PREFACE

The increasing recognition of the role of science in the promotion of national welfare, and the two wars which utilized in an abundant measure and in a spectacular manner a large variety of scientific talent and skill, have spotlighted the scientist who was hitherto content to work in comparative obscurity, and brought him into the public view. It is now realised that the application of science on the scale necessary for social and economic development demands large number of workers, and not only should all the trained personnel available be efficiently and effectively utilized, but talented young men and women should be sought out wherever they exist, and trained to undertake the many tasks awaiting attention.

It is the appreciation of this position that has led to a stock taking of scientific personnel in various countries all over the world as an essential pre-requisite for assessing qualitatively and quantitatively the available man-power resources in each country and for formulating plans of training the personnel required for research and development. Thus in the United Kingdom, the collection of data relating to numbers and qualifications of scientists and technologists was undertaken under the supervision of the Royal Society of London in 1939. In the following year, the compilation of a National Register of Scientists was undertaken in the United States of America. In India, the demand for taking stock of the man-power resources was voiced by the delegates attending the 1947 session of the Indian Science Congress (Delhi). In August 1947, the Government of India appointed the Scientific Man-Power Committee with Dr. Shanti Swarup Bhatnagar as Chairman, and included among the terms of reference to the Committee, "The maintenance of a register of scientific and technical personnel to facilitate their utilization to the best advantage" The work of compiling the register was later entrusted to the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research.

The National Register, which will be periodically revised and brought up-to-date, will provide a continuous census of the scientific man power of the nation. It will be of assistance in : (a) the effective utilization of scientific talent, (b) assessing the gaps in the growth of science and technology, (c) supplying service personnel to industry, (d) finding alternative personnel in the prosecution of team work, (e) provision of personnel for educational and research institutions, and (f) keeping check on the drift of technical personnel to administrative departments. For fulfilling these purposes, it is necessary that the Register should be complete and comprehensive.

Appeals have been frequently issued in the past, requesting the scientists and technicians of the nation to co-operate in the compilation of the Register. The Hon'ble Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru recently said :

> The Government of India have at present under consideration the report of the Scientific Man-Power Committee appointed in April 1947, to advise on the best method of utilizing and augmenting the scientific man-power resources of the country. A basic recommendation of the Committee, which the Government have accepted, is that immediate steps should be taken to prepare a roster of scientific talent that is now available The necessity of such a roster is obvious... . I appeal to all persons in India possessing degrees or diplomas in Science to send complete information about themselves such as age, permanent and present addresses, their scientific qualifications, research and industrial experience, their present occupations, the nature of the research work if any, they are engaged upon, etc.

So far, the response to the appeal has not been as satisfactory as it should have been. Despite these handicaps the Council proceeded with the work and has issued the first parts of Volume I and II of the Register comprising Engineering and Medical Personnel This will be followed in quick succession by other parts. It is earnestly hoped that scientists and technicians would respond to the call of the Prime Minister and supply the needed information so that this national undertaking in which the Council is now engaged, may be completed satisfactorily and expeditiously

INTRODUCTION

The present volume is the second in the series of publications issued by the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research under the title National Register of Scientific and Technical Personnel in India. It includes the names of medical personnel—graduates, licentiates and dentists, who have furnished particulars for registration upto March, 1950.

The information given in this Register includes, in brief outline, academic qualifications, post-graduate training, hospital work, specialised practice, teaching, research and administrative experience, etc., of qualified medical personnel in India. A classified statement of the numbers of specialists under different catergories of the profession is included at the end of the volume, which also contains information on Indian doctors resident in foreign countries, teaching and research institutions in India, hospitals for the treatment of special diseases and ailments and a brief account of the progress of medical research in this country.

This compendium of information on the names and professional qualifications of medical personnel in India, will be found invaluable for executives of State Medical Departments, Indian Army Medical Corps, Medical and Dental Institutions and Hospitals, who are interested in seeking out talented, trained and qualified personnel available in the country. It will also prove helpful to individuals requiring information regarding specialists and specialist institutions.

It has been the earnest endeavour of the Council to make the National Register complete and comprehensive. It is hoped that those who have not registered themselves so far would do so now and so help in making this compilation exhaustive.

I desire to express my deep gratitude to Dr. Shanti Swarup Bhatnagar for giving me an opportunity to do this national work. I take this opportunity to thank the staff for their loyal co-operation in this compilation work.

NOTE TO THE READER

1. Names are arranged alphabetically according to surnames and under identical surnames according to first names. If both the surname and the first name are identical, names are arranged according to the second name.

2. The information given in the Register has been carefully abstracted from replies to the questionnaire furnished by the individuals themselves. Where information is extensive, only the most outstanding facts are given. The Council of Scientific & Industrial Research assumes no responsibility for the correctness of statements published.

3. The information holds good up to the date of the replies furnished by individuals.

4. Information relating to incomes and remuneration has been withheld at the request of a large majority of persons listed.

5. In arranging the information, the requirements of Government departments, institutions, endowments and other employers have been taken into consideration. The compilation provides information on the qualifications and careers of qualified personnel.

6. The names of personnel listed in this volume have been classified as Medical Graduates, Medical Licentiates and Dentists. The same name may appear under more than one head if qualifications and experiences warrant multiple entries.

7. It is not claimed that the names of all medical personnel are found in this volume and more names would appear in subsequent parts as and when the particulars become available.

MEDICAL RESEARCH IN INDIA

I. Medical Research in Laboratories maintained by Central and State Governments.

1. The Central Research Institute, Kasauli :—

The main work of the Institute consists of (i) The large scale manufacture of T A.B. Vaccine (ii) Cholera Vaccine (iii) Anti-rabic Vaccine (iv) Antivenom Serum (v) Sterlized Surgical Ligature (vi) Laboratory diagnostic work (vii) The testing of disinfectants for Government of India contracts. The research work undertaken here concerns malaria, cholera and improved methods and procedures for the manufacture of biological products. It is the main centre for rabies research in the country.

2. The King Institute of Preventive Medicine, Guindy, Madras :—

The chief functions of the Institute are routine public health laboratory work for all the hospitals in the Madras State. It is engaged in the manufacture of vaccine lymph, therapeutic sera, examination of food-stuffs, water samples and the conduct of bacteriological, serological and pathological examination of specimen. The Institute has been engaged in the past on several aspects of medical research related to virus diseases, kala-azar, chlorosis etc. Research on several methods of water purification is being conducted in this institute.

3. Haffkine Institute, Bombay :—

The institute is primarily engaged in plague research and manufacture of plague vaccines. During recent years it has undertaken the large scale manufacture of essential prophylactic vaccines, anti-toxic sera and some chemo-therapeutic compounds.

4. The Pasteur Institute and Medical Research Institute, Shillong :—

Chief functions of the institute are manufacture of antirabic vaccine, routine diagnostic work including microscopical, cultural and serological work, large scale manufacture of prophylactic cholera and T.A.B. vaccines and research work concerning kala-azar, rabies and cholera.

5. Malaria Institute of India :—

The main functions of the institute are to undertake systematic research into all the basic factors underlying malaria transmission, prevalence and prevention, and epidemiological investigations, mapping of endemicity, study of hyper endemic and healthy areas, study of malaria statistics; to undertake clinical work on malaria including treatment; to initiate inquiries and the investigations on malaria and to teach and train officers and others in practical malaria work.

II. Medical Research in Teaching Institutions.

1. The School of Tropical Medicine, Calcutta :—

The research work undertaken covers tropical medicine, pharmacology, entomology, chemistry, pathology, bacteriology, protozoology, diabetes, filariasis, dermatology, kala-azar, leprosy etc. The school is primarily a teaching institution and post-graduate courses are held leading to the Diploma of Tropical Medicine of the Faculty of Medicine and Hygiene Bengal and Licentiate in Tropical Medicine of the same faculty.

2. The All-India Institute of Hygiene and Public Health :—

Regular post-graduate courses are held leading to the following diplomas :—D.P.H., D.P.H. & Hy., D.M.C.W. The research work undertaken covers variety of subjects including typhus, epidemic dropsy, public health, industrial hygiene, tuberculosis, nutrition, clinical aspects of maternity and child welfare etc.

III. Medical Research financed by Indian Council of Medical Research (The Indian Research Fund Association).

The Indian Council of Medical Research is a registered body, recognised by, and in close touch with, the Government of India, from whom its funds have been mainly derived. The chief objects of this Council are :—

(a) To initiate, aid, develop and co-ordinate medical scientific research in India, to promote special inquiries and to assist institutions for the study of diseases, their prevention, causation and treatment.

(b) To publish papers or periodicals in furtherance of the objects of the Council and to propagate knowledge regarding the causation, mode of spread and prevention of diseases, especially those of a communicable nature.

(c) To issue appeals and applications for funds, and to finance inquiries and researches.

(d) To establish liaison with other scientific bodies with similar aims, to accept and administer endowments, funds and donations; to grant scholarships to selected individuals for advanced study etc.

The Council is assisted in discharging those functions by a Scientific Advisory Board and its associated advisory committees for a number of special subjects, such as, malaria, nutrition, leprosy, plague, clinical research, filariasis, maternity and child welfare, industrial hygiene etc. It awards fellowships to medical and science graduates for conducting researches in the above subjects. It has also established Micro-film Service Unit for the benefit of medical research workers in the country.

(1) Nutrition Research Laboratories, Coonoor :—The chief functions of the laboratories are to conduct research on problems of nutrition such as investigations on the nutritive values of food stuffs, methods of vitamin testing, basic nutritional research, animal experimentation and clinical investigations; to act as an advisory bureau on all questions of nutrition relating to the content of calories, protein, fat, carbohydrate, calcium, phosphorus, iron, vitamins etc.; to do a limited amount of routine work and to hold annual courses on nutrition.

IV. Medical Research carried out by other Organisations.

1. Council of Scientific and Industrial Research, New Delhi :—

Various endocrine glands have been mobilized so as to yield valuable drugs like insulin, adrenaline, pituitrin, thyroxine, and thyroid extracts. Research work has been carried out on the preparation of a number of drugs from the organo-arsenical group, new antimalarials and enterovioform. Other aspects of research work include the study of chemical constitution of alkaloids, microbiological research on antibiotics and investigations on neem, pyrethrum and other insectides etc. Considerable amount of informative work regarding the medicinal properties and uses of flowers, roots, barks and leaves etc. of plants of Indian origin reputed to have medicinal properties and on the aromatic plants in India is being collected.

2. Pasteur Institute of South India, Coonoor :—

Research work undertaken here concerns mainly on rabies, protozoal diseases etc.

3. Tata Memorial Hospital, Bombay :—

The research work undertaken relates to biochemistry, biophysics and clinical subjects especially surgical and radium therapy of cancer.

4. The Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore, Dept. of Bio-chemistry :—

Research work has been carried out on the preparation of rennet, pepsin, pancreatin, insulin, pituitrin, adrenalin, vitamins and penicillin. Other aspects of the research work of this department have included the study of sewage purification, sewage farming, the treatment of brackish water and the hygienic treatment of industrial liquid wastes.
