NEXT to a sound rule of faith, there is nothing of so much consequence as a sober standard of feeling in matters of practical religion : and it is the peculiar happiness of the Church of England to possess, in her authorized formularies, an ample and secure provision for both. But in times of much leisure and unbounded curiosity, when excitement of every kind is sought after with a morbid eagerness, this part of the merit of our Liturgy is likely in some measure to be lost on many even of its sincere admirers : the very tempers, which most require such discipline, setting themselves, in general, most decidedly against it.

The object of the present publication will be attained, if any person find assistance from it in bringing his own thoughts and feelings into more entire unison with those recommended and exemplified in the Prayer Book. The work does not furnish a complete series of compositions, being, in many parts, rather adapted with more or less propriety to the successive portions of the Liturgy, than originally suggested by them. Something has been added at the end concerning the several Occasional Services : which constitute, from their personal and domestic nature, the most perfect instance of that soothing tendency in the Prayer Book, which it is the chief purpose of these pages to exhibit.

THE CHRISTIAN YEAR

DEDICATION

WHEN in my silent solitary walk,
I sought a strain not all unworthy Thee,
My heart, still ringing with wild worldly talk,
Gave forth no note of holier minstrelsy.

Prayer is the secret, to myself I said,
Strong supplication must call down the charm,
And thus with untuned heart I feebly prayed,
Knocking at Heaven's gate with earth-palsied arm;

Fountain of Harmony ! Thou Spirit blest,
By whom the troubled waves of earthly sound
Are gathered into order, such as best
Some high-soiled bard in his enchanted round

May compass, Power divine ! O spread Thy wing,
Thy dovehke wing that makes confusion fly,
Over my dark, void spirit, summoning
New worlds of music, strains that may not die.

O happiest who before Thine altar wait,
With pure hands ever holding up on high
The guiding Star of all who seek Thy gate,
The undying lamp of heavenly Poesy.

Too weak, too wavering, for such holy task
Is my frail arm, O Lord ; but I would fain
Track to its source the brightness, I would bask
In the clear ray that makes Thy pathway plain

I dare not hope with David's harp to chase
The evil spirit from the troubled breast ;
Enough for me if I can find such grace
To listen to the strain, and be at rest.

MORNING

His compassions fail not. They are new evert/ morning.—
Lament, in. 2U, 23.

Huns of the rich unfolding morn,
That, ere the glorious sun be born,
By some soft touch invisible
Around his path are taught to swell ;—

Thou rustling breeze so fresh and gay,
That dancest forth at opening day,
And brushing by with joyous wing,
Wakenest each little leaf to sing ;—

Ye fragrant clouds of dewy steam, 9
By which deep grove and tangled stream
Pay, for soft rains in season given,
Their tribute to the genial heaven ;—

Why waste your treasures of delight
Upon our thankless, joyless sight;
Who day by day to sin awake,
Seldom of Heaven and you partake ?

Oh ! timely happy, timely wise,
Hearts that with rising morn arise !
Eyes that the beam celestial view,
Which evermore makes all things new.¹ 20

New every morning is the love
Our wakening and uprising prove ;
Through sleep and darkness safely brought,
Uestor'd to life, and power, and thought.

New mercies, each returning day,
Hover around us while we pray ;
New perils past, new sins forgiven,
New thoughts of God, new hopes of Heaven.

If on our daily course our mind
Be set to hallow all we find, 30
New treasures still, of countless price,
God will provide for sacrifice.

Old friends, old scenes, will lovelier be,
As more of Heaven in each we see :
Some softening gleam of love and prayer
Shall dawn on every cross and care.

As for some dear familiar strain
Untir'd we ask, and ask again,
Ever, in its melodious store,
Finding a spell unheard before ; 40

Such is the bliss of souls serene,
When they have sworn, and steadfast mean,
Counting the cost, in all t' espy
Their God, in all themselves deny.

O could we learn that sacrifice,
What lights would all around us rise !
How would our hearts with wisdom talk
Along Life's dullest dreariest walk !

We need not bid, for cloister'd cell,
Our neighbour and our work farewell, so
Nor strive to wind ourselves too high
For sinful man beneath the sky :

The trivial round, the common task,
Would furnish all we ought to ask ;
Room to deny ourselves ; a road
To bring us, daily, nearer God.

Seek we no more ; content with these,
Let present Rapture, Comfort, Ease,
As Heaven shall bid them, come and go :—
The secret this of Rest below. 60

Only, O Lord, in Thy dear love
Fit us for perfect Rest above ;
And help us, this and every day,
To live more nearly as we pray.

EVENING

Abide with US ; for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent.—St. Luke xxiv. 29.

'Tis gone, that bright and orb'd blaze,
Fast fading from our wistful gaze ;
Yon mantling cloud has hid from sight
The last faint pulse of quivering light.

In darkness and in weariness
The traveller on his way must press,
No gleam to watch on tree or tower,
Whiling away the lonesome hour. .

Sun of my soul ! Thou Saviour dear,
 It is not night if Thou she Hear : 10
 Oh ! may no earth-born cloud arise
 To hide Thee from Thy servant's eyes.

When round Thy wondrous works below
 My searching rapturous glance I throw,
 Tracing out Wisdom, Power, and Love,
 In earth or sky, in stream or grove ;—

Or by the light Thy words disclose
 Watch Tune's full river as it flows,
 Scanning Thy gracious Providence,
 Where not too deep for mortal sense :— 20

When with dear friends sweet talk I hold,
 And all the ilowers of life unfold ;
 Let not my heart within me burn,
 Except in all I Thee discern.

When the soft dews of kindly sleep
 My wearied eyelids gently steep,
 Be my last thought, how sweet to rest
 For ever on my Saviour's breast.

Abide with me from morn till eve,
 For without Thee I cannot live : 30
 Abide with me when night is nigh,
 For without Thee I dare not die.

Thou Framer of the light and dark,
 Steer through the tempest Thine own ark :
 Amid the howling wintry sea
 We are in port if we have Thee.¹

¹ Then they willingly received Him into the ship :
 and immediately the ship was at the land whither they wenwent. John vi. 21.

The Rulers of this Christian land,
 'Twixt Thee and us ordauVd to stand,—
 Guide Thou their course, O Lord, aright,
 Let all do all as in Thy sight. 40

Oh ! by Thmc own sad burthen, borne
 So meekly up the hill of scorn,
 Teach Thou Thy Priests their daily cross
 To bear as Thine, nor count it loss !

If some poor wandering child of Thine
 Have spurn'd, to-day, the voice divine,
 Now, Lord, the gracious work begin ;
 Let him no more lie down in sin.

Watch by the sick : enrich the poor
 With blessings from Thy boundless store : 50
 Be every mourner's sleep to-night
 Like infants' slumbers, pure and light.

Come near and bless us when we wake,
 Ere through the world our way we take ;
 Till in the ocean of Thy love
 We lose ourselves in Heaven above.

ADVENT SUNDAY

Now it is high time to awake out of sleep : for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed.—Romans xm. 11.

AWAKE—again the Gospel-trump is blown—
 From year to year it swells with louder tone,
 From year to year the signs of wrath
 Are gathering round the Judge's path,
 Strange words fullill'd, and mighty works achiev'd,
 And truth in all the world both hated and believ'd.

Awake ! why linger in the gorgeous town,
 Sworn liegemen of the Cross and thorny erown ?
 Up from your beds of sloth for shame,
 Speed to the eastern mount like flame, 10
 Nor wonder, should ye find your King in tears,
 E'en with the loud Hosanna ringing m His ears.

Alas ! no need to rouse them : long ago
 They are gone forth to swell Messiah's show :
 With glittering robes and garlands sweet
 They strew the ground beneath His feet:
 All but your hearts are there—O doom'd to prove
 The arrows wing'd in Heaven for Faith that will not love !

Meanwhile He paces through th' adoring crowd,
 Calm as the march of some majestic cloud, 20
 That o'er wild scenes of ocean-war
 Holds its still course in Heaven afar :
 E'en so, heart-searching Lord, as years roll on,
 Thou keepest silent watch from Thy triumphal
 throne :

E'en so, the world is thronging round to gaze
 On the dread vision of the latter days,
 Constram'd to own Thee, but in heart
 Prepar'd to take Barabbas' part :
 " Hosanna " now, to-morrow " Crucify," 29
 The changeful burden still of their rude lawless cry.

Yet in that throng of selfish hearts untrue
 Thy sad eye rests upon Thy faithful few,
 Children and childlike souls are there,
 Blind Bartimeus' humble prayer,

And Lazarus waken'd from his four days' sleep,
Enduring life again, that Passover to keep.

And fast beside the olive-border'd way
Stands the bless'd home, where Jesus deign'd to stay,

The peaceful home, to Zeal sincere
And heavenly Contemplation dear, 40
Where Martha lov'd to wait with reverence meet,
And wiser Mary linger'd at Thy sacred feet.

Still through decaying ages as they glide,
Thou lov'st Thy chosen remnant to divide ;
Sprinkled along the waste of years
Full many a soft green isle appears :
Pause where we may upon the desert road,
Some shelter is in sight, some sacred safe abode.

When withering blasts of error swept the sky,¹
And Love's last flower seem'd fain to droop and die, 50

How sweet, how lone the ray bemgn
On shelter'd nooks of Palestine !
Then to his early home did Love repair,²
And cheer'd his sickening heart with his own native air.

Years roll away: again the tide of crime
Has swept Thy footsteps from the favour'd clime.
Where shall the holy Cross find rest ?
On a crown'd monarch's³ mailed breast:
Like some bright angel o'er the darkling scene,
Through court and camp he holds his heavenward course serene. GO

10 SECOND SUNDAY IN ADVENT

A fouler vision yet ; an age of light,
Light without love, glares on the aching sight:
O who can tell how ealm and sweet,
Meek Walton ! shows thy green retreat,
When weaned with the tale thy times disclose.
The eye first finds thce out in thy secure repose ?

Thus bad and good their several warnings give
Of His approach, whom none may see and live :
Faith's ear, with awful still delimit,
Counts them like minute-bells at night, 70
Keeping the heart awake till dawn of morn,
While to her funeral pile tins aged world is borne.

But what are Heaven's alarms to hearts that cower
In wiful slumber, deepening every hour,
That draw their curtains closer round,
The nearer swells the trumpet's sound ?
Lord, ere our trembling lamps sink down and die,
Touch us with chastening hand, and make us feel Thee nigh. 78

SECOND SUNDAY IN ADVENT

And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads ; for your redemption draweth nigh.—St. Luke xxi. 28.

NOT till the freezing blast is still,
Till freely leaps the sparkling rill,
And gales sweep soft from summer skies,
As o'er a sleeping infant's eyes

A mother's kiss ; ere calls like these,
 No sunny gleam awakes the trees,
 Nor dare the tender flowerets show
 Their bosoms to th' uncertain glow.

Why then, in sad and wintry time, 9
 Her heavens all dark A\ilh doubt and crime,
 Why lifts the Church her drooping head,
 As though her evil hour were lied ?
 Is she less wise than leaves of spring,
 Or birds that cower with folded wing ?
 What sees she in this lowering sky
 To tempt her meditative eye ?

She has a charm, a word of fire,
 A pledge of love that cannot tire ;
 By tempests, earthquakes, and by wars,
 By rushing waves and falling stars, 20
 By every sign her Lord foretold,
 She sees the world is waxing old,¹
 And through that last and direst storm
 Descries by faith her Saviour's form.

Not surer does each tender gem,
 Set in the fig-tree's polish'd stem,
 Foreshow the summer season bland,
 Than these dread signs Thy mighty hand :
 But oh ! frail hearts, and spirits dark !
 The season's flight unwarn'd we mark, so
 But miss the Judge behind the door,²
 For all the light of sacred lore :

¹ The world hath lost his youth, and the times begin to wax old.—2 Esdras xiv. 10.

² See St. James v. 9.

THIRD SUNDAY IN ADVENT

*What went ye out into the wilderness to see ? a reed shaken ivith the wind ? . . . But what went ye out for to see ? A prophet? yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet.—
St. Matthew xi. 7, 9.*

WHAT went ye out to sec
O'er the rude sandy lea,
Where stately Jordan flows by many a palm,
Or where Gennesaret's wave
Delights the flowers to lave,
That o'er her western slope breathe airs of balm ?
All through the summer night,
Those blossoms red and bright¹
Spread their soft breasts, unheeding, to the breeze,
Like hermits watching still 10
Around the sacred hill,
Where erst our Saviour watch'd upon His knees.
The Paschal moon above
Seems like a saint to rove,
Left shining in the world with Christ alone;
Below, the lake's still face,
Sleeps sweetly in th' embrace
Of mountains terrac'd high with mossy stone
Here may we sit, and dream
Over the heavenly theme, 20
Till to our soul the former days return;
Till on the grassy bed,
Where thousands once He fed,
The world's incarnate Maker we discern.

is said to be clothed down to the water's edge.

O cross no more the main,
 Wandering so wild and vain,
 To count the reeds that tremble in the wind,
 On listless dalliance bound,
 Like children gazing round,
 Who on God's works no seal of Godhead find, so

Bask not in courtly bower,
 Or sun-bright hall of power,
 Pass Babel quick, and seek the holy land—
 From robes of Tyrian dye,
 Turn with undazzled eye
 To Bethlehem's glade, or Carmel's haunted strand.

Or choose thee out a cell
 In Kedron's stoned dell,
 Beside the springs of Love, that never die ;
 Among the olives kneel 40
 The chill night-blast to feel,
 And watch the Moon that saw thy Master's agony.

Then rise at dawn of day,
 And wind thy thoughtful way,
 Where rested once the Temple's stately shade,
 With due feet tracing round
 The city's northern bound,
 To th' other holy garden, where the Lord was laid.

Who thus alternate see
 His death and victory, 50
 Rising and falling as on angel wings,
 They, while they seem to roam,
 Draw daily nearer home,
 Their heart untravell'd still adores the King of kings.

Or, if at home they stay,
 Yet are they, day by day,
 In spirit journeying through the glorious land,
 Not for light Fancy's reed,
 Nor Honour's purple meed,
 Nor gifted Prophet's lore, nor Science' wondrous wand. GO

But more than Prophet, more
 Than Angels can adore
 With face imvciPd, is He they go to seek :
 Blessed be God, Whose grace
 Shows Him in every place 65
 To homeliest hearts of pilgrims pure and meek.

FOURTH SUNDAY IN ADVENT

The eyes of them that see shall not be dim, and the ears of them that hear shall hearken.—Isaiah xxxii. 3.

OF the bright things in earth and air
 How little can the heart embrace !
 Soft shades and gleaming lights arc there—
 I know it well, but cannot trace.

Mine eye unworthy seems to read
 One page of Nature's beauteous book ;
 It lies before me, fair outspread—
 I only cast a wishful look.

I cannot paint to Memory's eye
 The scene, the glance, I dearest love— 10
 Unchanged themselves, in me they die,
 Or faint, or false, their shadows prove.

16 FOURTH SUNDAY IN ADVENT

In vain, with dull and tuneless ear,
I linger by soft Music's cell,
And in my heart of hearts would hear
What to her own she deigns to tell.

'Tis misty all, both sight and sound—
I only know 'tis fair and sweet—
'Tis wandering on enchanted ground
With dizzy brow and tottering feet. 20

But patience ! there may come a time
When these dull ears shall scan aright
Strains, that outring Earth's drowsy chime,
As Heaven outshines the taper's light.

These eyes, that dazzled now and weak,
At glancing motes in sunshine wink,
Shall see the King's^x full glory break,
Nor from the blissful vision shrink :

In fearless love and hope uncloy'd
For ever on that ocean bright 30
Empower'd to gaze ; and undestroy'd,
Deeper and deeper plunge in light.

Though scarcely now their laggard glance
Reach to an arrow's flight, that day
They shall behold, and not in trance,
The region " very far away."

If Memory sometimes at our spell
Refuse to speak, or speak amiss,
We shall not need her where we dwell
Ever in sight of all our bliss. 40

¹ Thine eyes shall see the King in His beauty : they shall behold the land that is very far off.—Isaiah xxxiii. 17.

Meanwhile, if over sea or sky
Some tender lights unnotic'd fleet,
Or on lov'd features dawn and die,
Unread, to us, their lesson sweet;

Yet are there saddening sights around,
Which Heaven, in mercy, spares us too,
And we see far in holy ground,
If duly purg'd our mental view.

The distant landscape draws not nigh
For all our gazing ; but the soul, 50
That upward looks, may still descry
Nearer, each day, the brightening goal.

And thou, too curious ear, that fain
Wouldst thread the maze of Harmony,
Content thee with one simple strain,
The lowlier, sure, the worthier thee ;

Till thou art duly train'd, and taught
The concord sweet of Love divine :
Then, with that inward Music fraught,
For ever rise, and sing, and shine. 60

CHRISTMAS DAY

And suddenly there was with the Angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God.—St. Luke li. 13.

WHAT sudden blaze of song
Spreads o'er th' expanse of Heaven ?
In waves of light it thrills along,
Th' angelic signal given—
" Glory to God ! " from yonder central fire
Flows out the echoing lay beyond the starry quire ;

Like circles widening round
 Upon a clear blue river,
 Orb after orb, the wondrous sound
 Is echoed on for ever : 10

" Glory to God on high, on earth be peace,
 " And love towards men of love¹—salvation and
 " release."

Yet stay, before thou dare
 To join that festal throng;
 Listen and mark what gentle air
 First stirr'd the tide of song ;
 'Tis not, " the Saviour born in David's home,
 " To Whom for power and health obedient
 " worlds should come : "—

'Tis not, " the Christ the Lord : "—
 With iix'd adoring look 20
 The choir of Angels caught the word,
 Nor yet their silence broke :
 But when they heard the sign, where Christ should be,
 In sudden light they shone and heavenly harmony.

Wrapp'd in His swaddling bands,
 And in His manger laid,
 The Hope and Glory of all lands
 Is come to the world's aid :
 No peaceful home upon His cradle smil'd,
 Guests rudely went and came, where slept the royal Child. so

¹ I have ventured to adopt the reading of the Vulgate, as being generally known through Pergolesi's beautiful composition, " Gloria in excelsis Deo, et in terra pax hominibus bonae voluntatis"

But where Thou dwellest, Lord,
 No other thought should be⁴,
 Once duly welcom'd and ador'd,
 How should I part with Thee ?
 Bethlehem must lose Thee soon, but Thou wilt grace
 The single heart to be Thy sure abiding-place.

Thee, on the bosom laid
 Of a pure virgin mind,
 In quiet ever, and in shade,
 Shepherd and sage may find ; 40
 They, who have bow'd untaught to Nature's sway,
 And they, who follow Truth along her star-pav'd way.

The pastoral spirits first
 Approach Thee, Babe divine,
 For they in lowly thoughts are nurs'd,
 Meet for Thy lowly shrine :
 Sooner than they should miss where Thou dost
 dwell,
 Angels from Heaven will stoop to guide them to Thy cell.

Still, as the day comes round
 For Thee to be reveal'd, 50
 By wakeful shepherds Thou art found,
 Abiding in the field.
 All through the wintry heaven and chill night
 air,
 In music and in light Thou dawnest on their prayer.

O faint not ye for fear—

What though your wandering sheep,
Reckless of what they see and hear,

Lie lost in wilful sleep ?

High Heaven in mercy to your sad annoy 59
Still greets you with glad tidings of immortal joy.

Think on th' eternal home,

The Saviour left for you ;

Think on the Lord most holy, come

To dwell with hearts untrue :

So shall ye tread untir'd His pastoral ways,
And in the darkness sing your carol of high praise.

ST. STEPHEN'S DAY

He, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up stedfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God.—Acts vii. 55.

As rays around the source of light
Stream upward ere he glow in sight,
And watching by his future flight

Set the clear heavens on fire;

So on the King of Martyrs wait
Three chosen bands, in royal state,¹

And all earth owns, of good and great,
Is gathered in that choir.

¹ Wheatly on the Common Prayer, c. v. sect. iv. 2.
" As there are three kinds of martyrdom, the first both in will and deed, which is the highest; the second in will but not in deed ; the third in deed but not in will; so the Church commemorates these martyrs in the same order : St. Stephen first, who suffered death both in will and deed ; St. John the Evangelist next, who suffered martyrdom in will but not in deed ; the holy Innocents last, who suffered in deed but not in will."

One presses on, and welcomes death :
One calmly yields his willing breath, 10
Nor slow, nor hurrying, but in faith
 Content to die or live :
And some, the darlings of their Lord,
Play smiling with the flame and sword,
And, ere they speak, to His sure word Unconscious witness give.

Foremost and nearest to His throne,
By perfect robes of triumph known,
And likest Him in look and tone,
 The holy Stephen kneels, 20
With steadfast gaze, as when the sky
Flew open to his fainting eye,
Which, like a fading lamp, flash'd high,
 Seeing what death conceals.

Well might you guess what vision bright
Was present to his raptur'd sight,
E'en as reflected streams of light
 Their solar source betray—
The glory which our GOD surrounds,
The Son of Man, th' atoning wounds— so
He sees them all; and earth's dull bounds
 Are melting fast away.

He sees them all—no other view
Could stamp the Saviour's likeness true,
Or with His love so deep embrue
 Man's sullen heart and gross—
" Jesu, do Thou my soul receive :
" Jesu, do Thou my foes forgive : "
He who would learn that prayer, must live
 Under the holy Cross. 40

lie, though he seem on earth to move,
 Must glide in air like gentle dove,
 From yon unclouded depths above
 Must draw his purer breath ;
 Till men behold his angel face
 All radiant with celestial grace,¹
 Martyr all o'er, and meet to trace
 The lines of Jesus' death.

ST. JOHN'S DAY

Peter seeing Mm., saith to Jesus, Lord, and what shall this man do ? Jesus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee ? follow thou Me.—St. John xxi. 21, 22.

" LORD, and what shall this man do ? "
 Ask'st thou, Christian, for thy friend ?
 If his love for Christ be true,
 Christ hath told thce of his end :
 This is he whom God approves,
 This is he whom Jesus loves.

Ask not of him more than this,
 Leave it in his Saviour's breast,
 Whether, early call'd to bliss,
 He in youth shall find his rest, 10
 Or arm'd in his station wait
 Till his Lord be at the gate :

¹ And all that sat in the council, looking stedfastly on him, saw his face as it had been the face of an angel.—Acts vi. 15.

Whether in his lonely course
 (Lonely, not forlorn) he stay,
 Or with Love's supporting force
 Cheat the toil and cheer the way :
 Leave it all in His high hand,
 Who doth hearts as streams command.¹

Gales from Heaven, if so lie will,
 Sweeter melodies can wake 20
 On the lonely mountain rill
 Than the meeting waters make.
 Who hath the Father and the Son,
 May be left, but not alone.

Sick or healthful, slave or free,
 Wealthy, or despis'd and poor—
 What is that to him or thee,
 So his love to Christ endure ?
 When the shore is won at last,
 Who will count the billows past ? 30

Only, since our souls will shrink
 At the touch of natural grief,
 When our earthly lov'd ones sink,
 Lend us, Lord, Thy sure relief;
 Patient hearts, their pain to see,
 And Thy grace, to follow Thee.

¹ The king's heart is in the hand of the Lord, as the rivers of water : He turneth it whithersoever He will.—
Proverbs xxi. 1.

THE HOLY INNOCENTS

These weie redeemed from among men, being the first-fruits unto God and to the Lamb.—Revelation xiv. 4.

SAT, ye celestial guards, who wait
 In Bethlehem, round the Saviour's palace gate,
 Say, who are these on golden wings,
 That hover o'er the new-born King of kings,
 Their palms and garlands telling plain
 That they are of the glorious martyr-train,
 Next to yourselves ordain'd to praise
 His Name, and brighten as on Him they gaze ?

But where their spoils and trophies ? where
 The glorious dint a martyr's shield should bear ?
 How chance no cheek among them wears n
 The deep-worn trace of penitential tears,
 But all is bright and smiling love,
 As if, fresh-borne from Eden's happy grove,
 They had flown here, their King to sec,
 Nor ever had been heirs of dark mortality ?

Ask, and some angel will reply,
 " These, like yourselves, were born to sin and die,
 " But ere the poison root was grown,
 " God set His seal, and mark'd them for His own.
 " Baptiz'd in blood for Jesus' sake, 21
 " Now underneath the Cross their bed they make,
 "Not to be scar'd from that sure rest
 " By frighten'd mother's shriek, or warrior's
 " waving crest."

Mindful of these, the first-fruits sweet
Borne by the suffering Church her Lord to greet;
Bless'd Jesus ever lov'd to trace
The "innocent brightness" of an infant's face.

He rais'd them in His holy arms,
He bless'd them from the world and all its harms :
Heirs though they were of sin and shame, 31
He bless'd them in His own and in His Father's Name.

Then, as each fond unconscious child
On th' everlasting Parent sweetly smil'd,
(Like infants sporting on the shore,
That tremble not at Ocean's boundless roar,)
Were they not present to Thy thought,
All souls, that in their cradles Thou hast bought ?
But chiefly these, who died for Thee,
That Thou might'st live for them a sadder death
to see. 40

And next to these, Thy gracious word
Was as a pledge of benediction, stor'd
For Christian mothers, while they moan
Their treasur'd hopes, just born, baptiz'd, and gone.

Oh, joy for Rachel's broken heart!
She and her babes shall meet no more to part;
So dear to Christ her pious haste
To trust them in His arms for ever safe embrac'd.

She dares not grudge to leave them there,
Where to behold them was her heart's first
prayer; 50

She dares not grieve—but she must weep,
As her pale placid martyr sinks to sleep,

26 FIRST SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS

Teaching so well and silently
How, at the shepherd's call, the lamb should die :
How happier far than life the end
Of souls that infant-like beneath their burthen bend. 56

FIRST SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS

So the sun returned ten degrees, by which degrees it was gone down.—Isaiah xxxvm. 8 ; compare Josh. x. 13.

'Tis true, of old th' unchanging sun
His daily course refus'd to run,
The pale moon hurrying to the west
Paus'd at a mortal's call, to aid
Th' avenging storm of war, that laid
Seven guilty realms at once on earth's defiled breast.

But can it be, one suppliant tear
Should stay the ever-moving sphere ?
A sick man's lowly-breathed sigh,
When from the world he turns away,¹ 10
And hides his weary eyes to pray,
Should change your mystic dance, ye wanderers of the sky ?

We too, O Lord, would fain command,
As then, Thy wonder-working hand,
And backward force the waves of Time,
That now so swift and silent bear
Our restless bark from year to year ;
Help us to pause and mourn to Thee our tale of crime.

FIRST SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS 27

Bright hopes, that erst the bosom warm'd,
And vows, too pure to be performed, 20
And prayers blown wide by gales of eare ;—
These, and such faint half-waking dreams,
Like stormy lights on mountain streams,
Wavering and broken all, athwart the conscience
glare.

How shall we 'scape th' o'erwhelming Past ?
Can snits broken, joys o'ercast,
And eyes that never more may smile :—
Can these th' avenging bolt delay,
Or win us back one little day
The bitterness of death to soften and beguile ? so

Father and Lover of our souls !
Though darkly round Thine anger rolls.
Thy sunshine smiles beneath the gloom,
Thou seek'st to warn us, not confound,
Thy showers would pierce the harden'd ground,
And win it to give out its brightness and perfume.

Thou smil'st on us in wrath, and we,
E'en in remorse, would smile on Thee ;
The tears that bathe our offer'd hearts,
We would not have them stain'd and dim, 40
But dropp'd from wings of seraphim,
All glowing with the light accepted love imparts.

Time's waters will not ebb, nor stay,
Power cannot change them, but Love may ;
What cannot be, Love counts it done.

Deep in the heart, her searching view
 Can read where Faith is fix'd and true,
 Through shades of setting life can see Heaven's work begun.

O Thou, who keep'st the Key of Love,
 Open Thy fount, eternal Dove, 50
 And overflow this heart of mine,
 Enlarging as it fills with Thee,
 Till in one blaze of charity
 Care and remorse are lost, like motes in light divine ;

Till, as each moment wafts us higher,
 By every gush of pure desire,
 And high-breath'd hope of joys above,
 By every secret sigh we heave,
 Whole years of folly we outlive,
 In His unerring sight, who measures Life by Love. co

THE CIRCUMCISION OF CHRIST

In whom also ye are circumcised with the circumcision made without hands.—Colossians ii. 11.

THE year begins with Thee,
 And Thou beginn'st with woe,
 To let the world of sinners see
 That blood for sin must flow.

Thine infant cries, O Lord,
 Thy tears upon the breast,
 Are not enough—the legal sword
 Must do its stern behest.

THE CIRCUMCISION OF CHRIST 29

Like sacrificial wine
Pour'd on a victim's head 10
Are those few precious drops of Thine,
Now first to offering led.

They are the pledge and seal
Of Christ's unswerving faith
Given to His Sire, our souls to heal,
Although it cost His death.

They to His Church of old,
To each true Jewish heart,
In Gospel graces manifold
Communion blest impart. 20

Now of Thy love we deem
As of an ocean vast,
Mounting in tides against the stream
Of ages gone and past.

Both theirs and ours Thou art,
As we and they are Thine ;
Kings, Prophets, Patriarchs—all have part
Along the sacred line.

By blood and water too
God's mark is set on Thee, so
That in Thee every faithful view
Both covenants might see.

O bond of union, dear
And strong as is Thy grace !
Saints, parted by a thousand year,
May thus in heart embrace.

Is there a mourner true,
 Who fallen on faithless days,
 Sighs for the heart-consoling view
 Of those, Heaven deign'd to praise ? 40

In spirit mayst thou meet
 With faithful Abraham here,
 Whom soon in Eden thou shalt greet
 A nursing Father dear.

Wouldst thou a poet be ?
 And would thy dull heart fain
 Borrow of Israel's minstrelsy
 One high enraptured strain ?

Come here thy soul to tune,
 Here set thy feeble chant, 50
 Here, if at all beneath the moon,
 Is holy David's haunt.

Art thou a child of tears,
 Cradled in care and woe ?
 And seems it hard, thy vernal years
 Few vernal joys can show ?

And fall the sounds of mirth
 Sad on thy lonely heart,
 From all the hopes and charms of earth
 Untimely call'd to part ? GO

Look here, and hold thy peace:
 The Giver of all good
 E'en from the womb takes no release
 From suffering, tears, and blood.

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS 31

If thou wouldst reap in love,
First sow in holy fear :
So life a winter's morn may prove
To a bright endless year. 68

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS

*When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue faileth for thirst, I the Lord will hear them,
I the God of Israel will not forsake them.—Isaiah xh. 17.*

AND wilt Thou hear the fever'd heart
To Thee in silence cry ?
And as th' inconstant wildfires dart
Out of the restless eye,
Wilt thou forgive the wayward thought,
By kindly woes yet half untaught
A Saviour's right, so dearly bought,
That Hope should never die ?

Thou wilt : for many a languid prayer
Has reach'd Thee from the wild, 10
Since the lorn mother, wandering there,
Cast down her fainting child,¹
Then stole apart to weep and die,
Nor knew an Angel form was nigh,
To show soft waters gushing by
And dewy shadows mild.

Thou wilt—for Thou art Israel's God,
And Thine unwearied arm
Is ready yet with Moses' rod,
The hidden rill to charm 20

32 SECOND SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS

Out of the dry unfathom'd deep
Of sands, that lie in lifeless sleep,
Save when the scorching whirlwinds heap
 Their waves in rude alarm.

These moments of wild wrath are Thine—
 Thine too the drearier hour
When o'er th' horizon's silent line
 Fond hopeless fancies cower,
And on the traveller's listless way
Rises and sets th' unchanging day, 30
No cloud in heaven to slake its ray,
 On earth no sheltering bower.

Thou wilt be there, and not forsake,
 To turn the bitter pool
Into a bright and breezy lake,
 The throbbing brow to cool:
Till left awhile with Thee alone
The wilful heart be fain to own
That He, by whom our bright hours shone,
 Our darkness best may rule. 40

The scent of water far away
 Upon the breeze is flung :
The desert pelican to-day
 Securely leaves her young,
Reproving thankless man, who fears
To journey on a few lone years,
Where on the sand Thy step appears,
 Thy crown in sight is hung.

Thou, who didst sit on Jacob's well
 The weary hour of noon,¹ 50

The languid pulses Thou canst tell,
 The nerveless spirit tune.
 Thou from Whose cross in anguish burst
 The cry that own'd Thy dying thirst,¹
 To Thee we turn, our Last and First,
 Our Sun and soothing Moon.

From darkness, here, and dreariness
 We ask not full repose,
 Only be Thou at hand, to bless
 Our trial hour of woes. GO
 Is not the pilgrim's toil o'erpaid
 By the clear rill and palmy shade ?
 And see we not, up Earth's dark glade,
 The gate of Heaven unclosed ?

THE EPIPHANY

And, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young Child was. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.—St. Matthew ii. 9, 10.

STAR of the East, how sweet art Thou,
 Seen in life's early morning sky,
 Ere yet a cloud has dimm'd the brow,
 While yet we gaze with childish eye ;

When father, mother, nursing friend,
 Most dearly lov'd, and loving best,
 First bid us from their arms ascend,
 Pointing to Thee in Thy sure rest.

Too soon the glare of earthly day
 Buries, to us, Thy brightness keen, 10
 And we are left to find our way
 By faith and hope in Thee unseen.

What matter ? if the waymarks sure
 On every side are round us set,
 Soon oveieap'd, but not obscure ?
 'Tis ours to mark them or forget,

What matter ? if in calm old age
 Our childhood's star again arise,
 Crowning our lonely pilgrimage
 With all that cheers a wanderer's eyes ? 20

Ne'er may we lose it from our sight,
 Till all our hopes and thoughts are led
 To where it stays its lucid flight
 Over our Saviour's lowly bed.

There, swath'd in humblest poverty,
 On Chastity's meek lap enshrin'd,
 With breathless Reverence waiting by,
 When we our Sovereign Master find,

Will not the long-forgotten glow
 Of mingled joy and awe return, 30
 When stars above or flowers below
 First made our infant spirits burn ?

Look on us, Lord, and take our parts
 E'en on Thy throne of purity !
 From these our proud yet grovelling hearts
 Hide not Thy mild forgiving eye.

FIRST SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY 35

Did not the Gentile Church find grace,
Our mother dear, this favoured day ?
With gold and myrrh she sought Thy face ;
Nor didst Thou turn Thy face away. 40

She too,¹ in earlier, purer days,
Had watch'd Thee gleaming faint and far—
But wandering in self-chosen ways
She lost Thee quite, Thou lovely star.

Yet had her Father's finger turn'd
To Thee her first inquiring glance :
The deeper shame within her burn'd,
When waken'd from her wilful trance.

Behold, her wisest throng Thy gate,
Their richest, sweetest, purest store, 60
(Yet own'd too worthless and too late,)
They lavish on Thy cottage-floor.

They give their best—O tenfold shame
On us their fallen progeny,
Who sacrifice the blind and lame²—
Who will not wake or fast with Thee !

They shall spring up as among the grass, as willows by the water courses.—Isaiah xlv. 4.

LESSONS sweet of spring returning,
Welcome to the thoughtful heart!
May I call yc sense or learning,
Instinct pure, or Heaven-taught art ?

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY 37

Thus I learn Contentment's power
From the slighted willow bower,
Ready to give thanks and live
On the least that Heaven may give. 40

If, the quiet brooklet leaving,
Up the stony vale I w^rind,
Haply half in fancy grieving
For the shades I leave behind,
By the dusty wayside drear,
Nightingales with joyous cheer
Sing, my sadness to reprove,
Gladlier than in cultur'd grove.

Where the thickest boughs are twining
Of the greenest darkest tree, 50
There they plunge, the light declining—
All may hear, but none may see.
Fearless of the passing hoof,
Hardly will they fleet aloof ;
So they live in modest ways,
Trust entire, and ceaseless praise.

*Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse;
but thou hast kept the good wine untrt now.—St. John 11. 10.*

THE heart of childhood is all mirth :
We frolic to and fro
As free and blithe, as if on earth
Were no such thing as woe.

38 SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

But if indeed with reckless faith
We trust the flattering voice,
Which whispers, " Take thy fill ere death,
" Indulge thee and rejoice; "

Too surely, every setting day,
Some lost delight we mourn, 10
The flowers all die along our way,
Till we, too, die forlorn.

Such is the world's gay garish feast,
In her first charming bowl
Infusing all that fires the breast,
And cheats th' unstable soul.

And still, as loud the revel swells,
The fever'd pulse beats higher,
Till the sear'd taste from foulest wells
Is fain to slake its fire. 20

Unlike the feast of heavenly love
Spread at the Saviour's word
For souls that hear His call, and prove Meet for His bridal board.

Why should we fear, youth's draught of joy,
If pure, would sparkle less ?
Why should the cup the sooner cloy,
Which God hath deign'd to bless ?

For, is it Hope, that thrills so keen
Along each bounding vein, so
Still whispering glorious things unseen ?—
Faith makes the vision plain.

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY 39

The world would kill her soon : but Faith
Her daring dreams will cherish,
Speeding her gaze o'er time and death
To realms where nought can perish.

Or is it Love, the dear delight
Of hearts that know no guile,
That all around see all things bright
With their own magic smile ? 40

The silent joy, that sinks so deep,
Of confidence and rest,
Lull'd in a father's arms to sleep,
Clasp'd to a mother's breast ?

Who, but a Christian, through all life
That blessing may prolong ?
Who, through the world's sad day of strife,
Still chant his morning song ?

Fathers may hate us or forsake,
God's foundlings then are we : 50
Mother on child no pity take,¹
But we shall still have Thee.

We may look home, and seek in vain
A fond fraternal heart,
But Christ hath given His promise plain
To do a Brother's part.

Nor shall dull age, as worldings say,
The heavenward flame annoy :
The Saviour cannot pass away,
And with Him lives our joy. 60

¹ Can a woman forget her sucking child, that she should not have compassion on the son of her womb ? yea, they may forget, yet will I not forget thee.—Isaiah xlix. 15.

40 THIRD SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

Ever with the richest tenderest glow
Sets round th' autumnal sun—
But there sight fails : no heart may know
The bliss when life is done.

Such is Thy banquet, dearest Lord ;
O give us grace, to cast
Our lot with Thine, to trust Thy word,
And keep our best till last. 68

THIRD SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

When Jesus heard it, He marvelled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.—St. Matthew vm. 10.

I MARKED a rainbow in the north,
What time the wild autumnal sun
From his dark veil at noon look'd forth,
As glorying in his course half done,
Flinging soft radiance far and wide
Over the dusky heaven and bleak hill-side.

It was a gleam to Memory dear,
And as I walk and muse apart,
When all seems faithless round and drear,
I would revive it in my heart, 10
And watch how light can find its way
To regions farthest from the fount of day.

Light flashes in the gloomiest sky,
And Music in the dullest plain,
For there the lark is soaring high
Over her flat and leafless reign,
And chanting in so blithe a tone,
It shames the weary heart to feel itself alone.

THIRD SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY 41

Brighter than rainbow in the north,
More cheery than the matin lark, 20
Is the soft gleam of Christian worth,
Which on some holy house we mark ;
Dear to the pastor's aching heart
To think, where'er he looks, such gleam may have a part;

May dwell, unseen by all but Heaven,
Like diamond blazing in the mine ;
For ever, where such grace is given,
It fears in open day to shine,¹
Lest the deep stain it owns within Break out, and Faith be shaiiii'd by the believer's
Sill. 30

In silence and afar they wait,
To find a prayer their Lord may hear :
Voice of the poor and desolate,
You best may bring it to His ear ;
Your grateful intercessions rise
With more than royal pomp, and pierce the skies.

¹ Lord, I am not worthy that Thou shouldest enter under my roof.—St. Luke vn. 6.

" From the first time that the impressions of religion settled deeply in his mind, he used great caution to conceal it ; not only in obedience to the rule given by our Saviour, of fasting, praying, and giving alms in secret, but from a particular distrust he had of himself; for he said he was afraid he should at some time or other do some enormous thing, which, if he were looked on as a very religious man, might cast a reproach on the profession of it, and give great advantages to impusymen to blaspheme the name of God."

FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY 43

Love on the Saviour's dying head
Her spikenard drops unblam'd may pour,
May mount His cross, and wrap Him dead
In spices from the golden shore ;¹
Risen, may embalm His sacred name
With all a Painter's art, and all a Minstrel's flame.

Worthless and lost our offerings seem,
Drops in the ocean of His praise ;
But Mercy with her genial beam
Is ripening them to pearly blaze, 70
To sparkle in His crown above,
Who welcomes here a child's as there an angel's love.

FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

When they saw Him, they besought Him that He would depart out of their coasts.—St. Matthew vin. 34.

THEY know th' Almighty's power,
Who, waken'd by the rushing midnight shower,
Watch for the fitful breeze
To howl and chafe amid the bending trees,
Watch for the still white gleam
To bathe the landscape in a fiery stream,
Touching the tremulous eye with sense of light
Too rapid and too pure for all but angel sight.

They know th' Almighty's love,
Who, when the whirlwinds rock the topmost grove, 10
Stand in the shade, and hear
The tumult with a deep exulting fear,

¹ St. John xii. 7 ; xix. 30.

44 FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

How, in their fiercest sway,
Curb'd by some power unseen, they die away,
Like a bold steed that owns his rider's arm,
Proud to be checked and sooth'd by that o'ermastering charm.

But there are storms within
That heave the struggling heart with wilder
dm,
And there is power and love
The maniac's rushing frenzy to reprove, 20
And when he takes his seat,
Cloth'd and in calmness, at his Saviour's feet,¹
Is not the power as strange, the love as blest,
As when He said, Be still, and ocean sank to rest ?

Woe to the wayward heart,
That gladlier turns to eye the shuddering start
Of Passion in her might,
Than marks the silent growth of grace and light ;—
Pleas'd in the cheerless tomb
To linger, while the morning rays illumine 30
Green lake, arid cedar tuft, and spicy glade,
Shaking their dewy tresses now the storm is laid.

The storm is laid—and now
In His meek power He climbs the mountain's
brow,
Who bade the waves go sleep,
And lash'd the vex'd fiends to their yawning deep.

FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY 45

How on a rock they stand,
Who watch His eye, and hold His guiding hand !
Not half so fix'd, amid her vassal hills,
Rises the holy pile that Kedron's valley fills. 40

And wilt thou seek again
Thy howling waste, thy charnel-house and chain,
And with the demons be,
Rather than clasp thine own Deliverer's knee ?
Sure 'tis 110 Heaven-bred awe
That bids thee from His healing touch withdraw ;
The world and He are struggling in thine heart.
And in thy reckless mood thou bidd'st thy Lord depart.

He, merciful and mild, 49
As erst, beholding, loves His wayward child ;
When souls of highest birth
Waste their impassion'd might on dreams of earth,
He opens Nature's book,
And on His glorious Gospel bids them look,
Till by such chords, as rule the choirs above,
Their lawless cries are tun'd to hymns of perfect
love.

46 FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither His ear heavy, that it cannot hear: but your iniquities have separated between you and your God.—Isaiah lix. 1, 2.

" WAKE, arm divine ! awake,
" Eye of the only Wise !
" Now for Thy glory's sake,
" Saviour and God, arise,
" And may Thine ear, that sealed seems,
" In pity mark our mournful themes ! "

Thus in her lonely hour
Thy Church is fain to cry,
As if Thy love and power
Were vanish'd from her sky ; 10
Yet God is there, and at His side
He triumphs, Who for sinners died.

Ah ! 'tis the world enthralls
The Heaven-betrothed breast:
The traitor Sense recalls
The soaring soul from rest.
That bitter sigh was all for earth,
For glories gone, and vanish'd mirth.

Age would to youth return,
Farther from Heaven would be, 20
To feel the wildfire burn,
On idolizing knee
Again to fall, and rob Thy shrine
Of hearts, the right of love divine.

FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY 47

Lord of this erring flock !
Thou whose soft showers distil
On ocean waste or rock,
Free as on Hermon hill,
Do Thou our craven spirits cheer,
And shame away the selfish tear. 30

'Twas silent all and dead ¹
Beside the barren sea,
Where Philip's steps were led,
Led by a voice from Thee—
He rose and went, nor ask'd Thee why,
Nor stay'd to heave one faithless sigh :

Upon his lonely way
The high-born traveller came,
Reading a mournful lay
Of " One who bore our shame,"² 40
" Silent Himself, His name untold,
" And yet His glories were of old."

To muse what Heaven might mean
His wondering brow he rais'd,
And met an eye serene
That on him watchful gaz'd.
No Hermit e'er so welcome cross'd
A child's lone path in woodland lost.

Now wonder turns to love ;
The scrolls of sacred lore 50
No darksome mazes prove ;
-The desert tires no more :
They bathe where holy waters flow,
Then on their way rejoicing go.

* Isaiah liii. 6-8.

48 FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

They part to meet in Heaven ;
But of the joy they share,
Absolving and forgiven,
The sweet remembrance bear.
Yes—mark him well, ye cold and proud,
Bewildered in a heartless crowd, 60

Starting and turning pale
At Rumour's angry dm—
No storm can now assail
The charm he wears within,
Rejoicing still, and doing good,
And with the thought of God imbu'd.

No glare of high estate,
No gloom of woe or want,
The radiance can abate
Where Heaven delights to haunt : 70
Sin only hides the genial ray,
And, round the Cross, makes night of day.

Then weep it from thy heart;
So mayst thou duly learn
The intercessor's part,
Thy prayers and tears may earn
For fallen souls some healing breath,
Ere they have died th' Apostate's death. 78

SIXTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

Beloved, nozv are ive the sons oj God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be : but we know thai, when He shall appear, we shall be like Him ; for we shall see Him as He is.—1 St. John m. 2.

THERE are, who darkling and alone,
 Would wish the weary night were gone,
 Though dawning morn should only show
 The secret of their unknown woe :
 Who pray for sharpest throbs of pain
 To ease them of doubt's galling eham :
 " Only disperse the cloud," they cry,
 " And if our fate be death, give light and let us
 "die."¹

Unwise I deem them, LORD, unmeet
 To piofit by Thy chastemngs sweet, 10
 For Thou wouldst have us linger still
 Upon the verge of good or ill,
 That on Thy guiding hand unseen
 Our undivided hearts may lean,
 And this our frail and foundering bark
 Glide in the narrow wake of Thy beloved ark.

³Tis so in war—the champion true
 Loves victory more, when dim in view
 He sees her glories gild afar
 The dusky edge of stubborn war, 20
 Than if th' untrodden bloodless field
 The harvest of her laurels yield ;
 Let not my bark in calm abide,
 But win her fearless way against the chafing tide.

50 SIXTH SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY

'Tis so in love—the faithful heart
From her dim vision would not part,
When first to her fond gaze is given
That purest spot in Fancy's heaven,
For all the gorgeous sky beside,
Though pledg'd her own and sure t' abide : so
Dearer than every past noon-day
That twilight gleam to her, though faint and far away.

So have I seen some tender flower
Priz'd above all the vernal bower,
Shelter'd beneath the coolest shade,
Embosom'd in the greenest glade,
So frail a gem, it scarce may bear
The playful touch of evening air ;
When hardier grown we love it less,
And trust it from our sight, not needing our caress. 40

And wherefore is the sweet spring tide
Worth all the changeful year beside ?
The last-born babe, why lies its part
Deep in the mother's inmost heart ?
But that the LORD and Source of love
Would have His weakest ever prove
Our tenderest care—and most of all
Our frail immortal souls, His work and Satan's thrall.

So be it, LORD ; I know it best,
Though not as yet this wayward breast so
Beat quite in answer to Thy voice,
Yet surely I have made my choice ;

Then on th' incarnate SAVIOUR'S breast,
 The fount of sweetness, they shall rest,
 Their spirits every hour imbu'd
 More deeply with His precious blood.
 But peace—still voice and closed eye
 Suit best with hearts beyond the sky,
 Hearts training in their low abode, 87
 Daily to lose themselves in hope to find thei GOD.

SEPTUAGESIMA SUNDAY

The invisible things of Him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the tilings that are made.—Romans i. 20.

THERE is a book, who runs may read,
 Which heavenly truth imparts,
 And all the lore its scholars need,
 Pure eyes and Christian hearts.

The works of God above, below,
 Within us and around,
 Are pages in that book, to show
 How God Himself is found.

The glorious sky embracing all
 Is like the Maker's love, 10
 Wherewith encompass'd, great and small
 In peace and order move.

The Moon above, the Church below,
 A wondrous race they run,
 But all their radiance, all their glow
 Each borrows of its Sun.

The Saviour lends the light and heat
 That crowns His holy hill;
 The saints, like stars, around His seat,
 Perform their courses still.¹ 20

The saints above are stars in Heaven—
 What are the saints on earth ?
 Like trees they stand whom GOD has given,-
 Our Eden's happy birth.

Faith is their fix'd unswerving root,
 Hope their unlading flower,
 Fair deeds of charity their fruit,
 The glory of their bower.

The dew of Heaven is like Thy grace,⁸
 It steals in silence down ; 30
 But where it lights, the favour'd place
 By richest fruits is known.

One Name above all glorious names
 With its ten thousand tongues
 The everlasting sea proclaims,
 Echoing angelic songs.

The raging Fire,⁴ the roaring Wind,
 Thy boundless power display :
 But in the gentler breeze we find
 Thy Spirit's viewless way.⁵ 40

Two worlds are ours : 'tis only Sin
 Forbids us to descry
 The mystic heaven and earth within,
 Plain as the sea and sky.

 * Hebrews xii. 29. ⁶ St. John in. 8.

Thou who hast given me eyes to see
 And love this sight so fair,
 Give me a heart to find out Thee,
 And read Thee every where. 48

SEXAGESIMA SUNDAY

So He drove out the man ; and He placed at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.—Genesis in. 24 ; compare chap. vi.

FOE of mankind ! too bold thy race :
 Thou runn'st at such a reckless pace,
 Thine own dire work thou surely wilt confound :
 'Twas but one little drop of sin
 We saw this morning enter in,
 And lo ! at eventide the world is drown'd.

See here the fruit of wandering eyes,
 Of worldly longings to be wise,
 Of Passion dwelling on forbidden sweets :
 Ye lawless glances, freely rove ; 10
 Ruin below and wrath above
 Are all that now the wildering fancy meets.

LORD, when in some deep garden glade,
 Of Thee and of myself afraid,
 From thoughts like these among the bowers I hide,
 Nearest and loudest then of all
 I seem to hear the Judge's call:—
 " Where art thou, fallen man ? come forth, and
 "be thou tried."

Trembling before Thee as I stand,
 Where'er I gaze on either hand 20
 The sentence is gone forth, the ground is curs'd :
 Yet mingled with the penal shower
 Some drops of balm in every bower
 Steal down like April dews, that softest fall and first.

If filial and maternal love¹
 Memorial of our guilt must prove,
 If sinful babes in sorrow must be born,
 Yet, to assuage her sharpest throes,
 The faithful mother surely knows,
 This was the way Thou cam'st to save the world
 forlorn. 30

If blessed wedlock may not bless²
 Without some tinge of bitterness
 To dash her cup of joy, since Eden lost,
 Chaining to earth with strong desire
 Hearts that would highest else aspire,
 And o'er the tenderer sex usurping ever most;

Yet by the light of Christian lore
 'Tis blind Idolatry no more,
 But a sweet help and pattern of true love,
 Showing how best the soul may cling 40
 To her immortal Spouse and King,
 How He should rule, and she with full desire approve.

² Thy desire shall be over thee.

If niggard Earth her treasures hide,¹
 To all but labouring hands denied,
 Lavish of thorns and worthless weeds alone,
 The doom is half in mercy given
 To tram us in our way to Heaven,
 And show our lagging souls how glory must be won.

If on the sinner's outward frame²
 God hath impress'd His mark of blame, 50
 And e'en our bodies shrink at touch of light,
 Yet Mercy hath not left us bare :
 The very weeds we daily wear⁸
 Are to Faith's eye a pledge of God's forgiving might.

And oh ! if yet one arrow more,⁴
 The sharpest of th' Almighty's store,
 Tremble upon the string—a sinner's death—
 Art thou not by to soothe and save,
 To lay us gently in the grave,
 To close the weary eye and hush the parting breath ? 60

Therefore in sight of man bereft
 The happy garden still was left,
 The fiery sword that guarded show'd it too,
 Turning all ways, the world to teach,
 That though as yet beyond our reach,
 Still in its place the tree of life and glory grew.

¹ Cursed is the ground for thy sake.

² I was afraid because I was naked.

³ The Lord God made coats of skins, and clothed them.

⁴ Thou shalt surely die.

QUINQUAGESIMA SUNDAY

Ido set My bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between Me and the earth.—Genesis ix. 13.

SWEET Dove ! the softest, steadiest plume
 In all the sunbright sky,
 Brightening in ever-changeful bloom
 As breezes change on high ;—

Sweet Leaf ! the pledge of peace and mirth,
 " Long sought, and lately won,"
 Bless'd increase of reviving Earth,
 When first it felt the Sun ;—

Sweet Rainbow ! pride of summer days,
 High set at Iheaven's command, 10
 Though into drear and dusky haze
 Thou melt on either hand ;—

Dear tokens of a pardoning GOD,
 We hail ye, one and all,
 As when our fathers walk'd abroad,
 Freed from their twelvemonth's thrall.

How joyful from th' imprisoning ark
 On the green earth they spring !
 Not blither, after showers, the Lark
 Mounts up with glistening wing. 20

So home-bound sailors spring to shore,
 Two oceans safely past ;
 So happy souls, when life is o'er,
 Plunge in th' empyreal vast.

What wins their first and fondest gaze
In all the blissful field,
And keeps it through a thousand days ?
Love face to face reveal'd :

Love imag'd in that cordial look
Our Lord in Eden bends 30
On souls that sin and earth forsook
In time to die His friends.

And what most welcome and serene
Dawns on the Patriarch's eye,
In all th' emerging hills so green,
In all the brightening sky ?

What but the gentle rainbow's gleam,
Soothing the wearied sight,
That cannot bear the solar beam,
With soft undazzling light ? 40

Lord, if our fathers turn'd to Thee
With such adoring gaze,
Wondering frail man Thy light should see
Without Thy scorching blaze ;

Where is our love, and where our hearts,
We who have seen Thy Son,
Have tried Thy Spirit's winning arts,
And yet we are not won ?

The Son of God in radiance beam'd
Too bright for us to scan, 50
But we may face the rays that stream'd
From the mild Son of Man.

There, parted into rainbow hues,
 In sweet harmonious strife,
 We see celestial love diffuse
 Its light o'er Jesus' life.

God, by His bow, vouchsafes to write
 This truth in Heaven above ;
 As every lovely hue is Light,
 So every grace is Love.

ASH-WEDNESDAY

When thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face ; that thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret.—St. Matthew vi. 17, 18.

- " YES—deep within and deeper yet
 " The rankling shaft of conscience hide,
 " Quick let the swelling eye forget
 " The tears that in the heart abide.
 " Calm be the voice, the aspect bold,
 ' No shuddering pass o'er lip or brow,
 " For why should Innocence be told
 " The pangs that guilty spirits bow ?
 " The loving eye that watches thine
 " Close as the air that wraps thee round— 10
 " Why in thy sorrow should it pine,
 " Since never of thy sin it found ?
 " And wherefore should the heathen see¹
 " What chains of darkness thee enslave,
 " And mocking say, Lo, this is he
 " Who own'd a God that could not save ? '

¹ Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God ?—Joel ii. IT.

Thus oft the mourner's wayward heart
 Tempts him to hide his grief and die,
 Too feeble for Confession's smart,
 Too proud to bear a pitying eye ; 20
 How sweet in that dark hour, to fall
 On bosoms waiting to receive
 Our sighs, and gently whisper all !
 They love us—will not God forgive ?

Else let us keep our fast within,
 Till Heaven and we are quite alone,
 Then let the grief, the shame, the sin,
 Before the mercy-seat be thrown.
 Between the porch and altar weep,
 Unworthy of the holiest place, so
 Yet hoping near the shrine to keep
 One lowly cell in sight of grace.

Nor fear lest sympathy should fail—
 Hast thou not seen, in night-hours drear,
 When racking thoughts the heart assail,
 The glimmering stars by turns appear,
 And from th' eternal home above
 With silent news of mercy steal ?
 So Angels pause on tasks of love,
 To look where sorrowing sinners kneel. 40

Or if no Angel pass that way,
 He who in> secret sees, perchance
 May bid His own heart-warming ray
 Toward thee stream with kindlier glance,
 As when upon His drooping head
 His Father's light was pour'd from Heaven,
 What time, unshelter'd and unfed,¹
 Far in the wild His steps were driven.

1St. Matthew iv. 1.

High thoughts were with Him in that hour,
 Untold, unspeakable on earth— 50
 And who can stay the soaring power
 Of spirits wean'd from worldly mirth,
 While far beyond the sound of praise
 With upward eye they float serene,
 And learn to bear their Saviour's blaze
 When Judgement shall undraw the screen ?

FIRST SUNDAY IN LENT

Haste thee, escape thither ; for I cannot do any thing till thou be come thither. Therefore the name of Ike city was called Zoar.—Genesis xix. 22.

" ANGEL of wrath ! why linger in mid air,
 " While the devoted city's cry
 "Louder and louder swells ? and canst thou spare,
 " Thy full-charg'd vial standing by ? "
 Thus, with stern voice, unsparing Justice pleads:
 He hears her not—with soften'd gaze
 His eye is following where sweet Mercy leads,
 And till she give the sign, his fury stays.

Guided by her, along the mountain road,
 Far through the twilight of the morn, 10
 With hurrying footsteps from th' accurs'd abode
 He sees the holy household borne :
 Angels, or more, on either hand are nigh,
 To speed them o'er the tempting plain,
 Lingering in heart, and with frail sidelong
 eye
 Seeking how near they may unharm'd remain.

Then, onward yet a step, thou hard-won soul;
 Though in the Church thou know thy place,
 The mountain farther lies—there seek thy goal,
 There breathe at large, o'erpast thy dangerous race.

Sweet is the smile of home ; the mutual look
 When hearts are of each other sure ; so
 Sweet all the joys that crowd the household nook,
 The haunt of all affections pure ;
 Yet in the world e'en these abide, and we
 Above the world our calling boast:
 Once gain the mountain-top, and thou art free :
 Till then, who rest, presume ; who turn to look,
 are lost.

SECOND SUNDAY IN LENT

And when Esau heard the words of his father, he cried with a greed and exceeding bitter cry, and said unto his father, Bless me, even me also, O my father.—Genesis xxvii. 34. (Compare Hebrews xii. 17. He found no place of repentance, though he sought it carefully with tears.)

" AND is there in God's world so drear a place
 " Where the loud bitter cry is rais'd in vain ?
 " Where tears of penance come too late for grace
 " As on th' uprooted flower the genial rain ? "

¹ The author earnestly hopes, that nothing in these stanzas will be understood to express any opinion as to the general efficacy of what is called " a death-bed repentance." Such questions are best left in the merciful obscurity with which Scripture has enveloped them. Esau's probation, as far as his birthright was concerned, was quite over when he uttered the cry in the text. His despondency, therefore, is not parallel to any thing on this side the grave.

'Tis even so : the sovereign Lord of souls
 Stores in the dungeon of His boundless realm
 Each bolt, that o'er the sinner vainly rolls,
 With gather'd wrath the reprobate to whelm.

Will the storm hear the sailor's piteous cry,¹
 Taught to mistrust, too late, the tempting wave,
 When all around he sees but sea and sky,
 A God in anger, a self-chosen grave ?

Or will the thorns, that strew intemperance' bed,
 Turn with a wish to down ? will late remorse
 Recall the shaft the murderer's hand has sped,
 Or from the guiltless bosom turn its course ?

Then may the unbodied soul in safety fleet
 Through the dark curtains of the world above,
 Fresh from the stain of crime ; nor fear to meet
 The God, whom here she would not learn to love : 20

Then is there hope for such as die unblest,
 That angel wings may waft them to the shore,
 Nor need th' unready virgin strike her breast,
 Nor wait desponding round the bridegroom's door.

But where is then the stay of contrite hearts ?
 Of old they lean'd on Thy eternal word,
 But with the sinner's fear their hope departs,
 Fast link'd as Thy great Name to Thee, O

That Name, by which Thy faithful oath is past,
 That we should endless be, for joy or woe :—
 Ard if the treasures of Thy wrath could waste, :
 Thy lovers must their promis'd Heaven forgo.

But ask of elder days, earth's vernal hour,
 When in familiar talk God's voice was heard,
 When at the Patriarch's call the fiery shower
 Propitious o'er the turf-built shrine appear'd.

Watch by our father Isaac's pastoral door—
 The birthright sold, the blessing lost and won,
 Tell, Heaven has wrath that can relent no more,
 The Grave, dark deeds that cannot be undone.

We barter life for pottage ; sell true bliss 11
 For wealth or power, for pleasure or renown ;
 Thus, Esau-like, our Father's blessing miss,
 Then wash with fruitless tears our faded crown.

Our faded crown, despis'd and flung aside,
 Shall on some brother's brow immortal bloom,
 No partial hand the blessing may misguide ;
 No flattering fancy change our Monarch's doom :

His righteous doom, that meek true-hearted Love
 The everlasting birthright should receive,¹ so
 The softest dews drop on her from above,¹
 The richest green her mountain garland weave :

Her brethren, mightiest, wisest, eldest-born,
 Bow to her sway, and move at her behest :
 Isaac's fond blessing rriay not fall on scorn,
 Nor Balaam's curse on Love, which God hath blest.

THIRD SUNDAY IN LENT

When a strong man armed keepeth his palace, his goods are in peace : but when a stronger than he shall come upon him, and overcome him, he taketh from him all his armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoils.—St. Luke xi. 21, 22.

SEE Lucifer like lightning fall,
 Dash'd from his throne of pride ;
 While, answering Thy victorious call,
 The Saints his spoils divide ;
 This world of Thine, by him usurp'd too long,
 Now opening all her stores to heal Thy servants' wrong.

So when the first-born of Thy foes
 Dead in the darkness lay,
 When Thy redemption at midnight rose
 And cast their bonds away, 10
 The orphan'd realm threw wide her gates, and told
 Into freed Israel's lap her jewels and her gold.

And when their wondrous march was o'er,
 And they had won their homes,
 Where Abraham fed his flock of yore,
 Among their fathers' tombs ;—
 A land that drinks the rain of Heaven at will,
 Whose waters kiss the feet of many a vine-clad hill ;—

Oft as they watch'd, -at thoughtful eve,
 A gale from bowers of balm 20
 Sweep o'er the billowy corn, and heave
 The tresses of the palm,

Just as the lingering Sun had touch'd with gold,
Far o'er the cedar shade, some tower of giants old;

It was a fearful joy, I ween,
To trace the Heathen's toil,
The limpid wells, the orchards green,
Left ready for the spoil,
The household stores untouch'd, the roses bright
Wreath'd o'er the cottage walls in garlands of delight. so

And now another Canaan yields
To Thine all-conquering ark ;—
Fly from the " old poetic " fields,¹
Ye Paynim shadows dark !
Immortal Greece, dear land of glorious lays,
Lo ! here the " unknown God " of thy unconscious praise !

The olive-wreath, the ivied wand,
" The sword in myrtles drest,"
Each legend of the shadowy strand
Now wakes a vision blest; 40
As little children lisp, and tell of Heaven,
So thoughts beyond their thought to those high
Bards were given.

And these are ours : Thy partial grace
The tempting treasure lends :
These relics of a guilty race
Are forfeit to Thy friends ;

Inspiration breathed around.—Gray.

What seein'd an idol hymn, now brentlies of Thee,
 Tun'd by Faith's ear to some celestial melody.

There's not a strain to Memory dear,¹
 Nor flower in classic grove, so
 There's not a sweet note warbled here,
 But minds us of Thy Love.
 O Lord, our Lord, and spoiler of our foes,
 There is no light but Thine: with Thee all beauty glows.

FOURTH SUNDAY IN LENT

Joseph made haste ; for his bowels did yearn upon hiv brother : and he sought where to weep ; and he entered into his chamber, and wept there.—Genesis xhn. 30.

There stood no man with him, while Joseph made himself known unto his brethren.—Genesis xlv. 1.

WHEN Nature tries her finest touch,
 Weaving her vernal wreath,
 Mark ye, how close she veils her round,
 Not to be trac'd by sight or sound,
 Nor soil'd by ruder breath ?

Who ever saw the earliest rose
 First open her sweet breast ?
 Or, when the summer sun goes down,
 The first soft star in evening's crown
 Light up her gleaming crest ? 10

Fondly we seek the dawning bloom
On features wan and fair,—
The gazing eye no change can trace,
But look away a little space,
Then turn, and lo ! 'tis there.

But there's a sweeter flower than e'er
Blush'd Oll the rosy spray—
A brighter star, a richer bloom
Than e'er did western heaven illumine
At close of summer day. 20

'Tis Love, the last best gift of Heaven ;
Love gentle, holy, pure ;
But tenderer than a dove's soft eye,
The searching sun, the open sky,
She never could endure.

E'en human Love will shrink from sight
Here in the coarse rude earth :
How then should rash intruding glance
Break ill upon her sacred trance
Who boasts a heavenly birth ? 30

So still and secret is her growth,
Ever the truest heart,
Where deepest strikes her kindly root
For hope or joy, for flower or fruit,
Least knows its happy part.

God only, and good angels, look
Behind the blissful screen—
As when, triumphant o'er His woes,
The Son of God by moonlight rose,
By all but Heaven unseen : 40

As when the holy Maid beheld
Her risen Son and Lord :
Thought has not colours half so fair
That she to paint that hour may dare,
In silence best ador'd.

The gracious Dove, that brought from Heaven
The earnest of our bliss,
Of many a chosen witness telling,
On many a happy vision dwelling,
Sings not a note of this. so

So, truest image of the Christ,
Old Israel's long-lost son,
What time, with sweet forgiving cheer,
He call'd his conscious brethren near,
Would weep with them alone.

He could not trust his melting soul
But in his Maker's sight—
Then why should gentle hearts and true
Bare to the rude world's withering view
Their treasure of delight! 60

No—let the dainty rose awhile
Her bashful fragrance hide—
Rend not her silken veil too soon,
But leave her, in her own soft noon,
To flourish and abide. 65

FIFTH SUNDAY IN LENT

And Moses said, I will now turn aside, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt.—Exodus in. 3.

TH' historic Muse, from age to age,
 Through many a waste heart-sickening page
 Hath trac'd the works of Man :
 But a celestial call to-day
 Stays her, like Moses, on her way,
 The works of GOD to scan.

Far seen across the sandy wild,
 Where, like a solitary child,
 He thoughtless roam'd and free,
 One towering thorn¹ was wrapt in flame— 10
 Bright without blaze it went and came :
 Who would not turn and see ?

Along the mountain ledges green
 The scatter'd sheep at will may glean
 The Desert's spicy stores :
 The while, with undivided heart,
 The shepherd talks with God apart,
 And, as he talks, adores.

Ye too, who tend Christ's wildering flock,
 Well may ye gather round the rock 20
 That once was Sion's hill:
 To watch the fire upon the mount,
 Still blazing, like the solar fount,
 Yet unconsuming still.

¹ " Seneh " : said to be a sort of Acacia.

Caught from that blaze by wrath divine,
 Lost branches of the onee-lov'd vine,
 Now wither'd, spent, and sere,
 See Israel's sons, like glowing brands,
 Toss'd wildly o'er a thousand lands
 For twiee a thousand year. 30

God will not queneh nor slay them quite,
 But lifts them like a beacon light
 Th' apostate Church to scare ;
 Or like pale ghosts that darkling roam,
 Hovering around their ancient home,
 But find no refuge there.

Ye blessed Angels ! if of you
 There be, who love the ways to view
 Of Kings and Kingdoms here ;
 (And sure, 'tis worth an Angel's gaze, 40
 To sec, throughout that dreary maze,
 God teaching love and fear :)

Oh say, in all the bleak expanse,
 Is there a spot to win your glance,
 So bright, so dark as this ?
 A hopeless faith, a homeless race,
 Yet seeking the most holy place,
 And owning the true bliss !

Salted with fire they seem...¹ to show
 How spirits lost in endless woe 50
 May undecaying live.
 Oh, sickening thought ! yet hold it fast
 Long as this glittering world shall last,
 Or sin at heart survive.

* St. Mark ix. 49.

And hark ! amid the flashing fire,
 Mingling with tones of fear and ire,
 Soft Mercy's undersong—
 'Tis Abraham's God who speaks so loud,
 His people's cries have pierc'd the cloud,
 He sees, He sees their wrong ; GO

He is come down to break their chain ;
 Though never more on Sion's fane
 Ills visible ensign wave ;
 'Tis Sioii, wheresoe'er they dwell,
 Who, with His own true Israel,
 Shall own Him strong to save.

He shall redeem them one by one,
 Where'er the world-encircling sun.
 Shall see them meekly kneel :
 All that He asks on Israel's part, 70
 Is only, that the captive heart
 Its woe and burthen feel.

Gentiles ! with fix'd yet awful eye
 Turn ye this page of mystery,
 Nor slight the warning sound :
 " Put off thy shoes from off thy feet—
 " The place where man his God shall meet,
 " Be sure, is holy ground." 78

PALM SUNDAY

And He answered and said unto them, I tell you that, if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out.—St. Luke xix. 40.

YE whose hearts are beating high
 With the pulse of Poesy,
 Heirs of more than royal race,
 Fram'd by Heaven's peculiar grace,
 God's own work to do on earth,
 (If the word be not too bold,)
 Giving virtue a new birth,
 And a life that ne'er grows old—

Sovereign masters of all hearts !
 Know ye, who hath set your parts ? 10
 He who gave you breath to sing,
 By whose strength ye sweep the string,
 He hath chosen you, to lead
 His Hosannas here below ;—
 Mount, and claim your glorious meed ;
 Linger not with sin and woe.

But if ye should hold your peace,
 Deem not that the song would cease—
 Angels round His glory-throne,
 Stars, His guiding hand that own, 20
 Flowers, that grow beneath our feet,
 Stones in earth's dark womb that rest,
 High and low in choir shall meet,
 Ere His Name shall be unblcst.

Lord, by every minstrel tongue
 Be Thy praise so duly sung,
 That Thine angels' harps may ne'er
 Fail to find fit echoing here :

Strange to our ears the church-bells of our home,
 The fragrance of our old paternal fields
 May be forgotten ; and the time may come
 When the babe's kiss no sense of pleasure yields
 E'en to the doting mother : but Thine own 11
 Thou never canst forget, nor leave alone.

There are who sigh that no fond heart is theirs,
 None loves them best—O vain and selfish sigh !
 Out of the bosom of His love He spares—
 The Father spares the Son, for thee to die :
 For thee He died—for thee He lives again :
 O'er thee He watches in His boundless reign.

Thou art as much His care, as if beside
 Nor man nor angel liv'd in Heav'n or earth :
 Thus sunbeams pour alike their glorious tide 21
 To light up worlds, or wake an insect's mirth:
 They shine and shine with unexhausted store—
 Thou art thy Saviour's darling—seek no more.

On thee and thine, thy warfare and thine end,
 E'en in His hour of agony He thought,
 When, ere the final pang His soul should rend,
 The ransom'd spirits one by one were brought
 To His mind's eye—two silent nights and days ...
 In calmness for His far-seen hour He stays. 30

Ye vaulted cells, where martyr'd seers of old
 Far in the rocky walls of Sion sleep,
 Green terraces and arched fountains cold,
 Where lies the cypress shade so still and deep,

¹ In Passion week, from Tuesday evening to Thursday evening : during which time Scripture seems to be nearly silent concerning our Saviour's proceedings.

Dear sacred haunts of glory and of woe,
 Help us, one hour, to trace His musings high and low:

One heart-ennobling hour ! It may not be :
 Th' unearthly thoughts have pass'd from earth
 away,

And fast as evening sunbeams from the sea
 Thy footsteps all in Sion's deep decay 40
 Were blotted from the holy ground : yet dear
 Is every stone of hers; for Thou wast surely here.

There is a spot within this sacred dale
 That felt Thee kneeling—touch'd Thy prostrate
 brow:

One Angel knows it. O might prayer avail
 To win that knowledge ! sure each holy vow
 Less quickly from th' unstable soul would fade,
 Offered where CHIUST m agony was laid.

Might tear of ours once mingle with the blood
 That from His aching brow by moonlight fell, 50
 Over the mournful joy our thoughts would brood,
 Till they had fram'd within a guardian spell
 To chase repining fancies, as they rise,
 Like birds of evil wing, to mar our sacrifice.

So dreams the heart self-flattering, fondly dreams ;—

Else wherefore, when the bitter waves o'erflow,
 Miss we the light, Gethsemane, that streams

From thy dear name, where in His page of woe
 It shines, a pale kind star in winter's sky ?

Who vainly reads it there, in vain had seen Him
 die. GO

TUESDAY BEFORE EASTER

They gave Him to drink wine mingled with myrrh : but He received it not.—St. Mark xv. 23.

" FILL high the bowl, and spice it well, and pour
 " The dews oblivious : for the Cross is sharp,
 " The Cross is sharp, and He
 " Is tenderer than a lamb.

" He wept by Lazarus' grave—how will He bear
 " This bed of anguish ? and His pale weak form
 " Is worn with many a watch
 " Of sorrow and unrest.

" His sweat last night was as great drops of blood,
 " And the sad burthen press'd Him so to earth,
 " The very torturers paus'd 11
 " To help Him on His way.

" Fill high the bowl, benumb His aching sense
 " With medicin'd sleep."—O awful in Thy woe !
 The parching thirst of death
 Is on Thee, and Thou triest

The slumb'rous potion bland, and wilt not drink:
 Not sullen, nor in scorn, like haughty man
 With suicidal hand
 Putting his solace by : 20

But as at first Thine all-pervading look
 Saw from Thy Father's bosom to th' abyss,
 Measuring in calm presage
 The infinite descent;

So to the end, though now of mortal pangs
Made heir, and emptied of Thy glory awhile,
 With unaverted eye
 Thou meetest all the storm.

Thou wilt feel all, that Thou mayst pity all;
And rather wouldst Thou wrestle with strong pain,
 Than overcloud Thy soul, 31
 So clear in agony,

Or lose one glimpse of Heaven before the time.
O most entire and perfect sacrifice,
 Renew'd in every pulse
 That on the tedious Cross

Told the long hours of death, as, one by one,
The life-strings of that tender heart gave way ;
 E'en sinners, taught by Thee,
 Look Sorrow in the face, 40

And bid her freely welcome, unbeguil'd
By false kind solaces, and spells of earth :—
 And yet not all unsooth'd :
 For when was Joy so dear,

As the deep calm that breath'd, "Father, forgive,"
Or, "Be with Me in Paradise to-day" ?
 And, though the strife be sore,
 Yet in His parting breath

Love masters Agony ; the soul that seem'd
Forsaken, feels her present God again, 50
 And in her Father's arms
 Contented dies away.

WEDNESDAY BEFORE EASTER

Saying, Father, if Thou be willing, remove this ctip from Me : nevcilti less not My zr///, but Thine, be done.—St. Luke xxn. 42.

0 LORD my God, do Thou Thy holy will—i will he still—
 i will not stir, lest I forsake Thine arm,
 And break the charm,
 Which lulls me, clinging to my Father's breast,
 In perfect rest.

Wild Fancy, peace ! thou must not me beguile
 With thy false smile¹ :
 I know thy flatteries and thy cheating ways ;
 Be silent, Praise, 10
 Blind guide with siren voice, and blinding all
 That hear thy call.

Come, Self-devotion, high and pure,
 Thoughts that in thankfulness endure,
 Though dearest hopes are faithless found,
 And dearest hearts are bursting round.
 Come, Resignation, spirit meek,
 And let me kiss thy placid cheek,
 And read in thy pale eye serene
 Their blessing, who by faith can wean 20
 Their hearts from sense, and learn to love
 God only, and the joys above.

They say, who know the life divine,
 And upward gaze with eagle eyne,

That by each golden crown on high,¹
 Rich with celestial jewelry,
 Which for our Lord's redeemed is set,
 There hangs a radiant coronet,
 All gemm'd with pure and living light,
 Too dazzling for a sinner's sight, 30
 Prepar'd for virgin souls, and them
 Who seek the martyr's diadem.

Nor deem, who to that bliss aspire,
 Must win their way through blood and fire.
 The writhings of a wounded heart
 Are fiercer than a foeman's dart.
 Oft in Life's stillest shade reclining,
In Desolation unrepining,
 Without a hope on earth to find
 A mirror in an answering mind, 40
 Meek souls there are, who little dream
 Their daily strife an Angel's theme,
 Or that the rod they take so calm
 Shall prove in Heaven a martyr's palm.

And there are souls that seem to dwell
 Above this earth—so rich a spell
 Floats round their steps, where'er they move,
 From hopes fulfill'd and mutual love.
 Such, if on high their thoughts are set,
 Nor in the stream the source forget, 50
 If prompt to quit the bliss they know,
 Following the Lamb where'er He go,

¹ " that little coronet or special reward which God hath prepared (extraordinary, and beside the great Crown of all faithful souls) for those"⁴ who have not defiled themselves with women, but follow the (virgin) Lamb for ever.'
 —Up. Taylor, Holy Living, c. xi. sect. 3.

THURSDAY BEFORE EASTER

At the beginning of thy supplications the commandment came forth, and I am come to shew Ihee ; for thou art greatly beloved : therefore understand the matter, and consider the vision.—Daniel ix. 23.

" O HOLY mountain of my God,
 " How do thy towers in ruin lie,
 " How art thou riven and strewn abroad,
 " Under the rude and wasteful sky ! "
 'Twas thus upon his fasting-day
 The " Man of Loves " was fain to pray,
 His lattice open^x toward his darling west,
 Mourning the ruin'd home he still must love the best.

Oh ! for a love like Daniel's now,
 To wing to Heaven but one strong prayer
 For GOD'S new Israel, sunk as low, 11
 Yet flourishing to sight as fair,
 As Sion in her height of pride,
 With queens for handmaids at her side,
 With kings her nursing-fathers, throned high,
 And compass'd with the world's too tempting blazonry.

'Tis true, nor winter stays thy growth,
 Nor torrid summer's sickly smile ;
 The flashing billows of the south
 Break not upon so lone an isle, 20
 But thou, rich vine, art grafted there,
 The fruit of death or life to bear,

Then look no more : or closer watch
 Thy course in Karth's bewildering ways, so
 For every glimpse thine eye can catch
 Of what shall bo in those dread days :
 So when th' Archangel's word is spoken,
 And Death's deep trance for ever broken,
 In mercy thou mayst feel the heavenly hand
 And in thy lot unharm'd before thy Saviour stand.¹

GOOD FRIDAY

He ?v despised and rejected of men —Isaiah lni. 3.

Is it not strange, the darkest hour
 That ever dawu'd on sinful earth
 Should touch the heart with softer power
 For comfort, than an angel's mirth ?
 That to the Cross the mourner's eye should turn
 Sooner than where the stars of Christmas burn ?

Sooner than where the Faster sun
 Shines glorious on yon open grave,
 And to and fro the tidings run,
 " Who died to heal, is ris'n to save " ? 10
 Sooner than where upon the Saviour's friends
 The very Comforter in light and love descends ?

Yet so it is : for duly there
 The bitter herbs of earth are set,
 Till temper'd by the Saviour's prayer,
 And with the Saviour's life-blood wet,
 They turn to sweetness, and drop holy balm,
 Soft as imprison'd martyr's deathbed calm.

¹ Thou shalt rest, and stand in thy lot at the end of the days.—Daniel xh. 13.

Lord of my heart, by Thy last cry,
 Let not Thy blood on earth be spent— so
 Lo, at Thy feet I fainting lie,
 Mine eyes upon Thy wounds are bent,
 Upon Thy streaming wounds my weary eyes
 Wait like the parched earth on April skies.

Wash me, and dry these bitter tears,
 O let my heart no further roam,
 'Tis Thine by vows, and hopes, and fears,
 Long since—O call Thy wanderer home ;
 To that dear home, safe in Thy wounded side,
 Where only broken hearts their sin and shame
 may hide. 60

EASTER EVE

*As for thee also, by the blood of thy covenant I have sent forth thy prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water.—
 Zechanah ix. 11.*

AT length the worst is o'er, and Thou art laid
 Deep in Thy darksome bed ;
 All still and cold beneath yon dreary stone
 Thy sacred form is gone ;
 Around those lips where power and mercy hung,
 The dews of death have clung ;
 The dull earth o'er Thee, and Thy foes around,
 Thou sleep'st a silent corse, in funeral fetters wound.

Sleep'st Thou indeed ? or is Thy spirit fled,
 At large among the dead ? 10
 Whether in Eden bowers Thy welcome voice
 Wake Abraham to rejoice,

Or in some drearier scene Thine eye controls
 The thronging band of souls ;
 That, as Thy blood won earth, Thine agony
 Might set the shadowy realm from sin and sorrow free.

Where'er Thou roam'st, one happy soul, we know,
 Seen at Thy side in woe,¹
 Waits on Thy triumph—even as all the blest
 With him and Thee shall rest. 20
 Each on his cross, by Thee we hang a while,
 Watching Thy patient smile,
 Till we have learn'd to say, " 'Tis justly done,
 " Only in glory, LORD, Thy sinful servant own."

Soon wilt Thou take us to Thy tranquil bower
 To rest one little hour,
 Till Thine elect arc number'd, and the grave
 Call Thee to come and save :
 Then on Thy bosom borne shall we descend
 Again with earth to blend, :JO
 Earth all refin'd with bright supernal fires,
 Tinctur'd with holy blood, and wing'd with pure desires.

Meanwhile with every son and saint of Thine
 Along the glorious line,
 Sitting by turns beneath Thy sacred feet
 We'll hold communion sweet,
 Know them by look and voice, and thank them all
 For helping us in thrall,

For words of hope, and bright examples given
 To show through moonless skies that there is light in Heaven. 10

() come that day, when in this restless heart
 Earth shall resign her part,
 When in the grave with Thee my limbs shall rest,
 My soul with Thee be blest !
 But stay, presumptuous — CHRIST with thee abides
 In the rock's dreary sides :
 He from the stone will wring celestial dew
 If but the prisoner's heart be faithful found and true.

When tears are spent, and thou art left alone
 With ghosts of blessings gone, 50
 Think thou art taken from the cross, and laid
 In JESUS' burial shade ;
 Take Moses' rod, the rod of prayer, and call
 Out of the rocky wall
 The fount of holy blood ; and lift on high
 Thy grovelling soul that feels so desolate and dry.

Prisoner of Hope thou art¹—look up and sing
 In hope of promis'd spring.
 As in the pit his father's darling lay²
 Beside the desert way, 60

¹ Turn you to the strong hold, ye prisoners of hope.—
Zechariah ix. 12.

² They took him, and cast him into a pit: and the pit was empty, there was no water in it.—Genesis xxxvii. 24.

And knew not how, but knew his GOD would save
 E'en from that living grave,
 So, buried with our LORD, well close our eyes
 To the decaying world, till Angels bid us rise.

EASTER DAY

And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen.—St. Luke xxiv. 5, 6.

On ! day of days ! shall hearts set free
 No " minstrel rapture " find for thee ?
 Thou art the Suri of other days,
 They shine by giving back thy rays :

Enthroned in thy sovereign sphere,
 Thou shcdd'st thy light on all the year ;
 Sundays by thee more glorious break,
 An Easter Day in every week :

And week days, following in their train,
 The fullness of thy blessing gain, 10
 Till all, both resting and employ,
 Be one Lord's day of holy joy.

Then wake, my soul, to high desires,
 And earlier light thine altar fires :
 The World some hours is on her way,
 Nor thinks on thee, thou blessed day :

Or, if she think, it is in scorn :
 The vernal light of Easter morn
 To her dark gaze no brighter seems
 Than Reason's or the Law's pale beams. 20

" Where is your Lord ? " she scornful asks :
 "Where is His hire ? we know His tasks ;
 " Sons of a King ye boast to be ;
 " Let us your crowns and treasures see."

We in the words of Truth reply,
 An angel brought them from the sky,)
 " Our crown, our treasure is not here,
 " Tis stor'd above the highest sphere :

" Methinks your wisdom guides amiss,
 " To seek on earth a Christian's bliss ; 30
 " We watch not now the lifeless stone ;
 " Our only Lord is risen and gone."

Yet e'en the lifeless stone is dear
 For thoughts of Him who late lay here ;
 And the base world, now Christ hath died,
 Ennobled is arid glorified.

No more a charnel-house, to fence
 The relics of lost innocence,
 A vault of ruin and decay ;
 Th' imprisoning stone is roll'd away : 40

"Tis now a cell, where angels use
 To come and go with heavenly news,
 And in the ears of mourners say,
 " Come, see the place where Jesus lay : "

"Tis now a fane, where Love can find
 Christ everywhere embalm'd and shrin'd ;
 Aye gathering up memorials sweet,
 Where'er she sets her duteous feet.

Oh ! joy to Mary first allow'd,
 When rous'd from weeping o'er His shroud,
 By His own calm, soul-soothing tone 51
 Breathing her name, as still His own !

Joy to the faithful Three renew'd,
 As their glad errand they pursued !
 Happy, who so Christ's word convey,
 That He may meet them on their way !

So is it still : to holy tears,
 In lonely hours, Christ risen appears :
 In social hours, who Christ would see
 Must turn all tasks to Chanty. 60

MONDAY IN EASTER WEEK

*Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons :
 but in every nation he that feareth Him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with Him.—Acts x. 34, 35.*

Go up and watch the new-born rill
 Just trickling from its mossy bed,
 Streaking the heath-clad hill
 With a bright emerald thread.

Canst thou her bold career foretell,
 What rocks she shall o'erleap or rend,
 How far in Ocean's swell
 Her freshening billows send ?

Perchance that little brook shall flow
 The bulwark of some mighty realm, 10
 Bear navies to and fro
 With monarchs at their helm.

Or canst thou guess, how far away
Some sister nymph, beside her urn
Reclining ilight and day,
Mid reeds and mountain fern,

Nurses her store, with thine to blend
When many a moor and glen arc' past,
Then in the wide sea end
Their spotless lives at last ? 20

E'en so, the course of prayer who knows ?
It springs in silence where it will,
Springs out of sight, and ilows
At first a lonely rill :

But streams shall meet it by and by
From thousand sympathetic hearts,
Together swelling nigh
Their chant of many parts.

Unheard by all but angel ears
The good Cornelius knelt alone, 30
Nor dream'd his prayers and tears
Would help a world undone.

The while upon his terrac'd roof
The lov'd Apostle to his Lord
In silent thought aloof
For Heavenly vision soar'd.

Far o'er the glowing western main
His wistful brow was upward rais'd,
Where, like an angel's train,
The burnish'd water blaz'd. 40

The saint beside the ocean pray'd,
 The soldier in his chosen bower,
 Where all his eye survey'd
 Seem'd sacred in that hour.

To each unknown his brother's prayer,
 Yet brethren true in dearest love
 Were they—and now they share
 Fraternal joys above.

There daily through Christ's open gate
 They see the Gentile spirits press, 50
 Brightening their high estate
 With dearer happiness.

What civic wreath for comrades sav'd
 Shone ever with such deathless gleam,
 Or when did perils brav'd
 So sweet to veterans seem ?

TUESDAY IN EASTER WEEK

*And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring His disciples word.—
 St. Matthew xxviii. 8.*

TO THE SNOW-DROP.

THOU first-born of the year's delight,
 Pride of the dewy glade,
 In vernal green and virgin white,
 Thy vestal robes, array'd :

'Tis not because thy drooping form
 Sinks graceful on its nest,
 When chilly shades from gathering storm
 Affright thy tender breast;

TUESDAY' IN EASTER WEEK 95

Nor for yon river islet wild
Beneath the willow spray, 10
Where, like the ringlets of a child,
Thou weav'st thy circle gay ;

'Tis not for these I love thee dear—
Thy shy averted smiles
To Fancy bode a joyous year,
One of Life's fairy isles.

They twinkle to the wintry moon,
And cheer th' ungenial clay,
And tell us, all will glisten soon
As green and bright as they. 20

Is there a heart, that loves the spring,
Their witness can refuse ?
Yet mortals doubt, when angels bring
From Heaven their Easter news :

When holy maids and matrons speak
Of Christ's forsaken bed,
And voices, that forbid to seek
The living 'mid the dead,

And when they say, " Turn, wandering
heart,
" Thy Lord is ris'n indeed, 30
" Let Pleasure go, put Care apart,
" And to His presence speed ; "

We smile in scorn : and yet we know
They early sought the tomb,
Their hearts, that now so freshly glow,
Lost in desponding gloom.

Upon Thine altar's horn of gold
 Help me to lay my trembling hold,
 Though stain'd with Christian gore ;—
 The blood of souls by Thee redeemed, 10
 But, while I rov'd or idly dream'd,
 Lost to be found no more.

For oft, when summer leaves were bright,
 And every flower was bath'd in light,
 In sunshine moments past,
 My wilful heart would burst away
 From where the holy shadow lay,
 Where Heaven my lot had cast.

I thought it scorn with Thee to dwell,
 A Hermit in a silent cell, 20
 While, gaily sweeping by,
 Wild Fancy blew his bugle strain,
 And marshall'd all his gallant train
 In the world's wondering eye.

I would have jom'd him—but as oft
 Thy whisper'd warnings, kind and soft,
 My better soul confess'd.
 " My servant, let the world alone—
 " Safe on the steps of Jesus' throne
 " Be tranquil and be blest. 30

" Seems it to thee a niggard hand
 " That nearest Heaven has bade thee stand,
 " The ark to touch and bear,
 " With incense of pure heart's desire
 " To heap the censer's sacred fire,
 " The snow-white Ephod wear ? "

Why should we crave the worldling's wreath,
 On whom the Saviour deign'd to breathe,
 To whom His keys were given,
 Who lead the choir where angels meet, 40
 With angels' food our brethren greet,
 And pour the drink of Heaven ?

When sorrow all our heart would ask,
 We need not shun our daily task,
 And hide ourselves for calm ;
 The herbs we seek to heal our woe
 Familiar by our pathway grow,
 Our common air is balm.

Around each pure domestic shrine
 Bright flowers of Eden bloom and twine, 50
 Our hearths are altars all;
 The prayers of hungry souls and poor,
 Like armed angels at the door,
 Our unseen foes appal.

Alms all around and hymns within—
 What evil eye can entrance win
 Where guards like these abound ?
 If chance some heedless heart should roam,
 Sure, thought of these will lure it home
 Ere lost in Folly's round. co

O joys, that sweetest in decay,
 Fall not, like wither'd leaves, away,
 But with the silent breath
 Of violets drooping one by one,
 Soon as their fragrant task is done,
 Are wafted high in death !

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

He hath said, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the Most High, which saw the vision of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open : I shall see Him, but not now : I shall behold Him, but not nigh : there shall come a Star out of Jacob, and a Sceptre shall rise out of Israel, and shall smite the corners of Moab, and destroy all the children of Sheth.—Numbers xxiv. 16, 17.

O FOR a sculptor's hand,
 That thou might'st take thy stand,
 Thy wild hair floating on the eastern breeze,
 Thy tranc'd yet open gaze
 Fix'd on the desert haze,
 As one who deep in heaven some airy pageant sees.

In outline dim and vast
 Their fearful shadows cast
 The giant forms of empires on their way
 To ruin : one by one 10
 They tower and they are gone,
 Yet in the Prophet's soul the dreams of avarice
 stay.

No sun or star so bright
 In all the world of light
 That they should draw to Heaven his downward
 eye:
 He hears th' Almighty's word,
 He sees the angel's sword,
 Yet low upon the earth his heart and treasure lie.

Lo ! from yon argent field,
 To him and us reveal'd, 20
 One gentle Star glides down, on earth to dwell.

100 SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

Cham'd as they are below
Our eyes may see it glow,
And as it mounts again, may track its brightness well.

To him it glar'd afar,
A token of wild war,
The banner of his Lord's victorious wrath :
But close to us it gleams,
Its soothing lustre streams
Around our home's green walls, and on our churchway path. 30

We in the tents abide
Which he at distance eyed
Like goodly cedars by the waters spread,
While seven red altar-fires
Rose up in wavy spires,
Where on the mount he watch'd his sorceries dark and dread.

He watch'd till morning's ray
On lake and meadow lay,
And willow-shaded streams, that silent sweep
Around the banner'd lines, 40
Where by their several signs
The desert-wearied tribes in sight of Canaan sleep.

He watch'd till knowledge came
Upon his soul like flame,
Not of those magic fires at random caught:
But true prophetic light
Flash'd o'er him, high and bright,
Flash'd once, and died away, and left his darken'd thought.

THIRD SUNDAY AFTER EASTER 101

And can he choose but fear,
Who feels his GOD so near, 50
That when he fain would curse, his powerless tongue
In blessing only moves ?—
Alas ! the world he loves
Too close around his heart her tangling veil hath flung.

Sceptre and Star divine,
Who in Thine inmost shrine
Hast made us worshippers, O claim Thine own ;
More than Thy seers we know—
O teach our love to grow
Up to Thy heavenly light, and reap what Thou hast sown, GO

THIRD SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

A woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come : but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world.—St. John xvi 21.

WELL may I guess and feel
Why Autumn should be sad ;
But vernal airs should sorrow heal,
Spring should be gay and glad :
Yet as along this violet bank I rove,
The languid sweetness seems to choke my breath,
I sit me down beside the hazel grove,
And sigh, and half could wish my weariness were death.

102 THIRD SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

Like a bright veering cloud
 Grey blossoms twinkle there, 10
Warbles around a busy crowd
 Of larks in purest air.
Shame on the heart that dreams of blessings
 gone,
Or wakes the spectral forms of woe and
 crime,
When nature sings of joy and hope alone,
Reading her cheerful lesson in her own sweet time.

Nor let the proud heart say,
 In her self-torturing hour,
The travail pangs must have their way,
 The aching brow must lower. 20
To us long since the glorious Child is born,
 Our throes should be forgot, or only seem Like a sad vision told for joy at morn,
For joy that we have wak'd and found it but a dream.

Mysterious to all thought
 A mother's prime of bliss,
When to her eager lips is brought
 Her infant's thrilling kiss.
O never shall it set, the sacred light
 Which dawns that moment on her tender gaze, so
In the eternal distance blending bright
Her darling's hope and hers, for love and joy and praise.

No need for her to weep
 Like Thracian wives of yore,
Save when in rapture still and deep
 Her thankful heart runs o'er.

FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER 103

They mourn'd to trust their treasure on the main,
Sure of the storm, unknowing of their guide:
Welcome to her the peril and the pain,
For well she knows the home where they may safely hide. 40

She joys that one is born
Into a world forgiven,
Her Father's household to adorn,
And dwell with her in Heaven.
So have I seen, in Spring's bewitching hour,
When the glad Earth is offering all her best,
Some gentle maid bend o'er a cherish'd flower,
And wish it worthier on a Parent's heart to rest. 48

FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

Nevertheless I tell you the truth ; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you ; but if I depart, I will send Him unto you.
—St. John xvi. 7.

MY Saviour, can it ever be
That I should gain by losing Thee ?
The watchful mother tarries nigh,
Though sleep have clos'd her infant's eye;
For should he wake, and find her gone,
She knows she could not bear his moan.
But I am weaker than a child,
And Thou art more than mother dear;
Without Thee Heaven were but a wild :
How can I live without Thee here ! 10

104 FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

" 'Tis good for you, that I should go,
" You lingering yet awhile below ;"—
'Tis Thine own gracious promise, Lord !
Thy saints have prov'd the faithful word,
When Heaven's bright boundless avenue
Far open'd on their eager view,
And homeward to Thy Father's throne,
 Still lessening, brightening on their sight,
Thy shadowy car went soaring on ;
 They tracked Thee up th' abyss of light. 20

Thou bidd'st rejoice ; they dare not mourn,
But to their home in gladness turn,
Their home and God's, that favour'd place,
Where still He shines on Abraham's race,
In prayers and blessings there to wait
Like suppliants at their Monarch's gate,
Who bent with bounty rare to aid
 The splendours of His crowning day,
Keeps back awhile His largess, made
 More welcome for that brief delay : 30

In doubt they wait, but not unblest ;
They doubt not of their Master's rest,
Nor of the gracious will of Heaven—
Who gave His Son, sure all has given—
But in ecstatic awe they muse
What course the genial stream may choose,
And far and wide their fancies rove,
 And to their height of wonder strain,
W^That secret miracle of love
 Should make their Saviour's going gain. 40

The days of hope and prayer are past,
The day of comfort dawns at last,

FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER 105

The everlasting gates again
 Roll baek, and, lo ! a royal train—
 From the far depth of light once more
 The floods of glory earthward pour :
 They part like shower-drops in mid air,
 But ne'er so soft fell noon-tide shower,
 Nor ev'miig rainbow gleam'd so fair
 To weary swains in parched bower. 50

Swiftly and straight each tongue of flame
 Through eloud and breeze unwavering came,
 And darted to its place of rest
 On some meek brow of Jesus blest.
 Nor fades it yet, that living gleam,
 And still those lambent lightnings stream ;
 Where'er the Lord is, there are they ;
 In every heart that gives them room,
 They light His altar every day,
 Zeal to inflame, and vice consume. 60

Soft as the plumes of Jesus' Dove
 They nurse the soul to heavenly love :
 The struggling spark of good within,
 Just smother'd in the strife of sin,
 They quicken to a timely glow,
 The pure flame spreading high and low.
 Said I, that prayer and hope were o'er ?
 Nay, blessed Spirit ! but by Thee
 The Church's prayer finds wings to soar,
 The Church's hope finds eyes to see. 70

Then, fainting soul, arise and sing ;
 Mount, but be sober on the wing ;
 Mount up, for Heaven is won by prayer,
Be sober, for thou art not there ;

106 FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

Till Death the weary spirit free,
Thy God hath said, 'Tis good for thee
To walk by faith and not by sight :
Take it on trust a little while ;
Soon shalt thou read the mystery right
In the full sunshine of His smile. 80

Or if thou yet more knowledge crave,
Ask thine own heart, that willing slave
To all that works thee woe or harm :
Shouldst thou not need some mighty charm
To win thee to Thy Saviour's side,
Though He had deign'd with thee to bide ?
The Spirit must stir the darkling deep,
The Dove must settle on the Cross,
Else we should all sin on or sleep, 89
With Christ in sight, turning our gain to loss.

FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

ROGATION SUNDAY

And the Lord was very angry with Aaron to have destroyed him : and I prayed for Aaron also the same time.
—Deuteronomy ix. 20.

Now is there solemn pause in earth and heaven;
The Conqueror now
His bonds hath riven,
And Angels wonder why He stays below :
Yet hath not man his lesson learn'd,
How endless love should be return'd.

Deep is the silence as of summer noon,
When a soft shower
Will trickle soon,

A gracious rain, freshening the weary bower— 10
 O sweetly then far off is heard
 The clear note of some lonely bird.

So let Thy turtle-dove's sad call arise
 In doubt and fear
 Through darkening skies,
 And pierce, O Lord, Thy justly sealed ear,
 Where on the house-top,¹ all night long
 She trills her widow'd, faltering song.

Teach her to know and love her hour of prayer,
 And evermore, 20
 As faith grows rare,
 Unlock her heart, and offer all its store
 In holier love and humbler vows,
 As suits a lost returning spouse.

Not as at first,² but with intenser cry,
 Upon the mount
 She now must lie,
 Till Thy dear love to blot the sad account
 Of her rebellious race be won,
 Pitying the mother in the son. so

But chiefly (for she knows Thee anger'd worst
 By holiest things
 Profan'd and curst),
 Chiefly for Aaron's seed she spreads her wings,
 If but one leaf she may from Thee
 Win of the reconciling tree.

² I fell down before the Lord forty days and forty nights, as I fell down at the first.—Deuteronomy ix. 25.

For what shall heal, when holy water banes ?
 Or who may guide
 O'er desert plains
 Thy lov'd yet sinful people wandering wide, 40
 If Aaron's hand unshrinking mould¹
 An idol form of earthly gold ?

Therefore her tears are bitter, and as deep
 Her boding sigh,
 As, while men sleep,
 Sad-hearted mothers heave, that wakeful lie,
 To muse upon some darling child
 Roaming in youth's uncertain wild.

Therefore on fearful dreams her inward sight
 Is fain to dwell— 50
 What lurid light
 Shall the last darkness of the world dispel,
 The Mediator in His wrath
 Descending down the lightning's path.

Yet, yet awhile, offended Saviour, pause,
 In act to break²
 Thine outrag'd laws,
 O spare Thy rebels for Thine own dear sake ;
 Withdraw Thine hand, nor dash to earth
 The covenant of our second birth. 60

'Tis forfeit like the first—we own it all—
 Yet for love's sake
 Let it not fall;
 But at Thy touch let veiled hearts awake,
 That nearest to Thine altar lie,
 Yet least of holy things descry.

Teacher of teachers ! Priest of priests ! from Thee
 The sweet strong prayer
 Must rise, to free
 First Levi, then all Israel, from the snare. 70
 Thou art our Moses out of sight—
 Speak for us, or we perish quite.

ASCENSION DAY

Why stand ye gazing up into Heaven ? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into Heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into Heaven.—Acts i. 11.

SOFT cloud, that while the breeze of May
 Chants her glad matins in the leafy arch,
 Draw'st thy bright veil across the heavenly
 way,
 Meet pavement for an angel's glorious march :

My soul is envious of mine eye,
 That it should soar and glide with thee so fast,
 The while my grovelling thoughts half buried lie,
 Or lawless roam around this earthly waste.

Chains of my heart, avaunt I say—
 I will arise, and in the strength of love 10
 Pursue the bright track ere it fade away,
 My Saviour's pathway to His home above.

Sure, when I reach the point where earth
 Melts into nothing from th' uncumber'd sight,
 Heaven will o'rcome th' attraction of my birth,
 And I shall sink in yonder sea of light:

Till resting by th' incarnate LORD,
 Once bleeding, now triumphant for my sake,
 I mark Jinn, how by seraph hosts ador'd,
 He to earth's lowest cares is still awake. 20

The sun and every vassal star,
 All space, beyond the soar of angel wings,
 Wait on His word and yet He stays His car
 For every sigh a contrite suppliant brings.

He listens to the silent tear
 For all the anthems of the boundless sky—
 And shall our dreams of music bar our ear
 To His soul-piercing voice for ever nigh ?

Nay, gracious Saviour—but as now
 Our thoughts have trac'd Thee to Thy glory-
 throne, 30
 So help us evermore with Thee to bow
 Where human sorrow breathes her lowly moan.

We must not stand to gaze too long,
 Though on unfolding Heaven our gaze we bend,
 Where lost behind the bright angelic throng
 We see CHRIST'S entering triumph slow ascend.

No fear but we shall soon behold,
 Faster than now it fades, that gleam revive,
 W^Hen issuing from his cloud of fiery gold
 Our wasted frames feel the true sun, and live. 40

Then shall we see Thee as Thou art,
 For ever fix'd in no unfruitful gaze,
 But such as lifts the new-created heart,
 Age after age, in worthier love and praise.

SUNDAY AFTER ASCENSION

As everif man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, as good stewards of the mamfold grace of God.—I St. Peter iv. 10.

THE Earth that in her genial breast
 Makes for the down a kindly nest,
 Where wafted by the warm south-west
 It iloats at pleasure,
 Yields, thankful, of her very best,
 To nurse her treasure :

True to her trust, tree, herb, or reed,
 She renders for each scatter'd seed,
 And to her Lord with duteous heed
 Gives large increase : 10
 Thus year by year she works unfee'd,
 And will not cease.

Woe worth these barren hearts of ours,
 Where Thou hast set celestial flowers,
 And water'd with more balmy showers
 Than e'er distill'd
 In Eden, on th' ambrosial bowers—
 Yet nought we yield.

Largely Thou givest, gracious Lord,
 Largely Thy gifts should be restor'd ; 20
 Freely Thou givest, and Thy word
 Is, " Freely give." ¹
 He only, who forgets to hoard,
 Has learn'd to live.

Wisely Thou givest—all around
 Thine equal rays are resting found,
 Yet varying so on various ground
 They pierce and strike,
 That not two roseate cups are crown'd
 With dew alike : 30

E'en so, in silence, likest Thee,
 Steals on soft-handed Charity,
 Tempering her gifts, that seem so free,
 By time and place,
 Till not a woe the bleak world see,
 But finds her grace :

Eyes to the blind, and to the lame
 Feet, and to sinners wholesome blame,
 To starving bodies food and flame,
 By turns she brings ; 40
 To humbled souls, that sink for shame,
 Lends heaven-ward wings :

Leads them the way our Saviour went,
 And shows Love's treasure yet unspent;
 As when th' unclouded heavens were rent,
 Opening His road,
 Nor yet His Holy Spirit sent
 To our abode.

Ten days th' eternal doors display'd
 Were wondering (so th' Almighty bade) 50
 Whom Love enthron'd would send, in aid
 Of souls that mourn,
 Left orphans in Earth's dreary shade
 As soon as born.

Open they stand, that prayers in throngs
 May rise on high, and holy songs,

WHITSUNDAY

113

Such incense as of right belongs
 To the true shrine,
Where stands the Healer of all wrongs
 In light divine ;

GO

The golden censer in His hand,
He offers hearts from every land,
Tied to his own by gentlest band
 Of silent Love :
About Him winged blessings stand
 In act to move.

A little while, and they shall fleet
From Heaven to Earth, attendants meet
On the life-giving Paraclete
 Speeding His flight,

70

With all that sacred is and sweet,
 On saints to light.

Apostles, Prophets, Pastors, all
Shall feel the shower of Mercy fall,
And starting at th' Almighty's call,
 Give what He gave,
Till their high deeds the world appal,
 And sinners save.

WHITSUNDAY

And suddenly there came a sound from Heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost.—Acts ii. 2-4.

WHEN God of old came down from Heaven,
 In power and wrath He came;

Before His feet the clouds were riven,
Half darkness and half flame :

Around the trembling mountain's base
The prostrate people lay ;
A day of wrath, and not of grace ;
A dim and dreadful day.

But when He came the second time,
He came in power and love, 10
Softer than gale at morning prime Hover'd His holy Dove.

The fires that rush'd on Sinai down
In sudden torrents dread,
Now gently light, a glorious crown,
On every sainted head.

Like arrows went those lightnings forth
Wing'd with the sinner's doom,
But these, like tongues, o'er all the earth
Proclaiming life to come : 20

And as on Israel's awe-struck ear
The voice exceeding loud,
The trump, that angels quake to hear,
Thrill'd from the deep, dark cloud ;

So, when the Spirit of our God
Came down His flock to find,
A voice from Heaven was heard abroad,
A rushing, mighty wind.

Nor doth the outward ear alone
At that high warning start; 30
Conscience gives back th' appalling tone ;
'Tis echoed in the heart.

It fills the Church of God ; it fills
 The sinful world around ;
 Only in stubborn hearts and wills
 No place for it is found.

To other strains our souls are set:
 A giddy whirl of sin
 Fills ear and brain, and will not let
 Heaven's harmonies come in. 40

Come Lord, come Wisdom, Love, and Power,
 Open our ears to hear ;
 Let us not miss th' accepted hour;
 Save, Lord, by Love or Fear.

MONDAY IN WHITSUN-WEEK

So the Lord scattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth : and they left off to build the city.—
 Genesis xi. 8.

SINCE all that is not Heaven must fade,
 Light be the hand of Ruin laid
 Upon the home I love :
 With lulling spell let soft Decay
 Steal on, and spare the giant sway,
 The crash of tower and grove.

Far opening down some woodland deep
 In their own quiet glade should sleep
 The relics dear to thought,
 And wild-flower wreaths from side to side
 Their waving tracery hang, to hide n
 What ruthless Time has wrought.

Such are the visions green and sweet
 That o'er the wistful fancy fleet
 In Asia's sea-like plain,
 Where slowly, round his isles of sand,
 Euphrates through the lonely land
 Winds toward the pearly main.

Slumber is there, but not of rest;
 There her forlorn and weary nest 20
 The famish'd hawk has found,
 The wild dog howls at fall of night,
 The serpent's rustling coils affright
 The traveller on his round.

What shapeless form, half lost on high,¹
 Half seen against the evening sky,
 Seems like a ghost to glide,
 And watch, from Babel's crumbling heap,
 Where in her shadow, fast asleep,
 Lies fall'n imperial Pride ? 30

With half-clos'd eye a lion there
 Is basking in his noontide lair,
 Or prowls in twilight gloom.
 The golden city's king he seems,²
 Such as in old prophetic dreams²
 Sprang from rough ocean's womb.

1 See Sir R. K. Porter's Travels, ii. 387. "In my second visit to Birs Nimrood, my party suddenly halted, having descried several dark objects moving along the summit of its hill, which they construed into dismounted Arabs on the look out: I took out my glass to examine, and soon distinguished that the causes of our alarm were two or three majestic lions, taking the air upon the heights of the pyramid."

² Daniel vii. 4.

But where are now his eagle wings,
 That shelter'd erst a thousand kings,
 Hiding the glorious sky
 From half the nations, till they own 40
 No holier name, no mightier throne ?
 That vision is gone by.

Queneh'd is the golden statue's ray,¹
 The breath of heaven has blown away
 What toiling earth had pil'd,
 Scattering wise heart and crafty hand,
 As breezes strew on ocean's sand
 The fabrics of a child.

Divided thence through every age
 Thy rebels, Lord, their warfare wage, so
 And hoarse and jarring all
 Mount up their heaven-assailing cries
 To Thy bright watchmen in the skies
 From Babel's shatter'd wall.

Thrice only since, with blended might
 The nations on that haughty height
 Have met to scale the Heaven :
 Thrice only might a Seraph's look
 A moment's shade of sadness brook—
 Such power to guilt was given. 60

Now the fierce Bear and Leopard keen²
 Are perish'd as they ne'er had been,
 Oblivion is their home :
 Ambition's boldest dream and last
 Must melt before the clarion blast
 That sounds the dirge of Rome.

² Daniel vii. 5, 6.

118 TUESDAY IN WHITSUN-WEEK

Heroes and Kings, obey the charm,
Withdraw the proud high-reaching arm.

There is an oath on high,
That ne'er on brow of mortal birth 70
Shall blend again the crowns of earth,
Nor in according cry

Her many voices mingling own
One tyrant Lord, one idol throne :
But to His triumph soon
He shall descend, who rules above,
And the pure language of His love ¹
All tongues of men shall tune.

Nor let Ambition heartless mourn ;
When Babel's very ruins bum, so
Her high desires may breathe ;—
O'ercome thyself, and thou mayst share
With Christ His Father's throne,² and wear
The world's imperial wreath.

TUESDAY IN WHITSUN-WEEK

When He putteth forth His own sheep, He goeth before them.—St. John x. 4.

(Addressed to Candidates for Ordination.)

" LORD, in Thy field I work all day,
" I read, I teach, I warn, I pray,
" And yet these wilful wandering sheep
" Within Thy fold I cannot keep.

¹ Then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may all call upon the name of the Lord, to serve Him with one consent.—Zephaniah in. 9.

² To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with Me in My throne.—Revelation iii. 21.

" I journey, yet no step is won—
 " Alas ! the weary course I run !
 " Like sailors shipwreck'd in their dreams,
 " All powerless and benighted seems."

What ? wearied out with half a life ?
 Scar'd with this smooth unbloody strife ? 10
 Think where thy coward hopes had ilowii,
 Had Heaven held out the martyr's crown.

How couldst thou hang upon the Cross,
 To whom a weary hour is loss ?
 Or how the thorns and scourging brook,
 Who shrinkest from a scornful look ?

Yet ere thy craven spirit faints,
 Hear thine own King, the King of Saints ;
 Though thou wert toiling in the grave,
 'Tis He can cheer thee, He can save. 20

He is th' eternal mirror bright,
 Where Angels view the FATHER'S light,
 And yet in Him the simplest swain
 May read his homely lesson plain.

Early to quit His home on earth,
 And claim His high celestial birth,
 Alone with His true Father found
 Within the temple's solemn round :—

Yet in meek duty to abide
 For many a year at Mary's side, 30
 Nor heed, though restless spirits ask,
 "What? hath the Christ forgot His task ?"—

120 TUESDAY IN WHITSUN-WEEK

Conscious of Deity within,
To bow before an heir of sin,
With folded arms on humble breast,
By His own servant wash'd and blest:—

Then full of Heaven, the mystie Dove
Hovering His gracious brow above,
To shun the voice and eye of praise,
And in the wild His trophies raise :— 40

With hymns of an-eis m His ears,
Baek to His task of woe and tears,
Unrrmurmng through the world to roam
With not a wish or thought at home :—

All but Himself to heal and save,
Till ripen'd for the cross and grave,
He to His Father gently yield
The breath that our redemption seal'd :—

Then to unearthly life arise,
Yet not at once to seek the skies, 60
But glide awhile from saint to saint,
Lest on our lonely way we faint ;

And through the cloud by glimpses show
How bright, in Heaven, the marks will glow
Of the true cross, imprinted deep
Both on the Shepherd and the sheep :—

When out of sight, in heart and prayer
Thy chosen people still to bear,
And from behind Thy glorious veil,
Shed light that cannot change or fail:— 60

This is Thy pastoral course, O LORD,
Till we be sav'd, and Thou ador'd ;—
Thy course and ours—but who are they
Who follow on the narrow way ?

And yet of Thee from year to year
The Church's solemn chant we hear,
As from Thy cradle to Thy throne
She swells her high heart-cheering tone.

Listen, ye pure white-robed souls,
Whom in her list she now enrolls, 70
And gird ye for your high emprise
By these her thrilling minstrelsies.

And wheresoe'er, in earth's wide field,
Ye lift, for Him, the red-cross shield,
Be this your song, your joy and pride—
" Our Champion went before and died."

TRINITY SUNDAY

// I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not' how shall ye believe, if I tell you of heavenly things ?—St. John ih. 12.

CREATOR, Saviour, strengthening Guide,
Now on Thy mercy's ocean wide
Far out of sight we seem to glide.

Help us, each hour, with steadier eye
To search the deepening mystery.

Within these walls each fluttering guest
Is gently lur'd to one safe nest—
Without, 'tis moaning and unrest.

The busy world a thousand ways
Is hurrying by, nor ever stays
To catch a note of Thy dear praise.

Why tarries not her chariot wheel, 40
That o'er her with no vain appeal
One gust of heavenly song might steal ?

Alas ! for her Thy opening flowers
Unheeded breathe to summer showers,
Unheard the music of Thy bowers.

What echoes from the sacred dome
The selfish spirit may o'ercome
That will not hear of love or home !

The heart that scorn'd a father's care,
How can it rise in filial prayer ? 50
How an all-seeing Guardian bear ?

Or how shall envious brethren own
A Brother on th' eternal throne,
Their Father's joy, their hope alone ?

How shall Thy Spirit's gracious wile
The sullen brow of gloom beguile,
That frowns on sweet Affection's smile ?^J

Eternal One, Almighty Trine !
(Since Thou art ours, and we are Thine
By all Thy love did once resign,

124 FIRST SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

By all the grace Thy heavens still hide,
We pray Thee, keep us at Thy side,
Creator, Saviour, strengthening Guide !

FIRST SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

*So Joshua smote all the country, . . . and all their kings.
he left none remaining.—Joshua x. 40.*

WHERE is the land with milk and honey flowing,
The promise of our God, our fancy's theme ?
Here over shatter'd walls dank weeds are growing,
And blood and fire have run in mingled stream ;
Like oaks and cedars all around
The giant corpses strew the ground,
And haughty Jericho's cloud-piercing wall
Lies where it sank at Joshua's trumpet call.

These are not scenes for pastoral dance at even,
For moonlight roving in the fragrant glades,
Soft slumbers in the open eye of Heaven, 11
And all the listless joy of summer shades.
We in the midst of ruins live,
Which every hour dread warning give,
Nor may our household vine or fig-tree hide
The broken arches of old Canaan's pride.

Where is the sweet repose of hearts repenting,
The deep calm sky, the sunshine of the soul,
Now Heaven and earth are to our bliss consenting,
And all the Godhead joins to make us whole ?
The triple crown of mercy now 21
Is ready for the suppliant's brow,

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY T25

By the Almighty Three for ever plann'd,
And from behind the cloud held out by Jesus'
hand.

"Now, Christians, hold your own—the land
" before ye

" Is open—win your way, and take your rest."
So sounds our war-note ; but our path of glory
By many a cloud is darken'd and unblest :
And daily as we downward glide,
Life's ebbing stream on either side 30
Shows at each turn some mould'ring hope or joy,
The Man seems following still the funeral of the Boy.

Open our eyes, Thou Sun of life and gladness,
That we may see that glorious world of Thine !
It shines for us in vain, while drooping sadness
Enfolds us here like mist: come Power benign,
Touch our chill'd hearts with vernal smile,
Our wintry course do Thou beguile,
Nor by the wayside ruins let us mourn.
Who have th' eternal towers for our appointed bourne. 40

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Marvel not, my brethren, if the world hate you. Wéknoi that we have passed from, death unto life, because we love tl brethren.—1 St. John iii. 13, 14.

THE clouds that wrap the setting sun
When Autumn's softest gleams are endin
Where all bright hues together run
In sweet confusion blending :—

126 SECOND SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Why, as we watch their floating wreath,
Seem they the breath of life to breathe ?
To Fancy's eye their motions prove
They mantle round the Sun for love.

When up some woodland dale we catch
The many-twinkling smile¹ of ocean, 10
Or with plac'd ear bewilder'd watch
His chime of restless motion ;
Still as the surging waves retire
They seem to gasp with strong desire,
Such signs of love old Ocean gives,
We cannot choose but think he lives.

\Wouldst thou the life of souls discern ?
Nor human wisdom nor divine
Helps thee by aught beside to learn ; 20
Love is life's only sign.
The spring of the regenerate heart,
The pulse, the glow of every part,
Is the true love of Christ our Lord,
As man embrac'd, as God ador'd.

But he, whose heart will bound to mark
The full bright burst of summer morn,
Loves too each little dewy spark,
By leaf or flow'ret worn :
Cheap forms, and common hues, 'tis true,
Through the bright shower-drop meet his view ;
The colouring may be of this earth ; 31
The lustre comes of heavenly birth.

ἀνήριθμον

In vain : the averted cheek in loneliest dell
 Is conscious of a gaze it cannot bear, 10
 The leaves that rustle near us seem to tell
 Our heart's sad secret to the silent air.

Nor is the dream untrue ; for all around
 The heavens are watching with their thousand eyes,
 We cannot pass our guardian angel's bound,
 Resign'd or sullen, he will hear our sighs.

He in the mazes of the budding wood
 Is near, and mourns to see our thankless glance
 Dwell coldly, where the fresh green earth is strew'd
 With the first flowers that lead tho vernal dance.

In wasteful bounty shower'd, they smile unseen,
 Unseen by man—but what if purer sprights 22
 By moonlight o'er their dewy bosoms lean
 To' adore the Father of all gentle lights ?

If such there be, O grief and shame to think
 That sight of thec should overcloud their joy,
 A new-born soul, just waiting on the brink
 Of endless life, yet wrapt in earth's annoy!

O turn, and be thou turn'd ! the selfish tear,
 In bitter thoughts of low-born care begun, so
 Let it flow on, but flow refin'd and clear,
 The turbid waters brightening as they run.

Let it flow on, till all thine earthly heart
 In penitential drops have ebb'd away,
 Then fearless turn where Heaven hath set thy part
 Nor shudder at the Eye that saw thee stray.

130 FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

O lost and found ! all gentle souls below
Their dearest welcome shall prepare, and prove
Such joy o'er thee, as raptur'd seraphs know,
Who learn their lesson at the Throne of
Love. 40

FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

For the earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God. For the creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of Him who hath subjected the same in hope, because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God. For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now.—Romans viii. 19-22.

IT was not then a poet's dream,
An idle vaunt of song,
Such as beneath the moon's soft gleam
On vacant fancies throng;

Which bids us see in heaven and earth,
In all fair things around,
Strong yearnings for a blest new birth
With sinless glories crown'd ;

Which bids us hear, at each sweet pause
From care and want and toil, 10
When dewy eve her curtain draws
Over the day's turmoil,

In the low chant of wakeful birds,
In the deep weltering flood,
In whispering leaves, these solemn words—
" God made us all for good."

FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 131

All true, all faultless, all in tune,
Creation's wondrous choir,
Open'd in mystic unison
To last till time expire. 20

And still it lasts : by day and night,
With one consenting voice,
All hymn Thy glory, Lord, aright,
All worship and rejoice.

Man only mars the sweet accord,
O'erpowering with " harsh din "
The music of Thy works and word,
Ill match'd with grief and sin.

Sin is with man at morning break,
And through the live-long day 20
Deafens the ear that fain would wake
To Nature's simple lay.

But when eve's silent foot-fall steals
Along the eastern sky,
And one by one to earth reveals
Those purer fires on high,

When one by one each human sound
Dies on the awful ear,
Then Nature's voice no more is drown'd,
She speaks, and we must hear. 40

Then pours she on the Christian heart
That warning still and deep,
At which high spirits of old would start
E'en from their Pagan sleep,

132 FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Just guessing, through their murky blind,
 Few, faint, and baffling sight,
Streaks of a brighter heaven behind,
 A cloudless depth of light.

Such thoughts, the wreck of Paradise,
 Through many a dreary age, 50
Upbore whate'er of good and wise
 Yet liv'd in bard or sage :

They mark'd what agonizing throes
 Shook the great mother's womb ;
But Reason's spells might not disclose
 The gracious birth to come ;

Nor could th' enchantress Hope forecast
 God's secret love and power ;
The travail pangs of Earth must last
 Till her appointed hour ; 60

The hour that saw from opening heaven
 Redeeming glory stream,
Beyond the summer hues of even,
 Beyond the mid-day beam.

Thenceforth, to eyes of high desire,
 The meanest things below,
As WTh a seraph's robe of fire
 Invested, burn and glow :

The rod of Heaven has touch'd them all,
 The word from Heaven is spoken ; 70
" Rise, shine, and sing, thou captive thrall;
 " Are not thy fetters broken ?

FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 133

" The God Who hallow'd thee and blest,
" Pronouncing thee all good—
" Hath He not all thy wrongs redrest,
" And all thy bliss renew'd ?
" Why mourn'st thou still as one bereft,
" Now that th' eternal Son
" His blessed home in Heaven hath left
" To make thee all His own ? " 80

Thou mourn'st because Sin lingers still
In Christ's new heaven and earth ;
Because our rebel works and will
Stain our immortal birth :

Because, as Love and Prayer grow cold,
The Saviour hides His face,
And worldlings blot the temple's gold
With uses vile and base.

Hence all thy groans and travail pains,
Hence, till thy God return, 90
In Wisdom's ear thy blithest strains,
Oh Nature, seem to mourn.

FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

And Simon answering said unto Him, Master, we have toiled all the night, and have taken nothing : nevertheless at Thy word I will let down the net. And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes: and their net brake.—St. Luke v. 5, 6.

" THE live-long night we've toil'd in vain,
" But at Thy gracious word
" I will let down the net again :—
" Do Thou Thy will, O Lord ! "

So spake the weary fisher, spent
 With bootless darkling toil,
 Yet on his Master's bidding bent
 For love and not for spoil.

So day by day and w^reeek by week,
 In sad and weary thought, 10
 They muse, whom God hath set to seek
 The souls His Christ hath bought.

For not upon a tranquil lake
 Our pleasant task we ply,
 Where all along our glistening wake
 The softest moonbeams he ;

Where rippling wave and dashing oar
 Our midnight chant attend,
 Or whispering palm-leaves from the shore
 With midnight silence blend. 20

Sweet thoughts of peace, ye may not last :
 Too soon some ruder sound
 Calls us from where ye soar so fast
 Back to our earthly round.

For wildest storms our ocean sweep :—
 No anchor but the Cross
 Might hold : and oft the thankless deep
 Turns all our toil to loss.

Full many a dreary anxious hour
 We watch our nets alone 30
 In drenching spray, and driving shower,
 And hear the night-bird's moan :

FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 135

At morn we look, and nought is there ;
Sad dawn of cheerless day !
Who then from pining and despair
The sickening heart can stay ?

There is a stay—and we are strong ;
Our Master is at hand,
To cheer our solitary song,
And guide us to the strand, 40

In His own time : but yet awhile
Our bark at sea must ride :
Cast after cast, by force or guile
All waters must be tried :

By blameless guile or gentle force,
As when He deign'd to teach
(The lode-star of our Christian course)
Upon this sacred beach.

Should e'er Thy wonder-working grace
Triumph by our weak arm, so
Let not our sinful fancy trace
Aught human in the charm :

To our own nets ¹ ne'er bow we down,
Lest on the eternal shore
The angels, while our draught they own,²
Reject us evermore :

Or, if for our unworthiness
Toil, prayer, and watching fail,
In disappointment Thou canst bless,
So love at heart prevail. 60'

¹ They sacrifice unto their net, and burn incense unto their drag.—Habakkuk i. 16.
² St. Matthew xiii. 49.

SIXTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

David said unto Nathan, I have sinned against the Lord. And Nathan said unto David, The Lord also hath put away thy sin ; thou shall not die.—2 Samuel xn. 13.

WHEN bitter thoughts, of conscience born,
 With sinners wake at morn,
 When from our restless couch we start
 With fever'd lips and wither'd heart,
 Where is the spell to charm those mists away,
 And make new morning in that darksome day ?
 One draught of spring's delicious air,
 One steadfast thought, that GOD is there.

These are Thy wonders, hourly wrought,¹
 Thou Lord of time and thought, 10
 Lifting and lowering souls at will,
 Crowding a world of good or ill
 Into a moment's vision : e'en as light
 Mounts o'er a cloudy ridge, and all is bright,
 From west to east one thrilling ray
 Turning a wintry world to May.

Would'st thou the pangs of guilt assuage ?
 Lo ! here an open page,
 Where heavenly mercy shines as free,
 Written in balm, sad heart, for thee. 20
 Never so fast, in silent April shower,
 Flush'd into green the dry and leafless bower,²
 As Israel's crowned mourner felt
 The dull hard stone within him melt.

² And all this leafless and uncolour'd scene
 Shall flush into variety again.—Cowper.

The absolver saw the mighty grief,
 And hasten'd with relief ;—
 " The Lord forgives; thou shalt not die : "—
 'Twas gently spoke, yet heard on high,
 And all the band of angels, us'd to sing
 In heaven, accordant to his raptur'd string,
 Who many a month had turn'd away 31
 With veiled eyes, nor own'd his lay,

Now spread their wings, and throng around
 To the glad mournful sound,
 And welcome, with bright open face,
 The broken heart to love's embrace.
 The rock is smitten, and to future years,
 Springs ever fresh the tide of holy tears,¹
 And holy music, whispering peace
 Till time and sin together cease. 40

There drink ; and when ye are at rest,
 With that free Spirit blest,²
 Who to the contrite can dispense,
 The princely heart of innocence,
 If ever, floating from faint earthly lyre,
 Was wafted to your soul one high desire,
 By all the trembling hope ye feel,
 Think on the minstrel as ye kneel:

Think on the shame, that dreadful hour
 When tears shall have no power, so
 Should his own lay th' accuser prove,
 Cold while he kindled others' love :

² Psalm li. 12. " Uphold me with Thy free Spirit." The original word seems to mean " ingenuous, princely, noble." Read Bishop Home's Paraphrase on the verse.

138 SEVENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

And let your prayer for charity arise,
That his own heart may hear his melodies,
And a true voice to him may cry,
" Thy GOD forgives—thou shalt not die." 56

SEVENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

From whence can a man satisfy these men with bread here in the wilderness ?—St. Mark v̄m. 4.

Go not away, thou weary soul :
Heaven has in store a precious dole
Here on Bethsaida's cold and darksome height,
Where over rocks and sands arise
Proud Sirion in the northern skies,
And Tabor's lonely peak, 'twixt thee and noonday
light.

And far below, Gennesaret's main
Spreads many a mile of liquid plain,
(Though all seem gather'd in one eager bound,)
Then narrowing cleaves yon palmy lea, 10
Towards that deep sulphureous sea,
Where five proud cities lie, by one dire sentence
drown'd.

Landscape of fear ! yet, weary heart,
Thou need'st not in thy gloom depart,
Nor fainting turn to seek thy distant home :
Sweetly thy sickening throbs are ey'd
By the kind Saviour at thy side ;
For healing and for balm e'en now thine hour is come.

140 EIGHTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

There's not a star the heaven can show,
There's not a cottage-hearth below, 50
But feeds with solace kind the willing soul—
Men love us, or they need our love ;
Freely they own, or heedless prove
The curse of lawless hearts, the joy of self-control.

Then rouse thee from desponding sleep,
Nor by the wayside lingering weep,
Nor fear to seek Him farther in the wild,
Whose love can turn earth's worst and least
Into a conqueror's royal feast: 59
Thou wilt not be untrue, thou shalt not be beguil'd.

EIGHTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

It is the man of God, who was disobedient unto the word of the Lord.—1 Kings xiii. 26.

PROPHET of God, arise and take
With thee the words of wrath divine,
The scourge of Heaven, to shake
O'er yon apostate shrine.

Where Angels down the lucid stair
Came hovering to our sainted sires,
Now, in the twilight glare
The heathen's wizard fires.

Go, with thy voice the altar rend,
Scatter the ashes, be the arm, 10
That idols would befriend,
Shrunk at thy withering charm.

EIGHTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 141

Then turn thee, for thy time is short,
But trace not o'er the former way,
Lest idol pleasures court
Thy heedless soul astray.

Thou know'st how hard to hurry by,
Where on the lonely woodland road
Beneath the moonlight sky
The festal warblmgs flow'd ; 20

Where maidens to the Queen of Heaven
Wove the gay dance round oak or palm,
Or breath'd their vows at even
In hymns as soft as balm.

Or thee, perchance, a darker spell
Enthralls : the smooth stones of the flood,¹
By mountain grot or fell,
Pollute with infant's blood ;

The giant altar on the rock,
The cavern whence the timbrel's call so
Affrights the wandering flock :—
Thou long'st to search them all.

Trust not the dangerous path again—
O forward step and lingering will!
O lov'd and warn'd in vain !
And wilt thou perish still ?

Thy message given, thine home in sight,
To the forbidden feast return ?
Yield to the false delight
Thy better soul could spurn ? 40

¹ Among the smooth stones of the stream is thy portion;
they, they are thy lot.—Isaiah Ivii. 6.

142 NINTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Alas, my brother ! round thy tomb
In sorrow kneeling, and in fear,
 We read the Pastor's doom
 Who speaks and will not hear.

The grey-hair'd saint may fail at last,
The surest guide a wanderer prove ;
 Death only binds us fast
 To the bright shore of love. 48

NINTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

*And after the earthquake a fire ; but the Lord was not in the fire : and after (he fire a still small voice.—1 Kings
xix. 12.*

IN troublous days of anguish and rebuke,
While sadly round them Israel's children look,
 And their eyes fail for waiting on their Lord:
While underneath each awful arch of green,
On every mountain top, God's chosen scene
 Of pure heart-worship, Baal is ador'd :

Tis well, true hearts should for a time retire
To holy ground, in quiet to aspire
 Towards promis'd regions of serener grace;
On Horeb, with Elijah, let us lie, 10
Where all around on mountain, sand, and sky,
 God's chariot-wheels have left distinctest trace ;

There, if in jealousy and strong disdain
We to the sinner's God of sin complain,
 Untimely seeking here the peace of Heaven—
" It is enough, O Lord ! now let me die
" E'en as my fathers did : for what am I
 " That I should stand, where they have vainly
 " striven ?"—

Perhaps our God may of our conscience ask,
 " What doest thou here, frail wanderer from thy
 " task ? 20

" Where hast thou left those few sheep in the " wild ? " i

Then should we plead our heart's consuming pain,
 At sight of ruin'd altars, prophets slam,

And God's own ark with blood of souls defil'd ;

He on the rock may bid us stand, and see
 The outskirts of His march of mystery,

His endless warfare with man's wilful heart ;
 First, His great Power He to the sinner shows,
 Lo ! at His angry blast the rocks unclose,

And to their base the trembling mountains part:

Yet the Lord is not here : 'tis not by Power 31
 He will be known—but darker tempests lower ;

Still, sullen heavings vex the labouring ground:
 Perhaps His Presence thro' all depth and height,
 Best of all gems, that deck His crown of light,
 The haughty eye may dazzle and confound.

God is not in the earthquake ; but behold
 From Sinai's caves are bursting, as of old,

The flames of His consuming jealous ire.
 Woe to the sinner, should stern Justice prove
 His chosen attribute ;—but He in love 4i
 Hastes to proclaim, " God is not in the fire."

The storm is o'er—and hark ! a still small voice
 Steals on the ear, to say, Jehovah's choice

Is ever with the soft, meek, tender soul:

144 TENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

By soft, meek, tender ways He loves to draw
The sinner, startled by His ways of awe :

Here is our Lord, and not where thunders roll.

Back, then, complainer; loathe thy life no more.
Nor deem thyself upon a desert shore, 50

Because the rocks the nearer prospect close.
Yet in fallen Israel are there hearts and eyes
That day by day in prayer like thine arise :

Thou know'st them not, but their Creator knows.

Go, to the world return, nor fear to cast
Thy bread upon the waters, sure at last¹

In joy to find it after many days.

The work be thine, the fruit thy children's part:
Choose to believe, not see: sight tempts the heart

From sober walking in true Gospel ways. GO

TENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

And when He was come near, He beheld the city, and wept over it.—St. Luke xix. 41.

WHY doth my Saviour weep

At sight of Sion's bowers ?

Shows it not fair from yonder steep,

Her gorgeous crown of towers ?

Mark well His holy pains :

'Tis not in pride or scorn,

That Israel's King with sorrow stains

His own triumphal morn.

It is not that His soul
 Is wandering sadly on, 10
 In thought how soon at death's dark goal
 Their course will all be run,
 Who now are shouting round
 Hosania to their chief ;
 No thought like this in Him is found,
 This were a Conqueror's grief.¹

Or doth He feel the Cross
 Already in His heart,
 The pain, the shame, the scorn, the loss ?
 Feel e'en His God depart ? 20
 No : though He knew full well
 The grief that then shall be—
 The grief that angels cannot tell—
 Our God in agony.

It is not thus He mourns ;
 Such might be martyr's tears,
 When his last lingering look he turns
 On human hopes and fears ;
 But hero ne'er or saint
 The secret load might know, so
 With which His Spirit waxeth faint ;
 His is a Saviour's woe.

" If thou hadst known, e'en thou,
 " At least in this thy day,
 " The message of thy peace ! but now ⁴⁴ "Tis pass'd for aye away :
 " Now foes shall trench thee round,
 " And lay thcc even with earth,
 " And dash thy children to the ground,
 " Thy glory and thy mirth." 40

146 ELEVENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

And doth the Saviour weep
Over His people's sin,
Because we will not let Him keep
The souls He died to win ?
Ye hearts, that love the Lord,
If at this sight ye burn.
See that in thought, in deed, in word,
Ye hate what made Him mourn. 48

ELEVENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Is it a time to receive money, and to receive garments, and oliveyards, and vineyards, and sheep, and oxen, and menservants, and maidservants ?—2 Kin^gs v. 26.

Is this a time to plant and build,
Add house to house, and field to field,
When round our walls the battle lowers,
When mines are hid beneath our towers,
And watchful foes are stealing round
To search and spoil the holy ground ?

Is this a time for moonlight dreams
Of love and home by mazy streams,
For Fancy with her shadowy toys,
Aerial hopes and pensive joys, 10
While souls are wandering far and wide,
And curses swarm on every side ?

No—rather steel thy melting heart
To act the martyr's sternest part,
To watch, with firm unshrinking eye,
Thy darling visions as they die,
Till all bright hopes, and hues of day,
Have faded into twilight gray.

ELEVENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 147

Yes—let them pass without a sigh,
And if the world seem dull and dry, 20
If long and sad thy lonely hours,
And winds have rent thy sheltering bowers.
Bethink thee what thou art and where,
A sinner in a life of care.

The fire of God is soon to fall
(Thou know'st it) on this earthly ball;
Full many a soul, the price of blood,
Mark'd by th' Almighty's hand for good,
To utter death that hour shall sweep—
And will the Saints in Heaven dare weep ? 30

Then in His wrath shall GOD uproot
The trees He set, for lack of fruit,
And drown in rude tempestuous blaze
The towers His hand had deign'd to raise;
In silence, ere that storm begin,
Count o'er His mercies and thy sin.

Pray only that thine aching heart,
From visions vain content to part,
Strong for Love's sake its woe to hide
May cheerful wait the Cross beside, 40
Too happy if, that dreadful day,
Thy life be given thee for a prey.¹

¹ The Lord saith thus : Behold, that which I have built will I break down, and that which I have planted I will pluck up, even this whole land. And seekest thou great things for thyself? seek them not: for, behold, I will bring evil upon all flesh, saith the Lord : but thy life will I give unto thee for a prey in all places whither thou goest.—Jeremiah xlv. 4, 5.

148 TWELFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Snatch'd sudden from th' avenging rod,
Safe in the bosom of thy GOD,
How wilt thou then look back, and smile
On thoughts that bitterest seem'd erewhlle,
And bless the pangs that made thee see
This was no world of rest for thee ! 43

TWELFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

And looking up to Heaven, He sighed, and sailh unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened.—St. Mark vii. 34.

THE Son of God in doing good
Was fain to look to Heaven and sigh :
And shall the heirs of sinful blood
Seek joy unmix'd in charity ?
God will not let Love's work impart
Full solace, lest it steal the heart ;
Be thou content in tears to sow,
Blessing, like Jesus, in thy woe :

He look'd to Heaven, and sadly sigh'd—
What saw my gracious Saviour there, 10
With fear and anguish to divide
The joy of Heaven-accepted prayer ?
So o'er the bed where Lazarus slept
He to His Father groan'd and wept:
What saw He mournful in that grave,
Knowing Himself so strong to save ?

O'erwhelming thoughts of pain and grief
Over His sinking spirit sweep ;—
" What boots it gathering one lost leaf
" Out of yon sere and wither'd heap, 20

TWELFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 149

" Where souls and bodies, hopes and joys,
" All that earth owns or sin destroys,
" Under the spurning hoof are east,
" Or tossing in th' autumnal blast ? "

The deaf may hear the Saviour's voice,
The fetter'd tongue its chain may break ;
But the deaf heart, the dumb by choice,
The laggard soul, that will not wake,
The guilt that scorns to be forgiven ;—
These baffle e'en the spells of Heaven ; so
In thought of these, His brows benign
Not e'en in healing cloudless shine.

No eye but His might ever bear
To gaze all down that drear abyss,
Because none ever saw so clear
The shore beyond of endless bliss :
The giddy waves so restless hurl'd,
The vex'd pulse of this feverish world,
He views and counts with steady sight,
Used to behold the Infinite. 40

But that in such communion high
He hath a fount of strength within,
Sure His meek heart would break and die,
O'erburthen'd by His brethren's sin ;
Weak eyes on darkness dare not gaze,
It dazzles like the noon-day blaze ;
But He who sees God's face may brook
On the true face of Sin to look.

What then shall wretched sinners do,
When in their last, their hopeless day, so
Sin, as it is, shall meet their view,
God turn His face for aye away ?

150 THIRTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Lord, by Thy sad and earnest eye,
When Thou didst look to Heaven and sigh ;
Thy voice, that with a word could chase
The dumb, deaf spirit from his place ;

As Thou hast touch'd our ears, and taught
Our tongues to speak Thy praises plain,
Quell Thou each thankless godless thought
That would make fast our bonds again. 60
From worldly strife, from mirth unblest,
Drowning Thy music in the breast,
From foul reproach, from thrilling fears,
Preserve, good Lord, Thy servants' ears.

From idle words, that restless throng
And haunt our hearts when we would pray,
From Pride's false chime, and jarring wrong,
Seal Thou my lips, and guard the way :
For Thou hast sworn, that every ear,
Willing or loth, Thy trump shall hear, 70
And every tongue unchained be
To own no hope, no God, but Thee.

THIRTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

And He turned Him unto His disciples, and said privately. Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see : for I tell you, that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them ; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.—
St. Luke x. 23, 24.

ON Sinai's top, in prayer and trance,
Full forty nights and forty days
The Prophet watch'd for one dear glance
Of Thee and of Thy ways :

THIRTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 151

Fasting he watch'd and all alone,
Wrapt in a still, dark, solid eloud,
The curtain of the Holy One
Drawn round him like a shroud :

So, separate from the world, his breast
Might duly take and strongly keep 10
The print of Heaven, to be express'd
Ere long on Sion's steep.¹

There one by one his spirit saw
Of things divine the shadows bright,
The pageant of God's perfect law ;
Yet felt not full delight.

Through gold and gems, a dazzling maze,
From veil to veil the vision led,
And ended, where unearthly rays
From o'er the ark were shed. 20

Yet not that gorgeous place, nor aught
Of human or angelic frame,
Could half appease his craving thought;
The void was still the same.

" Show me Thy glory, gracious Lord !
" Tis Thee," he cries, " not Thine, I seek."²—
Nay, start not at so bold a word
From man, frail worm and weak:

The spark of his first deathless fire
Yet buoys him up, and high above 30
The holiest creature, dares aspire
To the Creator's love.

¹ See that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount.—Hebrews viii. 5.

² Exodus xxxiii. 18.

152 THIRTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

The eye in smiles may wander round,
Caught by earth's shadows as they fleet;
But for the soul no help is found,
Save Him who made it, meet.

Spite of yourselves, ye witness this,¹
Who blindly self or sense adore ;
Else wherefore leaving your own bliss
Still restless ask ye more ? 4C

This witness bore the saints of old
When highest rapt and favour'd most,
Still seeking precious things untold,
Not in fruition lost.

Canaan was theirs, and in it all
The proudest hope of kings dare claim :
Sion was theirs ; arid at their call
Fire from Jehovah came.

Yet monarchs walk'd as pilgrims still
In their own land, earth's pride and grace ;
And seers would mourn on Sion's hill 51
Their Lord's averted face.

Vainly they tried the deeps to sound
E'en of their own prophetic thought,
When of Christ crucified and crown'd
His Spirit in them taught :

But He their aching gaze repress'd,
Which sought behind the veil to see,
For not without us fully blest²
Or perfect might they be. 60

² That they without us should not be made perfect. ~
Hebrews xi. 40.

The rays of the Almighty's face
No sinner's eye might then receive ;
Only the meekest man found grace¹
To see His skirts and live.

But we as in a glass espy
The glory of His countenance,
Not in a whirlwind hurrying by
The too presumptuous glance,

But with mild radiance every hour,
From our dear Saviour's face benign 70
Bent on us with transforming power,
Till we, too, faintly shine.

Sprinkled with His atoning blood
Safely before our God we stand,
As on the rock the Prophet stood,
Beneath His shadowing hand.—

Bless'd eyes, which see the things we see !
And yet this tree of life hath prov'd
To many a soul a poison tree,
Beheld, and not belov'd. 80

So like an angel's is our bliss
(Oh ! thought to comfort and appal),
It needs must bring, if used amiss,
An angel's hopeless fall.

154 FOURTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

FOURTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine? There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger.—St. Luke xvii. 17, 18.

TEN cleans'd, and only one remain !
Who would have thought our nature's stain
Was dyed so foul, so deep in grain ?

E'en He who reads the heart,—
Knows what He gave and what we lost,
Sin's forfeit, and redemption's cost,—
By a short pang of wonder cross'd
Seems at the sight to start:

Yet 'twas not wonder, but His love
Our wavering spirits would reprove, 10
That heaven-ward seem so free to move
When earth can yield no more :
Then from afar on God we cry,
But should the mist of woe roll by,
Not showers across an April sky
Drift, when the storm is o'er,

Faster than those false drops and few
Fleet from the heart, a worthless dew.
What sadder scene can angels view 20
Than self-deceiving tears,
Pour'd idly over some dark page
Of earlier life, though pride or rage
The record of to-day engage,
A woe for future years ?

Spirits, that round the sick man's bed
Watch'd, noting down each prayer he made,

FIFTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 155

Were your unerring roll display'd,
His pride of health to' abase ;
Or, when soft showers in season fall
Answering a famish'd nation's call, 30
Should unseen fingers on the wall
Our vows forgotten trace ;

How should we gaze in trance of fear !
Yet shines the light as thrilling clear
From Heaven upon that scroll severe,
" Ten cleans'd and one remain ! "
Nor surer would the blessing prove
Of humbled hearts, that own Thy love,
Should choral welcome from above
Visit our senses plain : 40

Than by Thy placid voice and brow^r,
With healing first, with comfort now,
Turn'd upon him, who hastes to bow
Before Thee, heart and knee ;
" Oh ! thou, who only wouldst be blest,
" On thee alone My blessing rest !
" Rise, go thy way in peace, possess'd
" For evermore of Me."

FIFTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow. — St. Matthew vi. 28.

SWEET nurslings of the vernal skies,
Bath'd in soft airs, and fed with dew,
What more than magic in you lies,
To fill the heart's fond view ?

In childhood's sports, companions gay,
 In sorrow, on Life's downward way,
 How soothing ! in our last decay
 Memorials prompt and true.

Relics ye are of Eden's bowers,
 As pure, as fragrant, and as fair, 10
 As when ye crown'd the sunshine hours
 Of happy wanderers there.
 FalFn all beside—the world of life,
 How is it stain'd with fear and strife !
 In Reason's world what storms are rife,
 What passions range and glare !

But cheerful and unchanged the while
 Your first and perfect form ye show,
 The same that won Eve's matron smile
 In the world's opening glow. 20
 The stars of heaven a course are taught
 Too high above our human thought;
 Ye may be found if ye are sought,
 And as we gaze, we know.

Ye dwell beside our paths and homes,
 Our paths of sin, our homes of sorrow,
 And guilty man, where'er he roams,
 Your innocent mirth may borrow.
 The birds of air before us fleet,
 They cannot brook our shame to meet— so
 But we may taste your solace sweet
 And come again to-morrow.

Ye fearless in your nests abide—
 Nor may we scorn, too proudly wise,
 Your silent lessons, undescried
 By all but lowly eyes :

158 SIXTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

The dearest offering He can crave
 His portion in our souls to prove,
 What is it to the gift He gave,
 The only Son of His dear love ?

But we, like vex'd unquiet sprights,
 Will still be hovering o'er the tomb, 10
 Where buried lie our vain delights,
 Nor sweetly take a sinner's doom.

In life's long sickness evermore
 Our thoughts are tossing to and fro :
 We change our posture o'er and o'er,
 But cannot rest, nor cheat our woe.

W⁷ere it not better to lie still,
 Let Him strike home and bless the rod,
 Never so safe as when our will
 Yields undiscern'd by all but God ? 20

Thy precious things, whate'er they be,
 That haunt and vex thee, heart and brain,
 Look to the Cross, and thou shalt see
 How thou mayst turn them all to gain.

Lovest thou praise ? the Cross is shame :
 Or ease ? the Cross is bitter grief :
 More pangs than tongue or heart can frame
 Were suffer'd there without relief.

We of that Altar would partake,
 But cannot quit the cost—no throne 30
 Is ours, to leave for Thy dear sake—
 We cannot do as Thou hast done.

SEVENTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 159

We cannot part with Heaven for Thee—
Yet guide us in Thy track of love :
Let us gaze on where light should be,
Though not a beam the clouds remove.

So wanderers ever fond and true
Look homeward through the evening sky,
Without a streak of heaven's soft blue
To aid Affection's dreaming eye. 40

The wanderer seeks his native bower,
And we will look and long for Thee,
And thank Thee for each trying hour,
Wishing, not struggling, to be free.

SEVENTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Every man of the house of Israel that setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumblingblock of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to the Prophet; I the Lord will answer him that cometh according to the multitude of his idols.
—Ezekiel xiv. 4.

STATELY thy walls, and holy are the prayers
Which day and night before thine altars rise;
Not statelier, towering o'er her marble stairs,
Flash'd Sion's gilded dome to summer skies,
Not holier, while around him angels bow'd,
From Aaron's censer steam'd the spicy cloud,

Before the mercy-seat. O Mother dear,
Wilt thou forgive thy son one boding sigh ?
Forgive, if round thy towers he walk in fear,
And tell thy jewels o'er with jealous eye ? 10

160 SEVENTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Mindful of that sad vision, which in thought¹
From Chebar's plains the captive prophet brought

To see lost Sion's shame. 'Twas morning prime,
And like a Queen new seated on her throne,
GOD'S crowned mountain, as in happier time,
Seem'd to rejoice in sunshine all her own :
So bright, while all in shade around her lay,
Her northern pinnacles had caught th' emerging ray.

The dazzling lines of her majestic roof
Cross'd with as free a span the vault of heaven,
As when twelve tribes knelt silently aloof ²¹
Ere GOD His answer to their king had given,²
Ere yet upon the new-built altar fell
The glory of the LORD, the Lord of Israel.

All seems the same : but enter in and see
What idol shapes are on the wall pourtray'd :³
And watch their shameless and unholy glee,
Who worship there in Aaron's robes array'd :
Hear Judah's maids the dirge to Thammuz pour,⁴
And mark her chiefs yon orient sun adored so

Yet turn thee, son of man—for worse than these Thou must behold : thy loathing were but lost
On dead men's crimes, and Jews' idolatries—
Come, learn to tell aright thine own sins' cost,—
And sure their sin as far from equals thine,
As earthly hopes abus'd are less than hopes divine.

SEVENTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 161

What if within His world, His Church, our LORD
Have enter'd thee, as in some temple gate,
Where, looking round, each glance might thee afford

Some glorious earnest of thine high estate, 40
And thou, false heart and frail, hast turn'd from all
To worship pleasure's shadow on the wall ?

If, when the LORD of Glory was in sight,
Thou turn thy back upon that fountain clear,
To bow before the " little drop of light,"
Which dim-eyed men call praise and glory here;
What dost thou, but adore the sun, and scorn
Him at whose only word both sun and stars were born?

If, while around thee gales from Eden breathe,
Thou hide thine eyes, to make thy peevish moan
Over some broken reed of earth beneath, 51
Some darling of blind fancy dead and gone,
As wisely mightst thou in JEHOVAH'S fane
Offer thy love and tears to Thammuz slain.

Turn thee from these, or dare not to inquire
Of Him whose name is Jealous, lest in wrath
He hear and answer thine unblest desire :
Far better we should cross His lightning's path
Than be according to our idols heard,
And GOD should take us at our own vain word. 60

Thou who hast deign'd the Christian's heart to call
Thy Church and Shrine; whene'er our rebel will
Would in that chosen home of Thine instal
Belial or Mammon, grant us not the ill
We blindly ask ; in very love refuse
Whate'er Thou know'st our weakness would abuse.

162 EIGHTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Or rather help us, LORD, to choose the good,
To pray for naught, to seek to none, but Thee,
Nor by " our daily bread " mean common food,
Nor say, " From this world's evil set us free; "
Teach us to love, with CHRIST, our sole true bliss, Else, though in CHRIST'S own words, we surely pray amiss. 72

EIGHTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

I will bring you into the wilderness of the 7>eo/>/e, and there will I plead with you face to face. Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I plead with you, saith the Lord God.—Ezekiel xx. 35, 36.

IT is so—ope thine eyes, and see—
What view'st thou all around ?
A desert, where iniquity
And knowledge both abound.

In the waste howling wilderness
The Church is wandering still,¹
Because we would not onward press
When close to Sion's hill.

Back to the world we faithless turn'd,
And far along the wild, 10
With labour lost and sorrow earn'd,
Our steps have been beguil'd.

Yet full before us, all the while,
The shadowing pillar stays,
The living waters brightly smile,
Th' eternal turrets blaze.

EIGHTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 163

Yet Heaven is raining angels' bread
To be our daily food,
And fresh, as when it first was shed,
Springs forth the SAVIOUR'S blood. 20

From every region, race, and speech,
Believing myriads throng,
Till, far as sin and sorrow reach,
Thy grace is spread along;

Till sweetest nature, brightest art,
Their votive incense bring,
And every voice and every heart
Own Thee their God and King;

All own ; but few, alas ! will love ;
Too like the recreant band so
That with Thy patient Spirit strove
Upon the Red-sea strand.

O Father of long-suffering grace,
Thou who hast sworn to stay
Pleading with sinners face to face
Through all their devious way :

How shall we speak to Thee, O LORD,
Or how in silence lie ?
Look on us, and we are abhorr'd,
Turn from us, and we die. 40

Thy guardian fire, Thy guiding cloud,
Still let them gild o'ir wall,
Nor be our foes and Thine allow'd
To see us faint and fall.

164 EIGHTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Too oft, within this camp of Thine,
Rebellious murmurs rise ;
Sin cannot bear to see Thee shine
So awful to her eyes.

Fain would our lawless hearts escape,
And with the heathen be, 60
To worship every monstrous shape
In fancied darkness free.

Vain thought, that shall riot be at all! ¹
Refuse we or obey,
Our ears have heard th' Almighty's call,
We cannot be as they.

We cannot hope the heathen's doom
To whom GOD'S Son is given,
Whose eyes have seen beyond the tomb,
W^Tho have the key of Heaven. co

Weak tremblers on the edge of woe,
Yet shrinking from true bliss,
Our rest must be "no rest below,"
And let our prayer be this :

" LORD, wave again Thy chastening rod,
" Till every idol throne
" Crumble to dust, and Thou, O GOD,
" Reign in our hearts alone.

" Bring all our wandering fancies home,
" For Thou hast every spell, 70
" And 'mid the heathen where they roam,
" Thou knowest, LORD, too well.

¹ That which cometh into your mind shall not be at all, that ye say, We will be as the heathen, as the families of the countries, to serve wood and stone.—Ezekiel xx. 32.

NINETEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 165

- " Thou know'st our service sad and hard,
" Thou know'st us fond and frail;—
" Win us to be belov'd and spar'd
" When all the world shall fail.
- " So when at last our weary days
" Arc well-nigh wasted here,
" And we can trace Thy wondrous ways
" In distance calm and clear, 80
- " When in Thy love and Israel's sin
" We read our story true,
" We may not, all too late, begin
" To wish our hopes were new:
- " Long lov'd, long tried, long spar'd as they,
" Unlike in this alone,
" That, by Thy grace, our hearts shall stay
" For evermore Thine own."

NINETEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonied, and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his counsellors, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered and said unto the king, True, O king, lie answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God.—Daniel iii. 24, 25.

WHEN Persecution's torrent blaze
Wraps the unshrinking Martyr's head ;
When fade all earthly flowers and bays,
When summer friends are gone and fled,
Is he alone in that dark hour
Who owns the Lord of love and power ?

Or waves there not around his brow
 A wand no human arm may wield,
 Fraught with a spell no angels know,
 His steps to guide, his soul to shield ? 10
 Thou, Saviour, art his Charmed Bower,
 His Magic Ring, his Rock, his Tower.

And when the wicked ones behold
 Thy favourites walking in Thy light,
 Just as, in fancied triumph bold,
 They deem'd them lost in deadly night,
 Amaz'd they cry, " What spell is this,
 " Which turns their sufferings all to bliss ?

" How are they free whom we had bound ?
 " Upright, whom in the gulf we cast ? 20
 " What wondrous helper have they found
 " To screen them from the scorching blast ?
 " Three were they—who hath made them four ?
 " And sure a form divine He wore,

" E'en like the Son of God." So cried
 The Tyrant, when in one fierce flame
 The Martyrs liv'd, the murderers died :
 Yet knew he not what angel came
 To make the rushing lire-flood seem
 Like summer breeze by woodland stream.¹ so

He knew not, but there are who know :
 The Matron, who alone hath stood,
 When not a prop seem'd left below,
 The first lorn hour of widowhood,
 Yet cheer'd and cheering all, the while,
 With sad but unaffected smile ;—

¹ As it had been a moist whistling wind.—Song of the Three Children, ver. 27.

TWENTIETH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 167

The Father, who his vigil keeps
By the sad couch whence hope hath flown,
Watching the eye where reason sleeps,
Yet in his heart can mercy own, 40
Still sweetly yielding to the rod,
Still loving man, still thanking GOD ;—

The Christian Pastor, bow'd to earth
With thankless toil, and vile esteem'd,
Still travailing in second birth
Of souls that will not be redeem'd,
Yet steadfast set to do his part,
And fearing most his own vain heart;—

These know : on these look long and well,
Cleansing thy sight by prayer and faith, 50
And thou shalt know what secret spell
Preserves them in their living death :
Through sevenfold flames thine eye shall see
The Saviour walking with His faithful Three.

Hear ye, O mountains, the Lord's controversy, and ye strong foundations of the earth.—Micah vi. 2.

WHERE is Thy favour'd haunt, eternal Voice,
The region of Thy choice,
Where, undisturb'd by sin and earth, the soul
Owns Thy entire control ?—
'Tis on the mountain's summit dark and high,
When storms are hurrying by :
'Tis 'mid the strong foundations of the earth,
Where torrents have their birth.

168 TWENTIETH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

No sounds of worldly toil ascending there,
 Mar the full burst of prayer; 10
Lone Nature feels that she may freely breathe,
 And round us and beneath
Are heard her sacred tones : the fitful sweep
 Of winds across the steep,
Through wither'd bents—romantic note and clear,
 Meet for a hermit's ear,—

The wheeling kite's wild solitary cry,
 And, scarcely heard so high,
The dashing waters when the air is still
 From many a torrent rill 20
That winds unseen beneath the shaggy fell,
 Track'd by the blue mist well :
Such sounds as make deep silence in the heart
 For Thought to do her part.

Tis then we hear the voice of GOD within,
 Pleading with care and sin :
" Child of My love ! how have I wearied thee ?
 " Why wilt thou err from Me ?
" Have I not brought thee from the house of slaves,
 " Parted the drowning waves, so
" And set My saints before thee in the way,
 " Lest thou shouldst faint or stray ?
" What! was the promise made to thee alone ?
 " Art thou th' excepted one ?
" An heir of glory without grief or pain ?
 " O vision false and vain !
" There lies thy cross; beneath it meekly bow ;
 " It fits thy stature now :
" Who scornful pass it with averted eye,
 " 'Twill crush them by-and-by. 40

Wooing the stillness of the autumn day :
 Bid it a moment linger,
 Nor fly
 Too soon from winter's scowling eye.

The blackbird's song at even-tide,
 And hers, who gay ascends,
 Filling the heavens far and wide,
 Are sweet. But none so blends,
 As thine,
 With calm decay, and peace divine.

TWENTY-SECOND SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him ?—St. Matthew xviii. 21.

WHAT liberty so glad and gay,
 As where the mountain boy,
 Reckless of regions far away,
 A prisoner lives in joy ?

The dreary sounds of crowded earth,
 The cries of camp or town,
 Never untun'd his lonely mirth,
 Nor drew his visions down.

The snow-clad peaks of rosy light
 That meet his morning view, 10
 The thwarting cliffs that bound his sight,
 They bound his fancy too.

Two ways alone his roving eye
 For aye may onward go,
Or in the azure deep on high,
 Or darksome mere below.

O blest restraint! more blessed range !
 Too soon the happy child
 His nook of homely thought will change
 For life's seducing wild : 20

Too soon his alter'd day-dreams show
 This earth a boundless space,
 With sun-bright pleasures to and fro
 Sporting in joyous race :

While of his narrowing heart each year,
 Heaven less and less will fill,
 Less keenly, through his grosser ear,
 The tones of mercy thrill.

It must be so : else w^rherefore falls
 The Saviour's voice unheard, 30
 While from His pard'ning Cross He calls,
 " O spare as I have spar'd " ?

By our own niggard rule we try
 The hope to suppliants given !
 We mete out love, as if our eye
 Saw to the end of Heaven.

Yes, ransom'd sinner ! wouldst thou know
 How often to forgive,
 How dearly to embrace thy foe,
 Look where thou hop'st to live ;— 40

When thou hast told those isles of light,
 And fancied all beyond,
 Whatever owns, in depth or height,
 Creation's wondrous bond;

Then in their solemn pageant learn
 Sweet mercy's praise to see :
 Their Lord resign'd them all, to earn
 The bliss of pardoning thee. 48

TWENTY-THIRD SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

Who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto His glorious body, according to the working whereby He is able even to subdue all things unto Himself.—Philippians 111. 21.

RED o'er the forest peers the setting sun,
 The line of yellow light dies fast away
 That crown'd the eastern copse : and chill and dun
 Falls on the moor the brief November day.

Now the tir'd hunter winds a parting note,
 And Echo bids good-night from every glade ;
 Yet wait awhile, and see the calm leaves float
 Each to his rest beneath their parent shade.

How like decaying life they seem to glide !
 And yet no second spring have they in store,
 But where they fall, forgotten to abide 11
 Is all their portion, and they ask no more.

Soon o'er their heads blithe April airs shall sing,
 A thousand wild-flowers round them shall unfold,
 The green buds glisten in the dews of Spring,
 And all be vernal rapture as of old.

When from the grave He sprang at dawn of morn,
 And led through boundless air thy conquering road,
 Leaving a glorious track, where saints, new-born,
 Might fearless follow to their blest abode.

But first, by many a stern and fiery blast
 The world's rude furnace must thy blood refine,
 And many a gale of keenest woe be pass'd, 51
 Till every pulse beat true to airs divine,

Till every limb obey the mounting soul,
 The mounting soul, the call by Jesus given.
 He who the stormy heart can so control,
 The laggard body soon will waft to Heaven.

TWENTY-FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

The heart knoweth his own bitterness; and a stranger doth not intermeddle with his joy.—Proverbs xiv. 10.

WHY should we faint, and fear to live alone,
 Since all alone, so Heaven has will'd, we die,¹
 Nor e'en the tenderest heart, and next our own,
 Knows half the reasons why we smile and sigh ?

Each in his hidden sphere of joy or woe
 Our hermit spirits dwell, and range apart,
 Our eyes see all around in gloom or glow—
 Hues of their own, fresh borrow'd from the heart.

And well it is for us our GOD should feel 9
Alone our secret throbbings : so our prayer
May readier spring to Heaven, nor spend its zeal
On cloud-born idols of this lower air.

For if one heart in perfect sympathy
Beat with another, answering love for love,
Weak mortals, all entranc'd, on earth would lie,
Nor listen for those purer strains above.

Or what if Heaven for once its searching light
Lent to some partial eye, disclosing all
The rude bad thoughts, that in our bosom's night
Wander at large, nor heed Love's gentle thrall ?

Who would not shun the dreary uncouth place ?
As if, fond leaning where her infant slept, 22
"A mother's arm a serpent should embrace :
So might we friendless live, and die unwept.

Then keep the softening veil in mercy drawn,
Thou who canst love us, tho' Thou read us true ;
As on the bosom of th' aerial lawn
Melts in dim haze each coarse ungentle hue.

So too may soothing Hope Thy leave enjoy
Sweet visions of long-sever'd hearts to frame :
Though absence may impair, or cares annoy, 31
Some constant mind may draw us still the same.

W^re in dark dreams are tossing to and fro,
Pine with regret, or sicken with despair,
The while she bathes us in her own chaste glow,
And with our memory wings her own fond
prayer.

O bliss of child-like innocence, and love
 Tried to old age ! creative power to win,
 And raise new worlds, where happy fancies rove,
 Forgetting quite this grosser world of sin. 40

Bright are their dreams, because their thoughts are clear,
 Their memory cheering : but the earth-stain'd
 spright,
 Whose wakeful musings are of guilt and fear,
 Must hover nearer earth, and less in light.

Farewell, for her, th' ideal scenes so fair—
 Yet not farewell her hope, since Thou hast deign'd,
 Creator of all hearts ! to own and share
 The woe of what Thou mad'st, and we have stain'd.

Thou know'st our bitterness — our joys are Thine^J—
 No stranger Thou to all our wanderings wild :
 Nor could we bear to think, how every line 51
 Of us, Thy darkened likeness and defiPd,

Stands in full sunshine of Thy piercing eye,
 But that Thou call'st us Brethren : sweet repose
 Is in that word—the LORD who dwells on high
 Knows all, yet loves us better than He knows.

TWENTY-FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteousness.—Proverbs xvi. 31.

THE bright-hair'd morn is glowing
 O'er emerald meadows gay,
 With many a clear gem strowing
 The early shepherd's way.
 Ye gentle elves, by Fancy seen
 Stealing away with night
 To slumber in your leafy screen,
 Tread more than airy light.

And see what joyous greeting
 The sun through heaven has shed, 10
 Though fast yon shower be fleeting,
 His beams have faster sped.
 For lo ! above the western haze
 High towers the rainbow arch
 In solid span of purest rays :
 How stately is its march !

Pride of the dewy morning !
 The swain's experienc'd eye
 From thee takes timely warning,
 Nor trusts the gorgeous sky. 20
 For well he knows, such dawns gay
 Bring noons of storm and shower,
 And travellers linger on the way
 Beside the sheltering bower.

E'en so, in hope and trembling
 Should watchful shepherd view
 His little lambs assembling,
 With glance both kind and true;

TWENTY-FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY 179

'Tis not the eye of keenest blaze,
Nor the quick-swelling breast, so
That soonest thrills at touch of praise—
These do not please him best.

But voices low and gentle,
And timid glances shy,
That seem for aid parental
To sue all wistfully,
Still pressing, longing to be right,
Yet fearing to be wrong,—
In these the Pastor dares delight,
A lamb-like, Christ-like throng. 40

These in Life's distant even
Shall shine serenely bright,
As in th' autumnal heaven
Mild rainbow tints at night,
When the last shower is stealing down,
And ere they sink to rest,
The sun-beams weave a parting crown
For some sweet woodland nest.

The promise of the morrow
Is glorious on that eve, 50
Dear as the holy sorrow
When good men cease to live.
When brightening ere it die away
Mounts up their altar flame,
Still tending with intenser ray
To Heaven whence first it came.

Say not it dies, that glory,
'Tis caught unquench'd on high,
Those saint-like brows so hoary
Shall wear it in the sky. 60

180 SUNDAY NEXT BEFORE ADVENT

No smile is like the smile of death,
When all good musings past
Rise wafted with the parting breath,
The sweetest thought the last.

SUNDAY NEXT BEFORE ADVENT

Gather up itie fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.
—St. John vi. 12.

WILL God indeed with fragments bear,
Snatch'd late from the decaying year ?
Or can the Saviour's blood endear
The dregs of a polluted life ?
" When down th' overwhelming current toss'd,
Just ere he sink for ever lost,
The sailor's untried arms are cross'd
In agonizing prayer, will Ocean cease her strife ?

Sighs that exhaust but not relieve,
Heart-rending sighs, O spare to heave 10
A bosom freshly taught to grieve
For lavish'd hours and love mis-spent!
Now through her round of holy thought
The Church our annual steps has brought,
But we no holy fire have caught—
Back on the gaudy world our wilful eyes were bent.

Too soon th' ennobling carols, pour'd
To hymn the birth-night of the LORD,
Which duteous Memory should have stor'd
For thankful echoing all the year— 20

182 SUNDAY NEXT BEFORE ADVENT

No, not for each and all of these,
Have our frail spirits found their ease. 50
The gale that stirs th' autumnal trees
Seems tun'd as truly to our hearts
As when, twelve weary months ago,
'Twas moaning bleak, so high and low,
You would have thought Remorse and Woe
Had taught the innocent air their sadly thrilling parts.

Is it, CHRIST'S light is too divine,
We dare not hope like Him to shine ?
But see, around His dazzling shrine
Earth's gems the fire of Heaven have caught; GO
Martyrs and saints—each glorious day
Dawning in order on our way—
Remind us, how our darksome clay
May keep th' ethereal warmth our new Creator brought.

These we have scorn'd, O false and frail!
And now once more th' appalling tale,
How love divine may woo and fail,
Of our lost year in Heaven is told—
What if as far our life were past,
Our weeks all number'd to the last, 70
With time and hope behind us cast,
And all our work to do with palsied hands and cold?

O watch and pray ere Advent dawn !
For thinner than the subtlest lawn
'Twixt thee and death the veil is drawn.
But Love too late can never glow:

Who art thou, that wouldst grave thy name
Thus deeply in a brother's heart ?
Look on this saint, and learn to frame
Thy love-charm with true Christian art. 20

First seek thy Saviour out, and dwell
Beneath the shadow of His roof,
Till thou have scann'd His features well,
And known Him for the Christ by proof ;

Such proof as they are sure to find
Who spend with Him their happy days,
Clean hands, and a self-ruling mind
Ever in tune for love and praise.

Then, potent with the spell of Heaven,
Go, and thine erring brother gain, 30
Entice him home to be forgiven,
Till he, too, see his Saviour plain.

Or, if before thee in the race,
Urge him with thine advancing tread,
Till, like twin stars, with even pace,
Each lucid course be duly sped.

No fading frail memorial give
To soothe his soul when thou art gone,
But wreaths of hope for'aye to live,
And thoughts of good together done. 40

That so, before the judgement-seat,
Though changed and glorified each face,
Not unremember'd ye may meet
For endless ages to embrace.

SAINT THOMAS'S DAY

*Thomas, because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed : blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.—
St. John xx. 29.*

WE were not by when Jesus came,¹
But round us, far and near,
We see His trophies, and His name
In choral echoes hear.
In a fair ground our lot is cast,
As in the solemn week that past,
While some might doubt, but all adorVI,-
Ere the whole widow'd Church had seen her risen
Lord.

Slowly, as then, His bounteous hand
The golden chain unwinds, 10
Drawing to Heaven with gentlest band
Wise hearts and loving minds.
Love sought Him first—at dawn of morn⁸
From her sad couch she sprang forlorn,
She sought to weep with Thee alone,
And saw Thine open grave, and knew that Thou wert gone.

Reason and Faith at once set out⁴
To search the SAVIOUR'S tomb ;
Faith faster runs, but waits without,
As fearing to presume, 20

¹ Thomas, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.—St. John xx. 24.

⁸ When they saw Him, they worshipped Him : but some doubted.—St. Matthew xxviii. 17.

⁸ St. Mary Magdalene's visit to the sepulchre.
['] St. Peter and St. John.

Till Reason enter in, and trace
 Christ's relics round the holy place—
 " Here lay His limbs, and here His sacred head,
 " And who was by, to make His new-forsaken bed ? "

Both wonder, one believes—but while
 They muse on all at home,
 No thought can tender Love beguile
 From Jesus' grave to roam.
 Weeping she stays till He appear—
 Her witness first the Church must hear— 30
 All joy to souls that can rejoice
 With her at earliest call of His dear gracious voice.

- Joy too to those, who love to talk
 In secret how He died,
 Though with seal'd eyes awhile they walk,
 Nor see Him at their side ;
 Most like the faithful pair are they,
 Who once to Emmaus took their way,
 Half darkling, till their Master shed
 His glory on their souls, made known in breaking bread. 40

Thus, ever brighter and more bright,
 On those He came to save
 The Lord of new-created light
 Dawn'd gradual from the grave ;
 Till pass'd th' inquiring day-light hour,
 And with clos'd door in silent bower
 The Church in anxious musing sate,
 As one who for redemption still had long to wait.

Then, gliding through th' unopening door,
 Smooth without step or sound, 50
 " Peace to your souls," He said—no more—
 They own Him, kneeling round.
 Eye, ear, and hand, and loving heart,
 Body and soul in every part,
 Successive made His witnesses that hour,
 Cease not in all the world to show His saving power.

Is there, on earth, a spirit frail,
 Who fears to take their word,
 Scarce daring, through the twilight pale,
 To think he sees the Lord ? GO
 With eyes too tremblingly aw^rake
 To bear with dimness for His sake ?
 Read and confess the Hand Divine
 That drew thy likeness here so true in every line.

For all thy rankling doubts so sore,
 Love thou thy Saviour still,
 Him for thy Lord and God adore,
 And ever do His will.
 Though vexing thoughts may seem to last,
 Let not thy soul be quite o'er^rcast;— 70
 Soon will He show thee all His wounds, and say,
 " Long have I known thy name^l—know thou My face alway."

^l In Exodus xxxiii. 17, God says to Moses, " I know thee by name " ; meaning, " I bear especial favour towards thee." Thus our Saviour speaks to St. Thomas by name in the place here referred to.

THE CONVERSION OF SAINT PAUL

And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me? And he said, Who art Thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest.—Acts ix. 4, 5.

THE mid-day sun, with fiercest glare,
Broods o'er the hazy, twinkling air ;
 Along the level sand
The palm-tree's shade unwavering lies,
Just as thy towers, Damascus, rise
 To greet yon wearied band.

The leader of that martial crew
Seems bent some mighty deed to do,
 So steadily he speeds,
With lips firm clos'd and fixed eye, 10
Like warrior when the fight is nigh,
 Nor talk nor landscape heeds.

What sudden blaze is round him pour'd,
As though all Heaven's refulgent hoard
 In one rich glory shone ?
One moment—and to earth he falls :
What voice his inmost heart appals ?—
 Voice heard by him alone.

For to the rest both words and form 20
Seem lost in lightning and in storm,
 While Saul, in wakeful trance,
Sees deep within that dazzling field
His persecuted Lord reveal'd
 With keen yet pitying glance :

And hears the meek upbraiding call
 As gently on his spirit fall,
 As if th' Almighty Son
 Were prisoner yet in this dark earth,
 Nor had proclaim'd His royal birth,
 Nor His great power begun. so

" Ah ! wherefore persecut'st thou Me ? "
 He heard and saw, and sought to free
 His strain'd eye from the sight :
 But Heaven's high magic bound it there,
 Still gazing, though untaught to bear
 Th' insufferable light.

" Who art Thou, Lord ? " he falters forth :—
 So shall Sin ask of heaven and earth
 At the last awful day.

" When did we see Thee suffering nigh,¹ 40
 " And pass'd Thee with unheeding eye ?
 " Great God of judgement, say ! "

Ah ! little dream our listless eyes
 What glorious presence they despise,
 While, in our noon of life,
 To power or fame we rudely press.—
 Christ is at hand, to scorn or bless,
 Christ suffers in our strife.

And though heaven gate long since have clos'd,
 And our dear Lord in bliss repos'd, 50
 High above mortal ken,
 To every ear in every land
 (Though meek ears only understand)
 He speaks as He did then.

" Ah ! wherefore persecute ye Me ?
 "'Tis hard, ye so in love should be
 " With your own endless woe.
 " Know, though at God's right hand I live,
 " I feel each wound ye reckless give
 " To the least saint below. 60

" I in your care My brethren left,
 " Not willing ye should be bereft
 " Of waiting on your Lord.
 " The meanest offering ye can make—
 " A drop of water—for love's sake,¹
 " In Heaven, be sure, is stor'd."

O by those gentle tones and dear,
 When Thou hast stay'd our wild career,
 Thou only hope of souls,
 Ne'er let us cast one look behind, 70
 But in the thought of Jesus find
 What every thought controls.

As to Thy last Apostle's heart
 Thy lightning glance did then impart
 Zeal's never-dying fire,
 So teach us on Thy shrine to lay
 Our hearts, and let them day by day
 Intenser blaze and higher.

And as each mild and winning note
 (Like pulses that round harp-strings float 80
 When the full strain is o'er)
 Left lingering on his inward car
 Music, that taught, as death drew near,
 Love's lesson more and more :

¹ St. Matthew x. 42.

So, as we walk our earthly round,
 Still may the echo of that sound
 Be in our memory stor'd :
 " Christians ! behold your happy state :
 " Christ is in these, who round you wait ;
 " Make much of your dear Lord ! " 90

THE PURIFICATION

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.—
 St. Matthew v. 8.

BLESS'D are the pure in heart,
 For they shall see our God,
 The secret of the Lord is theirs,
 Their soul is Christ's abode.

Might mortal thought presume
 To guess an angel's lay,
 Such are the notes that echo through
 The courts of Heaven to-day.

Such the triumphal hymns
 On Sion's Prince that wait, 10
 In high procession passing on Towards His temple-gate.

Give ear, ye kings—bow down,
 Ye rulers of the earth—
 This, this is He ; your Priest by grace,
 Your God and King by birth.

No pomp of earthly guards
 Attends with sword and spear,
 And all-defying, dauntless look,
 Their monarch's way to clear ; 20

Yet are there more with Him
 Than all that arc with you—
 The armies of the highest Heaven,
 All righteous, good, and true.

Spotless their robes and pure,
 Dipp'd in the sea of light,
 That hides the unapproach'd shrine
 From men's and angels' sight.

His throne, thy bosom blest,
 O Mother undent'd— 30
 That throne, if aught beneath the skies,
 Beseems the sinless child.

Lost in high thoughts, " whose son
 " The wondrous Babe might prove,"
 Her guileless husband walks beside,
 Bearing the hallow'd dove ;

Meet emblem of His vow,
 Who, on this happy day,
 His dove-like soul—best sacrifice—
 Did on God's altar lay. 40

But who is he, by years
 Bow'd, but erect in heart,
 Whose prayers are struggling with his tears ?
 " Lord, let me now depart.

" Now hath Thy servant seen
 " Thy saving health, O Lord ;
 " 'Tis time that I depart in peace,
 " According to Thy word."

Yet swells the pomp : one more
 Comes forth to bless her God : 50
 Full fourscore years, meek widow, she
 Her heavenward way hath trod.

She who to earthly joys
 So long had given farewell,
 Now sees, unlook'd for, Heaven on earth,
 Christ in His Israel.

Wide open from that hour
 The^k temple-gates are set,
 And still the saints rejoicing there
 The holy Child have met. GO

Now count His train to-day,
 And who may meet Him, learn :
 Him child-like sires, meek maidens find,
 Where pride can naught discern.

Still to the lowly soul
 He doth Himself impart,
 And for His cradle and His throne
 Chooseth the pure in heart.

SAINT MATTHIAS'S DAY

Wherefore of these men which have companied with us all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us, beginning from the baptism of John, unto that same day that He was taken up front us, must one be ordained to be a witness with us of His resurrection.—Acts i. 21, 22.

WHO is God's chosen priest ?
 He, who on Christ stands waiting day and night,
 Who trac'd His holy steps, nor ever ceas'd,
 From Jordan banks to Bcthphege height :

Who hath learn'd lowliness
 From his Lord's cradle, patience from His Cross;
 Whom poor men's eyes and hearts consent to bless;
 To whom, for Christ, the world is loss;

Who both in agony
 Hath seen Him and in glory ; and in both 10
 Own'd Him divine, and yielded, nothing loth,
 Body and soul, to live and die,

In witness of his Lord,
 In humble following of his Saviour dear :
 This is the man to wield th' unearthly sword,
 Warring unharm'd with sin and fear.

But who can e'er suffice—
 What mortal—for this more than angels' task,
 Winning or losing souls, Thy life-blood's price ?
 The gift were too divine to ask, 20

But Thou hast made it sure
 By Thy dear promise to Thy Church and Bride,
 That Thou, on earth, wouldst ay with her endure,
 Till earth to Heaven be purified.

Thou art her only spouse,
 Whose arm supports her, on Whose faithful breast
 Her persecuted head she meekly bows,
 Sure pledge of her eternal rest.

Thou, her unerring guide,
 Stayest her fainting steps along the wild ; so
 Thy mark is on the bowers of lust and pride,
 That she may pass them unden'd.

Who then, uncall'd by Thee,
Dare touch Thy spouse, Thy very self below ?
Or who dare eount him summon'd worthily,
Except Thine hand and seal he show ?

Where can Thy seal be found,
But on the chosen seed, from age to age
By Thine anointed heralds duly crown'd,
As kings and priests Thy war to wage ? 40

Then fearless walk we forth,
Yet full of trembling, Messengers of God :
Our warrant sure, but doubting of our worth,
By our own shame alike and glory aw'd.

Dread Searcher of the hearts,
Thou who didst seal by Thy descending Dove
Thy servant's choice, O help us in our parts,
Else helpless found, to learn and teach Thy love.

THE ANNUNCIATION OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY

And the Angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee : blessed art thou among women.—St. Luke i. 28.

OH ! Thou who deign'st to sympathize
With all our frail and fleshly ties,
Maker yet Brother dear,
Forgive the too presumptuous thought,
If, calming wayward grief, I sought
To gaze on Thee too near.

Yet sure 'twas not presumption, Lord,
 'Twas Thine own comfortable word
 That made the lesson known :
 Of all the dearest bonds we prove, 10
 Thou countest sons' and mothers' love
 Most sacred, most Thine own.

When wandering here a little span,
 Thou took'st on Thee to rescue man,
 Thou hadst no earthly sire :
 That wedded love we prize so dear,
 As if our heaven and home were here,
 It lit in Thee no fire.

On no sweet sister's faithful breast
 Wouldst Thou Thine aching forehead rest, 20
 On no kind brother lean :
 But who, O perfect filial heart,
 E'er did like Thee a true son's part,
 Endearing, firm, serene ?

Thou wept'st, meek maiden, mother mild,
 Thou wept'st upon thy sinless Child,
 Thy very heart was riven :
 And yet, what mourning matron here
 Would deem thy sorrows bought too dear
 By all on this side Heaven ? 30

A Son that never did amiss,
 That never shamed His Mother's kiss,
 Nor cross'd her fondest prayer :
 E'en from the tree He deign'd to bow
 For her His agonized brow,
 Her, His sole earthly care.

Ave Maria ! blessed Maid !
 Lily of Eden's fragrant shade,
 Who can express the love
 That nurtured thee so pure and sweet, 10
 Making thy heart a shelter meet
 For Jesus' holy Dove ?

Ave Maria ! Mother blest,
 To whom, caressing and caress'd,
 Clings the Eternal Child ;
 Favoured beyond Archangels' dream.
 When first on thee with tenderest gleam
 Thy new-born Saviour smil'd :—

Ave Maria ! thou whose name
 All but adoring love may claim, 50
 Yet may we reach thy shrine ;
 For He, thy Son and Saviour, vows
 To crown all lowly lofty brows
 With love and joy like thine.

Bless'd is the womb that bare Him—bless'd^J
 The bosom where His lips were pressed,
 But rather bless'd are they
 Who hear His word arid keep it well.
 The living homes where Christ shall dwell.
 And never pass away. BO

Companion of the Saints ! 'twas thine
 To taste that drop of peace divine,
 When the great soldier of thy Lord
 Call'd thee to take his last farewell,
 Teaching the Church with joy to tell
 The story of your love restor'd. 30

O then the glory and the bliss,
 When all that pain'd or seem'd amiss
 Shall melt with earth and sin away !
 When saints beneath their Saviour's eye,
 Fill'd with each other's company,
 Shall spend in love th' eternal day !

ST. PHILIP AND ST. JAMES

Let the brother of low degree rejoice in that he is exalted: but the rich, in that he is made low.—St. James i. 9, 10.

DEAR is the morning gale of spring,
 And dear th' autumnal eve ;
 But few delights can summer bring
 A Poet's crown to weave.

Her bowers are mute, her fountains dry,
 And ever Fancy's wing
 Speeds from beneath her cloudless sky,
 To autumn or to spring.

Sweet is the infant's waking smile,
 And sweet the old man's rest— 10
 But middle age by no fond wile,
 No soothing calm is blest.

Still in the world's hot restless gleam
 She plies her weary task,
 While vainly for some pleasant dream
 Her wandering glances ask.—

O shame upon thee, listless heart,
 So sad a sigh to heave,
 As if thy SAVIOUR had no part
 In thoughts, that make thee grieve. 20

As if along His lonesome way
 He had not borne for thee
 Sad languors through the summer day,
 Storms on the wintry sea.

Youth's lightning-flash of joy secure
 Pass'd seldom o'er His spright, -
 A well of serious thought and pure,
 Too deep for earthly light.

No spring was His—no fairy gleam—
 For He by trial knew 30
 How cold and bare what mortals dream,
 To worlds where all is true.

Then grudge not thou the anguish keen
 Which makes thee like thy LOUD,
 And learn to quit with eye serene
 Thy youth's ideal hoard.

Thy treasur'd hopes and raptures high—
 Unmurmuring let them go,
 Nor grieve the bliss should quickly fly
 Which CHRIST disdain'd to know. 40

Thou shalt have joy in sadness soon ;
 The pure, calm hope be thine,
 Which brightens, like the eastern moon,
 As day's wild lights decline.

Thus souls, by nature pitch'd too high,
 By sufferings plung'd too low,
 Meet in the Church's middle sky,
 Half way 'twixt joy and woe,

To practise there the soothing lay
 That sorrow best relieves : 50
 Thankful for all God takes away,
 Humbled by all He gives.

ST. BARNABAS

The von of consolation, a Lev it c.—Acts iv. 36.

THE world's a room of sickness, where each
 heart
 Knows its own anguish and unrest ;
The truest wisdom there, and noblest art,
 Is his, who skills of comfort best ;
 Whom by the softest step and gentlest tone
 Enfeebled spirits own,
 And love to raise the languid eye,
 When, like an angel's wing, they feel him fleeting by:—

Feel only—for in silence gently gliding
 Fain would he shun both ear and sight, 10
 Twixt Prayer and watchful Love his heart dividing,
 A nursing-father day and night.

Such were the tender arms, where eradled lay,
 In her sweet natal day,
 The Church of JESUS ; such the love
 He to His ehosen taught for His dear widow'd Dove.

Warm'd underneath the Comforter's safe wing.
 They spread th' endearing warmth around :
 Mourners, speed here your broken hearts to bring,
 Here healing dewes and balms abound : 20
 Here are soft hands that cannot bless in vain,
 By trial taught your pain :
 Here loving hearts, that daily know
 The heavenly consolations they on you bestow.

Sweet thoughts are theirs, that breathe serenest
 calms,
 Of holy offerings timely paid,¹
 Of fire from Heaven to bless their votive alms
 And passions on GOD'S altar laid.
 The world to them is clos'd, and now they shine
 With rays of love divine, 30
 Through darkest nooks of this dull earth
 Pouring, in showery times, their glow of " quiet mirth."

New hearts before their Saviour's feet to lay,
 This is their first, their dearest joy :
 Their next, from heart to heart to clear the way²

For mutual love without alloy :

¹ Having land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the Apostles' feet.—Acts iv. 37.

² Barnabas took him, and brought him (Saul) to the Apostles.—Acts ix. 27.

Never so blest, as when in JESUS' roll
 They write some hero-soul.
 More pleas'd upon his brightening road
 To wait, than if their own with all his radiance
 glow'd. 40

O happy spirits, mark'd by God and man
 Their messages of love to bear,¹
 What though long since in Heaven your brows began
 The genial amarant wreath to wear,
 And in th' eternal leisure of calm love
 Ye banquet there above,
 Yet in your sympathetic heart
 We and our earthly griefs may ask and hope a part.

Comfort's true sons ! amid the thoughts of down
 That strew your pillow of repose, 50
 Sure, 'tis one joy to muse, how ye unknown
 By sweet remembrance soothe our woes,
 And how the spark ye lit, of heavenly cheer.
 Lives in our embers here,
 Where'er the Cross is borne with smiles,
 Or lighten'd secretly by Love's endearing wiles:

Where'er one Levite in the temple keeps
 The watch-fire of his midnight prayer,
 Or issuing thence, the eyes of mourners steps
 In heavenly balm, fresh gather'd there ; no

Thus saints, that seem to die in earth's rude strife,

Only win double life :

They have but left our weary ways
To live in memory here, in Heaven by love and praise.

ST. JOHN BAPTIST'S DAY

Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord : and he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers.—Malachi iv. 5, 6.

TWICE in her season of decay
The fallen Church hath felt Elijah's eye
Dart from the wild its piercing ray :
Not keener burns, in the chill morning sky,
The herald star,
Whose torch afar
Shadows and boding night-birds fly.

Methinks we need him once again,
That favour'd seer—but where shall he be found ?
By Cherith's side we seek in vain, 10
In vain on Carmel's green and lonely mound :
Angels no more
From Sinai soar,
On his celestial errands bound.

But wafted to her glorious place
By harmless fire, among the ethereal thrones,
His spirit with a dear embrace
Thee the lov'd harbinger of Jesus owns,
Well-pleas'd to view
Her likeness true, 20
And trace, in thine, her own deep tones.

Deathless himself, he joys with thee
 To commune how a faithful martyr dies.
 And in the blest could envy be,
 He would behold thy wounds with envious eyes,
 Star of our morn,
 Who yet unborn
 Didst guide our hope, where Christ should rise.

Now resting from your jealous care
 For sinners, such as Eden cannot know, 30
 Ye pour for us your mingled prayer,
 No anxious fear to damp Affection's glow,
 Love draws a cloud
 From you to shroud
 Rebellion's mystery here below.

And since we see, and not afar,
 The twilight of the great and dreadful day,
 Why linger, till Elijah's car
 Stoop from the clouds ? Why sleep ye ? rise and pray,
 Ye heralds seal'd 40
 In camp or field
 Your Saviour's banner to display.

Where is the lore the Baptist taught,
 The soul unswerving and the fearless tongue ?
 The much-enduring wisdom, sought
 By lonely prayer the haunted rocks among ?
 Who counts it gain -
 His light should wane,
 So the whole world to Jesus throng ?

¹ The Babe leaped in my womb for joy.—'S'. Luke i. 44.

² He must increase, but I must decrease.—St. John
ill. 30.

Thou Spirit, who the Church didst lend 50
 Her eagle wings, to shelter in the wild,¹
 We pray Thee, ere the Judge descend,
 With flames like these, all bright and undefil'd,
 Her watch-fires light,
 To guide aright
 Our weary souls by earth beguil'd.

So glorious let Thy Pastors shine,
 That by their speaking lives the world may learn
 First filial duty, then divine,-
 That sons to parents, all to Thee may turn ; GO
 And ready prove
 In fires of love,
 At sight of Thee, for ay to burn.

ST. PETER'S DAY

When Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping.—Acts xii. 0.

THOU thrice denied, yet thrice belov'd,³
 Watch by Thine own forgiven friend ;
 In sharpest perils faithful prov'd,
 Let his soul love Thee to the end.

² He shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers.—Malachi iv. C.

To turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just; to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.—St. Luke i. 17.

³ St. John xxi. 15-17.

The prayer is heard—else why so deep
 His slumber on the eve of death ?
 And wherefore smiles he in his sleep
 As one who drew celestial breath ?

He loves arid is belov'd again—
 Can his soul choose but be at rest ? 10
 Sorrow hath fled away, and Pain
 Dares not invade the guarded nest.

He dearly loves, and not alone :
 For his wing'd thoughts are soaring high
 Where never yet frail heart was known
 To breathe in vain Affection's sigh.

He loves and weeps—but more than tears
 Have seal'd Thy welcome and his love—
 One look lives in him, and endears
 Crosses and wrongs where'er he rove : 20

That gracious chiding look,¹ Thy call
 To win him to himself and Thee,
 Sweetening the sorrow of his fall
 Which else were rued too bitterly.

E'en through the veil of sleep it shines,
 The memory of that kindly glance ;—
 The Angel watching by, divines
 And spares awhile his blissful trance.

Or haply to his native lake
 His vision wafts him back, to talk 30
 With JESUS, ere His flight He take,
 As in that solemn evening walk,

When to the bosom of His friend,
 The Shepherd, lie whose name is Good,
 Did His dear lambs and sheep commend.
 Both bought and nourished with His blood :

Then laid on him th' inverted tree,
 Which firm embrac'd with heart and arm,
 Might cast o'er hope and memory,
 O'er life arid death, its awful charm. 40

With brightening heart he bears it on,
 His passport through the eternal gates,
 To his sweet home—so nearly won,
 He seems, as by the door he waits,

The unexpressive notes to hear
 Of angel song and angel motion,
 Rising and falling on the ear
 Like waves in Joy's unbounded ocean.—

His dream is chang'd—the Tyrant's voice
 Calls to that last of glorious deeds— 50
 But as he rises to rejoice,
 Not Herod but an Angel leads.

He dreams he sees a lamp flash bright,
 Glancing around his prison room—
 But 'tis a gleam of heavenly light
 That fills up all the ample gloom.

The flame, that in a few short years
 Deep through the chambers of the dead
 Shall pierce, and dry the fount of tears,
 Is waving o'er his dungeon-bed. 60

Touch'd he upstarts—his chains unbind -
 Through darksome vault, up massy stair,
 His dizzy, doubting footsteps wind
 To freedom and cool moonlight air.

Then all himself, all joy and calm,
 Though for a while his hand forgo,
 Just as it touch'd, the martyr's palm,
 He turns him to his task below ;

The pastoral staff, the keys of Heaven,
 To wield a while in grey-hair'd might, 70
 Then from his cross to spring forgiven,
 And follow JESUS out of sight.

ST. JAMES'S DAY

Ye shall drink indeed of My cup, and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with : but to sit on My right hand and on My left, is not Mine to give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of My Father.—St. Matthew xx. 23.

SIT down and take thy fill of joy
 At God's right hand, a bidden guest,
 Drink of the cup that cannot cloy,
 Eat of the bread that cannot waste.
 O great Apostle ! rightly now
 Thou readest all thy Saviour meant,
 What time His grave yet gentle brow
 In sweet reproof on thee was bent.

" Seek ye to sit enthron'd by Me ?
 " Alas ! ye know not what ye ask, 10
 " The first in shame and agony,
 " The lowest in the meanest task—

" Thiis can be yc ? and can ye drink
 " The cup that I in tears must steep,
 " Nor from the¹ 'whelming waters shrink
 " That o'er Me roll so dark and deep ? "

" We can—Thine are we, dearest Lord,
 " In glory and in agony,
 " To do and suffer all Thy word ;
 " Only be Thou for ever nigh."— 20
 " Then be it so—My cup receive,
 " And of My woes baptismal taste :
 " But for the crown, that angels weave
 " For those next Me in glory plac'd,

" I give it not by partial love ;
 " But in My Father's book are writ
 " What names on earth shall lowliest prove,
 " That they in Heaven may highest sit."
 Take up the lesson, O my heart ;
 Thou Lord of meekness, write it there, 30
 Thine own meek self to me impart,
 Thy lofty hope, Thy lowly prayer.

If ever on the mount with Thee
 I seem to soar in vision bright,
 With thoughts of coming agony¹
 Stay Thou the too presumptuous flight:
 Gently along the vale of tears
 Lead me from Tabor's sunbright steep,
 Let me not grudge a few short years 39
 With thee tow'rd Heaven to walk and weep:

¹ St. Matthew xvii. 12.—Likewise shall also the Son of Man suifer of them. (This was just after the Transfiguration.)

Too happy, on my silent path,
 If now and then allow'd, with Thee
 Watching sonic placid holy death,
 Thy secret work of love to see ;
 But, oh ! most happy, should Thy call,
 Thy welcome call, at last be given— 46
 " Come where thou long hast stor'd thy all,
 " Come see thy place prepar'd in Heaven."

ST. BARTHOLOMEW

Jesus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto ihce, I saw thee under the fig-tree, behevest thou ? thou shall see greater things than these.—St. John i. 50.

HOLD up thy mirror to the sun,
 And thou shalt need an eagle's gaze,
 So perfectly the polish'd stone
 Gives back the glory of his rays :

Tuin it, and it shall paint as true
 The soft green of the vernal earth,
 And each small flower of bashful hue,
 That closest hides its lowly birth.

Our mirror is a blessed book,
 Where out from each illumin'd page 10
 We see one glorious Image look
 All eyes to dazzle and engage,

The Son of God : and that indeed
 We see Him as He is, we know,
 Since in the same bright glass we read
 The very life of things below.—

Eye of God's word!¹ where'er we turn
 Ever upon us ! thy keen gaze
 Can all the depths of sin discern,
 Unravel every bosom's maze : 2u

Who that has felt thy glance of dread
 Thrill through his heart's remotest cells,
 About his path, about his bed,
 Can doubt what spirit in thee dwells ?

" What word is this ? Whence know'st thou me ? "
 All wondering cries the humbled heart,
 To hear thee that deep mystery,
 The knowledge of itself, impart.

The veil is rais'd ; who runs may read,
 By its own light the truth is seen, 30
 And soon the Israelite indeed
 Bows down t' adore the Nazarene.

So did Nathanael, guileless man,
 At once, not shame-fac'd or afraid,
 Owing Him God, who so could scan
 His musings in the lonely shade ;

In his own pleasant fig-tree's shade,
 Which by his household fountain grew,
 Where at noon-day his prayer he made
 To know God better than he knew. 40

¹ The position before us is, that we ourselves, and such as we, are the very persons whom Scripture speaks of, and to whom, as men, in every variety of persuasive form, it makes its condescending though celestial appeal. The point worthy of observation is, to note how a book of the description and the compass which we have represented Scripture to be, possesses this versatility of power ; this eye, like that of a portrait, uniformly fixed upon us, turn where we will.—Miller's Bampton Lecturer, p. 128

Oh ! happy hours of heavenward thought !
 How richly crown'd ! how well improv'd !
 In musing oVr the Law he taught,
 In waiting for the Lord he lov'd.

We must not mar with earthly praise
 What God's approving word hath seal'd ;
 Enough, if right our feeble lays
 Take up the promise He reveal'd ;

" The child-like faith, that asks not sight,
 " Waits not for wonder or for sign, 50
 " Believes, because it loves, aright—
 " Shall see things greater, things divine.

" Heaven to that gaze shall open wide,
 " And brightest angels to and fro
 " On messages of love shall glide
 " "Twixt God above and Christ below."

So still the guileless man is blest,
 To him all crooked paths are straight,
 Him on his way to endless rest
 Fresh, ever-growing strengths await.¹ 60

God's witnesses, a glorious host,
 Compass him daily like a cloud ;
 Martyrs and seers, the sav'd and lost,
 Mercies and judgements cry aloud.

Yet shall to him the still small voice,
 That first into his bosom found
 A way, and fix'd his wavering choice,
 Nearest and dearest ever sound.

¹ They go from strength to strength.—Psalms Ixxxiv. 7.

ST. MATTHEW

And after these things He went forth, and aw a publican, named Lfr?, sitting at the receipt of custom • and He said unto tnm, Follow Me. And he left all, rose up, and followed Him,—St. Luke v. 27, 28.

YE hermits blest, ye holy maids,
 The nearest Heaven on earth,
 Who talk with God in shadowy glades,
 Free from rude care and mirth ;
 To whom some viewless teacher brings
 The secret lore of rural things,
 The moral of each fleeting cloud and gale,
 The whispers from above, that haunt the twilight
 vale :

Say, when in pity ye have gaz'd
 On the wrcath'd smoke afar, 10
 That o'er some town, like mist uprais'd,
 Hung hiding sun and star,
 Then as ye turn'd your weary eye
 To the green earth and open sky,
 Were ye not fain to doubt how Faith could dwell
 Amid that dreary glare, in this world's citadel ?

But Love's a flower that will not die
 For lack of leafy screen,
 And Christian Hope can cheer the eye
 That ne'er saw vernal green ; 20
 Then be ye sure that Love can bless
 E'en in this crowded loneliness,
 Where ever-moving myriads seem to say,
 Go—thou art naught to us, nor we to thee—
 away !

There arc in this loud stunning tide
 Of human care and crime.
 With whom the melodies abide
 Of th' everlasting chime ;
 Who carry music in their heart
 Through dusky lane and wrangling mart,
 Plying their daily task with busier feet, 3i
 Because their secret souls a holy strain repeat.

How sweet to them, in such brief rest
 As thronging cares afford,
 In thought to wander, fancy-blest,
 To where their gracious Lord,
 In vain, to win proud Pharisees,
 Spake, and was heard by fell disease ¹—
 But not in vain, beside yon breezy lake,
 Bade the meek Publican his gainful seat forsake:

At once he rose, and left his gold ; 41
 His treasure and his heart
 Transferr'd, where he shall safe behold
 Earth and her idols part;
 While he beside his endless store
 Shall sit, and floods unceasing pour
 Of Christ's true riches o'er all time and space,
 First angel of His Church, first steward of His Grace.

Nor can ye not delight to think -
 Where He vouchsaf'd to eat, 50
 How the Most Holy did not shrank
 From touch of sinner's meat ;

¹ It seems from St. Matthew ix. 8, 9, that the calling of Levi took place immediately after the healing of the paralytic in the presence of the Pharisees.

St. Matthew ix. 10.

216 ST. MICHAEL AND ALL ANGELS

What worldly hearts and hearts impure
Went with Him through the rich man's door.
That we might learn of Him lost souls to love.
And view His least and worst with hope to meet above.

These gracious lines shed Gospel light
On Mammon's gloomiest cells,
As on some city's cheerless night
The tide of sun-rise swells, 60
Till tower, and dome, and bridge-way proud
Are mantled with a golden cloud.
And to wise hearts this certain hope is given ;
" No mist that man may raise, shall hide the eye of Heaven."

And oh ! if e'en on Babel shine
Such gleams of Paradise,
Should not their peace be peace divine,
Who day by day arise
To look on clearer heavens, and scan
The work of God untouch'd by man ? 70
Shame on us, who about us Babel bear,
And live in Paradise, as if God was not there !

ST. MICHAEL AND ALL ANGELS

Are they no' all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation ?—Hebrews i. 14.

YE stars that round the Sun of righteousness
In glorious order roll,
With harps for ever strung, ready to bless
God for each rescued soul,

Ye eagle spirits, that build in light divine,
 Oh ! think of us to-day,
 Faint warblers of this earth, that would combine
 Our trembling notes with your accepted lay.

Your amarant wreaths were earn'd ; and homeward all,

Flush'd with victorious might, 10
 Ye might have sped to keep high festival,
 And revel in the light;

But meeting us, weak worldlings, on our way,
 Tired ere the fight begun,

Ye turnVI to help us in th' unequal fray,
 Remembering Whose we were, how dearly won •

Remembering Bethlehem, and that glorious night
 When ye, who used to soar

Diverse along all space in fiery ight,
 Came thronging to adore 20

Your God new-born, and made a sinner's child ;
 As if the stars should leave

Their stations in the far ethereal wild,
 And round the sun a radiant circle weave.

Nor less your lay of triumph greeted fair
 Our Champion and your King,

In that first strife, whence Satan in despair
 Sunk down on scathed wing :

Alone He fasted, and alone He fought;
 But when His toils were o'er, 30

Ye to the sacred Hermit duteous brought
 Banquet and hymn, your Eden's festal store.

Ye too, when lowest in th' abyss of woe
 He plung'd to save His sheep,

Were leaning from your golden thrones to know
 The secrets of that deep :

But clouds were on His sorrow : one alone
 His agonizing call
 Sumrn'd from Heaven, to still that bitterest groan,
 And comfort Him, the Comforter of all. 40

Oh ! highest favoured of all Spirits create,
 (If right of thee we deem)
 How didst thou glide on brightening wing elate
 To meet th' unclouded beam
 Of Jesus from the couch of darkness rising !
 How swell'd thine anthem's sound,
 With fear and mightier joy weak hearts surprising,
 " Your God is risen, and may not here be found ! "

Pass a few days, and this dull darkling globe
 Must yield Him from her sight;— so
 Brighter and brighter streams His glory-robe,
 And He is lost in light.
 Then, when through yonder everlasting arch,
 Ye in innumerable choir
 Pour'd, heralding Messiah's conquering march,
 Linger'd around His skirts two forms of fire :

With us they stay'd, high warning to impart;
 " The Christ shall come again
 " E'en as He goes ; with the same human heart,
 " With the same godlike train."— 60
 Oh ! jealous God ! how could a sinner dare
 Think on that dreadful day,
 But that with all Thy wounds Thou wilt be there,
 And all our angel friends to bring Thee on Thy way ?

Since to Thy little ones is given such grace,
 That they who nearest stand
 Always to God in Heaven, and see His face,
 Go forth at His command,
 To wait around our path in weal or woe,
 As erst upon our King, 70
 Set Thy baptismal seal upon our brow,
 And waft us heavenward with enfolding wing :

Grant, Lord, that when around th' expiring world
 Our seraph guardians wait,
 While on her death-bed, ere to ruin hurl'd,
 She owns Thee, all too late,
 They to their charge may turn, and thankful see
 Thy mark upon us still;
 Then all together rise, and reign with Thee, 79
 And #11 their holy joy o'er contrite hearts fulfil!

ST. LUKE

Luke, the beloved physician, and Demas, greet you.—
 Colossians iv. 14.

Demas hath forsaken me, having loved this present world. . . . Only Luke is with me.—2 Tim. iv. 10, 11.

Two clouds before the summer gale
 In equal race fleet o'er the sky :
 Two flowers, when wintry blasts assail,
 Together pine, together die.

But two capricious human hearts—
 No sage's rod may track their ways,
 No eye pursue their lawless starts
 Along their wild self-chosen maze.

He only, by whose sovereign hand
 E'en sinners for the evil day¹ 10
 Were made—who rules the w^orld He plann'd,
 Turning our worst His own good way ;

He only can the cause reveal,
 Why, at the same fond bosom fed,
 Taught in the self-same lap to kneel
 Till the same prayer were duly said,
 Brothers in blood and nurture too,
 Aliens in heart so oft should prove ;
 One lose, the other keep, Heaven's clue ;
 One dwell in wrath, and one in love. 20

He only knows,—for He can read
 The mystery of the wicked heart,—
 Why vainly oft our arrows speed
 When aim'd with most unerring art;
 While from some rude and powerless arm
 A random shaft in season sent
 Shall light upon some lurking harm,
 And work some wonder little meant.

Doubt we, how souls so wanton change,
 Leaving their own experienc'd rest ? 30
 Need not around the world to range ;
 One narrow cell may teach us best.

Look in, and see Christ's chosen saint
 In triumph wear his Christ-like chain ;
 No fear lest he should swerve or faint ;
 " His life is Christ, his death is gain." ²

¹ The Lord hath made all things for Himself: yea, even the wicked for the day of evil.—Proverbs xvi. 4.

² Philippians i. 21.

Two converts, watching by his side,
 Alike his love and greetings share ;
 Luke the belov'd, the sick soul's guide,
 And Demas, nam'd in faltering prayer. 10

Pass a few years—look in once more—
 The saint is in his bonds again ;
 Save that his hopes more boldly soar,¹
 He and his lot unchang'd remain.

But only Luke is with him now :—
 Alas ! that e'en the martyr's cell,
 Heaven's very gate, should scope allow
 For the false world's seducing spell.

'Tis sad—but yet 'tis well, be sure,
 We on the sight should muse awhile, so
 Nor deem our shelter all secure
 E'en in the Church's holiest aisle.

Vainly before the shrine he bends,
 Who knows not the true pilgrim's part:
 The martyr's cell no safety lends
 To him, who wants the martyr's heart.

But if there be, who follows Paul
 As Paul his Lord, in life and death,
 Where'er an aching heart may call,
 Ready to speed and take no breath ; 60

¹ In the Epistle to the Philippians, " I know that I shall abide and continue with you all : ... I count not myself to have apprehended."—Ch. i. 25 ; in. 13.

Jn 2 Timothy, " I have finished my course," etc.—Ch. iv. 7, 8.

Whose joy is, to the wandering sheep
 To tell of the great Shepherd's love;¹
 To learn of mourners while they weep
 The music that makes mirth above;

Who makes the Saviour all his theme,
 The Gospel all his pride and praise—
 Approach: for thou canst feel the gleam
 That round the martyr's death-bed plays :

Thou hast an ear for angels' songs,
 A breath the Gospel trump to fill, 70
 And taught by thee the Church prolongs
 Her hymns of high thanksgiving still.²

Ah ! dearest mother, since too oft
 The world yet wins some Denias frail
 E'en from thine arms, so kind and soft,
 May thy tried comforts never fail!

When faithless ones forsake thy wing,
 Be it vouchsaf'd thee still to see
 Thy true, fond nurslings closer cling,
 Cling closer to their Lord and thee. 80

¹ The Gospel of St. Luke abounds most in such passages as the parable of the lost sheep, which display God's mercy to penitent sinners.

² The Christian hymns are all in St. Luke: the Magnificat, Benedictus, and Nunc Dumttis.

ST. SIMON AND ST. JUDE

That ye should earnestly contend for¹ the faith which was once delivered unto the saints.—St. Jude 3.

SEEST thou, how tearful and alone,
And drooping like a wounded dove,
The Cross in sight, but Jesus gone,
The widow'd Church is fain to rove ?

Who is at hand that loves the Lord ? -
Make haste, and take her home, and bring
Thine household choir, in true accord
Their soothing hymns for her to sing.

Soft on her fluttering heart shall breathe
The fragrance of that genial isle, 10
There she may weave her funeral wreath,
And to her own sad music smile.

The Spirit of the dying Son
Is there, and fills the holy place
With records sweet of duties done,
Of pardoi'd foes, and cherish'd grace.

And as of old by two and two³
His herald saints the Saviour sent
To soften hearts like morning dew,
Where He to shine in mercy meant; 20

¹ tirayuvifraGcu.: " be very anxious for it " : " feel for it as for a friend in jeopardy."

² Then saith He to the disciple, Behold thy mother !
And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home.—St. John xix. 27.

³ St. Mark vi. 7; St. Luke x. 1.

So evermore He deems His Name
 Best honoured and His way prepar'd,
 When watching by His altar-flame
 He sees His servants duly pair'd.

He loves when age and youth are met,
 Fervent old age and youth serene,
 Their high and low in concord set
 For sacred song, Joy's golden mean.

He loves when some clear soaring mind
 Is drawn by mutual piety 30
 To simple souls and unrefin'd,
 Who in life's shadiest covert lie.

Or if perchance a sadden'd heart
 That once was gay and felt the spring,
 Cons slowly o'er its alter'd part,
 In sorrow and remorse to sing,

Thy gracious care will send that way
 Some spirit full of glee, yet taught
 To bear the sight of dull decay,
 And nurse it with all-pitying thought ;

Cheerful as soaring lark, and mild 41
 As evening blackbird's full-ton'd lay,
 When the relenting sun has smil'd
 Bright through a whole December day.

These are the tones to brace and cheer
 The lonely watcher of the fold,
 When nights are dark, and foemen near,
 When visions fade and hearts grow cold.

How timely then a comrade's song
 Comes floating on the mountain air, 50
 And bids thee yet be bold and strong—
 Fancy may die, but Faith is there.

ALL SAINTS' DAY

*Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads.—
 Revelation vii. 3.*

WHY blow'st thou not, thou wintry wind,
 Now every leaf is brown and sere,
 And idly droops, to thee resign'd,
 The fading ehaplet of the year ?
 Yet wears the pure aerial sky
 lier summer veil, half drawn on high,
 Of silvery haze, and dark and still
 The shadows sleep on every slanting hill.

How quiet shows the woodland scene !
 Each flower and tree, its duty done, 10
 Reposing in decay serene,
 Like weary men when age is won,
 Such calm old age as conscience pure
 And self-commanding hearts ensure,
 Waiting their summons to the sky,
 Content to live, but not afraid to die.

Sure if our eyes were purg'd to trace
 God's unseen armies hovering round,
 We should behold by angels' grace
 The four strong winds of Heaven fast bound, 20

Their downward sweep a moment stay'd
 On ocean cove and forest glade,
 Till the last flower of autumn shed
 Her funeral odours on her dying bed.

So in Thine awful armoury, Lord,
 The lightnings of the judgement day
 Pause yet awhile, in mercy stor'd,
 Till willing hearts wear quite away
 Their earthly stains ; and spotless shine 30
 On every brow in light divine
 The Cross by angel hands impress'd,
 The seal of glory won and pledge of promis'd rest.

Little they dream, those haughty souls
 Whom empires own with bended knee,
 What lowly fate their own controls,
 Together link'd by Heaven's decree ;—
 As bloodhounds hush their baying wild
 To wanton with some fearless child,
 So Famine waits, and War with greedy eyes,
 Till some repenting heart be ready for the skies.

Think ye the spires that glow so bright 41
 In front of yonder setting sun,
 Stand by their own unshaken might ?
 No—where th' upholding grace is won,
 We dare not ask, nor Heaven would tell,
 But sure from many a hidden dell,
 From many a rural nook unthought of there,
 Rises for that proud world the saints' prevailing
 prayer.

On Champions blest, in Jesus' name,
 Short be your strife, your triumph full, 60
 Till every heart have caught your flame,
 And, lighten'd of the world's misrule,

Ye soar those elder saints to meet,
 Gather'd long since at Jesus' feet,
 No world of passions to destroy,
 Your prayers and struggles o'er, your task all praise and joy. 5n

HOLY COMMUNION

O GOD of Mercy, God of Might,
 How should pale sinners bear the sight,
 If, as Thy power is surely here,
 Thine open glory should appear ?

For now Thy people are allow'd
 To scale the mount and pierce the cloud,
 And Faith may feed her eager view
 With wonders Sinai never knew.

Fresh from th' atoning sacrifice
 The world's Creator bleeding lies, 10
 That man, His foe, by whom He bled,
 May take Him for his daily bread.

O agony of wavering thought
 When sinners first so near are brought !
 " It is my Maker—dare I stay ?
 " My Saviour—dare I turn away ? "

Thus while the storm is high within
 'Twixt love of Christ and fear of sin,
 Who can express the soothing charm,
 To feel thy kind upholding arm, 20

My mother Church ? and hear thee tell
 Of a world lost, yet lov'd so well,
 That He, by whom the angels live,
 His only Son for her would give ?¹

And doubt we yet ? Thou call'st again ;
 A lower still, a sweeter strain ;
 A voice from Mercy's inmost shrine,
 The very breath of Love divine.

Whispering it says to each apart,
 " Come unto Me, thou trembling heart " ;² 30
 And we must hope, so sweet the tone,
 The precious words are all our own.

Hear them, kind Saviour—hear Thy spouse
 Low at Thy feet renew her vows ;
 Thine own dear promise she would plead
 For us her true though fallen seed.

She pleads by all Thy mercies, told
 Thy chosen witnesses of old,
 Love's heralds sent to man forgiven,
 One from the Cross, and one from Heaven.³ 40

This, of true Penitents the chief,
 To the lost spirit brings relief,
 Lifting on high th' adored Name :—
 " Sinners to save, Christ Jesus came." ⁴

¹ " So God loved the world, that He gave His only-begotten Son." See the sentences in the Communion Service, after the Confession.

² " Come unto Me, all that travail and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you."

³ St. Paul and St. John.

⁴ This is a true saying, and worthy of all men to be received, That Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

That, dearest of Thy bosom Friends,
 Into the wavering heart descends :—
 " What ? fall'n again ? yet eheeiful rise,¹
 " Thine Intercessor never dies."

The eye of Faith, that waxes bright
 Each moment by Thine altar's light, 50
 Sees them e'en now : they still abide
 In mystery kneeling at our side ;

And with them every spirit blest,
 From realms of triumph or of rest,
 From Him who saw creation's morn,
 Of all Thine angels eldest born,

To the poor babe, who died to-day,
^{1p}ake part in our thanksgiving lay.
 Watching the tearful joy and calm, 59
 While sinners taste Thine heavenly balm.

Sweet awful hour ! the only sound
 One gentle footstep gliding round,
 Offering by turns on Jesus' part
 The Cross to every hand and heart.

Refresh us, Lord, to hold it fast;
 And when Thy veil is drawn at last.
 Let us depart where shadows cease,
 With words of blessing and of peace.

¹ kt If any man sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous."

HOLY BAPTISM

WHERE is it mothers learn their love ?—
 In every Church a fountain springs
 O'er which th' eternal Dove
 Hovers on softest wings.

What sparkles in that lucid flood
 Is water, by gross mortals ey'd :
 But seen by Faith, 'tis blood
 Out of a dear Friend's side.

A few calm words of faith and prayer,
 A few bright drops of holy dew, 10
 Shall work a wonder there
 Earth's charmers never knew.

O happy arms, where cradled lies,
 And ready for the Lord's embrace,
 That precious sacrifice,
 The darling of His grace !

Blest eyes, that see the smiling gleam
 Upon the slumbering features glow.
 When the life-giving stream
 Touches the tender brow ! 20

Or when the holy cross is sign'd,
 And the young soldier duly sworn
 . With true and fearless mind
 To serve the Virgin-born.

But happiest ye, who seal'd and blest
 Back to your arms your treasure take,
 With Jesus' mark impress'd
 To nurse for Jesus' sake :

To whom—as if in hallow'd air
Ye knelt before some awful shrine— 30
His innocent gestures wear
A meaning half divine :

By whom Love's daily touch is seen
In strengthening form and freshening hue,
In the lix'd brow serene,
The deep yet eager view.—

Who taught thy pure and even breath
To come and go with such sweet grace ?
Whence thy reposing Faith,
Though in our frail embrace ? 40

O tender gem, and full of Heaven !
Not in the twilight stars on high,
Not in moist flowers at even
See we our God so nigh.

Sweet one, make haste and know Him too,
Thine own adopting Father love,
That like thine earliest dew
Thy dying sweets may prove.

CATECHISM

OH ! say not, dream not, heavenly notes
To childish ears are vain,
That the young mind at random floats,
And cannot reach the strain.

Dim or unheard, the words may fall,
And yet the heaven-taught mind
May learn the sacred air, and all
The harmony unwind.

In His own words we Christ adore,
 But angels, as we speak,
 Higher above our meaning soar
 Than we o'er children weak : 40

And yet His words mean more than they,
 And yet He owns their praise :
 Why should we think, He turns away
 From infants' simple lays ?

CONFIRMATION

THE shadow of th' Almighty's cloud
 Calm on the tents of Israel lay,
 While drooping paus'd twelve banners proud,
 Till He arise and lead the way.

Then to the desert breeze unroll'd,
 Cheerly the waving pennons fly,
 Lion or eagle—each bright fold
 A lodestar to a warrior's eye.

So should Thy champions, ere the strife,
 By holy hands o'ershadow'd kneel, 10
 So, fearless for their charmed life,
 Bear, to the end, Thy Spirit's seal.

Steady and pure as stars that beam
 In middle heaven, all mist above,
 Seen deepest in the frozen stream :—
 Such is their high courageous love.

And soft as pure, and warm as bright,
 They brood upon life's peaceful hour,
 As if the Dove that guides their flight 19
 Shook from her plumes a downy shower.

Spirit of might and sweetness too !
 Now leading on the wars of God,
 Now to green isles of shade and dew
 Turning the waste Thy people trod ;

Draw, Holy Ghost, Thy seven-fold veil
 Between us and the fires of youth ;
 Breathe, Holy Ghost, Thy freshening gale,
 Our fever'd brow in age to soothe.

And oft as sin and sorrow tire,
 The hallow'd hour do Thou renew, 30
 When beckon'd up the awful choir
 By pastoral hands, toward Thee we drew ;

When trembling at the sacred rail
 We hid our eyes and held our breath,
 Felt Thee how strong, our hearts how fraJ
 And long'd to own Thee to the death.

For ever on our souls be trac'd
 That blessing dear, that dove-like hand,
 A sheltering rock in Memory's waste,
 O'er-shadowing all the weary land. 40

MATRIMONY

THERE is an awe in mortals' joy,
 A deep mysterious fear
 Half of the heart will still employ,
 As if we drew too near
 To Eden's portal, and those fires
 That bicker round in wavy spires,
 Forbidding, to our frail desires,
 What cost us once so dear.

Whose tears from age to age arc shed
 O'er sainted sons untimely dead,
 If e'er we charm a soul in pain,
 Thine is the key-note of our strain.

How sweet with thee to lift the latch,
 Where Faith has kept her midnight watch,
 Smiling on woe : with thee to kneel,
 Where fix'd, as if one prayer could heal, 20
 She listens, till her pale eye glow
 With joy, wild health can never know,
 And each calm feature, ere we read,
 Speaks, silently, thy glorious Creed.

Such have I seen : and while they pour'd
 Their hearts in every contrite word,
 How have I rather long'd to kneel
 And ask of them sweet pardon's seal !
 How bless'd the heavenly music brought
 By thee to aid my faltering thought ! 30
 " Peace " ere we kneel, and when we cease
 To pray, the farewell word is, " Peace."

I came again : the place was bright
 " With something of celestial light "—
 A simple Altar by the bed
 For high Communion meetly spread,
 Chalice, and plate, and snowy vest.—
 We ate and drank : then calmly blest,
 All mourners, one with dying breath,
 We sate and talk'd of Jesus' death. 40

Once more I came : the silent room
 Was veil'd in sadly-soothing gloom,
 And ready for her last abode
 The pale form like a lily show'd,

By virgin fingers duly spread,
 And priz'd for love of summer fled.
 The light from those soft-smiling eyes
 Had fled to its parent skies.

O soothe us, haunt us, night and day,
 Ye gentle Spirits far away, 50
 With whom we shar'd the cup of grace,
 Then parted ; ye to Christ's embrace,
 We to the lonesome world again,
 Yet mindful of th' unearthly strain
 Practis'd with you at Eden's door,
 To be sung on, where Angels soar,
 W^Tith blended voices evermore.

BURIAL OF THE DEAD

And when the Lord saw her, He had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not. And He came and touched the bier : and they that bare him stood still. And He said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise.—St. Luke vn. 13, 14.

WHO says, the wan autumnal sun
 Beams with too faint a smile
 To light up nature's face again,
 And, though the year be on the wane,
 With thoughts of spring the heart beguile ?

Waft him, thou soft September breeze,
 And gently lay him down
 Within some circling woodland wall,
 Where bright leaves, reddening ere they fall,
 Wave gaily o'er the waters brown. 10

And let some graceful arch be there
 With wreathed millions proud,
 With burmsh'd ivy for its screen,
 And moss, that glows as fresh and green
 As though beneath an April cloud.—

Who says the widow's heart must break,
 The childless mother sink ?—
 A kinder truer voice I hear,
 Which e'en beside that mournful bier
 Whence parents' eyes would hopeless shrink,

Bids weep no more—O heart bereft, 21
 How strange, to thee, that sound !
 A widow o'er her only son,
 Feeling more bitterly alone
 Than friends that press officious round.

Yet is the voice of comfort heard,
 For Christ hath touch'd the bier—
 The bearers wait with wondering eye,
 The swelling bosom dares not sigh,
 But all is still, 'twixt hope and fear. 30

E'en such an awful soothing calm
 We sometimes see alight
 On Christian mourners, while they wait
 In silence, by some church-yard gate,
 Their summons to the holy rite.

And such the tones of love, which break
 The stillness of that hour,
 Quelling th' embitter'd spirit's strife—
 " The Resurrection and the Life
 " Am I : believe, and die no more."— 40

Here let him speed : to-day this hallow'd air
Is fragrant with a mother's first and fondest
prayer.

Only let Heaven her fire impart,
No richer incense breathes on e[^]rth :
" A spouse with all a daughter's heart,"
Fresh from the perilous birth, 10
To the great Father lifts her pale glad eye,
Like a reviving flower when storms are hush'd on high.

O what a treasure of sweet thought
Is here ! what hope and joy and love
All in one tender bosom brought,
For the all-gracious Dove
To brood o'er silently, and form for Heaven
Each passionate wish and dream to dear affection given,

Her fluttering heart, too keenly blest,
Would sicken, but she leans on Thee, 20
Sees Thee by faith on Mary's breast,
And breathes serene and free.
Slight tremblings only of her veil declare ¹
Soft answers duly whisper'd to each soothing
prayer.

We are too weak, when Thou dost bless,
To bear the joy—help, Virgin-born !
By Thine own mother's first caress,
That wak'd Thy natal morn !

¹ " When the woman comes to this office, the rubric (as it was altered at the last review) directs that she be decently apparelled, i.e., as the custom and order was formerly, with a white covering or veil" Wheatly on the Common Prayer, c. xiii. sect. i. 8.

And who can blame the mother's fond affright,¹
Who sporting on some giddy height
Her infant sees, and springs with hurried hand
To snatch the rover from the dangerous strand ?

But surer than all words the silent spell
(So Grecian legends tell)
When to her bird, too early scap'd the nest,
She bares her tender breast,
Smiling he turns and spreads his little wing,
There to glide home, there safely cling. 30
So years our mother o'er each truant son,
So softly falls the lay in fear and wrath begun.

Wayward and spoil'd she knows ye : the keen blast,
That brac'd her youth, is past :
The rod of discipline, the robe of shame—
She bears them in your name :
Only return and love. But ye perchance
Are deeper plung'd in sorrow's trance :
Your God forgives, but ye no comfort take Till ye have scourg'd the sins that in your conscience ache. 40

O heavy laden soul! kneel down and hear
Thy penance in calm fear :
With thine own lips to sentence all thy sin ;
Then, by the judge within

244 FORMS OF PRAYER TO BE USED AT SEA

Absolved, in thankful sacrifice to part
For ever with thy sullen heart,
Nor on remorseful thoughts to brood, and stain
The glory of the Cross, forgiven and eheer'd in vain. 48

FORMS OF PRAYER TO BE USED AT SEA

When ihou passest through the waters, I iwll be with thee.—Isaiah xlni. 2.

THE shower of moonlight falls as still and clear
Upon the desert main,
As where sweet flowers some pastoral garden cheer
With fragrance after rain :
The wild winds rustle in the piping shrouds,
As in the quivering trees :
Like summer fields, beneath the shadowy clouds
The yielding waters darken in the breeze.

Thou too art here with thy soft inland tones,
Mother of our new birth ; 10
The lonely ocean learns thy orisons,
And loves thy sacred mirth ;
When storms are high, or when the fires of war
Come lightening round our course,
Thou breath'st a note like music from afar,
Tempering rude hearts with calm angelic force.

Far, far away, the homesick seaman's hoard,
Thy fragrant tokens live,
Like flower-leaves in a precious volume stor'd,
To solace and relieve 20

Now, journeying westward, evermore
 We know the lonely Spouse
By the dear mark her Saviour bore
 Trac'd on her patient brows.

At Rome she wears it, as of old
 Upon th' accursed hill : 10
By monarchs clad in gems and gold,
 She goes a mourner still.

She mourns that tender hearts should bend
 Before a meaner shrine,
 And upon Saint or Arigcl spend
 That love that should be thine.

By day and night her sorrows fall
 Where miscreant hands and rude
 Have stain'd her pure ethereal pall
 With many a martyr's blood. 20

And yearns not her parental heart,
 To hear their secret sighs,
 Upon whose doubting way apart
 Bewildering shadows rise ?

Who to her side in peace would cling,
 But fear to wake, and find
 What they had deem'd her genial wing
 Was Error's soothing blind.

She treasures up each throbbing prayer :
 Come, trembler, come and pour 30
 Into her bosom all thy care,
 For she has balm in store.

Her gentle teaching sweetly blends
 With the clear light of Truth
Th' aerial gleam that Fancy lends
 To solemn thoughts in youth.—

If thou hast lov'd, in hours of gloom,
 To dream the dead are near.
And people all the lonely room
 With guardian spirits dear, 10

Dream on the soothing dream at will :
 The lurid mist is o'er,
That show'd the righteous suffering still
 Upon th' eternal shore.

If with thy heart the strains accord,
 That on His altar-throne
Highest exalt thy glorious Lord,
 Yet leave Him most thine own ;

O come to our Communion Feast :
 There present, in the heart 50
As in the hands, th' eternal Priest
 Will His true self impart.—

Thus, should thy soul misgiving turn
 Back to th' enchanted air,
Solace and warning thou mayst learn
 From all that tempts thee there.

And O ! by all the pangs and fears
 Fraternal spirits know,
When for an elder's shame the tears
 Of wakeful anguish flow, GO

Speak gently of our sister's fall:
 Who knows but gentle love
 May win her at our patient eall
 The surer way to prove ?

KING CHARLES THE MARTYR

This is thankworthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully.—1 St. Peter n. 19.

PRAISE to our pardoning God ! though silent now
 The thunders of the deep prophetic sky,
 Though in our sight no powers of darkness bow
 Before th' Apostles' glorious company ;

The Martyrs' noble army still is ours,
 Far in the North our fallen days have seon
 How in her woe the tenderest spirit towers
 For Jesus' sake in agony serene.

Praise to our God ! not cottage hearths alone,
 • And shades impervious to the proud world's glare, 10
 Such witness yield : a monarch from his throne
 Springs to his Cross and finds his glory there.

Yes : wheresoe'er one trace of thee is found,
 As in the Sacred Land, the shadows fall:
 With beating hearts we roam the haunted ground,
 Lone battle-field, or crumbling prison hall.

And there are aching solitary breasts,
 Whose widow'd walk with thought of thee is cheer'd,
 Our own, our royal Saint: thy memory rests 19
 On many a prayer, the more for thee endear'd.

True son of our dear Mother, early taught
 With her to worship and for her to die,
 Nurs'd in her aisles to more than kingly thought,
 Oft in her solemn hours we dream thee nigh.

For thou didst love to trace her daily lore,
 And where we look for comfort or for calm,
 Over the self-same lines to bend, and pour
 Thy heart with hers in some victorious psalm.

And well did she thy loyal love repay :
 When all forsook, her Angels still were nigh,
 Chain'd and bereft, arid on thy funeral way, 31
 Straight to the Cross she turned thy dying eye.¹

And yearly now, before the Martyrs' King,
 For thee she offers her maternal tears.
 Calls us, like thee, to His dear feet to cling,
 And bury in His wounds our earthly fears.

The Angels hear, and there is mirth in Heaven,
 Fit prelude of the joy, when spirits won
 Like thee to patient Faith, shall rise forgiven,
 And at their Saviour's knees thy bright example
 own. 40

¹ " His Majesty then bade him (Mr. Herbert) withdraw ; for he was about an hour in private with the Bishop (Juxon) : and being called in, the Bishop went to prayer; and reading also the 27th chapter of the Gospel of St. Matthew, which relateth the passion of our Blessed Saviour. The King, after the Service was done, asked the Bishop, if he had made choice of that chapter, being so applicable to his present condition ? The Bishop replied, ' May it please your Gracious Majesty, it is the proper lesson for the day, as appears by the Kalendar ' ; which the King was much affected with, so aptly serving as a seasonable preparation for his death that day."—Herbert's Memoirs, p. 131.

THE RESTORATION OF THE ROYAL FAMILY

And Barzillai said unto the King, How long have I to live, that I should go up with the King unto Jerusalem ?—
2 Sam. xix. :U.

As when the Paschal week is o'er,
Sleeps in the silent aisles no more
The breath of sacred song,
But by the rising Saviour's light
Awaken'd soars in airy flight,
Or deepening rolls along;¹

The while round altar, niche, and shrine,
The funeral evergreens entwine,
And a dark brilliance cast,
The brighter for their hues of gloom, 10
Tokens of Him, who through the tomb
Into high glory pass'd :

Such were the lights and such the strains,
When proudly stream'd o'er Ocean plains
Our own returning Cross ;
For with that triumph seem'd to float
Far on the breeze one dirge-like note
Of orphanhood and loss.

Father and King, O where art thou ?
A greener wreath adorns thy brow, 20
And clearer rays surround ;

¹ The organ is silent in many Churches during Passion week : and in some it is the custom to put up evergreen boughs at Easter as well as at Christmas time.

RESTORATION OF THE ROYAL FAMILY 251

O for one hour of prayer like thine,
To plead before th' all-ruling shrine
For Britain lost and found !

And he,¹ whose mild persuasive voice
Taught us in trials to rejoice,
Most like a faithful dove,
That by some ruin'd homestead builds,
And pours to the forsaken fields
His wonted lay of love : 30

Why comes he not to bear his part,
To lift and guide th' exulting heart ?—
A hand that cannot spare
Lies heavy on his gentle breast:
We wish him health ; he sighs for rest,
And Heaven accepts the prayer.

Yes, go in peace, dear placid spright,
Ill spar'd ; but would we store aright
Thy serious sweet farewell,
We need not grudge thee to the skies, 40
Sure after thee in time to rise,
With thee for ever dwell.

Till then, whene'er with duteous hand,
Year after year, my native Land
Her royal offering brings,
Upon the Altar lays the Crown,
And spreads her robes of old renown
Before the King of Kings,

¹ Read Fell's Life of Hammond, pp. 288-296. Oxford, 1806.

Be some kind spirit, likest thine,
 Ever at hand, with airs divine 50
 The wandering heart to seize ;
 Whispering, " How long hast thou to live,
 " That thou shouldst Hope or Fancy give
 " To flowers or crowns like these ? "

THE ACCESSION

As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee • / will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.—Joshua i. 5.

THE voice that from the glory carne
 To tell how Moses died unseen,
 And waken Joshua's spear of flame
 To victory on the mountains green,
 Its trumpet tones are sounding still,
 When Kings or Parents pass away,
 They greet us with a cheering thrill
 Of power and comfort in decay.

Behind the soft bright summer cloud
 That makes such haste to melt and die, 10
 Our wistful gaze is oft allow'd
 A glimpse of the unchanging sky :
 Let storm and darkness do their worst;
 For the lost dream the heart may ache,
 The heart may ache, but may not burst:
 Heaven will not leave thee nor forsake.

One rock amid the weltering floods,
 One torch in a tempestuous night,
 One changeless pine in fading woods :—
 Such is the thought of Love and Might, 20

True Might and ever-present Love,
 When Death is busy near the throne,
 And Sorrow her keen sting would prove
 On Monarchs orphan'd and alone.

In that lorn hour and desolate,
 Who could endure a crown ? but He,
Who singly bore the world's sad weight,
 Is near, to whisper, " Lean on Me :
 " Thy days of toil, thy nights of care,
 " Sad lonely dreams in crowded hall, 30
 " Darkness within, while pageants glare
 " Around—the Cross supports them all."

O Promise of undying Love !
 While Monarchs seek thee for repose,
 Far in the nameless mountain cove
 Each pastoral heart thy bounty knows.
 Ye, who in place of shepherds true
 Come trembling to their awful trust,
 Lo here the fountain to imbue
 With strength and hope your feeble dust.

Not upon Kings or Priests alone 41
 The power of that dear word is spent ;
 It chants to all in softest tone
 The lowly lesson of Content :
 Heaven's light is pour'd on high and low ;
 To high and low Heaven's Angel spake ;
 " Resign thee to thy weal or woe,
 " I ne'er will leave thee nor forsake."

ORDINATION

After this, the Congregation shall be desired, secretly in their prayers., to make their humble supplications to God for all these things : for the which prayers there shall be silence kept for a space.

After which shall be sung or said by the Bishop (the persons to be ordained Priests all kneeling) ^ Veni, Creator Spintus'."—Rubric in the Office for Ordering of Priests.

'T WAS silence in Thy temple, Lord,
 When slowly through the hallow'd air
 The spreading cloud of incense soar'd,
 Charg'd with the breath of Israel's prayer.

'Twas silence round Thy throne on high,
 When the last wondrous seal unclos'd,¹
 And in the portals of the sky
 Thine armies awfully repos'd.

And this deep pause, that o'er us now
 Is hovering—comes it not of Thee ? 10
 Is it not like a Mother's vow,
 When with her darling on her knee,

She weighs and numbers o'er and o'er
 Love's treasure hid in her fond breast,
 To cull from that exhaustless store
 The dearest blessing and the best ?

¹ When he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in Heaven about the space of half an hour.—Revelation viii. 1.

And where shall Mother's bosom find,
With all its deep love-learned skill,
A prayer so sweetly to her mind,
As, in this sacred hour and still, 20

Is w^rafted from the white-rob'd choir,
Kre yet the pure high-breathed lay,
" Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire,"
Rise floating on its dove-like way.

And when it comes, so deep and clear
The strain, so soft the melting fall,
It seems not to th' entranced ear
Less than Thine own heart-cheering call,

Spirit of Christ—Thine earnest given
That these our prayers are heard, and they,
Who grasp, this hour, the sword of Heaven,
Shall feel Thee on their weary way.

Oft as at morn or soothing eve
Over the Holy Fount they lean,
Their fading garland freshly weave,
Or fan them with Thine airs serene,

Spirit of Light and Truth ! to Thee
We trust them in that musing hour,
Till they, with open heart and free,
Teach all Thy word in all its power. 40

When foemen watch their tents by night,
And mists hang wide o'er moor and fell,
Spirit of Counsel and of Might,
Their pastoral warfare guide Thou well.

And O ! when worn and tir'd they sigh
With that more fearful war within,
When Passion's storms are loud and high,
And brooding o'er remember'd sin

The heart dies down—O mightiest then,
Come ever true, come ever near, 50
And wake their slumbering love again,
Spirit of God's most holy Fear!

The "World's Classics"

THE best recommendation of The World's Classics is the books themselves, which have earned unstinted praise from critics and all classes of the public. Some two million copies have been sold, and of the volumes already published nearly one-half have gone into a second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, or tenth impression. It is only possible to give so much for the money when large sales are certain. The clearness of the type, the quality of the paper, the size of the page, the printing, and the binding—from the cheapest to the best—cannot fail to commend themselves to all who love good literature presented in worthy form. That a high standard is insisted upon is proved by the list of books already published and of those on the eve of publication. A great feature is the brief critical introductions written by leading authorities of the day. The volumes of The World's Classics are obtainable, bound in cloth and leather, as given on page i; and special attention is directed to the sultan-red limp leather style for presentation.

The Pocket Edition is printed on thin opaque paper, by means of which the bulk is greatly reduced.

January, 1918.
