated the 26th. of May last, and deliver'd to us by Thomas Maynard, that your Majesty justly incens'd at the horridness of the Fact, has Com- 10 manded inquiry to be made after the Criminals, to the end they may be brought to condign Punishment: But we do not hear that any of the Ruffians are yet apprehended, or that your Commands have wrought any effect in this particular. Wherefore we thought it our duty openly to declare how deeply we 15 resent this barbarous outrage in part Attempted, and in part committed: And therefore we make it our Request to your Majesty, That due Punishment may be inflicted upon the Authors, Associates, and Encouragers of this Abominable Fact. And to the end that this may be the more speedily accom- 20 plish'd, we farther demand, That persons of Honesty and Sincerity, Well-wishers to the Peace of both Nations, may be entrusted with the Examination of this Business, That so a due scrutiny may be made into the bottom of this malicious contriv-your Letters of the 25th. of June last, as also by those which we receiv'd from our Agent Philip Meadows, sent into Portugal to conclude the Peace in Agitation; wherein he informed us of 15 your extraordinary æeal and diligence to promote the Pacification, of which we most joyfully receiv'd the last Ratification; and we perswade our selves, that your Lordship will have no cause to repent either of your pains and diligence in procuring this Peace, or of your Good-will to the English, or your Fidelthe great hopes we have, that this Peace will be of high sperandum est, hanc pacem & utrique genti permagna immo

Advantage to both Nations, and not a little Inconvenient to our Enemies. The onely Accident that fell out unfortunate and mournful in this Negotiation, was that unhallow'd Villanany nefariously attempted upon the Person of our Agent, Philip Medows. The conceal'd Authors of which intended piece of Inhumanity, ought no less diligently to be sought after, and made Examples to Posterity, then the vilest of most openly detected Assassimates. Nor can we doubt in the least of your King's Severity and Justice in the Punishment of a Crime so horrid, nor of your Care and Sedulity to see that there be no remissness of Prosecution; as being a person bearing due veneration to the Laws of God, and Sanctity among men, and no less æealous to maintain the Peace between both Nations; which never can subsist if such inhuman Barbarities as these escape unpunish'd and unreveng'd. But your abhorrency and detestation of the Fact is so well known, that there is no need of insisting any more at present upon this unpleasing subject. Therefore, having thus declar'd our Good-will and Affection to your Lordship, of which we shall be always ready to give apparent demonstrations, there nothing remains, but to implore the Blessings of Divine Favour and Protection upon you, and all yours.

Most Serene King, our dearest Friend and Confederate,

BEING assur'd of your Majesty's concurrence both in Thoughts and Councils, for the defence of die Protestant Faith against the Enemies of it, if ever, now at this time, most dangerously vexatious, though we cannot but re-5 Joyce at your prosperous Successes, and the daily Tidings of your Victories, yet on the other side we cannot but be as deeply afflicted to meet with one thing that disturbs and interrupts our joy; we mean, the bad News, intermix'd with so many welcome Tydings, that the Ancient Friendship between your Maj-10 esty and the States of the United Provinces, looks with a dubious Aspect, and that the mischief is exasperated to that heighth, especially in the Baltic[^] Sea, as seems to bode an unhappy rupture. We confess our selves ignorant of the Causes; but we too easily foresee that the Events, which God avert, will 15 be fatal to the Interests of the Protestants. And therefore, as well in respect to that most strict Alliance between us and your Majesty, as out of that Affection and Love to the Reformed Religion, by which we all of us ought chiefly to be swai'd, we thought it our duty, as we have most earnestly exhorted die 20 States of the United Provinces to Peace and Moderation, so tram hortari. Satis superque hostium Protcstantibus ubique est: nunquam acrioribus odiis inflammati conspirasse in exitum nostrum undique videntur. Testes Alpine Valles haud ita pridem miserorum cæde ac sanguine redundantes; testis 5 Austria edictis nuper & proscriptionibus Cccsariis concussa; testis Helvetia; quid enim attinet pluribus verbis tot calamitatum recentium memoriam luctumque revocare? Hæc omnia loca quis nescit Hispanorum & Romani Pontificis consilia incendiis, cladibus, vexationibus Orthodoxorum per hoc bien- 10 nium miscuisse. Si ad hæc tot mala Protcstantium Fratrum inter se dissensio accesserit, inter vos præsertim quorum in virtute, opibus, constantia presidium Ecclcsiis Reformatis consritutum est maximum, quantum humanæ opis est, periclitari Religionem ipsam Rcjormatam, atque in summo discri- 15 mine versari necesse erit. Quod contra, si universum Protcstantium nomen ea qua decet inter se fraterna consensione perpetuam pacem coluerit, nihil omnino erit quod pertimescamus quid hostium vel artes vel vires incommodare nobis possint; quos sola nostra concordia vel propulsabit vel frustra- 20 bitur. Quapropter Majestatem Vestram majorem in modum oro atque obsecro, ut ad confirmandam cum Fccderatis Provinciis amicitiam pristinam, si qua in parte collapsa est aut now to perswade your Majesty to the same. The Protestants have Enemies every where enow and to spare, inflam'd with inexorable revenge; they never were known to have conspir'd more perniciously to our destruction, witness the Valleys of 5 Piemont, still reaking with the Blood and Slaughter of the Miserable; witness Austria, lately turmoil'd with the Emperor's Edicts and Proscriptions; witness Switæerland; But to what purpose is it in many words to call back the bitter lamentations and remembrance of so many Calamities? Who so ignorant, 10 as not to know that the Counsels of the Spaniards, and the Roman Pontiff, for these Two years have fill'd all these Places with Conflagrations, Slaughter, and Vexation of the Orthodox. If to these mischiefs there should happen an access of Dissention among Protestant Brethren, more especially between 15 Two Potent States, upon whose Courage, Wealth and Fortitude, so far as human Strength may be reli'd upon, the Support and Hopes of all the Reformed Churches depend, of necessity the Protestant Religion must be in great jeopardy, if not upon the brink of destruction. On the other side, if the 20 whole Protestant Name would but observe perpetual Peace among themselves with that same Brotherly Union as becomes their Profession, there would be no occasion to fear what all the Artifices or Puissance of our Enemies could do to hurt us, which our fraternal Concord and Harmony alone would easily 25 repel and frustrate. And therefore we most earnestly request and beseech your Majesty to harbour in your Mind propitious thoughts of Peace, and inclinations ready bent to repair the breaches of your Pristin Friendship with the United Provinces, imminuta, propensum atque bcnignum animum afferre velit. Siquid est in quo mea opera, fides, diligentia ad compositionem usui esse possit, eam omnem vobis profiteer atque defero: Deus mod6 aspiret, faustumque esse jubeat, quod cum

Wherefore, in most friendly wise, we request your High and Mightinesses favourably to hear the Petition of the said William Cooper, and to take such care, that the Reward and Stipend, so well deserv'd,

To the most Serene Prince, Lewis King of France.

Most Serene King, our dearest Friend and Confederate,

A GAINST our will it is that we so often trouble your Majesty with the wrongs done by your Subjects, after a Peace so lately renew'd. But as we are fully perswaded that your Majesty disapproves their being committed, 5 so neither can we be wanting to the complaints of our People. That the Ship Anthony of Dieppe was Legally taken before the League, manifestly appears by the Sentence of the Judges of our Admiralty Court. Part of the Lading, that is to say, Four thousand Hides, Robert Brown, a Merchant of London fairly 10 bought of those who were entrusted with the Sale, as they themselves testify. The same Merchant, after the Peace was confirmed, carri'd to Dieppe about Two hundred of the same Hides, and there having Sold 'em to a Currier, thought to have receiv'd his Money, but found it Stopt and Attach'd in 15 the hands of his Factor; and a Suit being commenc'd against him, he could obtain no favour in that Court. Wherefore, we thought it proper to request your Majesty, that the whole matter may be referr'd to your Council, that so the said Money may be discharged from an unjust and vexatious Action. For if Acts 20 done and adjudg'd before the Peace, shall after Peace renew'd be call'd into question and controversy, we must look upon assurance of Treaties to be a thing of little moment. Nor will there be any end of these complaints, if some of these Violators

Most Serene King, our dearest Friend and Confederate,

THOMAS EVANS, a Master of a Ship, and our Country-man, has presented a Petition to us, wherein he sets forth, that in the years 1649. and 1650. he serv'd the Brasile Company with his Ship the Scipio, being a Vessel 5 of Four hunder'd Tuns, and of which he was Master: that the said Ship was taken from him, with all the Lading and Furniture by your Majesties Command; by which he has receiv'd great Damage, besides the loss of Six years gain arising out of such a Stock. The Commissioners by the League appointed on 10 both sides for the deciding controversies, valu'd the whole at Seven thousand of our Pounds, or twice as many Milreys of Portugal Money, as they made their report to us. Which Loss falling so heavy upon the foresaid Thomas, and being constraint to make a voyage to Lisbon for the Recovery of his reap any benefit of their Pains and Expences in obtaining the and Letters formerly Written by King Charles in their behalf; for that the great Power and Wealth of Albert van Eyæen, one

Most Serene and Potent King, our dearest Friend and

WE are apt to believe that your Majesty receiv'd our Letters dated the 14th of May, of the last year, wherein we wrote that John Dethic, Mayor of London that year, and William Waterford, Merchant, had 5 by their Petition set forth, That a certain Vessel, call'd the Jonas, freighted with Goods upon their Accompt, and bound for Dunkirk, then under the Jurisdiction of the Trench, was taken at the very Mouth of the Thames, by a Sea-Rover, pretending a Commission from the Son of the late King Charles: 10 Which being directly contrary to your Edicts, and the Decrees of your Council, That no English Ship taken by the Enemies of the Parliament, should be admitted into any of your Ports, and there put to sale, they demanded Restitution of the said Ship and Goods from M. Lestrade, then Governor of the Town, 15 who return'd 'em an answer no way becoming a Person of his Quality, or who pretended Obedience to his Sovereign; That the Government was conferr'd upon him for his good Service in the Wars, and therefore he would make his best advantage of it, that is to say, by right or wrong; for that he seem'd to ram atque Provinciam Majestatis Vestrae dono accepisset, ut socios juxti spoliaret, vestraque edicta in eorum gratiam promulgata pro nihilo haberet. Quod enim Rex Gallic, si maxim& ab hostibus factum contra nos voluisset, facti tamen particeps suos esse vetuit, id regius praefectus contra regium interdictum non modo fieri est passus, ut nos vestris in portubus diriperemur, praedaeque essemus, verum etiam ipse diripuit, ipse praedae habuit, seque facri authorem palam professus est. Hoc itaque responso mercatores infecto negotio irriti atque 10 elusi discessere: nosque haec itidem superiore anno Majestati vestrae per literas significavimus successu licet baud multo meliore; nihildum enim responsi ad eas literas habuimus. Quod non habuerimus accidisse id credimus, propterea quod eo tempore Praefectus ille apud exercitum in Flandria fuit;

15 mine in urbe ipsa Parisiorum degit, vel podus per urbem perque aulam nostrorum spoliis locupletatus impune volitat. A Majestate igitur vestra nunc denuo id petimus quod ipsius Majestatis vestrae interest in primis providere, nequis ad sociorum injurias edictorum regionum contemptionem audeat 20 adjungere: sed neque ad Legates sive Commissarios de controversiis communibus utrinque dandos rejici proprii haec causa poterit; quandoquidem hic non sociorum jus duntaxat, sed auctoritas ipsa vestra Regiique nominis reverentia agitur. Illud enim mirum sit, si mercatores damna sua molestius 25 quam Majestas vestra sui ferat imminutionem. Eam si non ferat, eadem opera simul perficiet, ut neque amicissimorum de Repub. nostra edictorum poenituisse, neque in suorum drive at: As if he had receiv'd that Government of your Majesties free gift, to authoriæe him in the robbing your Confederates, and contemning your Edicts, set forth in their favour. For what the King of France forbids his Subjects any way to 5 have a hand in, that the King's Governor has not only suffer'd to be committed in your Ports, but he himself becomes the Pirate, seiæes the Prey, and openly avouches the Fact. With this Answer therefore the Merchants departed, altogether baffl'd and disappointed; and this we signifi'd by our Letters to your 10 Majesty the last year with little better success; for as yet we have receiv'd no Reply to those Letters. Of which we are apt to believe the reason was, because the Governor was with the Army in Flanders; but now he resides at Paris, or rather flutters unpunish'd about the City, and at Court, enrich'd with the 15 Spoils of our Merchants. Once more therefore, We make it our Request to your Majesty, which it is your Majesty's Interest in the first place to take care of, That no person whatever may dare to justify the wrongs done to your Majesty's Confederates by the contempt of your Royal Edicts. Nor can this Cause be 20 properly referr'd to the Commissioners appointed for deciding Common Controversies on both sides; since in this Case, not only the Rights of Confederates, but your Authority it self, and the Veneration due to the Royal Name, are chiefly in dispute. And it would be a wonder, that Merchants should be more 25 troubled for their Losses, then your Majesty provok'd at In-croachments upon your Honour. Which while you disdain to brook, with the same labour you will demonstrate that you neither repent of your Friendly Edicts in favour of our Repub-injuriis connivisse, neque nostræ postuladoni non tribuisse quod par sit videatur.

Which when we had perus'd, the Demonstrations of your Majesty's Good-will towards us, and the Importance of the Matter concerning which you write, affected us to that degree, that we designed forthwith to send to your Majesty some person, who being furnish'd with ample Instructions 15 from us, might more at large declare to your Majesty our Counsels in that Affair. And tho we have still the same Resolutions, yet hitherto we have not been at leisure to think of a Person proper to be entrusted with those Commands, which tium postularet, non potuimus; quemadmodum jam brevi facturos nos esse speramus. Interea non omittendum diutius existimavimus Majestatem Vestram certiore facere, præsentem rerum in Europa statum haud mediocri nos cura ac

5 cogitatione sollicitos tenuisse: cum ab aliquot jam annis summo cum dolore videamus Protestantium Principes ac civitatum Primores (quosex communi Rcligionis atque saluris vinculo omnem sese mutuò confirmandi ac defendendi inire rationem oporteret) inser se indies magis magisque infirmi 10 animates, quid quisque moliatur, quidve struat, suspectum habere; metum amicis, spem hostibus præbentes, inimicitias atque dissidia potius hac rerum inclinatione portendi, quam firmum invicem animorum consensum, ad presidium mutuum ac defensionem. Atque hæc quidem sollicitudo eo
15 altius animo nostro insedit, quo magis in Majestate Vestra, Regeque Suecice adhuc aliquid residere mutuæ suspicionis videtur; vel saltern non eam existere voluntatum conjuncdonem quam communis nostrum omnium in Orthodoxam religionem amor ac studium flagitaret; dum Majestati vestrx 20 injecta forte aliqua suspicio est, fore ut ab Rege Suecics detrimentum aliquod ditionis vestræ commerciis afferatur; suspicante vicissim Succorum Rege, ne per vos & bellum, quod nunc gerit, difficilius, & contrahendarum societatum ratio impeditior sibi reddatur. Non preterit Majestatem Vestram, 25 pro ea summa prudentia quam adhibere suis omnibus in rebus solet, quantum discriminis Protestantium summæ rei impendeat, si istiusmodi suspensiones inter vos diu versentur; quanto

the weight of the matter requires; tho in a short time we hope to be more at liberty. In the mean while, we thought it not convenient any longer to delay the letting your Majesty understand, that the present Condition of Affairs in Europe has employ'd the greatest part of our Care and Thoughts; while for some years, to our great grief, we have beheld the Protestant Princes and Supream Magistrates of the Reformed Republics, (whom it rather behoves, as being engag'd by the common Tye of Religion and Safety, to combine and study all the ways imaginable conducing to mutual defence) more and more at weakning variance among themselves, and jealous of each other's Actions and Designs; putting their Friends in fear, their Enemies in hope, that the Posture of Affairs bodes rather Enmity and Discord, then a firm agreement of mind to defend and assist each other. And this sollicitude has fix'd it self so much the deeper in our thoughts, in regard there seems to appear some sparkles of jealousy between your Majesty and the King of Sweden; at least, that there is not that conjunction of Affections, which our Love and Good-will in general toward the Orthodox Religion so importunately requires; your Majesty, perhaps, suspecting that the Trade of your Dominions will be prejudiced by the King of Sweden; and on the other side, the King of Sweden being jealous, that by your means the War, which he now wages, is made more difficult, and that you oppose him in his contracting those Alliances which he seeks. Tis not unknown to your Majesty, so eminent for your profound Wisdom, how great the Danger is that threatens the Protestant Religion, should such Suspicions long

5 tegrari inter cos pacem atque concordiam vehementer gaudemus, nam & capita quoque illius foederis a Dominis Ordinibus transmissa ad nos sunt) ita nostras esse partes duximus, nostræque amicitiae quam maxime convenire, ut qui sensus noster his de rebus sit, Majestatem Vestram ne celaremus

10 (prseserdm cum ut ita faciamus, Majestaris Vestræ literis amicissimis tam studiose invitetur; id quod eriam benevolentiae erga nos vestræ pro argumento singulari sane habemus atque amplectimur) vestræque Majestati ante oculos poneremus, quantam nobis necessitatem, qui Protestantium Religioncm

15 sequimur, divina providentia imposuerit colendi inter nos pacem, idque nunc maxime, cum hostes nostri accerrime, si unquam alias, rem gerere, & conjurasse undique in perniciem nostram videntur. Vallcs Alpinas miserorum nuper Incolarum cxdc ac sanguine madentes commemorate nihil attinet;

continue between two such Potent Monarchs; more especially, which God avert, if any symptom of Hostility should break forth. However it be, for our parts, as we have earnestly exhorted the King of Sweden, and the States of the United Provinces to Peace, and moderate Counsels (and are beyond expression glad to behold Peace and Concord renew'd between them; for that the Heads of that League are transmitted to us by their Lordships, the States-General) so we thought it our duty, and chiefly becoming our Friendship, not to conceal 10 from your Majesty what our Sentiments are concerning these matters, (more especially being so affectionately invited so to do by your Majesty's most Friendly Letters; which we look upon, and embrace, as a most singular Testimony of your Good-will toward us) but to lay before your eyes, how great a 15 necessity Divine Providence has impos'd upon us all, that profess the Protestant Religion, to study Peace among our selves, and that chiefly at this time, when our most embittered Enemies seem to have on every side conspir'd our destruction. There's no necessity of calling to remembrance the Valleys of 20 Piemont still besmear'd with the Blood and Slaughter of the miserable Inhabitants; nor Austria, tormented at the same time with the Emperor's Decrees and Proscriptions; nor the impetuous Onsets of the Popish upon the Protestant Switærs, Who can be ignorant, that the Artifices and Machinations of 25 the Spaniards, for some years last past, have fill'd all these places with the confus'd and blended havock of Fire and Sword ? To which unfortunate Pile of Miseries, if once the Redissensio velut cumulus accedat, inter vos præsertim qui nostrarum virium tanta pars estis, & in quibus tantum præsidii ac roboris Protestantium dubiis temporibus comparatum atque repositum est; quod ad opem humanam attinet, pessum ire 5 Protestantium res, & in extreme discrimine atque occasu versari necesse erit. Quod contra, si pax constet inter vos vicinos, cæterosque Orthodoxos Principes, si concordiae fraternæ omni ex parte studeatur, non erit cur, Deo bene juvante, vel vim vel versutiam nostrorum hostium pertimescamus; quorum con-

10 tus nostra Sola consensio vel dissipabit vel frustrabitur. Neque vero dubitamus quin Majestas Vestra ad hanc pacem beatam impertiri suam operam, quam potest maximam, & libens velit & velle desitura non sit. Qua in re ipse etiam communicare consilia cum Majestate vestra atque conjungere paratis-15 simus ero; utpote & veram amicitiam professus, & cui non solum pactam inter nos tam auspiciat⁶ servare pacem deliberatum omnino sit, verum etiam necessitudinem hanc, quæ nunc intercedit, prout Deus facultatem dabit, arctiori vinculo constringere. Idem Deus interim Majestati Vestræ secunda ac formed Brethren should come to add their own Dissentions among themselves, and more especially two such Potent Monarchs, the chiefest part of our strength, and among whom so large a Provision of the Protestants Security and Puissance lies 5 stor'd and hoarded up against Times of Danger, most certainly the Interests of the Protestants must go to ruine, and suffer a total and irrecoverable Eclipse. On the other side, If Peace continue firmly fix'd between two such powerful Neighbours, and the rest of the Orthodox Princes; if we would but make it our 10 main study to abide in Brotherly Concord, there would be no cause, by God's assistance, to fear neither the force nor subtilty of our Enemies; all whose Endeavours, and laborious Toils, our Union alone would be able to dissipate and frustrate. Nor do we question, but that your Majesty, as you are freely willing, so your willingness will be constant in contributing your utmost Assistance to procure this blessed Peace. To which purpose, we shall be most ready to communicate, and join our Counsels with your Majesty; professing a real and cordial Friendship, and not only determin'd inviolably to observe the 20 Amity so auspiciously contracted between us, but as God shall enable us, to bind our present Alliance with a more strict and Fraternal Bond. In the mean time, the same Eternal God grant all things prosperous and successful to your Majesty.

To the most Serene and Illustrious Prince and Lord, the Lord William, Lantgrave of Hess, Prince of Herefeldt, Count in Cataënellebogen, Decia Ligen-hain, Widda and Schaunburg, &c.*

Most Serene Prince,

WE had returned an Answer to your Letters sent us now near a Twelvemonth since, for which we beg your Highnesses pardon, had not many, and those the most Important Affairs of the Republick under 5 our care, constraint us to this unwilling silence. For what Letters could be more grateful to us, then those which are written from a most Religious Prince, descended from Religious Ancestors, in order to settle the Peace of Religion, and the Harmony of the Church P Which Letters attribute to us the same 10 Inclinations, the same æal to promote the Peace of Christendom, not only in your own, but in the Opinion and Judgment of almost all the Christian World, and which we are most highly glad to find so universally ascrib'd to our selves. And how far our Endeavours have been signal formerly through-15 out these Three Kingdoms, and what we have effected by our Exhortations, by our Sufferings, by our Conduct, but chiefly by Divine Assistance, the greatest part of our People both well know, and are sensible of, in a deep tranquility of their Consciences. The same Peace we have wish'd to the Churches of 20 Germany, whose Dissentions have been too sharp, and of too

Ecclesiis, ubi acrius fere, jamque diu nimis dissidetur, pacem optavimus; perque nostrum Duræum hoc idem multos jam annos frustra molientem siquid in rem nostra opera conferre posset ex animo detulimus. In eadem nos etiamnum 5 sententia permanemus; eandem illis Ecclesiis fraternam inter se charitatem optamus: sed quam sit hoc arduum conciliandæ pacis negotium inter ipsos patet, ut præ se feiunt, filios, summo cum dolore satis superque intelligimus. Nam ut utrique Reformat! nempe & Augustani, in unius Ecclesiæ communi
10 onem aliquando coalescant, sperandum vix est; suam utrique sentendam ne possit vel voce vel scriptis defendere, prohiberi sine vi non poterunt; vis autem cum pace Ecclesiastic! consistere non potest: hoc tantum se sinant exorari qui dissentiunt, ut humanius saltem & moderatus velint dissentire, nihiloque 15 minus inter se diligere; utpote non hostes sed fratres in levioribus licet dissentientes, in summa tamen fidei conjunctissimos. Hæc nos inculcando, hæc suadendo nunquam defatigabimur; quod ultra est, humanis neque viribus neque consiliis datur: Deus quod suum solius est suo tempore perficiet.
20 Tu interim, Serenissime Princeps, præclaram in Ecclesias declaracionem animi tui, sempiternum sanè monumentum & majoribus tuis dignum & omnibus posthac principibus imitandum reliquisti. Nos Celsitudini vestræ, pro eo ac merita too long endurance; and by our Agent Dury, for many years in vain endeavouring the same Reconciliation, we have cordially offer'd whatever might conduce on our part to the same purpose. We still persevere in the same Determinations, and 5 wish the same Fraternal Charity one among another, to those Churches. But how difficult a task it is to settle peace among those Sons of Peace, as they give out themselves to be, to our extream grief, we more then abundantly understand. For that the Reformed, and those of the Augustan Confession, should 10 cement together in a Communion of one Church, is hardly ever to be expected: Tis impossible by force to prohibit either from defending their Opinions, whether in private Disputes, or by publick Writings. For Force can never consist with Ecclesiastical Tranquility. This only were to be wish'd, that they 15 who differ, would suffer themselves to be entreated, that they would disagree more civilly and with more moderation; and notwithstanding their Disputes, Love one another; not imbitter'd against each other as Enemies, but as Brethren, dissenting onely in Trifles, though in the Fundamentals of Faith most 20 cordially agreeing. With inculcating and perswading these things, we shall never be wearied; beyond that, there is nothing allow'd to human Force or Counsels: God will accomplish his own work in his own time. In the mean while, you, most Serene Prince, have left behind ye a noble testimony of 25 your Affection to the Churches, an eternal Monument becoming the Vertue of your Ancestors, and an Exemplar worthy to be follow'd by all Princes. It only then remains for us to implore the Merciful and Great God to Crown your Highness

Most Serene Prince,

WE have bin abundantly satisfi'd of your Affection to us, as well at other times, as when you kindly entertain'd our Ambassador in his Journey to the Duke of Muscovy, for some days together making a 10 stop in your Territories: Now we are no less confident that your Highness will give us no less obliging Testimonies of your Justice and Equity, as well out of your own Good nature, as at our request. For we are given to understand, That one John Johnson, a Scotchman, and Master of a certain Ship of 15 yours, having faithfully discharg'd his Duty for 7 years together in the Service of your Highness, as to your Highness is well known, at length deliver'd the said Ship, call'd the Whale, in the Mouth of the River, according as the Custome is, to one of your Pilots, by him to be carried safe into Harbour. But it so 20 fell out, that the Pilot being ignorant of his Duty, though frequently Warned and Admonish'd by the said Johnson, as he has prov'd by several Witnesses, the said Ship ran aground and split to pieces, not through any fault of the Master, but through culpa, sed Gubernatoris vel imperitia vel pervicacia fractam esse navem nemini non liquet. Quod cum ita sit, a Celsitudine vestra majorem in modum petimus, ut supradicto Joanni Magistro neque illud naufragium imputare, neque cum id-5 circo stipendio debito velit privare; cujus spe sola, jam altero naufragio bonis omnibus amissis, se utcunque in extrema inopia sustinet & solatur.

labour or duty of ours, as far as God enables us, that some speedy remedy may be appli'd to this growing Mischief, and those Calamities averted, which of necessity this War will bring upon the Common Cause of Religion; more especially at this 5 time, now that our Adversaries unite their Forces and pernicious Counsels against the Profession and Professors of the Orthodox Faith. These and some other Considerations of great importance to the Benefit and Publick Interests of both Nations, have induc'd us to send this Gentleman to your Majesty 10 under the Character of our Extraordinary Envoy. Whom we therefore desire your Majesty kindly to receive, and to give Credit to him in all things which he shall have to impart to your Majesty in our Name; as being a Person in whose Fidelity and Prudence we very much confide. We also farther request, 15 That your Majesty will be pleas'd fully to assure your self of our Good-will and most undoubted æeal, as well toward your Majesty, as for the Prosperity of your Affairs. Of which we shall be readily prepar'd with all imaginable willingness of mind to give unquestionable Testimonies upon all occasions.

[The President of the Council] to The most excellent Count de Bordeaux, Ambassador Extraordinary of the most serene French King.

Most excellent Sir,

CERTAIN merchants of Londonderry, Samuel Dawson, John Campsey and John Nevins, have informed the Lord Protector by petition, that after they learned of the renewed alliance between the Kingdom of France and 5 this Republic, in 1655, they loaded a ship called (for sake of a better omen than the event justified) The Speedwell; John Ker being master; with certain goods to be conveyed from the port of Derry to Bordeaux. That ship having there sold her cargo and reladen with wine and other merchandise, was on 10 the return voyage on the 24th November, 1655, captured by two armed vessels of Brest, one commanded by Adrian Vindmian Swart, the other by James Jonson, and by them taken into the port of Brest, where it was judged a rightful priæe and sold at auction, when it was valued by just estimate at £1100 (be-15 sides an additional loss of £1000). To recover this they have tried by all honorable means with the officials of that place, but so far in vain. They according to custom have sued in the Admiralty Court, where those who captured the ship were cited in judgment and given opportunity to defend the fair-20 ness of the capture. This was published and proclaimed according to law, and by the public officials of the court duly communicated to the French ambassador. When none ap-justa valuisset, extra damnum mille librarum præterea datum:

 de quibus recuperandis omni se honesta ratione cum illius loci præfectis egisse; id sibi hactenus frustra fuisse: sc etiam moribus cdictum curiæ maritime consecutos esse, quo citarentur in 5 iudicium qui navem illam cepissent, autem jure esse captam defendere statuissent. Edictum hoc & recte Itque ordine promulgatum & redditum: idque ab ejusdem curiæ ministris publicis mature Domino Legato Gallic significatum esse: cum nemo contra comparuisset, testes aliquot juratos de re judi-10 canda interrogatos esse. Qux res cum a Petitoribus ad Celsi-tudinem Domini Protectoris delata sit, ab eoque cognidoni atque sentential Concilii mandata, cumque de facto ex testimoniis jurads libello supplici adjunctis abunde constet, Peti-toribusque liberum commercium Burdcgacce sit datum, mer-15 cesque illic emptac atque impositæ vi sint in reditu ereptæ & occupatæ contra foederis fidem, ut supra demonstratum est, quis non videt hoc esse æquissimum, aut navem cum onere Pedtoribus resdtui, aut de damno cum captæ navis turn juris persequendi plene satisfied? Peto igitur ab Excelllentia vcstra 20 atque etiam Serenissimi Domini Protectoris nomine peto omnem velit operam dare, omnique operæ autoritatem etiam sui muneris adjungere ut primo quoque tempore horum al-terutrum fiat. Cum neque in causa æquiore laborare possit, neque mihi gratiore; qui eo diligendus curasse quod man-25 datum mihi est videbor, quo Excellentia vestra maturius quod suum est præstiterit.

peared, sworn statements were taken concerning the case to be tried. Since this affair was reported to the Lord Protector by the petitioners, and by him turned over to the Council for deliberation and decision, and since the facts stand clear from 5 the affidavits accompanying the petition; free right of trade was granted the petitioners at Bordeaux, goods there bought and laden were by force seiæd and taken on the return voyage, contrary to the treaty, as was shown above; who does not see that it were most just, either to restore ship and cargo to the 10 petitioners, or to satisfy them fully with the value of the loss and costs of action. I therefore beg of your Excellency, and also in the name of the Lord Protector, that you adding the authority of your position to every effort will see to it that one of these things be accomplished at an early moment. You canis not exert yourself in a juster cause, nor in one more acceptable to me, for I shall seem the more seasonably to perform my duty the more seasonably your excellency distinguishes himself in his office.

Most Serene Prince, our most dear Friend and Confederate,

BY our last Letters to your Highness, either already or shortly to be deliver'd by our Ambassador William Jepson, we have imparted the substance of our Embassy to your Highness; Which we could not do without some mention 5 of your great Vertues, and demonstration of our own Good will and Affection. Nevertheless, That we may not seem too superficially to have glided over your transcending deservings of the Protestant Interests; we thought it proper to resume the same subject, and pay our Respect and Veneration, not more 10 willingly, or with a greater fervency of Mind, but somewhat more at large, to your Highness. And truly most deservedly, when daily Information reaches our ears, That your Faith and Conscience, by all manner of Artifices Tempted and Assail'd, by all manner of Arts and Devices Solicited, yet cannot be 15 shaken, or by any Violence be rent from your Friendship and labcfactari tamen, & ab amicitia fortissimi Regis ac socii, nullo modo posse dimoveri: idque cum eo loco Suecorum res nunc sint, ut in retinenda eorum societate Celsitudinem vestram Reformats potius Religionis causa communi, quam suis com-5 modis duci manifestum sit: cumque hostibus vel occultis vel jam prope imminetibus cincta undique & pene obsessa sit, copiae ut sint validae non tamen sint maximae, ea tamen firmitate animi ac robore esse, eo consilio ac virtute imperatoria, ut una vestra voluntate niti totus rei summa ac moles, bellique

10 hujus maximi exitus pendere videatur. Quapropter nihil est quod dubitet Celsitudo vestra quin de amicitia nostra summoque studio polliceri omnia sibi possit; qui vel ipsi ab omni laude derelicti nobis videremur, si praeclara ista fide atque constantia, caeterisque vestris laudibus minus delectaremur, aut 15 vobisipsis communi Religionis nomine minus deberemus. Quod si rebus ab ornatissimo Viro Joanne Friderico Schlezer Consiliario & Oratore apud nos vestro propositis respondere, pro eo ac studemus, hactenus non potuimus (quanquam is omni assiduitate ac diligentia id agit atque contendit) conditioni rerum nostrarum hoc velit imputare Celsitudo vestra rogamus; sibi que imprimis persuadere nihil nobis esse antiquius aut optatius, quam ut vestris rationibus cum Religionis

Alliance with a most Magnanimous Prince and your Confederate: And this, when the Affairs of the Swedes are now reduc'd to that condition, that in adhering to their Alliance, 'tis manifest that your Highness rather consults the common 5 Cause of the Reformed Religion, then your own Advantage. And when your Highness is almost surrounded and besieg'd by Enemies, either privately lurking, or almost at your Gates; yet such is your Constancy and Resolution of Mind, such your Conduct and Prowess becoming a great General, that the bur-10 then and massy bulk of the whole Affair, and the event of this important War, seems to rest and depend upon your sole determination. Wherefore your Highness has no reason to question but that you may rely upon our Friendship and unfeigned Affection; who should think our selves worthy to be forsaken 15 of all men's Good word, should we seem careless in the least of your unblemish'd Fidelity, your Constancy, and the rest of your applauded Vertues, or should we pay less respect to your Highness upon the common score of Religion. As to those matters propounded by the most Accomplish'd John Frederic 20 Schlever, your Counsellor and Agent here residing, if hitherto we could not return an Answer, such as we desir'd to do, though with all assiduity and diligence labour'd by your Agent; we intreat your Highness to impute it to the present condition of our Affairs, and to be assur'd, that there is nothing which we 25 account more sacred, or more earnestly desire, then to be serviceable and assisting to your Interests, so bound up with the Cause of Religion. In the mean time we beseech the God of causa tam conjunctis usui quam plurimum atque subsidio esse possimus. Interim tarn clara virtus ac foititudo ne ullo

- 5 Your Highness's most Affectionate, Oliver Protector of the Commonwealth of England, &c.

[102.p.270:M.112.(v,376-)]

To the most Excellent Lord, M. de Bourdeaux, Extraordinary Ambassador from the most Serene King of France.

Most Excellent Lord,

- LUCAS Lucie Merchant of London, has made his Complaint to the most Serene Lord Protector, concerning a certain Ship of his, call'd the Mary; which in her 10 Voyage from Ireland to Bayonne, being driven by Tempest into the Port of St. John de Luz, was there detain'd by vertue of an Arrest, at the Suit of one Martin de Lazan; nor could she be discharg'd till the Merchants had given security to stand a Tryal for the Property of the said Ship and Lading. For Mar-
15 tin pretended to have a great Sum of Money owing to him by the Parlament for several Goods of his which in the year 1642. were Seia'd by Authority of Parlament, in a certain Ship call'd the Santa Clara. But it is manifest, That Martin was not the Owner of the said Goods, onely that he Prosecuted the claim 20 of the true Owners Richald and Iriat, together with his Partner, whose name was Antonio Fernandez; and that upon the said Martin and Antonio's falling out among themselves, the ibi retenta & occupata est actione Martini cujusdam De Lazon; nee restituta donec a procuratoribus Mercatoribus illius satisfaceretur, se de illa navi atque onere cum Martino lege expecturos. Tulit enim præ se Martinus deberi sibi grandem a Par-

5 lamento Angliæ pecuniam, mercium quarundam suarum nomine quæ in navi quadam Sancta Clara anno 1642. Parlamenti Auctoritate sunt retentæ. Verum cum satis constaret, Martinum illum earum mercium verum dominum non esse, sed cum Antonio quodam Fernandæ verorum dominorum 10 Richaldi & Iriati jus persequi, dissidentibusque inter se Martinio & Antonio, decreverit Parlamentum uti merces iliac retinerentur quoad lege esset deciduum utri eorum reddendæ essent, paratusque fuerit semper Antonius lege agere; contra, neque Martinus neque pro eo quisque in judicio hactenus cornis is paruerit, quæ omnia ex Lucæ Petitoris libellis libello supplici annexis liquent; iniquissimum sane est, ut is, qui jus suum suppositum cum Antonio collega suo de alienis bonis experiri apud nos recusat, cogeret nostros homines verosque dominos de suis bonis in aliena ditione contenderer Quin idem 20 acquitati vestræ atque prudentiæ videatur, non dubitat Serenissimus Dominus Protector; à quo sum jussus hanc Lucæ Lucæ causam æquissimam Excellentia Vestre singularem in modum commendare: ne Martino, qui jus alienum apud nos persequi negligit, eo obtentu aliis eripiendi jus suum apud vos 25 potestas detur.

Excellentie Vestre Studiosissimus.

Westmonasterio. die Octob. An. Dom. 1657.

Parlament Decreed that the said Goods should be stop'd till the Law should decide to which of the two they were to be restor'd. Upon this, Antony was desirous that the Action should proceed; on the other side, neither Martin, nor any body for 5 him, has hitherto appear'd in Court: All which is evidently apparent by Lucas's Petition hereto annex'd. So that it seems most unreasonable, That he who refus'd to try his pretended Tide with Antonio, to other mens Goods, in our own Courts, should compel our People and the true Owners to go to Law 10 for their own in a Foreign Dominion. And that the same is apparent to your Excellency's Equity and Prudence, the most Serene Lord Protector makes no question; by whom I am therefore commanded in a particular manner to recommend this fair and honest Cause of Lucas Lucy to your Excellency's 15 consideration; to the end that Martin, who neglects to try his pretended Right here, may not under that pretence have an opportunity in the French Dominions to deprive others of their Rightful claims.

Most Serene Dufke and Senate, our dearest friends,

SO numerous are the Tydings brought us of your fortunate Successes against the Turks, that there is nothing wherein we have more frequent occasion to employ our Pens, then in Congratulating your Serenities for some signal 5 Victory. For this so recently obtain'd, we give ye Joy, as being not onely most Auspicious and Seasonable to your Republick, but which is more Glorious, so greatly tending to the Deliverance of all the Christians groaning under Turkish Servitude. More particularly we recommend to your Serenity and the 10 Senate Thomas Galily, formerly Master of the Ship call'd the Relief, who for these Five years together has bin a Slave; tho this be not the first time we have interceded in his behalf; yet now we do it the more freely, as in a time of more then ordinary Exultation. He, having receiv'd your Commands to serve

*Most Serene and potent King, most invincible friend and 10 YOUR Majesty's letter, dated from camp in æealand, February 21, has brought us all at once many reasons why, for our own sake, and that of the whole Christian Commoweth, we should be affected by no ordinary joy.

First, because the King of Danemark, made your enemy, I believe, not by his own will or interests, but by the arts of common foes, has been by your sudden advent into the heart of his 15 kingdom, and without much bloodshed, so reduced that he has at last, judged peace (as was the fact) more advantageous to him than the war undertaken against you. Next, since he suscepto tandem judicaverit: deinde cum is eam nulla se ratione posse consequi existeret, quam si delata sibi jamdiu ad conciliandam pacem nostra opera uteretur, quod Majestas Vestra solis Internuntii nostri literis exorata, tam 5 facili pacis concessione ostenderit, quantum nostra amicitia atque gratia interposita apud se valeret: meumque imprimis in hoc turn pio negotio officium esse voluit, ut pacis tam salutaris Protestantium rebus, uti spero, mox futura ipse possim 10 Cum enim Religionis hostes conjunctas opes vestras alio pacto frangere se posse desperarent, quam si vos inter vos commississent, habebunt nunc, profecto quod pertimescant, ne armorum animorumque, ut spero, vestrorum hæc inopinata conjunctio ipsis belli hujus conflatoribus in perniciem vertat. Tu felicitatem in rebus tuis gestis victoriarumque cursu contra Regem nunc socium hostes Ecclesiæ nuper admirati sunt, eandem thought he could in no way sooner obtain that peace than by using our help, long ago offered him for a conciliation, because Your Majesty moved merely by the letters of our envoy, showed by a grant of peace so easy, how powerful with you 5 was our friendship and interposed good will, and chose that it should be my office in particular, in this pious transaction, to be myself nearly the sole adviser and in chief the author of a peace which is to be, as I hope, speedily so salutary to the interests of Protestants. For whereas the enemies of Religion de-10 spaired of being able to break your combined strength otherwise than by engaging you against each other, they will now have cause, as I hope, thoroughly to fear that this unlooked-for conjunction of your arms and hearts will turn into destruction for themselves, the kindlers of this war. Do you, mean-is while, bravest King, go on and prosper in your conspicuous valor, and make the Church's enemies feel the same good fortune of yours they lately admired in your deeds in the course of victories over the king now your ally, now by God's help, in their own crushing overthrow.

10 From our Court at Westminster, April 7. 1658.

To the most Serene and Potent Prince Lewis, King of France.

Most Serene and Potent King, and most August Friend and Confederate,

YOUR Majesty may call to mind, that at the same time, when the renewing the League between us was in agitation, and no less auspiciously concluded, as the many Advantages from thence accrewing to both Nations, and the 15 many Annoyances thence attending the Common Enemy, sufficiently testify, those dreadful Butcheries befel the Piedmontois, and that we recommended with great fervency of mind and compassion, their Cause on all sides forsaken and afflicted, to your Commiseration and Protection. Nor do we believe, 20 that your Majesty, of your self, was wanting in a Duty so pious, that we may not say, beseeeming Common humanity, as far as apud Duccm Sabaudia valere debuit vel auctoritate vel gratia: nos certe aliique multi Principes ac Civitates, Legationibus, Literis, Precibus interpositis, non defuimus. Post cruentissimam utriusque sexus omnis ætatis trucidationem, pax tandem 5 data est, vel potius inducta pads nomine hostilitas quædam tectior: conditiones pacis vestro in oppido Pinarolii sunt latæ; duræ quidem iliac, sed quibus miseri atque inopes dira omnia atque immania perpassi facile acquiescerent, modo iis, dura: & iniquæ ut sint, staretur; non statur; sed enim earum quoque

10 singularum falsa interpretatione variisque diverticulis fides eluditur ac violatur; antiquis sedibus multi dejiciuntur, religio patria multis interdicitur, tributa nova exiguntur, arx nova cervicibus imponitur, unde milites crebro erumpentes obvios quosque vel diripiunt vel trucidant: adhæc nuper novæ
15 copiæ clanculum contra cos parantur; quique inter cos Romanam Religionem colunt, migrare ad tempus jubentur; ut omnia nunc rursus videantur ad illorum internecionem miserimorum spectare, quos ilia prior laniena Reliquos fecit. Quod ego per dextram tuam, Rex Christianissimc, quæ foedus 20 nobiscum & amicitiam percussit, obsecro atque obtestor, per illud Christianismi Tituli decus sanctissimum, fieri ne siveris: nee tantam sæviendi licentiam non dico principi cuiquam

your Authority, and the Veneration due to your Person, could prevail with the Duke of Savoy. Certain we are, that neither our selves, nor many other Princes and Cities were wanting in our Performances, by the Interposition of Embassies, Letters, 5 and Intreaties. After a most bloody Butchery of both Sexes, and all Ages, at length Peace was granted, or rather a certain Clandestine Hostility cover'd over with the name of Peace. The Conditions of Peace were agreed in your Town of Pignerol; severe and hard; but such, as those miserable and indigent 10 Creatures, after they had suffer'd all that could be endur'd that was oppressive and barbarous, would have been glad of, had they been but observ'd, as hard and unjust as they were. But by false Constructions, and various Evasions, the Assurances of all these Articles are eluded and violated: Many are 15 thrust out from their ancient Abodes; many are forbid the Exercise of their Religion; new Tributes are exacted; a new Citadel is impos'd upon them; from whence the Soldiers frequently making Excursions, either plunder or murder all they meet. Add to all this, That new Levies are privately preparing 20 against 'em; and all that embrace the Protestant Religion are commanded to depart by a prefix'd day; so that all things seem to threaten the utter extermination of those deplorable Wretches, whom the former Massaker spar'd. Which I most earnestly beseech and conjure ye, Most Christian King, by that 25 RIGHT HAND, which sign'd the League and Friendship between us, by that same goodly Ornament of your Title of MOST CHRISTIAN, by no means to suffer; nor to permit such liberty of Rage and Fury uncontroul'd, we will not say,

(neque enim in ullum Principem, multo minus in ætatem illius principis tencram, aut in muliebricæ matris animum tanta sævitia cadere potest) sed sacerrimis illis sicariis ne permiseris; qui cum Christi Servatoris nostri servos atque 5 imitatores sese profiteantur, qui venit in hunc mundum ut peccatores servaret, ejus misericordissimo nomine atque institutis ad innocendum crudelissimas cædes abutuntur: eripe qui potes, quique in tanto fasdgio dignus es posse, tot supplices tuos homicidarum ex manibus, qui cruore nuper ebrii, san-10 guinem rursus sident; suæque invidiam crudelitatis in Principes derivare consultissimum sibi ducunt. Tu verò nec titulos tuos aut Regni fines ista invidia, nec Evangelium Christi pacatissimum ista crudelitate foedari te regnante patiaris. Memineris hos ipsos avi tui HENRICI Protestantibus amicissimi 15 dedidisse fuisse; cum Diguerius per ea loca, qua etiam commodissimus in Italiam transitus est, Sabaudum trans Alfcs cedentem victor est insecutus: dedidoni illius instrumentum in actis regni vestri publicis etiamnum extat; in quo exceptum atque cautum inter alia est, Ne cui postea Convallenses tra-20 derentur, nisi iisdem condidonibus quibus cos avus tuus invictissimus in fidem recepit. Hanc fidem nunc implorant, avitarn abs te Nepote Supplices requirunt: tui esse, quim cujus nunc sunt, vel permutadone aliqua, si fieri possit, malint in any Prince, (for certainly such barbarous Severity could never enter the breast of any Prince, much less so tender in years, nor into the female thoughts of his Mother) but in those sanctifi'd Cut-throats, who professing themselves to be the 5 Servants and Disciples of our Saviour Christ, who came into this World to save Sinners, abuse his meek and peaceful Name and Precepts to the most cruel slaughter of the Innocent. Rescue you that are able, in your towring Station worthy to be able, rescue so many Suppliants prostrate at your feet, from the 10 hands of Ruffians, who lately drunk with Blood, again thirst after it, and think it their safest way to throw the Odium of their Cruelty upon Princes. But as for you, great Prince, suffer not, while you reign, your Titles, nor the Confines of your Kingdom, to be contaminated with this same Heaven-offend-15 ing Scandal, nor the peaceful Gospel of Christ to be defil'd with such abominable Cruelty. Remember that they submitted themselves to your Grandfather Henry, most friendly to the Protestants, when the Victorious Lesdtguieres pursu'd the retreating Savoyard o're the Alpes. There is also an Instrument 20 of that Submission register'd among the Publick Acts of your Kingdom, wherein it is excepted and provided among other things, That from that time forward the Picmontois should not be deliver'd over into the Power of any Ruler, but upon the same Conditions upon which your Invincible Grandfather re-25 ceiv'd them into his Protection. This Protection of your Grandfather, these Suppliants now implore from you as Grandchild. Tis your Majesty's part, to whom those People now belong, to give 'em that protection which they have chosen, by some ex-atque optarint: id si non licet, patrocínio saltern, miseratione atque perfugio. Sunt & rationes regni quæ hortari possint ut Convallenses ad te confugientes ne rejicias; sed nolim te, Rex tantus cum sis, aliis rationibus ad defensionem calamitosorum 5 quam fide a majoribus data, pietate, regiaque animi benignitate ac magnitudine permoveri. Ita pulcherrimi facti laus atque gloria illibata atque integra tua erit, & ipse Patrem misericordiæ ejusque filium Christum Regem, cujus nomen atque doctrinam ab immanitate nefaria vindicaveris, eo magis 10 faventem tibi atque propitium per omnem vitam experieris.

Deus Opt. Max. ad gloriam suam, tot innocentissimorum hominum Christianorum tutandam salutem, vestrumque ve-rum decus Majestati Vestra hanc mentem injiciat.

change of Habitation, if they desire it, and it may be done: Or if that be a Labour too difficult, at least to succour 'em with your Patronage, your Commiseration, and your admittance into Sanctuary. And there are some Reasons of State to encour-5 age your Majesty not to refuse the Picmontois a safe Asylum in your Kingdom: But I am unwilling that you, so great King, should be induc'd to the defence and succour of the miserable by any other Arguments then those of your Ancestor's pledg'd Faith, your own Piety, Royal Benignity and Magnanimity.
10 Thus the Immaculate and intire Glory of a most Egregious Act will be your own, and you will find the Father of Mercy, and his Son, King Christ, whose Name and Doctrine you have vindicated from nefarious Inhumanity, so much the more favourable and propitious to your Majesty, all your days. The 15 God of Mercy and Power infuse into your Majesty's Heart a Resolution to defend and save so many Innocent Christians, and maintain your own Honour.

To the Evangelick Cities of the Switzers.Illustrious and most Noble Lords, our dearest Friends,

HOW heavy and intolerable the Sufferings of the Pierrnontois, your most afflicted Neighbours, have bin, and how unmercifully they have been dealt with by their own Prince, for the sake of their Religion, by reason 5 of the Felness of the Cruelties, we almost tremble to remember, and thought it superfluous to put you in mind of those things, which are much better known to your Lordships. We have also seen Copies of the Letters, which your Embassadors, Promoters and Witnesses of the Peace, concluded at Pignerol, 10 wrote to the Duke of Savoy, and the President of his Council at Turin; wherein they set forth, and make it out, that all the Conditions of the said Peace are broken, and were rather a Snare then a Security to those miserable People. Which Violation continu'd from the Conclusion of the Peace to this very 15 moment, and still growing more heavy every day then other: unless they patiently endure, unless they lay themselves down to be traml'd under foot, plash'd like Mortar, or abjure their Religion, the same Calamities, the same Slaughters, hang over their Heads, which three years since, made such a dreadful 20 havock of diem, their Wives and Children; and which, if it must be undergone once more, will certainly prove the utter extirpation of their whole Race. What shall such miserable Creatures do? in whose behalf no Intercession will avail, to whom no breathing time is allow'd, nor any certain place of lum adhuc certum perfugium patuit; res est cum feris aut cum furiis, quibus priorum cædium recordatio nullam pcenitendam, aut suorum civium miserationem, nullum sensum humanitatis aut fundendi sanguinis sadetatem attulit. Hæc 5 ferenda plane non sunt, sive fratres nostros Convallenscs Orthodoxcs Religionis cultores antiquissimos, sive ipsam Religionem salvam volumus. Et nos quidem locorum intervallo plus nimio disjuncti, quod opis aut facultatis nostræ fuit & præstidimus ex animo, & præstare non desinemus. Vos qui 10 non modo fratrum cruciabus ac penè clamoribus, verum etiam eorumdem furori hostium proximi estis, prospicite per Deum immortalem idque mature quid vestrarum nunc partium sit; quid auxilii, quid præsidii vicinis ac fratribus alioqui mox perituris ferre possids ac debeatis, prudendam vestram

Refuge. They have to do with Wild Beasts, or Furies rather, upon whom the remembrance of their former Murders has wrought no compassion upon their Countrymen, no sense of humanity, nor satiated their ravenous hunger after blood. Most 5 certainly these things are not to be endur'd, if we desire the safety of our Brethren the Piemontois, most Ancient Professors of the Orthodox Faith, or the Welfare of our Religion it self. As to our selves, so far remote, we have not been wanting to assist 'em as far as in us lay, nor shall we cease our future 10 Aid. But you, who not only lie so near adjoining, as to behold the Butcheries, and hear the Outcries and Shrieks of the Distressed, but are also next expos'd to the fury of the same Enemies; consider for the sake of the Immortal God, and that in time, what it behoves ye now to do: Consult your Prudence, 15 your Piety, and your Fortitude, what succour, what relief and safeguard you are able, and are bound to afford your Neighbours and Brediren, who must else undoubtedly and speedily perish. Certainly the same Religion is the cause, why the same Enemies seek also your Perdition; why, at the same time the 20 last year, they meditated your ruin, by Intestine Broiles among your selves. It seems to be only in your power, next under God, to prevent the Extirpation of this most Ancient Scion of the Purer Religion, in these remainders of the Primitive Believers; whose preservation, now reduc'd to the very brink of utter 25 ruin, if you neglect, beware that the next Turn be not your own. These Admonitions, while we give ye freely, and out of Brotherly love, we are not quite as yet cast down: For what lies only in our power so far distant, as we have hitherto, so shall

To his Eminency Cardinal Maæarin.Most Eminent Lord,

THE late most Grievous Cruelties, and most Bloody Slaughters perpetrated upon the Inhabitants of the Valleys of Piemont, within the Duke of Savoy's Dominions, occasion'd the writing of the inclos'd Letters to his Majesty, and these other to your Eminency. And as we make no doubt but that such Tyranny, Inhumanities, so rigorously inflicted upon harmless and indigent People, are highly displeasing and offensive to the most Serene King; so we readily persuade our selves, that what we request from his Majesty in 10 behalf of those unfortunate Creatures, your Eminency will employ your endeavour, and your favour to obtain, as an accumulation to our Intercessions. Seeing there is nothing which has acquir'd more good-will and affection to the French Nation, among all the Neighbouring Professors of the Reformed Religion, then that Liberty and those Privileges, which by pub-

Religionis cultores majorem conciliaverit, quam libertas ilia ac privilegia quæ ex edictis suis atque actis publicis permissa Protestantibus atque concessa sunt. Et hæc quidem Respublica cum propter alias turn hanc potissimum ob causam Gallorum amicitiam ac necessitudinem majorem in modum expetivit. De qua constituenda jamdiu cum Legato Regio apud nos agitur ejusque tractatio jam pene ad exitum perducta est. Quid! quod etiam singularis benignitas Eminentia Vestra, ac moderatio, quam in summis Regni rebus gerendis erga Protestantes Gallia semper testata est, a prudentia vestra & magnitudine animi ut hoc sperem atque expectem, facit; qua ex re & fundamenta arctioris etiam necessitudinis inter hanc Rempublicam, Regnumque Gallicum Eminentia vestra jecerit, meque sibi privatim ad officia omnia humanitatis ac benevolentiae vicissim reddenda obligaverit: adeoque hoc velim Eminentia vestra sibi persuassimum habeat.

Emincntice Vestra Studiosissimus.

lick Acts and Edicts are granted in that Kingdom to the Protestants. And this among others was one main Reason, why this Republick so ardently desir'd the Friendship and Alliance of the French People. For the selling of which we are now 5 treating with the King's Embassador, and have made those progresses, that the Treaty is almost brought to a conclusion. Besides that, your Eminency's singular Benignity and Moderation, which in the management of the most Important Affairs of the Kingdom, you have always testifi'd to the Protestants of 10 France, encourages us to expect what we promise to our selves from your Prudence and Generosity; whereby you will not only lay the foundations of a stricter Alliance between this Republick and the Kingdom of France, but oblige us in particular to Returns of all good Offices of Civility and Kindness: And of 15 this we desire your Eminency to rest assur'd.

Most Serene and Potent Prince, our most August Friend and Confederate,

SO soon as the News was brought us, That your Majesty was arriv'd in your Camp, and was sate down with so considerable an Army before Dun\ir\}, that infamous nest of Pyrates, and Place of Refuge for Sea-Robbers, we were 5 greatly over-joy'd, in certain assurance, that in a short time now, with God's Assistance, the Seas will be more open and less infested by those Plundering Rovers; and that your Majesty, by your Military Prowess, will now take speedy Vengeance of the Spanish Frauds; by whom one Captain was by 10 Gold corrupted to the Betraying of Hesden; another Treacherously Surpriz'd at Ostend. We therefore send the most Noble, Thomas Viscount Falconbridge, our Son-in-Law, to Congratulate your Majesty's arrival in your Camp so near us, and that your Majesty may understand from his own lips, with what 15 Affection we labour the Prosperity of your Atchievemants, not onely with our united Forces, but with our cordial Prayers, that God would long preserve your Majesty, and perpetuate our establish'd Friendship, to the common Good of the Christian world.

IN regard your Highness in all your Letters, has ever signifi'd your Extraordinary Affection toward us, we are not a little griev'd, that either it should be so obscurely imparted to your Governors and Ministers, or by them so ill interpreted, 5 that we can reap no benefit or sign of it, in your Port of Leghorn, where your Friendship toward us ought to be most clearly and truly understood: Rather, That we should find the Minds of your Subjects daily more averse and hostile in their demeanor toward us. For how unkindly our Fleet was lately 10 treated at Leghorn, how little accommodated with necessary Supplies, in what a Hostile manner twice constraint to depart the Harbour, we are sufficiently given to understand as well from undoubted Witnesses upon the Place, as from our Admiral himself, to whose Relation we cannot but give Credit, 15 when we have thought him worthy to Command our Fleet. Upon his first arrival in January, after he had caus'd our Letters to be deliver'd to your Highness, and all Offices of Civility had pass'd between our People and yours; when he desir'd the Accommodation of Porto Ferraro; answer was made, it could 20 not be granted, least the King of Spain, that is to say, our Enemy should be Offended. this Subject. Nor were they wanting in their duty; but the same Prudence which they were wont to shew in other things, the same Wisdom and Sedulity they made known in this Affair. But such was the Perfidiousness of our wicked and restless Countrey-men at home, who being often receiv'd into our Protection, ceas'd not however to machinate new disturbances, and to resume their formerly often frustrated and dissipated Conspiracies with our Enemies the Spaniards, that being altogether taken up with the preservation of our selves from surrounding dangers, we could not bend our whole care and our entire Forces, as we wish'd we could have done, to defend the common Cause of Religion. Nevertheless what lay in our power, we have already æalously performed; and whatever for the future may conduce to your Majesty's Interests, we shall not onely shew our selves willing, but industrious to carry on, in union with your Majesty, upon all occasions, In the mean time, we most gladly Congratulate your Majesty's Victories most Prudently and Couragiously atchiev'd, and in our daily Prayers implore Almighty God long to continue to your Majesty a steady course of Conquest and Felicity, to the Glory of his Name.

Upon this News, Antony and Manuel, believing he had bin Kill'd, presently look'd upon the 10 Goods as their own, and still detain 'em in their hands refusing to come to any Account; covering this Fraud of theirs with a Sequestration of English Goods that soon after ensu'd. So that he was forc'd the last year, in the middle of Winter, to return to Portugal and demand his Goods, but all in vain, For that 15 the said John and Anthony could by no fair means be perswaded, either to deliver the said Goods, or to come to any Account; and which is more to be admir'd, justifi'd their private detention of the Goods, by the Publick Attainder. Which though in it self not unjust, yet seeing it is evident that the Merchants of Tamira make an ill use of your Publick Edict to justify their own private Couæenage, we make it our earnest request to your Majesty, that according to your wonted Clemency you would rather refer to the Conservator, being the proper Judge in these Cases, the Cause of this poor Man, Afflicted by many Casualties, and reduc'd to utmost Poverty; to the end he may recover the Remainder of his Fortunes from the Faithless Partnership of those People. Which, when you rightly understand the business, we make no question, but will be no less pleasing to your Majesty, to see done, then to our selves.

Written in the Name of RICHARD Protector.

[124.p.319:M.133 bis.(v,570.)]

Richard Protector of the Commonwealth of England, &c. To the most Serene and Potent Prince, Lewis King of France.

Most Serene and Potent King, our Friend and Confederate.

SO soon as our most Serene Father, Oliver Protector of the Commonwealth of England, by the Will of God so ordaining, departed this Life, upon the Third of September, we being Lawfully declar'd his Successor in the Supreme Magistracy, tho in the Extremity of Tears and sadness, could do no less, then with the first Opportunity by these our Letters make known a Matter of this Concernment to your Majesty; by whom, as you have bin a most Cordial Friend to our Father and this Republick, we are Confident, the Mourn-10 ful and unexpected Tydings will be as sorrowfully received. Our business now, is to request your Majesty, that you would have such an Opinion of us, as of one who has determin'd nothing more Religiously and constantly then to observe the Friendship and Confedracy, contracted between your Majesty 15 and our Renowned Father; and with the same Zeal and Goodwill to confirm and Establish the Leagues by him Concluded, que fcedera, consilia, radones vobiscum institutas eodem studio ac benevolentia observare ratasque habere: Legatum proinde apud vos nostrum eadem qua prius potestate praeditum volo: quicquid id nostro nomine vobiscum egerit, ita accipere

5 what he transacts in our Name, as if it had bin done by our selves. In the mean time we wish your Majesty all Prosperity.

From our Court at White-Hall, Septemb. 5.1658.

To the most Eminent Lord, Cardinal Mazarine.

10 THO nothing could fall out more bitter and grievous to us, then to write the Mournful News of our most Serene and most Renowned Father's Death; nevertheless, in regard we cannot be ignorant of the high Esteem which he had for your Eminency, and the great Value which you had for him; nor have any reason to doubt, but that your Eminency, upon whose care the Prosperity of France depends, will no less 15 bewail the loss of your constant Friend, and most United Confederate, we thought it of great moment, by these our Letters to make known this Accident so deeply to be lamented, as well to your Eminency as to the King; and to assure your Eminency, which is but reason, that we shall most Religiously observe all 20 those things which our Father of most Serene Memory was bound by the League to see confirm'd and ratify'd: and shall make it our business, that in the midst of your mourning for a Friend so Faithful and Flourishing in all Vertuous Applause, there may be nothing wanting to preserve the Faith of our 25 Confederacy. For the Conservation of which on your part also, natter for us, to be Imitators of our Fathers Vertues, unless we should observe and endeavour to hold the same Confederacies which he by his prowess acquired, and out of his singular judgment thought most worthy to be embrac'd and observed; your Majesty has no 10 reason to doubt, but that it behoves us to pay the same tribute of Affection and Good-will, which our Father of most Serene Memory always paid to your Majesty. Therefore altho in this beginning of our Government and Dignity, I may not find our Affairs in that Condition, as at present to answer to some paris ticulars, which your Embassadours have propos'd, yet it is our Resolution to continue the League concluded by our Father with your Majesty, and to enter our selves into a stricter Engagement; and so soon as we shall rightly understand the State of Affairs on both sides, we shall always be ready on our part, to 5 we do not doubt but that your Majesty hath such an Interest and Authority with the Duke of Savoy, that by your Intercession and signification of your good will, a Peace may very easily be procured for those poor people, with a return into their native countrey, and to their former liberty. The performance whereof will be an action worthy of your Majesty, 10 and answerable to the prudence and example of your most serene Predecessours; and will not onely very much confirm the mindes of your Subjects, that they need not fear the like mischief any time hereafter, but also engage your Confederates and Allies, which profess the same Religion, in a far greater respect and good affection to your Majesty. As to what concerns us, what favour soever in this kinde shall be granted, either to your own Subjects, or shall, by your means, be obtained for the Subjects of others, it shall be no less acceptable 15 to us, yea truly it will be more acceptable, and valuable, than any other profit and advantage, among those many which we promise unto our self from the friendship of your Majesty.

LUDOVICO GALLIC REGI

Cum ea jam eluceat in Majestate vcstra fides atque integritas Principe summo digna, quæ tarn exteris quam vestris civibus justitiæ fructus uberrimos non promittat solum, sed etiam nunc ferat, id usque eo ignorasse bellæ Insulæ Præsidentem, ut pacis foedus paulo ante sancitum et promulgatum, inter ipsa initia, quæ vel pessimo cuique sancta esse solent, tarn aperte violare ausus sit, perquam sane miror. Ab Roberto enim Vessio navis Luscinia, quæ ex præsidiariis hujus Reipublicæ navibus una est, præfecto delatum nobis est, belladnsulæ

To Louis XIV, King of France.

Since there is now in your Majesty the good faith and integrity worthy of an eminent prince, which not only allows the richest fruits of justice both to your own subjects and to foreigners, but even forces them upon them, that of this fact 5 the Governor of Belle Isle should be so far ignorant, that he has dared so openly to violate the treaty of peace recently made and proclaimed, at its very beginning, when such things are wont to be sacred to the worst men, I very greatly marvel. By Robert Vess, Captain of the ship Nightingale, which is 10 one of the patrol ships of this Commonwealth, it is reported to us that the Governor of Belle Isle, on December 15th and at other times even more recently, not only received in port a certain pirate Dillon, an enemy of this Commonwealth, and helped him in every way, but also defended a certain mer-15 chant vessel of Kinsale captured by him against Vess, and even snatched out of our hands this pirate ship of Dillon, put to flight in a naval battle, which otherwise he had doubtless captured or sunk. Since the Governor cannot do this against the pact recently entered upon without injuring your Majesty 20 equally with ourselves, we think in this affair we demand nothing more than we may expect from you, whether we wish that Governor to be punished or compensation to be made to ourselves. For what our right demands, the same your good faith and the sanctity of the pact equally demand from your-

Oliver, Protector of the Commonwealth of England, &c., to all Kings, Commonwealths, Princes and States with us allied, and to all others professing the Protestant Religion, to whom this our letter shall come, sends greeting.

Since in the matter of religion almost all men believe, and readily acquiesce in that which they receive from their ancestors, not what they themselves, having implored divine help, judge true as perceived and understood by themselves; therefore by so much the more do we think deserving of praise and embrace in all Christian charity, the bearer of these letters, our well beloved Peter George Romswinckel, Doctor of Civil and Canon Law, who, born and reared in the Popish superstition, and in it elevated to full honors and fortune (for he was already Apostolic Protonotary, Assessor of the Achiepiscopal Court of Cologne, and Commissary and free Canon of St. Andrew in Cologne, and destined to higher things), nevertheless as is confirmed to us by the amplest testimony, led by the love of divine truth, by God's favor, when he had devoted his whole mind to an inquiry into the truth of the Christian religion, giving up not only the Popish superstition, but also the ample advantages and honors which he enjoyed in it, he far preferred the true faith, and the purer worship of God though coupled with uncertain exile. He, that he might be safer from plots and farther away from the abuse of the papists, betook himself to 25 West. Junii 1656.

England, thinking this Commonwealth, as we greatly wish it to be thought, to be the most certain and most free asylum for those oppressed for conscience' sake everywhere, in slavery unworthy of Christians. Now, called to the position of Coun-5 seller by the most serene Princess and Lady, the widow of the late Duke of Simmern, he returns to Germany; aldiough if he should prefer to stay among us or return to us, we should not object to adopting any plan that seems best to him.

Therefore upon our Commanders, governors, ministers, and 10 keepers of ports, admirals and captains we enjoin that they permit the said Dr. Peter George to travel unharmed and free by sea or by land, without any interference, or inspection of his baggage. And likewise to our ambassadors, consuls, and public servants dwelling in every land, we wish it made known 15 and enjoined that they aid and help him by every means in their power.

Finally we earnestly ask all Kings, Commonwealths, Princes, and States with us confederate that they in every way favor him, help him, and provide him with protection, which we 20 are easily persuaded they would themselves gladly do, even unasked, for the sake of their pious æal for the Protestant religion, and its followers in whom we delight. Thereto for greater furnishing of faith in this letter, we have sealed it with our seal.

Although we have given letters patent to our well beloved Peter George Romswinckel, Doctor of Civil and Canon Law, &c., generally to all Kings, Commonwealths, Princes and Powers confederate with us, under protection of which he may 5 travel freely and safely by land and sea, nevertheless lest anything of defence or grace seem wanting from us to him, who, having abandoned the Popish superstition has betaken himself to the practice of a purer faith, we have decided that he should be further guarded and supplied with this letter, espe-

Your congratulatory letter about the capture of the town of Dunkirk and its delivery to us conveyed with the King's letter by the Master in Ordinary of the Palace was not only

Third Book of Letters of John Milton of England written in the name of the Protector Richard [Cromwell.]

To Ferdinand, Grand Duke of Tuscany.

By a petition Sir John Dethicke, John Gold, John Limbery, and other merchants here tell us they in the month of January 1654, having formed a company, made ready their ship, called the Happy Entrance of London, and loaded it with goods, and 5 made a certain John Marvin captain of this ship, that with it he might make a trading voyage in the Mediterranean Sea; in doing which with right rich profit from that time even to this day he has been busy in those parts; but in no way have they been able to obtain hitherto an account of his business transactions, nor of his profits for the associated merchants, though 10 he has been often called on; they suspect he plans, having conveyed away ship and goods, never to return home; search was therefore made for him, and it was learned he would arrive within two months at the port of Leghorn, which is in your 15 domain. I therefore earnestly entreat your Highness, for the sake of your æeal for justice not to take this faithless shipmaster under your protection, nor to let anything hinder the agents of the merchants from recovering ship and goods, and forcing the captain of the ship to render an account of his dealings.
20 May God grant all happiness to your Highness.

James Modiford, a merchant, complains to us that certain goods of his taken in ships to Leghorn by another English trader, Humphrey Sidney, were for the sake of some of the latter's Italian creditors, about the year 1652, detained in port 5 against all right, and taken from him; and his agent who has done everything possible whereby he might recover the goods, has thus far accomplished nothing. Now since both petitioner and defendant are our citiæens, I ask your Majesty to order these goods, most unjustly seiæed, to be restored as soon as 10 possible to the rightful owner, and to refer the whole case to our jurisdiction, so that if Sidney have any right he may be able, if he wish, to test it in our court with his own people before our judges by the national law of his own country, where a fair trial may be for both sides. To Charles Gustavus, King of Sweden.

David Fithy, a merchant, informs me that about a month or so ago he contracted with the keepers of our naval stores to supply one hundred and fifty bales (or tuns, as they are called) of Riga hemp for the use of our fleet; that the hemp is now in 15 readiness at Riga, and a freighter prepared to set sail from here in which the hemp may there be loaded and conveniently be carried to our fleet, part of which has just sailed for the Baltic to your assistance; but that he has recently heard that your Majesty has forbidden anyone to export hemp from Riga ex-20 cept by special Royal permission, so that he is not able to fulfill his contract without risking the danger of the loss both of his ship and of his cargo. I therefore beg your Majesty by letters written to the Governor of Riga to give permission to the said David to export the exact weight of hemp with which he [i5i:(M.iv,89.) Modern translation.]

The Parliament and People of England to the exalted and distinguished Senate of the City of Hamburg, greeting:

Exalted, distinguished, and honorable Sirs, our dearest friends—In what fires of war, for the most part of civil war, through this age (as all-wise God has willed) almost the whole of Europe has been burning, you, though yourselves long en-5 joying complete peace, cannot be ignorant. Although we (by the will of the same Almighty God) became involved in that common calamity later than most of the others, nevertheless that deferment of Deity amply balanced, by the weight of the evils which we have suffered, all that it spared us by delay. Of 10 these things the report has doubtless reached you; certainly the sense of suffering is planted deep in the minds of all of us, and everywhere among us the most painful traces of Civil War still remain. But having by the grace of God come through so many trials and tribulations, after wars, truces, con-15 ferences and many vain efforts to preserve the liberty which had been entirely taken from us but won again by force of arms, we have thought nothing fairer nor more conducive to the welfare of our people than to convert the haughty domination of a kingdom into the form of a free state, and rather to convrtere; et servitutis jugum semel potius a cervicibus nostris dejicere quā perpetuas eam ob rem dimicationes, et repetitam toties belli aleam contra novos subinde dominos tentare. Con-throw off our necks once for all the yoke of servitude than to risk for this cause perpetual struggles and the ever renewed haæards of war against ever new masters. We also trust that God, with whose countenance and powerful aid we have con-5 quered our tyrants in battle and have inflicted upon them notable punishment, will so guide our counsels and all our devotion that we may above all cherish justice and peace so far as that may be possible.

Since, therefore, so great a revolution has been effected with 10 us, we have thought it right to apprise you of these things; and thereto we have appointed Mr. Isaac Lee, President of the Company of Adventurers among you, our envoy, and have given him instructions to appear in your Senate and inform you of this situation; that you may likewise know how much 15 we earnestly desire that, so far as in us lies, there may be a most sacred observance of all existing agreements, conventions, and treaties furthering commercial relations (consistent with mutual benefit) between the people of England and your state. To this end we ask that those of our merchants who dwell among 20 you may enjoy those privileges and immunities which were very recently agreed to by both nations; and that you will be willing to protect them by your authority against the violence and abuse of wicked men who, being in their own country attached to the party of the tyrants and driven from home on 25 account of many resultant villainies, are actuated by a spirit that is everywhere in the world dangerous and hostile to their countrymen who love political liberty. We beg that you, for your part, will be most firmly convinced that even in these very

[The First Draft of Samuel Morland's Address to the Duke of Savoy, and his Mother}

your Serene and Royal Highnesses,

The Most Serene Lord, Oliver, Protector of the Common-10 wealth of England, Scotland, and Ireland, has sent me to your Royal Highnesses; whom he salutes very heartily, and to whom, with a very high affection and peculiar regard for your Serenities, he wishes a long life and reign, and a prosperous issue of all your affairs, amid the applauses and respect of your 15 people. And this is due to you, whether in consideration of the excellent character and royal descent of your Highnesses, and the great expectation of the world from so many eminent good qualities, or in recollection, after reference to records, of the ancient friendship of our Kings with the Royal House of 20 Savoy. Though I am, I confess, but a young man, and not very ripe in experience of affairs, yet it has pleased my Most Serene and Gracious Master to send me, as one much devoted to your Royal Highnesses and ardently attached to all bearing the simo ac benignissimo, etiam magnis de rebus mittere. Fertur apud antiquos Croesi filius a natura fuisse prosus elinguis. Ille autem cum primum militem quendam patri suo vulnus intendentem videret, linguam protinus expedit, nimirum haud 5 aliter mea res agitur, cujus linguam hodie solutam reddunt nuperrima ilia atque cruenta matris ecclesiæ vulnera, siquidem res magnæ dicendæ sunt, quibus multorum salus miscrorum ac spes omnis continetur, quæ in hoc tota est posita, si regaliū vestrarum celsitudinum irritates erga se animos, omni sua

10 fide, obedientia, humillimisque precibus lenire atque placare poterunt; quorum inopum ad causam quam quidem vel ipsa commiseratio meliorem facere videatur, etiam serenissimus Protector Angliæ deprecator accedit, vestrasque celsitudines regias summo opere rogat atque obsecrat, uti misericordiam 15 suam hisce pauperrimis et ejectissimis subditis suis impertire dignentur; illis nimirum, qui radices Alpium et valles quasdam in ditioe vestra incolentes, Protestantium religioni sua nomina dedere. Audivit enim, quod nemo celsitudinum vestrarum regaliū voluntate factum esse dixerit, miserrimos il-

Italian name, on what is really a great mission.—The ancient legend is that the son of Croesus was completely dumb from his birth. When, however, he saw a soldier aiming a wound at his father, straightway he had the use of his tongue. No 5 other is my predicament, feeling as I do my tongue loosened by those very recent and bloody wounds of Mother Church.—A great mission surely that is to be called wherein all the safety and hope of many poor people is comprehended—their sole hope lying in the chance that they shall be able, by 10 all their loyalty, obedience, and most humble prayers, to mollify and appease the minds of your Royal Highnesses, now irritated against them. In behalf of these poor people, whose cause pity itself may seem to make its own, the Most Serene Protector of England also comes as an intercessor, and 15 most earnestly requests and beseeches your Royal Highnesses to deign to extend your mercy to these your very poor and most outcast subjects—those, I mean, who, inhabiting the roots of the Alps and certain valleys in your dominion, have professed nominally the Religion of the Protestants. For he has heard 20 (what no one can say has been done by the will of your Royal Highnesses) that those wretched creatures have been partly killed by your forces, partly expelled by violence and driven from their home and country, so that they are now wandering, with their wives and children, houseless, roofless, poor, and 25 destitute of all resource, through rugged and inhospitable spots and over snow-covered mountains. And, through the days of this transaction, if only the things are true that fame at present reports everywhere (would that Fame were proved a liar!),

Atrocity horrible and before unheard of, savagery such that, good God, were all the Neros of all times and ages to come to life again, what a shame they would feel at having contrived

Verily, verily, Angels are horror-struck, men are amaæed; heaven itself seems to be astounded by these cries, and the earth itself to blush with the shed blood of so many innocent men. Do not, great God, do not seek the revenge due to this iniquity. May thy blood, Christ, wash away 15 this stain!—But it is not for me to relate these things in order as they happened, or to dwell longer upon them; and what my Most Serene Master requests from your Royal Highnesses you will understand better from his own Letter. Which letter I am ordered to deliver to your Royal Highnesses with all ob-20 servance and due respect; and, should your Royal Highnesses, as we greatly hope, grant a favourable and speedy answer, you will both do an act most gratifying to the Lord Protector, who has taken this business deeply to heart, and to the whole Commonwealth of England, and also restore, by an exercise of 25 mercy very worthy of your Royal Highnesses, life, safety, spirit, country, and estates to many thousands of most afflicted people who depend on your pleasure; and me you will send back to my native country as the happy messenger of your conspicuous

[CONTEMPORARY TRANSLATION OF THE SECOND VERSION AS PRINTED BY MORLAND.]

May it please your most Serene and Royal Highness,

I am sent by the most serene Prince Oliver, Lord Protector 5 of the Commonwealth of England, Scotland, and Ireland, unto your Royal Highness, whom he heartily saluteth, and with a very high and singular affection of minde toward the person of your Serene Highness, wisheth you life, a long reign, and prosperous successes in all your affairs, together with the 10 love and affections of your people: And this respect doubtless is due to your merit, whether a man consider the most noble inclination and royal extraction of your Highness, together with the High expectation which the world hath from so many most eminent vertues, or whether by perusing the 15 Monuments of Time past, he call to minde the ancient Alliance of our Kings with the Royal family of Savoy. As for my self, though I be a young man, I confess, and have not much experience in affairs, yet it pleased my most Serene and most gracious Master to send me, being one that is very much 20 devoted to your Royal Highness, and a great lover of all the people of Italy, to negotiate even Matters of grand importance, for so those affairs are to be called, wherein the safety of many poor distressed people, and all their hope, is comprehended; which indeed consisteth wholly in this, if so be that by all their 25 loyalty, obedience, and most humble Petitions, they may be nissimo ac benignissimo, etiam magnis de rebus mittere; siquidem res magnæ dicendæ sunt, quibus multorum salus miserorum ac spes omnis continetur; Quac in hoc tota est posita, si Regalis Vestræ Celsitudinis irritatum erga se animum, omni 5 sua fide, obedientia, humillimisque precibus lenire atque placare poterunt. Quorum inopum ad causam, quam quidem vel ipsa commiseratio meliorem facere videatur, etiam Serenissimus Protector Angliæ deprecator accedit, vestramque Celsitudinem Regiam summo opere rogat atque obsecrat, uti misericordiam suam hisce pauperrimis & ejectissimis subditis suis impertire dignetur; Illis nimirum, qui radices Alpium & Valles quasdam in ditione vestra incolentes, Protestantium Religioni sua nomina dedere. Audivit enim (quod nemo Celsitudinis vestra Regalis voluntate factum esse dixerit) miserrimos illos, 10 partim ab vestris copiis esse crudeliter occisos, partim vi expulsos, domoque Patria exturbatos, adeoque sine lare, sine tecto, inopes, omnique ope destitutes, per asperrima loca atque inhospita, montesque nivibus coopertos, cum suis conjugibus ac liberis vagari. Quid enim per hosce dies, quod genus crudelitatis inausum illis militibus, aut præteritum fuit? fumantia passim tecta, et laceri artus, & cruenta humus! Virgines post stupra differto lapillis ac ruderibus utero, misere eflflarunt animas. Centenarii nonnulli senes effæta ætate ac morbo clinici, in lectulis combust! Infantum alii saxis allisi, alii jugulati, 20 quorum cerebrum ab interfectoribus, immanitate plusquam Cyclopæa, coctum ac devoratum. Quid plura? quanquam vel able to molli& and appease the minde of your Royal Highness, which hath been provoked against them. In the behalf of these poor people, whose Cause truly, even commiseration it self may seem to make the more excusable, the most Serene 5 Protector of England is also become an Intercessor, and he most earnestly entreateth and beseecheth your R. H. that you would be pleased to extend your mercy to these your very poor subjects & most disconsolate Out-casts; I mean those, who inhabiting beneath the Alps, and certain Valleys under your Do-10 minion, are Professors of the Protestant Religion. For, he hath been informed (which no man can say was done by the will of your H.) that part of those most miserable people, have been cruelly massacred by your forces, part driven out by violence, and forced to leave their native habitations, and so without house 15 or shelter, poor, and destitute of all relief, do wander up and down with their wives and children, in craggy and uninhabited places, and Mountains covered with snow. Now what, or what manner of cruelty have not those soldiers of late dared to act, or hath been omitted by them? Oh the fired houses 20 which are yet smoking, the torn limbs, and ground defiled with blood! Virgins being ravished, have afterwards had their wombs stuffed up with gravel and Rubbish, and in that miserable manner breathed out their last. Some men an hundred years old, decrepit with age, and bed-ridden, have been burnt in 25 their beds. Some infants have been dashed against the Rocks, others their throats cut, whose brains have with more than Cyclopean cruelty, being boiled and eaten by the Murtherers! What need I mention more? although I could reckon up very

5 were done through any default of yours) certainly they would be ashamed when they should finde, that they had contrived nothing (in comparison of these actings) that might be reputed barbarous and inhumane. In the mean time, the Angels are surprised with horreur! men are amaaed! Heaven it self 10 seems to be astonied with the cries of dying men, and the very earth to blush, being discoloured with the gore-bloud of so many innocent persons! Do not, O thou most high God, do not thou take that revenge which is due to so great wickednesses and horrible villanies! Let thy bloud, O Christ, wash 15 away this bloud!

But it is not my business to make a Narrative of these things in order as they were done, or to insist any longer upon them; and that which my most Serene Master desireth of your Royal Highness, you will better understand by his Own Letters,

[154. Authorship not certain.]

To the Consuls and Senators of the City of Bremen:

5 From your letter which was delivered to us through your envoy Henry Oldenburg I learn of the quarrel which has arisen between your state and its very powerful neighbor, and of the resultant straits to which you have been reduced, with the greater distress and pain, the more as I love and embrace 10 the state of Bremen for its championship, beyond other states, of the orthodox faith. And in respect of you I entertain no dearer wish than that the whole body of Protestants may unite at least in brotherly agreement and concord. Meantime, it is quite certain that the common foes of the Reformers reis joice at these quarrels of ours and everywhere attack us more savagely-1 therefore pray God that the truce which has begun may find a fortunate outcome. I myself have, as you requested, written about this matter to the King of Sweden, since I am an advocate of peace and concord which beyond question are 20 most acceptable to God, and I have gladly contributed my aid, as is natural, in so pious a work. I urge you to keep your mind tranquil and not averse to any honorable terms of peace. Farewell. October [1654.]

THE KING OF SPAINES LETTER.

The King.

Don Francisco Fernandes Marmoleso my governor & cap* of war of the cities of Murcia, Lorca, & Cartagena, besides that which other dispatches containe which come to you with this, it hath seem'd good to me in this a part to tell you, that I had 5 resolv'd that those vessels which enter'd into that port of Cartagena if those under Prince Robert that you should cause them to be disarm'd, & that the men belonging to them which were come ashore should be ship'd, & having afterwards understood the chance which those ships had to be lost, that 10 you Cause the men of the said ships to be lodg'd in some place without the city of Cartagena, where they may be with safety, & may do no harme, nor receive any, so ordering that they may have releife in their quarters. & for that which those ships of Prince Robert did in Veleæ, Malaga, & other ports, taking others of the English under my artillery, in which they faulted in the good correspondence which I desir'd should be kept both with the one & the other, I charge that you send order to the ports under your command, that neither the ships of the 5 Prince nor his person be admitted therein, for any pretence, as also I charge you, that those of the Parlament who shall enter therein, all good reception be given, giving them to understand that it is my expresse will & command. From Madrid

IDEM.

Don Francisco Fernandes de Marmoleso my governor and Capt in warre of the cityes of Murcia, Lorca, & Cartagena, Robert Blake Admirall of the Navy of the Parlament of England, hath writt'n to me, giving me intelligence of the successe, 15 that certaine ships of the charge of Prince Robert have had in the port of Catagena, & of the pretension that the Admirall makes that the Artillery, cables, anchors, & the other furniture of the ships of war may be restor'd to him to render up to the Parlament, & that the merchandise which hath bin tak'n out 20 of the two priæes which are of worth, & what else there is may be giv'n to thir true owners, as more particularly you will see by the inclosed copy of the Admirals letter. & in the 1st place it hath seem'd good to mee that you give him to understand, the satisfaction which I have of his good proceeding, & to charge you (as I do) that you take speciall care, in well treating those ships which are there of the parlament of England, & the same of those besides which shall come, as is meet to be done. & out of the desire I have that 5 with the parlament & all that belongs to them, good & acceptable correspondence may be held in all my Kingdomes, I have resolv'd, & it is my will, that the priæes which they shall have taken, & in particular, the vessels of prince Rob. you cause to be return'd entirely to those to whome they belong, or the Ad-10 mirall, in case that the owners be not there that he may deliver them to them, neverthelesse this must be by public & judiciall acts that the satisfaction which he hath received may appeare.

As to the point of losses & damages, which the Admirall pretends to receive of the goods those ships of Prince Rob. which 15 I have commanded to embarr, for the satisfaction of them to whome it belongs, as he mentions in his letter, you may declare & say that my resolution is, that satisfaction be made, & that to that purpose he leave solicitors in Cartagena that the matter may be tried before justice what they have lost by the invasion 20 of Prince Rob., in Veleæ, Malaga, telling him that I had before commanded to make that Imbargo to satis& also for the offence which hath bin receiv'd on my coasts by the invasion of the Prince for having sett upon a vessell defended by my artillery.

25 You shall say with all sincerity to the Admirall & declare to him, that no order had bin given, that the ships of Pr. Rob. should not be receiv'd into the ports in regard he had not as then giv'n any offence, which they did in Veleæ, in the invasion which they there made, & also that there was no agreement with the parliament to forbear to receive them, so that it was the duty of my Ministers to defend them under my artillery, as the Admirall saw was done in Malaga, to those of the 5 Parlements party, & also that I have so much the more cause to thank the Admirall for the respect wherewith he proceeded, for which I remaine again oblig'd.

This is all which in this matter offers it selfe that I should say to you, charging you again to treat, hand, & to dispatch 10 courteously fit freindly the Admirall in the manner aforesaid as befitts his person & good proceeding. From Madrid. 24. Nov. 1650.

TO ADMIRALL ROB. BLAKE.

Admirall Rob. Blake, by the hands of my servants that reside in the city of Cartagena I have received the letter which you 20 wrote me of the 12th of this month giving me notice of the successe of those ships under the charge of Pr. Rob., & by occasion thereof, you required among other things restitution of the merchandice & vessels which the said ships had taken from the natives of Engl:. In answer whereof, & of the good which 25 yec have brought, I have thought good to tell you how acceptable it hath bin, & the esteeme which I have had of it, & that also I have giv'n such orders in my ports, that you shall alwayes finde therein good entertainment & satisfaction; & of this demonstration you shall know the inclination which I have, that 5 the parlament may receive it of mee, in all that which may concerne them, & in order to that end, when your letter came I had resolved that the vessels that were taken should be re-turn'd to their owners, as more particularly the governor of Cartagena will tell you, to whome I referre mee, adding hereto 10 that I have again commanded that you should be well treated in all things & in case of any failing therein, you may advise thereof the Secretary of the Resident, which as yet remaines in this court, that he may give me account thereof, as may also any of the heads of parlament give notice to me in that which 15 they shall claime in the accomplishment of justice to be done them & the grace & favour which shall have place as you may hope from my will. From Madrid. 28. Nov. 1650.

[TO THE GOVERNOR OF ALGIERS.]

Most illustrious Sefior whome god preserve, we receiv'd a letter from you dated to which we speedily return'd our answer but by reason that we heare not of those two English men who are detain'd with you, & doubt least our 25 letter by some accident came not to your hands we write now again to the same effect as before, that the matter which hath happen'd between you, & the English merchants of the company of Richard, we have read at large related in your letter, & have given order that the whole businesse be examined, & such 5 justice done you as the cause shall require, & the matter is now at present under examination in our court of admiralty, but because they on the other side have put in their plea, & many circumstances are to be examined, the cause remains as yett undetermined, in the meane while we do again request to sett 10 free those two English men by name Tho. Peach & Rich:

Dier according to your promise so soone as you should heare that your letter was delivered to us, & your businesse taken into consideration: assuring your selfe that those good correspondencies which you & your Antecessors have held with the Eng-15 lish nation trading to those parts are very acceptable to us. & wee desire that you would still continue them both at all other times & now especially, if our fleet or any part of it which is now on the coast of Portugall near to Lisbon awaiting for certain pirates & revolvers of our owne nation shall chance to 20 come into any of your ports to be supplied for their mony with victuall or any other necessary provision for the service upon which we send them. So we conclude desiring you again to release those two men who have bin now long in your custody; & not to doubt of that satisfaction & reparation from us which 25 to justice shall appertaine. & we wish you all health & happy-nesse. Dated at the Palace of Westm:, & signed with the scale ment.

Frederick the 3d. by the Grace of God King of Denmark, Norway, & of the Vandals & Goths, Duke of Sleswick, Holstein, Stormaria, & Dithmarsia, Count in Oldenburg & Delmenhorst, To the most serene & high Lord Protector of Engl.: Scotl: & Ireland, our dear friend & confederate, health & prosperous success.

Most serene & high Lord Protector, most dear friend & confederate,

It is well knowne to the whole world how the late troubles in Poland have not only infested that potent Kingdome with unexpected invasion but have stirr'd up to arms other neighbouring nations, so that the most flourishing provinces thereof 5 which with their fruitfull plenty were able not to nourish only but to enrich other countries, being now wasted have scarce wherewith long to suffice themselves & the vast multitude that flock thither, the losse hitherto hath bin their owne but ere long may redound to many others, the spectacle and serious
 10 thought of so near a danger hath not without cause taken up our cares: & although we have ever had from our neighbours not only religious protestations of constant amity but earnest invitation also to a straiter bond of alliance, yet wee, content with that amity which is already agreed between us, which we 15 are also bound to keep religiously, have thought hitherto dangerous to binde our selves further; especially since the present danger is so spreading, that it seemes likely to reach round to many more, & this haveing always been our cheif desire, that nothing should be by us determin'd which might be prejudicial to our friends & confederates, this was the cause why we thought it fit to impart this our opinion to your highness, not doubting but that you will esteeme it just to answer us with mutuall sincerity, neither are we alone who account so highly 5 of your judgment, as to hold it well advis'd to conforme our owne counsell thereto; & we are also persuaded, that his Majestic of Sueden is so considerate, as that he will not easily be induc'd to oppose the prudence of so great a friend, if it so seem therefore to your highness, we hold it would tend much 10 to the common good if you would seriously dissuade his Majestic from endeavouring or attempting ought, which might hinder or retard the course of commerce. For commerce is the bond of friends so much conducing to the mutuall profits & necessities of either part, that if it be broken of, the tie of their 15 mindes is soon loosen'd & falls asunder, we also shall joyne our persuasions & advice to his Majestic; being assur'd that what shalbe made appeare by more then one friend on just grounds to be for the equall benefit & wish'd peace of all, will not be neglected, concerning which matter wee friendly entreat that 20 your highness would give audience to our well belov'd Simon de Pettikum being to speak more at large hereof, & that you would assur'dly persuade your selfe, that the alliance which divine providence & establish'd league hath made up between us, shalbe alwayes carefully observ'd by us to a solid & constant 25 improvement wherewith we heartily wish all prosperous successe to your highness.

Your good friend

FOR SIR THO. BENDISH.

Sir

Petition hath bin made to his Highness by Captaine Job. Casse commander of the ship Stamboline for himselfe, the owners & Interested therein, shewing that he the foresaid Captain being on his returne in the said ship from Smyrna to 5 England, was on the 8th of Aug: 1653 near the Isles of Siphano & Serfo surpriaed by the Captain Basha of the Grand Signiors fleet, & both himselfe, ship & men brought back to Skio, there barbarously used & pillag'd, till by meanes of the Consull & other merchants comeing from Smyrna they were at length 10 for a summ of money released, notwithstanding that they had neither done any thing irregular nor omitted ought of respect or ceremony requir'd in these seas by capitulation as by certificates & informations herewith sent, you will more particularly understand: the losse receiv'd is therein also speci&d, & the 15 dishonour done to our nation you cannot but apprehend to be much more. You are therefore requir'd by his Highnesse & the Councell to make complaint of these things to the Grand Signior or to those Ministers of State to whom the cogniaunce hereof belongs; insisting with all earnestnesse for reparation 20 both of losses by a just restitution & of honour by justice done on him who did the injury to our men & violated the peace.

Oliver Lord Protector of the Commonwealth of England, Scotland, Ireland & the dominions thereof to the Lord Hamet Basha wisheth health & peace from God.

We accept well of the love & friendship which your Highness expresseth towards us in your letter; and do assure you by these, that our affection is no lesse sincere & brotherly towards you. Your faithfull performance of the league made between us 5 we acknowledge, your friendly receiving of our Fleet & ships from time to time, with many thanks: as also your just and civill dealing with Rich: Casson we cannot but much esteem as a reall confirmation of our league & peace. & we desire you to understand that it is no way with our consent or pleasing to 10 us that many Flemish do come in English ships as you write & walk on your shore; neither that the Flemish ships meeting with yours do put out English colours whereby your ships are often lost, we will strictly forbid henceforth the English merchants to take with them any Flemish or French mariners to 15 the disturbance of your ports or shores; & we shalbe earnest with the Dutch or Flemish Ambassadour who resides with us that the ships belonging to that nation shall put forth no more the English colours to the abuse and damage of you our friends and Allies, more then this we cannot promise herein; for the 20 Dutch are another nation & not under our authority; whereby in reason we cannot answer for what they do. as for the misdemeanour of Captaine Griffith, who suffer'd his Flemish mariners to carry away with them a Flemish captive from your shore, we will call both Captaine Griffith & Francis Butcher the Merchant before us; & will cause them to doe right as touching that Fleming of the Masulaga whom they suffer'd 5 to be brought away in their ship, we do also assure you further of our readinesse in all friendly offices towards you; & do likewise commend you to the almighty god. Given at Whitehall on the day of the moneth Aprill in the year 1656.

To the thrice Illustrious, thrice noble, &• right worthy the Aga Captain Generall, his Brethren, the Aga Bashas & the rest of that Honourable society of the great Councill of State & war in the city of Algiers wisheth health & peace from god.

We have receiv'd a letter from your honours dated on the 3^d 10 day of the 2^d moon of Rabia, in the year 1066 according to your account, by the care & diligence of Rich: Casson, who faithfully deliver'd it to us; & hath given us to understand the honourable respect wherewith our letters also were receiv'd by you; & that upon the reading thereof you caus'd to be deliver'd 15 to him very justly the goods of his deceas'd uncle Edmund Casson late Agent in Algiers from the state of England, we rejoyce that we have a league with just men; the covenants whereof you recite truly in your letter: & we acknowledge them & shall cause them to be observ'd faithfully through all our government- we also returne you thanks for the kinde reception & refreshment which you have given to our fleet & ships sayling to & fro, or trading in your ports, whereas you write that the Flemish being your enemies do oft weare English 5 lish Flags & colours in their ships whereby your ships are deceiv'd & sometimes lost, we will speak thereof to the Flemish or Dutch Ambassadour residing with us, that it may no more be so done; & this is all we can perform herein; for the Flemish are not under our Authority, neither can we be answerable for 10 their misdoings, next wheras you write that many Flemish & French mariners go in English ships, & land on your shore, & in particular that Captain Griffith of the ship Acorn, & Mr. Francis Butcher Merchant coming into your harbour with some of their mariners that were Flemish carried away with 15 them a Fleming who was slave to Masulaga, we will strictly forbid the merchants to take with them to your ports any Flemish or French seamen for the future; & will call Captain Griffith to an account for the Fleming whom he hath brought away; & will cause him to do that which shalbe just.

20 wherein else we can be usefull to you we offer in like manner on our part, & recommend you to god. Given at Whitehall, on the day of the month Aprill in the yeare 1656.

The letter which we sent lately to your Honours in answer to yours which wee received by Richard Casson, we hope is by this time come to your hands whereby you may perceive both the satisfaction which we have in your promises to keep the 5 league between us, hitherto accompanied with just performances; & the order which we have taken on our part to doe you justice in those things wherein you requir'd it of us. We now at this time require the like of you who have declar'd your selves hitherto in all things to be men loving righteousness, 10 hating wrong, & observing faithfulness in covenant. Our complaint is that a ship or Pinke of ours called the Crowne Herring, laden with oyles, Tho. Arret being Master, coming from Gallipole was on the taken by some ships of warre belonging to Algiers whereby the owner Joh rFrederick Alder-

Instructions for the Agent to the Great Duke of Muscovy.

- 1st. he must be sure to give him all his titles: for some Embas-5 sadours sent thither from Q. Eliæ; had much contest in thir embassies, for want of that point observ'd.
2. he shall assure that Great Duke, of the particular affection of his Highness towards him, both in behalfe of the nation which he governs, who were the 1st that ever traded with 10 him from these parts by the Northern sea, as also for the honour which he bears to his royall virtues, & puissance in war; having made himself e thereby terrible to all neighbouring princes, 8c especially to the Great Turk the common foe of Christendome.
- 15 3ly, that his Highness would count it a great happynesse, if he could be any way instrumentall to make peace among Christian princes, that they might turne thir joynt forces to set in freedome the Greeks, & dispossessing infidells to plant again the gossell in those parts of Europe & Asia, which 20 now under bondage were once inhabited by orthodoxall Christians.
4. that hearing of an overture of peace made to him by the King of Sueden, a prince so powerfull & so prosperous in war, & that the Great Duke himselfe hath signi&d no undisposednesse thereto, his Highness could not but expresse his well wishing to so good a work & offer his mediation to the furduring therof, & with the more alacrity in that he hopes on either party so ready a disposition thereto.

- 5 5. that if he intended, as is fam'd abroad, a glorious expedition against the Turk, & thereby to win him selfe honour throughout Europe as cheif defender of Christendome, he could not set forth more securely, then by leaving behinde his back so potent a prince his friend; & thereby all the 10 northerne & westernne parts of his Empire secure.
6. That none can be a more profitable confederate to the Great Duke then the King of Sueden, who having possession of so many port townes at the bottome of the Baltick, will let in great trade & riches into his land, by a shorter way then 15 from Archangell.
7. that as he shall leave hereby all his countreys on that side safe from invasion, & in a way of much inriching, so likewise no lesse secure from the fcare of force or innovation on the Russian religion, it being no principle of that protestant 20 King to force consciences, as it is of the Polonian a Popish King; & that the Muscovitish religion, a branch of the Greek church, is not so different from the Protestant religion, as is the Popish and Polonian, which if it get footing in his dominion by Polonian Jesuits, will not fail to work 25 alterations.
8. that the King of Sweden, now since his conjunction with the Prince of Transilvania & the Cossacks, will be much more considerable & active either to hinder or promote any enter priæ of the great Duke against the Turk, & more answerable to the prudent allyance which he hath lately sought with the Venetian, then the King of Poland can be, 5 whose countrey now, after so many devastations, needs nothing more then rest & peace, & yet lies open to the spoile of all hir neighbours. [1657.]

SETTING FORTH, ON THE BEHALF OF THIS COMMONWEALTH, THE JUSTICE OF

S P A I N

THE Just and most Reasonable Causes and Grounds of Our late Enterpriæ upon some Islands possessed by the Subjects of the King of Spain in the West-Indies, are very obvious to any that shall reflect upon the posture 5 wherein the said King and his people have always stood, in relation to the English Nation in those parts of America, which hath been no other then a continual state of open War and Hostility; at the first most unjustly begun by them, and ever since in like sort continued and prosecuted, contrary to the 10 Common Right and Law of Nations, and the particular Treaties between England and Spain.

It is true indeed, That of late Years the English have for the most part been Patients, and upon the Defensive onely, which may possibly occasion some to look upon the late Expedition 15 into the West-Indies, as an Entrance into a new War, and not as it was indeed, the prosecution of a War already in being, and still (notwithstanding all Endeavors on the part of this State, Pads, & Commercii iis in locis habendi causa nihil prætermisit) ab iisdem hactenus continuatum summoque studio gestum reperietur: Qui quoties oblata sibi occasio est, nullam omnino justam ob causam, nulla injuria lacessiti, occidere, trucidare, 5 imo sedads nonnunquam animis obtruncare nostros illic homines, quos visum est, bonis etiam atque fortunis direptis, Coloniis habitationibusque deletis, navibus, si quas per ilia maria offendunt, captis, hostium imo prædonum in numero habere non desinunt. Illius enim nominis opprobrio omnes 10 cujuscunque gentis, præter se solos, afficiunt, qui ilia maria navigare audeant. Neque hoc alio jure aut meliore se facere intelligunt, quam Papæ nescio qua donatione nixi, & quod partes quasdam illius occidentalis plagæ ipsi primi omnium scrutati sunt: quo nomine ac titulo novi illius orbis jus omne, ac 15 ditionem universam ad se solos pertinere contendunt: de quo titulo sane quim absurdo copiosius dicendi locus erit, cum ad expendendas eas causas veniemus, cur Hispani exercere omne genus hostilitatis in nostros illic homines usque eo licere sibi arbitrentur, ut qui illas in oras aut tempestate appulsi, aut 20 naufragio ejecti, aliove simili casu delati sunt, cos non ut captivos ad vincula solum, sed in servitutem etiam redigant, ipsi tamen ruptam sibi Pacem etiam in Europa, & gravissime violatam existiment, si Angli vicissim, paria reddendi, resque suas repetendi causa, quicquam iis in locis contra eos moliuntur.

25 Verum, etiamsi Hispaniæ regis apud nos legati, Hispanica factione, quæ semper in Concilio Regis proximi, Patrisque ejus plurimum potuit, confisi, siquid Angli hoc in genere fecissent, levissimis de causis querimonias & postulationes iniquas & for settling a firm Peace and friendly Commerce in those parts) obstinately continued, and carried on by the Spaniards; who, as oft as they have opportunity, without any just Cause or Provocation at all, cease not to kill and slaughter, nay sometimes 5 in cold Blood, to murder the people of this Nation, spoiling their Goods and Estates, destroying their Colonies and Plantations, taking also their Ships (if they meet with any) upon those Seas, and using them in all things as Enemies, or rather as Rovers & Pyrates, for so they most injuriously and ignomin-10 iously brand all Nations (except themselves) which shall presume to sayl upon those Seas, upon no other or better Right or Title, then that of the Popes Donation, and their first Discovering some parts of the West-Indies; whereupon they would appropriate to themselves the sole Signiory of that New World;

15 of which most absurd Pretension, there will be occasion to speak more largely, when We come to consider the Causes why the Spaniards should think it reasonable for them to exercise all maner of Hostility in those parts against the English, in so far as to make such of them, as by stress of weather, Ship-20 wrack, or other like Casualty, are cast upon those Coasts, prisoners, nay slaves; and yet to accompt it a great Injury, and Breach of the Peace (even here in Europe) for the English to attempt any thing upon them in those parts by way of Retaliation, and for their just Satisfaction.

25 But although the King of Spain's Embassadors (emboldened upon the assurance of a prevalent Spanish Faction, always in the Council of the late King and his Father) have had the Confidence to make most ridiculous and irrational Com-ridiculas afferre non dubitarint; Illi tamen Reges, Hispanis licet nimium addicti, suorum subditorum constringi noluerunt manus, ubi Hispani suas esse solvendas existimarunt: imo vim vi propulsare, & Hispanos, qui ad Pacem iis in locis servandam 5 perducere nullo modo potuerunt, in hostium numero habere suis permiserunt. Adeo ut anno circiter millesimo sexcentesimo & quadragesimo cum hæc res in Concilio regis proximi agitata esset, postularetque Hispanorum legatus ut naves quædam in Americam prefecture, & in ostio fluminis vela jam facere 10 paratæ prohiberentur, propterea quod hostilitatis in Hispanos illic exercendæ potestate essent instructs, simulque ipse jus commercii in occidentali India habendi postulantibus per Consiliarios quosdam regis, ad eam rem constitutes, Anglis denegaret, placuit ut illæ naves institutum iter suum perse-15 querentur, quod & factum est.

Hactenus prædicti Reges subditis suis, bellum iis in locis ob rationes suas privatim suscipientibus, non defuerunt: tametsi, propter potentiam Hispanicæ factionis supradictæ, publice, pro eo ac debuerant, & existimatione gentis pristina dignum erat, 20 causam eorum suscipere noluerunt. Et nobis certe contumeliosum æque & indignum fuisset, quibus, largiente Deo, tot naves ad omnem maritimi belli usum ornatae atque instructs in promptu erant, si eas carie potius corrumpi otiosas domi voluissemus, quam ad ulciscendum Anglorum, quidni etiam 25 dicam, Indorum sanguinem, ab Hispanis tarn injuste tarn inhumane totiesque fustum, illis in locis usui esse. Quandoquidem Deus fecit ex uno sanguine totam gentem hominum, ut habitaret super universa superficie terra, definitis prastitutis tern-

plaints and Demands, upon any thing done in that kinde by the English; yet would not the said Kings (though too much addicted to the Spaniards) ever tie their own Subjects hands, where the Spaniards held their hands to be loose, but suffered 5 them to repell Force, by Force, and to exercise Acts of Hostility in those parts against the Spaniards, who never would keep any Peace there; insomuch that about the year One thousand six hundred and fourty, when this Question was brought into debate before the Council of the late King, the Spanish Am-10 bassadour demanding the stop of certain Vessels then in the River, ready to set sail for America, with Commissions to exercise Acts of Hostility there against the Spaniards; And the English, upon a Demand made of Commerce in the West-Indies, by the Lords of the Council appointed for that affair, 15 being denyed the same, they determined that the Ships should proceed in their Enterpriæes, which they did accordingly.

Thus far the late Kings owned their Subjects in the War they maintained in those parts, upon their private accompt, although through the prevalency of the forementioned Span-20 ish Faction, they would never afford them that publique Protection which was due unto them, and which was suitable to the Honour and Interest of this Nation. And it would have been as Dishonourable and Unworthy for Us, who, through the goodness and providence of God, were so well furnisht 25 with Ships of War fit for Foreign Service, to have let them lie rotting at home, rather than to have employed them for the just Revenge of so much English (why may we not also say) Indian blood, so unjustly, so unhumanely, and so cruelly spilt poribus, (& positis terminis habitationis eorum. Et certè Deus, quocunque id tempore, cujuscunque id manu administrandum sit, tanti sanguinis innocentissimi, tantarum cædium, quibus tot millia Indorum ab Hispanis tarn barbare occisa sunt, tantarum denique injuriarum, quibus iliac gentes misere sunt ab iisdem vexatæ atque oppressæ, cœrtissimas aliquando poenas repetiturus est.

Verum ad communem hominum inter se necessitudinem, quæ fraterna sane est, quæque facit ut gravissimæ & atrocissimæ quorumvis mortalium injurise ad reliquos omnes pertinere quodammodo videantur, necesse non est ut recurramus: cum ipsorum hominum nostrorum factæ cædes ac spoliationes satis causæ quamobrem a nobis ilia nuper expeditio suscepta sit, satisque justam vindicandi materiam dederint: ut nequid præterea nostrarum inpræsentia rationum, ut ne in futurum etiam nostram ipsam sociorumque incolumitatem, eorum præsertim qui orthodoxam Religionem colunt, consideremus; ut alias denique causas, quæ illam nobis expeditionem suaserunt, quasque nunc sigillatim enumerare consilium non est, omittamus: cum non causæ singulæ sed ipsius rei jus atque æquitas declaranda nobis proponatur. Quod ut clarius faciamus, & generatim dicta particulatim explicemus, ad præterita referre oculos paulisper oportebit: quæque inter Anglos atque Hispanos transacta sint, quo statu res eorum utrinque, ad se mutuo quod attinet, fuerint, ex quo & perlustrata primo occidentalis Indis ora, & reformat Religio est, strictim percurrere. Quæ duæ res maxima, cum eodem fere tempore accidissent, permagnas ubique conversiones orbis terrarum rebus attulere; ad Anglos præser-

by the Spaniards in those parts, Since God hath made of one blood, all Nations of men, for to dwell on all the face of the Earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation And certainly, at one time or 5 another, by some hand or other, God will have an accompt of the Innocent Blood of so many Millions of Indians, so barbarously Butchered by the Spaniards, and of the Wrong and Injustice that hath been done unto them.

But we shall have no need to have recourse unto the com-10 mon Brotherhood between all Mankind, which in some sort may interest them in the horrid, and enormous injuries of each other; the blood and spoils of our own Countreymen, being sufficient to warrant the late Expedition, besides the Consideration of Present Interest, and Future Security to this Na-15 tion, and all its Allyes, especially of the Protestant Religion, with sundry other Reasons and Motives, which were Inducements to that Undertaking, the which it is not our Business (at present) particularly to declare, but the Justice and Warrantableness thereof; For the better cleering whereof, and mani-20 testing what hath been already alleadged in generall, it will be necessary to cast our eyes a little back, and to take a view of the Transactions between England and Spain, and the state they have been in, with Relation to each other, since the Reformation of Religion, and the Discovery of the West Indies; 25 which two great Revolutions, happening neer about the same time, did very much alter the State of Affairs in the World, especially in Relation to the English and Spanish Nations, who ever since have taken a Different, and almost a contrary Measure of their Interest, from what they did before. For, tim & Hispanos quod spectat, qui diversam ab eo tempore & pene contrariam res suas agendi rationem secud sunt. Tametsi enim Rex proximus, ejusque Pater, adversis ferme totius populi Anglicani studiis atque sententiis, duo foedera cum Hispanis quoquo modo sarserunt, diversi tamen illi utrorumque sensus ac studia ex diversa religione nata, perpetuæque in occidentali India controversise, & Hispanorum simul, dum suis illic thesauris metuunt, suspiciones de Anglis ab initio concepts, cumhujusReipublicæconatusinassequendaæquisatquehonestis conditionibus Pace inutiles nuper reddidere, turn praccipuas re vera causas Philippo scundo præbuere, ut regnante Eliæabtha, antiquum illud diuque inviolatum foedus, quod huic genti cum majoribus ejus, tarn Burgundici quam Castellani generis intercesserat, rumperet, & illato illi Regina bello, nationem hanc totam subigendam sibi proponeret, idque ipsum anno supra millesimum quingentesimo octuagesimoque octavo (dum interea de Pace stabilienda agebatur) omni impetu aggrederetur: quod quidem in Anglorum animis necesse est adhuc alte residere, neque inde posse facile evelli. Et quam postea pax quædam & commercium in Europa fuit (quamvis ejusmodi nunquam ut Anglorum quisquam suam profited Religionem in Hispanica ditione, aut Sacra Biblia habere domi, ne in navi quidem ausus fuerit) in occidentali tamen India Hispanus nunquam ex eo tempore, aut pacem esse aut commercium est passus; etiamsi in illo fcedere Hcnrici octavi Regis Angliæ, cum Carolo quinto Imperatore anno millesimo quingentesimo quadragésimo secundo de utraque ilia re disertis verbis convenisset; in quo fcedere nominatim pax although the late King, and His Father, contrary to the Stream and Current of the Affections and Hearts of this Nation, patched up two Treaties of Peace with Spain; yet those New Principles, begotten through the Difference of Religion, and 5 the Continual Quarrels in the West Indies, together with the Spaniards perpetual Jealousies of the English, in respect of his Treasure there, as they have rendred the late Endeavours of this Common-wealth Fruitless, as to the settling of a Firm Peace, upon Just and Honorable Terms, so were they the true 10 Causes that induced Philip the Second King of Spain, in the time of Queen ELIÆ ABETH, to break that Antient and long un-interrupted League, which this Nation had with his Predecessours, both of the Burgundian and Castillian Line, and entering into a War with the said Queen, to Design (and 15 depending a Treaty of Peace) in the year, One thousand five hundred eighty eight, to attempt a total Conquest of this Nation, which must needs ly close by English mens hearts, and will not easily out of their Mindes. And albeit there was after, a kinde of Peace and Commerce in Europe (though 20 never such a one, as that an English man durst own his Religion in the Spanish Dominions, or keep a Bible in his House or Ship) yet in the West Indies, the Spaniards would never since admit either of Peace or Commerce, notwithstanding that both are expresly accorded, by the Treaty made between 25 Henry the eighth King of England, and the Emperour Charles the Fifth, in the year One thousand five hundred fourty two, wherein Peace and free Commerce is agreed upon between the two States, and the Subjects of each Prince in all the Domin-atque libcrum commercium inter utrosque & utrorumque populos per omnem alterutrius ditionem, portus, & territoria quæcunque sancitum est, sine ulla occidentalis Indiæ exceptione, quamvis illam tune temporis Imperator ille obtineret.

- 5 Quod autem ad Articulum Pacis per universum terrarum orbem colendæ, is quidem articulus in omnibus Pacis foederibus, quæ inter utramque gentem unquam extitere, dilucide continetur; neque ulla de commercio ullo in fædere exceptio habetur ante illud anni millesimi sexcentesimali quarti, cum quo 10 foedus illud postremum anni millesimi sexcentesimali trigesimi hac de re per omnia consentit. In quibus duobus proximis fcederibus, per omnes atque singulos utriusque imperii fines commercium convenit, Quibus in locis ante helium inter Philippum secundum Hispaniæ Regem, & Eliæabethan! Angliæ 15 Reginam fuit commercium juxta & secundum usum (y observantiam antiquorum jcedcrum & tractatum ante id tempus initorum.

Hæc ipsa faderum verba sunt; quæ rem dubiam relinquunt, atque ita Rex Jacobus pacem cum Hispanis quoquo modo con-20 ficere satis habuit, cum eandem de pace tractationem resumeret, quac paulo ante mortem Eliæabethan inchoata fuerat; in qua etiam tractatione suis ilia deputatis inter cetera mandaverat, ut de commercio libero in occidentali India habendo instantè agerent.

- 25 Verum Rex Jacobus (qui pacis cum Hispanis faciendac admodiim erat cupidus) ita istam clausulam relinquere contentus erat, ut utrique parti eam suo modo interpretandi facultas esset; quanquam si ilia verba Usus & observantia antiquorum

ions, Ports and Territories of each other whatsoever, without any exception of the West Indies, though at that time in possession of the said Emperour.

And as to the Article of Peace in all parts of the World; It is 5 expresly contained in all the Treaties of Peace, that ever were between the two Nations; neither is there any restriction of Commerce in any Treaty, before that of One thousand six hundred and four, whereunto the last Treaty, in the year One thousand six hundred and thirty, doth exactly agree, as to this 10 matter. In which two last Treaties, Commerce is agreed in all and singular the Dominions of both States; In which, before the Wane between Philip the Second King of Spain, and Eliæabeth Queen of England, there had been Commerce between the two Kingdomes, like and according to the use and 15 observance of the Ancient Leagues and Treaties made before the said time: These are the words of the Treaties, which leave the matter doubtful, and so King James was contented to slubber up a Peace with Spain, when he resumed the Treaty, which was on foot a little before the death of Queen Eliæabeth; and 20 wherein, amongst other things, she gave her Commissioners Instructions to insist upon Commerce, and a Free Trade in the West-Indies.

But King James (who was exceeding fond of a Peace with Spain) was content to leave that Point in such sort, as that 25 either part might interpret the Article in their own sense; although if those words of Use and observance of the ancient Leagues and Treaties are to be understood (as in Reason they ought) according to what of Right ought to have been ob-

 5 dissidiorum materia perpetua erat, ex ipsis antiquorum fcederum disertis verbis clarissimum est, per omnem Hispanorum ditionem, quxcunque illa esset, tarn commercii quam pacis jus Anglis fuisse.

Cæterum si antiqua foedera & pactiones servandi ratio ab 10 eorum manifesta violatione petenda est, habent Hispani obtentum aliquem sic intepretandi illam in postremis foederibus clausulam, quasi commercium illis in locis exciperet. Et tamen ad dimidiam usque illius temporis partem quod inter supradictum foedus 1542, & initium belli a Philippe secundo contra 15 Eliæabetham suscepti intercessit, quantum ipsis ex rebus gestis intelligi potest, haud minus permitti illis in locis quam prohiberi commercium apparet. At posteaquam Hispani commercium omnino recusarunt, a permutandis mercibus ad alternandos ictus ac vulnera deventum est, tarn ante bellum inter 20 Philippum & Eliæabethan! ortum, quam post pacem ab Jacobo Rege anno 1604 factam; alteramque ab ejus filio anno 1630, ita tamen ut hinc commercium per Europam non interpelleretur; tametsi nunc primum Hispaniæ Rex, post hanc nuper nostrarum rerum retentionem, eorum locorum controversias ad hæc 25 etiam Europe loca propagandas interpretatus est.

Verum neque in foederum interpretatione, neque in jure commercii ex illis fcederibus, aliave ratione habendi insistimus; quasi in iis fundamenta hujus dissidii jacienda necessario sint, served, and not according to what in Fact was practised on the Spaniards part, in direct violation thereof, (which was continual matter of complaint on the part of the English, and of quarrel between the two Nations) it is very evident by the 5 express words of the Ancient Treaties, That the English were to have Commerce, as well as Peace, in all the Spanish Dominions whatsoever.

But if the measure of the Observance of the Ancient Leagues and Treaties, is to be taken from the manifest Violation and 10 Infringement of them, the Spaniards may have some colour to interpret that Clause of the last Treaties, as restraining Commerce in those parts. And yet, for the first half of the time between the aforementioned Treaty 1542. and the breaking forth of the War between Queen Eliæabeth and Philip the 15 Second King of Spain, there appeareth as much in matter of Fact for the Permission, as for the Prohibition of Trade in those parts. And after, when the Spaniards utterly refused Commerce, the Exchange of Wares was turned into the Exchange of Blows, and of Powder and Shot, as well before the War 20 between Queen Eliæabeth and Philip the Second King of Spain, as after the Peaces made by King James in the Year 1604, and by his Son in the Year 1630, yet so, as that it did not interrupt the Commerce in these parts of Europe; although now the King of Spain by his late Embargo, hath first inter-25 preted the Quarrels of those parts, to extend unto these of Europe also.

But We do not insist either upon the interpretation of the Treaties, or Right of Commerce thereby, or otherwise, as that cum id clarissimis atque evidentissimis rationibus nitatur, quod statim planum faciemus. Sunt tamen ejusmodi nonnulla, quæ, etsi bellum iis fundari non ita necesse est, possunt, necque injuria, impedimenta esse sancientiæ pads, aut instaurandi 5 saltem fœderis, in quo ea non conceduntur, vel quæ in prioribus pactis concessa sunt, vel non immerito expectari queunt. Quod etiam pro response esse potest ad id quod quæritur, quare, quandoquidem antiqua fœdera cum aliis omnibus populis redintegravimus, idem cum Hispanic Rege non fecimus;

 10 neque continue nos in conditionibus fœderis dextrum ejus oculum, multoque minus ambos (quod objicitur) ejus oculos postulasse, si crudelissimæ Inquisitioni obnoxii esse, ubi commercium permissum est, nolimus, dandumque nobis commercium institimus, unde, neque per antiqua fœdera, neque 15 communi jure excludendi sumus. Tametsi enim Rex Hispaniæ id sumpsit sibi ut nobis commercii leges finesque præscriberet, Romani pontificis lege quadam fretus, qua is omne commercium cum Turcis, Judæis, aliisque infidelibus vetat,¹ eoque nomine etiam pacis tempore naves ejus bellicæ aliis etiam in locis whereon We have any need to state Our Quarrel, it being founded upon Clear and Undisputable Grounds, as We shall presently declare; yet such things as may not be so necessary Causes whereupon to found and begin a War, may be reason-5 able Impediments to the concluding of a Peace, or at least to the renewing of a League, wherein We cannot have so much allowed, as in former Leagues have been admitted, and in reason may be expected; which may serve also for an Answer to that Question, Why, having renewed Our Leagues with all 10 other Nations, We have not done it with the King of Spain; and that We have not demanded as a Condition thereof, his right Eye, much less (as hath been said) both his Eyes, because We would not be at the Mercy of a cruel Inquisition, where We are admitted to Commerce, and would be admitted to 15 Commerce where We ought not to be excluded from it, neither by the ancient Treaties, nor of Common Right; for although the King of Spain hath formerly taken upon him to prescribe Us Bounds of Trade, upon a Law made by the Pope, inhibiting all Trade and Commerce with Turks, Jews and other Infidels,¹

The instances of the continual Acts of Hostility, and Cruelties, exercised by the Spaniards against the English in the West-Indies in the times of Peace, both from the Year 1604, when a ³ A Ship called the Ulysses, being in Trade upon the Coast of Guiana, when the Merchants and Mariners went on shore upon the Faith and Oaths of Don Berreo Governor of that place; to which Oaths the Mariners giving credit, were notwithstanding Thirty of them suddenly taken and committed, and Letters written from the Governor to the Merchant, That it was true he had taken Thirty of his men prisoners, for that divers Strangers that had formerly traded there, had deceived him of Twenty thousand Duckets, but if that he would send him the Twenty thousand Duckets, then he vowed presently to send him all his Thirty men aboard safe, and then to continue their Trade also: whereupon, the Merchants sent him in Plate and Goods, his desired Sum; which when the Governor Don Berreo had received, he caused all the Thirty men to be strangled to trees, except the Chyrurgeon of the Ship, which was kept alive to cure the Governors disease. This Ransom with other Losses there, amounted to Seven thousand pounds.

After die Peace concluded in the Year 1605, a Ship called the Mary, Ambrose Birch being Master, was in Trade upon the North-side of Hispaniola in the West-Indies; and the Master with six of his Company being enticed on Shore by a Priest 5 called Father John, to see some Merchandise, under promise of secure and fair Trading, and twelve Spaniards going aboard the Ship to view the English Wares; whilst the English Merchants were shewing them their Merchandise, nothing doubting of any fraud, the Watch-word being given from the shore 10 by the Priest, every Spaniard drew out a great Knife, and stabbed all the English men aboard, except two that leaped into the Sea, and the rest on shore were put to strange deaths, and the Master himself was stripped naked, and bound to a tree with cords, and so pinched and stung to death, being 15 naked, by Mosqueto's; where continuing about twenty hours, a Negro hearing a man roar, and cry in that extremity, and finding him, ran him dirough with his Lance: This Ship and Goods was worth Five thousand four hundred pounds.

Another Ship called the Archer Was the same Year taken 20 near to Sancto Domingo, and all her men executed: This Ship was worth Thirteen hundred pounds.

Another Ship called the Amity of London with her Pinace, was taken by Don Lewis Facæardo, Governor of the King of Spains Armado, the Ship and Goods were confiscated, and the 25 Merchants and Mariners all cast into the Sea, except one Boy to do them service: This Ship and Pinace were worth Five thousand six hundred pounds.

upon confidence of the Spaniards Oaths, they were notwithstanding all strangled to trees; where their Owners lost their Ship and Goods, amounting to Fifteen hundred pounds.

In the Year 1606, a ship called the Neptune, was taken near

In the same Year, another ship called the Lark, was taken by Don Lewis Facæardo, and confiscated with her whole Lading, being worth Four thousand five hundred and seventy pounds.³

10 Another ship called the Castor and Pollux, was taken by the Spaniards upon the Coast of Florida, which they confiscated, and executed all the Men in her, or kept them Slaves, for they could never be heard of since: This ship with her merchandiæe was worth Fifteen thousand pounds.

15 In the Year 1608, a Ship called The Richard of Plimouth, whereof was Captain one Henry Challins, being set forth by the Lord Chief Justice Popham, Sir Ferdinando Gorges, and others, for Virginia, and by violent Storms being driven to the southward of the Canary Islands, and then bending her course

Simile quiddam navi alteri, cui nomen The Aydc, factum est a Lodovico Fajardo captæ, obtentu amicitia; hæc item cum bonis publicata est, omnesque nautæ, ad triremes abducti; ubi nonnulli fustibus, ad necem pulsati sunt, quod remigium re-10 cusassent. Quæ navis & bona, Hispanis ipsis æstimantibus, septem millibus librarum æstimata sunt.

Eodem anno Navis alia, Anna Gallant appellata, magistro Gulielmo Curry, cum ad Hispaniolam mercaturas faceret, similiter & navis & bona publica facta sunt, omnesque nautac 15 suspensio necad, assutis unicuique ad ludibrium chartulis, in quibus erat scripturn, Cur hue venistis? Hæc navis cum onere octo millibus librarum æstimata est.

Hæc exempla satis ostendunt, cujusmodi nobis Pacem Hispani in occidentali India temporibus Jacobi servarunt; qui Rex 20 diligentissime curavit vel potius pertimuit ne Pax cum iis dirimeretur. Ejusmodi hostilia plane & cruenta vestigia, ab ilia etiam proxima Pace, quæ anno 1630 confecta est, ad hanc usque diem, persequi licet.

De iis coloniis, quæ, ab hujus nationis nobilibus quibusdam

which took the said Ships, notwithstanding that the Captain shewed the Kings Broad Seal for his Warrant, yet the Ship and Goods were confiscated, and the man most cruelly used, and sent to rowe in the Gallics; whereby was lost above Two thousand five hundred pounds.

The like was done to another Ship called the Ayde, taken by Don Lewis Facæardo, under colour of friendship, and the Ship and Goods confiscated, and all the men sent to the Gallics, where some were beaten to death with Cudgels, for that they refused to rowe; which ship and goods were worth by the Spaniards own computation, Seven thousand pounds.

In the same Year, another Ship called the Anne Gallant, Mr. William Curry Master, being in Trade upon Hispaniola, the Ship and Goods were confiscated, and the whole company hanged up with papers written upon them, Why came you hither? This Ship and Goods was worth Eight thousand pounds.

These particulars may suffice to shew what Peace the Spaniards kept with Us in the West-Indies in the time of King James, who was very careful, or rather fearful to break the Peace with them; And the like Hostile and bloody Foot-steps, We may trace down from the time of the last Peace concluded in the year 1630, unto this very time.

We shall begin with the Colonies of this Nation, settled by certain Noblemen and Gentlemen, in the Islands of Cattelina (called by them Providence) and Tortugas (by them named Association) which about the year 1629, being void of all Inhabitants, and tame Beasts or Cattel, were actually possessed

5 tratus, suo diplomate, quod & magno sigillo Angliæ signatum erat, supradictam insulam Providently simul & alias vicinas ditionis esse suæ declaravit; casque nobilibus quibusdam viris eorumque hæredibus possidendas concessit; & sequente anno ad Tortugam usque insulam concessionem illam extendit.

- 10 Et quanquam supradicti Coloni, ejusdem Regis concessione in earum insularum possessionem venerant, eaque concessio jure optimo fundata erat, primum Naturæ, eo quod neque Hispani, neque alii quicunque in eorum locorum possessione essent, deinde Belli, quandoquidem belli tempore occupatæ 15 sunt, & in Pacis articulis nequaquam exceptæ, unde extingui jus Hispanorum (si quod illic juris habuissent) ipsorum assensu, ex secundo proximi foederis articulo, sequitur, quanquam etiam neque supradicta Colonorum Societas, nee suorum quisquam ullo suo facto justam offensionis causam vel His-20 paniaë Regi, vel Hispanorum cuiquam præbuerat, donee priores ipsi naves nostras atque Colonias vi invasissent, & Anglorum haud paucos, incensis etiam eorum ædificiis ac sedibus, interfecissent, Hispani tamen, cum nullam iis in locis pacem servare statuissent, circa 22 Januarii 1632, nulla injuria lacessiti, 25 navem quandam societatis, cui nomen Flos Marinus, ab insula Providentiæ redeuntem, inter Tortugam & Floridæ caput hos-

by the English in time of Open War between England and Spain; And the next year a Peace being concluded between the two nations, & no Claim or Reservation therein of the said Islands by the Spaniards, the late King did by his Letters 5 Patents under the Great Seal of England, (notwithstanding that Peace) assume the said Island of Providence, with other adjacent Islands, as part of his own Dominions, and did grant the same to divers Noblemen and Gentlemen, and their Successors; and the next year extended his Grant to the aforemen-10 tioned Island of Tortugas.

And notwithstanding that the said Adventurers were in possession of the Islands aforesaid, by the late Kings Grant, founded upon a double Right, that of Nature, the Places not being in the possession of the Spaniards or any others; and that 15 of War, being taken in the time of War, and not excepted in the Treaty of Peace, and consequently the Spaniards pretensions thereunto, (if they had any) extinguished, by their own Agreement in the Second Article of the last Treaty; And notwithstanding that neither the said Company, nor any em-20 ployed by them, did give the least just Cause of Offence unto the King of Spain, or any of his Subjects, until such time as they had first assaulted their Ships and Colonies, and slain divers of the English therein, burning and destroying their Plantations; yet the Spaniards observing no Peace with the 25 English in those parts, about the 22 of January 1632, without any just Provocation, did assault one of the Ships of the said Company, called The Sea-flower, in her peaceable Return from Providence, between the Tortugas and the Cape of Flor-tiliter aggressi sunt, in qua pugna nonnullos in ea navi occiderunt, alios vulnerarunt.

Post hæc anno circiter 1634, Tortuga insula ab Hispanis cum quatuor navibus oppugnata est, cum ab Anglis nulla injuria 5 exorta esset: in qua oppugnatione sexaginta vel amplius occisi sunt, multi sauciati ac capti, sedes deletæ, domus incensæ, bona baud parui pretii ab Hispanis asportata, Angli penitus ex ea insula dejecti, quorum alii suspendio sublati, alii Havanam abducti in servitute miserrima retenti sunt; unus præ cæteris, 10 cui nomen Grymes, qui in Tortuga Bombardarius fuerat, crudeliter est trucidatus; pars ad desertam quandam insulam confugiens, cui Sanctæ Crucis nomen est, ab Hispanis, qui eo etiam cum tribus navibus longis fugientes persequabantur, oppugnata mense Martio 1636, quadraginta occisi, reliqui capti 15 & crudelissime accepti.

Anno 1635 Iulii 24, Hispani duabus navibus magnis unaque longâ advecti in Providentiæ quoque insulam impetum fecerunt, compluriumque horarum spatio prælium ibi commiserunt; & turn quidem reject! sunt, & ab incæpto desistere 20 coacti; donee idem rursus tentantes circa annum 1640, cum duodecim navibus magnis & minoribus, quarum Prætoriae Armadillo Carthaginensi nomen erat, ex majoribus Regise classis Argentariæ triremibus, cum magnum militum numerum in terram exposuissent, totius insulac expugnationem 25 polliciti sibi sunt, verum, haud parvo accepto incommodo, reida; in which Assault, they killed some, and wounded others in the said ship.

And after about the year 1634, the Island of Tortuga was assaulted by divers Subjects of the King of Spain, in four Vessels, though there was no Provocation at all on the part of the English; in which assault, threescore or more were slain, divers wounded and taken prisoners, their Plantations spoiled, their Houses burned, their Goods to a great value carried away by the Spaniards, and the Island wholly dis-peopled thereby of 10 the English, whereof some being hanged, and others carried prisoners to the Havana, were detained in cruel slavery, and one of them called Grymes, formerly a Gunner at Tortuga, was there barbarously murdered; and some of them flying for Refuge to Sancta Cruce, an Island void of Inhabitants, were 15 pursued thither by the Spaniards in three Friggots, and there assaulted in March 1636; in which Assault, about forty of the English were slain, and the rest carried away prisoners, and used with very much hardship.

And the 24 of July 1635, the Island of Providence it self was 20 assaulted by the Subjects of the King of Spain, in two great ships and a Friggot, which maintained a Fight for divers hours, but were beaten off at that time, and forced to discontinue their Attempt, till they renewed it again about the year 1640, with twelve sayl of ships, great and small, whereof the 25 Admiral was the Armadillo of Cartagena, one of the King of Spain's Gallioons of his Plate-Fleet; from this Fleet having landed a considerable number of soldiers, they promised themselves the Conquest of the Island, but were again repulsed with a considerable Loss on their part; yet soon after returning with another Fleet, the Colony being then fallen into Divisions and Distractions amongst themselves, they did not think so much of making a good Defence, as of making good Conditions for 5 themselves, which upon the Delivery up of the Island, with little or no opposition they obtained; but the Island was thereby wrested from the said Adventurers, and from the Commonwealth, to the particular Loss of the one, above Eighty thousand pounds, and to the Publique Dishonor and Detriment of 10 the other; And being possessed by the Spaniard, a ship that came from New-England with some People from thence, that intended to have transplanted themselves into that Island, was cunningly drawn within the reach of their Canon (being ignorant that the Place was in the Spaniards hands) and got 15 off with a great deal of danger and difficulty, and the loss of the Master of the ship (a very honest man) who was slain with a Cannon shot from the Island.

Neither were the Spaniards content to bound their Enterpriæes against the said Adventurers within the parts of America, 20 but also extended their acts of hostility against them to these parts of Europe; for on the 25 of December 1638, a ship called the Providence, belonging to the said Company, under the Command of Captain Thomas Newman, was assaulted and surprisèd two Leagues off Donegenesse upon the Coasts of 25 England, by one Captain Spring&ld, Captain of a Dunkirk Man of War, and carried to Dunkirk, where the said Goods were detained (being by divers there acknowledged to be of Thirty thousand pounds value) and of the English aboard the

Cumque plures quos occiderent invenire non possent (cum incolarum pars alia in silvas profugisset) Hispani Portoricum reversi iis miseris & fame propemodum confectis reliquiis ad 20 venerunt.

Eodem anno 1651, Navis quædam Joannis Turneri, cum esset in portum Cumanagotæ vehementioribus ventis appulsa, said ship, some were slain, others wounded, and the rest after a barbarous and uncivil Usage aboard, were carried prisoners to Dunkirk, where some were used with much hardship, till they found means to escape; And notwithstanding that the 5 said Adventurers used all due means for to obtain satisfaction, and that the late King by his Agent sir Balthaear Gerbeere, and by his Letters, as well written by Secretary Cook, as with his own hand, required Justice on their behalf; yet could they not obtain Restitution of any part of the said Goods, or any 10 Reparation in lieu thereof.

There are Examples of more fresh and bleeding Memory, as that of Sancta Cruce, assaulted by the Subjects of the King of Spain, from Puertorico, about the year 1651, being an Island formerly void of all Inhabitants, and possessed at that time by 15 a Colony of the English, under the command of Captain Nicholas Philips, who, together with about a hundred more of the said Colony, were slain and butchered by the Spaniards, who seiæed the Ships in the Harbour, pillaged, burnt, and destroyed their Plantations, and Houses, and finding no more men to 20 massacre (part of the Inhabitants escaping by flight into the Woods) the Spaniards returned to Puertorico, and gave opportunity to that Miserable, and almost starved Remnant, to betake themselves to other adacent Islands, and totally desert that of Sancta Cruce; yet the Spaniards returned after a while 25 from Puertorico, to hunt out and murther those who had retired themselves into the Woods, but they found means to escape their hands, and to get into other Islands.

In the same year 1651. a Ship belonging to Mr, John Turner,

Et anno 1650 Navis quædam Samuelis Wilson, quæ Barabducta est; navis & bona publicata, nautarum plerique in custodiam traditi, & mancipiorum more in munimentis operas dare coacti.

Similia experti sunt nautæ cujusdam navis Barnstapulensis, being forced into the Port of Cumanagota by stress of Weather, was seiæed by the Governour, and the Ship and Goods confiscated.

The like was done to another Ship and goods belonging to 5 Captain Cranley.⁶

And in the year 1650. a Ship belonging to Mr. Samuel Wilson, bound for Barbadoes, and laden with Horses, was taken at Sea, and carried into the Havana, the Ship and goods were confiscate, and most of the Men kept Prisoners, and forced to 10 work in the Bulwarks like Slaves.

The like usage had the Company belonging to a Ship of Barnstable, about two years since at Sancto Domingo in Hispaniola; which Ship, springing a Leak neer Hispaniola, as she was returning from some of Our Plantations in the Caribby 15 Islands, her Company were forced to save themselves in their Boat upon Hispaniola, where they were taken Prisoners, and made to work like slaves in their Fortifications.

By these particulars (and many other of the like nature, which would be too long to rehearse) it is most apparent that 20 the King of Spain and his Subjects, do not account themselves bound to hold any terms of Peace with the English in those parts, but continually exercise all manner of Hostility against them, and worse than Hostility; the Barbarous Usage of the English there, being so far from the Laws of Peace, that it is 25 not agreeable to the Laws and Customs of a Fair War: And yet the English must be taxed (as they are by the King of Spain in his Order for the late Embargo) as those, That had been want-

 10 them to touch, without notice taken by his Ministers, according to the rigour of the Capitulations of Peace, between the two Crowns, which doth reciprocally prohibite the entrance into the Ports with more than Six or Eight Ships of War.

But as himself in those words cleareth Our Fleets of any 15 Infringement of the Capitulations in what they did, being done by leave and permission of himself, and his Ministers (if any such thing were done, and connived at, as is alleged) and as all the world well knoweth, he was not so courteous for nought, Considering the advantage and countenance that his 20 affairs of late have received from Our Fleets; so on the other side the said King, and his Ministers, have taken very little notice of the Capitulations by him mentioned, wherein it is so

 10 against Us, and his Declaration in the said Order, That acts of hostility exercised in the West-Indies, are a breach of Peace, and of the freedom of Commerce in these parts, is of the first Impression that hitherto hath proceeded from either State; though there have not been wanting several occasions on both 15 sides to have done it.

But since the King of Spain hath both by word, and deed, Declared the Treaties of Peace so to be understood, he hath consequently concluded himself to have first violated the sacred bonds of friendship, by so many acts of open Hostility, 20 first exercised by him upon the English in those parts, and from time to time continued, ever since the last Treaty of Peace, as before hath been particularly declared; which is a thing so evident, and notorious, that Our adversaries themselves cannot certainly have the face to deny the matter of Fact, 25 but will choose rather to insist upon the matter of Right, and that as the King of Spain hath assumed amongst his Titles, that of Rex Indiarum; so indeed all the Indies and Indian Sea, both North and South, are his proper Dominions, and that & omnes oeteræ nationes, quicquid iis in locis possidemus, ci relinquere ac reddere, &, reductis Coloniis nostris, injuriæ sibi factæ veniam petere deberemus. Verum si rationem ac veritatem illius tituli altius inspiciamus, tenui admodum atque 5 infirmo cum niti fundamento comperiemus, quo tanta contentionum ac belli moles superstruenda sit, quantam hanc veri-simile est futuram.

Duplex titulus præfertur, Papam videlicet ea loca donasse, seque primes omnium perlustrasse: ad primum quod attinet, 10 scimus Papam in donandis Regnis ac regionibus liberalissimum semper fuisse, illi interea dissimillimum cujus Vicarium se esse profitetur, qui ne hoc quidem tantulum sibi sumere volebat, ut in dividundis hæreditatibus constitui se judicem pateretur, nedum ut suo arbitrio cuiquam donaret, quemad-15 modum Angliam, Hiberniam, aliaque Regna Papa largitus est. Verum nos auctoritatem in eo istiusmodi nullam agnoscimus, neque gentem ullam usque adeo mentis inopem existi-mamus, ut in eo tantam auctoritatem inesse credat; vel Hispani ipsi ut credant, aut essent assensuri, si ab iis Papa tantum ab-20 judicasset quantum largitus est. Quod si Galli atque alii, qui auctoritatem Papalem in Ecclesiasticis rebus agnoscunt, hunc Hispanorum titulum pro nihilo habent nos ut de eo aliter sentiamus non est expectandum, adeoque hoc relinquimus, response ampliore prorsus indignum.

25 Sed neque alter Titulus majoris est ponderis; quasi vero, si Hispani paucas quasdam Americæ partes primi perscrutati sunt, insulisque aliquot, fluminibus, ac Promontoriis nomina imposuere, idcirco novi illius orbis dominium jure sibi acqui-they are all Enemies and Pyrates, that come there without his permission. Which truly if it were so, both We and all other Nations, ought to quit to him all We hold in those parts, and displanting Our Collonies, ask him pardon for the wrong We 5 have hitherto done unto him. But if We look into the ground of his Claim and Title, it will appear a very poor and weak foundation, to raise so great, and so bloody, a building upon, as this hath, and is like to prove.

A double Title is pretended, that of the Popes Donation, and 10 that of first Discovery; For the former, We know very well, the Pope hath indeed been very free in disposing of Kingdoms and Countreys, therein being very unlike him whose Vicar he pretendeth to be, that would not take upon him so much as to be a Judge to divide Inheritances, much less to give them away 15 at his pleasure; as the Pope hath done the Kingdoms of England, Ireland, and others: But We acknowledge no such power in him, nor do We believe, that any Nation is so void of sense, as to think he hath any such power; or that the Spaniards themselves do believe it, or would affirm it, if the Pope had 20 given asmuch from them, as he hath given to them: And if the French, and others, who acknowledge the Popes power in Ecclesiastical matters, do esteem this Title of the Spaniards ridiculous, it cannot be expected that We should account it any other; and so We leave it as not worthy any further answer.
 25 And of as little weight is their odier Title, as if the Subjects of the King of Spain, having first made discovery of some few parts of America, and having given names to some Islands, Rivers and Promontories, they should thereby be intituled to

 5 ubi nulli omnino incolæ fuere, vel, sicubi fuere, eorum assensu, vel saltern in desertis quibusdam suarum regionum & incultis locis, quibus vel colendis vel habitandis ipsi non sufficiant; quandoquidem Deus terrain hominum usibus creavit, præcepitque iis ut universam implerent.

- 10 Hoc si verum est, quemadmodum Hispani iniquissimo jure parta illic obtinere invenientur; cum omnia invitis incolis, & quasi ex ipsis eorum visceribus sibi acquisiverint, quorum sanguine suum imperium illic fundarunt, magnasque insulas & regiones totas non reperere quidem desertas set reddidere, 15 indigenis omnibus eradicatis, ita Angli, quæ illic habent, jure optimo possederint; casque nominatim insulas in quibus Hispani Colonias eorum oppugnarunt atque delerunt; qua: aut incolas omnino non habuere, aut si ab Hispanis interfectos, desertæ etiam ab iisdem & sine cultoribus relictæ sunt: adeo ut 20 naturæ gentiumque jure occupantibus quibusvis eas & possidentibus cedant; juxta illud in legibus notissimum, Ouce nullius sunt & pro dcrelictis habentur, ccdunt occupanti. Quanquam si Hispanos expulissemus iis locis in quæ nostras Colonias deduximus, unde ipsi prius incolas radicitus exturbaverant, nos tanquam occisionum & injuriarum illius populi ultores meliore jure regiones illas obtinuissimus, quam oppressores ejusdem & interfectores. Cum autem nostræ Coloniæ iis in locis fuerint, ubi neque Indigenæ neque Hispani possessio-

the sole Signiory of that New-world. But an Imaginary Title, upon such a prescription, without possession, cannot create any real right: The best Title, that any can have to what they possess in those parts of America, is Plantation and Possession, 5 where there were no Inhabitants, or where there were any, by their consent, or at least in such waste and desolate parts of their Countries, as they are not able in any measure to plant, and possesse; (God having made the world for the use of men, and ordained them to replenish the same.)

- 10 Upon which grounds, as the Spaniards will have little right to what they hold, having got all which they have, contrary to the consents, and out of the bowels of the first Inhabitants, in whose blood they have founded their Empire; and not found, but made great Islands, and whole Countries void of Inhabi-15 tants, having rooted out all the Natives: So on the other side, the English will have a very clear Title to their Plantations, especially to divers Islands, which the Spaniards have assaulted, and slain their Colonies in, which either never had any Inhabitants, or if destroyed by the Spaniards, were also deserted 20 by them, and left unpeopled; so that by the Law of Nature and of Nations, they rightfully accrew to the Occupiers, and possessors thereof, according to the known maxime, Quce nullius sunt & pro derelictis habcentur, ccdunt occupanti. Although if We had dispossessed the Spaniards of the places where We 25 planted Our Colonies, and where they had first dispossessed and rooted out the Natives; We, as avengers of those peoples blood and wrongs, should have had a better Title to their Countries then their oppressors, and murtherers. But Our nem ullam tenuerunt, necque habitationes ullas aut pecora post se reliquerant, aliamve rem, quæ possit ullo modo jus possessionis retinere, tanto evidentius jus nostrum iis in locis fuit & Hispanorum injuriæ nobis illatæ tanto apertiores; iis 5 præsertim in locis quæ indicti utrinque belli tempore occupata sunt (quo in genere Providentiæ insula atque Tortugæ fuit) quas si Hispani suas esse ullo priore Titulo necdum prolato ostendere potuissent, tamen cum in pacis proximo tractatione id non fecerint, per secundum ejus Articulum talem omnem 10 prætextum ipsi sibi in posterum amputarunt, jusque ipsi suum, si quod erat, extinxerunt.

Hoc argumentum copiosius tractare nihil attinet; neque est quisquam rerum peritus quin facile perspiciat quam inanes atque infirmæ sint istæ rationes quibus innixus Hispanus, tam 15 immensi tractus imperium arrogare sibi soli non dubitat. Verum id egimus ut obtentuum istorum debilitatem paucis aperiremus, quibus Hispani quicquid in nos indigne atque atrociter in occidental! India commiserunt, defendere conantur; mancipationes, suspendia, demersiones, cruciatusque
 20 nostrorum hominum ac necesse, navium ac bonorum spoliationes, Coloniarum summa in Pace depopulationes idque nulla prorsus injuria affecti, ut Anglicana gens quoties hæc tam acerba atque atrocia in suum sanguinem, & ejusdem Orthodoxi Fidei cultores perpetrata meminerit, non naves bellicas

Plantations having been where neither Natives nor Spaniards had any possession, nor had left behind them any habitations, cattle, or other thing, which might in any sort retain or preserve their Claim or Title, Our right in those places was the 5 more clear, and the wrongs and injuries done unto Us by the Spaniards, the more apparent; especially in such places which were seised upon in time of open War between the two Nations (as were the Islands of Providence and Tortuga) whereunto, if the Spaniards could have pretended any precedent 10 Dormant Title, yet, not making their Claim upon the Close of the last Peace; by the second Article thereof they concluded themselves, as to any such pretentions, and extinguished all future Claim, and right thereunto.

We need not enlarge Our Discourse upon this subject, for 15 there is not any understanding man who is not satisfied of the vanity of the Spaniards pretentions to the sole Sovereignty of all those parts of the world. But We have opened a little the weak and frivolous pretences, whereupon the Spaniards ground all their cruel & unworthy dealings with the English in 20 the West-Indies; enslaving; hanging, drowning, and cruelly torturing to death, Our Countrey-men, spoiling their Ships and Goods, and destroying their Colonies in the times of greatest Peace, and that without any just cause or provocation at all, That the English Nation reflecting upon the indignity of such 25 proceedings against their own flesh and blood, and the professors of the same true Christian Religion with them, might consider with themselves how the Honour of this Nation would lie rotting, aswell as their Vessels of War, if they should any

De Inquisitione Hispanica sanguinaria nihil dicimus, in-10 micitiarum causa universis Protestantibus communi; neque de tot Seminariis Sacerdotum ac Jesuitarum Anglicorum sub Hispanico patrocinio nidulantium, offensionis causa & periculi gravissimi huic Reipublicæ propria, cum propositum nobis potissimum sit controversiarum in occidentali India nostrarum 15 causas & rationes exponere. Hoc vero æquioribus cunctis & incorruptis rerum æstimatoribus planum fecisse confidimus, Necessitatem, Existimationem, Justitiam ad hanc nuper susceptam Expeditionem nos evocasse; Necessitatem, bellandum enim necessarium est si per Hispanos Pacem colere non licet; Ex-20 istimationem atque Justitiam, neutra enim harum nobis constare potent, si injurias tam inhumanas atque intolerandas impune civibus nostris, ac popularibus inferri desides patiemur, quales in occidentali India illatas iis esse demonstravimus.

Et certe parum vident, qui de consiliis ac rationibus His-25 panicis conjecturam capiunt ex ea personâ ac specie quam in præsentia suarum rerum inclinatio induere versus nos in his orbis terræ partibus coegit; quasi non nunc mens eadem, iidem sensus animorum ac rationum suarum sint, qui turn fuere, cum longer suffer themselves to be used, or rather abused in this manner, and not only excluded from Commerce with so great and rich a part of the world, against all right and reason; but also be accompted, and executed as Rovers and Pyrates for 5 offering to Sail, or look in to those Seas, or having any inter-course (though with Our own Plantations only) in those parts of the world.

We say nothing of the bloody Spanish Inquisition (a common cause of quarrel to all Protestants) nor of so many Semi-10 naries of English Priests and Jesuits in the Spanish Dominions (a particular ground of offence and of danger to this Commonwealth) Our scope principally being, to declare the causes and grounds of Our quarrel in the West-Indies. And We trust, by what hath been said, We have sufficiently manifested unto 15 the Consciences of all indifferent and impartial men; that Our Necessity, Our Honour, and Our Justice, have called Us forth to the late Engagement: Our Necessity; for We must have War, where the Spaniards will not let Us have Peace: Our Honour and Our Justice, for it cannot stand with either, to sit 20 down and suffer such vile indignities to be continually done in the West-Indies, to the people of this Nation, as before hath particularly been declared.

Besides, they look but a little way, that take a measure of the Spanish interest and intentions, from the late shape and coun-25 tenance that the present exigent of their affairs, have made them to put on towards Us in these parts of the world; as if their minde, or the sense of their interest, were altered (and not rather heightened, together with their hatred and jealousy upon the late Changes, and temper of this State) from what in the Valleys of Piedmont. Which (if we may believe the Remonstrance of those poor Protestants) had its source and first Contrivance from the Missionary Fryars, through the influence of the Court of Spain.

- 5 All these things considered, We hope all true hearted English men will lay by their private animosities against each other, and rather deny themselves in their particular concernments, then out of Covetousness of a little gain by Trade (which cannot be had but upon Dishonorable, and in some
- 10 sort, Dishonest terms, and may be supplied otherwise) haæard the Souls (as they do of many young Merchants and Factors upon the Tearms they live and trade in Spain) and sacrifice the Lives and Estates of many of their Christian Brethren in America, together with the Honour of this Nation: And, which is
- 15 worst of all, sell away the precious opportunities which God hath put into their hands for his Glory, and the advancement of the Kingdom of Christ, which We do not doubt will in the end (all Mists being dispelled and cleered) appear to have been the principall end of the late expedition and undertaking
- 20 against the Spaniards in the West Indies.

THE TREATY WITH SWEDEN, 1656.

WE the Lords Commissioners of the said most Serene Lord Protector, viæ. the most noble Lord Nathaniel fiennes, one Keepers of the Great Seal, and of his Highness's Privy Counsellors, Sir Bulstrode Whidock, Knight, one of the Commissioners of his Highness's Treasury, and Constable of Windsor Castle, and Walter Strickland, Esq; both Members also of his Highness's said Privy Council, do hereby make known and testify to all and every one whom it concerns, or whom it may in any measure concern, That whereas in the treaty made at Upsal, the nth of April 1654, between the said Lord Protector of the republic of England, &c. and the most Serene and Potent Princess Christina, by the grace of God Queen of the Swedes, Goths, and Vandals, Great Princess of Finland, Duchess of Esthonia, Carelia, Bremen, Verden, Stetin, Pomerania, Cassuben, and Vandalia, Princess of Rugen, Lady of Ingria and Wismar, and the kingdom of Sweden, certain affairs, relating as well to the establishment of mutual friendship, as to the advantages of commerce and navigation, were deferred to a more convenient time. And whereas it hath seemed good to the most Serene Protector that we should be furnished with sufficient powers to transact the same, and the other affairs which follow; and to the most Serene Royal Majesty of Sweden that Christiern Bonde, Free Baron of Layhela, Lord of Ymfisholm, Bordsoo, and Springestadt, &c. Senator of the kingdom of Sweden, and of the most Serene and Potent Prince and Lord, the Lord Charles Gustavus, by the grace of God King of the Swedes, Goths, and Vandals, Great Prince of Finland, Duke of Esthonia, Carelia, Bremen, Verden, Stetin, Pomerania, Cassuben, and

Fcederatorum alterutri licitum erit intra Regna, Regiones atque urbes alterius ad pulsum tympanorum militum omne genus & nautarum conscribere, Naves etiam tarn bellicas fit prxsidiarias quam onerarias conducere, sequentibus tamen servatis conditionibus.

1. Uter fcederatoromm habere delectum cupiet, is notificabit intentionem suam confederato suo, cum specificatione locorum, in quibus commodissime institui conductiones tales existimat, quod si alterius feedersti conditio non permiserit, ut illo in loco delectus habeatur, turn requisitus alter alium locum assignabit, prout suis rationibus convenientiusflcutrique parti quam minime incommodum.

2. In numero militum naviumve conducendarum rerum ac temporum ratio habebitur illius confcederatorum, in cujus Regnis ac ditionibus delectus illi habendi sunt, ne si majores copiæ, quam par est, postulentur, alter in propriis occasionibus defectum sentiat vel destituatur.

3. Milites in ea regione, ubi conscribuntur, arma non accipiant, ne in navibus quidem, nisi intra viginti leucas ab eo loco, ubi in terram exponendi sunt.

4. Tribuni, Centurionesve multos milites conscribant, qui jam in alterius Regis vel status stipendio sunt constituti, neque a signis quemquam ad se alliciant.

5. Milites, nautæ naves in alterutrius Confoederatorum Regnis ac

Vandalia, Prince of Rugen, Lord of Ingria and Wismar, also Count Palatine of the Rhine, and Duke of Bavaria, Juliers, Cleves, and Mons, and Ambassador Extraordinary from that Prince to the most Serene and most High Oliver Lord Protector of England, Scotland, and Ireland, and the dominions thereof, and to the republic of England, should be sent over to England, vested with sufficient powers to transact the same; after we had mutually imparted our opinions, and maturely considered the following points, we agreed as is clearly and perspicuously expressed in the words of the underwritten articles.

I.

It shall be lawful for either of the confederates to raise any soldiers and seamen by beat of drum within the kingdoms, countries, and cities of either; and also to hire men of war and ships of burden, observing only the following conditions.

1. Whichsoever of the confederates desires to have a muster, he shall notify his intention to his ally, and specify the places in which he thinks such levies may most conveniently be made; and if the condition of the other ally will not permit that the levy should be made in that place, then the other, being so required, shall appoint another place more convenient for his purpose, and as little as possible to the detriment of both parties.

2. As to the number of soldiers to be raised, or of ships to be hired, regard shall be had to the affairs and circumstances of that confederate in whose kingdoms and dominions the musters are to be made; lest if a greater number of forces be required than is fitting, the other should find the want of them, or be disappointed of them for his own occasions.

3. When soldiers are raised in that country, they shall not take arms, nor so much as on board the ships, till they come within twenty leagues of the place where they are to be set ashore.

4. The colonels or captains shall raise no soldiers who are already entered into the pay of another king or state, nor shall they entice any from their colours.

5. The soldiers, sailors, and ships, raised or hired, as above, in the kingdoms and countries of either of the confederates, shall not be raised against the friends or allies of the other, to the violation of the treaties concluded and now subsisting between one another and their allies.

Cum in articulo undecimo fcederis inter Angliam & Sveciam nuper icti Upsaliæ 1654. convenerit, & designarentur, quæ bona & merces contrabanda sive vetita in posterum dicenda essent, tenore supradicti articuli nunc sancitum est, uti hæc sola, quæ infra recensentur, pro vetitis habeantur, quo minus hostibus alterutrius suppeditari possint, nempe Bombardæ cum suis igniariis, fiiialiis ad eas pertinentibus, ignes missiles, pulvis tormentarius, formites, alias Lunthcn globi, cuspides, enses, lances, hastæ, bipennes, tormenta, tubi catapultarii, vulgo mortaria, indutiles Sclopi vulgo pedardæ, glandes igniarise, furcæ sclopetariæ, Bandeliers, Salpetræ, sclopeti, globuli seu pilæ quæ sclopetis jaculantur, cassides, galeæ, thoraces loricati, vulgo Curasses, & similia armaturæ genera, milites, equi, omnia ad instruendos equos necessaria, sclopothecæ, balthei, & quæcunque alia oellica instrumenta, uti etiam naves bellicæ & præsidiariæ. Pecuniæ quoque hostibus suppeditandæ pro vetitis habeantur, quas, ut & merces supradictas ad hostes alterius devehere non licebit sine periculo, si ab altero Confcederatorum deprehendantur, quod prædæ cedant absque spe restitutionis. Neque fcederatorum alteruter sinat, uti suorum cujusquam opera hostis aut perduellis alterius utatur, navesque vendantur, commodentur, ullove modo usui sint alterius hostibus aut perduellibus ad ejus incommodum aut detrimentum.

Alterutri Confoederatorum ejusque populo subditisve cum alterius hostibus commercium habere iisve merces quascunque, de quibus supra exceptum non est, advehere licebit, idque sine ullo impedimento, nisi iis in portubus locisve, quæ ab altero obsidianur, quod si accident, vel obessoribus bona sua divendere, vel in alium quemvis portum non obsessum libere se conferre permissum erit.

II.

Whereas in the XIth article of the treaty lately made at Upsal in 1654, betwixt England and Sweden, it was agreed and speci&d what goods and merchandiæ should hereafter be declared contraband and prohibited; it is now by virtue of the said article established, that only those hereafter mentioned shall be reckoned prohibited, and consequently not to be disposed of to the enemies of either, viæ. bombs with their fusees and other appurtenances, fire-balls, gun-powder, matches, cannon-ball, spears, swords, lances, pikes, halberts, guns, mortars, petards, granadoes, musket-rests, bandaliers, saltpetre, muskets, musket-balls, helmets, headpieces, breast-plates, coats of mail, cuirasses, and the like kind of arms; soldiers, horses, with all their furniture, pistols, holsters, belts, and all other warlike instruments; and also ships of war. Money shall also be reckoned among the goods with which the enemies are not to be supplied, and which it shall not be lawful to carry to the enemies of either, any more than the things above mentioned, on the penalty of being made priæ without hopes of redemption, if they are seiæd by either of the confederates. Nor shall either of the confederates permit that the enemies or rebels of the other be assisted by any of their subjects, or that their ships be sold, lent, or in any manner made use of by the enemies or rebels of the other, to his disadvantage or detriment.

III.

But it shall be lawful for either of the confederates, and his people or subjects, to trade with the enemies of the other, and to carry them any goods whatsoever, which are not excepted as above, without any impediment: Provided they are not carried to those ports or places which are besieged by the other; in which case they shall have leave either to sell their goods to the besiegers, or to repair with them to any other port which is not besieged.

IV.

Quoniam Articulo XI. Tractatus inter Sveciam & Angliam Upsaliæ 11. Aprilis Anno 1654. conclusi convenerit, quod etiam articulis prioribus cautum prohibitumque sit, ne quisquam Confoederatorum opem suppetiasque alterius inimicis hostibusque subministret, hoc tamen non ita intelligi debere, quasi uni Confcederatorum, cui bellum cum hoste alterius non fuerit, commercium cum dicto ipsius hoste non liceat exercere. Verum hoc solum, modo cautum erat, donee amplius hac de re conveniret, ne ilia bona mercesve, quas contrabands vulgo vocamus, alterius hostibus advehere licitum esset sine periculo, si ab altero Confcederatorum deprehenderentur, quod prædæ cederent absque spe restitutionis. Similiter Artie. XII. ejusdem Tractatus ad omnes suspiciones evitandas, ne navigationes commerciave unius Confcederati tam mari quam terra, durante bello alterius Confcederatorum ipsi fraudi essent, neve inimicorum hostiumve bona sub amicorum nomine occultata veherentur, conclusum statutumque erat, ut omnes naves, vehicula, merces, hominesque ad alterutrum Confcederatorum pertinentes in itinere transituque muniti esse deberent salvi conductus, vulgo vocatis Passeportus & certificationum literis, a supremo ejus provinciæ urbisque unde exiverant, Præfecto aut Magistratu signatis, utque Passeportus & certificationum eæ formulæ observari deberent, de quibus mutuo utrinque fcederati convenirent, & ubi merces, bona, navigia, homines alterutrius confcederatorum ejusque subditorum ac incolarum in aperto man, fretis, portubus, stationibus, terris ac locis, quibuscunque obvia aut obvii forent navibus bellicis publicis & privatis, vel hominibus subditis ac incolis alterius fcederati, vel quocunque modo in unum cum ipsis locum convenirent, exhibitis duntaxat salvi conductus fit certificationum literis, nihil ulterius ab iis exigeretur, in bona, navigia aut homines nequaquam inquireretur, multo minus injuria, damno aut molestia ulla afficerentur, sed persequendo itineri aut institute suo, prout superius significatum est, liberrime dimitterentur, & Articul. XIII.

IV.

Whereas in the XIth article of the treaty concluded at Upsal the nth of April, 1654, between England and Sweden, it was agreed, that although it was precautioned and prohibited by the preceding articles, that either of the confederates should give aid and assistance to the enemies of the other, yet it ought not to be understood, that that confederate who is not involved in war with the enemy of the other, shall not be allowed to carry on trade with the said enemy of that confederate: but it was only provided thereby, till there should be a farther agreement concerning this matter, that no goods or merchandiæ which we commonly call contraband shall be carried to the enemy of the other, without danger of being made priæ, and without hopes of redemption, if they are seiaed by the other confederate. In like manner, whereas by the XIIth article of the said treaty, for the evading of all suspicions, lest the navigation or commerce of one of the confederates, whether by land or sea, should be carried on during war to the prejudice of the other confederate, or lest the goods of enemies should be carried under the disguise of the goods of friends, it was stipulated and concluded, that all ships, carriages, wares, and men, belonging to the other of the confederates, should be furnished in their journey and passage with safe-conducts, commonly called passports, and certificates, signed by the chief governor or magistrate of that province and city from whence they came; and that those forms of the passports and certificates were to be observed on which the confederates should mutually agree on both sides; and when the merchandiæ, goods, ships, men of either confederates, and his subjects and inhabitants, shall meet or be met by the ships of war, public or private, or the subjects and inhabitants of the other confederate, in the open sea, straits, harbours, havens, lands, and other places, wheresoever or howsoever they shall come together, after producing only their safe-conducts and certificates nothing farther should be demanded of them, no inquiry whatsoever should be made into the ships, goods, or men, much less should they be injured, damaged, or molested; but should be freely let go to prosecute their journey and purpose, as is above signified.

And whereas by the XIVth article it was stipulated, that the said dictum Tractatum vel foedus nihil derogaturum præeminentiae, juri ac dominio cujusunque alterius Confcederatorum in suis maribus, fretis, atque aquis quibuscunque, sed quod habeant retineantque sibi eadem pari amplitudine, qua eosque gavisi erant, flet quæ illis jure competit. Nunc icaque ut ejusmodi certificationum ac Passeportuum apta formula formari flet observari possit, quæ sensui Articulorum prædictorum respondeat, utrinque conclusum statutumque est, ut ad fraudes quasunque flet mercium hostilium occultationes, omnesque disputationum flet querelarum occasiones eviundas in omnibus certificationum ac Passeportuum literis tales, ut infra scriptæ sunt, formulæ, de verbo ad verbum observari, & a supremo illius provinciae flet civitatis magistratu, unde veniunt, subscribi signarique debeant, turn ut vera nomina navium, vehiculorum, mercium flet navarchorum specificari, dies quoque & tempora fideliter flet absque ulla fraude una cum aliis ejusmodi descriptionibus, quæ in sequenti salvi conductus & certificationis formula expressæ sunt, notari debeant. Quare si ullus, qui sub fide illius juramenti, quo Regi, statui flet civitati suæ obstrictus est, asseveraverit, vera se pertulisse, sufficientibus rationibus convincatur, fraudem aliquam suo consensu sub illa ejus assertione celatam fuisse, is severe, flet sicut transgressor ejusdem juramenti puniatur.

treaty and confederacy should derogate nothing from any preheminance or right and dominion whatsoever of either of the confederates, in any of their seas, straits, and waters whatsoever, but that they should have and retain the same to themselves in as ample a manner as they had all along enjoyed them, and as by right to them belonged; Now therefore that a fitting draught of such certificates and passports may be formed and observed, which may be answerable to the meaning of the afore-said articles, it is agreed and concluded on both sides, That for avoiding all frauds and concealments whatsoever of the enemies goods, and all occasions of quarrels as to any certificates and passports, such forms as are underwritten verbatim shall be observed, and subscribed and signed by the chief magistrate of that province and city from whence they come; that then the true names of the ships, carriages, merchandiæ, and masters of the ships be speci&d; as also the punctual days and times, without any fraud, together with other descriptions of that sort, which are expressed in the following form of a safe-conduct or certificate. Neither of those confederates shall suffer the ships, vessels, goods, or merchandiæ of the other, or of his people or subjects, which are taken at sea or elsewhere by enemies or rebels, to be brought into their ports or dominions, but shall publicly forbid any thing of that kind to be done; and if any ships, vessels, goods, or merchandiæ of either, or his people or subjects, taken at sea or elsewhere, shall be carried into the ports or countries of the other by any enemy or rebel of the confederates, or either of them, that confederate into whose harbours they shall be carried, shall not surfer the same or any part thereof to be sold in that port, or any other place in their dominion; but shall take care that the master of the ship or vessel so taken, as also the mariners and passengers, shall as soon as they arrive, be immediately set at liberty, together with all the prisoners, subjects of either kingdom or republic, as many as shall be brought thither; nor shall he permit the said ship and vessel to stay in that harbour, but shall command the said ship, with her goods, merchandiæ, and lading, immediately to leave the harbour. Provided nevertheless, that nothing in this article be turned to the prejudice of the treaties formerly entered into by either of the confederates with other nations; and where these things do not interfere, the above article shall remain in full force.

VI.

It shall be free for the men of war and guard-ships of either of the confederates to enter into the ports, havens, or rivers of the other, where such ships use to repair, and there to cast anchor, stay, and to depart from thence without any injury or molestation; provided these conditions are observed.

1. That it shall not be free to carry into the harbours of the confederate any squadron, exceeding five or six ships, without giving some notice thereof beforehand.

2. That the commander of the squadron and ships shall without delay exhibit his letters of safe-conduct to the governor of the casde, fort, city, or province, or acquaint the magistrate of the place where he arrives with the reasons of his coming, and for what end, and how long he designs to stay in that port or haven.

3. That such ships shall not come or stay nearer to those castles or forts than is convenient.

4. That the mariners, ships companies, and soldiers, shall not go ashore in bodies above 40 at a time, nor in any number that may give suspicion.

5. That while they are there they shall not do any damage to any person, not so much as their enemies; and above all shall not stop or obstruct the passage of any merchant ships whatsoever, into or out of the harbour.

6. That they shall not leave their station for the sake of infesting the navigation of any nation whatever.

7. That they shall in all respects live and behave modesdy, quiedy, and conformably to the laws and customs of every place, and have special regard to the reciprocal friendship between the confederates. Where the terms aforesaid are rightly observed according to the true meaning of the words, it shall be lawful for the men of war of either confederate to keep upon the coasts, and continue in the harbours of the other confederate, whether for avoiding tempests and enemies, or for rendeävousing and assembling merchant ships, or any other just causes. But if either of the confederates shall think it advantageous or necessary to enter the ports of the other confederate with a greater number of ships, and to enjoy the conveniences thereof, he shall signify the same to his confederate two months beforehand, during which time the ways and means of admitting the same shall be settled.

Whereas it is provided by the aforesaid treaty at Upsal, that satisfaction should be given for the losses which either of the confederates or his people or subjects sustained from the other, or his people or subjects, during the war between the Republic and the States of the United Netherlands, it is now agreed, that three commissioners shall be delegated and deputed on each side, who shall take cogniæance of, and decide all those disputes; which commissioners shall meet at London, the first day of January next. And the three commissioners abovementioned, so chosen and deputed on both sides, shall have power to take all those things into their consideration which shall be exhibited or proposed on both sides, and which happened in the said period, as well concerning the restitution of the ships or goods hitherto detained, as the satisfaction for losses sustained by the detaining of the ships of either of the confederates, which are already or shall hereafter be released; or if it can be conveniently done in any other manner, they shall judge of them summarily, according to right and reason, without any appeal or forms of law; and both parties shall make it their chief business and endeavour that what is just and right be transacted in the controversies aforesaid without any delay, and that what is taken away be restored, and satisfaction performed and made fully and really for the losses and expences, according to the tenor of the XHIth article of the aforesaid treaty at Upsal. But if the said commissioners cannot agree in any reasons or foundations whatsoever of the proofs relating to such restitution or satisfaction, then those differences shall be left to another convention of the confederates. And that this may be done with the least loss of time, they shall use their endeavour to finish the cogniæance of all these matters in question within six months after the first meeting; and the restitution and satisfaction for those losses shall be made and performed fully and without delay, within the space of a month after sentence is passed, by that king or state whose subjects shall be doomed to perform the satisfaction.

In commerciis omnibus, quæ in Borussia & Polonia, vel alibi in dominiis prædicci Serenissimi Regis Sveciæ hactenus & dicti Serenissimi Domini Protectoris dictæque Reip. subditis exerceri solita fuerunt, prærogativis omnibus, quas præ aliis nationibus antea habuerunt, posthac etiam gaudebunt, & si privilegia plura aliquando cupiant desideriis ipsorum omni possibili modo satisfiat. Quod si prædictus Serenissimus Rex Sveciæ cuivis præterea exteræ nationi aut populo sibi non subjecto privilegia majores supradictis ampliora in Polonia Borussiaque concesserit, nationumve ullam aut populum ibidem ejusmodi privilegiis instruxerit, iidem, postquam id a Sereniss. R. Majestate desideraverint, fruuntur. Quemadmodum etiam si edicta aliqua, quæ Anglis & Scotis in Polonia Borussiaque habitantibus vel commercia exercentibus oneri esse poterint, post annum 1650. proclamata sunt, eadem nullum posthac obtinebunt vigorem, in quantum id prohiberi in potestate Serenissimi Regis Sveciæ fuerit, sed subditi prædicti Domini Protectoris ab omnibus istis in posterum totaliter liberi sunt.

Quod ad commercium in America habendum, id quidem lege diserte cautum est, ne cujusvis præterea Reip. subditis sine peculiari licentia commercium illic promiscue habendi potestas fiat, si quis autem subditorum Serenissimi Regis Sveciæ, ejusdem literis commendatitiis munitus, hanc sibi licentiam privatim ad eas quaslibet colonias petiverit, Dominus Protector, quoad rerum ac Reip. status pro tempore permiserit, haut invitus hac in parte Serenissimi R. The subjects of the said most Serene Lord Protector and the said republic shall also hereafter enjoy all the prerogatives in the several branches of trade, which they used to carry on in Prussia and Poland, or elsewhere in the dominions of the said most Serene King of Sweden, which they enjoyed heretofore, in preference to other nations; and if at any time they desire farther privileges, their desires shall be gratified by all the means possible; And if the said most Serene King of Sweden shall grant greater and more ample privileges than the abovementioned, in Poland and Prussia, to any nation besides, or people not subject to him, or shall suffer any nation or people to enjoy such larger privileges there, then the people and citiæens of this republic shall enjoy the same privileges in all respects, after they have desired it of his most Serene Royal Majesty. And moreover, if any edicts that have been published since 1650, happen to be burdensome to the English and Scots, dwelling or trading in Poland and Prussia, the same shall after this time be of no force, as far as it can be rendered so in the dominions of the most Serene King of Sweden; but the subjects of the said Lord Protector shall hereafter be entirely free from those burdens.

IX.

As to the commerce to be carried on in America, it is expressly provided by law, that the subjects of no republic besides shall be empowered to trade there in common without a special licence: but if any of the subjects of the most Serene King of Sweden, furnished with his recommendations, shall privately solicit such licence of the Lord Protector to trade to any of those colonies whatsoever, he will in this respect comply with the desire of his most Serene Royal Majesty of Sweden, as far as the state of his affairs and of the republic will for that time permit.

It shall be free for the subjects of the most Serene King of Sweden, to fish and catch herrings and other fish in the seas and on the coasts which are in the dominion of this republic, provided the ships employed neque inter piscandum ullum iis impedimentum aut molestia afferatur, neque a navibus præsidariis hujus Reip. neque ab iis, quibus Diplomate permissum est, res suas privatim suo Marte repetere, nee a piscantibus in boreali plaga Britanniae piscationis nomine onera aliqua exigantur, quoque opus est commeatum ab eorum locorum incolis justo pretio comparare sibi licebit.

It is also agreed and concluded, that the present treaty, and all and singular the things therein contained and included by the commissioners of the most Serene Lord Protector, and the aforesaid ambassador of his said most Serene Royal Majesty of Sweden, shall be confirmed and ratified within four months next ensuing (or sooner if possible) by the letters patent of the said King and Protector, sealed in due and authentic form with their great seal; and that the mutual instruments shall be exchanged on both sides within the term aforesaid.

The Commission from the most Serene Lord Protector.

OLIVER, Protector of the republic of England, Scotland, and Ireland, &c. To all and singular to whom these presents shall come, greeting. The Commission of his most Serene Royal Majesty of Sweden.

WE Charles Gustavus, &c. &c. do certify and make known, that whereas it is natural to those who are in the most sincere friendship, to desire that the same may be improved and increased every day; and whereas it is for the common interest of our kingdom, and of the republic of England, Scotland, and Ireland, and of our good friend the most Serene and most High Oliver Lord Protector of that republic, and the dominions thereof, that we should concert a closer league than what has been hitherto, especially at this time, when it is very manifest that many persons are conspiring our destruction:

We have therefore given it in command, as we do by these presents in the best form command and commission our well-beloved Lord Christiern Bonde, &c. our ambassador extraordinary, a man of known prudence, circumspection, and probity, to treat, stipulate, and conclude a stricter league between us, and all things thereunto appertaining, with those persons who shall be deputed with full powers for that purpose, on the part of the Lord Protector, and of the said republic.

A Convention relating to the second Article in the Treaty betwixt Sweden and England. Done at Westminster July 17, Anno 1656.

WHEREAS in the second article of the treaty concluded at Westminster, anno 1656, betwixt England and Sweden, it is declared as a point agreed and ratified by the commissioners of the most Serene Protector, and by the lord ambassador of the most Serene King of Sweden, that only the goods, merchandiæ, and other things mentioned in that article, should hereafter be deemed as contraband, and publicly prohibited. And whereas the most Serene Lord Protector has proposed by his commissioners, and has stipulated with the aforesaid ambassador extraordinary, that as long as the war continues betwixt the English and the Spaniards, none of the goods and merchandiæ following shall, under a penalty to be hereafter expressed, be carried from the dominions of the most Serene King of Sweden, to any part of the Spanish dominions; and whereas to the intent that this might be granted with the more ease, it has been also proposed that a conference should be held for ascertaining the price to be given by the English merchants, for all those goods which shall come from the Swedish dominions; and whereas the aforesaid ambassador said he could not give his consent to the said demand, because he had it not in his instructions from his most Serene King, and therefore left it entirely to the discretion of his most Serene Majesty; it is declared by this writing, that the said second article, if the most Serene King will agree to and ratify it, shall be only ratified upon this condition, That as long as the war continues betwixt the republic of England and the Spaniards, neither his Swedish Majesty, nor any of his people, shall carry pitch, tar, hemp, cables, sail-cloth, or masts, to any places in the dominions of Spain, but on the contrary, the said King shall most expressly forbid it; and if any such merchandiæ shall be carried thither contrary to this agreement, the same shall be liable to be seiæd by, and forfeited to the English. Wherefore it is most expressly provided, that if the said King shall not consent to it, then all the said second article relating to contraband goods (as also the third article which depends thereupon) shall immediately become of no force, and the question relating to the specification of contraband goods, shall remain in the state that it was before the time there was any treaty about it at London; nevertheless the rest of the articles shall remain in full force. And moreover, it is agreed and concluded on both sides, by virtue of the several powers granted to them, that although the present article be not inserted in the said treaty, it shall be of the same force and virtue as the treaty itself. INTRODUCTORY NOTE ON STATE PAPERS

THROUGH the influence of Bradshaw, Milton was appointed Secretary for Foreign Tongues to the Council on March 15, 1649, and continued to serve the English Government in that capacity through the Protectorates and until the dissolution of the restored Rump in 1659. A part of his official duties was to prepare Latin letters to be sent to foreign powers over the signatures of the heads of the English Government, and occasionally to translate, for the use of Parliament or the Council, documents submitted to them in tongues other than English. But he was not the sole person who did this work. From Oct., 1653, till Mar., 1656, his colleague was Philip Meadows. George Rodolph Weckherlin, long employed by the Council, was specially assigned to help Milton from March 11 1654, until November; he may have helped before. And from September, 1657, till 1659 Andrew Marvell was Milton's colleague. At all times he seems to have turned some of the work over to his nephew and probably to other subordinates in the office (like the three relatives of Gualter Frost). Although in a few cases there are records of the official orders instructing Milton to prepare specific documents, it would be impossible to be sure of the authorship of most of the letters, had not Milton himself fortunately given us a clew to what he claimed as his work. From almost the beginning of his service—at least from about August, 1649—Milton seems to have preserved drafts or records of what he wrote. And we know that he purposed publishing these, together with his Epistolcs Familiares in 1674, for the preface of that book explains that the disapproval of the new government alone prevented the insertion of the public letters (for which the Prolusiones were necessarily substituted) in that volume. Indeed Birch (Worlds, 1753, I, Ixxiii) adds the circumstance that Milton "was prevailed upon by the Danish resident to get his state-letters transcribed."

However, though Milton did not succeed in bringing out the planned collection during his lifetime, three separate but similar collections of his state papers, compiled obviously with his approval (in one case with his certain, in the others his probable supervision), have reached the modern student. These are, in the probable order of compilation (the reverse of that in which they have become available to scholars):

First, a series of transcripts of 156 letters (including 10 in English) in a MS. which includes also texts of other writings of Milton (and some treatises not composed by him but probably used in connection with his official work) almost surely in the hand of the amanuensis who signed the Paradise Lost contract for the poet. This was prepared some time after 1659, for the letters are arranged not chronologically, but by grouping together (imperfectly) letters addressed to the same persons. It will be more fully described in the eighteenth volume of this edition as one of the manuscripts once in Milton's library. Its early history is obscure, but in 1703 Bernard Gardiner, Warden of All Souls¹ College, Oxford, kept some accounts on the blank pages. About a century ago it was acquired by Sir Thomas Phillipps, and was his MS. No. 3993. He described it briefly to the Royal Society. (See Gentleman's Magazaine, New Series, VI [1836], ii, 462.) Though it has since been occasionally mentioned by Milton scholars, no one seems to have examined it until it was auctioned at Sotheby's on June 1, 1921 (item 1003) and purchased by President Nicholas Murray Butler for Columbia University. It is hereafter referred to as the Columbia MS. The texts of the letters occupy pages 23 to 79, and are clearly written in a hand with many contractions, but few corrections. One letter (our No. 154) is completely cancelled, and is hence doubtfully ascribed to Milton, but all the other 145 Latin letters occur in one or both of the other early collections, though neither the Skinner MS. nor the edition of 1676 is apparently based on the Columbia MS. It is the sole authority for the ten English letters and No. 154, all now first published. Its variant readings are marked with the letter C.

The second collection is the celebrated Skinner MS., prepared at Milton's direction by his young disciple Daniel Skinner, who after Milton's death attempted to publish it through the Elævirs in 1675, but was prevented through the disapproval of the English government. Masson (Life, VI, 790ff.) gives a long account of Skinner's adventures, and other documents connected with the matter are given by Professor James Holly Hanford in The Review of English Studies, VII (1931), 257—270.

To be brief, Skinner was induced to turn the MS., together with that of the De Doctrina Christiana, over to the English authorities, who deposited them in the archives at London. There they still remain. The Skinner MS. (P.R.O., S.P. 9/61) was rediscovered by William Douglas Hamilton, who in 1859 (Publications of the Camden Society, vol. 75) printed the until then unknown material under the title Original Papers Illustrative of the Life and Writings of John Milton. This volume was the first edition for Letters 137, 138, 140—150, and incidentally for 151 and the first version of 153, neither of which is in Skinner. See the notes to these and also to Letter 139.

The Skinner MS. is a quarto with text occupying 109 pages. Skinner's hand is fair, he made few corrections, and the work is arranged chronologically in three books. It contains 139 letters, of which 14 are not in the edition of 1676, and 4 not in the Columbia MS. Its variant readings are marked by the letter S.

The third collection is the printed one of 1676. This is a small duodecimo of 234 pages, without name of place or printer. There is no doubt that this was issued by the London bookseller, Moses Pitt. Skinner claimed that Pitt had "bought [the papers] of a poor fellow that had formerly surreptitiously got them from Milton." But Aubrey makes it clear that Milton's widow said she had given his papers to Edward Phillips, and Aubrey refers to these as "in the hands of Moyses Pitt." This evidence is not absolutely conclusive, but combined with the circumstance that Phillips later made it the basis for his translation, it makes us feel, as did Masson, the the edition had the consent and approval of Milton's family. As for the Government, it seems to have overlooked the matter entirely. Perhaps this compliance resulted from Marvell's persuasion, or from admiration for Milton's Latin style in even higher quarters, which had led to an offer of a position under the King. The ææl displayed in suppressing Skinner may not have been altogether unfriendly to Milton's relatives. Or perhaps the Government merely bowed to a fait accompli.

There are two forms of the volume of 1676, often referred to as issues; but actually they are two separate editions, one virtually a line-for-line reprint of the other. Except for the normal number of printers' errors, they are apparently textually identical. The editions can be easily distinguished by the woodcuts on the titlepages. One of these (which are reproduced above, page i) includes a face and has usually been regarded as the second issue because it is on the whole the better book and the more common in collections. But it is also possible that the "faceless" edition is indeed a Dutch reprint. The Preface to this is more tightly printed and therefore likely to be a later form.

The compiler of the 1676 collection often had access to versions which include the elaborate headings and other details usually the work of the clerks who prepared official copies. The texts are hence less purely Miltonic than those of the Skinner and the Columbia MSS., but have the virtue of greater completeness (save in occasional datings.) For this reason and because it is through this collection and the Phillips translation of it that posterity knew the Letters of State for two centuries, we have chosen to reprint as our basic text a copy of the "faced" edition of 1676, correcting only a few obvious printers' errors. The collection of 1676 contains 136 documents, of which 122 are also in the Skinner MS., and all save one in the Columbia MS. It is referred to as A in our notes. See also the notes to Nos. 17,20, and 43A.

There was much confusion on the downfall of the Rump. The Public Record Office can now find no original drafts or copies of letters claimed as Milton's sent by the Commonwealth, though it does have a letter (151) which was returned undelivered, known to be Milton's, and a translation prepared for Parliament, partly in Milton's hand (165), and in 1859 had two documents (now unlocated) according to Hamilton, Original Papers, pp. 2-3,18-20.

However, a search of various foreign Archives revealed originals, contemporary copies, or both, of 35 letters. These are preserved at Stockholm (11), Sjöholm (1), The Hague (8), Copenhagen (5), æurich (3), Geneva (2), Bremen (2), Oldenburg (2), Turin (2), Venice (i), Florence (1), Danæig (1), and Moscow (1). In some cases we could not search Archives but many letters have been lost. Those of the city of Hamburg, for example, were burned in 1849. Simancos contributed only one letter, doubtfully Milton's. Our search outside of England was conducted entirely by correspondence and we would record our thanks not only to the officials of the archives named, but also to many others who could help us by negative reports alone.

In several foreign archives have been found a fair number of letters of 1649—1659 not claimed as Milton's. In the case of three or four, some circumstance leads one to suspect his authorship. The variations in the three collections suggest he was not absolutely thorough as a collector of these documents. We print the Latin texts of three as "possibly Miltonic" letters at the end of our notes, but nothing more is suggested than that a desire for completeness might require it. They are numbered 170A—C. However, one letter, partly identical in language with No. 135, can be assigned definitely to Milton, and is given in our notes as No. 135 bis.

Although Milton did not himself publish his letters of state during his lifetime, some of them did find their way into print through other channels. Samuel Morland included eight (with English translations) in his History of the Evangelical Churches of the Valleys of Piemont, 1658, though without ascribing them to Milton. Variants from this volume are marked MH. See the notes to Letters 51, 53–56, 58, 139, and 153.

Johann Just Winkelmann gave the text of No. 152 in his Oldenburgische Friedens- und der benachbarten Oerter Kreigshandlungen, Oldenburg [1671]. See the notes to that document.

And there were obscure contemporary pamphlet printings of two letters, Nos. 63 and 75 (without reference to Milton). A text of No. 63 is in a four-page quarto pamphlet without note of place or printer, entitled Literæ ab Olivario Protectore Angliæ &c. ad Sacram Regiam Majestatem Sueciæ. Datæ 7. Februarij Anno M.DC.LVI. The British Museum has a copy [E. 1953. (15)]. Milton's letter occupies pages 2 and 3.

A text of No. 75 is in a somewhat similar quarto of two leaves without place or printer's name, called Apographum Literarum Serenissimi Protectoris Oliverii Cromwelli, Quas scripsit ad Excellos & Præpotentes D.D. Ordines Generales Foederati Belgii Die 21st Augsti. 1656. Unde cum Responso eorundem Ordinum ad D. Protectorem Dato 22. Septembris 1656. [Ornament.] Anno M.DC.LVI. A copy is in the British Museum (E. 1953 [14]). Milton's letter occupies the second and third pages; the reply of the Dutch is on the last page. Both pamphlets were probably printed in England, the misprints in the title of No. 75 notwithstanding.

The same letter was also reprinted on pages 16-18 of a curious pamphlet called Verax Prodromus in Delirum, 1656, headed Literæ Cromwellii ad Unitarum Provinciarum Ordines. A copy is in the British Museum (100.f.34), and variants are recorded in the notes to Letter 75.

Other similar ephemeral things may have existed, but we have not met with copies or references to them. Our notes to 151, 153, 165, and 166 record various first printings of those documents in the 19th Century. The Swedish Treaty (170) was printed in 1696.

Milton's method of composing these letters can be best learned from the correspondence and conversations with Mylius (given in this edition, volumes XII and XVIII) and a study of the variants. He seems to have written the texts of his letters in more or less close consultation with the Council, and then to have sent his drafts to the clerks, who put them into official shape, adding full titles and words of politeness, or softening and even omitting undiplomatic phrases. The Columbia MS. and the Skinner MS. more often represent copies of drafts than do the texts of 1676, but few letters (save No. 53) were fundamentally revised.

In the present volume we have first of all reprinted verbatim the edition of 1676 (omitting only the duplicate text, No. 20, which is the same as No. 17), and, except for the regulariæation of I and J, U and V, and the correction of the obvious misprints listed below, litteratim. Secondly are grouped together the letters found in the Skinner MS. and printed by Hamilton in 1859. These are given without intentional alteration from the MS. Next are given the documents identified as Milton's by other means than the collections, Nos. 151-154. Next come the English documents (all hitherto unpublished) from the Columbia MS. Nos. 155-164. Finally appear one or two English documents identified by other means, the Index to the Columbia MS, and Cromwell's celebrated Declaration against Spain, (always regarded as Milton's in Latin, and possibly partly composed by him in English) from the original editions of 1655 as No. 169, and the Swedish Treaty. The three highly doubtful letters, 170A-C are at the end of our notes.

The translation is that of Edward Phillips, 1694, which he said was "good Latin made good English." This does contain a few inaccuracies, but the translator was a contemporary and in Milton's confidence, and may even have discussed passages with him and been the amanuensis who wrote some of the letters at Milton's dictation. However, his text has not been regarded as sacred in the sense Milton's would be, and since we have been forced to add modern versions for one or two documents he omitted, we have also restored a few passages (omitted prudently, for they refer to the Royal Family), and we have revised the version of one letter, where Masson points out Phillips got his tenses and the order of historical events mixed. We have also corrected sure errors of spelling and wrong font, and even the name of one King.

We have preserved in the Latin the often imperfect and even incorrect dates of 1676 and the Skinner and Columbia MSS., but in the translation the dates are given in brackets corrected in the light of the studies of Masson, and the original official letters now accessible to us. It must be recalled Milton often had by him the date of a draft where we supply the date on which a letter was sent. In the heading to each letter, in addition to a number for easy reference to our own edition, we give the page of 1676 on which the text begins, the number of the letter in the two chief MSS., and a reference to Masson's often masterly and always valuable discussions in the Life. In letters printed from the two MSS., ambiguous marks of punctuation and capitals have been interpreted to suit the sense.

For letters not translated by Phillips, Professor McCrea has supplied the translations, sometimes based on Masson or others, except where a seventeenth century or other good old version was available, as happens in one or two cases. Milton himself wrote both English and Latin of the Oldenburg Safeguard.

NOTES ON TEXT

The editors have corrected the following obvious mistakes in the text. The first reading is that of the present text; the second that of 1676 (Latin) or 1694 (English). Variants follow.

Serenissime Rex,

Pervenisse nuper in regna vestra illius Edicti acerbissimi famam, quo Dux Sabaudia Subjectos sibi Alpinos incolos, Reformatam Religionem profitentes, funditus afflixit, fit nisi Religione Romana suam mutare fidem intra dies viginti velint, patriis sedibus exterminari iussit, unde multis interfectis, cæteri spoliati, & ad interitum certissimum expositi, per incultissimos montes, hiememque perpetuam, fame & frigore confecti, cum conjugibus ac parvulis jam nunc oberrant, hic hæc graviter tulisse Majestatem vestram nobis persuasissimum est. Nam Protestandum nomen atque causam, tametsi inter se de rebus non maximis dissentiunt, communem tamen hic peni unam esse, Adversariorum par in omnes odium facile demonstrat. Et Suecorum Reges, Majores vestros, suam cum Reformatis conjunxisse semper causam, illatis etiam in Germaniam armis ad Protestandum religionem sine discrimine tuendam, nemo est

qui ignorct. Necessarium itaque duximus, de miseriis atque cladibus istorum hominum afflictissimorum, quid at notitiam nostram pervenerit Majestatem vestram non celare, & quanto eorum causa moerore afficiamur, certiores facere, sicut & alios ejusdem Religionis amicos atque socios nostros certiores fecimus; Nostrasque literas, quanta potuimus cum instantia, ad Sabaudiae Ducem horum causa miserorum jam scripsimus. Nee dubitamus quin Majestas vestra pro suo tam inhuman! ac Barbara! crudelitatis odio, proque suo in Religionem studio spectatis Lino, suam jam interposuerit auctoritatem, aut interpositura quamprimum sit, & cum Sabaudiae Duce agat, uti Edictum illud crudelissimum revocet, & istorum reliquias miserrimorum hominum, quos ferrum atque flamma nondum consumpsit, ad sedes suas, & siquid fortunarum reliquum est, redire jubeat. Et sane siquod vinculum, siqua Religionis caritas aut communio credenda atque colenda est, tanta innocentissimorum fratrum nostrorum multitudine, pars corporis Christi, hæc tam immania perpeti non potest, quin idem patiatur totum ejus corpus, parique sensu afficiatur: Hæc verò tam sæva initia unde oriantur, quo spectent, quid nobis omnibus minentur, admonere vestram Majestatem super-vacuum esse arbitramur; cujus prudentia ac pietas se sua sponte ad ea consilia ducet, quæ accommodata maxime erunt ad hos inopes fit calamitosos consolandos quamprimum & sollevandos. Quandoquidem hæc scripsimus non admonendæ Majestatis vestræ gratia, verum ut nos quæ illi mala perpetiuntur, quam graviter feramus, intelligatis; quamque simus parati ea vobiscum consilia communicare, quæ ad illorum opem atque solatium, remque Protestantium toto orbe terrarum sustinendam, atque firmandam maxime pertinerint. Interea Majestatem vestram Deo Opt. Max. commendatam ex animo volumus. Dab. ex Aula nostra Westmonasterii 25. Maii. 1655.

Letter 91 Texts A S C and Copy (Contemporary copy of lost original, at Moscow.)

We are informed by V. Adorataky of the Central Archives, Moscow, that Richard Bradshaw seems not to have been able to deliver before Oliver's death his official letter to the Cæsar Alexis Mikhailovich; but sent a copy of it, on September 29, 1657, 10 Almaæ Ivanov, Clerk of the Council in charge of Envoys. We have used a typescript of this last in compiling our variant readings.

Letter 135 bis

The following letter (from the original in the archives at Stockholm) is for the first five lines practically identical with No. 135, and for this reason must be regarded as partly or wholly the composition of Milton, who perhaps did not collect it because of its similarity to the letter he had preserved. It has not been noticed before, as Milton's.

Letter 152 Text W (Johann Just Winkelmann, Oldenburgische Friedens- und dcr bcnachbarten Oerter Kriegshandlungen, Oldenburg [1671], pp. 39Q-39¹)-

This is the safeguard composed in both English and Latin by Milton with Mylius, the subject of so many of the letters given in volume XII and the conversations that come in volume XVIII. The text of the contemporary history seems preferable to that of an old MS copy in the Oldenburg Archives which gives no verbal variants. Masson (iv, 424) never saw a copy but tried to connect the references in Milton's correspondence with another document which cannot be assigned to Milton's authorship. The variants are from the old official copy at Oldenburg. The English version, by Milton, is from a MS in the Archives at Oldenburg.

Letter 153 Texts (see below)

This address, printed in Samuel Morland's History of the Evangelical Churches of the Valleys of Piemont, 1658, pp. 568!!., in the form actually delivered, was first attributed to Milton by Hamilton in his Milton Papers, pp. 18-20, who found the draft "in the State Paper Office." He believed the draft Milton's, and that Morland had changed the speech before delivering it; and this belief was shared by Masson (v, i86ff.), who found certain verbal parallels (which are exceedingly close and convincing) to other writings of Milton. But unfortunately Hamilton gave no reference to where his manuscript was in the State Paper Office, and now it can not be located. It seems best to print both versions in full, together with translations. The Latin of the first draft follows Hamilton exactly; he was probably verbally accurate enough, and if he took liberties with the punctuation and capitals, Milton probably had little enough to do with them personally; the translation that accompanies this draft is Masson's. Both Latin and English versions of the second draft are reprinted from Morland's book.

In Morland the speech is followed by this note: "When Mr. Morland had thus exprest himself to the Dufo in the presence of Madame Royale, and all the Court, he presented him with His Highness the Lord Protectors Letter, a Copy whereof here followes."

Letter 154 Textc

This letter is copied out in the Columbia MS., but cancelled by a stroke through it, and omitted from Milton's index. The reason for cancellation may have been that Milton did not compose it, or decided not to include it because it was not actually used (like No. 151), or seemed unimportant. Since no evidence exists to make either alternative sure, it seems best to include the letter, which seems not to have been printed hitherto, in this edition. Professor McCrea considers the Latin weak. The translation was made for this edition.

Note on Additional Material from the Columbia MS, etc.

The edition of 1676 and the Skinner MS. were confined to Latin State Papers. Milton occasionally wrote official documents for the Parliament in English or translated for the use of the Council or the House of Commons documents sent in foreign languages. Copies of some of these he preserved in the Columbia MS. These are all now for the first time printed. At the end of this group have been collected two similar documents (Nos. 165 and 166), identified as Milton's, which have reached us through other channels, and a few brief references to lost documents of which something definite is known, though texts have not reached us. Letters 155-157 were translated by Milton.

Letter 165 Text L (original letter in P.R.O., London).

This MS., which is partly in Milton's hand, is in the Public Record Office (S.P. Dom. 18, Vol. 1/142), and was noticed by Stern (Milton und seine Zeit, III [1879], 31, 257). It is the only specimen of his work of this kind certainly known to be his outside of the material preserved by himself in the Columbia MS. At the beginning of his Secretaryship he probably did a fair amount of such translating, but later he relied a good deal on official and unofficial assistants (especially his nephew), and definite authorship would be very difficult to establish, since he usually dictated even when he composed such things. Most of the present MS. is in the hand of an amanuensis probably identical with the man who wrote his letters to Mylius; one line is in a third hand. The letter was first published in Facsimiles of National Manuscripts from William the Conqueror to Queen Anne, etc., pt. IV (1868), Charles II, No. xlv.

Letter 166 Text L (original document, P.R.O., London).

The employment of Milton as an amanuensis must have been very rare, but Masson (Life, IV, 225) recognized his hand in this unique entry in the Scroll Order Book of the Council (the result either of a momentary absence of the usual scribe, or perhaps of Milton's special interest in Chambers). The text and the handwriting have been verified from the original record in the P.R.O. (S.P. 25/6). The passage was first printed as Milton's by Masson in 1877 at the reference given.

167. Lost Diplomatic Papers.

There are numerous references in the Orders of the Council of State to the preparation of official documents. These only occasionally refer definitely to Milton as the appointed writer or translator. And among the few references met with, a fair number are to letters collected by Milton himself, which are less appropriate to an edition than to a commentary. But there are references to a few documents, now lost or at least untraced, of which notice should be taken here. In the text we have inserted brief tides, in the notes below are given the pertinent portions of the Orders, usually following Masson's texts.

Letter 167. No text.

It was ordered (Order Books, Jan. 29, 1649/50, P.R.O. S.P. 25/63, p. 569) "That Mr Milton do prepare a letter to be sent unto the Governor of Tituan in answer to his letter to the Council."¹ This letter was evidently prepared, and (from the analogy of the Columbia MS. Letters to other oriental rulers) probably in English, but Milton apparently kept no copy. He is known to have neglected this at the very beginning of his Secretaryship. There is no copy in the P.R.O., and letters addressed to the authorities at Tetuan, Spanish Morocco, several years ago, and again in 1937, have not been answered, nor have any clues to the contents beyond the date come to our attention. Should a copy be found before Volume XVIII goes to press, it will be included there, but we regard the chances of its recovery as very slight. See Masson IV, 152.

167A-F. Documents relating to the Dutch Negotiations. No texts yet available.

The documents referred to here are all earlier than those given in the Declaration against the Dutch of 1652, to be dealt with (as assigned to Milton only by strong implication) in Volume XVIII. The pertinent orders (Masson, IV, 88, 90-1, 422-4, 427) read:

A. May 18, 1649 That the French letters given in to the House by the Dutch Ambassador be translated by Mr. Milton, and the rest of the letters, now in the House, be sent for and translated. [These were letters written in French delivered to Parliament by the Dutch Ambassador in Ordinary, Dr. Joachimi, which seem (from the Commons¹ Journals of that date) to have related to the murder of Dr. Dorislaus at the Hague, the horror of the people and authorities of the Provincial States of Holland and West Friesland at the outrage, and their intention to preserve the other English agent, Mr. Strickland, from such a fate. Milton, as Masson points out, seems to have kept no copies of his work before August, 1649, and copies of these translations do not seem to have been preserved.]

B. Jan. 23, 1651/2 That Mr. Milton do make a translate of the Paper this day sent in to the Council from the Lords Ambassadors for the High and Mighty Lords the States General of the United Provinces; which the Committee for Foreign Affairs are to take into consideration, and prepare an answer thereto, to be reported to the Council.

C. Jan. 26, 1651/2 That Mr. Milton do translate into Latin the Answer of the Council to the First Paper of the Lords Ambassadors of the United Provinces, containing three Articles.

D. Jan. 28, 1651/2 That the Paper now read in answer to the Paper from the Dutch Ambassadors, sent by them to the Council on the 23rd instant, be passed and approved of; and Mr. Milton is to translate it into Latin, in order to be signed by the Lord President of the Council.

E. March 8, 1651/2 That so many of the Articles (offered by the Dutch Ambassadors) as are already passed be sent to Mr. Milton to be translated into Latin. (After this Weckherlin was employed more usually.)

F. April 15, 1652 That the Paper, now read, to be sent to the Dutch Ambassadors, be approved of, and sent to Mr. Milton, to be translated into Latin. [See also page 645.]

167G-H. To the Spanish Ambassador. No texts.

The two orders read according to Masson, iv, 315, 426:

G. May 16, 1651 That Mr. Milton do translate the petition of Alderman

Dethicke and the Letters of the Council to the Spanish Ambassador into Latin that the same may be sent to the said Ambassador, according to the former order. (The "former order" is in Masson, iv, 314, and will appear among documents relating to Milton's conversations in Volume XVIII; Milton was apparently to carry the message himself and explain it.)

H, March 31, 1652 That the Paper now prepared, to be given in answer to the Spanish Ambassador, be approved, translated, signed, and sent unto him; that Mr. Milton do translate the said Paper out of English into Latin, to be sent along as a copy, 167}. Alderman Dethicke's Petition. No text.

May 16, 1651 That Mr. Milton do translate the petition of Alderman Dethicke. [This petition seems to be a different document from any we know at present.]

167K. Translate of a Paper from the Portuguese Ambassador. No text.

The order reads (Masson, iv, 448):

October 7, 1652 That the Paper

this day given in to the Council by the Lord Ambassador from the King of Portugal be translated by Mr. Milton into English, and brought in to the Council to-morrow in the afternoon.

168. Index Text c

This was prepared, doubtless at Milton's direction, for the Columbia MS. We have made the numbers coincide with our edition.

169. Scriptum Dom. Protectoris ... contra Hispanos. 1655.

This declaration has always been regarded as the work of Milton, has been retranslated as A Manifesto of the Lord Protector in 1738 and 1741, and is included in many editions of Milton's works. Masson (Life, V, 240 ff.), following Godwin, regarded it with some doubt. Like most scholars, however, we agree with Birch and accept the work, and reprint it from a photostat of a copy of the first edition (published about December 9, 1655) in the British Museum, press-mark E. 1953 (8). The translation is from a photostatic copy of the first issue of the original English document in the British Museum, press-mark E. 1065 (i). This last is in black letter, which we have not retained. It is not impossible that Milton may have had a hand in the English translation, although we have no such proof of this as in the case of the Oldenburgh Safeguard.

170. The Treaty with Sweden, 1656. (Texts, printed version of 1696, and MS in P.R.O.)

Hamilton, Milton Papers (1859, p. 24) and Masson (v, 255) have pointed out that an account of the conduct of the Swedish Ambassador, Count Bonde, left by Bulstrade Whidocke (Memorials, Oxford, 1853, iv, 257) over the date May 6, 1656, makes it certain that Milton put the English version of the treaty with Sweden into Latin. This reads

"The Swedish Ambassador again complained of the delays in his business, and that, when he had desired to have the Articles of this Treaty put into Latin, ... it was fourteen days they made him stay for that translation, and sent it to one Mr. Milton, a blind man, to put them into Latin. . . . The employment of Mr. Milton was excused to him, because several other servants of the Council, fit for that employment, were then absent."

This suggests such employment was perhaps unusual for Milton. In any case we cannot attribute other treaties to him, and even in this case he had nothing to do with the composition, but was merely the translator of the text. For this reason, although the work is not doubtful, it has been set in smaller type. The text chosen is the earliest known printed version, which appears as an Appendix to S. Pufendorf's De rebus a Carolo Gustavo gestis, Nuremburg, 1696, of which there are copies at Harvard and in the Bodleian. (The text appears also in a later edition of Pufendorf, and more accessibly in the Recueil de Traites de Paix, Amsterdam, 1700, iii, 694a.)

Variants are given from the official MS copy still in the PRO, (Treaty Bundle 69) which was copied out by someone unfamiliar with Latin, and contains curious mistakes. The versions sent to Sweden and kept in England present the names of the rulers and negotiators in different order. Our translation is that of George Chalmers, A Collection of Treaties between Great Britain and Other Powers (1790, I, 29!!) with proper adjustments made to conform to the rearrangement of names in the copy sent to Sweden. In Chalmers the full heading is, of course, the work of that editor. It reads:

THE TREATY

BETWEEN CHARLES GUSTAVUS KING OF SWEDEN, AND OLIVER CROMWELL PROTECTOR OF ENGLAND; WHEREBY THE TREATY OF ALLIANCE MADE BETWEEN THOSE TWO STATES THE 11TH OF APRIL 1654, IS CONFIRMED AND EXPLAINED.

DONE AT LONDON, ANNO 1656.

The variants of the Latin versions follow.

It is clear from Masson (Life, IV, 482 ff.) and Hamilton (Milton Papers, 1859, pp. 20 ff.) that the Serif turn Parliamenti, 1652 (a declaration against the Dutch), was published under Milton's supervision. He probably translated most of the documents therein that appear in Latin into that tongue. But since he was only in part author of this, it has been decided to treat it in Volume XVIII. There will also appear a brief discussion of certain references to domestic official works projected by Milton, of which no copies have been found, and which may not have been written by Milton, or at all.

Milton was assigned to translate a declaration against the Scots on June 26, 1650 (Masson, Life, IV, 228), but the work was transferred to Thomas May on July 2 (Stern, Milton, III, 256).

Other similar documents, like the Scriptum et Decretum, 1659 (B.M. 6915. a. 10), exist, but since no evidence for Milton's authorship of them has been found, it does not seem necessary to deal with them in this edition.

[Examination of the other letters from the English Government preserved in European Archives searched by correspondents did not reveal any others which can be assigned with any confidence to Milton's pen. However, we have decided to print three of these documents, as just possibly Milton's work. One is a vigorous protest to the King of Spain, the only original letter from England of the period that could be found in the Archives at Simancos; the other two, both at Geneva, are introductions for Durie and Morland, men in whom Milton was greatly interested.]

ADDITIONAL NOTES

When our notes were first compiled the photostats of the Oldenburg letters still preserved in that place were overlooked, as they were filed with the material concerning Mylius. This we discovered soon after the pages were made up, but it was only possible to insert a cross reference at page 609. The full collations of all texts are given here;

No copies have been found of any of the documents listed under the numbers 167 to 167K among ordinarily catalogued or accessible papers in the Public Record Office. A very slight chance of the recovery of some of them there at some future time exists. This applies especially to 167A, 167B, and 167K. One might also hope that copies of 1670, 167H, and perhaps 167J might be preserved in Spain. The chance of this we regard as slight, but at the moment of reading the last proofs for this volume we have not received a final report from Simancos. Word however has just reached us that copies of 1670, 167E, and 167F have been located in the Dutch Archives, and texts will appear in Volume XVIII.

167L No text

Masson (IV, 314) cites an Order of the Council of March 28, 1651, which should be noticed here. It reads "That Mr, Milton do translate the Intercursus Magnus which he is to have from Sir Harry Vane." This is indeed a treaty that was to be put in English for official use, but as it was made in 1495 between Henry VII of England and Philip the Fair of Austria, it should more properly be dealt with in Volume XVIII. No copy of Milton's version has been found, as yet.

An Additional Note on the Printing of the Litere

should have noted that Alphonse Willems, (Les Elsevicr, Brussels, 1880, no. 2102) states that the printer of both was E. Fricx of Brussels. Willems did not give his exact reasons for his attribution, but he knew much of the types and ornaments used by the printers of Brussels. The statement of Daniel Skinner, upon which we base our belief that Moses Pitt of London was the publisher, does not in any way invalidate a conclusion that the actual printing was done abroad. If Fricx was the man who did it, he probably also published the book on the continent. It remains for future bibliographers to verify the conclusions of Willems, and to determine if Fricx printed both editions or only one of them.
