THE BRITISH NATIONAL BIBLIOGRAPHY ANNUAL VOLUME 1952

The British National Bibliography is also published weekly giving in subject order the new publications of the week with an author list each week and, in the last issue of each month, a full index of authors, titles and subjects for the month. Cumulations are published every three, six, nine and twelve months, providing an up-to-date reference service for British books.

The value of this publication lies in its authority, in the full and accurate description of each book, prepared by expert bibliographers, and in the detailed subject indexing which not only enables the literature of a subject to be examined as a whole, but also facilitates the finding of books on the most specific subjects.

THE BRITISH NATIONAL BIBLIOGRAPHY ANNUAL VOLUME 1952

PREFACE

The objects of the British National Bibliography are to list every new work published in Great Britain, to describe each work in detail and to give the subject matter of each work as precisely as possible. The work is carried out at the British Museum, where copies of all new books must be deposited by law. It is done by a team of fully qualified bibliographers with the resources of the British Museum at its disposal and every endeavour is made to ensure the accuracy of the information given.

A few classes of publications are intentionally excluded, they are :

(a) Cheap novelettes

(b) Periodicals (except that the first issue of a new periodical and the first issue of a periodical under a new title are included)

(c) Musical scores

(d) Maps

(e) The less significant Government publications.

Hints for tracing information

This bibliography is in two sections: in the first, or Subject Section, the entries are arranged according to a system of subject classification ; in the second the entries are arranged alphabetically. The fullest information about a book is given in the Subject Section including the fullest form of an author's name, the full title, the number of pages, the kind of illustrations, the size and the series as well as the edition, publisher, price and date of publication. A shorter entry is given in the Alphabetical Section under the name of the author, including a short title, edition, publisher and price as well as the name of the editor or translator, if there is one.

Author

When the author of a book is known look under his name in the Alphabetical Section. The information given here will be adequate for most purposes. If, on the other hand, the fullest information about a book is required, turn to the entry in the Subject Section. This is easily found from the reference number at the end of the author entry. This reference number has two parts. The first is the part to be noted and is read as a decimal number. Thus, for example, the number 621 will be found after the number 598.2942 and before the number 621.384. A very short acquaintance will make the order of the reference numbers simple to follow. A few signs are also used whose order will become familiar. They are the colon (:), a stroke (/) and square brackets ([1]). Thus 621:620 will be found immediately after 621 and before 621.0 ; 613/614 will be found before 613 ; and 621.[1] will be found after 621.0 and before 621.1. The second part of the reference number—the number in round brackets beginning (B52-)—is the book's serial number. Serial numbers identify every British publication recorded in the British National Bibliography.

In the case of compilations of works by several authors, the entry in the Alphabetical Section may be found under the editor or compiler. Sometimes entries are made under the names of countries and cities which are considered to be the authors of their official publications. Transactions, reports and journals of societies are entered under the name of the society, and anonymous works, periodicals and some year books under the first word of the title which is not an article.

Title, Series, Editors and Translators

Entries are made in the Alphabetical Section under the titles of all works unless the subject of the work is clear from the title, so that if you do not know the author of a work it can be found by looking up its title or its subject in the Alphabetical Section.

If you do not know the author or the title or the subject, it may still be possible to trace the work if the name of its editor or translator or series is known.

Subject

One of the most important aspects of this bibliography is its exhaustive index to the subject matter of books. The Subject Section itself displays the works on a subject in such a way that the whole field of literature on a subject can be easily perused. The Alphabetical Section lists all the subjects found in the Subject

Section and shows by means of the code number where books on that subject are listed in the Subject Section. For example, in the Index Section under the word Africa will be found a full list of the places in the Subject Section where books in any way concerned with Africa may be found, thus:

Africa	916
Africa: Anthropology	572 96
Africa: Bird shooting	799.24096
Africa: Christian missions	276
Africa: Folk tales	398.21096
Africa: History	960
Africa: Labour supply	331.112096
Africa: Livestock	636.096
Africa: Mammals	599.096
Africa: Priesthood: Church polity	262.14096
Africa: Religions	299.6
Africa: Working conditions	331.8096

If you turn to the number 960 (which is the decimal code number given against the entry Africa: History) you will find a list of books dealing with the history of Africa and of the individual territories which comprise it.

Explanation of abbreviations

In order that the fullest description of each book may be given concisely in the Subject Section certain abbreviations and conventions have been used. The chief of these are given below and it will be found that, if they are understood, a very precise picture of a work can be formulated, and its suitability to a special need satisfactorily assessed.

Author

The name of the author, which appears at the head of each entry, is not repeated after the title of the book. (In exceptional cases where it differs seriously from the name at the head it is repeated.)

Publisher and Place of Publication

The place of publication is always given before the name of the publisher thus:

Readiness for school beginners. London, Harrap.

Where there are two publishers they are shown thus:

The College Board: its first fifty years. New York, Columbia U.P.; London, Oxford U.P.

Date of Publication

Every effort is made to ascertain the exact month and year of publication of a work and when ascertained they are shown thus:

Mar 1952

If the precise date of publication cannot be ascertained the following conventions are used:

Mar [1952] the month and year of publication have been supplied by the publisher but the year does not appear in the imprint of the book itself.

[^{d}Mar] 1952 the month of publication has not been supplied by the publisher but the year of publication appears in the imprint of the book itself. [^{d}Mar] means deposited in the British Museum in March.

[^{d}Mar 1952] neither the month nor year of publication has been supplied by the publisher and the year of publication does not appear in the imprint of the book itself. [^{d}Mar 1952] means deposited in the British Museum in March, 1952.

1951 [i.e. Mar 1952] means that the book bears the date 1951 in its imprint but was actually published in March 1952.

Collation

The collation is that part of the entry which describes the physical make-up of the book and is in italic type at the end of the entry. The abbreviations used are:

v.	volumes.
p.	pages. The preliminary pages, if they are separately numbered, are shown separately. For example, vii,222*p.* means seven preliminary pages numbered with roman numerals and two hundred and twenty-two pages of text.
front.(port.)	frontispiece which is a portrait.

illus.	illustrations in the text.
col.illus.	coloured illustrations in the text.
plates	illustrations independent of the text and generally on art paper.
facsims.	facsimile reproductions.
diagrs.	diagrams.
bibliog.	list of books or references used by the author or recommended by him for further study.

cm.	centimetres——used to give the height of a book.
Sd.	sewed, i.e. paper covers.
Pb.	paper boards.
Lp.	limp covers.

Where no indication is given as to the kind of binding it is taken to be cloth boards.

For example, the following entry:

DAVIDGE, Henry Thomas, and HUTCHINSON, Robert William
Technical electricity. 7th ed. revised by R. J. Huck. London, University Tutorial P., 16/-. 1950 [i.e. Dec 1951]. viii,533*p*. front., illus., plates, tables, diagrs. 22*cm*. (B52-321)
With answers to numerical questions. Previous ed. 1944

means

Technical electricity by Henry Thomas Davidge and Robert William Hutchinson, now in its 7th edition and revised by R. J. Huck. Published in London by the University Tutorial Press at 16/- in December 1951 (though the date 1950 appears in the imprint of the book itself). It has eight preliminary pages and 533 pages of text. It has a frontispiece, illustrations in the text, illustrations on art paper, tables and diagrams. It is 22 centimetres high, i.e. demy octavo, and bound in cloth boards (no other kind of binding being specified). It has answers to numerical questions and was last revised in 1944. Its serial number in the British National Bibliography is B52-321.

Note on the use of the 15th (Standard) edition of the Dewey Decimal Classification in the British National Bibliography

It has been decided as a matter of general policy not to adopt the 15th (Standard) edition of the Dewey Decimal Classification. Numbers from the 15th edition will, however, be used for subjects which had no specific number in the 14th edition, provided that the development of the notation in such cases has not involved altering the location of the subject.

Occasional exceptions to this policy may be made from time to time when they seem desirable, as, for example, in the case of new local and time numbers.

The following is a list of the 15th edition numbers adopted during the period 23rd May 1951 to 31st December 1952:
